Iran promises to keep strait open

BAGHDAD, Iraq (UPI) - Iran formally assured the world today it will not block the vital Strait of Hormuz and "will not hesitate in any effort to keep this waterway in full operation."

The crucial strait, through which 40 percent of the West's oil imports must pass, has been the world's prime concern in fighting between Iran and Iraq, which in its 10th day seemed to be grinding into stalemate.

Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini rebuffed peace-making efforts by rejecting any compromise. Iran's formal response to the United Nations cease-fire call, which Iraq has accepted conditionally, was due later today.

Iran, in a statement issued through the official Pars news agency, said: "The government of the Islamic Republic of Iran, in full view of its international obligations, wishes to assure the international community that Iran shall not hesitate in any effort to keep this waterway (the Strait of Hormuz) in full operation."

Tehran radio reported early today that the Iranian Cabinet met for 12 hours today under Prime Minister Mohammed Ali Rajai to discuss "the situation on the war front and the government's foreign policy" toward Iraq, but the report gave no details.

In Baghdad, Iraq said its forces tightened the siege of Dizful north of the Iranian city of Ahwaz, saying they will "control the city at any moment" but were giving the enemy the opportunity to surrender before "they were crushed."

Iraq said it knocked out 10 tanks and lost seven, while Iran reported its forces destroyed 67 tanks in fighting today, but there were no details on where the losses were inflicted.

"We shall fight against them right to the end," Khomeini said late Tuesday, appealing to his countrymen in the embattled cities of Ahwaz, Khurrumshahr and Ahvaz in oil-rich Khuzistan province to "remain steadfast and not leave their towns."

"From one point of view, war is a very good thing, because it reveals the courage hidden in man and stirs man out of his inactivity," Khomeini said in seeking to rouse the residents of the three key towns in the south to stand and fight.

UPI reporter Joseph Reaves, who is with Iraqi forces, said the troops were 5 miles outside of Ahwaz, some 65 miles inside Iran. He reported signs of heavy fighting on the road to Ahwaz and said advancing Iraqi forces were being attacked by airplanes.

Some 90 miles southwest of Ahwaz on the Shatt al-Arab waterway, Iraqi infantry, artillery and tanks tightened their siege of Abadan.

Airborne warning and control aircraft, one of four sent by the U.S. to Saudi Arabia, takes off Tuesday from Tinker Air Force Base, Oklahoma City, at beginning of 17-hour flight. (UPI photo)

There were no reports from Khurrumshahr, the Japanese Foreign Ministry Tuesday said had fallen.

Iran's Abadan Radio broadcast orders to civilians to "prepare trenches in the streets, make Molotov cocktails" and ready themselves for hand-to-hand combat "against the enemies of God and the masses."

In their 10-day drive, the Iraqis have swept with relative ease over much of the 130-square-mile Shatt al-

Arab waterway, established a zone of security 10 miles deep inside Iran along the central and southern border, and pushed up to 65 miles into Iranian territory.

In the deadliest Iranian air raids of the war against the Iraqi capital, an Iranian bomb or rocket hit a fuel depot on the southwestern fringes of the city, turning the depot into an inferno in seconds. A blast at the same time rolled into civilian residential areas.

The raid, in which Iranian U.S.-built Phantom fighter bombers swooped 500 feet above the ground, caught Baghdad by surprise.

Hospitals were jammed with hundreds of wounded and dying. Authorities said at least half were children. Flames licked hundreds of feet into the night sky more than eight hours later.

A French-built nuclear research center also was hit and partly destroyed, although French officials said the reactor was undamaged with no danger of radioactive leakage.

Both Baghdad and Tehran warned the United States against any move to protect oil traffic in the Strait of Hormuz. Iran said it would turn the Persian Gulf into "a vast hell" if there is any Western intervention.

Addressing Iraqis on nationwide radio and television, Khomeini scoffed at President Saddam Hussein's acceptance of a U.N. cease-fire call and his offer to talk peace with Tehran.

In Tehran, the Iranian parliament resumed its debate on the fate of the 52 American hostages now in their 333rd day of captivity.

Housing sponsors say Dodd is accurate

By LISA SHEPARD
Herald Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON - The 1980 Fair Housing Act, which has become a major issue in the Connecticut senatorial race, puts some "teeth" into the existing law preventing housing discrimination but it does not change local zoning laws, say the bill's sponsors.

At issue in the race are allegations made by Republican candidate James Buckley, a conservative, who said that his Democratic opponent Rep. Chris Dodd's vote for the "Synar amendment" in June amounts to massive federal intrusion into local zoning practices.

The thrust of the 1980 Fair Housing Act, which has not been signed into law, creates an administrative law judge system to bear housing discrimination cases, with the exception of local zoning. It is an attempt to solve the cases. Currently, a victim of housing discrimination must bear the financial burden of bringing his case to court or he can take the complaint to HUD, which can act only as a mediator between the two parties because it has no enforcement powers.

The Synar amendment, named for its author Rep. Michael Synar (D-Okla.), passed 205-94 making two changes in the 1968 update of the 1968 Fair Housing Act. It puts selection of the administrative law judge to handle a housing discrimination case in the hands of the Justice Department and not the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD).

The second change requires that all zoning cases where discrimination has been alleged must be referred to the Justice Department for possible court action. It takes zoning cases entirely out of the administrative law judges' power.

When Synar was asked if his amendment makes any changes in the law concerning local zoning, he told the Herald, "Not a bit. Basically, what it does is guarantee that local people will determine local zoning and local land use. That was very important. In fact, that was a critical part of it."

Synar said that by automatically referring zoning cases to the Justice Department for possible court action, HUD would be kept out of local matters.

"It's apparent from the allegations that Mr. Buckley can not read legislation," said Synar. "The legislation is very clear in its intent."

However, opponents of the Synar amendment, do not have faith that its intent will be carried out and fear that HUD will become involved in certain zoning cases where discrimination is alleged.

"There's a sentence in the Synar amendment that said land use cases must go to federal courts," said Phil Kiko, an aide to Rep. James Sensenbrenner (R-Wis.), a leading opponent of the Synar amendment. "My boss said this sentence didn't really mean anything because land use practice is not defined in the amendment."

"There's not enough in the amendment to stop HUD from getting involved in land use cases," said Kiko.

Sensenbrenner offered an unsuccessful amendment to gut the administrative law judge system from the bill and automatically refer all cases of alleged discrimination to the Justice Department. He complained that the bill would "violate every principle of sound government because it puts the federal government directly in local affairs."

Some sources, admittedly in support of the Synar amendment, say Buckley received his campaign ammunition from the realtor groups who vehemently fought to defeat the bill.

"I've seen the Buckley press release and it's totally inaccurate," said a legal counsel to the House Judiciary Committee. The effect is to leave the situation in a status quo totally and that is why Buckley is wrong."

"The National Association of Realtors, major lobbyists against the bill, were concerned about the administrative law judge system and in order to get members whipped up and oppose the Synar amendment they latched onto this zoning issue," said the attorney, who asked not to be named.

In April, a letter written on official House stationery and signed by two members of the House, went out to 4,000 local officials around the country trying to garner more opposition.

It was the National Association of Real Estate Boards, the main opponents, that reproduced, mailed and paid the postage costs of the letter.

The letter said the administrative law judge system would "violate every principle of sound government because it puts the federal government directly in local affairs."

Some sources, admittedly in support of the Synar amendment, say Buckley received his campaign ammunition from the realtor groups who vehemently fought to defeat the bill.

"The National Association of Realtors, major lobbyists against the bill, were concerned about the administrative law judge system and in order to get members whipped up and oppose the Synar amendment they latched onto this zoning issue," said the attorney, who asked not to be named.

Synar was more blunt saying, "The National Association of Realtors is a very powerful lobby that are very upset they can't have their way all the time. The argument about local zoning and federal control is a great example that NAR can't read either."

The congressmen also pointed out that in the 1960 law it is made clear that if a state has existing fair housing laws or an entity to oversee fair housing, the state would have the first opportunity to address alleged discrimination cases.

"The likelihood of Connecticut, which has magnificent fair housing laws, getting steamrolled by a federal agency is kind of silly," said Geoff Littlehale, Synar's legislative aide. "It may be another story with Alabama or Mississippi."

The Fair Housing Act of 1980 passed in the House but has not had a vote on the Senate floor. The Senate is expected to vote on its version, which includes provisions similar to Synar's, during the "lame duck" session after the November election.

The low level of the Howard Reservoir and the other six town reservoirs, might require a ban on all unnecessary water use, Jay Giles, assistant filter plant operator at the Howard Reservoir, stands about where the normal water level is. (Herald photo by Pinto)

Water ban is likely

MANCHESTER - A dangerously low level in the town's reservoirs will result in a water ban, unless rain is received by Monday, Jay Giles, public works director said.

The Water and Sewer Department completed readings at the town's seven reservoirs and in several cases nearly 80 percent of the supply is depleted.

The hardest hit reservoirs are the Howard, Buckingham and Risley.

Unless the drought breaks, a townwide ban on all non-essential use of public water will be imposed. This prohibits all unnecessary use, such as washing cars, and watering lawns. A similar ban has already been imposed on the town's 250 Glastonbury customers. A ban has been in effect in the Forest Hills area since about mid-summer. The ban was only intended for the summer months, but may be extended into fall.

About three weeks ago Giles said the water levels were low, but that it was expected in the fall months. However a continued rainfall shortage and heavy usage apparently depleted the system more than normal.

A rainfall study at the Cooper Hill water treatment plant recorded rainfall from July 1979 to June 1980 as about 8.4 inches below the normal 48 inches received.

Giles said the Howard reservoir has only 29 percent capacity remaining. Buckingham reservoir in Glastonbury has only 20.5 percent, and the Risley reservoir has about 50 percent.

Globe Hollow shows the highest level with 32 percent of the available water used.

Giles asked residents to begin conserving now, although a ban has not been imposed. He said substantial rainfall is required between now and Monday to avoid a ban, estimating about 12 inches of rain over a month would replenish the reservoirs.

A similar situation occurred in 1961 to 1965 when there was an extended drought.

Vernon man in line for top job at Tech

By LAUREN DAVIS SHEA
Herald Reporter

MANCHESTER - The state Board of Education is scheduled to vote this afternoon on whether to accept the recommendation of a state education department to fill the Howell Cheney Vocational Technical School directorship with a Vernon resident.

The state Department of Vocational Education, which received 27 applications for the position vacated last Spring by John Garofalo, has recommended that Lebanon Superintendent of Schools Lawrence E. Ierardi be named to the post.

Ierardi, 43, would replace Garofalo, who left Cheney Tech for a position in private industry after serving as director for seven years.

State Board of Education spokesmen had no concrete salary figures available, but said the range for the position is between $26,201 and $31,616.

Ierardi, who is the father of three children, received his bachelor's degree from Central Connecticut State college, where he majored in industrial education.

He received his masters degree from the University of Connecticut in secondary education and his sixth year certificate in educational administration from that school. Ierardi also earned his doctorate in philosophy in education from UConn. Currently superintendent of Lebanon schools, Ierardi was formerly a school principal in Meriden and secondary school principal in the Stafford public school system.

He was a consultant for the division of administrative services at the state Department of Education and has taught industrial education, math, art, and drama.

Additionally, Ierardi has managed a service station, been a draftsman and surveyor, owned his own sporting goods business and been a salesman.

Currently, the acting director of Howell Cheney Tech is John Farrell.

Farrell said today whomever the board accepts, he or she will meet Cheney's staff Friday. Farrell said he expects the new director would take the position Monday, returning Farrell to his position as a consultant with the state Department of Education's Division of Vocational Technical Schools.

Added Farrell, "I'm assuming, like everybody else, that the board will accept the recommendation. But they have the prerogative to appoint someone else, and they have exercised that prerogative in the past."

School discipline

How good or bad is discipline in the public schools? Even though statistics show an overall increase in violence in the schools, a fair answer to the question might be: "It all depends..."

Thoughts

A Christian pastor and a soapmaker went for a walk together. The soapmaker said, "What good is Christianity? Look at the trouble and misery in the world after thousands of years of Christianity. If Christianity is true, why should this be?"

The pastor said nothing. They continued walking until he noticed a child, filthy with mud and grime, playing in the gutter. The pastor said, "Look at that child. You say that soap makes people clean. We've had soap for generation after generation. Yet look how dirty that child is. Of what value is soap?"

The soapmaker protested, "But, pastor, soap can't do any good unless it is used!"

"Exactly," replied the pastor. Submitted by Pastor George W. Webb, South United Methodist Church

Tape of cult's last hour: Members rage against suicide

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON—To the outside world, the mystery of the appalling mass suicide at Jonestown, Guyana, two years ago was how 900 men, women and children could have gone meekly and willingly to their deaths at the command of their leader, Jim Jones.

happen. They're gonna shoot that pilot. Down comes that plane into the jungle. Explaining that Ryan's death will destroy Jonestown, causing the Guyanese government to murder or kidnap their children, Jones tells his wretched flock they must foil "the enemy" by taking matters into their own hands.

"This is nothing to cry about," she shouts. "This is something we should all rejoice about. We should be happy about this..." Jones picks up on this idea eagerly: "We've lived as no other people have lived," he tells the crowd. "We've loved, we've had as much of this world as we're gonna get. Let's just be done with it, be done with the agony of it... I want to see you go. I don't want to see you in this hell no more. No more, no more, no more. You'll have no problem with this thing if you'll just relax. It is not to be feared. It is a friend, it's a friend."

This and Expos in dogfight

NEW YORK (UPI) — Even though there is less than a week left to decide the major league's closest divisional race, Philadelphia Phillies' Manager Dallas Green calmly handed the ball to a 22-year-old right-hander and sat back to enjoy another victory.

No one could accuse Green of overconfidence. Marty Byström, who has spent a grand total of 30 days in the majors, already has won five games — including Tuesday night's 14-2 rout of the Chicago Cubs — and shows no

Zimmer to learn RSox future today

BOSTON (UPI) — He began with a loss and may have ended with a loss but Don Zimmer feels he's bowing out a winner.

The embattled Boston Red Sox manager revealed Tuesday afternoon he would learn today if he is to return next season. Zimmer insists he doesn't know what General Manager Hayden Sullivan has decided, and Sullivan isn't saying. But the manager is talking like he's through.

"There was an organizational meeting here today (Tuesday) and usually managers take part in those. I didn't. So you can add two and two together," Zimmer said after Boston's 10-1 loss to the Baltimore Orioles.

"I've been here 4½ years and over that time we've averaged about 94 wins, about 2,200,000 people. I've tried to do my best, to win every single game," he said.

"What do you need confirmation for, if the manager said it, that's the case," Sullivan said.

The general manager was occupied for much of Tuesday with the organizational meeting, which he said concerned the National League and therefore didn't require Zimmer's presence. He met with Sullivan after the game.

Cobb's base stealing mark in AL broken

CHICAGO (UPI) — Oakland A's outfielder Rickey Henderson Tuesday night broke Ty Cobb's 65-year-old American League stolen base record by stealing his 97th base in the sixth inning of the A's game against the Chicago White Sox.

Henderson singled off Chicago starter Steve Trout and beat the throw to second base from catcher Marvin Fiske. Cobb's record had stood since 1915.

Henderson has now stolen more bases than anyone in major-league history with the exception of National League players Maury Wills and Lou Brock. Wills stole 104 in 1962, and Brock set the major-league record of 118 in 1974.

Barnum of baseball saluted in Chicago

CHICAGO (UPI) — With midnets and clowns, high school bands and fireworks, Chicago White Sox fans paid a tribute to Bill Veck, the legendary P.T. Barnum of baseball.

The celebration of baseball's best-known promoter came before the Sox, bogged down in sixth place, dropped a 5-1 decision to Oakland Tuesday. It was billed as a farewell to the 66-year-old White Sox president who has held his controlling interest in the club to Ohio businessman Edward DeBartolo Sr.

Howser not worried? That's what he says

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Time is running out, but New York Yankees Manager Dick Howser is not worried.

"We're in good shape. All we have to do is win three of our last four games," said Howser after watching his Yankees drop a 12-6 decision to the Cleveland Indians Tuesday night.

"I just wanted Gossage in the seventh with two out and Toby Harrah at bat," said Howser. "Gossage is the best and I went with my best."

"I thought I was out of it when I struck out Orta. Maybe it is demoralizing, but you can't think about this game tonight. We have to win three games and that is it," said Gossage, who is now 62 for the year with 31 saves.

The Yankees rallied in the ninth and Jackson and a walk to Eric Soederholm. Rookie right-hander Sandy Wilson came on to strike out Rick Cerone and Joe Lefebvre before starter Luis Tiant with an eight-run lead to end the game.

After Jackson staked the Yankees to a 2-0 lead in the first inning with his 18th homer that landed in the left field seats following a walk to Bucky Dent, the Indians chased Yankees starter Luis Tiant with an eight-run lead to end the game.

With the magic number still at three with Baltimore's victory over Boston, Howser will send veteran Tommy John against Len Barker in the final game of the two-game series tonight.

Weaver having fun ribbing Yank boss

BOSTON (UPI) — The strain of a pennant race doesn't show on Earl Weaver's face. He's having too much fun watching his Baltimore Orioles chase the Yankees and ribbing New York owner George Steinbrenner.

"What was the score of our game? I know the score of the Yankees game," Weaver cracked. "If he wants to do that, he's the manager," said Flanagan, 16-13, who pitched four innings with a sore left shin which got in the way of a Jim Rice line drive. "I won't do any dancing tonight. But it was nice to have those runs."

The Orioles led 3-1 after three innings, then put away the game with a five-run fourth. Doug DeCinces led off the inning with a walk off loser Steve Renko, 8-9, and moved to third on Mark Belanger's oneout single.

Bumby drove in Belanger with an infield hit and Rich Dauer and Ken Singleton followed with RBI singles. Murray then greeted reliever Mike Torrez with a shot into the center-field bleachers to make the score 8-1.

The Orioles notched their fourth straight triumph with a 16-1 triumph over the Yankees in the final two innings of the game. The other half is winning.

At the end of the week. "There's pressure on us, there's no doubt about it," Parrish said. "It's going to boil down to when we play Philly."

Rookie Bill Gullikson, 10-5, worked the first seven innings for Montreal and gave up two unearned runs. He left the game after Ken Oberkfell lined a hard shot off the pitcher's right knee for the final out in the seventh.

Parrish's 18th homer highlighted a five-run sixth inning for Montreal.

After New York's Dennis Werth struck a three-run pinch-hit homer in the seventh off reliever Sid Monge to give the Yankees a 9-8 lead, Alan Bannister led off the Cleveland eighth with a single and took second on a passed ball. Joe Charbonneau hit a pinch-hit run-scoring single to tie the score and Dave Rosello followed the game-tying homer.

Miguel Diloneo to second. Gossage then fanned Tom Verzyer and pinch hitter Jorge Orta before walking Rick Manning to fill the bases. Mike Hargrove singled home two runs and Ron Hassey singled home his third run of the game.

Foxboro police busy Patriots' contest

FOXBORO, Mass. (UPI) — Police confiscated seven handguns and arrested 48 persons and a Connecticut man suffered two broken legs when he was struck by a car at the Foxboro Patriots' NFL contest against the Denver Broncos Monday night.

Joseph Silvrby, 60, of Bridgewater, Conn., was struck by an automobile while crossing four lanes of traffic near Schaefer Stadium minutes before the kickoff, state police said today.

Silvrby sustained two broken legs and was listed in fair condition at Norwood Hospital.

Firearms were confiscated from seven individuals who arrived separately, said Foxboro police officer Edward O'Leary.

"Most people don't bring a firearm to a football game," O'Leary said. "But they were all licensed to carry them and there was nothing illegal about it. We found them guns while frisking people for cans and bottles, because we have a problem with people throwing them during the game."

The doctors said they would compare the latest scan to earlier ones kept at the hospital, which kept Walton on the sidelines for all but 14 minutes last season. Four other specialists would be called in to help with the diagnosis, the doctors said.

In the meantime, the doctors directed Walton to rest the foot and not play basketball.

A team spokesman said Walton would not play in any of the Clippers' remaining four pre-season NBA games.

State police arrested eight persons on charges of drunk and disorderly conduct and assault and battery on a police officer.

"That's a run of the mill for a night game," said one officer.

Foxboro police reported about 40 arrests on similar charges. O'Leary said those arrested were released on their own recognizance.

Sharing duties

Sister Catherine Mary Dowling, R.S.M., left, vice principal, and Sister Louise Kelly, R.S.M., principal, are now sharing the administrative duties at St. James School. Because the school has an enrollment of 580 and its operation has grown more complex, the parish staff decided to launch a kind of team administration. After three weeks with the school in full operation, they have made a number of positive observations on the spirit, interest, and helpfulness of those involved in the school. ## Autumn brings foliage and influenza season

EAST HARTFORD — With the arrival of autumn comes changing foliage, football season and homemade apple pies — but autumn also signals the arrival of the flu season.

According to Connecticut's Christmas Seal Lung Association (CLA), certain high risk individuals should receive flu shots by mid-November. Annual flu shots are recommended for those over 65 and the chronically ill, especially those suffering with chronic lung disease, or heart, kidney and certain other diseases, according to CLA's "Flu — The Facts" booklet.

Although anyone can get the flu, the Lung Association is particularly concerned about the disease's effects on the chronic lung disease patient because of the greater incidence of severe flu conditions among these individuals. Complications which may arise include bacterial and viral pneumonia, inflamed sinuses, bronchi or inner ears, reports CLA.

Most influenza can be prevented by vaccination, says CLA. The yearly vaccination has been found to be 70 percent to 90 percent effective in preventing flu, the association says. CLA's free booklet, which is also available this year in Spanish, covers the causes of flu and the treatment of its complications, and the effects of the vaccine.

For free copies of the booklet and further information on the vaccines for the 1980-81 flu season, contact any branch office of the Connecticut Lung Association.

Sandwich Days Are Here!

As school books replace baseball gloves and tennis rackets in the hands of school-age children across the nation, we look for the sandwich to again take its place in our daily menus. To help make this time easier and more appetizing the Kraft Kitchens has developed six new recipes to supplement the standard varieties we all rely upon. Each one features a new twist in sandwich-making and offers unlimited possibilities for creativity.

A sandwich can be large, to serve two or more, as is the "Island Sandwich." Or it can be small, like the "Notable Totables," just right for one person. Sandwiches can be served hot or cold, at home or away and satisfy old and young alike.

When fall means packing a lunch to go to school or work, many people find it a challenge to prepare something delicious and hearty. Some of the recipes below will offer new ideas to include in a lunch bucket. Start with "The Bread Spread" and create your own masterpiece.

One important fact to remember when using commercial salad dressings or mayonnaise in sandwiches is that contrary to popular belief, these dressings don't promote food poisoning. In fact, they retard the process because of the acidic content. A University of Wisconsin study points out this important information. It was shown the culprits causing problems are the perishable foods we often combine with commercial dressings and mayonnaise.

Not only are sandwiches the answer for the meal away from home, they can provide a delicious, easy answer for Saturday lunch or a hearty supper. A sandwich like "Frank 'N' Bean Burgers" features ingredients kids love, and when combined, they become a sandwich all will enjoy.

As summer draws to a close and "Sandwich Days" begin, we can be assured of interesting and delicious fare when sandwiches are featured on the menu.

Would you believe a $25, $50 or $100 refund offer

By Martin Sloane
Are there really $25, $50, and $100 Procter and Gamble refund offers?
Yes, and several thousand shoppers were recently surprised to find them in their mailboxes. Don't get too excited, though, because you can't write to Procter and Gamble for these special forms, which are part of the company's extensive testing of its refund offers.

The Procter and Gamble $100 refund form is actually a large sheet of paper that contains a long list of the company's products with point values for their proofs of purchase. It takes 1,600 points to obtain the $100 refund.

Although a $100 refund is certainly out of the ordinary, many companies have recently tested offers in the $5-to-$10 range. Among those that recently offered $5 refunds were Heinz, Wyler's Soft Drink Mix and M and M's candy. Dixie and Lipton joined forces to offer a $5 refund, and Scott's tested offers worth $5 and $10. The makers of Cycle Dog Food devised a high-value offer with a new twist—a $5 cash refund on your dog's next visit to the veterinarian. The dog owner had to enclose his veterinarian's bill and get his vet's signature on the refund form.

To show that refunding isn't all going to the dogs, the makers of Reach Toothbrushes came up with their $5 Dental Check-Up Refund.

Why are companies showing a greater interest in high-value refunds? First, because they believe that a high-value refund, which may require 10 or more proofs of purchase, builds brand loyalty more effectively than, say, a 20-cent-off coupon.

An example of this was the Procter and Gamble Child's Playhouse Offer, which required 40 proofs of purchase. It took awhile to collect all the proofs, but many shoppers stuck to it and rewarded their children or grandchildren with lovely gifts.

In addition, a high-value refund may be more economical for a company than a low-value offer. If the average cost of processing a refund (including return postage) is 35 cents, 10 separate $5 refunds requiring the same number of proofs of purchase would cost the company $11-$17.50 plus $3.50 for processing. One $10 refund requiring the same number of proofs of purchase would cost the company only $10.25.

Big-dollar refunds also make for more exciting advertising. "Get $5 Back" certainly sounds more compelling than "Get 50 Cents Back."

There is some concern that shoppers may reject refunds that seem to require the purchase of more of a product than they would otherwise buy during the period of the offer. This is why companies like Procter and Gamble are testing high-value refunds in newspapers and magazines, and when trading with friends. Offers may not be available in all areas of the country. Allow 10 weeks to receive each refund.

Winning combination

Thoughtful menu planning and shopping are always advised, but in these days of escalating food prices, menu planning around low-cost or special priced foods is essential. One way to economize is by serving filling, tasty, but modest casseroles. One of the best ways to do so is by combining grain foods with other protein-rich foods. Not only do grains, such as natural brown rice, taste naturally good with cheese, eggs, and beans, but they also make a winning nutritional combination. Examples of common twosomes include rice with beans, macaroni with cheese, cookies with milk, peanut butter and bread.

In the following recipe for Vegetarian Dinner in a Dish, the protein of the natural brown rice is complemented by that in the eggs, yogurt, cheese, and cashew nuts. Its iron content is strengthened by the spinach which also contributes a significant amount of Vitamin A.

This is not only a nutritious combination, but the recipe also offers a pleasing combination of flavors. The natural flavor of brown rice contrasts nicely with the tangy yogurt-spinach mixture while the melted Mozarella cheese and crunchy cashews tie all the flavors together.

Vegetarian Dinner in a Dish
 1 cup River Brand Natural Brown Rice
 2 pkg. (10 oz.) frozen chopped spinach
 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
 1/2 cup chopped onion
 1/2 cup chopped green pepper
 1 garlic clove, minced
 2 eggs slightly beaten
 1 cup unflavored yogurt
 1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
 2 cups shredded Mozarella cheese
 1 cup chopped cashew nuts
 Cook rice and spinach according to package directions.
 In small skillet, melt butter and saute onion, green pepper, and garlic until tender. Add to cooked

Savory Italian beef dish

Italians savor their food and wine and those who have visited Florence give the food high marks. The Tuscan especially enjoy their beef and are proud of their famous Chianina cattle. A popular Florentine beef dish, bistecca alla fiorentina, is flavorful and easy to prepare. An American version uses top round steak marinated overnight in a spaghetti sauce, brown sugar, vinegar and mustard, and cooked on a charcoal grill. This broils well indoors, too. Serve with a topping of the pungent sauce and garnished with mushrooms and anchovies, crunched bread and a bottle of good Chianti.

3 tablespoons vinegar
3 tablespoons brown sugar
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
2 teaspoons prepared mustard
2 pounds round steak, 1 1/2 inches thick, trimmed
1 jar (15 1/2 ounces) old world style spaghetti sauce, any flavor

marinate overnight. Remove steak and set aside. In saute pan, heat remaining marinade. Basting and turning frequently, grill four to five inches from heat; about 30 minutes for medium. Serve steak with sauce. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 6 servings.

Witch-on-a stick party project

A cookie witch-on-a-stick is ideal for a children's Halloween school party. The enticing flavor of peanut butter will assure its popularity with most of the mini-ghost and goblins. This is a project youngsters can help with, even one that older sisters and brothers may do for a special trick-or-treat event.

Make ahead, wrap individually and store in the refrigerator until it's time for "The Big Pumpkin." Witch-On-A-Stick
 20 large marshmallows
 20 wooden sticks
 20 (two 6-ounce packages) peanut butter cups
 1 1/2 cups peanut butter
 4 tablespoons shortening. About 5 large shredded marshmallow to resemble hair. Refrigerate until set. Repeat dipping and coating each marshmallow with a stick through a flat end. Refrigerate marshmallows and peanut butter cups until cold. Unwrap cups. Melt peanut butter chips and shortening in top of double boiler over simmering (not boiling) water. Split each wheat biscuit with a knife. Bread the strands in half, then into 3/4-inch sections to resemble hair. Dip marshmallows, two at a time, into peanut butter mixture until coated. Swirl over pan to allow excess to drip. Place a coated marshmallow on each peanut butter cup. Press shredded wheat around 1/2 of curved side of and oregano to tomato- onion mixture. Heat to boiling. Reduce heat to low. Simmer uncovered about 30 to 45 minutes or until sauce is desired consistency. Stir occasionally. Meanwhile, bring water to a boil in second pot. Gradually add spaghetti and 2 tablespoons salt to rapidly boiling water so that water continues to boil. Cook uncovered, stirring occasionally, until tender. Drain in colander. Serve tomato-onion sauce over spaghetti. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 8 servings.

Special tomato sauce

Prepare your tomato sauce in advance and freeze it if you prefer. However, it is a quicky sauce to whip up for a spur-of-the-moment party. For best results, do not overcook the pasta. Five to eight minutes should be sufficient. Serve with a mixed green salad, crusty bread and cheese and fruit or ice cream for dessert.

2 cans (28 ounces each) whole tomatoes, undrained
4 tablespoons sugar
3 tablespoons salt or lemon juice
2 teaspoons oregano, crushed
1 pound spaghetti
 Gradually add spaghetti and 2 tablespoons salt to rapidly boiling water so that water continues to boil. Cook uncovered, stirring occasionally, until tender. Drain in colander. Serve tomato-onion sauce over spaghetti. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 8 servings.

Special Tomato Sauce
 1/2 cup salad oil
 8 medium onions, sliced
 4 medium green peppers, diced
 2 large garlic cloves,
 Add sugar, 2 teaspoons salt

1980 French wine outlook fair

PARIS (UPI) — There is little fizz this year in the famed Champagne country around Reims and Epernay. Growers expect a drop of as much as 50 percent in the harvest at a time when stocks of the bubbly already are abnormally low.

The Champagne region east of Paris was among those hardest hit by cold weather and heavy July rains that affected many parts of Europe. The poor early weather brought some predictions this year's vintage would be the worst in years over much of France.

But the sun came out in sticks, peanut butter cookies.
 Tuesday: Salisbury steak with gravy, mashed potatoes, buttered corn, congo bar.
 Wednesday: Spaghetti with meat sauce, stuffed celery, garlic bread, fruit cup.
 Thursday: Pizza day.
 Friday: Baked chicken, mashed potatoes, mixed vegetables, applesauce cake. Milk is served with all meals.

It's not considered possible to match last year's record wine production of more than 2 billion gallons. But growers now predict a "normal" year of 1.75 billion gallons or more, though some harvests will be weeks late. Quality will depend on fall weather. For lovers of French champagne, the summer's weather means the time to do is buy and enjoy before a possible shortage hits the market two years hence. "After this year's crop, producers will have to start rationing the stuff," one expert says. "Prices will go up."

For sweet success, follow these baking tips

If you have ever gone to a club meeting or a church supper where a number of people theoretically made the same cake for dessert, you realize how much variation it is possible to get from one recipe.

Pillsbury home economists who have seen hundreds of cakes baked in home tests throughout the country, know that even cakes made from a mix can be surprisingly different. By analyzing questionnaires returned with these cakes, they have been able to identify the most common baking problems and to offer tips for success.

Mixing the cake: While some tolerance is built into cake mix, the amount of beating is a big factor for achieving a top quality product. Package directions usually are given for a standard mixer and call for blending ingredients on low speed for 30 seconds; then beating at highest speed for two full minutes. If you use a professional type stand beater, select medium speed instead, or the batter can be so overbeaten, the cake actually collapses as it bakes. If you mix by hand, it takes 5 to 8 minutes (for 80 strokes) to blend the batter to the proper consistency. Undermixing makes a cake with a coarse, open grain that is less tender.

Pan preparation: Use solid shortening, not oil, even for non-stick pans. Oil can be absorbed into the batter as the cake bakes.

causing sticking. The reason recipes call for greasing and flouring the pan is that the flour helps prevent the fat from being absorbed by the batter.

Baking: Another key factor, Pillsbury research indicates that as many as 75 percent of home ovens are inaccurate. If you do much baking, it is worthwhile to invest in a good oven thermometer.

Both heat circulation and temperature are important. Preheating the oven for a full 10 minutes insures that the batter will start baking right away, which sets the cell structure. Have the rack slightly lower than the center of the oven and place the pan or pans so that heat can circulate freely. If you want a perfect cake, don't be tempted to load up the oven with other baking.

Doneness test: Don't peek; oven temperature drops any time the door is opened. Instead, Pillsbury home economists suggest the "three T" tests: time, as given in the recipe; touch - gently touching the center of the cake to see if it springs back after it looks done, and as a final check - a toothpick which comes out clean when inserted in the center of the cake. Shrinking from the sides is not a reliable test. An under-baked cake can collapse after it is taken from the oven.

"Sweet Success," a new recipe booklet with 47 recipes and confections made with Pillsbury Plus

1/2 cup oil
3 eggs
3 tablespoons orange or cherry liqueur
1/2 cup current jelly, melted
1 to 1 1/2 pints fresh strawberries
1 cup whipping cream, whipped

Mint sprigs, if desired
Heat oven to 350° F.
Grease and flour 10-inch springform pan or 10-inch angel food tube pan. In large bowl, combine cake mix, water, oil and eggs at low speed until moistened; beat 2 minutes at highest speed. Pour in prepared pans.

Bake at 350° F for 40 to 50 minutes or until cake springs back when touched lightly in center. Cool cake in pan on cooling rack 15 minutes; remove rim. Pierce top of cake with long-tined fork; sprinkle with liqueur. Reserve 3 tablespoons jelly; brush top of cake lightly with remaining jelly. Arrange strawberries pointed-ends up, in center of cake; brush strawberries with reserved jelly.

Spoon dollops of whipped cream around strawberries. Spread remaining whipped cream on side of cake. Garnish with mint. Store in refrigerator. 16 servings.

TIP: * One 16-oz. bag frozen whole strawberries can be used. Thaw and drain well before using.

Some cookbook advice can be trouble

Federal, state and municipal laws help keep our food supply safe in the marketplace - but no one offers similar protection in home kitchens.

As a result, some food books contain incorrect advice, some of it potentially dangerous.

Take the just-published "Mary Ellen's BEST of helpful kitchen hints," by Mary Ellen Pinkham (Warner paperback $4.95), as an example. The cautionary note following the book's title page is hardly likely to inspire confidence. It says:

"To obtain the best results and to avoid damage, the author and the publisher recommend care and common sense in the use of the hints in this book."

Among the potentially dangerous hints that follow are:

"If removing plastic cork (from a champagne bottle) is difficult, run hot water over the neck of the bottle. Heat expands the glass, causing the cork to pop out."

Heat applied to chilled glass also causes thermal shock. That, combined with great internal pressure from the wine's carbonation, could cause an explosion and serious injury.

Safety experts repeatedly warn against mixing cleaning chemicals, but one can build up explosive gas.

Some other Pinkham hints are ill-advised, although not dangerous, including: adding baking soda to water for cooking vegetables. That has been a no-no for years, ever since laboratory tests established that soda destroys significant amounts of the vegetables' vitamin C content.

There's also no evidence storing cottage cheese upside down increases its shelf life or protects its freshness, says Mr. Pinkham writes. William Menz, who directs research for the United Dairy Industry Association, recommends taking cottage cheese from the refrigerator only long enough to remove the amount you need.

"You can't too much you do (about its shelf life or freshness) besides keeping it refrigerated," Menz said by telephone from Rosemont, Ill.

Another hint, listening for the rattle of seeds to identify a really ripe cantaloupe, is an exercise in futility, since the seeds are firmly held in a soft, juicy mesh. Fragrance and a somewhat soft stem end, which he also recommends, are better indicators.

She writes that "the color of an orange is no indication of its quality because oranges are usually dyed to improve their appearance." She's right about the color. Regreening is caused by weather conditions in some growing areas.

But Florida, among the three major orange-growing states, permits the use of chemical dyes. State Department of Agriculture statistics show 11.5 million boxes, or nearly half of the 1979-80 orange crop of 24.4 million boxes, had chemical coloring agents added.

"Not all packing companies use dyes," said Charles Barnore, an assistant professor of horticulture at the University of Florida's Lake Alfred campus. "Some use ethylene gas to achieve the same thing."

Oranges "apparently have had color added," Barnore said, if a slight color other than the natural whitish green appears in the stem end of the fruit.

Mrs. Pinkham, a Minneapolis housewife, said in a telephone interview that she's been using the champagne opening hint "For years and I've never had a problem."

"I have a staff of 10 full time employees who test the hints," she added.

She expressed concern that anything in the book might be dangerous or inaccurate. She agreed that the mixing procedure for the floor cleaning solution was not explained correctly. She said both the hints would be changed in the second printing of the book, which is scheduled to go back to press early in October.

She also said she stands by the hint about upending cottage cheese containers. "I've received so many favorable letters about that."

Menz said with poppers that have qualified for its Seal of Quality Performance. Popcorn has no sugar, additives, or preservatives. It's economical - a quart of popped popcorn costs pennies per serving... it's high in fiber and low in calories... only 25 to 35 calories in a cup of unbuttered popcorn. Popcorn's popularity will continue to grow, especially in October - it's Popcorn Poppin' Month.

Plans proceed on pond for Bolton park

By DONNA HOLLAND
Herald Correspondent

BOLTON - Although not too much has been heard about the planned conservation pond at Herrick Memorial Park recently, the project is periodically being worked on and hopefully will be completed within a couple of years.

Stanley Bates, park director, said the area is in wetlands so an application to construct the pond is being prepared for submission to the Conservation Commission and Wetlands Agency.

Bates said he assumes the application will be approved because a conservation pond is an allowable project in a wetlands area.

The planned two-and-a-half acre pond will be on a three-and-a-half acre parcel in the south central portion of the park.

The only brook goes through the park, called Baker Brook when it becomes recognizable as a brook, is located where the conservation pond area will be.

Bates said the pond will be from 40 to 500 feet long and will start at seven feet and taper off to zero feet.

After that Bates will have to apply for a dam permit from the State Water Resources Board. The dam is needed to hold back the water in order to make the pond.

Bates has been working on the plans with assistance from the Tolland County Soil and Water Conservation District in Rockville.

The dam will stop the water and, using a water control device, allow it to enter the pond slowly, controlling its level.

After that the area will be landscaped and hopefully the entrance road from Hebron Road will be finished. Bates said the roadway is cut out but stumps will have to be removed.

When the pond is in place and finally clear, free of mud and siltation, plans are for it to be stocked with fish.

Bates said the completion date depends on the availability of money.

Right now he has about $1,500 in the park budget for the project and could possibly use some money from the Nature Conservancy budget.

Bates said, "When the project is finished it will make the park interesting and exciting. It's a nice feature for the park, it's beautiful and quiet."

He said families can go there to picnic, fish and just enjoy the scenery.

Eventually plans call for the pond to be used for ice skating.

Bolton update Contract approved

BOLTON - The contract for the new roof on Bolton Elementary School has been reviewed and approved by Jerome Walsh, town engineer, and signed by General Roofing and Sheet Metal Inc. of East Hartford.

General Roofing was the low bidder for the project at $107,382. Funds for the project were included in this year's town budget, $80,000, and the remainder approved at a recent Town Meeting.

John Sambogna, Public Building Commission chairman, said he plans to sign the contract on behalf of the town as soon as the performance bond and material bond are received.

Sambogna said he expects to hear from the architect today that everything is in order.

Once the contract is signed, a meeting will be set up with those concerned to plan how the work will progress with the least amount of disruption to school students.

Work is scheduled to begin within 10 days of the contract being signed and should be completed within 30 working days.

Bolton gets rescue boat for firefighters

By DONNA HOLLAND
Herald Correspondent

BOLTON - The Bolton Volunteer Fire Department received its new rescue boat this past weekend. The boat is a 12-foot fiberglass tri-hull with an outboard motor and trailer. It will carry the necessary equipment when searching for victims in water and will assist submersible divers in that search.

Bolton has more than 2 1/2 acres of water and with the increased use of Bolton Lake at Indian Notch Park, the fire officers felt there was a much greater need for a boat now than in the past.

The new rescue boat will respond to all water related emergencies in Bolton, and in Tolland County when necessary, in cooperation with the town's participation with the Tolland County Mutual Aid rescue divers.

In winter the boat will be used for rescues on ice. Sliding a boat across the ice makes it safer for the rescuers, according to the fire officers.

The rescue boat is being housed at the firehouse on Notch Road. Anyone interested in looking at the new boat or other fire equipment or talking about the local volunteer fire department is invited to the firehouse any Wednesday night.

Farm talk

Two men, each connected to Bolton in his own way, got together recently and began reminiscing about the good old days. Tom Daly, right, is one of the oldest living persons who was also born in Bolton. Daly was born Feb. 27, 1905. He now lives in Portland, moving from Bolton about 12 years ago because it "got built up too much and I had to get out."

George Rose, also one of Bolton's older residents, at age 80, still owns and operates the Valley View Farm on Bolton Center Road. Although Rose has lived in Bolton most of his life, he was born in Mexico. The two men are brothers-in-law. (Herald photo by Holland)

Charter panel meets

BOLTON - The Charter Revision Commission, established by the Board of Selectmen recently, will have its organizational meeting tonight at 7:30 at the Community Hall. The meeting will include choosing officers and setting a schedule for future meetings.

The commission was appointed as required by the town charter which was adopted about three years ago and after the Charter Study Committee recommended review of certain items in the charter.

First Selectman Henry Ryba will get the meeting underway. He is expected to present the Board of Selectmen's charge to the commission.

Meeting site changed

BOLTON - Meetings of the Bolton Women's Club will be held at the Community Hall this year. In the past the club met at Herrick Memorial Park.

The club will meet Thursday at 7 p.m. There will be a straw art demonstration.

Members are reminded to bring small pointed scissors that will be needed to cut designs of straw.

Workshops start

BOLTON - Workshops for making wreaths for the Bolton Women's Club Christmas Auction in December will begin this month.

The first workshop will be Oct. 8 from 7 to 11 p.m. at the home of Elaine Barbero, 146 Birch Mtn. Rd.

Mrs. Barbero asks those attending to bring pine cones of any size and to wear old clothes.

All club members are being asked to make two items for the upcoming auction.

Bolton firemen need building

BOLTON - The Bolton Volunteer Fire Department is looking for a building it can use for training. The department plans to get actual experience with heat and smoke by chopping holes, ventilating, overhauling and salvaging the structure. James Preuss, fire chief, said the department will use the building for drills during part of a state course that is scheduled to begin next week. He said the course will cover various aspects of fire fighting, putting out fires, and the use of equipment. Anyone owning a structure they would like removed from the premises is asked to call Preuss at 648-6924.

Bolton plans course

The 30-hour course, three hours each Wednesday for 10 weeks, will be taught by Larry Brush, a member of the Hartford Fire Department and a Connecticut state instructor.

This part of the course will be more detailed and will include using knowledge gained in the past.

The department is looking for a building that can be used as a training center. Anyone having a structure they would like removed from their property should call James Preuss, fire chief, at 648-6924.

Hospital sets drill

VERNON - The Rockville General Hospital will be the site of a full-scale disaster drill on Sunday in celebration of the start of Fire Prevention Week.

The drill will be a comprehensive training exercise which will include hospital, fire department and other public safety personnel to practice coordinated disaster-response procedures.

The drill will start at 7 a.m. and about two hours will be required to complete the exercise and the critique which will follow.

Area residents shouldn't be alarmed by the presence of fire department and police vehicles in the area of the hospital during that period.

Hospital officials said the drill will have two components. The first phase will focus on the reaction of the hospital staff and the Vernon Fire Department to a simulated fire in the hospital complex.

As part of this phase, firemen will practice fire location and control procedures. Other firemen, assisted by members of the nursing staff, will simulate the care of five "patients" from medical-care units to the emergency room.

To perform the evacuation, Vernon firefighters will be brought to the department's aerial scope, a vehicle designed to facilitate safe removal of persons trapped in the upper stories of burning buildings.

Simultaneously, three simulated emergency patients will be brought to the emergency room from a second hypothetical disaster external to the hospital.

The combined drill components test the hospital's ability to provide emergency care for a large number of serious injuries on very short notice.

In the case of a genuine disaster, off-duty physicians and nurses will be called in to participate. The entire Vernon Fire Department will also be summoned.

Officials at Rockville General stated that the drill will not disrupt regular hospital routine. The exercise will be carefully controlled to assure that actual patients are neither alarmed nor disturbed by drill activities and that normal patient-care procedures continue without interruption.

Hospital officials also request that the public avoid the drill area. This will prevent unnecessary confusion or delay. For this reason, the exercise has been scheduled at a time when Union and West Main street traffic is lightest and when no visitors are likely to be entering or leaving the hospital.

Ladies Guild - The Ladies Guild of St. Mary's Episcopal Church will meet at 11 a.m. Thursday. Members should bring sandwiches.

Babysitting - Anyone interested in registering for the babysitting course being offered by the Junior Women's Club should phone 646-1423 for information. The course begins Tuesday and runs for two more consecutive Tuesdays from 6 to 8 p.m. It will be given at the firehouse at Spruce and Florence streets.

Voter registration - There will be three voter making sessions for people who want to vote in the Nov. 4 state election and who are not yet voters.

The sessions will be Oct. 8 from 7 to 9 p.m.; Oct. 11 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Oct. 14 from 9 a.m. to 12 p.m. All sessions will be at the Town Office Building.

To be eligible to vote you must be 18 years of age, an Andover resident and a U.S. citizen.

After Oct. 14, you will not be able to register to vote in the Nov. 4 election unless you become 18 years of age after 11 a.m. move into Andover or become a U.S. citizen.

Ruth Munson, town clerk, also registers voters on a daily basis and each Monday from 6 to 8 p.m. at the Town Office Building.

Anyone planning to register to vote during the day should call her office first to make sure she is there.

Lake drop begins - Dropping of the Lake Wampanoag (Cove Neck Lake) water level began Tuesday. The purpose is to permit residents of the lake area to clean their beaches of rocks, silt and any grass and mud in front of their residences.

The lake will be lowered approximately two feet below its present level. For a normally sloped beach this represents approximately six to eight feet of additional beach exposed.

Wetlands Agent Ernest Wheeler requests that individuals inform his office personnel at 745-7771 of planned work on the lake. Major work requires a formal application to be made without charge.

This is to provide for a record to protect residents as well as the lake area. The town plans to accomplish work in the dam area.

All work should be accomplished within the first three weeks of October as the dam gate will be closed thereafter to bring the water back to winter level.

Blood pressure clinic set - COVENTRY - The Community Health Service will sponsor a blood pressure clinic Oct. 7 from 1 to 2 p.m. at Barnes Pharmacy.

Thrift shop open Friday

SOUTH WINDSOR - The South Windsor Community Thrift Shop in the Sullivan Avenue Plaza will be open on Friday, beginning October 3. Shop hours will now be Wednesday, Thursday and Friday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and Saturdays from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m.

Volunteers from the club have agreed to work on Fridays instead of Tuesdays.

Items that are still in usable condition such as clothing, books, bric-a-brac and small appliances are welcomed and may be left at the shop any day it is open. Proceeds from the shop are donated to various community projects and scholarships sponsored by the South Windsor Women's Club, a service organization.

The shop is also offering a new service to the community. The South Windsor Women's Club, in cooperation with Manchester Memorial Hospital, has been designated as the South Windsor agency for the "Walls for Life" program. Walls are now available at the Thrift Shop or information on the walls may be obtained by calling Janete Noseck, 644-0223.

Community Council adds two staffers - VERNON - Carole Kerkin and Jennifer Spector have been hired as staff members at the Hockanum Valley Community Council.

The two women began work in September as crisis counselors, expanding the agency's services. They will do personal and financial counseling and provide general information and referrals.

Currently the two are working to contact former emergency assistance clients to give them information on this winter's energy program and other available services.

They will also meet with other community service agencies to provide new information and ideas.

The Hockanum Valley Community Council, which is now operated under the Windham Area Community Action Program, welcomes suggestions and comments from the public.

The office is located at 1 Court St. in Rockville and is open from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m., Mondays through Fridays. Ingrid Walker is interim director of the agency.

Nurse talks slated - STAFFORD (UPI) - State Labor Commissioner P. Joseph Peraro, who calls for bargaining have ended several strikes in the past, hopes his latest effort will prompt progress in the nurses strike at Johnson Memorial Hospital.

Both sides agreed to hold their first bargaining session more than a month today at 10 a.m. in East Windsor.

The commissioner is a great believer in talking," said Labor Department spokesman Richard Ficks. "He feels that as long as people are not talking, nothing is done."
