Challenge pondered over GOP alternate

By MARY KITZMANN Herald Reporter

MANCHESTER — A challenge to the Manchester GOP alternate delegation for the U.S. Senate seat endorsement, between Richard Bozzuto, and James Buckley, is being considered by the East Hartford delegation.

Following controversy surrounding the selection of delegates to the July convention, Joan Stuka, Republican town committee chairwoman, says she will seek a State Central Committee ruling and a floor challenge is a possibility.

However, Mrs. Stuka said no definite challenge plans have been made, and that she is seeking more information before a decision.

"We're not looking for a floor fight," she said. "But it is a consideration if I felt that something was not done by the party rules."

The alternate list make-up was questioned when one Manchester delegate decided not to attend the convention to choose between the former New York Senator James Buckley, and state Senate Minority Leader Richard Bozzuto.

Peter Sylvester, town director, expected to fill the spot of Shirley Bjorkman, but then it was announced that the alternate selection would be made by the full delegation, and not be hand-chosen.

There was speculation Sylvester was not given the spot because unlike the majority of Manchester's delegation he supports Bozzuto for the GOP endorsement.

However, a precedent was found involving towns which are split into two State Senate districts. According to Robert Von Deck, GOP town committee chairman, the delegation votes as town representatives and not as state district representatives.

This means that the delegation does not have to be balanced according to residency requirements. Mrs. Bjorkman's chosen alternate had been ruled out for the delegate seat based on a regulation that said the delegation should be balanced according to residents in the Senate District 4 and 3. Under the precedent the town committee picked alternates could stand, denying Sylvester the spot.

The only way for the delegation or alternate make-up to change is through a floor challenge at the convention. Mrs. Stuka, who supports Bozzuto, said the selection was "Manchester's problem" but "there was still a lot to find out."

The delegate fight between the two candidates has become fierce in the past several weeks with charges of false endorsements on both sides.

Von Deck said today that he did not know of any plans to challenge the alternate selection, but that it "was always a possibility."

He also said one delegate, Carol Kuehl, was not attending the convention. He also said it was a possibility that Shirley Bjorkman, who later had said she would attend, might go to the Hartford convention after all. If all the delegates attended the convention, a floor challenge to the alternates would be moot.

But Von Deck said he hoped that another town would not try to discredit Manchester.

Other party sources have said that a floor challenge would be looked upon as a challenge to the leadership of the Manchester's town committee.

Top court upholds ban on funding of abortions

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court today upheld the congressional ban on federal financing of most welfare abortions, and said states are required to finance the operation only when federal funds are available.

The majority said Congress' funding restrictions, known as the Hyde Amendment after its sponsor, Rep. Henry Hyde, R-Ill., do not violate the First or Fifth Amendments to the Constitution.

"Although Congress has opted to subsidize medically necessary services generally, but not certain medically necessary abortions, the fact remains that the Hyde amendment leaves an indigent woman with at least the same range of choice in deciding whether to obtain a medically necessary abortion as she would have had if Congress had chosen to subsidize all health care costs at all," Justice Potter Stewart wrote for the majority.

"We are thus not persuaded that the Hyde Amendment impinges on the constitutionally protected freedom of choice recognized in a prior court ruling."

In a second 5-4 vote, the court said states are not obligated to pay for medically necessary abortions for which federal reimbursement is not available.

In the case of federal funding for abortions, Stewart said the Hyde Amendment "places no governmental obstacle in the path of a woman who chooses to terminate her pregnancy by other means, by means of unequal subsidization of abortion and other medical services, encourages alternative activity deemed in the public interest."

As it now stands, the Hyde Amendment allows federal financing of abortions only to save the woman's life or in cases of pregnancy from rape or incest that are properly reported to authorities.

Although the Constitution protects citizens against unwarranted governmental interference, Stewart said, "it does not confer an entitlement to such funds as may be necessary to realize all the advantages of that freedom."

"To hold otherwise would mark a drastic change in our understanding of the Constitution," Stewart said. Stewart agreed with the government argument that the Hyde Amendment bears a rational relationship to its "legitimate interest in protecting the potential life of the fetus."

But Justice William Brennan wrote for the dissenters that "the state's interest in protecting the potential life of the fetus cannot justify the exclusion of financially and medically needy women from the benefits to which they would otherwise be entitled solely because the treatment that a doctor has concluded is medically necessary involves an abortion."

Brennan said the court had departed from its 1973 landmark ruling that a woman's constitutional right to privacy protects her right to an abortion.

"The Hyde Amendment's denial of public funds for medically necessary abortions plainly intrudes upon this constitutionally protected decision, for both by design and in effect it serves to coerce indigent pregnant women to bear children that they would otherwise elect not to have."

Today's ruling comes after four years of controversy over Congress' authority to ban free abortions.

It first arose in 1976 when Congress limited the availability of federal funds for medically necessary abortions. Every year since then, Congress has passed a version of the Hyde Amendment.

Cummings blasts Walsh on ballot 'double dipping'

By MARY KITZMANN Herald Reporter

MANCHESTER — Democratic Town Committee Chairman Ted Cummings said today that state Rep. Robert "Skip" Walsh would be "plenty hurt" by petitioning to appear on the ballot line of presidential candidate John Anderson.

Continuing his criticism of candidates who obtained petitions to appear on both the party line and the Anderson line in the November elections, Cummings said that Walsh, and others, took the petitions at "their own peril."

Walsh, of Coventry, is among four candidates that Manchester delegates are considering for the endorsement to the state senate seat in District 4. Manchester's endorsement is particularly important since its delegation is the largest among the eight-town district.

Although the delegation has had presentations from the candidates no decision has been made on an endorsement, but it is expected soon.

Walsh has said that he took out the petitions to prevent Republicans from taking advantage of the Anderson line. However, Carl Zisser, the frontrunner seeking the GOP nomination, has said he has no intention of seeking a spot on the Anderson line.

Cummings calls the petitions, "the worse kind of political double dipping that one could think of."

"This is the kind of hypocritical action that make people think less of politicians," he said. "Either a candidate is a Democrat, a Republican, or an Anderson backer."

Cummings severely criticized state Rep. Walter Joyner, R-Manchester, for obtaining the

Solon asks court to stop line use

HARTFORD (UPI) — Sen. William Curry, D-Farmington, acting as "an aggrieved party," today asked a federal court to block candidates of other parties from using the John Anderson ballot line.

Curry, seeking re-election, filed a suit in U.S. District Court charging the rush by candidates to be placed on the line with the independent presidential candidate was "fundamentally unfair and deceptive."

But the young lawmaker didn't know what kind of solution could be reached to plug the loophole in the state election laws and he acknowledged the issue was created by the political system and could be perceived as so much "political strategy."

Curry said the suit asks for a temporary injunction directing Secretary of State Barbara Kennedy to refuse any further petitions to be placed on the Anderson ballot which can give candidates a place on two ballots.

Curry said the procedure allowing candidates to lock a hold on the Anderson line for their particular office violated the U.S. Constitution because it denied Anderson the right to form a political party.

"It is an intent to deceive the public and is unconscionable," Curry told a news conference.

He said the Anderson coalition should have the right to select candidates who conform to the political persuasion of the Illinois congressman.

Curry said the suit was filed on behalf of "every citizen and voter" and said he was acting as "an aggrieved party."

Curry is facing a challenge by Republican candidate Charles Alfano who has taken out a petition to be placed on the Anderson line.

Update

City workers bargaining

Approximately 71,000 municipal workers in Detroit and New York, using the Republican and Democratic national conventions for leverage, are bargaining against a midnight tonight deadline for new labor pacts.

In New York — site of the Democratic National Convention in August — police officers and firefighters are among 48,000 municipal employees seeking a wage increase in excess of 10 percent. Talks in Detroit, where the Republican National Convention is just two weeks away, were at a standstill between city officials who offered a wage freeze and labor leaders who sought a 7 percent wage increase and uncapped cost-of-living benefits.

Tornadoes ravage states

Tornadoes and severe thunderstorms ravaged states from the Midwest to the Atlantic, causing power outages and numerous injuries.

The Southwest's relentless heat wave has been blamed for the deaths of as many as 32 people, mostly elderly, many of them unable to afford air conditioning. The triple-digit temperatures also caused an Oklahoma highway to virtually explode.

Oil price going up again

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — The price of oil is going up again this week for the fourth time in eight months.

The move will be reflected later in the year at gasoline pumps, when prices rise about 1 cent a gallon in the United States — perhaps more, if the bigger oil producers join the new wave of hikes. As of Tuesday, Kuwait, Venezuela, Iraq and Libya will put increases ranging from 28 cents to $3.20 per barrel into effect, industry sources said.

Krypton gas being freed

MIDDLETOWN, Pa. (UPI) — Three Mile Island engineers, who eliminated a bug in the radiation monitoring system, went ahead today with the planned release of radioactive krypton gas from the disabled nuclear plant.

Hundreds of people fled their homes during the weekend, but Gov. Dick Thornburgh toured the plant's control room nerve center Sunday and said area residents may not cause for worry. Engineers for Metropolitan Edison Co., the plant operators, had planned to release 2,000 to 4,000 curies of radioactive krypton gas daily, starting Saturday. But four minutes into the venting, an alarm was mistakenly triggered, and the process was halted abruptly.

Isolation plans prepared

IRANIAN President Abolhasan Bani-Sadr said fears the Sunday hostage crisis "will never be solved" forced his government to make plans for Iran to function isolated from the rest of the world, the Bamdad newspaper reported today.

Bani-Sadr, who has said the continued holding of the 53 Americans was driving Iran to the verge of economic collapse, received support from a close associate of Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, the Tehran Times reported.

Suit filed over caffeine

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A public interest group has filed in U.S. District Court to force the Food and Drug Administration to warn pregnant women that caffeine may cause birth defects.

The Center for Science in the Public Interest said it formally petitioned the FDA in November 1979 to require a warning notice on coffee and tea labels and to launch a public education campaign.

False profit

Maybe Alan Baughn got his vibes in reverse. In any case, the paranormal power he was out to display turned into a flawless backfire.

The New York psychic came to the offices of Omni magazine Friday to accept the challenge of James "The Amazing" Randi — a stage magician whose contempt for "ESP" is so intense that he's offered $10,000 to anyone who can show him some.

Baughn brought 10 containers, five of which were filled with BBs, which he prophesied his mind alone would detect. He got all five — of the empty. Randi — his $10,000 still intact — was impressed.

He told Omni executive editor Ben Bova, "Parapsychologists often make several false starts before they make a really big error." His challenge still stands.

Memories

Susan Hayward knew Ronald Reagan long before his dreams turned presidential, and her biographer says the relationship was chilly.

Beverly Linet, author of "Susan Hayward: Portrait of a Survivor," says the late actress' first feature role was opposite Reagan in the 1938 production, "Girls on Probation." Miss Linet says they "dated for publicity" a couple of times, "but they didn't care much for each other."

But thanks to the Hayward memory, Reagan may find himself back on screen one day in another actor's person. Miss Linet has said movie rights to the soon-to-be-published book to "Slueth" producer Gabriel Katzka.

The hard way

With the advent of Vietnam, patriotism fell as sharply out of style as the stovepipe hat, but Vice Admiral James B. Stoen, now president of the Citadel military college — remains its advocate.

He has something in common with American hostages in Iran.

He spent nearly eight years as a prisoner of war in Hanoi — most of it in solitary confinement.

Says he, in Parade magazine, "You don't know what freedom is until you live for several years in a box-cell 10 feet long and 4 feet wide ... Freedom — our most precious national treasure — like a child, is imperfect and demanding but undeniably good."

And that "child," he adds, "She's getting more rare and precious every day."

Muskie's money woes

Secretary of State Edmund Muskie's wife says there are drawbacks to his new job — like a salary cut of $9,000 to $83,000.

Jane Muskie told People magazine her husband also gave up honoraria from speeches, which can amount to $25,000 a year.

Last year, the Muskies traded in a six-bedroom house for a smaller one to meet their children's college tuition expenses. This year, expenses mounted because of the new clothes Muskie had to buy to suit his diplomatic status.

Another problem: showering outdoors at the couple's summer home in Maine. Muskie once showered nude, but now has to wear a bathing suit — because of the women in his Secret Service detail.

New auto and tax laws will take effect Tuesday

By JACQUELINE HUARD

HARTFORD (UPI) — Beginning Tuesday, Connecticut motorists will get only one license plate, most speeders will be able to pay their fines by mail, and the new state budget with $160 million in added taxes sets sail.

Other new laws which make their debut Tuesday include language in consumer contracts, force oil companies to sell their Connecticut gasoline stations, and mandate that certain welfare recipients earn their benefits.

The $2.7 billion budget signed by Gov. Ella Grasso for fiscal 1980-1981 will padlock with $160.5 million in new higher taxes. That means shoppers will pay an extra half percent on the 7 percent sales tax, and smokers, for the first time, will have to pay a sales tax on cigarettes.

Oil companies who do business in Connecticut will pay a 2 percent tax on gross profits, but a clause prohibiting them from passing the cost of the tax through to Connecticut consumers is being contested in court.

Also going into effect Tuesday is a law allowing most speeders to pay their fines by mail. It was passed after Connecticut motorists complained out-of-state speeders were not required to appear in court and the courts complained they were overloaded with speeders.

The mail-in retrieve covers motorist caught going faster than 55 mph but not more than 70 mph on multiple-lane, limited access highways, and over 55 mph but not more than 60 mph on other highways. The fine is increased to $100-$150.

The new statute forcing oil producers and refiners to shut down all company operated gas stations in the state contained a clause which prohibited the firms from opening any new stations as of July 1, 1979.

The "benefit" law, enacted as a trade-off for 7 percent increases in welfare benefits, requires all able-bodied general assistance recipients to earn their grants. It's expected to affect 9,000 of 24,000 GA recipients.

The program provides 90 percent state reimbursement of benefits if the recipient works and nothing if unemployed. The state also will pay $55 per person each month for administrative costs.

The litmus test in the law requiring clear language in consumer contracts up to $25,000 limits the number of words per sentence and paragraph. One section covers insurance policies but went into effect on staged dates.

Two new laws passed in response to Connecticut's housing crisis take effect.

One appropriates $10 million in loans for people whose apartments are being converted into condominiums but who can't afford to buy them and another sets aside $5 million for the Moderate Rental Housing developers' loan program.

Hospital expansion close

As a result of the unanimous approval of the Capitol Area Health Consortium board, Manchester Memorial Hospital's $27 million expansion program is a step closer.

tion the approval of the application we think the hospital deserves.

Hospital facilities often are taken for granted by the people. They especially are not likely to ignite great public interest when the facilities are of the quality of Manchester Memorial Hospital.

With insistence that health care costs be kept in control it is difficult to prove the need for expanded facilities.

We are confident the hospital has proven the need and we await with anticipation the approval of the application we think the hospital deserves.

Coventry group supports sewers

COVENTRY — Several Coventry citizens have organized the Lake Area Improvement Committee to support the proposed plan for sewers, road improvements and storm drainage. The plan is scheduled to be submitted to the voters in a special referendum this fall.

Members of the committee said they support the plan developed by the Coventry Water Pollution Control Authority because they are convinced that it will provide a permanent solution to waste disposal problems in the lake area.

Members believe that the plan will improve the quality of the lake water itself, the ground water around the lake, and many of the roads on the west side of the lake.

The committee said the entire community will benefit by the upgrading of one of the town's most valuable resources.

Coventry Lake not only serves one third of the town's population which lives in the lake basin itself, but hundreds of others who use the town beaches and who use the lake for fishing and boating, the group said.

The committee will meet July 9, at the town Hall to prepare further plans for informing citizens and enlisting support for the upcoming referendum.

Citizens interested in the work of the committee are invited to call co-chairman Frank Dunn, 742-8856, or Jane Behneke, 742-7189, or secretary Susan Deutsch, 742-8856, after 5 p.m.

Town disagrees with fed figures

VERNON — Vernon, as are other towns and cities, is questioning the recently released preliminary federal census figures. Mayor Marie Herbst said the figures contrast sharply with those developed by the town planner in a recent town survey.

Mrs. Herbst said she is asking the planner to challenge the census bureau's estimate of 27,861 for Vernon's population. The town's recent random survey revealed that the population figure should be about 31,000.

Officials in Vernon and other towns and cities are upset about the federal bureau's estimate because it will have a detrimental effect on the amount of money coming to towns through federal grants which are based on population.

During 1977 federal officials gave the town a headcount of 29,288. This was developed in answer to a challenge to the 1976 population estimate for the town.

At the time those figures were challenged it was explained the mistake was caused by geographic coding problems in the census bureau's computer program for the town. The town planner said maybe that problem was never corrected.

It is also felt, by town officials, that a poor response to the federal census questionnaire could be the cause for the discrepancies in the figures.

The mayor explained that she plans to ask the state Legislature to put all of Vernon into one assembly district when it is considering the realignment of political boundaries.

Since the boundaries were realigned several years ago, Vernon has been divided into three districts with just the Rockville section of town being in a district alone. The other two sections share districts with other towns.

Mrs. Herbst said the preliminary census figures will be considered when the Legislature makes the reapportionment study next session and she fears that the wrong figures may make it difficult to convince the Legislature that Vernon should have one legislator and its own district.

Vernon girl leaves for European trip

VERNON — Sarah Foss, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Robert Foss of 60 Patricia Drive, left from Boston Wednesday, for a European trip, with a group of students from area high schools.

Miss Foss, who is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Foss of Summit Street, Manchester, is a junior at East Catholic High School.

The students will be taking part in a Home-Stay Program with families in Avenches, France. The trip is a Comparative Culture Tour with classes taught on local history and culture by Abbe Monier an instructor at the Lycee d'Avenches. The groups director is Mrs. Claire Weldon.

Mrs. Weldon has taken students to Europe for the past 11 years. She is a French teacher at Northwest Catholic High School in Hartford. She will escort the group on weekend trips which will include Grenoble, Lyon, Monaco, and Geneva, Switzerland.

The last four days will be spent in Paris before returning home on July 24.

Supporter of Kennedy disagrees with plan

NEW HAVEN (UPI) — Democratic State Chairman James Fitzgerald, a backer of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, says he'll oppose the Massachusetts Democratic Party's efforts to set aside the presidential primary results at party's national convention and throw the nomination up for grabs.

Fitzgerald said Sunday he would stick by Kennedy at the August convention in New York City, but said he would work to see that other delegates were held to their commitments also.

Kennedy is attempting to change party rules which require delegates committed to a candidate by primary or other proceedings to vote for that candidate on the first ballot.

"I just believe you don't change the rules when the game has been played," Fitzgerald said. "We now have a vote and you don't change the score without playing the game over again."

Each delegate has been elected in various states on a basis of their pledge of support to the candidate they indicated support for when they were elected," he said on the Connecticut Radio Network's "Dialogue 1980" program.

Under current party rules, Kennedy has more Connecticut delegates committed to him on the first ballot than does President Carter because of the senator's win in the state's March 25 presidential primary.

The party chairman predicted President Carter would win re-nomination at the convention and said "utopia" for the party would be for Kennedy to give a speech at the convention supporting its outcome.

Fitzgerald said delegates who had changed their minds about which candidate they supported should turn their seats over to someone who would hold to the commitment.

"We hear a great deal about a delegate being able to vote his conscience, and I believe he should," he said. "If he feels that his conscience prohibits him from voting for the candidate he was pledged to support, all he has to do is say 'I'm not going to be a delegate,' and he can withdraw very easily."

Manchester Area Conference of Churches news, notes

By Barbara E. Baker, MACC Pastoral Care and Chaplaincy Committee.

Incidentally, last week we left out a paragraph about our Hospital Chaplaincy program, one of our better established efforts.

We report to you now that it is developing healthily. A cooperative effort of Manchester's Memorial Hospital and MACC has provided an ecumenical presence of the Church in a situation where all of us are sheep needing tending.

Manchester Memorial Hospital has repeatedly demonstrated its concern for the well-being of its patients. Our relationship with them in providing chaplaincy service extends over a period of more than 15 years. Its relationship value highly.

We are beginning a similar relationship with another institution in town. Relationship we hope will also be long-lasting and fruitful. Meadows Convalescent Home, out of its concern for its population of some 500 residents, has volunteered half of the funding for a part-time Pastoral Care Worker. MACC's Pastoral Care Fund will supply the rest.

The worker has been hired. Housewife sells glass plate for $40; worth $1,800.

NILES, Ill. — The story of a small fortune, lost because a housewife had no idea her glass plate was a collector's item, recently came to light.

In a letter to J. R. MacArthur, chairman of the Bradford Exchange, world's largest trading center in collector's plates, a Madison, Wis., woman wrote: "I had a Lalique 1965 plate... which I sold to a friend for $40. I had not heard of you at that time."

The plate she sold is actually valued at more than $1,800. Although MacArthur points out that this price is exceptionally high, he said, "I'm afraid others may be losing hundreds or thousands of dollars by not knowing what their plates are worth."

To aid in identifying valuable plates, the exchange issues a report that includes current prices on more than 900 plates, guidelines on what to look for and when to buy, and the plate evaluation checklist used by the exchange.

To obtain a copy without cost or obligation, just send your name, address, and zip code before Saturday of next week to: The Bradford Exchange, Dept. 420727, 9300 Milwaukee Avenue, Niles, Ill. 60068. A postcard will do.

VERNON — Vernon, as are other towns and cities, is questioning the recently released preliminary federal census figures. Mayor Marie Herbst said the figures contrast sharply with those developed by the town planner in a recent town survey.

Mrs. Herbst said she is asking the planner to challenge the census bureau's estimate of 27,861 for Vernon's population. The town's recent random survey revealed that the population figure should be about 31,000.

Officials in Vernon and other towns and cities are upset about the federal bureau's estimate because it will have a detrimental effect on the amount of money coming to towns through federal grants which are based on population.

During 1977 federal officials gave the town a headcount of 29,288. This was developed in answer to a challenge to the 1976 population estimate for the town.

At the time those figures were challenged it was explained the mistake was caused by geographic coding problems in the census bureau's computer program for the town. The town planner said maybe that problem was never corrected.

It is also felt, by town officials, that a poor response to the federal census questionnaire could be the cause for the discrepancies in the figures.

The mayor explained that she plans to ask the state Legislature to put all of Vernon into one assembly district when it is considering the realignment of political boundaries.

Since the boundaries were realigned several years ago, Vernon has been divided into three districts with just the Rockville section of town being in a district alone. The other two sections share districts with other towns.

Mrs. Herbst said the preliminary census figures will be considered when the Legislature makes the reapportionment study next session and she fears that the wrong figures may make it difficult to convince the Legislature that Vernon should have one legislator and its own district.

and the work already begun. The job description we've written for the position calls for 15 hours a week of direct service to residents in the form of a caring presence, a reliable friend and counselor. The remaining 5 hours are to be spent in the development and coordination of volunteer services for visitation and worship opportunities. (In connection with the latter, we provide Roman Catholic Chaplaincy to the Meadows through Our Hospital Chaplain, who serves masses there 4 hours each week in addition to his full schedule at the hospital).

As if our cup weren't already running over, a volunteer has just this week offered to serve as general coordinator for town convalescent home visitation! She will develop a file of all convalescent home residents needing visitors, keep us informed of the needs, and match individual volunteer visitors to residents needing service. That work should be well under way by the Fall. We'll be offering training sessions for anyone who'd like to help in the visitation in late September and October. Keep an eye out.

All of this is in addition to developing the work Bill Rice has begun so well in the establishment of a Convalescent Home Guild and cheer cards (cards taken on weekly rounds in the homes offering patients the opportunity to purchase small personal items, snacks, magazines, etc.)

The opportunities for growth are extraordinary. Two weeks ago I listened to a preacher say that loving isn't a matter of putting things into place, of making things 'nice.' It's a matter of hanging in when things aren't nice at all, of still being there in the midst of the screaming. That crunch point is where grace is given. As one part-time sheep, part-time shepherd to another, come hang in with us. Grace abounds.

A Mustard Seed employees are active. Helen had received a contribution to the Interfaith Day Camp and last week we received a check for $250 from Aetna. Many thanks to Aetna and Helen and please, all of you wonderful people involved with MACC programs, if your company has a Dollars for Doers program, please help Helen's idea in mind.

Thank You! For contributions to the Interfaith Day Camp, Mrs. Thomas J. Donovan, Mrs. Walter H. Hightson and the Reynolds Circle of South United Methodist Church. Also to Mr. Ernest Shepard and the many others who have brought in craft items for the day camp.

Hearty thank-yous also to Sarah Hoffman and her donation to the Emergency Food Pantry as well as So. United Methodist Church, and we welcome as a new sponsor to MACC, Dolores Pietranonio.

Heavenly Father, please bless all of our members and volunteers as they continue to serve the needs of the community.

With love and gratitude,
Barbara E. Baker

Bolton releases report outlining school options

By DONNA HOLLAND

BOLTON—A two-page report listing system organization options and facilities options for Bolton schools was released to the public Friday morning.

At a Board of Education information meeting Thursday night, Superintendent of Schools Raymond Allen gave copies of the report to board members but refused to give it to the press saying it was "a working paper and therefore not available to the public."

After hearing objections from the media, Allen contacted Jerome Walsh, town attorney, who said it should be released to the public.

Allen was looking for "specific reaction and feelings of board members before sitting with an architect to give him/her direction."

The system organization options listed by Allen for study are: to maintain current system; move to K-7, 8-12 organization; move to K-6, 7-12 organization.

Allen said (about the first option) with enrollment projections showing a high school enrollment of 1982; to offer the town six less than 500, per student classrooms and other cost could prove exorbitant and curricular offerings could be increased in the future.

The second option, according to Allen, would allow a more cost efficient program as well as a sound, quality curriculum and would permit more efficient use of the school buildings.

Allen feels this option might "improve our holding power in terms of Grade 8 students and would be acceptable to the community and quality curriculum."

He said the third option "would definitely require an addition to the school or serious curriculum limitations and would permit turnover of one building to the town."

The administration is preparing curriculum layouts for all three options.

The facilities options as outlined by Allen are: to continue to operate and maintain all three buildings (in which case there will be an increasing number of unused rooms); to offer the town the south section of the Center Building with use of the civil defense room for town meetings in 1981; a high school enrollment of 1982; to offer the town six less than 500, per student classrooms and other cost could prove exorbitant and curricular offerings could be increased in the future.

Test scores questioned

COVENTRY—Problems with standardized test procedures at Capt. Nathan Hale School have resulted in low scores for Grade 7 students who took the Iowa Tests of Basic Skills.

School Superintendent Arnold Elman told the Board of Education Thursday night that the seventh graders placed only in the 50th percentile on the test, compared to scoring in the 70th percentile the last time the group was tested.

But the seventh grade scores are not considered valid, Elman explained, and the group will have to be tested again.

The school board was told that there were problems at the school when the test was given. The public address system, used to direct students in the testing, broke down during the tests. Seating and lighting conditions in some classrooms were poor, too.

Another problem with judging the test results, educators said, was the difference between the Coventry curriculum and the curriculum on which the Iowa test is based.

Administrators said Coventry schools are still using the 1971 edition of the Iowa test, and curricula, particularly in mathematics, have changed in the last nine years.

In 1971, the emphasis was on "modern math," but since that time the Coventry staff has swung its focus back to "basic math," Elman said.

Junior Miss contest

MOBILE, Ala. (UPI)—An 18-year-old Jasper, Ala., woman captured a victory Sunday in the first night of preliminary competition in the 32nd annual Junior Miss Pageant.

Mary Beth Griffith, 17, of Wethersfield, Conn., and Kim Calvert, 18, of Lexington, Ky., won the creative and performing arts award. Each was given a $1,000 scholarship.

Correction

MANCHESTER—In Saturday's Herald it was incorrectly stated that a motion to endorse a fair rent commission failed on a 3-2 vote. However, the motion failed with a majority voting against it. A motion to recommend a committee to study a fair rent commission was ruled as failing on a 3-2 vote.

HOW OUR OLDEST ENERGY SOURCE HELPS OUR NEWEST ENERGY EFFORT.

In our ongoing efforts at making energy conservation really work, we at Northeast Utilities are using the newest technology to harness our oldest source of energy—the sun.

We've designed our new building at Tolland, Connecticut, with many important energy conservation features, including 80 solar collectors.

They will use the sun, a pollution-free, constantly renewable source of energy, to help us with our energy needs. And we haven't stopped there. In this experiment we're also using sophisticated solar monitoring systems that will let us know where the most savings will be and how best to use this technology.

At Northeast Utilities we're looking everywhere to conserve energy and cut costs.

We want to save you money and keep electricity affordable for everyone. But, like everyone else, we're affected by inflation, too. That's why, if we are to provide sufficient electricity now and plan for the future, our revenues must increase to keep pace with rising costs.

Our commitment at Northeast Utilities is to find the best and most affordable way to meet our present and future energy needs. Using the sun is just one more way we're helping to make that future bright.

The July meeting of the Manchester Board of Directors, scheduled for tomorrow evening, will be at the Senior Citizens Center, East Middle Turnpike. The July and August meetings are considered when considering the experiment to decide whether all board meetings should be at the center, rather than the Municipal Building.

While discussing criteria to be considered when considering the experiment to decide whether all board meetings should be at the center, rather than the Municipal Building.

closing of a school, Dr. Bernard Sidman, superintendent of schools, commented, "Anything beyond three-year projections in enrollment borders on fantasy."

Richard Blumenthal, the U.S. Attorney appointed by the Attorney General to investigate Abcam leads to the press, wasn't about to become a "leak" himself Friday night prior to addressing the Connecticut Chiefs of Police Association. "No comment," was his reply to reporters' questions on the progress of his probe.

Deputy Mayor Stephen Cassano, alluded to future dialogue on the status of the Buckland firehouse by saying, "We'll have to develop ideas in the best interest of the town, some things will be more difficult for us to discuss in the future."

Armed holdups similar

MARGNESTER - A pair of weekend armed robberies is under investigation by police who feel the same man may be responsible for both. Shortly before 11 p.m. Friday, a white male entered the Cumberland Farms store at 1063 Main St. just before it was to close and followed a clerk behind the counter where he produced a large knife and demanded money. He then left the store on foot. Police described the man as about 5-foot-10 inches tall and about 28 years old. He has a medium to stocky build and shoulder-length, dirty-blond curly hair. He was also wearing a red bandanna on his head and a red flannel shirt and blue jeans. Police said he took about $100. A man described almost exactly as the one in the Cumberland Farms theft also entered the Cigo gasoline station at 404 E. Middle Turnpike at about 9:45 p.m. and told the clerk there he wanted to get out of the rain. As the employee counted receipts, the suspect showed a large knife and demanded money. He then left the store on foot. He took about $90 and money from the cash drawer, police said, but exactly how much was stolen is yet undetermined. The man then fled on foot.

Reine Thompson - MARGNESTER - An affirmative action statistical update for Manchester Community College reveals no progress during the reporting period of September 1 and March 1.

Affirmative Action Officer Gail Patrick, in a report to the Commission on Human Rights and Opportunities, notes "The college continues to note a deficiency in minority areas of black and Hispanic employment) of both males and females."

Of the college's 196 member staff, two are black men. There are no black women or hispanics, according to the report. In 1976, when the college's affirmative action plan was adopted, six of the 289 persons employed were members of minority groups. In a summary, Ms. Patrick stated, "Potential minority employees have indicated they might be interested in moving to Manchester if hired, however, rents are not only high, but difficult to find. Affordable housing is even higher."

Deborah Lewis of 2484 Archwood St., Dayton, was pronounced dead at Matchette Memorial Hospital at 8:04 p.m. immediately after the incident. Police said the Lewis girl, who along with her family was visiting relatives at an apartment complex at 40 Olexat St., dove into the pool and swallowed water. She then sank to the bottom before being pulled out by people who had seen her struggling out who weren't aware that the girl was in peril, police said. The girl, who was unattended and had been told to wait until her older sister arrived at the pool before going in, was playing, looked on, according to police. Besides discussing affirmative action by race, Ms. Patrick also addressed age in her report. Eighty-two percent of the workforce at MCC is between the ages of 30 and 59. Seven people, or 3.4 percent, are between 65 and 71 years of age, while 8.7 percent of the college's staff is between the ages of 20 and 29.

MCC's hiring deficient

During the reporting period, the college hired five people, and there were 15 terminations. The college tracked part of its inability to meet its affirmative action goals to the decreasing budget, which made it fill some of the terminated positions, with people of any race or age.

In the business division, the goal is two minority workers. This has not been met, although two positions are to be filled for fall 1980 - a data processing employee and a faculty member for the hotel-motel program.

The English and Humanities section of the college was typical of many. The goal in this division calls for hiring one minority member, although no people have been hired here. This situation, of having goals but not having hired anyone of any race due to budget, also applies to the Community Services, executive administration, and professional non-faculty division.

The report is available in the MCC library. The public may review it, but cannot remove it from that location, as it is on reserve.

Girl drowns in pool; no rescue attempted

MARGNESTER - A seven-year-old Ohio girl drowned Friday night after she apparently jumped into a swimming pool fully clothed and drowned as bystanders, thinking she was playing, looked on, according to police. Deborah Lewis of 2484 Archwood St., Dayton, was pronounced dead at Matchette Memorial Hospital at 8:04 p.m. immediately after the incident. Police said the Lewis girl, who along with her family was visiting relatives at an apartment complex at 40 Olexat St., dove into the pool and swallowed water. Knighon top performer

Highlighting the opening day of the fifth annual two-day Manchester Community College-sponsored New England Relays at Manchester High's Wigren Track Saturday were strong performances by Patty Knighon, weightman George Frenn, javelin thrower John Ward, sprinter Ed Brown and home-town product Pacey Pet and Swedish National team member Ingrid Wehmen in the shot put.

The weatherman cooperated perfectly Saturday and the 1,000 plus athletes, ranging in many age

Edwards didn't see eye-to-eye with the Houston track coach and sat out the spring season. He said he lost some interest in track when the decision was made not to seed a USA team to the Olympics. On the other hand, Brown was tickled pink with his success. The former ICAA champion, who was undefeated in his senior year at Seton Hall in 1979 in the 200, said, "I like coming here. Everyone treats me swell. I'm going after the MVP award again," he said before adding the 200. "The 200 is my best distance. I wanted a whole year to go up against Edwards again. I know I could beat him. He's not one of my best friends, you know," he added. Remember last year after the 200, when Edwards gave Brown a salute that set his (Brown's) temper boiling? Heavy work shoes prevented rematch

By EARL YOST

One pair of heavy work shoes threw a monkey wrench into the scheduled battle of the sprinters in the 100 and 200 meters Saturday at Manchester High's Wigren Track in the fifth annual New England Relays. The principals were little Eddie Brown of the Bronx International A.A., via Seton Hall University, and big Richie Edwards of Houston University. The 25-year-old Brown won both races two years ago, anchored a winning relay team, and was judged the meet's top performer. Last year, Brown repeated in the 100 when Edwards was a lardy arrival and missed the qualifying heats. The native of New Britain gained some satisfaction when he nipped Brown at the wire in the 200. The stage was set for a rematch Saturday. Each man won his heat easily in the 100. When it came time for the showdown, only Brown made it to the starting block. Edwards had developed blisters on his feet which looked like raw hamburger. He was scratched. Brown went out and not only won the 100 but added the 200 as well and for his efforts was named the top Men's Open performer. "I felt that I could have competed but I didn't think it was worth it to mess up my foot. I've been working in a training program for two weeks and the work shoes gave me blisters," a disappointed Edwards said. Edwards didn't see eye-to-eye with the Houston track coach and sat out the spring season. He said he lost some interest in track when the decision was made not to seed a USA team to the Olympics.

Running in rain suited Bill Krohn

By EARL YOST

Anyone who likes running in the rain, as was the case yesterday afternoon during the stages of the three-mile race, got his or her wish when the heavens opened up shortly after the gun sounded as part two of the New England Relays got underway at the Manchester Community College campus.

The showers didn't affect 22-year-old Bill Krohn of Yonkers, N.Y., and late of Manhattan College. The good-looking 5-11, 140 pounder, jumped out from the outset and gradually opened a gap to finish several hundred yards ahead of David MacKellar of West Hartford. Clifford improved two spots to win

While the heavy showers subsided for the Connecticut AAU 20-kilometer run feature of yesterday's New England Relays in Manchester, former East Catholic High and Williams College standout Bob Clifford, of East Hartford, proved to be best of the lot, when he stepped off the distance in 65:31.

The 25-year-old Clifford, a 5-8, 125-pounder who is attending the Harvard School of Public Health, had enough to whip former East Hartford High and Springfield College ace, dark-haired Jim Uhrig by 150 yards. Uhrig was fresh from winning the Norwich Regatta last Sunday, a 10.6 mile test. The Mystic resident is a recreation counselor in Ledger.

Nineteen-year-old Lori Ducharme of Bolton, a junior at St. Michael's College, was the first to finish the 12-mile grind in 83:12 in the Women's Open Division with Katie Hennessy and Lori Veal, both of Manchester, in a tie for second place in 89:33.

South Windsor taxes due

SOUTH WINDSOR - Residents are reminded, by Edward C. Moniz, tax collector, that taxes on the Oct. 1, 1979 Grand List are due and payable in two equal installments, half on July 1 and the other half on Jan. 1.

Any tax bill of $50 or less must be paid in one installment on July 1. In the event that the first installment due on July 1 is not paid before Aug. 2 interest will be charged at the rate of one percent per month or fraction of a month from July 1. The minimum interest, according to state law, is $2.

The tax rate is 41.8 mills.

Moniz said that the 1980 General Assembly passed a public act which increases interest charges on delinquent property taxes, this becomes effective July 1, Tuesday.

A three-tier system provides for interest to be charged at a rate of 12 percent for delinquent taxes when the taxpayer owes less than $3,000, 15 percent when the taxpayer owes more than $3,000 and the bill is still unpaid two years after the date of the assessment list.

Those making payments are reminded to bring or send all copies of the bill. If sending by mail receipts will be returned to taxpayers who return all copies of the bills and who enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Checks should be made payable to the Town of South Windsor.

Center to open for baby care

HEBRON - Child Health Associates, a new and alternative concept of pediatric health care, will open Tuesday at 262 East Street. Two pediatric nurse practitioners, Jeanne Boulay and MaryBeth Gorke, in association with a pediatrician Dr. James Walker, will work with parents to maintain optimal health of their children. The group will see children from birth through adolescence.

The nurse practitioners will take health histories, do complete physical examinations, developmental assessments, and counseling involving growth and development and behavior problems. Their emphasis will be on health promotion. The practitioners will also do routine laboratory screening, manage minor illnesses, assess newborn infants in the hospital, and make home visits.

A pediatric nurse practitioner is a registered nurse who has taken a specialized course in child health care management including physical assessment, nutrition, immunizations, safety and accident prevention, and family counseling. She has an understanding of growth and development and uses anticipatory guidance in dealing with families. She is trained in the management of common childhood illnesses with an emphasis on prevention. She works as an associate of the physician with whom she discusses problems of medical management, referrals, and coordinates a care plan where necessary.

Both Ms. Boulay and Ms. Gorke are graduates of the University of Connecticut School of Nursing, and in 1973 completed the University of Connecticut program to prepare pediatric nurse practitioners. Ms. Boulay gained clinical expertise at Community Health Services, Hartford, as well as a satellite clinic at Upper Albany Avenue Neighborhood Life Center. She has been involved as a nurse practitioner in school settings at both Quirk Middle School and the Hooker School, Hartford. This past year she has been in a private pediatric practice in Glastonbury.

Ms. Gorke has worked as a nurse practitioner with the Norwich Pediatric Group, and five years at Hartford Hospital's Pediatric Clinic. She also contracts with Public Health Nursing Agencies to conduct Child Health Clinics. Ms. Gorke and Ms. Boulay are certified through the National Board of Pediatric Nurse Practitioners/Associates.

Dr. Walker graduated from the Yale University School of Medicine and completed his pediatric residency at Buffalo Children's Hospital. He is a Diplomate of the American Board of Pediatrics and Fellow American Academy of Pediatrics. Formerly he was Associate Medical Director at Community Health Services, Hartford, and has practiced in Glastonbury. He will also hold the post of Chief of Pediatrics at Mt. Sinai Hospital, starting July 1980.

The pediatric nurse practitioners will be available 24 hours a day, 7 days a week by appointment Monday through Friday from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m.

Sick children may need to be seen at other times than regular office hours, and arrangement for this will be made. Dr. Walker will meet with the nurse practitioners on a regular basis to review cases, assist in management of medical problems, and provide health care to adolescent boys. He and his associates, Drs.
