

Town Meeting Sought On Coventry Deficits

COVENTRY — Roy McLain, chairman of the Town Council's Finance Committee, has asked the council to set up a town meeting by mid-March to appropriate money to cover Board of Education deficits.

The current estimated shortfall is almost $80,000, resulting mainly from overruns in fuel costs and the insurance accounts.

McLain recommended that council action be contingent on the board taking immediate action to reduce its current budget expenditures by $5,100 and to take conservation measures to slice the projected energy deficit by $10,000.

The committee has held meetings with school superintendent Arnold Eiman, board chairman Richard Ashley, town manager Frank Connelly, and former town clerk Elizabeth Rychling, to gather information.

Energy problems have plagued the town due to the skyrocketing cost of fuel. At a recent public hearing, Connelly submitted a plan for capital improvement energy conservation projects amounting to $16,000 to be financed by the state. Weatherization for the schools would cost $10,000. Town Hall work, $5,100; town garage improvements, $500; and administration, $482.

At a special council meeting, the group voted to adopt the energy plan, which received no public comment at the hearing. Authorization was given to open checking and savings accounts in which to deposit the state funds. The plan conforms to Connecticut's energy action grant program, which allocates funds to municipalities on the basis of a pre-established formula.

In addition, the town will receive more

Bolton Appointment

BOLTON — The Democratic Town Committee has recommended the appointment of Carol Hewey of Rosewood Lane to the Board of Education.

The vacancy was created by the resignation of Wallace Kelly.

Mrs. Hewey works at the Dempsey Regional Center in Putnam and is active at Bolton Congregational Church. She also performs as a folksinger.

Hebron CPR Course

HEBRON — The Hebron Volunteer Fire Department and the Douglas Library will sponsor a Cardiopulmonary Resuscitation course tonight from 7 to 9:30 p.m. in the basement of the library. The course is open to the public.

Those taking the course will be taught emergency actions to take for a person who has stopped breathing, for a person who is choking or for a person having a heart attack.

Guest Speaker Set

SOUTH WINDSOR — William McKay, former commissioner on aging, will speak Friday at the South Windsor Senior Citizen Center.

McKay will lead an informal discussion on aging, from 10:30 to 11:30 a.m. Topics such as retirement, the psycho-biological process of aging and coping with fixed incomes will be offered. Transportation is offered by the Department of Human Resources.

Mini-bus transportation or further information may be obtained by calling Susan Sprung, 644-2571.

Hebron Finance Board

HEBRON — The Board of Finance will meet tonight at 8 in the Town Office Building. The Elementary Board of Education was asked to attend the meeting to discuss the roof project for the Gilead Hill School as well as an anticipated deficit for this fiscal year.

The board will also hear a report from the Board of Education's negotiations team; a report of the Town Office Building Study Committee; receive the monthly fiscal statements from the tax collector, the Board of Education, Board of Selectmen, and the town treasurer.

Hebron GOP Backs Slate

HEBRON — Members of the Hebron Republican Town Committee have voted to endorse a slate of 31 candidates for nomination to the Town Committee at the caucus scheduled for Thursday at 8 p.m. in the Hebron Elementary School.

Those nominated were: Raymond J. Bart, Richard Buggeln, Francis Danaher, James Derby, Paul Dufour, Marion O. Foote, Geraldine Grant, Katherine Grant, Alberta Hilling, Marilyn Horton, Frost Krist, Thomas Kelly, Joan Landon, William J. McParland and Patricia Mulligan.

Also: H. Clay Osborn III, Gardner Tarbell II, Emery N. Taylor, Janet Von Deck, James Horton, James Conley, Edward Ely, Betty Close Downes, Thomas Akroyd and Margaret Powning.

The total committee membership is 93. Committee members are reminded that ticket reservations for the coming Lincoln Day Victory Dinner dance must be in by Jan. 28. Tickets may be obtained by contacting Gerald Cross or any member of the committee.

James Derby, Republican registrar of voters, said five new voters have been made during a door-to-door enrollment session.

Honda Firm Holds Party

MANCHESTER — Manchester Honda, 24 Adams St., held an appreciation party in late fall for 80 customers awaiting delivery of new automobiles.

The party was open by invitation only to those customers specifically waiting for delivery of Accord and Civic model Hondas.

The Sunday afternoon socializing began at noon and lasted through 4 p.m., with guests dining on shrimp and other hors d'oeuvres and sipping champagne. Door prizes were also awarded.

The increased demand for small, imported, fuel efficient cars has created delays in Honda's regular delivery schedules. Lou Panaccia of Manchester Honda, said the party was in appreciation to those customers who have patiently waited through the delivery period.

Hard Work Pays Off For Slate

MANCHESTER — Joseph McCarthy credited "hard work" with his capture of a seat on the Democratic Town Committee from District 5 Wednesday night.

McCarthy headed a slate of four which challenged Town Chairman Ted Cummings eight-member slate. He and fellow challenger Timothy Devaney were the ones who cracked the barrier.

Both men garnered 88 votes, tying for fourth place behind party stalwarts Ed Tomkiele (121), Cummings (104) and Carolyn Becker (90).

"It was a struggle, but hard work pays off," McCarthy said after accepting congratulations from other party members once the tabulations were announced.

The insurgents' victory bounced Frances S. Merola and James F. Watt off the committee. Democratic insiders have said that McCarthy was angered last year when he was passed over by Tardiff for a vacant seat, which was given to Watt.

Members of Tardiff's slate who did make it, besides the top three vote-getters, were Thomas Conran (84), Alyce Hawkins (80) and Tardiff himself with 78 votes.

McCarthy had served on the committee for four years when he lived on Bradford Street. He had gotten on the committee then as well with a challenge slate of four.

O'Neill-Led Incumbents Win by 2-1

By MARY KITZMANN Herald Reporter

MANCHESTER — Thomas O'Neill wasn't boasting last week when he said his slate in the District 8 Democratic Town Committee elections was ready for a challenge slate headed by Stephen Penny and Stephen Cassano.

Longtime O'Neill supporters turned out at Verplanck School and voted in the 12-member incumbent slate by a more than 2-to-1 margin.

Counting the 285 ballots took almost an hour; District 8 set the night's attendance record.

"I don't know everybody in the district, but I do know everybody here," one voter said.

"These people worked hard and got their friends out," Mayor Penny said in conceding the election.

Much of the O'Neill support came from voters who had known the candidates for years. Both sides had been telephoning and mailing campaign letters.

Penny moved into the area from District 1 four months ago. Cassano has lived in District 8 about one year. As if to attest to the area's unfamiliarity with the men, Penny's name was misspelled on the ballot. It appeared as Penney.

Penny and Cassano headed a nine-member slate. Ten names had been filed but Jay April withdrew after a conflict of interest was found in his being a federally-funded town employee seeking political office.

Both sides downplayed their political plans at the ballot. It appeared as Penney.

Machell Lectures On Drug Problem

NEW YORK — David F. Machell, formerly of Manchester, was a guest lecturer Tuesday at Fordham University at Lincoln Center.

Machell is executive director of Resurrection House, an alcoholism treatment center in New Britain. He was invited by the Department of Urban Education of Fordham to speak on "Alcohol and Drug Abuse—The Problem and its Treatment." The forum was open to the public, but was mainly for the benefit of faculty and graduate students at Fordham.

Machell is a 1978 graduate of Central Connecticut State College. He received his master of science degree in psychology and a master of science degree in counseling from Central Connecticut State College. He is a doctoral candidate at Fordham.

Some GOP Criticism

Most Support Carter Stand

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter's stern warning to the Soviet Union drew wide support from Congress today, although some Republican called his State of the Union speech a political talk with little substance.

House Speaker Thomas O'Neill, D-Mass., said he is confident Congress will act "responsibly and with courage to any challenge that faces the nation."

Chairman Frank Church, D-Idaho, of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee said Carter sent "a strong message to the Soviet Union. I support the president in this position."

"I think by and large the Republicans in Congress will support that statement and much of the rest of his proposals," said presidential candidate Sen. Howard Baker, R-Tenn., today on the ABC-TV "Good Morning America" program.

"The president's statement is late, but I think it's a good statement," said Baker, who criticized the administration's past foreign policy.

Another powerful Republican, Sen. Jacob Javits of New York, said today the warning "represents the views of the American people."

"It is telling the Soviet Union what we value so highly that, if need be, we will use military force to defend it, is only fair to them and fair to our people," Javits said on the NBC-TV "Today" program.

Most lawmakers also voiced support for Carter's call for resumption of mandatory registration for military service, but a number of Republicans sharply criticized his overall speech to a joint session Wednesday night.

"He was rattling the scabbard without anything in it," said House Republican Leader John Rhodes of Arizona.

"If that's the new Carter doctrine," said Assistant GOP Leader Robert Michel of Illinois, "it seems to me we're in for the same old palaver."

"Just more empty words," said Rep. Bud Shuster, R-Pa.

Rep. Robert Bauman, R-Md., chairman of the American Conservative Union, called it "one of the most incredibly meaningless displays of political pap that I've ever seen."

Rep. Arlan Stangeland, R-Minn., said, "I'm not too sure he wasn't savoring rattling. We get into these problems and then he gets tough... We'll have to see what was tough and what was rhetoric."

Rep. Arlan Erdahl, R-Minn., said, "We heard the litany of problems, but we really didn't hear many solutions. It struck me halfway through the speech, when he started talking about balancing the budget, stopping inflation, getting a stronger military, that it sounded like a Republican speech."

Not all the Republican members of Congress were critical of Carter's speech, however. Several praised his toughness toward the Soviet Union, some with left-handed compliments.

"I applaud President Carter's very late recognition of the threat we face from the Soviets," said Rep. Dan Crane, R-Ill. "Let's hope he's not too late."

Lack of Snow Has Big Impact

By CHARLIE MAYNARD Herald Reporter

MANCHESTER — Who gains and who loses by a winter without snow? Ski slope operators and ice skates take it on the chin. But building contractors and siding applicators reap big benefits from the warmer weather.

The lack of snow even has brought a mixed bag of fortunes and evils for the town's municipal services. On the one hand, the Recreation Department has been unable to open the Northville Ski Slope for even one day. On the other, the Highway Department has saved a bundle of money in snow removal.

"Tire sales are definitely off this year," said Jeff Bergen, owner of the Tyre Man, 357 Broad St.

He said Tuesday that his sales are down 20 percent from last year and that he has had to carry a larger inventory into spring.

The factories have been able to help Bergen out, however. He said the suppliers have issued credit for the present stock and re-billed him for next year at next year's prices. What it does, he said, is alleviate a cash flow problem.

Snow tire dealers hope to sell their goods by Christmas. If not, Court Doucette, manager of Capital Tire, 325 Broad St., said Tuesday, the consumer figures he has only January and February to go and will forego any purchase.

"If we have snow in November or December," he said, "they'll buy 'em then. If not, they'll limp through what few snowfalls we might have."

Doucette estimated that his sales were down by 35 percent from last year.

"Down" is one way to describe the attitude of the folks who planned the annual winter carnival of the Eighth District. The moderate temperatures have forced another postponement of the carnival—from Jan. 27 to Feb. 3. The lack of a snow covering doesn't necessarily mean disaster for evergreen trees.

Leon Zapadka, president of Woodland Gardens, said the recent moderate temperatures at both day and night have kept the ground thawed and given sufficient moisture to the trees.

The problem occurs instead, he said, when the temperatures drop to the single numbers or below zero without any snow covering.

"At low soil temperatures," he said, "you can have root damage. And some species are more susceptible to root damage than others."

Still Too Early

Highway Superintendent Fred Wajes said he isn't going to rest easy until the town makes it to April. He said today that the "actual snow removal has been minimal," but quickly added that it's only Jan. 23.

"We still have February and March to go through. March has been known for some good storms," he said.

Snow removal costs include the application of salt, overtime for the municipal workers and the hiring of outside contractors.

Board To Hear Coach Answer

By LAUREN DAVIS SHEA Herald Reporter

MANCHESTER — Acting Superintendent of Schools Wilson E. Deakin said today the Board of Education will meet in executive session Monday night after its regular meeting to allow Doug Pearson, varsity basketball coach at Manchester High School, to respond to charges against him by Harriet Haslett.

Mrs. Haslett, whose son John recently resigned from the team after having played for two years, criticized Pearson at the Jan. 14 meeting of the Board of Education. Mrs. Haslett charged that Pearson was too critical of the players and impaired their self-confidence.

Mrs. Haslett was a member of the Republican Town Committee at the time she appeared before the board. Since that time, the GOP caucus took place, and Mrs. Haslett lost her bid for re-election to the town committee.

One member who did win re-election to the town committee, Robert Heavisides, is also a member of the Board of Education. Heavisides said today he is the godfather of Mrs. Haslett's son John.

Heavisides said today, "This puts me in a very difficult position. I can't really believe that people wouldn't think I'd have an open mind about this. What I've tried to do is back away from this."

"If it comes down to a vote, I wouldn't vote," Heavisides said. He added that the facts in the matter would have to be determined by the other members of the Board of Education.

Heavisides said he had told the acting superintendent about his relationship to John Haslett before Mrs. Haslett made her remarks. Deakin acknowledged that and said today, "I think it is fairly common knowledge. If you follow Manchester High School basketball, you know that Mr. Heavisides attends most of the games, and is very proud of his godson."

Deakin added, "I'm not so sure there is going to be any vote taken. Certainly Coach Pearson will have an opportunity to speak."

Heavisides said before the Monday night meeting at which Mrs. Haslett spoke, there had been a "confidential memorandum" in which "we received some notice that there was discussion on the team."

While team members are now refusing to comment, there had been reports that while some players share the complaints made by Mrs. Haslett, they also feel they want to really believe that people wouldn't think I'd have an open mind about

Military Force

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter said in his State of the Union address to Congress the United States will use military force if needed to defend the oil-rich Persian Gulf against Soviet aggression.

In his speech Wednesday, Carter drew a symbolic new line of U.S. "vital interest" in the Persian Gulf area and warned the Soviets not to cross it. He announced 18-to-26-year old citizens, possibly including women, will be required to register for the draft.

Heart Trouble

Iranian leader Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini was taken to the Heart Diseases Hospital from his headquarters in Qom and was con-lined to bed with "slight heart trouble."

Tehran Radio, in a news bulletin from the holy city of Qom and a release from the Islamic Revolutionary Council, assured the country their 79-year-old leader was in good condition and was taken to the hospital simply for "closer examination."

Denies Arrest

PANAMA CITY, Panama (UPI) — Panama says it will consider a request from Iran to return the deposed shah, but officials denied Iranian reports the shah has been arrested by Panamanian authorities.

In a telegram sent Wednesday to the Iranian Revolutionary Council, President Aristides Royo said, "Mr. Mohammed Reza Pahlavi remains under the care of Panamanian security authorities." A presidential spokesman said the telegram was in response to a provisional arrest request by the Islamic government received earlier this month.

Olympics Snow

BOSTON (UPI) — Olympics organizers and New England ski resort operators were relieved today by the first significant snowfall of the winter.

Arctic air lowered temperatures into the teens in parts of the nation's heartland overnight, and much of the northeastern section of the nation was blanketed with snow, the first appreciable accumulations in a month.

Malls Hurt Downtown: Gorman

MANCHESTER — This week's meeting of the Downtown Coordinating Committee offered Robert Gorman, chairman of the Manchester Parking Authority the chance to air his views on the development of local shopping centers.

Gorman called for a moratorium on shopping center construction. He urged the moratorium because he said town officials' involvement in downtown redevelopment is being limited by the shopping centers' demands on their time.

Gorman said, "We have reached a stage where the central main street area is of prime importance and it shouldn't be neglected."

Gorman's remarks failed to draw support from the other committee members. Frank Strano said, "I couldn't disagree with you more."

He said that shopping centers create more tax revenue and jobs. "There is townwide support for shopping centers."

Strano added that the downtown area could be "reborn and come alive" if the commitment and effort were made. "Competition is good," said Strano who added that he would not want to see downtown development at the expense of other projects.

Gorman responded that a National Trust for Historic Preservation study has determined that shopping centers are "detrimental" to Main Street areas.

Former mayor Jim Farr said that, "each project should be considered separately... on its own merits." He added, "The moratorium won't solve the downtown project. Shopping habits and our times are hurting downtown business."

In other business, the committee agreed to meet with the Board of Directors on Feb. 12 to explain their redevelopment proposal. Board support is viewed as crucial because an act of the General Assembly would have to precede local action.

Town Manager Robert Weiss suggested that the committee seek the support of local leaders. He urged the committee to work with area churches to identify leaders who could "carry the message from them." He said a public hearing will draw only those familiar with the issue and added that they are generally those supporting it.

Weiss added that an opening existed on the Economic Development Commission and that he would like to fill it with a resident of the downtown area.

Warm-Up Kits Offered

MANCHESTER — The Town of Manchester has received 100 winter warm-up kits from the State Office of Policy and Management, Energy Division. The kits are available to any Manchester resident on a first come, first served basis, at the Department of Human Services, 40 Center St., Monday through Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., and there is no charge for them.

In addition, the town still has money available to pay for materials for small conservation projects for elderly and low income residents. There is no income limit for those 60 and over, but there are income guidelines for people under 60. Income verification is required, and applications for this program are also available in the Human Services Department. Help with installation is also available for this program at a small charge through the same agencies.

If assistance is required, the Human Services Department can be called at 647-3092 to arrange for help with installation through the Chore Handyman Service of River East Home-Maker-Home Health Aide Service or through the Regional Occupational Training Center. There would be a small charge for labor.

X-ray Film Costs More at Hospital

MANCHESTER — The cost of X-ray film to Manchester Memorial Hospital is expected to increase by 40 percent within the next several weeks, according to cost estimates received by the hospital's Purchasing Department. The reason for this sudden, sharp price leap is the soaring cost of silver, a primary component in X-ray film.

The expected 40 percent increase follows two other recent price hikes for X-ray film to the local hospital, a 6-percent rise in September followed by a 12-percent rise in October. "The 40 percent increase has not yet been verified by our supplier," reports Peter Kuzmickas, director of Materials Management at MMH, "and there are indications that the cost may even be higher, as silver prices continue to rise. Many manufacturers are unwilling to quote a price until they know where the price of silver is going."

"As we work very hard to hold down hospital costs," explained Edward M. Kenney, executive director of the hospital, "it is sudden, unavoidable price increases such as this one that disrupt our careful planning efforts. Many factors contribute to the rising cost of hospital care and this enormous increase in the price of a diagnostic necessity—X-ray film—is an example of a price rise beyond our control."

DuPont, makers of some of the X-ray film used at MMH, reports that it has had to increase the price of its film products, mostly X-ray and industrial film, from 75 to 80 percent in the past year, due to the rise in silver prices.

Last year, the hospital spent approximately $148,000 on X-ray film. The weighted average comes out to about a 50 percent increase for the year, which would mean a price increase of approximately $75,000 for the same volume of product as last year.

In order to help hold down hospital costs, the hospital has, for the past five years, participated in a group purchasing program through the Connecticut Hospital Association. X-ray film is one of the items purchased in this manner. Kenney indicated that the price increases would probably have been higher had the hospital not participated in this arrangement.

As the price of silver continues to soar, another problem faces the hospital and others in the state. Several manufacturers are not shipping X-ray film until they can determine the direction of the price of silver. This could potentially create a shortage of X-ray film, which in turn would further drive up the cost.

"So far, we have encountered no problem," Kenney said. "We have been able to perform all the necessary X-ray procedures. When we have needed some special film, we've been able to obtain it from another hospital. If another hospital needs special film, and we have it and can spare it, then we'll be glad to cooperate and get it to them."

Eighth Graders Get Orientation

BOLTON — About 112 Grade 8 students from Bolton and Willington attended an orientation program at Bolton High School Tuesday. The students attended mini-sessions of 13 different classes in an effort to introduce them to every subject area.

Bolton High School is one of four area high schools that the Willington students will be eligible to attend in September. They are attending orientation sessions at each of the four schools.

Attending the sessions were about 57 Willington students and about 55 Bolton students. June Krusch, guidance counselor in Bolton, said, "The general reaction we heard was very positive. The students were impressed with the offerings, very favorably impressed."

Soviet Propaganda Useful

Elsewhere on this page appears an analysis of the impact of the Soviet occupation of Afghanistan on Soviet-American relations.

United States is threatening world peace by our actions taken in response to the Soviet occupation.

without going to war, as appeasement. Ours is a peace-loving nation, but history has shown when pushed to war we have responded.

But if it was working so well in Afghanistan, we are confident the Soviets would welcome our journalists to tell the world in our own words whether or not the Soviet system is working and that they are simply helping out the Afghan government as they would like us to believe.

Soviet-American Relations

By LEV SEMEIKO, Institute of U.S. and Canadian Studies, USSR Academy of Sciences. (EDITOR'S NOTE: The following analysis of the impact of the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan on Soviet-American relations was written by Lev Semeiko, of the Institute of U.S. and Canadian Studies, USSR Academy of Sciences. It is printed to show how the Soviet propagandists are explaining the Afghan occupation.

The positive and valuable experience accumulated in the political, military and economic fields as a result of the development of bilateral relations came so hard that parting with it overnight is simply unforfeitable.

overestimated the capacity of the United States and underestimated the possibilities of the USSR in all the spheres where the USA intends to seek confrontation.

Thoughts

Jesus called all his followers to love one another. In spite of any differences or injuries, we are asked to turn the other cheek and to walk the extra mile with our brothers and sisters.

There seem to be so many differences that separate us as Christians. There are differences of tradition, differences of theology, differences of practice and differences of structure. And yet there are important similarities, such as our belief in the Gospel, and our acceptance of the basic creeds of the church and our faith in the Holy Spirit who is guiding us.

To achieve unity we need to rejoice in our similarities, examine our differences and accept one another as brothers and sisters in the Lord. We need to humbly admit our mistakes, courageously work to overcome our divisions, and faithfully follow the way of Christ. Let us pray that we may open our minds and hearts to the work of unity toward which the Holy Spirit is leading us.

The Rev. William Carroll, St. James Church, Manchester

Washington Merry-Go-Round

State Ignored Security Experts, Embassy Staff in Peril

By JACK ANDERSON WASHINGTON - The crisis in Southwest Asia was preceded last February by the kidnapping and killing of U.S. Ambassador Adolph "Spike" Dubs in Afghanistan, followed hours later by an assault on the U.S. Embassy in Iran. Then in November, the same embassy was overrun by militants who seized the American diplomats as hostages.

This was not just Monday-morning quarterbacking about mistakes that cannot be undone. State Department insiders have told my associates Gary Cohn and Jack Mitchell that "Spike" Dubs in Afghanistan, followed hours later by an assault on the U.S. Embassy in Iran. Then in November, the same embassy was overrun by militants who seized the American diplomats as hostages.

Chapter and verse of our findings include the following: For months, the State Department's brass ignored explicit warnings from the field that American Embassy personnel in Tehran would be in physical danger if the embassy staff were allowed into the United States.

made, he added: "Secondly, when the decision is made to admit the shah, we should quietly assign additional American security guards to provide protection for key personnel until the danger period is considered over."

Still nothing was done, and the result of this inaction became gruesomely clear in November. Months before Ambassador Dubs' death in Kabul, the embassy had received a direct warning from Afghan terrorists that there would be an "armed attack... on American citizens in Kabul."

after the Tehran Embassy seizure, embassy guards were under orders not to use their weapons. My source lay the blame for the disgracefully lax security at U.S. overseas posts, not on the State Department security officers and Marine guards, but on "Seventh-Floor" higher-ups at State who prevent the security personnel from fully implementing proper security procedures.

Employers Ask MHS to Teach Economics, Capitalism

By LAUREN DAVIS SHEA Herald Reporter

MANCHESTER - Local businessmen who employ Manchester High School students have called upon school officials to teach an understanding of economics and basic capitalism, so the students will be enlightened when they grow up to become union workers negotiating a contract.

Officials of a machine company and an electronics firm met with administrators of the high school's job training program at Tuesday's meeting of the Careers and Vocational Education Advisory Committee at the Chamber of Commerce.

While the businessmen lauded the quality of the student workers which the COEP program has sent to them, they said some students need remedial aid in how a business operates.

"I see this kid and I know he is going to make it in the world. How can you measure that in black and white?" Gene Marozzi of Communications Cable asked.

Pascoe said the students are a financial boon to industry. "If more employers did this it would benefit the state and the economy," he said.

"We had a kid who came to us an introvert, who was afraid to face the world. Now he knows his job and he has a lot of moxie. So there are a lot of positive things besides money. I see this kid and I know he is going to make it in the world. How can you measure that in black and white?"

Pascoe said the students are a financial boon to industry. "If more employers did this it would benefit the state and the economy," he said.

Scholarship Forms Offered in Schools

MANCHESTER - Applications for aid from the Manchester Scholarship Foundation are now available in the guidance offices of Manchester High School, East Catholic High School, Howell Cheney Regional Vocational Technical School and the financial aid office at Manchester Community College.

The financial awards range from $250 to $1,000. The deadline for filing applications is April 7.

Career Counseling Available to Adults

MANCHESTER - When the Adult Basic Education program resumes classes Feb. 5, adults will have the opportunity to participate in a series of career counseling sessions.

Free adult basic education classes are offered Tuesday and Thursday evenings in high school equivalency preparation and pre-high school review as part of the Manchester Evening School program which includes business, vocational, or technical schools, as well as two-year and four-year colleges.

Additional information regarding this free service to area residents may be obtained at the evening school registration to be held on Monday from 6:30 to 8 p.m. at the Manchester High School cafeteria.

Canine Parvovirus Not a Big Problem

MANCHESTER - The recent unfortunate outbreak of canine parvovirus in areas surrounding Connecticut does not pose a serious problem and is not an epidemic, according to the Connecticut Veterinary Medical Association.

In response to numerous phone calls to veterinarians and state agencies because of the coverage by various media, the association has sought to allay the fears of pet owners by offering these guidelines.

Other precautions recommended are proper cleaning and disinfection of the kennel or living area of the animal. Fecal material may contain the virus that is extremely resistant to heat and many disinfectants. It has been found that one part of ammonia and 30 parts of water is effective.

35th Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Howard L. Holmes of 128 Henry St., Manchester, were honored at a party on Jan. 19 at Marco Polo Restaurant in Manchester in observance of their 35th wedding anniversary.

The couple was married Jan. 23, 1945 in Boston, Mass. Mrs. Holmes is the former Marjorie Cordera of Manchester.

Hosting the party were the couple's two daughters, Mrs. Donald (Donna) Maloney of Manchester and Mrs. John (Sharon) Aubert of New York; and their four sons, Howard M. Holmes and Richard P. Holmes, both of Manchester, and Gregory D. Holmes and Mark C. Holmes, at home; and eight grandchildren.

Friends and relatives attended from Massachusetts, Rhode Island, New York and Connecticut. A special guest was Mr. Holmes' mother, Mrs. Mark Holmes of Manchester and Mrs. Frank Bertetto of New York City, who had served as maid of honor at the Holmes' wedding. Peter Cordera of California, Mrs. Holmes' brother, who had served as best man, was unable to attend.

Mr. Holmes is funeral director and president of Holmes Funeral Home. He is a member of the Civitan Club of Manchester, of the Connecticut Funeral Directors Association and of the National Funeral Directors Association.

Mrs. Holmes is a member of St. Bridget Church and its Rosary Society. (Herald photo by Pinto)

Dancers To Compete Jan. 27

Thirty-two girls of Irish descent will compete for the title of Irish Colleen of 1980 on Sunday, Jan. 27, at South Catholic High School, 207 South Street, Hartford.

The winner will represent the United Irish Societies of Greater Hartford for the year and will receive a trip for two to Ireland. Five girls will be selected — one as Colleen and four runners-up.

The late afternoon pageant will be the finale for a fall day of competition for the entrants. Their day begins with an on-stage rehearsal, interviews with the judges, and lunch.

Judging is based on the entrants' performances, stage presentations, and on a written essay on why they entered the contest and their plans for the future.

Available for the pageant will be tickets at the door. Doors open at 1:15 p.m. and the pageant will start at 2 p.m.

Towns Given Funds For Arson Control

MANCHESTER — A $600,000 grant from an Arson Control Assistance Program will be used on a trial basis in Connecticut's larger municipalities.

Manchester Fire Chief John Rivosa said Wednesday he was unsure how the program would be implemented and to what extent the smaller towns would be involved.

Rivosa said discussion about the task force surfaced at Tuesday night's meeting of the Connecticut State Fire Chiefs in East Hartford. He said the chiefs want more information on "exactly how they plan to get this thing up."

Gov. Ella Grasso appointed a 15-member task force on arson control last April. Its first order of business was to obtain a $600,000 grant from the federal Law Enforcement Assistance Administration.

State funds will supplant the federal grant and a demonstration program will be launched in Bridgeport, Hartford, New Haven, Waterbury, Stamford and Enfield. Rivosa said the number of incendiary or suspicious fires has risen rapidly over the last five years and officials have just started "to wake up" and "launch a drive to combat it."

"Maybe with this task force," he said, "there are going to be more people involved in this."

He also said he hoped the program would be expanded later to help the municipalities which don't have the resources to thoroughly investigate arson.

MHS Grad Named Dean

NEW HAVEN — Dr. Richard Morrison, an honor graduate of Manchester High School in 1955, has been named dean of the School of Professional Studies and Continuing Education at the University of New Haven.

Morrison, and his wife, the former Patricia Wupperfeld, are both former Manchester residents. She was the valedictorian of the 1955 class of Manchester High School.

Morrison, 42, holds a master of science and a doctor of philosophy degree in physics from Yale University and a bachelor of arts degree from Princeton.

He originally joined the UNH staff in 1963 as a physics instructor and was promoted to assistant professor in 1964. He left a year later to teach at Iowa State University, returning to UNH as professor of physics in 1973.

An expert in the field of energy conservation, Morrison spent a year in Watford, England, as a visiting professor at the Building Research Station. He has been a visiting faculty fellow at Yale.

The school he now heads serves more than 5,000 students a year through a variety of programs, including interest, special workshops and seminars, the Division of Evening Studies and Division of Special Studies and Continuing Education, on and off campus.

In addition, he will direct several on-site programs set up inside major corporations. One such program, called Cornerstone, provides services to more than 400 students inside the Electric Boat Division in Groton.

Morrison is a member of Sigma Xi honor society, and a past president of the Iowa Section of The American Association of Physics Teachers. He has published over 20 papers in the fields of nuclear physics and energy utilization research.

As a youth in Manchester, Morrison was active in Boy Scouts.

Education Program

VERNON — A Paradox: Declining Enrollment and Rising Costs, will be the topic of Saturday's "Focus on Education Program" at 9:10 a.m. on WINF radio.

Vernon's superintendent of schools, Dr. Bernard Sidman, and assistant superintendent, Dr. Robert Linstone, co-host the program that is aired weekly.

The guests this coming Saturday will be Sam Weis, acting superintendent of the East Hartford school system and Dr. Richard Teller, superintendent of the East Windsor school system.

When he was student at Yale, he rescued a woman trapped in a fire and was awarded a certificate of Heroism in 1960 at an alumni reunion of Troop 25 at Center Congregational Church.

He assumed his new position at New Haven University Jan. 21.

He originally joined the UNH staff in 1963 as a physics instructor and was promoted to assistant professor in 1964. He left a year later to teach at Iowa State University, returning to UNH as professor of physics in 1973.

Is Sex Passing You By?

Feel less sexy lately? Is your mind on other things—bills, taxes, son's grades, daughter's acne, a falling ceiling or leaky roof?

You may have sexual anorexia—loss of sex appetite: low or no sex desire.

If that's the case, you can't be happy. Sexual anorexia is "highly prevalent" in America today, says Dr. Helen Singer Kaplan, a psychiatrist.

Dr. Kaplan said the sexual appetite is highly responsive to stress. She links sexual anorexia to stress—and even to fear of intimacy and fear of success, which she said also are prevalent in America today.

Dr. Kaplan, clinical professor of psychiatry and head of the Human Sexuality Program at New York Hospital-Cornell Medical Center, also conducts a private practice in psychoanalysis and in sex therapy. She talked about the sex drive problem during the Eastern Regional Conference of the Society for Sex at Fairleigh Dickinson University in Hackensack, N.J.

Victims of sexual anorexia, she and other sex therapists maintain, include mature adults of all ages, both white and blue collar workers, males and females, rich and poor.

Dr. Kaplan sees patients with this problem come into therapy at the request of a spouse or lover.

The stress that can affect sexual appetite, she said, comes in multiple forms these days but recognition of the loss of sexual desire as a definite disorder is one of the great advances in sex therapy.

Her credentials in the field are impressive. She has published 30 papers; co-edited with Dr. Clifford J. Sager, a text on group and family therapy. An earlier book, "The New Sex Therapy," is considered a landmark text in the field of sex therapy. Its sequel, "Disorders of Sexual Desire" (Brunner/Mazel, $17.50) is out this month.

To understand the fear of intimacy Dr. Kaplan links to sexual anorexia you must first know what she means by intimacy.

"Intimacy describes a special quality of emotional closeness between two people," Dr. Kaplan said.

"It is an affectionate bond, the strands of which are composed of mutual caring, responsibility, trust, open communication of feelings and sensations, as well as the nondefensive interchange of information about significant emotional events.

"The prototype of intimate relationship is the maternal-infant bond, wherein the caring mother is constantly alert and responsive to the infant's fluctuating tone, to the emotional currents of her baby."

"Intimacy is an important ingredient in the quality of love and of life."

"We are social animals and without intimate relationships, we tend to get lonely and become depressed."

"The availability of intimate relationships is an important determinant of how well we master life's crises."

The psychiatrist said sometimes both partners in a relationship are afflicted with intimacy conflicts.

"Such couples long for closeness with each other, but when they achieve certain point of contact they become anxious. Then one or another will behave in such a manner as to create a distance."

Dr. Kaplan said the experience of treating patients with sexual dysfunctions has made it clear that, on an unconscious level, many fear sexual and romantic success.

"This is not surprising because sex therapy is basically designed to modify fears of sexual failure but does not cure success fears," she said.

"But when he is about to reach it, at the last inch he will sabotage himself in some way."

"Or, he may, indeed, attain his cherished objective, but quickly manage to become ill or disinterested or obsessed about losing it—that is, he spoils his enjoyment in some way."

Dr. Kaplan said people who have intimate ties live lives shortly after having fulfilled a deeply valued goal.

And the ties really bind, by the way.

"There is no doubt," Dr. Kaplan said, "that humans were meant to live in pairs."

The child and parent are a pair; the same gender intimate friends are a pair; the romantic tie makes another pair.

"Fear of intimacy is highly prevalent in our society and may produce problems that extend beyond sexual dysfunctions," Dr. Kaplan said.

"We tend to speculate rather than participate together, watch television, play cards and video games rather than engage in intimate conversation."

"It sometimes seems that people are more afraid of intimacy than they are of sex."

"An intimate relationship acts as a buffer, providing shelter from the pressures and

Dowd, Brother Swimmers, Fortin Hall of Fame Nominees

By EARL YOST
Sports Editor
Nominees for the proposed Manchester Sports Hall of Fame have been received from many sources for consideration.

South End Cubs and basketball Guards and also a fine baseball player with Actua and in the Twilight League. A top-flight basketball and football official, Dowd was also connected with the local Little League as a coach and later as commissioner. Brothers Bill and Jeff Stueck, both of whom gained scholastic and intercollegiate All-American honors in swimming. Bill Stueck started out as a standout Little League baseball pitcher and at Manchester High helped win state soccer titles in 1956 and 1958. He captained the Indian swimmers in his junior and senior years and was a Scholastic All-American in 1958-59 and 1959-1960. Jeff Stueck, he set swimming records in the 50, 100 and 200 yard events and captained the Red Raiders three seasons. An All-American in four events (relay team), Stueck also reigned as Eastern Intercollegiate and Canadian Open champ in the 200 freestyle. He took part in the 1964 Olympic trials but lost out by one point. Jeff Stueck, five years younger, followed in Bill's footsteps in Little League and at Manchester High in swimming and soccer. He captained two MIS swim squads and was all-state in soccer two years. At Bethany College, W.Va., he reigned as the NIAA swim champ in the 50 and 100-yard freestyles four straight years and was named an All-American in both events all four years, captaining the squad twice. Wally Fortin, "Mr. American Legion Baseball" in Manchester for years, has been proposed for his work with the youth for 32 years. He coached with success in the Manchester Recreation Department for years, turning out championship squads in the Midget, Junior and Intermediate Divisions. On the baseball front, Fortin handled winners in the Little League, winning the first title ever in 1950 when the sport was introduced in Manchester, Alumni Junior and Alumni Leagues, plus the Legion. His teams won four zone and two state crowns in Legion competition. Fortin's commitment to sports in Manchester has been unequalled. The Herald's sports desk will accept nominees, with accomplishments listed, to be passed along to the committee to be named.

Silas' Best Game Second to 'Iceman'

By MICHAEL SHALIN
UPI Sports Writer
James Silas picked the wrong night to score 32 points. The wrong night, that is, if he wanted anybody to notice. Silas' output Wednesday night helped San Antonio to a 144-130 shootout victory over the Indiana Pacers. Now, 32 points is usually good enough to garner the post-game attention. But, Silas turned in his performance on a night that "The Iceman," George Gervin, melted a Market Square Arena scoring record with 55 points.

"His performance was superb," Spurs Coach Doug Moe said after his star guard had established the NBA high for the year. "Silas is playing extremely well but his performances have been overshadowed by Gervin. Everybody focuses interest on Ice and Silas sneaks in."

Gervin, the league scoring leader, who recently set in San Antonio HemiFair scoring record by hitting 55 points, hit 21-of-30 shots from the field and 12-of-15 free throws in helping the Spurs snap Indiana's four-game winning streak.

Pacer Coach Bobby Leonard could only marvel at Gervin's offensive display. "You saw a great performance tonight," said Leonard. "This man is an amazing individual. When he gets going, he'll shoot the lights out on you. There's no one guy who can handle that man on defense. He's got range, quickness on the drive, jumping ability, body control and touch — you can say he has it all."

"We simply caught them on a night when they knew the lid off," Gervin and Silas were aided by the recently acquired John Shumate, who scored 21 points, giving the threesome a total of 118 points. Alex English led the Pacers with 26 points, while Johnny Davis added 18 and James Edwards 17.

In other games, Seattle edged Atlanta 96-98. New Jersey dumped Cleveland 117-103. Boston clattered Detroit 131-104. Philadelphia drubbed Denver 118-93. Houston shaded San Diego 111-110 in double overtime. New York beat Phoenix 119-109 and Milwaukee nipped Golden State 104-102.

Williamson Responds for Nets

PISCATAWAY, N.J. (UPI) — New Jersey Coach Kevin Loughery surprised everyone Wednesday night by leading the Nets into a 100-point victory over the Cleveland Cavaliers, who played for the first time in 20 games. Williamson responded by scoring 19 points as the Nets scored a 117-103 victory over the Cleveland Cavaliers. The Nets trailed 24-20 late in the first period. Loughery then called for Williamson. ## Rowdy Chicago Fans No Help for Hawks

By MIKE TULLY

The National Hockey League continues to be plagued by fan control problems. "I couldn't believe those people," Philadelphia goalie Phil Myre said Wednesday night, returning after the Chicago Stadium fans who threw garbage to the ice in the late stages of the Flyers' 4-1 victory over the hometown Black Hawks.

"They had a good crowd (17,600) and were yelling pretty good before the game," continued Myre. "But we didn't give them any life." At Hill, Mike Bussini, Bill Barber and Bob Dailey scored goals for the Flyers and Myre made several outstanding saves in the second period to quiet the fans.

The decision extended Philadelphia's latest unbeaten streak to six games, but after demonstrating why they have lost only three games all year, the Flyers received a stream of garbage as their reward. "It's not the second period to quiet the fans."

Air Crash Cause Remains Mystery

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI) — The odds are increasing that no one will ever know the cause of a bizarre airplane crash that killed Louisiana State University football coach Robert "Bo" Rein and a pilot, the chief investigator said.

Frank T. Taylor, head of the National Transportation Safety Board team investigating the Jan. 11 Kennedy of Enfield, Edmond Hurst and Myles McCurry tossed in 16 and 14 points respectively for the Bears with Tim Carmel chipping in 10. The plane mysteriously climbed to 41,000 feet and wandered 1,400 miles off course while on a scheduled routine flight from Shreveport, La., to Baton Rouge. The Cessna Cherokee finally crashed in the Atlantic Ocean while pilots in Air Force chase planes watched.

"At this point, everything is supposition," Taylor said. "We may never find out what happened."

The investigator discounted a report that an occupant of the Rein plane "sounded excited" in a radio transmission overheard by a Pan American World Airways crew. "The (Pan Am) pilot heard a faint voice trying to contact the controller but he said the person didn't sound excited," Taylor told the Morning Advocate.

"We now have someone going over the airplane's entire pressurization system at the Cessna plant. That's about as far as we can go," Taylor said. "We have found nothing wrong with the airplane to date or with its maintenance."

Reports indicate Benschotter was in excellent health before the flight, Taylor said. He said the seizure theory seemed likely.

"In order to have been an oxygen or pressurization problem, there would have had to have been multiple failures," he said. "The airplane was equipped with several emergency (systems) which would have indicated a pressurization problem. However, I'm not saying that it couldn't have happened."

Rose Enthusiasm Keeps Him Going

By MILTON RICHMAN
NEW YORK (UPI) — Pete Rose, the "Player of the Decade," isn't even thinking of quitting at 38. What's more, he's ready to settle that eternal debate over which goes first on a ballplayer, his eyes, his legs or his arm.

"It isn't any of those things," says the Philadelphia Phillies perpetually hustling first baseman, already preparing for his 18th season in the big leagues. "It's his enthusiasm. That's what keeps me going."

Rose acts as if he wouldn't mind playing as long as hockey's Gordie Howe, still doing fine with the Hartford Whalers at 51.

"What's not?" Rose says, when the question is broached. "I love playing baseball and I'm having fun. For me, baseball is fun."

Two factors which could make him consider quitting would be finding himself going through a divorce and paternity suit in the same year like I did last season.

"That hasn't happened yet," he makes it clear. "My concentration hasn't started wandering at all. I think it's one of my biggest assets. You have to have your concentration going through a divorce and paternity suit in the same year like I did last season."

Rose makes that statement without laughing. He still doesn't look on either of those two problems as any kind of joke.

"People ask me how long I think I can keep going," he continues. "There's really no way of knowing. Sparky Anderson used to tell me he doesn't care how big you are, what color you are or how much money you've got, when your reflexes go, there's nothing you can do about it. That may be true. I dunno, because I still have all my reflexes. But I think the first thing that would go with me would be my enthusiasm. I'm not worried at all over how long I can keep hustling. I'll still be hustling when I'm 69. That's the only way I know."

Although he was interested in last Sunday's Super Bowl game, hardly a day goes by that he isn't involved doing something connected with baseball. Anyone anyone wants him to talk about it, he's ready. Only big league. "It's his enthusiasm. That's what keeps me going."

difference. I've gotten over 800 extra base hits, over 600 doubles, over 150 homers and over 100 triples. I don't hit more home runs because of my swinging. I hit on the ball. The outfielders can't play me like a Punch-and-Judy hitter. The big difference in someone who's a home run hitter and someone who doesn't is that the guy who hits home runs has to pull the ball. I don't pull. I use the whole field. I've hit 16 home runs in one season twice and I hit three home runs in one game in New York in 1978. Does that sound like I'm strictly a more experienced, he could become a threat."

"I'll bet you didn't know that of all those players who have appeared in a thousand games or more, I'm the leading fielder in the entire history of baseball," he offers. "Look it up. My lifetime fielding average is .992. I'm proud of that. I'm also proud that at my age, I played in 163 games last season. One of those games was a tie. And how about this one: This past season was the 15th time in 17 years that I batted 600 times or more."

Since breaking in with Cincinnati in 1963, Rose has played second base, third base, left field and right field, and now he's playing first base.

"I always heard first base was an old man's position," he says. "That's a bunch of bull. When a ballplayer gets old, they ought to put him there because it keeps him in good shape. Here's why: You still have to field ground balls, hold runners on, field bunts and be the cutoff man on throws from right field and center field. You just can't go over to first base and stand there like a bump on a log."

"That isn't true," he protests. "I think I'm a power hitter, but not a home run hitter. There's a log."

"If the president of the United States feels that for political reasons that we should not go to the Olympics in Moscow, I'll back the president 100 percent. I regret that it is to be that way, and hope that the political situation will cool down in Phoenix, Ariz. and in view of the fact Carter likes in this position, I support the president."

"As a member and backer of the Olympic Committee and advocate of the Olympic movement, I am first, last and always an American," Owens said in the statement.

ON THE ROAD TO THE WINTER OLYMPICS
Billy Dorris was named to the U.S. Alpine Development Team in 1978 and promoted to the National Team for the 1979-1980 season. From Mt. Call, Idaho, Billy is 21 years of age.

He finished 10th in the overall Europa Cup Slalom standings last season. With top finishes at Slovenia, Yugoslavia (3rd in Slalom) and Bolzano, Bulgaria (6th in Slalom), he will come into the 1979-1980 season with a good record and an opportunity to become a top competitor.

During summer training in New Zealand and Australia, Billy won a slalom. In Australia, he beat his teammates quite impressively. U.S. Alpine Director, Bill Mader, commented on Billy's training and determination. "He has a real talent in Slalom. As he gains more experience, he could become a threat."

To help Billy and his teammates make it all the way, please send your tax-deductible contribution to the U.S. Ski Team Fund, Box 100, Park City, Utah 84000.

Twinbill Sunday

The New England Basketball Association has scheduled a doubleheader Sunday night at East Hartford High with Portland (2-5), featuring Jeff Carr, opposing Hartford (2-5) at 5:45.

The East Hartford Explorers (6-1), league leaders, will play Bridgeport Trumbull (5-3) in the second tilt at 7:45.

The games have been moved up in order to allow students to attend games and be home around 9.

No reservations will be accepted after Feb. 10.

Assault Suspect Linked To Series of Incidents

HARTFORD (UPI) — State police say they are trying to determine whether a man who seriously assaulted two female motorists in Massachusetts also was responsible for three attempts to attack women drivers in Connecticut.

Trooper David Bates said between Saturday and Tuesday a man stopped three women driving in Windsor, Windsor Locks, Enfield.

Bates said during the same time period, a woman driving in Springfield, Mass., was attacked by a man who hit her in the head with a tire iron. He said the woman pulled her car to the side of the road after the car behind her flashed his headlights.

Council Corrects Error

VERNON — To make up for an error discovered after the Social Services Department budget was approved for the current year, the Town Council voted this week to appropriate an additional $50.

Dear Abby
By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Every year my husband and I send over 300 Christmas cards. I spend a lot of time selecting an appropriate card that comes with our names printed in gold letters. These cards are not cheap. They cost 40 cents each, plus 15 cents postage, and I personally address each envelope by hand.

Yesterday I received the following note from a couple who live out of town and send us one of those boring, dragging, four-page mimeographed newsletters every Christmas:

Dear Emme and Norbert,
We appreciate being remembered at Christmas. Your card was decorative, but very cold and impersonal. If you can take a minute to add a personal word or two, or sign it yourselves, please take our names off your list.

Emly and Harold

Abby: would you care to comment?

SHOCKED IN UPSTATE N.Y.

DEAR SHOCKED: There's a lot to be said for airing one's grievances. But Emly and Harold's note is as subtle as a sledge hammer. Take their names off your list. Congratulations, you have just saved 55 cents!

DEAR ABBY: I am extremely fond of a young woman and an interesting marriage, but something bothers me. Having a meal - just the two of us - in the privacy of her apartment is something of an ordeal because she is terribly strict about table manners. Elbows off the table, knife and fork properly placed on the plate when not in use. Chew food well, absolutely no talking with food in mouth. No resting the arms or hands on the table while eating, etc. etc.

I would like to dine in a relaxed, comfortable manner without worrying about the rules of etiquette constantly. Be assured, I do not eat like a hog, and my manners are commendable even the fustiest lady, but what would marriage with such a woman be like?

WONDERING

DEAR WONDERING: Like being 9 years old again, and being married to your mother.

DEAR ABBY: Two years ago my parents were divorced. Dad promptly married the woman he had been seeing for three years before that. This is a small town, so everybody knew about it. My brother and I then in high school, my mother, and even my father and the other woman suffered from the talk.

Now that I am older and I hope wiser, I look back on the ordeal as a valuable, if painful, learning experience. My brother and I have spent a lot of time with my father and his new wife, and although we were prepared to hate her, we cannot hate a woman who has made our father so happy. I can't recall that Mom ever made Dad smile or laugh. She picked at him, criticized, and put him down constantly. He could never do anything to please her.

Dad's present wife treats him with such respect, consideration and love, that he has never known such happiness. He gives us her presence.

I still love my mother, and while I do not condone what my father did to her, I can now understand why he did it.

STILL LABRIND IN STILL WATER

DEAR STILL: I hope you remember I lost valuable "learning experience" in an event that you call marriage - or marriage chooses you.

Do you hate to write letters because you don't know what to say? Thank you notes, sympathy letters, congratulations, how to decline and accept invitations and how to write as interesting letters are included in Abby's booklet, "How To Write Letters for All Occasions." Send $1 a copy. Airmail stamped (25 cents, self-addressed envelope to Abby: 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212).
