

Power Struggle Seen For Coca-Cola Control

ATLANTA (UPI) — A power struggle appears to be developing for control of the worldwide Coca-Cola Company, whose sales last year totaled more than $4 billion.

The stage for the corporate battle to determine the successor to J. Paul Austin, Coca-Cola's chairman of the board and chief executive officer since 1966, was set in November at the Atlanta-based company's quarterly board meeting.

At that time, Austin announced a complete shakeup of the firm's corporate structure that brought the managers of Coke's several subsidiary companies into new leadership roles.

He said a new office of vice chairman had been created and six vice chairmen were appointed. The longtime office of president, previously held by J. Lucius Smith who retired in August, was abolished.

Austin, who had been scheduled to retire in February 1980, said the board had asked him to stay on another year and he had agreed.

If Austin had appointed a new president, it would have been clear who his choice would have been as board chairman. Instead, the board restructured Coca-Cola's top management "for the most effective use of our talent," as Austin put it.

Under the new setup, Coke now has a chairman, six vice chairmen, several of whom have been mentioned as possible successors to Austin, and an executive vice president. The latter position is held by John K. Collings, who at the board meeting was named to the additional offices of chief financial officer and treasurer.

The new corporate lineup reflects Coca-Cola's 20-year drive for diversification. It began in 1960 with acquisition of Minute Maid, a citrus products firm, and has taken it into fields unrelated to the soft drink industry.

Four of the new chairmen, Ira Herbert, Roberto Gomez, Donald R. Kouss, and Albert Killen, direct Coke subsidiaries. The two others, Claus M. Halle and Ian R. Wilson, are overseas managers. Halle is in charge of Coca-Cola's operations in Europe and Africa. Wilson manages the company's business in the Pacific area.

The 1980 buyout of Minute Maid by Coke was followed in 1984 by the purchase of Duncan Foods, a move that put Coca-Cola into the coffee and tea business.

In 1970, Coca-Cola took over a Milwaukee headquartered firm, AquaChem, which manufactures water technologies division systems that turn brackish and salt water into potable water and eliminates water contaminants. The company also produces and distributes domestic bottled water through another subsidiary, Belmont Springs Water Co., Belmont, Mass.

Seven years later, Coke ventured into the wine field, acquiring the Taylor Wine Co., the Monterey Vineyard and Sterling Vineyards. Those acquisitions established Coca-Cola as the fifth largest wine producer in the United States.

In 1978, Presto Products of Appleton, Wis., became a subsidiary of Coca-Cola. Presto manufactures blown film products and disposable plastic bags.

Despite Coca-Cola's diversification, it is still primarily a soft drink firm and its main product continues to be Coca-Cola, said Collings in an interview.

CAHCF Installs President

GLASTONBURY — A nationally-known leader in long term health care, Harold Moffie, 51, of West Hartford, has taken office as president of the Connecticut Association of Health Care Facilities.

Moffie is vice president of Region I of the American Health Care Association. He sits with seven other regional vice presidents on the AHCA board of directors, overseeing the nation's $8-billion-a-year long-term care industry.

Moffie is president of Connecticut Health Facilities Inc. of New Britain, which operates four nursing homes in Connecticut.

Moffie was elected president of CAHCF at a general membership meeting in Glastonbury Dec. 20. He served as CAHCF president in 1976-77 and has been on the CAHCF board of directors since.

"We recognize, even if our critics do not," Moffie said, "that the only real assurance of good patient care is to have people in the industry who are proud of the services they provide, and who are adequately rewarded for their efforts."

"During my term in office, we will claim the respect that we nursing home providers have earned for our past and present contributions to Connecticut's elder citizens," he said. "We've given this quality care with a grace and economy which neither the state nor the federal institutions matched."

CAHCF is a non-profit organization of more than 200 proprietary and non-proprietary long-term health care facilities dedicated "in the words of the Association..." to improving the health care of the convalescent and chronically ill of all ages."

Carter Imposes Embargo

'Invasion A Threat To Peace'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter hailed almost all grain sales to Russia Friday and promised military aid to Pakistan, warning that the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan is a chilling threat to world peace — and to crucial oil supplies.

In a nationally broadcast speech, Carter also warned that the Olympics in Moscow next summer if Russia continues on its aggressive path.

The president stressed that the Soviet occupation of Afghanistan is not simply one more small country under the Kremlin's belt but a threat to all countries. He warned that other nations cannot continue "business as usual" with Moscow.

Carter characterized the Soviet invasion as "a stepping stone to their possible control over much of the world's oil supplies."

To demonstrate America's determination to squish this "extremely serious threat to peace," Carter said he has decided on steps designed to help the Russians where they are most vulnerable, and he expects congressional and allied support.

He announced plans to: —Cancel all but 8 million of the 25 million tons of grain the United States offered Russia this fiscal year under an agreement. Because the Kremlin already has taken delivery of some 6.7 million tons, Carter's decision means the Russians can get only 1.3 million more tons between now and Sept. 30.

—Consider withdrawing America from the Olympics in Moscow next summer if the Soviets demonstrate "continued aggressive action."

—Provide military equipment, food and other assistance to Pakistan, Afghanistan's eastern neighbor. "The United States also stands ready to help other nations in the region in similar ways," he said. A White House official said such aid could even go to Iran once the hostages are released and if it is in America's best interests and declined to rule out aid to the Afghan rebels.

—Authorize "no sales of high technology or other strategic items" until further notice. He ordered a review of licensing for the Soviets,

Soviets Fight Guerrillas

By United Press International

Soviet forces battled Moslem and Chinese-backed guerrillas across Afghanistan Friday while the new Kabul regime protested any U.N. Security Council debate on the Russian invasion. Pentagon officials said the United States would send arms to Pakistan to counter Moscow's moves into Central Asia.

President Carter scheduled a televised address to the nation Friday night to announce further steps to counter the Soviet intervention in the internal affairs of Afghanistan. The White House had already put off debate of the SALT II treaty to protest the Moscow move.

Diplomats returning from Kabul said rebels ambushed a Soviet convoy and Russian-led government forces hit back with large-scale aerial bombardments.

They said the Soviet invasion force was locked in combat from the extreme north to the far south and from the border with Pakistan in the east to that with Iran in the west.

In other developments, Soviet-backed leader Babrak Karmal told reporters in Kabul that the previous government had tried to turn the country into a huge dungeon, the Soviet news agency Tass reported.

Tass said he promised to release thousands of political prisoners.

In Washington, State Department officials said the new measures against Moscow were expected to include a demand for a cutback in the size of the Russian Embassy.

They said the landing rights of the Soviet airline Aeroflot in the United States also might be curtailed, and the Agriculture Department was looking into the effects of a possible embargo on U.S. grain sales to the Soviet Union.

Kabul Radio said new Foreign Minister Shah Mohammad Dost sent a telegram to the Security Council protesting the proposed meeting as a "counter intervention in the internal affairs of Afghanistan."

The request for the meeting was pressed by 43 nations, including Pakistan, whose leader Mohammed Zia Ul-Haq said in Islamabad that he was "deeply disturbed" by the Soviet invasion.

They said Soviet-led government forces, apparently units of the Afghan air force, have restored to carpet — or saturation — bombing in the area in an attempt to stamp out the Chinese-backed rebels.

The Chinese aid was the first report of foreign assistance to the badly divided Moslem tribesmen, who are confronting a heavily armed Soviet force of about 50,000 men.

Rebel sources also said large numbers of government troops were defecting to Moslem insurgent forces.

In Tehran, an Afghan rebel spokesman said Soviet tanks moved close to the Iran border in order to block any relief move by Moslem guerrillas based in Iran.

Other Afghan guerrilla sources in Qom, religious headquarters of Iranian leader Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, said "strong resistance is being put up by our remaining elements in Herat," Afghanistan's second city.

There were also reports of heavy fighting at Jalalabad, 60 miles from the Pakistan border, in Bamian province, 50 miles west of Kabul, in Badkshan province in the extreme northeastern part of Afghanistan and in Takhar province.

The Tass report said Karmal defended the overthrow of former president Hafizullah Amin, saying that the consequences for Afghanistan would have been disastrous had the coup failed.

Militants Want Diplomat

Hostage Trial Promised

TEHRAN, Iran (UPI) — Moslem militants occupying the U.S. Embassy for a third month said Friday they will try one of their 50 American hostages, Air Force Lt. Col. David Roeder, as a "war criminal" for bombing Vietnam during the war there and invited Vietnam to attend.

They also demanded that Foreign Minister Sadeq Ghotbzadeh and other ranking U.S. diplomat in Tehran, Charge d'Affaires Bruce Laingen, who has been in protective custody at the Foreign Ministry since the radio and television station in the western city of Tabriz.

The militants' statements came shortly after U.S. Secretary General Kurt Waldheim abruptly ended his frustrating four-day peace mission (News) to New York for the U.N. Security Council meeting on the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan.

Waldheim was snubbed by the depose ruler of Iran and, finally, rejected by Khomeini himself. Waldheim gave up his mission to find a solution to the U.S.-Iranian crisis in the wee hours of the morning and flew to New York via Zurich, Switzerland.

Waldheim had barely left town when militant students holding the 50 for a 62nd day called on the Foreign Ministry to hand over Laingen, 57, of Qom. Min., charge d'affaires and ranking U.S. diplomat in Iran.

Laingen, Victor L. Tomseth of Springfield, Ore., and Michael Holland have been held in "protective custody" on the top floor of the Foreign Ministry building since the U.S. Embassy was overrun.

In a hard-line declaration, the militants also denounced Roeder, 40, of White Fish Bay, Wis., the embassy's Air Force attaché, as a "war criminal," said they would put him on trial and invited Vietnam to attend.

Roeder, the militants said, bombed Vietnamese people during the Vietnam War. "We shall invite the brave and struggling nation of Vietnam to send representatives to attend the trial of this American war criminal and mercenary spy," they said.

The demand for Laingen was another sign of a deep rift between the militants and Ghotbzadeh, who had been pushing for the students to drop plans for spy trials of the hostages — in which they could face death sentences — in favor of an international "grand jury" proceeding into American crimes at which the captives would be merely witnesses.

Ghotbzadeh has warned that the grand jury plan would be scrapped if the United Nations imposes economic sanctions on Iran. Under a resolution it passed Dec. 31, the Security Council is to consider sanctions if the hostages are not freed by next Monday.

In Qom, Khomeini's headquarters, a milling crowd of 4,000 to 5,000 — a mixture of the Khomeini loyalists and dissident followers of Shariat-Madadi — erupted in stick-wielding fights Friday that lasted into the late afternoon. A near-riot prevailed at sunset.

Shariat-Madadi, the main Shiite clergy figure to emerge as a critic of Khomeini's Islamic regime, has a large following of Turkish-speaking Iranians.

The State Radio said Friday night "counter revolutionaries" had taken over the Tabriz radio and television station and that many residents had begun a march on the broadcasting complex to try to recapture it.

It was the second takeover of the radio and television station in Tabriz since early December.

Chicago Schools

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (UPI) — Chicago officials and Gov. James H. Thompson Friday failed to agree on a bailout plan for nearbankrupt Chicago schools. Teachers went unpaid for the second straight payroll and vowed to walk off the job.

A spokesman for Thompson said the governor did not defer a $100 million weekend deposit of state money in a Chicago bank. The move dried up the source of any paydays for Chicago's 48,600 school employees, including 25,500 teachers.

Chicago School Board President Catherine Rhoter said Friday afternoon the board's $41.5 million payroll would not be met. It marked the second payless payday for the 48,600 employees of the nation's third largest school system.

"Because no agreement has been reached among the parties convened here it will not be possible to issue payroll checks today," Mrs. Rhoter said.

Hopes of meeting the payroll were virtually dashed when Thompson declined to hold up a state's regular weekend deposit of funds in a Chicago bank.

GOP Campaign

DES MOINES, Iowa (UPI) — Armed with briefing books and hoping to gain badly needed recognition, six Republican presidential candidates arrived in Iowa Friday on the eve of the debate that launches the 1980 campaign.

The two-hour question-and-answer session Saturday night opens the political season with less fanfare than originally anticipated by its sponsor, the Des Moines Register and Tribune, and the candidates.

The GOP meeting was originally scheduled as the warmup for a Democratic debate Sunday — with President Carter taking on challengers Sen. Edward Kennedy and Gov. Edmund Brown Jr.

But that fell apart when Carter decided he had to stay in the White House to handle the growing international crisis.

And it was further diminished when the man the Republican contenders most wanted on the platform — GOP frontrunner Ronald Reagan — said he would avoid this and all other potential confrontations for the sake of party unity.

Sedgewick County Judge Ron Rogg ended two days of hearings by telling the stepfather — who already has been charged with assault in the case — that the fate of Michael was no longer in his or his wife's hands.

"I find there is no medical reason for life-support systems to be continued on Michael Saad since he is legally and medically dead," the judge said.

A Wesley Medical Center spokesman said pediatrician Katherine Pennington, who testified earlier in the hearings that "it's a disservice to a child to keep it on a respirator," would make the final decision when the life-support systems would be turned off.

Shot to Death

MARS HILL, Ala. (UPI) — Two elderly spinsters and their bachelor brother were shot to death and another brother critically wounded by gunmen who raided their house in an apparent search for a rumored trunk of money, police said Friday.

The plan includes proposals to let up an accessible energy information center in the Memorial Building; an energy operations plan to shelter and feed town residents who are in need; provisions for a private fuel bank; to identify multiple family dwellings in danger of abandonment; set up a liaison with local fuel dealers and social agencies to assure immediate supply for residents who run out of fuel; developing local conservation programs and such.

The plan is designed to inform township people as to local government planning for the 1980 heating season.

There will be coordination with the state and federal governments to

'Brain Dead'

WICHITA, Kan. (UPI) — A county judge Friday ruled that Michael Saad was "brain dead" and said a local hospital could remove the 3-month-old baby from a life-support system that has kept him alive since a Christmas Eve beating.

The ruling raised the possibility of a murder charge against the baby's stepfather.

Sedgewick County Judge Ron Rogg ended two days of hearings by telling the stepfather — who already has been charged with assault in the case — that the fate of Michael was no longer in his or his wife's hands.

"I find there is no medical reason for life-support systems to be continued on Michael Saad since he is legally and medically dead," the judge said.

A Wesley Medical Center spokesman said pediatrician Katherine Pennington, who testified earlier in the hearings that "it's a disservice to a child to keep it on a respirator," would make the final decision when the life-support systems would be turned off.

System Fails In Fire Test

By PATRICK REILLY
Herald Reporter

EAST HARTFORD — The fire department's communications system failed to deliver a response from one of the station houses in a Friday morning test.

The test was made at the request of Mayor George Dagon and was conducted in the presence of union and fire officials.

Before the test, Fire Chief Michael Fitzgerald assured the mayor that the system's problem was interference, commonly called static, Dagon said. But the Friday test showed a problem with the system itself, interference is another problem.

The failure came when a call was made to Co. 3 on Burnside Avenue, which failed to respond. Contact was made by telephone, but minutes were lost doing so. The company had received the signal but was unable to respond because of a problem in the system.

"This company is especially critical because it houses the paramedic unit," Dagon said.

After the testing of the system Dagon said he told the fire chief to come up with a solution to the system's problems this day.

Before Friday morning's meeting union officials said they didn't want to be blamed if problems with the system caused loss of property or life.

Dagon said the town is liable and not the union for any loss of property or life as a result of the system.

At the meeting Dagon said the union officials had no complaint with the follow-up of the system's problems by the company that installed it, Stank Communications. But the union maintained that the system was faulty, Dagon said.

The system cost $40,000 and has been in operation since September, Dagon said he had received reports of problems in the system from the beginning but had dismissed them to allow the system time to get the bugs out.

"We have got to have a better system where the response gets back to the dispatcher," Dagon said. "The system now is not consistent."

"Right now we have a communication system that works 99 out of 100 times," Dagon said, "but what do we do when it doesn't work that one time?"

Water Bill Time Shorter

MANCHESTER — The Water and Sewer Department instituted a new policy Jan. 1, reducing the payment period from 60 to 30 days.

If a bill is not paid 30 days after the billing date, the customer is charged 1 percent interest, an annual interest rate of 12 percent. This is the same rate and procedure as the old policy.

The 30-day billing period was recommended by the Public Administration Service study completed last September. The change would improve the cash position of the department.

During the first year, the town could collect as much as $428,000 in back payments, according to the study. But this will be the only increase in revenue. After that it will only increase the amount of revenue available to the department.

Based on annual total water and sewer revenues of $2,605,540, daily revenues total $7,138, according to the PAS study.

Presently meters are read every three months, and bills are mailed one month after that. The customer then has 60 days to pay the bill without an interest charge.

Under the new policy, billing and reading procedures remain the same. The only payment period is shortened.

The study recommended the payment period be shortened initially to 30 days and then to 20.

Paul Francis Taylor, water and sewer finance manager, said the department is not considering a 20-day payment period.

"I don't think there will be a further reduction," he said.

But he noted the department was exploring ways to shorten the time between meter reading and billing, which remains at four weeks.

"We're trying to do a more automated system," he said. "Most people are very prompt about paying their bills. But with the state of the economy, people are utilizing the full payment period, he said.

Public Hearing Slated on Energy Plan

By BARBARA RICHMOND
Herald Reporter

VERNON — A winter energy plan for the town, prepared by the Energy Committee of the Town Council, will go to a public hearing Monday at 7:30 p.m. in the Memorial Building.

The plan includes proposals to let up an accessible energy information center in the Memorial Building; an energy operations plan to shelter and feed town residents who are in need; provisions for a private fuel bank; to identify multiple family dwellings in danger of abandonment; set up a liaison with local fuel dealers and social agencies to assure immediate supply for residents who run out of fuel; developing local conservation programs and such.

The plan is designed to inform township people as to local government planning for the 1980 heating season.

There will be coordination with the state and federal governments to provide assistance, particularly to low income people and the elderly.

The committee, headed by Councilman Robert Romejko, said Vernon has unique problems in that one of its sections, Rockville, includes many older homes and older apartment buildings many of which are owned by absentee landlords and are rented by families with less than 125 percent of poverty level. For a family of four that would mean the annual income is about $8,375.

The committee said there is genuine concern over whether or not these families will choose to "heat or eat." They said energy related problems affect state-financed public housing too.

The committee said escalation of fuel costs, since budgets were prepared for municipal buildings and schools, will result in cost overruns and additional tax burdens to local property owners.

The committee also cited the potential problem of housing abandonment, the inability of tenants to pay for fuel when the apartment lease is up and finally relocation of tenants due to condominium conversion. These present real problems the committee said.

Many families who own big old houses can't afford to weatherize them to conserve fuel because the up-front costs for this is too high, the committee said.

The committee also said the town recognizes there is not enough information on energy conservation, energy audits, and weatherization being passed on to the public.

That is why the proposal is being made to set up a centralized information center with an adequate staff to furnish township people with this information and to discuss their problems.

The committee also wants to have a program to educate people on the hazards of the use of space heaters, gas stoves, electric heaters, faulty wiring, wood stoves, and coal stoves.

The committee further said the town recognizes the need for temporary shelters in cases of housing abandonment, fuel shutoffs, broken pipes and furnaces and apartment dwellers being displaced due to condominium conversions.

The town is also developing an emergency operations plan to feed and shelter residents who are in need due to a lack of fuel. The goal of the plan is to provide centralized locations for individuals and families without heat in their homes and who are unable to arrange private accommodations.

If only one or two families are affected the civil defense trailer at the Nye Street firehouse will be used for temporary shelter. If up to 50 people are affected, the Nye Street firehouse and Company 1 firehouse will be used.

If more than 50 people, up to 200, are affected, then the civil preparedness emergency operation plan, developed by the town, will be set up at Sykes and Middle schools.

The plan also calls for the weatherization of all town buildings given top priority with the use of energy audits.

The town has set up an emergency loan program to be administered by Mrs. Jean Pearsall, social services director. Persons who qualify may borrow money to buy fuel.

Fuel oil dealers will be asked to maintain minimum temperatures despite adequate insulation, and for several other purposes.

The committee also said that state statutes authorizing the Superior Court to issue immediate orders, without a prior hearing, in emergency situations where municipal orders haven't been complied with and such court orders may include appointment of a rent receiver.

Anti-Poverty Program Draws Public Support

VERNON — In response to a request of the Hockanum Valley Community Council to have the Windham Area Community Action Program serve as its official anti-poverty agency, town officials have received letters from several local persons, supporting the request.

The Town Council was asked, at its meeting two weeks ago, to make the designation due to financial difficulties the Hockanum Council is experiencing.

Before its regular meeting Monday the council will conduct a public hearing on the proposal. The local council said it would need considerably more financial help from the town or would fold if it doesn't get help from WACAP.

Under the proposal, with WACAP, a Willimantic-based agency, Hockanum Council would receive financial aid administrative and bookkeeping services but it would mean Hockanum Valley would mean the Tri-Town social service agency with local orientation, separate identity and local control. Agency officials said it would mean the strengthening of social services delivery in Vernon.

The Hockanum Council has an annual budget of $200,000 to which the Town of Vernon contributes $20,000. WACAP has an annual budget of $4 million and it serves 23 Connecticut towns.

Some council members expressed fears about having an out-of-town agency in control of services for Vernon and some expressed fears about "WACAP and its political activities."

At Monday's hearing Mayor Marie Herbst is expected to make a report on alternative solutions to the problem including how much it would cost the town to bail out Hockanum Council.

Anchorman Says TV, Papers Reverse Roles

By JACK JACKSON
CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (UPI) — Americans have reversed the roles television and print news should play in informing the public and the "upside down mixture" is bad for the country, NBC anchorman John Chancellor said Friday.

"Many people rely on TV news for basic coverage and analysis of events, he said. Newspapers, on the other hand, are becoming sources of features and "soft" news.

"Television is good at some things," Chancellor said in an interview. "TV can take you where you cannot be... You can see the war, you can see the seas in the eyes. Print doesn't do that very well."

"What print is terrific at — and television is not so good at — is fact. Complicated stories on economics, a lot of factual stories where you have a lot of complicated material in there," he said.

"The problem in the country is more than news people are turning television for fact and more and more newspapers are becoming transmitters of experience and emotion. News people are becoming fact and opinion columns to reflect the state of affairs. Chancellor said.

"You can make a television program — with the most serious television journalists in the world on — and make it two hours and you still could not fulfill that function print can," he said.

Despite that, Chancellor said he favors creating an hour-long network news broadcast each night.

"I used to think that it shouldn't be an hour because I'm not certain how much television people can take in terms of hard news seriously presented.

"I've now changed my mind about that. The last few years, I think it would be very desirable to have an hour... We can fill an hour honestly and do a good job. And I think people are very hungry for news these days," he said.

Chancellor supported NBC's much criticized decision last month to broadcast an interview with Cpl. William Calley, one of the hostages held by Iranian militants in the American embassy in Tehran.

NBC was criticized for playing into the captors' hands by agreeing to air what amounted to an 18-minute vehicle for Iranian propaganda in order to obtain the story.

The students allowed NBC to have two reporters asking unprepared questions, Chancellor said, and hearing from one of the hostages "was certainly newsworthy" since it would help Americans understand the situation in Iran.

Guest Editorial State Budget Reform

The following is a guest editorial written by Robert H. H. Child, president, Connecticut Public Expenditure Council Inc.

Time is catching up with Connecticut's budget, but the basic problem is not with the State tax system, as some seem to think. Neither tinkering with nor overhauling the state tax system will close the perennial gaps which arise in the State budget. The basic budget issue is one of spending priorities. It is not the tax system but spending habits that need overhauling. To focus on the tax system gets the "cart before the horse" and only postpones coming to grips with the fundamental issues.

State officials are faced once again with the challenge of bringing proposed state budget programs into line with the growth in Connecticut's economy. This is a challenge which faces all of the northeastern states regardless of their tax structure. Between 1969 and 1978, Connecticut's economy grew 98 percent while state spending increased 150 percent. During the 70's there were state budget increases of 12 to 14 percent even though economic growth (as measured by total personal income) was often less than 10 percent.

There is clearly a need for Public officials and their constituents need to face up to the economic fact that there is a limit to the fiscal resources available for government programs.

Difficult choices have to be made. They are difficult, in part, because the state budget-making process is imprecise, and because decisions not to spend can be politically hazardous.

The state has no system of operational reporting, no system that regularly provides up-to-date data on the activities and services being performed by state agencies and institutions. It is impossible to tell whether existing state resources are being used effectively. This is why the Connecticut Public Expenditure Council and others have urged that the state return to a biennial system. A two-year budget cycle would again give state agencies and budget officials more time to develop and review budgets and operational data. The Office of Policy and Management and the General Assembly's Joint Appropriations Committee would be in a better position to determine whether present tax dollars are being used as effectively as possible.

While Connecticut's per capita income has historically been among the highest, it has slipped in recent years to fourth among the states at $8,911 for 1978. According to the U.S. Department of Commerce, Connecticut's total personal income growth has been the second slowest among the states. The department recently characterized Connecticut as a state whose economic growth rate is decelerating. Connecticut is struggling to maintain an expanding economy, and the for aid to municipalities. In success of its efforts will Connecticut, the state government in large measure on how money provides many services business firms perceive the that are the responsibility of titles of state and local municipal governments in government on spending and other states. Connecticut local taxation. A reluctance to hold governments have limited or spending in line with economic no involvement in welfare, growth is not a very en-teachers' retirement, hospitals couraging sign. An un-or courts, while in other states, willingness to look hard at the these areas are significant spending side and establish responsibilities of the priorities, too often leads to a municipalities.

Therefore, interstate comparisons of levels of state aid, when they fail to take these differences into account, are invalid.

The current turmoil surrounding the question of keeping the state budget in balance and formulating a spending plan for 1980-81 fiscal can be beneficial, if it directs attention toward the spending side of the budget, attention that is needed now more than ever before. The state treasury should not be deemed a perpetual "money store" with the taxpayer as the last resort.

Local governments are faced with similar choices. The state is funneling substantial increases in aid for local education programs. And with declining school enrollments, municipalities should make most of the opportunity to reallocate property tax dollars.

Twenty-one percent of Connecticut's state budget is

Look For Your Inheritance

We look for a lot of things in a new year hoping for peace and calm among the nations and peoples.

"From history, we learn the hopes of others were shattered; are we more than they? We need not be brought so low as to forget One is greater than all; 'Who has worked and done it, calling the generations from the beginning?'"

I the Lord, the first, and with the last; I am He. (Isaiah 41:4).

Furthermore, He says: "When the poor and needy seek water, and there is none, and their tongue falls for thirst, I the Lord will hear them, I the God of Israel will not forsake them." (Isaiah 41:17).

What frightens and bewilders us, God calms of His own accord. By His Son, or Lord. He has prepared for us an inheritance of eternal life far more than we could think or ask. Far from an escape of the moment - good or evil, this revealed truth of God is fortitude and the power to endure; so we look for the inheritance He has prepared for all who love Him.

Wings of Morning Did You Get What You Wanted for Christmas?

By CLIFF SIMPSON

Did you get what you wanted? Perhaps just as important, were the gifts you gave enjoyed by the recipients?

I must confess that although I am grateful for the "thought" (that's what many say is the only thing that matters), I am bewildered by several of the presents partly as to why they were given and more insistently just exactly what are they?

I recall the classic cartoon that appeared somewhere (the New Yorker, I think) showing a customer in Abercrombie and Fitch speaking to a store clerk. "This is not a complaint. In fact, I don't even want to return it. Just tell me what it is!" and passed it across the counter. The clerk held it in his hand, looked at it, turned over once or twice, and remarked, "I do not know. I guess it is just a Christmas present."

Housing Priorities

Although 1979 was celebrated as the International Year of the Child, for many children in this state, and others, 1979 was not a good year. The worsening course of the national economy has forced many families with young children to live in uncomfortable and often unsafe conditions.

Most young families would like to buy their first home find that the high cost of housing and high mortgage interest rates have made owning a home an impossible dream.

Forced to rent housing, these families find there are few affordable apartments with two or more bedrooms which will permit occupancy by families with children.

The conversion of apartments to condominiums encourages further subtraction from the stock of available housing for families with moderate or low incomes. Many families are thus forced to live in overcrowded and substandard housing and or pay over half of their incomes for rent and utilities.

Children with single parents are often forced to live in even worse conditions, since a family today needs at least two average incomes in order to have even a chance to find adequate housing.

Many families which have no source of income other than public assistance find their choices limited to slum housing in unsafe and unhealthy conditions.

The number of existing public housing units and rent subsidies is insufficient to meet the need. In Hartford and other cities there are thousands of families on waiting lists for housing assistance. The welfare flat grant does not provide a family with enough income to rent a decent apartment, pay a security deposit or moving expenses.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

TVA Gave a Dame at Tellico

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — The controversial small darter got all the publicity, but the tiny fish wasn't the only species victimized when the Tennessee Valley Authority closed the floodgates last month on its multi-million-dollar bondoggle, the Tellico Dam.

For the Cherokee Nation, whose homeland is being inundated by completion of the dam, Tellico is just one more sorry chapter in a long history of mistreatment for families of cynical bureaucrats in Washington.

For Americans as a whole, an important part of our national heritage will be lost forever when one of the most remarkable archeological sites east of the Mississippi disappears beneath the waters of the manmade lake behind the dam.

And for the families who had farmed the green fields of the Tellico Valley for generations, the dam project has meant the loss of their homes, a sad human story which has been largely ignored amidst the struggle between stubborn environmentalists and porkbarrel politicians over the celebrated small darter.

Perhaps the greatest loss in the long run, however, is an intangible one—the notion that this is a government of laws that must be obeyed by individual citizens.

The TVA has been well aware of all these victims for years, and has steadfastly chosen to ignore them in its slanted-grab for bureaucratic power. The fact that the Tellico Dam has been adjudged by experts to be an unproductive producer of electric power — just 200 million kilowatt-hours a year — only makes TVA's actions more shameful.

As Gerald Schroedl, an archeologist who worked for TVA at Tellico, told my reporter Hal Straus, "TVA reads the laws and they decide the way they want them. They don't comply, they never have complied; and as it turns out Tellico, they never have to."

The destruction of the Cherokee homeland is a particularly rank example of official lawlessness running roughshod over rights guaranteed in the statute books. The area to be flooded includes the ancient Cherokee capital of Chota, as well as thousands of burial places and other sites sacred to the Cherokees.

The Native American Religious Freedom Act specifically directs federal agencies to allow access to sacred tribal sites. After supporting the environmentalists' unsuccessful fight to save the small darter—which was also supposedly protected by the Eastern Branch of the Cherokee is now pushing its own case in court.

Cherokees are particularly indignant at TVA's insensitivity toward the thousands of ancestral graves that will be violated by wave action of the reservoir water, exposing the bones to wash up on the shore.

Cherokee Chief John Crow said in a letter to TVA: "Our situation today is simply repeating the experiences of the Cherokee Nation in its dealings with the United States government and its agencies throughout history. This is not unlike the treaty which resulted in the forced removal of the Cherokee from east of the Mississippi to the 'trail of tears' to Oklahoma."

TVA's bureaucrats also shrugged off the Historical Preservation Act, refusing to file a comprehensive plan for studying the site before flooding, as required by law. As a result, a uniquely valuable archeological treasure, which provides an unbroken record of human habitation going back 12,000 years — will go down the drain.

"First, they argued they were not a federal agency, so they didn't have to comply," said Bernie Keel, chief of the Interior Department's Interagency Archeological Services. "Then they said, 'Well, we were authorized before the act went into effect.' Neither of those worked, so they went to Congress and got exempted. It's clear to me they never intended to comply with the spirit and intent of the law."

Once again, the demands of big money have enabled bureaucrats to expand their paper empire at ruinous and irreversible cost to the nation.

Secret documents are the lifeblood of the espionage business, and federal agencies have elaborate security precautions to prevent sensitive information from falling into the wrong hands. But occasionally there are incredible cracks in the security structure that allow secrets to slip out. Here's just one astonishing example:

A file cabinet with a combination lock on it was recently declared surplus by the State Department and turned over to the General Services Administration for routine disposal. Following standard practice, the GSA sold it at a bargain price to a local municipality, which in turn resold it to a private individual.

Nowhere along the bureaucratic chain of disposal did anyone bother to see what, if anything, was inside the file cabinet. When the private purchaser finally opened the cabinet, however, it contained a secret State Department report on events in Rhodesia, Cyprus, Germany, China and the Middle East.

A GSA spokesman told my office that the agency would never knowingly sell surplus equipment that contained any government documents. If a file contains any papers, he said, "we usually just junk them or send them back" to the originating agency. This time, however, the 10-page secret document apparently slipped by GSA's Federal Property Resources Service.

With this potential bait, GSA's public sales of surplus property should pick up — what with well-heeled enemy agents hoping for an unexpected bargain in an old desk or file cabinet.

- THE BIBLE SPEAKERS
Eugene Browne
- The authority the Bible bears in our lives depends upon our view of its origin. It one accepts it as the product of divine inspiration, he is logically obligated to recognize its divine authority. There are intelligent reasons for so viewing the Bible.
- First, the writers repeatedly claim inspiration, e.g. 1 Timothy 3:16, 17, its brevity in telling of momentous events is not in man's loquacious style. With impartiality, it tells the bad in his heroes.
- Though written by some 40 men, widely divergent backgrounds and separated by centuries, it is without contradiction.
- Fulfilled prophecy argues strongly for the inspiration of the Bible. The Bible's message is unique as it teaches doctrines unappreciated to men.
- While its religion claims universal dominion, it honors individual choice.
- And the most powerful argument is the savior it presents — Jesus Christ!

A Farewell

To the editor:

Goodbye to a dear old friend, House and Hale of Manchester.

From my conversations with many others from town, I know I am not alone with my nostalgia at seeing Manchester, the home building standing empty.

The store was on my way to work, an easy stopping place, and the folks who worked there were so warm and human, more like friends than employees.

God bless you all.

Evelyn Baranoff, 98 W. Middle Turnpike, Manchester.

'A Rose is a Rose, is a Rose...'

Silk Flowers Are Popular

By BETTY RYDER Family Editor As the result of an accident, a new career has blossomed for Lu Gustafson of Manchester.

Some time ago, Lu hurt her arm and couldn't continue her hobby of bowling, so she joined the YWCA Koffler Kraffers and learned how to make silk flowers.

Today, flowers from her business "Artristry in Roses" are used in bridal bouquets, headpieces, corsages, centerpieces, pew markers, boutonnières, cake decorations, etc.

"When I started, I made roses for everyone. The bouquets included baby's breath and fern and my friends said they look real.

"From my daughter opened the 'Front Parlor Beauty Salon on Hartford Road, I decorated it with silk flowers using a different theme each month. Customers were impressed with the true-to-life appearance of the flowers and were soon asking to buy them," she said.

"I have always wanted to be a flower designer, but never pursued it seriously because one must work on Sundays and holidays. With Artristry in Roses, I work in my home, at my own pace. I can sit with a box of the materials on my lap and watch television."

In addition to her handmade flowers, Lu also does interior landscaping with waterfalls, silk foliage, driftwood and pebbles. She also rents flowers, lanterns, umbrellas for showers and parties.

Lu says the interest in silk flowers has grown considerably in the past few years. "The handmade roses have a life-like appearance and can be used as keepsakes. The bouquets can even be redesigned for home arrangements. Some of my brides have had two bouquets made, one to keep and one to toss to their bridesmaids."

Graduation proms have also proved to be popular outlets for silk flowers. The young ladies can retain their corsage after the ball is over," Lu said.

A woman of many talents, Lu, with the help of her husband, Lloyd, graphic arts teacher at Enfield High School, recently published a cookbook entitled "Be a Gourmet Cook with a Flair - When You're Flat," which was reviewed in The Herald's "Your Neighbor's Kitchen" column recently.

Anyone interesting in viewing some of Lu's floral work may call her for an appointment at 649-0568.

A white lace with deep red roses and greens is just one of the many floral arrangements Lu offers.

Lu arranges the ribbon on a tiny bouquet.

The Supermarket Shopper Similar to Pack Rat

By MARTIN SLOANE
Experienced refunders follow a simple rule regarding proofs of purchase: The only way to be absolutely certain that you are saving the proof that a manufacturer may require for a future refund is to SAVE EVERYTHING!

This means that they save box tops, box labels, net-weights, universal product codes and proof-of-purchase seals. For some products they even save the ingredients lists and the nutritional-information statements.

Because a manufacturer may require one type of proof of purchase for a current refund and another for a future refund, it is important that you save everything.

Last summer General Mills advertised a free product offer that asked for box bottoms from Betty Crocker Stir 'n Frost and Cakes 'n Cream. In September the company advertised a big $2 cash refund that asked for the universal product codes from the same products!

Many manufacturers are inconsistent in the proofs of purchase they require. This allows experienced refunders to obtain two and even three refunds from the various proofs of purchase from one package.

It is all part of the game that makes couponing and refunding so exciting. The box top you save today could be worth $1 tomorrow or next month or even next year!

Many manufacturers are now printing proof-of-purchase seals on their packages. Does this mean that you should save that part of the box and throw out the rest?

Not necessarily. Take a look at a box of Ziploc Sandwich Bags. On one end you will find a circle enclosing the words "Proof of Purchase."

There is even a small scissors next to the circle, indicating that you should cut it out!

But if you check our past CLIP 'N FILE lists for a Dow-Ziploc refund offer, you will find that the required proof of purchase is not that circle but the Ziploc perforated opening tab.

Of course, some manufacturers are consistent in their proof-of-purchase requirements. This allows experienced refunders to be somewhat selective in the proofs they save.

Experienced refunders know, for instance, that refund offers for Green Giant frozen vegetables usually ask for the ingredient panel. They also know that Sunshine asks for the proof-of-purchase seals from its cookie packages. If you don't have the space to save every proof of purchase, you can use my CLIP 'N FILE refund offers to help you to be more selective with the proofs you save.

Just go down the list of refund offers. As you find a note of the proof of purchase that the manufacturer requires, within a few weeks you will have a fairly accurate list of the proofs currently being requested.

But remember that saving proofs selectively is a shortcut. There will be times when you will wish that you had saved everything!

Happy New Year everybody and let us pray for the year 1980, we will have less turmoil throughout the world and things here in Manchester will be a healthy one for all of us.

It's back to the old routine once again and we sure had a nice turnout for our Holiday Dance on Dec. 27. Those in attendance were treated to hors d'oeuvres during the course of the evening and then sandwiches and desserts.

I want to sincerely thank Julie Patlak and her family and Helen Winters for their work in preparing the food for the dance. Also thanks to the students, Duane Kingsley, Greg Flinn, and Michael Yenson who volunteered their services to help serve the food.

Parker are patients at the local hospital and cards would be appreciated. Hazel Stebbins is now recuperating at her home, 39 McGuire Lane after a few weeks in the hospital as is Lil Rutchik.

Our regular programs are back in swing with our popular exercise class starting Tuesday afternoon at 1:30 p.m. and again on Friday morning at 10 a.m. This class is open to both men and women and is an excellent way to keep yourself trim through the remaining winter months.

There is no charge for this class. The ceramics class will start again on Friday morning at 9:30 a.m. which hopefully will come about by the end of February.

If you're interested in helping us with some of the chores, just drop by any morning from 9 a.m. to noon and maybe in the afternoon for a while. It's getting to the point where 3 hours isn't going to be enough time to get all things done.

Word here is that Bob Duggart is feeling somewhat better now as he is recuperating at the Vernon Manor. We hear Annie Thompson and Ann Marie

Our oil painting and crewel classes are scheduled to start the first week in February. There are still seats available for our Florida bus trip which will be leaving Feb. 21. Call our office for further information.

Next Thursday we plan to hear JoAnne Mileit and Diane Wickes speak about funds available to help seniors pay for their fuel and utilities bills.

We also have a very professional program called "America, My Country." The program consists of colored slides taken by a professional photographer and live singing by a local soprano.

Starting this Tuesday afternoon and every Tuesday until April, we will have men here at the center to help you folks with your income taxes. Just drop by anytime from 1 p.m. to 3:30 p.m.

Steelers Plan No Changes

PITTSBURGH (UPI) - The AFC championship game is only one day away and the Houston Oilers are still unsure of the status of two of their injured offensive stars, running back Earl Campbell and quarterback Dan Pastorini.

But it doesn't make any difference to the Pittsburgh Steelers. The Steelers won the AFC Central title and routed Miami 34-14 in the divisional playoffs last week.

Phillips feels his club is stronger than the one which lost to Pittsburgh in last January's title game. "Obviously we've got more depth than we did a year ago," said Phillips.

One to three inches of snow were expected to fall on Pittsburgh Friday night and more snow was predicted for Saturday, along with temperatures in the teens and winds of 15 to 20 miles an hour.

Phillips had nothing but good things to say about the Steelers despite the bitter rivalry between the clubs and some charges of foul play. The Steelers' weather is expected to help Pittsburgh, since Houston plays half its schedule indoors at the Astrodome and rarely gets bitter cold.

"I'd rather have good weather," said Houston Coach Bum Phillips, whose team was scheduled to arrive in Pittsburgh Friday night.

Both Campbell and Pastorini suffered groin pulls in the wild card victory over Denver. Second-year man Gifford Nielsen replaced Pastorini and teamed with Mike Rieffers for the winning 47-yard touchdown pass against San Diego.

"Pastorini and Nielsen do primarily the same things," said Steelers Coach Chuck Noll, who is edging toward a record fourth Super Bowl victory.

"I hope not," said Noll. "I don't think my football team will fall into that. We had respect for them before, after and now. We play them twice a year every year. We played them last year and we're playing them three times this season."

Steelers defense backs Mel Boone and J.T. Thomas also don't flinch. Boone is an All-Pro center. Thomas is a tackle who has led the Steelers in sacks.

Pastorini Avoids Added Controversy

HOUSTON (UPI) - Houston Oilers quarterback Dan Pastorini, who the day before had exchanged swear words with sportswriter and photojournalist Earl Campbell, avoided reporters on the AFC championship game Sunday.

Asked what effect if any the incident would have on the team, running back Earl Campbell said, "I don't think much. It's just a personal thing."

"We love controversy," said linebacker Gregg Bingham. "I don't think it'll hurt things. I think it might help."

"I think everybody realizes what that is. It's just a personal thing. It's not going to affect us a little more. A little thing like that's not gonna hurt us. It might fire us up a little more."

Pro Scouts Eye Top Rated Group

HONOLULU (UPI) - Even though Saturday's Hula Bowl will probably be a spectator's delight with two Heisman Trophy winners playing on opposite teams, the eyes of the pro football scouts may spend more time on the line rather than on the backfield.

Quarterbacks will be Paul McDonald of USC and Mark Malone of Arizona State for the West, and James Streeter of Tennessee and Mark Carlson of Minnesota for the East.

Roger Metzger is as fine a young man as I've ever run into in all my years covering sports. He has the kind of will power to match, and if he says he's going to do it, I have to believe he can.

Hardest Part

The hardest thing for him to do was tell those closest to him, like his wife, Tamy, who happened to be in Houston at the time, about the accident. He could sense their feelings for him and that made him feel all the more.

Joe's World Fly Fishing Fraternity

The fly fishing fraternity is a truly wonderful, but loose organization. Especially in this area, it's really international in scope. Let a fly fisherman meet another on a stream in Montana, Connecticut, Maine, England, Scotland, New Zealand, or anywhere on this globe, and friendships are formed, that seem to last.

Collectors' Corner

Waiting for The Blizzard

By RUSS MACKENDRICK

Here we see a woodpile expected to be an increasingly popular item this year. At the lower left is a chopping block with a couple of wedges for splitting the larger chunks. Just showing, is the handle of a sledhammer used for whacking the wedges.

The scene in toto is a breath of independence.

Olympic Blizzard

The only Blizzard so far this season has been supplied by the USPS in the way of Olympic issues. There is still another coming out on the 15th a 14-cent International Surface Rate Postal Card. It will have a multicolor picture of a lissome skater person at the height of a fancy routine.

The first-day city will be Atlanta, Georgia, where they will hold the U.S. Figure Skating Championships this month.

If you count the Special Olympics 15-cent stamp of last summer (for the handicapped), the total comes to a dozen pieces of postal paper designed to promote our awareness of the Games. There was a 10-cent stamp for the decathlon and then a 10-cent postal card showing a sprinter. Later there came a 5-cent 15-cent foursome to depict women runners and swimmers, men rowing a racing shell and a horse and rider clearing a hurdle.

Disney Creation

For December there were three more postal stationery items: a 21-cent International Airmail Postal Card, then a 22-cent Aerogramme, and finally a 15-cent stamped envelope. The designs, in that order, were meant to alert us to gymnastics, soccer and discus throwing. Any request for the new card has to be postmarked on or before Jan. 15, the date of release. Address orders to: "14-cent Olympic Postal Card, Postmaster, Atlanta, GA 30304." The cost is 14 cents per card; a personal check is OK up to a limit of $7. Customers should supply SASEs or return address labels with their orders.

UNICEF Entry

The United Nations Children's Fund (UNICEF) will make its first major entry into philatelic in September with a series of FDGs, sheetlets, albums and album pages.

It will be called the UNICEF Flag Stamp Programme, structured to appeal to all collectors, beginning or advanced.

For Birdlovers

Birdlovers should watch for the set of four stamps being issued by the British PO on the 16th of January to mark the 100th anniversary of the Wild Bird Protection Act. It is felt that many species of birds in Britain today owe their survival to this legislation.

The stamps, in values of 10, 11, 15 and 15pence, will show, respectively, a kingfisher, a dipper, moorhen and yellow wagtail.

The film documents success stories and demonstrates "how to" in alleviating problems similar to those being experienced in down town.

The public is invited to attend, free of charge.

Dear Abby

Paper's Error Is Dead Issue

DEAR ABBY: My mother recently passed away after a brief illness. In the obituary published in our local newspaper...

DEAR OUTVOTED: Sometimes it's better to leave had enough alone. In support of my advice, I offer the following from the California Newspaper Publishers Association...

DEAR ABBY: My problem may not seem important to you, but it's ruining our marriage. My husband's feet smell. This is no joke, Abby. He's not small like rotten eggs...

DEAR SMELLED OUT: Most physicians - and certainly all podiatrists and endocrinologists are familiar with this disorder, which is usually caused by excessive perspiration...

DEAR SWEETHEART: What a wonderful surprise! You've written me a letter. I'm so glad to hear from you. I'll be glad to help you with your problem...

DEAR ABBY: I'm having a hard time finding a good job. I've been looking for a while now, but nothing seems to be working out...

TV DIALOGUE

BUCKED -- I have been a fan of Gil Gerard's since I saw him last year in an episode of "Little House on the Prairie." It's great to see him every week on "Buck Rogers," but a friend has told me that the show is going off the air. Reality P.S.: Is Gil married? -- Laura Lehn, East Hartford, Conn.

Although Buck Rogers is faring worse in the 20th-century land of TV than he does in the 21st century, NBC has yet to call the laser guns. If Universal, who produces the show, produces the show, he's the star of the movie. Is he her father or something? -- Thelma Ross, Oak Brook, Ill.

VALENTINOS -- Who played Rudolph Valentino on TV a few years ago? I don't mean the Nureyev movie... Donna Tuller, Canton, Ohio.

ALPHA -- Can you tell me what an actor by the name of Deck Rambo will be starring in in the future? He is in "Sword of Justice." -- P. Bickers, Santa Barbara, Calif.

AGES PLEASE -- How many years is Kate Jackson older than Andrew Stevens? -- D.R., Louisville, Ky.

"Live From Studio 8H" is the premiere telecast of NBC's new series of cultural events. Featured Wednesday, Jan. 9, is the New York Philharmonic, conducted by musical director Zubin Mehta in a tribute to the late Arturo Toscanini. Violinist Itzhak Perlman and soprano Leontyne Price will solo.

Penelope Milford (right) stars in the true story of Kathy Morris, a singer who struggles back from near-fatal complications of brain surgery, in "Seizure: The Story of Kathy Morris," airing Wednesday, Jan. 9, on CBS.

Karl Malden and Piper Laurie star as husband and wife in "Skag," Abby Mann's realistic family drama about a veteran steelworker who is forced to question his traditional values after he suffers a stroke. Premiering in a three-hour telecast Sunday, Jan. 6, on NBC.

TV DIALOGUE

PALADIN PAL — Can you tell me the name of Paladin's Chinese aide on "Have Gun Will Travel"? — R. Holden, St. Louis, Mo.

Kam Tong played Hey Boy, in the days of pre-enlightenment, who worked at the Carlton Hotel in San Francisco where Paladin hung out when he wasn't cleaning up the West. During the '60-61 season, Kam Tong got the co-starring role in the short-lived adventure series, "Mr. Garland" and was replaced on "Have Gun Will Travel" by Lisa Lu as Hey Girl. Tong returned when Garland got axed.

LONE MAN — Four girls at work say Vicki Lawrence, who played Carol Burnett's TV sister Chris, is not her blood sister. One man is holding out and says she is. He will only believe the written word of authority. So, please, who wins the dozen donuts? — Maureen Edster, Waynesburg, Ky.

The women in the office get fat this week. Lawrence got the part on the Burnett show on the fact that she looked like Carol, but they are not related.

MASHED? — What ever happened to Wayne Rogers after he left "M.A.S.H."? — Sharon Sweeney, Quantico, Va.

He made a couple of feature films, continued working on his numerous business enterprises and signed for a new series, "House Calls," which will have aired by the time you read this. Once again he gets to play a funny doctor for CBS.

SHOT DOWN — There was a short-lived TV series starring James Garner. Unfortunately James Garner was also short-lived; he was fatally shot in the last episode. He was sheriff of a small town and rode a motorcycle. Also starring was Margot Kidder. What was the name of the series and when was it on? — Kay Sacco, Canton, Ohio.

About once every six months I get this question. Okay, one more time. The show was "Nichols," and it aired on NBC from September 1971 through summer 1972 — one season. When they gunned down Nichols in that last episode and replaced him with his twin brother, Jo Nichols (also played by Garner), the producer hoped the new character would pull the ratings up. He never got the chance because NBC canceled the series.

STACKED UP — I saw Robert Stack on "The Merv Griffin Show" the other night. He mentioned that there were Daltons in his family, making him partly Irish. What about his father's name; was he a Stack? — Mrs. Fran Rennahan, Macon, Ga.

Stack's real name is Robert Modini. Modini was also his father's name. His heritage is mostly an Irish-Italian mix.

STATION BREAKS

A Grand Career

Actor Fred Grandy has not only performed in "The Love Boat," but has also written five of the series episodes with Bernie Kopell. He created the character of Gopher in ABC's TV movies, "Love Boat II" and "Love Boat III," the latter serving as the series pilot.

Grandy graduated cum laude from Harvard University in 1970, where he was a founder of "The Proposition," an improvisational comedy group that later became a top professional attraction.

His recent TV acting credits include "Fantasy Island" and "Blind Ambition," in addition to "Phyllis," "Welcome Back, Kotter," "Quincy," "The Mary Tyler Moore Show" and "Doc," in which he played a recurring role.

Grandy was introduced to television audiences in 1973 as Adrienne Barbeau's boyfriend in "Maude." He came to Hollywood from New York, where he received critical acclaim for his performance in the two-man play, "Green Julia." The theater annual "Best Plays" named Grandy "Best Off-Broadway Supporting Actor" of the 1972-3 season. In the same year, he also appeared in ABC's TV movie, "The Girl Most Likely," with Stockard Channing. Afterwards, he returned to New York to collaborate in the writing of a revue called "Pretzels," and then joined Joseph Papp's production of "In the Boom Boom Room."

Grandy's motion picture credits include "Death Race 2000" and "The Lincoln Conspiracy," in which he played major roles. A native of Sioux City, Iowa, he has two children and lives in Brentwood, California.

Seizure

Leonard Nimoy (pictured) and Penelope Milford star in "Seizure: The Story of Kathy Morris," a dramatic special based on the book, "Seizure," by Charles L. Mee Jr. The chronicle is the true story of a young singer's brush with death following brain surgery. Her miraculous struggle to recover makes a life-affirming statement to her-brash, brilliant neurosurgeon about the powers of the human spirit.

The singer lapses into a seemingly irreversible coma when her brain inexplicably swells during an otherwise commonplace operation to remove a benign tumor. Shaken by the unexpected turn of events, the doctor terminates the operation, convinced that his patient has little chance of survival, no less recovery.

The doctor is profoundly moved when, six weeks later, the strong-willed girl awakens from her near-death state and begins a remarkable struggle not merely to overcome her impaired speech and eyesight, but actually to resume her career.

Leonard Nimoy, who portrays the surgeon, is familiar to television audiences for his long-running roles in "Mission Impossible" and "Star Trek." He recreates the latter role in the feature film, "Star Trek — The Motion Picture." Nimoy also starred in "The Invasion of the Body Snatchers." On the live stage, he has appeared on Broadway in "Equus," and has toured this year with a one-man show entitled "Vincent" (based on the life of artist Vincent Van Gogh), which he wrote, produced and directed.
