Dangerous inmates escape

REIDSVILLE, Ga. (UPI) — Four dangerous prisoners, clad in homemade guard uniforms, saved through three sets of bars on death row, scrambled down a fire escape, walked through a main building and strolled to freedom through the front door of the Georgia State Prison.

Their flight to freedom was hindered only once Monday. A guard briefly questioned one of the prisoners, but let him go when the costumed inmate said he was making a security check.

Authorities, informed of the breakout by a reporter, said the four convicted murderers were considered dangerous and issued a nationwide alert.

One of the fugitives, in a phone call from Florida, said the four didn't want to "hurt anyone" and escaped because prison conditions were "inhuman."

Corrections Commissioner David Evans said he suspected they may have had some "inside help" — either from inmates or corrections officials.

The Almanac

By United Press International

Today is Tuesday, July 29, the 211th day of 1980 with 155 to go.

The moon is moving from full toward its last quarter. The morning stars are Venus and Mercury.

The evening stars are Mars, Jupiter and Saturn.

Those born on this day are under the sign of Leo.

American novelist Booth Tarkington and actor William Powell were born on July 29 — Tarkington in 1869 and Powell in 1892.

On this day in history: In 1914, the first transcontinental telephone linkup was completed with conversation between San Francisco and New York City.

In 1967, fire swept the aircraft carrier USS Forrestal off the coast of Vietnam, killing 129 men.

In 1968, Pope Paul VI upheld the prohibition of all artificial means of birth control for Roman Catholics.

In 1974, the House Judiciary Committee voted a second impeachment article against President Nixon. The vote was 28-10.

A thought for the day: Commenting on the fact that boys can't wait to be men and men would like to be boys again, Booth Tarkington said: "It really is the land of nowadays that we never discover."

Carter in fighting mood

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter is in a fighting mood and believes the people who want to deny him renomination are trying to exploit the controversy over his brother Billy's Libyan ties, a White House aide says.

Despite Carter's feelings, more and more Democrats in Congress are talking about opening up the Democratic National Convention in New York next month to allow the delegates to nominate anyone they want for president.

And there is growing speculation the convention might seek an alternative to both Carter and Sen. Edward Kennedy of Massachusetts.

The alternatives frequently mentioned include Vice President Walter Mondale, Secretary of State Edmund Muskie, Sen. Henry Jackson of Washington and Rep. Morris Udall of Arizona.

Mondale issued a statement Monday assuring a fellow Minnesotan, Rep. James Oberstar, he has no intention of becoming a candidate for the presidential nomination.

Chance at Sundance

Robert Redford feels there is a lot of potential genius spread out between New York and Hollywood — young would-be playwrights and film makers who can't get to the coast to mecca to polish their craft and get their names known. So he's offering them Sundance, Utah.

Redford staged three new plays at his resort Sunday — amateur scripts chosen by the Utah Arts Council and he says next year he'll add a film workshop to the effort.

This year's winning entries were "Back to Back" by Al Brown, "R.F.D." by Gaylan Nielson and "Oedipus Unbound" by Aden Ross — all from Salt Lake City.

New rulers, new rules

Robert Blake is welcome, but Jack Lord had best stay home. It is in Nicaragua where Sandinista guerrillas who overthrow the Somoza dictatorship now are deciding what to do and is not fit for television viewers.

Atlanta's monthly magazine says some American TV shows — among them, "Barrett," with Blake in the title role — have been given a clean bill of health. Seems Blake's undercover cop role "depicts some of the seamier aspects of American life and carries a heavy law-and-order message," and the new rulers like that.

But "Hawaii Five-O" is taboo — "it glorifies the rule of Yankee law in a dominated tropical land. No word yet on Archie Bunker."

Think cool

The average man, sweltering in the summer heat wave, may find it hard to buy, but the man who bills himself as "The Amazing Kreskin" says you don't have to be a mentalist to think yourself cool.

Says Kreskin, in New York, "Just think cool, even icy cold. Let your brain tell your body to stay cool by supplying mental images such as sitting on a slab of ice, walking in the snow, wading in a pool of ice water... and you'll start feeling cool, maybe even a bit chilly."

Kreskin says desert people have been cooling off their heads for centuries, that "if you want it to happen, just put your mind to it and it will."

And just think of the money you'll save by turning off the air conditioner.

Starting over

For Egli Krogh, it's a chance to start again at square one.

The Washington State Supreme Court says the 40-year-old former head of Richard Nixon's infamous Plumbers Unit can practice law again, so he's one of 715 aspiring attorneys taking the three-day bar exam in Seattle.

Krogh — disbanded and jailed for his role in Watergate — is one of the few Watergaters who hasn't written a book.

And he doesn't plan to — says, "The only writing I plan to do is whatever writing is required of a lawyer — briefs and things like that."

Glimpses

Jerry Lewis has named Robert J. Condit as producer of his 1981 Labor Day Telethon — the 15th since Lewis started the extravaganza on behalf of the Muscular Dystrophy Association... Carolyn Rose, wife of Philadelphia Phillies superstar Pete Rose, has been talking with Los Angeles divorcee and Marvin Mitchelson about a possible termination of their 14-year marriage.

Prayer arguments aired

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Opponents of legislation designed to return state-sponsored prayers to the public schools told Congress today the measure was an ill-advised government intrusion in the "most sacred" of parents' responsibilities.

The comments were prepared for the opening session of two days of hearings before the House Judiciary subcommittee on courts, civil liberties and the administration of justice.

Chaired by Rep. Robert Kastenmeier, D-Wis., the hearings examine a controversial proposal that would remove Supreme Court jurisdiction over the issue of school prayer.

"We oppose any effort to allow the government to intrude in the most sacred of parental responsibilities, even should it be the parents have chosen to give their children no religious training," said the Rev. M. William Howard, president of the National Council of Churches.

Cash didn't reach president

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The White House says none of the $20,000 Billy Carter said he got in loans from the Libyan government ever reached President Carter.

Presidential aides spoke of the Libyan money on a day when Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., chairman of the special Senate panel that will investigate Billy's ties to Libya, suggested the president's younger brother was a "boob" and an embarrassment to the presidency.

President Carter was reported in a fighting mood, believing the people who want to deny him renomination are trying to exploit the controversy over his brother Billy's Libyan ties, a White House aide says.

"The president told his Cabinet members 'nothing should be held back by anyone' in the investigation of Billy's Libyan connection."

Ex-New Britain official receives jail sentence

NEW BRITAIN (UPI) — A former deputy fire chief today faced nine months in jail for his role as a messenger in a corruption scheme with goals a Superior Court judge compared to those of Nazi dictator Adolf Hitler.

Judge Eugene T. Kelly rejected defense claims Monday that former Deputy Chief Robert Hackett was a messenger in a corruption scheme with goals a Superior Court judge compared to those of Nazi dictator Adolf Hitler.

Kelly ordered the 38-year veteran to serve the terms concurrently, resulting in the effective term of nine months before a reduction for good time is taken into account.

Hackett, who also had one of his promotions fixed, pleaded guilty May 7 to the corruption role described by his attorney as "a democratic system because everyone who was available had a shot at it," defense attorney Harold Geragiosan said of the scheme in which several persons have admitted paying more than $1,000 for promotions.

Kelly, however, disagreed and ordered a request for a suspended sentence for Hackett, one of the No. 2 men in the scandal-ridden Fire Department and one of 24 persons arrested in the state's two-year probe of corruption.

"He (Hitler) was going to attain a master race. On face his motives were fine," Kelly said. "This is wrong. It's not democratic, it's the antithesis of democracy. It's theories like this that lead to dictators."

TV filming in courtroom is a first in Connecticut

NEW BRITAIN (UPI) — A Superior Court judge who didn't want television cameramen bumping into each other outside his courtroom door has apparently allowed Connecticut's first full-scale filming during an open court session.

Judge Eugene T. Kelly said he allowed three stations to film the sentencing of a defendant in the New Britain municipal corruption scandal Monday more as a matter of logistics than principle.

"With all three of them craning at the window, I thought they would knock each other over," he said in an interview in his chambers. "I thought it would be quieter and easier."

While Kelly said he didn't view his surprise decision as a precedent, the stations and other broadcasters halted the move as the possible start of a new era allowing cameras in court.

"Too often people give lip service to freedom of the press but when Judge Kelly made the press really free," said Craig Carragan, president of the Connecticut Broadcasters Association.

Carragan, general manager of radio station WNRV in Naugatuck, called the decision "a milestone" and the "first giant step to really giving meaning to freedom of the press in Connecticut."

Kelly allowed the filming, but no audio recording, as former New Britain Deputy Fire Chief Robert Hackett was sentenced to nine months in jail on five counts for his key role in the city's job selling scheme.

"I think it's a fine idea whose time has come. We were very pleased that the judge has allowed us in the courtroom," Ables said later.

"We don't expect that this means it will be done by everyone on a statewide basis, but we certainly hope the day will come when Connecticut will join other states which allow cameras in the courtroom," he said.

In Connecticut, court restrictions on reporters vary from judge to judge.

Richard Ables, news director of WFSB-TV, said his station had "a great deal of experience" in filming in court as a result of a six-month experimental program under way in Massachusetts.

Highway death toll up in motorcycle crashes

MANCHESTER — While highway fatalities for the first half of the year are down slightly from last year's record setting pace, according to a report issued by the Department of Motor Vehicles, 39 motorcycle operators and seven passengers died in the first half of 1980 compared to the 32 operators and six passengers killed during the same period in 1979.

Those figures, coupled with the death this week of a 18-year-old Bolton motorcyclist injured on Highland Street have prompted Gov. Ella Grasso to institute a motorcycle safety program.

"As the number of motorcycles on Connecticut roads and highways grows," Gov. Grasso said Friday, "it is most important that all motorists develop a greater awareness of the dangers inherent in mixing motorcycles with cars, trucks and buses on our thoroughfares."

Gov. Grasso noted that last year's 91 deaths could be overshadowed by 1980 with its 39 fatalities thus far, pointing out that a recent survey showed the responsibility for accidents between motorcycles and other vehicles divided about 50-50.

"It is therefore vital that our safety program follow two directions. It will be designed to expand the knowledge and training of motorcyclists on the safe and lawful operation of their vehicles, and it will improve the education of other motorists with respect to the operation of motorcycles," Gov. Grasso said.

Buckley campaigns

HARTFORD (UPI) — While James Buckley on the campaign trail blasting the Democrats, the man he narrowly defeated for the Republican 1980 U.S. Senate nomination was shouting thud.

Buckley, who beat state Senate Minority Richard Bozuto of Waterbury by a mere 15 votes at the GOP state convention this weekend, Monday kicked off his campaign with a "shout" if the real issues of the campaign were "affected by a scandal."

Buckley didn't have a critical word for any of his fellow Republicans, saying his was the party of "unity" and adding he even hoped to gain the support of Sen. Lowell Weicker, a party critic and Bozuto's backer.

"Why not the vice president?" he said, when asked who should go to Egypt for the funeral.

"The shah was a friend of the United States and now that he is dead, certain honors are due someone like him who went to battle for our interests."

Water checking to continue

HARTFORD (UPI) — Gov. Ella Grasso says the state will provide its share of money and will continue the federal monitoring of water quality at 40 locations across the state, despite severe budget restrictions.

Rep. Toby Moffett, D-Conn., last week brought the situation to the attention of Mrs. Grasso. She said the money would be found but it wouldn't be easy.

"Be assured every effort is being made to continue this vital program," wrote the governor, but "you should also be aware that in light of the severe budget problems facing the state, this is no easy task."

UConn 'camp' aids special teachers, students

By LAUREN DAVIS SHEA Herald Reporter

These children are participating in a talent show produced by a University of Connecticut summer school program held in Verplanck Elementary School in Manchester. The program's aim is to help special education

Students are brought to Manchester by their families in the morning and will stay until noon. During the day, they are grouped by chronological age and classes of about 10 students.

They are cared for by almost 40 teachers pursuing masters degrees or teachers who want to increase their knowledge about an area of special education they have limited experience with during the school year.

One of the teachers may work with teen-age retarded children during the school year but he takes the course to work with preschool age children who are emotionally disturbed.

"This is an opportunity for teachers to practice what they learn in lectures, while advanced level graduate students sit in the back of the class at least once each day to observe and offer suggestions," Reich said.

Thus, one child's goal may be learning to deny the variance. "I think another's may be minimizing behavior problems by getting information from parents and the children's regular teachers, the training teachers work with the youngsters."

Their goal is to help the child maintain skills mentioned by those who work with him through the school year. Reich said the goal is not to teach new skills.

ZBA nixes liquor at club

By MARY KITZMANN Herald Reporter

MANCHESTER — On a 4 to 1 vote the Zoning Board of Appeals denied a variance to permit a racquetball club near the Vernon town line to serve liquor.

The ZBA denied the request on the reasoning the establishment failed to show adequate hardship for varying the zoning provisions.

A variance was required as the Clubhouse-One Manchester, at 30 Tolland Turnpike, is within 1,000 feet of another liquor outlet. The club wished to construct a dining area and serve alcoholic beverages to members and also outside customers. The club applied for a cafe liquor permit.

Attorney Richard Goodman argued that the cafe permit should be allowed as the racquetball club serving liquor is similar to bowling alleys and restaurants serving liquor. The bar service, Goodman said, is secondary to the actual business of the establishment.

Both restaurants and bowling alleys are exempt from the 1,000 foot separation.

Courthouse-One Manchester is within 1,000 feet of a restaurant with a liquor license, the Steak Club, which is in Vernon. The racquetball club is not within 1,000 feet of any liquor outlets in Manchester.

But the town, under state zoning precedent, has the right to extend its zoning ordinances beyond the town line, to maintain distance requirements.

While mentioning the town's right to extend zoning requirements beyond boundaries, Goodman said that there are four establishments within 1,000 feet apart in Vernon.

He asked that Manchester enforce the distance requirement only to the extent town line is enforced, and allow the cafe permit.

ZBA member Edward Hachadourian asked why the club was applying for a cafe permit rather than a restaurant permit, which does not require a variance.

The club applied for the cafe permit, as a ball club serving liquor is similar to bowling alleys and restaurants serving liquor. The bar service, Goodman said, is secondary to the actual business of the establishment.

Both restaurants and bowling alleys are exempt from the 1,000 foot separation.

Summer time and the living is easy—or at least it could be if you avail yourselves of some of the nearby activities.

For instance, the old and the new in railroading will be linked together for the first time in 47 years at Amtrak's Old Saybrook Station with the opening of the Rail Passenger Shuttle on Sunday, Aug. 3.

The shuttle restores connecting service, last operated in 1933, between Old Saybrook Station on Amtrak's Northeast Corridor and the villages of Essex, Deep River and Chester, now served by the privately owned Valley Railroad Company.

The shuttle, which will be operated by the Valley Railroad, will connect with four Amtrak trains at Old Saybrook making it possible for vacationers from points between Philadelphia and Boston to take a day trip into the past on the scenic Valley Railroad steam train to Deep River landing. An optional one or two hour river tour on the Valley's riverboat also is available. The entire trip can be taken without using an automobile.

Special ceremonies to inaugurate the new service will be held at Old Saybrook Station at noon on Friday. Invited guests will be given a preview of the new service that includes connecting from the shuttle to the steam train and lunch aboard the riverboat.

Also, the Yankee Clipper, owned and operated by New England Steamboat Lines, Inc. of Haddam, began its season with a cruise from Haddam to Greenport, Long Island.

While the clipper is docked on Long Island, passengers have three hours to lunch at many fine restaurants, browse through shops, art galleries and museums or just relax and enjoy the scenery.

For further information, contact the New England Steamboat Lines, Inc., One Marine Park, Haddam, or call (203)345-4507.

Child Abuse

Roy Rogers, America's favorite cowboy for two generations, will be in Hartford Wednesday to launch a fundraising campaign to benefit the National Committee for Prevention of Child Abuse (NCPCA).

Rogers and his wife, Dale Evans, are national chairmen of the NCPCA. Star of over 90 western movies as well as a popular TV series in the late 50's, the singing "King of the Cow-Boys" will announce plans for an August fundraising effort to be undertaken for the NCPCA by the 14 Connecticut Roy Rogers Restaurants.

Joining Rogers in outlining the program will be Hartford Mayor George Athanson, Jetta Bernier, program director of the Connecticut Child Welfare Association, and Donna Stone, founder of the NCPCA.

During August, the Roy Rogers Restaurants will contribute live cents from every large Coke or Tab sold to the NCPCA. Officials have estimated that this campaign will raise more than $25,000 for the battle

Jerry Lewis heads MDA

Jerry Lewis, national chairman for the Muscular Dystrophy Association, has added 20,000 neighborhood convenience stores to the 1980 crusade for his "kids."

The National Association of Convenience Stores of the industry organization has enlisted more than 150 chains in the campaign to find a cure for muscular dystrophy. The fund-raising efforts begin Aug. 1 and will end with the annual Labor Day Television.

"Your Change is the Cure" will be the theme for the convenience store campaign. The program will include window banners and other advertising material in the stores. Television spots and radio spots will be airing throughout the month of August.

"There will be thousands of individual stores holding car washes, parking lot sales, bike-a-thons, pinicche marathons and carnivals to raise money for Jerry and MDA," according to Dick Wood Jr., president of Wawa Food Markets in Philadelphia and chairman of the industry's convenience store advertising and fund-raising activities.

"Most convenience stores average 400 customers a day," Wood said. "That means 16 million customers each day will have the opportunity to know about Jerry's kids."

The convenience store industry is the fastest growing segment of the retail food industry, with total sales exceeding $8 billion last year. The industry is joining the 1980 crusade against muscular dystrophy because it is a national corporate sponsor.

There are no street sales currently, he said, but the possibility exists that it could be placed on airport newsstands on a single copy basis.

Winston said the magazine is designed to be a "reference quality book," although it lists only "normal" discount fares, not such exotic arrangements as groups, charters and the like.

New magazine updates discount air fair picture

By MICHAEL J. CONLON

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In the confusing world of discount air fares, a one-way coach ticket from Miami to San Francisco can cost anywhere from $129 to $338, depending on when you fly and when you buy the ticket.

The situation is so complex it has spawned a new magazine devoted to discount ticket prices. Changes occur so rapidly the magazine has to be published twice a month just to keep up with revised fares.

The first issue of Domestic FareSaver — 92 pages of computer-generated copy — came out in March.

Publisher Mark Winston says the magazine is aimed not so much at the casual once-a-year traveler as at the 15 million Americans who, for business, government or other purposes, fly often. Even so, it has a new magazine devoted to frequent travelers could theoretically recoup the subscription price, $5 for six months, after one trip if they were tipped off to a cheap ticket.

In an interview, Winston said the magazine is also aimed at the nation's 15 million travel agents. Evenually, he said, 8,000 to 10,000 public libraries around the country might buy it as a reference book for consumer use.

New dimensions to fur coat design

CHICAGO (UPI) — For those who find mink mundane or opossum ordinary, there is a new alternative: the computer-designed fur coat.

Consider a tri-color, interwoven, wicker-design Russian squirrel coat or a fur coat with a pattern of rust and brown Australian opoossum with a symmetrically streaked, gray bird motif.

Intricate patterns of color and texture made possible by computer technology are becoming an increasingly important trend in fur fashion, says Irwin R. Ware, owner of I. Magnin Fur Salon, one of the nation's largest importers of European fur coats.

"It's a quiet, behind-the-scenes revolution of techniques," said Ware.

In 1977 he became the first American to import fur coats with computer-assisted designs. Until this year, he said, a salon was the only one in the United States to offer the avant garde apparel.

Computer design allows furriers to combine types and colors and calculate exact specifications for coat construction. It permits creation of coats with thousands of individual pieces.

Ware described the making of a computer-designed coat this way:

First, the computer is fed information on the initial coat design, such as colors and dimensions. The computer then tells the artist the number, shape and sizes in which pelts must be cut.

"Today he is a great advocate of computer-designed furs."

Connecticut update

West Haven, state hope Armstrong won't close

NEW HAVEN (UPI) — State and West Haven officials left a meeting with Armstrong Rubber Co. executives convinced the company will close its oldest plant, but say they hope another firm can be recruited to use the facility.

Armstrong plans to close its West Haven tire plant in six months. Over 600 workers are employed at the facility which has been operating since 1922.

West Haven Mayor Robert Johnson and several high-ranking state officials met with Armstrong Chairman James Walsh Monday, offering tax and production incentive programs to keep the plant open.

"Mr. Walsh told us it's not the work force or production at the plant," Johnson said. "That's not the problem, it's the market. He doesn't see it getting any better."

State Economic Commissioner Edward J. Stockton was optimistic the facility could stay open, producing something other than replacement tires.

"It's close to 100 percent that Armstrong won't continue operation," he said. "Armstrong is looking into production of other goods and services (by another firm) at that plant."

"Some of the equipment could be used for making something other than tires," he said.

Johnson was scheduled to meet today with federal officials to see if workers could benefit from President Carter's financial aid program for the auto industry.

"We're prepared for the worst," he said. "The employees with seniority will be taken care of because of their pensions. But for the younger guys, that's another story."

Local police said 14 people have been treated for overdoses of the heroin in New Haven in the last month. None of the cases were fatal. Last Friday alone, 15 cases were reported in the greater New Haven area.

Area hospitals have stocked a double supply of Narcan, a heroin antidote.

The unnamed bank robber demanded money and the Connecticut National Bank teller slipped a packet of $20 bills equipped with an exploding red dye device in with the rest of the cash Monday.

The packet apparently exploded and the red dye sprayed out about five minutes later and a block away where police arrested Stephen J. Daskam, 27, of Bridgeport, on a first-degree robbery charge.

Daskam was being held on $20,000 bond pending an appearance in Superior Court.

Police said the money was found dropped behind a nearby apartment building.

A spokesman for state Consumer Counsel Barry S. Zitzer said the latest request will be challenged.

Heroin battle

NEW HAVEN (UPI) — Mayor Biagio DiIetto, responding to an unusually potent strain of heroin in the area, says police will step up drug enforcement in the Elm City.

DiIetto held a special meeting Monday with state police, the head of the state Mental Health drug specialists and local authorities. He called the meeting productive and immediate escalation of drug enforcement.

"The problem is much more serious than people realize," DiIetto said. "Many people are under the mistaken impression that there is a decline in hard-drug use. It may fluctuate, but the problem is not subsiding."

Local police said 14 people have been treated for overdoses of the heroin in New Haven in the last month. None of the cases were fatal. Last Friday alone, 15 cases were reported in the greater New Haven area.

CNG increase

HARTFORD (UPI) — The Connecticut Natural Gas Corp. says last month's award of $7.8 million in increased revenues isn't enough and is asking public utility regulators for more money.

A 16-page document made public Monday doesn't say how much more money CNG is seeking. The company had originally requested a $15.4 million rate hike.

The motion claimed state Department of Public Utility Control commissioners are also incorrectly on several issues in the rate case.

A spokesman for state Consumer Counsel Barry S. Zitzer said the latest request will be challenged.

Census request

HARTFORD (UPI) — Mayor George Athanson, faced with reports of a steeply declining city population, has taken to the airwaves urging residents to register with the U.S. Census Bureau.

Athanson, using television and radio announcements, has asked residents to register as part of his effort to show that preliminary census figures are inaccurate.

The preliminary figures put Hartford's population at 124,155, down by more than 20 percent from 1970 statistics. The mayor's office estimates the drop would mean a loss of $500 million in federal grants.

Officials in New Haven and Bridgeport also are urging residents to register as part of their preliminary census figures. Combined, they show the population of Connecticut's three largest cities dropping by about 60,000.

Loss delays honeymoon

VERNON — A newlywed Rockville couple has their New York City honeymoon plans on hold, hoping the person who found their wedding gift money on the side of a highway has a hearty concisance.

The couple's names weren't released, but the bride, who had been married Friday and the bride was from Fairfield.

State police Monday appealed to whoever found the white satin bag containing the gift to turn it in to troopers, saying no questions would be asked.

Spokesman Adam Berluti said state police were "appealing to the better nature" of the person who apparently picked up the white purse after it fell from the newlyweds' car at exit 92 of Interstate 84 in Manchester.

Road survey completed

COVENTRY — The Hemlock Point District has completed a survey of its private right-of-way and is awaiting town review will lead to town takeover of the roads.

The steps listed by Connolly in February were:

- A letter of preliminary intent from the association that the association wishes to have the town take over the roads, including a full and complete identification of which roads are to be considered.
- Identification of all easements and safety hazards along the roads.

Rec program successful

COVENTRY — The first session of the summer recreation and education program for children, which ends today, is considered a success.

"We have accomplished our goals," said Al Walmsey, program administrator. "It turned out very well," he said.

Fire destroys race track

SALEM, N.H. (UPI) — A dawn fire erupting from a string of small explosions today destroyed the grandstand, clubhouse and paddock at the Rockingham Park horse race track.

"The place is gone," said Bruce Sterns, a spokesman for the famed horse race track located just north of the Massachusetts state line. He estimated damage in the "multi-millions."

The fire did not affect the stable area a mile away and there were no injuries to any persons or the thoroughbred horses.

The remainder of the 47-day 1980 racing season has been canceled.

The blaze, discovered in the grandstand area about 6:45 a.m., quickly engulfed the huge structure, built in 1960.

"I've just never seen so many flames," said Sterns. "What the future lies I don't know."

Witnesses said the fire was punctuated by a series of small explosions apparently caused by chemicals stored in the stable area.

They said the "clubhouse appears to be gutted" and the "grandstand is totally gone."

The fire is expected to have an effect on state revenues, since New Hampshire relies heavily on income from horse and dog racing.

Gov. Hugh Gallen was expected to tour the damaged track late today.

The blaze was brought under control about 9 a.m. after firemen and equipment from at least 10 towns in New Hampshire and Massachusetts rushed to the scene.

While the main contingent of firefighters battled the fire in the grandstand area, other directed their hoses to the stable area.

Firefighters from Haverhill, Methuen, Lawrence and North Andover, Mass., were called to the scene, as well as men and equipment from virtually every surrounding small town in New Hampshire.

Deadline set for nurses

HARTFORD (UPI) — Federal inspectors have given two major Connecticut mental hospitals a month to develop plans to correct nursing shortages or face the loss of up to $2.8 million in Medicare payments.

Dr. Eric Plaut, commissioner of mental health, said Monday the state had launched an active campaign to attract nurses but "we're caught in the same recruitment bind as the general hospitals."

Both Connecticut Valley Hospital in Middletown and Fairfield Hills Hospital in Newtown are short 15 to 20 registered nurses — about 20 percent of the nursing staffs they are authorized to have.

The National Institute of Mental Health's Medicare Survey Team inspected both hospitals in June and set the August deadline for the development of plans to correct the staffing shortages.

Fairfield Hills also lacks 10 of the 25 social workers it is supposed to have. The only state mental facility which doesn't have a staffing problem is Norwich State Hospital in Norwich.

Plaut said Medicare could start the process of revoking the two hospitals' certification if federal inspectors reject the staffing plans without certification federal payments for Medicare patients would cease.

SOUTH WINDSOR — Her complaint was justified, but because it was improperly filed it was dismissed.

The State Freedom of Information Commission has ruled in favor of a complaint by Nancy Jo Caffyn that the Town Council held an illegal executive session, but because she improperly filed for the complaint, the case was dismissed.

The commission ruled the Town Council called an executive session on Jan. 7 to discuss personnel matters concerning the town attorney.

However, discussion did not take place in an appointment session. Continued employment, performance, health or dismissal of the town attorney.

However, the commission upheld the town's position that the com-

Bolton seeks roof bids

BOLTON — Bids for a new roof for Bolton Elementary School will be invited next week and will be opened Aug. 11.

Although a written engineering report on the structural analysis of the Trocair roof has not yet been received by town officials, the Public Building Commission learned Monday that such a structurally sound. The added weight of that type of roof caused concern to the commission and to the Board of Education.

The commission is asking that the roof be finished by August 15, before children return to school for the fall semester.

The roof is expected to cost more than $100,000, but officials have declined to make public their estimate of the cost.

Stave questions validity of Dem choice in 53rd

COVENTRY — The nomination in the 53rd Assembly District has been thrown into complication for the Democratic Party by the late emergence of a third candidate and challenge to the validity of Thursday's convention.

The challenge has been brought by Sondra Stave who is asking the State Democratic Party to name a special committee to consider invalidating the convention and allowing a primary between her and Michael Helgott. Helgott received 6 delegate votes at the convention.

Mrs. Stave says Mrs. Carilli cannot be a candidate because she is a classified state employee, an aide at Mansfield State Training School. State law prohibits state classified employees from running for any except town offices.

Mrs. Carilli was a surprise candidate. Democrats entered the convention to name a 6-5 vote committee. Mrs. Stave and Helgott, the two had agreed beforehand that in the event the lie held, they would vote for the party's endorsed candidate and the other would primary. Two of the votes, Mrs. Stave expected were those of Mrs. Carilli and her son, Joseph, who she said were not for her.

Defense keys Yankees not homers

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (UPI) — Rick Cerone, whose 10th-inning home run powered New York to a 7-6 victory over the Minnesota Twins Monday night, said it was defense — not his top home runs — that won the game for the Yankees.

"I'm not a home-run hitter," the 26-year-old catcher said after winning the game with his 10th home run of the year. "The play at the plate the inning before was more important than the two errors. It kept us in the ballgame."

With the Twins trailing 6-5 in the ninth, Bob Willong lined a bases-clearing single to right fielder Reggie Jackson. John Castino scored easily from third before Jose Morales came barreling toward home from second. Although Jackson's throw was a bit up the line, Morales was out at the plate.

"Reggie deserves a lot of credit," Cerone said. "There were seven guys out there that thought the game was over with that hit, but not me and Reggie. I stood right in the basepath. I don't like doing it because you can get injured that way at the end of your career, but I did it and Reggie made a great throw."

Twins Manager Gene Mauch, who said he had no one left in the dugout to pinch run for Morales, also felt the game turned on that play.

"Cerone's defensive ability has been a big asset to the Yankees. It's already been a part of that play at the plate, it's a win or lose situation and that's when you can't afford to be timid. Nobody in the league is any better than he is at throwing the ball and at blocking balls. The whole staff has a lot of faith in him. It's a real blast being receiver Doug Bird, 2-0, get the victory while John Verheijen, 1-3, suffered the loss. The Twins led 1-2 until Oscar Gamble's RBI single and Cerone's three-run homer in the eighth made it 6-5. Cerone's two-run homer in the fifth put the Twins up 4-2.

Twins first baseman Tom Jackson summed up his team's feeling about the loss. "We were supposed to lose this game," he said. "It was a heartbreaker, especially because it was to the Yankees. Cerone killed us."

"We got the right fielder out (Jackson, who went 0-for-3) but they still beat us," he said after the Yankees took their eighth of 10 contests with Minnesota this season. "Jackson made a great play and the catcher made a great play, too."

Yankees skipper Dick Howser was all smiles after his club improved a road record that is already the best in the American League.

Alexander content in Atlanta uniform

NEW YORK (UPI) — Doyle Alexander, one of the toughest pitchers to catch, according to Atlanta Braves receiver Bruce Benedict.

"He mixes up his pitches all the time and he's got a fast ball, a sinker which is really wicked, a curve, a tremendous change-up and a hard slider," said Benedict. "He had real good stuff even in the seventh inning when they got their runs."

Alexander, 35, pitched Atlanta to a 6-3 victory over the New York Mets Monday night, helped along by Benedict's first-inning RBI base hit, a tworn fifth-inning single by Gary Matthews and a seventh-inning home run by Dale Murphy.

"Alexander has been doing this all year," said Bobby Cox, the Braves' manager. "He's one of the best pitchers and if you look at his record, except for last year when he was hit by a batted ball and had a broken jaw, he has always been a winner. I think he is back to his form of 1976 when he was with the Yankees and we won the American League pennant."

Cox was then a Yankees coach — but the New York American League team was unable to sign Alexander. He joined the Atlanta shortstop, also a right-hander, in the off-season and lost him to Texas.

"I have no regrets over the Yankees situation," said Alexander. "I pitched two one-hitters in 1976 for the Yankees. They didn't need me. They are doing very well without me. I just wish I could get paid the money I wanted."

Matthews noted: "When Alexander started in 1976, he was a real run pitcher, he usually wins. We have now won seven of 12 and I feel we are as good as any team in our division."

Atlanta put a move on Mets starter Pete Falcone, 5-7, in the first inning when he struck out Murphy with one out. Murphy beat out an infield single by Ed Figueroa. Chambliss struck out. Matthews singled to center. Bob Horner then drilled an RBI single to left. Horner and Murphy, and when Jeff Burroughs walked the bases were loaded.

In two innings, Falcone walked Glenn Hubbard to open the inning and Murphy doubled him to third. Falcone again struck out Chambliss. Matthews' RBI single to left, and Murphy, and when Jeff Burroughs walked the bases were loaded.

Five titles in row sets golf record
Women's Division golf championship laurels at the Manchester Country Club have been dominated over the past dozen years by two players.

When pretty Nancy Narkon gained an unprecedented fifth straight title last week she moved into a deadlock with Patty Torza Natalie for most club championships.

Natalie's reign covered a two-year period, 1969 thru 1972, with a fifth title achieved in 1975 after her marriage.

The only other player to emerge as champion during the 12-year period was Esther Burnham in 1973 and 1974.

Natalie and Narkon were both 17 the first year each won. The Parciak mother and daughter team faced Narkon in the title rounds the last four years. Isabelle Parciak lost out in 1977 and the latter's daughter, Karen, was a bridesmaid the last three summers in the golf competition.

Narkon and Parciak are without question the top two female players in the MCC membership. Both are active in major state and New England tournament competition.

Course record round for a woman is 72, held by Narkon and established in July of 1976.

Notes off the cuff
Pro Football Hall of Fame will open its doors to one-time star Jim Otto, Herb Adderley, Deacon Jones and Bob Lilly on Saturday. All four were perennial all-star selections.

Disappointed with his showing in the 10th, Jim Balcome, head pro at Manchester Country Club, who turned in 76-77 rounds and missed the cut. Jim Huber, Minnecappug, was another whose play was below par in the Wethersfield promotion and his 82-77 scores were at the bottom of the list after 36 holes.

Curry is challenging the secretary of state's policy of allowing other candidates to share Anderson's ballot line on a first-come, first-served basis.

But Clarie, who just heard the second day of testimony in the case, said, "I always like state issues decided in state courts, if that's possible to do."

Jon Berman, Curry's lawyer, had told Clarie the only fair thing to do was to leave everyone off of the third party ballot except for Anderson.

Justice can only be done by cleaning the line and ending any possibilities of deception," he said.

English has not collected any disability pension from the town for far. He had been receiving workmen's compensation payments, but has surrendered them under terms of an agreement with "Traveler's" insurance Co. which carried not only the workmen's compensation coverage for the town, but also the liability insurance for the state, according to attorney Diana.

When asked by a board member why English had given up the ongoing compensation payments of the lump sum liability settlement, Diana said English became upset when the insurance company hired detectives to determine whether he was able to work and wanted the matter closed.

At one point after the accident, English returned to work when doctors at a Boston clinic could find no specific cause for the seizures and recommended he try working. He fell down a flight of stairs on his second day on the job and broke several teeth in the fall.

Ed Figueroa to Rangers

ARLINGTON, Texas (UPI) — The Texas Rangers have purchased Ed Figueroa from the New York Yankees for an undisclosed cash consideration in hopes that the former 20-game winner will bolster the team's starting rotation.

Executive vice president Eddie Robinson said Steve Comer, the team's biggest winner last year, would be reassigned to Texas AA franchise, Tulsa of the Texas League, to make room for Figueroa.

Figueroa, 31, compiled a 3-3 record with New York this year with a 6.98 ERA in 15 games. He is also credited with one save.

Ineffective this season after undergoing surgery on his right elbow last August, Figueroa has often expressed a desire either to pitch in the Yankees' regular rotation or to be traded.

"All parties concerned felt it was time for a change," said Yankees executive vice president Steve Wacker. "Ed had not been pitching effectively for us this year, although he gave us some fine performances during his years with the Yankees. We wish him well."

Year's mystery
One of the year's biggest mysteries is how Don Zimmer has been able to hold his job with the Boston Red Sox. The fault is not Zimmer's but it's easier to fire one manager than 25 players. Boston fans have got to write off the 1980 season for their one-time favorite.

John Ward, recent Rockville High grad, and Connecticut's top schoolboy javelin thrower, has qualified for the Junior Olympics in August. Aug. 13 along with his coach, Jim Balcome, money is needed to finance the trip to the Santa Clara campus. Ward qualified last year with a 200-foot in the Junior Olympic trials in Greenwich. Any willing to offer financial help may contact Balcome at 27 Lakeside Circle, Westford, Mass. 'Paper Chase' comes to Public Television

The 'Paper Chase,' the highly-acclaimed television series starring John Houseman (pictured) as the venerable law school professor who instills both form and principle into the lives of the young men and women he teaches, will come to Public Television early in 1991.

The series will be made available to television viewers nationwide by ABC-2, Atlantic Richfield Company and Public Television stations.

WTTW, Chicago, first obtained a corporate underwriting grant from ABC. WTTW then went to other Public Television stations and received pro-rata support for the 20th Century-Fox Television production series.

The 'Paper Chase' for the 1978-79 television season on CBS. The series was not renewed by the network. The 'Paper Chase' originally was scheduled against 'Happy Days' and 'Laverne and Shirley,' two of the network's highest rated programs at the time.

The 'Paper Chase' audiences were extremely loyal, with CBS receiving thousands of letters supporting the program. Critics and television editors continued to ask for the series' return.

During the series' first Public Television season there will be thirteen Paper Chase episodes—all from among the 22 broadcast originals produced.

WTTW President and General Manager William J. McCarter upon CBS' cancellation of 'The Paper Chase,' he believed the series belonged on public television. He asked for an option from 20th Century-Fox Television in order to bring the series to public television.

The 'Paper Chase' television immediately agreed.

ABC and 20th Century-Fox will be pleased to help us bring this series to public television audiences.

State employees' union eyes national affiliation

HARTFORD (UPI) — Connecticut's largest state employees union, which has seen nearly half its ranks jump ship to competing unions, is considering affiliation with a national union.

Representatives of five national unions were scheduled to meet here today to discuss the possibility of affiliating with the National Education Association, the American Federation of Teachers, the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, the National Public Employees Union and the National Union of Government Employees.

Until 1978, CSEA had joined in a coalition with the Middletown-based Connecticut Employee Union Independent. The two represented the vast majority of Connecticut's 70,000 state workers.

However, the coalition broke apart in late 1978 and that fall the CSEA lost a series of representation elections which cut its membership from 30,000 to about 16,000 workers.

Caffrey said CSEA probably would have met with the national unions even if it had not suffered the losses since the larger unions had contacted his group about affiliation last year.

Seeking the CSEA affiliation are the United Auto Workers, National Assembly of Government Workers, Laborers International Union, American Federation of Teachers and the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees.

But leaders of two other state workers unions sharply criticized the possible affiliation.

"They're just put for the sale sign up," said CEU President Sal Perruccio, whose union picked up about 8,500 CSEA members when its coalition with the larger union fell apart. "They're putting the poor state employees up to bid."

Jerry Brown, vice president of District 1199 of the National Union of Hospital and Health Care Workers, called the possible affiliation "rather unbridled."

"They never really learned how to represent workers in a collective bargaining so the leadership decided to come in out of the rain and buy protection for itself," said Brown. "The CSEA affiliation is a way for workers once covered by CSEA. They never really learned how to represent workers in a collective bargaining so the leadership decided to come in out of the rain and buy protection for itself."

The affiliation talks also were scheduled as the AFT was seeking to win the right to represent three of the judicial and administrative bargaining units now represented by CSEA.

Deregulation of airlines hurts service in region

BOSTON (UPI) — If you're a New England air traveler accustomed to flying from one small airport to another, airline deregulation is costing you more money and giving you less service.

That's the finding of a special report released by the New England Regional Commission.

Since deregulation began in late 1978, New England has suffered the combined effects of a dramatic loss of air service, tighter fuel supplies and rapidly increasing air fares, the study found.

During deregulation 7 percent of the region's flight destinations have been dropped and NERCOM fears New England could face critical gaps in service in the future.

Deregulation is heralded as a way to cut air fares and increase service and is expected to have little or no effect on fuel supplies. The NERCOM report says the policy has had just the opposite effect in New England.

"The impact of deregulation, and the current state of the economy, has severely impacted the region," said NERCOM analyst Michael Fusco.

The study, conducted from late 1978 to the final quarter of 1979, found air traffic at New England's major airports had decreased by almost one-third. As a result, New England provided regional service to the fewest number of passengers since 1974.

The potential safety of New England air passengers also may have been adversely affected, the report warned.

Since 1978, five New England communities have lost certified air carrier service. Those communities are Bridgewater, New Haven, Conn., Manchester, N.H., Presque Isle, Maine and Worcester, Mass.

Certified airlines must meet stricter government standards regarding safety and performance compared to their noncertified counterparts. When deregulation was implemented, certified carriers were allowed to discontinue flights to communities they no longer wished to serve.

Smaller, less regulated, commuter airlines have filled some of the gaps in service left by the withdrawal of major certified airlines.

Commuter airlines, such as the stepchildren of the industry, have more than doubled their New England service in the past six years and now account for about half the flight departures in the region.

In addition to a declining number of flights, New England has seen an average of 100 cancellations a week, more than doubling the national rate.

This increases reflect a national trend, but the NERCOM report found the cost per mile for New England fares is three times the U.S. average.

Government will drop Prudential

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Labor Department officials say insurance policies for hundreds of thousands of federal employees will be protected despite its action in terminating government contracts with the Prudential Insurance Co. of America.

The firm's government premiums exceed $180 million annually.

Department officials, beset by inquiries from anxious policyholders in the government, said no Prudential policies would be suspended or canceled until those policies are covered by a new insurance carrier.

The department announced Monday it was terminating government contracts with Prudential because the insurance firm refused to turn over its employment records to the government. The department wanted the records to make sure the company does not discriminate in its hiring and promotion practices.

The policies cover workers in the Justice and Treasury departments, FBI, Postal Service and Federal Aviation Administration.

The government order also prohibits other companies from holding Prudential policies for that part of their work force engaged in government contracts.

Prudential immediately announced it will seek a federal court injunction to prevent the government from withholding contracts pending final outcome of a court challenge.

Assistant Labor Secretary Donald Elsberg said the process of terminating Prudential's current contracts will be carried out in a manner to assure protection for those people covered by Prudential insurance policies.

"Nothing will be done to risk immediate harm to the company's federal policyholders," said Elsberg.

Both the government and Prudential said there was no evidence in New York, N.J.-based firm actually practices race or sex discrimination. Prudential said more than 45 percent of the company work force is women and 15 percent is minorities.

Prudential is being barred, officials said, because it refused to give the government access to employment records except under "unacceptable conditions."

Prudential's refusal to provide access to its employee data is both baffling and frustrating to those of us who are attempting to make equal opportunity a reality, not a buzzword," said Elsberg.

Pan American World Airways Monday announced the sale of its 59-story headquarters in New York City for $400 million to the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. in what was described as the largest real estate transaction in history. (UPI photo)

MANCHESTER — The Savings Bank of Manchester recently received two awards for its 1979 financial performance. The Connecticut Art Directors Club during its fifth annual awards presentation.

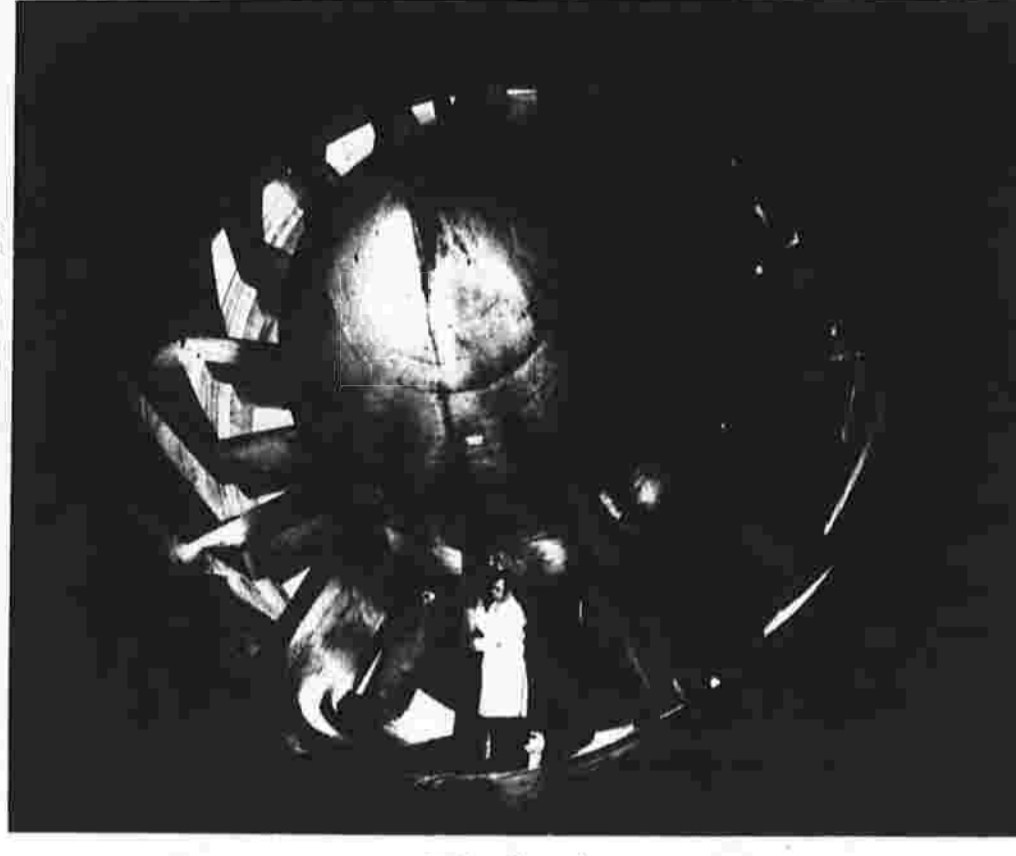

The bank received "The One" first place award in the category of Outdoor & Transit Advertising for a billboard headlined "Hallelujah!" Also competing and placing as a finalist was another Savings Bank of Manchester.

MANCHESTER — Over 5,000 cars since we started in July 1976.

That's the record of the MAACO Auto Painting and Bodyworks center at 29 Adams St., Manchester, which is observing its fourth anniversary this week.

"We must be doing something right," said owner Michael DeCaprio. "We attribute the success of our center and the number of satisfied customers since we opened to the MAACO policy of quality work at reasonable prices." DeCaprio added.

The Manchester center is one of the more than 300 in the continental chain which extends into 42 states and Canada. Since its founding in 1972, MAACO has painted and repaired over one million vehicles — a true achievement in just a few

Windy place
One of the windiest places in the northeast is indoors at the United Technologies Research Center in East Hartford, where this 26-foot diameter drive fan, inspected by technician Lewis Knowles, generates winds up to 700 miles per hour. The wind or air flow produced is used in a subsonic wind tunnel to test the aerodynamics of jet engines, scale models of helicopters and windmills and even the effects of wind on buildings.

Business

On Allied board
MANCHESTER — John F. Somers, president of Allied Printing Services Inc., has announced the election of Frank S. Wilson to the board of directors of the company.

Wilson is chairman, president and chief executive officer of the J.M. Wilson Co., a graduate of the University of Hartford, has served in the U.S. Navy and resides in Glastonbury with his wife Joan and their three children.

Allied Printing Services Inc. is one of the largest sheet fed offset commercial printing firms in Connecticut.

SNET earnings
NEW HAVEN — Southern New England Telephone has reported earnings per share of 60 cents for the second quarter of 1980 compared with last year's second quarter figure of $1.33.

For the 12-month period ending June 30, 1980, the company earned $4.48 per common share, compared with $5.85 for the same period a year ago.

Alfred Van Sinderen, SNET president, said that the prime factor for the earnings decline is very high inflation.

"Inflation's inescapable impact over the last three years continues to be reflected in our lowered earnings. This continuing erosion of our earnings makes very plain how absolutely essential it is that our rates be brought more into line with the sharply higher costs of providing good telephone service to our customers," Van Sinderen said.

Hamilton contract
WINDSOR LOCKS — Rockwell International's North American Aircraft Division has awarded United Technologies' Hamilton Standard division a multimillion dollar contract to provide the integrated control system for a new four-engine swept wing technology demonstration system Rockwell proposes to build for the Pentagon's Defense Advanced Research Project Agency.

The system will include three identical computers which will monitor each other in addition to performing flight control functions. In the event of a computer failure, the remaining computers will continue to perform the flight control mission without a reduction in capabilities.

CG dividend
HARTFORD — A quarterly dividend of 38 cents per share was declared by directors of Connecticut General Insurance Corp., payable Oct. 10, to stockholders of record Sept. 12.

CBT Corp. report
HARTFORD — CBT Corp., the holding company whose major subsidiary is the Connecticut Bank and Trust Co., has reported today that earnings for the three months ended June 30, 1980 were $5.8 million, or $2.05 per share, the highest level of quarterly earnings in its history. This represents a 29 percent increase in per share earnings over the same period last year, when earnings were $4.5 million, or $1.59 per share.

For the six months ended June 30, 1980, earnings were $10.1 million, or $3.56 per share, compared with $8.5 million, or $3 per share, in 1979, an increase of 19 percent.

The improved results, for both the second quarter and the first six months of the year, reflect CBT's continued growth in earning assets and improvement in its net interest margin. The second quarter advance, in particular, reflects continued favorable spreads resulting from the recent decline in interest rates.

For the first time, CBT reached the $5 billion level in assets as of June 30, 1980, 19 percent more than the same period last year. For the first half of 1980, total earning assets rose $28 million, or 14 percent higher than the same period last year. The greater level of assets was achieved, in spite of relatively modest loan demand, by increasing short term investments, which include time deposits in other banks.

Forms committee

Independent presidential candidate John B. Anderson announced in Chicago Monday the formation of a nationwide fund-raising committee. He said his campaign has a good start on raising between $12 million and $15 million. (UPI photo)

State poll shows Anderson ahead

STORRS (UPI) — A new poll of Connecticut voters shows independent presidential candidate John B. Anderson holding a slim lead over Republican Ronald Reagan with President Carter running last in a three-man race for his job.

The statewide survey conducted by the University of Connecticut Institute for Social Inquiry also showed Anderson's Connecticut support level off after its upswing in May and June.

It also said despite Anderson's popularity in Connecticut, only 3 percent of the state's voters expect the Illinois congressman to actually win the November election.

The telephone poll of 500 voters, taken from July 8-14, was released Monday and gave Anderson the lead with 28 percent of the vote. Reagan was close on Anderson's heels with 27 percent and Carter trailed with 24 percent. The remaining 21 percent were undecided, wanted none of the three or another candidate, said the poll, which has a margin of error of 5 percentage points.

The survey also said if Anderson weren't running, Reagan would receive 39 percent of the vote, Carter would get 27 percent, 15 percent was undecided and 9 percent disliked both candidates.

Only 3 percent of those surveyed thought Anderson will win in November, compared to 42 percent who think Carter will win and 36 percent who think Reagan will win.

The poll was taken just before the Republicans named Reagan their nominee and he chose George Bush, who was raised in Connecticut and is the son of the late Sen. Prescott Bush, R-Conn., as his running mate.

Apple harvest looks good

BURLINGTON, Vt. (UPI) — Vermont's 1980 apple harvest apparently will be better than anticipated, thanks to a turn in the weather.

The experts originally predicted a bad year, because of a lack of moisture resulting from last winter's snow drought followed by a dry spring.

But recent rains have turned things around, and Extension Service fruit specialist Joseph Costigan said Monday this year's harvest is likely to be higher than the one million bushels picked in 1979.

And, he added, the apples probably will be bigger. More rain is still needed, Costigan said, warning the worst threat to the crop could now come from hail storms.

There are about 75 full and part-time orchardists in Vermont who contribute between $7 million and $8 million to the state's economy.

Official says Anderson should determine ballot

HARTFORD (UPI) — Connecticut's chief elections attorney says independent presidential hopeful John B. Anderson should have a say about the cast of candidates seeking office on his ballot line.

John P. Malone, director of the elections division of the secretary of the state's office, Monday told Chief U.S. District Court Judge T. Emmet Clarke "a unique situation" was created when more than 130 Democratic and Republican candidates took out petitions to be on the Anderson line.

"Anderson has very strong voter sentiment in Connecticut," he testified, "and I think the remedy would be to require some approval or endorsement from him before we can certify the petitions."

Clarke is hearing a suit brought by Sen. William Curry, D-Farmington, who charged the right to set on the Anderson line in the state's first-come, first-served policy was deceptive to the public.

Curry is seeking re-election and is being challenged by Republican Charles Alfano, who has taken out a petition to appear on the Anderson line.

Maloney testified for more than two hours before a battery of lawyers representing various political groups. Clarke adjourned the hearing until 10 a.m. today.

Several times during the proceedings, Clarke asked Maloney and Curry's counsel, John Bierman, why the secretary of the state's office couldn't handle the problem through administrative procedures.

The judge also wondered whether a special session of the Legislature might be called to deal with the problem.

At one point, Clarke commented and Maloney agreed "the Legislature did a bad job in setting up this mechanism" that allows a candidate to appear on two ballot lines merely by being first in line for the independent listing.

"By this arbitrary measure of rule, you do deprive Tom, Dick and Harry from becoming a candidate?" he asked Maloney.

"That's correct," said Maloney, whose boss, Connecticut State Secretary Barbara Kennedy, invited the lawsuit to clear up the loophole in election laws.

Abby

By Abigail van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Is it possible to be married in the eyes of God only? As the widow of a retired railroad man, if I marry again, I'll lose my widow's retirement benefits. Five years ago I fell in love with a fine and decent man - a retired disabled widower. We love each other and want to marry, but that means giving up my widow's benefits, and we can't make it on his check alone. So we are forced to live in his old home. I'm a scared woman, Abby, but we love and need each other, so we're living together. We are trying to get a law passed (like Social Security) that will permit widows of railroad men to marry, but until we do, we are in a bind. Please print this, Abby, because we railroad widows don't have anyone fighting for us. We are the forgotten people. DEAR ABBY: I have heard that there are some compassionate ministers who will bless a common-law union such as yours, making you to be married in the eyes of God even though you are not married in the eyes of the law. If there's one in Passaic, I hope he contacts me. I also hope someone champions your cause as railroad widows can remarry without losing their benefits. DEAR ABBY: A very good friend of mine in the real estate business several months ago gave him a referral, and he got the listing and sold the house. He and when it closed he would hand over a bill certificate for a department store, or he and his wife would take me and my wife out to dinner. Last night we went out to dinner with them at a very nice restaurant. When the check came, you can imagine our shock when he said, "Well, let's split the bill." He must have forgotten in my bill - but this time I can't say the promise without causing embarrassment on either side. DEAR JUST: He's probably forgotten his promise, so don't mention it. But if he reads this column, you may contact after 5 p.m. DEAR ABBY: My problem is that I am in a debt and can't seem to get out. I don't know what to call myself except maybe "stupid." My husband makes a good living, but the only bills that get paid on time are the rent and the utilities because he pays them. I write checks for everything else and also a part of the car. I have a car overdrawn at the bank, have several unpaid bills standing in the face and am scared to death to tell my husband about it. I'm not extravagant with myself. It's usually something I buy for the children or the house. This is nothing new - I have always been behind in my bills - but this time I can't say my way clear. I'm ready for a nervous breakdown. I'm considering borrowing some money, but the interest rates are so high. What should I do? DROWNING IN BILLS DEAR DROWNING: First I will tell you what NOT to do. Don't borrow any money without your husband's knowledge. Then close your charge accounts, hand your husband your checkbook and tell him about the mess you're in. If he doesn't immediately remove you from the treasury department of the family, you can learn how to budget if you really want to, and you should. But until you do, let Abby handle the family fortune. Do you wish you had more friends? Got Abby's booklet, "How To Be Popular: You're Never Too Young or Too Old." Send $1 with a long, self-addressed, stamped (28 cents) envelope to: Abby, Popularity, 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

second-best so you are really treating the 10-card cards involved in the play as if they were ace-small rather than king-jack.

South analyzes the lead as four-honors. He counts winners and losers and sees that the only way he can lose his contract is to take the queen of spades that East has played at trick one with his king.

If he does this he will set up the ace and king of clubs. He has to take the club finesse on his way to collecting nine tricks. East will get in with the king and lead his last spade to give West four spade tricks.

Now see what happens if South holds up with his king-jack of spades. East leads the suit back. South's jack forces the ace and now South can lose the club finesse and still be sure of nine tricks, game and rubber.

Some may note that if South leads the first trick and 1000 to a diamond the hand can collapse against certain partner holdings. That is true. West with both queen and jack of clubs, but that is most unlikely while the actual holdings are very likely.

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

Today's hand involves a rather unusual hold-up play. You hold up the second-best card, not the top of course, you do have a third-best card to back up the
