Dinner for a Crowd or for Two...

Both are Occasions For Special Dishes

Whether it's dinner for a crowd or a special evening just for two, it's sive. These recipes are designed to let you do just that. They're based on a favorite trio of flavors-cheese, fruit and bread.

There are three mouth-watering treats for company, Pineapple-Herb Cheese Spread, Ham Loaf en Croûte and Orange-Pineapple Cheesecake.

But people today aren't always cooking for a crowd. Planning an interesting and memorable dinner for two is easy with three additional ideas, Double Cheese Soup and Pineapple-Spinach Salad, Stuffed Chicken Breasts with Pineapple Glaze and Puffy Shrimp and Cheese Casseroles.

A heavenly spread, flavor rich with Danish Natural Cream Cheese with Herbs and juice-packed crushed pineapple. Delicious served with thin goldfish-shaped crackers and convenient tye or pumpernickel party-sliced loaves.

Her Husband Is Mac the Strife

DEAR ABBY: Mac and I have been married for 30 years. We have a great marriage, except for the resentment he shows when I go out every Monday evening to play canasta with the girls, and bingo on Friday evenings in the basement of our church.

I've asked Mac to come along and play bingo, but he refused. He didn't mind my going out for four years because he was working second shift. But now that he's back on first shift, he wants me to sit home and listen to him snore in a chair after supper. Abby, I never worked when my kids were growing up, so I think I have earned two nights a week out.

Am I wrong or selfish? Should I give up my canasta and bingo, or put up with Mac's complaints? WILLING TO PLEASE DEAR WILLING: Offer Mac a compromise. Tell him you will spend only one night each week away from him provid ed he spends the other night doing something with you. Playing honeymoon bridge, Scrabble, or going to a movie.

He is being selfish to expect you to sit home and listen to DEAR ABBY: I am a 16-year-old girl. Last year my Mom and Dad split up. I live with Mom, and Dad lives in an apartment with Marge, his girlfriend. When Dad and Marge started living together, they didn't hide it. They had me over their apartment as if they were married. When I said "Dad, does this mean that Ricky the's my 17-year-old boyfriend) and I can live together when we're of age? Then Dad said, "No! If you can support yourself totally when you are of age, then you can live any way you like, but as long as I'm expected to kick in with money for your support, I will have something to say about it."

Abby, how come it's OK for Dad to live with somebody outside of marriage, but not for me?

DEAR DON'T: With your Dad it's a matter of money, not morals. As long as he's providing the roof over your head, he wants a say about who's sleeping under it.

DEAR ABBY: A reader asked, "How long should a hostess hold up a meal for a tardy guest?" You replied, "15 minutes is long enough." agree. The question and your reply reminded me of the rule I always had when I was in the corporate entertaining world: "NEVER EARLY, AND NOT MORE THAN 15

It was such a steadfast rule that, one evening, in order not to arrive 15 minutes early at the home of friends who had invited us to dinner, my wife and I proceeded to drive around to kill time. We got lost, and drove around for 45 minute before finding our way back! I spent the entire evening apologizing.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "WANTS TO KNOW BUT HATES TO LOOK STUPID": Ask anyway. There is no such thing as a "stupid" question if it's sincere. Better to ask and risk appearing "stupid" than to continue on your ig-norant way and make a stupid mistake.

Address comments and questions to Abby, c/o Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. For a personal reply, please enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope
