U.N. Panel Will Begin Shah Probe

By United Press International

A five-member commission assembled by U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim to probe Iranian charges of corruption under the shah could leave for Tehran as early as Tuesday.

The formation of the commission was a giant step toward the release of the 50 American hostages, who spent their 107th day in captivity today at the besieged U.S. Embassy.

Waldheim stopped short of formally confirming the appointment of five top-level international jurists to the commission because the United Nations still needs approval from Iranian President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr.

But Waldheim and his aides were confident that the panel could be established with U.S. and Iranian approval, and that the commission delegation would leave for Tehran Tuesday.

In a brief statement Sunday, the secretary-general announced that he had finalized the composition of the panel and sent word to Washington and Tehran for official acceptance of his choices.

The United States has agreed to Waldheim's choice of prominent experts on international law from France, Algeria, Syria, Venezuela and Sri Lanka, a U.N. spokesman said.

Iran's response was expected soon, U.N. sources said.

From Tehran, the Kuwaiti newspaper Al Watan reported over the weekend that Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini has granted Bani-Sadr the power to remove the militants holding the hostages for 107 days and hand over the Americans to government troops.

Al Watan said, however, the militants "doubt Khomeini will issue public instructions calling for the release of the hostages." A terse U.N. statement late Sunday afternoon said "Some aspects still have to be clarified. The matter has to be coordinated before the secretary-general can make the announcement."

Sources at the United Nations said the question of when the Americans are to be released remained the unresolved point of the deal.

The sources noted that not only Bani-Sadr and Iran's Revolutionary Council, but also the militants who still hold the Americans at gunpoint, must accept the deal.

Diplomatic sources identified the five members of the commission as:

- Louis Edmond Petiti of France, an international law expert.
- Mohammed Bedjaoui, Algerian Ambassador to the United Nations.
- Adib Daoudi, foreign policy assistant to Syrian President Hafez al-Assad.

- Andres Aguilar of Venezuela, former Ambassador to Washington and former head of the human rights commission of the Organization of American States.
- Harry W. Jayewardene of Sri Lanka, a lawyer and noted expert in international law.

Bani-Sadr, in an interview with Greek television, said that until the commission releases its findings, the hostages must stay put. The Carter administration has said it would refuse to admit to alleged collaboration in the shah's crimes, as Iran has charged.

The 47-year-old president also voiced mixed feelings about the seizure of the hostages last Nov. 4.

"From the humanitarian point of view the action was deplorable. From the legal point of view, we have violated the international rules.

Wintry Weather Welcome

Long Snow Drought Is Over

After a freak tornado, an unusually early snowfall, and after the longest snow drought in 76 years, the state got a taste of winter two months late.

The first big storm of the year began early Saturday and dumped between two and four inches in the central section of Connecticut. Up to six inches fell in the northern section, according to the National Weather Service at Windsor Locks, and between one and two inches fell along the coast.

In Manchester, local highway crews were braced for the storm and had no problems cleaning up. A 33-man force spent between 6:30 a.m. and 11 p.m. Saturday shoveling and sanding the streets. Outside contractors were also enlisted to aid the removal efforts.

A desk sergeant at the police department this morning said there were several weather-related accidents over the weekend, but there were no serious mishaps. He also said the department received no calls from shovelers suffering heart attacks.

It was the first substantial snowfall since the Oct. 10 storm, which followed on the heels of the Oct. 3 tornado in Windsor Locks. The National Weather Service said that that storm was the earliest major one on record. The latest drifts may not last long. The weather service has forecast warmer temperatures for the next two days and possibly rain on Thursday.

Dozens of civic, social and cultural events were canceled or postponed. A pair of local basketball games have been rescheduled.

To the south, the snow turned to sleet and rain because of the warmer temperatures. A state police spokesman said sections of the Connecticut Turnpike in Fairfield County were flooded when drains froze as temperatures hovered around the 32-degree mark. Before Saturday's storm, the state had experienced the mildest winter since the weather service began keeping records, with less than two-tenths of an inch recorded since December.

However, parents and children welcomed the transition from the cold, dusty streets to the wonderland of white. Most youngsters took advantage of the sunny weather Sunday and today to get in some long-awaited sledding on this holiday weekend.

"Carl seems to be waiting until the last minute to decide," Smith said. "I don't think the rest of us can do that."

The election of a new chairman will replace Elsie 'Biz' Swenson, acting chairwoman.

Another Considers GOP Job

By MARY KITZMANN

MANCHESTER — Another possible candidate for the GOP town committee chairmanship has appeared.

Robert J. Smith, Harvard Road, said today that he is considering seeking the post and will decide before next Monday.

Smith, who moved here in October, joins a long-time Manchester GOP member, in considering the candidacy. George "Ted" LaBonne said last week he was a possible candidate.

The only announced candidate is Robert Von Deck, who has begun campaigning for March 12 election. Smith said today he considered Von Deck a "very strong" candidate.

"I agree with his desire for more activity in the GOP Party," Smith said. "We must take positions on issues, and must present a positive image. We definitely need to keep a better eye on the administration."

Smith said, if he decided to run, his biggest handicap would be his "newcomer" status in Manchester.

"I must spend time contacting the town committee," he said. "I'm not known to a number of members."

Smith was elected to the Town Committee Jan. 22. He is a University of Connecticut mathematics professor and was the Willington town chairman from 1974 to 1976.

"I have the experience needed for the post," Smith said. "I have a successful record."

He says the Republican Party needs to "watchdog" the present administration.

Canada Polls Favor Trudeau

OTTAWA (UPI) — Former Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau, who returned from retirement to head the Liberal Party in today's parliamentary elections, was favored in opinion polls to regain the post he lost last year to Conservative Joe Clark.

But Clark, whose government was brought down in a parliamentary vote of no confidence over a budget plan to raise energy prices, was confident of victory Sunday.

"People trust this party, and trust this government, and if I may say so, trust this leader," he told voters during a final campaign swing.

Trudeau, 60, who was prime minister for 11 years before being defeated last May by the little-known Clark, wound down his campaign Sunday with a skating party in front of Toronto's City Hall.

Two major opinion polls conducted in the past week indicated that Trudeau's Liberals would regain control in the 282-seat House of Commons in Canada's 32nd general election.

The most recent of the polls, a Gallup Poll released Saturday, gave Trudeau a 20 percentage point lead over Clark, indicating that he had enough support for a stable majority government, despite strong gains by the left-leaning New Democratic Party.

The NDP could be the key if neither party gains a clear majority. Another poll, released by the CTV television network, gave Trudeau a 10-point lead but left open the possibility that Clark's party could squeeze in with the barest of parliamentary majorities.

The Liberals actually outpolled the Conservatives by four percentage points in the 1979 election but lacked a majority in the House of Commons because many of the Liberal votes fattened overwhelming Liberal margins in French-speaking Quebec.

Much of the campaigning centered in Ontario, considered decisive because it is heavily industrialized and accounts for more than a third of the parliamentary seats.

The key issue in the campaign was the Conservative Party plan to raise the gasoline excise tax from 7 cents to 25 cents and to bring the price of domestic crude to within 85 percent of world prices over the next four years, to make Canada energy self-sufficient.

Trudeau's strength in polls dispelled any belief that Clark's role in the escape of six Americans from Iran would gain him many votes. But Clark, 40, predicted until the last minute of campaigning that his party would regain a majority.

Feds Seek Papers On Zoning Policy

MANCHESTER — The Planning and Zoning Department has not received a request for zoning documents from the U.S. Justice Department in its investigation of discriminatory zoning practices.

The investigation, announced Jan. 17 by Attorney General Benjamin Civiletti, is to determine "whether zoning laws were intentionally manipulated or designed to prevent the development of minority housing or residential ownership by a substantial market in adjacent communities."

Four lawyers from the department's Civil Rights Division have been assigned to study the Hartford area. They are Carl Gabel, Howard Feinstein, Iris Green and Madeline Chun.

"As of yet I have not had a request from them," Alan Lamson, director of planning and zoning, said.

Lamson said that zoning meeting minutes had been requested by the Justice Department in the Community Development Block Grant suit.

The Justice Department and the city of Hartford joined the suit of three Manchester residents which claims withdrawing from the program is an effort to limit the town's low-income housing.

This investigator also apparently includes Glastonbury, and Orange, a New Haven suburb where inquiries already have been made. Civiletti has said the investigation would focus on communities where there are dramatic differences between the minority population of center cities and surrounding suburbs and then examine the history of zoning changes in those suburbs.

Municipalities can zone a minimum of land for apartment complexes or cluster development and require large lots for single-family homes, thus excluding residency by large numbers of the population.

The investigation could result in civil suits filed against towns found to have strict land-use requirements. The Justice Department has the authority to bring civil suits under the Federal Fair Housing Act, but has had only two cases since it was passed in 1968.

One was years ago against Black Jack, Mo., a suburb of St. Louis. The current case is against Parma, Ohio, on the outskirts of Cleveland.

In recent years the Civil Rights Division has filed 300 fair-housing cases, but almost all have been against individual developers.

Civiletti said that he had a "very strong suspicion" that there has been deliberate use of land-use ordinance by some localities to exclude minorities, and he cautioned the study of the problem was just beginning.

In other areas of the state, the Norwalk Redevelopment Agency commissioned the Connecticut Legal Services to study zoning in Westport, Wilton, Weston, New Canaan, and Darien.

'Miss' is a Hit:

When Damon Runyon wrote "Little Miss Marker," he never dreamed it would be made into a movie four times.

The first film, in 1934 — made a superstar out of a little girl named Shirley Temple. The fourth remake — now underway in Hollywood — may do the same thing for 7-year-old Sara Stimson.

Sara's mother never dreamed her daughter would get the part — says she entered her in the talent search because "she was shy ... and I thought it would be a good experience."

Composing Himself

With a three-orchestra concert run already on the books, Christopher Keene didn't really need another job. But the 35-year-old conductor of the Syracuse Symphony has one — and he's delighted.

Keene has been stuck in a sound track for a new Warner Brothers sci-fi flick titled "Altered States," based on the novel by Paddy Chayefsky.

It will have him flying like a pingpong ball back and forth between New York and Hollywood, but Keene says it's worth it — that, "I've been a film freak since I was a kid and now I finally have a chance to tell my friends I'm flying out to the coast to do a movie."

OLD LYME (UPI) — Gov. Ella Grasso's summer home was ransacked of silverware and silver dishes over the weekend, state police say.

State police at the Westbrook barracks said the home owned by the governor and her husband, Thomas, was found burglarized during a security check about 10 a.m. Sunday.

No one was home at the time, but Mrs. Grasso traveled there to help investigators compile a list of stolen items, which included silver flatware and serving dishes.

The Grassos have a home in Windsor Locks and occasionally stay at the governor's mansion in Hartford.

A state police spokesman said there was no estimate of the dollar value of the stolen items, and said entry was made by forcing a door.

The spokesman said the state police major crimes squad searched the area for evidence.

The spokesman said since Thanksgiving, "more than a dozen house breaks have been reported in Old Lyme and a similar number in Essex." He said other burglaries, many involving silver, have been reported in Lyme and Killingworth.

Gandhi Consolidates Power

NEW DELHI, India (UPI) — Prime Minister Indira Gandhi consolidated her power by sacking the governments in nine of the 12 states run by the opposition, in her boldest move yet in the month since she regained office.

The Akali Dal Party, which rules Punjab — one of the nine major states toppled by Mrs. Gandhi's order — issued a statement today calling the move "un-constitutional, undemocratic and totally dictatorial."

Other opposition leaders said the move was an informal return to emergency rule, which led to Mrs. Gandhi's downfall in 1977.

Reagan and His 'Duck' Not a Joke to Ethnics

LITTLETON, N.H. (UPI) — Ronald Reagan got a laugh when he told the one about the Polish-Italian-mafia cock fight.

"How do you tell who the Italian is at a cock fight?" Reagan quipped on the campaign bus this weekend — once to New Hampshire Sen. Gordon Humphrey, former Gov. Lane Dwinell and aides and later to reporters.

"How do you tell who the Italian is at a cock fight?"

"He's the one who bets on the duck."

"How do you know the mafia was there?"

"The duck wins."

"There goes Connecticut," joked a Reagan aide on the campaign bus after he heard Reagan tell the tale to reporters.

In New York, Manhattan GOP leader Vincent Albano said Reagan "should apologize ... because no national ally should be subjected to ridicule. Albano said Reagan's quips "were not funny to anyone."

While the Republican presidential candidate mingled in the campaign bus Saturday night, his wife Nancy apologized to GOP supporters in the Midwest city when she went to the campaign to campaign for her husband.

She did so after attending a fundraiser. Her husband was grounded in New Hampshire by a snowstorm, but he spoke to her and supporters via a telephone hookup.

According to a report by the City News Bureau of Chicago, Mrs. Reagan, in speaking to her husband, said she wished he could be there to "see all these beautiful white people."

She hesitated a moment, paled slightly, and amended: "beautiful black and white people."

"I'm so sorry, I didn't mean it," Mrs. Reagan was quoted as telling a reporter later.

Donald Totten, a state representative who is managing Reagan's Illinois campaign, defended her.

"Well, she didn't mean that, she was talking to her husband about the white snow and that's how she got mixed up," he was quoted as saying in the City News Bureau report.

Reagan made a dozen stops in snowy New Hampshire over the weekend, seeking a win in the important Feb. 26 primary.

In contrast to the days before the Iowa caucuses — where Reagan lost to George Bush — Reagan has changed style, devoting more time to face-to-face campaigning that is a requisite in New Hampshire.

At a Wolliboro rally and Rochester coffee, the former California governor was asked about what were described as too-lengthy census questionnaires.

"My own instinct would be to tell them how many people lived in the house and that's all," Reagan said.

"Get lost," would be his next response to the census takers, he added.

In Wolliboro, in response to a questioner, he also said he would support military intervention in Yugoslavia if the country requested such help in the wake of the possible death of President Tito, who is seriously ill.

AFTER A STORM KNOCKS OUT THE POWER YOU MIGHT HAVE TO WAIT TO GET IT BACK... BECAUSE NANCY SUTTON CAN'T.

When a bad storm knocks out the power and you're wondering who'll get it back first, we at Northeast Utilities just want you to know that it will be the people who need it most. People in hospitals, police stations, fire facilities and other vital public services. They're our major concern, along with clearing hazards that may threaten lives. Next, we move on to areas where we are able to restore power to the most consumers in the least time.

Your phone calls are helpful when it comes to determining where outages occur. But because our phone lines often become jammed beyond their capacity during a storm, we ask your patience and understanding in attempting to reach us. We also suggest that you listen to regular radio broadcasts for information on service restoration progress in your area.

Storms are tough on us all. Be assured that our crews will work around-the-clock until everyone has service restored. And remember that you might be waiting a little longer because Nancy Sutton can't.

Editorial Dedicated to Service

Tuesday Rotary International's 75th anniversary and the 40th anniversary of the Manchester Rotary Club will be celebrated.

Rotary International, through its local service clubs around the world, exists to encourage and foster the ideals of service as a basis of worthy enterprise.

The Manchester Rotary Club has traditionally served the community with a number of projects aimed at helping the community's young persons.

Such events as the annual Manchester High Dawn Dance, following the Senior Prom, would not exist had it not been for the dedication of Manchester Rotarians.

The Manchester Club has been involved in the community helping support such institutions as Lutz Junior Museum, Manchester Scholarship Foundation, Manchester Little League, Youth Hockey Foundation and Cheney Technical School.

Among the objects of Rotary are:

-Developing acquaintances as an opportunity for service;

-Fostering high ethical standards in business and professions;

-Recognizing the worthiness and dignity of all useful occupations;

-Realizing each occupation is an opportunity to serve society;

-Encouraging the personal application of the service ideal in business and community life;

-Advancing international understanding, good will and peace through a world fellowship of business and professional men united in the ideal of service.

The Manchester Rotary Club has been a positive force working for the community for 40 years.

In that time, members have devoted countless hours to serving the community in a variety of endeavors.

Members have raised funds to support worthwhile community activities.

A number of active, busy men comprise the Manchester Rotary Club.

They have given freely of one of their most precious commodities—their free time—to help their friends and neighbors and to do something for the youth of the town.

Now, after 40 years of service to the people of their community, members are planning to celebrate the success of Rotary in Manchester.

Manchester Rotarians deserve the thanks of the entire community for their gifts of time and resources.

They have been men of action—not just words.

They have seen community needs and have filled them.

They have not acted with the knowledge their efforts would always be recognized —but have recognized the accomplishments of others.

They have not dwelled on reasons why things couldn't happen for the good of Manchester—but have done them, despite the hard work involved.

They have, in short, helped make Manchester a better place to live because they have not avoided service.

We extend our congratulations to all Rotarians and join the rest of Manchester in saying: "Happy Birthday Rotary."

Congressional Quarterly Stamp Program Short Of Funds

By HARRISON DONNELLY
WASHINGTON — Nearly 20 million poor people face a cutback in their food budgets this year unless Congress acts quickly to provide more money for the food stamp program.

Rising food prices have left the program $2.3 billion short. In his budget for next year, President Carter is asking Congress for $8.7 billion for food stamps. But current law limits that spending to $6.2 billion.

But even if lawmakers do come up with some emergency money, Congress still will have to face the long-term implications of the startling growth of the federal government's effort to subsidize the marketbaskets of the poor.

If things keep going the way they have been, the food stamp program will become, by next year, a $10 billion annual burden on taxpayers.

The once-experimental program is well on its way to becoming the largest single federal welfare program.

The continuing upward creep of food prices is one factor in the mushrooming costs. Prices for food consumed at home went up 1.2 percent in December, according to the latest Consumer Price Index figures. That was a 9.5 percent increase in a year.

Food prices doubled between 1971 and 1979. If current trends continue, they could double again by 1985, experts say.

Food stamps benefits go up automatically with costs at the checkout counter. Twice a year in Agriculture Department reviews, according to food inflation, the amount of stamps it gives to individual families.

That's a better protection against inflation than Social Security recipients get. Their benefits are adjusted for inflation once a year. There's a move in Congress to make the food stamp adjustment come only once a year as well. Still, food stamp benefits are not exactly generous, when viewed from an individual's point of view. Benefits are determined according to the Agriculture Department's "Thrifty Food Plan," which makes heavy use of starches, beans and cheaper cuts of meat. The average benefit for each person on the program is $32.50 a month, or about 35 cents a meal.

Another reason for the soaring cost of the program is the fact that food stamps now are free. Until recently, recipients had to put up some of their own money in order to buy a larger value of coupons.

But since the beginning of last year, stamps have been given out without any purchase requirement. This has brought into the program many extremely poor people, particularly for rural areas, who in the past did not even have the small amount of cash needed to buy the stamps.

In fact, more people than ever are now getting food stamps. As of last November, 19.7 million people were receiving benefits. Analysts think participation will average 20 million people this year.

If unemployment goes up in the next year, as many economists believe it will, participation in the food stamp program could rise to an estimated 21.3 million people in 1981.

People who get food stamps are, by and large, very poor. More than half — 52 percent — of the households in the program had incomes below $3,600 in 1979. All but 15 percent had incomes below $2,000 a year.

About 29 percent of the families receiving stamps owned their own home, and about two-thirds of them did not have a car.

Studies have shown that food stamps have had a crucial impact on reducing the once-widespread malnutrition among the low-income population.

These statistics only underscore the difficulty of the dilemma facing Congress. On the one hand, most members are reluctant to enforce the current spending limit, and thus lead directly to less food on the table for millions of people who really need

Bogus Documents Haunt U.S.

WASHINGTON — The Soviet Union has never hesitated to enlist outside assistance in the implementation of its foreign policy. Witness the Afghans.

But now there is evidence it is getting help in this regard from a most unlikely source: the highest officers in the United States Government.

Intelligence agents say the Russians are forging an imaginative variety of official-looking U.S. documents, and are signing them with the names of administration executives. This purpose is to create friction between America and its allies.

In recent months, according to the Defense Intelligence Agency, the Soviets have forged diplomatic cables, military manuals and several letters and speeches by ranking officials.

The bogus documents have been sent to third nation envoys, or to members of the press, where they are intended to give a distorted view of U.S. attitudes on sensitive world affairs.

For example the DIA says the Soviets forged a speech by Jimmy Carter which has been circulating in the diplomatic community for some time. The invented speech is related to matters concerning Greece and Turkey, and the language is designed to irritate both nations at the expense of the Western alliance.

The Carter forgery is rather heavily done. And it's suspiciously blunt. At one point the president is made to say that it's "the duty" of Greece and Turkey "to wholeheartedly support the efforts of the United States."

That, of course, is not the way presidents solicit the cooperation of friendly countries.

Yet despite its transparency, intelligence agents say the Carter forgery represents a newly sophisticated offensive by Soviet agitators. The DIA believes the Russians have been inventing American documents since the end of World War II, but now they are using the White House itself in the enterprise.

Furthermore, they are doing it rather well. Communists techniques have come a long way since the 1950s, when East Germany and Czechoslovakia cranked out stilted misrepresentations on balky postwar presses. In those days the effort amounted to little more than smudgy propaganda announcements.

The quality of the early forgeries was so poor, the Soviets stopped trying. The DIA estimates they forged 50 major documents between 1950 and 1960, then slowed the pace. Reportedly the Russians did not forge any papers during the first half of the 1970s, the halcyon years of détente.

Now the Russian presses are running again, and authenticity is stressed as it never was before. Real names are being used, as is practical psychology. Forgery writers are even allowed to include "criticism of East European nations, all for the sake of covering up the origins of the documents."

There is still room for quality improvement. In one forgery, Vice President Mondale is described as saying that Anwar Sadat's Egyptian regime is on the brink of collapse. The statement is quite impossible to imagine, besides, there are frequent grammatical errors throughout the Mondale paper.

In large measure, though, the continuing flaws are being adequately camouflaged. For one thing, the forgeries are invariably photocopied. The DIA says the copies are legible, but the print is purposely indistinct; this gambit masks the imperfections and defies scientific analysis.

Once assembled, the documents are distributed according to time tested methodology. The papers are attached to covering letters which are prepared by anonymous writers who claim they are acting out of righteous indignation. And then, the bogus documents are simply sent through the mails.

State Department officers say it's impossible to tell how many of the document recipients are fooled by the forgeries. However, it is known that newsmen who've received them have rushed the contents into print on several continents. The Carter speech still receives occasional publicity.

Even when the nature of the documents is suspect, though, harm can be done. The DIA says the forgeries are normally sent to left wing groups, who lack the will or means to authenticate them. The groups then publish, or pass on the material, because it is in keeping with their ideological point of view.

And so here is the real danger of the Russian forgeries. Once they are distributed, the lies take on a life of their own. The DIA cites one well-worn forgery, telling a tale of U.S. and British efforts to recruit Moshe Dayan for intelligence work, that has been printed and reprinted now for almost 15 years.

Of course no governments have fallen as a result of the Dayan forgery. Nor have any of the Carter or Mondale forgeries created insurmountable problems. But the administration is worried about the potential of this curious Soviet pottering, mainly because, once again, nobody seems to know what to do about it.

Washington Merry-Go-Round Appointments Haunt Andrus

By JACK ANDERSON
WASHINGTON—Nine years ago, when newly elected Idaho Gov. Cecil Andrus appointed Sheriff John Bender as state commissioner of law enforcement—Idaho's top cop—the shock waves were felt all the way to the Justice Department in Washington. Appalled at the selection, U.S. officials threatened to cut off federal funds that the new commissioner would control.

But six years later, when Cecil Andrus was named as Jimmy Carter's Interior secretary, none of the misgivings that stirred the federal lawmakers in 1971 were transmitted to the Senate committee considering Andrus' appointment. He was confirmed without any embarrassing questions about Madia influence in Idaho, which had so alarmed the Justice Department.

The one brief mention of a possible campaign contribution to Andrus from a non-connected race track cartel—which might have opened the door to a whole closet full of questions on organized crime in Idaho—had been deleted from the FBI's background check on Andrus before the Senate confirmation committee saw it.

Idaho's top cop, the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration in Washington sent Andrus a secret report listing its doubts about the ex-sheriff. "Serious allegations concerning the competency, leadership ability and personal integrity of (Bender) reflect adversely on the quality of state law enforcement in Idaho," the report stated. The federal officials demanded a full investigation of Andrus and Bender made statements that "they never dreamed the two would read."

They would never have talked if they had thought Bender or Andrus would see the files, Kennedy said.

Bender, however, assured my associate that he had never seen the file and knew nothing about its disappearance. Responding to this in an interview, Andrus recanted his press conference statement. Maybe his memory wasn't right, he now said: maybe he hadn't turned the file over to Bender, after all.

Interestingly, the missing investigative file, though supposedly dealing only with Bender, also contained serious allegations about Andrus—specifically that he had taken campaign contributions from organized crime figures, probably through the Emprise Corp. Andrus says he doesn't remember seeing any such charges in the file while he had it.

My associate Dale Van Atta spent weeks investigating Andrus. The trail led to Idaho where Van Atta asked so many questions that he attracted press attention. Andrus responded by calling a press conference to answer in public the questions Van Atta had been asking in private.

The Interior secretary told what had happened to the Bender file. He had turned it over, he said, to Bender himself. This belated confession appalled the special prosecutor, Fred Kennedy.

"I have to say I was completely flabbergasted," he said. To get any information at all in the 1971 probe, he explained, his investigators had promised their informants complete confidentiality. He said friends of Andrus and Bender made statements that "they never dreamed the two would read."

Hearing Set On Parking

VERNON—The Town Council will conduct a public hearing Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the Memorial Building, Park Place on the repealing of the existing ordinance concerning parking during winter months and on a proposed substitute ordinance.

Police Chief Herman Fritz, who requested the new ordinance, said it will give police a little more muscle in declaring a snow ban on parking. A new section of the revised ordinance states that "Parking shall be temporarily prohibited on the traveled portions of all streets and highways during any snowstorm and shall remain prohibited within eight hours after the end of a snowstorm."

The ordinance also prohibits anyone from parking a vehicle on any public highway within the town in such a manner as to interfere with the removal of snow or sanding operations, during a storm or for eight hours after.

This excludes physicians on emergency calls or a vehicle that is specifically disabled to such an extent that it is impractical or impossible to remove it.

Vehicles in violation of the ordinance will be towed away or conveyed by a police officer, to a pound but first proof of insurance coverage, to protect the town, must be shown and the owner will pay the towing charges and storage charges.

The ordinance also authorizes the chief of police to suspend parking permits for any signs and to prohibit parking temporarily in any area where, in his opinion, it is necessary in order to facilitate the removal of snow, public works construction or for other sufficient purposes.

Primary Rules Are Explained

VERNON—Town Clerk Henry Buter reminds residents that the deadline to enroll with a political party to qualify to vote in the March 25th presidential primary, is March 11.

The registrars of voters will conduct an enrollment session on March 8 from 9 a.m. to 12 noon. They will also conduct a session on March 11 from 2 to 5 p.m. Qualified persons may also register in the office of the town clerk, during regular business hours.

The town clerk and registrars offices are located in the Memorial Building on Park Place. Persons whose rights mature because of age, residence, or becoming a citizen after March 11 can register to vote and enroll. Persons who celebrate their 18th birthday during the period beginning March 13 and ending March 25 would also qualify under this provision.

After the March 11 date persons can be registered and enrolled but will not qualify to vote in the primary.

Resource Recovery Aim of MDC Study

VERNON—The Task Force on which Mayor Marie Herbst was asked to serve by the Metropolitan District Commission, to study municipal waste disposal problems, will focus on a proposal to develop and construct a major regional resource recovery facility in Hartford's South Meadows.

Although Mrs. Herbst said she isn't sure the Town of Vernon would be interested in participating in the regional project, she said she is willing to serve on the Task Force. The Metropolitan District invited and other aspects of the waste disposal problem that eventually must be incorporated in long-term service agreements with the towns and cities.

In connection with the work of the Task Force, Breneman emphasized that the input of the participating towns would also have to address such matters as source separation and other aspects of the waste disposal problem that eventually must be incorporated in long-term service agreements with the towns and cities.

Meanwhile, the Town of Vernon will be investigating other alternatives to its waste disposal problem and this would include using the new sewage disposal plant operation.

A Rotary spokesman said the Manchester Club has devoted most of its service to the community's youth. In addition, Manchester Rotarians have supported the Rotary International Foundation, which has sent high school and college graduates to study in foreign nations.

In Manchester, Rotarians started the annual Manchester High Dawn Dance which follows the annual senior prom talk at their feelings but are afraid that their feelings won't be accepted.

Many young adults, who were abused as children, are frightened by the idea of becoming parents," she continues. "They have heard that the risks are high that they themselves will become abusive as parents. Through understanding the impact of abuse, however, the cycle can be broken.

Participants in the program will include Ann Bonney, Susan O'Neill, children's program leader, Parents Anonymous; John O'Neill, a former youth services worker; Leslie Webby, director of the Women's Center at MCC, and Toni Grella, a crisis counselor at the University of Connecticut.

The evening is free and all young adults are welcome.

Johnson Challenges Celtics

NEW YORK (UPI) — Dennis Johnson issued a challenge Sunday.

"I'll play anyone, any day for that shot," he said, after hitting a baseline jumper with 11 seconds left to give the Seattle SuperSonics a 109-106 victory over the Boston Celtics.

"D.J. is the kind of player who can shoot one-for-20 in a game," said teammate John Johnson, "but when it comes down to the last shot he is the one I want to take it. He's such a pressure player."

Dennis Johnson certainly seems to thrive in clutch situations. He made a critical three-point goal in Seattle's cavernous Kingdome watched the showdown between the teams with the best records in the league, and at least one player looked forward to a continuation of the rivalry.

"A Sonic-Celtic championship would intrigue me," said Seattle's Paul Silas, who has won titles with both clubs.

In other games, Philadelphia topped Cleveland 115-103. Denver downed Houston 112-89. Atlanta defeated Detroit 108-89. Phoenix routed New Jersey 128-88. Kansas City edged San Diego 108-107. Indiana beat Chicago 108-100. Los Angeles stopped Washington 111-107. San Antonio nipped Milwaukee 135-134, and Portland held off Golden State 109-98.

76ers 115, Cavaliers 100

Darryl Dawkins scored 27 points and grabbed 18 rebounds to lead Philadelphia to its fifth straight victory. Dawkins scored 17 points in the second half to help stave off the Cavaliers, who rebounded from a 16-point first-quarter deficit to trail 106-98 with 2:58 to play.

Knights 112, Rockets 99

Forward George Johnson scored a career-high 23 points to lead the hurting but hustling Nuggets. Alex English added 24 points and Dan Issel had 20. Issel now has scored 20 or more points in each of his last 12 games.

Hawks 108, Pistons 99

Dan Roundfield scored 19 points and John Drew, Charlie Criss added 18 each for Atlanta. The loss was the 10th straight for Detroit, a team record. The Pistons trailed by 10 with 3:30 left, but Eddie Johnson and Armond Hill then combined to score 10 points in the final 10 minutes to ice Atlanta's consecutive victories to ice Atlanta's Hawks.

NEW YORK (UPI) — For many years, the only association Czechoslovakia had for American hockey fans was the birthplace of Chicago great Stan Mikita.

Now, in the space of a few days, that Eastern European country's Czechs helped the Maple Leafs snap a string that had seen them lose five of their previous six games. On Sunday he was rewarded with his first NHL start, and Toronto registered a 5-4 victory over the Rangers at New York.

"I didn't leave Czechoslovakia for any political reason, only because I wanted to realize the dream of European hockey players to play in North America," said the 5-foot-10, 175-pounder, who signed with Toronto last fall after defecting in Fussen, West Germany. "I was very excited about starting. I got a lot of encouragement from my teammates.

Continuing its recent assault on the hoop, East Catholic ran roughshod past Holy Cross High of Flushing, N.Y., 81-52, Saturday night at Fordham University in New York City.

It was the high-powered Eagles' second win in 24 hours as Friday night they whipped Bloomfield, 86-54. East, 15-4, has won five in a row and in its last four has averaged 82.8 points.

The Eagles conclude regular season play Tuesday night at home against cross-town Manchester High, which sports a similar mark, at 8 o'clock. East took their first meeting back on Dec. 27, 57-46.

The East-Holy Cross tilt was a prelude to the Fordham-Burgers collegiate tilt. And in a story-book setting, former Eagle standout 6-foot-1 guard Mark Murphy cashed in for-6 from the foul line in the closing 45 seconds to pace the Rams to an upset 42-39 win over the Scarlet Knights. Murphy, who had 16 points as Fordham bowed to nationally ranked Notre Dame, finished with 6 markers and the Rams moved their record to 10-13.

"Holy Cross fans were asking 'where a shot had the title,'" Penders said. "They're looking for the open man. They've been playing very well ever since the second quarter we broke it open." Penders related, "I don't think the kids can play any better than they are now. And I don't know if that's good or bad. They're looking for the open man. They've been playing very well ever since the second quarter we broke it open."

Maryland Struggling In ACC After Losses

NEW YORK (UPI) — With the enemy staggered and draped over the ropes, the Terrapins of Maryland found themselves in an ideal position to deliver the final blow and end the race for first place in the Atlantic Coast Conference.

But a funny thing happened on the way to Durham, N.C. "We're still in first place but it's getting slimmer and slimmer," said Maryland Coach Lefty Driessler after his seventh-ranked Terrapins suffered a 66-61 loss to No. 19 Duke Saturday. "We can't afford any more losses."

Three weeks ago, Maryland enjoyed a commanding lead in the ACC, perhaps the deepest conference in the nation, with five teams currently ranked in the top 20. But the loss to Duke, a tough team to figure out, was the second straight ACC setback for the Terps and the title is up for grabs.

Maryland, with a 9-3 ACC record, holds a one-game lead over North Carolina, which has an 8-4 conference mark. Clemson is 8-5 in the ACC and North Carolina State is 7-5. The Tar Heels wind up the conference schedule this week with a road game at North Carolina State and a home game against Duke. Wake Forest and Virginia, both ACC teams, are the final two opponents for Maryland this season.

For Duke, the victory follows four consecutive losses and may be a sign of better things to come for a team that was once ranked No. 1 in the nation. The Blue Devils straight through to the NCAA tournament to secure a third straight NCAA playoff bid.

"Obviously we needed this win badly," said Duke Coach Bill Foster. "Gene Banks did a superb job for us both offensively and defensively. I think the thing was we showed poise in a situation of adversity."

Banks hit 9-of-11 field goals, scored 21 points and more importantly, shut down Albert King, the ACC's leading scorer. King shot 6-of-11 in the first half and finished the night with only 12 points.

In other games this weekend featuring Top 10 teams, Indiana DePaul stretched its record to 22-2 by routing Portland 103-79. No. 3 Louisville defeated Cincinnati 61-57. Washington State stunned No. 4 Oregon State 65-51. No. 10 Kentucky disposed of Nevada-Las Vegas 74-69 Sunday. No. 6 LSU beat Tennessee 74-66. No. 9 Ohio State topped Illinois 71-57 and No. 10 Missouri defeated Oklahoma State 77-66.

Mark Aguirre scored 30 points in only 26 minutes to finish second. Third place went to the Oldsmobile over the other member of the "Alabama gang" — Bonnett — whose balky Mercury was pushed across the state by a sympathetic driver. Dale Earnhardt's Ford Torino, a 1974 and 1975 Daytona winner. Ben Parsons of Ellerbe, N.C., finished fifth.

Only 21 of the 42 cars that started the race under sunny skies and gusty winds were still running when the checkered flag fell.

The total purse for the race was $660,000.

Baker's tank was so dry, the crew had to pump him a few gallons of gas in the pits before he could drive the Oldsmobile over to the winner's circle.

Not only did Baker lead for 143 of the 200 laps and beat back challenges from Cale Yarborough, a 1974 and 1975 Daytona winner, but he also set a record for 500-mile stock car races. His average speed was 177.662 mph.

"Everything just went beautifully," Baker said. "I have to quit tomorrow, I feel like I've had a great racing career. This is my Super Bowl, this is the big one for us. For one time, I didn't do something stupid."

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (UPI) — Dot Germain is described by one of her golfing colleagues as a very slow and easy person with a dry sense of humor.

"She's like E. F. Hutton. When she speaks, everybody listens," quipped Donna Caponi Young.

Germain, herself, may have been thinking about looking for an investment firm Sunday night. She had just pocketed $15,000 by winning the $100,000 LPGA tournament at Pasadena Golf Club.

It was her first victory for Germain, now in her seventh year on the tour, but Young predicted it wouldn't be her last.

Shades of 20 Years Ago For USA Hockey Squad

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (UPI) — It happened almost 20 years ago in a place called Squaw Valley, Calif. A United States Olympic hockey team, given little chance of doing anything more than participating, shocked the world by winning the gold medal.

With goalie Jack McCartan stopping almost everything the opposition threw at him and Bill Christian scoring the tournament-winning goal, the Americans did what everyone said was impossible. They beat the Czechs (twice), the Russians and the defending world champion Canadians to win the gold.

That was the last time the Winter Games were held in the U.S. Now, with the 1980 Games almost a week old, another U.S. hockey team — this one given only an outside shot at a medal — is in position to raise eyebrows around the world.

The 1980 Americans, captained by Christian's son, Dave, manning one of the defense spots, weren't supposed to even come close to beating Czechoslovakia. They were supposed to beat Norway and shoot off a lead to win that one. They're 2-0-1 — tied with Sweden and Blue Division — as they prepare to meet Romania tonight.

The U.S. has two games remaining to the United States. But we're in a good position maybe to be seeded No. 1 going into the finals. We're tied with Sweden but they have that game with the Czechs (Wednesday).

The U.S. Roman game is set for 8:30 p.m. EST. In other Blue Division games, Sweden meets Norway at 1:30 and Czechoslovakia takes on West Germany at 8:00. In the Red Division, Canada goes up against Japan at 1:00. Poland plays Holland at 4:30 and the Soviets take Finland at 5:00.

Roy White to Play in Japan

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI) — Roy White, who played three infield positions and the outfield for the New York Yankees since joining them in 1961, has agreed to join the Tokyo Yomiuri Giants this season. It was announced Sunday by agent Jerry Kapstein.

The 36-year-old switch hitter was limited to 81 games last year, coming to bat only 205 times with a .215 batting average. Lifetime, he hit 271 with 160 homers.

"After giving careful consideration to all the proposals made to Jerry Kapstein during the last several months, I decided that it would be in the best interests of myself and my family to sign with the Giants," said White, who played in the World Series three times with the Yankees.
