Carter Asks Draft List Both Sexes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter proposed Friday that the 8 million men and women who turn 19 or 20 this year be required to register for military service and said the call will be extended to 18-year-olds in the future.

Carter's plan to register women is an American first but 11 other nations already do it, including Russia.

The president said women would not be assigned to combat units if inducted but, "There is no distinction possible, on the basis of ability or performance, that would allow me to exclude women from an obligation to register."

Under Carter's proposal, which will be submitted to Congress everyone born in 1960 or 1961 would register this year. Starting next January, those born in 1961 — and those turning 19 in 1982 — would register.

Thereafter, men and women would be required to sign up when they turn 18. Everyone's name would remain on the rolls indefinitely.

Those affected would pick up registration forms at local post offices and fill in name, address and age. They would not get draft cards or be required to take physicals, but there would be a penalty for failure to register.

The last time Americans registered for military service was 1975 and no one has been drafted since 1973, when the controversial all-volunteer forces began.

Carter, who has said he only registers in case the need arises, would have to get additional authority from Congress before induction of anyone — male or female — could take place.

There was mixed reaction to the decision on women.

Phyllis Schlafly, leader of anti-ERA forces, said, "Carter has stabbed American womanhood in the back in cowardly attempt to get back the election-year support of the radical feminists."

The National Organization for Women, which opposed peacetime registration, said women should be called alongside men if the draft is reinstated.

Carter already has power to register men for military service but he asked Congress to appropriate $20 million this year and $24.5 million in fiscal 1981 for the mammoth task of organizing and keeping track of the records.

Because opposition is expected on Capitol Hill, the president said he would submit the plan to register women separately from his request for funding. That way, if Congress decides women should not be included, the funds needed to register men could still be approved.

Rep. Melvin Price, D-Ill., chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, predicted his panel would approve the funding request but he declined to speculate what would happen on the question of women.

House Speaker Thomas O'Neill has predicted Congress will reject the idea.

Allan Cone To Retire, In System 32 Years

By LAUREN DAVIS SHEA Herald Reporter

MANCHESTER — After 32 years with the Manchester education system, Allan L. Cone will retire this week from his post as principal of Bemet Junior High School.

Cone, 52, has been in the system since 1948. He has been principal of Bemet Junior High School for the last 12 years and his home on Maine's seashore ought to keep him busy for at least the summer, but then it will be back to work as usual. He is considering entering personnel, labor relations, or sales.

In his career with the public school system, Cone has had the opportunity to practice many skills. He received his bachelor's and master's degrees from the University of Connecticut and completed his sixth year at the University of Hartford. He has been a teacher and coach at Bentley School in 1948.

He cited Catherine Putnam, his high school history teacher, as one of the many fine teachers in the Manchester system who encouraged his teaching ambitions. "But if there was one person to put my finger on as an influence, it would have to be Thomas Bentley, who consistently showed a love and concern for children. He was also a superb storyteller and teacher."

Cone cited Arthur Hling for the work he did on the renovation, and Edson M. Bailey, former principal of Manchester High School.

Cone left teaching in 1955 for a year to become a field representative for the Connecticut Education Association. Wilson E. Deakin, acting superintendent, said Friday "Allan has been a worthy adversary in negotiations."

He returned as a teacher and counselor at the then Barnard Junior High School in 1956. In 1960, Cone was appointed vice principal of Barnard, a position he held until he became principal at Bemet in 1968.

James Kennedy, superintendent of schools, said, "No employee of this Board of Education has ever retired taking with him as much gratitude and respect for a job well done as Mr. Cone."

Cone expressed satisfaction with the accomplishments of the various Board of Education members with whom he has worked over the years, and added his appreciation for the central administration staff. But Cone reserved his highest praise for the teachers.

"The teachers are the front line troops. They give their talent, time and concern every day," Cone said. He was especially impressed with the teachers at his own institution, Bemet Junior High. "The junior high level is probably the most difficult age to teach. But 99 percent of the time, they are doing things they feel are in the kids' best interest," Cone said.

Speaking of the frustrations that are part of teaching, Cone said he endured during the 1960's was ending. "Maybe because I'm an eternal optimist, I think the tide is changing," he said.

"Maybe going to school and getting an education isn't as important. Or, maybe making money is more important than serving others now. But people that kids respect will still find of things unchanged," Cone said.

Cone congratulated the town's parents for their cooperation with the schools. "I've enjoyed a good working relationship with parents. There have been occasional tiffs, but they've been supportive of the schools," he said.

He cited declining enrollment as a trend of the future and said this would mean lowering the variety of programs a school system can afford to offer. Teachers are staying in their jobs longer than they used to, which Cone said would present the challenge of keeping an older staff invigorated.

Proficiency testing was cited as the current issue with the greatest impact but the renovation of Bemet, with the comprehensive programs it engendered, was the change that Cone considers most significant.

Another aspect of Cone's life that is clearly significant for him is his family. His wife, Nan, is a kindergarten teacher at Highland Park School and his two sons, Steven and Thomas, are both teachers.

The Cone family has three daughters: Debra, a senior at Boston College; Cathryn, a junior at the University of Connecticut; and Patricia, a junior at Manchester High School.

"There comes a point where you feel it is time for a change," Cone reflected. In addition to being father of five, and his 32 years in paid educational positions, he has served in several voluntary capacities.

He was teacher representative to the Governor's Investment Advisory Committee, is the former chairperson for the Connecticut Education Association Retirement Commission, and has been the chief negotiator for the Manchester School Administrator Association since 1969.

Cash Payout

SOUTH WINDSOR — Gerber Scientific Inc. has declared a cash dividend of 5 cents per share to be paid Feb. 20 to shareholders of record Feb. 11.

Gerber Scientific is a leading manufacturer of computer controlled drafting and digitizing equipment, interactive design systems and numerically controlled fabric cutting systems.

Assets Rise

VERNON — People's Savings Bank, Rockville, has reported a net increase in assets for the fiscal year ending Dec. 31, 1979.

Frederick S. Winkley, president, reported increases of $4,350,000 in savings and $5,187,000 in assets for the year 1979. Total assets are $4,877,500. This is an increase of 10 percent over 1978.

In addition, People's Savings Bank granted over seven million dollars in new mortgages in the towns of Rockville, Vernon, Ellington and South Windsor.

The bank's profit increased from $229,000 in 1978 to $317,300 for 1979.

Salad Added

HARTFORD — Wendy's Old Fashioned Hamburgers introduced its garden-fresh salad bar to the patrons of its Manchester restaurant at 260 Broad St., north of Sears Auto Tuesday. Eventually, all Wendy's outlets in Hartford County will offer salad bars, according to Dwight Pettay, franchise owner.

Hartford County was selected as the first Connecticut area to introduce salad bar at Wendy's, with Manchester the first in the state to be operational.

Customers may choose salad alone, or in combination with Wendy's hamburgers, fries, and beverages.

Wins Award

HARTFORD — Ann Sheridan of Manchester, premium accounting assistant supervisor for The Hartford Insurance Group, has received the company's President's Quality Award.

Ms. Sheridan is one of eight employees selected from The Hartford's national staff of nearly 18,000 to receive the award for 1979.

She joined the Hartford in 1973 as accounting clerk, and was recognized as a "top performer" in her first year with the company. Her efforts as premium accounting assistant supervisor in The Hartford's regional office were termed an outstanding contribution to the company's quality improvement program, an ef-

Housing Funds Get Legislative Boost

MANCHESTER — A bill introduced by Rep. John Morrison, D-Enfield, and co-sponsored by other area legislators would fund the Spencer Street elderly housing project.

The project is short about $400,000 to build 40 units of elderly housing. The state had allocated $225,000, but current estimates exceed the funding.

Building the project on Spencer Street was termed the town's number one priority by Mayor Stephen Penny.

Ted Cummings, Democratic Town Committee chairman, and former state representative, wholeheartedly endorsed the proposed bill.

"I'll be at the head of the line, seeing my friends in the legislature to help secure funds for Manchester," he said.

"I believe the bill has excellent chances," he said. "It's unthinkable not to build these units which are so badly needed."

The state legislature began its session this week, which will end in April.

After a meeting Monday with Manchester town officials, the legislators indicated their intention to sponsor the bill.

The bill would not only provide funding for Manchester, but 17 other communities. Four other communities have already bid on the construction of elderly housing, while 14 others are in planning around the state.

Students' Favorite Monster

WEGONSWAC has captured the hearts of energy-conscious students at Waddell Elementary School. Here, officers of the school's Energy Alert Committee investigate the various methods of energy that their monster represents. Students Learn Conservation Tips

MANCHESTER — Students at Waddell School are learning all about energy, an issue that will affect their future as no previous generation has been affected. Their main being is a creature called WEGONSWAC, whose name represents most of the energy sources known to man.

The creature holds court in the school's entranceway. He carries a windmill, which illustrates wind power, and an electric lightbulb in the other hand, which is a visual representation of electric power. The "g" in his name comes from gas, which is represented by a busen burner and coil wrapped around his leg.

The "w" comes from oil, which is represented by a gushing oil well standing by his side, and the "n" represents nuclear power, which is shown by the split atom emblazoned on his chest.

The monster's head is the sun, which represents solar power, and the "e" in his name comes from water power, which flows across his waist and down his left leg. The "a" in his name comes from the atom on his chest, while the "c" comes from coal, and he has a bucket of it piled at his feet. Least anything be forgotten, there is a full woodbox resting behind him.

WEGONSWAC was the creation of the school's Energy Alert Committee, which includes students from grades 4, 5, and 6. The artist was Brian Arnold.

In addition to the fantasy being, the committee also runs posters each month to acquaint students with steps individuals can take to conserve energy. "Waste not, want not," and "Don't be a drip, shut faucets off," are among the down-home knowledge students are learning.

The effort to heighten youthful awareness will continue until the end of the school year, according to school principal Maxwell Morrison.

With the continued effort, parents shouldn't be too surprised if their children turn the tables on them with comments like, "Dad, would you please turn out the light, you left it on when you left your room."

Visits to Patients Curbed by Hospital

MANCHESTER — Effective at noon today Manchester Memorial Hospital will put a restriction on visitations as a patient-protective measure due to the high incidence of respiratory ailments in the area.

Andrew Beck, public relations director, said only members of the immediate family will be allowed to visit seriously ill patients; only parents will be allowed to visit children in the pediatrics unit, and only father's of the babies will be allowed to visit in maternity.

Beck said if any of the permitted visitors have any sign of a respiratory ailment they will not be allowed to visit either.

He said several members of the staff have flu-like symptoms and three cases of flu-like symptoms have been reported among the patients.

'All-American Kid' Not Alone in Cancer Fight

LUDLOW, Mass. (UPI) — Judy Dubour is a "nice all-American kid" who is battling cancer. But the small New England town where she lives isn't letting her fight alone.

Hundreds of residents packed the Polish-American Hall in Ludlow Thursday night to pay $5 per plate for pasta, then join in an auction where items — including T-shirts autographed by actress Bo Derek — were raffled off for the town's fundraising effort.

The T-shirts were the hit of the dinner, each going for $5 — including one which two young teen-age boys pooled their money to buy, promising to share the prize on alternating weeks.

Organizers said the night brought in "at least $5,000" to push the town's fund raising efforts over the $20,000 mark.

Judy, 14, the petite, curly-haired daughter of Eleanor and Gerald Dubour, is suffering from bone cancer.

She has undergone several major operations, including the amputation of her left leg before Thanksgiving.

Judy was a cheerleader. She is a very popular kid. Nice to everybody. Not a snob. Just a real nice all-American kid," said high school psychology teacher Fran Libiszewski, coordinator of the fund drive.

"She has had to go through so much and what we do is just a drop in a bucket, to what she has to go through," Mrs. Libiszewski said.

Residents in the western Massachusetts town of 18,000 have already held a number of fundraising events, including a carnival sale and a rock and roll dance which Judy attended and got a standing ovation as she danced with her father.

Judy's illness has brought sympathy from people around the country.

Ms. Derek was recently in New England filming "A Change of Seasons" when fund organizers contacted her. Since then, she has sent about 30 T-shirts signed "Enjoy! Bo Derek," and numerous autographed posters to help.

Ms. Derek, who had planned to attend Thursday's dinner but took ill and had to return to California, has also telephoned Judy several times.

"It seems like the whole town is driven to help her," said Debbie Goodreau, 17, a senior at Ludlow High School, where Judy, her sister Donna, 18, and brother Jerry, 15, are students.

"We sort of felt that anyone who is going so far out to help somebody, if there is anything you can do, why not," said Gail Piscane, who traveled with her husband, Robert, from Belchertown, about 15 miles away, to the supper.

"I'm that incredible," said Mrs. Piscane, pointing to the throngs of people jamming the aisles of folding chairs.

"I don't think everyone could know her, and I think people feel if something happened to them, people would help, just like they're helping Judy," she said.

Donna admitted her family is ambivalent about the publicity.

"At the beginning, we felt that people were feeling sorry for us. We felt we were begging for money," she said.

But now, Donna said, "My father puts it this way: It's going to make Judy's life a little easier, then he doesn't care what people do for her. She's gone through more torture than one person can take in a lifetime."

Mrs. Libiszewski said Judy sometimes telephones her during her chemotherapy sessions just to let everyone know, "I'm going to beat it, I'm going to beat it."

HARTFORD (UPI) — The state began laying the apparent basis for what could be its most crucial testimony in the trial of "Gary" Castonguay for the slaying of a policeman while fleeing a house burglary.

Gastonguay, if convicted, could be the focus of a test of the state's death penalty law. Trial Judge David M. Shea ruled a section of the law unconstitutional during pre-trial proceedings but prosecutors say they will likely appeal to the state Supreme Court in the event of a conviction.

A woman who lived next to the burglarized house in Plainville testified in Hartford Superior Court Friday that she heard noises in the home which sounded like they were being made by more than one person shortly before the Nov. 21, 1977 shooting.

Jacqueline Ferguson said she first heard what sounded like glass breaking and then went outside her house into complete darkness where she heard someone running across the street.

"It was enough noise for more than one person," she said under questioning by Chief Assistant State's Attorney Robert Meyers.

Ms. Ferguson said she then heard someone yell, "Stop right there" which was followed by four flashes from what she said was a gun.

Castonguay, 35, of Bristol, is charged with shooting Plainville policeman Robert Holcomb four times as Holcomb chased him and an alleged accomplice from the scene of the burglary.

Ms. Ferguson's testimony indicating the noise sounded as if it were made by more than one person was the first mention in the 2-day trial indicating two suspects may have been involved.

Castonguay's nephew, former University of Connecticut football player Rocco Testa, also has been charged in the case but will not be tried until his uncle's trial is completed.

Testa, who is reportedly being held out-of-state in federal custody, has been listed as a potential state witness in the case and could prove to be the state's most crucial witness.

In other testimony Friday, Police Sgt. Lloyd Wark reaffirmed testimony by a neighborhood resident Thursday who said Holcomb apparently had been gunned down before he had a chance to draw his own weapon.

Wark described finding Holcomb lying in a wooded area across the street from the burglary scene.

"The first thing I saw was the beam of a flashlight," Wark said. "I found Officer Holcomb lying on his back, the flashlight in his right hand. I saw blood under his right armpit and he was pale and moaning. The gun was in his holster."

Cartwheels on Sale

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government put nearly 1 million silver dollars minted in the 1800s on the market at prices up to $65 each.

The coins were struck at the Carson City, Nev., mint using silver from the famous Comstock lode.

The sale by the General Services Administration was expected to bring about $50 million to the Treasury.

The 978,134 coins are part of a cache of nearly 3 million "cartwheels" uncovered in a vault by a 1974 government audit.

They are 90 percent silver, with the head of Miss Liberty on one side and an eagle within a wreath on the other. They were first offered for sale in 1972, but sales were stopped in 1974 when demand declined.

More than 923,000 of the coins will be sold to the public by mail order at fixed prices, the GSA said. The remaining 55,000, more valuable as collectors' items, will be offered by mail auction later in the spring.

Prospective buyers may use order forms to be published in newspapers nationwide, or contact a Federal Information Center.

MCC Reports Hike In Adult Students

MANCHESTER — Total enrollments in MCC's Community Services Division's spring semester have increased 46 percent from a year ago, according to James O. Tatro, Associate Dean of Community Services.
Tatro said this figure reaffirms the college's growing demand by the adult population and the acceptance of non-traditional modes of instruction. The Community Services Division offers credit courses on a self-supporting basis with all instructional costs covered by fees paid by students.
"I am very pleased with the enrollment in all of our different types of offerings," said Tatro, "particularly in view of the fact that we normally show a decrease of 20 to 25 percent from the fall to spring semester. He said the off-campus locations, which help students save gasoline and the convenient once-a-week classes were major factors in the enrollment increase.
"We're continuing a boom in the community service program that began last summer," he said.
College Relations Officer Carroll Maddox said the Board of Higher Education was missing the importance of these students.
"Not only are these students different from students in higher education in general," he said, "but they are also different from MCC students. These students are being ignored by the BHE."
"They're saying we should be in a retrenchment position in education because of declining enrollments. We're finding another market segment. The idea of education being over when you get the sheepskin, is another BHE premise, is over."
Tatro said the student population in Community Services courses has grown 55 percent in the last two years, with males being twice as many females as males. He said 70 percent of the population is

One Inmate Missing In Riot's Aftermath

SANTA FE, N.M. (UPI) — Officials at the New Mexico State Penitentiary said Friday one inmate still was unaccounted for in the aftermath of the nation's worst prison uprising since Attica.
A snowstorm slowed efforts to transfer prisoners to other facilities, but officials were able to restore heat to the burned-out prison where remaining inmates were held in temporary quarters.
Gov. Bruce King put the official death toll in the 36-hour uprising at 32, and a recount of prisoners Thursday and Friday showed one inmate still was unaccounted for.
Assistant District Attorney Dick Baker said there was no indication of any escape during the uprising.
"They would have had to have gotten rid of their prison uniform and taken some other clothes from somewhere," Baker said. "We haven't had any reports of that happening, so I am reasonably satisfied that no one escaped."

Ship Grounding Still Suspicious

NEW YORK (UPI) — A federal judge revealed Friday that there is a lingering suspicion that the Liberian tanker Argo Merchant was deliberately grounded near Nantucket Island in December 1976.
The tanker, on a voyage from Venezuela to Salem, Mass., broke up within a few days in heavy weather and spilled its cargo of 7.5 million gallons of crude oil into the Atlantic. The oil spillage was the worst on the Atlantic Coast at that time. There was no loss of life and fears that the oil spill would ruin the Nantucket Shoals fishing area proved to be unfounded.

Study Says Controls Hiked Cost for Energy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Current soaring energy costs are the direct result of attempts to control them in the past through oil price controls, according to a new study.
"We believe that the system of price controls on domestic natural gas and domestic oil has done all Americans a great disservice," Robert Stobaugh and Daniel Yergin said in the study appearing in the current issue of Foreign Affairs magazine.
By encouraging consumption, artificial domestic price ceilings led to increased imports, a tighter world oil market and rising prices, they wrote.
"And higher prices for imported oil, especially if they occur suddenly, result in even further loss of gross national product because of the deflation of domestic economic activity due to large flows of money out of the United States and the difficulty of stimulating the economy during periods of high inflation partly induced by high oil prices," they wrote.
Yergin and Stobaugh are also the authors of the Harvard Business School's celebrated "Energy Future" study.
Those who advocate reimposition of controls are engaging in the "dangerous delusion" that a nation now forced to import half its oil can somehow be self-sufficient, they warned in the latest study.
Because the United States cannot realistically count on the one-third of its oil imported from the unstable

Study Says Controls Hiked Cost for Energy

Middle East, the authors argued that "the most urgent priority is above all a vast improvement in energy efficiency."
"Indeed, it is time to set a meaningful national goal for conservation," they said. "At the very least, our aim should be zero energy growth for the 1980s ... not just because our supplies might be limited to that, but because meeting this goal through productive conservation is the best way to promote positive economic growth."
The study found that decontrolled prices alone are insufficient to spur the kind of conservation and energy efficiency the country will need to overcome its oil emergency without a major investment.

Jobless Claims Decline in State

HARTFORD (UPI) - A drop in seasonal claims for unemployment benefits resulted in an overall dip in the number of filings for jobless benefits over the latest two-week period, the state Labor Department said today. The department reported an average of 46,000 claims filed over the period ending last Friday, a $331 drop from the average for the previous two-week period. A spokesman attributed the decrease to an 8,500 drop in claims due to seasonal closings. In the past few reporting periods, such closings were blamed for increasing the number of claims. The latest figures put the state's insured unemployment rate at 2.4 percent, which the department said compared to 2.2 percent during the same period last year. Decreased claims were reported at all of the 19 local Labor Department offices, the spokesman said.

Vernon Council Sets Fund Priorities

VERNON - In an effort to give Town Planner George Russell an indication of what its priorities would be for a Community Development Grant application, the Town Council, Monday night, took an informal vote on several projects listed by Russell. The council set as its first priority, drainage and road improvements to 2.84 miles of Bolton Road at an estimated cost of $800,000. Put in second place was completion of the renovation of the Horowitz Pool in Henry Park at a cost of $50,000. Russell reminded the council that $45,000 had already been put into this project. Listed as third priority are renovations to the barn at Valley Falls Park to use as a nature center, at a cost of some $300,000. Fourth priority was given to an industrial base/location study, no cost the 1978 funds. The amended application set $40,000 for those improvements. Bolton Lake residents feel that they're in a "Catch 22" situation. They can't get the money for the study but they also can't get the money for the actual work until the study is made. A Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA) grant amounting to $18,450, allowed the town to start the study of the lake area road problems but because there were problems with the CETA program some of the study wasn't completed. The roads in the area in question are narrow and bumpy and practically inaccessible to emergency vehicles. The residents have been pressing the town to do something about them for many years.

Before approving the amended application the council has to conduct another hearing. Hearings on the proposal for the 1980 grant will be held at the same time. However, following the council meeting, Russell was informed by state officials that the Bolton Lakes study project isn't an eligible use for the state funds. Russell said he was told that this grant money must be used for capital improvements projects such as actual road

Battle for Possession

Tribe Starts Fast To Erect Triumph

Bolting from the starting post, and erecting an early 8-0 lead, Manchester High's basketball team notched its 13th decision of the season last night with a comparatively easy 77-57 duke over Wethersfield at the latter's court.

Getting a fine balanced scoring attack with three starters in twin figures — Rick Koepsel 12, Brian Sweeney 13 and Bill Anderson 15 — and hard-working backcourt, Ed Kennison dropping in four buckets, the charges of Coach Doug Pearson were never headed.

Once again, Pat Silver came off the bench and made a big contribution, canning nine points, with three hits from each the floor and the 15-foot foul line.

The Indians, in taking the CCIL decision, upped their mark to 13-3 and stand 13-4 overall while Coach Joe Whelton's Eagles slipped to 4-12. Manchester jumped off to a 17-10 first period margin, increased the edge to 36-20 at intermission and held a 48-36 edge with eight minutes remaining.

"Anderson, Sweeney and Koepsel were able to get inside real well," Pearson said, "we were just too big."

Stubborn Penney Falls to Windham

Eight unanswered points in a three-and-a-half minute span broke open a close affair as Windham High tripped Penney High, 55-46, in CCIL basketball action last night in Willimantic.

The victory kept the Whippets atop the league at 14-2 while the reversal dropped the Black Knights to 4-12 in the CCIL and 4-13 overall.

Windham had an 18-9 lead after one quarter but could only come up with one bucket in the second stanza and trailed at the intermission, 21-20.

Neubelt Big Gun, Tribe Gains Lead

Led by 3-foot-11 senior Mary Neubelt, back in the line-up for only the third game following a bout with mono, Manchester High girls' basketball team moved into first place in the CCIL with a 57-48 win over previous pace-setter Wethersfield High last night at Clarke Arena before an enthusiastic crowd of 400.

The victory boosts the Silk Towners to 14-3 in the league, 14-4 overall, while the setback drops the Eagles to a half game behind at 13-3. Manchester closes out its season Tuesday night against Windham High in Willimantic while Wethersfield faces at home Simsbury twice, the regular scheduled game and completion of a game suspended by a power failure.

"Mary Neubelt won the game for us," asserted Tribe Coach Steve Armstrong. "(Jackie) Tucker was in foul trouble and we needed help and Mary did it for us. And it couldn't have happened to a nicer person."

"We still have to win the last one and Windham out there can never be overlooked," Armstrong cautioned. The Indians reeled off the first 11 markers before Wethersfield got on the scoreboard with 2-36 left in the opening stanza. Manchester led at the turn, 13-4.

The Eagles, who took the first encounter between the quintets by a 60-50 count, took the upper hand for the first time at 34-33 with 1:45 left in the third but Manchester quickly regained the lead on a Jennifer Hedlund hoop.

Chris Saunders put the visitors ahead again but the locals reeled off the next 6 points for a 41-36 lead after three periods.

A couple of times they (Wethersfield) made runs at us but we were able to come back. This is a helluva ballclub," Armstrong praised his troops.

Tucker, in early foul trouble forcing her to the bench the entire second stanza, had two big baskets to begin the fourth quarter with Liz Neubelt, Hedlund and Mary Neubelt ripping off 6 markers sandwiched around an Eaglette hoop for a 51-40 bulge.

The closest Wethersfield came down the stretch was seven points as Mary Neubelt and Hedlund each hit some big free throws.

Hedlund wound up with 15 points, Mary Neubelt 11 along with 10 rebounds, and Tucker and Liz Neubelt 10 markers apiece. Hedlund had 7 rebounds and Liz Neubelt 6 as the Indians battled Wethersfield better of the boards than the last time.

The addition of Mary Neubelt had a lot to do with that department. Wendy Hill had 18 points to pace Wethersfield. Manchester's jayvees remained unbeaten with a superb effort in downing Wethersfield, 69-45. Karen Wright had 18 points, Sue Donnelly 13, Nancy Curtin 12 and Stacey Markham 10 for the 18-0 Indians.

Malin Little Man, Big Man's Game

They called him Shorty, because of his size, but John "Shorty" Malin was a big man among basketball officials.

The South Windsor resident, now retired after long service with United Aircraft, was the class of the men who blew the whistles in Connecticut and New England interscholastic and intercollegiate basketball circles.

Malin's officiating career spanned a quarter-century, about half that time when only one referee worked a game.

Many young officials tried to copy his style but there was only one Shorty Malin.

In my book, he was the finest official in the state. Before seeing that the rules were enforced, Malin was a basketball player of note with the Hartford Knights of Lithuanians and also tried his hand at coaching with much success, handling the Rockville Polish-American girls when they reeled the roost in Connecticut.

"I'll have to speak to him," the senior Malin said before settling back to watch the East and Northwales Catholic varsity teams battle it out.

Holik Eyes College Grid

By LEN AUSTER
Herald Sportswriter

Five years overall, the last four as head man. But just like everything eventually does it come to an end and thusly Jack Holik will no longer serve as Manchester High head football coach.

Holik, former Manchester High and Trinity College gridiron stand-out, confirmed his resignation Wednesday evening at the annual football banquet at the school cafeteria. Announcement was made to the media Thursday morning.

Although his future plans are not settled, Holik voiced late Thursday morning, "Hopefully I would like to get into college coaching (as an assistant or graduate assistant)."

"I want to work on my master's (degree) a little bit but there's nothing definite. I don't know where I'm going to be but I have a couple of interviews around here and will have a couple out West and in the Midwest."

Life at the top wasn't always pleasant for Holik, who took over the coaching reigns from Larry Olsen in 1976. His first venture ended nightmarishly at 0-10 and his '77 club compiled a similar 0-10 ledger. Those losses were heaped upon a nine-game loss skid in Olsen's final year.

The downward trend finally came to a climax in the first game of the 1978 season with a 20-15 win over Fermi High. Five more wins were logged that year and the Silk Towners wound up 6-4, their first winning season since 1972. They placed fifth in the Central Connecticut Interscholastic League (CCLL).

Holik's last year saw the Indian graders, beset by injuries which eventually forced them to revert to the 1940-vintage single wing, compile a 3-7 mark. His final win-loss mark at the high school is 9-31.

"I think we got them heading in the right direction," he recollected quickly the past four years. "But really it although there were some hard times, especially that 20-game streak. But the last couple of years from an altitude viewpoint, I think we've come quite a bit and made some pretty big progress."

"The kids never quit and hung together. I think we've instilled a little bit of pride in themselves and the school."

Holik coaches the American Legion baseball team in the summer, he's held the post the past six years, and intends to continue to do so unless he makes a move out of the area. The former Tribe leader's long considerations, "Ludes stated, "I thought it best for the school, best for the kids, best for all involved."

Guidelines, at this early date, for finding a new coach have not been drawn but Jacob Ludes, school principal, states, "We're looking at what our general staff needs. If we don't find an appropriate candidate inside quickly the past four years, we'll bring someone from outside. We would depend on if they're any teaching vacancies. "We anticipate a couple of possibilities but it all depends on school budget considerations," Ludes stated. He also noted openings at the high school could go to those presently at the junior highs, depending on what happens there. "I'm not sure how many real vacancies we have but we will know shortly," Ludes added.

$150,000 Likely Marathon Purse

By LEN AUSTER
Herald Sportswriter

BOSTON (UPI) — The director of the New York Marathon is predicting a possible purse of up to $150,000 for the winner in this October's race should a boycott of the Moscow Games materialize.

Fred Lebow said in the Boston Globe's Friday edition that the New York race could be the start of open competition on the international level and money above the table for the top finishers.

"It's not a pipe dream," Lebow said. "First prize could be $150,000, definitely $100,000 or more. Second place could be $50,000."

Much of Lebow's proposal depends not only on a boycott, but on the results of a meeting next month in Paris of the International Amateur Athletic Federation. The IAAF is being asked to abandon its regulation restricting competition to amateurs, a move being pushed by the United States, Great Britain and throughout Europe.

If the IAAF does wipe out the regulation, Lebow figures the New York race would be a fitting event for purse offerings.

"I've been talking about this (an open Marathon) for a couple of years. It's not right for someone like Reggie Jackson to earn $1 million and a 6-foot-9 veteran who spent two years with the American Basketball Association, had asked the Blazers at the beginning of the current season to trade him or renegotiate his contract. Lucas, once among the NBA all-stars, has missed amount of cash. Portland will get the first-round pick that the 76ers got from the Cleveland Cavaliers for 1981.

In his previous three years with Portland, Lucas averaged 191 points and slightly more than 10 rebounds.

The victory ups the Techmen's conference docket to 4-10 and overall mark to 6-10 while the loss drops the Sachems to 4-11 in the COC and 4-13 overall.

Simsbury Defeats Hornets

Slow-starting Simsbury High got things moving in the second half and registered a come-from-behind 56-47 victory over East Hartford High in CCIL basketball action last night in East Hartford.

The victory ups the Trojans' league mark to 13-3 and overall record to 14-3 while the setback drops the Hornets to 3-10 in the CCIL and 4-14 overall.

East Hartford had a 17-11 first quarter advantage with Tyler Jones pacing the Hornets with 7 points. The Hornets maintained the upper hand after two periods, 33-31, with Tim Enrich leading Simsbury back into the contest with 10 second-period tallies.

It was a good finish in the HCC. The Whalers regained their lead at 47-43 in the second period when a Rogers' slapshot deflected off Rockie's defenseman Joel Packes' stick and flew over Packes' shoulder. Lunde, Dehler and Jack Valiquette followed with unanswered goals, however, to put Colorado ahead 5-2.

Hartford pulled even at 17:22 of the second period when Dave Debol found a loose puck in the left faceoff circle and beat Plasse with a point-blank wrist shot.

Blazers Deal Lucas, Hollins

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — The Portland Trail Blazers Friday traded forward Maurice Lucas and guard Lionel Hollins, two members of the 1977 championship team, to East Coast teams.

Lucas and two first-round Blazer draft choices were traded to the New Jersey Nets for small forward Calvin Natt and Hollins went to the Philadelphia 76ers for a first-round draft choice and an undisclosed amount of cash.

Portland will get the first-round pick that the 76ers got from the Cleveland Cavaliers for 1981.

In his previous three years with Portland, Lucas averaged 191 points and slightly more than 10 rebounds.

Maxwell Keys Celtic Victory

BOSTON (UPI) — Cedric Maxwell scored 23 points and Nate Archibald added 18 Friday night to lead the Boston Celtics to a 130-108 rout of the Indiana Pacers.

After Boston grabbed a 28-27 first-quarter lead behind Chris Ford, who scored eight of his 14 points, the Celtics ran off 43 points in the second period to take a 71-57 halftime lead.

Maxwell keyed the outburst with 11 points and Jeff Judkins came off the bench to score 10 of his 13 points in the second period when he gave the Celtics a 4-3 lead with an unassisted goal to 10-3.

Mike Rogers gave the Whalers a 1-0 lead at 2:11 of the first period when he took a centering pass from Blaine Stoughton and fired a wrist shot past Plasse. Rene Robert tied the score at 1-1 on a power play when he unassisted a shot from the right point that got by screened Whalers' goalie John Garrett.

Abby
By Abigail van Buren

Her Ambition: A Bullerina!

DEAR ABBY: Please don't laugh, this is a serious problem. I am a girl, nearly 17, who wants more than anything in the world to become a ballerina. When I tell people that this is my ambition they think I am kidding, but I'm not. I know it is an unusual profession for a woman, but I can't see any reason why a woman shouldn't be as good as a man when it comes to balleting, do you?

I have never been to see a ballerina, but I've seen them in the movies and on television look like the most exciting sport in the world. It takes grace, and lots of guts, and I've got both.

Can you tell me how to get into this line of work? I know I can't get any training in this country, but I am willing to go to Mexico, or even to Spain if necessary.

Thanks for any help you can give me.

FUTURE BULLFIGHTER

DEAR BULLFIGHTER: Since bullfighting is outlawed in the United States, you would have to get your training in a country that permits it. But before you do anything, may I make a suggestion? Ask yourself why you want "more than anything else in the world" to excel in the brutal and bloody business of torturing and killing animals for sport and entertainment.

DEAR ABBY: I am getting married soon, and an keeping my own name instead of taking my husband's name. When we have children, what last name should we give both?

We don't want to hyphenate our last names since they are quite long.

DEAR B.J.: In America, children traditionally take their father's last name. But since you have already broken with tradition by keeping your own last name, you're obviously not concerned with tradition, so choose whichever name you prefer.

Out of consideration to your children, I recommend they take their father's last name, or use the hyphenated combination of both your names—regardless of how long they are. Either would create fewer identity problems throughout their lives.

P.S. If anybody out there has had to deal with this problem, I am interested in knowing how it was handled.

DEAR ABBY: I am a retired United Methodist minister who makes house calls on people who attend our church as visitors, particularly new people in the area looking for a church. I make between 50 and 60 house calls per month. Most of these calls are made in the afternoon, and those in the evening are made by appointment only. I have always been amazed at the ease with which I gain entrance to the home even though I am a total stranger to the family. I always have my identification card handy, but no one ever asks to see it.

I have had the door opened by children as young as 3 and 4 I never enter the home until an adult member of the family is a thief for a rapist! I could gain entrance in over 50 percent of the homes I visit without any difficulty whatsoever.

Please print this, Abby, and tell your readers to be very, very careful about whom they let into their homes. And to never allow a child to open a door to a stranger.

A CONCERNED MINISTER IN PHOENIX

DEAR CONCERNED: Here's hoping your letter causes more eyes to be opened and more doors kept shut.

If you need help in writing letters of sympathy, congratulations or thank-you letters, get Abby's booklet: "How to Write Letters on All Occasions." Send $1 and a long, stamped 10 cent, self-addressed envelope to Abby, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Cal., 90212.

Abby's Birthdays

February 10, 1980
This coming year you should be able to put to good use lessons which you have learned in the past. Experience your own share of the chance to turn your hopes into reality.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)
This old adage, "neither a borrower nor a lender be," should be kept in mind today. You could have problems in either area if you are not careful. Romance, travel luck, resources, possible pitfall and career for the coming months are all discussed in your Astro-Graph Letter which begins with your birthday. Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Six 488 Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify both birth date and birth time.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20)
This can be a day of major adjustments and plans, but you'll have to control your tendency and reserve to get what you go after. Don't look for easy ones.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
Guard against impulsive speech today. Without meaning to you could say something offensive and, once you put your foot in your mouth, it will be difficult to extract.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
A failure to be self-reliant today could lead to disappointments. Hoping that others will do things for you which you should be doing may put you out on a shaky limb.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
Everyone is entitled to his or her opinion. It would be wiser for you to keep this in mind today. Forcing your views on another could provoke an argument.

CANCER (June 21-July 21)
Unfortunately, you may have a tendency today to turn a small task into a large one. Concentrate on your work so that it won't have to be done over.

LEO (July 22-Aug. 22)
Generally, you are in good luck, but the wary today of carrying it to the end. You might just miss something you'll later regret.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
In your anxiety to complete things today, your awareness for details could desert you and cause you to make mistakes. Small blunders might have big effects.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23)
Normally, you're modest and unassuming, but today you may be prone to exaggerate your accomplishments. Your boast could later come back to haunt you in a false sense of security.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)
Face challenges optimistically today, but not unrealistically. Underestimating the odds would lead you in a false sense of security.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21)
Face challenges optimistically today, but not unrealistically. Underestimating the odds would lead you in a false sense of security.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
A goal you hope to accomplish is reachable today, but it may not be pulled off the way you originally planned. Be prepared to adjust your thinking.

Opening one of a suit
By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sotony

This is your workhorse bid. It can be made with any distribution and almost any high-card strength. You should open one of a suit when your hand meets all requirements for a bid in nontournament or strong enough so you can afford to open with a strong forcing bid. At the minimum end of the spectrum you normally require at least 11 HCP (one point more than your fair share of high cards). With that 11 HCP you only open when you have a six-card suit or good five-card suit and not always then. With 12 HCP you can bid 4-3-3 and open most of the time with any other distribution. With 13 HCP you are a full king above average. You should only pass 4-3-3 distribution and very seldom then. Get up to 14 HCP and you have the equivalent of an ace above average. You can't afford to open.

Choice of Suit
(When you have a two-suit (two suits of five cards or more), you open the higher ranking if they are equal in length and the longer if they are unequal. With just one five-card suit, you open that suit. With no five-card suit

Note that this club bid is not forcing. If you use it regularly you can expect to be left in it once every couple of years. You can expect to find yourself in a full king or more often, but in such circumstances your partner is going to have at least four clubs to help you. We will devote next Saturday's article to the whole problem of the choice of suit when you don't have one of five cards.

TV DIALOGUE

PIN-UPS — Are there any places outside of New York and Hollywood that specialize in movie posters and assorted memorabilia? There are a few old movie and TV series that I would love to get stills or posters from. — Sherry Levine, Muskegon, Mich.

There's one in your own backyard, Cinema City, at P.O. Box 1012 Dept. P, Muskegon, Mich. 49443, has more than 30,000 stills in stock, along with posters and even film clips. A catalogue will cost you a buck, but it's refundable with the first order.

FAMILY FEUD — I seem to be the only one in my family of long-time TV watchers who feels that Angela Cartwright was not the sister of Rusty Hamer or Sherry Jackson on "Make Room for Daddy." I mean, Rusty and Penny were Danny's kids, but Linda was his step-daughter from his second wife. I'm right, aren't I? — Maureen Hester, Manchester, N.H.

From the top, Danny Williams (Thomas) was married to Margaret (Jean Hagen), by whom he had two children, Terry (Sherry Jackson) and Rusty (Rusty Hamer). When Jean Hagen quit the series after three years, Margaret was written out of the show. The excuse was that she supposedly died. Danny then married Kathy (Marjorie Lord), who had a daughter by her first marriage, Linda (Angela Cartwright). To sum up, you're right, and you get to be the chief channel chooser at home for the rest of the week.

SWITCHED WAGONS — I watched "The Chisholms" on TV now that it's back on the air, and I noticed that there have been several changes in the cast from the original TV movie. Both the oldest daughter and the middle son, as well as Lester Hackett, the oldest's new husband, seem to be different. What happened? — Mrs. H. Leslie, Bakersfield, Calif.

A year passed between the pilot film for "The Chisholms" and the new series. During that time several of the original cast members either found other jobs or were not interested in series work. Charles Frank, who played Lester Hackett, the sweet-talking gambler, was somewhat typecast and is now playing the lead on "Young Maverick." Middle son, Gideon, was played by Brian Kerwin, who is now featured on "Sheriff Lobo." And Stephanie Zimbalist simply turned down the series in favor of other projects.

THE BEST — Did Robert Blake ever win an Emmy for "Baretta"? How about Telly Savalas? — Rick Corby, New Brunswick, N.J.

Telly copped an Emmy for sucking Tootsie Pops in 1973, while Blake got one for talking to a cockatoo in '74.

ALIAS KOOKIE — What was Kookie's real name on "77 Sunset Strip"? I win $10 if I can come up with the answer. — P.D., Rochester, N.Y.

Do I get anything for giving it to you? Well, consider it on the house. Kookie was dubbed Gerald Lloyd Kookson III, a name which suggests he should have been born with a silver comb in his hand.

ARTFUL — Is there someplace that I can write to Art Linkletter, whom I have admired for many, many years? — Mrs. A. Skopp, Biloxi, Miss.

You can reach Linkletter at his office, 8530 Wilshire Blvd. Suite 500, Beverly Hills, CA. 90211.

DEE FOR ME — When my friends and I were growing up we were all big Sandra Dee fans. Now two of us are having a dispute. Did Sandra Dee play both Gidget and Tammy? — Laura Hoag, Newport News, Va.

For some people, Sandra Dee WAS Gidget. She starred in the original 1959 bikini bash. But Debby Reynolds was the original Tammy, in "Tammy and the Bachelor," circa 1957. Sandra Dee did, however, offer her version of the lovestruck teen in 1963's "Tammy and the Doctor."

Wayne Rogers Maintains His Independence

By DAN LEWIS

Hollywood — Wayne Rogers doesn't blush when he is reminded that a recent profile in a national magazine reported that he's worth $20,000,000. He does wish it known that the article (US Magazine) exaggerated his estimated wealth.

Whatever his actual worth, Wayne Rogers has financial security. It permits him to enjoy the luxury of independence, and selectivity. Not many actors do.

Rogers was television's Trapper John in the TV version of "M.A.S.H." when it first went on the air. During the series ascendancy, Rogers co-starred with Alan Alda. Then one day he quit the show. This did not cause a legal problem. Rogers never signed a contract.

A graduate of Princeton, where he majored in business administration, Rogers became involved in the financial world. While he kept his eye on theater and television activity, he acknowledges he made a good deal of money managing funds and investments.

He returned to episodic television briefly in a detective series called "City of Angels" on NBC, but he wasn't happy with the production. He caused consternations by saying publicly at the time that it wouldn't upset him if the series was cancelled.

When CBS decided to revive the Trapper John character in a spin-off series — setting it 20 years after Korea — Rogers declared he was not interested in the role. Pernell Roberts agreed to the role, and the Sunday evening show is considered one of the few new hits of the season.

Instead, Rogers has elected to return to the weekly grind in a half-hour CBS situation comedy, "House Calls," which like "M.A.S.H." spins off from a movie feature. Walter Matthau and Glenda Jackson co-starred in the film version. The TV series stars Rogers and Lynn Redgrave in those roles, with David Wayne portraying the light-headed, aging chief surgeon (Art Carney played the character in the film).

"House Calls" is on Monday night, in the fortuitous prime time position between "M.A.S.H." and "Lou Grant." One suspects that CBS is planning a Wayne Rogers fan club, by pairing "M.A.S.H." and "House Calls."

Rogers says he is having a lot of fun with "House Calls." He says he didn't have fun working on "City of Angels."

"In 'City of Angels,' I had to carry it all the way," he says. "This series has a good cast. I don't have to carry it at all. I think they are intelligent."

He does have some reservations. "The premiere episode of 'House Calls' spends too much time introducing the characters," says Rogers.

"The distressing thing is that you never get into the story," he continues. "It's not starting out the best way. I didn't think our pilot was our strongest show," he complained. "But that's the premiere, and the one the critics review. Subsequent episodes were better. Why not put the best show on first since it is the one that gets reviewed?"

Although he speaks his mind, often criticizing producers and network brass, Rogers still believes in the system of our country's commercial television.

"There are only three major stores (the commercial networks) and everyone is vying for the air time. I just worry about the inadequacies of the suppliers. There is a lot of inordinate waste in production. They're not worried about doing the best show, as much as they worry about the little bureaucracies which work for themselves. The department heads worry about their own territories — the best sound, best makeup, best editing. They all have little time to be interested in other areas."

Humble Goals

Lou Rawls, who says he "inspired himself" to go beyond his Chicago ghetto beginnings, is striving to inspire others not to "be dummies." He visits high schools and colleges around the country, and speaks to those students who might believe they are not significant. "The only professional people who came to talk to us were firemen and librarians, and we couldn't relate to them," he said.

Now Rawls is hosting "The Lou Rawls Parade of Stars," a three-hour television spectacular sponsored by Anheuser-Busch. It was taped in Las Vegas, to raise funds for the United Negro College Fund's 41 colleges. The show appears on selected dates on local stations around the country. Joining Lou and his co-host Ed McMahon are: Muhammad Ali, Bill Cosby, Lou Brock, Lola Falana, The Mills Brothers, Glen Campbell, Norm Crosby and Paul Williams.

Rawls attributes his inspiration to his grandmother, who taught him maxims he never understood until he matured. "She used to say, 'a bathtub stands on its own two legs,' or 'all that glitters isn't always gold.' Now, I know that means you've got to stand on your own two feet, and you've got to see the difference between what you're told and what you've got," said Rawls.
