Heavy smoke pours from oil storage tank following an explosion which ripped open a tank at the Canal Electric Company generating plant in Sandwich, Mass., Tuesday. At least four persons were injured and major roads closed to Cape Cod after the blast at the plant on the Cape Cod canal. Investigators speculate the blast was caused by a welder working on top of the tank. Officials from the Executive Office of Environmental Affairs were rushed to the scene because they feared the possibility of an oil spill into the canal. Hearing planned on cab firm sale

VERNON - The Greater Hartford Transit District will conduct a public hearing on Aug. 14 at 7 p.m. in the Memorial Building, Park Place, concerning an application on the sale of the Rockville Cab Co. Inc The Dial-A-Ride of Connecticut Inc. of Manchester is seeking to buy the Rockville company and proposes to operate four taxicabs within the Town of Vernon and between Vernon and the remaining towns in the district "in exclusive use and shared ride modes under the provisions of the Transit District's rules for regulation and supervision of transit systems." Anyone who is interested or who may be affected by the proposed operation will be heard. Written comments will accepted before the hearing or may be sent to the Transit District's office, 179 Allyn St., Hartford, 06103. A hearing was held in Hartford last week. The Transit District panel, made up of Thomas Sheridan, chairman and William Chioco and Michael J. Gessay and Arthur Handman, executive director and panel secretary reviewed the application for sale and transfer and expressed concern about the possible confusion to the users if a new fare system were implemented withou

They also expressed concern about where the cabs will be garaged, how many taxicabs would be available, the name of the service, and the nature of the proposed shared ride service. After a lengthy discussion, Gessay proposed that then nearing be held in Vernon and it was approved by the

Pratt & Whitney hikes production

HARTFORD (UPI) - The Pratt & Whitney Aircraft Group, buoyed by a record $1.22 billion contract to provide engines for the U.S. Air Force's prime jet ighters, has stepped up its production schedule. Rep. Robert Giaimo, D-Conn., announced the pact Tuesday, saying it was "a boon to Connecticut's economy and reinforces our state's position as a producer of high

Under the fixed price contract, the United Technologies Corp. subsidiary will provide 514 F-100 engines and modules for the Air Force's F-15 and F16 ighter aircraft

Eighty percent of the work on the engines will be done at P&WA's East Hartford plant with the remainder slated for its plant in West Palm Beach, Fla. P&W said about 9,800 workers, or 45 percent of its hourly employees in Connecticut, have volunteered to skip their vacations to bring the company back up to schedule on its F-100 program.

The extra work is needed to overcome the effect of aix-month strikes last year by two key suppliers, including Fafnir Bearing Co. in New Britain, spokesmen said. Giaimo noted problems have occurred in the F-100 engines, but said the latest contract showed those roblems were being resolved and the Air Force had confidence in the engine.

"The Air Force's decision to spend more than $1 billion to procure new F-100 engines indicates to me that the Air Force believes what it has been telling Congress - that the problems in the F-100 are being resolved and that the F-100 can meet the Air Force's needs," he said.

MANCHESTER - Officials of the Family Relations Division of the Superior Court today were seeking a permanent and a temporary solution o the problem of where the voluntary honor court will meet.

Monday night meetings of the group, persons who have come to the attention of the Family Relations Division with an alcohol related problem, have been suspended because the new Superior Court building is not geared to handle the Last Monday the group gathered outside the court, but there was no one to let them in. There is no custodial service at that hour and there is a question of security.

Joseph Rafala, assistant director of the Family Relations Division for the court, said today he has asked his superiors to solve the problem of providing a couple of hours of custodial service.

Meanwhile, he said, he hoped some Manchester church or other organization can be found to provide temporary meeting place. The honor court tries to keep people from repeated involvement with the family court. A representative of family court normally attends honor court meetings. CofC confirms move to home

MANCHESTER - The Chamber of Commerce confirmed Wednesday it will move into new offices at the Frank Cheney home in the Cheney National Historic

The move from the offices at 257 E. Center St. had been expected since June. The negotiations to rent the Cheney home, which is owned by South Methodist Church had apparently been ongoing since about March. Under the agreement between the church and the chamber, the chamber will share in operating costs and join in a long-term renovation program. The Chamber will use the building's ground floor, and be responsible for the building's interior.

The chamber was searching for new offices as its lease is about to expire and chamber officials say more space

The South United Methodist Church purchased the building about 20 years ago as a church school. In recent years the building was used for group meetings. The church used the building from May to October, but did not use it in winter to avoid heating costs.

The church had been searching for a tenant for several years whose "objectives are consistent with the obligaion of the church toward improvement of the quality of life in the community." There were problems with finding a suitable tenant as the renter had to be a non-profit nization, in keeping with the tax-exempt status of religous organizations

The building is the former home of a family who founded Manchester's silk manufacturing industry. For many years, before most of the business moved from Manchester, the Cheney Mills were the community's mainstay. The south end of Manchester has been designated a national historic district, with plans underway to renovate the area. Elderly housing, new bus routes and business are planned for the district.

Talks planned in I-284 study By PATRICK REILLY

EAST HARTFORD - The president of the Chamber of Commerce Judith L. Carr said Wednesday she will be meeting with Mayor George A. A delay in the project will also, she said, delay revitalization plans for East Hartford's business district. A state highway official said Monday, the state transportation department has commissioned Kayes O'Conner Wednesday. Town officials have given full support to the highway which will connect I-84 at Governor Street to the Bissell Bridge in South Windsor.

Town Planner John Shemo said the I-284 could become the route for many trucking firms who now use East Hartford streets to get to towns north and west of East Hartford. The environmental study, however, may prevent the proposed highway from ever being constructed. One state official, James F. Byrnes, assistant director of environmental planning for the state Department of Transportation, said if the project passes the environmental study the "absolute earliest" it could be Speaking from his Haynes Street office, the orthopedic surgeon talked of his 10-day stint in June when he saw his countrymen and women-turned-refugees in anything but idyllic settings.

"I heard about the Haitian refugees coming in, so I told (former Manchester physician) Dr. David Warren to call me if he needed help." Dr. Henrys said. "I worked with him when he was here, before he joined the U.S. Health Service (which was overseeing treatment of the refugees). He knew I spoke Creole (the French dialect of Haiti) and Spanish so he called me a couple of weeks before the Memorial weekend and told me to come immediately. But I had to delay in order to reschedule my own patients," he said. Over 1,300 Haitians sailed to Florida from their homeland in March, and another 326 showed up in Miami on April 13. They were taken to camps situated around Homestead Air Force Base, south of the city, where Dr. Henrys found them when he arrived June 10.

Cubans, also fleeing their country, were pouring into Florida at alarming rates, and were placed in temporary camps near the Haitians'. "The refugees were very happy to see a doctor from their own country, but I can't take all the credit. Two doctors from Ohio who spoke French had a very effective treatment system working when I got there," Dr. Henrys He and his colleagues set about caring for the Haitians who had come to America aboard what Dr. Henrys described as "primitive-type" fishing boats. The trip had taken its toll, with almost all of those who had survived the ordeal suffering from mulnutrition and parasites along with more serious disorders such as asthma and

In addition to those problems, at least 30 women were pregnant, with two or three babies born in the camp. One paby was delivered on a boat during the perilous exodus The refugees were risking their lives and leaving families and friends behind, according to Dr. Henrys, in order to escape the right wing government run by Jean-Claude Duvalier, a dictator and son of the notorious Francois "Papa Doc" Duvalier, who died in 1971. Political corruption and terror had led to fear and poverty among the island nation's poor, Dr. Henrys said, and the Duvalier regime has done nothing to correct the

"The economy there is a reflection of the political situation," Dr. Henrys said. "Papa Doc destroyed the country's agriculture and his son hasn't restored it. There was a time Haiti exported rice (the Haitian staple); now they have to import it along with other

Dr. Henrys went on to say the younger Duvalier has maintained an oppressive government which destroys its enemies. In April, a Haitian law made it a crime for the press to criticize the Duvalier regime. A well organized secret police force has many Haitians living in fear.

"Many of us here in the United States are afraid to get involved," Dr. Henrys said. He immigrated here in 1960 in order to attend Columbia medical school, but still has family members living in Haiti. His treating of the refugees was a calculated risk. "If they hear you've helped the refugees, they'll go and punish your family. I've heard they've burned down houses with the people i them ... even the little kids." But his compassion for his fellow Haitians overcame plied threats.

"Those people are risking their lives and dying to get out of Haiti. They want to get out of a very bad political situation ... it's very bad, very bad," he explained. "I felt pretty down when I saw them and the conditions. It made me forget about everything else." Dr. Henrys' patients included the Cubans, also es caping an oppressive regime, only from the left side of the spectrum. "But it looked to me as though a double standard existed. I went to see the Cuban sick but the Cuban doctors wouldn't come to treat Haitians. They'd send a nurse," he said. Eventually, the boat people - Haitians and Cubans alike - were moved into hotel, motels or other camps

Norm VanderNoot, state director of vacation travel, said tourism is back to normal for the first time since the "Air fares have gone up. It makes people drive more," he offered. But VanderNoot said the major impetus was plentiful gas supplies. "We don't have a counting system. The only estimates we have are from the U.S. Census Bureau," he said. According to census figures, between 5 million and 7 million visitors flock to the Granite State every year, inluding about 3 million summer tourists.

"We check on a weekly basis to get a feel of it by getting reports from between 14 and 20 information booths, VanderNoot said. Those manning the information desks report on the number of cars in their parking lots and where they're from. In addition, VanderNoot said he keeps in constant touch with restaurateurs, chambers of commerce and various

"We've had a very good summer so far." Said Perlis: "I don't see us breaking any records, but we're going to be very satisfied, especially given the New Hampshire's out-of-state visitors spent about $600 million here in 1978. The tourism industry paid $111 million in the form of liquor, tobacco, meals and hote

For a state that depends on tourism for a quarter of its revenues, the 1979 slump was a disaster. For instance, 27 percent of Littleton's payroll comes from tourism, according to VanderNoot. Eighty to 90 percent of the economy in Mount Washington Valley is "directly based on tourism," said

A lot has been done in the past ten years to make oil heating equipment better and more efficient. Fuel oil dealers, heating contractors, oil jobbers, and plumbers participating in the Oilheat program have been trained through special government approved classes to provide their customers with these new, fuel-saving improvements These Oilheat dealers can show you new burners that save up to 16% of your fuel. Your Oilheat service technician can give your furnace or boiler a complete energy efficiency check. This series of tests provides an accurate read-out of your system's performance. And, if your efficiency rating is less than it should be, the efficiency check can pinpoint the problem. Even without installing new equipment, you can cut your fuel consumption considerably. Proper maintenance by a qualified Oilheat technician can save up to 10% of the oil you burn

A simple tune-up of your oil burner may greatly increase its efficiency. Like an automobile engine, an oil burner must receive the right mixture of air and fuel to operate at peak efficiency. And like the automobile engine, an oil burner can go "out of tune" and start wasting oil. An Oilheat technician can tune up your system - clean the heat exchanger (the part of your furnace that transfers heat from the fire box to the air or water that circulates through your house), change the oil and/or air filters, check the unit for air leaks. adjust the combustion air, check the nozzle size and perform a final efficiency check. Tests have shown that furnaces that run for onger periods of time at a lower firing rate. end to use less oil than those that run for horter periods of time at a higher firing rate. So, it may we worthwhile to have

Hurricane season

The annual hurricane season runs from June through November with most of the storms occurring in August, September and October In a two-week span during that period in 1979, two of the most devastating storms of the decade hit the United States. Hurricane David struck areas of 12 states, the District of Columbia, the Virgin Islands and Puerto Rico. Hurricane Frederic was felt by 10 states. Until those storms, the country had been largely spared serious hurricane damage since Hurricane Agnes in 1972.

Hurricane bears down on Yucatan Peninsula

MERIDA, Mexico (UPI) - Hurricane Allen, regaining lost strength with dangerous speed, bore down with 155 mph fury on Mexico's idvllic Yucatan Peninsula today. forcing 1,500 tourists to flee from posh coastal resorts. Allen's winds increased from 150 mph to 155 mph as it roared into open water away from the Caribbean islands it ravished earlier this week. A hurricane forecaster warned Allen could slam into the Mexican or Texas Gulf coast by early Saturday.

National Hurricane Center official Ray Biedinger said from Miami the massive storm would slash the northeast tip of the Yucatan Peninsula and western Cuba today. "It is heading into the Gulf at the present time and it has to make landfall sometime," he said. "When it does it will be affecting, most likely, the western Gulf - the Texas coast or upper Mexican Gulf coast. It would be Saturday morning before it makes landfall at those places if it continued on its present course and speed." The popular Mexican resort islands of Cozumel, Cancun and Isla Mujeres were most exposed to the storm. which killed at least 48 people and left thousands homeless on the island nations of St. Lucia. You could be subjected this coming year to several changes you might not initially like, yet they'll serve to advance your interests and ambitions in the long run.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Normally you are a very giving person, but today you may be a bit reluctant to share. Fortunately, those you deal with won't be similarly inclined. Find our more of what lies shead for you in the year following your birthday by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph, Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 459, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

YIROG (Aug. 23-Bept. 22) Activities with friends should prove enjoyable today, provided you're not doing business with one another. Keep commercialism out of your accis affairs.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You're an achiever today and able to foulfill you material ambitions. Take care, however, not to damage your image in going after what you want.

SCORPIO (Oct. 22-Hov. 22) Your intuition is usually a useful tool, but today it could prove megative than heipful. Let your logic and practicality prevail.

DEAR EMBARRASSED: Since your boss is "always" getting mail of this kind, you should be able to entify it readily by the envelope. Don't open it. Simply mark "date received" and give it to him DEAR ABBY. This problem concerns my sister. She is 38, narried for 12 years, and as far as I know, not very happily.

ler husband is a good man, but he is "weak" and has no voice in the household, which is probably part of the oblem, because my sister has became a compulsive TV watcher, compulsive exter, and now a compulsive drinker Her husband has tried to correct these problems, but maybe he didn't try hard enough or he gave up too easily. I am very worried about my sister. She has three young children, and God only knows how they're going to grow up. watching their mother sit in front of the TV all the time with a drink in her hand. She stays in her pajamas all day because she's overweight and shoest't care to dress up. Everyone in the family is worried about her, but she won't listen to anyone. Please don't suggest professional help. because she tried it once and it didn't work for her. Any ideas on how we can get her to be the positive, happ person she since was will be appreciated by me and all the members of our family. WORRIED SISTER

DEAR WORRIED: Sorry. The only suggestion I can ffer is professional help. The fact that your sister tried it "once" without success doesn't mean that it will never work for her. Therapy sometimes fails Alley Oop - Dave Graue because the patient and therapist do not relate well. in which case the patient should try another therapist. Or possibly the patient expects an immediate niracle. Successful treatment takes time. You cared enough for your sister to write to me Now care a little more and try to persuade her that she needs outside help. If you can get her to Alcoholics Anonymous or Overenters Anonymous would be a good start. DEAR ABBY. Do you know of a way to test one's ow. eath to find out if it is unpleasant or offensive? My employer, who is young enough to be my son, always kes several steps backward whenever I approach him, as though my breath is offensive to him. No one else - man or voman - does this. Nor have I seen my employer react this way to anyone except me

My doctor says my breath is fine. My dentist confirms this My best friend says I am foolish to be concerned. By the way, I am certain that I do not have a body odor The Flintstones - Hanna Barbera Productions because I am meticulous about my person, and have been complimented often on my "fresh fragrance."
