

Polish purge returns chief

WARSAW, Poland (UPI) — In a massive purge of the ruling Politburo, Poland's Communist Party ousted the last four prominent supporters of disgraced former leader Edward Giersek and brought back to power the nation's former police chief with a reputation for ruthlessness.

In a further humiliation in the long forecast purge that took place amid reports of heightened Soviet military pressure on the borders, Giersek was ousted from the Central Committee, depriving him of his last power base in the party.

Observers said the purge strengthened the hand of Communist Party leader Stanislaw Kania, who replaced Giersek on Sept. 6 after the settlement of the mass August strike, which allowed the formation of labor unions independent of the Communist Party.

Kania, who has been labeled a reformist, has urged the new independent unions to be cautious but has promised to try to co-exist with them.

But the chief personal beneficiary of the purge, the fourth since the August labor strike, appeared to be former Interior Minister Mieczyslaw Moczar, who was elevated to the Politburo from which he was dropped in 1971 on the initiative of Giersek.

As interior minister, Moczar instigated the massive "anti-Zionist" purges of the late 1960s that led 30,000 Jews to emigrate from the country and cost thousands of Jews their position in public life.

In recent weeks, however, he has tempered his hard-line image in an apparent attempt to emerge as a central figure and praised the new unions and mentioned the suffering of the Jews during World War II.

Statistically, the Tuesday purge ousted four full Politburo members, replacing them with two, thus lowering the membership of the policy-making body from 12 to 10.

Deputy Premier Tadeusz Grabski, who like Moczar was ousted from the Politburo by Giersek in 1978, was promoted back to the top body in the nation.

For the two, the promotions culminated their rise back to power that began when Kania took over.

The ousted Politburo members, all supporters of Giersek, were Wladyslaw Kruczek, a former official labor union boss; Stanislaw Kowalczyk, an official Giersek brought in from his own native Silesia; Andrzej Werblan, an "old-fashioned" party ideologist; and Alojzy Karkosska, first party secretary in Gdansk during the riots of December 1970 when dozens of workers were killed.

Also dropped were two deputy central committee members, Giersek's former building minister, Adam Glazur, and former coal mining minister, Wlodzimir Lejczak.

The Central Committee also decided to investigate former Prime Minister Piotr Jaroszewicz, ousted last February, for abuse of power and other offenses.

Two new deputy Politburo members were named, and they reflected Kania's grasp of power — Tadeusz Fiszbach, former party secretary in Gdansk, and Roman Ney, who was elevated from the party secretariat.

U.S. adds to proposal on hostages

ALGIERS, Algeria (UPI) — The United States offered additional clarifications today to its latest proposals for freeing the 52 hostages, with hints Iran should accept them because President-elect Reagan might offer tougher terms.

Deputy Secretary of State Warren Christopher delivered the latest proposals to Algerian Foreign Minister Mohammed Beyahia Monday during a meeting at the Foreign Ministry. Diplomats said the Algerians, Iran's intermediaries, may deliver it to Tehran as early as Thursday.

The U.S. and Algerian officials decided to hold another closed working session today in order to insure the maximum chances of achieving a compromise for the release of the captives, diplomatic sources said.

Algerian sources said the meeting was called "so that Algerian diplomats, serving as go-betweens, will fully absorb official thinking of the U.S. administration" to present to the Tehran government.

Christopher was expected to decide later today whether to stay longer in Algiers or return to Washington aboard his special Air Force jet, the sources said, explaining he would presumably stay only if he had reason to believe an Iranian answer to the American clarifications would be returned swiftly.

The document delivered Tuesday contained the clarifications Iran requested after receiving the first formal U.S. reply to its four demands for freeing the American hostages held captive for 395 days.

Diplomats familiar with the contents of the document said it did not contain the clear yes-or-no answers sought by Iran.

The sources said the document tried again to explain to the Iranians that the United States was prohibited by its own laws from meeting all of the Iranian demands to the letter.

Woman faces arson charge

GLASTONBURY — A local woman was charged Tuesday with first-degree arson and third-degree burglary after a six-month investigation into a June 8 fire which destroyed the Board of Education building on Williams Street.

Eleanor Reich of 346 Cedar Ridge Drive was presented in Manchester Superior Court and released after she posted a $5,000 cash bond — or 10 percent of the $50,000 bond ordered by Judge William Graham. The case was transferred yesterday to Hartford Superior court where Reich will appear Dec. 16.

In the fire, the Board of Education building was gutted. Fire officials said today the $275,000 in structural damage is a figure which changes daily. The fire also caused about $75,000 damage to the building's contents.

Four firemen were injured fighting the fire, which burned for about four hours on the morning of June 8. One fireman sustained minor injuries when the floor he was standing on collapsed. Three other firefighters suffered heavy smoke inhalation and were taken to a local hospital for treatment, officials said today.

Glastonbury police were assisted in their investigation by the Arson Investigation Unit of the State Attorney's office.

After the fire, school staff members were relocated into offices in several buildings around town.

Water source mystery but pollution identified

By MARTIN KEARNS
Herald Reporter

MANCHESTER — The water that runs into Hop Brook from a culvert located just south of Hartford Road adjacent to Propect Street, is a mystery. But the pollution it causes has been identified.

Town officials don't know exactly where the water comes from. Although they have received a number of complaints in the last couple of years, they have been unable to identify the source of the pollution.

Jay Giles, town director of public works, said Tuesday the culvert appears to be a storm drain servicing the Pine Street area. But there is dumping "somewhere along the line," Giles said.

Town records make no mention of the culvert and are of little help to officials. "It could have been built 150 years ago," Giles said.

John Salcius, town sanitarian, said he's not sure where the water comes from. "There's no record of exactly where it begins. It's a mystery," Salcius said.

Salcius said the town Health Department has "had problems in the past" with pollution from the culvert. There have been instances of water discoloration, oil pollution and a "milk-like fluid" which Giles said he spotted about two years ago.

And there have been fish kills. Salcius said something gets into the water periodically and kills the fish in Hop Brook. In one instance it was copper. The fish population is eventually restored, Salcius said, as fish from above the culvert repopulate the waters.

But Joseph J. Hasch, who has worked alongside the brook for 20 years, said today the fish are gone. "You can't even find a frog in there," Hasch said.

Hasch owns Carbon Products which is located along Hop Brook at 218 Hartford Road. Only two years ago he said he could fish through a back window which hangs over the brook. At one time trout, perch and eel lived in its waters, Hasch said.

Hasch has been a watchdog of sorts, notifying the town Health Department when abuses are sighted. "Some days you can't even see the bottom, some days you can," he said.

"You have to find a source or a way to clean the stuff," Hasch said. He's complained so many times, "I'm sick of it," Hasch said.

The town Health Department says the water in Hop Brook is not a health problem. For this reason, the pollution is a case for the state Department of Environmental Protection, which handles surface problems in state waters.

Salcius said DEP has been notified a number of times, but when the investigator arrives the problem is usually cleared up.

The town once tried to trace the water, which appears to originate in the former Cheney Mills complex, Salcius said. But, to get to the source, Salcius said special equipment and breathing apparatus would be necessary.

Another war

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Steve Bosshard and Luther Brock were Marine Corps buddies and served together in Vietnam, but back home they found themselves on different sides in another war.

Bosshard became a narcotics officer and Brock became a junkie. Their latest meeting was over the barrel of a gun.

Brock, 33, surrendered to Bosshard and was charged with being responsible for the drug overdose death of his girlfriend, Iris Southall.

"Luther started out as a together dude," said Bosshard, 34, who had contacted Brock and asked him in vain to surrender on his own. He said they met in line at the Oakland Induction Center 18 years ago, joined up, went to basic training together and shipped out together for Vietnam.

"Luther was one of the few guys to make private first class out of basic," and was "always on top of it," said Bosshard.

That is, the officer added, until they met in a Vietnam village called "Dogpatch," after having not seen each other for two years.

"It was the first time I'd ever seen anyone on heroin," Bosshard said. "Luther didn't have it together anymore."

Bosshard ran into Brock again in 1971 when he stopped him for driving what he thought was a stolen car. It wasn't and Bosshard let him go after a brief chat.

Six months later, Bosshard saw Brock among a number of other suspects being booked into City Prison after a narcotics arrest.

"Luther had gone to hell," Bosshard said. "He was getting involved in armed robberies, dope dealing, you name it. It was the dope. The man had been a together dude and the heroin did him in."

Brock was arrested twice for murder. In one case the charges were dropped but in 1974 he pleaded guilty to manslaughter and was sentenced to four years in prison.

Bosshard said he met Brock after he was released and Brock said he started a shipping company in Long Beach and was staying away from drugs.

"I wished him good luck," Bosshard said.

However, Brock was recently arrested in another narcotics raid along with Miss Southall, who appeared ill and was sent to a hospital. Brock visited her in the hospital and she died of a drug overdose, police said. Brock was suspected of complicity.

Bosshard was able to get in touch with Brock in Long Beach and told him over the phone to give himself up.

Brock did not surrender, but police eventually tracked him to a residence in San Jose. Two officers entered the front door and Brock went out a second-story window in the back.

Brock landed on his feet and found himself looking at Bosshard.

Leaks starting about Cabinet

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Ronald Reagan is not ready to reveal his top Cabinet choices, but widespread reports indicate he has pegged Caspar Weinberger as secretary of defense and possibly Gen. Alexander Haig as secretary of state.

"The leaks are starting," said Joe Holmes, Reagan's spokesman on the West Coast. "We will not confirm or deny any of the reported choices until we are ready to announce the selections at the end of the week or early next week."

The New York Daily News quoted Republican sources as saying Reagan has picked Walter Wriston, chairman of New York's Citicorp, to be secretary of treasury.

Weinberger, former HEW secretary and Reagan's longtime trusted ally, has been mentioned in all the speculation as Reagan's choice to head the defense department.

Weinberger, general counsel of the Bechtel Corp. of San Francisco, flew to England Tuesday and will be back in Washington at the end of the week.

Haig, former White House chief of staff and NATO supreme commander, has figured prominently in the speculation as secretary of state. Reagan's campaign manager, William Casey, also has been widely reported to be the next CIA director, succeeding Adm. Stansfield Turner.

Others who may win spots in the Reagan Cabinet are former Wyoming Sen. Clifford Hansen as secretary of interior, William Brock, chairman of the Republican National Committee, as commerce secretary; Betty Southard Murphy, former National Labor Relations Board chairwoman as secretary of labor, and UCLA professor Thomas Sowell, a black, as housing secretary.

While the names are being tossed around in anticipation of Reagan's new administration, the president-elect is keeping a low profile and not tipping his hand. No one expects the Cabinet to be announced until Reagan's top adviser Edwin Meese arrives in Los Angeles this weekend.

Holmes said announcements will be made at a news conference and those appointed will be present.

Reagan remained in seclusion most of Tuesday, making telephone calls and trying to catch up on his correspondence. He does not have any appointments scheduled for today.

Tuesday and Wednesday evenings, he and wife Nancy were the guests of honor at dinner parties hosted by their close, inner-circle friends in California.

Monday, Reagan plans to fly to New York and meet with Wriston and other members of New York political and financial circles. He also will be seeing his son Ronald, a ballet dancer, and his new daughter-in-law, Doria.

The Reagans will spend two days in New York and will go to Washington Wednesday, remaining there until Saturday when they will fly back to California for the Christmas holidays.

No offers, Haig says

WEST HARTFORD (UPI) — Alexander Haig, reportedly high on Ronald Reagan's list for a major Cabinet position, said today he hasn't received any offers from the president-elect.

"CBS and the New York Daily News have reported Haig is a leading choice for secretary of state. The former NATO supreme commander has also been mentioned as a secretary of defense contender."

"I have had no discussion at this time with Mr. Reagan" on a Cabinet position, Haig said after addressing students at the private Kingwood-Oxford School.

He said he had "no idea when or whether" Reagan would make him an offer.

Haig, who served as White House chief of staff in the Nixon administration, said an offer to serve as secretary of state would be attractive but declined to say if he would accept.

Haig is president of United Technologies Inc., a major high technology conglomerate headquartered in Hartford.

"I'll cross any bridges that come when I get to them," he said. But Haig added that he "could not conceive of anyone being made such an offer without giving it some considerable thought."

Haig joined UTC as president and chief operating officer Dec. 27, 1979, shortly after giving up thoughts of running for president in this year's election.

He said he was "very happy here" in his present job running the company which deals extensively with defense contracts.

Haig said he hadn't discussed any possible departure with company Chairman Harry Gray, but both were aware of speculation.

Baby-snatching racket

NAPLES, Italy (UPI) — Small children and infants, some of them orphans, are being snatched from the earthquake-stricken region of southern Italy by childless parents and maybe even by racketeers, press reports said today.

The reports surfaced as the military relief headquarters in Naples announced a slightly updated official toll for the quake, putting it at 2,960 identified dead, 1,574 missing and 7,418 injured.

Authorities also said that 33 Mafia members were arrested trafficking in stolen relief supplies in the earthquake-cavaged mountain villages of southern Italy.

Press reports spoke of well-dressed couples in big automobiles, posing as voluntary helpers and driving away with small children and babies, some of them orphaned by the devastating Nov. 23 earthquake.

ZIP approval held up

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Postal Board of Governors is withholding its final approval of a controversial plan to expand ZIP codes to nine digits, presumably to allow the Reagan administration to review the proposal. The board Tuesday withheld its final approval of the plan, on the recommendation of Postmaster General William Bolger, but approved spending $116 million for the first phase of the expansion, scheduled to take effect next year.

The $116 million will be used to buy 232 optical character readers and 460 bar code readers, automated equipment that would be deployed through 1983 to mail can be sorted by computer to individual city blocks.

Mao's widow denies charge

PEKING (UPI) — Mao Tse-tung's widow today denied in court one of the most serious charges against her — that she should be death former head of state Liu Shaoqi, the most prominent victim of the Cultural Revolution.

An official report said Jiang Qing "argued cunningly and denied" charges against her.

Jiang appeared in court looking proud and immaculate in a dress in a dark tunic. She gesticulated emphatically at times in replying to prosecutor's questions. She also complained that she could not hear some of the testimony

Baker majority leader

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Howard Baker of Tennessee, the first Republican majority leader of the Senate in 25 years, promised cooperation with President-elect Ronald Reagan and his administration.

Baker signaled the start of a new era Tuesday immediately after Republicans elected him majority leader, effective when the 97th Congress convenes Jan. 5 and the GOP takes control of the Senate.

Novelist commits suicide

PARIS (UPI) — Romain Gary, 66, French novelist and diplomat, shot himself to death 15 months after the bizarre suicide of his former wife, American actress Jean Seberg.

Police called Gary's death Tuesday night a suicide and said the multi-faceted Lithuanian-born writer left a note, but the contents of his final message were not disclosed.

Double blast hurts five

LONDON (UPI) — A double bomb blast injured five people outside an army barracks in what Scotland Yard anti-terrorist specialists fear may be a grim prelude to a violent Christmas offensive in Britain by the IRA.

The explosions Tuesday coincided with a mounting propaganda drive by the Irish Republican Army to publicize a 5-week-old hunger strike "until death" by seven IRA prisoners in Northern Ireland.

In-law trouble

Philippe Junot blames the breakup of his two-year marriage to Princess Caroline of Monaco on his in-laws. He claims Prince Rainier and Princess Grace couldn't bear to see their little girl unhappy — not even with the normal ups and downs of married life.

"There were problems with her parents," Junot, 40, told the magazine, "Woman's Own." "If they ever saw Caroline unhappy everything got exaggerated."

He said he wanted time to work out problems with 23-year-old Caroline. "But then her parents interfered and the press and the whole thing became impossible."

Those pictures of him with a series of beautiful other women? "Nothing to it, he said. He just likes to be around people, while Caroline doesn't."

Computer caper

Heran Ciffin, 17, and his buddy, who was only 16 at the time, took a high-school computer course in the Chicago suburb of Palatine.

They learned enough to shut down the entire computer system at DePaul University, simply by dialing the computer on a telephone.

As a result, computer courses were interrupted, research data could not be retrieved, and accounting procedures were messed up.

Why did they pull the raper, which school officials said cost $22,252 to fix?

"Because it was something to do," Douglas Ellis of the Police Department's financial investigations unit said. "He said the kids spent a year working on the project."

The question worrying officials now: "What was to stop them from getting into the First National Bank and beyond?"

Among the no-shows was Richard M. Nixon, who bought a table but didn't make the show itself.

More than 1,000 police join in somber tribute

BRIDGEPORT (UPI) — Over 1,000 police officers from several states joined in somber tribute to slain patrolman Gerald DiJoseph while detectives continued an exhaustive search for his killer.

Mourners jammed St. Augustine's Cathedral — two blocks from where DiJoseph, 32, was gunned down at half past 11 Friday — for a Mass of Christian Burial Tuesday which was broadcast via loudspeaker to an overflow crowd outside.

DiJoseph's flag-draped casket was carried two blocks from a funeral home to the cathedral in a procession of his fellow officers led by Mayor John Mandant while officers from Connecticut, New York and several New England states lined Washington Avenue.

A harp and drum corps of Greenwich police joined the procession.

"We have spilled a little blood in the past few days," said Mandant in a eulogy. "We are all bleeding. The man who caused this terrible, tragic death will be apprehended."

MCC committee to oversee fund-raising efforts

By LAUREN DAVIS SHEA
Herald Reporter

MANCHESTER — A committee, consisting of staunch Manchester Community College supporters, has been formed to oversee efforts to raise monies from private sources.

MCC President William Vincent said the executive committee is recruiting potential sponsors to lend their names to a college foundation letterhead.

Although active politicians are among the college's alumni, Vincent said none of these persons are being solicited. "We do not want to politicize this effort," Vincent said.

He said non-profit organizations, such as the Hartford Foundation for Public Giving, are the caliber of sponsors being sought.

These sponsors would then solicit from a wider range of MCC sympathizers, to form a group known as "Friends of MCC." Alumni would be included in this group, Vincent said.

"We're looking for a more active foundation. We have a strong alumni base and we feel the time is right," Vincent, who joined the college as its president less than one year ago, said.

Diminishing state funding has necessitated the need for such a foundation, Vincent said. He predicted many community colleges across the state will be forced to raise at least a third of their funding from private sources during this decade.

The monies would be used for student loans and school equipment, along with continuing to support the Community Services Division, which throughout its history has been successfully privately supported.

State funding has increased annually, but inflation and soaring energy costs have swallowed the monies, officials have said.

Combating these factors of the 80s, Vincent said the college will combine its foundation drive with more vigorous appeals for federal grants. Vincent said impressions persons may hold that President-elect Ronald Reagan would clamp down on such grants do not deter him. "We're not going to take a defeatist attitude," Vincent said.

State employees nix parking plan

MANCHESTER — A request by the management of the Manchester Parkade to have state employees park their cars near the Broad Street post offices failed to gain their approval.

The request was made to state officials who met with representatives of 190 welfare workers Monday. The workers opposed the proposed parking site, saying the 400-yard distance from their offices is too far to walk.

According to Peggy O'Brien, spokeswoman for the state Department of Income Maintenance, the state officials also opposed the solution offered by First Hartford Realty Inc., the managers of the Parkade.

The employees claim their designated spaces are in an area with a high rate of vandalism, and asked First Hartford officials for a security guard. The company refused to provide the guard and obtained injunctions barring three employees from parking in the customer parking spaces. The employees were parking in the customer lots to protest First Hartford's actions, and avoid parking in the back lot.

The state welfare department has also refused to provide a security guard, saying there is not enough documented evidence on the vandalism rate.

While the differences are being solved, the state has ordered the employees to park in the back lot.

The state Bureau of Public Works has the final decision in the year-old dispute, as it negotiates the contracts for renting the office space.

The Manchester Police reported Tuesday 41 acts of vandalism occurred in the Parkade from Oct. 1, 1979 to Oct. 31, 1980.

The Burr Corners shopping center had seven reported such incidents during that time, police said.

The report did not identify which areas the vandalism occurred. The welfare workers claim it incidents happened in the lot where they are supposed to park.

The workers are meeting today to discuss further action in the dispute.

State employees nix parking plan

MANCHESTER — A request by the management of the Manchester Parkade to have state employees park their cars near the Broad Street post offices failed to gain their approval.

The request was made to state officials who met with representatives of 190 welfare workers Monday. The workers opposed the proposed parking site, saying the 400-yard distance from their offices is too far to walk.

According to Peggy O'Brien, spokeswoman for the state Department of Income Maintenance, the state officials also opposed the solution offered by First Hartford Realty Inc., the managers of the Parkade.

The employees claim their designated spaces are in an area with a high rate of vandalism, and asked First Hartford officials for a security guard. The company refused to provide the guard and obtained injunctions barring three employees from parking in the customer parking spaces. The employees were parking in the customer lots to protest First Hartford's actions, and avoid parking in the back lot.

The state welfare department has also refused to provide a security guard, saying there is not enough documented evidence on the vandalism rate.

Editorial Federal harassment

Those in Manchester who have been fighting federal control of town affairs probably can be most sympathetic with the people of Glastonbury who now face a lawsuit because the Justice Department again is indicting an entire community for racism.

Jimmy Carter's Justice Department has filed suit against Glastonbury contending decisions based on town zoning ordinances were racist motivated.

The lame-duck Justice Department is expanding its proven pattern of harassment by filing suit against another town.

Those who during the recent Community Development Block Grant campaign claimed a yes vote would have no impact on town zoning, apparently have been proven wrong by this case in Glastonbury. The federal government, by suing the town, is again attempting to take local control out of local hands, placing zoning decisions in the hands of bureaucrats with no interest in the character of the town.

We are led to believe this suit is clear and simple harassment by the Justice Department.

A convincing case could be made that the Justice Department, in the waning days of the Carter administration, is trying to set up a case load that could be used later to embarrass President-elect Reagan.

On Jan. 20, Reagan will take office with a new attorney general. The new Justice Department will have to decide whether or not it will pursue pending cases.

We think the Glastonbury suit is an attempt to place the Reagan Justice Department in a position where it could be accused of tolerating racism. Much ado could, and probably will, be made of Reagan administration abandonment of suits that have racial overtones.

At first reading it could be made to appear the new president is following some kind of a new policy of the hated and remembered "Benign Neglect" of the Nixon administration.

Glastonbury, like Manchester, is not a community of racial hatred. But the Justice Department is trying to make it

Opinion

Thoughts

"If indeed I have won your favor, please show me your ways, so that I can understand you and win your favor." (Exodus 33:13) How can we respond to the God who calls us? One way - always necessary - is through prayer, the prayer that is not afraid to ask.

After all, does not God know what we need better than we do? And what is the best reward of our prayer? It is simply the comfort of his friendship, the joy of his presence, the fullness of a life lived always with him.

Slay with us: this is the recurrent prayer of the Bible, the longing of the psalmist who wanted to dwell in the Lord's house all the days of his life.

Slay with us: this is the prayer always answered by our faith in the words of Jesus, "Know that I am with you always..." (Matthew 28:20) appear as if the control of local zoning and development by local people is some sinister plot to prevent racial minorities from finding homes in town.

Sister Katherine Panalitis, CND St. Bartholomew Convent Manchester

The federal government is again trying to take more control of our daily lives away from elected local decision-makers and give it to bureaucrats who probably have little appreciation for the character of our communities.

But to indict an entire community because the town zoning ordinances do not comply with the grand social scheme of HUD is wrong and contrary to the American tradition.

Towns are told they will continue to control their own destiny. But when local decisions disagree with HUD, towns may expect to be hauled into court and accused of racist motivation. We are convinced that those with prejudiced viewpoints are a small minority.

When acts and opinions of racial or ethnic hatred are expressed by individuals, those individuals should be held accountable.

It is another step in the kind of social engineering the federal department of Housing and Urban Development has made famous.

U.S. consumers may pay for Iraq-Iran war

By LEE RODERICK

WASHINGTON - When war broke out between Iraq and Iran on Sept. 22, a glut of oil on the world market cushioned the United States and its western allies from immediate economic harm.

But as the war that was supposed to end quickly continues well into its third month with no letup in sight, energy experts fear that the West is about to feel the consequences. Their immediate concern centers on the next meeting of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, scheduled for mid-December in Bali, Indonesia.

Pressures are strong for a substantial increase in petroleum prices at the OPEC meeting. Such an increase could have enormous consequences for many importing countries, including the United States where the incoming Reagan administration already is hard pressed to make good on its promises to cut taxes and still hold inflation in check. The high cost of imported oil is a key component of inflation.

Before the outbreak of the current war there was a worldwide surplus of about two million barrels of oil a day. The war removed nearly four million barrels from the market almost overnight, however, with only part of it being made up by increased production by other OPEC countries.

Now some oil companies, nervous over the prospects of a prolonged Middle East war, are resisting using their petroleum stockpiles. Instead, they have been paying more than $40 a barrel for oil in the "spot" market - compared to the official world price of $30 a barrel.

This apparent corporate willingness to pay exorbitant prices rather than risk a petroleum shortfall has weakened the position of Saudi Arabia, which has consistently gone to bat for the United States and the West in the past to hold down OPEC price increases.

"If the oil companies resist de-stocking (using their stockpiles) ... then we will see another sharp increase in prices," Saudi Arabian Oil Minister Ahmed Zaki Yamani said recently.

One bright note at the moment in the war picture is that Iran and Iraq, after blasting each other's oil-producing facilities during the first weeks of the war, have been more restrained recently.

Iraq, in fact, reportedly plans to resume full-scale pumping of crude oil through a pipeline to Turkey. The pipeline's capacity of 600,000 barrels a day would still be substantially below Iraq's pre-war exports of more than three million barrels a day.

While the Carter administration has succeeded somewhat in lessening U.S. dependence on foreign oil, America's dependence on Arab oil as a percentage of total imports is substantially higher today than it was at the time of the 1973 oil embargo.

In 1979, over 30 percent of U.S. daily oil imports came from the volatile Middle East. The figures were higher still for Western Europe and Japan, which imported 50 percent and 70 percent of their oil respectively from the region.

As the hostilities between Iraq and Iran demonstrate once more, heavy dependence on Persian Gulf oil is a dangerous business for any industrialized country. Former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger, testifying before the Senate Energy Committee, put it this way: "The next four to five years will be a period of crisis. All the preconditions for that already exist."

The committee has just released a major study entitled "The Geopolitics of Oil." One of the study's key chapters warns that between Iraq and Iran is settled quickly, a major oil supply disruption within the next decade is likely.

It notes that the Middle East is "one of the most unstable regions in the world" where 13 current heads of state - more than half - reached power by forcing their predecessors out of power.

Such volatility raises the probability of an oil supply interruption and opens opportunities for Soviet advancement in the region.

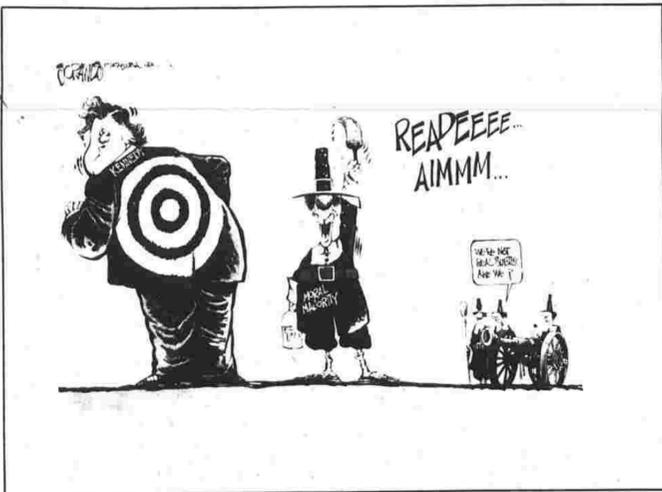

The danger remains great that the Iraq-Iran war could spread to other producing countries, threatening oil exports from the entire Gulf region - nearly 18 million barrels of oil per day," says the report.

"An end to the conflict is not in sight. No settlement of the conflict has yet taken shape nor are the outlines of one even projected by outside observers.

For the short term, the United States government should continue a hands-off policy, letting Iraq and Iran slug it out. And Washington should exert whatever pressure it takes to stop oil companies from bidding up the world price of oil by buying it on the spot market at scalper's prices.

In the longer term, the nation must make every effort to achieve energy independence, while realistically understanding that such independence almost certainly isn't in the cards during the next decade and perhaps not even by the end of the century.

The crucial area of oil will continue to call for cool heads among America's decision-makers and patience among our people. Otherwise, no ideal options are on the horizon at the moment.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Capital's permanent bureaucracy will stifle Reagan's plans

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON - Ronald Reagan won't be the first president full of righteous determination to transform and reinvigorate the bureaucracies under him. He is rightly alarmed over the vast breadth of federal activity and the depth of its penetration into the once-private activities of the American people.

But if Reagan is at all like his predecessors, he will be gently detached and bound up by the rope-knocking Lilliputians of the permanent bureaucracy. So gradually and invisibly will they tighten the bonds that he may never appreciate the extent to which he is in their grip.

His pledge to eliminate the bureaucracy's performance, no sure way to determine either excessive cost or concrete achievement.

In private business, a standard of competence is furnished inescapably by the profit factor. If a business branch is wasteful, loses money or its profits decline, a bell goes off at headquarters and that branch is either pruned or cut off. Whether a branch manager is doing a good or a bad job will be proved definitively by the profit-and-loss figure.

But the government bureau, with no such automatic arbiter, can always claim that a poor result could be improved upon with a bigger staff and more money. The bureau chief is rewarded, not for efficiency which cannot be measured, but by the number of people he has under him. The more bodies, the higher his grade.

The bureaucrats, therefore, have developed a cavalier attitude toward government appropriations. Enough is never sufficient, they must always have more. With expansion and expenditure as their motive, they are constantly maneuvering for more money which they squander with there's-more-where-there-came-from abandon.

If I may be permitted a modest suggestion, a more powerful incentive is needed to save money. So why not reward the bureaucrats for seeking out and eliminating unnecessary expenditures? Instead of the higher salaries they now get for padding the budget, why not give them bonuses for cutting the budget? If the bureaucrats were offered, say, a flat 10 percent of all the money they save, the taxpayers would save 90 percent. Thus some clerk in his cubicle could become an overnight millionaire by saving the taxpayers hundreds of millions of dollars. The fortune clerk would merely need to locate the waste and convince a citizens' board that the nation could do without it.

Under my plan, the bureaucrats would have more to gain by searching for ways to reduce expenditures than looking for ways to spend money.

The alternative? In 10th-century Egypt, a slave caste called the Mamelukes was entrusted by the sultans with the public administration. The Mamelukes soon became the new line of sultans.

The clans, though they could reduce a whole population to serfdom, were not able to subjugate their bureaucracy once it got established. Even the master of people-power, Mao Tse-tung, could not prevail over the bureaucracy he established.

Footnote: Only a part of government expansion can be blamed on the bureaucracy's inner dynamics. An even greater impetus comes from outside - in the demand of society at large for more services and welfare. More and more is left to the authorities, but no one trusts them to perform. Eventually this mistrust and resentment spreads to all authority, though the dependence on it does not lessen.

Diplomatic dilemma: The State Department has a tricky personnel problem. It involves the receptionists stationed in Foggy Bottom's main entrances.

On the one hand, the crush of visitors - whether tourists or those on official business, including high muckamucks who feel entitled to the best diplomatic treatment - has resulted in long lines more suitable to a supermarket than to Uncle Sam's window on the world.

On the other hand, the receptionists are not likely to stay at their menial posts very long. The reason is that some visiting dignitary, with half an hour to do nothing but observe a somberly receptionists being gracious and charming, may offer her a job that far surpasses the $9,000

Churches to assist homeless families

MANCHESTER - Parishioners of local churches are being asked to contribute money for Manchester people who are temporarily homeless.

Under a Manchester Area Conference of Churches plan, the money will be used to keep these people overnight in local hotels.

Joanne Mikoleit, MACC spokeswoman, said the conference has "been feeling real frustration" over its inability to find or fund shelter for people in need.

She said MACC Executive Director Nancy Carr had responded to the problem by asking clergy to sponsor a "Room at the Inn" program. "It costs $17 per night to put one person up in a hotel. If parishioners contribute to this, they can see where their dollars are going," Ms. Mikoleit said.

To date, $89 has been collected, from "various sources" Ms. Mikoleit said.

She said in conjunction with the room program, MACC has held several meetings with the Red Cross, and the local police, social service and human service departments. The meetings are brainstorming sessions on how to provide emergency shelter. "We're talking about getting rooms, not apartments. We're keeping statistics on the number of calls for housing all these agencies receive," she said.

MACC is also investigating whether it can apply for grants to hire a private developer to develop 20 units of low income housing. MACC may also apply to nonprofit organizations for such financial assistance, Ms. Mikoleit said.

Italian Dinner
MANCHESTER - The Parent-Student Organization of Howell Cheney Technical School will have an Italian dinner Friday from 5 to 7 p.m. in the school cafeteria, 791 E. Middle Turnpike. Tickets are $2.50 for adults and $2 for students and senior citizens. They will be on sale at the door.

Potluck supper scheduled
MANCHESTER - The Rosary Society of St. Bridget Church will have its annual potluck supper on Dec. 8 at 6:30 p.m. in the cafeteria.

Residents of Mayfair Gardens will be special guests. Society members are asked to bring their favorite dish for the potluck.

For the recipe grabbing members should print their recipe, put it with an ingredient or utensil needed, and wrap it. Members shouldn't spend more than $1 for this.

At Monday's East Hartford Board of Education meeting, one board member persistently asked questions of Dominic Fulco, director of school business services, concerning the 90 cent estimate Fulco made on the cost of fuel oil for the schools. Fulco really couldn't justify exactly how he estimated the cost per gallon except to say "I don't know. God told me to do it." Somehow that answer satisfied the board member.

Speaking of the mechanical abilities required to run the new technology in a television education program, Washington School Principal Marcia Kenefick said, "If I can run it anyone can." She proceeded to demonstrate the Schooldisk program to the Manchester Board of Education without a hitch.

Virginia Wehrli, Vernon's social services director spoke to the Town Council Monday about the Workforce Program. Her husband, Robert Wehrli, is a member of the council and he had a question to ask about the program. He started out saying "Honey," and he added, "It's not often I can call someone honey at a council meeting, but I had to call you Mrs. Wehrli."

It was a case of one man's trash is another man's treasure when the Vernon Town Council was discussing a request to use the old Route 30 firehouse for a garage for senior citizens buses. Andrew Tricarico, who made the request contents such buildings should be put to use. Town Council member Stephen Marchand commented, "I've been looking forward to the day when we could tear that down, from an esthetic point of view."

MANCHESTER — A New Jersey firm, whose business methods have been criticized by Manchester Community College officials and local merchants, has a record termed "unsatisfactory" with its state's consumer agencies, and has expressed a desire to use the college's name. All college parties also agreed the student government felt the mailing of the reply card meant more information was being sought.

authority to authorize a business to solicit in the college's name. Vincent learned the cover letter "solicit" and said the return of the card by the student senate representative is "apparently how the company got its foot in the door."

The Bergen County Consumer Affairs Office of New Jersey said it too had several complaints about the company's file is unsatisfactory. It has a record of failure to eliminate causes of complaints and has a record of using questionable selling practices.

Diana heads All-NE grid team

BOSTON (UPI) — All-Everything tailback Rich Diana, whose offensive exploits helped Yale to its second straight undisputed Ivy League title, gained the honor of being named the 1980 UPI All-New England Division I football team selected by the league's coaches.

Diana, a 5-foot-11, 215-pound junior from Hamilton, Conn., gained 1,074 yards rushing, the second best season total in Ivy history. He added 145 yards on punt returns, 212 yards in receptions and 218 in kickoff returns for a total of 1,749 yards in 10 games.

Rich can do it all," marveled Yale coach Carm Cozza. "He runs with power, speed and finesse, he's a terrific blocker and a formidable receiver. He ranks with the best we've ever had at Yale."

Diana, who saw little action last year in playing behind UPI All Star Ken Hill, was a landslide choice for Player of the Year. He is joined in the starting backfield by a pair of sophomores — Shelby Gamble of Boston College and Lorenzo Bouier of Maine. Boston University's Jim Jensen, a senior being scouted by the pros, is the first team quarterback.

Connecticut's fleet senior Reggie Eccleston, who broke several New England records this past season, is the first team wide receiver. Boston College, who led the first team with five players, had two others on the offensive squad. Senior Tim Sherwin, also being scouted by the pros, is the starting tight end and junior Jerry Raymond landed one starting guard slot. Dartmouth junior George Thompson is the other guard.

Fine only little slap on wrist

By Earl Yost Sports Editor

Big thing, Roberto Duran was fined $7,500 for his part in quitting and relinquishing his world boxing championship to Sugar Ray Leonard after the 11th round of their fight. The estimated $8 million. The fine, by the New Orleans Boxing Commission, represents less than one percent of Duran's take. The ex-welterweight king was paid before the bout which had even more suspicion on his walk out before round eight ended. Former East Catholic High cager Bob Smith is a member of the Trinity College varsity basketball team this season. The 6-7, 210-pound Smith tallied six points in Trn's opening win against New York College. He's a sophomore. Pete Ryba, of Bolton, completed 73 of 173 passes with Coast Guard Academy last season in which the Cadets won two of 10 starts. Ryba connected on three touchdown tosses and ran for two six-pointers. The senior lettered in his last two years. Dave Guman, Manchester businessman, has a "piece" of Marion Starling, promising Hartford fighter. A half dozen men each contributed $2,000 to assist Starling in his bid for national recognition.

Islanders rolling along

By Earl Yost Sports Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — The New York Islanders, and especially their awesome power play, just kept rolling along. On Tuesday night, the Colorado Rockies took six penalties and the Islanders scored four times, paving the way to a 5-1 New York victory that extended the Islanders' unbeaten streak to a club-record tying 15 games. It also pushed New York atop the overall league standings with 39 points.

BOSTON (UPI) — The Boston Bruins are hardly in a position to complain about a victory, but coach Gerry Cheevers still has a few gripes. "We're not skating, hitting and flying like we can," Cheevers said after the struggling Bruins' 3-2 win over the Detroit Red Wings Tuesday night with a fight-filled 5-3 victory over the Detroit Red Wings.

Moriarty Night

Representatives of Moriarty Brothers' championship Hartford Twilight League baseball team played their annual banquet at the annual banquet. Dave Bidwell was the top pitcher, Steve Choliner the most valuable player of the season. Moriarty's most valuable player and sponsor and Coach Gene Johnson took the regular season and playoff titles. Johnson wound up with a .333 batting mark in his 18th season, going one for three. Two former East Catholic football players had productive years. Steve Gorman, a senior, was named offensive lineman of the year. The 6-1, 215-pound tackle helped the squad post an 8-0 record. Fullback Mike Gilbert was the league's second leading rusher and senior. Hens enter Trinity in September while Karzar will attend Springfield College. Complete results of the Five Mile Road Race last Thanksgiving will be published when received. Whaler hockey fans won't have a home game in Hartford until Saturday night, Dec. 13 against the Los Angeles Kings. The lone five-mile road trip spread over nine days started last night in Los Angeles.

Triple Crown Line explodes in finale

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — Coach Bob Berry says he loves to watch the best line in the NHL, especially since it plays for his Los Angeles Kings. The Triple Crown Line of Marcel Dionne, Charlie Simmer and Dave Taylor looked just fine Tuesday night as they each scored a goal to lead the Kings to a 5-2 win over Hartford. "They all move so well away from the puck and they create their own opportunities. They're a pleasure to watch and by far the best line in the league," Berry said. "The Dionne-Simmer-Taylor trio, the highest scoring line in the NHL, showed how they got that way on Simmer's game-winning goal in the third period as they each made a crisp pass on a power play effort that wound up with Simmer flicking the puck into a virtually empty net. "I had to wait for the defenseman to slide by me, but then Charlie was there alone," Taylor said. "We had the same play in the second period but I missed him."

Thompson fined

DENVER (UPI) — Denver Nuggets guard David Thompson returned to practice Tuesday but missed $150 for missing an earlier workout, team officials said. Thompson, who missed Monday's practice, said he did so because of a minor shoulder injury, but he failed to tell Coach Don Walsh. Thompson was accidentally bitten on the shoulder by teammate Carl Nickles Saturday night when the two collided.

UPI tabs Rick Taylor NE Coach of Year

BOSTON (UPI) — Rick Taylor didn't take long to establish himself and his college as powers to be reckoned with in New England college football. In just his fourth year at the helm of Boston University, Taylor's club turned in a 9-2 mark and won its first outright Yankee Conference crown. That was enough to convince his peers and the BU mentor was named UPI's Coach of the Year in New England for 1980. "I'm very appreciative of the award. I think what makes it more gratifying is that one's peers recognize what's going on. But I also have to recognize that it's an award to be shared with the kids and the coaching staff," Taylor said. Taylor has continually breathed life into the BU program, which was all but moribund when he arrived in 1977. His first season was a tough one, 3-7, but the team improved to 6-4 before coming to Boston University. His first head coaching job at the college level. He came to Boston University after six seasons as an assistant at Dartmouth and one as an assistant at Wake Forest. Under his direction, Dartmouth's defense ranked as one of the stingiest in the country. Taylor served three seasons as an assistant at Lehigh, where he first became a defensive specialist. It is that area that he primarily concerns himself with at Boston University. Taylor graduated from Gettysburg in 1964 after a fine career as a running back and coached at the high school level the next two years while earning a graduate degree in physical education. He joined the staff at Boston in 1966 as the offensive coordinator for two years before going to Lehigh.

Hawks end 76 skein

NEW YORK (UPI) — It was a high-powered game where the knees meant almost as much as field goals. And in the end, Atlanta forward John Drew had shown the Philadelphia 76ers what the word desire means.

Drew, playing perhaps his finest game as a pro, scored 29 points Tuesday night, including five in overtime, to lead Atlanta to an emotional 112-108 victory over the 76ers.

The 76ers snapped Philadelphia's 10-game winning streak and dropped the loss into a tie with Phoenix for the NBA's best record (23-4).

Drew's last two free throws in overtime clinched the win for the Hawks, who have struggled in 16 losses in 25 games this year.

"I told (Drew) with about 10 seconds to go I thought it was the greatest game that he played since I have been here as a Hawk coach," said Atlanta coach Hubie Brown. "Through his hands he took the team through the ruts and I mean they're thoroughbreds."

The Hawks rushed to a 23-point lead in the first quarter and held an imposing 42-25 margin at the end of the period. But Philadelphia rallied to take a 90-83 lead with 10:23 left in regulation.

Spurs 122, Spurs 107.

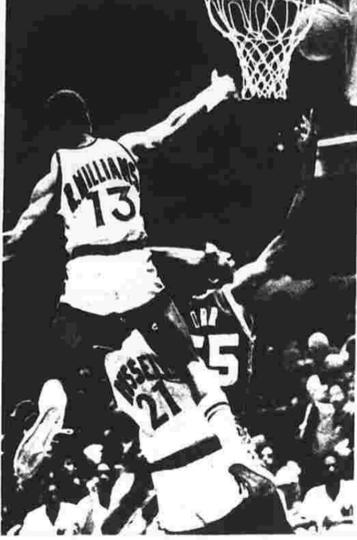

Walter Davis scored 22 points and five other Phoenix players hit for double figures to lead the Suns to their sixth straight win and a 23-4 record. The Spurs got by as close as nine, but Davis scored 15 points in the third quarter to pull away. The Spurs were led by George Gervin and James Silas with 23 each.

Bulls 129, Nuggets 124.

Reggie Miller scored 26 points, including a key jumper with 30 seconds left, to lead the Bulls. Denver, trailing 127-124, had a chance to tie in the closing seconds but David Thompson, who had 20 points, missed a 3-pointer.

New 118, Trail Blazers 105.

Cliff Robinson, Mike Newlin and Maurice Lucas combined for 76 points to lead Portland to a 21-6 record. Robinson had 16th loss in 20 games. Robinson had a game-high 28. Newlin and Lucas 22. Portland was paced by Billy Ray Bates with 26. It was the first win ever for New Jersey in Portland.

New Hampshire falls short at BC

BOSTON (UPI) — Gerry Friel tried his little as he changed but his New Hampshire basketball team has found one more booster this year — Boston College coach Tom Davis.

The Eagles needed a 120-spurt late in the game, featuring eight straight points by sophomore John Bagley, to subside the pesky Wildcats, 72-58, Tuesday night.

It's the same old story for New Hampshire. Friel, who coached the team in 1979, says he has to play to give the credit to Bagley. He led the key hoops to put us ahead to stay.

He held a 53-50 lead with 4:48 to play when Bagley went on his rampage. By the time the smoke cleared, BC had the game in hand, 63-50. Bagley led the Eagles with 21 points, followed by Martin Goss with 14 and Rich Dixon with 12.

Robinson scored all 30 points with 13 on 18 shooting. Dixon was largely responsible for the Wildcats erasing 10 points of an 11-point BC lead to bring the score to the aforementioned 53-50.

Down in Providence the Friars had a break in the schedule and took full advantage, downing Division II Assumption 74-46. Rich Hunger led the Friars with 16 points and grabbed eight rebounds. Ricky Tucker added 14 points and eight rebounds for Providence. Assumption playing its third game in as many nights, 18-2.

Springfield won the Mayors Tournament, at their home turf with a 80-61 win over Westfield State. Sophomores Buddy Clark and Sterling Hammond each had 21 points. Hammond was making his first varsity start in place of the injured Tony Jeffries. AIC won the consolation game, 80-74 over Western New England.

Elsewhere in basketball action Bridgewater St. downed Fitchburg St. 74-51. Connecticut College triumphed by a 79-63 Eastern Nazarene beat Curry 84-72. Framingham St. outlasted Worcester St. 72-60. Northeastern needed an extra session to put away Marist, 86-68, in overtime. St. Michaels shot 89-87 and Suffolk defeated New England University 74-62.

In hockey, Harvard scored an impressive 5-2 victory over struggling Boston University. Mike Watson scored twice for the Crimson, his first goal coming just 14 seconds into the game. Phil Kavanagh, Alan Lathrop and Greg Olson added goals for Harvard while Mark Fidler and Marc Siniarek scored for BU.

Elsewhere in hockey, Boston finished 4-0. Lowell downed Holy Cross 8-0. UNH turned back New Hampshire 8-6. New Hampshire College edged Mass-Boston 4-3. Connecticut College's Angelo 12-10 and Connecticut College's Angelo 12-10 and Connecticut College's Angelo 12-10.

PONTIAC (UPI) — Dripping water aside, the Boston Celtics refused to relinquish their commanding lead in their victory over the Detroit Pistons.

The Celtics, who forged ahead in the first quarter with 16 consecutive points, Hammond was making his first varsity start in place of the injured Tony Jeffries. AIC won the consolation game, 80-74 over Western New England.

Laflure sidelined

MONTREAL (UPI) — Montreal rightwinger Guy Laflure will be sidelined for at least a few weeks, Montreal coach Claude Gauthier said Tuesday. Gauthier said Laflure is expected to return in about a month.

The Montreal line-up for Wednesday's game in Buffalo, and likely Saturday's game against the Boston Bruins, were defenseman Erny Robitaille, who plays a shoulder injury, and center Pierre Larochette, who had a broken bone in his left hand.

Sutton narrows choice to two

HOUSTON (UPI) — Pitcher Don Sutton, looking for a new home and a long-term contract, has narrowed his choices to Houston and New York, and the Astro home just might make the difference.

Sutton's agent, Larue Harcourt, arrived in Houston Tuesday from California for talks with Astros general manager Jim McMillen and General Manager Al Rosen.

Harcourt said his client, who played 15 seasons for the Los Angeles Dodgers, had essentially narrowed his options to the Astros and the Yankees, the two teams that have come closest to meeting his demands of a guaranteed three-year contract plus a contract to join the team's broadcast crew following his retirement from the game.

Before leaving California Tuesday, Harcourt said the Astro home, a pitcher's park, was a factor in Sutton's negotiations.

The California Angels were never Don's first choice, he said. "He isn't certain he fits the park and he isn't certain they're the competitors they think they are. Houston offers a great ballpark, a great bullpen and a contending team."

Harcourt Monday said the Astros and Yankees each had a "50-50" chance of signing Sutton, and that his meeting with the Astros was the most comprehensive one with them.

"Prior to this time we talked and talked with the Astros. They weren't ready," he said.

The Astros, uncertain whether right-handed starter J.R. Richard will overcome a debilitating stroke and return to the game, were one of 10 teams to choose Sutton in the Nov. 12 free-agent draft. According to Harcourt, the Astros have offered Sutton a three-year guaranteed contract.

"I think they would go for a five-year contract with three guaranteed, but that's what we'll be talking about in the meeting," Harcourt said.

He said he expected to receive revised proposals from the Minnesota Twins and the Montreal Expos, but that Houston and the Yankees were the leading candidates to sign Sutton, the winningest pitcher in Los Angeles Dodgers history.

Dooley: no comment on Auburn position

ATHENS, Ga. (UPI) — Georgia Coach Vince Dooley refused early today to comment on reports he will reject a $1-million-plus offer to go to Auburn, his alma mater, and remain with his unbeaten and top-ranked Bulldogs.

Dooley met for two hours Tuesday evening with Georgia President Fred Davidson. Both men emerged from the session declining to comment on their discussions, although Dooley indicated he would not announce his decision until later today or Thursday.

Jazz signs pair

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — The Utah Jazz Tuesday night signed center Jeff Wilkins and guard Ricky Green for the remainder of the 1980-81 season, adding their roster to 10 players.

Wilkins and Green, both first-round NBA draft picks in 1977, were playing for the Chicago Bulls last summer.

The Jazz roster dropped to eight Monday when center Brett Vroman and forward James Harty were waived.

Green, Golden State's first-round draft pick in 1977, played with Detroit in 1978 and was signed briefly by Chicago last summer.

Wilkins, a 7-footer from Illinois State, was drafted by San Antonio in 1977 but was cut and played in Europe and Hawaii briefly.

AL rookie laurels Scoreboard

NEW YORK (UPI) — Joe Charboneau, the heir apparent to Rocky Colavito as Cleveland's next baseball hero, was named American League Rookie of the Year today by the Baseball Writers Association of America.

Charboneau, who has to be one of the strangest characters in the game, received 15 first-place votes from the 26-member committee to easily outdistance Boston's Dave Stapleton, who picked up three first-place votes, Minnesota reliever Doug Corbett also received three first-place mentions and finished third in the balloting.

The 28 writers were asked to list their three choices for the award with a first-place vote counting for five points. Second place was worth three points and one point was earned for a third-place mention.

"I'm really so happy," said Charboneau, who was in New York with his wife when reached by UPI. "We went out for a late dinner because I was so nervous just sitting around and waiting. I was expecting this all. There were so many super rookies in the league and it's a real honor to win over guys like Stapleton and Burns."

Toronto's Damaso Garcia finished fourth, also picking up three first-place votes, and pitcher Britt Burns of the Chicago White Sox finished fifth despite four first-place mentions. Rick Peters of Detroit finished sixth and Dick Dikson of the White Sox was seventh.

"I'm going nuts not being able to play," said Charboneau. "I can't wait to get back on the diamond again. You know, I once told my wife that if I make the big leagues, I'll win the Rookie of the Year for her for a while. I thought I put my foot in my mouth. What an honor. With news like this, you can pull me away from the dinner table any time."

Although he gained most of his acclaim with a potent bat that drilled 23 homers and knocked in 87 runs for the Indians, Charboneau drew almost as much attention for his reputation as a slugger.

'King' tennis event planned

SYDNEY, Australia (UPI) — A one-million dollar round-robin tennis tournament to decide the "king" of tennis is being planned for Sydney's white city early next year.

Organizers plan for Bjorn Borg, John McEnroe, Jimmy Connors and Ivan Lendl to trade shots on three different court surfaces painted on the white city center court area.

The tournament is being managed by director of Dunlop-Szangster and a council member of the New South Wales Tennis Association, the theme is to dig up the hallowed center court of white city — home of many a magic Davis Cup clash between American and Australian tennis greats — and replace two courts with clay and Plexipave.

The center court area will remain grass to present to the invited tennis players a choice of their favorite playing areas.

Player of month

NEW YORK (UPI) — Julius Erving led Philadelphia to a 15-11 November record with a 25.4 scoring average, was named Tuesday the National Basketball Association's player of the month.

During this stretch, Erving had a high of 45 points against Boston and scored 30 or more points in six other games. He averaged 31.1 in shooting percentage from the field, averaged 9.1 rebounds, 5.1 assists, 2.4 steals and 1.6 blocked shots.

Soccer league votes to shift divisions

CHICAGO (UPI) — The North American Soccer League has voted to reorganize its franchises into five geographic divisions, giving playoff berths to the top two teams in each division along with five "wild card" teams.

In other action Tuesday, the league changed the bonus point system for the coming outdoor season, arranged for dispersal of players from terminated franchises and heard a report on the status of union negotiations.

Under the realignment, there will be no conferences in the five divisions. The division leader with the most points will receive a bye in the first round of the playoffs. The assignment of teams to divisions will be announced later.

The three cities in which franchises were voluntarily terminated — Rochester, Washington and Houston — were given until Monday, Dec. 8, to meet financial and performance requirements for a new franchise. Only Washington and Rochester appear to have a chance to

Vernon council tired of land swap issues

VERNON — Some Town Council members indicated Monday night they are tired of having issues concerning a three-way land swap on the agenda each time.

The council has been considering the proposed three-way land exchange between the town, Rockville Baptist Church and Rockville General Hospital for about two years, off and on.

Tentative agreements had been reached but because the town wanted to put some stipulations on the land it owns on Route 30, when turning it over to the church, church officials objected.

The town wanted to have in the exchange agreement the land could only be used for a church or church-related purposes and church officials objected to this.

Town Attorney Edwin Lavitt told the Town Council Monday night, when the matter was hopefully to be resolved, that there is still a question of a survey of the town property, the matter of reserving a strip of land for access to remaining property of the town and a change in the stipulations.

Lavitt and Attorney William Hall, representing the church, compromised on a proposal that would call for a limitation of use until a church is built and thereafter the only stipulation to be attached would be that the church could not subdivide the land.

Lavitt said church officials asked for another delay because they want to present the latest proposal to the people of the church.

Playground supported

VERNON — The staff of the Capital Region Council of Governments has notified town officials that it supports acquisition of the Burke Road playground to continue to serve the surrounding neighborhood.

The staff is also recommending support for the Horowitz Pool renovation, but in this area is making several suggestions to increase its accessibility.

The town has applied for federal funding for the land purchase and repairs to the pool to comply with public health codes.

Officials said that although the pool itself is accessible to the handicapped, the locker room facilities are not. They said perhaps some of the renovation funds can be allocated to remove barriers to the disabled through ramps and other necessary modifications.

Officials invited to plant

VERNON — Former South Windsor Mayor Nancy Caffyn of the waste disposal system, of Industrials Inc. of South Windsor, has extended an invitation to Vernon officials to visit the plant to see "first hand, the Consertherm" in operation.

In a letter to Vernon Mayor Marie Herbst, Mrs. Caffyn said she has been reading in the newspapers, articles that indicate the Town of Vernon is being asked by the Connecticut Resource Recovery Agency to commit itself to the proposed Mid-Connecticut Refuse Project to be located in Hartford.

Mrs. Caffyn said she realizes this is a major decision for the town as it represents a commitment for the next 20 years.

Mrs. Herbst is on the committee for the Resource Recovery project but Vernon hasn't made any commitment.

Mrs. Caffyn said many communities here and across the country are questioning the reliability of large incinerator plants and are looking for alternatives to address their ever-burdening municipal waste problem.

She said officials at the South Windsor plant would like to meet with town officials so they can understand an alternate approach to the refuse problem and the advantages of the "modular" concept. She said plant officials, will at the request of town officials, review the town's disposal needs and develop a proposal for the town's consideration.

Mrs. Caffyn said that Industrials "Consertherm" offers a viable and effective way to dispose of waste and to recover valuable energy from this waste.

She said the Consertherm system incorporates a proven method with new and technically advanced improvements, particularly in the areas of handling and high efficiency energy recovery. "The waste heat can be removed in the form required for your use or for private industry that may be located nearby," Mrs. Caffyn said.

She said that localized incineration dramatically reduces transportation costs created by long-distance hauls to a regional location. She said it is expected that modular units will be competitive, if not lower in cost, than a centralized incineration plant and that the environmental impact of a Consertherm incinerator is no greater than the average industrial oil burner and when used as an alternate energy source, would be replacing the requirement for an oil burner of a similar size.

Council members and the mayor have also been invited to attend a meeting in West Hartford on Dec. 10. The meeting will be sponsored by the League of Women Voters of West Hartford and the Town of West Hartford.

The topic of the panel discussion will be "What Will We Do With Our Trash" — West Hartford's Options. Council members are to call the mayor's office to let her know their feelings about both invitations.

BAKE A GIFT OF LOVE

Homemade gifts from the oven provide a special way to personalize gift giving. Baking a gift of love requires no sizes or colors yet the recipient knows that your care and attention have not been spared. And, the time and effort you spend, the love you give, will be most appreciated.

It's never too soon to start planning your gift giving. Don't wait until the last minute to get everything done. Plan your time—make out a schedule, consider special preferences and determine if the gift will be mailed. Plan to make extra baked goods of Fruit 'n Nut Breads and Hint O' Mint Drops for last minute giving and family enjoyment.

Involve the entire family in your baking activities. Even small children can help grease cookie sheets, shape and decorate cookies, design gift cards and especially take part in the actual gift giving.

This holiday season put yourself into gift giving and give your gift of love with pride.

GIFT GIVING CONTAINER

Complete your gift of love by having the oatmeal tube and using it as your gift giving container. Cookies and candy will stay freshest if the inside is first lined with foil. It should extend several inches above the top and turn down over the lip of the tube. A plastic bag may be used as a removable inner lining. Decorate the outside with colored foil, wrapping paper, felt, ribbon or yarn. Fill the decorated container with your own home-baked cookies and give it as a generous expression of your love.

PEAR BUNDT CAKE

3 cups all-purpose flour	1 1/2 teaspoons cinnamon
1 1/2 cups firmly packed brown sugar	1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup quick or old fashioned oats, uncooked	1/2 cup shredded pear
1 tablespoon baking powder	4 eggs, beaten
	3/4 cup vegetable oil
	2 teaspoons vanilla

Heat oven to 325°F. Combine dry ingredients in large bowl. All pear, eggs, oil and vanilla, mix just until dry ingredients are moistened. Spoon into well-greased 12-cup Bundt pan. Bake at 325°F. about 1 hour or until wooden pick inserted in center comes out clean. Cool 10 minutes, remove from pan. Cool completely on wire rack. Sprinkle with confectioners sugar, if desired. Makes 12-cup Bundt cake.

FRUIT 'N NUT BREADS

4 1/3 cups all-purpose flour	2 cups milk
1 1/2 cups quick or old fashioned oats, uncooked	4 eggs, beaten
1 1/2 cups sugar	3/4 cup finely chopped dried apricots
1 cup chopped nuts	3/4 cup butter or margarine, melted
2 tablespoons baking powder	1 tablespoon grated orange peel
2 teaspoons salt	1 cup chopped fresh or frozen cranberries
1 teaspoon soda

Heat oven to 325°F. Generously grease three 1-lb. coffee cans. Combine flour, oats, sugar, nuts, baking powder, salt and soda in large bowl, mix well. Add milk, eggs, apricots, butter and orange peel; mix just until dry ingredients are moistened. Fold in cranberries.

Fill each greased coffee can with about 2-1/2 cups batter. Bake at 325°F. about 1 hour and 15 minutes or until wooden pick inserted in center comes out clean. Cool 15 minutes, remove from cans. Cool completely on wire rack. Decorate with additional chopped dried apricots, cranberries or nuts, drizzle with confectioners sugar glaze, if desired. Makes three 1-lb. coffee cans loaves.

VARIATION: Substitute 6 greased 16-oz. vegetable cans (#303 size) for coffee cans. Increase oven temperature to 350°F. Fill each can with about 1-1/4 cups batter, bake at 350°F. about 55 minutes or until wooden pick inserted in center comes out clean. Proceed as recipe directs.

HINT O' MINT DROPS

3/4 cup butter or margarine	1-1/4 cups all-purpose flour
1 cup firmly packed brown sugar	1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup granulated sugar	1/2 teaspoon soda
One 6-oz. pkg. (1 cup) semi-sweet chocolate pieces	One 6-oz. pkg. (1 cup) semi-sweet chocolate pieces
1 egg	1/3 cup finely crushed peppermint candy
1 tablespoon water
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 1/2 cups quick or old fashioned oats, uncooked

Heat oven to 350°F. Beat together butter and sugars until light and fluffy, blend in egg, water and vanilla. Add oats, flour, salt and soda, mix well. Stir in chocolate pieces and candy. Drop by well rounded measuring table-spoonfuls onto greased cookie sheet about 2 inches apart and 1-1/2 inches from edge of cookie sheet. Bake at 350°F. for 12 to 14 minutes or until golden brown. Cool 1 minute on cookie sheet, cool completely on wire rack. Makes about 2-1/2 dozen cookies.

CHRISTMAS GRANOLA

2 1/2 cups quick or old fashioned oats, uncooked	1/2 cup butter or margarine, melted
3/4 cup unprocessed bran	1/3 cup grated orange peel
1/2 cup chopped pecans	1/4 cup honey
1/2 cup firmly packed brown sugar	1/2 cup raisins

Heat oven to 325°F. Combine all ingredients except raisins, mix well. Place on ungreased 15x10 inch jelly roll pan. Bake at 325°F. for 30 to 35 minutes or until golden brown, stirring occasionally. Stir in raisins. Spread onto ungreased cookie sheet or aluminum foil, cool. Store in tightly covered container in refrigerator. Makes 3 cups granola.

MAPLE NO-BAKE CONFECTIONS

2 cups quick oats, uncooked	1 teaspoon grated orange peel
1-1/4 cups confectioners sugar	2 tablespoons orange juice
1 cup finely chopped walnuts	1/4 cup maple flavored syrup

In medium-sized mixing bowl, combine oats, 3/4 cup confectioners sugar, nuts and orange peel. Add orange juice and syrup, mixing until dry ingredients are thoroughly moistened. Chill 1 hour. Shape to form 1-inch balls. Roll balls in remaining 1/2 cup confectioners sugar, place in wax paper-lined container. Cover loosely, store at least 8 hours or overnight at room temperature. Makes about 3 dozen no-bake confections.

NOTE: For longer storage, store in tightly covered container at room temperature.

Three-fourths of U.S. households are now using coupons

By MARTIN SLOAN
The coupon critics went into hiding recently when the A.C. Nielsen Co. revealed the findings of its latest consumer survey on the use of manufacturers' cash-off coupons.

Coupons are used by 76 percent of the households surveyed. And 56 percent of those households are using more coupons now than they did a year ago. Do shoppers feel they are being forced to use coupons? Not according to the Nielsen figures. Of the coupon users, 76 percent like using them "very much" while only 3 percent do so unhappily.

Do shoppers agree with White House consumer adviser Esther Peterson that food prices would decrease if coupons were eliminated? Only 19 percent believe that view, while 47 percent believe that prices would stay the same and 22 percent believe they would rise.

Are low-income groups excluded from coupon use as the coupon critics have charged? Absolutely not! Sixty-nine percent of low-income consumers say they use coupons, that's up from 51 percent in a similar survey conducted in 1975.

Do men use coupons? Of course, say 55 percent of the men interviewed.

But are shoppers using their coupons more effectively? Of those who make shopping lists, 37 percent say they refer to their coupons in preparing it. And 25 percent are keeping their coupons in envelopes or folders, that's up from 9 percent in 1975.

There is little doubt that smart shoppers are organizing their coupons in their shopping habits for greater supermarket savings. If you have not filed your coupons into the 12 product groups, it's time to do so!

1980 is vintage year for wine books

This is a vintage year for wine books.

They range in price from a $2.25 mass market paperback to two $25 hardcover volumes: The Great Vintage Wine Book, by Michael Broadbent, head of Christie's auction galleries since the 1960s (Knopf), and Wine Secrets, by Dennis and Ava Overstreet (Grosset & Dunlap). Overstreet is a Los Angeles wine merchant and his wife is a professional writer.

Broadbent writes that he has made no attempt to deal with "run-of-the-mill wines, which are best drunk quickly and as quickly as best forgotten."

"I'm not trying to be popular," he said during a recent visit to New York City. "I'm trying to provide information that has not been published before."

Many of the wines he reports on are no longer available. But many others are, Broadbent said, and he hopes the book will be read by "a lot of people with wine in their cellars who want to know how it's coming along, and who don't want to open bottles prematurely."

His comments are brief and to the point. "Not for keeping," he writes. Or "Drink now." Or "This but diamonds, as in tiny, glinting starbursts or flecks of light. Consider the splendor of Chateau No. 5 perfume, as well as the many Chateau fragrances and beauty gifts. Most overpriced, as in lingerie and—yes!—men's shirts. Capture the pleasure of the family, the treasure of the traditions."

His listings go back to 1853. Comments on the 17th, 18th, 19th and early 20th century wines are taken from sources of their periods, including Christie's own catalogues.

The Overstreet's book contains extensive vintage lists rating wines on a scale of 1 to 20. It also, as the title suggests, shares the authors' expertise on other topics of practical interest: how to store unopened and opened bottles; choose corkscrews, understand the language of wine and match foods to wines. They also profile some leading winemakers and, in a gimmicky chapter, the zodiac sign wine preferences.

The $25 book is just what its subtitle says: "A complete introduction." The New Signet Book of Wine, by Alexis Bespaloff (Signet) is an updated version of a book that has had 14 printings since 1971. Bespaloff's advice on tasting wines and developing a palate is based on his own early experiences in the European wine trade.

"The only way to learn about wines is to try different bottles and be aware of what you are drinking," he writes. He then suggests keeping a record of what you drink, including the name of the wine, who made it, the vintage year, if any, when and where you bought the wine, the price, when you drank it and what you thought of it.

There are vineyard maps, current information about wine laws and new vineyard regions as well as how-to advice on reading labels and wine lists, storing and serving, matching wines with food and starting a wine cellar.

Five other excellent books retail for $4.95-$5.95 each.

Four are wallet-sized "field guides," a category pioneered by another British wine expert, Hugh Johnson, whose first "Pocket Encyclopedia of Wine" was published in 1977 (Simon & Schuster). It has been revised twice, most recently in 1979. Now three similar books by three other wine writers have been published, and a fourth, although of larger dimensions, serves the same purpose admirably.

Four of the five use systems to rate wines for current and future drinking. All provide evaluations by themselves or other recognized experts in the field.

Barbara, Fawcett's "Pocket Guide to Wine" (Perigee paperback) is very similar in content to Johnson's book, providing information on wines of the world. The Pocket Encyclopedia of California Wines, by Bob Thompson (Simon & Schuster) and The Connoisseurs' Handbook of California Wines, by Charles Olken, Earl Singer and Norman Robey (Knopf) also are very similar in content. Both contain guides to touring the wine country, and Thompson has a brief chapter on matching wine to food, while the second book does not. Thompson's book is endorsed by Johnson, his collaborator on a critically acclaimed hardcover California wine book a few years ago. Olken and Singer are editors of Connoisseurs' Guide, a California wine newsletter. Robey is associate editor of Vintage magazine.

The fifth paperback, edited by Harold I. Silverman (California Living Books paperback $5.95) provides a region-by-region analysis and listing of California wines in very readable style, with many comments from winemakers, wine-and-food pairings, names and addresses of retailers and restaurants with good California wine lists and touring guides, among other things.

Three other new wine books are largely for reading, although they do contain some service material: Vino (Boston: Atlantic-Little, Brown $19.95) is by and The World of Wines, by Burton Crighton Churchill (Macmillan paperback $6.95) are revised editions of earlier books. Sichel is a fourth generation member of the wine trade and a widely recognized expert writes about available wine, especially outside of major metropolitan areas. Both Frank Schoonmaker's The Wines of Germany, by Peter Sichel (Hastings House $10.95) Advisory Committee.

Sausage is ideal for great gift occasions

Holidays have a tradition of hospitality, entertaining and enjoying the company of friends and family. All these occasions usually involve gift-giving or snacking.

A magnificent gift is a whole stick of aromatic sausage, ready to slice and savor at once, or keep for a special party. The National Hot Dog & Sausage Council suggests using a variety of sausage mixing colors, textures and flavors for a hearty and convenient treat.

A favored idea among young and old is Hot Dog Spread. The young love it for a sandwich. Teens will like it as a creamy dip with chips. Adults will enjoy it hot or cold on an assortment of breads and crackers.

Cocktail franks in sauce make great buffet dishes. Franks in a variety of sauces can be made at home, then taken to party as a hostess gift or as your contribution to the festivities. In either case, the only thing needed is a waiting chafing dish to keep them hot for serving.

Pickled knackerwurst is an old country idea for giving sausage a unique flavor. This robust snack makes a great refrigerated dish to keep on hand for an unexpected company, or as a gift to the friend who always invites people to stay for a bit. A wonderful gift giving is a wonderful way to share part of yourself when the gift is something you have made. Include the recipe, if you're willing to share it, as an added thoughtful gesture. Choose attractive glass or ceramic containers for your sausage recipe gifts. These can be used over and over, and will be a reminder of using the unique, flavorful gift which they once contained.

Hot Dog Spread: 1 pound frankfurters, any size
1/2 cup mayonnaise, approximately
2 teaspoons prepared mustard
Grind wiener in a food chopper or food processor. In mixing bowl or food processor, combine ground wiener with mayonnaise and mustard. Mix well, adding more mayonnaise for a softer spread if desired. Spoon into a glass or ceramic container with a tight-fitting cover. Keep refrigerated. If properly stored, spread will keep in refrigerator for about one week.

Makes about 2 1/2 cups or 18 ounces.
Serving ideas: As a cold hors d'oeuvre, serve Hot Dog Spread on toast rounds or cocktail ring bread. As a hot appetizer, spread on triangles of white and rye bread, broil until just bubbly. Or, use Hot Dog Spread as a sandwich filling.
Pickled Knackerwurst: 1 1/2 pounds fully cooked knackerwurst
1 medium onion, thinly sliced
2 1/2 cups water
1/4 cup vinegar
2 tablespoons sugar
1 tablespoon pickling spices
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
1 teaspoon whole allspice
1 teaspoon crushed, dried red pepper
1 1/2 teaspoon peppercorns
Cut knackerwurst diagonally to make 1/2-inch slices. Separate onion into rings. In a two-quart glass or ceramic container, place alternate layers of knackerwurst and onion. In a medium saucepan, combine water, vinegar, sugar, and all spices, bring to a boil, reduce heat and simmer, bring to 5 minutes, pour over sausage and onion.

minutes. Pour hot brine over knackerwurst and onion, cover and let cool. When cooled, refrigerate for 3 to 4 days to marinate. Stir once or twice each day. Pickled Knackerwurst will keep in the refrigerator for about 2 weeks.
Makes about 5 cups or 1 1/2 pounds.
Serving ideas: To serve as a hot snack or appetizer, remove some of the brine along with desired amount of Pickled Knackerwurst to potato salad.
Franks in Sauer: Select your favorite kind of sausage or franks from the following:
Canned Vienna sausage, split
Packages of tiny sausages
Cocktail franks
Wiener cut into 1/2-inch slices
Rosy Mustard Sauce: In medium saucepan combine 1 (12-oz.) jar current jelly with 1 (8-oz.) jar Dijon-style mustard. Cook and stir over medium heat just until jelly dissolves and sauce begins to simmer. Makes about 2 1/2 cups sauce. Add 1 to 1 1/4 cups sausage, simmer about 5 minutes or until heated through.
Spiced BBQ Sauce: In medium saucepan, combine 1 cup Bourbon whiskey, 1 cup firmly packed brown sugar and 1 cup tangy or hot catsup. Cook and stir over medium heat until sauce just comes to a boil. Reduce heat and simmer, stirring occasionally, for 15 minutes.

Makes about 2 1/2 cups sauce. Add 1 to 1 1/4 pounds sausage, simmer about 5 minutes or until heated through.
Smoky Links Appetizers: The fruity sweet flavor of this sauce is a perfect complement for smoky links of franks.
2 medium size apples, peeled, cored and chopped
1 1/2 medium onions, chopped
1/2 cup brown sugar
Preheat oven to 275°F. Combine all the above ingredients in a large casserole dish and bake for approximately 1 1/2 hours, stirring occasionally. Serve with picks in a chafing dish to keep warm.

Breakfast to chase slumber from the party

Planning a slumber party at your home? There is no better way for a group of teenagers to chase the slumber from their party than with a nutritious good-tasting breakfast.

This grand finale party menu is planned around Peachy Keen Pizza, a spectacular fruit-topped coffee-cake that is baked on a pizza pan and served in wedges. But it is not complete until you add a honey-crumble topping made with honey and nut coated corn flakes cereal. When it's time to eat, bring out a platter full of crisp bacon strips and assorted sliced cheeses, portable breakfast foods that are easy to make and serve. For a beverage, have Creamy Banana-Orange Refresher.

Milk is served with the group.

Peachy Keen Pizza

2 packages (8 oz. each) refrigerator crescent dinner rolls
 1/2 cup peach preserves
 2 tablespoons raisins
 1 can (16 oz.) sliced peaches, well drained
 1 apple, pared and thinly sliced
 1 1/2 cups honey and nut coated corn flake cereal
 2 tablespoons margarine or butter, melted
 1/4 teaspoon ground ginger

Creamy Banana-Orange Refresher

1 can (6 oz.) frozen orange juice concentrate, thawed
 2 bananas, well mashed
 3 pints vanilla ice cream, softened
 6 cups cold milk
 Place orange juice concentrate and bananas in large mixing bowl. Mix until thoroughly combined. Gradually add ice cream, beating until smooth after each addition. Stir in milk. Serve immediately or refrigerate overnight, stirring well just before serving. Yield: 12 servings, about 1 cup each.

Cookies can be the apple of your eye

Christmas cookies are one of the oldest and most delicious of all holiday traditions. It's for just such occasions as this in the past that many homemakers set aside precious butter and sugar and gathered special recipes.

Fortunately, real butter cookies have enough flavor so that not too much sweetening is necessary. You can make nearly 100 Holiday Apple Cookies with a single cup of sugar.

Chocolate sprinkles Cream butter; gradually add sugar and beat until light and fluffy. Beat in whole egg, 1 egg yolk, 3 tablespoons fresh lemon juice.

1 teaspoon vanilla extract
 4 cups all-purpose flour
 Red and green colored sugar

Here are a few tips that may help you make these cookies the apple of your eye: Rather than letting the butter soften, slice each stick into patties for creaming so you don't have to use any more flour than is specified in the recipe. Cookies made that way will be more tasty and tender.

You need to butter the cookie sheets only for Holiday Apple Cookies. Cookies will not spread or change shape if the cookie sheets are cold before baking.

Wives help market their husbands' fish

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — The wives of West Coast fishermen are trying to get consumers to buy more fish.

They are also trying to show butchers and chain store buyers the proper way to handle and display fish, says Nancy Kartak, president of the Pacific Coast Fishermen's Wives Coalition and wife of a Newport, Ore., trawler.

While the wives are volunteering their time, their expenses for the program will be paid by a $66,200 federal grant to the Portland-based West Coast Fisheries Development Foundation. The grant is part of about $1 million the federal government is putting up to help the fishing industry.

West Coast fishing industry, many of whose fishermen are threatened with loss of their vessels. The campaign is starting in Portland. Michele Wetmore, home economist for the West Coast Fisheries Development Foundation, said similar groups on the East Coast are "watching our program very closely and there is talk of implementing it elsewhere."

Mrs. Wetmore said the foundation hopes to spread it along the entire West Coast next year, then move it to the East Coast and gradually work inland.

Mrs. Kartak said the availability of fish has increased but the plight of fishermen has worsened since 1976 and passage of the 200-mile limit, or Fishery Conservation and Management Act.

That act led to major growth in construction of larger, more sophisticated fishing boats. One such boat often can land in a few hours what may take days for a fleet of older boats.

But processing capacity has not increased and the collapse of the Japanese market this year resulted in many fishermen being placed on trip quotas, leaving boats idle in ports.

Mrs. Kartak said annual per capita consumption of fish in the United States is 12 pounds currently, versus 105 for beef and 50 for poultry — and consumer attitudes toward buying and eating fish are not always good.

Fish often takes a long, roundabout route to retail stores, she said, and needs better handling and display when it gets there. By the time it reaches dinner tables, she said many people are turned off.

Mrs. Kartak also said retailers are not taught how to handle fish.

The wives' program includes in-store displays where shoppers will be offered tastes of fish, recipes and other tips on preparation.

If retailers are willing, the program will also include seminars explaining the ins and outs of buying and selling fish.

The program will try to speed fish from processor to retail store that now often takes as long as six days.

If one day can be knocked off in each of three handling procedures, Mrs. Kartak said, the fish should arrive at retail stores in far better condition.

In preparation for the program, 75 West Coast fishermen's wives attended a weeklong workshop at Oregon State University, along with Sam Gillespie, a Texas A&M seafood marketing specialist and author of a seafood retailing market book.

"Seafood accounts for only 6 percent of the total meat consumption in the U.S. and 70 percent of the seafood is consumed in restaurants," Gillespie said. "With only 30 percent consumed in the home, the seafood market obviously has room for expansion."

Consumers have positive attitudes about the nutritional value of seafood, he added, "and they believe it is a good buy for the money."

Consumer attitudes toward fish are determined not only by quality, he said, but also by the manner in which fish is displayed.

Side dishes

Stewed Plum Sauce
 2 cups water
 1/4 cup sugar
 4 cups sliced fresh plums (about 2 pounds)

Combine water, sugar and nutmeg in heavy saucepan. Bring to a boil, reduce heat and simmer until thickened, about 10 to 12 minutes. Add plum slices and simmer until fruit is tender, about 10 minutes. Remove from heat and cool to room temperature. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 4 cups.

Blushing Spiced Peaches
 1 pound 1-ounce jar spiced peaches
 1/4 cup red fruit jelly—currant, strawberry, raspberry
 1/2 cup spiced peach juice (or 1/2 cup rum)
 1 teaspoon bottled lemon juice
 1 4-ounce package whipped cream cheese

Put jelly, peach juice (or rum) and lemon juice on small pot, place on low heat and cook until jelly melts and the resulting liquid bubbles. Meanwhile, scrape the whipped cream cheese into a mixing bowl, then whisking constantly, slowly pour the hot jelly sauce into the cream cheese. Place the peaches on individual plates, spoon on cream cheese mixture. Also use to top cookies. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 6 servings.

Fresh Parsnip Patties
 2 cups mashed cooked parsnips
 1 1/2 teaspoons salt
 1/4 teaspoon pepper
 1/4 teaspoon sugar
 1 teaspoon paprika
 1 teaspoon fresh lemon juice
 1 egg
 1/2 cup fine dry bread crumbs

Combine mashed parsnips, salt, pepper, sugar, paprika, lemon juice, egg and bread crumbs. Mix well. Shape into 2 1/2-inch patties 1/2-inch thick. Dip in flour. Cook in butter or bacon drippings in skillet, turning to brown both sides.

Tortellini, well worth effort

There is something soothing about Italian food, especially pasta. A friend admits that "eating Italian" whenever emotionally upset makes life's little aggravations seem less burdensome.

This point was being bandied about at a luncheon table one day. The end result of the conversation is a very special recipe for Tortellini Bolognese from a young woman, who recalls, as a child, watching her grandmother make tortellini in a crowded apartment. She spread the little stuffed pasta dough rings on a clean sheet on a bed for them to dry before cooking. This and other home pasta-making were part of a child's world of memories in traditional Italian homes.

Tortellini Bolognese is part of northern Italian holiday feasting.

Tortellini Bolognese
 Sauce
 1/2 cup chopped onion
 2 cloves garlic
 3 tablespoons olive or vegetable oil
 1 jar (32 ounces) old world style spaghetti sauce, any flavor
 2 teaspoons basil
 1 teaspoon oregano
 In large skillet, saute onions and garlic in oil until onions are translucent. Add sauce, basil and oregano; combine well. Simmer 15 minutes or until heated through.

Filling
 1 package (10 ounces) frozen chopped spinach, cooked and squeezed dry
 1 egg
 1/2 cup grated Parmesan cheese
 1 tablespoon butter or margarine, melted
 1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
 Pepper to taste
 In medium bowl, combine all ingredients; set aside.

To prepare tortellini:
 Divide dough into 8 sections and roll into sheets 1/16-inch thick. Cut into 2-inch squares; cover with damp paper towel and keep moist. Top each square with 1/4 teaspoon spinach filling; fold diagonally across to form a triangle. Press edges to seal, curve triangle around tip of your thumb to form a ring. Overlap ends and press together to seal. Repeat for remaining squares. Let dry on paper towel 15 minutes before cooking. Sprinkle with sauce. Sprinkle with Parmesan cheese if desired. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 180 tortellini to serve 8-10. Freezes well.

Try new holiday hors d'oeuvres

Party dips and hors d'oeuvres become old hat, and we're always looking for something new, especially during holiday festivities.

Different and relatively easy to make is a mushroom "caviar" dip without the caviar and little ham crescents.

Mushroom "Caviar" Dip
 1/2 pound fresh mushrooms or 1 can (6 ounces) mushroom stems and pieces
 3 tablespoons butter or margarine
 1/2 cup finely chopped onion
 1/2 teaspoon paprika
 1 tablespoon lemon juice
 1 teaspoon salt

Little Ham Crescents
 1 cup finely chopped cooked ham
 1 egg, lightly beaten
 1 tablespoon dairy sour cream
 1/2 teaspoon tarragon leaves, crumbled
 1/2 teaspoon ground white pepper
 1 package (10 ounces) frozen party shells thawed
 In medium bowl, combine ham, egg, sour cream, tarragon and white pepper; mix well and set aside. Place party shells one on top of the other. Press lightly to seal together.

On a lightly floured board, roll out dough 1/16-inch thick, about 16-inches square; cut into 18, 4-inch squares. On one corner of each square, place about 1 teaspoon of the ham mixture. Roll up like crescents, turn ends in slightly. If desired, brush tops with beaten egg yolk mixed with 1 tablespoon water. Place on jelly-roll pan. Bake in a preheated oven at 375 degrees (325 degrees) until golden, about 15 to 20 minutes. Serve hot as hors d'oeuvres.

Goldie Hawn studies her maid's Spanish. Looking on is Chevy Chase, who portends as she attempts to prepare "Chicken Pepperoni" in a scene from Neil Simon's new motion picture comedy "Seems Like Old Times."

Recipe for laughter

Goldie Hawn tries out her first attempt at "chicken pepperoni" on her trusting husband Charles Grodin, while Hamlet and Jiggs look on in Neil Simon's new motion picture comedy, "Seems Like Old Times."

Hawn, more at ease in a courtroom than a kitchen, portrays a crusading liberal lawyer, set on aiding the down-and-outs of the world, whether human or animal. Her chauffeur is a car thief, her gardeners are vandals, her kitchen is staffed by illegal aliens, her six dogs and cats have the run of the house, and her ex-husband-turned-kept man (Chevy Chase) keeps popping up — in the garage, in the back seat of her car, under the bed — wherever and whenever he's least expected.

Chicken Pepperoni
 2 cups chopped onions
 1/2 head of garlic finely chopped
 6 cups coarsely chopped peeled tomatoes
 12 oz. tomato paste
 1 tsp. oregano
 1 tsp. basil
 2 tsp. salt
 4 chicken breast halves, boned and split into two portions

Baked Apples Deluxe
 6 large baking apples
 1/2 cup sugar
 1/4 cup each walnuts and chopped pecans
 1 cup Bogs Cranberry Lager
 2 whole cloves
 1/4 stick cinnamon
 1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
 Core apples and peel 1 inch skin around top to apples. Place in two quart casserole. Set aside. Mix sugar, raisins and pecans. Fill center of apples with mixture. Mix Bogs, cloves, cinnamon and nutmeg. Pour over apples. Place in 375 F. oven for 45 minutes and serve with topping made by mixing 3 oz. softened cream cheese, 3 tablespoons heavy cream and 1 tablespoon sugar.

Protesters must leave hotel rooms

HARTFORD (UPI) — A Superior Court judge says that while there may be a housing crisis in Connecticut's capital city, a downtown hotel isn't to blame and can't be kept in the middle of a protest over it.

In a ruling Tuesday, Housing Court Judge Arthur Spada gave a group of Hispanic families until noon Thursday to leave the Hartford Hilton rooms they have called home since an overnight housing protest in City Hall last month.

Several little leaf Linden trees were planted in front of Buckley School, Vernon Street, Manchester, Tuesday afternoon. The planting was done under the auspices of the Memorial Tree Program of the Greater Manchester Chamber of Commerce.

Spada admitted the families may have had difficulty in finding adequate housing, but said that didn't give them the right to stay in the hotel and hold up plans for its renovation.

"The occupants desire to possibly highlight a housing crisis, although laudable, cannot however interfere with the property rights of innocent parties," the judge said in a 17-page opinion.

"They were supposed to leave the hotel by Nov. 24 but were given an extension until Tuesday after Spada was asked to review their claims that adequate housing wasn't available and the city had failed to make good on its promises."

"We find that a satisfactory inventory of comparable rooms has been established adequate to meet the physical needs of the party occupants upon relocation," the judge said.

He said he was "not unmindful that the party occupants have incurred difficulty in locating suitable dwelling or apartment facilities," but stressed the hotel wasn't at fault for "a failed regional housing plan."

Spada's ruling granted an injunction sought by the hotel's owners, Aetna Life Insurance Co. and Travelers Insurance Co., which have sold the building to a firm headed by developer David Chase.

The hotel was shut down except for the families last week so renovations could begin, but Chase has refused to take title to the building until the families were out.

It was unclear whether the families would abide by Spada's order and leave with ramblings from members of the group that they would stay until all of the families were placed in permanent homes or move the protest elsewhere.

Solon seeks to abolish 'right to know' law unit

HARTFORD (UPI) — A state lawmaker has filed a bill to abolish a five-year-old state commission that settles disputes over the public's access to government records and meetings.

Democratic Rep. Joseph J. Farricelli of Branford said Tuesday he believes the Freedom of Information Commission has "done more to frustrate our government and add to our bureaucracy" than increase public access to government business.

"I have noted that in opening our committees we have found that not the general public has shown up but the special interest groups have had an opportunity to gain additional advantages over the Legislature, and that in itself I think speaks for the value of it," he said.

The commission was set up by the 1974 Freedom of Information Act which required public access to virtually all public meetings and public documents, including those involving the Legislature.

Farricelli also said the state could save money by abolishing the commission and instead elect legislators "who are conscious of the needs of their constituency" to address areas handled by the agency.

Rice, president of the Nutmeg Broadcasting Co., disputed the claim the law favored special interest groups and said the commission's budget was a "miscellaneous" part of the state's overall spending.

"The special interest groups are the public. Everyone is part of some special interest," Rice said. "I don't see any one of these groups latching on to something like Connecticut's Freedom of Information Law and using it as some sort of a club against government."

The Freedom of Information Council was established by various news organizations in the mid 1960s and had lobbied for adoption of the law and creation of the commission.

Nursing home pact set

HARTFORD (UPI) — Workers at another Connecticut nursing home have settled a contract to end a week-old strike, leaving five other facilities with 550 elderly and sick patients still affected by walkouts.

Employees of the 150-bed Jewish Home for the Aged in New Haven voted Tuesday night to accept a three-year contract that includes a $1.50 hourly wage increase, a new pension plan to begin in January 1983 and a minimum $5.60 an hour salary for new employees.

Meanwhile, physical and occupational therapy was resumed Tuesday for patients at Lorraine Manor in Hartford, whose maintenance and kitchen workers and nurses aides were still on strike. Those services had been suspended when employees struck Nov. 24 and were resumed at the insistence of the state Department of Health Services.

Sunday at Lorraine Manor to protest what they claimed was excessive force used by Hartford police in arresting union demonstrators last Sunday outside the home. Police arrested 40 pickets, including union president Jerome Brown, at last weekend's rally when they blocked driveways and became unruly.

The walkouts have led to 81 arrests, most of them at Lorraine.

Beyond holiday standbys

The holidays mark an abundance of party-going with host and hostesses looking for a relatively easy main dish to serve a small gathering.

OUR PRECIOUS FREEDOMS
 Make Sure You Stay In The Drivers Seat

When you take away your right to drive there'll be fewer reasons to be silly.

There'll be fewer family parties. Not to mention more driving time. Road rage, variations, moans, groans, maximum, maximum, maximum. With inflation, national games, symptoms, and friends outside walking and friends inside walking.

And, the more you keep subtracting, the more frightening it gets. Because what you're finally left with is a reduction in our quality of life. A quality that can't come from use of freedom. To guarantee individual interests to get where we want, when we want.

It's our right to drive really, to "danger". Under the Department of Energy Emergency Plan, the National Automobile Foundation and to mobilize, a free booklet, "Are You Being Regulated Right Out of the Driver's Seat?" is available through your local Department of Energy. It's only $1.99, one-fifth of every with host and hostesses looking for a relatively easy main dish to serve a small gathering.

Going beyond the stand-by ham and turkey or roast beef offerings is a very different, tasty Rock Lobster green noodle salad.

Serve this with a hot mushroom or shrimp bisque. Italian garlic bread and pound cake with brandy sauce and a bowl of fresh fruit, plus cheese wedges.

Rock Lobster Green Noodle Salad
 24 ounces of frozen South African rock lobster tails
 1 package 18 ounces spinach egg noodles
 2 cups chicken broth
 2 tablespoons lemon juice
 Ground pepper
