Iran Students Seize TV Crew

New roof trusses were in place this morning at the prefabricated student center at Manchester Community College. The trusses collapsed Wednesday afternoon when accidentally struck by a crane, injuring one construction worker.

TEHRAN, Iran (UPI) - Militant students holding hostages in the U.S. Embassy today seized a three-member NBC-TV film crew and held them several hours inside the besieged compound, a spokesman for the students said.

Quick Repairs

The incident will cause no major delay. The new center is being erected to replace a similar facility which was destroyed by an early morning fire Dec. 7.

Shah Can Leave

NEW YORK (UPI) — Sources told the UPI Wednesday doctors feel Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi, 60, could be well enough to return in a week or so to his estate in Cuernavaca, Mexico, but did not say whether or not he would return by then. However, NBC news, quoting its own sources, said the shah definitely will return to Mexico "within 10 days." The shah is being heavily guarded at New York Hospital, where he underwent an operation Oct. 25 for removal of his gallbladder and several gallstones in his bile duct. On Monday, the sources said, he began radiation treatments for a cancerous tumor in his neck at the Memorial Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center,

Teen Smoking

ANAHEIM, Calif. (UPI) — Dr. John A. Morrison Wednesday told delegates to the American Heart Association conference his conclusions on teen-age smoking, based on studies recently completed on 144 school children who smoked regularly, provide further evidence in support of programs "designed to prevent, reduce or stop cigarette smoking in the adolescent years." Morrison said cigarette smoking causes an abundance of fatty deposits in the bloodstream of teenagers which resulted in significantly

Low-Down Bug

Stephanie Mills — star of the late Broadway hit "The Wolf" — has waited for years to be offered a shot at New York's Metropolitan Opera. She finally got it — only to be ambushed by the meanest-minded bug in the annals of bacteriology. Miss Mills, slated for a one-night stand Sunday at New York's prestigious Met, wound up in the hospital Wednesday with a fever of 103 — the dirty work of an as-yet-undefined virus. The illness canceled her appearances on seven television shows — two of them live — and three radio broadcasts, all promoting the Met concert doctors now aren't sure she'll be able to deliver.

A Viking We Will Go

Lennart Pettersson and Sten Ridderland are taking liberties with Miss Liberty. In their view, the boats she welcomes in New York Harbor aren't the immigrants. They're full of huddled masses of yachtsmen — preferably Viking yachtsmen who will take the America's Cup home to Sweden next year. The two Stockholm woodcarvers are sculpting a good luck charm in the form of a 2,000-piece, 10-foot Viking dragonship — its figurehead tearing at the robe of the Statue of Liberty, while she wails in anguish and holds the coveted cup in place of her torch.

Caveat Embor

Howard Smith knows all about the truth — because he's a student of lies. He's written a book titled "The Three Biggest Lies," and it's being excerpted in the December issue of Penthouse magazine. A sample: The three biggest liars: (1) Just tell us what you don't like about the apartment and we'll have it fixed up before you move in. (2) Don't worry about what it says in the lease — we'll always let you sublet. (3) This is definitely a very secure building — there's no way a robber can get in. And from the prospective employer: (1) This company is very generous with raises. (2) We're all one big happy family. (3) Of course you'll never have to work overtime. Honest!

In from the Cold

Kenneth Myers, of the Winooksi, Vt., Community Development Committee, had his doubts. Said he, "If we submit this proposal, don't you think people will think we're flaky?" Maybe — but flaky or not, Winooksi has asked for a $55,000 federal grant to study the feasibility of enclosing all or part of the $30-acre community beneath a plastic dome. Committee director Mark Tigan theorizes the dome could save 90 percent of the cost of heating Winooksi's buildings — and reduce air pollution. Says he, "A lot of people think it's a bizarre idea until you sit them down and explain it to them."

Glimpses

Redd Foxx's wife, Yun Chi Foxx, goes to court Friday in Los Angeles with attorney Marvin Mitchell to ask for $50,000 a month in temporary support — the first step in her divorce battle for a $5 million settlement. Fleetwood Mac was honored Wednesday at the United Nations for donation of Steve Nicks' song "Beautiful Child" to the Music for UNICEF program.

Thermostats a Watchdog Of Energy Conservation

HARTFORD (UPI) — Energy economists see the thermostat as no longer a comfort device but a watchdog of fuel and power efficiency that can save businessmen and homeowners money. James Hughes of MCC Powers, a Newington-based energy control system manufacturer, said there were several options for businesses to "stop the flow of money going down the drain, up the stack and through the walls." Energy technology is rapidly changing and the thermostat once viewed as a "comfort device" has become an energy manager, Hughes told an area business forum Wednesday.

Feds Open Campaign To Conserve Energy

HARTFORD (UPI) — Federal energy representatives are beginning a one-month conservation campaign by piloting 11 fuel saving tips they claim are painless and won't leave anyone "sweating, freezing or groping in the dark." During a Connecticut stop Wednesday, they distributed red, plastic, thumb-sized devices which, when installed between the shower head and arm, are said to reduce the water flow from six gallons to three gallons per minute.

The federal Department of Energy will mail the water-flow control gadgets to 4.5 million New England households. The cost, including mailing and television, radio and newspaper advertising will be $2.6 million. Gov. Ella Grasso said the DOE will pay the mailing costs for the "low energy cost" program. The devices were purchased by private corporations and the New England Council.

Ella To Get Briefing; Rules Out Gas Ration

Police Brutality Alleged

HARTFORD (UPI) — The Hartford Chapter of the NAACP has called for an investigation of alleged police brutality in the arrest of Mrs. Mary Boling, 52, and her two sons. NAACP chapter President Thomas Wright asked Wednesday that police Chief Hugo Masini investigate the Tuesday night incident in which Mrs. Boling charged she was choked by a policeman and her two sons tried to free her when she was arrested.

Drunken Driving Becomes Leading Highway Killer

WETHERSFIELD (UPI) — Drunken driving has outdistanced speeding as the main killer in traffic accidents and more young people are dying on Connecticut highways.

Grim figures for 1978 were released Wednesday by State Motor Vehicles Commissioner Benjamin A. Muzio who said 180 fatalities out of 431 last year were alcohol-related, while 153 deaths were due to excessive speed.

He said speeding had been the state's leading cause of highway deaths the previous two years. Drunken driving contributed to 111 fatal accidents out of 146 in 1977, with speeding the cause of 146 traffic fatalities that year.

And Muzio said more teen-agers were involved in alcohol-related accidents last year than in any year since 1974.

Ninety-eight alcohol-related fatal accidents last year involved drivers in the 17-to-24 age group, compared to 63 involving drunken drivers between the ages of 25 and 50, said Steven Dodge, head of the Motor Vehicles Department Traffic Records Unit.

Dodge said fatal accidents involving younger drivers "shot way up" last year — showing the biggest increase since 1974.

He said in 1973 — the first year such records were kept and a year after Connecticut's drinking age was lowered to 18 — there were 41 alcohol-related fatal accidents involving younger drivers.

"I don't understand the increase at all," said Dodge. "If it was the first year after the drinking age was lowered, I could understand it, but this is the fifth year. It just doesn't make sense."

There are roughly 407,000 licensed drivers 17 to 24 years old, while there are 815,000 drivers in the 25-to-44-year-old age group, Dodge said.

"Basically, reducing fatalities is an enforcement problem," department spokesman Donald Byers said. "The state police have increased patrols and set up more radar traps this year. But as we've seen, the number of highway fatalities is already above last year."

The department said there had been 500 fatal accidents in the state so far this year.

Th. state has had some success in reducing the number of repeat drunken drivers under a voluntary

Ex-State Cop Latest Corruption Arrest

HARTFORD (UPI) — A retired state police major is among the latest figures to be arrested in the burgeoning corruption scandal involving police, fire and municipal officials in New Britain.

Arrested Wednesday on a perjury charge was former state Fire Marshal Maj. William Ellert, 49, of Tolland, who unexpectedly resigned Oct. 1, 1978 as the state police department's third highest ranking officer.

Also arrested Wednesday on single counts of perjury were Arthur Golab, 46, of Berlin, a New Britain police lieutenant; Salvatore Fazzina, 51, of New Britain; and John D'Onofrio, 41, a New Britain water department foreman.

An arrest warrant was issued for a fifth man, bringing to 19 the number of people charged in the ongoing probe of the alleged sale of city jobs and promotions.

Public Safety Commissioner Donald J. Long said the arrest of New Britain Fire

Lt. James Johnson, 38, of New Britain, was delayed since he's recovering from recent surgery. Johnson was charged with one count of perjury.

Fourteen persons, including New Britain's fire and police chiefs, had been arrested earlier in the probe of alleged corruption in the central Connecticut city of 80,000.

Superior Court bench warrants had been issued Wednesday for all five men by Judge D. Brennan at the request of State's Attorney John M. Bailey.

Ellert, Golab and Fazzina were each charged with single counts of perjury before retired state Supreme Court Chief Justice Howard Alcorn, the one-man grand jury which probed the New Britain scandal.

Ellert was accused of committing perjury Aug. 15 and was released on $1,000 non-surety bond pending a Friday appearance in Hartford Superior Court.

Golab, accused of committing perjury on Feb. 22, was also released on a $1,000 non-surety bond pending an appearance in the Hartford court.

Fazzina, a convicted gambler, was accused of committing perjury on Oct. 25, 1978. He was also released on $1,000 non-surety bond pending a Hartford Superior Court appearance Tuesday.

D'Onofrio was charged with one count of bribery, which allegedly occurred on or about August 1978. He was released on $1,000 non-surety bond pending an appearance in New Britain Superior Court Tuesday.

Ellert, a 21-year state police veteran, had been cited for bravery after apprehending an Ashford man wanted for murder in 1960. He had worked his way up in rank during his years on the force.

The New Britain native became a trooper in 1956, was promoted to sergeant in 1965, lieutenant in 1973 and major in 1977. He was a former commander of the department's safety division.

Johnson, who was appointed a regular fireman Jan. 15, 1968, was promoted to lieutenant May 24, 1974. He is off duty for three or four weeks as a result of his surgery.

Golab, a lieutenant on the day shift, joined the force in 1966. He was appointed sergeant two years later and promoted to lieutenant Nov. 26, 1973, after he was the only person to take a civil service test.

Two other department members had qualified for the exam but didn't take it.

D'Onofrio was a foreman in charge of a group that installs mains and piping and does maintenance work for the water department. He joined the agency as a laborer in 1958, became a meter reader in 1965 and was appointed foreman Sept. 12, 1978.

Of the 14 persons charged earlier, five have pleaded guilty to reduced charges.

Attorney State Head Of Carter Campaign

By CHARLIE MAYNARD Herald Reporter

MANCHESTER — Local attorney Dominic J. Squatrito will be the state chairman of operations for President Carter's campaign for renomination of the Democratic Party.

Squatrito said Wednesday he will be "more involved in the running of campaigns" than the other campaign chiefs and will intensify his efforts before Jan. 1.

The Connecticut primary will take place March 25. Gov. Ella Grasso is the honorary chairwoman of the Carter campaign.

Squatrito, who backed fellow Yale Law School classmate Jerry Brown in 1976, said he supports Carter because of his incumbency and his leadership qualities.

"Carter is the incumbent," Squatrito said in his East Center Street office. "He's done a good job especially in light of the present situation. He has great substance and a steady hand is exactly what this nation needs."

Squatrito said Carter's recent handling of the Iranian crisis demonstrated his leadership "in a situation which could be, and is, very trying for all Americans."

Carter, who will formally announce his re-election bid Dec. 4, has been challenged by Brown, the governor of California and winner of the 1976 California primary, and by Sen. Edward Kennedy.

"Although I was for Brown years ago," Squatrito said, "I have gotten to know more about President Carter's background. I know more about where he was coming from prior to his being president." Recent polls have shown Kennedy a 2-to-1 favorite in the state, a fact which doesn't surprise Squatrito.

"Kennedy should do very, very well," he said. "If he does not, then it becomes crucial to him."

Squatrito also said he has been named to the executive committee of the arrangements committee for the Democratic National Convention, which will be held in New York City again.

Legislators To Vote On Employee Pacts

HARTFORD (UPI) — The full Legislature will vote on more than a half dozen state employee contracts and to prepare for action the following day on energy related proposals.

Gov. Ella Grasso recalled the Legislature to find ways to make sure no one in Connecticut is without heat this winter. She proposed an $11 million winter energy plan. Committees are floating a more than $20 million package.

"I can live with it," the governor said Wednesday.

The Senate and House will hold individual caucuses at 11 a.m. Both houses will convene at 1 p.m. and act on seven state employee contracts that are ready to be voted on. There are still six contracts pending.

The contracts on the agenda for lawmakers cover 4,221 state employees, including workers in the judicial department, vocational-technical schools, and other educational and administrative employees.

The two-year contracts, which already have been ratified by state employee bargaining units, will be retroactive to July 1 and contain average 7 percent increases.

Pool To Be Closed

EAST HARTFORD — The East Hartford High School pool will be closed for evening lessons and recreational swimming on Tuesday, Nov. 20, because of the school's annual pep rally and bonfire. Penney High School's schedule will not be affected by this activity.

Study Predicts Effect Of Buckland Development

By CHARLIE MAYNARD Herald Reporter

MANCHESTER — The proposed Buckland Commons development would re-orient the local retail employment sector and tax Interstate 86, Tolland Turnpike and Buckland Road "beyond their optimal traffic" capacities to handle peak-hour travel demands, a Capitol Region Council of Governments study revealed.

The study, released Tuesday by CRCOG planning director David C. Soule, will be presented to the Regional Planning Commission tonight. CRCOG's policy board authorized the study to determine the traffic and employment impacts of Buckland Commons, a proposed commercial and residential development on the Manchester South Windsor border.

The Buckland Commons Mall would draw retail employment away from other sectors of the local economy, the study said, and create new jobs. The projected employment for the Commons is 1,700 to 2,000 employees in sales personnel, stock clerks, security and management personnel.

"Any earnings/employment must be assumed to be a displacement in the other retail trade areas," the report said. "New employment will not be created by the mall. Consequently, the regional employment will not change, but will be re-oriented."

The study said most of the employees would come from East Hartford, Manchester and South Windsor. However, it said, the mall could be a boon for Hartford residents if an effective mass transit service between the city and the industrial park were implemented.

"If this service were analyzed to determine the appropriateness for extension to the Commons, the report said, 'significant new employment opportunities could be made available to Hartford residents.'"

As for the mall's impact on other shopping centers in the region, a chart released with the report said retail activity would decline by 4 percent in downtown Manchester and 3 percent in East Hartford and would increase by 3 percent in the Vernon Circle shopping area.

The report also concluded that "the Primary traffic impact of the development would be due to the commercial nature rather than residential components."

Based on peak-hour vehicle trip forecasts, the study said, the development would generate increased auto traffic on I-86 east and west, Tolland Turnpike and Buckland Road. In their present condition, the roads "would all be taxed beyond their optimal traffic capacities to handle peak hour travel demands."

The policy board ran an independent study of traffic and employment conditions as well as review the developer's reports.

The development was first proposed in 1973 and met heavy opposition. However, a Hartford County Court of Common Pleas upheld the rezoning of tobacco land for the mixed-use development on June 28, 1976. Final action was taken by the state Supreme Court a year later.

Parent Aide Program Begins; More Help Needed

By DONNA HOLLAND
Herald Correspondent

MANCHESTER — A new Parent Aide Program is under way and will, even though more volunteers are needed, be run with the volunteers it has.

Cases of parents in stress are being reviewed by the Rockville Department of Children and Youth Services and, when necessary, will be referred to the new volunteer group.

"Caring people of either sex and of any age" are being sought by the Parent Aide Program to help families in Manchester and surrounding towns.

The Parent Aide Program - a new model in the state is a joint effort by the Rockville Department of Children and Youth Services and the Vernon Junior Women's Club.

The Manchester Child Protection Team recently identified the necessity for a program to coordinate services for parents in stress.

At the same time the Vernon Junior Women's Club adopted such a program as its project.

A spokesman for the child protection team said, "What is being done is to get all the resources needed by a family to that family."

Volunteers are being actively recruited. The groups are looking for people who are "warm, supportive and who can give a nurturing relationship to parents," the spokesman said.

Volunteers will be companions to parents when they are needed. They will help with budgeting, transportation, doctor's visits or just talking. They will help a parent when that parent feels he or she is in a crisis. The spokesman said, "We are not looking for highly educated, experienced social workers. We are looking for people who know what it is like to be in a house all day with kids. We want caring people - male or female of any age."

Jane Boggini is the Parent Aide supervisor and Terry Parrot is the program supervisor for the Vernon Junior Women's Club.

Volunteers will be required to fill out an application, have an interview, attend an open meeting for dis-ussion, see a film and participate in an intensive training program.

Volunteers will not only be helping someone in need of help, they will be gaining a skill as a paraprofessional. That skill may even enable them to go a job as a paraprofessional in the future.

The spokesman said, "In social services the use of paraprofessionals is becoming widespread."

The Rockville Department of Children and Youth Services provides help in Manchester, Vernon, East Hartford, Glastonbury, South

Windsor, Bolton, Andover, Rockville, Tolland and other towns.

Anyone interested in more information or in being a volunteer should call 872-8222.

VFW Auction

SOUTH WINDSOR — The South Windsor VFW will sponsor an auction on Nov. 30 from 7 to 10 p.m. at the Town Hall.

More than 50 original oil paintings will be auctioned. Frames will be included. Refreshments will be served.

HRC Unit Reviews Recruiting Efforts

MANCHESTER — A subcommittee of the Human Relations Commission, in an effort to familiarize itself with the steps the personnel department takes to fill a vacancy, met with Stephen Werbner, personnel supervisor, Tuesday. Carl Chadburn, commission member, said "Mr. Werbner reviewed all the proceedings for our benefit and we learned the details of the type of recruiting that is being done."

Chadburn said, "We knew the overall procedure but the details gave us a lot of new information."

He said, "The subcommittee will now spend some time educating itself and once we know the details of the hiring practices, we will make recommendations on how the town can be successful in implementing the affirmative action plan."

Chadburn agreed that the town has trouble hiring minorities when none apply for advertised positions. The last quarterly report issued by the town made it clear the town continues to have a problem recruiting minority applicants for municipal positions.

Senior Citizens Set Party

EAST HARTFORD — The Christmas party for the South End Senior Citizens will be at the Marco Polo Restaurant on Dec. 6 at noon.

Tickets will be on sale for $5 at bingo, which is held at the Blessed Sacrament Church on Cambridge Drive, on Thursday, Nov. 15. Payments can also be made to Helena Simon, 45 Elm Village Drive, with a self-addressed stamped envelope no later than Nov. 27. Ms. Simon's phone number is 568-6055.

Corps Seeks Color Guard

EAST HARTFORD — The Quarryville Junior Ancient File and Drum Corps, formerly located in Vernon, has moved to East Hartford and is now recruiting children for its color guard.

Parents of interested children between the ages of 9 and 17 should bring children to the Center School, East Hartford, Monday night.

Practice is held Monday nights from 7:30 to 9:30. No experience is necessary.

Rent Hike Possible For Court

VERNON — The state Department of Administrative Services, Bureau of Public Works, is awaiting word from the town as to whether the town is willing to continue leasing a building for use for Tolland County Superior Court.

Mayor Frank McCoy, who goes out of office today, recommended in August that the town almost double the rent on the courthouse building, which was formerly the town's administration building.

The original leasing agreement was made in 1976 and the state has been paying $18,816 a year which averages to $3.50 per square foot. McCoy had asked that the rent be raised to $34,944 a year or $6.50 a square foot. The building contains about 5,376 square feet.

While state officials originally said it would have to ask for bid proposals as state law required that space greater than 5,000 square feet.

McCoy had said that the town was losing about $11,000 a year in renting the building at the existing price. A serious fire in the building, last winter, cost the town about $50,000 for refurbishing it.

Now Raymond J. Johns, leasing supervisor for the state, has said in a letter to town officials that "The current rental of $18,816 yearly for these facilities, i.e., at the rate of $3.50 per square foot, based upon use and occupancy and approximately 5,376 square feet of space, is the maximum rental that the State of Connecticut can pay to municipalities that are providing, and have in fact provided, court facilities serving the geographical areas, on July 1, 1978."

Johns asked the mayor to advise him as soon as possible as to the town's interest in having the state continue to occupy the court building at the same terms and conditions, and at the same rental as is currently paid.

The Town Council will discuss the matter at its meeting Thursday night. Vernon's state representative, Chester Morgan has indicated he will introduce legislation during the coming regular session of the General Assembly, which would increase the maximum rent.

Newly elected mayor, Marie Herbst, has also said she will continue to pursue the rent increase. The state lease expires on Dec. 31 of this year.

Vernon Sets Refuse Plan

VERNON — The Public Works Department will be closed Nov. 22 and 23 for the Thanksgiving holiday, making it necessary to change the refuse collection schedule.

The Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday routes will be picked up on the usual day. Thursday's route will be picked up on Wednesday and Friday's route will be picked up the following Monday.

All rubbish should be placed at the curb the night before collection or by 6 a.m. that day.

The Ellington Refuse Gardens will be closed Thanksgiving Day but will be open on Friday. The new hours for the landfill area are Monday through Friday, 7 a.m. to 3 p.m., and Saturday, 8 a.m. to 1 p.m.

The Marble Arch at the entrance to Hyde Park in London opens its main gate only to the British Royal Family.

Havens Elected Mayor

SOUTH WINDSOR — Edward Havens, a Democrat who has served four terms on the Town Council, was elected as mayor of South Windsor at a brief special meeting of the council Tuesday night.

Jacquelin Smith, also a Democrat, was elected as deputy mayor and Mrs. Sydney Cole will serve as clerk of the council. She was formally clerk of the Planning and Zoning Commission.

In accepting his appointment, Havens pledged to restore dignity, harmony and successful decision-making to the council. He asked fellow council members to "rise above partisan interests."

Before the elections, Nov. 6, the Democrats seeking election to the Town Council, listed as their top priority, to restore voters' confidence in the council's ability to effectively and decisively govern South Windsor.

Only one of the six candidates, wasn't elected, Dave Perkins. During the campaign the Democrats committed themselves to following certain goals. If elected, they said they intended to seek a renewed spirit of bipartisanship among all council members.

"Politics must end on Nov. 6 in order to make way for the pressing problems facing the new Town Council," they said.

They also said they would call for the restructuring of council work sessions to provide a better forum for the exchange of ideas and resolution of differences and said they feel this can be accomplished by conducting these meetings in a less formal manner, with round table discussion.

Ladies Guild Plans Party

EAST HARTFORD — The Blessed Sacrament Church Ladies Guild will sponsor a catered Christmas party Thursday, Dec. 6, at 6:30 p.m. at the church.

The buffet includes roast sirloin of beef, Danish ham, turkey, chest, cheeses, herbed chicken, shells with sauce, baked beans, potato salad, cole slaw and other dishes. The price is $5.45.

Those who plan to attend should send or give your name and payment by Nov. 27 to Gloria Callahan, 93 Hockanum Drive, or to Ruth Sullivan, 38 Sunnyside Road, telephone, 568-1812.

Service Set In Ellington

ELLINGTON — The Thanksgiving Eve Service, sponsored by the Ellington Ministerial Association, will be at 7:30 p.m. in the First Evangelical Lutheran Church, Orchard Street. Clergy and lay people from participating churches will lead the service.

CHARLESTON, S.C.: Robert Dickson displays a bottle of wine and a roulade of spinach, cheese and mushrooms. The roulade is the first of a six-course dinner and he sings a different Broadway melody with each course he presents. His restaurant is so popular that reservations are made three weeks in advance for week nights—and up to four months in advance for Saturdays. (UPI Photo)

At Robert's, Dinners Get More Than Gourmet Food

CHARLESTON, S.C. (UPI) — The gently lit room bubbled with quiet talk. A piano tinkled softly in the background as dinner guests sipped wine at tables laid with white cloths and sparkling crystal. Suddenly, the swinging doors from the kitchen burst open. Robert Dickson — all 6 feet and 270 pounds of him — strode into the room carrying a large silver platter with a roulade of spinach, cheese, and mushrooms.

presented his roulade — similar to a flat cheese-spinach souffle — for inspection at each table. The roulade is the first course of a six-course dinner that Dickson says, without modesty, is "an occasion" and not just an ordinary meal. He sings a different Broadway melody with each course he presents, finishing the 2½ hour evening with the Largo of Pachelbel from Rosini's "The Barber of Seville" — and a chocolate gateau.

What they get besides the roulade may include celery remoulade with julienne of zucchini and mustard sauce; scallop mousse with lobster sauce; an intermezzo of tangarine; ice, chateaubriand with sauce; and the chocolate gateau.

his restaurant is "an oasis" for Charlestonians who might not be accustomed to gourmet food. "We just had three couples here from San Francisco who liked us," Dickson said. "That makes us feel real good. We've learned the more experience people have in eating well, the more they are grateful for what they get here."

RX for Denture Slippage

NEW YORK (UPI) — A University of Tennessee researcher reports that denture patients lose approximately 2 millimeters of jawbone each year and that eventually leads to slipping dentures.

"Because of loss of supporting bone and soft tissues, and because of resultant facial changes, the average denture needs to be replaced or remade every five or six years," Dr. T. H. Shipman said at the annual meeting of the American Dental Association.

the alternative: dentures that become increasingly loose and lose stability. They slip and slide. "Embarrassing denture slippage," the television commercials call it. Shipman, of Memphis, said several preventive measures will help the denture wearer cut down on bone loss and keep tissues healthy and strong. He said this is important not only for retention and stability of dentures but also for keeping the face youthful.

mon said, "improper chewing can result in needless wear and damage to supportive tissues, including bone loss." 2. Know how to use the denture properly. This is extremely important. People who wear dentures should take special care to chew straight up and down, placing equal weight on both sides of the jaw. Food should be divided equally between the right and left side. The patient should chew with both sides simultaneously.

3. Brushing more on one side of the mouth than on the other or chewing with a lazy, sideways motion can cause the denture to slip. "More importantly," Ship-

Financier Is Questioned On Collapse of Business

By LAUREN DAVIS SHEA Herald Reporter MANCHESTER — Real estate financier Charles Jack Coniam was questioned for six hours in U.S. Bankruptcy Court Wednesday concerning the collapse of a house of cards.

The court-appointed trustee, attorney Martin Chorches, gently questioned Coniam about the limited partnerships he had with over 600 people, his accounting systems, and the relationships with those closest to him in an effort to determine possible assets so his creditors can be reimbursed.

The plan was to pay back the initial investors with the money coming from succeeding investors. However, when the bills started coming due, there wasn't enough money.

Chorches role is to locate the possible assets Coniam still retains, put them into liquid form, and thus be able to partially reimburse the creditors.

In Memoriam

In sad and loving memory of Franklin J. Franke, who passed away November 14th, 1962.

When fun of love is broken,
And heart and soul are torn,
It leaves a void that never heals,
And a love that's never gone.

But looking back with memories,
Upon the path we trod,
We miss the years we shared with him,
And leave the rest to God.

Sadly missed by his Brothers and Sisters

Building Survey Slated On Handicapped Access

By LANEY ZUBOFF

MANCHESTER—An Architectural Accessibility Survey, to be conducted by the Handicapped Commission, will begin within the next several months to determine which buildings in Manchester are modified for handicapped persons and which buildings need modification.

Commission member Margaret Churchill, suggested the survey could be conducted by handicapped students which, she said, would serve several purposes; it would make the students visible to prospective employers and it would show employers what the students are capable of. There will be measuring tasks as well as other observations involved in the accessibility survey. Roger Ouellette, commission chairman, said Thursday the survey, which has been in the works since last spring, will attempt to reach all Manchester businesses but it is on a strictly voluntary basis.

"We are trying to bring some of the older buildings up to standards. If the buildings comply with the standards, said Ouellette, they will receive a citation. If they are found not to be in compliance the commission will not take any action. "We are hoping that certain businesses who spot our logo and citation in other businesses they will see it is good business to volunteers." There are about 50 questions, on the questionnaire survey. "We are primarily concerned with whether outside doorways are easily accessible to the handicapped and whether inside corridors are wide enough for a wheelchair," said Ouellette. The commission is waiting for survey printouts and then will discuss how the survey will be conducted. Ouellette said he expects the survey to be completed within three to six months at which time the results will be used to compile a booklet available to the public. At Wednesday's commission meeting Ouellette said he will be spreading the word that Powder Ridge, a Connecticut ski facility, will be holding a series of eight races for the physically disabled on February 9 and 10.

Thoughts ApLENTy

By Len Auster

Popular Locale

Manchester High's Memorial Field is a favorite stomping ground for CIAC State Soccer Tournament games. The local site has had three contests, one quarterfinal and two semifinals, already and should be the location Saturday morning of at least one state final. An afternoon football game will prevent a second.

The new scoreboard, which Director of Athletics Dick Cobb believes is the first all-state in the state, has been functioning with Ted Martin at the controls. It took awhile to figure out the instruction manual but all systems are now go.

Bits and Pieces

Starting time for Friday night's East Catholic-Bloomfield football game at Mt. Nebo is 7 o'clock. It was originally scheduled 7:30. Kickoff for the Thanksgiving Day morning clash between East and Manchester at Memorial Field in 10 o'clock, one half hour before the 43rd Turkey Day Five Mile Road Race is scheduled.

East's football team has had quite a season already. But two more victories would make it a record-setting campaign. Best previous record in East's 16-year history is 7-3, logged in 1968 and '69. Cliff Demers, current Eagle director of athletics, coached those squads.

When Manchester and East met in a cross country dual meet back on Oct. 5, the Indians won, 27-28. If a score had been kept at last Friday's Boys' State Open, the Eagles would've prevailed — 27-28. They're that close.

There has been a shuffling of coaches on the junior high level. Craig Phillips has resigned as Illing varsity basketball coach and has taken the Cheney Tech assistant coach position. Mike Masse replaced Phillips. Jack Maloney has resigned as Bennett javay boys' hoop coach while Bill Woodridge has resigned as Bennett varsity baseball coach.

Peggy Pratt, who resides in Coventry, has been named Manchester High girls' javay basketball coach. Timberlin Golf Course in Berlin has the audience.

Anyone with suggestions or comments about programming in the public interest by cable access channel is invited to contact Jay April, communications specialist at the Manchester High School media center.

Yankee Conference Votes to Disband

SOUTH KINGSTOWN, R.I. (UPI) — The Yankee Conference will disband at the end of the current academic year because of competition from other leagues and lack of automatic qualification to postseason tournaments.

Maurice Zarchen, director of athletics at the University of Rhode Island, said Wednesday the seven conference members met Oct. 10 and voted 5-2 to disband, with Maine and Vermont dissenting.

Massachusetts, Connecticut, Boston, New Hampshire and URI voted in favor of ending the league's 35-year history.

"The Yankee Conference, as it was originally designed, served a nice purpose," Zarchen said. "But recently it has no longer been a vehicle to championships so there has been no reason to get going."

"It has lost its usefulness," he said.

Andrew Mooradian, the University of New Hampshire athletic director, said formation of the seven-member Big East Conference in May ended the Yankee Conference in two years, champions of the new conference will get an automatic berth in the NCAA playoffs.

The University of Connecticut was admitted to the Big East, which would have made it nearly impossible for the Huskies to remain in the Yankee Conference.

The other members of the Big East are Georgetown, Syracuse, Seton Hall, Providence College, St. John's and Boston College.

The University of Massachusetts disbanded its Eastern Eight Conference several years ago, but had stayed in the Yankee Conference as well.

"This has been talk about for a few years now," said Mooradian, who is also executive director of the Yankee Conference. "We felt the Yankee Conference was a good thing and we wanted to keep it intact, but it wasn't meant to be."

He said Maine and Vermont voted against disbanding because of increasing travel expenses could disconcert teams from wanting to compete against them.

The six Yankee Conference schools that compete in football will continue to play each other one year and will cross a conference champion, he said. Vermont disbanded its football program in 1972.

"In football, there is a common interest," Zarchen said. "There are some very good rivalries, some very good competition and some outstanding opponents."

Fullback Sidney Thornton, with a severely sprained ankle, is listed as doubtful for the game this weekend with the San Diego Chargers at San Diego, the spokesman said. Defensive lineman Tom Beasley, who broke two bones in his left hand against Kansas City, also is questionable for the Charger game.

Philly's leading 18 is average. "We'd like to continue where we left last year. We have had some very fine workouts to date and the young players three freshmen starters of a year ago and now ready with a year's experience.

Tribe Booters In Semifinals

By Len Auster

Opportunities came and went, especially in the first half.

But standout striker Jeff Lombardo didn't let his chance slide by as he connected at the 5:11 mark of the second half to give Manchester High a 1-0 victory over Simsbury High in a battle of OCIL toes in a State Soccer Tournament Class LL Division quarterfinal clash yesterday at Hall High in West Hartford.

"It was his (Lombardo) only good shot of the game," cited Simsbury Coach Jack Wilson.

Lombardo's 26th goal of the season lifted the 10th-ranked Indians, now 13-4-1, into Friday's semifinals against eighth-ranked 12-2-4 E.O. Smith at Eastern Connecticut State College at 2:15. Manchester and E.O. Smith have met four times previously; the latest in 1972 (3-0 win by Smith), with the Silk Towners holding a 2-1 edge. This will be their first tournament bout.

Simsbury '79 OCIL champs won Trojans saw four very good chances go astray. Twice, Tribe defender Eric Juttner cleared a dangerous situation out of the goalmouth area.

"We could have put them away early," viewed Wilson. "We had our chances. It should have been 6-3 at the half. We had our opportunities."

The first half was a wide open affair with both sides missing on golden opportunities. The initial one came with less than three minutes elapsed as Lombardo sent Dan Collins in on a beautifully touched thru pass. Collins swerved around Trojans keeper Bobry was able to race back and block Collins' shot over the end line.

"I haven't had people go through like that this far along in the tournament," voiced Manchester Coach Dick Danielson.

Williams, a splendid midfielder, was marked closely by Alex Britnell and Collins and Danielson cited the job they performed as a key. "He ran well the last time they did the job on him time and time again. They were getting tired but I was afraid to substitute," Danielson remarked.

Yale Leader On Defense

MISSION, Kan. (UPI)—Unbeaten Yale, though not ranked nationally, continues to be the nation's most dominant defensive football team with first place standings this week in both rushing defense and total defense.

Through eight games, Yale has allowed an average of only 65.4 rushing yards and 166.4 total yards. The Elis also rank fourth in scoring defense with an average yield of nine points per game and are situated 14th in pass defense with an average yield of 101 yards per game.

The year will be held rain or shine. All proceeds will enter the Muscular Dystrophy Research Fund, pet project of the race sponsoring Yutsum Forest, Tall Cedars of Lebanon.

This is the 28th year the Tall Cedars have lent their name to the promotion and Will Hadden is in his 17th year as general chairman.

Hull Powers Jets Against Whalers

WINNIPEG (UPC) — The lag between Bobby Hull's 604th and 605th National Hockey League goals was almost eight years.

However, he scored twice Wednesday night to lead the Winnipeg Jets to a 3-2 victory over the Hartford Whalers, a record that also gave him his 608th NHL goal.

The years after the 1971-72 hockey season were spent as a member of the World Hockey Association jets and in retirement.

Peter Sullivan scored the winning goal with four minutes to go in the game. Mike Rogers and Jordy Douglas tallied for Hartford.

Hull has appeared in four games for Winnipeg since his decision to end his one-year retirement. He has taken a regular shift in the last two games on a line with center Jody Drouin and rightwinger Peter Marsh, as well as playing the point on the powerplay.

"This was the first game in which Hull shot the puck and his two goals came on only three shots. 'I'm just relieved we won and that's the most important thing,'" Hull said later.

"Scoring a goal feels good, they came when we needed them."

But Hull doesn't think he is playing to his capabilities yet.

"I've got some muscles in my shoulder in practice so it hurts to shoot."

"I had a couple of chances and decided to anyway. I am not skating well yet and I have to be in motion to shoot the puck but I'm not discouraged."

Hull said he is not really enjoying his comeback yet, either. "I don't start enjoying myself until I'm skating, helping the team and my linemates. We have to be entertaining or winning and I have to contribute before I can enjoy it."

Winnipeg Coach Tom McVie was serving the second game of a three-game suspension handed down after a brawl in Atlanta last week. Assistant Coach Bill Sutherland took McVie's place behind the bench and was satisfied with Winnipeg's playing.

"We got key saves from Pierre Hamel and we forechecked them pretty well. We kept shooting often enough tonight so something had to go in. John Garrett stunned us. He played a very strong game in their nets," said Sutherland.

It was the Whalers first loss in their last six road games. "We forechecked better and played better defensively in the other game," said Hartford Coach Don Blackburn.

"We didn't skate as well either and we have problem scoring goals. We did not have too many men in the open."

It's Official: Mets for Sale

NEW YORK (UPI) — Now that the New York Mets are officially for sale, the question is who will buy this potentially lucrative franchise.

"The Mets, formerly the beloved of New York but now down in the standings and at the turnstiles, are looking for a buyer, chairman of the board Lorinda De Roulet has told team employees."

A source in the Met organization said De Roulet gathered the Mets' staff in her Shea Stadium office Thursday and gave them the news.

"She was on her way to Europe and she wanted to clear the air," the source said. "She said that she had exhausted all the possibilities of a minority interest."

The list of possible buyers includes Robert Abplanalp, an industrialist and close friend of former president Richard Nixon; of Donald Grant, a

Caps Fire Belisle Name Gary Green

LANDOVER, Md. (UPI) — Washington Capitals' Coach Danny Belisle has heard the chorus often at the Capitol centre this season.

"Goodbye, Danny," sang the fans as the Capitals compiled a disappointing 4-10-2 record, including a 5-4 loss to the Edmonton Oilers before a record-low home crowd of 5,214 Tuesday night.

Belisle heard a different version of the tune when Capitals' General Manager Max McNab told him the club was going to make a coaching change, its second in as many seasons.

Belisle will be replaced by Gary Green, 26, who was the coach at the Capitals' American Hockey League Hershey Bears affiliate. Green started his coaching career two years ago in the Canadian Junior League.

In announcing the change, McNab issued a one-sentence statement, "management is very disappointed with the progress of the Washington Capitals so far this season and has, therefore, decided a coaching change is necessary."

Green assumed his new duties immediately and will be behind the bench tonight when the Capitals face the Boston Bruins in Boston Garden. Green coached the Peterborough Petes of the Canadian Junior League for two years before being named to the Hershey job. In his second season, he led the Petes to the league championship and was named coach of the year.

He also played minor-league hockey and is a director and partner-owner of the Capitals hockey group, which sponsors hockey teaching programs.

Belisle, 42, was named coach just 48 hours before the start of the 1978-79 season when the club fired Tom McVie, now coach of the Winnipeg Jets.

The Capitals finished last season with a 24-41-15 record and failed to make the NHL playoffs for the fifth time.

Before the season, Belisle and other team officials had set making the playoffs as a goal for the club. But the Capitals have only 10 points, are in last place in the Patrick Conference and do not appear in the running for a playoff berth.

North Stars Win, Tie for Top Spot

NEW YORK (UPI) — The North Stars continue to surprise everyone but themselves.

Minnesota, which finished at the bottom of the Adams Division last year with 48 points, moved into a tie with Boston for the top spot in the division Wednesday night with a 7-2 victory over the Quebec Nordiques.

"We concentrated on stopping the Cloutier," said Coach Glen Sonmor, as his surprising club stretched their home unbeaten streak to six games.

"He may be the purest scorer I've ever seen."

Cloutier, who has amassed 13 goals in 15 games, was shut down by a tight-checking Minnesota defense, led by Craig Hartburg.

Minnesota took a 2-0 lead after one period on goals by Glen Sharpey and Tim Young, who added a second goal midway in the second period. The Nordiques, who did not get a shot on goal until nearly 10 minutes were gone in the first period, were outshot, 14-5.

Ole Brasar gave Minnesota a 3-0 lead in the second period before Serge Bernier scored for the Nordiques, unassisted goals by Young finishing first in the east division, defeating the Atlanta Braves in the playoffs, then beating the Baltimore Orioles for the championship.

The Mets also won the pennant in 1973, taking advantage of an unusually balanced division to win with an 89-79 record, then beating the Cincinnati Reds 3-2 in the playoffs.

Since then, however, the Mets have finished about 300 one game and have finished last three times in a row. This year the attendance dipped below the million mark for the first time since 1962.

Barber Returns

HOUSTON (UPI) — Tight end Mike Barber of the Houston Oilers returned to practice Wednesday and declared his injured right knee fit.

Bird Not Happy With Celt Win

NEW YORK (UPI) — Ordinarily, any player — even rookie sensation Larry Bird — would be happy with a 23-point, 19-rebound, and 10-assist game, especially if his team won.

But he wasn't.

"It was a bad game," Bird said Wednesday night, describing the Boston Celtics' 115-111 victory over the Detroit Pistons.

"No one played up to his ability," he continued, firing, who was as guilty as anyone else with a team-leading seven turnovers. "I think the team, and myself, both learned a lot."

Boston led, 91-88, after three periods, but in NBA fashion, the game grew interesting in the final 12 minutes, with Detroit trailing by just three points with 24 seconds left.

"I'm very happy with my effort," said interim Detroit Coach Richie Adubato, 1-2 space taking over from Dick Vitale. "We didn't stop scrapping, we didn't stop hustling, we showed if we're down seven or nine, we can win. But we just got in too deep a hole."

Bob McAdoo led Detroit, which has not won a game this year with a game-high 28 points. John Long and Bob Lanier added 23 and fueled the Detroit fourth-quarter comeback.

Cedric Maxwell scored 20 points for Boston. Rick Robert 18, Nate Archibald 13, M.L. Carr 11, and Dave Cowens and Chris Ford 10 each.

In other games, Atlanta defeated Utah 108-97. Washington hammered Chicago 118-105. Houston clobbered

Hank Peters Wins Honor

NEW YORK (UPI) — Hank Peters, the general manager who sent the Baltimore Orioles to the World Series without the benefit of any high-priced free agents, has been named major league's executive of the year by United Press International.

Peters received 10 votes in the balloting by a panel of 30 UPI baseball experts around the country. Gene Autry, owner of the American League West champion California Angels, was a second distant with four votes.

Buzzie Bavasi, executive vice president of the Angels, and Harding Peterson, executive vice president of the World Champion Pittsburgh Pirates, each received three.

John McHale, president of the Montreal Expos; Tai Smith, general manager of the Houston Astros; Dick Wagner, president of the Cincinnati Reds; and Calvin Griffith, president of the Minnesota Twins, each were named twice. Gabe Paul, president of the Cleveland Indians, and Jim Fanning, vice president in charge of player development for the Expos, each received one vote apiece.

Peters, 54, ended the three-year domination of the New York Yankees in the AL East with a method that contrasts sharply with the one used by the Yankees. While New York is eager to spend millions to buy the best available free agents, Baltimore prefers spending thousands if the player can plug a hole.

The Orioles won 102 games during the regular season to capture the AL East by eight games over second-place Milwaukee, then defeated California three games to one in the playoffs before falling to the Pirates in seven games in the World Series.

"I'm really pleased," Peters said when he learned he had received the award. "But when a person gets an award such as this, you have to realize you're only as good as the people you have working for you. We have had top-notch people here, as well as top-notch ownership."

Peters broke into baseball management in 1946 with the St. Louis Browns and held various posts with the Reds, Athletics and Indians before leaving Cleveland to become president of the National Association.

He joined the Orioles in the winter of 1975.

Dodgers Net Goltz To Shore Up Staff

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The Los Angeles Dodgers have netted one of the most sought-after free agents in the major league re-entry draft — Dave Goltz, a durable if not brilliant pitcher who has had double-figure winning seasons with Minnesota for the past six years.

Goltz came to terms with the National League club late Wednesday afternoon. Dodger Vice President Al Campanis announced the regular season to capture the AL East by eight games over second-place Milwaukee, then defeated California three games to one in the playoffs before falling to the Pirates in seven games in the World Series.

"I'm really pleased," Peters said when he learned he had received the award. "But when a person gets an award such as this, you have to realize you're only as good as the people you have working for you. We have had top-notch people here, as well as top-notch ownership."

Peters broke into baseball management in 1946 with the St. Louis Browns and held various posts with the Reds, Athletics and Indians before leaving Cleveland to become president of the National Association.

Boos Greeted McAdoo In First Visit to Boston

BOSTON (UPI) — It started with the introduction — a chorus of boos that lasted for a full minute and never-forgotten 12:12.

But Bob McAdoo said he didn't have any "special feelings" as he opened his former team — the Boston Celtics — for the first time since being traded to the Detroit Pistons. And he went out and scored 28 points, but, again, in a losing cause. The Pistons, despite a fourth-quarter comeback, lost 119-111.

"I didn't have any special feelings," the 6-foot-10 scoring machine said. "I just wanted to win."

"They had to move me," said McAdoo, who was traded to Detroit for a pair of first-round draft picks to compensate Detroit for the signing of free agent M.L. Carr.

Complete Staff

CHICAGO (UPI) — The Chicago White Sox rounded out their coaching staff by naming Art Krumper, a 14-year veteran in both the major and minor leagues, bullpen coach.

Manager Tony Larussa previously had named Bobby Whithers, Loren Babe and Ron Schueler as coaches for the 1980 season.

Majlinger, Owen, Keefe, Flood in CCSC Shrine

Three former Central Connecticut State College coaches and two past outstanding Blue Devil athletes were named today to the 10-member charter group of inductees into the Alumni Association's Athletic Hall of Fame.

The five include Henry "Hank" Majlinger, highly successful baseball coach for 30 years from 1949 to 1978; Ted Owen, who led powerful Blue Devil track and cross country teams from 1947 to 1972; Gabrielle Blockley, coach of women's teams over a 10-year period and a prime mover in the growth of the women's program at the college; Jim Keefe, whose list of track and cross country accomplishments include a pair of NCAA national championships and All-American recognition; and Gerald "Bud" Flood, a brilliant all-around athlete prior to World War II.

They join previously announced Herbert D. Walte, retired president of Central Connecticut, the late Jim Kaiser, first athletic director and coach at the college, head basketball coach Bill Detrick, and former Blue Devil stars Gene Reilly and Al "Skip" Juste as the charter group that will be inducted at a dinner during the Alumni Association sponsored basketball tournament on Nov. 30-Dec. 1.

Majlinger, who retired from coaching but remains a member of the Physical Education Department, compiled a magnificent 263-186 coaching record in baseball.

For over 25 years his teams never experienced a losing season, and three of his best in 1963, 1973 and 1975 competed in NCAA post-season tournaments. He was named NCAA District 1 Baseball Coach of the Year in 1965, and the same year received a Merit Award from the NCAA.

In addition to his baseball coaching role, Majlinger served as Central Connecticut's head football coach from 1963-68, and his 1964 club went undefeated and ranked one of the Blue Devil grid squads to experience perfect campaigns.

Owen, while serving as Central's track coach for 26 years, posted a record of 134 wins against 46 losses and three ties. Over a span from 1954 to 1971, the Blue Devils won 49 straight meets. Many of his teams captured important titles, including the New England championship. The track and coaching records are filled with young men achieved stardom under his tutelage.

During his 28 years at Central, Owen served 20 years as Dean of Men. In 1974, he was the recipient of the Distinguished Service Award. Blockley, now a professor of physical education, joined the Central staff in 1949 and went on to coach Blue Devil women's teams in basketball, field hockey and softball until 1959.

From 1968 to 1973, she was the faculty adviser to the Women's Athletic Association.

Keefe came out of Derby, to become undoubtedly Central's greatest star in track and cross country.

He won the NAIA national cross-country championship in 1961, was an NCAA All-American in both track and cross country in 1963 and 1964, and won both the NCAA three and six mile championships in 1964.

Keefe was also a member of the United States' track and field teams in 1963 and 1964, and was regarded as one of the world's top distance runners in international competition. The very versatile Flood played four years of football, baseball and basketball from 1938 to 1940 for Central Connecticut, and also participated in tennis.

He was an outstanding back on the Blue Devils' unbeaten and united 1939 football team, and following that season his jersey number "12" became the only number ever retired in Central's football program.

Equally a star as a pitcher for the Blue Devils, Flood was presented the Frederick Gladstone Award in 1940, given annually to the outstanding senior who has combined scholastic achievement, athletic ability and citizenship.

A long-time resident of Madison, Conn., he served many years as a teacher-coach at Hand High School. Flood died earlier this year.

Business Must Be Made More Risky

Business

NEW YORK (UPI) — Business must be made more risky, not less so, if American free enterprise is to become innovative once again, a panel of economists concluded at a recent Massachusetts Institute of Technology seminar.

They said the government must make not taking risks more dangerous in the long run than being innovative. In their formal report, they suggested the existing structure of the economy should be changed by "prohibiting corporate mergers above a certain size" in order "to avoid the reduction of risk that businesses seek by such actions."

They also called for a change in antitrust laws "to recognize the importance of stimulating rivalry and dynamic behavior."

The authors of the panel report rejected the argument frequently heard in the business world "that the risks of business innovation are so great that government policy should be to reduce them by subsidizing technology development, weakening antitrust laws or rolling back environmental, health or safety standards."

Government should not actively support the commercialization of new technology, the study said, because that might lead to diversion of resources from promising areas and competition might be stifled by concentrating resources on a small number of large firms."

Specifically, the report concluded, the United States should emulate Japan in seeking diversity, competition and providing capital for new businesses.

"In no other developed country," the study said, "is there such a complete array of programs to encourage innovation including grants in aid for the implementation of inventions, special development contracts and grants, arrangements for commercialization of new developments, support for capital equipment for new ventures, rapid tax writeoffs for new developments, low interest loans for high technology firms, special analysis and advice for small firms, special procurement policies, open research laboratories, for the use of new and small firms, and no-interest loans for modernization of small firms."

Protecting domestic industry from foreign competition "ultimately brings technological obsolescence in its wake," the authors conclude.

A Year After Massacre

Jim Jones' Followers Remain Faithful

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — One year later, survivors of the death rite at Jonestown grope to re-enter the world they renounced for the Utopia promised them by the Rev. Jim Jones.

Many are doing it reluctantly, for their faith in Jones remains unshaken, despite his legacy of massed bodies lying bloated in the jungle.

The process has been painful and difficult for former members of the Peoples Temple. They lost their possessions, 913 of their closest friends and family and for some "the best life we've ever known" in Guyana on Nov. 18, 1978.

The family of Rep. Leon Ryan, D-Calif., whose Jones-ordered slaying signaled the start of the mass suicide, decline to talk about the tragedy or their life since then. But an aide and a lawyer for the family speak bitterly.

Jackie Speier, an aide to Ryan who was with him when he went to Jonestown to investigate the encampment and was herself wounded, said: "I am appalled by the slipshod way the State Department has handled this tragedy. It is absurd that more than 900 people, not the least among them a congressman, died, and no one has come up with any real answers as to why it happened or how to prevent a similar tragedy."

Miss Speier said the Ryan family was also distressed at "the government's unresponsiveness to the tragedy."

"But they're very strong people and are taking it a lot better than I am. If I were Rep. Ryan's daughter, I'd be very bitter that the only memorial to this great man is a tombstone."

Roy Farber, one of the attorneys for the Ryan estate, said family members declined to speak because "this is a very tender subject for them — it would just be too painful to discuss."

But, he said, Ryan's family was "outraged" at a suit filed against his estate by a group of survivors and relatives of those who died, charging the congressman's visit touched off the murder-suicide ritual.

Rep. Bill Royer, who succeeded Ryan, says he is dissatisfied with the "indifferent" investigation of the tragedy and is calling for a Justice Department hearing into the matter.

Miss Speier says she finds it "very strange" that only two men are being prosecuted in the deaths.

The majority of the 81 who survived the murder-suicide rite, ordered by Jones at his agricultural mission in Jonestown, have settled in the San Francisco area, where in 1971 the charismatic leader had set up the headquarters for his mostly black congregation.

"After an initial period of confusion and culture shock, they are doing extremely well in what for them is starting from scratch," said Dr. Chris Hatcher. "It's truly amazing."

Hatcher, a psychiatrist at the University of California's Langley Porter Institute, was appointed by Mayor George Moscone — who was slain nine days after the mass suicides — to help the survivors reevaluate.

"Fear, hostility, anger and mistrust dominated the days immediately following the tragedy," Hatcher said. "Jones had predicted that those who survived would be haunted by society for the rest of their lives, that they'd never be allowed to escape the label of Jonestown."

"And social reaction reinforced those predictions."

One man being interviewed for a job as a car salesman was thrown out by the manager, who after finding out the applicant had been a Peoples Temple member ripped up the forms and shouted, "I've never done this before, but considering what you are, I'm throwing you out."

Nevertheless, most survivors have managed to find jobs. Only two of the dozen former temple members interviewed by UPI were without work, and one of them was a 66-year-old retired janitor.

"It's amazing how these people are surviving. For them it's like receding from an earthquake that destroyed their family, property, all they had," said Yvonne Golden, principal of Opportunity II High School, once attended by as many as 100 Peoples Temple children.

Two former temple members, including a 17-year-old Jonestown survivor, are being graduated from the school this year. The school principal said, "They're doing just beautifully."

In rebuilding their lives, many have sought privacy even at personal loss. Lenny Herrmann of the Social Services Department said some survivors eligible for aid have chosen to forego food stamps and other financial help rather than reveal their addresses.

But others talk freely of their life in the temple, and some still defend Jones and his final command triggering the mass deaths, including his own.

"Jim had no other choice. He knew his people would rather take their life than go against what they believed. I was to have left for Jonestown in a few weeks. If I'd been there, you wouldn't have to ask me twice to kill myself," said Judith Merriman, a private duty nurse.

"The government would have come in and arrested everybody and brought them back to the United States, where our children would be taught racism and our seniors would be placed in convalescent hospitals. Jim always made the right decisions, even in the end."

Her eyes misty, her voice husky, she whispered, "I'd show you something I've never shown to anyone outside the temple before."

From inside her blouse, she removed a faded snapshot of smiling Jones with a raven perched on his finger.

"I put this picture over my chest when I got a pain there, and the pain goes away. That's what Jim did for the poor, the elderly, the oppressed. He lessened their pain."

Bea Orsett, a former legal secretary for the Internal Revenue Service, was in a dentist's chair in Georgetown when her husband and other temple members drank the cyanide-laced soft drink.

"It was so mad when I found out I missed the end. I wish I had been there to share in the final moment of unity. I don't know how those who were there Nov. 18 and left can live with themselves."

Sandy Bradshaw, 23, a former probation officer who was alleged by some temple defectors to head a Peoples Temple "hit squad" in the Jonestown aftermath, said she, too, would have died willingly.

"It was the best life we've ever known. Other than feeling productive, I miss most the hearty laughter we shared. We had such camaraderie. I wish in having shared so much life with them, I could have shared in their death," she said, wiping away her tears.

Like several other survivors, Miss Bradshaw, who works as a defense attorney, says she thought of killing herself.

"But Jim taught us to help others, so that's what I'm trying to do now. Some people will themselves to die. I've willed myself to live."

Even in view of the deaths, Ms. Golden said, "I cannot say a bad word against Jim. The temple children were always the best, most mature students."

"I still weep when I read these," she said, pointing to a stack of letters on her desk.

"I'm writing to tell you of a beautiful life we all live here in Guyana." Linda Mitchell, 17, had written just a few weeks before her death. "This, my friend, is the only way to live."

Tombstone in Golden Gate National Cemetery in San Bruno, Calif., marks the final resting place for Rep. Leo Ryan, D-Calif. It was the Jim Jones-ordered slaying of Congressman Ryan that signaled the start of the Jonestown, Guyana, mass murder-suicides a year ago. (UPI photo)

Even those who bitterly denounce Jones as a "madman" and "the triggerman" admit their respect for the doctrines he espoused has not lessened.

"I got out when I overheard Jim telling his lieutenants to lie about how much money we had to get more. We already were giving him 25 percent of what we earned, plus our homes and other possessions. I'm glad I left, because in the end, he was a real madman," says Verne Smith, a retired janitor.

"But I've got to admit that whatever faults he had, his power of revelation was real strong. And what he preached — to love the poor, the black, the elderly was something I admire greatly."

To Archie James, a 26-year temple member whose daughter and three grandchildren died in Jonestown, Jones "was the triggerman who took advantage of the sheep-like conditioning of the human species."

But James, who served as an assistant minister in the temple and spent one year in Jonestown, admitted that "despite how I may feel about the man, the killings had not changed my commitment to the concepts of the early church, and that agents had infiltrated the group.

"The government knew if they pushed us against the wall, we'd self-destruct. If they wanted to wipe out another 900 people, they'd have no problem doing it," said one survivor who asked not to be identified.

But their most immediate concern is the anniversary of Jonestown.

"A lot of us are leaving town to avoid the bad scene on Nov. 18," says Paul McCann, 27, whose wife, sister and children died in Jonestown.

"It's like reports of a hit squad — of which I was supposed to be a member — trying to eliminate enemies of the temple after Jonestown. There was no hit squad, but the media picked up on it anyway."

Robert Fabian, appointed to oversee the dissolution of the temple, says the church's assets include $3 million in two banks in Guyana, $7 million in banks in Panama, some $200,000 around the Caribbean and $756,000 net worth receivership under his control.

But Charles Touchette, one of the survivors suing for a share of the money, cites estimates of the temple's worth including secret bank accounts and the Jonestown assets as high as $66 million.

Most of the survivors say they doubt they will see any of the money or that the "full truth" of Jonestown will ever be known.

Many contend Jones was justified in his repeated warnings that the government had conspired to destroy the church and that agents had infiltrated the group.

"The government knew if they pushed us against the wall, we'd self-destruct. If they wanted to wipe out another 900 people, they'd have no problem doing it," said one survivor who asked not to be identified.

Jack Walsh: A Tough Man With Concern for Youths

By BARBARA RICHMOND Herald Reporter

VERNON — He's been into martial arts for 20 years, has a black belt in Judo and a black belt in Karate — he's tough — but he has a soft spot in his heart for young people.

That describes Jack Walsh, Vernon's Youth Services Director. Walsh spoke to a group of Rockville High School girls Wednesday night and didn't mince any words about what they should do when approached by a potential attacker.

First of all he told the young women never to walk alone at night, if they can help it, "but if you do, carry a walking stick and don't be afraid to use it," he said.

Walsh told the students, mostly members of the school's "Z" Club, an offshoot of the Zonta Club which is made up of professional women, "If a man is going to do something vile and physical to you, don't be afraid to love is never jealous," he said. "I don't want any of you to become a victim. If you've got anybody putting their dirty, filthy hands on you and you'd go to jail for any of you and I don't even know you," Walsh said.

And that's how sincere the youth director is about protecting the young people he works with every day trying to get them to stay on the right path and make something of themselves.

He said the biggest percentage of young people who come to his office in the Memorial Building in Rockville, are females and said he thinks that's because females get hurt more, emotionally and physically.

He said they are often sexually abused and physically abused and not just by strangers but sometimes by fathers, boyfriends of their mothers, and such.

He abhors some of the television shows that so graphically show scenes of women being attacked and abused and then fall to show anybody being punished for the crime.

He said it made him ill to hear the latest FBI statistics that say that every four minutes a female is strangled. He said he doesn't want to strike the attacker. He said swinging the stick puts the person off balance and allows the attacker to move in.

Pain stops everything, a fast kick anywhere from the knee down will stop an attacker long enough to give the victim a chance to get away," he said.

He said if a stick isn't available, a magazine or newspaper rolled up tightly will do the trick to give the attacker a job to the face and at the same time scream.

He also showed the students how their hands can be used as weapons. Walsh, who runs a Karate School in Middletown, said Karate means open-hand fighting.

He said if an attacker has a knife the victim can tell, by the way it is held. He also said the victim can push into the attacker's throat, grab his ears, rip at his nose, pound his arm muscles, scratch at eyes, and the attacker will let go.

"No female should be at any male's mercy, it's happening too much — the time has come when we have to turn this around," he said.

Jack Walsh, Vernon's Youth Services director, demonstrates, with the help of Rockville High School student, Lynn Francoeur, how to protect from an attacker with the use of a walking stick. Walsh spoke to students Wednesday night. (Herald photo by Richmond)

Transport Minister, ordering an investigation, said "It is clear that UFO, as reported U.F.O. sighting in Spanish airspace must be one of the best-documented on record.

The case involves a pilot who diverted his plane with 109 passengers and seven crew members aboard to make an emergency landing, claiming unidentified flying objects were buzzing him and threatening collision.

An airport director, among others, says he saw the UFOs.

Air force jets reportedly were sent up and filmed them. And Spain's Lerdo said two "intense red lights" streaked across the sky toward his Canary jet shortly before midnight Sunday as he flew at 24,000 feet over the Mediterranean near the island of Majorca.

Within minutes, the objects closed in on a half-mile from his plane and he ordered his passengers to fasten their safety belts, Lerdo recounted.

After the UFO made two apparent attempts to buzz the plane, the pilot dropped his aircraft into a sharp dive and diverted the plane to Valencia.

"I've never been in danger like it."

Francisco Lerdo de Tejada, 34-year-old pilot of the Spanish Caravelle jet, broke his silence on the weekend incident Wednesday by explaining why he piloted the aircraft 14,000 feet and put his chartered plane of German and Austrian tourists down in Valencia on Spain's eastern Mediterranean coast rather than in the Canary Island beauty spot of Tenerife.

Town Selects DeMallie As Planning Director

SOUTH WINDSOR — Peter DeMallie, 28, of Vernon has been selected as the town's first full-time director of planning, according to Town Manager Allan Young.

DeMallie was selected from 15 applicants for the new $20,000 per year position and is expected to begin within one month.

DeMallie has worked as a senior planner at the Northeastern Connecticut Regional Planning Agency for the past three years. From 1976 to 1978 he was a part-time planner for the town of Killingly. He is a graduate of Hiram College in Ohio and received his master's degree in community planning from the University of Rhode Island.

DeMallie's master's thesis in subdivision planning and zoning is expected to be published soon. It includes a model set of zoning regulations.

As a senior planner at the regional agency serving 10 towns in eastern Connecticut, DeMallie assisted town officials in developing new zoning regulations formulating plans of development, and preparing applications for state and federal grants.

DeMallie's appointment comes within two months of Town Council approval of the planner's position. The position approval hit numerous snags, with some council members objecting to the job description and the salary range, which they felt was too low for a job of its magnitude.

Originally, the planner's position was eliminated from the 1978-80 budget following former Republican Councilman Robert Sills' vote to slash $20,000 from the general government budget and add $20,000 to the Board of Education budget. Voting with the four Democrats on the previous Town Council, Sills' vote was sufficient to pass both motions.

Following the elimination of the position from the budget, numerous agencies including the Planning and Zoning Commission spoke in favor of the Town Planner's position.

Autos To Promote Show

MANCHESTER — The Greater Manchester Chamber of Commerce has announced an antique auto caravan will appear on the streets of Manchester on Friday, Nov. 16 to mark the arrival of the 1979 Manchester Product Show.

In addition to the caravan, which will wind its way around Manchester beginning at 3:00 p.m. on Friday, the antique autos will also be on display at the Product Show on Saturday and Sunday.

Among the cars scheduled to participate in the caravan and product show display are a 1937 Rolls Royce

Sports Sedan, owned by Charles Burr; a 1940 Packard Model 120, owned by Sony Damato and a 1925 Franklin Roadster, also owned by Mr. Burr.

In addition, a 1929 Franklin Sports Coupe owned by Mrs. Ruth Brown will join with a 1938 Auburn Convertible Sedan owned by Edgar Clarke for the Friday caravan.

Additional cars to appear on display at the Product Show are a Stutz Victorian phantom, formerly owned by Commodore Vanderbilt and a 1927 Cadillac Dual Cowl phaeton both the property of Mr. Clarke. Finally, a Ford phaeton four door convertible owned by Raymond Leach and a classic 1936 Ford from Roy Hagedorn will round out the caravan.

The antique auto display at the Manchester Product Show is free to the public and will be set up outside the doors in the area adjacent to the student parking lot.

The 1979 Manchester Product Show opens at noon on Saturday, Nov. 18 and Sunday the 19th and will close at 9 p.m. on Saturday and 6 p.m. on Sunday.

The soccer program just finished its fifth season. The first year was run on a clinic basis and about 25 girls and boys participated.

This year 86 boys and girls registered to form four teams. Each team played an eight game schedule against other towns.

PZC Amends Regulations To Provide Elderly Units

HEBRON - The Planning and Zoning Commission voted Tuesday to amend the zoning regulations to provide for housing for the elderly by a special permit issued by the commission and subject to design review by the group. This change is to become effective Dec. 1, 1979.

home and institutional living, by providing congregate housing at a reasonable rental cost. Steihl said that an elderly housing complex could offer congregate living for $75-$100 per month compared to nursing home care at $1,000 per month.

and in the immediate future. Of the 120 calls made to senior citizens, 110 expressed interest in housing for the elderly in future years, two expressed an immediate need, and eight declined to comment.

Legion Lowers Flag

HEBRON - Members of the Jones-Keefe-Batson Unit #95, American Legion Post, voted unanimously during its annual meeting Wednesday to fly the post flag at half mast until all 60 American prisoners held by the Iranians are safely freed. The flag will be flown in this position on a 24-hour basis.

itated by Daniel Porter, sergeant at arms of the post who said that the veterans' feelings for the American prisoners should not leave any doubt in the prisoners' minds as to the position of, at least, this post.

Security guards complete their delivery to the Connecticut Bank and Trust branch on Farmington Ave. in Hartford after a suspected holdup man was shot to death Wednesday in an attempt to rob the Purolator armored truck with a toy gun. (UPI photo)

Police Justify Shooting During Holdup Attempt

HARTFORD (UPI) — The fatal shooting of a man when he brandished a toy pistol and grabbed a guard's shotgun during an armored truck delivery to a bank has been listed by police as justifiable homicide.

Conrad Smith, 29, of Willimantic, allegedly tried to rob the Purolator, Inc., armored car Wednesday outside Connecticut Bank and Trust's Farmington Avenue branch after three of four guards had gotten out of the truck, police said.

Lt. Bernard Sullivan said Smith grabbed a shotgun from the hands of one security guard and was then shot three times with a .357 magnum revolver by a second guard, Sullivan said.

"The truck pulled up at about 11:30 and three guards got out," he said. "The man alone came up and ripped a shotgun from a guard. Another guard then shot three times."

Smith died about two hours later while in surgery at nearby St. Francis Hospital. Police said he had been hit twice in his legs and a third shot passed through a forearm into his body. Police declined to identify any of the guards and called the shooting justifiable homicide.

The guard who shot Smith said later "We don't want to talk about it right now. You can understand that, can't you. Sorry."

In April, three Purolator guards were gunned down when their truck was ambushed at a Waterbury garage. Nearly $41.9 million was recovered when two men and two women were arrested in the case of the next day. The two men are awaiting trial on murder charges and face death in the electric chair if convicted.

CBT spokesman Richard Denoia said the delivery Wednesday was a routine federal reserve shipment, but the trip hadn't been on a regular schedule. He declined to say how much money was being delivered to the branch.

"They vary the schedule for obvious reasons," Denoia said. When police completed their investigation of the shooting, reserve Purolator guards carried two large canvas bags of money from the truck to the bank.

Willimantic Police said Smith had been arrested in his hometown twice in the last month on minor charges.

He was arrested on Oct. 20 for criminal trespass and possession of marijuana, police said. Smith was arrested again two days later on charges of third-degree criminal mischief and criminal trespass at his home in a domestic dispute, they said.

Holiday Bazaar

VERNON — The Triple "S" Club will sponsor its annual "Happy Holidays" bazaar, Saturday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the Senior Citizen Center, Park Place. The public is invited.

There will be many Christmas items, handmade items of all kinds, plants and food, on sale.

There will also be pine cone wreaths and Christmas trees. Refreshments will be available.

UTC Head Sees Threat In Metals Dependency

HARTFORD (UPI) — The head of the giant United Technologies Corp. believes American dependence on foreign metals and minerals could become as serious a threat as dependence on imported oil.

"Without adequate raw materials, American industry will lose more and more sales to foreign competitors," UTC president Harry J. Gray told the American Society for Metals Wednesday in Chicago.

"Without sales, we won't need production. And if we don't have production, we certainly can't provide jobs needed in communities across the country," he said in the text of his speech released at UTC headquarters in Hartford.

Gray said the U.S. was "close to 100 percent dependent" on imported chromium and cobalt. If sources for these minerals were not developed at home, he said the country could be threatened with a "materials OPEC in certain metals."

Gray said 2.3 million acres of federally owned land in Idaho "has great cobalt potential" but that legislation now before Congress would ban "surface access" to the land for "environmental reasons."

He said only 40,000 acres of the Idaho land would be needed to start the United States on the way to "cobalt self sufficiency."

"Some of our own government's policies have saddled American companies with restrictions that our foreign competitors don't face," Gray said.

A ban on trade with Zimbabwe Rhodesia, which was renewed by President Carter on Wednesday, hasn't been observed by other nations, Gray said, adding that the Soviet Union buys chromium from that country, then sells it to the United States.

Cobalt is used in the manufacture of paints, inks and varnishes and chromium, a metal highly resistant to corrosion, is used in electroplating.

The Hartford-based United Technologies is Connecticut's largest private employer. It includes Sikorsky Aircraft, Hamilton Standard, Otis Elevator, Norden Systems and Pratt & Whitney Aircraft Group.

Protesters Arrested

MANCHESTER, N.H. (UPI) — Five leaflet-bearing nuclear protesters were arrested and later pleaded guilty to trespassing at the headquarters of the Public Service Co. of New Hampshire, owner of half of the Seabrook nuclear plant.

Three women and two men, who said they were members of the Green Leaf Harvesters from Weare, were arrested Wednesday for distributing leaflets inside the PSC headquarters in Manchester.

YOU HAVE MADE A UNIQUE CONTRIBUTION TO A BETTER WORLD

NEXT SUNDAY YOU CAN CELEBRATE CHD AND MAKE IT GROW

There will be a special collection at all masses next weekend for the 1979 Campaign for Human Development (CHD). CHD is the education-action program of the U.S. Catholic Church to combat poverty in our country through social change and self-reliance.

10th Anniversary

CHD was created 10 years ago and is now the largest U.S. Church of private program to support social and economic change, self-help programs among the poor. Its work with neighborhood groups, minority leadership, and local Church volunteers, has catalyzed some of the most dedicated and effective work of Catholic mission in recent history.

El Hogar del Futuro — Hartford — National grant

How it Works

CHD funds groups of poor people with self-help grants to support their work for long-range social change. The programs cover areas such as legal aid, economic development, community organization, housing and health care. The average grant in 1978 was $63,000.

Cost Effective

Parishes around the country support CHD through the annual collection. 75% of the money they collect is sent to the national office. The remaining 25% is used in local diocesan projects. 96¢ of every $1 sent to the national office goes to self-help grants.

Papal Thanks for CHD

During his recent American visit, Pope John Paul commended the U.S. Church for creating CHD, and thanked you for your generous support in the first 10 years of CHD. He said, "is a witness to the Church's living presence among the most needy, and a continuation of the mission of Christ 'to bring glad tidings to the poor, liberty to the oppressed.'"

Will You Help Us Grow

Last year, self-help projects received $226,000 in grants from the national office. So your contributions have been well used in the state of Connecticut and will be again, reaching less fortunate neighbors in Connecticut. We ask that each working person share just 2 hours pay in next week's collection. If you cannot attend Mass next weekend, or if you are not Catholic and wish to help, mail your contribution to:

Do It Yourself In One Hour

Solar Bank

Points of Consideration

1. Q: Does Solar Bank function automatically?

A: Yes. Once the comfort zone thermostat is set, Solar Bank functions on its own. There is a limit switch located down in the collector (75 degrees off 90 degrees on), which prevents the fan from blowing cold air into a building if no heat is available to the collector. If the building needs heat, the limit switch allows the Solar Bank to dump those free BTU's into the building.

2. Q: What does the Federal Energy Tax Credit mean to me?

A: The Federal Energy Tax Credit was legislated by the Federal Government to include energy consumers into seeking alternative energy sources to protect our diminishing world energy supplies. In effect, the solar tax credit reduces the retail cost by 30 percent to the consumer in the form of a tax credit which directly increase your refund from Uncle Sam equal to the tax credit amount.

3. Q: How can I be sure that the Solar Bank collector is effectively harvesting the sun's radiant heat energy in all parts of the panel?

A: Through the use of vitreous screening and baffle plates within the collector proper turbulence and air flow is accomplished to solar heat the air in all portions of the panel.

4. Q: Does the Solar Bank Unit work on overcast days?

A: On many overcast days the sun's radiant heat penetrates the cloud cover resulting in the Solar Bank operating as a functional supplementary free heat source: this is much the same as swimming on an overcast day and getting sunburn.

5. Q: What causes the air movement within the room to create a return of the cold air?

A: The effect is similar to what is known as thermo cycling. The heated air rises and as it cools drops to the floor creating a circular air movement throughout the room, the cooler air is pushed out through the cold air duct and reheated within the collector; this is similar to the heating within your standard home forced air system.

6. Q: What can go wrong with a Solar Bank Unit?

A: As a functional unit, most of the parts are passive in nature—being used to collect or transfer the air. Barring abuse, there is very little to affect the operation of a Solar Bank Unit.

7. Q: Must a Solar Bank Unit be installed in a window?

A: Absolutely not. Many businesses residents may wish to cut a hole in a wall and extend the heat transfer box through to gain an aesthetic appearance and to direct the collector to the south to get optimum performance.

Ingersoll-Rand Co.

Ingersoll Rand has been in business for 108 years. In the beginning the Company was known as Ingersoll Sergeant Drill Company. Then the Company merged in 1905 with the Rand Brothers. At that time we became known as Ingersoll Rand.

Originally we were manufacturers of drills and compressors. We extended into the production of pumps, tools, locks and a wide range of industrial machinery. Our end result has shown great geographic and political boundaries. Our company has more than 48,000 employees in 100 plants and a 2.5 billion dollar sales. We have grown and diversified to such an extent that effective communication, person to person, between our many facilities is not as easy as it once was. However, knowing the importance of these lines of communications in the effectiveness of our sales groups and the network which has been subsequently derived, Ingersoll Rand is now many things to many people. We would like to think that whatever one touches in today's world, Ingersoll Rand has something to do with the end result of that product. Obviously, this is because of our early commitment in the areas of drills and compressors which are so heavily used in the oil industry today both here and abroad.

We are also extremely proud of the other areas such as Tool Group Sales Team, Distribution, and Distributors. This group is primarily responsible for our air, electrical and hand tools and they are committed totally to the American worker. We are as proud to serve this generation as we have served the past generation and we will continue to serve our greatest asset, that being the American worker.

Better Bedding Shops La-Z-Boy Recliner Centers

Owners John Wholley and John DiCiccio combine over 30 years experience in the bedding field. Thorough knowledge of the products combined with experience on wholesale and retail levels produce stores staffed by "bedding pros."

They have searched industry-wide for the finest quality bedding and accessories from leaders in the bedding business. The bedding is from King Koil, Gold Bond, Sealy Eclipse and Therapedic.

The largest selection of genuine brass beds in the area is displayed at both stores from the Swann Dresher, and Artisan Brass Bed Companies. Accessories include bund beds, platform and waterbeds, studio couches, studio beds, corner groups, captains beds, high risers and trundle beds.

The Better Bedding Shops are one of the few sources of odd-size bedding made to order to accommodate antique beds of all types. Their experts will come to your home and custom design the perfect set to put beautiful old beds to everyday use again.

Delivery and set-up are always free at Better Bedding. Cash and carry rates are also available. Both stores are owner-operated so personalized, friendly service is assured.

Competitive prices on "our own" bedding styles gives you more quality for your bedding dollar.

Manchester Honda: More Than Meets the Eye

When you think of Manchester Honda, you think of the place just off I-86 at Exit 93 — the place that sells motorcycles, snowmobiles, and, of course economy cars.

But drop by and look around. You'll be surprised at what you see. For example, you'll find gas-powered generators, rototillers, outboard motors and even lawnmowers — all part of the Honda power products line.

The generators can be used for home or business. They range in capacity from 400 watts to 500 watts, and owning one could generate a warm feeling the next time a blizzard knocks out your house current.

The roto-tillers, on the other hand, are a fair-weather product. Say have your own garden and you're weary of hoeing furrows. These labor-saving devices might be just the thing.

The outboard motors range in power from 7½ to 10 horsepower. Mount one of these on your skiff or motorboat and you've got the same quality Honda puts in their cycles and autos at the back end of your boat.

The lawnmowers are another surprise. Who'd a thought it? Honda lawnmowers. But there they are. Either pushed or self propelled.

Yes, Manchester Honda has come a long way since the little place on Center Street in the mid Sixties. Then they had only 12 models of Honda motorcycles and eight models of Kawasaki bikes.

Today, Manchester Honda-Kawasaki is the largest Honda-Kawasaki dealer in the area. Situated on a 3½-acre tract of land at Adams Street, the dealership boasts 25,000 square feet of floor space in two modern buildings.

The building at 24 Adams displays 13 models of Honda automobiles. At 30 Adams, you'll find 41 models of Honda motorcycles, 34 models of Kawasaki motorcycles and the Kawasaki line of snowmobiles.

Which are the most popular models? In cars, the luxury compact Accord is number one, with the 1979 4-door sedan rising fast in popularity because it combines superior seating capacity with Honda's renowned gas mileage.

Among motorcycles, the favorite Hondas are, in order, the Honda 400 Hawk, the Honda CB 750 and the Honda Mopeds. The favorite Kawasakis are the KZ 400 and the KZ 650.

In snowmobiles, the Kawasaki 440 Invader is number one. The Invader is liquid-cooled — a feature that adds life to the machine, provides more constant power and offers quieter performance.

Manchester Honda is owned by John Larabee, member of the Manchester Chamber of Commerce and past treasurer of the Connecticut Motorcycle Dealers Association. He resides in Somers with wife Jaci, and children James, 15, Jonathan, 10, and Jennifer, 8.

General Manager, Motorcycles Building, is John Brodin, 33. Brodin joined the dealership in 1974 as a mechanic and was later parts manager. He resides in Vernon with his wife Donna, and children Marc, 10, and Susan, 8. Manchester Honda regularly donates vehicles for civic activities and driver's training courses at area schools and colleges.

The dealership is a regular recipient of awards for sales and service from the Honda Corporation. Awards were received in 1967, 1970, 1971, 1972, 1973, 1977 and 1978, 1979.

Heritage President Sees Long-Term Gain for Consumers

In spite of the tight money supply, today, economic climate holds many benefits for savers and borrowers alike, says William H. Hale, President of Heritage Savings and Loan. In a recent interview, Mr. Hale pointed out that current conditions are still favorable for mortgage borrowers, and that future developments are likely to make the financial climate even better for the average consumer.

"Tightening money supplies is a proven method of controlling inflation," Hale said, "even though it can cause some discomfort."

"Take mortgage lending, for example. At Heritage, our policy has always been to supply mortgage funds to as many customers as possible at the most competitive rates. And we're continuing to do just that. It's true that like most lenders, we don't have as much mortgage money available as we would like. It's also true that mortgage rates are high. But there are still good reasons to consider mortgage borrowing at this time."

Hale points out that at even with today's higher interest rates, many find home buying attractive. "They consider the tax picture and conclude that the after-tax cost of their loan is not entirely out of line. The interest on a mortgage is not taxable. That means that a person with a taxable income of $16,000 borrowing for a home at 13.25% has an after tax interest cost of 9.14%."

"This country really has to beat inflation," Hale said, "So if high interest rates are going to help, we've got a lot to gain by weathering this period. It's important to keep in mind that if we don't take these measures right now, we'll face an impossible situation in the future. Tightening money supplies today is one way to achieve economic stability tomorrow."

New era in mortgages

"In addition, we're on the threshold of an entirely new era in mortgage lending," Hale said. He thinks short-term "roll-over" mortgages will change the way people finance homes in the years ahead.

Mortgages of the future may follow the pattern of those issued in Canada. The so-called Canadian roll over mortgages are written for a term of 3 to 5 years. At maturity, they can be rolled over at the then prevailing interest rate, or they can be paid off by the borrower without penalty.

"These loans would be attractive in a period of high interest," Hale said. "Right now, for example, someone might be happy to finance for 5 years with the right to renegotiate the interest rate. If rates dropped from their present levels, the borrower would not find himself locked an important consideration — especially today when many uninsured investments, like daily income funds and other mutual funds, are on the market."

In addition, the Senate bill calls for a long-term phase-out of Regulation Q, which sets a ceiling on savings interest. Hale thinks the loosening of these restrictions "would make savings and loans even more competitive with other investments than we are now."

"As you can see," Hale concluded, "There's a very bright future in store for consumers. Even though the money situation today is tight, there are still a number of advantages in store for savers and borrowers alike. I assure our customers that Heritage is doing all it can to maintain funds for lending and provide the highest return on savings."

New Office Opening soon.

"I think the best measure of our confidence in the future is growth," Hale said, "and that's why I'm happy to announce that we'll be opening our third Moneymarket very shortly." Hale explained that moneymarkets are branch offices located inside neighborhood supermarkets, an idea Heritage Savings introduced in Connecticut several years ago. The new branch will be located inside Highland Park Market on Highland Street in Manchester. Other moneymarkets are inside Crispino's on East Middle Turnpike and in the Manchester Parkade Food Mart on West Middle Turnpike.

into a 40-year loan at the higher rates."

Hale doesn't yet know the final form these new loans will take, but they are under study at Heritage Savings. In recent years Heritage has brought several mortgage innovations to the marketplace including graduated payment loans, CHFA (Connecticut Housing Finance Authority) loans, and long-term 40-year loans.

A Bill to Benefit Savers

Hale sees a recently passed Senate bill as a great incentive to savers. This bill provides a special tax break for savers which, he pointed out, "is going to make saving money more attractive than ever before." If passed, the bill would exempt from taxation the first $100 of interest earned by a single depositor or the first $200 earned by a married couple filing their return jointly.

The bill would also allow the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation, a permanent government agency, to increase the insurance on savings accounts from $40,000 to $50,000. Of passed by Congress and signed by the President, Hale explained, "this bill would raise our investors' measure of security, and that's

Heritage Customers Bag a Bargain

Don't be surprised if the Heritage Savings & Loan display at the product show resembles the lobby of a busy hotel. It's Heritage's way of introducing you to BAG A BARGAIN—a new gift program for savers.

According to William H. Hale, president of Heritage Savings, "Even though interest rates are at an historic high, the government limits the rate we can pay. So to give depositors an extra incentive to save right now, we're offering high interest and attractive luggage free or at extremely low prices."

The beautiful matched luggage — 14 pieces in all — is the "Grand Tour" collection by Airways. Included in this durable assortment are many sizes for the everyday traveler — shopping totes, sports bags, attache and lightweight pieces designed for short trips.

Hale pointed out that a great deal of merchandise was considered before this particular offer was chosen. "We decided that bags and luggage were the most versatile and practical gift for our customers. And so after examining all the luggage on the market, I can assure our depositors that the Airways collection we're offering is the best by far."

Bagging a bargain at Heritage requires a minimum deposit of as little as only $250. Deposits to any savings or certificate account qualify, including 6-month certificates. Depositors receive the gift of their choice — from a free utility travel gift to a 29-inch overseas case for only $28. On deposits of $1,000 or $5,000 there are a larger number of free gifts and greater savings on other gifts. Unlike other premium programs, there is no limit on the number of gifts depositors can collect. With each additional $50 deposit, customers can add to their ensemble of beautifully coordinated luggage, collecting all 14 pieces if they wish.

Because this attractive assortment of luggage is so extensive, many Heritage customers are finding BAG A BARGAIN is a great way to solve their Christmas shopping problems. There are deluxe attache; brief bags and garment carriers for business people on the go; shoulder totes and club bags for the sports-minded; and a variety of suitcases for each traveling member of the family. There's even an Add-a-Wheel kit to make baggage handling easier.

"In this time of inflation," said Hale, "finding a bargain is a welcome event.

I'm glad we're able to bring this BAG A BARGAIN gift program to our customers and at the same time give them the highest interest rate any bank can pay on their savings. BAG A BARGAIN is our way of offering depositors more than ever before."

Lawn-A-Mat Product Show

Lawn-A-Mat of Metropolitan Hartford, located at 331 Summit St. in Manchester is the Hartford area's largest automated lawn care service. The required seeds, fertilizers, herbicides, insecticides and other chemicals are applied to the lawn by a professional, following a planned program, at no greater cost to the customer than his material cost alone would be - were he to do it himself.

The concept was established in 1961 by Lawn-A-Mat Chemical and Equipment Corp. of Westbury, New York. Since that time, Lawn-A-Mat has grown into a nationwide network of over 300 franchised dealers whose operation, using quality granular products, have been proven on more than three million lawns. The cost saving to the customer is achieved by an automated lawn combine that supplies all the nutrients, seeds and controls that the lawn needs, plus power aeration, in one operation across his lawn.

Lawn-A-Mat of Metropolitan Hartford was incorporated in 1972 by two brothers, William and Edwin Adams of Manchester. Developing picturesque green lawns at economical prices has enabled the company to grow from two to an estimated 40 to 50 employees in 1980.

1980 will be a special year for Lawn-A-Mat Chemical and Equipment Corp. It will mark their 20th year in business since it pioneered the automated lawn service in 1961. The local Lawn-A-Mat people know they have a proud tradition to uphold - a track record that is unequalled in the lawn care industry. Manchester area people can be certain Lawn-A-Mat will be doing everything possible in 1980 to continue to give its customers the best possible service and products.

WOULD YOU LIKE TO SAVE 25 PERCENT A YEAR IN HOME HEATING COSTS? DO IT THE N.E.W. WAY

You can expect to save 25 to 30 percent a year in home heating costs by making your house a National Energy Watch (N.E.W.) home.

Sponsored by Northeast utilities (NU), the N.E.W. program is designed to help you improve energy efficiency in your home, regardless of the fuel you use for heating.

NU studies show that homes which include advanced insulation in ceiling, walls and floors; double-glazed windows; and energy-efficient lighting controls offer significant savings compared to similar homes without the insulation levels recommended by N.E.W.

To help you get started in making your home more energy efficient, contact the Energy Management Services Department at NU office closest to you and ask for our free home energy audit questionnaire.

Or stop by the Manchester Product Show at the Manchester High School, November 17 and 18. Our representative will help make your home a winner.

Brunswick Parkade Lanes

Brunswick Parkade Lanes opened October 1969, it is one of approximately 300 centers owned and operated by Brunswick Corporation. Bernie Giovino has been the manager for the past 20 years. He has been the recipient of two executive awards, the highest award a Brunswick manager can receive. He is a certified instructor, has attended many seminars including one run by Bill Shrock, a leading Pro Instructor at Boston College. He is also active in many community affairs. Jack Glynn who recently returned as assistant manager has been employed by Brunswick Corporation for the past four years. Bert Gloss, program director, has been at the lanes for nineteen years. She is certified to teach beginners and advanced classes and during those many years has run hundreds of "Learn To Bowl" classes teaching a very large number of local women to bowl. She is still holding free weekly classes.

The lanes are open 7 days a week, 6 days 8:00 a.m. to 1:00 a.m. and on Tuesday around the clock, catering to Pratt and Whitney second shift bowlers.

Bowling is for everyone, it is a sport that can be carried over from childhood to well into the nineties. They have Junior Leagues with bowlers as young as seven to AARP and Senior Citizens who have some members in their eighties and nineties. They also have a Sheltered Workshop League bowling every Thursday with about fifty members.

Last year they held a Junior Bowl-A-Thon and raised $6,000 for the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

They have been running an annual Town Tournament for the past eighteen years, with the nineteenth one due to start December 1st, a larger number of entries than ever before expected.

Bowling surpasses all other sports including tennis, golf and racquet ball. The Saturday afternoon Pro Bowlers Tour TV Show enjoys a higher rating than any other show.

Each morning the lanes are filled with women who take advantage of the free nursery service provided while they bowl.

This past spring Parkade Lanes was the site for the Greater Hartford W.B.A. Tournament, which was a g.i.a event with a large number of very fine scores being shot. The G.H.W.B.A. also held their 300 Club Tournament there the weekend of November 17th and 18th, having (126) entries.

Every April a local male and female bowler has a shot at a free trip to Europe by winning the Bowl Your Way To Europe Tournament on a local level, which gives them a free trip to Washington, D.C., where they compete with other contestants from all around the country for the big trip to Europe for two. This Tour-ment gives all the Brunswick Parkade Lanes league bowlers a fair chance to win by having three categories for high, medium and low average bowlers.

Every cost-conscious home owner needs Zonolite® Attic Insulation
HERE'S WHY:

Most homes have some insulation in their attics...but not enough. The result is a needless waste of energy and hard earned money. But heating and cooling costs drop sharply when Zonolite Attic Insulation is poured over existing insulation to seal heat leaks. Free-flowing vermiculite is so easy to apply, one person can usually insulate the average home attic in two to four hours. It pours freely around obstructions such as pipes and wiring, and fits snugly against attic joists. And because it's all mineral, Zonolite Attic Insulation won't burn, deteriorate or attract vermin and odors. It's a highly effective, non-settling, permanent insulation.

Stanley Weatherproofing can help you combat rising heating costs

HERE'S HOW:
 Stanley has the answer to escalating heating costs with a full line of weatherproofing for almost any door (including garage doors) or window, even for water pipes. Cold drafts make your home heating system work harder, thereby using more fuel. Since even tiny cracks can send your heating money out the door, these easy to install weatherstrip tapes, caulks, door and window seals in a variety of sizes are a great investment. And, since Channel is the place to find these energy savers, you can seal up savings at the same time because of our low prices.

"Anything That You Can Imagine - You Can Achieve!"

Gini Perlman, director of the Able Hypnosis Training Center in Manchester, explained to a new client, Mrs. Perlman continued, "That is, with hypnosis and self-hypnosis you can achieve your goals, desires and ambitions as long as they are within your potential." "Remember, most people are 90% habit and go through their lives as units of unfulfilled potential."

Mrs. Perlman outlined the self-improvement program at the Able Hypnosis Training Center as follows: "We combine hypnosis, self-hypnosis, positive thinking and visual imagery." She reminded her client that prior to setting up the appointment it had been noted that there were two prerequisites for acceptance. First, all clients must agree that they can invest 16 minutes a day (divided in four 4-minute sessions) for self-hypnosis. Second, all clients are tested on their first visit to determine their ability to benefit from using hypnosis and self-hypnosis.

Gini Perlman spoke in simple terms that her client could easily grasp. "The functions of the subconscious mind that are significant to this program include memory and the part which performs like an obedient soldier." It is the responsibility of your subconscious mind to work diligently to carry out your suggestions. Your subconscious mind does not have the ability to reason. It accepts all suggestions as fact. Therefore, if you believe that walking in the rain will give you a cold, it is the responsibility of your subconscious mind to conger up cold symptoms. On the other hand, if you imagine that you are more enthusiastic, energetic and optimistic the results will be positive. Program your subconscious mind with positive suggestions and you will experience positive results."

Mrs. Perlman demonstrated Chevreul's Pendulum and used it to test her client's ideometer responses. Her client held the pendulum (a plastic ball on a chain) and was obviously surprised and delighted to see the ball swing in the direction of her thoughts. "I held my hand as steady as I could, but the pendulum moved," the client insisted.

Mrs. Perlman assured her client that there was a simple explanation. "Remember, anything that you can imagine, you can achieve as long as it is within your potential. Your subconscious mind is obligated to help you achieve your goals. When I demonstrate the pendulum, I consciously hold my hand still. As soon as I imagine it swinging in a specific direction my subconscious mind takes over and sends down a message to my knees, hips or shoulders (some part of my body) to move sufficiently to produce the motion desired." "When I suggested that you imagine the pendulum moving in specific directions, you responded well. You were able to accept positive suggestions from me and use your subconscious mind to carry them out. Therefore, you can benefit from hypnosis. You were also able to use your imagination to move the pendulum in various directions, without any assistance from me. Thus, you gave yourself positive suggestions and followed them. I know you can use hypnosis and self-hypnosis effectively, as a result of this simple test, before we go into the hypnosis room."

Mrs. Perlman discussed hypnosis with her client. She emphasized the point that in therapeutic hypnosis for self-improvement that the client would not be in a trance, unconscious or asleep. She explained, "You will realize where you are and why you are here. You will be aware of my secretary in the outer office. Your ears and mind still function while you are in hypnosis. Hypnosis is a heightened state of suggestibility. It is a state in which the conscious mind becomes more subdued and the subconscious mind seems to surface and is more receptive to positive suggestions," she continued. Hypnosis is based on rapport; it is a teacher-student relationship," Gini pointed out.

Gini then escorted her client into the hypnosis room for the first hypnotic session.

Gini Perlman is a qualified hypnotherapist and a graduate of the Ethical Hypnosis Training Center in South Orange, New Jersey. As director of the Able Hypnosis Training Center, she has developed a uniquely beneficial approach to self-improvement. Mrs. Perlman combines hypnosis, self-hypnosis, positive thinking and visual imagery to motivate goal setting and attainment. At the Center, emphasis is placed on learning self-hypnosis, positive thinking and visual imagery to motivate goal setting and attainment. At the Center, emphasis is placed on learning self-hypnosis. The applications are many and include weight reduction, eliminating the smoking habit, gaining self-confidence, improving in various sports, increasing enthusiasm, optimism, energy, productivity, concentration, memory, increasing sales and many other performance areas.

The Herald . . . Serving a Growing Independent Market

Founded October 1, 1881, The Manchester Evening Herald is published six evenings a week - Monday through Saturday. With a paid, ABC audited circulation of around 17,000, The Herald is the local newspaper for Manchester and surrounding communities. Our readers' interest centers around community activities, personalities, and local happenings. The Herald's coverage of the local scene can do much to generate customer awareness for your advertising. Creating a favorable selling climate for our advertisers is one of our primary objectives in serving the area. In November of 1972 The Herald moved into a new 8,200 square foot addition and the total building is now 14,000 square feet. The use of optical character recognition equipment and high speed photo typesetting equipment makes The Herald a leader in the newspaper publishing field. The Herald is printed on a 48 page capacity Goss Urbanite offset press with full color capability. Composition work is performed in a custom-designed work area by highly trained professional staff, assuring readers and advertisers a quality product.

Ninety-five percent of The Herald's circulation is home delivered by a force of 350 carriers and motor route drivers. We're growing and intend to grow still more. We have great faith in the Manchester area and have proved that faith by our large investment in new facilities and equipment. It is our purpose to give our readers the finest local newspaper possible.

Lydall, inc.

Vital, innovative products for industry . . . Lydall, Inc. produces engineered fiber materials; metal, plastic, elastomeric and fiber components; and specialized packaging at 14 divisions with plants in over a dozen cities in the United States. A part of Manchester for 100 years, Lydall has reaffirmed its involvement in the Town by building its new corporate offices on Colonial Road.

In the 16 years since it became a public company, Lydall has grown from sales of $4 million to a $100 million American Stock Exchange company.

Lydall's products fall into four major groups: Fiber Materials, Packaging, Metal Components and Formed Products.

The Fiber Materials Group surpasses any other company in the United States in the manufacture of high technology rigid fiber composites using recycled fibers. The Group recently made a significant breakthrough in ceramic fiber component manufacturing which should lead to some very attractive long-term marketing opportunities. Typically, Lydall fiberboard material replaces more expensive products such as plastic, steel and leather in automobiles and footwear. Since the federal government now requires manufacturers to replace traditional components with flame-retardant rigid materials, the appliance industry has become a rapidly expanding market for Lydall.

The Fiber Materials Group also manufactures wet-laid nonwoven products for hot-oil filters, absolute air filters, high-temperature insulation and medical disposables. As the country's major supplier of surgical instrument wrap, the Group has begun development of other medical disposables such as blood filtration media.

Lydall's Packaging Group concentrates on several high profit market segments. Lydall's injection-molded lip balm dispenser is an example of this specialization; with a 40 percent market share, the Company supplies over 27 million of these assemblies annually to companies like Avon, Sea & Ski, Love Cosmetics and others.

The Metal Components Group's business developed from the same force that accelerated the growth of Lydall's fiberboard operation — economy. Steel balls replace more expensive products such as chrome balls in bicycles. The Metal Components Group has become the world's largest independent manufacturer of carbon steel balls.

When more waterfowl began dying from eating lead shot than from being shot by it, Lydall responded with one of its most exciting products — Ecoshot® the Company's nontoxic steel shot.

Capitalizing on its vast ball making experience, Lydall specially engineers plastic balls as major components of diagnostic testing devices using radio-immunoassay techniques. Having already replaced traditional means of testing for hepatitis, this technology could ultimately spawn a whole family of sophisticated diagnostic systems.

The Formed Products Group manufactures Lydall's most dynamic and technologically advanced products — dry-laid nonwoven materials and elastomeric (synthetic rubber) components.

Dry-laid nonwoven products are produced on a needle loom and suit a wide range of applications from air filtration to man-made leather.

Tanera® Lydall's man-made leather, resembles natural leather's fiber structure and surface more closely than any competitive materials. Moreover, its unusual strength and durability give it valuable safety and industrial applications.

Lydall recently announced several new products which are produced by the Formed Products Group. Filtra™ a highly efficient filtering material was selected by Eureka for its top-of-the-line vacuum cleaner bags, and four running shoes utilizing Lydall's patented footwear component material Unisock received top awards by Runner's World in its annual athletic footwear survey.

In addition to dry-laid non-wovens, the Formed Products Group manufactures elastomeric seals, gaskets and components for the automobile and appliance industries.

Lydall's involvement in the medical field has been steadily increasing. Two years ago the Company patented a silicone catheter which is now licensed to a major producer of medical equipment and supplies. Lydall is now developing disposable gaskets for kidney dialysis and blood transfusion equipment.

Eastern Connecticut's Leading Opticians In Product Show

Optical Style Bar Inc. has furnished much of the personal optical needs of eastern Connecticut for 28 years, and, in so doing has gained invaluable experience of the needs of our area.

Our fashion conscious licensed opticians know their responsibility in keeping abreast with innovations in our field as well as to continue with conventional vision aids.

We are proud to be leaders in the use of aolite ultravue® seamless bifocal. The ultravue with no segment lines is effective in practical use. This lens, when combined with the most fashionable eyeglass frames, can answer your need for high fashion as well as satisfying your personal vision needs. The ultravue lens is on display at our three stores in eastern Connecticut.

The highly qualified technicians in our contact lens department located at 763 Main St., Manchester, can evaluate and determine the best contact lens form and style for you. Much research and practical experience has proven the advantageous use of softlens®, the visually and physically most comfortable of contact lens styles.

The use of softlens in addition to traditional hard lens forms over a long period of time has prompted Optical Style Bar to continue research in this exciting field.

Hearing aid sales and service are an important part of the services provided by Optical Style Bar, Inc. at 763 Main St. office in Manchester. A guarantee of your personal satisfaction in our hearing aid sales and service is backed by experienced, knowledgeable technicians and quality brand aids as well as all necessary accessories.

Optical Style Bar maintains a complete grinding and finishing laboratory located also at 763 Main St., Manchester staffed with licensed personnel who operate modern equipment necessary to accomplish the tight quality control set by Optical Style Bar, Inc., Eastern Connecticut's leading full service opticians with offices at 763 Main St., Manchester, Conn.; 191 Main St., Manchester, Conn.; Eastbrook Mall, Mansfield, Conn. Member Manchester Chamber of Commerce. See us at C of C Products Show.

Atlas Bantly Oil Serving Over 80 Years

The Atlas Bantly Oil Co. has been serving the Greater Manchester area for over 80 years with offices located in Manchester and East Hartford. The firm offers automatic fuel oil delivery, 24-hour emergency service, monthly budget payment terms, heating and air conditioning services.

Atlas Bantly strives to assist their customers to conserve heating oil and lower heating bills. The company features a program of annual burner maintenance. This includes fuel efficiency tests and upgrading of obsolete and inefficient equipment. Instruments are used by service technicians to tune up oil burners to peak efficiency. Records show that burners set by eye instead of instruments can be 7-15% inefficient. This means 7-15% of the oil burned is wasted and not used for heating. If an efficiency reading is not taken by instruments, a customer has no way of knowing if his heating system is 75-80% efficient (which is considered good performance) or below 50% (which is considered poor performance).

Studies have proven that well-tuned and upgraded equipment can save homeowners money and reduce pollution. Atlas Bantly believes that their fuel conservation program will result in substantial savings in oil and dollars for their customers. See us this weekend at the product show.

You are cordially invited to visit our Hartford National booth (#121) at the Manchester show.

George R. English, Vice President and Manager of our Middle Turnpike Office, will be on hand, along with our Savings Investment Specialists*, to answer your questions about Individual Retirement Accounts (IRA) and Keogh Plans (for the self-employed), as well as any other questions you may have concerning the many banking services available at Hartford National.

Our Retirement Plans offer the maximum allowable interest rates, combined with extra services and certain latitudes you will not find at other banks.

During your visit we hope we can explain the many advantages of dealing with Hartford National, a large bank equipped with the latest computerized systems for handling your account, and a long-standing reputation for professional management of retirement funds for many businesses and union organizations.

More and more people are realizing that dealing with a great bank can be a great help in ordering their financial life, and planning for a secure future. All you need to do is call or visit any office of Hartford National and ask a Specialist.

Five Star Trading

Browsing through the Five Star Trading Co. shop in the Manchester Mini Mall is almost like strolling through a small museum. Dozens of coins, U.S. and foreign, make up the largest part of the display area and some date back over a hundred years.

George R. Atkins Sr. and his wife Genevieve have been collecting coins for over 25 years and will proudly tell you of the fascinating histories and misconceptions concerning a large variety of pennies, dimes, quarters, etc. For instance, many people believe it is a federal crime to deface U.S. coinage. It's not if the coin is never used again as currency such as in jewelry.

The Atkins opened the shop about 2 years ago after success with coin selling at flea markets and it has now expanded to include a gift section of bronze, jade, onyx, and other materials as well as jewelry and even stuffed animals.

Their booth at the products show will have these items, but the main attraction will be the coins, of course. George is even bringing some of his own personal collection to the show. He also offers an appraisal service for those odd coins you've found.

While providing a rich history, coin collecting also offers an investment in the future. Stop by the Five Star Trading Company booth this weekend and let George and Genevieve tell you how.

4-Wheel Drive

Four wheel fever began as a purely west coast phenomenon in the early 70's. Its attitudes and expressions as with its participants, are pure American pioneer. Freedom, love of the land, and exploration are the catch words of four wheelers everywhere.

Incorporated in May of 1977 Manchester 4WD Center was the inspiration of Anton Mayer of Manchester. A life long off road enthusiast his dream was to start a business dealing only with accessories, installations and repairs of 4 WD vehicles. With his partners David Wilson and Alex Urbanetti Manchester 4WD center became the second only 4 WD Center of its kind in Connecticut. Today there numbers over 20.

Manchester Four Wheel Drive Center, located at 248 Spruce St. along with its wholesale counterpart Northeast

Distributors, is a Connecticut distributor of husky products, track four products and cubic lights. They deal in Burbank and Rancho suspension products, Trailblazer and Goodyear tires, appliance and western wheels, Meyer snow plows and Maring sunroofs to name a few of the lines available.

For the truck or van owner seeking after market accessories or replacement parts, liberal discounts from list are the rule rather than the exception at Manchester 4WD Center. Knowledgeable salespeople are at the customer's service to help in selection of the myriad of products available. Installations and vehicle repairs are expertly done on the premises. Manchester four wheel drive centers convenient hours are 9 to 8 weekdays, 10 to 4 Saturdays, 248 Spruce St. 649-0261. Stop By.

Channel Home Centers At A Glance

Our business is a retail chain of close to 50 full service home center outlets that cater to the do-it-yourselfer's every need. We offer our customers a choice of over 50,000 products in our lumber, building materials, paint, plumbing, hardware, electrical, and lawn and garden departments, coupled with reputation for service, quality and community involvement - everything to repair, protect and beautify the home.

Originally founded as a lumberyard and millwork operation, Channel has been serving customers in New Jersey and Pennsylvania for 70 years.

New York now has a Channel Home Center, too. Located in North Massapequa, it is the first of several targeted New York-based outlets.

Channel is a chain on the move! Watch for new stores in new territories in the coming years.

Channel is a wholly-owned subsidiary of W.R. Grace & Co., a $4 billion manufacturing and retail corporation.

Our philosophy is that Channel Home Centers are designed for organized one-stop shopping. Assembled under a single roof, the store's host of specialty shops recapture the warmth and intimacy of small, home town boutiques, while giving customers the depth of product mix only a do-it-yourself department store can offer.

Our future is that Channel Companies has made a commitment to continue the quality retailing tradition it inaugurated 70 years ago. The future will see Channel realize its potential as an industry leader, dedicated to serving the customer and his community.

Creative School of Hairdressing

Here at Creative School of Hairdressing we have assumed the obligation of preparing our students to enter the field of beauty culture, by providing a realistic educational and training experience. In keeping with this concept we feel the ability of our students is dependent upon the caliber of our staff, therefore we bring to the students, instructors that are constantly enhancing their abilities by continuing their education. In order to bring to the student the latest in fashion trends and technique, our staff studies in Europe and throughout the United States attending schools, seminars, and beauty shows. We stress learning by doing, actual on-customer training to simulate salon conditions. This method combined with classroom fundamentals gives our students the judgment and confidence necessary to attain responsible positions in the beauty culture industry. Creative School of Hairdressing has two locations, one at 80 Main St. Manchester and the other located on the Silas Deane Highway in Rocky Hill. The Rocky Hill School offers in addition to hairdressing a complete course in skin care and make-up. Janet Simon, the directress of training of the professional make up and skin care course has studied in Montreal, Paris, Europe and throughout the U.S. She is an accomplished make-up artist and a well trained instructor in this relatively new field. In addition to teaching, Janet has given many lectures on make-up and skin care. If a career in hairdressing or make-up and skin care is in your future, stop in, look around, we're sure you'll consider the Creative School of Hairdressing.

Pratt & Whitney Aircraft Group

MANCHESTER, CT. — Pratt & Whitney Aircraft Group of United Technologies will have a major display of the company's products at the Manchester Chamber of Commerce Product Show November 17 and 18 at Manchester High School. The booth, which will be manned by Pratt & Whitney Aircraft personnel throughout the two-day show, will have scale models of the JT9D engine and a Boeing 747, which is powered by the JT9D, and large transparencies of the JT9D, the most widely used jet engine in airline history; the Air Force's General Dynamics F-16 fighter, powered by the P&WA F-100 engine, and the new European Airbus Industrie A310, also powered by the JT9D. Paul E. Willhide of Manchester, who is vice president of personnel and industrial relations of the Manufacturing Division of Pratt & Whitney Aircraft, said the company's participation in the show is an indication of the interest P&WA has in the Town of Manchester. Altogether, Willhide said, 2,857 United Technologies employees live in Manchester, and 2,341 of them work at Pratt & Whitney Aircraft. This is a gain of 228 people, or nearly 10 per cent, in P&WA employment of town residents in the past year. In addition, the company utilizes 160,000 square feet of space at two facilities in Manchester, and does business with 75 separate vendors who are located in Manchester. "In 1979, as of the end of September, 37 of these contractors received payments of $17.5 million, and we expect this total to exceed $23 million by the end of the year," Willhide said. "This is an increase of about 34 per cent over the $16 million in payments to Manchester contractors in 1978." In the field of community contributions, Willhide continued, Pratt & Whitney Aircraft's $50,000 gift to Manchester Memorial Hospital this year brought the total given to the hospital by the company over the $1 million mark. In addition, the corporation donated $8,500 to the Manchester Little Theater this year. The company also cooperates with Manchester Community College, where 379 employees are taking courses, including 147 graduate apprentices seeking associates degrees.

Air Care N.O. Nelson Distributor of Energy Products for Greater Conn.

As the Autumn of '79 winds to an end, the cold, crisp days of winter are just around the corner.

And that means many Connecticut homeowners are calling in their heating oil dealers to have the efficiency of their furnaces or boilers checked.

"Before doing that, however," advises Wm. Steen, distributor of Blueray Systems, Inc., a national manufacturer of high-efficiency oil furnaces and boilers, "homeowners should learn some of the most common terms used by the dealers. It could mean savings of time and money."

Following is such a list.

• Boiler - An independent home-heating unit in which water is heated and then pumped throughout the house.

• Furnace - An independent home-heating unit in which air is heated and then blown through the house.

• Steady-State Efficiency - Efficiency is how well oil actually serves to heat the home (rather than escape up the chimney). Efficiency is expressed as a percentage. Steady-state refers to a condition where the boiler or furnace is running continuously. Today's technology allows up to 88 percent continuous - or "steady-state" - efficiency. It can be measured in the home by most fuel oil dealers and heating contractors.

• Seasonal Efficiency - A more meaningful (and lower) efficiency rating which takes into account heat lost up the chimney each time the burner shuts off. It is a more direct measure of annual fuel use than steady-state efficiency.

• Burner - That portion of the heating unit that delivers the fuel and air to the combustion zone.

• Heat Exchanger - The device that transfers heat in controlled quantities from the combustion zone to either cooler water or cooler air (depending on boiler or furnace).

• Payback Period - The time in which a homeowner can receive - in savings - the cost of the investment. For example, if you buy a $1,500 furnace that saves $300 a year over the previous unit because it is more efficient, the payback period, all things being equal, would be five years.

"Just knowing these key words and terms could help you save time and money when assessing your furnace or boiler," Mr. Steen comments.

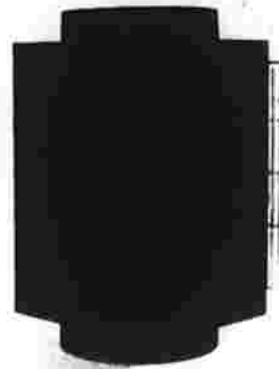

For more information on heating efficiency and new blue-flame technology, write or call Air Care N.O. Nelson, 160 Hartford Road, Manchester, Conn. 633-1723.

THERMALLY ACTUATED VENT DAMPER

MONEY SAVER: The AMERI-THERM Vent Damper saves on gas heating bills according to Wm. Steen, President - Air Care N.O. Nelson.

During cold weather, heated air inside the home normally escapes through the venting systems on gas water heaters and furnaces. With the installation of this unit, the heat loss is greatly reduced. This product operates automatically, is easily installed and pays for itself. The performance of this unit has been tested in two million installations in Europe over the last ten years.

Should you invest in a new Blueray oil-burning heating system?
The U.S. Department of Energy did.

Like any company with a revolutionary, energy-saving idea, we needed financing to help us develop it commercially. That's why we asked the U.S. Department of Energy for a development contract.

But the Department wanted to test the Blueray oil burning systems for themselves. Brookhaven National Laboratory, for the Department of Energy, tested a Blueray system and felt that the technology would save oil. Blueray was awarded a development contract to speed the product's availability to homeowners.

The project was managed by Brookhaven National Laboratory. Preliminary field test results (75 gallons/hr.) showed Blueray can cut oil heating bills an average of 38% over the course of a heating season when a Blueray boiler replaces boilers of the types found in many homes.

The tests were run by Blueray for Brookhaven National Laboratory under Brookhaven's contract with the U.S. Department of Energy.

Brookhaven National Laboratory said, "The Blueray system is promising not only because it is very efficient, but also because it recirculates combustion gases to produce a blue flame, resulting in soot-free operation."

With oil savings as large as ours, your Blueray furnace or boiler could pay for itself in less than 4 years on the average, and much sooner if oil prices rise.

And once it's paid for itself, your Blueray unit can go right on saving for years to come.

To learn more about these revolutionary heating systems, call the authorized Blueray dealer nearest you.

Rheem cuts
fuel waste
two ways

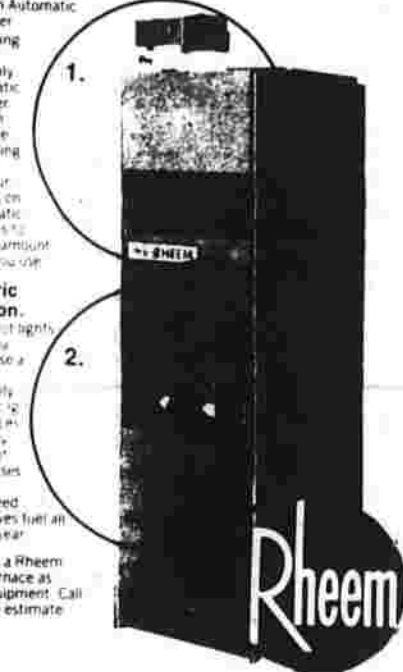

1. Vent Damper.

The Rheem Automatic vent damper prevents heat from escaping up the vent unnecessarily. The automatic vent damper closes when your furnace isn't operating and opens when the furnace starts up. This automatic action works to reduce the amount of heat you lose.

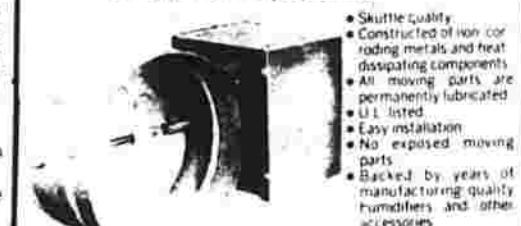

2. Electric Ignition.

Gasoline pilot lights burn rapidly and use a lot of fuel unnecessarily. The electric ignition system requires no continuous burning pilot lights and uses energy only when it's needed. That saves fuel all during the year.

Get both on a Rheem Imperial Furnace as optional equipment. Call us for a free estimate.

To Manchester Product Show Visitors and Exhibitors:

On behalf of the Greater Manchester Chamber of Commerce I would like to publicly acknowledge the Manchester Evening Herald and extend our sincere appreciation for the guidance and support the Herald has offered on behalf of the 1979 Manchester Product Show.

Since the early spring of 1978 when publisher Ray Robinson first proposed the Product Show concept to the Chamber, the Manchester Evening Herald has been a key supporter of this major undertaking. The professional guidance and expertise offered by the Herald has played a significant role in ensuring a first class operation. Since we had little experience to draw upon from within our organization, the contributions of the Herald staff proved invaluable.

The Manchester Product Show has grown rapidly from a suggestion in the Chamber board room to a major community event involving scores of businesses and local groups, hundreds of volunteers and workers, and thousands of show visitors. We thank the Herald for helping make this possible.

Cordially,

James C. Breitenfeld

ERA Lesperance Real Estate & Insurance

Lesperance Real Estate & Insurance, founded more than 40 years ago by Charles Lesperance, is a name synonymous with real estate in the town of Manchester. Carrying on in the tradition of his father, Alfred J. Lesperance, and his wife, Jeannette Dubaldo Lesperance, they offer a full service real estate and insurance agency to promote the well-being of clients from appraisal through relocation & sales.

ERA Lesperance Real Estate, through its national affiliation with ERA (Electronic Realty Associates, Inc.) can provide clients with instantaneous pictures of homes currently on the market from all over the country. In the same manner ERA Lesperance can market your home to the 40% of the home buying market which is coming in from out of town. In addition their relocation service puts you in direct contact with the ERA agency located in the area you are planning on relocating.

With all the concern for buyer protection, ERA Lesperance is proud to offer one of the best warranties in the field today. ERA's Home Buyers Protection Plan protects you against the cost of repair or replacement of most major home components for a full year from date of sale. It covers all built-in appliances, central heating, central air conditioning, duct work, electrical systems, plumbing systems, water heaters and water softeners. And no matter how high or numerous those costs, you're protected; the most you ever pay is a modest applicable deductible. In addition the ERA's Home Buyers Protection Plan is a Home Sellers Protection Plan during the listed period. ERA Lesperance also offer clients mortgage life insurance and guaranteed sales.

While at the Manchester Product Show, be sure to see our insurance display. It could change your life. Lesperance Agency Inc., 457 Center St., Manchester, Ct., your local specialist in insurance & investment planning, will provide you the opportunity to make your financial future what we all want it to be. By allowing our staff to assist you in planning tomorrows financial freedom, TODAY! TOMORROW COULD BE TO LATE! WE CAN HELP.

When do you need a Realtor?

Any time you're involved in a real estate transaction. Remember, Realtors® are skilled in serving the real estate needs of all Americans. So, for your real estate needs, look for the symbol of a Realtor®

Pride in, respect for, the property of America.

Let our reputation go to work for you

More people buy and sell homes through CENTURY 21 than through any other real estate sales organization. That's a lot of friends who can be influenced by an ad on this page. Whether you're buying or selling, let our reputation go to work for you.

We're the Neighborhood Professionals.

A REALTOR because you can't anticipate everything when you're buying a home.

REALTOR Not all real estate agents are REALTORS. REALTOR is a registered collective membership mark which may be used only by real estate professionals who are members of the NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF REALTORS® and subscribe to its strict Code of Ethics. There are more than 500,000 in all 50 states, Guam, Puerto Rico, and the Virgin Islands, Canada and Jamaica. To find one, look for the emblem.

REALTOR® has already inspected the homes he shows and knows in advance what needs to be done.

FIRST HOME? What you read in the self-help books isn't necessarily true in your market. Then what do you do? A REALTOR® already has the information you need for here and now.

SINGLE? House or condominium? Close in or business? Large downpayment or small? What are your rights under the Equal Credit Opportunity Act? A REALTOR® understands the unique problems of single home buyers and will help guide you safely through the complexities of closing.
