Funds requested for buffer strip

By PATRICK REILLY Herald Reporter

EAST HARTFORD—In one of the first requests by residents to make use of available federal community development funds town officials are seeking the use of $4,000 in CD funds to purchase 100 trees for a green buffer strip on Belden Street.

Tom DiBattista of 48 Belden St. who made the application, wants the buffer strip to separate the Belden Street homes from adjacent commercial firms. Assistant CD Coordinator Jeanne C. Webb said Thursday.

Mayor George A. Dagon is making the request that must be approved by the Town Council at its Tuesday night meeting and the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development.

DiBattista's application is only one of three made for $15,000 available under the self-help program of the CD fifth year block grant, Ms. Webb said. She said other applications included a request by Depaw Circle residents for a similar buffer strip and a request by East Hartford Estates apartment residents for improved lighting and playground equipment.

The mayor will also be asking the council Tuesday for approval of the town to enter a bus shelter project

Productivity hits new low

WASHINGTON (UPI)—U.S. industrial production slumped more in May than at any other time in five years as the shadow of recession began spreading across all sectors of the economy, the government reported Friday.

The Federal Reserve Board said the combined output of factories, mines and utilities plunged 2.1 percent last month. It was the fourth straight month of decline and came on the heels of a revised 2 percent drop in April.

"Reductions in output occurred in all major marketing groupings, and were particularly sizable for automotive products, home goods, construction supplies and durable goods materials," the report said.

The monthly decline in output was the largest since a 2.2 percent drop in February 1975, when the country was struggling through its worst economic disaster since the Great Depression.

At the end of May, the industrial production index stood at 145.5 — its lowest point in a year.

Friday's report suggests the election-year recession could prove much more severe than President Carter or his economic advisers have forecast.

"Obviously, this is not going to be a short and mild recession," said Lawrence Chimerine, chief economist for Chase Econometrics. "It's not just autos and housing anymore. Everything's being hit."

"And we've got quite a few months to go before this is over," Chimerine added in a telephone interview from Lake Tahoe, Nev.

"The pervasiveness of the decline is almost as great as it was during the last recession," said William Cox, Commerce Department deputy chief economist.

But Cox noted declines in various sectors of the economy still are not as steep as most drops recorded in the recession winter of 1974.

Lone salmon seen as fluke

GLASTONBURY—At first it was thought that maybe salmon would be populating the stream, but it turned out to be a freak occurrence.

Last Sunday, a local man caught a 31-inch Atlantic Salmon swimming in Roaring Brook in the Cotton Hollow Nature Preserve, according to Nancy Quigley, a resident of 822 Main St., South Glastonbury.

Initially, residents believed maybe salmon were spawning in the bright, clean brook. However, that is not the case.

According to Jim Moulton, a staff fishery biologist for the State Department of Environmental Protection, it was just an accident.

The man who caught the fish has been identified by Ms. Quigley as Tom McDonald, but he could not be reached for comment.

Moulton said salmon are not expected to populate Roaring Brook. However, Ms. Quigley said Friday other local residents have seen more this week.

"I think it is really exciting," she said. "This is a good sign, but the public should be told not to kill the fish. They should report it to the state," she said.

Both Ms. Quigley and Moulton said the fish was killed.

About 120 Atlantic salmon have returned from the sea as part of the Atlantic Salmon Restoration Project, according to Moulton. The project was started in 1967 to make salmon plentiful as a sporting fish in the Connecticut River.

He said the fish are expected to spawn in the Farmington River, the Salmon River in East Haddam and the upper reaches of the Connecticut in northern Connecticut and Massachusetts.

Since 1967 the state has released between 1,000 and 150,000 fish of its inches into the river each year.

Moulton said the fish found in Roaring Brook never spawned. He said salmon spawn in November.

However, Ms. Quigley said a game warden had indicated the fish had spawned before it was killed.

The fish run from Long Island Sound to the Hartford area, about a 47-mile trip, during the months of May and June to spawn, according to Moulton.

"The fish just hang around until November when they are ready to spawn," Moulton said.

"That brook is just too small to support salmon," he said.

Ms. Quigley said if the fish had not been killed, the man would have received a $500 reward for turning it over to the state, but instead he only received $25.

However, Moulton's story conflicts with her's. He said the man did not get the reward because he decided to keep the fish.

"He would have been given only $25 because the fish was dead. If he had turned it over to the state when it was alive, he would have received $125," Moulton said.

"However, we are encouraging anyone who sees the fish to call us and report it," Moulton said.

The town's environmental planner, John Pagini, said it has been about 10 years since salmon were prominent in the Connecticut River.

"The Connecticut River is quite clean. It is being used heavily right now for recreation, such as water skiing," Pagini said.

"Eventually, if they get established, the salmon will become a major sporting fish," Pagini said.

Worker responds to hard criticism

MANCHESTER—The man whose motorcycle was the subject of heated words between west side residents and town officials during Thursday night's West Side Action Group meeting at Washington Street never got the chance to answer the neighborhood's cries about the bike's alleged attractiveness to loiterers.

Friday Larry Morrison spoke out.

"I park my bike in front of the door so it won't be vandalized," he said. Morrison is an athletic instructor at the West Side Recreation Center. Thursday, angry parents said the bike's locale—near the center's door—was one contributing factor in recent instances of vandalism, although no specifics were ever presented to Police Chief Robert Lanman, Recreation Director Mel Siebold. Public Works Director Jay J. Giles and Town Manager Robert Weis, the officials on hand to hear a list of complaints from neighborhood residents.

Morrison, however, said the motorcycle is not only his only means of transportation to his $7,000 a year job he has held since April 1979, it represents a deterrent to the very loiterers the group was talking about.

Liquor prices

BRIDGEPORT (UPI) — A suit filed Friday in U.S. District Court seeks to have Connecticut's minimum markup liquor system declared in violation of federal anti-trust laws.

The suit against the state Division of Liquor Control was filed by four liquor store owners, who want "retail price competition," said their attorney, Alan Neiger of Westport.

"The basic law (anti-trust) does not allow people to get together and fix prices," said Neiger. "They're supposed to be in competition, but Connecticut law prohibits that."

Neiger said the suit sought a declaratory ruling from the court.

Under the mark-up regulations, the Liquor Control Division each month sets a minimum price on liquor. It includes an 11 percent mark-up on the wholesale price which stores must charge the public. If dealers sell below the minimum price, they face fines or the loss of their license.

Efforts faulted

BOSTON (UPI) — The exiled mayor of Hebron in the Israeli-occupied West Bank Friday denounced the Carter administration's efforts for peace as farcical as long as Palestinians are not included.

Mayor Fahd Kawameh and spokesmen for two Palestinian-allied organizations accused the Carter administration of trying to settle the Middle Eastern crisis by ignoring an entire people.

"Mr. Carter wants to solve the problems of the Middle East without the presence of the Palestinian people," he said. "How?"

Kawameh was joined by Nasser Aruri, spokesman for the Palestinian Congress of North America and Nabeel Abraham, director of the Association of Arab-American University Graduates in condemning the Camp David ac-

MHS honors outstanding students

MANCHESTER — An awards evening to honor outstanding students in various areas was held at Manchester High School Thursday night.

Presented by the administration and the school band commemorating the students.

Students receiving senior honors were: Linda Athar, Karen Benson, Faith Blette, Marie Brungetti, Rosemary Busky, Christine Cheney, Thomas Denko, Timothy DeValve, Nalni Dhar, Carol Donovan, Jeanne M. Bank also are trying to recoup from the profit squeeze they experienced when rates accelerated.

"There's been a squeeze on profit margins recently, but it's also very clear there's been a long-time erosion in banks' financial position," economist Anthony Boehch, editor of the Montreal-based Bank Credit Analyst, said.

"Banks are having a very difficult time keeping their capital base up in an increasingly unstable economic environment," he said.

Labor rate

Chase Manhattan Bank, the nation's third largest, and several other major banks lowered their prime rate to 12 percent Friday.

Since April, the prime has fallen from 20 percent and while still very high by historic standards, the 12 percent rate is the lowest since August 1979.

Besides Chase Manhattan, Morgan Guaranty, Irving Trust, Bankers Trust and Chemical Bank, all among the 20 largest commercial banks, went to the 12 percent rate.

Bank of America, the nation's largest, and No. 2 Citibank lowered their primes to 12 1/4 percent Thursday.

Banks have been slow to drop their business lending rates into line with sharply lower costs of other short-term funds. For one thing, banks still are paying high rates on certificates of deposit of six months and longer.

Wings of Morning Church always needed

By CLIFF SIMPSON
Just suppose that all of the "social problems" in the world were solved. No one would be hungry. It was safe to walk the streets at night. Everyone could read and write. Poverty became a thing of the past. Race hatred had disappeared and all nations "didn't learn war anymore." Prisons yielded and the hospitals were no longer needed. I am sure you can think of other matters that trouble people. Let's imagine, however, that they are all corrected and, as it were, we were back again in the Garden of Eden. Even so, we would still need the church.

I am in no way stating or even hinting that the church give up its social programs. And let me assure you a very large part of the business of the clergy and laity is seeking to relieve the miseries of the world. If you recall the wonderful work going on in Bali that I described last week, you will know what I mean. Jesus certainly gave us a mandate to feed the hungry and help all we meet along the Jericho road. To the skeptic who might feel that the Christian church has ignored this commitment, I suggest that you become familiar with the activities of The Manchester Area Conference as well as that of the Capital Region Conference of churches. It will surprise you and possibly amaze you.

There are large and very important areas of Christianity that concern society and the individual apart from social reform. Such questions as "What is the purpose of life?" "What do I do about feelings of jealousy, ambition, anger, irritation and all the so-called "spiritual problems?" "What about our prayer life and our whole to God?" and "Have you given yourself to the Lord?" "Is Jesus Christ your Lord and Savior?" "What about Life Eternal?" I believe the church has a major role to play in modern society. It was for this reason that I proposed some time ago "The International Year of the Church." Those who claim that we are living now in the "Post-Christian Era" have no support at all from me.

If someone were to start a collection of "after-dinner introductions," I would like to submit this one that happened some years ago in Springfield. I have forgotten the occasion and the topic of my lecture, but not the words of the chairperson. The hall was full. The ladies knew each other well for the conversation flowed fast and free. Finally, the president arose and said, "It is good to have you all here. You are having such a good time I cannot decide whether to let you go on enjoying yourselves or introduce Mr. Simpson."

Have you?
"Who shall deliver me from the body of this death? Have you ever cried these words after you have done something of which you are terribly ashamed, but burdened by a terrible sense of guilt from which you can find no release? Perhaps you punished much more severely than your sin deserved, you wrong your wife, you heavily damaged another car while drunk - whatever it was, you feel terrible. What shall I do? What can I do? One thing is to recall the glorious Luther's dream. No, it is not a legend but a fact that he was truly a dream that he had. He was standing in the Day of Judgment before God. Satan was there to accuse him; and when the books were opened, he pointed to transgression after transgression of which Luther was guilty. Luther's heart sank in misery and despair.

Then he remembered the Cross, and turning upon the devil, he said, "There is one entry thou hast not made, Satan."
"What is that?" asked the devil.
"It is this," answered Luther.
"The blood of Jesus Christ his Son cleanse us from all sin." (1 John 1:7)

I could not leave thee, Christ! For when I tried

Sunday

John Denver (pictured), whose previous recordings on special for TV have taken him to Alaska and the Caribbean, is going aloft in the HIGHER WE FLY, airing on ABC-TV, Sunday, June 15, an hour-long show dealing with the history of aviation.

It's a new setting for Denver, whose music more often reflects nature than technology. But a devoted pilot in private life, Denver knows the beauty of flight—a beauty he shares with his viewers in "The Higher We Fly."

How to stay on top of best refund offers

By MARTIN SLOANE
DEAR SUPERMARKET SHOPPER - It took me quite a while to find the best sources for refund offers. But now that I have some dependable trading partners and more than 100 returns to choose from, I have another problem.

I find that I forgot about some of these excellent offers until it is too late to accumulate the required proofs of purchase. In these times of inflation, it is important to remember the best of these refund offers—Mrs. K. from New York.

DEAR MRS. K.—When you obtain a refund, you get a stamp in the upper right corner of the envelope and address it as you would any other refund request. In the upper right corner where the stamp usually goes, write the expiration date and the number and type of proofs required.

DEAR MARIE—Post cards save time and money. But refunders who attach proofs of purchase to post cards should be warned that the proofs may come loose in transit. Also be sure that the weight of the post card plus anything attached to it does not exceed 1 ounce. That is all you are allowed for your 10 cents.

DEAR LUCY—When you take your cash-register tapes to the supermarket to claim your luggage, explain the situation to the store manager. Show him one of your refund forms that requires a register tape.

The manager should be able to void the tapes so that they cannot be used again for the luggage. He can then give the tapes back to you so they can obtain your refunds.

CLUES ACROSS:
1. CHASE. "chase" is an adjective (CHEAP) rather than a noun (chase). A chase, in the appropriate sense, is a description.
2. LONELY. Not lonely. The clue applied better to a quality of characterization, as in the case of LONELY. To portray a lonely person requires a gift to be an "outward" actor.
3. BRAIN. Not brain. It's difficult to relax in one's BRAIN as crowded with thoughts and considerations. Since all travel is hardly regarded as relaxing anyway, there is little point in specifying "a crowded brain."
4. TIP. Not tip. A TIP is characterized only on the floor. On the floor, there is a particular reason to remain the rank.
5. TAUNTED. Not taunt. TAUNT is notably wrong. Taunt, used with other ingredients in puddings, is not especially known or esteemed for its own taste.
6. WEEDY. Not weed. PRY causes displeasure. One can just as easily snuff a weed rather than causing a weed to grow.
7. TAUNTED. Not taunt. TAUNT is notably wrong. Taunt, used with other ingredients in puddings, is not especially known or esteemed for its own taste.

Alright now, I'm putting out an S.O.S. sign calling for help. I went ahead and volunteered our services to stuff envelopes with some important information that will be going to just about everybody's home. Now I need as many ladies and men who can spare a few hours either in the morning or afternoon this coming Wednesday. It is for a worthy cause and will certainly be appreciated. So I sure hope that you'll show up anytime after 9 a.m. because I'm counting on you.

Back to trips again, and the bus to Fall River, Mass. is now full and will be leaving the center here at 8 a.m., meaning those going must arrive around 7:30 a.m. Also some of you folks haven't paid yet, because we weren't sure the bus was going and now we are asking to please drop by first soon, like Monday, and pay up. The trip is scheduled for Thursday, June 26.

Coventry sets vote on budget

COVENTRY — A referendum on the Town Council's proposed $5.77 million budget for 1980-81 will be held June 24 from 6 a.m. to 8 p.m. The date was set by townspeople at a town budget meeting Friday night.

Several residents objected to the loss of their right to adjust the budget at a public meeting, but adjournment of the meeting to a referendum is mandated by state law.

At the start of the Friday night meeting, Town Clerk Ruth Benoit said she had verified that there were 222 legal signatures on petitions which called for a referendum vote on the budget.

The $5.77 million budget proposal is 13 percent over the 1979-80 budget. The first proposal was forced by petitions to referendum, and it was rejected by 13 votes on May 20. The new proposal is being supported by the Board of Education, which called for rejection of the first budget.

Anti-draft protesters on the march again

HARTFORD (UPI) — A handful of young men and women — saying they were the vanguard of Connecticut's anti-draft movement — Friday picketed a downtown post office to protest the revival of military registration.

The 20 or so demonstrators, representing a number of anti-draft organizations around the state, vowed to keep up the Friday afternoon vigils outside the State Street post office indefinitely.

They said if military registration passed Congress — as seems likely — "a massive" protest would accompany the first batch of 19 and 20 year olds to sign up with the Selective Service in Hartford.

The Senate Thursday passed a bill providing $13.3 million to carry out the registration program proposed by President Carter after the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan.

The House has already passed the bill and is expected to again approve it when the measure returns with a minor Senate amendment, probably next week.

Volunteers honored

The Community Child Guidance Clinic Inc. in Manchester, currently celebrating its 20th anniversary, held its annual dinner meeting and honored its volunteers on June 12.

Mrs. Peggy Hohmann of Andover, who serves as volunteer fund drive coordinator, was honored for 391 hours of volunteer service. She was presented with two Audubon books in appreciation.

Mrs. Hohmann rejoined the volunteer ranks in March 1979 after 15 years as director of public relations for Connecticut Trails Council of Girl Scouts which served 35,000 girls, 5,000 adults, had a half-million annual budget and served 94 Connecticut towns plus Fishers Island, N.Y.

Commenting on her volunteer role, Mrs. Hohmann said, "The challenge given to me was to raise $227,000 of which we have $202,561. The people I've met are the most wonderful, cooperative, dedicated people—whether they have helped ask for money or if they are the ones who have considered our request.

"Our goals were realistic. Our needs were viable. We couldn't miss, especially if we were willing to work hard and keep at it."

Professionally, Mrs. Hohmann had served on the Public Relations Committee of the United Way of Greater New Haven, the Legislative Committee of the Advertising Club of Greater Hartford, Community Advisory Committee of WNHG-Channel 8, and coordinated Connecticut Girl Scouting with the Governor's office.

Mrs. Hohmann, who was honored for 391 hours of service, said, "My qualifications in accepting a volunteer assignment are that it will be a challenge to my skills and will involve me with many new people. This job has certainly done both."

Nicklaus on record pace

Look of despair

Jack Nicklaus grimaces after his ball failed to fall on 14th green in second round of U.S. Open. Nicklaus fired one-over-par 71 to hold early second round lead. (UPI photo)

SPRINGFIELD, N.J. (UPI) — Proving in the only way possible that reports of his demise are premature, grand master Jack Nicklaus set yet another record Friday to assume a two-stroke lead midway through the U.S. Open.

Nicklaus, consigned to the history books by many after going winless for two years, followed his record-equaling opening round of 63 with a surprising 1-over-par 71. His 36-hole total of six-under 134 is the lowest score ever at this stage of the Open.

"I came out with the attitude of being as positive and aggressive as I could," said the 46-year-old Nicklaus, who maintained his poise even after a bogey-double bogey on the 11th and 12th holes. "I had the opportunity to leave the field behind with a good round, and I'll have the same opportunity tomorrow. I would presume."

A prominent personality with no opportunity at all in Severiano Ballesteros, the dashing young Spaniard who was disqualified when he arrived at the first tee seven minutes after his scheduled tournament time. P.J. Boatwright, executive director of the United States Golf Association, said he couldn't remember a similar incident in at least 20 years during an Open.

Although Ballesteros, who was in danger of missing the cut anyway following an opening-round 75, first told some friends that he might never play in another U.S. Open, he later admitted he had mistaken his starting time.

Mike Reid, the first-round leader of the 1976 Open as an amateur, had the day's low round of 67 to share second place with Japan's Isao Aoki, who had a 68, and Keith Fergus and Lon Hinkle, both with 70.

Reid, who had to qualify for the Open last week although he has had eight finishes in the top seven this year, had only three bogeys in two days while the 37-year-old Aoki required only nine putts over the closing nine holes and 23 for the round.

Mark Hayes, following a 71, was at 137, while Tom Weiskopf, who shared honors with Nicklaus with an opening round of 63, faded to a 75 to share seventh place at two-under 138 with Pat McGowan (69).

Tom Watson, thanks to an eagle on the 13th hole when he chipped in from 100 feet, came through with a 69 that put him at 139 along with Peter Jacobsen, also with a 69.

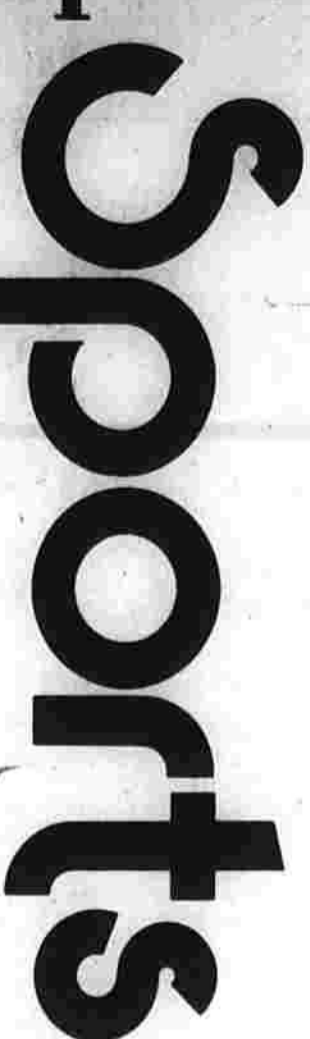

"I shot myself back into the tournament on the last two holes," said Watson, who had birdied the 17th hole. "That's a very big lift psychologically because it puts me under par and leaves me only five strokes off the lead."

A six-foot putt, a shot he called his most important of the day, saved par on the 13th hole, and Nicklaus managed another birdie with a five-foot putt on 17.

"I played very well, very similarly to yesterday, except all the putts I hit yesterday went in and today they stayed on the lips of the cups," Nicklaus said. "But a 71 is always a good round in the U.S. Open."

The previous record of 135 for the first 36 holes of the Open was set by Mike Souchak in 1960 and equaled by Bert Yancey in 1968 and Watson in 1975.

Among those grouped at even-par 140 were Irwin (70), Craig Stadler (67), Gene Littler (68), J.C. Slocum (71), Tommy McGinnis (71), Lee Trevino (72) and Mark Lye (72).

Pair shares lead at LPGA tourney

DANVERS, Mass. (UPI) — Dale Lundquist nailed birdies on the 16th and 18th holes Friday to catch 1979 Ladies of the Year Beth Daniel for a share of the lead halfway through a $150,000 LPGA tournament.

Lundquist, the surprise first-day leader who has yet to win a tournament in four years on the tour, trailed Daniel by two shots with three holes to play. But she dropped a bogey on the par 18th and tapped in a birdie after narrowly missing an eagle on the par 5 18th for a round of 70 and a two-day total of six under par 138.

Daniel, who has won one year of the six-year-old title, was in a hole-in-one on the 18th hole to tie Lundquist, who also had a hole-in-one on the 18th hole. Lundquist's 70 and Daniel's 70 are the lowest scores ever at this stage of the tournament.

Ali case dismissed

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — A federal court jury Friday cleared former heavyweight champion Muhammad Ali of charges in a $20 million slander suit that he defamed two promoters of his 1978 title fight against Leon Spinks.

The two white promoters, Jake DiMaggio and Philip Cicciaccio, claimed Ali referred to them as "them white niggers" during a post-fight news conference.

The all-white jury of four women and two men deliberated 3 1/2 hours after a five-day trial. Ali, who testified Monday, sat at the defense table throughout the trial looking bored.

The juried verdict was announced after the jury filed out. All urged his lawyers and kissed his wife Veronica.

"This proves that there's justice for people of all colors," Ali told reporters outside the federal courtroom downtown. "I don't look at it as a white jury. They were judging us on the facts."

"America is the greatest country in the world when it comes to receiving justice — in most cases."

The impromptu news conference broke up when Ali shouted "Let's talk about Larry Holmes!" and the crowd responded "Holmes! Holmes! Holmes!"

Champion of champs celebrates

Only one man has managed to win every major golf tournament at the Manchester Country Club, Earl Balsieper.

The former all-around athlete, who still manages to play golf, has held membership in the Manchester Club for 53 years.

Among his conquests in club competing have been the Club Championship, Governor's Cup, President's Cup, Senior's Tournament, Calcutta and Two-Ball Championship.

Balsieper also scored a hole-in-one, although it took him 37 years before performing the feat. The ace was recorded a week before his 72nd birthday.

Letter winner in baseball, football and track during his days at South Manchester High School, he was a member of the 1931 team which copped the state school-boy championship.

Balsieper is quite a guy.

Behind the combined two-bid pitching of Jim Balsano and Dave Bidwell, Moriarty Blosked the Imaginers 11-0, in Twilight Baseball League action last night at Moriarty Field.

The win was the Gas Housers' second in a row and pegs their mark at 5-2. The Imaginers are now 3-5.

The victory pushes Moriarty's towards the top of the league with 10 points.

Moriarty's scored four times in the first inning and added five in the second and closed out the scoring with two runs in the sixth.

Bill Chapuis, Steve Chotiner and Ray Sullivan were among the leading hitters for Moriarty's Chotiner has three hits, Sullivan two and Chapuis had a big double.

The players involved are and the teams that chose them are: Vanderbilt's Charley Davis (Los Angeles), Walker Forest's Frank Johnson (Denver), Oregon State's Steve Johnson (Detroit), LSU's Durand Macklin (New Jersey), Texas A&I's Ed Williams (Atlanta) and Florida's Mickey Dillard (Atlanta).

A 10th selection, Louisville senior then made him assistant coach.

CHICAGO (UPI) — Keith Magnuson today was named the new coach of the Chicago Black Hawks, succeeding Eddie Johnston, General Manager Bob Pulford announced.

Magnuson spent all his 11 years in the National Hockey League with the Hawks before retiring just three games into the 1979-80 season because of knee problems. He was named assistant coach last year.

Pulford said he was disappointed negotiations with Johnston failed to produce agreement but said he has "no hesitancy in turning the dressing room over to Keith."

"There is no doubt in my mind that Keith is to be a National League coach and during the past year watching him work as assistant coach," Pulford said.

"The qualities that made Keith a success in the past — his intelligence, his desire and his willingness to work hard at any task — will make him a success in his new job as coach of the Chicago Black Hawks."

"Keith is a born leader."

Magnuson, 33, announced his retirement as a defenseman last year, saying his injured knee was hampering his performance. Pulford then made him assistant coach.

Mets 'magic back' at least for while

NEW YORK (UPI) — Saying "the Magic is Back" was one thing. Proving it was something else.

But Fred Wilpon, the new president and chief executive officer of the New York Mets, is making progress on his vow to restore a touch of sorcery to Shea Stadium.

Suddenly, double-play grounders bounce away from opposing fielders; eighth place hitters drive in game-winning runs and long-absent fans not only pay their way in but even cheer the rain delays.

"It's unbelievable, very upbeat," Wilpon said recently while reflecting on the ballclub's resurgence in the standings and at the box office. New York, after sweeping a three-game series from Los Angeles, was on a 16-3 streak and was making the subway platforms and expressways around the ballpark swell with fans wearing blue and orange caps.

"I'm hoping we can sustain some of the excitement," continued Wilpon, who with Nelson Doubleday spent the better part of $1,000,000 to obtain the club in January. "I think the team is going to sustain the feeling they can win. I think it's an important feeling for any team."

Wilpon, a dapper man who is more comfortable than the private Doubleday, can. He spends the hours before game-time wandering the park, making sure things get done, monitoring the work of employees.

"It's part of the job," he said. "Because unless you attend to details, things won't get done. We're looking at our ushers to make sure they are courteous. Every time they're nice to somebody they tell us. Every time you're not nice to somebody they tell 30 people."

So far this season, Met fans have been treated to a refurbished ballpark; music tapes geared to the flow of the game; special giveaways; added promotions and most of all, strong indications of an ownership that cares. It's not difficult imagining both the Yankees and the Mets drawing very well in coming years. Wilpon's thumb is in the game.

"Both teams are very popular," Wilpon said. "There's plenty of room for both teams."

Nevertheless, the fans still are demanding performance on the field and so far the Mets have delivered improvement over some of their recent dreary finishes.

They have their most glamorous player, Lee Mazzilli, in center field; a strong fielder and timely hitter at first in Mike Jorgensen; a nifty double-play combination of shortstop Frank Taveras and second baseman Doug Flynn; a steady Elliott Maddux at third and a strong pitching staff anchored by right-hander Craig Swan.

"We have good pitching and a strong defense," manager Joe Torre said. "The two go hand in hand. How far can it take us? I don't know."

Wilpon has restored so much magic that fans are beginning to make comparisons to 1969, the year of the miracle championship, and 1973, the year the Mets stole the pennant.

Ali case dismissed

NEW YORK (UPI) — Nine selections in Tuesday's National Basketball Association draft have been ruled improper after direct consultation with their colleges revealed that the players have remaining collegiate eligibility.

The NBA Board of Governors last year adopted a rule that limited the drafting of college players with remaining eligibility only to those who applied in writing to the league office 45 days in advance of the draft.

Joe Axelson, NBA Director of Basketball Operations, explained the reasoning behind the rule.

"If a player with remaining eligibility has not already decided to leave school, the NBA does not want to put its clubs in the position of encouraging that player to forego a remaining year in college."

Inconsistency marked Cheney Tech season

By LEN AUSTER Herald Sportswriter

Up and down, in and out, inconsistency is the best way to look back at the 1980 baseball season experienced by Cheney Tech.

The Beavers scored 150 times and had a team batting average of .295 (171 for 580). That was the positive side. But on the negative Cheney's opponents tallied 120 markers and were recipients of 129 bases on balls in 141 innings of Tech hurling.

"Inconsistency didn't know what they were going to do when we went out there," reflected Tech Coach Aaron Silvia, who gives up the reins after three years. He posted a 28-29 mark in that span.

"It was dramatic to go from 230 (team batting average) to 295. Several had very good years. But it was frustrating to be hitting well and losing," Silvia remarked.

Cheney, which finished 9-11 and out of post-season consideration, at one point had won eight of 15 starts. But four consecutive losses spelled doom to state tournament aspirations as a "stopper" couldn't be found.

"We didn't have one kid who could go out and win. We didn't have someone we could count on," Silvia looked back.

"The season was a disappointment in that we didn't qualify (for the state tournament) again," he continued.

Cheney qualified in 1979, finishing with a 12-8 mark. "I felt we had the talent, but like I said, at the beginning of the season I didn't know how the kids would hold up in game situations."

"I felt the pitching would (hold up) but it didn't. When we did get good pitching, we got bad fielding. Things just didn't seem to work out."

Senior Tom Martin led the Beaver batters with a sizzling 508 batting average, 33-for-65. He led the club in homers (5), stolen bases (13), runs scored (16) and was second league RBI man with 20. Senior Mike Nicholson was second top hitter at a .353 clip (18 for 51) and he drove in 11 runs.

Chris Vann, third baseman Tom Martin, was third in batting at .348 (24 for 69) and had a team-leading 10 RBIs. Chuck Dumez was also over the 300 mark at .304 (21 for 69) with 18 RBIs.

Dumez, senior southpaw, was expected to be Cheney's top hurler but wound up with a 2-5 won-lost mark. He walked 46 in 48 1/3 innings with a 6.33 ERA. "When he was good the kids weren't behind him. But there were days he wasn't good."

Nicholson, Martin, Vann, Dumez and outfielders Rich Tamiso, Mo Harrison and Wally Colpitts are among the list of graduates.

Mikoleit, 2-3, and Eaton, 3-2, hurled 41 and 38 innings respectively. They'll be joined by sophomore Jeff Smith, who did the bulk of the hurling for the highly successful Tech jayvee squad.

There is a nucleus for 1981, but improved consistency is a must for the Beavers to be successful.

All-CCIL spring teams

By LEN AUSTER Herald Sportswriter

All-Central Connecticut Intercollegiate League (CCIL) teams for the spring season have been selected. It was announced by Dick Danielson, league secretary.

Voting in each sport was conducted by the coaches.

Manchester High had three selections to the baseball team, which rostered 15 players (two catchers, five infielders, four outfielders, three pitchers and a designated hitter). Tabbed were catcher Dave Parks, outfielder Alex Britnell and pitcher Shawn Spears. Spears posted a 7-2 mark.

Also picked were three from Penney High — first baseman Pete Cae, outfielder Mark Anderson and pitcher Paul Pires — while East Hartford High had one selection, pitcher Kevan Hickey.

Manchester also had three picks to the all-CCIL girls' softball team. Selected were pitcher Lynn Wright, second baseman Lisa Tilden and outfielder Lori Neubel. This was the third consecutive year Tilden received all-league honors. She, in three years, collected nine varsity letters.

Marcy MacDonald, who received Class LL All-State recognition as a catcher, did not make the all-CCIL squad.

Suit filed

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — A suburban couple has filed a class-action suit against the Philadelphia Phillies, charging that Monday night's 7 1/2-hour rain-delayed game with the San Francisco Giants should have been called off.

The suit was filed in Philadelphia Common Pleas Court by Matthew Averback and his wife, Margaret, on behalf of fans who paid to see the game. It asks that fans be given a refund or a ticket to a future game. The suit names the Phillies, the National League and Robert Engel, identified as chief umpire for the game. The marathon contest began at 7:35 p.m. Monday and ended 3:11 a.m. Tuesday. The Giants won, 3-1.

Seve late, disqualified

SPRINGFIELD, N.J. (UPI) — Seve Ballesteros, the wisecracking Spaniard who came here to conquer the world, was ignominiously disqualified from the U.S. Open Friday when he arrived late for his second-round tee off.

"I thought my tee time was 10:45. I left the hotel at 9:25 and the trip took us longer than usual," said Ballesteros in a statement. "I was very hot when I heard the decision and that's why I left quickly. I didn't want to say anything I'd be sorry for. I am very disappointed but that's the facts."

Privately, however, he was critical of the way the incident was handled.

Nicholson, Martin, Vann, Dumez and outfielders Rich Tamiso, Mo Harrison and Wally Colpitts are among the list of graduates.

Mikoleit, 2-3, and Eaton, 3-2, hurled 41 and 38 innings respectively. They'll be joined by sophomore Jeff Smith, who did the bulk of the hurling for the highly successful Tech jayvee squad.

There is a nucleus for 1981, but improved consistency is a must for the Beavers to be successful.

Testoni second team selection

Steve Testoni of Manchester Community College has been named designated-hitter on the National Collegiate Athletic Association All-American second team.

Testoni batted a robust .405 this spring as he led the team in hits with 34 and slugging percentage, .607. The outfielder, where he says he "had a decent year, maybe .320, as a good outfielder and a shaky pitcher. I was mostly a hustler, went hard all the time."

After that, his attentions turned to football. He was a two-way player at Ferris High as a running back and a defensive back. Following graduation in 1977, he spent most of the next two years working before returning to school and dusting off his spikes to give baseball another shot, albeit seemingly a longshot.

Testoni (discus) and Chris Cheney (400). Penney's representatives were Kim Dunn (100 and 300 hurdles), Cindy Arico (1500 and 3000), Laura Pomeroy (300 hurdles), Diana Estess (1500 and 3000) and East Hartford High's lone all-league selection was Meg Prior (800).

Marcy MacDonald, who received Class LL All-State recognition as a catcher, did not make the all-CCIL squad.

Muddler minnow

I take a lot of teasing about my use of a Muddler Minnow when fly fishing for trout. In fact, one of my good friends who is an excellent fly tier and entomologist, told I am a maverick, and a disgrace to the sport, "fraternity," because I use a Muddler quite often in the middle of a hatch, and I take fish.

If the Muddler doesn't work, then I will go to the nearest imitation of the natural insect that is hatching. However, I find, that a small Muddler fished in amongst nymphs struggling on the surface of the water, will take fish. Even though this fly bears no resemblance to the natural snuckling its skin, I am confident that it does not harm the fish, causes the trout to strike out of sheer impulsive instinct. Hence my success with the fly during hatches.

The interesting thing about the Muddler, is that it is perfected many years ago by a fly tyer named Don Gagen, and it was used to imitate the sculpin minnow. The sculpin is a broad headed bait fish, that is found in most rivers, streams, and lakes in the United States. P-retratory fly that feed on bait fish, i.e. trout, bass, pickerel, perch, etc., will feed on this fly. As a bait fish imitation, this fish really caught on.

"Tag" gold times

After that, his attentions turned to it came about a year ago in Northern Maine. The camp operator, at the fish camp we were staying at, had a really neat fly, called a Tag fly, which had been proven fish getters in that part of Maine. Most of the dries imitated the hatches that were indigenous to the area. The bucktails and streamers were beautifully tied classic patterns for the north country. Black Ghost, Mickey Finn, Grey Ghost, Wardens Worry, Dark and Light Tigers, etc. However, in two trays, were piled a large assortment of ugly greyish brown flies, with large bulbous heads tied of deer hair, clipped shorts. What in the world are those monstrosities?" I asked.

Bought them from a fly tyer out of Mass. Claims they work like crazy. Haven't sold too many of them, except to one fellow. He bought

Region Vernon merchants informed of highway construction plans

By BARBARA RICHMOND Herald Reporter

VERNON — "I'd like to say we could arrange out format to satisfy everyone," James Burns, district engineer for the Bureau of Highways, state Department of Transportation (DOT) told Vernon Circle merchants at a meeting Friday.

The meeting was sponsored by the Rockville Area Chamber of Commerce. While it's too late to get the state to make any changes in the plans to widen Interstate 86, state officials did enlighten the merchants as to a projected time schedule for the reconstruction.

Burns said construction, which has already started in the circle area, will basically be in five stages and should be completed by November 1982. He said construction work has been set up so as to hopefully create the least number of problems to drivers.

"They are now in Stage 1 which is the reconstruction of the Vernon Circle and Kelley Road area. Burns said while work will be going on around it, the actual circle will be there until some time in 1982.

After the work is completed, and the circle is gone, and the new flyover is in operation, a complete new traffic signal system will be installed but the present intersection, on Route 86, to the Tri-City Shopping Plaza, will remain. All traffic signals will be synchronized, he said.

Burns said anyone heading north will be able to bypass the circle area by using the new flyover. He said it will lessen traffic problems in the area.
