

Hostage Situation Uncertain

TEHRAN, Iran (UPI) — Iran's foreign minister said today some of the 50 U.S. hostages will be freed shortly and others tried as spies, with possible death penalties. But Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini quickly jeopardized the promised releases with a blistering attack on the United States.

Khomeini said Iranians should sever all ties with the United States and "rub America's snout into the dust." He dismissed the U.N. Security Council resolution calling for release of the hostages as an "American plot."

Militant students, too, denounced Foreign Minister Sadegh Qobzadeh's statement on the release of more hostages as "completely false" and said none of the Americans, being held for the 34th day today, would be released until Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi is returned to Iran to stand trial.

In Paris, French justice ministry sources said a nephew of the shah, the son of his twin sister Princess Ashraf, was shot and killed today on a street in the French capital. He was identified as Mustapha Chafik, 34, one of the two sons of the shah's sister.

The conflicting statements on the American hostages reflected the continued deep divisions in Tehran and a continuing battle involving Khomeini, militant students and various government members about the future of the captives.

Qobzadeh initially announced what appeared to be a breakthrough in the deadlock at a news conference when he said some hostages would be freed.

"I assure you they will be freed," he said. "I cannot say when that will be... I hope not very far from now."

But he insisted some hostages almost certainly would stand trial and promised to issue a statement on the matter by Saturday.

"Those who are guilty of espionage... have breached the limits of diplomatic immunity," Qobzadeh said. "Some of them are not even diplomats. These people are not going to benefit from diplomatic immunity."

Asked if any hostages might be sentenced to death and shot by a firing squad, the foreign minister replied: "Anything is possible."

But even the release of only some of the hostages was immediately thrown into question by uncompromising statements by Khomeini — the only man who can free them — and the militants themselves.

In his first personal reaction to the United Nations' resolution calling for the release of the hostages, Khomeini denounced it as a "plot by the American Security Council, CIA and SAVAK" — the former Iranian secret police.

Khomeini urged all Iranians to go to the rooftops of their homes this evening and shout "Allah-Akbar" ("God is great") and "Death to the world-eating American imperialism!"

He charged the United States is hatching plots daily against Iran and he is "expecting new bitter happenings" soon.

Former acting foreign minister Abol Hassan Bani Sadr was replaced last week because a schism developed between himself on the one side, and Khomeini and the militant students on the other. Some observers said today's developments were a replay of that split.

"We follow only Ayatollah Khomeini," the militants said in a statement. "He has said the hostages will remain here until the shah is delivered to Iran and tried in Iran. The foreign minister's reports are completely false."

The students' statement said though they maintain contacts with Qobzadeh, "we only get our instructions from the people and Ayatollah Khomeini and no one else."

Jobless Figures Decline

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Unemployment edged down to 5.8 percent in November, with most of the improvement among women and blacks, the Labor Department said today.

The decline, from 6 percent in October, came at a time when most economists have been predicting a sharp rise in unemployment in the months ahead. Labor Department officials said that still may happen.

Unemployment among all women edged down 0.3 percent to 5.5 percent in November. Black unemployment dropped almost a full percent, from 11.7 to 10.8 percent.

Employment continued to rise in November, but this rise has been taking place more slowly in recent months.

And the department reported sharp declines in the work week of auto and steel workers, reflecting recent layoffs in those industries.

The November decline put the unemployment rate back where it was in September and kept it in the range of 5.6 to 6 percent, where it has fluctuated for more than a year.

John Bregger, head of the division which keeps the job figures, said he does not interpret it as a real decline, nor did he see the previous month as a real increase.

"I think we're just fluctuating along at the same level," Bregger said. Changes in unemployment rates for female part-time workers have accounted for much of these small ups and downs, he said. The Labor Department does not predict unemployment, but Bregger said sharp rises in unemployment, which most economists have forecast, could still lie ahead as the recession takes hold.

"It's going to happen one of these months, probably," Bregger said. The number of unemployed persons edged down by 140,000 in November to 6 million.

Total employment, as measured by a household survey, rose by 200,000. Another survey, based on reports from businesses, showed an employment rise of 220,000.

The department's index of hourly earnings adjusted for inflation — which reflects the purchasing power of workers — showed a 4.1 percent decline during the 12 months ending in October.

These were the unemployment figures for various groups of Americans in November compared to the previous month.

Adult men, 4.3 percent, unchanged. Adult women, 5.5 percent, down from 5.8.

Teenagers, 15.9 percent, down from 16.6.

Whites, 5.2 percent, unchanged. Blacks, 10.8 percent, down from 11.7.

Black teen-agers, 33.1 percent, down from 35.7.

J.C. Penney Case State Minimizes Ruling

MANCHESTER — A state official is minimizing the effect of a federal court ruling against J.C. Penney's plan to build a massive new complex in Manchester's Buckland Industrial Park.

Alan Kostoff, assistant attorney general, said today the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) may find Connecticut's environmental program in compliance with the Clean Air Act of 1977, negating yesterday's court decision.

The 2nd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in New York ruled the EPA should have required Connecticut to issue "indirect source permits."

This could halt construction of Penney's new distribution center, scheduled for a 1981 opening.

When construction of the center began, the state had filed with the EPA for removal of the "indirect source" permit requirement. The EPA did not rule on the request and the Clean Air Act of 1977 took effect.

Technically, that meant J.C. Penney, and many other projects, were in violation of the Clean Air Act of 1977, because they had no "indirect source" permit.

These permits affect projects which would be indirect sources of air pollution through the traffic they generate.

Kostoff said today that Connecticut had filed a new environmental program with the EPA Oct. 12.

If the EPA finds the program in accordance with the Clean Air Act of 1977, without the indirect source permit requirement, there is no violation.

The State Department of Environmental Protection expects the ruling sometime in January.

While the DEP awaits the ruling, Tony Pagano, representing the Manchester Environmental Coalition, said today he is preparing to reopen a suit in the U.S. District Court against J.C. Penney and others.

"This is just the beginning," he said. "With this ruling there are many others who are in violation. Buckland Commons is one."

Pagano had argued yesterday's ruling before the appeals court last June, after losing the case in February.

"My basic complaint is the state of Connecticut never pays attention to the environmental laws until somebody builds something," he said.

"Somebody has to protect the environment," he said.

Social Security Revamp Urged

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A government council today proposed sweeping changes in the Social Security system, including use of funds other than increased payroll deductions to finance the nation's retirement plan.

The payroll tax rate for Social Security, taken out of each worker's paycheck, should not be increased until the year 2005, the Advisory Council on Social Security recommended.

The council, in a major report to Congress and the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, pronounced the system sound and predicted the fund "will continue to provide this (income) protection for as far ahead as anyone can see."

Among the council's major recommendations were:

- Reducing reliance on the payroll tax by shifting some program funding operations to personal and corporate income taxes in 1980.
- Settling the earnings base for the payroll tax at a level that each year takes in the same percentage of total earnings collected in 1979.
- Providing twice yearly cost-of-living benefit increases, in March and September, if prices rise by at least 3 percent since the last period for an adjustment.

A slow phase-in of all workers, including government and non-profit employees, under coverage of the system, either with mandatory coverage for new employees or through a credit transfer plan.

While the council, headed by Henry Aaron, a senior fellow of the Brookings Institution, addressed several of the more controversial areas of the program, it failed to take a position on full-scale sharing of earnings for women who stay at home while their husbands work.

However, a narrow majority of the council said persons divorced after at least 10 years of marriage and widows or widowers should be able to benefit from the shared earnings concept.

The lengthy report said the Social Security program should be in good shape through the 21st century, and then — when more people are retired and fewer are working because of lower birth rates now — "the higher Social Security taxes that would be needed are modest."

Present low levels of the Social Security trust fund, said the report, are temporary and have "little bearing on the long-run financial strength" of the system.

The council unanimously finds that the time has come to finance some part of Social Security with non-payroll taxes," said the council, adding a majority felt the hospital insurance program was the best place to start.

The council proposed in 1980 paying for all of the hospital insurance program out of personal and corporate income taxes.

The panel unanimously rejected a proposal to finance the program from a value-added tax, as Rep. Al Ulman, D-Ore., chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, has suggested.

Four Policemen Join Force

MANCHESTER — Police Chief Robert Lannan administered the oath to four new officers of the police department, who will begin their 10-week schooling Monday at the Municipal Police Academy in Meriden.

The four new officers are Martin Jordan of Hartford, Peter Moskal of West Willington, John Cashman of Somerset, Mass., and Michael Morrissey of Longmeadow, Mass.

Jordan graduated this year from Northeastern University in Boston with a bachelor's degree in criminal justice.

Moskal received his bachelor's degree in 1974 from North Adams State College in Massachusetts. Cashman graduated from the University of Connecticut in 1977 with a bachelor's degree in business administration.

Morrissey is a senior at American International College in Springfield, Mass., majoring in criminal justice.

Lannan said the four fit the mold of his department. He called the Manchester force a young department "which is highly educated and highly motivated."

Reaction Mixed Crews Succeed

Reaction of public officials and energy experts in energy-hungry New England to the "voluntary" 1980 gasoline conservation guidelines issued Thursday by U.S. Energy Secretary Charles Duncan ranged from noncommittal to negative.

All six New England states were among those given the highest reduction goals, headed by Massachusetts which was to cut its use of gasoline by 11 percent. Only Kansas, with a 15 percent target, had a higher goal. Connecticut, Maine and Vermont were given 10 percent reduction goals while New Hampshire and Rhode Island were assigned 8 percent targets. The guidelines were based on consumption figures for the first three months of 1979.

Plan Rejected

THE HAGUE, Netherlands (UPI) — The Dutch Parliament has rejected a controversial U.S. plan to deploy new intermediate-range nuclear weapons in Western Europe, dashing hopes for unanimous approval by the NATO allies.

Shortly before midnight, Parliament voted, 78-69, for a motion that rejects outright the production and deployment in Western Europe of 572 Pershing 2 intermediate-range nuclear missiles and calls for im-

Prison Violence

SOLEDAD, Calif. (UPI) — Two inmates were stabbed to death and 17 others were hospitalized when a "pre-planned" brawl erupted Thursday in a racially tense cellblock of Soledad State Prison.

About 100 guards responded and 10 rounds of heavy grain birdshot from 12-gauge shotguns was fired into the riot. Officers with night sticks and riot gear then moved in and physically separated the 80 inmates involved.

The entire north facility of the prison, which houses 1,100 convicts, was on lockdown status today, meaning inmates will only be allowed from their cells for meals and exercise on a controlled basis.

Stampede Suit

CINCINNATI (UPI) — A college student stomped unconscious in the fan stampede at the Who concert has filed the first lawsuit in the tragedy — a $27 million classaction claim against the British rock group, Riverfront Coliseum and the concert promoters.

"I think it was a combination of unfortunate circumstances that could not be controlled."

Icy Roads

Low temperatures left a coating of ice on the Main Turnpike's Falmouth off ramp onto Interstate 95 Thursday causing the driver of this propane truck to lose control, and overturn blocking the ramp. Because the tank was leaking propane gas, police closed both lanes of I-95 and nearby U.S. Route 1, leaving early morning commuters only the old King's Highway, or North and southbound traffic. # Kenney Says Commission Doesn't Care about Care

MANCHESTER — The only concern of the Commission on Hospital and Health Care is costs, not quality of care, Edward Kenney, executive director of the Manchester Memorial Hospital said last night.

Speaking before a six-member subcommittee in Hartford, Kenney said "From my personal experience since its inception the only concern of CHHC has been cost or budget limitations. I am not aware of any concerns for quality."

The Manchester Memorial Hospital is locked in litigation with the CHHC. The commission cut $700,000 from the $22 million hospital budget, and the hospital says it cannot maintain quality of care operating within the reduced budget.

The commission says the same formula that applies to other hospitals should apply to Manchester as well.

Last night Kenney told the commission that if it wanted to ration health care, the public should be informed. "Hospitals cannot be expected to assure accessibility and quality care if the commission's stated goal is to control volume of services provided," he said.

"If rationing is the unprinted agenda, let's face it openly so that we don't make promises to the public we don't keep."

This was the fifth hearing the subcommittee has had while it tries to find ways to improve the CHHC, and contain health care costs.

The CHHC, established by state statute, has regulatory authority over health care institutions and approves all hospitals budgets. Some credit it with keeping Connecticut's health care costs down to a 9.9 percent yearly increase compared to a national average of 13.3 percent.

Kenney also credited the CHHC with "trying to run our hospital from 340 Capitol Ave." and George Roy, the hospital's chief financial officer, agreed.

"Since the commission's inception we had to add one to one-and-a-half employees to meet all the requirements," Roy said.

"It requires a large amount of time for paperwork. We would have the work for preparing the budget anyway, but meeting the regulations require more time."

But, agreeing with Kenney, Dr. John Springer, Hartford Hospital, said "Regulation is here to stay."

Other concerns expressed included duplication of effort in the CHHC, the low threshold of certificates of need which may say should be raised from $50,000 to $150,000, and the protection of charitable gifts.

The CHHC believes donations should be used for general expenditures while some who testified believe equipment should be purchased.

For period ending 7 a.m. EST 12/8/79 Friday night will find a few showers in the Pacific Northwest while some snow falls over parts of the Lakes region and higher elevations of the North Atlantic states. Elsewhere, generally fair weather should prevail.

Today is Friday, Dec. 7, the 341st day of 1979 with 24 to follow.

This is Pearl Harbor Day.
The moon is moving toward its last quarter.
The morning stars are Mars, Jupiter, Saturn and Mercury.
The evening star is Venus.
Those born on this date are under the sign of Sagittarius.
American novelist Willa Cather was born Dec. 7, 1876.
On this date in history:
In 1787, Delaware became the first state to ratify the United States Constitution.
In 1931, President Herbert Hoover refused to see a group of so-called "hunger marchers" at the White House.
In 1941, Japan launched a sneak attack on the United States at Pearl Harbor in Hawaii, killing 2,400 people and sinking America's most powerful battleships. Japanese air and sea attacks spread to the Philippines, Wake and Guam Islands — and the United States was catapulted into World War II.
In 1975, President Ford proclaimed a new "Pacific Doctrine" in Honolulu, saying American and world security depended upon U.S. "Asian commitments."

Satchel's Story

Jim Crowism denied major league baseball its greatest pitcher for most of the 40 years Lery "Satchel" Paige gave to the sport, but Hollywood will atone in part with the story of his life. Remco Productions is making the film for ABC-TV, with Lou Gossett in the title role.

The film is titled "Don't Look Back" — after the great satchel's motto, "don't look back, something might be gainin' on you."

Party Pooped

Dustin Hoffman was up to the celebration, but his costar wasn't. Justin Henry spent most of Wednesday night's blast at the Hollywood premiere of Columbia Pictures' "Kramer vs. Kramer" sound asleep.

A lock of stars — among them, Henry Winkler, Johnny Carson and Anthony Quinn — joined Hoffman in christening the movie to benefit the Los Angeles Childrens Museum.

Henry could be forgiven. After all, the party didn't start until 8 p.m. and he's only 8. He found his mom's lap a good place for a nap.

Battle Brews

Chock Full O' Nuts board chairman William Black doesn't like to attend stockholder meetings, and one minor stockholder is incensed about it. Citing Harry Truman's famed "if you can't stand the heat, get out of the kitchen" quote — he'll try, as he has for six straight years, to oust the New York philanthropist Dec. 19 for absenteeism.

But Black, in a proxy statement, hit back this week. Says he, of Truman, "if he were in my place, I'm quite sure he would have said something like 'I can't stand the heat that emanates from the few guffaws who have no experience in our line of business but have 20-20 hindsight and are permitted to make a shambles of our meetings.' En garde!

Smoke Rings

Nat Turner, creator of those long pastel cigarettes, bills himself as "tobaccoist to the world" and this week his exclusive New York nicotine palace proved the point.

At one time, famed customers doing their Christmas shopping side by side included Sylvester Stallone and Susan Anton, who walked out with cigars, Patricia Farris — Jack Lemmon's wife — and Patricia Kennedy Lawford, both of whom settled for lighters.

And they didn't even ask each other for autographs.

The Season For Giving

Peanut butter and tuna fish may not be on your Christmas list, but according to those associated with an annual food drive for the needy, it should be on the lists of some area residents. As in the past, the Manchester Area Conference of Churches, is conducting its annual food drive.

what you could call overly successful this year. Mrs. Nancy Carr, executive director of MACC, said contributions have been coming in from churches and schools, but the public contributions to the drive have been minimal.

The need for the donated food always existed and this year the need is even greater. The most important items needed, according to Mrs. Carr, are protein foods, such as tuna fish, peanut butter and canned meat products. With the current economic situation, people are having to make a choice between rent and heat and food. When the choice is made, food usually ends up on the bottom of the list of priorities.

Holocaust Comments

To the editor: Few of us who were around in the middle 40s can forget what we saw in the newspapers and papers as the concentration camps were liberated. Those still alive had gaunt and expressionless faces atop bodies like walking skeletons.

We recall the utter, absolute determination of Eisenhower, Patton, and Truman that these crimes would be so well documented that never ever would it be possible for anyone to say that they had not happened.

Cartoon by Doug Sneyd titled 'SCOOOPS'. It depicts a man saying 'TERRY ROOSEVELT NEVER WOULD HAVE TOLERATED THE HOSTAGE TAKING OF AMERICAN DIPLOMATS!' and another man replying 'HE WOULD HAVE SENT THE UNITED STATES FLEET IN AFTER THEM!'.

Odyssey to Iran - Part 2

By LEE RODERICK TEHRAN - Dawn was breaking over a clear, beautiful day as the big Lufthansa jet settled onto the runway at Tehran's international airport.

Iran wants to defuse the current crisis. Our arrival caused a bit of a stir among airlines and airport personnel accustomed in recent weeks to a flood of foreigners leaving the country but only a trickle entering.

Thoughts

One of the accusations made about Jesus at his trial was "He stirs up the people." (Luke 23:5) As I reflect upon that accusation I must confess that he constantly does that to me.

Study Supported

To the editor: I would appreciate the opportunity to publicly give my support to the Jewish Community in its endeavor to educate the young people of our town on the facts surrounding the Holocaust by the Nazi forces during World War II.

Consumers Cast Wary Eye At Senator Wendell Ford

By JACK ANDERSON WASHINGTON - Sen. Wendell Ford is a chain-smoking, bourbon-sipping Kentuckian with a particular skill that's much appreciated by his Democratic colleagues at campaign time. It was described by the Almanac of American Politics as "a special ability to get contributions from business-oriented groups and individuals."

Rockwell International, the National Broadcasting Association and General Electric's employees' political action committee have already kicked in $1,450 for Ford's campaign coffers - a modest amount, but not bad for a non-election year.

Economist Says Coming Decade May Be Dangerous

HARTFORD (UPI) — An economist has warned state business executives that chronic unemployment and uncontrolled inflation may make the coming decade the most dangerous for the United States since the 1930s.

Leo Cheme, executive director of the Research Institute of America, told a meeting of the Greater Hartford Chamber of Commerce Thursday "the 1980s will be the most dangerous decade the U.S. has faced since the 1930s."

Cheme, who served on the federal Foreign Intelligence Advisory Board, predicted inflation "won't come down below 7 percent" over the course of the decade.

"In a democracy, protracted inflation is a very dangerous thing," said Cheme. "It goes to the very heart of our faith in government."

He predicted the cost of gasoline would hit $1.50 a gallon by the end of 1980, $2 by the end of 1981 and would reach $4 a gallon by the middle of the decade.

He said corporate profits nationwide "will take a beating," and predicted "zero growth or declines."

In a more optimistic forecast, Cheme said prime interest rates would probably fall to 10 percent by the end of next year.

Other executives, representing retail, insurance, banking and legal institutions, offered the chamber less gloomy predictions.

A group of panelists said political conditions in the world's oil-producing countries will continue to set the tone for the nation's economy, especially its rate of inflation.

"While this group sees problems, it by no means is lacking for solutions," said panel moderator Donald G. Conrad, an executive vice president at the Aetna Life & Casualty Co.

"Their pessimism is restrained," he said. "The mood of the group is upbeat and not defeatist."

Pratt & Whitney Aircraft Group President Robert Carlson differed sharply with other panel members in predicting Connecticut would be a "bright spot" in an otherwise gloomy national economy next year.

He predicted a steady rate of employment, a growth in retail sales, increased profits and renewed business investment in Connecticut next year.

But Carlson said he was concerned about the "decreasing availability of skilled labor" in the state and said despite a growth in governmental expenditure of retail bankruptcies.

—John Murtha of the Murtha, Cullina, Richter and Pinney law firm predicted the state would not see a personal income tax next year.

—Harvey Moger, vice-president of Connecticut General Life Insurance Co., forecast office building construction in Connecticut would be more than twice the present rate, but that residential construction would be "virtually nonexistent."

Vernon Ends Leaf Pickup

VERNON — The leaf collection, for this year, has ended in Vernon. Ronald Hine, director of public works said all areas of the town have been covered at least once and some of the high density areas were covered as many as three times.

Hine said all of the leaf pickup equipment has been removed from the trucks in order to get the trucks ready for winter storms. The leaf bins, in several areas of town, will be left up for a short time so that people may bag leaves and drop them off for disposal. The refuse collectors will still pick up up to five bags of leaves with the regular trash collection.

Hine said the department will again supply a sand and salt mixture, for the use of residents, at the Glass Recycling Station on West Street and on Church Street near the corner of Washington Street along the railroad right-of-way.

The department supplies this sand and salt for private use only and the supply will be replenished as needed. Residents may fill a pail or two for use on sidewalks and driveways.

Due to the hazard of large equipment and the danger of high piles of sand, no sand will be available at the public works yard or from the large pile at West Street. Both properties have been posted "No Trespassing" and for the protection of the public no one will be allowed to enter either posted area to obtain sand or anything else, Hine said. Some 30 barrels of sand and salt will be placed at different spots on hills for the aid of motorists. Hine reminds motorists that bridges and overpasses freeze first, that they should have snow tires, and that cars shouldn't be left parked in the streets during storms.

Private contractors and town residents plowing driveways are urged not to pile snow in the roadway as it is against the law. He said when plowing from the house to the street, snow should be pushed to the right side of the driveway entrance and if this is done the town plows won't push the snow back into the driveway.

Hine also reminds residents there is a town ordinance that property owners are responsible for the clearing of sidewalks of ice and snow and sanding, if necessary, following every storm. He said the ordinance has been and will be strictly enforced by the police. Violation of the ordinance calls for a $50 fine.

Residents are also reminded that the standard refuse container is a regular galvanized trash barrel. Residents using plastic or rubberized

Gas Use Plan Is Done: Dodd

HARTFORD (UPI) — Rep. Christopher Dodd, D-Conn., said today gasoline consumption targets announced by the federal government are nearly being met already in the state.

Federal Energy Secretary Charles Duncan announced Thursday voluntary cutback guidelines for states and asked Connecticut to slice 9.6 percent from its average gas consumption as set during the first quarter of this year.

Dodd said that's already been done here but "we have to face up to the possibility of the need to conserve even more."

Dodd said world events "are showing us that the possibility of upheaval is by no means confined to Iran. Problems could spread to other Arab nations and cause even more shortages."

The lawmaker said the voluntary guidelines "give states more time to work at conservation in recognition of the possibility that mandatory guidelines may be imposed by the president if more severe shortages of supplies occur."

Year-Round Home Case May Go to High Court

HARTFORD (UPI) — The attorney for a retired couple challenging a decision that year-round homes is actually a summer house says the case may need a ruling from the state Supreme Court.

Victor and Jean Maulucci of Old Saybrook appeared before a state hearing Thursday to challenge a decision that a year-round home is actually a summer house. The hearing was held to determine if the state's year-round use regulation applies to the couple's home.

The regulation in question was adopted in 1976 and bars conversion of summer homes to year-round use unless they have adequate acreage to support a septic system or are serviced by sewers.

But Denzue said since the couple had made the home their legal home four years before adoption of the regulation, it didn't apply to them.

Denzue said Maulucci have spent three or four days a week in the house since 1972.

Car Theft Bills Offered

HARTFORD (UPI) — Senate President Joseph Fauliso, D-Hartford, who has had $50 hubcaps stolen off his Cadillac, proposed bills Thursday he said might put a dent in car thefts and the sale of hot cars.

Fauliso said authorities estimate there will be more than 1 million vehicles stolen across the country this year — a 15 percent increase over 1978 — with a loss to consumers of $2.3 billion to $4 billion.

Motor Vehicle Commissioner Benjamin Muzio said at the news conference called by Fauliso that he estimates there will be 16,000 to 17,000 vehicles stolen in the state this year. He said many are recovered, but most are stripped.

"It's a highly profitable business," said Muzio, who added organized crime's involvement in stolen car rings has been well documented. "A car is worth twice as much in parts as in total."

He said he would need six to seven more employees to monitor junkyards and to track down what Fauliso called "chop shops," where stolen cars are disassembled. The major components then are sold to repair shops and garages.

Fauliso said Connecticut's anti-theft act has not been radically changed since 1977 and isn't adequate to deal with auto theft as it exists today. He said he is proposing for the Legislature's 1980 session would establish strict requirements for salvage dealers and anyone in the business of dismantling or rebuilding motor vehicles by requiring them to keep detailed records of all vehicles and parts they buy or sell.

Another problem, he said, are car thieves who switch the title certificate and vehicle identification number of a stolen car with those of a wrecked car of a similar make and model.

Fauliso proposed a salvage title process whereby the title certificate of any vehicle being scrapped or sold for salvage would have to be turned in and a new salvage title would be issued for the car.

the Weekend

That's Entertainment

TV for Children Is Up to Parents

By ALLEN M. WIDEM

An 800-page task force by a Federal Communication task force said findings to the effect that while television advertising aimed at youth has experienced important improvements since 1974, any progress toward better programming geared for youth has been inadequate.

It may seem like Monday morning quarterbacking, but when all is said and done, looking to "improve" the quality of children's programs is as much the responsibility of parents as it is of broadcasting.

Unless and until broadcasting actually hears what parents don't like about television programming — i.e., getting into specific areas needful of improvement, rather than generalizing to the "it degree" — broadcasting cannot be completely blamed for what Manchester youngsters and their counterparts across these United States are watching on weekend mornings.

Broadcasting contains many conscientious people, striving constantly to upgrade program content. While the networks may make decisions by committee-rules as far as slotting particular programs, the program content, per se, is the prime, continuing responsibility of creative elements, and unless and until these same creative elements, in effect, get a handle on what's being gripped about, being complained about, Out There (i.e., beyond the Hollywood Hills and the Manhattan Canyons) they will try to develop program ideas that are (1) entertaining, (2) informative. End results often fail.

Broadcasting — and we allude in this week's ruminations to television — is enormously dependent on the Nielsen ratings. Complete careers have been wiped out, wiped out irrevocably, through skimpy ratings and no degree of Out There response can change network thinking. The evening Herald reader can readily recall the huge write-in conducted against National Broadcasting Co. when somebody Up There decided that "Star Trek" had had it.

It is a foregone conclusion that bulk of weekend morning programming is generated for youth. The question before the house is whether (1) there is too much "violence" implied or (2) there is insufficient realistic reasoning implied. Parents will grip endlessly that the FCC's incoming mail, to be sure, contains considerable correspondence from concerned viewers, those who do not adhere to the philosophy that what has gone before is good for now as well. This is not to suggest, by any stretch of the imagination, that a massive letter writing effort by out-and-out grippers be condoned/conducted. Rather, it is best for the federal agency to get input, public at large, (preferably constructive, concise) (i.e., beyond the Hollywood Hills and the Manhattan Canyons) they will try to develop program ideas that are (1) entertaining, (2) informative. End results often fail.

Interestingly, the aforementioned FCC task force has cited a need for more weekday children's programming. What Hartford's Channel 3 had going for a number of years — "The Ranger Show"/"Ranger Andy" — as well as weekend morning programming is generated for youth. Holiday Meal prepared on the open hearth of Mystic Seaport Museum's historic Buckingham House includes of the Buckingham House, one of the museum's 60 exhibits.

Mystic — Like Christmas Card

MYSTIC — Christmas at Mystic Seaport Museum is a holiday experience in a Christmas card setting.

Unadorned evergreen trees top the masterpieces of great sailing ships — an old nautical holiday touch — and many doorways are decorated with traditional greens by local garden clubs.

The Seaport Carollers stroll the 19th century village area and welcome visitors to join in the singing.

The masts of the tall ships tower over the quiet buildings lining the museum's waterfront. Bouquets of evergreens, holly and mistletoe, garlands of cranberries and ornaments of seashells, wood, ribbon and nuts speak of another, simpler time.

Cheery lantern light, warm pot-bellied stoves and the aroma of food cooking over an open fire entice visitors away from the snow-dusted cobblestone streets inside to another century.

Inside the Buckingham House no frivolities exist because the strict Congregationalist Buckingham family considered Christmas in the 1840s just another work day. In the Edwards House, circa 1860, hand-made ornaments, gifts and packages bedeck the evergreen tree in the parlor. Early mass-produced "store-bought" ornaments, purchased gifts and commercial wrappings as usual in the gift and nautical trade shops.

In the Children's Museum, young visitors are invited to play with replicas of 19th century toys and clothing, decorate the shell tree, make pomanders, and listen to stories about children who lived aboard ship a century ago and celebrated Christmas at sea.

Several tours and programs are offered during December to enhance a holiday visit. "Visions of Christmas Past" includes delightful vignettes of 19th century Christmas authors and at sea. The one-hour tour is available through Dec. 21 to groups who make advance reservations.

Roasting chestnuts over an open fire, making ornaments and other 19th century holiday pastimes are part of the weekend Christmas programs for children Dec. 8, 9 and 15. Four-hour Children's Victorian Christmas Tours, which also include a planetarium show, will be given from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Dec. 26 to 28.

"The Star of Bethlehem," a half-hour planetarium show about the historical and astronomical aspects of the Christmas Star phenomenon, will be conducted Dec. 15 to 31. Mystic Seaport Museum is open daily 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. throughout the winter except Christmas and New Year's Day. The museum is located on Route 7, one mile south of I-95 at Exit 90.

FILMETER
A capsule look at cinema

HEAD OVER HEELS (PG) — John Hedd, Mary Beth Hurt. (Comedy-Drama) On-again, off-again romance between a confused young woman and a feisty young man. Film is uneven but the performances are a constant delight. GRADE: B

APCALYPSE NOW (R) — Martin Sheen, Martin Brame, Robert Duvall. (Drama) This is a Francis Coppola's long-awaited and very expensive epic — and worth the wait and the cost. It is a study of the madness of war, and Coppola has created a procession of image images of Vietnam and that terrible war. Film is long and farward, but must be rated an American classic. GRADE: A-plus

AVANTAGE EXPRESS (PG) — Lee Marvin, Robert Shaw, Linda Evans. (Drama) A fast-paced, action-packed and very suspenseful epic — and worth the wait and the cost. It is a study of the madness of war, and Coppola has created a procession of image images of Vietnam and that terrible war. Film is long and farward, but must be rated an American classic. GRADE: A-plus

LYNIA (R) — Jill Clayburgh, Matthew Berry. (Drama) This is the story of a sensitive widow, an opera star, who becomes physically involved with her adolescent son. The acting is excellent — Clayburgh shines her "raw gut" — but the film moves slowly and is too long. GRADE: B-

METEOR (PG) — Sean Connery, Natalie Wood, Brian Keith. (Adventure) This is the latest disaster movie, and the problem now is a huge chunk of meteor, zooming towards us and there's no way to stop it. But what? Maybe the Russian and American scientists, working together, can blast it out of the sky. Good special effects and some exciting moments — as well as some pretty dumb bits. GRADE: B

NATURAL ENEMIES (R) — Hal Holbrook. (Drama) Intended to be a portrait of the last day of a man who plans to kill his wife because she is a flight, his three children, and his own life. It's a powerful and moving performance, and you'll find yourself asking, "Why?" The film portrays a youth wrestling with his sense of identity. Cast and crew of relative unknowns turn in a movie which is exciting, heartfelt, yet touching. GRADE: A-minus

ROSE, TRE (R) — Bette Midler, Alan Bates, Frederic Forrest. (Drama) With music by the story of the tragic decline of a jazz pianist the singer is ugly and unpleasant, but tremendously effective and moving. Midler's performance is truly outstanding, and you'll find yourself asking, "Why?" The film portrays a youth wrestling with his sense of identity. Cast and crew of relative unknowns turn in a movie which is exciting, heartfelt, yet touching. GRADE: A-minus

RUNNER STUMBLER, THE (PG) — Dick Van Dyke, Kathleen Quinlan, Marlene Snodgrass. (Drama) Producer-director Stanley Kramer always aims high, and does so again with this film version of a play about a priest, a nun, a romance (after a fashion) and a murder. The trouble is it sounds more exciting than it is. And the film is very slow going. The runner may be a little slow. GRADE: B-minus

Burroughs Back in Corral

TORONTO (UPI) - Jeff Burroughs apparently is back in the Texas Rangers' corral, but Sparky Lyle may be heading for greener pastures.

However, it was expected that the 28-year-old outfielder would okay the trade since he enjoyed his relationship with Texas when he played for them from 1973 to 1976.

Eagles Achieved Pre-Season Goal

NEW YORK — Philadelphia Coach Dick Vermeil has accomplished his 1979 goal in a big way, and, consequently, the Eagles are approaching their first title since the 1960 team won the NFL Championship.

"Our pre-season goal was 10 victories and we have achieved it," Vermeil following the Eagles' 44-7 rout of Detroit last Sunday. "We have two games to go. We'll raise our sights now, and see if we can win the conference championship.

The Eagles (14-1) hold a one game lead over Dallas and Washington in the NFC Eastern Division race. They assured themselves of at least a Wild Card berth for the second straight season with the victory over the Lions. The 10 wins represent the most by an Eagle team since 1967 when they won the NFL title.

There were many contributors to the victory. Quarterback Ron Meyer's 164 yards and three touchdowns, including touchdown passes of 20 and 24 yards to wide receiver Harold Carmichael. The 6-8 Carmichael caught five for 96 yards and two touchdowns. He also had one interception for 24 yards. He was named MVP of the game.

carries) rank third in the NFL. Rookie kicker Tony Franklin made three (33, 30 and 42 yards) of four field goal tries to give him 20 of 26 for the season. The Texas A&M product needs four more successful attempts to tie Tom Dempsey's club mark of 24 (of 40) set in 1973.

The defense held Detroit to 180 yards and five first downs, while recording four quarterback sacks.

"I feel our defense was really humming out there," said veteran defensive end Claude Humphrey, who will make his first playoff appearance in his 12-year NFL career. "Everybody was trying to pick up for the other guy. And it showed. We could beat anybody in the NFL today."

"This win doesn't take off any pressure, though. All it does is give us a shot in the playoffs. I remember Minnesota in 1975. They won a playoff spot and didn't play well for two or three games. And in the first round of the playoffs, if they got knocked out of the game," Pearson states.

The victory obviously meant a lot to the Eagle fans, as explained by Pro Bowl tackle Stan Walters.

"I've always felt that Philadelphia fans treated the Eagles somewhat like the prodigal son. They could mean and groan about the way we were playing, but don't let any outsiders do it. As much as we disappointed them (over the years) and as low as the depression we put them into, they could still get as ecstatic as anybody when we win."

Those Eagle fans began chanting "We Want Dallas" with about four minutes to go in the Detroit game. It's been a long time since Philadelphia's faithful have had a December game which has meant so much.

Names in the News

Chuck Tanner
TORONTO (UPI) — The World Champion Pittsburgh Pirates Thursday increased the contract of Manager Chuck Tanner from four to five years at an estimated $15,000 a year, which will allow him to manage the club through the 1984 season. "It's the biggest raise I ever got," Tanner said.

In his third year at the Pirate helm, Tanner led the club to its second world championship of the decade this past season and his first after more than nine years as a big-league manager. Harding Peterson, Pirates' executive vice president, said, "Chuck Tanner not only knows how to manage on the field but he is a great manager with players."

Terry Donahue
LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Terry Donahue, who had his first losing season in 1978 as UCLA football coach, extended through the 1982 season. Chancellor Charles Young announced Thursday.

Donahue, 35, was thought to be on shaky ground because of his 5-6 season. Young, however, in announcing the extension of the contract through 1982, said, "In my opinion, Terry Donahue is one of the best football coaches in intercollegiate athletics."

David Thompson
DENVER (UPI) — Denver Nuggets' Coach Donnie Walsh says David Thompson has resigned two top leadership positions with the NBA team. He said Thursday Thompson had relinquished the jobs as Denver's co-captain and National Basketball Players' Association representative.

He said Dan Issel, who had shared the team leadership job with Thompson the past two seasons, would now serve as team captain and backup center. Kim Hughes was the club's new players association representative. He resigned some time ago.

Thompson said, "We just have one captain now. It was a decision I made."

Lou Brock
DAYTON (UPI) — Lou Brock, veteran St. Louis Cardinal outfielder who enjoyed a remarkable comeback in his final season as an active player, was the winner of baseball's Hutch Award for 1979.

The award is voted annually in memory of Fred Hutchinson, who was manager of the Cincinnati Reds when he died of cancer in 1964. It goes to a player who exemplifies the character and fighting spirit of Hutchinson.

Brock, 37, had 10 home runs and 22 RBIs in 107 games.

Darryl Dawkins
PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Philadelphia 76ers' Coach Billy Cunningham said Thursday that while he's concerned about Darryl Dawkins' backsliding after escaping his hernia, he's certain the 6-foot-11 center doesn't do it on purpose.

NBA Commissioner Larry O'Brien has directed Cunningham, Dawkins and Sixers General Manager Pat Williams to meet with him this afternoon to discuss the situation. "I'm sure O'Brien is concerned," Cunningham said. "The way I understand it, he's concerned that this would become an epidemic in the league."

Chuck Munsie
NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Halfback Chuck Munsie, who became the first running back in New Orleans' history to record 1,000 yards in a single season, Thursday was honored by his teammates as the most valuable player on offense.

Defensive end Don Reese was named most valuable player on defense, while reserve running back Jack Holmes was a surprise selection as MVP on special teams.

Ted Cox
TORONTO (UPI) — The Cleveland Indians traded third baseman Ted Cox to the Seattle Mariners Thursday for pitchers Rafael Vasquez and Rob Pirogowski and a player to be named later.

Cox, 24, batted .212 with four home runs and 22 RBIs for Cleveland in 1979 in 78 games divided between third base and the outfield. The right-handed Vasquez, 21, opened the season in Seattle then spent most of the year with Spokane of the Pacific Coast League. Pirogowski, 24, a left-hander, has been assigned to Tacoma, the Indians' Triple A affiliate.

Sakata to Orioles
TORONTO (UPI) — The Baltimore Orioles obtained reserve infield Len Sakata from the Milwaukee Brewers Thursday for right-handed pitcher John Flinn.

Sakata, 26, spent most of last season with Vancouver of the Pacific Coast League and hit .300 in 118 games. He played in only four games for Milwaukee. Flinn, 25, pitched last season for Rochester of the International League. He got into four games for the Orioles and did not allow a run in three innings.

Frank Beaton
NEW YORK (UPI) — Left wing Frank Beaton was called up from the New Haven Night Hawks of the American Hockey League Thursday by the New York Rangers.

The Rangers also sent defenseman Tim Bothwell to New Haven. Beaton had 13 points in 23 games for the Night Hawks while Bothwell had one goal and one assist in 16 games for the Rangers.

Confidence Evident With Tribe Cagers

By LEN AUSTER
Herald Sports Writer

Confidence. That seems to be the key word as Manchester High's basketball team approaches the commencement of the 1979-80 campaign.

"I'm going into the season with confidence and I think the players are going into the season with confidence," reports sixth-year Indian Coach Doug Pearson, awaiting Tuesday's initial tap-off on the road against Simsbury High.

The Six Towners, 10-11 overall a year ago, appear stronger at guard and with much more quickness. Also, the shooting reportedly is better and the slow, big men have gained some quickness. There is optimism, but no cockiness.

"I don't think they're at all cocky. I feel they think to have some of the best players (the opposition) will have to play extremely well," Pearson states.

Six-foot-5 junior Bill Anderson opens at center with a pair of seniors, 6-foot-4 John Haslett and 6-foot-3 Rick Koepel, at the forwards. The latter was the Indians' leading scorer a year ago with a 12.1 points per game average while Haslett was next.

Brian Sweeney, a 6-foot-2 senior who has been elected co-captain, could also draw a starting nod in the pre-season, we will have one of the best defensive teams in the area. If we play consistent defense, the scoring will take care of itself. I feel we're capable of doing a lot of things offensively," continued the Tribe mentor.

"We've lost a lot of close games the last couple of years. It starts you to wondering what will happen next. But these kids don't have that attitude. They believe they can win all their games. I wish I had their attitude."

"They've worked harder than any group I've had in a couple of years. They are carrying over what we do in practices to game situations."

"The big men are definitely quicker and playing far superior defense," Pearson notes. "They're still not rebounding as well as they should be as a group but they're definitely better."

"If we play defense and rebound, we'll be tough to beat. It's not that we won't get beat but I don't expect to lose too many, not if we play defense and rebound well. And we have seniors in key positions and usually when you do, you will do fairly well. We have some who've been around two years and they know what to expect. I think we'll be a very good team. I think, if we don't get any bad breaks, we'll be fighting it out for the league championship," Pearson states.

The Tribe leader sees his club, the opening game opponent, Simsbury, and Penney as prime contenders for CCLL honors. Wetherfield, Her, Maher will see work at guard.

"If we show what we have in the pre-season, we will have one of the best defensive teams in the area. If we play consistent defense, the scoring will take care of itself. I feel we're capable of doing a lot of things offensively," continued the Tribe mentor.

"We've lost a lot of close games the last couple of years. It starts you to wondering what will happen next. But these kids don't have that attitude. They believe they can win all their games. I wish I had their attitude."

Flyers Use Fists Extending Streak

NEW YORK (UPI) — It's time to sit up and take a good, hard look at these amazing Philadelphia Flyers.

They no longer rely on the bully tactics that trademarked their play in years past. Now, they are simply the hardest working team in the league. And a bit of sweat was needed Thursday night when they extended their unbeaten streak to a club record-tying 23 games with a 3-4 triumph over the Los Angeles Kings.

But the Flyers are still very capable of using their fists - as evidenced by a bench-clearing brawl in the third period.

"We've been down before," said Reggie Leach, whose three goals gave him 22 for the season and helped the Flyers rebound from a 3-0 deficit in the first period.

"We weren't really upset (after the first period), but 9 guys had confidence to go out there and work harder."

Ken Linseman added two goals for the Flyers.

"I don't like what happened tonight and I hope our guys have long memories," Flyers Coach Pat Quinn said of the brawl which resulted in 70 penalty minutes and four ejections.

ROAD RAGE

How Many Runners Took Part Big Mystery

By EARL YOST
Sports Editor

Just how many runners actually took part on the 43rd Five Mile Road Race in Manchester Thanksgiving morning remains a big question.

One thing sure, the winner was John Treacy of the Providence Track Club, via Ireland, in the record time of 21:26.

The official list of finishers has been tabulated and it contained only 2,751 names.

Jim Balcome, race director, reported that the electronic timing device operated by Superman, Ed Merck, showed 4,100 runners crossed the finish line on Main Street.

However, he estimated that approximately 750 men, women and children in the field were unofficial entrants, all failing to sign pre-race applications.

Also, Balcome said approximately 700 other runners crossed the finish line but did not continue through one of the three chutes and were never recorded.

During the peak finishing period of the race, the Merck Super Race System recorded 351 runners, he believed to be an all-time high nationally. These runners finished during the 32-33 minute period of the holiday trot.

An interesting note on the latest Five Mile was that it took 62 seconds before the last runners at the back of the pack reached the starting line.

Sharing the sponsoring role was Nutmeg Forest, Tall Cedars of Lebanon and Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Company. For the Cedars, it was their 20th year of hosting the race with the insurance company noting its second year of lending financial support. Mutual supports the national Run For Life program.

The Treacy brother act, John and Ray, marked the first time in history that brothers ran one-two in New England's second oldest Amateur Athletic Union sanctioned race. John Treacy lived up to his reputation as the world's best cross country champion and his brother, Ray, making his debut, proved his New England intercollegiate cross country title was no fluke.

John Treacy finished 59 seconds ahead of his brother and broke Amy Bartlett's record of 22:21 set in 1972 by 55 seconds.

The only female runner to break into the top 100 was Patti Lyons, one of the world's class distance runners, who placed 77th in 25:37.

Seniors Win Top Places In Contest

The Veterans of Foreign War of Manchester recently held a writing contest in which three local high schools were asked to participate.

Howell Cheney Technical School, East Catholic High School, and Manchester High School were all officially entered in the contest but only the latter two submitted entries.

The essay was to be written in speech form with a time limit of three to five minutes. Students were told that six semi-finalists from MHS would be chosen according to content and presentation, and how well they presented their opinions and ideas.

After reading the more than 85 essays, Mr. Hunt chose the six following people's speeches as semi-finalists: Pat Adams, Mark Albert, Karen Bensen, John Gibault, Patty Shirer, and LeeAnn Stauffer.

These six as well as all other contestants were then required to read their speeches on tape for further judging by a panel of MHS teachers. Entries were again judged according to content and presentation, and the three top winners of all the entries were chosen.

All three of these finalists were from MHS. Third place was awarded to Karen Bensen, second place to LeeAnn Stauffer, and top honors went to Patty Shirer.

This townwide contest has served merely as the primaries to bigger and better things for these three students. They will next enter their essays in state and national contests. Congratulations to the three top winners and good luck in the future competition. — Joanne Weiss

Town Youth Represented

Complaints that kids just aren't represented in Manchester can occasionally be heard among students. Nobody really cares about what we have to say, but they do.

The Youth Commission of Manchester is now in its second year of operation and is designed to represent the attitudes and opinions of Manchester's youth. What we have to say is important and need no longer go unheard. The commission is comprised of eight students, three from MHS, two from East Catholic, one from Bennett Jr. High, one from Cheney Tech, and one from MHS graduate.

There are only five adults on the commission, so it is clearly evident that the students hold the majority. "We are not just another committee," but have definite say over matters concerning Manchester's youth. As this is only the second year of the commission's existence, nothing of major importance has yet been performed.

This year we hope to act upon a survey that was conducted in the schools last year which asked for student rating on such topics as facilities and activities available in town for youth. From this survey, it was learned that very few students would know where to go should they be in need of help.

As a result, pamphlets listing the addresses and phone number of various community service groups have been distributed to the school offices where they can be picked up by students. The survey also indicated that students wish for the revival of the Teen Center which will be a major issue facing the commission this year.

The commission holds its meetings on third Wednesday of every month. If you have any ideas or want to prepare any opinions, you are invited to attend a meeting or get in contact with MHS representatives by learning a message for them in the high school office. — LeeAnn Stauffer

Soccer Champs Owe Great Debt

The season started off with hills and valleys. According to Coach Danielson the hills were for conditioning. Ask a soccer player and he'll tell you the hills got you tired, but in the long run they paid off.

Before I continue, I would like to reminisce a bit. In my brother Michael's senior year his team lost a heartbreaker on a fullback miscue in the first round of tournament action. I would like to quote a piece of his emotion-packed article entitled "Never The Lark".

"Sometime in the not too distant future things will go right. The ball will find its way to the goal and Manchester will have just that little bit of tournament luck that has eluded them for three years. On that day the wind will be at their backs, the sun will shine, the cheerleaders' pom-poms will fly in the air, the coaches will smile benevolently, and all will be right with the world."

As this year's season progressed the Indians started putting it together. On October 19, we presented Mr. Danielson with his variable and charisma carried over to his players, who in turn displayed it on the soccer field.

The team continued its success finishing up the regular season with a 10-1 record, good enough for a ranking of tenth in the highly competitive CIAC LL soccer tournament.

Many people were saying, "This team doesn't have the raw talent to win the tournament." To win the state tournament we would have to string together five victories. Impossible! People had forgotten that we had Mr. Danielson as an added incentive. This would be the ultimate going away present for such a fine man.

We began our quest whitewashing Norwalk by a resounding score of 9-0. Norwalk was a hard hitting team that would have fared better on a football field. Next we traveled to North Haven. After tying the game with two goals in the last ten minutes, we played four five minute overtimes.

The cafeteria was unrecognizable, having been transformed into a resplendent ballroom complete with dimmed lights, colorful streamers, and a splashing fountain.

The beautiful sight of girls in formal evening gowns dancing with equally handsome escorts added further decoration to the scene. Fine music was supplied by Clockworks, and all in attendance seemed to enjoy the singing and selections played.

The highlight of the evening was the crowning of the Junior Prom King and Queen. The lucky couple turned out to be Alex Brinell and Stephanie Frallicardi. The court consisted of Terry Smith and Bob Monaco, and Ann Krajewski and Steve Shrier.

Talking Heads Profiled

Talking Heads is a fine example of a band successful in its attempt to transcend the "punk rock" label given to so many New Wave groups. The quartet's third album, "Fear of Music," irrevocably breaks any ties that might have existed between Talking Heads and the punk craze of 1977-1978.

It is curious that one of the most popular New Wave groups is also the most iconoclastic. Talking Heads is not your average rock band. For one thing, the band members care not a whit for the trappings of stardom. "Fear of Music" was recorded in the Queens, N.Y. loft of drummer Chris Frantz and bassist Tina Weymouth (the two are married). Producer Brian Eno brought in a mobile recording unit, and the basic tracks were laid down in a matter of days.

I had the opportunity to see Talking Heads in concert last month at Stage West, and their nonchalant attitude carries over into their live performances. No flashy dressers in the group. No smokebombs or dry ice to open the show. The four Heads walked onstage, and after the mandatory tuning up, they were off into "Artists Only," from their second album, "More Songs About Building And Food."

The new album may provide a reason with an even bigger hit in the band of "Life During Wartime," a song that merits special mention. Concerned with the possibility of WW3, this song creates powerful images, and at the same time raises where we faced eighth ranked E.O. Smith. Playing a skillful short passing attack, we crushed them 3-0. In the finals, our theme song was "Ain't No Stoppin' Us Now." With momentum on our side we took the field against third rated Glastonbury.

"I expect that we're going to have to work on a combination of some spending cuts and the possibility of some new taxes," Mrs. Grasso told reporters Thursday during a break from a public hearing on the 1980-1981 budget.

Mrs. Grasso made her remarks after hearing more than two hours of testimony from women's groups opposing physical abuse of females, college students, the elderly and municipal representatives.

Reactions to Assessments Fewer than Anticipated

By DONNA HOLLAND Herald Correspondent BOLTON—Calls from Bolton residents concerning their new property assessments are not as high in number as anticipated by those involved, according to Calvin Hutchinson, assessor.

Hutchinson said the office received 69 calls for appointments so far. About 1,400 notices were sent out. Throughout the week residents received notices of assessments on their property from which their taxes will be determined next year.

Hutchinson said, "Improved property increased from two and one half to five times more than the 1969 assessment and unimproved property increased from five to 12 times more."

The assessor said, "People should realize that this year's taxes and taxes on previous bills were based on the 1969 assessment. People should be aware of the value of their property has increased progressively since that time."

"In other words," he said, "once property is assessed that figure is used for about ten years. It does not change until the next revaluation unless you have a structure change."

Hutchinson said, "The fact we have used the 1969 assessment since 1969 makes the 1979 assessment increase seem so much more dramatic."

Hutchinson said, "Some of the people who call the office don't want appointments to discuss their assessments, they just want to talk about them or they want more detailed information."

He said, "Many of the people I talk to are satisfied with their assessment and agree the market value of their property is reasonable."

Hutchinson said, "The people realize their property is worth the market value but they have no intention of selling so they won't get the money but yet they still have to pay taxes on it."

To determine the market value, the assessment is divided by 7. Hutchinson said some people expressed concern about their ability to pay taxes on the value of the property.

The town's Grand List will be finalized by the end of January and the mill rate will be set in May. Although no one can say what the new mill rate will be, all officials agree it will be lower than the current 60.6 mills.

The revaluation was done by United Appraisal of East Hartford at a cost of $28,000. It is mandated by law every ten years.

A special number has been set up in the assessor's office for anyone wishing to make an appointment to discuss their assessment. Appointments are held on a one to one basis.

Residents may call 643-1270 daily from 9 a.m. to noon and from 1 to 4 p.m. to schedule an appointment. Anyone having questions or disagreeing with their assessment should call that number by Dec. 14.

Anyone who is unable to call, or who prefers to write, may do so and should include their concerns. Persons who write will get a reply. The address is 222 Bolton Center Rd., Bolton.

Anyone who is not satisfied with their appraisal or with United Appraisal's response after a hearing may appear before the Board of Tax Review in February.

Hutchinson said, "However, anyone who has a grievance should make an effort to have a hearing with Hutchinson said, 'We urge people to call 643-1270 or my office at 649-0794 if they have questions. We encourage people to call either number to set up an appointment if you call. Questions will be answered.'"

All residents should receive their new assessment notices by Saturday, anyone who does not receive a notice by then should call the assessor's office."

Grasso Says New Taxes Are Possible Next Year

HARTFORD (UPI) — Gov. Ella Grasso, for the first time in discussing next year's budget, says new taxes are a possibility to make ends meet in the coming fiscal year.

Shoppers Who Dally In Luck in Hartford

HARTFORD (UPI) — Holiday shoppers who dally a little longer in downtown stores after the time on their parking meters expires are in luck again this year — police are issuing "courtesy" tickets.

The courtesy tickets, issued each Christmas season in the shopping district, entitles the motorist to about 15 to 30 minutes of "grace time" before police slap a regular ticket for overtime parking on the windshield.

The courtesy ticket, which doesn't carry a penalty, is the same color as a regular parking ticket. But it is decorated with a wreath and a warning about exceeding the legal time written in green ink.

The program began Thursday and will end Jan. 1, police said. Motorists who park in restricted areas or violate parking regulations other than the legal time limits on meters and signs in unmetred areas will receive the standard parking tickets, police said.

Area Police Report

Vernon Five persons were taken to Rockville General Hospital for treatment of injuries suffered in a two-car accident on Route 83 Thursday.

Police said that Everett Brewer, 73, of Laurel Street, Manchester, was driving south and while making a left turn into a business parking lot, collided with a car traveling north driven by Charlotte Mrazik, 18, of Goose Lane, Tolland.

There were three passengers in the Mrazik car, Jan Nesbit, 15, of Burke Road, Rockville; David Neff, 15, of Meadowlark Road, East Hartford; and Matthew Ryzewski, 14, of Evergreen Road, Vernon.

Police said both cars were extensively damaged. The accident is still under investigation.

Walter Grabowski, 23, of 11 Cottage St., Rockville, was charged Thursday with delivery of liquor to a minor male in the School Street area and was also found to be in possession of a small amount of what was suspected to be marijuana.

He was held on a $500 surety bond and was to be presented in court today.

Angela M. Ludwig, 18, of 50 Grove St., Rockville, was charged Thursday with delivery of liquor to a minor and second-degree assault. The arrest was made in connection with the investigation of a Nov. 28 incident during which a minor female was assaulted.

This was a companion case to several arrests made Wednesday. Miss Ludwig was taken to the Niantic State Farm for Women in lieu of posting a $2,500 bond. She was to be presented in court today.

United Nations Visited

As a means of preparation for the upcoming World Affairs Center Model United Nations, the Current Affairs Club and its advisor, Mr. Zatursky, recently visited the United Nations Headquarters in New York City.

At the end of February, members of various Current Affairs Clubs from many Connecticut high schools will be meeting at the University of Hartford for two days of debate.

By this time each student will have researched a particular country's view on today's major issues so that he can adequately represent it at the Model U.N.

For example, MHS students will be representing South Africa, Finland, and Bulgaria on such topics as national liberation movements, resources and their distribution, and refugees.

Part of this research and preparation includes visiting the U.N. and personally questioning the ambassadors so that their position on these topics will be correctly represented.

The trip to the U.N. began early on Tuesday morning, November 27 at the Hotel Sonesta in Hartford where everyone participating in the Model U.N. met to board seven buses. After a three hour ride which included a breakfast stop we arrived at the U.N. with just enough time to browse around the lobby of the main building before attending the General Assembly session. We sat in the balcony overlooking the assembly and listened to the speeches concerning

On Christmas morning millions of children all over the world will wake up early to find lots of gifts under the tree, just waiting to be opened. This is a joy for both children and parents alike.

Sadly, many children in our community and many other communities will be exceptions. Manchester has its share of needy children whose Christmas aren't always filled with joy.

The Personal Perspectives class at MHS is conducting a toy and game collection project. Students and adults are being asked to donate a toy or game in an effort to brighten this holiday season for everyone. They can be brought to the main desk in the high school office. They will then be delivered to the Manchester Conference of Churches on Dec. 14 for distribution to the community.

The underprivileged children of Manchester need you. Make a child smile with the gift of a merry Christmas. The cafeteria was unrecognizable, having been transformed into a resplendent ballroom complete with dimmed lights, colorful streamers, and a splashing fountain.

The beautiful sight of girls in formal evening gowns dancing with equally handsome escorts added further decoration to the scene. Fine music was supplied by Clockworks, and all in attendance seemed to enjoy the singing and selections played.

The highlight of the evening was the crowning of the Junior Prom King and Queen. The lucky couple turned out to be Alex Brinell and Stephanie Frallicardi. The court consisted of Terry Smith and Bob Monaco, and Ann Krajewski and Steve Shrier.

It was a general consensus that although "We may never pass this year again," it was truly an evening to remember. — Pete Phelon

Hartford Officer Faces Discipline

HARTFORD (UPI) — A Hartford policeman faces disciplinary action for his failure to show up at a school crossing where two students were seriously injured by a car.

Hartford police officials said patrolman William Lukas failed to cover the crossing where two 8-year-old boys were struck by the car Nov. 15 on their way home from school.

Lukas faces four charges and two of them could result in dismissal. Lukas, 29, an eight-year veteran of the force, has been reassigned to administrative duties and has declined to comment on the incident.

He was assigned to cover the intersection of Collins and Huntington streets after the regular school guard called in sick.

Hospitalized as a result of the accident were Christopher Ball and Terrance Tullock-Reid, both students at the Cathedral of St. Joseph School.

Ball was released from St. Francis Hospital where the Tullock-Reid boy is recuperating. Police Department advocate Lt. Robert Maher notified Lukas of the code of conduct charges and provided the patrolman a list of five officers, all captains or higher.

Lukas will choose one person to serve as a hearing officer who will then submit his findings to Police Chief Hugo Masini. The chief will have final say on whether the charges are justified and if guilty, what penalty will be imposed.

Lukas is charged with conduct unbecoming an officer, making a false report, failure to comply with a lawful order and performing assigned duties in a careless or negligent manner.

Battle Positions Formed In Latest War of Banks

HARTFORD (UPI) — Connecticut bankers see their New York counterparts as plunderers wanting to come into the state, but the out-of-staters view Nutmeg State bankers as parochial and afraid of competition.

Battle lines were drawn Thursday at a legislative study committee hearing on whether the state should enact legislation to control companies which own banks from establishing subsidiaries in Connecticut.

Connecticut financiers claim the New Yorkers want to sweep up hard-earned deposits, and then ship the money out to wherever they could make the best interest buck.

The New York bankers described the Connecticut bankers as parochial and unwilling to face up to competition. In other areas, such as upstate New York and Long Island, they said their entrance only ended up providing services the locals didn't want to offer. State Banking Commissioner David H. Neiditz said he wasn't sure what the issue at the Thursday hearing was, but he didn't think it was what both camps were making it out to be.

Representatives of several Connecticut bank spokes in favor of limiting out-of-state banks from opening full-service branches in Connecticut.

But while the legislation setting up the study committee and placing a moratorium on bank-holding company activities mentioned all banking members of the Junior High Industrial arts classes will manufacture them into personalized buttons.

Santa Coming to Rham

HEBRON — Santa Claus will be at Rham High School Saturday for the third annual Christmas Crafts Fair to be held from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

More than 60 skilled craftsmen from throughout Connecticut will present a variety of crafts including puppets, sterling silver work, wooden toys, stuffed dolls, fiber arts, Christmas decorations and several other items.

School organizations will also be selling items to raise money for their activities. The items will include French pastries, grinders and milk shakes, coffee and donuts, baked goods and waffles.

Those attending may also bring their favorite snaphop or sketch and members of the Junior High Industrial arts classes will manufacture them into personalized buttons.

Santa Claus will be taught to the children. The fair is open to the public. There will be no admission charge.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Our son is a 16-year-old high school sophomore who is very mature for his age. He's been steadily dating a 17-year-old senior for about a year. We've always had an excellent rapport with our son and he is now six months pregnant, and she's delighted! She had already told her family, who she says are excited and happy and have given her baby gifts and almost completely furnished her nursery! She and her parents have talked with a school counselor and today she starts classes at an alternative school for school-aged mothers and mothers-to-be. She told all her friends at school before telling our son and he is now being approached by all sorts of questions and comments from his teachers and classmates.

The girl states she is happy and it just happens our son will be a good daddy. She even asked him to participate in natural childbirth classes with her.

Our son is bewildered and dumfounded about all this. He says he feels an obligation to her, but his age marriage in out of the question. We agree, but how can we help him through this? All articles and programs are geared to help unwed mothers, but what about an unwed father? We want him to get on with a normal life without suffering any psychological scars. Are there groups or agencies to help boys in this predicament? Where can we turn?

PARENTS, HUNTINGTON BEACH, CALIF.

DEAR PARENTS: There are excellent counseling services in your area. Contact your Family Service Association. And see a lawyer about the obligations, rights and responsibilities of unwed fathers.

DEAR ABBY: I see that many of our public figures are now getting hit in the face with greed and accepting it good naturedly. Have you ever had a pin in the face, Abby? CURIOUS IN SACRAMENTO

DEAR CURIOUS: No. But if I ever do, I hope it's peccan. It might hurt a little more, but it will taste better.

DEAR ABBY: Please help me. I don't know who else to talk to about this embarrassing problem. I am a 30-year-old woman who is going bald! It's on my mind (no pun intended) constantly, and I'm really depressed about it. Two years ago, when I first started to notice that my hair was getting very thin, I went to a dermatologist. He said it must be a hereditary thing and there was nothing he could do about it. My father was bald at an early age, but my mother is 65 and has a full head of hair. As far as I know, there have been no bald women in my family.

Please tell me what to do before I lose my mind. I hate to go out of the house looking like this.

GOING BALD

DEAR GOING: See another dermatologist and get his opinion. If he can't help you, consult a therapist who is trained to treat emotional disorders. Baldness in women (as well as in men) is often caused by emotional stress. In the meantime, let me assure you that you are not alone. Get a pretty wig and some good-looking hats, and don't despair.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "WILLIE IN WAC": Yes, there are plenty of dancers. Sometimes just the thought of getting into bed water keeps a guy clean.

Getting married? Whether you want a formal church wedding or a simple do-it-yourself ceremony, get Abby's new booklet, "How to Have a Wedding." Send $1 and a long, stamped (2¢ return) self-addressed envelope to Abby: 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

YES, MAAM I'M LOOKING FOR A GIFT

IT'S FOR A FRIEND OF MINE. A GIRL... SHE GAVE ME A COUPLE OF LISTS OF THINGS SHE WANTS SO...

THE LISTS WERE RIGHT HERE. WHERE DID THEY GO?

I CAN HEAR THE TOY TRAINS BUT I CAN'T SEE THEM.

DO YOU REALLY LIKE THESE MINI-THEATERS, WALDO?

BUT TEN THEATERS IN THE BUILDING IS TOO MUCH FOR ME.

AND I HATE THE SCREENS.

Skaters Receive Awards

COVENTRY - Several area residents who participated in the recent nine and one-half hour Multiple Sclerosis super skate in Coventry were presented with awards at the Coventry Roller Carnival. First place winner was Beth Rappe who raised $122.14, second place to Billy Hanson who raised $120.28, and third place to Kyle Benoit for raising $114.05. Funds raised to date total almost $600. The awards were presented by Carol Phillips, executive director of the Connecticut River Valley Chapter of the National Multiple Sclerosis Society and Sharon Fagan, manager of the carnival. Other prizes will be awarded when the final returns are in.

Cleanup To Reduce Crime

VERNON - Merchants along Main Street in Rockville have offered to help the town clear the area, in back of the shopping center, of shrubs and brush, to help cut down on crime in the center.

This is another move to assist the police in being able to keep track of what is going on in the center of town. Mayor Marie Herbst said the area behind the stores was an attraction to law breakers.

The police department is also considering setting up a crime watch program for the Rockville area which has been plagued with crowds of hoodlums milling around and causing problems.

Police patrols have been stepped up by Mrs. Herbst and she said the police will go into more overtime if necessary.

Another problem the mayor is dealing with is that of parking for commuters. She said commuters parking has been stopped at the Middle School because school personnel complained there were no parking spaces for them.

The mayor said the parking area was designated to be only for those who were going to board commuter buses.

Bid Deadline Slated

HEBRON - The Rham Junior High School Building Committee has set Jan. 7 at noon as the final time to receive all bids for the equipment and furnishings for the new building. The bids will be opened at 1 p.m. in the office of the superintendent of schools, Gilead Hill School.

William J. Risley, told the committee members he would like to have three days to review all bids received and to prepare an analysis for presentation to the committee.

Public Hearing Set

SOUTH WINDSOR - present Industriatics The Planning and Zoning Commission will hold a public hearing Dec. 11 to consider the application of Industriatics Inc., 489 Sullivan Avenue, for a zone change from GC to I on general commercial to industrial on six acres of land located between the but people who were car pooling were also using the lots. She said the owners of the Tri-City Plaza at Vernon Circle also complained about car poolers using that lot. She said the merchants complained because of the holiday season and the additional number of shoppers who find it difficult to find a place to park.
