257 Dead In Crash Of DC-10

CHRISTCHURCH, New Zealand (UPI) — An Air New Zealand DC-10 tourist airliner crashed on the cloud-shrouded slopes of Mt. Erebus in the frozen Antarctica today, killing all 257 people on board, including eight Americans, officials said.

It was the third fatal crash of a DC-10 this year and the fifth since the aircraft first came off the assembly line on July 23, 1970. New Zealand's Search and Rescue Headquarters said a U.S. rescue helicopter was unable to land at the crash site because of strong wind currents whipping over Antarctica's only active volcano. But a spokesman said the helicopter's crew reported no sign of survivors amid the wreckage on the 12,500-ft. mountain. Another attempt to land would be made within a few hours, a Search and Rescue spokesman said.

New Zealand police said that in addition to the eight Americans — in all reports had said 12 — the plane was carrying 191 New Zealanders, 24 Japanese, one Australian, one Briton along with crew and other passengers — mostly tourists flying on a regularly scheduled night-seeing tour of the barren wastes.

A U.S. Navy spokesman in Christchurch, where the plane's ill-fated flight began, said those at the scene reported "no apparent survivors."

The flight was believed to be the first commercial aircraft crash in the Antarctic, he said. It occurred one day before the 50th anniversary observance of the historic first-ever flight over the South Pole by Adm. Richard Byrd.

Low clouds covered Mt. Erebus' cinder-cone crater at the time of the crash, possibly accounting for the disaster, the Navy spokesman said.

The rescue helicopters returned to base because of blowing snow in the slopes where winds were increasing, the spokesman added.

Antarctic experts thought it unlikely anyone could survive in the harsh, sub-zero temperatures where the plane went down.

Historic Area Needs Polish

By LAUREN DAVIS SHEA

MANCHESTER — The Cheney Historic District is a diamond in the rough which residents and outside consultants tried to polish at Tuesday's meeting of the districts commission.

The suit between the town and the U.S. Department of Justice, along with traffic congestion in the area, are major stumbling blocks in the effort to bring Manchester's gem to its potential according to consultants hired to aid in that development.

Paul McGinley, vice president of Anderson Nottor Fingold, Inc. of Boston, told residents, "The Cheney project should be a major incentive to make peace with the federal government."

He said the tentacles of the federal government reach out and can prevent the town from getting aid it needs to develop the area. He said such aid would be needed for sidewalks, road improvements and federally guaranteed mortgages.

Judge William FitzGerald, commission vice chairman said in remarks following the meeting that it was unlikely the roadblock presented by the HUD suit would be resolved in a public meeting.

He said concerned individuals would work on the matter in less formal meetings. He said people were uneasy about speaking on the issue in formal meetings because of the possibility of their remarks being misunderstood.

The other major problem was readily discussed in public. The consultants said the Interstate 49-86 connection is important to the development of the area. McGinley said, "The connection won't make the traffic problem go away, but it will minimize conflict and congestion."

In response to a resident's comment that the area already has too many cars and traffic lights without the development, McGinley admitted there could be serious problems. "It could very well be that an office complex would create too many cars. Perhaps for an office complex to be developed a shuttle service of some kind could be worked out," McGinley said.

Office space, factories and residential development are all options the

Iran Students Say Compound Is Mined

TEHRAN, Iran (UPI) — The Muslim students holding 49 Americans hostage in the U.S. Embassy say they have rigged the compound with explosives and President Carter charged the militants act mistreating their captives.

The next major diplomatic move at the U.N. Security Council was postponed until Saturday when acting Foreign Minister Abo Hassan Bani-Sadr is scheduled to arrive in New York for a council debate on the crisis, now in its 25th day.

In Washington, Carter said the treatment of the Americans was "repulsive" and "a disgrace" to everyone who believes in civilization.

Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, in a statement Tuesday from his headquarters in Qom, a city whose airspace was declared off-limits to all commercial airliners, said the hostages, whose "act of espionage has been proven to the Iranian nation," would be put on trial as materials and mined. Therefore, he did not specify when.

The 79-year-old religious leader and the students holding the embassy since Nov. 4 want Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi returned to Iran. In New York, doctors removed another fallstone from the shah's bile duct Tuesday and sources said he may return to his exile home in Mexico by Friday.

A communiqué by the students in control of the embassy said they booby-trapped the compound after receiving information of an attempt to save or hurt the hostages, by American agents scaling the (embassy) walls and dragging people into the embassy of spies. "They said the plot was supposed to be carried out during expected mass rallies Thursday and Friday, Muslim holy days."

It should be said here that the grounds inside the spy-house and the walls around it, particularly where the hostages are being held, are extensively covered with explosive coming near these points in any way should be avoided," the students said.

Other military precautions also were taken by Iranian forces who were readied for a possible general military mobilization as a U.S. Naval carrier force headed toward the nearby Persian Gulf.

Iranian officials warned Altitalia Airlines in Rome that any commercial airliner that strays from its predetermined flight path or not flying high enough over Iran would be shot down.

Carter, who spoke to a group of visiting New England leaders at the White House, said, "The hostages are not being treated well. They've been threatened at times at pistol point and encouraged to make statements contrary to their own inclination."

After congressional leaders were briefed by the president, one senator said Carter made it clear the "honor for the country comes before the lives of the hostages."

Khomeini, in his statement, said he rejected any U.S.-influenced investigation into the crisis and added that any probe into charges against the shah could only be carried out in Iran "because the evidence to the crimes exists in Iran."

"Our nation does not agree with the formation of this so-called Security Council, whose task has already been set," he said of the upcoming debate, although Bani-Sadr will lead the Iranian delegation.

The students appealed to the crowds who gather around the embassy compound daily to "avoid coming near the embassy walls, so that the U.S. agents may be recognized in case of a decision to implement the plot, and receive their punishment."

"She was loud when she walked in the door. No one could understand what she was saying. She was incoherent and the agent tried to take care of the situation. The Secret Service asked her to leave," said Ms. Miller.

"It was then she pulled the knife," which Capitol Police Inspector Gilbert Abernathy described as a 6-inch hunting knife.

The agent, a regular member of the Kennedy protection detail — one is assigned to each presidential candidate — was not immediately identified.

The Secret Service described the injury to the agent as "a nick on the hand with a knife."

Kennedy only recently decided to run for the Democratic nomination against President Carter in 1980. He made the decision after getting the go-ahead from his family, who feared for his life because of the fate of his two brothers.

President John Kennedy was killed by an assassin's bullets in Dallas on Nov. 22, 1963, and Robert Kennedy died on June 6, 1968, one day after he was shot in Los Angeles. Robert Kennedy was seeking the Democratic presidential nomination at the time.

The senator was due to leave on an extended campaign trip later today. Kennedy's suite of offices is located on the second floor of the Dirksen Office Building.

Official Corrects Tax Bill

By LAUREN DAVIS SHEA

Herald Reporter

MANCHESTER — A South Adams Street resident, fed up with the repeated botching of his tax bill, brought his problem to The Herald and then the town's director of finance personally righted the wrong.

Vincent Kelly, who had been billed for his property tax on his motor vehicle by both the town and the Eighth District had thought the problem was resolved.

After he presented his bill to General Manager Robert Weiss at a Board of Directors meeting, Oct. 9, he received a letter stating it was a computer error and he accepted it as, "one of those things." He said then the only thing that bothered him was the "runaround" involved to resolve the matter.

But last week Kelly learned his problems with the tax weren't over, as he received a bill notifying him he was delinquent in paying it. This was despite the fact that Kelly had retained the bills, which had been marked paid on the back by the town's validating machine.

"I want to know who is sleeping up there? Who is holding hands up there? It is sickening if they can do this on a small operation, what do they do with the big bills?" Kelly demanded.

Town Finance Director Thomas Moore said, "It has taken time for all the elements of his problem to come together. One call to the collector's office straightened it all out."

When asked if the town would send Kelly a notice admitting an error had been made, Moore said, "Why should we, he didn't tell us about this error? He went right to the papers. Oh well, we don't usually do it, but we will notify him."

Earlier, Moore had said, "The problem appears to be that he has a bill saying he owes something for which he has a receipt. I am not trying to blame the computer but in a computerized society that can happen. We the town are sorry."

State Sets Bottle Bill Guidelines

HARTFORD (UPI) — Approval of trimmed guidelines for Connecticut's "bottle bill" has assured the ban on non-returnable beverage containers and flip-top cans will take effect as scheduled on Jan. 1.

State officials said Tuesday the starting date was assured with approval of a second set of regulations proposed by the Department of Environmental Protection, spelling out mechanics of the law.

Attorney General Carl Ajello said the first regulations proposed by DEP this fall went beyond what was allowed by bottle bill legislation adopted by the Legislature last year.

Other proposals had gone down to defeat in several previous sessions. DEP legislative liaison Laura Inoué said the new regulations approved by the Legislature's Regulations Review Committee are "about half as long. A lot of things were cut out."

"A lot of the things that were taken out were things that would have made it easier for the industry to implement the law," she said.

The regulations spell out the law's requirement that all types of bottles containing beer, other malt beverages, mineral water and carbonated drinks be returnable and carry a minimum 5-cent deposit.

"They also ban use of flip-top cans and require that all stores which sell beverages make provisions for accepting the returnables."

The regulations will require all bottles containing the covered beverages sold after Feb. 1, 1980 to be labeled as returnable, with specific labeling subject to DEP approval.

The regulations allow the one-month lapse between the start-up date and the labeling requirement so dealers can rid themselves of leftover non-returnable stock.

Anyone can set up a redemption center to collect bottles, but beverage dealers must either accept the returns themselves or have an independent or joint dealers' center within a mile of their business.

Ted Target of Attack

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An "incoherent" woman with a knife entered Sen. Edward Kennedy's office today and scuffled with Secret Service agents guarding the presidential candidate. One agent was cut slightly before the woman was arrested.

The Massachusetts Democrat, whose two brothers were killed by assassins, was in his inner office at the time of the incident, which took place in an outer reception area.

The woman, identified as Susan Osgood, 38, was arrested by Capitol Police shortly after the incident at 10 a.m. EST. The agent was cut slightly on the hand in the scuffle.

"She didn't get anywhere near the senator," said Melody Miller, a spokeswoman for the Kennedy campaign. "We have no idea what she wanted to see the senator about."

"She was loud when she walked in the door. No one could understand what she was saying. She was incoherent and the agent tried to take care of the situation. The Secret Service asked her to leave," said Ms. Miller.

Investigation Plods Along in Radar Officer's Death

By JAMES V. HEALON
NEW LONDON (UPI) — Fishermen try their luck for whiter flounder near where Coast Guard radar specialist Richard Eastman's body and car were recovered in 11-15 feet of water.
They are like the authorities investigating his bizarre death, neither hasty nor impatient.
"We're still plodding along," one investigator said five weeks after he and others were led to Eastman's water grave in New London harbor by Pat Gagliardo, a school bus driver and psychic from nearby Norwich, who said the location came to her in a vision.
Mrs. Gagliardo, the investigator said, will not share in the $5,000 reward approved Oct. 2 by Gov. Ella T. Grasso. It is for information leading to the arrest and conviction of anybody found responsible for the death of Eastman, 49, who some believe went for a barroom stroll the night of April 2.
To his wife Dorothy in Virginia Beach, Va., his daughter, Mrs. William Colestar in Richmond, Va., and his co-workers, Eastman was a devoted family man, a career Coast Guardman on the brink of retirement as a chief warrant officer after 20 years' service.
To barnmaids at the waterfront's 419 Club, the paunchy, bespectacled Eastman was an occasional customer they last saw nursing beers and buying drinks for two young women and a man with whom he left at closing, 12:30 a.m. on April 3.
The three have been questioned more than once.
The man, Larry L. "Taiwan" Brown, 25, was arrested within a few days of Eastman's appearance in the bar after using one of Eastman's credit cards with one of the women in a New London store. He said he found it on the floor of the 419 Club. Brown was sentenced to six months for misuse of the card.
In the months that followed, investigators waited for receipts to trickle in from other missing Eastman credit cards but none did. Divers searched along the waterfront for his government sedan — their search hampered in some places by moored boats.
Investigators received information in mid-October, apparently from Mrs. Gagliardo, who told them where to look. Her information might not have been that precise.
"The divers started searching quite a ways down by the Block Island ferry slip before they worked their way up here," said a witness to the car's recovery on the afternoon of Oct. 16, in waters between City pier and Fishers Island ferry slip, less than a mile from the 419 Club.
He said the windows were rolled up and Eastman's decomposed body was found on the car's front seat.
Authorities said Eastman's 1976 American Motors Hornet plunged into the harbor from a ramp that had been used for boarding by the Fishers Island ferry, which was not protected by any barrier. A big timber now blocks any access from the slip.
Eastman, according to a co-worker, was familiar with the Bank Street waterfront from his radar duties aboard ships tied up near the City Pier and the Fishers Island ferry slip.
The short ramp is to the immediate left of the slip, and Eastman would have had to make an abrupt turn to acute to reach it with the water clearly just beyond, it would have required the steering wheel to be turned almost full circle.
Because of his familiarity with the area and a barmaid's observation that Eastman appeared sober when he left the 419 Club, it would seem unlikely he might have backed the car in himself.
Also, one man familiar with the ferry slip said other morning spaces are available, particularly in the early morning hours.
"It's surprising," the man said. "Ordinarily, there's somebody around here at all hours — they come to park, to look at the water. Somebody should have seen or heard something. A car going into the water would make a hell of a splash."
Investigators studying all the circumstances, have all but ruled out accidental death. "It's very remote," one said. An autopsy and toxicology report were awaited.
Eastman's family has become scarred in Coast Guard red tape, his daughter, Mrs. William Colestar, said from her Virginia home.
"They've been bureaucratic to the very end. My mother hasn't received the death gratuity of $3,000 yet, nor has she received his active service pay up until Oct. 16th," she said.

Lieberman Backs Carter Campaign

HARTFORD (UPI) — Senate Majority Leader Joseph Lieberman, D-New Haven, has lined up behind President Carter for re-election, though admitting his work on a Kennedy campaign a decade ago was a lifetime "political romance."
"I simply have not heard a case made out why this man (Carter) should not be returned to office," said Lieberman, who made his announcement Tuesday at a news conference with Democratic National Committee Treasurer Peter Kelly.
Kelly said Lieberman will play much more than a state role in Carter's campaign for the 1980 Democratic presidential nomination and "will be called on to participate in the campaign on a national basis."
Lieberman worked for Robert Kennedy in 1968 when he was seeking the Democratic presidential nomination. He said that campaign whetted his appetite for politics and he has had lifelong emotional ties to the Kennedy family.
"I think that was the great political romance of my life," he said. But Lieberman said Carter's record and personal qualities "do not merit that kind of treatment" — being denied the nomination.
Other state political notables who have sided with Carter are Gov. Ella Grasso, who will be the credentials committee chairwoman at this summer's Democratic National Convention, and Senate President Joseph Paulino, D-Hartford.
Lieberman conceded Carter is "well behind" in the polls and that he will have a tough time in Connecticut, long considered Kennedy country. But he said he's convinced the president will be re-elected.
He said Democrats opposed to returning the president to the White House for a second term mostly are motivated by a desire for change, which he said is no reason to dump Carter.
"While I and others may disagree with the president on one or another issue, his overall record is a good one and simply does not justify rejection by the Democratic Party or the country," Lieberman said.
"On the contrary, in the climate of uncertainty and instability that marks our world today, there is much to be said for continuity of leadership, for giving one man and one administration the opportunity to lead for more than four years."

John Mrosek: A Man of Simplicity

"He had a simplicity about him," said a friend of John Mrosek. That does not tell everything about the man whose memory hundreds honored at a service at South United Methodist Church the other day.

It does not tell everything, but it tells a great deal when such words are spoken of a man who enjoyed material success, professional esteem, community status, personal fulfillment. Even the arrangements of his private funeral typified his private and his unwillingness to thrust himself upon anyone.

His legacy to the community is not marked in monuments or in dramatic accomplishments, but in the comforting effect he had on those many who knew him, in the calm guidance he provided people who only half realized he was influencing them, so subtle was his way. Actually he was a complicated man, a catalog of antitheses, and yet he had a simplicity about him.

He was an unpretentious person, though he knew fine wines and fine automobiles. He was a listener, though he was capable of being very articulate, clever. He spoke mostly to distill the elaborate

The Voters' Rights

To the editor: As one who strongly supported Manchester's continuance in the U.S. Supreme Court many times making the final decisions that we must abide by.

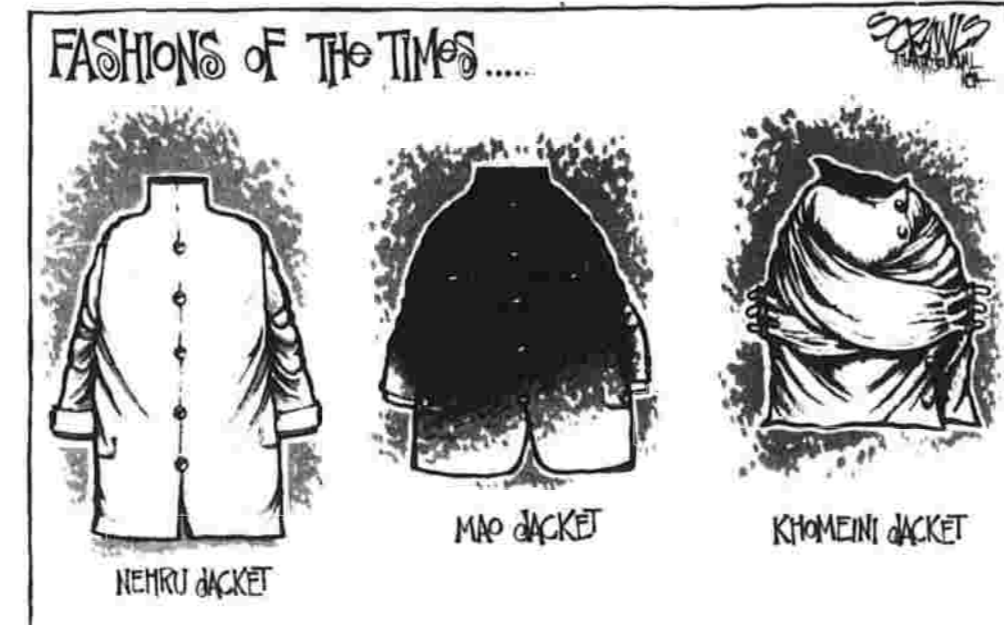

I supported the continued participation in the CD program because I sincerely felt that it was in the best interests of Manchester to do so. I still feel this way, although obviously the majority of my fellow voters do not.

I strongly believe in the system of government that this country has chosen for itself. The most important aspect of which is the ability to make changes in it. If I don't like something I will try to change it. If it fails then I will abide by it or be prepared to pay the consequences of my defiance.

The right of the people to petition their government is a most important aspect of our system. It is a right I strongly support, have fought for, and would be willing to die for.

Another right of the people that is equally important is the right for citizens to challenge the constitutionality of its laws. Without this right, and the right to petition, all other rights would be greatly jeopardized.

Taxing Propositions

By ROBERT WALTERS WASHINGTON (NEA) - Inflation and energy clearly dominate the political agenda heading into Campaign '80, but that doesn't mean the tax revolt of yesterday has necessarily run its course.

Operating Big Vote A coalition of black organizations has launched a major drive to increase black voter registration and participation in the 1980 elections in an effort to gain greater political clout.

California corporate and personal income-tax rates in half. An alternative proposal, which would lower taxes for low- and middle-income Californians while raising them for upper-income individuals and businesses, may also qualify for the ballot.

Other measures to reduce state income taxes are circulating in Alaska, Massachusetts, Michigan and Montana.

Spending limits have been proposed for the 1980 ballot in Arizona, Florida, Massachusetts and Ohio.

And property-tax reductions have qualified for the ballot in Florida, Nevada and South Dakota and have been proposed in Massachusetts, Ohio and Utah.

Thoughts

We will soon be approaching the New Year which brings with it the typical New Year's Resolution that we all vow to keep but seldom do.

Most of us are aware of at least a few of our shortcomings. We use the beginning of a new year as a turning point to change them but find ourselves unable to carry through.

Perhaps it is time we turned to Jesus, the Son of God. The Apostle Paul, in his second letter to the Corinthians, writes that when a person puts his faith in Jesus Christ, he "becomes a brand new person inside. He is not the same any more. A new life has begun!"

Could it be that the change the human spirit is searching for is more than the change of habits, good ones for the bad ones. Perhaps prayer (today in the beginning of a New Year) should be that of the Psalmist who wrote, "Create in me a pure heart, O God, and renew a steadfast spirit within me."

Washington Merry-Go-Round Brezhnev Is Ailing; Who'll Replace Him?

By JACK ANDERSON WASHINGTON - Behind the grim, fortresslike walls of the Kremlin, a secret, Byzantine power struggle is stirring. At stake is the succession to aged and ailing Leonid Brezhnev, Community Party boss and supreme ruler of the Soviet Union.

At 72, Brezhnev's days in power are clearly numbered. Even if he cheats death for a few more years, the frailty of the dictator's health may soon force him to retire.

Whether the "young" Romanov, an older rival or a consortium of hopefuls takes over from Brezhnev, one thing is certain, according to a top-secret CIA evaluation: Any successor will have to have the support of Politburo member Yuriy V. Andropov, head of the pervasively powerful KGB secret police.

"The KGB has an important role to play in the succession process or in a period of political instability," the CIA's secret daily intelligence report has stated. "Any serious contender for the job of general secretary must ensure that he has the tacit approval of the security organ if not its active support."

Operating virtually unchecked by the 14-member Politburo in the savage days of Josef Stalin's one-man rule, the KGB's influence plummeted temporarily after its chief, the hated Lavrenti Beria, was deposed and executed in 1953.

But in recent years, the KGB has recovered much of its power. "The (1964) coup against Khrushchev, for example, had the acquiescence of the KGB," the CIA reported.

This resurgence puts Andropov, if not in the driver's seat, at least in a position to block the succession of anyone he disapproves of. His influence in the Politburo is abetted by the KGB ties of two fellow members, Arvid Peltise and Kirill Mazurov. Andropov is also a close personal friend of Brezhnev. The Kremlin kingmaker is a tall, scholarly-looking man who speaks English fluently. Sources told our associate Bob Sherman that Andropov is an "astute, ruthless party bureaucrat whose cold and calculating attitude" fits him well for his job as KGB boss.

The CIA experts won't hazard a guess as to which of the six leading contenders will get the KGB chief's seal of approval. But they do discount the possibility that Andropov will be able to grab the brass ring for himself.

He is 65 and in poor health. Like former CIA chief George Bush, Andropov would also find that his assignment as head of the secret police will prove a serious political liability.

Greek's Grapevine Ronald Reagan and Teddy Kennedy are odds-on favorites to win their respective parties' nominations for president, according to our own political prognosticator, Jimmy the SEC Snafu The Securities and Exchange Commission's crack enforcement chief, Stanley Sporkin, found himself chatting recently with Arthur Matthews, a prominent Washington attorney who practices before the commission.

To Sporkin's surprise, Matthews mentioned several law firms that were looking for new associates - and some staff lawyers in Sporkin's division who were looking for jobs.

The implication was clear. So Sporkin called some of his young assistants on the carpet and instructed them in no uncertain terms that it simply isn't proper to use lawyers they're litigating against to seek jobs.

Concern Shown for Revitalization of Rockville

By BARBARA RICHMOND
Herald Reporter

VERNON — Some expressed fear, some expressed anger, but all expressed deep concern for what's happening to the center of Rockville. The concerns were expressed at a meeting called by Mayor Marie Herbst Tuesday afternoon.

Attending the meeting were some of the merchants whose businesses were burned out when the Pritchard block on Union Street was gutted Nov. 18, representatives of the Rockville Area Chamber of Commerce, and other Rockville merchants.

Mayor Herbst, who served two terms on the Town Council, said it was always of immediate concern, to the council, the rehabilitation and revitalization of Rockville had to take place.

"We have done some good things in terms of revitalization but we have a long way to go and this administration had fully intended to continue in this direction. The fire only made an immediate problem we have to resolve," she said.

Steven Diana, a local businessman, expressed concern about "all of the hoodlums in the center of Rockville." He suggested the setting up of a sub-police station in the area. "The Vernon Police Department is a good suburban department but the problems in Rockville are big city problems," he said.

George Russell, chairman of the town's Economic Development Commission told those present that a forum will be held in New Haven next month, dealing with the very problems that Rockville has. He said the problem isn't uncommon and suggested that some representatives attend the forum.

Helen Stein who operated Belanger's Shoe Store, one of the businesses that was burned out, said she was planning to leave the business at the end of the year, anyway, "but I feel so sad it had to be this way," she said.

Mrs. Stein added she saw the problems coming for the past five or 10 years. Stephen Marcham, an owner of Vincent's Pharmacy, also destroyed by the fire, and a member of the Town Council said he may have a conflict of interest, in which case if anything comes to the council for a vote, he will abstain. He said the problem utmost in his mind and in the minds of his customers, is police protection. He said while he appreciates the beefed up police patrols they won't be continued unless there's an increase in the budget.

Marcham asked the town planner, who is preparing an application for a Community Development grant, if some of the funds could be used for increased police protection and Russell said they couldn't. He said public services are an ineligible use.

Marcham said the town is going to have to address the question of what it's willing to spend. Peter Olson, owner of Ladd & Hall Furniture Store in the Pritchard block was one of the few merchants who suffered little damage from the fire, asked if there was any way that the town could pass an ordinance that would forbid more than three youths congregating at one time.

Mayor Herbst said more than one ordinance is needed for this problem. She said town officials are now looking at three possible ordinances — one on loitering, one on parental responsibility and another on anti-littering. "We are trying to give a more effective means to the police," she said. The mayor said, since she took office about two weeks ago, she has taken steps that have, in effect, almost doubled the police patrol of the Rockville area. She said if this still isn't enough then extra money will have to be appropriated now. She said it couldn't wait until budget time in the spring.

Pritchard said he received the notice yesterday, from the town's building inspector, that the central portion of the building has been condemned and he said he will have it razed as soon as arrangements can be made. He said he doesn't know if he will rebuild it.

The Rev. Paul Bowman, pastor of Union Church, which was also extensively damaged by fire this summer, commented, "The thing I find most prevalent in this community is that it's filled with fear. Don't forget there were four major fires and there could be another. I can only see one solution, clear the park."

Pritchard commented, "We're in the center of a ghetto, the area is deteriorating and the town isn't doing anything about it. It didn't happen overnight it's been happening over the past five or six years," he said. Scott Zahner, of Zahner's Men's Shop on Main Street in Rockville, said, "Along with this fear, the feeling we've been getting is one of anger." He said he fears that if something isn't done by the town that people are going to take things in their own hands. Zahner's store was one of several stores in the Main Street block that had all of the windows smashed out by a local youth about a month ago.

Mayor Herbst said, "We've got to stop the fear and show the people out there that we mean business. I promised (when campaigning) that I would zero in on the problem. I didn't need the fire to know we needed more police protection," she said.

Harvey Desruisseaux, a local banker and member of the Chamber of Commerce, cautioned that the problems must be approached from a positive standpoint. "Let us not be victims of reaction rather than action," he said. He said he supports the concept of ordinances but added that they're only as good as the courts allow them to be. He said the courts throw the cases out. Another local minister, the Rev. Robert LaCounte of Rockville Baptist Church, said he has spent as much as $400 putting in windows that vandals have broken and also said vandals have damaged the aluminum siding on the church. We need publicity going out to the people that something is being done.

Pastor LaCounte, who is chaplain for the police, said he has seen a tremendous difference in the morale of the department since Mayor Herbst took office. Rudy Kissman, owner of Gloria's Beauty Salon, in the Pritchard building, said that because of the nature of his business he has to relocate immediately. He said his shop will reopen in the El Camino Plaza on Route 30. Kissman lives in Manchester and is a full-time fireman in that town.

In closing the meeting, Mayor Herbst asked all of those present to put down in writing just what they would like to see done and then officials will decide how to approach the problem. "and I will commit myself to working on the Police Department's problem in terms of manpower," she said.

Opening of Millstone III Still Scheduled for 1986

HARTFORD (UPI) — Northeast Utilities' board of trustees has voted to open the Millstone III nuclear power plant in 1986, failing to gain support from state regulators in its efforts to put the plant on line two years early.

The board agreed Tuesday to go ahead with plans for the 1986 opening and still retain their 65 percent ownership of the plant under construction in Waterford, company spokesman Emmanuel Ford said.

Among the calls intercepted were some from people trying to wager on Monday night's National Football League game between the New York Jets and Seattle Seahawks.

State police spokesman Adam Berluti said it will be some time before arrest warrants were issued, but that troopers believed they had at least temporarily disrupted the operation which was believed to have ties to organized crime.

Ford said he needed a DPUC endorsement of the 1986 date for investors who would be loaning the company money to move up construction of the plant.

Millstone III would be about $2 billion based on a 1986 completion date, $350 million more than if it were finished by 1984. He said a lower rate of oil consumption over the two years also would have saved consumers money.

He said Millstone III will save certain ways on rate applications. Ford said DPUC's failure to support a 1984 completion had all but precluded the early schedule for Millstone III.

Up to 50 Arrests Due in Betting Probe

HARTFORD (UPI) — Connecticut State Police estimate up to 50 arrests can be expected as the result of raids to obtain evidence on what they called a $20 million-a-year professional sports betting ring.

State Police Lt. John Bardell said Tuesday he expected 30 to 50 people will be arrested as a result of the raids carried out on 20 locations in 10 communities.

He said DPUC's failure to support a 1984 completion had all but precluded the early schedule for Millstone III.

Budget Not in the Red For Vernon Students

VERNON — For the first time in a long time the budget for placement of Vernon students outside the Vernon school system, is not in the red. Dr. Albert Kerkin, assistant superintendent of schools, told the Board of Education Monday night.

Kerkin said 21 students who are placed outside the school system, for a variety of reasons, cost the town an estimated $106,800 as of Nov. 21. He said this is $16,120 less than the $123,000 budgeted for this purpose.

For placements made by the Department of Children and Youth Services, for reasons other than education, Vernon pays the education costs only.

Five of the students have been placed in state-run schools, at no cost at all to the town, eight of the students attend the Regional Occupational Training Center in Manchester at a cost of $3,015 each. Four attend the CREC residential center at a cost of $7,500 each.

The cost to send a student to a special school in Massachusetts is estimated at $18,000, pending approval of the rate setting by that state.

One student attends the CREC hearing impaired program at a cost of $4,675. Three of the students, placed by DCYS, for reasons other than educational, have costs of $6,300, $4,000, and $5,500. One student has been placed in another public school system, not a special education student, and this is at no cost to the town.

Another student is in a group home and this is also at no cost to the town.

Two students attend private academies and the full cost is paid by the state. And four students attend Oak Hill School, also at no cost to the town.

Kerkin said the cost of transportation isn't included in the cost estimates and in some cases no transportation is involved.

Up to now the school board has had to appropriate the money in advance for these outside placements. Starting next school year the board will receive payments from the state on a "as-you-go" basis.

Vernon Board OKs Alien Student Plan

VERNON — The Board of Education Monday night agreed to allow its chairman, Daniel Woolwich, to sign a U.S. Department of Justice petition so a non-immigrant alien student can attend the Vernon school system.

Dr. Bernard Sidman, superintendent of schools, said that a non-immigrant alien could be somebody who is still a resident of another country and hasn't applied for citizenship in this country. He said it could be a person here on a student visa or an extended visit.

He said this is a permissive type petition and that it isn't mandatory for the board to participate. He said the matter hadn't been brought up before because there was never a need until it came to his attention that there was one student who fit this category.

Board member Robert Schwartz asked Dr. Sidman what liabilities signing the petition would put the board under. Dr. Sidman said the board would get the regular Average Daily Membership grant that it gets for other students.

Board member Robert Schwartz asked Dr. Sidman what liabilities signing the petition would put the board under. Dr. Sidman said the board would get the regular Average Daily Membership grant that it gets for other students.

He told the board it should think of it in terms of the same exposure that would be given to any student using the school facilities.

He said at any time it reached any magnitude in the number of this type of student then the town would receive supplemental funding.

Rockville High Principal To Expand Some Courses

VERNON — Brian McCartney, principal of Rockville High School said plans are being made to beef up the new business and distributive education classes at the school.

Speaking to the Board of Education, Monday night, McCartney explained the basic goals and objectives of the program which he said has a great deal of promise. The program was started with a vocational-education grant of $700. He said 13 students signed up for it at the beginning of this school year and 11 are still involved.

The students are operating a "store" in half of the old guidance office, McCartney said. The store is open during the first period of school and after school.

Dr. Robert Linstone, assistant superintendent, said the students learn all facets of retailing through operation of the store.

Board members questioned if the store would interfere with sales at regular stores and McCartney said he didn't feel it would. He said the students buy items such as pads and pencils that they find they need at that time.

He said the basic thrust of the program is to provide students with marketable skills in retailing. He said he feels that as this program grows there will be many other similar ones for the students.

Mrs. Wilmot Clarifies Statement About Council

COVENTRY — Referring to a statement made in The Manchester Herald, concerning a letter sent to the Coventry Town Council, Mrs. Dorothy Wilmot, who sent the letter, said she did not chastise Roberta Kozintz, council chairman, "for ignoring minority party members," at a special meeting of the council.

Mrs. Wilmot said that in the letter to the council and another paper circulating in town she did not accuse Mrs. Kozintz of ignoring minority party members.

In essence the two letters noted that two items on the agenda were ignored. The items she referred to were Agenda Item 5 which called for establishment of council procedure and Agenda Item 6 which called for resolutions on regular and special meetings.

Mrs. Wilmot said that the council procedures is determined by resolution of the council. The council consists of seven members and seven members did not determine, by resolution, council procedures.

She also said the council didn't, by regulation, fix the time and place of its regular monthly meetings and didn't provide a method for calling special meetings of the council.

Mrs. Wilmot said both are requirements, according to the town charter, for the council to take care of its first meeting after each biennial town election.

She said that because resolutions on regular and special meetings were not made by the council, nor was council procedure established by the council, "it is quite apparent that the 'orientation' special meeting called by Chairwoman Kozintz would be an illegal meeting due to the fact that Agenda Item 6 was not executed."

Coventry ZBA Approves Restaurant Booze Plan

COVENTRY — Dimitrios Gitis, owner of Jimmy's Pizzeria on Route 31, has received the approval of the Zoning Board of Appeals for a permit to sell beer and wine at his restaurant.

Permission was needed because the establishment is only 27 feet from the property line of the Coventry Grammar School, and regulations require a 200-foot distance.

The appeals board noted that the location of the restaurant, which has existed for many years under several different owners, was a hardship for the proprietors in being so close to the school. A petition was submitted to the ZBA signed by 187 residents of the area supporting Gitis' request.

An application by Albert Bouffard seeking permission to park refuse collection trucks and an oil truck on Armstrong Road did not fare so well.

The ZBA denied the request, stating that no hardship was evident and that the presence of the vehicles could create a hazard for the area, which adjoins Snake Hill Road.

Bouffard runs a private sanitation service for area residents. There is no municipal collection in Coventry, and many townspeople prefer to bring their trash directly to the sanitary landfill on Route 31 opposite Depot Road. Bouffard maintained that there was a hardship in that he would have to park his trucks out of town if his application failed.

Suspect Remains Silent

NEW LONDON (UPI) — A man who claims he may have driven the vehicle in the hit-run death of Kevin B. Showalter on Christmas Eve 1973 has refused to answer questions about the accident in a court deposition.

Paul C. Hanson, 29, of East Lyme, stated Tuesday he would remain silent on the advice of his lawyer, A.A. Washon.

The Capitol Region Council of Governments will sponsor who said state police were still in the forum which is taking place at the Hartford Graduate Center on Windsor Street from 9:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. The forum is open to the public. The 6-Month $10,000 CD:

12.035% That's the truth.

annual interest rate

The people at the Savings Bank of Manchester would like you to know the whole truth about half-year CD's. Every day, you open the paper and see those high effective annual yield figures. The fact is, those figures are meaningless. And here's why.

The yield is based on the annual interest rate. That rate is Federally established every week. No bank can pay a higher rate.

Here's the catch. The rate is only guaranteed for the 6 months your CD is on deposit. In order to earn the high "effective annual yield", you'd have to reinvest your $10,000 plus your 6 months' interest at exactly the same interest rate you started with. Since the rate changes weekly, the chances of getting the same rate are almost impossible.

Some banks even manipulate the yield figure by adding a Leap Day—appearing to pay 1/100th of a percent higher than competitors. But it's all a numbers game. The only figures that are important are the base rate and the dollars you earn for the 6 month period.

So when you see those ads with the big yield figures, look again. Find the rate and the dollar amount paid after 6 months. Because that's what will tell you what your 6-month CD will earn. And that's the whole truth.

The rate above is in effect from Thurs., Nov. 22 through Wed., Nov. 28. That means your $10,000 will equal $10,608 after 6 months. Federal regulations prohibit compounding of interest on this account. We have waived the early withdrawal penalties on new or renewed term accounts.

Woman Hurt In Accident

MANCHESTER — An 18-year-old Ellington woman was listed in satisfactory condition at Manchester Memorial Hospital this morning after her car went off the road and struck a telephone pole, an advertising sign and three gravestones.

The accident occurred at 4:18 a.m. Police said the woman was east-bound on Center Street in a 1972 Cadillac. A Steppen of 54 Middle Butcher Road was admitted for treatment of a fractured leg, a hospital spokeswoman said. The incident occurred at 4:18 a.m.

Police said the woman was east-bound on Center Street in a 1972 Cadillac when she apparently bent down to pick up something off the floor of her car. Police said she lost control of the vehicle when she struck the curb on the south side of Center Street.

Police said she left road and hit a telephone pole with the left front of her vehicle.

However, police said, the vehicle continued on, striking an advertising sign in front of Scheibel Auto Parts, 8 Proctor Road, and then crossing over the street, jumping the east curb and striking three memorial gravestones at Saportis Memorial Co., 476 Center St.

Police said the vehicle finally stopped 120 feet away from where it first left the road. It received minor damage and had to be towed.

Twins Held In Larceny

MANCHESTER — Police charged twin sisters from Williamtown with third-degree larceny Tuesday in the theft of a pool table and CB radio from a Manchester apartment house.

Charielle and Antoinette Benedict, both 18 and both on Pleasant St., were each released on $500 non-surety bonds, police said, and ordered to appear in East Hartford Superior Court.

The two were arrested on warrants in the Nov. 19 incident. Police said the alleged theft occurred as the two were moving out of the apartment.

Police charged Caroline Purves, 17, of 76 Agnes Drive, Manchester, with third-degree larceny and third-degree forgery Tuesday.

Police said she allegedly used another person's credit card Oct. 19 to buy some items at a local store. She was released on a $250 non-surety bond, police said, for a Dec. 10 appearance in East Hartford Superior Court.

Police Charged

Police charged Joanne Davis, 22, of 75 Dillon Road, Hartford, with issuing a bad check Monday. She was processed and released on a promise to appear in East Hartford Superior Court Dec. 17.

Police reported the theft of $566 from two cash boxes at the Air Care N.O. Nelson, 160 Hartford Road, at 1 a.m. Monday. The incident is still under investigation.

Hartford May Rescind Action in CD Fund Suit

MANCHESTER — Opposition to Manchester's withdrawal from the Community Development Act will be reconsidered by the Hartford City Council, and indications are that it might be rescinded.

"I wouldn't want to say for sure, but there is some feeling among the new council that we should get out of the lawsuit," said Hartford City Councilman Robert F. Ludgin.

The Town of Manchester is formally requesting reconsideration this week, and the matter should come before the Hartford council at the first formal meeting, Dec. 10.

The Hartford council joined the suit, started by three Manchester residents, to keep Manchester in the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development program in May. Manchester's withdrawal has been called an effort to keep low-income housing and minorities out of the town.

The Hartford City Council also asked five federal agencies cut $4.5 million from Manchester federal grants. Complaints were filed with federal departments that provide aid for parks, sidewalks, roads and sewers. The complaints blame suburban discrimination for Hartford's minority and poverty problems.

Ludgin, who opposed the council's action and was re-elected, said he

Area Police Report
South Windsor
Terry Glidden, 24, of 20 Oak St., South Windsor, was arrested Tuesday night on a warrant charging him with attempt to assault a police officer, fourth-degree larceny, evading responsibility and failure to obey an officer's signal.

Police Chief John Kerrigan said that police received a complaint, early Monday morning from the 7-Eleven Store on Ellington Road, that beer had been stolen from the store. When police arrived they said a car was released on her promise of the officer attempted to block it and Glidden allegedly ran into the cruiser and then took off.

Glidden was held overnight at the police station in lieu of posting a $5,000 bond. He was to be presented in court today in East Hartford.

Vernon
Mary Zullinger, 55, of Stafford Road, Ellington, was charged Tuesday with fourth-degree larceny (shoplifting) in connection with the investigation of a complaint filed by K-Mart store, Vernon Circle. She was released on her promise of the officer attempted to block it and she would like to tap the well of good feeling the suburbs have for the city. "I think we should co-operate, rather than confront," he said.

Currently, co-operation between Hartford and the suburbs has been "spotty."

"I think the suburbs are making a real effort to co-operate with the city," Tom Manager Robert Weiss said. "But the suit is good evidence that they are not co-operating with us. Hopefully we can work together."

The statements by the new council members indicate the situation will improve, he noted.

However, if the Hartford council does rescind the suit by the Manchester residents would remain.

"Legally, the merits of the case would not change," Ludgin said. "The courts will decide whether it's a good case or not. But it will solve some irritation between the city and Manchester if Hartford were not in it."

The suit was filed after Manchester residents voted 3-1 in an April referendum to withdraw from the program for two years. The suit could come to trial in about a month.

Worker Says Inspectors Not Doing Their Jobs

MANCHESTER — Nursing home inspectors are not examining patient care, according to testimony given yesterday before the Public Health Committee.

Rachel Nason, an aide at the Meadows Convalescent Center in Manchester, said the Department of Health Services inspectors "walk down the corridor. They don't go into the rooms."

"They come in with the supervisor," said Mrs. Nason who has worked at the home for four years. "They look in the linen closet. If there's some dust on the floor, you'll hear about it. But they don't look at what's under the sheets — the patients."

Officials at the health agency are to decide within 10 days whether to take action against the 519-bed nursing home, Connecticut's largest, for allegedly failing to correct conditions noted during inspections.

Among the deficiencies listed were nursing staff shortages, improper storage of possibly hazardous chemicals, such as cleaning fluids, and failure to make timely reports of accidents or incidents.

Mrs. Nason, who said she is paid $3.32 per hour, said patient care has improved since investigations into the nursing home industry were started this year by a grand jury, the state and Legislature.

"They're better because they're so paranoid," she said.

Mrs. Nason said one of the biggest problems is that the home hires teenage girls who she said have no training in caring for elderly patients. She said some only are interested in the part-time salary.

"The rooms (they take care of) are a pit," she said. "They're in there for the money. They don't care."

Dennis Kerrigan, deputy commissioner of the Health Services Department who oversees the agency's nursing home inspectors, was not immediately available for comment.

Flyer Coach Not Too Happy

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — You'd think a coach whose team has put together an 18-game unbeaten streak would be bubbling over with joy.

Not Philadelphia Flyers Coach Pat Quinn.

After the Flyers defeated the Hartford Whalers Tuesday night 6-2 to extend their Patrick Division lead over Atlanta by 10 points, Quinn sounded like a deflated balloon.

"We were working the corners real well," he said, "and in the third period our position play was much better and gave us more chances. However, we still have a bit to go to get the fine points down."

"We're still going as well as I would like, but some of the things we are doing are not pretty hockey," he added.

Whalers' Coach Don Blackburn, a former Flyer, said he was pleased with his club's efforts until the third period, when Philadelphia rookie Brian Propp scored his 12th goal of the season and Reggie Leach scored 21 seconds later to put the game out of reach.

"We were in it — one good shot went away," Blackburn said. "They got two quick goals. We don't have an explosive hockey team. We've got to scrape and play it tight. When they get two quick goals all hell broke loose."

"The Flyers never quit coming after you," he said.

"After you do everything that a good hockey team should do," Philadelphia's defenseman 36-21, veteran Gordie Howe was asked to get off one shot.

"You don't like to lose," Howe said. "We had the play in our own end half the time tonight. The Flyers are the best passing club I've seen so far this season. They throw everything right on the stick."

"The Spectrum crowd gave Howe a standing ovation at the start of the game, and Bobby Clarke, who had two assists, joined in the praise.

"How, when he gets the puck, still passing a battery of tests Monday to Tuesday. He can still do a lot of things with the puck."

Philadelphia took a quick 1-0 lead at 4:47 of the first period on Mike Binskin's third NHL goal. Dennis Verregette made it 2-0 at 5:17 on a 40-footer, but a goal by Hartford's Blaine Stoughton at 12:07 made it 2-1.

Norm Barnes scored on 55-foot slapshot at 6:49 of the second period to put the Flyers ahead 3-1. Andre

First Visit Recalled
Little Johnny Kelley will never forget his first visit to Manchester to take part in the Five Mile Road Race.

It happened back in 1948, 31 years ago.

Kelley, now 48, was in Manchester last Thursday morning for the 43rd Five Mile.

Before the race he delved into his memory and recalled how he made his first trip to Manchester.

"A friend of mine, Nick Korean's father was a fruit dealer in New London. He had an open fruit truck. We decided that we would try running in the Manchester race at the last minute."

"Nick got the truck and about six of us piled into the back and headed for Manchester. The roads were not as good as they are today and we rattled all the way until we got within a mile of Manchester."

At that point in our trip we got a flat tire. I knew we didn't have any time to spare but somehow we changed the tire. I think in about 15 seconds, and we were on our way.

"I remember coming into Manchester (near Carter Chevrolet) and I could see the runner lining up for the start of the race."

"Our truck stopped short of the starting line and we all jumped out. I think we asked whoever was in charge to hold up the race a few minutes," Kelley added.

Held Up Race
Bob Dougan, who joined our conversation, remembered the incident well. He was serving as clerk of the course.

"I was ready to start the race when I saw these young fellows jumping out of the truck and waving their arms and hollering to wait a minute. We waited a couple of minutes until they got into their running shorts and we then started the race," Dougan added.

Kelley, at the time, was a student at Bulkeley High in New London. The little man who was the State CIAC cross country champion placed fourth in a field of 47 runners.

George Terry, who was also in the old broken down truck, was third. Korean, Nick Magro, Bob Kelley and Bill Wheeler were the other New London youths who represented the New London Olympic Club.

Little did Kelley know at the time that as the years rolled on he would represent the United States in Olympic competition.

Kelley won 20 national championships including an unprecedented eight consecutive marathons in Yonkers, N.Y.

That 1948 race was won by Ted Vogel with Fred Schofield second. Both were out of Tufts College and both were national champions.

Vogel went on to wear the colors of the USA in the Olympic Games.

The little bird had a phenomenal fourth, third, second and first in his four first appearances.

After that first success here, Kelley added five more triumphs to his record. He was runner-up in the 1950 New England Amateur Burfoot was first across the final line nine times.

Hawks Explode
Downing Spurs

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Atlanta Hawks entered Tuesday night's game in San Antonio ranked 16th in the NBA in overall offense. But playing against the league's weakest defensive club brought out the best in Hubie Brown's troops.

"We had a lot of pride defensively," Spurs Coach Doug Moe said sarcastically after Atlanta ran to a 145-120 victory and a one-game lead over San Antonio in the Central Division. "They (the Hawks) got everything they wanted. Whatever the worst word is you can use for our defense, use that word. It was pitiful."

John Drew scored a season-high 40 points to pace Atlanta. Drew hit 16-30 field-goal attempts and had a game-high 13 rebounds as the Hawks outscored the Spurs, 47-22, in the final period, overcoming a 99-96 San Antonio lead.

The Hawks hit 40-53 field goal attempts in the second half, scoring 47 points.

"When we play the way we were playing we can score a lot of points," said Drew. "Hubie gets us to do it. We weren't doing anything different — same thing we do every day."

George Gerwin led the Spurs with 39 points while Larry Kenon had 24 and 12 rebounds.

In other games, New York defeated Detroit, 116-114, in overtime. Denver defeated Washington, 96-91. New Jersey swamped Milwaukee, 119-83. Kansas City shamed Houston, 117-115. Los Angeles topped Utah, 122-118, and San Diego swamped Chicago, 128-116.

Knelek 116, Pistons 114.

Ray Williams scored 9 of his 23 points at the beginning of overtime to help New York raise its record to 11-11 and send Detroit to its ninth straight road defeat.

Nuggets 96, Bulls 91.

David Thompson scored 17 points and sank two key free throws with 17 seconds remaining and George McGinnis contributed 16 rebounds and a career high 12 assists to help Denver. Bobby Dandridge paced the Bulls with 29 points.

Nets 118, Bucks 93.

Mike Newlin scored 34 points, including two 3-point baskets in the first period, leading New Jersey to its second road victory and handing Milwaukee its worst defeat of the year.

Kings 117, Rockets 115.

Paul Ford hit a 16-foot jumper with 5 seconds left to give Kansas City its triumph despite 31 points by Calvin Murphy and 29 by Moses Malone. Scott Wedman led the Kings with 24 points.

Lakers 122, Jazz 114.

Jamal Wilkes scored 21 of his 29 points in the second half and Kareem Abdul-Jabbar added 28 points in leading Los Angeles to victory. Adrian Dantley hit a career-high and NBA season high of 50 points for the Jazz.

Clippers 128, Bulls 103.

Lloyd Free scored 32 points — clearing the 30-point barrier for the 12th time this year — and five other Clippers finished in double figures to lift San Diego. It was Chicago's club record 11th consecutive loss on the road.

After Seven-Year Wait, Evans Part of Red Sox

BOSTON (UPI) — After seven years of letting his glove do the talking, Dwight Evans says he finally feels a part of the Boston Red Sox.

Evans, a three-time Gold Glove winner, Tuesday signed a five-year contract worth about $2 million. The contract carries a no-trade clause for the first two years and also stipulates Evans have substantial input into any possible deal thereafter. That clause, as much as anything, was what the 27-year-old rightfielder wanted.

"I've never really felt a part of this team until now," said Evans, a subject of endless trade rumors. "I've been here seven years and traded eight. I can concentrate better now instead of worrying about where I'm going. It's a comfortable feeling, one I've never had before."

Evans' signing was announced jointly by that of free agent reliever Skip Lockwood, who pitched for the New York Mets last year. Lockwood, who grew up in suburban Westwood, inked a four-year deal for $1.2 million.

In addition, Boston announced reliever Dick Drago has had his contract extended two more years through 1982.

Lockwood, a former bonus-baby pitcher, was pitched again in 1978. The injury, which a Mets physician termed "the time" not serious, occurred after a stretch where he had worked in 13 of 15 games.

"I think I was inattentive to the needs of the shoulder," said Lockwood, who turns 34 in August. "I was pitching well. It's like a car that's running well and you don't want to take it in for a tune-up. I wasn't giving it enough attention."

Evans said he was pleased when he would be a champion in Boston. "We have a chance to be a championship team and I'm glad I'm going to have the chance to stay around and help put something together. It hurt knowing that you may not be wanted by the team."

Right now, my No. 1 goal is to win a pennant and a World Series. I'm not interested in personal goals. I just want to win," he said.

Evans also was pleased with the signing of Lockwood, whom he figures will really help Boston's chances.

He's a great addition. He's a hard thrower and he gets guys out. I've been surprised how hard he throws," Evans said.

Galindex Refuses To Step on Scale

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Victor Galindex, the World Boxing Association's light heavyweight champion, has refused to step on the scales but vows he will be in shape for Friday's title defense against America's Marvin Johnson.

Mike Maltiz, president of Top Rank Inc., which is promoting the Friday night triple-header from Las Vegas and New Orleans, said he would file charges with the referee if Galindex's weight was over the limit.

"You're always concerned about him making the weight until he steps on the scale," Maltiz said.

"The other two fights Friday, between welterweights Sugar Ray Leonard and Alfredo Benitez and middleweights Vito Antuofermo and Marvin Hagler, will be held in Las Vegas before a national TV audience. "I feel much better than last time. Amilcare Brusa, who replaced Tito Lecture as Galindex's trainer, said the preliminary weigh-in was unimportant."

"The fight ain't until four days," Brusa said through an interpreter. "He doesn't want anyone to think he's out of shape."

Sutcliffe Receives NL Rookie Honors

NEW YORK (UPI) — Right-hander Rick Sutcliffe, 23, who brightened an otherwise dismal season for the Los Angeles Dodgers, Wednesday was named the National League's Rookie of the Year by the Baseball Writers of America Association.

Sutcliffe led the Dodger staff in the two previous years, fell to third victories with 17 and lost only 10 to place — 11 1/2 games behind first-place Cincinnati — but would have fallen lower without Sutcliffe.

Sutcliffe led the Dodger staff in the two previous years, fell to third place Cincinnati — but would have fallen lower without Sutcliffe.

The native of Independence, Mo., was the winningest Dodger rookie since the team moved to Los Angeles in 1958. Only five pitchers in the league, all veterans, won more games than Sutcliffe.

Leonard, who came to Houston from Los Angeles, batted .290 in 134 games in the Astros' abortive bid to win the AL West. He had 19 hits and drove in 47 runs despite hitting no home runs for the Cubs. He also lacked power, hitting just two home runs and driving in 29 runs.

Other Dodgers to win the award include Jackie Robinson, 1947; Don Newcombe, 1949; Joe Black, 1963; Jim Gilliam, 1965; Frank Howard, 1960; Jim Lefebvre, 1966; and Ted Sizemore, 1969.

Sabres Off Fast Beating Bruins

BOSTON (UPI) — One of the unpleasant byproducts of success is that someone is always trying to unseat you. And after a weekend of emotion-packed games with Montreal, the Boston Bruins Tuesday night were easy pickings.

The high-flying Buffalo Sabres of scores by Rick Middleton and John Wensink to make things interesting. Gilbert Perreault closed the scoring with an empty net goal with nine seconds left.

"Hockey is an emotional game," said Sabres coach Scotty Bowman. "Boston had two emotional games over the weekend. There had to be a letdown."

Bruins' Coach Fred Creighton, whose team lost for only the second time in 15 games, agreed.

"Maybe we were a little flat. We weren't ready to play as we should have been. We made it tough on ourselves. You can't split four goals to a team like that and beat them."

Boston defenseman Mike Milbury, who was victimized for three goals, was impressed with the Sabres' system.

"They've got great discipline — which is something we didn't have tonight. They forechecked us well and took our game away from us," Milbury said.

Gare, who earned the game's No. 1 star for his relentless two-way play, said the Sabres were just starting to pick up Bowman's style.

"We've been successful of late because we're forechecking well. We're finishing off our checks and we're getting more and more confident. We knew we'd have to skate against Boston and we did. Not many teams will come in here and come out with two points," Gare said.

Depth Key Factor In Title Campaign

By LEN AUSTER Herald Sportswriter
The past four years have been good ones for the Manchester High boys' cross country team. The Indian thinclads over the span have annexed the state Class LL championship twice, including this past campaign, and been runner-up twice.

The Silk Towners in '78 and '79 compiled 12-1 dual meet records and each season secured the CCLL crown. "This was an excellent year," remarked Manchester Coach George Sutor, "and this may be my best team. Overall it had more depth," added the sixth-year mentor.

Manchester captured the LL crown, but was unable to come up with a loftier achievement as it finished third in the state open. "There was no disappointment in taking third in the open. None at all," Sutor retorted, "I thought the kids ran a real good race. This year was the most contested opens in a long time."

The Indians lose five top-notch seniors in Tim DeValve, second in the Class LL run and fourth in the open, Doug Meek, Jim Grzymkowski, Paul Johnson and Joe Newell to graduation. Meek was 17th in the most contested opens in a long time.

Top returnees will be juniors Dave DeWick, Andy Wickham and Tom Danahy and sophomores Harry Veal, Peter Murphy and Dave Parrott.

"I expect (Dave) DeValve to move up. He ran well this year and I figure he'll be one of the better runners in the area," Sutor assessed. "The same goes with Wickie. At the end of the year he was sick and never really recuperated. I expect him to come back strong."

Sutor's crew will be bolstered by a number of senior high runners, including Illing's Gary Gates. "He has the capability of being our No. 1 or No. 2 runner," Sutor acknowledges.

"We reached all our goals expected. We had a lot of injuries and many times they ran above their capabilities with injuries or sickness," Sutor reflected on the '79 campaign.

In addition to Gates, the incoming group of ninth graders includes Illing's Doug Potter, Tim Sporek and Donnie Parker and Bennet's Tony Barbagallo and Art Bruder.

"We'll be fighting for the league title again," Sutor foresees. "How good we are in the states depends on how much they mature."

BUSINESSMEN
Led by Bob Kierman's 21 points, Manchester Cycle Shop whipped the Rams, 87-49, last night at Illing.

Bob Plaster (18), Stan Alexander (16) and Ed Rowal (14) were also in the question rather than to cast a shadow on the efforts which the Tall Cedars have made over the years to make the Manchester Race truly professional in its execution in every detail. At any rate, I am glad to be able to set the record straight now that someone is interested.

Very truly yours,

KINGSTON, R.I. (UPI) — For the first time in its 79 years of football, the University of Rhode Island will close out its gridiron season in the month of December.

The Rams, 1-8-1 in an injury-beset season, travel to Tallahassee to play Florida A&M Saturday.

A&M's Rangers, 6-4 after a streak of injury problems, are defending Division I AA national champions. They were 12-1 last year.

More than half his life, Patek has been playing football. He started out as a sixth grader in the East Hartford Midleg League where he was a defensive end and offensive guard.

A broken ankle as a freshman in mid-season curtailed his first year of play at Southern and he was installed at safety in his sophomore year as the No. 2 man.

Regular status was gained in both Patek's junior and senior years when he gained recognition for his ball-hawking and tackling.

Egad, friends, here we are in the 14th and final week of college football's regular season. And what a whirl it will be!

Sharing the spotlight are the Alabama-Auburn SEC clash at Birmingham, Ala., and the senior Army-Navy battle in Philadelphia.

In their 49th repeat Alabama's Crimson Tide must defeat the bruising Auburn Tigers for the right to represent the SEC in the Sugar Bowl. If the Tigers win, Alabama could be the highest-ranked team — jeh-hah — to play at home and watch TV's bowl proceedings.

The Hoopie Hacks is that that prospect will be all the incentive. Bryan's forces need to make them a 28-17 victor. Kaff-kaff!

The series between the Army Cadets and the Navy Midshipmen is one of the most evenly contested in history with Army ahead 37 wins to 34, and 6 ties in the 79 meetings.

On paper the Navy indeed appears to be a certain winner. But — and it's a big BUT — records in this series could be null and void for several years if it was my privilege to be the chief of the timing crew for the race.

I inherited the job from the late L. Morgan Porter, who was meticulous in everything he did. While my records do not contain the length of the original course, Morgan impressed upon me the importance of such information. Consequently, when the course was altered in 1968-69 by the reconstruction of the intersection of Porter and Highland streets in conjunction with the construction of Interstate 84, I remeasured the course.

Using a calibrated trail measuring wheel, we determined that the present course length is 4,788 miles. This length has been constant since the 1969 race. It has been available to anyone interested, but until the note about Amby Burfoot's criticism, no one has ever expressed any curiosity whatsoever. It is too bad that the question rather seemed to cast a shadow on the efforts which the Tall Cedars have made over the years to make the Manchester Race truly professional in its execution in every detail. At any rate, I am glad to be able to set the record straight now that someone is interested.

Very truly yours,
M. Philip Susag

Can Cartwright Save the Knicks?
JUST ASK Murray Olderman

By Murray Olderman
The tipoff: Bill Cartwright, the young rookie center of the New York Knicks, is going to be a franchise-builder. He will revitalize Gotham interest in pro basketball, which had gone slightly apathetic the last couple of years. And negate the charge that the new all-black roster hurts the drawing power of the club.

Q. Can you name the player on the Dallas Cowboys who is competing as a heavyweight boxer? What are his chances?
A. Jeff Eastman, Guard of Dallas, Texas.

Q. How did the Philadelphia '7ers demote Bobby Jones from a starting position to their lineup? I thought Jones was always one of the best players in pro basketball. — R.L., Jackson, Mich.

Q. What happened to Virgil Carter? I have not seen him in the Bears' lineup for a couple of years now. — Erik Stamp, New Britain, Ct.

Q. You're talking about a very successful and peripatetic young man. Virgil who is just 34 walked away from a guaranteed contract with the Chicago Bears after the 1976 season because (1) he got tired of not being able to call his own plays after 9 years of pro-quarterbacking, and (2) he was heavily involved with commodities on the Chicago Board of Trade.

Spirit and Support Eagle Big Plusses

By LEN AUSTER Herald Sportswriter
The brick has been laid and some mortar poured, all that remains is for the seal to be applied.

That's one way to view the progress achieved by the East Catholic football program in 1979. The Eagles went 2-1 in Hartford County Conference (HCC) play and claimed co-ownership of the loop's title for the first time in 10 years.

They were victorious in six of eight outings and were headed for the best record in school history. But the Eagles stumbled in their closing two encounters, lacking the staying power required, and finished 6-4 under first-year Coach Jude Kelly.

"Overall I was pleased in a lot of ways. I was pleased with the type of player (at East), the spirit of the whole school and the support from the administration," Kelly stated.

"I feel there is a solid foundation for a program here. But we have a way to go to get where we want it," he continued. "The last two games we learned a lesson. You have to come ready to play in every circumstance. We had some mental let-downs and it hurt us badly."

"To sustain it all season, you need a solid program and extraordinary players. We had good players, but the total program was under a lot of pressure through 10 weeks is not there yet, Kelly analyzed.

East will be hit hard by graduation, losing 10 players. Included are eight offensive and nine defensive starters. Wiped out is the entire defensive line and linebacking corps with the only returnees Bob Beltrandi and Jeff Courtney, both juniors, from the secondary.

"I've always believed in playing seniors. You will graduate a lot of seniors. But in a good program you'll have a lot of juniors ready to step in."

That's it for now, dear readers. I want to wish one and all a happy holiday season. And don't forget to watch for me — ahem — information on the authoritative Bowl Game Forecast, coming to you in December.

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Denver Broncos said Tuesday players voted to reject a proposal by the National Football League Players' Association that the team initiate an all-union agreement with the organization.

The proposal, if passed, would have required all players, even if they were not union members, to pay union dues or an annual service fee. Secret balloting was held Monday in accordance with the Colorado Labor Peace Act.

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Philadelphia Flyers' defenseman Bob Dailey was admitted to University of Pennsylvania Hospital Tuesday after undergoing an operation Wednesday for shoulder adhesions, it was announced.

Dailey was expected to be in the hospital only one day. He will be examined next week, and at that time it will be decided when he will be able to return to action.

Tony Pachessa Mike Freiheit

"It's crucial to the program that next year again we have a good turnout of freshmen."

"It is conceivable that more underclassmen will start than I would like because there are so many holes in the team."

Among the key losses for East are quarterback Tony Pachessa, wide receiver Mike Freiheit and fullback Mike Gilbert. The latter bulwarked the Eagles' revitalized ground game in '79 with a school-record 1,438 yards rushing on 215 carries and scored 13 TDs. Pachessa this past campaign was 71-for-134 for 783 yards and 6 TDs. As a junior he completed 101 of 189 attempts for 1,290 yards and 12 TDs. In his three campaigns at the controls, Pachessa passed for almost 3,100 yards.

Freiheit latched onto 44 passes for 533 yards and 5 TDs his senior campaign. In the last three years, the Eagles' top pass catcher had 138 receptions for 1,796 yards and 17 TDs. In his three campaigns at the controls, Pachessa passed for almost 3,100 yards.

Little Rascals Return

By JOAN HANAUER

UP Television's "Little Rascals" returns to the air with a new form — animation. Muller wrote and produced "The Little Rascals Christmas Special" to be seen on NBC Dec. 3, 8:30 p.m. That's significant because Muller is the author of a dozen Christmas cartoons you'll see this year, including "Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer" (in its 16th showing since its 1964 debut), "Frosty the Snowman," "Santa Claus is Coming to Town" (his favorite so far), and many more, including some newcomers such as "Jack Frost" and "Frosty and Rudolph's Christmas in July." That was written to be put on the air in the summer, but it's a Christmas story about people giving gifts with very little money. Muller doesn't confine himself to Christmas shows. He also wrote the splendid television cartoon version of Tolkien's "The Hobbit," and has completed a new Tolkien animation titled, "Frodo the Hobbit," taken mostly from "Return of the King" and scheduled to be a two-hour ABC special this winter or early spring.

Holly Concert Scheduled

SOUTH WINDSOR — The South Windsor Community Chorus will present its seventh annual Holly Concert on Dec. 15 at 8 p.m. at the South Windsor High School. The chorus is a program of the Recreation Department which was organized to provide an opportunity for musical expression for both the trained and untrained voice. Although no formal audition is necessary, a distinct standard of excellence is maintained. Mrs. Roberta Reeves, chorus director said. Membership in the chorus is made up of adults and high school students from South Windsor and other areas. Two concerts are performed annually, one in the spring and the other at Christmas time. Mrs. Reeves, who has been director of the chorus since its inception, directed a group in 1972 which formed a benefit concert to raise funds to buy band uniforms for the high school and Timothy Edwards School. The success of that concert led to the formation of the community chorus. Mrs. Reeves was formerly director of music for the Wapping Community Church of South Windsor. She directed the children's choirs for 10 years and the adult church choir for six years. She devotes much time to reviewing and selecting the music for all performances, choosing songs enjoyable to chorus members and the audiences. The chorus now has about 70 members, the majority of whom have belonged for several years. Miss Karen Krinjak is accompanist for the chorus. She is a native of Manchester and a graduate of the Boston Conservatory of Music. She is presently director of instrumental music at Manchester High School and previously was an elementary music specialist in the South Windsor School system.

Church Sets Sing-Along

MANCHESTER — A sing-along evening of entertainment will be held Friday at St. Bridget Church. It will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the school auditorium and will be conducted by Father Thomas Murphy, of Fairfield. Father Murphy was inducted this month into the College Preparatory School of Fairfield University Hall of Fame and has entertained innumerable gatherings at the piano and organ. Sally Middleton, a former Miss Connecticut, will be the mistress of ceremonies. Entertainment will be provided on the fiddle by 11-year-old Kari Berg, who was the U.S. representative at the International Competition for Irish Music this summer in Ireland, and by William Marceau Sr. and William Marceau Jr. on the bagpipes joined by Kevin Marceau vocalist. A raffle will be held during intermission, and sing-along sheets will be provided. The organ played by Father Murphy will be provided by Allen Organ Studios of Hartford Inc. Tickets will be available at the door.

Culture Program Slated

COVENTRY — "The Library as a Center for Children's Culture," will be the topic of a program to be held at the Booth-Dimock Memorial Library at 8 p.m. on Dec. 4. Francella Butler, a professor of English at the University of Connecticut, will be the guest speaker. She will be joined by Brad Williams, a professional puppeteer who is now working on a television series for Warner Brothers. Williams will perform an authentic "Punch and Judy" puppet show. Following the program there will be a question and answer period. The program is part of the "Independent Library in the Small Community" program sponsored by the Connecticut Humanities Council.

Road Race on CATV

MANCHESTER — A videotape of the 43rd Annual Five-Mile Thanksgiving Road Race will be shown on CATV Access Channel 13 Thursday at 7:30 p.m. The 30-minute program features interviews with the winner, John Treacy, and with numerous race participants and spectators. Also included are race highlights. "The thing about the tape that sets it apart from average sportsfare," according to producer Jay April, "is that it captures the festive atmosphere and excitement that are part of this great town tradition." Viewers are invited to address all suggestions and comments regarding town sponsored programming on Access Channel 13 to Jay April, communications specialist, at the high school media center.

Bus Set for Show

VERNON — The Vernon Arts Commission will sponsor a bus trip to the Jorgensen Auditorium, University of Connecticut, Jan. 26 to see the show, "Aladdin" by the Prince Street Players at 1 p.m. Commission members said they are sponsoring the trip because a previous one last month was so successful. The cost is $3 for adults and $2 for students and children. Art Council members may deduct $1 from the price of the adult ticket and 50 cents from the student ticket. Ticket orders and money should be sent by Nov. 29 to Mrs. Dorothy Casadei, 160 Washington St., Vernon. Checks should be made payable to the Vernon Arts Commission. Children under age 12 must be accompanied by an adult.

Dance Program Set

STORRS — The Murray Louis Dance Company, now in its 26th year, brings a program of new works to the stage of the University of Connecticut's Jorgensen Auditorium Thursday at 8:15. The program will begin with "Afternoon," which had its premiere performance Nov. 1 at New York's City Center. After an intermission will come "Schubert," based on music from the composer's "Trout Quintet." It was first presented in October 1977. Then will come "Deja Vu, a Suite in Five Parts," a dance first performed in February 1977, followed by the 1974 work "Geometrics." Louis began his career doubling as a sometime lead dancer in the famous Alvin Nikolais Dance Theater, and Nikolais' influence has permeated Louis' later work. All of the works on the Jorgensen program list Nikolais as either scenic or lighting designer, or composer, for example. As a choreographer, Louis has created more than 60 ballets to date. As a performer, he has appeared with his company in over 30 countries with audiences that total in the hundreds of thousands.

Input on Curriculum Favored by Kennedy

By LAUREN DAVIS SHEA

MANCHESTER — The town's PTA council has proposed a citizens advisory council to work on curriculum goals which was greeted enthusiastically by School Superintendent James Kennedy. Citing citizen interest in the goals and programs of the local education system, PTA President James Moroney said. The citizens advisory council will have as its purpose formulating goals and programs, "to meet these changes. Kennedy said the proposal is an 'opportunity to widen citizen participation in the formulation of school board goals. My only concern is that we not get too many citizens' groups going because this creates problems in staff coordination." The proposal, according to Moroney and Kennedy, meets state Board of Education guidelines. The board was asked to consider the proposal at its December meeting. In other business, the board heard the superintendent's report on the Regional Occupational Training Center. In a prepared statement, Kennedy said the center is seeing "filling the missing link in the education of the handicapped. Like any other institution it is undergoing changes, and some false starts. It has changed from when it opened in 1976 and it will change between now and 1985." The mission of the program was explained as being to provide special

News For Senior Citizens

By WALLY FORTIN
Here's another interesting bit of news for you folks who like to have your own garden. Joe has had our garden at the Green School enlarged now so that we will be able to accommodate about ten small spaces for gardens. If you are interested, you should contact Joe, and, by the way, he will be working in the garden this Thursday afternoon and Friday afternoon and it sure made for a nice Thanksgiving present. Now we are in the process of putting it all together and getting the paper work ready to go out to bid. This all takes two to three weeks and then the "anchors away" to start the work. Meanwhile we have quite a bit of work that we must do as our added share in receiving the grant. So now I am putting in a special call for you men to come forth and put in a few hours in the mornings. We'll be up there painting, sanding one of the floors and some carpentry work. The more we can get done in the next few weeks will certainly help to make the $17,725 do the important work. We arrive at the school around 9 a.m. and most of the men leave at noon. So come on out and give us a helping hand. By the way, here's an important announcement especially for you folks who missed out on our Holiday Fair. Our ladies have volunteered to spend this coming Saturday here at the Senior Center to sell some beautiful handmade articles and ceramics. They will be here from 10 a.m. to about 5 p.m. and this will give you a chance to pick up some nice Christmas gifts at a reasonable price and help us out at the same time. Our planned trip to Florida is coming along pretty well and at this writing we have ten seats left. For further information, call our office, 647-3211. We received word that the following ladies are patients at the Manchester Memorial Hospital: Grace Windsor and Mary Rhodes. Also Bob Dreyer who is beginning to feel a little better after having a slight shock. Our good friend and onetime good will ambassador, Paul Schuetz, now in the Manchester Manor Convalescent Home. Tomorrow after a nice veal parmigiana lunch we will have a bingo game to make up for the one we missed last Friday. The games will start about 1 p.m. This past Wednesday before the holiday weekend, we had 9 tables winners were: Josephine Schuetz, 608; Mary Hill, 604; Billy Stone, 598; Dm. Ahlatian, 590; Robert Schuber, 585; Bob Hill, 584; Annette Hillery, 584; Sam Shors, 579; Martha LaBate, 572. We had a real big turnout for our pinocle games on Monday and the winners were: Mina Reuther, 806; Gladys Secker, 798; Martha LaBate, 771; Fritz Wilkenson, 768; Jennie Fogarty, 767; John Kline, 757; Bob Schuber, 757; Josephine Schuetz, 757; Rene Maire, 751; Felix Jesanis, 748; Al Gates, 746; Leon Falls, 740; Al Chellman, 739.

New Report Card Pleases Parents

SOUTH WINDSOR—The initial parental response to the newly formulated progress reports was extremely positive. Robert Goldman, superintendent of schools for each child.

The new report cards were mailed out to parents of each student, this month, and at the elementary school level conferences were scheduled and held with parents of each child.

Goldman said the progress reports were changed because parents asked that more information be included on the report cards.

The new progress report was prepared last year by a committee consisting of representatives of each elementary school and members of the Pupil Services Department, the administration and representatives from Ellsworth School, Timothy Edwards School and the high school.

The new report card replaces one which used letters to indicate simply satisfactory and non-satisfactory progress and was first used in 1973.

Goldman said parents will receive the new progress report four times during the school year, and the report will be mailed to eliminate peer pressure to share grades. He said that in addition to the written report, conferences will be held following the first and third marking periods.

Goldman said parents seem to appreciate the fact both a performance mark and an effort mark are given in each subject area. He said the performance mark is entered around the concept of "grade level" and grade level is an expectation level by which the curriculum is designed.

We normally expect, for example, third graders can accomplish tasks and use this knowledge in selecting materials, assigning groups and in making decisions about promotion or retention.

Goldman said further refinement of this concept is available to the schools through the testing program and the experience of the staff. The curriculum is designed.

Goldman explained that the "effort" grade is the teacher's evaluation of how diligently a student is applying his or her self to the work assigned. He said first graders will receive only an effort grade during the first marking period.

No changes were made in the method of reporting on the progress of kindergarten students. He said the kindergarten teachers will receive only an end-of-the-year written report and reporting during the year will continue to be through parent-teacher conferences.

MCC Continuing Support Groups

MANCHESTER—The separated, divorced or widowed members of the Manchester Community College will continue to sponsor two support groups on Thursdays through the semester recess.

"...AND IF THOSE OF YOU ON THE LEFT WOULD CARE TO LOOK, WE'RE PASSING OVER DENVER OR NEW ORLEANS OR SOMETHING."

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: In response to the complaint about barking dogs, you said, "There's a law against disturbing the peace. Call the police!" This is easy for you to say; you don't live in Lancaster, Ohio. I do, and it wouldn't work here. True, there is an ordinance, but lawyers say it cannot be enforced, so it would be useless to take the matter to court.

In Lancaster, the dog owners have all the rights; people bothered by barking dogs all night just have to put up with it. Maybe Ralph Nader can do something about this type of noise pollution. Please ask him.

CONSTANT HEADACHE IN OHIO

DEAR ABBY: Ralph Nader is more concerned with four-wheeled "dogs" than four-legged ones. But if he has any suggestions, I hope he'll send them my way.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 64-year-old, fairly attractive widow. After losing my husband of 40 years, I sold my home and moved to a lovely retirement community. This place would be paradise - if it weren't for the women who live here with their husbands.

I have never seen such jealousy! They watch their men like hawks when I'm around. I used to be in business and have always felt comfortable around men, but since living here I'm afraid to be myself. I watch every word I utter, being careful not to come on too strong with the men, or be too charming or entertaining for fear some woman will think I'm trying to steal her husband. I once had a winning sociality, but now I feel like a stupid, frustrated bump on a log.

When my husband was alive, I always encouraged him to dance with single women. Now when the music starts I go into the powder room for fear some man will ask me to dance and his wife will think I gave him the come-on.

What's a widow to do?

FRUSTRATED IN ARIZONA

DEAR FRUSTRATED: Be yourself, and don't try to second-guess other women. You can't know what they're thinking. The chances are that they are just as generous as you are to be in business, but your sudden single status has raised you to be slightly self-conscious, insecure and perhaps a touch paranoid.

DEAR ABBY: I'm a 27-year-old woman who has never married. I've had lots of boyfriends, but I've never had a lasting relationship with anyone.

About four months ago I met a terrific guy. He's 36, recently divorced, and just what I've always wanted. He told me on our very first date that he is not marriage material, wants no commitments and doesn't want to get serious. He said I'd never see him on those terms, we could have a lot of fun together. I was so excited, I had more than I could handle. I was so excited, I had more than I could handle.

I'm pretty sure I'm not the only girl he's dating, but on Saturday night dates last until Monday morning.

My problem is I've fallen in love with him. I've tried to date other guys, but my mind is always on him. I can't mind my Abby. I want marriage.

My heart tells me this guy is not marriage minded, but my heart won't let me quit seeing him. What should I do?

HURTING IN ASHVILLE

DEAR HURTING: If you want marriage, you're wasting a lot of time. Hurting and love on a man who told you up front that he's not marriage material. The word from here is, say goodbye and let him go. And if you never hear from him again you'll be lucky.

If you need help in writing letters of sympathy, congratulations or thank you letters, get Abby's book, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions." Send $1 and a long, stamped US cent, self-addressed envelope to Abby: 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Win at bridge

South had made an unusual safety play indeed. If he had played the ace or king of trumps he would have wound up losing one trick in each suit assuming proper defense by East and West. The unusual trump finesse avoided the trump loss.

Now suppose the finesse had not been a singleton on doubleton queen. West would be on lead, but the seven of trumps would be a sure entry to dummy. South would have time to knock out the first trump.

GET THE CHEESE AND HAVE A PARTY

People/Food

Entertaining used to mean formality and fussing. It still does, sometimes, but now some of the best parties are casual ones. Lighter fare is gaining in popularity, so is cheese.

Cheese is a natural party food, especially for relaxed, comfortably undemanding get-togethers. It's convenient, versatile, and always appropriate.

Any way you slice it, cheese is an appealing addition to a company menu. Make a few calculated cuts, add a simple garnish, and you'll have an assortment of appetizers that pleases the eye as well as the palate. To help you begin, here from the Kraft Kitchens, are some food ideas that incorporate both ease of preparation and no-fuss serving.

- Height always adds interest to a buffet table. If you don't have a tiered dish, make one. Stack cups between a chop plate, dinner plate, and dessert plate as shown here. Or build a pedestal with a small bowl and a round platter. Turn an individual size salad bowl upside-down and top with a serving size bowl to create a footed server. Use florist clay to secure your invention.
- Make a "Colby Spiral" by cutting a 16-ounce longhorn style natural colby cheese crosswise into 8 slices. Turn upright and cut vertically into quarters. Serve with party picks.
- Towers of round crackers are easy to stack and take less space than usual horizontal arrangements.
- Sample a variety of cheese types, shapes, textures, and flavors. Use a wax dipped cheese such as gouda to add color contrast.
- Most cheese should be served at room temperature. Cover cheese trays fixed ahead, tightly, and refrigerate until a half-hour before serving.
- For quick-to-make canapés, pair cheese with vegetables, fruits, cooked meats, and other cheeses. Improvise with what you have on-hand.
- Vary the shapes of your cheese snacks. Combine squares and rounds, rectangles and wedges. Cut cubes and sticks, too.
- Cut cheese chilled. It's easier.
- Garnish to make it grand. Line platters with lemon leaves. Slice stuffed olives. Arrange strips of pimiento with chopped parsley. Frost grapes.
- To frost grapes: Dip grapes in slightly beaten egg white; coat with sugar. Let stand at room temperature to dry.

APPETIZER PÂTÉ CHEESECAKE

Cheesecake moves up on the menu to the first course with this new appetizer pâté recipe. It's rich, so slice the wedges thin. Make this savory dish "a day before" if you prefer, cover and refrigerate. Garnish it just before the party starts.

| 3 tablespoons Parkay margarine, melted |
| 1 envelope unflavored gelatin |

Pour over crust. Chill until firm. Remove rim of pan; garnish with chopped green onion and pimiento strips, if desired.

Dream of Sugarplums, But Make Your Own Candy

For those special people on your gift list, what could be nicer than candy made in your own kitchen? It's such a rarity these days that it's certain to be a most appreciated present.

Most candy is a combination of a few simple ingredients, not difficult to make, especially if you have a candy thermometer. Two of these are the Cherry Eggnog Fudge and Pralines, since they are a cooked variety. Butter mints do not need one of these ingredients.

If you've made candy before, then you know both the all-time and atmospheric pressure make a difference in how long it takes to cook the candy. There are such things as good candy-making days — the ones which are fair, dry and cool. If the weather's snowy or rainy, recipes require one, the Cherry Eggnog Fudge and Pralines, since they are a firm, then wrap individually in plastic. Store in a straight container in a cool, dry place.

Butter Mints
Yields: approx. 12 dozen.
2 pounds (9 lbs.) confectioners' sugar
1/2 cup (1 stick) butter, melted and cooled slightly
5 to 6 tablespoons cold water
1 tablespoon peppermint extract
Few drops red food color
Few drops yellow food color

(For ease in handling, work with half of the recipe at a time.) Combine 1 pound sugar, 1/2 cup melted butter, and 1 1/2 teaspoons extract in a large mixing bowl. Turn onto smooth, dry surface. Knead until mixture is smooth and the consistency of pastry dough. Correct consistency, if necessary, by adding a few drops of water at a time. Divide mixture in half; leave half uncolored. Add a few drops of red food color to the other half and knead until color is evenly distributed. Repeat with the other half of ingredients, tinting candy green and yellow. Shape teaspoonfuls of mixture into small thin round patties on cookie sheets. Decorate by pressing surface with back side of tines of a fork, if desired. Let stand at room temperature 3 to 4 hours to harden slightly. Store in airtight container in refrigerator up to one month.

Give the finest in candies when they're homemade Cherry Eggnog Fudge, Pralines or Butter Mints.

Pizza Souffle — Eye-opener

Brighten the morning of your next brunch with a zesty flavored souffle that can be made ahead. Serve with peach halves and complement with a glass of chilled orange juice served elegantly from a punch bowl.

Since this pizza flavored souffle also contains Italian sausage, The National Hot Dog & Sausage Council suggests it also as a light supper entree.

Pizza Souffle
Yield: approx. 3 dozen
3 cups firmly packed

13-inch casserole and spread bread cubes in bottom. Arrange sausage and slice in one-fourth inch slices. Arrange on top of bread cubes, then cover with grated mozzarella cheese and cheddar cheese, and sprinkle with oregano and fennel. In blender or mixer combine eggs, milk, and pour over casserole. Cover and place in refrigerator overnight. Bake in a 300° F oven for 1 1/2 hours. It might take a little longer, if the casserole has just been removed from the refrigerator. Serves 8-10.

Two popular holiday sausages that look very much like braunschweiger and liver sausage. Frequently we speak of these two interchangeably, but they are different products, though similar in flavor and nutrition. As pre-cooked meat products, both are ready to eat, making them ideal for the party planner.

The National Hot Dog & Sausage Council suggests blending either braunschweiger or liver sausage with cream cheese and forming a delicious spread. This mixture also can be shaped into a ball and rolled in nut meats or parsley flakes. Place on a platter and circle with snack crackers.

Cheese Makes Special Gifts

A gift of food is unique, practical and personal. For the giver, it's simple, too; you don't have to wonder if your present is the right size or if your friend already has one. Even if you don't have the time or experience to bake a present, you can give a special treat for the holidays: a package of assorted cheeses. Many cheese shops and delicatessen prepared assortments, but it's easy to add an individual touch to your gifts by selecting the cheese and preparing the packages yourself.

The most pleasing assortments contain cheeses in a range of flavors, from mild to sharp, with a variety of textures — soft, semi-soft and hard. Select three to six different types, depending on your budget. To make assembling a gift package easier, here are some descriptions of natural cheeses grouped according to texture.

Cheddar, Colby and Provolone are hard cheeses with flavors ranging from mild to sharp, depending on how long they've been allowed to age. (The longer natural cheeses age, the sharper and firmer they become.)

Cheddar is a versatile, flavorful cheese that makes an excellent appetizer or dessert as well as adding its distinct zest to cooked foods. It is sold in random weights, wheels, cylinders (longhorns) and blocks.

Colby is a member of the Cheddar family with a softer, more open texture and milder flavor than Cheddar. It's best used as a snack, in sandwiches and as a cooking ingredient.

Provolone is aged slightly and usually smoked to produce a savory taste. It is used frequently in Italian cooking, but also goes well with crackers and fruit. Its appearance adds a unique touch to a gift package as it is often sold in irregularly shaped spheres and sausage-like loaves tied with twine.

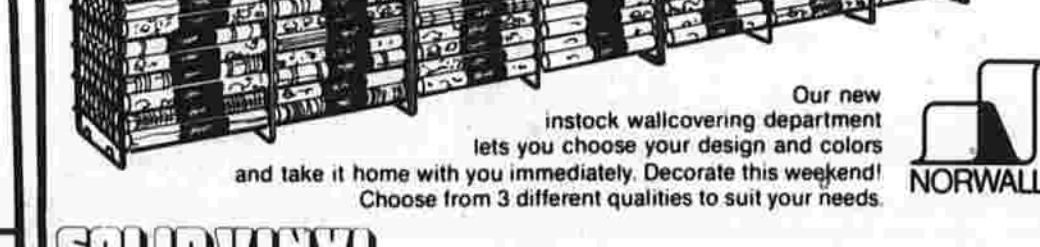

Swiss and Gruyere have a sweet, nut-like taste and make good appetizers and snacks. Swiss is sold in random cuts; however, most of the Gruyere sold in crackers or hot d'oeuvres-style breads make a nice addition to a cheese assortment.

When assembling your gifts, remember that natural cheeses must not be kept outside the refrigerator for a long period of time. Store them in their original packages or wrapped securely with aluminum foil or plastic wrap. If you don't have room in your refrigerator for lots of gift-wrapped boxes, wrap your presents just before giving them.

Browsing in cheese shops may make you want to taste some of the less familiar varieties yourself, or perhaps serve them at holiday parties. To create a cheese tray for an appetizer or dessert with fruit, use the same type of combination as in a gift. There are six different kinds of cheese that will give you and your guests a pleasing variety of tastes and textures from which to choose.

The Year-round Turkey Cookbook

Even people who are low-calorie cooking tend to throw caution to the winds at Thanksgiving.

Low Siebert Pappas, of Portola Valley, Calif., and Barbara Gibbons, of Verona, N.J., are in that class.

Mrs. Pappas says she learned the hard way her four children are traditionalists at holiday time. "One year I did a continental dinner. The children were crushed. It wasn't Thanksgiving to them."

Now, the holiday is so fully rich and everyone loves it," Mrs. Pappas said in a telephone interview.

Mrs. Gibbons, a syndicated columnist, agreed: "Despite my best efforts, there's no lack of rich food at Thanksgiving."

In a telephone interview, Mrs. Gibbons said rich desserts and other fattening foods are contributed by family members when the children gather every other year at her home.

Mrs. Pappas is a newspaper food editor, freelance writer and cookbook author whose latest book is "Enterprising The Slim Way" (Addison-Wesley $5.95 paper).

She said her family's traditional meal is Greek style because she married into a Greek family.

Dinner starts with aygolemno, a lemon-flavored soup thickened with eggs. Then comes turkey with chestnut and chicken liver stuffing, roast yams, a whole cauliflower surrounded by baby artichokes with lemon dressing, pastitsio — a creamy, rich casserole containing pasta; either a Greek salad with feta, olives, tomatoes and cucumbers or spinach with feta and toasted pine nuts or sunflower seeds or greens with avocado.

Profits and persimmon slices. Desserts are even richer: baklava, a sweet, buttery Greek pastry; kouribiedes, shortbread type cookies; and eggnog cream.

"At other times and for all our entertaining and home dining, I've switched to simpler food," Mrs. Pappas said. "People don't miss the calories because it's not at all like diet food."

"I became aware of the way times were going. I learned you can cut out a lot of butter and cream without missing it. Flavors become sharper."

The 60 international menus and more than 200 recipes in Mrs. Pappas' latest cookbook reflect that philosophy. Most meals provide 500 or fewer calories per person.

They also reflect the author's philosophy as a full day at the Palo Alto Times-Tribune, then goes home to cook for her husband, Nicholas, and the three children still at home. Many of her recipes are made ahead for service a day or more later.

"The men are really helping out since I began working full-time," she said. She said her husband may prepare Greek meatballs or a soup from one of her books. Their three sons make their own breakfasts and lunches. Their daughter, 18, is at college in Santa Barbara.

The Gibbons family will have Thanksgiving dinner this year at their daughter's home in the Los Angeles area, Mrs. Gibbons' last stop on a promotional tour for her latest book.

"The Year-Round Turkey Cookbook" (McGraw-Hill $6.95 paper) was developed at the suggestion of the nation's largest manufacturer of turkey products, which provided turkey items for recipe testing and development and nutritional information.

Mrs. Gibbons said their newlywed daughter, Mrs. Susan Gillespie, "uses a lot of my recipes and she promised to make me my low-calorie cranberry recipe. But her father gave orders for all the traditional things. And the finale will probably be very grand — her new husband has a sweet tooth."

Asked for calorie-cutting tips for Thanksgiving, Mrs. Gibbons suggested:

—Don't buy a self-stuffing turkey.

—Use wine, broth or fruit juice instead of fat for basting.

—Omit oil or butter from your favorite stuffing recipe.

—Onions and celery for it don't need to be pre-browned. Or you can cook them in a little broth, just until it evaporates."

—Skim fat from the drippings before making gravy.

—It's not the flour that makes it fattening."

—Omit butter orange peel from fresh cranberry relish and use currants or raisins instead of sugar and dehydrated fruit juice concentrate — orange, apple or cider instead of water and sugar.

—Substitute defrosted juice concentrate for sugar and butter on baked squash.

—Use evaporated skimmed milk instead of whole milk in pumpkin pie, and only half as much sweetening as the recipe calls for — or bake the filling as a custard, without crust.

Mrs. Gibbons said one of her favorite desserts is frozen vanilla yogurt or ice milk topped with hot cranberries that have been heated in a little water only until they pop. The tart, crunchy hot cranberries don't need sweetening, she said, cause there's so much sugar in the yogurt or ice milk.

Creamy Cranberry Orange Dessert Mold offers a lovely finale.

How to 'Vaccinate' Kids Against Peer Pressure

By UPI
One of the childhood diseases parents fear most is very contagious, strikes in early adolescence, lasts about a decade, and has no known cure except time. The "disease" is peer pressure.

To many parents, every case is hopeless. "Parents often complain the trouble with little Johnny is the kids he hangs out with," says Dr. Irving Sarnoff, a New York school psychiatrist.

When her counselors meet students in sixth grade, she said, "You work with young ladies (to convince them) that they are beautiful, and they are beautiful for themselves and they don't have to be carriers of drugs for their boyfriends."

She said parents should start earlier in the preschool years, building up children's sense of self-esteem and making them seem important as individuals.

"If parents start with that," Ms. Cutts said, "it's not always what the parent says but the way the parent lives his or her life."

Sarnoff said parents who are overly concerned with what the neighbors or the people at the club will say should not be surprised to find their children following along with the group.

Robert Holt, a professor of clinical psychology at New York University, suggests parents should avoid their failings in this area.

"Children get lots of such double messages," he said. "In a way, there's always something to be said for trying to inculcate high ideals even if you can't live up to them yourself."

In this vein, parents might want to make a point of expressing their admiration for people in the news or in history who stand up for what they believe in.

Ms. Cutts recommended that parents talk to their children about what she calls survival skills, such as lying. Many teenagers, for example, nurse fictitious hangovers as an excuse to take a soft drink instead of beer at a party.

Often, he said, parents should look at their children's behavior as if they were a stranger. "It's not always what the parent says but the way the parent lives his or her life," Sarnoff said.

He said sometimes parents pressure their children to be popular. "They help, they provide a framework for conscience," Goldsmith said. "Even if kids violate rules, and they do, they need to have limits to know what to violate."

Mint Peach Halves

Fill a French roll with a hearty chef salad...
 Chef Salad Sandwich
 1 cup salami strips, 1/2 inch wide
 1 medium tomato, diced
 1/2 cup shredded swiss cheese
 1/4 cup green or red pepper, chopped
 2 tablespoons chopped red onion
 1 tablespoon chopped parsley
 1/3 cup mayonnaise
 1/2 cup French bread or sourdough hard rolls
 Chill 1 hour. To serve, slice French bread loaf or sourdough rolls lengthwise. Liberally spread filling on bread. Serve on salad plate with Emerald Mint Peach Halves. Makes 6-8 servings.

Add Rosy Note to Dessert

Cranberries are certain to appear somewhere in your holiday menu because they're traditional. But more than that, they add a welcome, rosy touch of color to rich foods.

Since they're so versatile, cranberries need not necessarily appear only as a sauce or relish. They can go into quick breads, pies or even a creamy custard dessert which is at home equally well as a finale to a turkey, ham or beef dinner.

This creamy dessert is made with a gelatin base, eggs, sugar and milk. The cranberries come from the frozen relish which also contains orange. That flavor is highlighted further with some grated peel, and fluffiness and richness are supplied by separately beaten egg whites and whipping cream.

Plan on using a two-quart mold for this dessert since you'll be able to get ten or more servings from it. The higher the mold, the more tiers it has, the more spectacular will your dessert be!

Molded desserts like this one should be made in advance, preferably the day before the big occasion so they can set properly if you wish, pass some of your favorite holiday butter cookies with it.

What are those mistakes? They are clothes that fit poorly, are the wrong color, match nothing else or were bought on sale.

These four c's to a total look can help you avoid future mistakes and build a good-looking wardrobe.

Comfort: Think about your favorite clothes that are comfortable.

They fit well: they are not too tight. They are soft, stiff, they simply make you feel good.

Coordination: If a wardrobe is to work, it must be coordinated. When the colors and styles are well chosen, the result is a total look.

Select only colors and cuts that look and feel good on you. Shop for accessories and accents of color that complement your chosen garments.

Views On Dental Health

By JACK BYNES, D.M.D.

PERIODONTAL DISEASE - EARLY DIAGNOSIS

You have just completed your regular dental checkup. You breathe a deep sigh of relief. "No cavities, but your gums are in poor shape." You are mistakenly relieved. The sad fact is that more teeth are lost because of periodontal disease (gum disease) than from any other factor, including cavities.

Fortunately, it can be treated successfully if it is diagnosed early. Unfortunately, you have no way of knowing of its onset other than by dental examination because there is normally no pain or other symptoms in its early stages.

Once this silent disorder advances, though, the gums and even the jawbone may become inflamed and even

Last Minute Gifts from Your Kitchen

If you are not one of those organized people who has fruitcakes mellowing by Thanksgiving and Christmas cards mailed by the date the post office suggests, take heart. Gifts from the kitchen always get an enthusiastic reception, and these can be made at the last minute, if you prefer.

A fruitcake recipe that is edging out many more elaborate ones starts with date or nut quick bread mix. Besides being a more moist fruitcake that many prefer, Holiday Fruitcake is a big advantage. It can be eaten as soon as it is completely cooled. It keeps as well as other fruitcakes and also can be frozen, if you prefer.

350°F. for 75 to 85 minutes or until toothpick inserted in center comes out clean. Cool 30 minutes; loosen edges and remove from pan. Cool completely. To store, wrap tightly in foil or plastic wrap; place in refrigerator. If desired, glaze with warm corn syrup; decorate with candied fruits and nuts. 36 servings.

*TIPS: If desired, substitute 2 lbs. (4 cups) candied fruit mixture for candied cherries and pineapple.

If desired, divide recipe in half and bake in one of the following pan variations:

One greased and floured 6x4-inch loaf pan. Bake 70 to 80 minutes.

One greased and floured 9x3-inch loaf pan. Bake 90 to 70 minutes.

One greased and floured 6 to 8-cup ring mold. Bake 40 to 50 minutes.

Five (10 1/2-oz. size) soup cans. Grease only; fill three-fourths full. Bake 35 to 40 minutes.

Eighteen to twenty-four muffin cups. Paper or foil lined; fill two-thirds full. Bake 20 to 25 minutes.

High Altitude - Above 5000 Feet: Add 2 tablespoons flour to dry mix. Bake at 375°F. for 60 to 70 minutes.

Foster Children: Can We Avoid Their Abuse?

Because his parents neglected him, Derrick Gresham, 7, was removed from his New York City home two years ago and placed in foster care.

The court said the move was for his own protection. Derrick joined his older brother, John, in first one foster home, then another.

Instead of being protected, Derrick was killed.

On May 26 Derrick was beaten on the buttocks with a belt, allegedly by his foster father, so severely that his blood vessels ruptured. He used of internal bleeding. His brother, also beaten, had to be hospitalized.

The foster father was indicted for second-degree murder.

Derrick was one of 18 children to die in foster care in New York City so far this year — a rate almost twice that for children in the general population. Five and possibly six of these deaths are reported to be the result of maltreatment, either direct abuse — besides Derrick's case, a foster mother is charged with murder in the beating death of a 3-year-old girl — or lack of adequate supervision.

According to social workers and others connected with foster care, the problem of abuse is a national one, affecting several thousand children annually and, perhaps more importantly, pointing up the serious deficiencies that make foster care one of the saddest of government services.

"In a sense, you have as a government moved a child from one situation of risk and put that child in another situation of risk," said Carol Bellamy, New York City Council president, launching an investigation into foster care abuse.

"What we should not be doing as a government is making it worse."

Foster care specialists estimate that the vast majority of the half a million foster children across the country — 350,000 — are living with families, the rest in group homes or treatment centers are never abused.

"Child abuse is a rampant kind of thing in our society, and I think that foster parents aren't all that different from anybody else," said Helen Jones, foster parent curriculum director with the Child Welfare League of America. "It just shows up so strongly among people who in the main are out to protect children."

Beverly Stubbe, foster care specialist in the U.S. Children's Bureau, stresses that abuse would most certainly be greater if the children stayed with their natural parents, who, according to American Humane Association statistics, commit 86 percent of reported child abuse.

Two incidents in Rhode Island illustrate Ms. Stubbe's point. Within months last year, two infants involved with foster care died.

One, Shamie Walle, 18 months old, who had been living with foster parents, was beaten to death on a weekend visit to his natural parents. Soon after, the 15-month-old daughter of mentally retarded parents — a child social workers had recommended be placed in foster care — starved to death.

The resulting investigation turned up extreme confusion and competition among agencies charged with getting children into foster care, guarding them while in the system, and getting them out again.

A massive overhaul resulted, and on Jan. 1, a new cabinet-level department for children and their families will replace the 150 children's programs scattered among five state agencies.

Besides the New York deaths, the city has documented 22 cases of non-fatal abuse to foster children so far this year and is investigating about 300 more. The system, which handles 23,000 children, is the country's largest. But the evidence is that foster care does not work very well anywhere in the nation.

In Hennepin County, Minn., for example, a judge ruled in October that it would be too risky to send a 3-year-old girl back to the foster home where she apparently was bruised and battered.

The girl, who had been abandoned by her mother, was living with her third set of foster parents. The couple wanted to adopt her. But on May 30, the girl arrived at her regular babysitter's with two badly swollen black eyes, body scars and hematomas.

The babysitter called authorities, who took the child to another foster home. Later, in court, the tearful couple blamed the girl's injuries on accidental falls. They said they loved her and had learned enough about child rearing to give her a safe home — but the judge refused.

In Sacramento, Calif., complaints of overcrowding, drug abuse and sexual abuse were brought against the operators of the Dry Creek Home, a foster home for emotionally troubled children. And two counselors at the nearby Holy Acres residential group home, with 40 mentally disturbed children, have been charged with furnishing drugs to juveniles and engaging in sex with a juvenile, a 16-year-old girl who was taken to a motel 16 times. In Missouri, Nancy Grant, foster care consultant with the state Division of Family Services in Jefferson City, estimated 1 per cent of the state's 5,500 foster children were abused or neglected annually.

(If the same percentage were to apply nationally, it would mean 5,500 instances of abuse and neglect a year. The U.S. Census Bureau, however, estimates its abuse rate at 3.5 cases for every 1,000 foster children, which, if applied nationally, would mean 1,750 abused foster children. The foster care system is so confused that no one knows which figure is more accurate.)

Ms. Grant called the situation in her state "minimal," but added, "even a little bit is too much in my opinion."

The abuse, Ms. Kautler said, involved over-medication, over-enclosure, and harsh punishment. She said data on abuse in foster families was scarce.
