

South Windsor Board Nixes Central Kitchen Plan

SOUTH WINDSOR - A proposal for a central kitchen for preparation of meals for the South Windsor schools was turned down by the Board of Education Wednesday night.

The proposal, presented by Robert Goldman, superintendent of schools, was to reduce prices by vendors, allow better supervision of food preparation and allow better maintenance on fewer pieces of equipment, Goldman said.

According to Goldman, food preparation could take place at Timothy Edwards School and meals prepared on a daily basis, using the same preparation techniques and procedures now in use. Only differences would be the large quantities of food prepared.

All canned goods would be opened and heated as necessary at the individual schools, and the "meat and potatoes" items would be transported.

Goldman told the Board of Education that the administration decided on the change following a series of meetings with the director of Food Services. He said the department had visited the communities of Windsor, Bloomfield, Newington and Westfield where the "satellite" food preparation programs were operating successfully.

Goldman said he was able to see that all of the districts were able to conduct their lunch programs in a more economical manner. He said the greater majority of districts in the state are either using the satellite or prepackaged lunch program.

Goldman said that no lunch would be frozen or commercially prepared, what we do now at each building," Goldman said.

Goldman said that bakers would be done at Eli Terry School.

Goldman said that savings would be expected because each elementary school now has four cafeteria workers, except for Ellsworth Junior High, which has three.

Goldman said the rejected arrangement would have reduced the number of employees to three for the elementary schools and two for Ellsworth, thus reducing the total hours from 30 per day to 10.5 per day.

Goldman said that at Timothy Edwards, the number of employees would be reduced by one - from 12 to 11, but increase the total number of hours that the eleven would work from 54 to 59 hours. He said that the dishwashing force at Timothy Edwards would be decreased, but the cooking hours would increase.

Goldman said that the program would not have included the high school, where all cooking and serving would remain the same. He said, however, that the dishwashing crew at the high school would also be reduced. He said that disposable plates and flatware would be used at the high school.

Goldman said that in order to put the program into operation it would be necessary to buy some new equipment, although they would be one-time purchase items.

Proposed was the purchase of large steam vat for Timothy Edwards, $10,000; refitting the walk-in freezer at Eli Terry, $5,000; two convection ovens, $4,600; two refrigerators, $2,600; portable food racks, $1,000; portable food warmers, $2,500; and preparation table, $1,000 - amounting to a total initial cost of $26,700.

New continuing costs would be truck lease and insurance, $4,000; gasoline, oil, $1,800 and driver's wages, $8,300.

Goldman said that during the second year of operation the director of food services salary could be removed from the budget, as well as the food services bookkeeper salary and cafeteria workers' fringe benefits.

In other matters, Goldman told the Board of Education that all ninth grade students, with the exception of special education students, would be given Education Evaluation and Remedial Assistance Tests.

Goldman said the students would be tested in four different sections including math, writing skills, reading and writing sample.

Boys Die in River As Rescue Try Fails

WILLMANTIC (UPI) - One young boy tried to save his friend from drowning in the Willmantic River, but both died when the ice under them collapsed.

Police divers Wednesday recovered the bodies of Ed Taylor and Michael Kolbek, both 9 and both of Willmantic.

The youngsters apparently ventured through a hole in a fence at a city park to reach the river and then threw rocks on the ice to test its strength. After that, they began wading across the river.

But police said one of them fell through the thin ice and the other was using planks to try to save his friend when the ice collapsed under him, too.

"From the planks, it looks like one used them to reach the other, edging the planks out further and further to reach him, until the ice under him broke, too," police chief John Hussey said.

The boys had disappeared Tuesday afternoon and their families initially searched for them before calling in police.

Searchers combing the town Wednesday found two blue mittens, a knit cap and a boot next to two holes in the ice on the river.

An hour later, divers recovered Kolbek's body. Taylor was found a few feet away after another hour of searching.

Both bodies were taken to Windham Community Memorial Hospital.

Democrats in Bolton Plan Phone Survey

BOLTON - A steering committee consisting of local Democratic Town Committee members has been established to conduct a telephone survey on issues and candidates relating to the upcoming presidential primary.

Committee members are John Morianos, Richard Vizard, Lee Stopplesworth, Marc Schardt and Ivi Cannon.

All registered Democrats in town will be called between now and March 15 for their opinions.

Ms. Cannon has been named Carter-Mondale campaign coordinator in Bolton.

Ms. Cannon said, "Of all the Democratic candidates for president, I support Carter and will work toward his election."

Influenza Outbreak Affects Bloodmobile

MANCHESTER - The flu outbreak that has kept so many persons confined took its toll on blood donations Tuesday. The Red Cross Bloodmobile collected only 85 pints.

The last previous visit, Jan. 30, resulted in a collection of 135 pints. That was the largest collection in many months.

But illness has plagued the collection down again. On Tuesday only 33 of the 110 who made appointments to give blood showed up. And only 40 donors walked in without appointments.

Gallon donors were Pamela Broderick, Christine Oriowski, Kathleen Roberts, and Sue McInerney. Joyce S. Young was a two-gallon donor and Majorie Field has donated five gallons.

The next Manchester visit for the Bloodmobile is March 25 at Emmanuel Lutheran Church, 60 Church St. from 12:30 p.m. to 5:30 p.m.

Tuesday's donors:

Appointments kept:

East Hartford Fire Guts Cafe

EAST HARTFORD - A two-alarm fire early today gutted the Ma-Ma-Mia's Restaurant on Burnside Avenue, fire officials said.

Officials said they don't know the source or origin of the fire. The fire gutted the restaurant dining and kitchen areas and caused smoke damage to business offices located behind the restaurant in the same building.

Fire officials said they received the first call on the fire at 3:51 a.m. Friday. The second alarm was signaled five minutes later. Firefighters were still at the restaurant this morning and the fire truck left the scene at 9:50 a.m., fire officials said.

The building is owned by Joseph Arcata Jr. of Westfield, Arcata, inspecting the damage today said he was awakened in his sleep by fire officials telling him about the fire. Arcata said he had owned the building since June.

Smoke damage to the Guglietta Cheese Co., located directly behind the restaurant, was evident in the ceiling and back door which led to a burn-out, pantry adjacent to the restaurant.

An employee of Guglietta Cheese said a retail store was planning to open in another part of the building later this month, but now she is doubtful it will open.

In another fire Thursday night, the offices attached to the East Hartford incinerator plant in Ecology Drive were gutted before firefighters put out the flames, fire officials said.

The first call for the fire was at 7:12 p.m. The fire caused extensive damage to the plant, but no one was injured, officials said.

Firefighters were also called at 4:39 p.m. to pour water on a gas leak from the Texaco fuel farm on Riverside Drive.

The commission received enough wood to build 15 birdhouses. The purpose is to provide more homes for the bluebirds, and combat their population decline.

The catch is, before giving the houses away, the commission must find someone to construct them. The Conservation Commission, and others like it statewide, are concerned about the rapidly dwindling numbers of the Connecticut Bluebird. As part of a state Department of Environmental Protection program,

Students Learn Blacks' Contributions to U.S.

By LAUREN DAVIS SHEA

MANCHESTER - Local schools are celebrating Black History Month with speakers, art work, and study in an effort to appreciate the contributions blacks have made to American society.

At Manchester High School, members of the Rainbow Club sponsored a lecture by the Rev. Albin Johnson of Bethel African Methodist Episcopal Church in Hartford.

The school's Round Table singers performed Negro spirituals, among them the Negro National Anthem. Dr. Walter D. Dean, director of the school's Title VI program, explained the song, "Lift Every Voice in Song."

In 1920, Carter G. Woodson met with black leaders to try to make known to the general public the realm of black dedication that isn't in the history books. The participants were surprised at the number of people who were interested," Dean said. He said the group looked for a hymn that would express what black people had experienced in their life and in their history. He said the hymn also expressed "the kinds of things blacks are looking for in the future."

Melissa Spiel, chairperson of the Rainbow Club, characterized the assembly as the group's first major effort to promote intercultural understanding.

"If we learn about people's cultures, maybe we can understand people better, and understand their politics. If we know where people are politically, we might possibly be able to prevent war. We could break down the barriers and thus break down problems," Ms. Spiel said.

Elementary schools are also participating in the special week. Sixth grade students from Bowers attended the high school program. Their principal, Ray Gardner, said brief biographical sketches of famous black Americans are being read over the loudspeaker as part of the morning exercises.

At Buckley School, Principal Ed Timbrell said Gov. Ella Grasso has named this American History Month and the Association for Study of Afro American Life and History designated this Afro American History Month, characterized by this week is particularly being recognized, with posters and displays of famous Americans being examined in Timbrell's classroom.

Allen, founder of the African Methodist Episcopal Church, and Lt. Gen. Benjamin O. Davis Jr., as lesser known black Americans whose contributions are being studied.

High school students are studying the contributions of people from all races as they apply to civility.

A woman who studied for the north during the civil war and was a leader in the Underground Railroad, Sojourner Truth, is being studied along with politicians such as John and Robert Kennedy and Lyndon Johnson for their work in civil rights.

Board Rules Conflict Exists For Mrs. Sadloski

By CHARLIE MAYNARD
Herald Reporter

MANCHESTER - Looking to avoid what they consider even an appearance of impropriety, the Ethics Commission Thursday unanimously voted that there would be a conflict of interest if Eighth Utilities District Tax Collector Betty Sadoski retained her seat on the Board of Tax Review.

The commissioners said any officer from the district would create a semblance of conflict in the minds of the public. At several points during the discussion, different commissioners emphasized that they were considering the position and not Mrs. Sadoski.

In introducing the motion which acknowledged the conflict, Commissioner Terry Capshaw said, "I would think this could open the door to complaints from citizens or more tax complaints than we already have. From where I'm sitting right here, I would make a motion that a potential conflict situation should be avoided."

Chairman William FitzGerald

restated the motion to read that "a tax collector in the Eighth Utilities District should not sit on the Board of Tax Review because of at least an appearance of impropriety."

FitzGerald said confidence in government has reached a crisis situation across the country and he said it was important to Manchester citizens that the local government provided safeguards against possible conflicts.

"A situation like this," said Capshaw, "even though on its face is probably innocent, I think we would have to avoid the semblance of any kind of conflicting situation."

Commissioner Sol Cohen said a similar position was in 1940 when then Town Manager George Wadsworth ordered an Eighth District officer to resign his position before accepting a full-time position with the town.

However, after the meeting Mrs. Sadoski said she believed there was pressure to get her off the Board of Tax Review because of her outspoken advocacy for fair taxes.

"No matter what they say, I still believe it's me and not the position," she said.

She first hinted at such an arrangement during discussion of the matter with commissioners. Because she is president of the Manchester Property Owners Association, she said, denial of the appointment "might be one way of keeping me off the Board of Tax Review."

She said she has frequently criticized what she considers are tax breaks to the top taxpayers and said this might be more reason to keep her off the board.

Mrs. Sadoski has been the tax collector for the last two years in the Eighth District. She receives $3,500 for the elected position.

The Board of Tax Review hears appeals to assessments levied by the assessor. Town Manager Robert Weiss, in a letter to the commission, said it has more cases to hear during revaluation years than normally. He said the members receive about $500 a year during revaluation and $200 a year other times.

Mrs. Sadoski steadfastly denied any conflict because "collecting taxes has nothing to do with assessing them."

She said the situation was similar to the question of realtors serving on the Board of Directors and voting on housing matters. In one of the commission's first decisions, it ruled that there would be no conflict in such a situation.

I-86 Foes Plan Suit

MANCHESTER - Opponents of an expanded Interstate 86 will file suit in U.S. District Court in Hartford to block the proposed widening.

Anthony F. Pagano said this morning.

Pagano said he planned to file the suit this afternoon on behalf of the Manchester Environmental Coalition. The suit charges that an "indirect source permit" was improperly granted to the $80 million project and asks for an injunction to halt the expansion.

Before the Department of Transportation can construct or widen highways, Pagano said, it must obtain the permit and show that the construction activity will not interfere with air quality standards.

Pagano said the suit was filed in federal court because regulations under the Federal Clean Air Act were violated by the state in 1982.

However, he said, state Environmental Protection Commission Commissioner Stanley J. Pac granted the permit because the air pollution would be cleared up a year later when construction begins.

Pac, Transportation Commissioner Registrar's Office.

Manchester residents can register 9 a.m. to noon in the Registrar's Office of the Municipal Building. Another session will be Tuesday from 5 p.m. to 8 p.m. in the

The Almanac

By United Press International
Today is Friday, Feb. 15, the 46th day of 1980 with 320 to follow.
The moon is approaching 11th phase.
The morning stars are Mars, Jupiter and Saturn.
The evening stars are Mercury and Venus.
Those born on this date are under the sign of Aquarius.
Susan B. Anthony, American pioneer fighter for women's rights, was born Feb. 15, 1820.
On this date in history:
In 1896, the U.S. battleship "Maine" exploded in Havana harbor, killing 260 crewmen and leading to a U.S. declaration of war against Spain.
In 1933, President-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt narrowly escaped assassination in Miami, Fla., when a fanatic fired several bullets at him and fatally wounded Chicago Mayor Anton Cegnick instead.
In 1972, Attorney General John Mitchell resigned to direct President Richard Nixon's reelection campaign.
In 1973, the United States and Cuba signed an agreement calling for a crackdown on airplane hijackers.

A thought for the day: In his first inaugural address in Depression-plagued 1933, President Franklin D. Roosevelt told the nation, "The only thing we have to fear is fear itself."

Buckley Seeks Debate

SHARON (UPI) — Republican James Buckley has renewed his efforts to convince Democrat Chris Dodd to debate him at Yale University.
Dodd has said he won't debate the former New York Senator unless he wins the GOP nomination in Connecticut. Buckley is opposed by House Minority Leader Richard Bozelo for his party's nomination, while Dodd is unopposed in his party.
Buckley sent Dodd a letter Thursday — his second in two weeks. He said he had not received a formal reply to his first message.
"Please accord me the favor of a reply," he wrote. "A positive reply would be, I believe, beneficial to the people of Connecticut."

New Haven Wants Better Port

NEW HAVEN (UPI) — The Greater New Haven Chamber of Commerce says it supports a plan to deepen the city's harbor to 42 feet so larger oil tankers can use the port.

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers wants to increase the depth from its present 35 feet.
"With tankers, barges and ships increasing in size, the harbor has to increase in depth in order to ensure the region's energy supply and economic health," Chamber spokesman Richard Maconi said Thursday.
New Haven is the region's second busiest port, after Boston.
Maconi said the New Haven area already pays high prices for oil and "unless we adapt the harbor to the tankers carrying the product, our prices will go higher still."
He said deepening the harbor was "crucial to the energy future of the greater New Haven area and the state."

Stamford Housing Checked

STAMFORD (UPI) — A special congressional task force will conduct an on-site hearing in Stamford later this month to probe the shortage of available rental housing.

Rep. Stewart McKinney, R-Conn., said the task force will meet in Stamford on Feb. 25 in the second of its hearings nationwide.
He said an earlier federal report found available rental units were a "nationwide crisis."
McKinney said "the situation in Stamford clearly dramatizes the report's findings."

Ballot Drawing Next Week

HARTFORD (UPI) — Secretary of the State Barbara Kennedy will draw lots next week to determine the order of candidates on the ballots for Connecticut's first-ever presidential primary.
Mrs. Kennedy said Thursday she has extended the deadline for withdrawing from the ballot to Feb. 19, since the statutory Feb. 18 deadline is a holiday.
She said she will conduct the drawing after the deadline passes at 4 p.m. Feb. 19.

Cash's 25th

Johnny Cash celebrated his 25th anniversary in show business Wednesday at his palatial Hendersonville, Tenn., home and about 200 old friends turned out to help him mark the day.
Said he of his guest list, "I'm a little bit starry-eyed with all these great people around me. There's some fine talent and some wonderful old friends here from the last 25 years."
Some like Ferlin Huskey and Faron Young go all the way back to the beginning with me. I'm not quite understand superstar yet. I just like to sing my songs, perform, and record."
But the centerpiece for the banquet fascinated him most of all. It was a 28-inch high bust of himself — carved from white lar.

Bearing Stardom

Ursula Botcher — who's only 5 feet tall — romps twice a day in a cage full of polar bears ranging in weight from 800 to 1,400 pounds. She makes them dance to pyramids and jump through flaming hoops.
It's all in a potentially deadly day's work for the first lady of Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus animal trainer Ursula Botcher who works at New York's Madison Square Garden from March 26 until June 1.
She's raised the burly beasts from cubhood, but she has no illusions — says "You must always be alert and never look away — even for an instant. There is no way to stop a bear once he attacks... At least she's got the right name for the act. 'Ursula' means 'shebear' in Latin.

Stars as 'Wolves'

Gregory Peck has just finished costarring with David Niven and Trevor Howard in "The Sea Wolves"... Kurt Vonnegut and wife Jill Krenzenetz were at New York's Bolshoi night club Wednesday to catch the act of David Little who was featured in "God Bless You, Mr. Rosewater" — the film based on the Vonnegut novel. Alan Arkin — filming "Proper Channels" finished in Toronto — is in London, taping a segment for CBS-TV's "Muppet Show"... James Brolin is in Paris, attending the European premiere of "The Amityville Horror" in which he costars with Margot Kidder and Rod Steiger... Grand Ol' Opry's Minnie Pearl goes to Hollywood next week to tape an all-country-western celebrity panel for "Hollywood Squares"....

Cupid's Capers

Roses may be red and violets blue, but when it comes to Valentine's Day, there's no telling what people will do.
In Washington, Betsy Carlson, 26, decided to take out an ad in the Washington Post's special Valentine Day section to tell Sen. Larry Pressler, R-S.D., she thinks he's cute.
"To Senator P. from S.D., must meet you before I leave DC," is the ad.
The message included work and home telephone numbers for "BC" and urged Pressler, a bachelor, to call. Pressler, who ran a short-lived presidential campaign, had his office respond and the two will meet for lunch.
"I think he's really cute," she said. "I've never seen him. I've just seen pictures of him in the paper and read articles about him."
The romance of the day convinced a lot of couples it was time to tie the knot.
Virgil Chapman and Margaret White flirted and dated as teen-agers in Troy, Ky. But they didn't get married until Thursday — 50 years after their courtship.
He is 78 and she is 75.
In the 50 years between their courtship and marriage, they had gone their separate ways — married and raised families. Both of their spouses had died.

Highway Deaths Set Record

WETHERSFIELD (UPI) — Connecticut set a grisly new record for traffic deaths in 1979, the state Motor Vehicle Department reports.
Motor Vehicles Commissioner Benjamin Muzio said Thursday the state had 574 highway deaths last year — a 24.4 percent increase over 461 fatalities in 1978 and the second highest jump among six New England states.
He said Vermont led the region with a 27 percent increase.
Muzio said higher numbers of traffic deaths were recorded in all but two categories — the number of motorcycle passengers and pedestrians killed.
"The spiraling highway fatalities in 1979 were of great concern to all of us involved in highway safety," he said.
He said his office has prepared a pamphlet aimed at reinforcing driver skills for motorists "who may not have looked at a driver's manual since they took a test anywhere from 10 to 50 years ago."

First Lady, Ted, in N.H.

CONCORD, N.H. (UPI) — First Lady Rosalynn Carter came to praise her husband while Sen. Edward Kennedy sought to bury him in criticism as the Democratic side of the New Hampshire primary heats up.
Kennedy and Mrs. Carter, campaigning on her husband's behalf, were scheduled for another full day of handshaking and speechmaking today — and the President's handling of international crises, especially Iran, was expected to dominate.
Thursday, Mrs. Carter said the president was working round-the-clock on Iran and hopefully something will break in the hostage situation and he can get out and campaign.
"We have some positive signs," she told audiences in Hudson and Concord. "But we have to guard against undue optimism."

Doral said Thursday night the party will go to federal court early next week to resolve the conflict. The party will be banking of a U.S. Supreme Court decision that states party rules an edge over state laws.
"What we're seeking is a court challenge," Doral said. "It has to be resolved so that the delegates won't pick later on."

California Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. also moved into New Hampshire's Democratic caucus, the citizens lobby, joined in a protest over a one-on-one debate between Bush and Reagan three days before the Feb. 26 primary.
Anderson and Kansas Sen. Robert Dole have both said all the GOP candidates should be included in the debate sponsored by Nashua Telegraph.

'Judges Deserve Raise'

HARTFORD (UPI) — A panel of state judges proposed a 15 percent salary increase for 1980, according to a study by the Connecticut Bar Association, the Connecticut Citizens for Judicial Modernization and the State Judiciary Department.
The study of 194 randomly selected lawyers over the age of 35 who have been in practice for at least 10 years showed their salaries were almost double the salary paid a first-year superior court judge and almost 50 percent higher than the maximum salary for a Superior Court judge.
The commission said salaries paid Connecticut judges also were low compared with the national average.
"In the opinion of the commission," the report said, "substantial increases are clearly necessary and warranted."

Release of Hostages Must Await Findings

By United Press International
Iranian Foreign Minister Sadegh Ghotbzadeh said today the American hostages in Tehran would not be released until a proposed commission to investigate the shah's regime has announced its findings.
Ghotbzadeh's statement, made in Rome, dealt a blow to hopes that release of the 50 to hostages was imminent. Iranian President Abolhasan Bani-Sadr had said they could be freed in 48 hours if certain conditions were met.
At an earlier news conference on Thursday, Ghotbzadeh also dampened speculation of an early release by saying that, although talks leading to release of the hostages could be completed in two days, it would almost certainly take more time before they were actually set free.
Today he went further after a meeting at the Vatican with Pope John Paul II. Ghotbzadeh said that release of the hostages would not be until the inquiry commission has announced its findings.
He said that the inquiry commission could be set up "within a few hours," and that U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim had discussed the names of commission members with him by telephone four one hour early today.
"Now we are only waiting for acceptance of the names," said Ghotbzadeh. "For us, the names do not matter. The important thing is that the commission be formed."
Ghotbzadeh described his talk with Casaroli as "satisfactory," saying, "We spoke of the Iranian revolution and the force of religion in the world."
"We may have to eat our words," said one aide.

Caution Urged By Carter

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With a possible compromise solution to the American hostage crisis under consideration, President Carter cautioned reporters against "an excess of optimism given the experience of the past several months, and natural tendency for reporting to get a little ahead of circumstances."
Powell also tried to discourage the press from "jumping to conclusions" about an imminent breakthrough in the 104-day hostage deadlock.
A White House news blackout on the developments in Iran heightened speculation the framework for a settlement has been reached, but the details have to be filled in.
There were strong indications part of the deal calls for establishment of a commission under United Nations sponsorship to air charges against deposed Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi with a firm commitment from the Iranian government to release the hostages after the inquiry is under way.
The United States' position in the past has been the hostages have to be freed before an inquiry can begin into alleged "crimes" of the shah or the United States.
"We may have to eat our words," said one aide.

Mayor Won't Negotiate With Striking Firemen

CHICAGO (UPI) — Mayor Jane Byrne has refused to negotiate with firefighters, whom she called "law-breakers," in the second day of the first strike ever by the city's firefighters.
"No major fires were reported by department officers who were staffing firehouses.
"We'll be all right as long as there are no fires," said Battalion Chief James J. Higgins.
Mrs. Byrne, who backed away from initial threats to fire strikers, said she would return to Cook County Circuit Court today and seek a preliminary injunction — and possibly contempt citations — against the firefighters, who ignored an earlier temporary restraining order.
"They're lawbreakers, and I won't have anyone sitting down with them," said the mayor, explaining the absence of negotiations.
Members of Fire Fighters Union Local 2, which struck early Thursday on its demands for a written contract, higher pay and increased manpower, said only 350 of the department's 4,300 firemen worked today.
The rest of the firefighting force was comprised of department officers and recruits as well as draftees from other city departments who were placed on 24-hour alert during the walkout.
Fire Chief Richard Albrecht Thursday night ordered all firefighters to report to work or face "disciplinary action including discharge."

Accord on IOH Pool May Be Signed Soon

MANCHESTER (UPI) — Within a month, an agreement between the Instructors of the Handicapped Inc. and the Board of Education concerning construction of a swimming pool will probably be signed.
Leonard Seader, chairman of the board's Building and Sites Committee said today. "From the standpoint of the Board of Education, I'm not aware of any reason it couldn't be accomplished."
Seader said he would ask that an agenda item for the board's Feb. 25 meeting be a review of the agreement that was originally drafted in 1978.
Within the next two weeks, an update of the agreement would be typed, and distributed. Seader said the updated version would probably be signed at the March 10 board meeting.
At Monday's board meeting, Richard Conti of the instructor's group asked that the agreement be signed because it would ease their fundraising task. The group has raised $100,000 for the pool. The board's cost is estimated at $200,000.
The board would not pay for any of the construction costs but is being asked to provide maintenance services. Conti said the organization has been considering approaching organizations such as United Technologies Corp. and the Hartford Foundation for Public Giving to offset the balance of the construction costs. He said having a signed contract with the school board, "could only be used to better our position" in getting outside funds.
Before the board would agree to sign, Seader had asked that the Citizens Advisory Committee on the Renovation Plans for Manchester High School be consulted. The committee met Thursday night to be sure the pool design by the instructor's group wouldn't conflict with, or duplicate, planned improvements at the high school.
The school's plans call for installing two small elevators and ramps to the gymnasium areas from the pool. By contrast, the instructor's pool would have a ramped entrance into the building and wouldn't have elevators.
Another difference between the two pools would be water temperature. The instructor's plans call for keeping the pool at a higher temperature than that at the high school pool. Wilfred Dion, school building and grounds director, said it might cost the school system more if the high school pool were heated up each week to meet the instructor's desired pool temperature.
The instructor's group teaches mainly handicapped children to swim. The planned facility is near the high school's swimming area, which is where the organization now conducts its weekly swim classes.

Conservation Unit Opposes School Sale

MARY KITT RAZZANO
Herald Reporter
MANCHESTER (UPI) — The Conservation Commission voted last night to oppose the sale of Buckland School.
The commission cited concern over losing the recreational space that surrounds the school, and suggested using the school for another purpose.
The commission's vote agreed with the presentation of three Tolland Turnpike residents, Ron Books, 853 Tolland Turnpike, and Charles and Ruth Glode, 1603 Tolland Turnpike.
The residents, and Richard Hayes, area developer who proposes to purchase the school, were invited to the meeting. Instead of a personal presentation, Hayes sent the commission a letter which was read last night.
The letter stated Hayes intended the Hayes Corporation for the 2.5 acre ballpark was needed for "completion of development" Hayes said he would provide a comparable area.
It has been reported that Hayes privately told town officials that he plans a major shopping center in the area behind Buckland School. He would then use the school as access to the other parcels.
This speculation was taken into account in the commission's vote. "We need the open land in the area," Ernest Turcek, commission member said. "There's other access to the area behind the school if he's interested."
The commission became interested in the proposed sale because of the possible loss of open space. Another town commission, the Planning and Zoning Commission, has already endorsed the sale.
The Conservation Commission is an advisory to the Board of Directors. A board subcommittee is considering the sale.
At two board meetings, the three residents expressed their opposition. They say the school's ballpark is the area's only open space, and any development will damage the environment.
The school is presently rented by Messiah Lutheran Church, for $4,500 a year. The lease expires in June.
In other action the commission voted to recommend a proposal to construct a dike around the town's sanitary landfill site.
Expansion of the site is expected by summer, and Dr. Douglas Smith, commission member, and also present on the Hooksett Linear Park Committee, said the landfill actively comes within 30 feet of the river.
The dike would provide a buffer between the planned walkway and the landfill.
Fuss and O'Neill, a Manchester engineering firm, is presently preparing plans for landfill expansion.
The proposed dike should be included in the plans to avoid unnecessary delays in obtaining permits. Smith told the commission.
Expansion of the landfill site requires reclaiming the Hooksett River, and filling its present course. The expansion has been in discussion for many years, according to Smith.

Americans — and especially families of 50 Yanks held hostage in Iran since Nov. 4 — have hoped and prayed for more than 100 days for release of the captives. News accounts in recent days have raised new hopes of "imminent breakthroughs" but there were still political barriers as this was written.

But in an interview published Monday in Le Monde, a Paris newspaper, Bani-Sadr attacked conditions that threw into question his comment that the hostages might be released "in the shortest possible time, perhaps even in the coming days."

MANCHESTER — Town department directors propose no marked change in staffing or services for next year's budget. But the figures show a sharp spending increase.

The public works administration budget wants a 19.5 percent increase, or $418,223 more than last year. Included in the request is creating a Clerk II position, and eliminating a higher paid administrative assistant job.

Business Investment In Our State

By Sen. Marella Fahey (D-3rd)
At a recent conference on Connecticut's economic future, the role of the state legislature in fostering capital investment and industrial development in Connecticut was discussed. This is an important topic, because Connecticut faces strong competition, not only in encouraging new industries to come to the state but also encouraging existing industries to remain and expand here.

Field Support
ANDOVER — The Andover Republican Town Committee has voted to support Searle Field in his bid for nomination to run for U. S. Representative from the 2nd Congressional District.

Public Hearing
HEBRON — The Board of Finance will conduct a public hearing Feb. 27 at 7:30 p.m. in the Town Office Building to discuss possible uses of an estimated $44,000 in Federal Revenue Sharing Funds the town expects to receive in the 1980-81 fiscal year.

Theater Owners Name Menschell

By ALLEN M. WIDEM

The recent election of Manchester's Bernard (Bernie) Menschell to director-at-large of the prestigious National Association of Theater Owners, the trade organization of motion picture owners across America, is the latest industry acknowledgment of the Menschell expertise in film trade practices, precedents and principles.

With his brother Sy and his son Steve, Bernie Menschell operates theaters in the Manchester-Hartford area, among them the Vernon Cines I and II; the Manchester Drive-In (at Bolton Notch); the Pike Drive-In (in Newington); the Berlin Cines I and II; and the Paris Cines I and II.

He is past president of the NATO regional affiliate, the Connecticut Association of Theater Owners, and has addressed Connecticut state legislative committee hearings on the need for lawmakers to better comprehend the well-intentioned modus operandi of motion picture theater owners, in Manchester and elsewhere across Connecticut.

A long time CATO colleague, one Robert C. Spodick (with partner Leonard Sampson operating a string of cinemas including the Lincoln and the York Square Cines in New Haven), has been heard to tell a legislative committee that for every theater marquee on a Connecticut Main Street, there is enormous spin-off business advantages for every Connecticut Main Street. The Menschell assertions have emphasized this as well.

Yet, showman — and gentleman — that he is, Bernie Menschell of Manchester is not one to sound his horn. It takes columnar commentary such as this to cite chapter-and-verse over what he has meant to the motion picture industry, in Connecticut and nationally.

For one thing, Menschell, who got his training in the theater management ranks in New York with none less than the Skouras Brothers. Mention the name Skouras in New York, in Los Angeles, in St. Louis, and high praise indeed can be heard. The late Spyros Skouras was board chairman in later years of 20th Century-Fox Film Corp. Brothers Charlie and George opted to stay in the theater business. Menschell learned the how, the why, the wherefore, of cinema concepts, top-drawer, first-class. He speaks from experience and speaks from a lifelong fondness for the appealing business of motion picture exhibition in these United States.

For another, when he and then-associate John Calvocoressi moved into downtown Hartford theater operations back in the 1950s (this was before Vernon, before Berlin), they demonstrated to the Hartford community of theater men that New York expertise can indeed be adapted to smaller cities, adapted with a fine flourish. They showed motion pictures at the New Parsons Theater, at the former Daily Theater (where shoot-'em-up Westerns were a staple seven days and seven nights), in the process demonstrating the tenets of showmanship on a scale that made downtown Hartford theater men sit up and take notice.

If this paragraph could gauge Connecticut's exhibition's respect for the talent of Bernie Menschell, chances are CATO probably would have continued the determination about getting motion picture theaters and theater people to be seen in the best possible public light.

Through the years this paragraph served as amusement editor of the lamented Hartford Times, we never heard anyone in the film business in Connecticut — or anywhere else, for that matter — speak as articulately and as well as Bernie Menschell. No greater tribute can be reported. Now the national group of theater owners has rightfully taken heed of the Manchester man, soft-spoken, drawing on his cigar, talking with determination about getting motion picture theaters and theater people to be seen in the best possible public light.

The Harvard-Radcliffe Collegium Musicum will perform Sunday at 11 a.m. at St. Mary's Church in Manchester.

Collegium Musicum To Perform

MANCHESTER — St. Mary's Church will host a performance of the Harvard-Radcliffe Collegium Musicum on Sunday at 11 a.m.

The concert will be preceded by a short service of morning prayer.

The Collegium Musicum is a select choral group of students from the university. In addition to giving concerts within the Harvard-Radcliffe community, the group regularly collaborates with professional musicians in the Boston area.

Since 1971 it has performed a variety of major works with the Boston Symphony Orchestra, the Boston Ballet, the Buffalo Philharmonic, and has performed in the Washington National Cathedral.

In 1976 the group toured major capitals of Europe singing American and European classical music in celebration of the bicentennial.

Sunday's appearance in Manchester will be part of the mid-winter New England tour which includes performances at Wesleyan University and Choate School.

The program will include such numbers as "Terra Tremuit," by William Byrd, "Die mit tranen saen," and "Cantate Domino," by Heinrich Schütz, three chorales from the "Christmas Oratorio," by Bach and several others.

The public is invited to attend the concert. There is no admission charge.

Annie Get Your Gun

Betty Lundberg To Head LTM Cast

MANCHESTER — Betty Lundberg will head the cast of the Little Theatre of Manchester production of Tennessee Williams' "The Glass Menagerie" which will be presented Friday and Saturday, Feb. 22, 23, 29 and March 1, at East Catholic High School Auditorium.

Mrs. Lundberg, who is currently serving LTM's president, has been an active member of the theater for 20 years. She has been seen in such productions as "The Subject Was Roses," "Androcles and the Lion," "Never Too Late" and in last season's musical "Bells Are Ringing." In addition she can often be found backstage working as a stage manager.

In the role of Laura, Diane MacDonald makes her second appearance for the theater. A winner of the 1977 LTM theater scholarship at Manchester Community College, she has also been seen in LTM's production of "Tartuffe." She is currently studying theater with Clay Stevenson at the Hartford Stage Company and at the Herbert Berghof Studio in New York.

Mark Nelson will play the role of Tom, Laura's brother. This will be Nelson's first appearance for the Little Theatre. He previously played the role of Iago in the University of Hartford's production of "Othello." He is studying for a degree in public administration at the University of Hartford and is working for the Community Crime Prevention Program in Hartford as a victim advocate.

The final role in the play will be played by Harry Sanford. He has played a variety of roles in such productions as "Divide and Conquer," "Wait Until Dark," "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest" and "The Crucible." Most recently he was the technical director for the Protean Theatre's production of "The Baseball Game."

"The Glass Menagerie" is the first of three plays in the Little Theatre's 20th anniversary season. In May the theater will present the first area production of Neil Simon's comedy hit "California Suite." In November "George M!," the musical of the life of George M. Cohan, will be produced.

Tickets for "The Glass Menagerie" can be obtained by calling Vincent Liscomb, 215

Henry St., Manchester, 647-9286. Special rates are available for students, senior citizens and groups of twenty or more. Season subscriptions can be purchased by contacting Karen Hjalmoer, 540 Wetherell St., Manchester, 646-4972. Subscribers receive two tickets to each of the three productions.

Dana To Speak Feb. 21

HARTFORD — Richard Dana will be guest speaker at the Hartford Conservatory on Thursday, Feb. 21, at 12:30 p.m. in the "Seminar in the Humanities" series directed by Martha Hogan.

Dana is director of theater, assistant director of the humanities division, and coordinator of the media associate program at Manchester Community College. He will discuss highlights of his long career in radio and television.

The Conservatory seminar will be held in the Music Room at 834 Asylum Ave. The event is open to the public without charge. For information phone 246-2588.

He was the husband of Marian (Carmen) Snow, who died Wednesday. He is survived by two sons, James W. Snow Jr. of South Windsor and Russell G. Snow of Simsbury; a brother, Frank Snow of Fort Meade, Fla.; four sisters, Mrs. Mae Dakers of Fort Meade, Fla.; Mrs. Edith Mather of Punta Gorda, Fla.; Mrs. Lillian Rooney of Windsor Locks; and Mrs. Mabel Pelkey of Enfield; six grandchildren.

Funeral services will be Saturday, 11:30 a.m., at the Samuel-Bassinger Funeral Home, 419 Backland Road, South Windsor. Burial will be in Springdale Cemetery. Warehouse Point. Calling hours are today from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m. Memorial contributions may be made to St. John's Episcopal Church, Warehouse Point.

Pancake Breakfast

BOLTON — The Bolton High School senior class will have a pancake breakfast Sunday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at St. Maurice Church parish center.

The breakfast will consist of pancakes, sausage, coffee, milk, tea and orange juice.

Tickets will be sold at the door.

To Pay Respects

MANCHESTER — Mrs. Cecile Daugherty Isabella will meet tonight at 7:30 at the Newrick and Whitney Funeral Home, East Hartford, to pay respects to the late Cecelia Casavanti, who was a member.

Big Wall

The Great Pyramid of Khufu (Cheops) ca. 2500 B.C. was built on a square base with an area of 13 acres, or seven average-sized city blocks. The million tons of material used in the construction would, as Napoleon figured it in 1798, be enough to build a 10-foot wall around the whole of France.

Civil Rights Leaders Portrayed

Greg Morris, student at Manchester High School, painted portraits of leaders of the civil rights movement as part of his school's recognition of Black History Week. Back row, from left, include Rev. Martin Luther King, Jr. shaking hands with Dr. Ralph P. Bunch, John Kennedy; and Benjamin Franklin. The display also included Mohammed Ali, Mahatma Gandhi, Lyndon Johnson, Frederick Douglass, W.E.B. Dubois, Malcolm X, and Charles Drew. (Herald photo by Maynard)

E.H. School Bond Moves Forward

By PATRICK REILLY

Herald Reporter

EAST HARTFORD — The next step for a $4.5 million school bonding issue will be the Town Council which will consider it for referendum.

The Public Building Commission Thursday night received the final estimates from architects and engineers who have drawn up plans for the bonding issue that includes a $1 million athletic complex at East Hartford High School.

The price tag the architects set on the school projects is well above the $4.5 million estimated in the East Hartford Schools budget for 1980-81 released recently by Acting School Superintendent Sam J. Leone.

West Hartford Architect Mark Roming, who has done the preliminary plans for the athletic complex, warned the commission that action on the complex should begin this summer or sooner because of rising building materials costs.

"Building construction costs have fluctuated so widely lately we don't know how long our estimates are good for," Roming told the commission.

Public Building Commission Chairman Pasquale Salemi has urged the

Hazardous Wastes Studied By Manchester Officials

MANCHESTER — The town Health Department is studying the disposal of locally generated hazardous wastes, although they are leaving most of the task to the state and federal environmental agencies.

John Salcius, health department sanitarian, had told the town's Advisory Board of Health Jan. 31 that the local agency would look into the surveillance programs of the state Department of Environmental Protection and the federal Environmental Protection Agency.

Ronald Kraatz, assistant health director, said today his department plans to continue without any modification their program to "fill in the gaps."

Salcius had said the kind of information the local health agency can get from the industries, historical background like old dumps or how a chemical fire could be related to a dumping area.

Town officials are awaiting word from the state on what substances are now classified as hazardous. The department is also expecting state information about local industries. They plan to coordinate their efforts to monitor the wastes with other town departments.

Additional efforts to keep a handle on hazardous wastes include sending Salcius to seminars on disposal methods. The EPA is preparing to enforce a new regulation requiring industries to report how they dispose of their wastes.

Citizens Ponder Need To Repair Schools

By LAUREN DAVIS SHEA

Herald Reporter

MANCHESTER — The Citizens Advisory Committee on Renovation Plans for Manchester High School decided, "In Manchester, if you're going to build something, you better build it well, because you aren't going to get the money to repair it."

The comment was made by Howard Epstein, chairperson of the subcommittee studying the roof, mechanical systems, pool, and other related matters. Epstein said his committee is in agreement that the school should only receive partial state reimbursement for the insulation of a new roof, and no state funding for other construction incident to renovating a roof.

Dion said state reimbursement would cover 63 percent of the costs, if it was received. He said the proposal to her car when an unidentified male opened her car and exposed himself to her. Police said there was no contact, the woman immediately got into her car and drove away.

The man was described as a 20-year-old white male with brown curly hair and sitting in a blue car. The incident is under investigation.

Police Seek Flasher

MANCHESTER — Police reported the fourth case of indecent exposure this month.

According to police, the latest incident occurred Thursday morning in the parking lot of Mott's Shop Rite store on East Middle Turnpike.

Police said a woman was walking to her car when an unidentified male opened her car and exposed himself to her. Police said there was no contact, the woman immediately got into her car and drove away.

Flint Appointed

MANCHESTER — Anne Flint, recently hired as the president of the Greater Manchester Chamber of Commerce, has been appointed an ex-officio member of the Economic Development Commission.

Robert Weiss, town manager, announced the appointment yesterday. Ms. Flint, formerly of the Rockville Chamber of Commerce, succeeded James Breitenfeldt as chamber president. Breitenfeldt also served on the EDC ex-officio.

Robbery Try Thwarted

MANCHESTER — A would-be thief tried the hand-in-the-pocket trick to rob a robbery, but a store restaurateur didn't buy the trick, police said today.

The incident took place Tuesday at 2 p.m. at Luigi's Restaurant, 706 Hartford Road. Detective Capt. Joseph Brooks said.

Brooks said the owner was working in the place alone when a man made a minor purchase in the store and put his hand in his pocket as the owner opened the register.

Brooks said the suspect reportedly ordered the owner to hand over the money and he refused each time. Finally, the suspect left.

The suspect was described as white, 24-years-old, 5-feet-10 inches tall, weighing 170 pounds. He had brown medium frizzy hair, a thick mustache and wore a light brown suede jacket, with fur collar, a green shirt and dungarees.

Disappointing Start for U.S.A.

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (UPI) — The U.S. Olympic speed skating squad got off to a disappointing start Thursday in favorite Beth Heiden finished seventh behind Holland's Annie Borckink in the 1,500 meters, but today her big brother Eric could make up for any lapse in the Americans' performance when he goes after the gold medal in the 500-meter sprint.

Leah Poulos Mueller, silver medalist in the Innsbruck Olympics four years ago and current world sprint champion, could also bring home a gold medal in the women's 500 meters this morning, despite a tough East German speed skater, Sabine Becker of East Germany, who is not considered a "true" sprinter. But by sheer athletic ability, the Madison, Wis., pre-med student has propelled himself to the forefront of speed skating in all five men's events, ranging from the 500 to the 10,000 meters and has the ability to take home Olympic gold in each event.

Should he win five gold medals, he would become the first American athlete to win more than four since Mark Spitz took home seven golds from the 1972 Munich Games.

"I really don't think about winning five gold medals," said Heiden. "It's just a goal in this car and out the other."

His toughest competition in today's race could come from his own teammates. Dan Immerfall, bronze medalist in 1976 in the 500 and Tom Plant, who beat Heiden in West Allis, Wis., just last weekend in the same event.

The 500 is always the race I worry about because it's always so tight," said Eric.

His little sister, who is a year younger, said after Thursday's race that she wasn't disappointed or upset by her failure to win a medal. Actually, Beth wasn't the only highly regarded skater to finish off the boards — Soviet star Natalia Petrusheva, the current world all-around champion, was eighth and Canada's Sylvia Burka was 10th.

Heiden's teammate, Ria Visser, took the silver while another teammate, Sabine Becker of East Germany, won the bronze.

"I thought I'd be sixth," said Beth. "I never thought I would win but I got lucky I might be second or third."

Beth Heiden, also entered in today's 500 but not expected to win a gold, said she is feeling more confident now that she has a race under her belt.

"I don't know if I learned anything but it's always good to have a race behind you," she said. "I was surprised at the other girls — I didn't even think they'd be in the top 10."

Borckink's victory was the first in international competition for the 28-year-old nurse's aide — her previous best was a fourth in the worlds — and she said she was as surprised as today's winner.

"I'm surprised Heiden finished so far back," said Borckink, who almost did not make the Dutch Olympic team because of an ankle injury this past summer. "We all thought she would get a medal. I am also surprised I did so well."

Borckink's 2:10.95 — a personal best — was a Vissler's — was almost six seconds faster than the Olympic record set in Innsbruck in 1976 but far off the world mark of 2:07.18.

All the speed skaters were pleased with the new Olympic rink in Lake Placid and despite a steady snowfall, 19 skaters crossed the finish line in times better than the old Olympic mark.

Stock Justified Coaches' Move

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (UPI) — Leonard Stock forced Austria's coaches to place him on their Olympic downhill squad and he justified the decision by dominating the Winter Games' glamor Alpine event.

Stock, an alternate on the powerful team, blasted through the twisting upper third of the course and had easily maintained his speed through the straightaways to win the Olympic gold by 62 of a second over teammate Peter Wirnsberger, who clocked 1:46.12. Canada's Steve Podborski won the bronze in 1:46.62.

The race was only Stock's second downhill this season and the third win of his career. It was the first of his Olympic downhill runs, finishing in 1976 and Toni Sailer in 1966.

Knicks End Road Jinx

NEW YORK (UPI) — It was a long time coming, but the New York Knicks finally won a game in San Antonio.

Toby Knight and Bill Cartwright combined for 62 points Thursday night as New York edged the Spurs 124-124 for the Knicks' first win ever in the arena. Coach Red Holman, who has had too much to cheer about this season, felt like a celebration was in order.

"This is the first time we've ever won down here," Holman said. "I feel like I should go out and get a drink. We held in there toward the end, and we remained cool and tightened our defense. Our rebounds also made the difference. It feels very good if you win, you're happy."

Knight's 15-foot jumper with 1:50 remaining tied the game 122-122. Spurs guard George Gervin, who finished with 32 points, then missed a

CCIL Hoop Title On Line Tonight

By LEN AUSTER

The biggest game of the year will take place for Manchester High basketball tonight at Clarke Arena as the Indians host Windham High at 8 o'clock.

A victory by the Whippets, 15-2, would give them outright possession of the CCIL championship with a victory by the Silk Towners, 14-3, would assure them co-ownership of the league crown.

Windham took the first meeting in Willimantic, 72-61.

The other two local quintets, East Catholic and Cheney Tech, find themselves in road battles. The Eagles, 13-4, are at 8:30 Bloomfield High and Saturday night they travel to the Big Apple, New York City, to oppose Holy Cross High of Flushing, L.I. at Fordham University at 6 o'clock. It's the prelim to the Fordham-Rutgers tilt.

Holbrook 18 apiece and Len Blakes, 6-11 overall, visit 6-10, 7-11 Rocky Hill High in a conference tilt.

Elsewhere, 4-12, 4-14 Penney High visits Intertron, rival 3-14, 4-5 East Hartford High in a CCIL engagement. Also, 6-12 Glastonbury is at 3-15 Xavier High in Middletown, 16-2 South Windsor High hosts 6-10 Hartford Public and 7-11 Rockville enters 6-10 Bulkeley in non-conference clashes.

Brian Sweeney, Manchester Star.

Three OGC bouts pit 2-14, 3-14 Bolton at home against 3-13, 3-15 Vinal Tech, 4-12, 4-14 Rham High at 10-5, 12-5 Portland High and 12-4, 14-4 Coventry High at 12-4, 12-6 East Hampton High.

One key for Manchester will be its ability to control the tempo. "We have to try to slow them down," Tribe Coach Doug Pearson spoke of the Whippets. "They're a quick, fast-breaking team and we have to play good man-to-man defense and make them work for their shots."

"I should be a high-scoring game if we play well. They're a difficult team to keep down," added the Tribe mentor.

Manchester is coming off a 78-73 win over East Hartford in which it shot 29-for-47 (61.7 percent) from the floor.

Physically the Indians may not be up to full strength. Brian Sweeney says limited service Tuesday due to the flu and his status is doubtful on Monday support, especially from the starters, five missed Wednesday's practice.

Pearson is concerned with his club's health, and also its mental outlook. "We'll be ready but what I hope the most is we have a turnout. It would be embarrassing if Windham had more fans than us."

"I know the kids would appreciate more fan support, especially from the students. The lack of support the last month has been embarrassing. It would be a sad commentary if they

Talent Displayed In Show

BAILEY Auditorium was once again packed full of singers, dancers, jugglers, and musicians, all of whom were participating in the Variety Show sponsored by the Round Table Singers on February 6th. The troupe is raising funds to aid the costs for their trip to California in April.

The difficult task of hosting the show was hilariously mastered by Bob Lenhardt and John Gibault, both extremely known as MHS' masters of comedy through their impersonations of political, TV, and movie personalities.

Some highlights of the first act were the vocal sensations of "Sophomore Way": Martha Marteney, April Castagna, and Jennifer Joy sang "Send in the Clowns," "What I Did For Love," and "Scotch and Soda," respectively. These new talents are sure to not be unheard of in their next few years at MHS.

For those who liked to dance there were the Genevieve sisters, who did their routine with exact precision to "Dim All the Lights," a disco tune by Donna Summer.

This act was followed by a punk rock group, but all should be "Mutations." The groups' achieved good music entertainment while taking a well deserved satirical look at punk rock groups.

One of the better acts of the show got not only a blue ribbon, but the Silence award keeping the otherwise rowdy audience in awe. Benji Busha played the guitar while Scott Peron sang Neil Young's "After the Gold Rush." Few remained sitting after this superb mellow tune.

The show overall was a success with all the entertainers earning their appearance. There was obviously too much talent on stage to be listed here, but all should be thanked and congratulated for their efforts. If you missed this show, there should be another in the near future. Do not miss it! — Glenn Eagleson

Black History Month Marked By Assembly

How many of you know what month this is? Of course, everyone knows that it is February, but that is only partially correct. We are also right in the middle of Black History Month.

In order to honor this special month, the Rainbow Club of Manchester High School presented an assembly this past Monday which explained just what black history is. The Rainbow Club is relatively new to MHS and the majority of the student body is not yet very familiar with it. The club began as an offshoot of the Student Advisory Committee at MHS. It now holds a general body of about 50 students plus a seven member executive board. The club is funded by a government grant, which it received under Title VII.

The student chairperson is Melissa Sowell and the supervisor is Dr. Dean, who is also a part of the Title VII grant. The members of the Rainbow Club discuss common interests among people of different races, their objection being to work towards the betterment of cultural advancement.

Dr. Dean discussed the efforts made by both blacks and whites towards the recognition of blacks in our country. He also stated that one of the reasons that we do not hear or read a great deal about these efforts is that they are simply not publicized. Dr. Dean then mentioned one way in which MHS is helping to make these contributions of blacks and whites known.

Greg Morris, a senior at MHS, is painting a collection of great people who first helped to promote understanding and lessen the gap between people of different races. Dr. Dean invited all students to visit his office and view the paintings, which are now on display.

Students were then privileged to hear a speech by the Rev. Malcolm Johnson. The Rev. Mr. Johnson quickly kept everyone at ease with his casual manner, and by addressing questions to the audience. He said that the real nature of black history is "to make sure the truth is known." He felt we should spread the truth and let what really happened in the history of the blacks. "After all," he asked, "how would you like someone to spread lies behind your back?"

Thanks are to be given to all those mentioned above, and most of all, to Melissa Sowell, Dr. Dean, and the entire Rainbow Club. If you think you might be interested in finding out more about the Rainbow Club, drop in at one of their meetings. The club meets after school, on Wednesdays, room 247 — Susan Mackiewicz & Sherry Tuttle Gervin's backcourt mate James Silas, then missed a jumper and Knight rebounded and won the length of the floor, scoring 42 seconds left to clinch the win. Knight had 12 points and five rebounds in the fourth quarter, when New York outscored San Antonio 13-3. The three-year forward hit 16-of-21 field-goal attempts and finished with game-highs of 32 points and nine rebounds.

Spurs Coach Doug Moe said, "We were supposed to play aggressive defense, but we didn't do anything. We just stood around. I don't think anyone knew how much time was left. We didn't play that bad, but we can't manage to get a win. They knocked in every shot they took."

In other games, New Jersey routed Utah 137-96. Indiana topped Cleveland 118-114. Dallas led Denver with 47-48 Golden State 120-103, and

Bruins Content With Deadlock

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Boston Bruins really could have used a win in Buffalo Tuesday night, but under the circumstances, they'll take a tie.

It took Bob Miller's goal at 2:36 of the third period to give the Bruins a 3-3 tie with the Adams Division arch-rivals, the Sabres. The deadlock Boston, which has a game in hand, in second place, three points behind the Sabres.

"A tie is not bad in Buffalo," said Bruins Coach Fred Creighton, "but I thought we could have had a win. I think the chances were probably even. I thought we played a little better than they did."

"We didn't start the way we wanted to but I think we kept coming as the game went on."

The Sabres broke on top at 3:19 of the first period on Rick Seiling's shot from between the circles after Gil Perreault had face-off in the Boston end. It was Seiling's 19th goal of the year. Boston's Peter McNab tied it at 6:07 of the first period when he knocked in his 24th goal on a power play. Buffalo grabbed a 2-1 lead before the first period ended when Rick Martin broke in on Boston goalie Gilles Gilbert, taking him flat on his back and scored on a rebound. It was Martin's 51st goal of the year.

John Van Boxmeer also scored for Buffalo, and Jean Ratelle had the other Boston goal. For Ratelle, it was his 121st career point, tying the veteran center with Montreal's Jean Beliveau for seventh place on the all-time NHL scoring list.

In weighing the importance of the game, Sabres Assistant Coach Roger Neilson said, "We would have liked to have a win, but I guess they would have too. And Martin was on the bright side. At least we didn't lose any ground."

In other games, Philadelphia defeated Quebec 3-1. Montreal topped Quebec 5-1. The New York Islanders beat Colorado 5-3, and St. Louis got past Los Angeles 6-4.

Air Force Says Strength Cut in Half

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The ability of the United States to retaliate against a nuclear attack by the Soviet Union has been cut in half since the two years, according to a U.S. Air Force study.

The study has raised questions among the handful of congressmen who have been briefed, about the administration's claim the United States retains "essential equivalence" with the Russians.

Sources said Gen. Lew Allen, Air Force chief of staff, became concerned about the Soviet Union's continuing buildup about 15 months ago, and ordered a thorough review of America's ability to retaliate following a Soviet preemptive strike on the United States.

employees joined in the celebration as they have for the past seven years. Currently, Mrs. Stevenson is convalescing from a fall at the Rockville Memorial Nursing Home but hopes to be home soon. She has one son, Norman, and two grandchildren. (Adams photo)

Neighbor Fights Plan To Build in Coventry

COVENTRY — Retired attorney James Shea has been fighting a proposed development known as Coventry Woods, Section II, near his property, for almost three years. He fears the eight-lot subdivision proposed by David Kotkin on property at Carpenter Road and Broadway will lead to water runoff on his land.

Vernon Police Say Burglary Ring Crushed

VERNON — With the arrest of five adults and two juveniles within the past few days, Vernon Police say they have cleared up 12 major residential burglaries in which goods valued in excess of $40,000 were taken.

Police said the bulk of the stolen property, which consisted mainly of precious metal items such as gold and silver coins, silverware and silver services, jewelry and watches, was allegedly sold to Alfred R. Vitale, 52, of 1 Bruce St., Vernon, operator of the Home Improvement Center on Route 33.

Richard Benning IV, 18, of 103 Jonathan Drive, Vernon, was charged with two counts of second-degree burglary, seven counts of third-degree burglary, four counts of first-degree larceny, two counts of second-degree larceny, and four counts of third-degree larceny.

Ernest Rehmer, 17, of 21 Hilltop Avenue, Vernon, was charged with one count of third-degree conspiracy to commit burglary and first-degree

School Superintendent Back on Job after Surgery

Superintendent of Schools James Kennedy recover from surgery. (Herald photo by Shea)

By LAUREN DAVIS SHEA
Herald Reporter

MANCHESTER — Superintendent of Schools James Kennedy "is all read out" after a month of recuperating from surgery and is ready to get back to work.

Kennedy's operation Jan. 8 to by-pass an artery blockage in his left leg was supposed to require a recuperation period of eight weeks. After five weeks the school superintendent was back at his desk Wednesday, hard at work on his annual budget presentation.

Before entering the hospital, Kennedy had climbed out of his sickbed to complete his budget message to the Board of Education. During his illness, that board reviewed the budget, and accepted it without recommending any cuts.

As the next stage in the budget's slow progress, the Board of Education, the administrators, the general manager, and the Board of Directors will meet Feb. 26. On his first several hours back at his office, Kennedy was working on a presentation to this group.

Kennedy said he would try to work half days for the remainder of this week, and put in several hours during the school vacation set for next week.

"Wednesday, I'll try for almost a full day, and see how my leg holds up," Kennedy said. He said his doctor is keeping him on a tight rein, only allowing him to work "if I promise to keep my foot up, and not overdo it."

After reading several volumes, Kennedy was having a hard time holding himself back from getting into the swing of things again. "I have missed working! Yes, yes, yes, particularly as I started to feel better," he said emphatically.

He said the thought of being out of commission for eight weeks had "given great expectations" that he'd get a lot of reading done but after only five weeks of a life of leisure "I'm about read out."

Kennedy recommended Tom Woolf's book, The Right Stuff, which is a story of the Mercury astronauts. He considered The Brethren, by Bob Woodward and Scott Armstrong, "good, but labored in spots."

Notiction is his true literary love, Kennedy tackled parts of Henry Kissinger's book, along with educational tracts, several truly appropriate examples of bedside reading.

Kennedy's reading was broken up by the walks his recovery program mandated. "The doctor told me to walk as much as I could. I got it up to three miles a day."

The illness has increased Kennedy's compassion for the handicapped, as he spoke of never realizing how often a certain part of the budget is used, until the use of that part is denied, or is painful.

While an illness can make one appreciative of health, laying in bed often prompts people to resort to the pleasures available, such as eating and smoking.

Having quit smoking after years of partaking in the vice, Kennedy said he was worried his illness would provoke a relapse. He said he hadn't given in, although.

MVD Drops Car-Theft Probe

HARTFORD (UPI) — The state Motor Vehicles Department has been forced to drop investigations of stolen car operations because of manpower shortages, an inspector says.

MVD Inspector Patrick Balisano, told the Legislature's Transportation Committee Thursday that his "superiors" have told him many times to "drop very heavy cases" because "we don't have the manpower to stand on a case for six weeks."

He said his superiors decide which stolen car conviction cases will be pursued.

Balisano said he only knew of one auto scrap yard dealer in five years whose license has been revoked and added that although he's the only inspector assigned to checking junkyards, he has only visited five of the 163 in Connecticut in the past five years.

Stolen car rings often buy junk cars from scrap dealers to obtain vehicle identification numbers for stolen cars. Authorities also say there are a number of "chop shops" where stolen cars are disassembled and sold for parts.

"I'm one man with perhaps 500 illegal operations in the state," said Balisano. "I can't put priority on any particular case."

Three police officers, in sworn testimony before the committee, said they had to end a year-long investigation against an unidentified auto junk dealer in 1978 because the MVD suddenly stopped cooperating in the probe.

The committee subpoenaed Balisano, the officers and Assistant State's Attorney Thomas Miano to find out why the junk dealer, eventually arrested and convicted of possession of stolen autos, was still doing business.

Miano testified that last year 16,681 vehicles were reported stolen in Connecticut. He said about 83 percent were recovered, but many have been stripped of valuable parts.

Hartford Police Sgt. Leo LePage said when the case began in 1977 all went well. But, he said, "Suddenly, the Motor Vehicles Department inspectors were pulled without any explanation."

"I could not find out why it was frustrating," said LePage, who said he finally went to MVD Commissioner Benjamin Muzio. "He said he would look into it but I never heard from anyone. I never got an answer."

"Connecticut is a wide open state," LePage said. "Sitting between Massachusetts and New York you've got some sharp operators. The bad guy should not have the edge but he does."

Police Detective James Gates told the committee an MVD officer in Wethersfield told him for two straight days in January 1978 he was "too busy" to discuss obtaining arrest warrants in the case.

Police Detective Fred Morhardt told the lawmakers, "We had complete cooperation at the beginning and then it just stopped."

Miano said he was "not here to cast any aspersions." But he told the committee he was dismayed the unidentified junk dealer, although convicted of a felony and in apparent violation of MVD regulations, was still in business. He said the MVD failed to respond to his letters on the matter for nine months.

The oversight hearings being conducted by co-chairman Rep. Tom Serrano, D-Stamford, have brought sharp rebuke from Muzio, who has labeled them a "witch hunt." Muzio angrily told reporters last week he wouldn't testify before the committee again unless he was forced to.

Ryan To Be Acting Chief

SOUTH WINDSOR — Acting Town Manager Charles Enes has given legal clearance for the appointment of Assistant Chief of Police William R. Ryan, as chief when Chief John Kerrigan retires March 21.

John Woodcock, town attorney, said Enes can legally appoint the new chief from within the ranks of the department, without advertising the position.

He said, "When a vacancy occurs, the town manager can decide if the vacancy can be perceived as a promotional opportunity."

Chief Kerrigan announced, about a week ago, that he was planning to retire on his 65th birthday. He was the town's first full-time chief and has held that position for 11 years. He came from the Hartford Police Department where he served as chief and had been with that department for some 29 years.

Ryan, 31, has been with the South Windsor Department for 17 years and was promoted from captain to assistant chief last July.

Mayor Edward Havens said this week that he believes Ryan has the support of the townspeople and "most would like to see Bill Ryan appointed to the $24,260 position."

Enes said he would approach the Town Council for direction in replacing Kerrigan but the majority of the council members said they feel it is a "town manager appointment."

Higher Fire Rating Possible in Vernon

VERNON — Because the town has bought better fire fighting equipment, improved its housing and building code enforcement, hired a full-time fire marshal, made provisions for better water supplies, and improved training for firefighters, it hopes to obtain a better fire rating.

The town hasn't had its rating updated for some 10 years. Its present rate is C-6 which is reportedly an average rating for towns with similar population and size of Vernon and served by volunteer fire departments.

The possibility of the new rating has been discussed by the Fire Subcommittee of the Town Council headed by Council member Stephen Marcham.

The better the insurance rating a town has, the better the chances are for lower insurance payments by homeowners, businesses, and the town. Marcham said he doesn't feel homeowners would notice much change for the change of rating could benefit commercial rates more.

MONUMENTAL SAVINGS

Washington's Birthday has long been associated with cherry pies and open houses at automobile dealers to allow prospective customers to inspect the latest lineups of new autos.

This tradition is continued again this year and Manchester area auto dealers have a wide variety of makes and models to offer. Models ranging from the simplest of economy sedans to sports cars to the ultimate in luxurious autos are all available for inspection during the annual Washington's Birthday open house.

Since the automobile first appeared, America started its love affair with the car. This Washington's Birthday open house period will provide ample opportunity for Manchester area residents to participate in and continue the affair.

Buick Restyling Distinctive For 1980

The Buick styling story for 1980 can be seen in every car line — from the subtle refinements on the Riviera, to the new front and rear end treatments on the Regal, to the totally new appearance of the Century sedan, LeSabre, and Electra.

Buick models are sold and serviced by Pontiac, Buick, Fiat of East Windsor and Charter Oak Buick of Manchester.

The Electra series lineup for 1980 sees the discontinuation of the Electra 225 coupe and sedan, thus making the luxurious Electra Limited model the base offering in this line. It is joined by Electra Park Avenue coupe and sedan and a new Electra Estate Wagon.

Buick Electra for 1980 has been given an all-new appearance both inside and out, but all the while maintaining the Buick look with a bold upright grille and sloping fenders.

The spotlight on this year's Electra falls under the hood — where the standard powerplant is the new 4.2 liter (252 CID) 4-barrel V-6 and an optional offering is a 5.7 liter diesel. Like other Electra models, the 1980 Electra Estate Wagon features the familiar Electra front-end appearance and a high level of trim. Extra care has been given to assure this model parallels the Electra Limited by offering the same radio usage, wheel covers, standard air conditioning and two-way power seats.

Standard equipment on the Park Avenue sedan for this year includes split seats, with dual center armrests, combined with a new door panel design, burshed side molding, color-keyed wheel covers, color-keyed painting on the inside of the front grille, and coach lamps incorporated into the center pillar on both the coupe and sedan models.

Also standard on the Park Avenue is the halo design vinyl top with a strip of body color between the top and the windows. The right side instrument panel of this model features a Buick exclusive for 1980 — an electroluminescent panel to light the Park Avenue insignia.

The 1980 Park Avenue features another Buick exclusive — touch climate control. This fully electronic air conditioning system features pressure sensitive mode and temperature settings with light emitting diodes to illuminate the positions selected. Small electric motor-driven actuators move the mode valves and the temperature valve to release and direct the properly heated or cooled air.

SOMERSET. A special color combination of dark blue and beige is exclusive to this model's interior and exterior. The Somerset also includes sport mirrors, custom wire wheel covers, and accessory pockets on the front-seat backs which contain a color coordinated umbrella.

CENTURY. The stars of the 1980 Century line are the new notchback Century sedan and Century Limited sedan which their aeroback predecessors. The new notchback roofline provides a more formal appearance in the series. Century coupes continue the aeroback design first introduced in 1978. Available this year is the Century Coupe, Sport Coupe and Turbo Coupe option.

SKYLARK. Introduced in April, the 1980 Skylark offers an estimated mileage improvement over its 1979 predecessor of 15 percent in city driving and 36 percent in highway driving.

For 1980, Buick offers three Skylark models: Skylark Sport, and Skylark Limited. All three are offered in both coupe and sedan.

SKYHAWK. This year's Skyhawk receives only minor changes to its appearance. The designer's accent and exclusive Road Hawk package will again be offered. The 3.8 liter V-6 is standard.

RIVIERA. Riviera for 1980 retains its distinctive appearance; however, subtle equipment refinements provide improved road isolation and a smoother ride. There are also newly-designed outside rearview mirrors

For example, revised body mounts and retuned shock absorbers provide improved road isolation and a smoother ride. There are also newly-designed outside rearview mirrors

New Engine For Datsun

New styling, new engines and excellent fuel economy are all features to be found in the 1980 Datsuns.

Datsuns are sold and serviced by DeCormier Motor Sales Inc., 285 Broad St., Manchester.

One of the new engines, and one of the new styling designs, have been combined in the 1980 Datsun 200 SX, new-from-the-ground-up two-door personal car.

Powered by Datsun's new two-liter, overhead camshaft, fuel-injected four cylinder engine, the 200 SX this year is offered in two body styles, a two-door coupe and three-door hatchback.

Both models reflect European influence on the body styling.

Although the 200 SX emphasizes sportiness and luxury, fuel economy has not been forgotten. EPA estimates for the auto with a five-speed manual transmission are 28 miles-a-gallon for combined highway/city mileage and 28 miles-a-gallon combined for the 200SX equipped with an optional automatic transmission.

New for this year are four-wheel power disc brakes and a multiwarning system which flashes vital signals concerning fuel, battery, water and windshield washer.

The digital clock beams the time and date and drivers are faced with gauges which monitor, speed, engine revolutions, fuel, volts, temperature, and oil.

New styling for 1980 is also seen in the 310 series, Datsun's offering of compact family cars.

The new 310 this year is the four-door hatchback which incorporates the functions of a traditional sedan and station wagon combined in a sporty package.

A two-liter overhead camshaft engine provides the power and economy for the 310 series. Standard transmission for the two-door sedan and four-door station wagon is a traditional four-speed and the four-door hatchback has a five-speed as standard equipment. An optional automatic transmission is offered on all 310 models.

The 210 line, restyled last year, remains Datsun's lowest priced line and offers the buyer a wide choice of models including a three-door hatchback, four-door deluxe sedan, four-door deluxe wagon, two-door deluxe sedan and two-door standard sedan.

The standard two-door has the 1.2 liter engine and a four-speed transmission. All other models equipped with a five-speed transmission share the 1.4 liter engine and all models with automatic transmissions have the larger 1.5 liter engine.

Other standard features on deluxe models include power assisted front disc brakes, reclining seats, transistorized ignition and stalk-mounted controls.

Front-drive autos are becoming very popular and Datsun's front-drive car, the 310 is no exception. Offered as a GX coupe and sedan and a deluxe sedan, the 310 combines economy with the sure-footedness of front-wheel drive.

Topping the Datsun automobile line are the six cylinder models, the 810 and 280ZX.

The 810 is offered as a two-door coupe, four-door sedan and four-door station wagon. The power plant in the 810 series is the tried and true 2.4 liter fuel-injected six which powered the original Datsun 240 Z.

Rack and pinion steering and independent front suspension give the TC3 a tight turning radius for quick maneuvering.

Three spoke luxury steering wheel and other sporty appointments make the TC3 fun to drive.

Plymouth Enters '80s in Style

Plymouth enters the 1980s with a new line of new cars designed to meet modern driving and fuel economy needs.

Plymouth is calling the 1980 Gran Fury a matter of family pride.

The all new 1980 Gran Fury Saloon is the top of the line in Gran Fury luxury.

It's handsomely appointed inside and out and is available in 13 standard single-tone colors and five optional two-tone combinations.

New Duster and Volare models feature new grilles and rectangular headlights, new body side moldings and a halogen head lamp option. Standard features of the Volare are five passenger seating comfort, and an ample 16.4 cubic feet of luggage room.

Big car ride is made possible through Chrysler's unique transverse torsion bar front suspension system and standard radial tires.

Long-term value is sought with the extensive use of galvanized steel to protect Volare from rust and corrosion.

Wind tunnel tests have proved the Horizon TC3 to be one of the most efficient aerodynamic designs of any car in America.

TC3's smooth new look glides it way into greater driver this year with the hot new Horizon TC3.

Plymouth engineers have sought to produce a 1980 Horizon sport model on target with today's pace.

Wind tunnel tests have proved the Horizon TC3 to be one of the most efficient aerodynamic designs of any car in America.

TC3's smooth new look glides it way into greater driver this year with the hot new Horizon TC3.

Tips on Used Cars

More Americans buy used cars than new ones — by approximately 30 percent — and if you know how, you can make an exceptional deal on today's used-car market.

The experts on autos at the Sun Company have some suggestions on how to help yourself drive a great bargain.

For instance, would you believe that a cursory examination of a car's left front door can tell you a lot about the vehicle's history? If it doesn't close with a satisfactory "thunk," there may be serious problems. If it handles, either inside or out, is loose, beware. If the window rattles or doesn't roll up and down easily, watch out.

Any or all of these symptoms indicate frequent use — something you might expect from a very old car but not from one that's supposed to be two years old, or driven less than 5,000 miles.

Before you sit down, examine the driver's compartment. If wear seems excessive on the accelerator, brake pedals or the floor mats, consider this a sign of a long or hard life. Determine whether the seats feel firm. Seats don't normally sag before 40,000 miles or so.

Examine the odometer carefully. If the figures are even slightly out of line, consider that a warning they might have been tampered with.

Check the edge of the chrome for signs of painting. A late-model car should not require an entire repainting unless it's been in an accident or something else is wrong.

Check the tires for uneven wear. That's a sign of front-end alignment work needed.

Push down hard on all four corners of the car to check the shock absorbers. If the car bounces more than twice, they may need replacement. Make sure the car is level, or springs may need repairing.
