Parents fear racism

ATLANTA (UPI) — In low income housing projects where a killer has preyed on black children for a year, frightened parents believe a day-care center explosion that killed four children was caused by a racist's bomb. Authorities blame a faulty boiler.

"Somebody is trying to tell us something," said Samuel Hilder, acting executive director of the Atlanta Housing Authority, although he insisted there was no connection between the child murders and the explosion.

Long-awaited court trial

seen to show mob secrets

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Prosecutors today prepared opening arguments in a long-awaited underworld trial in which former Mafia boss James "Jimmy the Weasel" Fratianno is expected to disclose the inner workings of organized crime from membership rules to murder contracts.

Fratianno, named as an unindicted co-conspirator, allegedly arranged for the slaying of Bompeniero. Fratianno is being held in protective custody because of a reported $100,000 underworld contract for his membership rules to murder contracts.

Chad's parents will fight

SCITUATE, Mass. (UPI) — The parents of leukemia victim Chad Green today plan to begin an intensive campaign to convince Massachusetts officials outstanding contempt warrants against the couple should be dismissed.

The couple said they plan to contact state and court officials within the next few days in an attempt "to feel out the state's intentions."

Doctor fees rising slowly

NEW YORK (UPI) — Doctor fees are only 15 percent higher this year than last — less than the rate of inflation — due to growing competition for patients and closer scrutiny of medical claims by insurance companies, a survey shows.

BASRA, Iraq (UPI) — Iraqi warplanes attacked Abadan repeatedly today and ground fighting was reported at the edges of the oil refinery city.

Tehran radio accounts of ground fighting at Abadan were confused and indirect. One broadcast quoted a correspondent in the refinery city as saying Iraqi forces had been hurled back 4.5 miles and were "trapped."

Update

State rests

HARTFORD (UPI) — Accused slayer Larry E. Chace said in a written statement he gave to police he played several games of backgammon, took a shower and went to bed after he fatally stabbed Sheldon A. Merrill, 19, last year.

Chace, 28, of Berlin, is charged with stabbing Merrill, of Cromwell, during a fight outside the Speakeasy cafe on Feb. 7, 1979.

Chief Assistant State's Attorney Robert Meyers rested his case Tuesday after submitting the defendant's statement into testimony.

But defense attorney Richard Endreunas objected to the part of the statement about what Chace was doing while Merrill lay dying in the emergency room as New Britain General Hospital.

Superior Court Judge Brian E. O'Neill ordered the reference to backgammon playing stricken from the statement before Meyers submitted it to the jury.

Chace said in the statement the fight began over a 25-cent piece used as a marker on a pool table. He said after the stabbing, he went with his brother to a motel where he was later arrested by police.

Chief dies

NORWICH (UPI) — Funeral services were scheduled for Friday for police Chief John W. Krzesicki Sr. The veteran policeman died Tuesday in his sleep of natural causes. He was 50.

Krzesicki was a Norwich policeman for 29 years, serving as chief for the last nine years. He joined the force in 1951, was promoted to sergeant in 1953 and made captain in 1970, a year before he became chief.

He is survived by his wife, Ann, a son, John of Norwich, a brother, Richard of Montville and a sister, Mrs. Terry Barnum of Fremont, Calif.

There will be a mass of Christian burial at 10 a.m. Friday in St. Patrick's Cathedral, followed by burial in St. Joseph's Cemetery.

Fireman dies

NEW BRITAIN (UPI) — A New Britain fireman has died five months after becoming comatose from head injury.

Joseph J. Farnsworth, 54, of New Britain, died Tuesday of pneumonia. He was hospitalized for several months after suffering a head injury in a fall while responding to a fire.

Carl Dorfried, 62, of New Britain, unconscious since the May 19 accident, died Tuesday at Hartford Hospital. Police said Dorfried fell from a fire truck and struck his head on the curb as he arrived to help put out a fire in the State Middle School in New Britain.

Acting Fire Chief Edward Mekeon said Dorfried will receive a hero's funeral because he died in the line of duty. Mayor William McNamara ordered the flags on city buildings and all fire houses to be lowered to half staff. A mass of Christian burial will be offered at 10:15 a.m. Thursday in St. Ann's Church followed by burial in St. Mary's Cemetery.

HARTFORD (UPI) — President Carter has finally signed the bill to return the world's first nuclear submarine to a permanent home in Groton.

The president Tuesday signed an appropriation for $1.5 million for site work necessary to berth the Nautilus just south of the U.S. Submarine Base on the Thames River.

HARTFORD (UPI) — Police say rare artifacts and furniture worth more than $60,000 have been stolen from the vacant home of a Hartford woman who died six months ago.

Police said Tuesday the thefts were discovered Monday by a cleaning woman employed for the past 20 years by Beatrice Cook, who died April 7.

The cleaning woman continued to clean the house three times a week.

Miss Cook, who was 87 when she died, was the granddaughter of the late Asa S. Cook, who founded a machinery manufacturing company near the present site of Colt Industries.

Hartford Probate Judge James H. Kinsella said the dead woman's personal property was appraised recently at more than $125,000.

HARTFORD (UPI) — Democratic U.S. Senate nominee Christopher Dodd has been endorsed by the New England District Council No. 2 of the International Union of Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers.

Peter S. diCiccio, president of the union which represents 20,000 New England workers, said Tuesday the endorsement was "clearly indicative" of Dodd's support and work in behalf of working people.

Dodd, a three-term congressman from Eastern Connecticut, is running against Republican James Buckley for the chance to succeed retiring Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn.

HARTFORD (UPI) — Rep. Linda Emmons, R-Madison, says she will introduce tough legislation prohibiting use of public funds to furnish state-owned residences used as personal homes by some state officials.

State auditors recently criticized Col. Robert Hooley, commandant of the Rocky Hill Veterans Home and Hospital, for spending $50,000 on items such as a water bed and bar stools to spruce up the official residence.

Mrs. Emmons also noted Tuesday the auditors said the past three presidents of the University of Connecticut made purchases for their state-owned residence which violated state regulations.

"This arrogant misuse of public funds must be stopped by legislation. I intend to propose a bill calling for automatic dismissal of any person benefitting from such abuses. In addition, a heavy fine should be imposed," she said.

HARTFORD (UPI) — The Legislature's Judiciary Committee will hold a public hearing concerning modification of the statute of limitations for injuries caused by the use of man-made drugs.

Committee co-chairman Rep. Richard Tulisano, D-Rocky Hill, said Tuesday the Oct. 22 hearing was prompted by the intense debate over a bill designed to help individuals who believed they were harmed by the drug DES.

DES, a drug believed to help prevent miscarriages when it was prescribed to millions of pregnant women in the 1960s, has been found to cause sterility and cancer in some of these women's children.

Tulisano said modifying the statute of limitation for legal action is just one possible response to the problem of injuries sustained as a result of the use of drugs.

HARTFORD (UPI) — Sidney Gardner, director of the Connecticut Anderson-Lucey campaign, has released a 46-page budget impact statement.

"John Anderson has today released an unprecedented document which challenges both his opponents to match its detail," Gardner said Tuesday.

The budget impact statement released in Washington outlines and explains the cost of programs supported by Anderson.

"Very simply, the Anderson-Lucey budget impact statement tells how they intend to pay for the programs they've pledged to support," (President) Carter and (Ronald) Reagan have failed to do the same," Gardner said.

Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis played hostess in New York Monday night at a champagne dinner for her octogenarian friend and former partner, both Vogue and Harper's Bazaar magazines, Diana Vreeland.

Occasion? Publication of the Vreeland book, "Allure."

Jackie, a Doubleday editor, handled the book of photographs of 20th-century fashionables picked to illustrate allure.

On hand were Gloria Vanderbilt, Norman Mailer, Doris Duke, Andy Warhol, Paloma Picasso, Mary McFadden, Oscar de la Renta and Mrs. Vincent Astor.

But Vreeland was more interested in two Chinese musicians. "Just the thing for the Chinese costume exhibit I've organized for the Metropolitan Museum opening next month," she said.

Marlo steps in

Actress (and) Marlo Thomas says the saga of Mary Cunningham at Bendix Corp., is just another example of sexism on the job.

Mrs. Cunningham, 29, resigned from her executive job last week amid rumors she owed her success to a romance with the firm's chairman, William Agee.

"Here's a woman the dean of Harvard said was one of the most outstanding persons to ever leave Harvard and she couldn't be stopped," Ms. Thomas said in a speech at Kalamazoo, Mich.

"But they figured out how to stop her. I think it's that kind of sexism that has stopped women all along."

I'm sorry she quit and I hope the reason she quit is that she's so confident and so damn smart she'll do it all over again at another company — and prove them to be a bunch of fools.

The justice of the peace who performed the ceremony said they were just "like any other newlywed couple, extremely happy." Well, not exactly.

The bridegroom in the gray business suit was Henry Ford II, 63, and the bride in the plum colored suit was his lady friend of long standing, Kathleen Roberta DuRoss, 40.

The couple was married by JP Tom Davis in Carson, City, Nev., just two days after Ford had called reports of wedding bells "a bit premature."

Then she told a Philadelphia crowd, "The positive vibrations are so strong that I predict the Phillies will win the Series."

She hedged her bet by adding, "I could just be picking up the good thoughts of the people in Philadelphia."

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (UPI) — American Lawrence R. Klein of the University of Pennsylvania won the 1980 Nobel Prize for economics today, becoming the eighth American to win the award by 1980.

Klein, 60, born in Omaha, Neb., was awarded the $25,000 prize, making him the ninth American to win the award for economics, which was set up 80 years ago by the Bank of Sweden.

The economics prize was won Tuesday by Americans James Cronin, 49, and Val Fitch, 57, for research, which removed questions that had clouded the "big bang" theory of the origin of the universe.

Americans Paul Berg, 54, and Walter Gilbert, 48, shared the chemistry prize with Briton Frederick Sanger, 62, for studies of deoxyribonucleic acid, or DNA, the essential component of all living matter that contains the genetic code.

The Swedish Academy of Science said their research might one day help man "understand the nature of cancer."

The four Americans joined U.S. immunologists George Snell and Baruj Benacerraf, who shared the physiology or medicine prize last week and Czeclaw Miszke, who won the literature prize.

Hanzalek on ERA

HARTFORD (UPI) — Rep. Astrid Hanzalek, R-Suffield, says predictions that the re-election of President Carter would guarantee ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment were "ridiculous."

Mrs. Hanzalek also said Tuesday Sen. Marcella Fahy of East Hartford and Audrey Beck of Mansfield noted a note of "desperation" when they criticized GOP presidential nominee Ronald Reagan's record on women's issues.

"Though all of us would like to see the ERA ratified, to say that Carter's re-election will guarantee its passage is ridiculous," said Mrs. Hanzalek.

She noted the Democratic senators who announced the "Women for Carter-Mondale Committee" Monday were behind the Republican's "Women of the Commitment in the 80s" which held its first event last week.

Endorse Dodd

HARTFORD (UPI) — Democratic U.S. Senate nominee Christopher Dodd has been endorsed by the New England District Council No. 2 of the International Union of Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers.

Peter S. diCiccio, president of the union which represents 20,000 New England workers, said Tuesday the endorsement was "clearly indicative" of Dodd's support and work in behalf of working people.

Dodd, a three-term congressman from Eastern Connecticut, is running against Republican James Buckley for the chance to succeed retiring Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn.

HARTFORD (UPI) — The Legislature's Judiciary Committee will hold a public hearing concerning modification of the statute of limitations for injuries caused by the use of man-made drugs.

Committee co-chairman Rep. Richard Tulisano, D-Rocky Hill, said Tuesday the Oct. 22 hearing was prompted by the intense debate over a bill designed to help individuals who believed they were harmed by the drug DES.

Dodd on energy

WESTPORT (UPI) — Democratic U.S. Senate nominee Christopher Dodd, claiming the nation must break its dependence on foreign oil, has outlined his proposals for developing alternative and renewable energy resources.

Dodd told a Tuesday news conference at a solar home that cooperation from the private and public sector was essential to developing crucial resources and meeting the nation's long-term energy needs.

"For the next few decades and for the next century, we must begin today an intensive effort to refine existing technology and explore new technology to develop clean, safe, renewable sources of energy," he said.

Dodd, noting his campaign had targeted energy as the key issue facing Connecticut and the nation, outlined six areas of alternative energy development for the next 10 to 20 years and three promising technologies for the coming century.

He said the technologies, further research and development and tax incentives "singly and in combination hold great promise for an immediate reduction in our foreign oil dependence."

The three-term congressman from eastern Connecticut said the current conflict between Iraq and Iran underscored the frailty of America's energy position due to its heavy dependence on imported oil.

"This dependence on a region as volatile as the Middle East threatens not only our economic well being, but world peace as well," he said.

Dodd said the six major areas of development were: Solar energy for space and water heating; Hydroelectric power, utilizing undeveloped dams; Geothermal energy using the Earth's heat to provide power; Wood, which could meet as much 10 percent of New England's energy needs.

Vehicle theft

The American motoring public is being taken for an expensive ride by widening motor vehicle theft.

Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., called vehicle theft one of the nation's "few growth industries" in a congressional record statement.

"During 1979 close to 1.1 million vehicles were stolen," Percy said, "with the theft rate increasing an alarming 10.6 percent over 1978 according to FBI records."

Percy said vehicle theft has become the nation's fastest-growing property crime. "It is a $4 billion problem with motorists paying a hefty "theft tax" as part of their insurance premiums."

Teenage joyrider thefts once dominated the stolen vehicle picture. Not any more. High profits and low risks have attracted hardened professionals and organized groups to the crime.

Further, Percy stressed, "clandestine garages or 'chop shops' where stolen vehicles are dismantled for their lucrative sheet metal crash replacement parts are flourishing."

Lamentably, police could recover only 58.4 percent of the value of stolen vehicles in 1979 - an all-time low.

In suburban communities, vehicle theft was the second-fastest-growing crime last year, increasing 13.6 percent over 1978.

To counter the disturbing trend, Sen. Joseph R. Biden,

D-Del., and Percy have introduced a motor vehicle theft prevention act, intended to assist law enforcement in several ways. A companion house bill, with Rep. William Green, R-N.Y., as principal sponsor, coordinates with the senate legislation.

Percy said the level of support for the measure is impressive. A long list of endorsements includes the International Association of Chiefs of Police.

Congress should waste no time approving the legislation. A police crackdown and greater security measures by vehicle owners should be "musts" also.

This is a "growth industry" as Percy called it, that needs to be converted to the "ailing industry" list post haste.

No vote on CD plans urged

To the Editor: We urge you to vote NO on the Community Development Block Grant referendum question, which will be the sixth and last question on the top line of the ballot, at the general election on November 4, 1980.

At the special referendum election of April 17, 1979, our community, by a 3 to 1 margin, voted to temporarily leave that block grant program for a moratorium until January 1, 1981. Not that this moratorium is coming to an end, our town board of directors is seeking the advice of the voters, as to whether or not our town should return to this program, by asking us to vote yes or no on this referendum question on November 4th.

This block grant program, which is frequently called the CD program, is administered by the federal government's Department of Housing and Urban Development which is commonly known as HUD. We recognize that this program can provide our town with as much as $500,000 each year to spend on a number of worthwhile projects so long as those projects are approved by HUD.

However, in exchange for that block grant money, our town is required to sign a written contract which we believe places greater obligations and potential future burdens on our town. That contract, for the next block grant, would impose on our town a contractual obligation to take all actions within our town's control including "appropriate zoning changes" to promote the construction of 150 new apartments for lower income families.

The cost of that housing construction would ordinarily be subsidized by other HUD programs. We view this contractual obligation as much greater than the obligation imposed on all towns by federal law (unfairly obeyed by our town) not to unduly block or prevent others from building that kind of housing in town.

The cost of the additional school services and the additional other tax-supported municipal services, which would be required by the residents of those new family apartments, in future years seems likely to impose a greater burden on future town budgets and future town tax rates than would otherwise be the case. That future cost and burden, we believe, far outweighs whatever short-term benefit our town might gain from the block grant money.

In addition to those economic drawbacks, this block grant program would probably bring us back to heavy-handed intermeddling by federal bureaucrats in our managing of our own local affairs. We experienced that kind of intermeddling from HUD officials in 1978 before we voted to take this program. Rather than to become again entangled in that kind of intermeddling, we believe that our town should vote to continue to stay out of this program.

We categorically reject the accusations of our critics who have accused us of racial prejudice in our opposition to this program. If any person honestly believes that racial prejudice has anything to do with his or her vote on the question, we would recommend and request that that person not cast any vote on this referendum question.

It is because we believe that the potential economic burdens of this program's contractual commitments far outweigh its potential economic benefits to our community, and because we believe that our community can be better managed by our local elected officials without intermeddling by federal bureaucrats in the local HUD office, that we request you to vote NO on the SIXTH AND LAST REFERENDUM QUESTION ON THE TOP LINE OF THE BALLOT on November 4th. Robert S. Samuelson, Secretary for Manchester's Development

Wilson criticizes utility rate hike

MANCHESTER - Edward Wilson, candidate for state senate from the Third District, criticized today the rate increase granted Northeast Utilities.

Wilson, who faces incumbent Marcelle Foley, D-East Hartford, for the seat, said the $121 million increase granted by the state Department of Public Utilities was an "affront to the working poor."

"He noted the $86.1 million increase granted the utility in January, and asked why another increase was needed."

"NU's experts have told us that revenues are inadequate to cover costs," Wilson said. "This statement is a blatant lie, what these figure people have done is to over estimate energy demands, and are asking the rate payer to incur a 12 percent rate increase."

Wilson said workers' pay will probably not reflect the increase. "To my mind, this constitutes a gross evasion of responsibility and utility arrogance and an unprecedented display of complete disregard for the rate payer," he said.

Wilson said the DPUC was a creation of the Democrats, and the commissioners, would not notice the rate increases as someone on a fixed income would. He noted a news report which stated Northeast customers will be assessed $3.5 million for an insurance policy against nuclear plant shut down.

"The public utility regulators state their decision represented a step in letting NU shift the risks of nuclear power from the stockholders to the ratepayers. It is about time the rate conspiracy is exposed for what it really is, an agreement between utility and insurance companies not to protect each others rate requests," Wilson said.

"Increase the cost of electricity to the gas companies, pass it on to the home owner, increase the cost of electricity to the gas companies pass it on to the home owner, increase the costs of electricity to the hospitals, pass it on to the patients, increase the costs of electricity to the schools, pass it on as a tax increase. I ask you, who the hell do we pass it on to?" he asked.

Wilson also announced the appointment of a campaign treasurer. Carl Gunderson, of 115 Olcott Dr., Manchester, will serve as treasurer for Wilson.

Parker supports parking lot plan

GLASTONBURY - State Rep. Antonia Parker, 31st Assembly District, has called on the state Department of Transportation (DOT) to study the feasibility of using excess state-owned land adjacent to major highways to establish new commuter parking lots.

Rep. Parker has written to Commissioner Arthur Powers suggesting the state locate a new commuter lot off Hebron Avenue near the Route 2 interchange.

"This area could be ideal," Rep. Parker stated. "It is close to three major state highways as well as Glastonbury's new industrial park. Buses could use the lot not only for Glastonbury commuters riding to city jobs, but to bring workers from other towns to jobs in our industrial park."

Costs could be kept to a minimum, she said, since the state already owns the land.

The Glastonbury legislator pointed out that Glastonbury's main commuter lot behind St. Paul's Church is often overcrowded that parking is insufficient for parishioners attending church services. "By allowing commuters to use its parking facilities, St. Paul's is providing a real community service," Mrs. Parker continued, "and the church should not be penalized for its own generosity."

In addition, Rep. Parker urged DOT to add more commuter buses to Glastonbury runs.

Glass works elects officers

MANCHESTER - At the annual meeting of the Pitkin Glass Works Inc., officers were elected for this coming year. Walker Briggs was chosen president. He is a teacher of social studies at Manchester High School, a former coach of football, and now trainer for fall sports.

Other officers elected are as follows: vice president, Miss Sally Robb; secretary, Miss Catherine Putnam; treasurer, Richard Carter; assistant treasurer, Laurence Leonard; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Edith Muse.

The Executive Board is made up of 15 persons, five to represent each of the original sponsors. Those named were: from the Oxford Chapter, D.A.R., Mrs. Ruth Giesek, Mrs. Gladys Bissell, Mrs. Hazel Lockward, Miss Jean Kelsey, and Mrs. Daisy Bill.

From the Historical Society were Mrs. Ruth Shepherd, Mrs. Constance Adams, Mrs. Bernice Reig, Mrs. Patricia Cook, and William Buckley. From the town were Ernest Turack, Joseph Sullivan, Mrs. Ruth Willey, John DeQuattro, and Richard Danielson.

The first of the reproductions of the Pitkin glass were presented, and put on sale. These have been hand blown at the Pairpoint Glass Company of Sandwich, Mass., using a mold made from an original flask loaned by Thomas Duff of Manchester.

In a shade of teal blue, they are differentiated from the originals by the initials P.G. on the base. Since the casting is limited to five hundred, these flasks will become collector's items.

Flasks will be on sale at the meeting of the Historical Society at the Whiton Memorial Library Auditorium Sunday at 2 p.m., when Duff will speak on "Glass - From Making to Collecting." Proceeds will go toward the preservation of the Pitkin Glass Works.

This is an open meeting. All are welcome to attend.

Thorton heads board

WEST HARTFORD - William Thorton, president of Manchester Sand & Gravel Co., has been elected chairman of the board of governors of the University of Hartford's Construction Institute.

David LaBau, president of the Hartford firm of Stecker-LaBau Architects Inc., was elected vice-chairman. He had been serving as acting chairman.

Other officers elected include James Escott Jr., of the Bartlett-Brainard & Escott construction firm, as secretary; and Richard M. Wetherell, president of the Wetherell Corp., electrical contractors, as treasurer. Elected to serve on the executive committee with Thorton, Escott, and Wetherell were: Samuel Y. Golding, president of Standard Structural Steel Co.; B. Albert Higgins, president of M. Frank Higgins & Co.; Richard O. Jones, senior vice-president of Connecticut Natural Gas Corp.; and Burton Karp, president of Eagle Moisture Protection Corp.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Feds knew of Billy-Liba link one year earlier than claimed

By JACK ANDERSON WASHINGTON - There is startling new evidence that Justice Department investigators knew of Billy Carter's middleman role in dealings between Libya and the Charter Oil Co. as early as February 1979. This is more than a year before the date that the department claims to have learned of the arrangement.

Sealed court documents, seen by my associate Andy Badwar, clearly indicate that Philip Heymann, head of the Justice Department's Criminal Division, and his assistant Irv Nathan, had personally received the information about the Billy Carter-Libya-Charter Oil connection by the spring of 1979. When finally consummated, the deal stipulated that the president's brother would receive 50 cents for every extra barrel of oil he could obtain for Charter from his friends in Libya.

After the story broke about Billy's belated registration as a paid foreign agent for the Libyan government, the Justice Department said it had received the first hints of the compact in April 1980. This claim is devastated by the secret court records.

They reveal that criminal investigators for the U.S. Attorney's office in New York tripped across Billy's trail almost by accident. The federal agents were working on an elaborate maneuver to lure fugitive financier Robert Vesco from his sanctuary in the Bahamas to London, where he could be arrested and brought to the United States to stand trial on a host of charges.

The investigators enlisted the services of a convicted con man, James Feeney, who convinced them he had access to Vesco and could coax him from his cave-in return. Feeney wanted immunity on charges pending against him in an unrelated case.

Feeney said he had flown regularly to the financier's hideaway, and was the lynchpin in a secret Vesco scheme to secure the delivery of a number of American-made aircraft that the Libyans had bought but the U.S. was withholding. Vesco was allegedly going to accomplish this by paying off some Democratic Party bigwigs, the players in the influence-peddling plot would be rewarded by the Libyans to the tune of $30 million.

In the course of his undercover work, Feeney got wind of the Billy Carter deal with Charter Oil and passed the information on to the New York U.S. Attorney's office. A report in the secret records, filed by special investigator Robert Doonan in February 1979, reads: "Re. Oil Refinery. Bill Carter. Fifty cents per barrel payoff."

The note continues to succinctly summarize the essence of the contract eventually reached between Billy and the Charter firm seven months later.

In a subsequent court proceeding involving Feeney, Doonan testified behind closed doors that "the Department of Justice in Washington, namely Philip Heymann and Irv Nathan, wanted to be kept aware of everything that went on in our investigation." Doonan's secret testimony indicates he began filing reports to headquarters on the entire investigation in the spring of 1979.

The undercover operation to nab Vesco ended in December 1979. One source suggested the whole thing was called off because Feeney was bringing in damaging information about Billy Carter, the White House and several well-known Democrats. A Justice Department spokesman denied that Heymann was given information on the Billy Carter-Libya-Charter Oil deal in the spring of 1979. The spokesman added that a related but unfounded report was received a few months later, but no reliable facts were obtained until 1980.

Such a nice young man

To the Editor: He appeared to be such a nice young man - about 20, neatly dressed, well spoken, polite, bright and friendly. He apologized for bothering me and said he was embarrassed about ringing my door.

He said he had run out of gas and asked if I had an empty container to loan him, so that he could get some to the nearest gas station. He asked directions to the nearest station and I told him to turn right at the corner walk two short blocks and he'd come to it.

The gasoline can I loaned him had about a third of a gallon in it and we both agreed it was enough for him to start up his car and drive it to the gas station.

He thanked me, waved as he drove off and said he'd be right back. I watched him as he got to the corner and wondered why he turned left and not right, as I had suggested. It's now two weeks and I haven't seen him or the empty gasoline can since.

It reminds me of a story I heard long ago. It's about a man who kept telling him to turn right at the corner walk two short blocks and he'd come to it. The gasoline can I loaned him had suspicious, but never found anything in the wheel barrow but the empty cartons - usually old, used ones.

One day he was arrested by Mexican authorities for a minor violation and the police asked him about the wheel barrows. He answered them honestly. It turned out that he was smuggling wheel barrows out of Mexico.

Can it be that my nice young man is driving around and stealing empty gasoline cans? Nobody will ever make me believe it, and yet...

Lack of public response

To the Editor: The recent firebombing of a home on Brent Road should have aroused a wave of public protest throughout our community - letters to the Editor, letters of support to the Harris family, statements by our clergy, meetings and general expressions of concern. Certainly to date, there has been little such public expression. Perhaps we are all becoming anesthetized to the hate in the world. We read of bombings, statements by bigots and acts of hatred and violence and then act passively when they occur in our own home town.

This is one of the reasons many of us have felt that a program of education was necessary to teach our young people (assuming that the adults have already developed their ideas for good or evil) what simple prejudices in speed and attitude ultimately lead to.

In order to destroy a people or a family on Brent Road, one must first feel that they are less than people ("Untermenechen" the Nazis called them) and thus deserving of first, contempt, then abuse, and then if they persist in remaining, physical violence and elimination.

I guess that what I'm really saying is that the event itself was devastating, the response from political leaders, clergy and citizens was muted, and the silence deafening. Have we lost our ability to be indignant?

Yours truly, Ronald Jacobs, 148 Main St., Manchester

Band shell praised

To the Editor: We have attended almost every event and are proud to be a part of the Manchester Bicentennial Band shell.

The shell is so beautiful. The area so convenient, parking so easy, and all of the events have been super. The area is always cool no matter how hot the day has been, and it is like a Norman Rockwell picture to view it with the crowds up on the hill.

I sing with the Manchester Silk City Chorus, so I have enjoyed the shell from stage side also. The Coast Guard Academy Band was our favorite. We enjoy many of their concerts at New London. There is not better band. We live in East Hartford but we call the band shell "ours" and have intelligence briefing.

Grogan's knees needs rest

FOXBORO, Mass. (UPI) — The cure for Steve Grogan's ailment is rest, but the NFL schedule doesn't provide for any extended rest periods and the New England Patriots quarterback will continue to play as long as he can, coach Ron Erhardt said Monday.

Grogan, the AFC's top-rated passer, has completed 83 percent of his tosses for 1,134 yards and 10 touchdowns. In his last two games, the knees have forced him to the sidelines — once by necessity and once by choice.

"The injury is going to be a continuing thing from week to week," Erhardt said at his Monday briefing. "What is needed is a long period of rest but we can't afford that. There's no chance he won't play against the Colts (Sunday), not the way he is dably on each occasion.

"I could set up and throw the ball okay, but if I had to move quick, I couldn't do it. I had chances to run but just couldn't," Grogan said. "You don't get as much body into the football if you can't really move your legs. I could see why (Miami) coach Don Shula would want to come after him with the blitz and that," Erhardt said.

The coach praised the Patriots defense, which held the Dolphins to 88 yards total offense. Erhardt also singled out the special teams for a gritty performance and said the team was executing well in all areas.

"We're not beating ourselves. We're not into five or six holding calls, or jumping offside or clipping down field. We're not marching backwards," Erhardt said with our

Cavanaugh on target

FOXBORO, Mass. (UPI) — Matt Cavanaugh freely admits he'd probably be working in an Ohio steel mill had it not been for football.

"And the steel mill's of that good quality and a lot of guys are getting laid off," says the New England Patriots' quarterback. "I never even would have gone to college if it hadn't been for football. My parents had just put my two sisters through college and there just wasn't a money."

But Cavanaugh could throw a football and was an All-City quarterback at Chaney High in Youngstown, Ohio, a city heavily reliant on the troubled steel industry. The major steel producers have been shutting down and Cavanaugh says he could just as easily be drawing a welfare check than a paycheck.

"I honestly believe I've ended up working in those mills. I'd have stayed in town like a lot of my friends, maybe gotten married. Thankful, I had football. That's the way I made it through school," he says.

Cavanaugh left the steel mills for the Steel City and landed at the University of Pittsburgh on a football scholarship. Few teams had shown an interest in the 6-foot-1-quarterback, but the Pitt recruiter happened to be the brother of his high school coach. And the Panthers were rebuilding under Johnny Majors.

Cavanaugh moved into the starting role as a sophomore and as a junior, despite breaking a leg. He led Pitt to the national title. As a senior, he broke a wrist but returned to lead the team to a Gator Bowl win over Clemson.

"Nothing will ever match that championship year. It was unreal. We got better every week and there was more and more pressure on us to win," he says.

The Patriots pictured big things for Cavanaugh when they drafted him in the second round in 1978. A hush-hush news conference was called at the posh Ritz Carlton Hotel to announce his signing, called "one of the most significant in Patriots history" by the team owner.

But he reported to training camp with an injured knee and some uncertainty about what was in store.

"At first, I really didn't know what to expect," he says. "I knew I was coming into a backup role with two veterans ahead of me. But it's a role I learned to like and enjoy."

Cavanaugh was a third-stringer in his first two years at New England, not playing at all in 1979 and just once in 1978. Things were expected to be the same this year, but with the holdout Tom Owen, he inherited the backup role. And he played superbly in two exhibition games, giving him a much-needed shot in the arm.

"Those two games showed me I could play. They also showed me how important it is to be ready. I'll get a chance to play. Something could happen, heaven forbid, and I'd be dead if I wasn't ready," he says.

And just six weeks into the season, Cavanaugh has more than doubled his playing time of the first two years, spelling the gimpy knee Steve Grogan the last two weeks. In the process, he has erased what doubt there was, if any, that he was just an average backup quarterback.

"We like to feel we have two No. 1 quarterbacks," says Patriots coach Ron Erhardt. "Steve is still our starter but it's comforting to know you've got another guy who can step in and lead the team."

Cavanaugh replaced Grogan late in the first half of the Patriots' 21-11 win over the New York Jets. He completed 9-of-15 passes, including a 37-yard TD toss to Harold Jackson. Reporters jammed around his locker, asking, among other things, what the medalion on his neck signified.

Schools play host to myriad activities

MANCHESTER—The Board of Education at its meeting Tuesday night learned what such events as a barbershop quartet concert, a stamp show, and examinations to become town policemen have in common. According to a document prepared by Bill Dion, the school system's director of buildings and grounds, the various events have all taken place within the community's schools.

In a report to the board on the community's use of schools, Superintendent of Schools James Kennedy noted the schools are the largest group of real estate holdings the town owns, with a value in buildings of $60 million.

Among the activities which use the school buildings for sites, are courses by Manchester Community College, Eastern Connecticut State College, and the University of Hartford.

Assistant Superintendent of Schools J. Gerald Fitzgibbons said "Upwards of 300 people are taking advantage of credit programs which are now in the local schools and weren't in place just one year ago."

Dion said more than 200,000 people each year use the town's school buildings. Verplanck is currently the most requested elementary school, he said.

Dion added the groups using the facilities are "not new faces." He said most use the schools more than once, and among the newer groups were regularly made use of the schools Dion cited the Gilbert and Sullivan Ballet, and the Eighth District wrestling program.

Other longstanding users of the buildings include: the instructors of the Handicapped, civic and political organizations; scouts; and the town's Recreation Department.

Among these users, some pay out of their own pocket, and others are subsidized by the town.

Organizations holding moneymaking events and those scheduled after regular school hours pay for the use of the school buildings.

The payment is used to cover utility and custodial costs. The school system never makes a profit on the use of its buildings.

For groups who aren't holding fundraisers, the town has set aside $17,500 to cover the utility and custodial costs. The receipts go to the Board of Education, and any unused portion is returned to the town's general fund.

Dion said revenue for the 1979-80 school year included $11,689 from paying groups; $5,789 from the town to cover costs of non-paying groups; and $10,091 from recreation groups. He said 60 percent of all the funds come from groups paying for the use of Manchester High School.

South Windsor approves zone rules

By DAVE LAVALLEE
Herald Reporter

SOUTH WINDSOR—The Planning and Zoning Commission Tuesday night unanimously approved a set of amended zoning regulations.

Residents in the southerly part of town have argued that the creation of the Designer Commercial District would allow the building of the 550-acre Buckland Commons Shopping area. The proposed development would call for the use of 300 acres in South Windsor. The development would also reach into Manchester.

The commission spent about three hours discussing minor changes to the regulations before adopting them.

The principal permitted uses in the zone would be buildings for offices, retail sales and business and personal services.

Peter DeMallie, town planner, said the new regulations have not been designed for a specific area in the town.

"The commission has no request for a zone change before them. This is a floating zone concept," he added.

DeMallie did say that there is land under option by a developer to construct a large-scale shopping center in the southerly part of the town.

"The commission discussed with Robert W. Donahue, the town's consultant for the project, how it could control personal services, such as massage parlors, noise, elimination of trees and the construction of buffers to protect neighbors from large developments.

On page four, section E of the regulations, the commission agreed that the design of roads, parking areas, sidewalks, and curbing should meet all town ordinances and regulations. It also agreed that other access roads should be subject to approval by the commission. Before the changes, the regulation would have also allowed the town manager to approve the design of the access areas.

The commission also added to the regulations saying that if construction was not completed on a proposal in a period up to 30 months, then the commission may terminate or modify the proposal.

In response to residents' concerns about buffers, the commission also said buffers should be completed in the first planting seasons during the first phase of construction.

Area residents did not turn out for Tuesday night's meeting as they did for past discussions on the changes.

However, representatives from the Cinnamon Springs Condominium Association, the Pleasant Valley Neighborhood Association and the Smith Street area questioned the commission on a number of items.

Dave Schulman, the attorney for the Pleasant Valley group, requested that additional information be accepted by the commission.

However, the commission rejected the request. Marshall Montana, at the outset of the meeting, said new information would not be accepted.

He argued that because the public hearing was held on election night for the primaries, the public was unable to turn out for the hearing.

He also said the hearing notice was advertised on Labor Day when people were away on vacation.

Both Schulman and Richard Burrell, a resident of Smith Street, said the residents' desire to secede from the town if new development occurs has cooled since the initial hearing.

GOP candidates blast Dems record

HARTFORD (UPI) — Connecticut's Republican candidates for Congress say President Carter and the Democrats controlling Capitol Hill have promoted dismal policies which have forced the nation to "the brink of disaster."

GOP Senate candidate James Buckley and four of the state's six Republican congressional hopefuls laid the groundwork for a party "truth squad" due to arrive today, the eve of a Carter campaign visit to the Hartford area.

Buckley also took the opportunity Tuesday to light into his Senate opponent — three-term Rep. Christopher Dodd, D-Conn.

"Congressman Dodd and the other Democrats running for the Congress from Connecticut this year are locked into the policies and politics that have brought this country to the brink of disaster," he said.

Buckley was joined by 1st District candidate Marjorie Anderson, 5th District hopeful Edward "Mickey" Donahue, 6th District nominee Nicholas Schaus and 2nd District candidate D. Anthony Guglielmo.

Incumbent 4th District Rep. Stewart McKinney and 3rd District candidate Lawrence DeNardis did not attend the news conference but said they supported the position and statement offered by Buckley.

GOP Chairman Ralph Capocelatro also said a "pro-America" truth squad, including former treasury secretary William Simon, would arrive in Connecticut today to point out the failures in the Carter administration.

"They're here to remind us all this country is on the brink of disaster and we're looking for a change," Capocelatro said.

He predicted Republican nominee Ronald Reagan would carry Connecticut with 45 percent of the vote. Capocelatro said he thought Carter would pull 40 percent and independent John Anderson would get 15 percent of the vote on Nov. 4.

Carter is due to campaign in Connecticut Thursday.

Buckley said he's traveled the state for 10 months and "I have yet to hear a single man or woman who believes that we as a people or a nation are better off today than we were four years ago."

CBS airs obscene ad

HARTFORD (UPI) — A local radio station filed a formal protest with the CBS radio network after it was forced to broadcast a political ad for Citizen Party presidential candidate Barry Commoner containing a repeated obscenity.

WPQP-AM was informed by CBS at 2:08 p.m. that the advertisement had to be run during the network's hourly news less than an hour away. CBS said it had checked with the Federal Communications Commission and was told it had to run the ad.

Andy Carrano, WPQP's operations manager, said he called a Washington attorney representing the station's parent company — Merv Griffin Radio — and was also told the ad had to be run.

Carrano said he filed a complaint with CBS, arguing a disclaimer should have been run with the commercial which drew about a dozen protesting phone calls.

"We have formally lodged a complaint with CBS in New York," he said. "CBS should have put a disclaimer on the spot either before or after it was run. I have requested the CBS network to put such a disclaimer on this spot which is supposed to air again on Thursday."

This Christmas... something very, very special for Mom and Dad
(and grandparents, too)

The Family Birthstone Tree

Now a gift that gives what no other gift can. Your own family tree immortalized in engraved bronze.

Cheese & Wine Anytime

Cheese and wine have been natural partners for centuries, but they've never been more "in" than now! With today's time schedules, friends often gather informally for an evening of wine and cheese tasting, which may include these hors d'oeuvres and snacks to fill out a light repast.

The choice of wines for a tasting is important, but spend just as much time on the selection of cheeses to have a basis for tasting and comparison. The Kraft Kitchens suggest that a good tasting can often be planned around a theme, and should offer a variety of natural cheeses, from firm to soft, and from mild to extra sharp. Fortunately, there's no need for a trip to a specialty shop, because the dairy case of today's supermarket has a wide assortment of domestic and foreign-type cheeses.

Your cheese tray could feature an array of the classic types of cheeses produced in this country — Monterey jack, muenster, brick, blue, Swiss, and colby. To show the increasing development of flavor which results from aging, you could offer a sampling of natural cheddar cheeses ranging from mild to extra sharp.

When you select wines to accompany cheeses, the basic principle is that the flavors should enhance, not overpower each other. A mild cheese will be accented by a light Chablis or fresh rose, while a flavorful cheese such as sharp cheddar calls for a full-bodied Burgundy or California pinot noir.

To save last-minute duties, your cheese tray may be assembled ahead of time, wrapped lightly in moisture-proof wrap to prevent drying, and refrigerated. For eye appeal, cut the cheeses in different ways. Cheddar adapts well to slicing; Swiss cheeses may be cut in cubes or sticks; and the cylindrical colby midget longhorn may be cut to form an attractive, easily-served spiral. Since cheese should usually be served at room temperature for maximum flavor, remove the cheese tray from the refrigerator at least an hour before sampling time, and uncover just before serving.

In planning quantities, remember that the greater variety of cheese and wine you serve, the more you'll need to allow each guest an adequate sampling. For the wines, a tasting portion is about one to two ounces, so estimate 12-15 servings per bottle and at least one-half bottle per person, depending on the number of wines. If you were serving four wines to twelve people, you would probably need two bottles of each.

For the cheeses, estimate between a quarter and a half pound per person — again, the greater the variety of cheeses you offer, the more you'll need. Feel free to be generous — leftover cheese keeps well and can be used in a number of ways.

Light cheese dishes are the perfect way to cup an evening of cheese and wine tasting. Serve a beautiful layered spread of grated cheddar cheese, cranberry-orange relish, whipped cream and cream cheese, with glasses of a light rose or riesling. A California-style fondue made with natural Monterey jack cheese might call for a fruity Gamay Beaujolais. Experiment with new flavor combinations, but most of all — have fun!

MONTEREY FONDUE

- 2 cups (8 ozs.) shredded Casino brand natural monterey jack cheese
 - 2 tablespoons flour
 - 1 cup white wine
 - 1 tablespoon chopped parsley
 - Vegetables for dipping
- Toss cheese with flour. Heat wine in fondue pot or saucepan until bubbles rise to the surface. Do not boil. Add cheese mixture, 1/2 cup at a time. Stir constantly, letting cheese melt completely before adding more. Continue stirring until mixture bubbles lightly. Stir in parsley. Keep fondue bubbling gently while serving. Serve with raw vegetables.

LACY CHEESE DISCS

- Kraft midget longhorn style natural colby cheese
- Cut cheese horizontally into 1/4-inch slices. Turn upright; cut vertically into quarters. Place cheese quarters 2 to 3 inches apart on Teflon-lined cookie sheet. Bake at 350°, 10 minutes. Remove from cookie sheet immediately; drain on absorbent paper.
- Variation: To make curled cheese appetizers, prepare as directed. Remove from cookie sheet by rolling dist. around handle of wooden spoon. Drain on absorbent paper.

LAYERED CRANBERRY CHEDDAR SPREAD

- 1 8-oz. pkg. Philadelphia Brand cream cheese
 - 2 tablespoons sherry
 - 1 cup heavy cream, whipped
 - 1 10-oz. pkg. frozen cranberry-orange relish, thawed
 - 3 cups (12 oz.) shredded Kraft sharp natural cheddar cheese
- Combine softened cream cheese and sherry; fold in whipped cream. Layer relish, cheddar cheese and cream cheese mixture in 1-1/2-quart clear glass container. Garnish with additional cheddar cheese, if desired. Serve with crackers or fruit wedges.

CHEESE OPORTO

- 1 cup (4 ozs.) shredded Kraft sharp natural cheddar cheese
 - 1 cup (4 ozs.) shredded Kraft natural Swiss cheese
 - 2 tablespoons soft Parkay margarine
 - 2 tablespoons port
- Combine all ingredients, mixing until smooth and well blended. Press into 10-ounce custard cup lined with plastic wrap. Chill until firm. Unmold and garnish with chopped nuts, if desired. Serve as a spread for crackers, bread or fruit.
- Approximately 1-1/2 cups

COLBY SPIRAL

1. Cut a 16-ounce midget longhorn style natural colby cheese crosswise into 8 slices.
2. Turn upright and cut vertically into quarters.
3. Serve with party picks.

CHEESE & WINE Sampler

Refunders from miles around swap forms and stories at convention

By MARTIN SLOAN

As conventioners started to arrive at the Schenectady, N.Y., motel on a recent Friday evening, Debbie Escobar admitted that she was terrified. After couponing and refunding for a little more than a year, she was about to host the first Update New York Refunders' Convention.

Last winter Ms. Escobar started a successful coupon club in her hometown of Rotterdam, N.Y. In the spring she got the urge to hold a refunders' convention.

"I guess I was looking for another challenge," she explained. "And I wanted a chance to meet refunders from other cities."

By 8:30 that evening, more than 150 refunders filled the motel's main meeting room. Some had come from 700 miles away. I spoke with Karen Elliot, who started refunding in February and had already paid off her $10-a-week Christmas Club with her cash refunds.

Susan Belemjian reported saving $50 to $70 a month from refunds and another $30 from cash-off coupons. Donna Folanbee estimated her savings at $50 a month.

As the trading session reached a fever pitch, I sat down next to Antoinette Leone. As I looked through the refund forms in her album, she told me about growing up with a refund for a mother.

"She remembers eating corn flakes 'until they came out of my ears.' Then one day a package arrived for her. It was a new camera from Kellogg's.

As I moved around the room, I met Danae Koch and Kathy Dorn, both of whom teach couponing and refunding classes for the adult education programs in their towns.

"Fantastic!" exclaimed Regina Simmons. "This is my first convention, and I can't believe it."

Her husband, Dick, showed me a special box he had made to hold her proof-of-purchase collection.

Things resumed on Saturday morning with a comedy skit that Ms. Escobar had written about the perils of a coupon queen. It was a lot of fun and helped to wake everyone up.

Then I spoke to the conventioners on the future of couponing and refunding.

Yes, I told them, there will be more coupons issued this year despite the 2 cent increase in the handling fee paid to supermarkets. And yes, manufacturers are adjusting to the increase in refund redemptions.

The next speaker was on how to start a coupon club.

During the afternoon trading, Deborah Poland showed me a cash-register tape for $37.91 in groceries; after reducing her coupons, the final total was $15.22.

Anita Kyratzis pointed out her daughter, Tessie, who was trading up a storm.

"She thought I was full of beans," said the proud mother. "Now since she's been married one month, she has turned into a coupon queen!"

At that evening's banquet, 15-year-old Catherine Zinder received a gift for being the youngest refunder at the convention.

Ms. Escobar was smiling with relief as she presented the gift. Everything had gone smoothly; the convention was a great success.

Ham sandwich is an easy wrap-up to make

Sandwich breads can make meal planning an exciting and innovative adventure for teens. It is a practice which may also induce the youngsters to do kitchen duty more often because experimenting with combinations of flavors and textures can be fun!

English muffins are gaining in popularity. Flavored English muffins are being found more and more in most markets, and additions such as the cinnamon-raisin type used in super ham sandwich are another reason for wide approval.

You can steer your teenager into doing more cooking when unusually hectic family activities seem ahead by using this system: Bring out interesting foods and ingredients and the supply of aluminum foil, then tell them they are on their own in this adventure.

As a starter, suggest the Super ham sandwich as a possibility for lunch or supper. It is easy to prepare one serving or a quantity. Refrigerate the foil bundles to heat later as needed. Thus any age cook gets the work done at personal leisure and later serves delicious eating for the most finicky eater!

Venison stew

If you're lucky this fall hunting season, a friend or relative will gift you with a hunk of fresh venison. Or, you might persuade someone to part with a few pounds stored in the freezer.

Venison, the meat of deer, elk, moose, antelope or reindeer, has been used for food for centuries. Some food shops have it fresh during the season and also through special order during the year.

Venison has its own unique flavor, usually more gamey than most of us are accustomed to in our meats. It requires more tenderizing care and traditionally, marinating venison for days is suggested in most recipes. However, you may use a natural meat tenderizer and sidestep the long marinating process.

Cuts of venison are similar to beef and, once tenderized, can be grilled, broiled, roasted or used for stews.

Especially tasty is a venison stew made with deer meat. Serve this with boiled potatoes on the side and a hearty rye bread or beaten biscuits to sop up the gravy.

Fresh cider or a bottle of hearty Burgundy go well with this staple of our ancestors, now a treat in the 80s.

Colonial Style Venison

4 pounds shoulder of venison cut in stewing pieces

2 teaspoons natural meat tenderizer, seasoned or unseasoned

1 teaspoon pepper

Flour

1/2 cup diced salt pork

15 small onions

3 large carrots sliced

3 stalks of celery, sliced

2 cloves

1 cup beef stock or canned beef bouillon

Garnish with parsley

Thoroughly moisten all sides of meat with water, using fingers or a brush. Sprinkle with natural meat tenderizer, coating meat well on all surfaces. Use no salt. Pierce deeply with fork at about 1/2-inch intervals. Sprinkle with pepper and dust lightly with flour.

Meanwhile, saute diced salt pork in Dutch oven or heavy pot. Add meat and brown over low heat, turning pieces so they brown evenly. Add remaining ingredients, cover and simmer until done, about 1 hour and 15 minutes. Test for doneness.

Thicken gravy, if desired, by rolling small balls of butter or margarine in flour and stirring into gravy. More stock or bouillon may be added if desired. Remove cloves before serving or storing. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 6 servings.

Bread flour is secret for making Cuban bread

Visitors to Southern Florida who develop a taste for Cuban sandwiches made with big sections of yard-long Cuban bread are disappointed when they discover that this distinctive Italian-style bread is not available in other parts of the country.

A Tampa bakery famous for the bread has published a recipe. But since it starts with ice cold water and calls for most palm leaves to make the distinctive crack along the top of the bread, only the most intrepid home baker is likely to try to reproduce it.

A home economist decided it should be possible to develop a loaf that had the good flavor and chewy texture of Cuban bread by using Pillsbury's high protein bread flour, which is similar to flour available for commercial bakers.

As a stroke of serendipity, this adaptation of a James Beard recipe not only has the eating qualities of Cuban bread, but it is much quicker to make than most kneaded yeast breads. Using double the yeast cuts total proofing time for this two-rise bread in only 1 1/2 hours. The loaf goes into a cold oven.

where they complete the second rising as they bake at 400° F.

Despite this high level of yeast, the bread has an excellent flavor that comes from high protein flour, not a "yeasty" taste.

This version is baked in two round loaves, since home ovens are not designed for the 36-inch bakery bread. An "X" slashed on the top with a sharp knife is a less colorful way than using a palm leaf to produce the crack in the top, but it works as well. If you prefer, you could shape the dough into two 12-inch oblongs and cut a lengthwise slash instead.

The hearty Cuban sandwiches that are so popular in Florida use a 7 to 12-inch chunk of the yard-long loaf. Slices cut from your big loaf will taste just as good. Serving it at a dinner is also an economical way to add substance and the nutrition of complex carbohydrates to highlight the meal.

The bread will stay fresh in a plastic bag for several days, and freezes well. Let it sit in a plastic bag for several days, and freezes well. Let it sit in a plastic bag for several days, and freezes well.

Rice and apple stuffed pheasant

Game bird farms and restocking of pheasants in rural areas make this succulent bird more available than ever.

Many specialty meat shops carry this game bird year round, fresh or frozen, and it comes canned, too.

Yet, it's really a treat when someone in the family brings home the bird from a successful shoot in the neighboring fields.

There are many ways to prepare pheasant, but it is delicious when baked. Pheasant makes a rich entrée and with a mixture of long grain-wild rice, pecans and apples and taste with apple cider and butter.

Serve with acorn squash puree, fresh green beans, onion-orange salad and apricot pie.

Pheasant with Wild Rice and Apple Stuffing
 1 pheasant (2 1/2 to 3 pounds)
 1/2 cup chopped onion
 1/4 cup chopped apples
 1/2 cup chopped pecans
 1/2 teaspoon thyme
 1/2 teaspoon salt
 1/2 teaspoon pepper
 1 pheasant (2 1/2 to 3 pounds)

 1 cinnamon stick (3-inches long)
 1/4 teaspoon cardamom seeds

In saucepan, combine apricots and water. Bring to boil. Reduce heat and simmer 15 minutes. Cool. In 2 quart square-top container, combine fruit, sugar, rum, brandy, cinnamon and cardamom. Cover tightly and shake well. Let stand, covered, at room temperature for 2 weeks. Shake jar once daily to dissolve sugar. Strain into decanter. Serve after dinner in cordial glasses. Makes about 3 cups liqueur.

HOLIDAY STUFFED PORK CHOPS

Nutritious casserole makes favorite fish go far

In these days of increasing prices, few protein foods match fish for real value. Filets cut from favorite species such as red, sole, haddock or Greenland turbot provide lean, high quality protein with almost no waste. You get food value from every pound you buy. Those who are counting calories or watching cholesterol intake can count on seafood for delicious meals that are low in both.

If your repertoire of seafood preparations is limited to plain broiled or sautéed filets, start thinking of fish for salads, casseroles or chowders. One pound of fresh or frozen fish filets can be "stretched" to serve four or more very handsomely.

You might begin with this hearty one dish meal - Fillets Paprika. A rich noodles mixture topped with buttery browned fish and tomatoes will give fish a whole new image at your house. Since October is Fish and Seafood Month, you'll find good buys on many kinds of fresh and frozen seafoods and suggestions for new ways to serve them. Begin now to count on seafood when you're shopping for good food values.

Get the best wear from vinyl flooring

"I followed the directions. What went wrong?"

Many people will deny themselves all stretch their budget dollars by installing their own vinyl flooring. Only to find, a few months later, that it has become loose, or buckled, or is showing signs of wear. It is quite possible that the problem is not due to faulty installation, or to the vinyl flooring. The problem is due to what is under your new flooring.

Whether it is sheet vinyl or tile, all vinyl flooring is not suitable for all rooms. Here are a few pitfalls to avoid:

- 1) Laying new flooring directly over cement that holds minimum or alkaline salts. This condition is often found in basements. Some cement can be sealed. Check first.
- 2) Laying new flooring over existing vinyl flooring. If your present vinyl floor has a foam backing, it is deeply embossed, it will probably have to be taken up.
- 3) Cement that has not been smoothed. At first the new flooring will look beautiful. When it settles the surface will show the roughness of the cement beneath.
- 4) New flooring laid on uneven. Whenever the finish, it is not impervious to nicks, scuffing, and dents caused by heavy furniture or appliances.
- 5) Hard as the surface looks, even "no wax" floor coverings show wear and lose their luster. Washing with a detergent will not restore that shine.

Vinyl floor finishes range from very high luster to soft sheen. Whatever the finish, it is not impervious to nicks, scuffing, and dents caused by heavy furniture or appliances.

Hard as the surface looks, even "no wax" floor coverings show wear and lose their luster. Washing with a detergent will not restore that shine.

However, one product that solves this problem easily is Mop & Glo®.

It cleans and restores that shine in one easy step. Yes, it is possible to get a floor clean and to show it all at the same time! Take care with what goes under new flooring, and little care will be needed on the surface.

Cranberries - a culinary tradition

PLYMOUTH, Mass. (UPI) - Myth has it the Pilgrims served cranberries at America's first Thanksgiving 350 years ago.

But that's probably not true, according to the rather scant historical record now available.

The tart little berries, one of North America's first native fruits, for years have been part of culinary tradition, whether served in a wide variety of juices or as sauces, jellies and relishes. However, the best available evidence indicates they were consumed by the first generation of Pilgrims, but not at the first Thanksgiving banquet.

Cranberry products are now more popular than ever - a fact reflected in this year's harvest which could bring in one of the largest crops in history if it rains enough to make the picking easy.

But this year's shortage of rain threatens to reduce this year's harvest in Massachusetts by 10 to 20 percent, an industry spokesman said late last week.

Such a reduction would mean sales losses ranging from $2 million to $8 million, said Herbert Colcord, spokesman for Ocean Spray Cranberries Inc., the world's largest processor of cranberries.

Colcord also said an inadequate water supply could damage the cranberry vines and hinder the development of next year's crop.

Massachusetts produces about 40 percent of annual nationwide sales of $235 million. Before the drought this year's Massachusetts harvest was projected at 1.68 million barrels - the same as the 1979 harvest, the second highest on record.

But even with bumper crops there has been a shortage of cranberries in the past two years, Colcord said.

"We need a few inches of rain over a good period of time," he said. "And if we don't get any this fall there could be frost damage to the crop."

An adequate water supply is important to cranberries because it makes flood harvesting possible and also serves to cover vines during the winter for the prevention of frost damage. By flooding the bogs in winter, a layer of ice is formed

Visitors to Southern Florida who dining as they bake a taste for Cuban sandwiches made with big sections of yeast-long Cuban bread are disappointed when they discover that this distinctive Italian-style bread is not available in other parts of the country.

A Tampa bakery famous for the bread has published a recipe. But since it starts with ice cold water and calls for most palm leaves to make the distinctive crack along the top of the bread, only the most intrepid home baker is likely to try to reproduce it.

A home economist decided it should be possible to develop a loaf that had the good flavor and chewy texture of Cuban bread by using Pillsbury's high protein bread flour, which is similar to flour available for commercial bakers.

As a stroke of serendipity, this adaptation of a James Beard recipe not only has the eating qualities of Cuban bread, but it is much quicker to make than most kneaded yeast breads. Using double the yeast cuts total proofing time for this two-rise bread to 30 minutes. The loaves go into a cold oven.

where they complete the second rising as they bake at 400 F.

Despite this high level of yeast, the bread has an excellent flavor that comes from high protein flour, not a "yeasty" taste.

This version is baked in two round loaves, since home ovens are not designed for the 36-inch high Cuban bread. An "X" slash on the top with a sharp knife is a less colorful way than using a palm leaf to produce the crack in the top, but it works as well. If you prefer, you could shape the dough into two 12-inch oblongs and cut a lengthwise slash instead.

The hearty Cuban sandwiches that are so popular in Florida use a 7 1/2 inch chunk of the yeast-long loaf. Slices cut from your big loaf will taste just as good. Serving it at a dinner is also an economical way to add substance and the nutrition of complex carbohydrates to highlight the meal.

The bread will stay fresh in a plastic bag for several days, and freezes well. Let-toppers make exceptionally good toast.

Being able to make such a good loaf of kneaded bread in only 1 1/2 hours inspired by the Pillsbury home economist to develop two non-traditional variations, raisin and cheese Cuban bread.

Cuban Bread
4 1/2 cups Pillsbury's Best Bread Flour
2 tablespoons sugar
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
4 pkg. active dry yeast
2 cups water
Sesame seed, if desired
Grease cookie sheet.
Lightly spoon flour into measuring cup; level off.
In large bowl, combine 2 cups flour, sugar, salt and yeast; blend well. In small saucepan, heat water until very warm (120 F.). Add warm water to flour mixture. Blend at low speed until moistened; beat 1 minute at medium speed. By hand, stir in 1 1/2 cups flour, a half cup at a time. On floured surface, knead in 1 to 2 cups flour into dough until dough is smooth and elastic with blisters under the surface, about 10 minutes. Place dough in greased bowl; cover loosely with plastic wrap and cloth towel. Let rise in warm place until light and doubled in size, about 1 1/2 hours.

Punch down dough several times to remove air bubbles. Divide dough into 2 parts. Allow to rest on counter, covered with inverted bowl for 15 minutes. Knead each piece for 20 seconds; shape into round loaves. Place on prepared cookie sheet. With sharp knife, slash an "X" on the top of each loaf. Brush loaves with water and sprinkle with sesame seed, if desired.

Place loaves in cold oven and set oven to 400 F. Place pan of hot water on shelf below. Bake at 400 F. for 40 to 50 minutes or until loaves sound hollow when lightly tapped. Remove from cookie sheets immediately; cool on racks. 2 loaves.

TIPS: For Cheese Bread, reduce salt to 1 teaspoon. Heat 8-oz. (2 cups) shredded cheddar cheese with water. Cheese does not need to melt completely. Prepare as directed. Do not slash loaves. If desired, brush top of loaves with 1 tablespoon melted butter.

For Raisin Bread, reduce salt to 1 teaspoon. Add 1 cup raisins to dough after beating. Prepare as directed. Do not slash loaves. Sprinkle the top of loaves with 1 tablespoon sugar and 1/4 teaspoon cinnamon.

Rice and apple stuffed pheasant

Game bird farms and retail stocks of pheasants in rustic areas make this succulent bird more available than ever.

Many specialty meat shops carry this game bird year round, fresh or frozen, and it comes canned, too.

Yet, it's really a treat when someone in the family brings home the bird from a successful shoot in the neighboring fields.

There are many ways to prepare pheasant, but it is delicious when baked. Pheasant makes a centerpiece. Stuff with a mixture of long grain-wild rice, pecans and apples and bake with apple cider and butter.

4 slices fatty bacon
3 tablespoons butter, melted
Prepare rice according to package directions, substituting apple cider for half the water. Set aside.
In medium fry pan, cook bacon slice fat; oil is rendered (melted down). Add onions and saute until transparent. Stir in apples, pecans and seasonings; cook for 2 minutes. Combine apple mixture and rice; set aside.

Remove any remaining pin feathers from the bird. Rinse and pat dry inside and out with paper towels. Stuff cavity loosely with rice stuffing mixture. Close the cavity with trussing skewers or pins.

Legs together and tuck the wings under the body. Cover the breast and legs of the bird with bacon. Place bird in shallow, open pan; roast at 350 degrees, 25 minutes per pound or until internal temperature on meat thermometer is 180 degrees. Place remaining stuffing in a greased covered casserole and bake in oven for last hour of cooking. Bake bird every 20 minutes with melted butter. Remove bacon last 30 minutes of cooking time to allow pheasant to brown.

Many specialty meat shops carry pheasant year round, fresh, frozen or canned. Surprise the family with a delicious Pheasant with Wild Rice and Apple Stuffing.

1 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
Cut squash in half and remove seeds. Place cut side down on baking sheet. Bake at 350 degrees for 45-50 minutes, or until tender. Scoop out pulp. Place pulp and remaining ingredients in blender or food processor. Blend until mixture is smooth. Reheat if necessary in double boiler. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 4 servings.

Fillets Paprika
1 pound white-fleshed fish fillets, fresh or frozen
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 tablespoon melted butter or margarine
2 medium tomatoes, cut into 6 slices
Salt and pepper
4 ounces medium egg noodles, uncooked about 4 cups brush half of the mixture over fillets. Cook noodles as directed on package and drain. Combine sour cream and paprika and toss with noodles. Keep mixture warm. Broil fillets 3 to 4 inches from source of heat for 5 to 7 minutes. Turn fillets carefully and brush with rest of butter mixture. Place tomato slices on rack with fillets. Broil until tomato is hot and fillets flake easily when tested with a fork.

To serve, arrange tomato slices topped with fillet rolls on noodles in a warm casserole dish. Garnish with more paprika and parsley. Makes 4 servings.

Get the best wear from vinyl flooring
I followed the directions. What went wrong?
Many people who do-it-yourself skill stretch their budget dollars by installing their own vinyl floor covering only to find a few months later, that it has become loose, or buckled, or is showing signs of wear. It is quite possible that the problem is under your feet in installation, or to the vinyl floor covering. The problem is due to what is under your feet.

1) Whether it is sheet vinyl or tiles, all vinyl flooring is not suitable for all rooms. Here are a few pitfalls to avoid:
1) Laying new flooring directly over cement that holds moisture or alkaline salts. This condition is often found in basements. Some cement can be sealed. Check first.
2) Laying new flooring over existing vinyl flooring if your present vinyl floor has a foam backing, or is deeply embossed, it will probably have to be taken up.
3) Cement that has not been smoothed. At first the new flooring will look beautiful. When it settles the surface will show the roughness of the cement beneath.
4) New flooring laid on surface that are not completely leveled of wax and dirt.
5) New flooring laid while the room is too cold. Most manufacturers caution against a room that drops below 65°F during installation.
6) Selecting the wrong vinyl surface for your lifestyle.

Even Floors with a "No-Wax" Finish show signs of wear and lose their luster after a while. Using only about half the normal amount of Map & Glo that you would use on regular vinyl flooring will maintain that original luster.

However, one product that solves this problem easily is Map & Glo.
It cleans and restores that shine in one easy step. Yes, it is possible to get a floor clean and to shine it all at the same time! Take care with what goes under new flooring, and little care will be needed on its surface.

Cranberries - a culinary tradition

PLYMOUTH, Mass. (UPI) — Myth has it the Pilgrims served cranberries at America's first Thanksgiving 350 years ago.

But that's probably not true, according to the rather scant historical record now available.

The tart little berries, one of North America's first native fruits, for years have been part of culinary tradition, whether served in a wide variety of juices or as sauces, jellies and relishes. However, the best available evidence indicates they were consumed by the first generation of Pilgrims, but not at the first Thanksgiving.

Cranberry products are now more popular than ever — a fact reflected in the fact that cranberry could bring in one of the largest crops in history if it rains enough to make the picking easy.

But this year's shortage of rain threatens to reduce this year's harvest in Massachusetts by 10 to 20 percent, an industry spokesman said late last week.

Such a reduction would mean sales losses ranging from $2 million to $8 million, said Herbert Colcord, spokesman for Ocean Spray Cranberries Inc., the world's largest processor of cranberries.

Colcord also said an inadequate water supply could damage the cranberry vines and hinder the development of next year's crop.

Massachusetts produces about 40 percent of annual nationwide sales of $235 million. Before the drought this year's Massachusetts harvest was projected at 1.08 million barrels — the same as the 1979 harvest, the second highest on record.

But even with bumper crops there has been a shortage of cranberries in the past two years, Colcord said.

"We need a few inches of rain over a good period of time," he said. "And if we don't get any this fall there could be frost damage to the rest of the crop."

An adequate water supply is important to cranberries because it makes food harvesting possible and also serves to cool vines during the winter for the prevention of frost damage.

Cranberries, which are grown only in North America, have come a long way since the time when Indians ate them raw or mixed them with smoked meat in a product known as pemmican.

Pemmican was a vital source of vitamin C and protein to native Americans.

It was not until the 18th century when sugar began to be imported from the West Indies that cranberries came into widespread acceptance as a food product. Sugar was needed to make the sauces and jellies enjoyed by many Americans.

A truly incident marks the first written reference to cranberries. In 1651, an inquest recorded for posterity found that 8-year-old John Stocume, a resident of Plymouth, as it was known then, died while trying to find his way back to the village from a cranberry picking expedition.

James Baker, a researcher at the Plymouth Plantation historical site, said the 329-year-old document showed the remains of the boy were found months after he disappeared and that, according to the inquest, he had been eaten by wolves.

Kate's caravan

Miss Kate Smith, 71, made a rare public appearance Tuesday as she walked to her sister's front porch in Raleigh, North Carolina. She came out to see "Kate's first public glimpse of the star in many years. Caravan" a huge billboard and several bags of mail delivered to her by Philadelphia fans.

Let's Hear From YOU

Your opinion is important to the Evening Herald and to the readers of the Herald's Opinion page.

Our editorials express the opinions of the newspaper. But we want our readers to hear from those who may disagree with our stand or who have an issue of broad community interest to write about.

The Herald's opinion page provides readers with divergent views on many issues.

We have our say in the editorial. You can have your say in the letters column.

Every letter must be signed in ink and bear the writer's address. Phone number must be included, which will not be published. The phone number is for verification only.

We want original letters, those not duplicated or copied from other sources. Letters must address issues of public interest and not be personally libelous or in poor taste.

We reserve the right to edit for length, libel and material offensive to the community.

Otherwise, letters are open to your ideas.

You may use the form below to write us a letter, or even better, type it (two pages please) and send it to us The Manchester Evening Herald, 16 Brainerd Place, Manchester, Conn. 06040.

News for Senior Citizens

Manager is coming

Hi! Don't forget we have an important date tomorrow afternoon, right here, at the Center. Our General Manager, Robert Weiss, will be meeting with us to discuss some of the many misunderstandings that have been cropping up lately concerning our center.

So please, try to plan to attend as I'm sure you'll get a clearer picture that should hopefully satisfy your concerns. Why not plan on coming for lunch as we'll be serving delicious chicken breasts with all the trimmings.

Because we do expect a large turnout we will start serving lunch at 11:30 a.m. and hope we can start the meeting right at 1 p.m.

Also on hand will be newly appointed Human Services Director, Hanna Marcus, to say a few words to set of clue you in to her role in the progress of Human Services.

Our bus will make the complete route starting at 10 a.m. and will include the Arthur Drug stop near its regular time.

This week will be a busy one because tomorrow evening is when we will hold our annual golf banquet at the Army and Navy Club. Action will start at 6 p.m., Happy Hour, followed by a delicious roast beef dinner at 7 p.m.

A reminder that we are planning to take a bus to West Hartford for a free placema test on Thursday afternoon, Oct. 23. We still have a few seats left so if you're interested stop by our office and fill out a form as you sign up.

Another reminder is about our flu shots which are scheduled here at the Center on Friday, Nov. 7 from 9 to 11 a.m. With the cold weather headed our way it's a super idea to get the flu shot.

Word has it that our good friend Josephine Tomkisi is now a patient in the Manchester hospital after being transferred from the Atlantic City Hospital. From all reports she is resting comfortably.

Our hard-working Joe D. along with Howie Miller, Gino Erico, Walt Klein and Joe Karvellis is planning to receive our super good friends Roger and Marcie Negro that it's getting time for this year's Variety Show. The theme will be "Another Opening."

Another Show First tryouts will be held on Sunday afternoon, Nov. 16 and again on Jan. 11 and Jan. 18.

Now I have noticed a lot of talent around the center lately and ask that you plan on joining us this year as we are in need of many new faces.

At the first meeting all the songs that will be in the show will be passed out so that everyone can have a chance to pick out one or two they may wish to try out for. The music will be geared to Cole Porter songs.

The only happening to talk about is last Friday afternoon's setback games and the winners were: Helen Gavello, 140; Ann Fisher, 129; Mary O'Brien, 127; Martin Backstarr, 123; John Galley, 122; Clara Hemmingway, 121; Mabel Loomis, 120; Ed Hindle, 119; Archie Hemmingway, 118; Helen Silver, 116; and Sam Schor, 115.

The Holiday Fair is just three short weeks away (Nov. 8) and we need many items. Start bringing them in now so we can start sorting them out and mark them.

Helen Flavell will be in charge of the food table so she hopes a lot of nice baked goods will come in. Ernie Irwin has consented to do the publicity again for us.

Vickie Konarski and Annie Rohan will be heading up the Hand Goods table. More on other committees later.

Also we need an alphan for a raffie so please call me, Gloria, if you are going to donate one.

That's it for today and I'm looking forward to seeing you tomorrow at our special meeting.
