3 Hostages Leave Iran For America

TEHRAN, Iran (UPI) — Three American hostages freed at the order of Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini headed home today and President Carter demanded the rest of the U.S. Embassy captives be released immediately.

The Pars News Agency reported that 10 more hostages also would leave Tehran today.

The hostages already freed, a 22-year-old woman and two black U.S. Marines, were the first of 13 to benefit from Khomeini's order granting "Islamic mercy" to the "oppressed blacks" and women.

In Washington, the White House issued a statement by Carter bluntly demanding the immediate release of all U.S. hostages in Iran and warned that putting them on trial as spies would further fire "worldwide outrage."

The statement referred to an order by Khomeini that hostages accused of spying would face Islamic justice unless the United States surrenders the shah.

"The specter has been raised of other American diplomatic hostages being placed on trial," the statement said. "Such a step would be a further flagrant violation of elementary human rights, religious precepts and international law and practice."

The president kept in touch with his foreign policy advisers from the nearby Camp David retreat where he was spending Thanksgiving week.

The hostages ordered released — eight blacks and five women — were among 62 Americans seized during the takeover of the U.S. Embassy 16 days ago. The remaining 49 were reported still to be held because Khomeini refused to free them unless the shah is returned to Iran.

The three American hostages, who were paraded before reporters Sunday, arrived in Frankfurt today after a stopover in Copenhagen aboard a Scandinavian Airlines System flight. They were driven to a U.S. Air Force base at Wiesbaden, where they checked into the hospital for a medical examination.

Those hostages are Catherine Gross, 22, of Cambridge Springs, Pa., and Marine Sgts. William R. Quarles, 23, of Washington, D.C., and Ladell Maples, 23, of Earle, Ark.

The SAS plane with the three freed Americans took off from Tehran's international airport at 8 a.m.

Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini said Sunday the remaining Americans in captivity could be put on trial for spying unless the cancer-stricken shah was extradited to Iran.

The 79-year-old religious leader Saturday ordered the students to release black and women hostages not suspected of spying because all the world's blacks are "oppressed" and Islam grants "special rights" to women.

The releases came on the 16th day of the ordeal that has become a delicate war of nerves between Washington and Tehran, with the U.S. banning oil imports from Iran and freezing Iranian assets in U.S. banks.

The deposed shah is undergoing medical treatments in a New York hospital and the State Department has refused to return him to Iran. Mexico has said he would be granted another visa to return to that country. President Sadat of Egypt also has offered him asylum.

After hearing of a threat of possible spy trials for the hostages, a White House official in Washington warned Sunday that placing U.S. diplomatic personnel on trial would be "in violation of the basic standards of international law."

The official also recalled President Carter's statement last week that Iranian authorities would "be held accountable" for illegal actions.

With pictures of Khomeini and anti-American banners as their backdrop, the three hostages released today were brought out Sunday before reporters in the embassy compound. They sat on makeshift stage table, flanked by Moslem students.

Ms. Gross and Maples, both in Iran since October, confirmed they had signed a petition, publicized earlier by the students, calling on the U.S. government to return the shah to Iran.

Ms. Gross said her captors had asked her to relay a message to the American government about the Iranian revolution and about the shah. "I have already said I would relay the message," she said, adding, "I feel the revolution is a great for the people."

"Our conditions here have been very good and we haven't had any problems," said Ms. Gross.

Asked how he had passed his time in captivity, Maples said almost nonchalantly, "In the last two weeks, I've slept a lot and I've read a lot of books. I've been eating a lot, too much I would think."

Quarles, in Iran since September, said he had made friends among his captors and they told him about things that had been done during the shah's regime. "I was saddened about things that happened during the shah's regime," he said.

Khomeini told NBC's John Hart Sunday the Americans were safe as long as there was a possibility the deposed shah was returned to Iran to stand trial for treason.

But if the crisis dragged on and if relations with the United States were ruptured, Khomeini said, any of the remaining American men in captivity believed to be spies would be put on trial.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Only a fraction of Army recruiters engage in malpractices such as giving test answers to recruits, falsifying records and covering up arrest records and physical disabilities. Brig. Gen. Donald Connelly said today.

In testimony prepared for a Senate armed services subcommittee hearing on the recruiting problems, Connelly, deputy commander of the Army Recruiting Command, said more than 90 percent of Army recruiters had been exonerated by an investigation into recruiting practices.

Army Secretary Clifford Alexander Jr. blamed low pay for the difficulty in attracting enough recruits.

"No matter how skilled our recruiters are, and how carefully we structure our career programs, the Army just cannot recruit without the incentives to attract — and keep — young people who are motivated to serve but who simply cannot afford to make a significant financial sacrifice," Alexander said.

In a statement to the committee, Alexander said the 1979 fiscal year, which ended Sept. 30, was "a difficult recruiting year" for the Army.

"Active Army recruiters contacted over 1 million young Americans and recruited more than 140,000," he said. "This number, which was 7,700 more than were recruited in fiscal 1978, was 16,400 short of the fiscal 1979 objective."

Alexander blamed the shortfall on a failure "to make military service attractive in today's economic environment."

In opening the hearings on Army recruiting practices, Committee Chairman Sam Nunn, D-Ga., said the armed services are having difficulty maintaining quality standards among recruits.

"During fiscal year 1979, only 64 percent of all the enlisted were high school graduates — a decline of 10 percent from a year ago," Nunn said.

He predicted the problem will worsen because of a continuing decline in the number of 18-year-olds.

Inspectors Seek Blast Cause

EAST HARTFORD — Electrical and heating inspectors are checking the Willowbrook School's oil burner today to try to determine the cause of a small explosion Sunday morning that forced school authorities to shut down the school for the week.

Deputy Fire Marshal John Gorman said today the explosion occurred because of a malfunction in the oil burner. He said the cause of the malfunction is still undetermined.

The school's 196 students are being based to the Hockanum School this week while the boiler is being repaired. Willowbrook is a kindergarten through grade five school.

Buses will pick up Willowbrook students at the school between 8:15 and 8:30 a.m. this week and return them at the end of the school day.

Gorman said soot apparently clogged up the nozzle of the oil burner. A backup of oil resulted and, when it ignited, it blew away the buildup of soot, he said.

Gorman said officials could not find the air vent that is supposed to let air pass through the boiler. He said there is a possibility that the air vent was clogged up and the burner used up the oxygen supply inside. Officials are also investigating this possibility.

The explosion occurred at 2:58 a.m. on Sunday, he said.

Gorman said the students will attend Hockanum this week. Since students have a half-day on Wednesday and days off on Thanksgiving and the following day, they will not return to Willowbrook until at least Monday, Nov. 26, he said.

He said the school will be kept closed until the heating system is in working order. An electrician will rewire the electrical system.

McKinney Won't Risk Race

NORWALK (UPI) — Rep. Stewart McKinney, R-Conn., deciding not to risk his safe slot in the 4th District, today announced he will not seek the Republican nomination for retiring Sen. Abraham Ribicoff's, D-Conn., seat.

McKinney, expected to seek a sixth term next year, said his health had nothing to do with his decision or his family.

The Pittsburgh, Pa., native underwent heart artery bypass surgery

Jan. 2 at St. Luke's Hospital in New York City. He had suffered a heart attack May 31, 1977, and had taken a three-month leave of absence.

McKinney said he was confident that he would have won the Republican nomination for Ribicoff's seat and subsequently, the election.

"This was a personal decision and you simply can't take a man away from what he likes to do most," McKinney said in a statement.

"...the decision came down to a personal one. I felt relieved of all the pressures, political and familial, and I was able to base this decision on what I wanted to do," he said.

McKinney's announcement leaves the field wide open for James Buckley, former U.S. senator from New York, who has said he's seriously considering the GOP bid for Ribicoff's seat. Buckley now lives in Sharon.

Senate Minority Leader Richard

Bozzuto, R-Watertown, is an all-but announced candidate for the Republican Senate nomination. Rep. Christopher Dodd, D-Conn., is expected to seek the Democratic nomination in that race.

McKinney, 48, who was first elected to Congress in 1970, had originally scheduled his announcement for Oct. 15, but it was postponed unexpectedly with little explanation.

Turkey Is Still a Bargain

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Inflation plagued Americans will find at least one bargain this fall: a Thanksgiving turkey.

The Agriculture Department says nationwide frozen turkey prices are averaging about 10 cents a pound less than last year. In some areas, prices are the same as last year.

The consumer's bargain is not at the expense of turkey producers — the National Turkey Federation says there still is profit to be made in producing turkeys.

Prices are lower this year because supplies are greater. American turkey growers produced a record crop this year, expected to total 158 million birds — 13 percent more than last year.

G.L. Walts of the NTF said American consumption, which is up 12 percent, is almost keeping pace with production.

"The American public is looking at turkey as an everyday meal," he said.

Americans are eating cut-up turkey parts and cured turkey products such as turkey franks and turkey hams, Walts said. He said consumers like turkey because it is high in protein and low in fat and cholesterol.

Consumers who rejected high beef prices turned to pork and poultry, he said. Pork and chicken producers responded with so much production they are losing money, but turkey producers are still in the black.

"The turkey producer's not going on world cruises," Walts said. "At the same time, he's not going to the poor house."

Grocers are able to sell turkeys for less this year even though middlemen's and retailers' costs are up 12 or 13 percent above last year, he said.

In Atlanta, Dennis Singer, an Agriculture Department official in charge of tracking poultry prices, said, "Most prices we've seen so far are 10 cents per pound less than last year."

He said the most commonly advertised retail price for frozen hens nationwide is 69 cents a pound. The

Few Recruiters Break the Rules

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Only a fraction of Army recruiters engage in malpractices such as giving test answers to recruits, falsifying records and covering up arrest records and physical disabilities. Brig. Gen. Donald Connelly said today.

Tougher Tax?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Preliminary moves indicate the Senate is more likely to toughen the pending windfall profits tax than to reduce it below the $138 billion return voted by the Senate Finance Committee.

There has not as yet been a vote on increasing the finance committee's version, which President Carter called a "trillion dollar giveaway" to the oil companies.

But senators who favor a weaker tax lost a vote Friday to cut the general windfall tax rate from 60 percent to 50 percent, and the $3-32 margin indicates considerable strength by those advocating a tougher windfall profits tax.

Under the finance committee bill, oil companies would pay $138 billion in taxes on the windfall profits they earned as a result of the decontrol of oil prices.

The House passed a tougher, $277 billion bill last June.

Plane Explodes

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — A cargo plane carrying 25 pounds of radioactive material and nearly a ton of explosives exploded in flight Sunday, killing the three crewmen and blowing an uninhabited area west of Salt Lake City with debris.

An abandoned airport between Salt Lake City and Magna, Utah, was temporarily sealed off until health officials determined there was no danger from the radioactive cargo — an aircraft gearbox containing traces of Thorium 232.

Coffee Blamed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Thousands of babies may be born deformed each year because their mothers drank as many as five cups of caffeine-filled coffee a day during pregnancy, says the Center for Science in the Public Interest.

The consumer group said Saturday the safest advice for doctors is to give expectant mothers is to swear off coffee, tea and other beverages containing caffeine.

For California motorists, today is an odd day. But the governor amended his order restoring the odd-even plan, permitting motorists to fill their tanks no matter what the day — if they can prove they are 100 miles from home.

Attack Thwarted

TEL AVIV, Israel (UPI) — An Israeli navy patrol killed two Palestinian guerrillas and captured two others on a rubber dinghy off the coast of Israel, thwarting a guerrilla attack on a civilian site, the military said today.

In Jerusalem, two bombs exploded on buses, injuring 11 people, police spokesmen said. No Palestinian group immediately claimed responsibility for the bomb attack.

Odd-Even Plan

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The odd-even gasoline allocation system that ended long lines at California gas stations last summer started again today, but the new round of semi-rations has an important loop-hole for motorists.

The license plate system was ordered restored in 15 counties by Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr., who said he took the step to prevent panic buying and to instill habits of conservation in view of the Iranian oil cutoff.

The meeting came just four days after Mrs. Thatcher revealed in the House of Commons that Anthony Blunt was a key member in a celebrated Soviet spy ring of the 1940s and '50s.

Scientist Knocks Proxmire Awards

Pulitzer Prize-winning microbiologist-author Rene Dubos would like to feed Wisconsin Sen. William Proxmire his "Golden Fleece" — a strand of hair — where Proxmire's lambasting of science is concerned.

The senator periodically gives his Golden Fleece Award to projects he considers a waste of tax money — but, says Dubos in December's Omni magazine, "You have to criticize science at a much more fundamental level than Proxmire does by selecting examples of queer-looking research... All of modern genetics stems from the study of the fruit fly, and it would have been easy to say it was ridiculous to study fruit flies."

Golden Punk

When Melissa Manchester dragged her classical bassoonist father out of retirement to accompany her at an anti-nuclear rally last summer in California, she started something.

David Manchester, a 30-year veteran of New York's Metropolitan Opera, got so carried away by the new wave punk rock sound he's now looking for musically inclined parents of other pop stars — to form a band.

Says he, "We could always call ourselves 'Jerry Atrik and the Greytones' or even 'High School Pressure.' That's New Wave, right?"

Melissa's pop is joining her on a few concert tour gigs — and on High Downs' PBS-TV series "Over Easy," on Nov. 20.

What do the celebrities drive in these days of goldplated gasoline prices? Ralph Ginzburg's monthly Moneywise decided to find out.

Said Dr. Joyce Brothers, "I drive a Volkswagen convertible. It's about as close as you can come to pedaling."

Collector Andy Griffith responded with a fleet — 1959 Rolls Royce, 1938 Buick convertible coupe, 1934 Ford pickup, 1959 Model A, 1928 Ford Phaeton and 1912 Buick Electra.

Cartoonist Gahan Wilson drives an Alfa Romeo Spider "because it's fun."

But it took TV news anchorman Roger Grimby to come up with real economy. Said he, "Since moving to New York City I have not owned a car. Every time I think about getting one, a tow truck drives by."

Quote of the Day

Sen. Adlai Stevenson of Illinois, a 49-year-old inventor who may seek the Democratic nomination if the national convention deadlocks, said Sunday he will not enter the presidential race now. His reason: "It's not the kind of contest I could win. The chemist's all wrong down and including the cosmetics. It just doesn't fit." He added this of the campaigning grind: "I said over and over again, this is a very destructive process. Maybe a process in which only the unfit can survive."

Quiz Helps Determine Your 'Energy Quotient'

NORTH DARTMOUTH, Mass. (UPI) — Three college teachers have developed a quick quiz to help you determine your "energy quotient."

The answers given are the ones which generally apply to most situations.

If you're not sure what is best for you, they suggest you get an energy audit done by a professional.

The Test

1. If you don't now have storm windows and can't afford permanent ones, is it worth while to tape plastic film over the windows for the winter?
2. If you have no insulation in your walls, no insulation in your attic, no storm windows, no storm doors, which of these four areas would give you the most energy savings and so should be taken care of first?
3. You have a limited amount of cash. Should you invest in storm windows or storm doors?

True or False?

1. Turning the thermostat down at night won't save energy because it takes so much more energy to warm the building in the morning.
2. Fireplaces can waste more than they produce.
3. Cutting off the heat to one half of your house reduces your fuel bill by one half.
4. If your income is very low, you're just going to have to pay the high energy bills or be cold.
5. For most people, use of a wood stove offers considerable savings in energy cost.

The actual cost to the consumer of a typical solar hot water system is about $1,000.

It is too late to do something to save energy for this winter.

The Answers

(Score 10 points for each correct answer)

1. Yes. Polyethylene "storm windows" cost less than a dollar each and should save several times that in a single season.
2. Insulate your attic if you can afford it. Warm air rises and most of your heat is lost through an unsealed attic. The other steps are, of course, quite worthwhile.
3. Windows. Heat is lost through and around windows. Just weather stripping doors, an inexpensive 40-cent-per-foot measure, will make a significant savings there.
4. False. It has been calculated that in this region you can save about 7 percent of your energy bill by turning the heat down just 5 degrees for 8 hours each night. If you turn it down 10 degrees, you could save 11 percent. There are inexpensive automatic thermostats available that will do this for you and even turn the heat down automatically during the day while you are away.
5. True. An open fireplace with a crackling fire radiates heat and a romantic feeling to those sitting close by, but it may draw a lot more air from the room that is needed to feed the fire. This warm air escapes through the chimney. Worse yet, the open fire keeps drawing out warm air even after the fire has died down. Yet the fire should not be shut until the fire is completely out and the ashes cold.
6. False. Cutting the heated space in half may usually save about one-fourth to one-third of the fuel. However, that is certainly enough to justify shutting off heat to unused rooms and for many is one of the easiest and most substantial energy-saving measures.
7. False. Weatherstripping assistance is

Police said Steven W. Houser, 17, of 148 Union St., Talcoville, and his wagon left the road, hit x2 posts, and landed in 15 feet of water. Houser and passenger Richard Armstrong, 16, of 114 Prospect St., Rockville, escaped the sinking car; passenger David Michaels, 16, of Orchard Street, Rockville, was rescued by neighbors and taken to Rockville General Hospital. Houser was charged with reckless driving.

HUD Backs City Movement

STAMFORD (UPI) — U.S. Housing and Urban Development Secretary Mumtaz Landrieu says his department encourages the return of city dwellers from the suburbs.

The former New Orleans mayor said, in promoting the back-to-the-city movement, HUD wasn't trying to discourage families from moving to the suburbs.

"But with the energy crisis and with the breakdown of the extended family, housing and facilities in the inner city should be maintained and not duplicated in new construction," he said.

He told a White House Conference on Families hearing Saturday there was "a new generation returning to the center city from the suburbs."

"These people are reinvesting in city property and the government should encourage this private investment in

Bar Opens Its Meeting

HARTFORD (UPI) — Today's meeting of the Board of Governors of the Connecticut Bar Association is the first to be opened to the news media in the organization's 100-year history.

CBA President John Eldred Shields of Norwich said Sunday although the private organization is not subject to the state's "sunshine" laws, it was felt most CBA activities greatly affect public interest and welfare and we have nothing to hide.

Shields said he isn't aware of any other voluntary state bar associations which have invited news coverage of their governing board meetings.

He said today's board meeting in New Haven is the first opened to the media in the 100-year history of the CBA, which counts almost 6,500 lawyer members.

The CBA's quarterly house of Delegates meetings have been open to the media in the past.

Program Fits Holiday Spirit

Gov. Grasso has declared this Thanksgiving week to be "Operation Fuel Bank Week."

The governor's program seeks to help those persons who are proud and work for what they have, knowing they might come out ahead were they in welfare.

WARM THY NEIGHBOR.

It asks everyone in Connecticut to reward this pride and high ethics by doing what can be done to help out these families who are not only in need, but are doing everything they can to help themselves. Many humanitarians often wonder if their gestures are appreciated.

Programs like "Warm Thy Neighbor" deserve the attention of we who can afford to because those who are able, but unwilling to earn their way abuse the benefits set up for the unable. It is particularly gratifying to know the Operation Fuel Bank donations will go to encourage those who are self-sufficient and willing to work.

The Mysteries of the Body: There are two bodies of Jesus Christ. The first He had when He lived among us. The second body is the one He left behind when He "ascended to Heaven."

The Lighter Side Inching Up In The Job Market

By DICK WEST WASHINGTON (UPI)—The latest unemployment statistics compiled by the Labor Department provide no data on the heights of the jobless.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

K, David Rockefeller and Shah: Trio in the U.S.-Iran Debacle

By JACK ANDERSON WASHINGTON — Three unlikely boom companions — Henry Kissinger, David Rockefeller and the shah of Iran — have twice appeared together in the woodpile of an American catastrophe.

In 1973, the shah was the driving force behind the astronomical leap in oil prices. Top-secret documents show that the Nixon administration could have stopped this ruinous oil and especially the American employees of the embassy. The acting U.S. ambassador in Iran, L. Bruce Laingen, cautioned Washington not to admit the shah without preparing "an effective and essential force for the protection of the embassy."

They have pressed for a year to bring the shah into this country; the official told us. "Now he's here and all our worst warnings have come true."

What is the reason for the strong devotion of Kissinger and Rockefeller to the shah? The bond that holds these three disparate men together is pecuniary. Long before Kissinger joined the Nixon administration, he was a paid consultant to the Rockefeller brothers. Now he is back again on their payroll.

Troopers OK Pact With 7% Pay Hike

HARTFORD (UPI) — State police, who recently staged a number of protests over stalled contract negotiations, have narrowly ratified a two-year pact providing annual 7 percent wage increases.

The state police unit voted Sunday 226-225 to accept the two-year contract worked out between union representatives and state negotiators Friday.

The Legislature's Appropriations Committee may take up the contract today, along with the weekend ratification of a three-year pact covering the state's 1,300 prison guards, parole officers and counselors.

A state police union spokesman said the package, retroactive to July 1, had slightly improved fringe benefits over the proposal rejected Oct. 3 by the troopers. However, the state has agreed to meet with the union within 10 days to discuss minimum staffing for patrol duty.

Union President Michael Ruffino said the meeting with state Public Safety Commissioner Donald J. Long and Management and Budget Secretary Anthony Milano was expected to come up with a plan by Feb. 1.

Ruffino said he was disappointed with the low turnout of the 850-member unit represented by the Connecticut State Employees Association.

"I would like to have seen it more one-sided, the vote indicates a lot of people were unhappy with it," he said.

Ruffino said other gains over the Oct. 3 contract that was rejected 276 to 221 were improvements on disability retirement and a reopener clause on wages and working conditions after Oct. 1, 1980.

The troopers, without a contract for almost a year, picketed outside the Capitol Oct. 31 when the Legislature convened a special emergency session. They said they were protesting budget cuts by Gov. Ella Grasso.

The troopers also set up informational picketing at polling booths on Election Day Nov. 6, and staged silent protests outside places where the governor was making appearances.

They also staged a three-day job action in July by declining to issue speeding tickets.

State prison guards, parole officers and counselors Saturday voted overwhelmingly, 84-99, to accept a three-year contract retroactive to July 13.

The 1,300 corrections employees will also receive a $300 bonus recommended by a fact-finder, in the agreement unanimously recommended by the union negotiating team.

If the Appropriations Committee approves the agreements, they could come before the full Legislature for action in the next two days.

New Homes Lead List Of Building Inspector

BOLTON — During the fiscal year 1978-79, a total of 29 new homes were constructed in Bolton; the annual report of the building official shows.

The new homes were included in the 139 building permits issued by Calvin Hutchinson, building official.

Other permits issued during that period included 43 plumbing, 57 heating, 74 electrical, 31 wells, and 114 certificates of use and occupancy.

The estimated value of new construction totaled $1,958,379 and the town collected $12,022 in fees.

Hutchinson, who also serves as deputy sanitarian, issued 47 permits for septic tank systems during the same period.

Hutchinson said that photographs of tank and leaching field installations and the septic system permits, with a diagram of the systems, are now being filed as permanent records at Community Hall.

He said that maintaining a system this way will assist the department and property owners for future pumping of the tanks or repairs to them.

Library Gets Table

BOLTON — The Board of Library Directors has accepted a gift of a handcrafted table for Bentley Memorial Library. The table was made by David Cloutier of Boy Scout Troop 73 to satisfy the requirements of a scouting award.

A hole in a window at the library has been temporarily repaired with epoxy. The library will request funds in next year's budget to replace the window.

The resignation of Margaret Barrio as library assistant has been accepted.

Bolton Annual Report Shows Town Statistics

BOLTON — The annual town report, distributed at the town meeting, shows that 71 marriage licenses were issued in Bolton during the 1978-79 fiscal year.

It also shows 45 births were recorded, 19 males and 26 females. Nineteen Bolton residents died during the year, eight males and 11 females. Of these, four deaths occurred in town and 15 occurred in other towns. Nine persons were buried in the Bolton Center Cemetery and none in Quarryville Cemetery this past year.

The report also shows that the town clerk processed 2,024 records and items. The items included 920 documents in the land records file; 29 tax liens, 47 releases of tax liens and 11 maps, four of which were for subdivisions.

During the year, 603 dog licenses were issued, plus two kennel licenses, four replacement dog tags, and 596 hunting and fishing licenses. Seven of the hunting and fishing licenses were issued free to persons who were older than 65.

The town clerk processed 16 identity cards, filed six liquor permits, six beehive registrations, 13 trade names were recorded and 154 new voters were made.

Teachers' Contract Is Filed with Clerk

BOLTON — The contract between the Board of Education and the Bolton Education Association, for the next two years has been filed in the town clerk's office. It is open for public inspection.

Residents have 30 days from the Nov. 13 date of filing to challenge the contract. More information about the procedure can be obtained by calling the town clerk's office.

Bolton Meeting Set On Aiding Refugees

BOLTON — A meeting will be held Tuesday at 7:30 pm at Bolton Congregational Church to discuss the possible resettlement of a refugee family in Bolton.

Residents who would be willing to help in any way are asked to attend the meeting.

If there is enough interest Bolton may "adopt" such a family.

Help will be needed with teaching the English language, transportation, clothing, housing and employment.

The meeting is being sponsored by the Bolton Ecumenical Council.

Experts Give Report

Shroud Appears Authentic

The leader of a group of scientific experts who studied the Shroud of Turin (shown in file photo) in Italy last year says all evidence collected so far indicates the burial cloth was used to wrap Christ's body. (UPI photo)

WOONSOCKET, R.I. (UPI) — The leader of 40 scientific experts who studied the Shroud of Turin in Italy last year says all evidence collected so far indicates Jesus Christ's legendary burial cloth is authentic.

"Every one of the scientists I have talked to believe the cloth is authentic. Some say maybe this is a love letter, a tool he (Christ) left behind for the analytical mind," Thomas D'Muhala said.

There is growing circumstantial evidence the image was "projected" on the cloth — perhaps by a brief flash of radiation emanating from all parts of the body, he said.

As a result of the studies, one Jewish scientist on the team converted to Christianity, D'Muhala said.

D'Muhala, president of Nuclear Technologies Corp. in Amston, Conn., made his comments at a Saturday meeting of the Full Gospel Businessmen's Fellowship.

The extensive testing over six days in October 1978 included X-ray fluorescence, surface sampling, photographic computer analysis and image enhancement and carbon dating.

"We all thought that we'd find it was a forgery and would be packing our bags in a half-hour. Instead, all of us who were there, at least all those I talked to, are convinced that the burden of proof ... is now on the skeptic," D'Muhala said.

The participating scientists have first claim on releasing results of their own experiments in scientific journals. Until they are published project members are bound to confidentiality. Some of the major and most startling finds are yet to be released, he said.

The team included "born-again" Christians, atheists, agnostics, Protestants, Catholics and Jews.

The Shroud is a yellowed strip of linen measuring 14 feet long and 3 feet 7 inches wide. It was found in France in 1350 and is now kept in a silver casket in a chapel in Turin.

None of the experiments so far shows evidence that the image of Christ was painted on the shroud, D'Muhala said. Some past theories suggested the image was brought about by the body — anointed with oils and spices being pressed against the cloth. So far, D'Muhala said he is unaware of any traces of spices being found on the cloth.

All scientific evidence seems to point toward the theory that a burst of energy from the body scorched the cloth, he said.

The technique is based on physics law that radiation rapidly diminishes as it leaves its source, at the rate of the square of the distance.

Thus, radiation emanating from a nose pressed directly against the front of the cloth would produce a darker scorch than radiation emanating from an ear set back a few inches.

Taking into account corrections for cloth distortion, the computer specialists were able to construct a statue with lifelike detail, D'Muhala said.

"The same technique just wouldn't work with a photograph," he said.

Equine Dentist Uses Kindness

By JAMES V. HEALION

WESTBROOK (UPI) — Horse dentist Bill Robinson stepped into the wary thoroughbred's stall with the easy assurance of the born animal lover who knows kindness and a firm hand always do the job better than violence and brute force.

He's a solid man of 42 out of Foster, R.I., deep-chested and broad shouldered, with muscled arms and strong hands. He knocked around racetrack stables as a kid, and developed his unusual skill. Ordinarily left-handed, he is ambidextrous out of necessity.

He puts on a rubberized glove he devised himself, which protects his hand from the horse's nail-sharp teeth. He dips his gloved hand into a bucket of water, which contains his tools — a foot-and-a-half offset rasp, files and pliers. Robinson runs his gloved hand smoothly into the horse's mouth, cranking it open. He says he can feel the tension flowing from the big horse as it bites down and the rasp is inserted.

He uses his 185 pounds to help position the horse's rump against the back of the stall so he's closest to the stall door. He has his toe in a restraining strap that reaches from the floor to the stallion's head, and talks easily to the animal.

The horse is Blarney Yall, a $35,000 show jumper and stud whose father is Penowa Hullah out of a mare named Grandchild. Blarney won his final race by 10 lengths at Delaware Park. He is 16.3 hands high — four inches for each hand as the count goes — and that's just at the shoulder.

"Relax. Your life won't end here today," says Robinson, a native of Cambridge, Mass., whose voice is steady and soothing. "I'll be good if you'll be good."

Blarney's owner, Jane Dow Whalen, says at the stall door, answering for the horse which she has had for six years. Mrs. Whalen owns the 48-stall Westbrook Hunt Club where Robinson is making his rounds.

The horse is gradually settling down as Robinson works, using his voice and movements as a tranquilizer. He tells curious bystanders how he communicates with horses.

"They hear my voice and the way it comes out, but they don't understand a bloody thing I'm saying, but they understand I'm easy with them." He senses what Blarney is trying to convey from his actions, his laid-back ears, his eyes, and the way the horse feels to his touch.

"Well, he knows who I am. That's the funny thing. I've worked on him. But he never knows for sure if I'm going to be the same as last time. He thinks I'm going to explode on him. So he has one eye cocked and he's just not too sure about me."

State's GOP Teen-Agers Favor Buckley Candidacy

HARTFORD (UPI) — Connecticut teen-age Republicans are more impressed by the comments of former U.S. Sen. James Buckley than the man he may challenge for the U.S. Senate.

Buckley and Senate Minority Leader Richard Bozatto, R-Waterbury, who is running for one of Connecticut's U.S. Senate seats next year, met Sunday with about 30 delegates to the Connecticut Federation of Teen-Age Republicans.

Buckley, a former Conservative Party U.S. Senator from New York, reaffirmed he is considering a bid for Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff's seat but hasn't yet reached a decision.

Buckley told the Republican teens the United States should support criticism of Iran when American hostages are no longer being held in Tehran.

"I have to be prepared for the unexpected. You heard that noise just now? Well, he moved, but I didn't. For me, the best move is no move at all," Robinson said, smiling a white, even smile.

"Horses are magnificent animals. You have to be firm but easy with them," Robinson said as he used the rasp against Blarney's teeth to smooth the sharp edges that could cut into his jaw, affect his feeding, and wreck his head carriage, a factor in judging show horses.

His arms tell him how far along he is in his work as he moves from stall to stall, and each horse tells him a different story.

"This horse doesn't want me to put my foot in this strap and restrain her. It horrifies her. They all look for kindness. That's the big thing. If you treat them with respect and kindness — always a firm hand, they'll respond. They're just asking for a little edge. They don't want to be abused."

Bozatto said Sunday the situation had turned around.

"Things have changed," he said. "I have a different viewpoint. His people have been talking to leaders in each Congressional district."

Buckley, who lost his Senate seat to Democrat Daniel P. Moynihan in 1976, said Sunday he had spoken to several state groups, but had done "nothing systematic" to determine his chances in a possible race.

He said he has been told he would be a "very viable candidate."

He said he was still mulling family considerations that will determine if he will run and will make a decision before the end of the year.

Buckley said "there's no point in keeping anyone dangling," but added, "there's no reason why I should commit myself before I've thought things out."

Something must be done after all this is over to show that we don't take this kind of humiliation lightly," Buckley said.

"The position we have found ourselves in would have been un-

Old Footprints Man's Ancestor

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A scientific expedition in Kenya has scored a "paleo-anthropological hole-in-one" — the discovery of seven footprints believed to be the oldest made by a direct ancestor of man.

Scientists say the footprints, found on the shore of an ancient lake in the African country, are 1.5 million years old. They were discovered during a routine geological study of Lake Turkana, about 350 miles north of Nairobi.

The footprints were uncovered by scientists working on the Koobi Fora Research Project of the National Museums of Kenya between August 1978 and July 1979. The group waited until the excavation of the footprints was completed before reporting their discovery.

"We made our find purely by chance while we were digging in a geological trench," said Dr. Anna K. Behrensmeyer, co-leader of the expedition.

The scientists say radiometric techniques have determined the footprints were made 1.5 million years ago during the time of two known forms of hominids or humanlike creatures: Homo erectus and Australopithecus. Both walked upright.

Patriots Display Character and Talent in Win

FOXBORO, Mass. (UPI)—One week ago he had been humbled, questioning his team's motivation, character and talent after its worst nose-dive in seven years. New England Patriots Coach Ron Erhardt could only hope his club showed its true mettle Sunday after last week's humiliating 45-10 loss to Denver. But if anything can be said about the Pats, it's that they have an undeniable talent for looking admirable and embarrassment straight in the eye and coming away smiling.

"It seems like we like to get our backs against the wall and fight our way out of it," remarked New England guard Sam Adams. "But that's not a good habit to get into."

New England stormed back to crush the Baltimore Colts 50-21 and move into sole possession of first place in the AFC East. The win coupled with Miami's 30-24 loss to the Browns, gives New England a division-leading 8-4 record.

It was the second time this year New England had amassed 50-plus points in a game, the other being the 56-3 rout of the Jets in September. But the latest offensive show couldn't have come at a better time.

"One thing I think you really, really showed, is that it's all right to be embarrassed," Erhardt said. "It's all right to be embarrassed. It's all right to be embarrassed. It's all right to be embarrassed."

Erhardt said, "It's all right to be embarrassed. It's all right to be embarrassed. It's all right to be embarrassed."

awoke for 240 yards, including 116 by Horace Ivory, the first 100-plus yard individual effort of the year. The passing game clicked in the first half, when the Pats built up a 26-point lead.

The special teams blocked a punt for a touchdown and returned another for a score. And the defense, while allowing Greg Landry to hit a Schaefer Stadium record 26 passes for 230 yards, had five sacks and kept the game in control.

"I was very disappointed with the performance of my team," said Colts' Coach Ted Marchbroda, "but I thought we were ready. Obviously we weren't. We just let down after the first period."

New England took a 15-7 lead on a Don Cotton 1-yard run and upped it to 20-7 on a Steve Grogan to Harold Jackson pass. The Colts were demoralized.

"I just knew there was going to be a stop, there always is on returns," Morgan said. "I didn't get into that. I knew one thing, I was excited. Everything feels good, especially after last week. We just had to get that game out of our heads and concentrate on Baltimore. And we did just that."

One More Obstacle For Crimson Tide

NEW YORK (UPI)—There remains just one more obstacle for top-ranked Alabama to conquer before the Crimson Tide gets an invitation to the Sugar Bowl—the Auburn Tigers on Dec. 1.

A victory over the Tigers would give Alabama the Southeastern Conference title and an automatic trip to New Orleans on Jan. 1. Should Auburn spring an upset, the win in Georgia, a 35-13 loss to Auburn Saturday, could tie Alabama for the SEC crown and would be awarded the Sugar Bowl bid because the Tide went last year.

The other Sugar Bowl representative will be either sixth-ranked Texas or ninth-ranked Arkansas, both now tied with Houston for first place in the Southwest Conference. The winner of the SWC will be the host team in the Cotton Bowl and will face the Big Eight runner-up—either second-ranked Nebraska or No. 7 Oklahoma.

"Though we will still have to wait at least a week to find out whether it will be Arkansas or Texas as the visiting team in this year," said Sugar Bowl President Robert Fabacher, "they both are great teams and both certainly satisfy two of our basic objectives."

Alabama Coach Bear Bryant was, as usual, honest with his thoughts about the upcoming showdown.

"I guess if we win the Auburn game, we go to the Sugar Bowl," Bryant said. "But if, as we don't beat Auburn, I'd just as soon stay home and play."

The Crimson Tide has played in its share of major bowl games in recent years. But one team that hasn't—Florida State—will be joining some overdue post-season excitement this season.

Coach Bobby Bowden's fifth-ranked Seminoles, who played three very successful seasons in relative obscurity, will go to the Orange Bowl on New Year's night to play either Oklahoma or Nebraska. The Sooners and Cornshiners meet in Norman, Okla., next Saturday, with the winner going to the Orange Bowl and the loser to the Cotton.

After three years of winning everybody seems to think we're Cinderella team," Florida State wide receiver Jackie Flowers said last week. "When we are going to get some credit? When are people finally going to admit we can play with the Nebraska, Oklahoma and Alabama?"

To prove they aren't a fluke team, Florida State went out and routed Memphis State 66-17 Saturday night.

Only Florida—next week's opponent—stands in the way of an undefeated regular season.

In all, four teams from both the SWC and the Big Ten have landed bowl bids, with third-ranked Ohio State securing a spot in the Rose Bowl with an 18-15 victory over Michigan Saturday.

The Sooners and Cornshiners meet in Norman, Okla., next Saturday, with the winner going to the Orange Bowl and the loser to the Cotton.

After three years of winning everybody seems to think we're Cinderella team," Florida State wide receiver Jackie Flowers said last week. "When we are going to get some credit? When are people finally going to admit we can play with the Nebraska, Oklahoma and Alabama?"

To prove they aren't a fluke team, Florida State went out and routed Memphis State 66-17 Saturday night.

Only Florida—next week's opponent—stands in the way of an undefeated regular season.

In all, four teams from both the SWC and the Big Ten have landed bowl bids, with third-ranked Ohio State securing a spot in the Rose Bowl with an 18-15 victory over Michigan Saturday.

Mucker's Catches Spark Tampa Bay

TAMPA, Fla. (UPI)—Tampa Bay wide receiver Larry Mucker caught only two passes Sunday, but he made the most of his chances.

Both went for touchdowns as the Buccaneers routed the New York Giants 31-3 before a record crowd of 70,000 to keep their two-game lead over the Chicago Bears in the Central Division of the NFL.

Quarterback Doug Williams, who upped his touchdown total for the year to 17, hit Mucker with scoring tosses of 10 and 42 yards.

The third-year receiver out of Arizona State has caught only 11 passes in 12 games, but five have gone for touchdowns.

"I've just been lucky," he said. "It's just been the right call at the right time. The ball has been thrown right and it has come out touchdown."

Sandwiched between Mucker's two touchdown catches was a 39-yard punt return for a fumble recovery by linebacker David Lewis that may have been the back-breaker for the Giants.

Johnny Davis added a 4-yard touchdown run in the final minutes of the game after Neil O'Donoghue had kicked a 4-yard field goal.

The New York's only score came on a 21-yard field goal by Joe Delano on the opening series of the second half after the Giants squandered a good scoring opportunity. Steve Odum took the opening kickoff 73 yards to the Tampa 19, but the Giants couldn't move the ball closer.

The victory gave Tampa Bay a record of 9-3 while the loss dropped the Giants to 5-7 and took away their only hope for a playoff spot.

"The loss puts us in a spot where we pretty much are working on next year now," Giants Coach Ray Perkins said. "We knew what we had to win this one and we didn't."

"We were just magnificent," Tampa Bay Coach John McKay said. "The talking is over and we have to listen to all that nonsense."

Entering the game, the Canucks had an 18-6 home record against the Redskins. The Canucks had come in the Montreal Forum—once in the regular season and once in the playoffs.

"Yeah it's a great win—especially for some of the guys that have been here for a while," said goaltender Glen Hanlon, who stopped 24 shots. "I'm sure those guys are happy because they know the younger guys are gonna contribute."

Rick Blythe and Don Seidbauer scored the other Vancouver goals while Rejean Houle also connected for the Canucks.

In other games, Boston edged Hartford 5-4. Buffalo outlasted Montreal 5-4. The New York Rangers beat St. Louis 5-3. Atlanta trimmed Washington 4-2. Minnesota and Chicago tied 3-3. Pittsburgh shaded Winnipeg 5-2, and Quebec defeated Toronto 4-2.

Canucks Snap Jinx Against Canadiens

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Vancouver Canucks had just handed Montreal its first loss ever in the Pacific Coliseum and Canadiens' Coach Bernie Geoffrion was in no mood to talk about it.

"So ask the players what happened," Geoffrion snapped after their third straight victory over the Canadiens for their fourth straight victory. "You guys (the media) sat up there and watched the game just like me. Don't always ask the coach."

So the reporters sought out some players' opinions. They weren't too helpful.

"They played well but what can I say," said Steve Shutt. "Am I supposed to tell you they're in the final against us this year? They're better than last year but you have to play 60 great games all year long."

After Vancouver's Stan Smyl and Montreal's Pierre Larouche traded first-period goals, Thomas Gradin and Jerry Gillis scored eight seconds apart in the second period to put the Canucks comfortably ahead and hand rookie goaltender Richard Sevigny his first loss in three starts.

Entering the game, the Canucks had an 18-6 home record against the Redskins. The Canucks had come in the Montreal Forum—once in the regular season and once in the playoffs.

Two school records were broken by East Catholic swimmers at Saturday's State Girls' Swimming Open Championship Meet at Southern Connecticut State College in New Haven. Junior Claire Viola took second place in the 100-yard butterfly with a clocking of 59.82. It was the first time an Eaglette had cracked the minute mark in the 100. Viola's clocking was also one-tenth of a second off earning her All-American consideration. ## Indians All-Out Effort In Vain, Bow to Windham

By LEN AUSTER
Herald Sports-writer

"It's times like these that train men's souls."

That has to be the sentiment of the Manchester High school team after its performance Saturday against Windham High.

The Indian griders, in perhaps their finest hour of the '79 campaign, fought valiantly against the heavily favored Whippets, only to fall short, 12-7, at Memorial Field.

"Damn, cursed Manchester coach Jack Holik, venting some of his season-long frustration. 'Yes, it was a helluva an effort, you can say that again. They can be proud of themselves today,'" he praised his deceiving 2-7 club.

"Considering they (Windham) were going for the league championship, it was their last game, it was a super effort," Holik continued.

Windham completed its season 7-2 in the CCHL, clinching at least a tie for second place depending on Penney's outcome Thanksgiving Day against East Hartford, and 8-2 overall. Conard High clinched the league title Saturday with a 32-16 win over Hall.

After the Whippets reassumed the lead at 12-7 on a 66-yard run by Rick Gamache with 1:36 left in the third stanza, Manchester threatened twice to go ahead.

The Sabres, starting on the 27, converted two key third down situations to keep alive the 10-7 tie. A 19-yard Tom to Paul Hanley for what appeared to be the first big play and 18-yard John Hanley-to-Ray Tilden-to-Hanley-to Tom McCuskey razzle-dazzle handoff sequence again kept Manchester tied at the Windham 27.

With fourth-and-three at the Whippet 15, Tom flipped to Paul Hanley for what appeared to be a first down. But the measurement showed the Indians inches short.

"I'm not criticizing the officials. Those things happen—damn."

Manchester had to give up the pigskin with 7:19 left but got it back quickly, and in great field position at the Whippet 47, on a short 25-yard punt. Two running plays netted 10

Newington High, displaying an awesome offense, devastated Glastonbury High, 47-13, to capture the CVC football title and earn a berth in the Class LL championship tilt Dec. 1 against an opponent to be determined.

The Indians went off to a 6-0 CVC lead and are 9-0 overall heading into their Thanksgiving Day clash with Wethersfield. Glastonbury winds up its season 1-5 in the conference and 2-6 overall.

"It was a long, hard year for us," stated Glastonbury Coach Ray Nicolette.

Newington held a 20-0 lead in the first quarter. Mike Richards opened the scoring with a 12-yard run. Steve Meucci followed with a 45-yard TD punt, and quarterback Steve Varidios flipped a 49-yard aerial strike to Don Mancini for the third six-pointer.

Varidios and the Indians kept on rolling in the second quarter as he tossed a 54-yard TD aerial to Richards.

Glastonbury got on the board, moving 70 yards in 11 plays, with D.J. Patenaude plunging over from a yard out.

Bears on Move Trimming Jets

CHICAGO (UPI)—The Chicago Bears, still hoping for an NFC playoff berth, have built a four-game winning streak by opening up their offensive attack and by relying on a strong pass rush.

In Sunday's 23-13 victory over the New York Jets, the Bears used those ingredients to keep their limped-up ground attack to keep their winning streak and playoff hopes alive.

Chicago quarterback Mike Phipps, winning for the 10th straight time as the Bears' starter, threw two touchdown passes and led his teammates on three time-consuming drives in the victory over the Jets.

"We knew we were going to have to keep the ball away from them," said Coach Neil Armstrong, whose club improved to 7-5. "We were not conceding anything. We could have thrown more in the game."

Chicago led 14-6 entering the third period when it took charge of the contest. The Bears had the ball for more than 18 of the next 19 minutes while scoring 10 points and putting the game out of reach.

Phipps said the Bears had planned out to establish the ground game but thought they would have to throw the ball more.

"In the fourth quarter, we had to the extent of our preparation," said Phipps, who completed 12-of-18 passes for 117 yards. "I don't know what the statistics show. We got a lot of yardage what the defense was giving us."

Basket at Buzzer Nets' Win Margin

NEW YORK (UPI)—Calvin Natl., like a contestant on the old television show "Beat the Clock," had to look up to see if he had completed his "stunt" in time.

"I looked up and I didn't see any time on the clock," Natl said Sunday after his dunk shot at the buzzer gave the New Jersey Nets a 107-106 victory over the San Antonio Spurs.

"Ed Jordan stole the ball from James Silas with his second left and Natl—the game's leading scorer with 28 points—immediately ran for the other end of the court.

Jordan delivered the ball and Natl, with the clock winding down, scored to help the Nets end an 11-game losing streak to San Antonio.

"I never heard the buzzer and I thought maybe he (official Ed Rush) called it no good," Natl said. "You just go as hard as you can. I could have stuffed the ball, but I didn't want to. I wanted to shatter the basketball. Actually, I had too much 'redman' in me. I had too much anything other than what I did."

George Gervin scored 23 points to lead San Antonio. Larry Kenon added 15.

In other games, Los Angeles hammered Indiana 127-104. Kansas City beat Denver 109-92. Golden State shaded Phoenix 99-96. Portland defeated Seattle 100-85, and San Diego routed Milwaukee 112-96.

Boston's quarter courters at Minnesota scored 23 points to help the team rally past Detroit to hand the Lions their eighth straight defeat.

Rockville 1 Upsets SW

Three touchdowns by Randy Mocadio powered Rockville High to a 24-21 upset victory over South Windham in a battle of traditional Central Valley Conference (CVC) football rivals Saturday in Rockville.

The victory gives the Rams a final 3-3 CVC mark and overall 4-4-2 record. The Bobcats wind up 4-2 in conference play, tied for runner-up honors with Bloomfield, and 7-3 overall.

Rockville scored 12 points in each of the first and fourth quarters to take the decision with Mocadio accounting for the game-winning six-pointer.

Ralph Giannanti was a standout for South Windham as he scored his three touchdowns.

Parsons Triumphs

ONTARIO, Calif. (UPI)—For Benny Parsons, who drove a taxi in Detroit for several years, the Los Angeles Times 500 stock car race should have been very tough.

The speeds are greater but the traffic is much lighter and the road had no potholes.

Parsons took the lead with five laps remaining Sunday and held off a closing charge by Bobby Allison to win the NASCAR Grand National race at Ontario Motor Speedway. His margin of victory was just 42-hundredths of a second in the Grand National season finale.

Turnover Sunday Marks Football

NEW YORK (UPI)—What that about a Super Bowl rematch?

Four weeks ago, when the NFL was halfway into its 16-game regular season schedule, Dallas was sailing through the weak NFC with a 7-1 record and Pittsburgh was 6-2 in the AFC. It looked like Super Bowl XIV would bear a striking resemblance to Super B XIII.

After "Turnover Sunday," however, the Steelers and the Cowboys will have enough trouble winning their divisions.

Pittsburgh and Dallas combined to commit a staggering total of 13 turnovers and allowed 80 points between them as each team lost sole possession of its divisional lead.

Dan Fouts passed for two touchdowns and Woodrow Lowe picked off a Terry Bradshaw pass and sprained 77 yards for another score as the Denver Chargers beat the

Lilliputian Circus World To Get Permanent Home

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (UPI) — The Smithsonian Institution will be the permanent home of a 30-tent circus and the pickpocket who preys on its "customers" when The Tiniest Show On Earth calls it quits after 33 years on the road.

Ernie's Circus, created by Ernie Palmquist and his wife, Virginia, is a wooden replica of the original Ringling Bros. circus — a tiny one, of course. A 6-foot man in Ernie's circus stands just 3 inches tall.

It takes the Palmquists two hours to carve a person and eight hours for an animal.

Palmquist, 72, a former dancer and music writer, and Virginia, 60, a former Ziegfeld Follies dancer, traveled 11 months a year and worked 12 hours a day for more than three decades — motoring Ernie's Circus from one shopping mall, department store or home show to another, in Rochester this week.

"After all this traveling and living out of a suitcase for so long, we're looking forward to just staying home and doing some fishing," said ringmaster Palmquist. "We haven't been at our Florida home near Fort Myers for longer than a month at a time the last 33 years."

"We're like pygmies, except we live a little better," Mrs. Palmquist says. "There are more than 50,000 pieces in Ernie's Circus, including 10,000 animals, 10,000 little people, 2,000

Affluent Part of State Has Bad Housing Crisis

By MARK A. DUPUIS
HARTFORD (UPI) — At first glance, it's hard to see how southwestern Connecticut's affluent Fairfield County could be in the midst of a crisis.

It is home to some of the nation's most prestigious corporations and best-known residents, who have given the area one of the highest per capita incomes in the United States. But it is also home to Connecticut's most acute housing crisis and is in the midst of a problem which the head of a blue-ribbon state panel says could spread to other areas and change the way local agencies decide who lives where.

Put simply, the problem is an influx of upper-income New Yorkers could spread to other areas and change the way local agencies decide who lives where.

That problem, Farricelli said, first came up when his commission held hearings in Stamford. It has since spread to other areas and prompted lawmakers last week to approve a measure aimed at slowing conversions.

Other Fairfield County problems that may spread statewide were those of the elderly looking to move to the city.

Retired couples want to move away from the suburban homes they no longer use in an energy efficient manner because their children have moved away. There is also a growing trend by "post war babies" to buy smaller homes.

In the 1950s and 60s, he said, people wanted "large halls and large yards" as a symbol of affluence. Now, however, they are seeking smaller, energy efficient homes, so they can spend the additional time and money for recreation.

The energy crisis also fueled the housing problem in another way, he said. Suburbanites moved to furnished homes in the inner city areas of Bridgeport, Norwalk and Stamford, where the poor traditionally lived.

"They (the poor) can't afford to move to the suburbs so you push them out to nowhere," he said.

Farricelli said his panel collected over 120 recommendations on how to resolve the situation, ranging from the "very simple to probably some very ridiculous and difficult ones."

One example, he said, was to work toward a state housing program which doesn't always accept federal money when it's available, but rather tailors acceptance of grants on their applicability to needs.

For the poor, that could mean increasing refurbishing of their inner city buildings and so-called "urban homesteading" programs — anything to keep their buildings from being torched.

Another example would be construction of housing units over shopping malls, Farricelli said, since the parking is already there and in some cases, even the recreational facilities.

Defense Spending Gains

HARTFORD (UPI) — Connecticut's heavy military production has allowed the state to receive $1.5 billion more in Pentagon spending than it paid in defense budget taxes.

A survey conducted by a Michigan firm showed that four of the state's six congressional districts provided the net gain because of large aerospace, submarine and weapons productions.

The study by Employment Research Institutes of Lansing, Mich., said of the nation's 35 congressional districts, the Pentagon budget draws money from 306 of them and funnels it into 130 districts, mostly in the south and southwest.

However, Connecticut bucked the nationwide trend, with four of six districts reporting sizeable surpluses.

The 2nd District, home of the Electric Boat Division of General Dynamics, had the largest surplus, $659 million, which was surpassed by only five other congressional districts which lost $278.7 million.

The study concluded "military spending is a principal source of drastic imbalance and inequity in the federal tax burden and budget allocation."

Professor James R. Anderson of Michigan State University, who carried out the survey, said military spending is excessive and "is ultimately an unproductive use and waste of a country's resources once you get beyond the sums needed to defend your shores and help allies."

Small Business Shares Big Business Problems

NEW YORK (UPI) — Small business is big business in the United States. It is responsible for 43 percent of the gross national product and accounts for 58 percent of private sector employment.

Chemical Bank of New York has taken a wide-ranging survey of firms with annual sales between $5 million and $100 million in an attempt to give some voice to what it feels is a neglected segment of the economy.

While the survey was taken in the metropolitan area, Chemical says the fact that smaller businesses in New York serve virtually all of the United States and even foreign markets suggests they are not insular in their thinking.

The survey showed that 71 percent were optimistic about the 1980s. "The small businessman in New York is clearly upbeat," said Robert L. Lipp, executive vice president at Chemical.

He shares some of the worries of big business in inflation, the quality and cost of labor and government regulation - but the small businessman thinks he has some problems that are very different.

The use of the masculine pronoun, by the way, applies in this case. The survey showed the women's movement has had very little impact in the category covered.

Chemical's executive profile: 30 years old, overwhelmingly male, at least college education and an average household income of $106,700. He perceives himself as a manager and entrepreneur.

Even though he is optimistic, problems have been mounting. Government regulations have impeded growth, capital for expansion and new ventures has become increasingly scarce and large corporations have increased their share of the economic pie.

Adequate financing for working capital and growth was cited as the single most important factor in the success of small business.

The survey, covering July through September and taken before the Federal Reserve's new tight credit policy was announced, showed that, of the 63 percent of the sample who sought financing in the last year, 94 percent were successful.

Other highlights of the survey:

- Middlemarket businessmen don't think we are now in a recession, nor have they felt any effects of an economic slowdown.
- Eight out of 10 small businessmen feel they have no effective voice in government.
- Most do not see big business as a threat, nor do they think government should limit size or growth of firms.

Emhart Corp. Reorganizes

FARMINGTON (UPI) — Emhart Corp. has announced a series of promotions in a major reorganization aimed at giving the multinational company "an operating organization with more unified control."

The firm elected two executive vice presidents William C. Lichtentfels, 52, and Stephen J. Ruffi, 52 and elevated nine other subsidiary executives to corporate officers.

Operating units of the subsidiaries, Emhart Industries and USM Corp., will now report directly to Lichtentfels and Ruffi.

T. Mitchell Ford, chairman and president of Emhart, said the reorganization had been under review for about a year with specific development during the past six months.

He said a major reason for the changes was the acquisition of the Maltory Components Group and the pending acquisition of VSI Corp., which will combine to add about $500 million in annual sales and nearly 10,000 employees to the corporation.

Rockville Businesses Destroyed by Fire

By BARBARA RICHMOND
Herald Reporter

VERNON — A fire that broke out early Sunday morning left the 91-year-old Prichard block on Union Street, Rockville, a shambles. It burned out several places of business and left apartment dwellers homeless.

The cause of the fire, reportedly discovered by a nurse who lived in the block which is across from Rockville General Hospital, isn't known. But local fire marshal, William Johnson and state fire officials were going through the remains Sunday to try and determine the cause.

A pall of smoke hung over the center of Rockville Sunday as tenants of the building, assisted by police and firefighters, attempted to salvage a few of their belongings.

Francis Prichard Sr., owner of the building, and his wife were rescued from their smoke-filled upper story apartment by members of the Rockville Fire Department. Fire Chief Donald Maguda said Prichard was unconscious due to smoke inhalation and had to receive mouth-to-mouth resuscitation. He is reported in very critical condition in the Intensive Care Unit at Rockville General Hospital. His wife, also admitted, is reported in good condition.

Another young couple, tenants of one of the five occupied apartments, along with their dog, were brought down a ladder by firefighters. The couple was Kathleen and Hal Vita, Mrs. Vita is the daughter of former Senator Robert Houley. Chief Maguda said only five of the apartments were occupied and only three of the tenants were home when the fire broke out.

All of the eight commercial spaces were occupied, one being used as a storage area. The most severely hit was the Star Hardware Store which was owned and operated by Francis Prichard Jr.

More than 100 firefighters from Vernon, Rockville, Tolland, Ellington, Manchester, Bolton, Coventry and Eagleville were called to the scene by Tolland County Mutual Aid and most stayed at the scene throughout the night. Local firefighters stayed at the scene throughout the day Sunday and police set up a road block in that stretch of Union Street. For a time it was feared that the remaining brick walls might collapse.

Newly elected mayor Marie Herbst was at the scene for several hours helping where needed.

The fire was the second serious fire in that area within the past few months. In August an early morning fire severely damaged the interior of the Union Congregational Church, which is next door to the Prichard block.

The Rev. Paul Bowman, pastor of the church, and chaplain for the Rockville Fire Department, was at the scene throughout the night just going home long enough to catch a cat nap and clean up before conducting his church services Sunday morning.

Pastor Bowman said he called the Salvation Army in Hartford and they came to the scene shortly after and set up a canteen to serve coffee and food to the firefighters.

Stephen Marcham, a member of the Town Council and owner of Vincent's Pharmacy with Fred Aartz, was called back from Cape Cod because of the fire.

He and Aartz were working Sunday to make arrangements to set up the pharmacy in the area formerly occupied by Sears Roebuck Catalog Store, and which was being used for storage by Star Hardware.

Marcham said he hoped to be set up and be prepared to fill prescriptions today as his computer system was unharmed by the fire.

Although the pharmacy wasn't the state to determine if any of the inventory is salvageable. He, like other shop owners, had no idea of the extent of the monetary loss from the fire.

Dr. E. A. Roure, optometrist, who had his office in the Prichard Block for many years, said he suffered a total loss. It also appeared that nothing was salvageable in the hardware store, Belanger's Shoe Store or Gloria's Beauty Salon, all occupants of the building.

Looking to the rear of the block there were gaping holes where the roofs used to be. A clock still hung on the wall of the lower area of the shoe store and around it were hundreds of charred shoes.

The Ladd and Hall Furniture store, located at the east end of the block, was practically untouched by the fire. Maguda said it appeared that the only damage was a little water damage to the upper floor display room.

At the far west end of the block, The Master's Place, a religious book shop, was also virtually untouched, fire officials said.

Maguda said that only one firefighter, Joe Panciko, had to be treated for smoke inhalation at Rockville General. He was just treated and released, Maguda said.

The sidewalk in front of the block was covered with small pieces of glass from the large plateglass storefront windows and the windows of the apartments. Also piled on the walk were small items such as shoes, small rugs, and anything apartment dwellers managed to salvage.

Maguda said this was one of the most serious fires he has had to handle in his 12 years as fire chief. He recalled the fire a few years ago that burned out a seven-building block on West Main Street, and several tenement fires over the years.

Working Women Advised To Protest Sex-Job Bias

HARTFORD (UPI) — Working women have been told to turn their anger over sexual harassment and low wages into political and social action against job discrimination.

At a statewide conference on women and their jobs this weekend, keynote speaker Karen Burstein of the New York State Public Service Commission said women in all job levels have to "raise our voices and make scenes" to protest sexual discrimination.

She said although women make up about 50 percent of the nation's work force, "as a group they are invisible to society."

The major issues facing most working women were direct sexual violence and subtle harassment in the office, "desperately low" wages and lack of affordable day care, she said.

"The society will allow women to work in deprived circumstances until they stand up and fight for themselves," she said after a Saturday speech to about 80 participants.

"Women must articulate their rage, direct that rage and put it to political and social work," the former state senator said.

A major rallying point at the conference was the plight of the "80 percenters" — the 80 percent of all women workers concentrated in the lowest-paying occupations.

Ms. Burstein said the isolation most women feel in a working place strengthens her feeling that even if there are just three women in an office, they should form into a unit.

"That will keep you alive when you're taking on the power structure. In numbers there is a measure of strength," she said.

Connecticut Secretary of State Barbara Kennedy said she has told conferences of successful professional women it is their responsibility to help other women further down the ladder.

The dialogue was sponsored by state agencies, labor and women's groups, several businesses and the University of Connecticut Labor Education Center.

A conference spokeswoman said they hoped to create a statewide task force, which would lobby at the Capitol for effective child care and equal pay for equal work programs.

Coventry's New Council Ready to Meet Tonight

COVENTRY — The newly elected Town Council will hold its first regular meeting tonight at 7:30 in the Town Hall board room.

After a swearing-in ceremony at a special meeting following the election, Roberta Koonz chosen to chair the group, which is comprised of four Republicans and three Democrats, reversing the make-up of the previous council.

Koonz was the top vote-getter for her party in both past elections, with strong support coming from lake-area residents. Her husband Harold Koonz has chaired the Hemlock Point Lake Association, and the couple has been active for years in drives to preserve the water quality of Lake Wangaugaug (Coventry Lake) and other issues of concern to residents of the basin area.

Newcomer to the council Roy McLain will co-chair the council. He ran on a platform of fiscal conservatism and proposed that all foreseeable expenditures be included in the annual town budget rather than appropriated at subsequent town meetings.

Jeffrey Lancaster will serve as secretary. A former secretary of the town's Recreation Commission, Lancaster is also new to the council.

All council officers are Republicans, breaking with the tradition of having at least the vice-chairperson coming from the opposition party. Democratic caucuswoman Joyce Carilli and Karen Nash felt that their party was slighted when former council chairman Jack Miles, who was re-elected, was not chosen for the vice-chairmanship. But Mrs. Koonz said that no one nominated him during the election of officers.

The seventh council member is Republican Laurier DeMars, also serving his first term on the council. He will chair the influential Steering Committee of the council, which sets priorities and makes recommendations to the full council.

McLain was chosen by Mrs. Koonz to head the Finance Committee. A discussion of lake association funding and the distribution of surplus funds to such groups, is on tonight's agenda.

The audience of citizens, which precedes council meetings, may present some pleas by residents for council members to forget their party affiliations and to join together for the welfare of the town.

Resident Dorothy Wilmot in a recent letter chastised Mrs. Koonz for ignoring minority party members at the special meeting. Another resident, Paul Diehl, labeled the factional maneuvering as "petty," and asked the council to be cohesive.

Also on the agenda are a discussion of open space grant funding, a report by the Coventry Lake Park Advisory Committee, and a study of landfill financing. The appointment of a town attorney is under new business. The present attorney, Abbot Schwebel, has served under both Democratic and Republican councils.
