

Seabrook protests continue

SEABROOK, N.H. (UPI) — About 250 demonstrators tried unsuccessfully today to prevent construction workers from entering Seabrook Station to continue work on the $1.1 billion nuclear power plant.

Small groups of demonstrators sat in front of traffic on Route 1 entering the plant by two gates, but were quickly cleared away by police using night sticks and, in one case, Mace.

At least one person was arrested trying to halt the flow of 2,300 construction workers onto the 146-acre site.

The protesters-remnants of a band of 1,300 who over the weekend had sporadic and sometimes violent clashes with authorities-were kept confined to the side of the road.

Local and state police dragged about 55 demonstrators across Route 1 after a call on a bull horn failed to clear the main gate. They were moved to the front of a luncheonette whose owner yelled to police, "Clear my driveway!"

By 9 a.m., all but 25-35 of the protesters had left the area.

State police and National Guardsmen-using fire hoses, attack dogs, pepper gas and clubs-kept the demonstrators from occupying the 146-acre construction site, which protest leaders had made their chief goal.

Thirty three demonstrators were arrested during the three-day assault, which ended Monday. Twenty five others were arrested when they occupied the headquarters of the Public Service Co., the major owner of the plant, 30 miles away in Manchester.

No serious injuries were reported. The protest was the second attempt in six months by anti-nuclear forces to storm the plant, which is due to begin operation in 1983. Two thousands protesters also failed to get inside the plant gates last October.

More than 1,800 demonstrators have been arrested in four years of demonstrations at Seabrook, which has become the focus of the anti-nuclear movement in the United States.

Despite their failure to occupy the site, some demonstrators labeled the protest a success.

"Our goals were achieved. We made the headlines two days in a row," said Joe Klein, 19, of Philadelphia. "I'm fairly happy. No one got really seriously hurt."

Hundreds of reporters were on hand for the demonstration, while television cameramen hovered overhead in helicopters.

Leaders of the Boston-based Coalition for Direct Action, which organized the protest, had hoped to get at least 2,000 people for the occupation attempt.

"We didn't go in because we didn't have enough people," said William Tereman of Lincoln, Mass.

Small roving bands of demonstrators, armed with grappling hooks and plywood shields, staged repeated guerrilla-like hit-and-run attacks on all sides of the 7-foot-high fence that surrounds the construction site.

At the same time, a larger group used large tree limbs and automobile parts in an attempt to put up barricades at Seabrook's two main gates.

Still others formed a human blockade, stalling traffic briefly several times along Route 1-the main thoroughfare in the coastal town of 2,300 residents-which was clogged with sightseers who had come to view the protest.

Police and National Guardsmen, stationed both inside and outside the fence, kept the protesters from breaking through with the aid of helicopters which quickly spotted attacks as soon as they occurred. Leaders were quickly singled out and arrested.

Bulldozers were brought in to clear away debris in front of the gates.

Town honors fallen heroes

By BETTY RYDER
Family Editor

MANCHESTER — The town honored its fallen heroes Monday and marchers, some 1,500 strong, stepped out in fine form, as residents lined the streets to join in the Memorial Day observance.

The parade, which formed at the Army & Navy Club on Main Street, proceeded up Main Street to East Center Street, pausing for a brief ceremony at Munro Park, where Monsignor Edward Reardon of St. James Church gave the eulogy, and then proceeded to Center Park on Main Street for the speaker's program.

At the park, Peter C. Sylvester, acting as master of ceremonies and Marino A. Gioielli, an Italian immigrant, served as parade marshal.

Mayor Stephen T. Penny said this Memorial Day held a special meaning for Americans as we remember the hostages in Iran and the men who died attempting to rescue them.

Speaking of all those who have given their lives for their country, he said, "We owe them a debt of gratitude and we must dedicate our lives to the principles for which they died."

Michael Ciszewski, a student at East Catholic High School, was the youth speaker and began his message with a recitation of "Flanders Field" by John McCrae.

Vincent Diana, attorney at law, was the principal speaker and recalled those dark war days when he too was called into the service of his country.

"When General John A. Logan, commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, issued the order designating May 30, 1868 as a holiday in which the graves of the soldiers of the civil war would be decorated, this holiday became known as Decoration Day. Today, the name of the holiday has been changed to Memorial Day and is now dedicated to the memory of all who died in all wars," he said.

"The sacrifices of the fighting men who lived through the war should not be forgotten. Not everyone was on the front line. A war is a large operation and requires the assistance of many hands. Many persons whose lives were disrupted should share in the glory that we remember today."

Atty. Diana concluded his Memorial Day message as President Abraham Lincoln did when he gave his famous address at Gettysburg on Nov. 19, 1863, dedicating the National Cemetery. "I would like to conclude my remarks today as Lincoln did then:

"These dead shall not have died in vain, that this nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom and that this government of the people, by the people, for the people shall not perish from this earth."

It was a warm, balmy day, with parents and children enjoying the great marching units. But, it was also a solemn day. Much of the festivities apparent in the State Loyalty Day Parade were absent. There was an air of quiet even when the bands played on. Perhaps, the mayor's message hit home, and many of the viewers were thinking of lost loved ones and the hostages still to be returned to their homes.

Manchester may well be proud of its marching units. There is nothing quite as touching as hearing Martha White and her Roundtable Singers, or listening to the Manchester High School and the Hill Junior High School bands set the musical pace.

The Sphinx Temple Band, always a favorite, pepped up the line of march, as did the popular Stewart Highlanders Pipe Band and the Bennett Junior High School band.

Five divisions of bands, fraternal and veterans organizations, along with the Manchester Police Department, participated making it a memorable Memorial Day.

The Stewart Highlanders Pipers played "Amazing Grace," the wreaths were laid, and Len Goodwin, intern at Emanuel Lutheran Church, offered the benediction. The Connecticut Army National Guard fired a salute and the Manchester High School buglers played taps. The crowds dispersed.

Primaries' outcome certain

By United Press International

Even before George Bush pulled out of the GOP race Monday, Ronald Reagan and President Carter were the clear favorites to win most of the 96 Democratic and 65 Republican delegates at stake in today's primaries in four states.

The voting in Kentucky, Arkansas, Idaho and Nevada was attracting little outside interest, since Reagan did not need the delegates and there were not enough Democratic delegates involved to put Carter over the top.

Low turnouts are predicted for all four primaries.

Reagan lost his only remaining major opposition when Bush conceded defeat at a news conference in Houston. By United Press International's delegate tabulation, he clinched the nomination when he reached 1,001 delegates over the weekend. Only 998 are needed.

UPI's figures show Carter still is 102 short of the 1,666 he needs, so the combined total in the four states today would be insufficient even if he scores a clean sweep.

Almost 700 Democratic and more than 400 Republican delegates will be at stake on "Super Tuesday" June 3, and it would take a miracle to stop him from winning enough to clinch the nomination that day-particularly since Sen. Edward Kennedy is contesting him seriously only in California, New Jersey and, to a lesser degree, Ohio.

The candidates have virtually ignored the four states that are voting this week. Bush was in Kentucky and Nevada briefly, and Kennedy made one visit to Nevada.

Kennedy campaigned in Kentucky for Gov. John Y. Brown before declaring his own candidacy last fall, but Brown later endorsed Carter.

Kentucky politicians expect Carter to win most of the state's 50 Democratic delegates, and some Kennedy supporters grumble about the lack of resources the senator's national staff put into the state.

Carter's campaign also expects to win some 90 percent of the vote in Arkansas, which has only a Democratic primary Tuesday.

Kennedy has a headquarters in Arkansas and Ethel Kennedy has campaigned for him there, but his prospects are not bright to win more than a handful of delegates.

Democratic straw balloting in Nevada recently showed Carter ahead of Kennedy by about 2-to-1-but with a big uncommitted segment.

Idaho Democratic voting is a beauty contest, with delegates already chosen at separate caucuses. They are committed eight to Carter, five to Kennedy and four uncommitted.

Millions of holiday travelers were back at home and work today, ending the long Memorial Day weekend, but hundreds of others were killed in highway traffic accidents.

At least 60 people were killed on California's highways, 24 in Illinois and 21 in Michigan.

The National Safety Council had estimated between 450 and 550 people would be killed in traffic accidents during the weekend. In 1979, 508 people died in Memorial Day holiday weekend traffic mishaps.

A land of immigrants

The United States is a land of immigrants, populated by those who fled oppression, persecution and totalitarianism in its many forms throughout modern history.

Yet we all have assimilated and have become "Americans." In another era there was an openness about America. An attitude of hospitality and friendship given those who wanted to carve a new, a better life for themselves on our shores.

They came to such places as Ellis Island in New York and endured many hardships, sickness, disease and even death to get near the land of the free.

Letters

Team concern

To the editor: An open letter to the townspeople of Andover. We, the undersigned Andover Team, are moved by a desire to share our feelings regarding our students, our school, our principal, and foremost, our community.

Over the past six years, since David Kravet accepted the position of principal of our Andover Elementary School, we have seen a continual improvement in the quality of education.

David Kravet sets high academic and interpersonal standards of performance for both students and staff through his example. Mr. Kravet has demonstrated the importance of total involvement in the academic and personal development of students, other teachers, and the Andover community as a whole.

Mr. Kravet conscientiously follows the progress of each student, and the classroom objectives of each teacher. In fact, Mr. Kravet routinely demonstrates new teaching methods in the classroom when requested. He continually works to revise and improve the curriculum.

Our students reap these benefits and annually reflect the same on improved Standardized Achievement Test scores. Mr. Kravet has consistently demonstrated the qualities of sincerity and leadership.

We have, for six years, had clear purpose and direction within the academic environment and community at large. Mr. Kravet provides the guidance necessary to work as a unified team toward the ambitious goal of encouraging each to become all he is capable of, a goal which we all share.

It is clear that the many difficult decisions Mr. Kravet's administration has made are out of the desire to do what is best for our Andover Elementary School. It is inevitable that some decisions will not please everyone, however, Mr. Kravet's leadership and clarity of purpose must be acknowledged.

We recognize that our children are exceptional in many ways. We frequently travel with our children. People notice the difference between our students and others. Users at the Bushnell compliment us on their behavior. Visiting performers frequently share surprise at how maturely our children attend and participate.

Substitutes routinely consider Andover to be a superior educational atmosphere. Our student teachers from a number of neighboring universities and colleges give us one of the largest student teacher to teacher ratios around.

A United Nations guard made a special effort to make us aware of how much better behaved our Grade 5 students were than the thousands her unbers daily.

Commentary As Miami goes ..?

Don Graff: How swiftly time passes and how easily we forget - or relegate events to the dimmer recesses of our collective recollection. Washington Merry-Go-Round U.S. trained Iranians after hostages taken

By JACK ANDERSON: WASHINGTON - Confidential Pentagon documents show that hundreds of Iranians were still getting military training in the United States more than five months after the U.S. hostages were seized in Tehran - indeed, up to three weeks before the aborted rescue mission. The presence of Iranian military trainees was made public when they were finally sent home in April after President Carter broke diplomatic relations with Iran.

Of the Iranians attending Air Force and Navy schools, "The majority of these students were enrolled in pilot and navigator training." Thus, less than a month before the disastrous military rescue attempt - while the U.S. commandos were under intensive training - the United States was also continuing to train members of the armed forces who would have been called on to resist the rescue mission. In fact, the Iranian military trainees were sent home in plenty of time to put their newly acquired skills to use against the same Air Force and Navy that had tutored them.

Troopers resume speed crackdown

HARTFORD (UPI) — State police today officially marked the return of warm weather with resumption of the federally funded "Operation Bear" crackdown on speeding and other motor vehicle violations.

A state police spokesman said radar units and truck squads would "saturnate" Interstates 94 and 95 in Connecticut from the New York to the Massachusetts border from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m.

"It's kind of the warm weather kick-off of Operation Bear," the spokesman said, explaining that today's operation was the first by the Blasket Enforcement and Radar squads since winter weather set in last year.

A contingent of 30 troopers in unmarked vehicles was scheduled to set up radar traps in both directions on the highway, with truck squads also out inspecting commercial vehicles for weight, safety, tax, fuel and permit violations.

State Public Safety Commissioner Donald J. Long said the location of the crackdown was disclosed because it wasn't aimed at netting a flood of arrests, but rather at slowing down motorists.

"Our purpose is to gain compliance, not make a list of arrests," Long said. "People know we are here and slow down then we have accomplished our goal."

He noted that state police had reduced non-compliance with the 55 mph speed limit to 57 percent on interstate highways. That figure is the percentage the state must obtain two years from now if it is to retain federal highway funds.

Long also reminded motorists that a new state law allowing motorists charged with traveling between 55 mph and 70 mph to pay fines by mail didn't take effect until July 1.

Anyone arrested in the meantime will have to make a mandatory court appearance as required under the previous law.

Cops probe slaying

NEW BRITAIN (UPI) — Police today investigated the circumstances which prompted the bludgeoning murder of a man whose alleged assailant was shot to death by a responding officer.

Police said an officer found John Pelletier, 67, lying in a pool of blood on the floor of a common kitchen in a boarding house Sunday. They said Zygmunt Makowski, 57, was found standing near Pelletier with a large bloody rock.

A witness had seen Makowski beat Pelletier with the stone and called police, authorities said. Police said Makowski lunged at Sgt. Ronald Minas and was shot twice by the officer.

"The sergeant observed the two men, one lying in a pool of blood and the second male was standing near the body," said Lt. Edwin Mercier. After repeated instructions to put down the stone he made a lunge at the sergeant.

Buckley says Soviets outpace U.S. in might

STRATFORD (UPI) — Republican U.S. Senate candidate James Buckley says the Soviet Union is outpacing the United States in military might to the point of "unquestioned superiority."

The former New York senator, speaking at the city's Memorial Day ceremony on Monday, said the U.S. military didn't have enough equipment or personnel to defend the nation's vital interests.

"We will always be able to count on the valor of our citizens when our brave men who gave their lives that we may continue to live in freedom by determining that we will never be unprepared to protect that freedom."

Body found near river

GLASTONBURY — Police discovered what they said was a "badly decomposed" male body on the banks of the Connecticut River in South Glastonbury near Tryon Street at 9:40 a.m. Monday.

Police have not been able to identify the body, but they said it looked as though it had been in the water for some time.

According to police, an autopsy will be performed today in Farmington. There were no visible signs of injury to the body, police said.

At the time of the discovery there were no missing persons reported in Glastonbury, but the department is requesting reports from other departments in state and out, on missing persons. The case is still under investigation.

The PTA Retirement Committee invites all former and present students and co-workers of Fredette's to join in his retirement celebration.

Also Monday, Buckley said it was the duty of the United Nations to enforce last week's decision by the international court ordering Iran to release the 53 American hostages.

"The U.N. must invoke every sanction within its power to force Iran to comply," he said. "This includes ordering the total embargo on all trade between Iran and every member state."

Opponents to expansion to discuss future plans

SOUTH WINDSOR — Opponents of the recently approved Gerber Scientific Co. expansion project are expected to meet again early this week to reach a final decision as to whether they will pursue legal appeal of the recent zoning approval.

Attorney Richard Tulliano of Rocky Hill, hired by Kelly Road resident Rocco Vicino to represent the group of residents opposed to the expansion, said a meeting last weekend did not result in a final decision.

The Planning and Zoning Commission voted to approve two site plans geared at a major expansion of the town's top taxpaying industry. One approval was given to the company's plan to build a 246,000-square-foot addition, and another to the firm's plan to widen Kelly Road.

Under state statutes, appeals of zoning matters must be filed within 15 days of the date of publication of the decision. Gerber must still gain approval from the Sewer Commission and the state Department of Environmental Protection on the sewer plan. The Conservation Commission must also approve plans for planting the buffer areas.

Approved by the Planning and Zoning Commission included a number of stipulations. George Gentile, Gerber's senior vice president in charge of finance, said the expansion project would create about 800 jobs within two or three years. He also said that the addition would mean that the firm will pay $391,000 in taxes annually. The firm now pays $227,000.

They knew the true meaning of freedom and we share their pride and sense of duty on this day."

Labor arguments go to arbitration

VERNON — With the custodians and secretaries union and the Board of Education unable to reach agreements on union contracts, the arguments have been turned over to a three-member binding arbitration panel for settlement.

The secretaries and custodians, represented by the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, Local 1303, have been working without a contract for almost a year.

The union and the school board have to have their arguments in to the arbitration panel within 30 days. School board member Harold Cummings, who is an attorney, is negotiator for the board. George Pitkat is president of the local union group.

Cummings said preliminary arguments on some 30 issues were presented to the panel Friday with Jerry Daniels representing the union and Don Strickland representing the town.

In March the union refused to agree to the terms presented by a fact-finder which had recommended an 8.5 percent salary increase for this school year and an 8.5 percent increase for the next school year. The school board approved the recommendation but the union employees didn't.

Bantam Hydroelectric Station
Erected 1905
Litchfield Connecticut

75 years ago it helped replace the oil lamp. Today it's helping us replace oil.

Interestingly, our newest source of energy won't come from the Mideast.

It will come from the Bantam Hydroelectric Station, built in 1905.

It is now being reactivated as part of our restoration program that includes two more hydro plants: Dwight Station at Chicopee, Massachusetts, and Turners Falls No. 1 at Montague, Mass. Water-powered generating plants such as these are a pollution-free, constantly renewable source of energy. These three revitalized facilities, plus a new hydro plant at Holyoke, Mass., will soon generate over 22,000 kilowatts of electricity cleanly, reliably, and economically. Their output will replace 124,000 barrels of oil annually, worth $3.2 million at today's prices. Oil that you won't have to pay for.

At Northeast Utilities, we are continually searching for new and better ways of assuring your energy future through technologies like solar power and laser fusion. But with the price of oil constantly rising, part of the solution today must be in increased hydro power.

That's why, in our determination to provide you with sufficient, reliable, affordable electricity, we have looked to our past to help meet your energy future. For at Northeast Utilities, looking back is just one more way we're moving ahead.

MACC News

Volunteers key to success of MACC programs

MANCHESTER—The work of the MACC of Churches will be continued in the community by loving and caring people like those of you reading this column.

Last week we made special mention of just a few of the senior volunteers among who transfer caring into an out stretched hand, a warm coat, a bag of groceries.

Volunteers help type, answer phones, staff the clothing bank and emergency pantry, operate cheer carts and talking books, help move furniture, work with children in the interfaith day camp, provide emergency transportation, plan ecumenical and interfaith worship services and shared activities.

We invite you to join this group of dedicated men and women by giving of your time and talent through MACC. Please don't be shy. Call 649-2083 or 646-4114 or write MACC, Box 774, Manchester, and share your ideas and dreams and, if you have time and abilities to share with others you'll find a number of opportunities waiting.

For those who have the intention and the caring but not the time or talent the physical capability, we invite you to join the work of the Conference by becoming a sponsor (title patron $25) or benefactor ($50 and over). Checks may be made payable to MACC and mailed to Box 774, Manchester. Contributions to any MACC program are tax deductible.

Once a year during MACC Awareness month we do actively recruit such financial support.

NEW SPONSORS: We welcome Margaret Korgiebel, Martin and Carol Ann Larsen and Barbara Falkowski, new MACC sponsors.

Just a reminder that the slide show depicting the work of MACC is available year round from the MACC office to interested clubs and organizations. Speakers are also available to talk about any of our Human Needs programs including Project Re-entry and Project Genesis.

It was a joy for me to share with the people of St. Mary's Episcopal at their services last Sunday and speak to Church Women United on Tuesday. Such opportunities are part of our ministry and not only provide us with an opportunity to share with you what is happening in MACC but an opportunity to hear from you your insights, perspectives and concerns.
