

School board delays school closing

By BARBARA RICHMOND
Herald Reporter

VERNON - Although Board of Education members contended it wasn't for that reason, they did bow to the wishes of a large group of parents and townpeople, Monday night as they voted to delay, at least until March, any decision to close a school next year.

Instead, the board agreed to form a 15-member committee to develop further criteria, establish decision points, establish a list of alternatives and to make a recommendation to the board by March 15.

The only school the board has been considering for closing, and the only one on which an impact study was done, was the Vernon Elementary School.

Vernon

Parents and other residents have spoken out against the closing of this school at several other board meetings, at a public hearing, and at last night's board meeting.

The motion to postpone the action was made by board member Devra Baum and the vote on it was 6-2 in favor. She said her purpose in making the motion was to have a policy established concerning school closings.

She said that she is convinced that the data assembled up to now is good but she's not convinced the board has all of the data it should. She said she's especially concerned because the board doesn't have a policy.

She said setting March 15 as the date for a decision is a compromise. She said some people want the board to wait a year and some wanted to make a decision right away.

She was asked to define her idea of "policy" and said she wants one that would say the room utilization would have to fall below a certain percentage or to a certain pupil-teacher ratio, before a school is closed.

Board member Harold Cummings spoke adamantly against the motion. He said it would appear at most that one or two board members would consider closing a school other than Vernon Elementary. He asked by creating the committee and delaying the vote, "wouldn't we only be playing games with the public?"

Dr. Bernard Sidman, superintendent of schools, said the time line chart he prepared, several months ago, relative to school closings, called for a Task Force and the gathering of opinions and information. He said he would like to see the committee break up into small groups.

Mrs. Baum said she isn't convinced that Vernon Elementary is the only school to be closed.

Cummings said, "I feel in light of the fact that off the record and on, two-thirds of the board members have said there is no doubt an elementary school has to close next year and the only school considered was Vernon Elementary, I frankly think this board is abdicating its responsibility."

Lee Belanger, another board member, expressed concern about forming another committee. She said if the committee decides one thing and the board decides another then this could cause more hard feelings.

Cummings added, if the board is going to disband the school then it's not fair to delay. He asked board members to think, "Are you doing this because you want to buy some peace for another month?" JoAnn Worthen, who voted against the motion, said she was in agreement that there should be basic guidelines to follow, but expressed the fear that unless the board stops postponing the decisions the issue of closing schools will never be resolved.

Dr. Bernard Sidman, superintendent of schools, said the time line chart he prepared, several months ago, relative to school closings, called for a Task Force and the gathering of opinions and information. He said he would like to see the committee break up into small groups.

Board member Dr. George Prosty asked Dr. Sidman if he forces the developing of a general policy concerning school closings, as a result of the committee's work.

Dr. Sidman said this would fall in the area of what he termed decision points.

Board member Robert Schwartz said the policy would be included in the area of what he termed decision points.

The proposed committee would act in an advisory capacity only and the weeding down of the criteria and the final decision would be made by the entire school board.

The committee would be made up of a secondary administrator, an elementary school administrator, representatives of an elementary school, Sykes School, and the Middle School, a school board member, a Town Council member and a representative of the public at large.

At the start of the board meeting, during the citizen forum, the board was presented with a petition bearing 1,568 signatures of persons opposing the closing of any elementary school next year.

Several persons, who have spoken out on the issue in the past, spoke again last night. Some again asked for a delay of one year to allow a more comprehensive study.

Another speaker, Ray Grasso, asked the board if it understood that how it decides about the school closing will have a more major effect on the community than why it does.

Sandra McGrath, a taxpayer, teacher and parent, said she felt it would be doing an injustice to the young people by ultimately increasing class sizes by closing a school.

Evacuation order

ROCKVILLE (UPI) - Deputy State Fire Marshal Leslie Williams said his office would ask a Superior Court judge today to order evacuation of a Willington nursing home because of inadequate fire protection.

Williams said Monday the sprinkler system at the Willington Convalescent Home was turned off more than a month ago for repairs and until it was fixed the home's 52 patients were threatened and should be moved.

Computer bids nearly ready

VERNON - It is expected the bid proposal for the new computer that will be bought to service town and educational needs, will be ready to submit to the Board of Education's Computer Committee by the end of December.

The list of functions the town wants the computer to handle were to be sent in by Mayor Marie Herbst the first of this week.

This will be the second time the computer has gone out to bid. Several residents convinced the Board of Education to seek new bids saying they felt the original bids were faulty in that they said they were based on equipment rather than on program needs.

Before going out to bid again, the Town Council said it would like the Computer Committee to review a report filed by a consultant on town finance Department.

Fun Club

VERNON - The Indian Valley YMCA will conduct a Holiday Fun Club at the YMCA building, 734 Hartford Tpk. during the December school vacation starting Dec. 29.

Children ages 6 through 12 are invited to sign up for this three-day program by Dec. 24. During the program participants will be involved in sports, games, tournaments and arts and crafts.

The program will run from 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. on Dec. 29, 30 and 31. Children are asked to wear proper clothing for indoor and outdoor play. Parents are asked to provide a bag lunch for their children. Beverage will be provided.

For further information contact the Indian Valley YMCA at 872-7329 or stop in at the office.

Doctor speaks

VERNON - Dr. Neil Brooks, chief of family medicine at Rockville General Hospital, will be the guest speaker at the Jan. 7 monthly luncheon lecture at noon at the hospital.

The subject of his talk will be "Facts, Fads, and Fallacies of Dieting."

Mrs. Linda Gates, registered dietician, will also speak on the nutritional aspects of dieting.

The admission, which includes the lunch, is $5 per person, payable at the door. Reservations are necessary and may be made by contacting the community relations office at the hospital, 872-6501, Ext. 264, before Dec. 23.

World mourns John Lennon

No funeral for Lennon

NEW YORK (UPI) - John Lennon's accused killer, held today under a 24-hour suicide watch in a hospital psychiatric ward, was a judge as security guard so obsessed with the former Beatle that he signed out from his last job as "John Lennon."

John loved and prayed for the human race. Please pray for him. Yoko Ono said in a message released Tuesday with the couple's 5-year-old son, Sean.

"We will set the time for silent vigil to pray for his soul," she said.

Lennon's widow, Yoko Ono, mother of their 5-year-old son, Sean, said there would be no funeral service but a "silent vigil" would be held later this week for friends and fans who wished to "pray for his soul."

building where Lennon lived. Beatle drummer Ringo Starr was mobbed, with fans frantically touching his hair, as he slipped through the crowds after visiting Miss Ono.

Lennon's look-alike 17-year-old son by a previous marriage, Julian, arrived from London Tuesday night, but it was not known if either Beatle Paul McCartney or George Harrison planned to come to New York.

In Manhattan Criminal Court Tuesday, Lennon's accused killer stood mute as he was charged with second-degree murder and ordered sent to Bellevue Hospital for 30 days' observation because of his history of mental problems and suicide attempts.

Hundreds of stunned rock fans, many crying, held a vigil in the rain outside the Dakota apartment

A former hospital print shop worker and security guard in Hawaii, he had no police record.

His attorney Herbert Adlerberg described his client as "a very confused individual," who was hospitalized for mental problems in Honolulu in 1977 after he rigged a rubber tube to the tailpipe of his car, ran it inside the car and rolled up the windows in an attempted suicide.

"This defendant is not fully cognizant of what is happening to him at this time," Adlerberg said. Later, outside the courtroom, he referred to Chapman as "nutty as a fruitcake."

Assistant District Attorney Kim Hogrefe said authorities had "a very strong case" against Chapman for the "premeditated execution of John Lennon."

Gov. Grasso in surgery

HARTFORD (UPI) - Cancer-stricken Gov. Ella Grasso underwent surgery for more than three hours today at Hartford Hospital for an obstructed colon.

Hospital spokesman James Battaglio said "the nature of that obstruction will be determined at the time of surgery." Mrs. Grasso entered the operating room at 7:58 a.m.

After a week at home, Mrs. Grasso, 61, re-entered Hartford Hospital Monday for "a diagnostic evaluation," Battaglio said.

He said doctors discovered the obstruction after a series of tests and X-rays and were "trying to determine the nature" of the problem.

Mrs. Grasso, the nation's first woman governor elected without succeeding her husband, announced her resignation last week, effective Dec. 31. She said liver cancer had left her without the "stamina or endurance" needed to run the state.

The liver cancer was detected during routine tests Nov. 24 while Mrs. Grasso was hospitalized for phlebitis of the left leg.

Battaglio said the governor was on intravenous feedings in a private room and had conducted some state business before undergoing the tests.

He cautioned it was too early to predict if the obstruction was a new cancer, saying, "It doesn't have to be malignant."

The governor underwent a hysterectomy in April for ovarian cancer and had follow-up radiation therapy which left her fatigued, nauseous and suffering gastritis for months.

Gov. Ella Grasso

Mrs. Grasso was released from the hospital last week after her first phase of chemotherapy treatment for the cancer.

Directors want police budget answers

By MARTIN KEARNS
Herald Reporter

MANCHESTER - Town directors have requested a meeting with town administrators to investigate budget transfers which, according to the police union's president, have increased overtime assignments instead of the department's size.

Edward J. Tighe, union president, has charged Police Chief Robert Lannan with authorizing inordinate amounts of overtime while the department remains dangerously understaffed. In a letter sent one week ago today, Tighe brought the issue to the attention of town directors.

At Tuesday's regular meeting of town directors, Deputy Mayor Stephen Cassano announced he and Republican Director Peter DiRosa would meet next week with both Robert Lannan, town police chief, and Robert Weiss, town manager.

Cassano explained the meeting as an attempt to review the "budget constraints" which have delayed the hiring of additional police officers. Cassano and DiRosa are working "bipartisanly" to develop recommendations for the 1981-82 town budget.

According to DiRosa, Cassano raised some questions as he reviewed the police department's monthly expenditures.

DiRosa said the two directors are concerned too much overtime may have been authorized when the Board of Directors allocated the police department enough money to in-

Mayor, GOP chagrined over HRC

By MARY KITZMAN
Herald Reporter

MANCHESTER - The Republican directors are "disappointed" and "upset" and Democratic Mayor Stephen Penny is "clearly embarrassed" over the handling of two appointments to the Human Relations Commission.

Tuesday evening two appointments, both Democratic, were made to the HRC according to the board's earlier decision to expand it from nine to 11. However, the four Republicans abstained on the vote, registering dissatisfaction at Democratic "political maneuvering."

Last month Mayor Stephen Penny promised the Republicans could have "input" on the two new members. The Republicans had readied a candidate, a Black woman living on Rachel Road, only to be told Monday their nominee would not be needed.

Along with the objections at the reversal, the Republicans questioned the purpose of the expansion, which was to allow more minority participation, when the Democrats appointed a woman and one Black.

The five Democrats appointed Elizabeth Thompson, wife of former mayor John Thompson, and Rubin Fisher, a Traversers insurance executive. Several Republicans, Minority Leader William Diana, and Pete DiRosa said they were not opposed to the appointees, but the procedure used.

The procedure used involved a month of debate and "partisan overtones" which Penny said he regretted.

If the Democratic majority held Penny's promise, they could stir party discontent by not appointing their choices. Giving the Republicans an appointment also meant the Democrats would have to choose between a popular nominee, and the commitment to appoint a minority. Penny, however, denied this morning he was under "that kind of pressure" during last night's short, but eloquent and forthright debate.

"I was trying to keep everybody happy," Penny said. "It didn't work."

Penny said he was hoping Diana would second Fisher's nomination, but it "didn't work that way."

While stressing the two appointees were good choices, Diana repeated his charges the Democrats were trying to "stack" the HRC. Along with the expansion the provision the party in power have no more than a bare majority was eliminated over Republican protests.

Diana suggested tabling the appointments, but Penny declined, saying it would open "more confusion to resign supreme."

Some face bleak Christmas wednesday

MANCHESTER - "Bleakness" and "Christmas" don't seem like words that go together, but unless the community shares its wealth, that is exactly what will face a local elderly couple.

Although the couple had lived comfortably in their apartment for about five years, 1980 found them swept up in the wave of condominium conversions.

He hated to leave the apartment block couldn't have come at a worse time. Added to that worry is the $50 which the couple must pay every seven weeks for the wife's high blood pressure medication.

At 62, with the wife's health ailing and himself being forced to wear a hearing aid, the man keeps hoping he can hang on for three more years so he'll be eligible for a full pension of $100 per month.

Meanwhile, the couple have moved from their comfortable home to a lower rent. A local interfaith agency is hoping residents will find leeway in their own budgets to help warm the new place.

As part of its Seasonal Sharing effort, the Manchester Area Conference of Churches has cited this family's plight as typical of the many families who could use help. Checks made out to "Seasonal Sharing" may be sent to P.O. Box 773, Manchester, 06040.

Gifts may be dropped off at the Heritage Savings Bank on Main Street or the K-Mart branch on Spencer Street.

Gifts may also be left off at the town Human Services Department on Center Street, St. Mary's parish on Park Street, or St. Bartholomew's on East Middle Turnpike.

All fire departments in town, including the Eighth Utilities District station, will also collect gifts. MACC officials urge that gifts not be wrapped. If desired, gift donors may supply the wrapping paper. Officials also ask that gifts be left off by Dec. 23, so they can be distributed in time for Christmas. Money will be useful through Christmas, officials said.

Cotter regional whip

HARTFORD (UPI) — New England members of the House Democratic Caucus have elected Rep. William Cotter, D-Conn., as their regional whip for the next congressional session.

In the post, Cotter will be responsible for keeping tabs on the region's Democratic votes on the floor of the House, will schedule votes on bills and work on establishing party positions on various issues.

"I am proud of the confidence my colleagues have displayed in me," Cotter, who represents greater Hartford's 1st District, said after the vote Tuesday.

He promised to work with the region's other Democratic congressmen "to assure our region a strong and representative voice in the critical issues which face our constituents."

Cotter said among the key issues facing New England were energy, housing, inflation and taxes.

Cotter, who will begin his sixth term in the House in January, is a ranking member of the powerful House Ways and Means Committee.

Nurses strike continues

WATERBURY (UPI) — A three-week-old strike by 500 nurses at Waterbury Hospital has developed into the most severe nurses' strike Connecticut has seen, the hospital's administrator says.

Richard Derr said Tuesday the impact of the walkout had been sharpened by the total number of workers — about 1,000 — who have refused to work since the nurses walked off the job on Nov. 17.

Contract talks were scheduled to resume today between negotiators for the 515-bed hospital and one of two striking Connecticut Health Care Associates bargaining units. No new talks had been scheduled for the other unit.

Derr said the strike was costing the registered and licensed practical nurses and another 574 maintenance and service workers who have honored the picket lines more than $144,000 a week in lost wages.

"Insofar as Connecticut is concerned, that would be the most severe strike of all of them," Derr said, adding the walkout also threatened to hit into the hospital's budget.

On Tuesday, there were 72 patients in the hospital compared to a normal daily census of more than 400. About 65 patients had been treated in the emergency room, a figure Derr called about two-thirds the usual daily tally.

decreased 16 percent since mid-November, falling from $45.4 million to 290 million gallons.

"This reflects a normal decline in inventories as a result of seasonal demand. Connecticut's supply picture remains very strong," Fitzpatrick said.

Wholesale prices rose 1.9 cents since mid-November to an average of 88.1 cents per gallon, representing an increase of 18.5 cents since last year at this time, the survey said.

Wholesale prices ranged from a high of 94 cents to 83.5 cents per gallon.

Evacuation postponed

ROCKVILLE (UPI) — A Superior Court judge has postponed a decision on evacuation of 52 elderly patients from a Willington nursing home after owners promised a sprinkler system would be repaired by Thursday.

Owners of the Willington Convalescent Home told Judge Robert Satter Tuesday that parts which had delayed repairs had arrived, and it would be fixed by Thursday.

Weiss tells directors recreation department cooperation is key

MANCHESTER — Town Manager Robert Weiss reported to the Board of Directors Tuesday evening there were no problems within the recreation department that "couldn't be solved by cooperation."

Weiss had been asked by the board to investigate the complaints of poor morale in the Recreation Department. The request, made at the board's meeting last month, came on the heels of several controversies surrounding the department's director, Mel Siebold.

The director has a history of stormy relations with the Advisory Park and Recreation Commission, and was investigated for his dealings with a California tour group, and the Manchester Swim Club during the summer and fall.

Although the Board of Directors established a policy that the swim club will be allowed to use town boards, and Siebold has no conflict in his moonlight coaching of the team, the advisory committee is still investigating Siebold's relationship with Student Valley Tours. There are questions on whether Siebold allowed the group to stay overnight at the Community "Y" without charge, and without notifying his superiors.

The controversy quieted while the advisory committee awaited a sworn statement from the tour group owner, William Brown, a longtime friend of Siebold's, that the group paid the past several years for the overnight stays.

However, what arrived was not an affidavit but a notarized statement. The advisory committee decided to try again to seek the sworn statement.

The committee members believed that an advisory committee they could not suggest a department investigation or an investigation of Siebold.

But he noted several meetings and "hated going."

At the time Weiss had suggested more cooperation and tried to smooth the relationship. He apparently alluded to that meeting in answering Penny that hopefully in the future the friction wouldn't exist.

Asked if Weiss's report was satisfactory, Penny replied, "It will have to be."

Manchu madness

Some 650 dinner guests watched the rockets' red glare from the all-glass atrium of the Metropolitan Museum.

It was one of the most fabulous Chinese fireworks displays ever touched off in New York's Central Park — fashion designer Bill Bliss's salute to Diana Vreeland, octogenarian matriarch of American fashion.

The occasion was Monday night's opening of the Vreeland-organized Costume Institute exhibition: "The Manchu Dragon — Costumes of China in the Ching Dynasty."

Among the guests was Claudette Colbert, a top target of news photographers. "I remember Mary Pickford once told a gang of photographers who were hounding her. 'Go away, I don't need you anymore,'" Mrs. Colbert said. "I've always wanted to say that but I just don't have the nerve."

Dubious awards

Billy Carter got the Man of the Year nomination — from Esquire magazine's Dubious Achievement Awards.

The article also looked back at "Rears of the Year," which included: Kitchback, Rep. Charles Diggs Jr.; Comeback, Abbie Hoffman; Playback, Rep. Michael Myers; Diamondback, Judith Krantz; Far Back, Texas John Connally; Wetback, Brooke Shields, and Humpback, Bo Derek.

It cited "The Blue Lagoon" as worst movie of the year, and "Pink Lady and Jeff" the worst new television show of 1980.

Father of the year award went to Nobel physicist and genetic theorist William Shockley, who said his own three children "represent a very significant regression" — and blamed their mother.

Climbing party

Britain's Prince Charles has left all those rumors of impending marriage far behind and is climbing in the rugged Nepal foothills.

Leading the royal trek out of the resort town of Pokhara is Parbatima, the only living sherpa to twice climb Mount Everest, the highest mountain in the world.

Included in the party is Prince Dharendra, youngest brother of Nepal's King Birendra, and Gurkha soldiers.

Prince Charles is a colonel-in-chief of Nepalese Gurkha regiments of the British army. The hike will reach an altitude of 8,000 feet, which will give the prince an excellent view of the northern Himalayas.

Quote of the day

Sen Barry Goldwater, who claims to be "as far right as you can get," is all for women holding elective office. He said: "I'd rather see a woman elected. A woman is closer to life. Eighty-three percent of the money is spent by women. They understand they can't spend more money than the old man brings home."

Glimpses

Helvi Sipilä, 65, a Finnish lawyer, retires at the end of this year as United Nations assistant secretary general, the highest post ever held by a woman in the United Nations — retiring Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson III, D-Ill., son of two-time Democratic presidential nominee Adlai E. Stevenson, plans to rejoin his old law firm of Mayer, Brown & Platt as a partner when he leaves office in January.

Robert Strauss, the attorney who chaired President Carter's unsuccessful re-election campaign, was re-elected to a $20,000-a-year membership in the Xerox Corp.'s board of directors. He resigned from the Xerox board in 1977 to assume a series of roles in the Carter administration.

Housing symposium urged to air solutions

By MARY KITZMANN
Herald Reporter

MANCHESTER — A town-sponsored "housing symposium" was suggested Tuesday evening to the Board of Directors for a discussion of "housing solutions, not problems."

Democratic Director Barbara Weinberg said most persons were aware of the housing crisis in Manchester as well as across the county, she suggested the symposium to formulate solutions.

Mrs. Weinberg, part of a three-member subcommittee to digest and forward recommendations of a special mayor's committee on housing, asked for — and received — the board's approval to plan the event.

Mrs. Weinberg outlined the symposium as including about 100 to 200 persons, separated into four groups, with a keynote address.

However, shortly after Mrs. Weinberg finished explaining the symposium would be to brainstorm for solutions not to discuss the problem, Nancy Carr, of the Manchester Area Conference of Churches, expressed "great distaste" in finding homes, as it was nothing that organization could do in locating rentals that didn't exist.

Mrs. Weinberg's suggestion of a symposium drew immediate, predictable responses from other frequent speakers at town meetings. The symposium suggestion was supported by Robert Faucher, chairman of the defunct mayor's housing committee, and questioned by John Tucci, Castle Rock.

Tucci said he doubted if "any more housing" would be built in town after the board for two and a half years."

Faucher endorsed the symposium, but noted other suggestions of the mayor's committee were never discussed by the subcommittee. "I hope the recommendations do not fall the way of the housing policy goals, which have been sitting with the board for action on a half year," he said.

He urged action on other mayor's committee recommendations of a study committee to possibly establish a fair rent commission.

The symposium was also given support by Thurman Roundtree, Strawberry Lane, as a possible start in dealing with the housing crisis.

"There's an acute need," he said. "It seems we procrastinate and procrastinate in solving."

Illegal dumping revealed

By MARTIN KEARNS
Herald Reporter

MANCHESTER — A state environmental official Tuesday reported another instance of illegal dumping along Hop Brook, and called the stream unique among the state's waters.

Wesley Winterbottom, sanitary engineer for the state Department of Environmental Protection's water compliance unit, said no continuous source of pollution has ever been identified along the brook, a situation he termed unique.

Winterbottom also reported state inspectors were in Manchester last week to investigate a report that someone had dumped into Hop Brook. Although the state officials found evidence of an oil spill, Winterbottom said the stream's fish had not been affected.

The state has never identified sources of the pollution which has killed the fish on a number of occasions. "To be honest with you, I don't know if I've ever will," Winterbottom said.

Town Health Department officials also express frustration in identifying the polluters of Hop Brook. The situation, they say, is usually cleared up by the time inspectors reach the stream.

The state estimates about two incidents of pollution occur each year. But officials say, except for the occasional discharge, the brook meets water quality standards.

Only two discharge permits have been issued along the brook. The town of Manchester is allowed to release backwash water from its water treatment facility, and Pratt & Whitney Aircraft has a permit for what officials say is clean cooling water.

The state recently denied a permit to Multi-Circuit Inc., which had asked permission to release a metal finishing discharge into the brook. Winterbottom said the company will have to continue dumping the sewer. In another instance, town police once spotted a carpet cleaner firm dumping wastes into a storm drain behind Manchester Community College's Hartford Road campus.

Many town storm drains empty into Hop Brook and Winterbottom speculated they carry much of the pollution into the stream.

"Everytime we've had a problem, we've been out there right away," Winterbottom said.

Unfortunate, the pollution has usually disappeared by the time state inspectors get to the brook.

The U.S. Geological Survey is responsible for monitoring the water quality in rivers and streams across the country. But Winterbottom said there isn't enough money to make routine studies of Hop Brook.

Editorial School budget

Although it hasn't been thoroughly scrutinized, it appears at first glance that Manchester School Superintendent James Kennedy has done a responsible, responsive job in preparing next year's school spending plan.

The budget recommendation surfaced Tuesday in a morning press conference.

It contains a modest increase of 7.5 percent at a time when inflation is well above that level.

Dr. Kennedy has considered the declining school enrollment in his new spending plan.

Several items in the new budget are there because people have asked for them. When the public demands new programs, such as girls' soccer and boys' hockey, it also must expect to willingly pay for the programs.

Six elementary school positions will be eliminated from the budget, but Dr. Kennedy estimates the cut-back will be achieved through attrition, not requiring a teacher layoff.

School administration officials are in a difficult position. They each must search for creative ways to satisfy the demands for quality school programs and extracurricular activities.

Simultaneously they are required to meet the other, seemingly contradictory, demand to keep spending under tight control.

The tug-of-war on the

Thoughts

Reaching out — to new life. More than anything else — we want to be loved. Within all of us there is that yearning, crying — that reaching out for love. When our reaching out is welcomed by someone who is warm, understanding, patient, kind — we feel so good!

Some people do not appear to be reaching out — but don't be fooled. They are counting on your deeper perception. They want you to see through the mask of self-sufficiency and act on your inner sense that the "false advertising" is in fact a plea for even more sensitive loving.

Notice how welcome are the excuses of this season to be more friendly, to take more time for people, to express the value of family, friends, working partners.

To say more directly, more concretely — "I love you!" (Just what we long to hear!)

budget could easily end with an imbalance of program to spending.

Dr. Kennedy and his staff have done a commendable job trying to keep the school's spending priorities in order.

As the budget is reviewed by the board of education, town manager and board of directors, a decision will be made on the proposal.

The elected officials must then decide if the program is reasonable. If it does, in fact, meet the demands for education and related services in Manchester, then the officials will be required to determine whether or not the taxpayers of Manchester will be able to afford the impact it will have on town taxes.

It is the most difficult job administrative and elected officials face every year.

We urge the officials to be tough, but fair, in their study of the budgets.

Additionally, we hope the town will take a lesson from the school system and present a reasonable budget proposal that is computed on the same base and fully discussed in public before it is adopted.

This will insure that confusion and suspicion that still lingers from last year's town budget fiasco (where some departments were computed from a higher base figure than others) will dissipate.

We hope the officials, this year, will be more responsible and forthright in budget preparation.

Such a new tactic will go a long way to restoring some of the lost confidence in town government.

Babies die, diplomats debate

By ROBERT WALTERS
WASHINGTON (NEA) — Insensitive U.S. diplomats and an insubordinate Swiss corporation are undermining a United Nations effort to abolish worldwide abuses in the promoting, advertising and marketing of infant formula.

At issue are the aggressive, uncontrolled and often misleading sales techniques of an infant-formula industry whose gross annual revenues now approach $2 billion.

Approximately half of those sales are made in the Third World nations of Africa, Asia and Latin America, where sanitation levels and consumer awareness often are abysmally low while poverty and illiteracy can be exceptionally high.

In those countries, there are estimated 10 million cases every year of infant malnutrition, disease and death due to improperly sterilized bottles, inability to follow printed instructions for formula use and similar causes.

In many cases, company-paid "milk nurses," free samples distributed by health professionals and hard-sell advertising induce the parents of newborns to abandon breast feeding, only to discover that they're irrevocably committed to buying an expensive product that's inferior to mothers' milk.

Although a number of U.S. companies — including American Home Products, Abbott Laboratories and Bristol-Myers — sell infant formula around the globe, the dominant firm is the Nestle Alimentana Co., based in Vevey, Switzerland.

Nestle doesn't sell formula in this country, but the multinational corporation does distribute candy bars, tea and coffee here under its own name as well as Souffler frozen foods, Berger Brothers wine, Libby's, McNeill and Libby's canned foods and scores of other consumer items.

After years of protests about industry marketing practices from church, consumer and citizen groups, the World Health Organization and UNICEF, both United Nations organizations, convened a 1979 Geneva meeting on the issue.

Nestle, which accounts for approximately half of all industry sales, said prior to the meeting that it "fully supports the WHO-UNICEF conference and will abide by any uniform marketing guidelines that the conference proposes."

The conference endorsed a series of sweeping proposals, then forwarded its recommendations to the World Health Assembly, which holds annual meetings.

Although the U.S. delegation at this year's meeting was generally sympathetic to the WHO-UNICEF goals, it was ordered by State Department officials in Washington to attempt to weaken crucial conference recommendations.

"Chances of our getting the desired changes are virtually zero," the delegation at the meeting last May warned foreign-service officials in a cable that said there was "absolutely no support" among other nations' delegations and that "our tactic is interpreted as a device to delay progress... (and) to protect multinational corporations."

After that meeting had concluded, one State Department official said in an internal memo: "I fear that United States credibility in this matter has now been dealt a severe blow by the unilateral action taken... to pursue a hard line."

The proposed code, to be considered again at next year's World Health Assembly, does include a shift in emphasis away from a mandatory international code of conduct for promoting infant formula.

ERA: Dead horse that won't stop kicking

By LEE RODERICK
WASHINGTON — On June 30, 1982, the Equal Rights Amendment almost certainly will be buried for good. That's the day the unitary and probably illegal 38-month ERA extension granted by Congress will expire.

But for all intents and purposes, ERA is already dead. Indiana was the last state to underwrite this tarnished symbol of women's rights, doing so in January 1977 — nearly four long years ago. That left ERA stuck at 35 states, three less than the 38 required to become the law of the land.

Since then as more citizens have come to appreciate the mischief inherent in the proposed constitutional amendment, the tide has been in favor of states undoing their ratifications rather than joining the ERA bandwagon. Rescission campaigns have been waged in more than a dozen states. Four states already have voted to rescind — Idaho, Kentucky, Nebraska and Tennessee. ERA stands alone among the nearly 6,000 proposals introduced in Congress during America's history to change the basic law of the land. No amendment has ever taken longer than four years to be ratified by the states. Proponents of ERA already had nearly nine years to make a compelling case. Clearly, they have failed to do so.

When Congress passed the Equal Rights Amendment in 1972, it set a seven-year time limit for ratification. With that deadline approaching, late in 1978 Congress suddenly changed the rules and in a crass political power play voted to extend the deadline 36 more months — to June 30, 1982.

Leading the extension fight in the Senate was Indiana Sen. Birch Bayh. Leading it in the House was another liberal Democrat, Elizabeth Holtzman of New York.

If any fight is waged in Congress to breathe new life into the dead ERA horse as the 1982 deadline nears, Bayh and Holtzman will be leading it. Both were defeated in their bids for the Senate on Nov. 4.

Feminists are trying to downplay the wholesale defeats of Bayh, Holtzman and their fellow liberal travelers in Capitol Hill. The election, they argue, was not a referendum on ERA, abortion and other social issues.

This post-election attitude contrasts curiously with their pre-election attitude.

On election eve, the National Now

Times, official journal of the National Organization for Women (NOW), said this is a front-page article. "In these final election campaign days, Reagan's anti-women's positions are becoming a significant campaign issue... with the largest block of undecided voters female, this issue could be one of the determining factors."

But barely a day after election results sent a shockwave through the feminist movement, NOW president Eleanor Smeal issued a statement that began this way: "Women's issues were neither victorious nor defeated in the election. There is just no way you can interpret that the election was an ideological victory or defeat for one side or the other."

"No way, perhaps, unless you happen to be a reader of Smeal's National Now Times.

There is little doubt that the issue of leadership in general, and the economy and defense posture in particular, were key factors in the election outcome. Yet the evidence is strong that such social issues as ERA likewise played an important role.

According to Phyllis Schlafly, a one-woman guerrilla army who has succeeded in keeping ERA at bay through the years, "All the critical ERA states elected a net gain of anti-ERA legislators in both houses."

Those states include her home of Illinois, as well as Florida, North Carolina, South Carolina and Oklahoma.

And on the national level, she notes, three women were running for the U.S. Senate this year. Two were feminists — Holtzman of New York and Mary Buchanan of Colorado — and both were defeated. The third,

Paula Hawkins of Florida, opposed ERA and was elected, becoming only the second woman in the Senate.

NOW's Smeal, after her initial post-election assessment, has since acknowledged that ERA is indeed in a pickle. In a new fund-raising letter she sounds the alarm:

"There is no easy way to say what has to be said. The Equal Rights Amendment is in big trouble... To put it simply, our backs are against the wall."

She proceeds to blame the troubles of ERA and the feminist movement on "the well-financed forces of the right wing," and urges still more generous contributions. Donations through check, Master Charge or Visa all are acceptable, says Smeal. You'd be safer to invest your money in ice boxes for Eskimos.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Which role for Kissinger in Reagan's administration?

By JACK ANDERSON
WASHINGTON — Those of us who have been sitting the sands of the Potomac to see what the Republican tide has washed in have come upon the footprints of Henry Kissinger. There have even been glimpses through the mist of Kissinger within whispering distance of President-elect Ronald Reagan's ear.

No less than ex-President Gerald Ford has urged Reagan to bring back Kissinger to call the foreign-policy plays. It would be a controversial appointment.

No one questions Kissinger's qualifications. He possesses a calm mastery of foreign affairs, an easy command of strategic concepts and tactical details. He is also an impressive man, even magnetic.

But it is part of his magnetism that he gives off discordant vibrations. He has an air about him of detached intellectuality combined with a soft, droll, disarming manner. But I have detected a tenseness in him, a sense of beleaguering.

Those who know the man say he does nothing gratuitously, all is programmed to advance his objectives. More than a few wary watchers suspect Kissinger as a Trojan Horse planted by the Rockefeller interests inside the nation's biggest councils.

In the mid-1960s, he directed a series of foreign-policy studies for the Rockefeller Brothers Fund. During Nelson Rockefeller's quest for the presidency in 1968, newsmen seeking his foreign-policy views would be told: "Go see Henry."

Later, Kissinger held back from entering Richard Nixon's administration until it was clear Rockefeller would not be asked to join the cabinet. Even after Kissinger became a power in Washington, he remained deferential to Rockefeller. Associates recall, for instance, that Kissinger usually acquiesced to Rockefeller's calls ahead of the president's.

In 1973, Rockefeller said of Kissinger: "He's never let me down, and he's never let the country down."

Their relationship was such that Rockefeller announced Kissinger's engagement to Nancy Maginnes and provided a plane for their honeymoon trip.

Kissinger, meanwhile, brought David Rockefeller, chairman of the Chase Manhattan Bank, into the State Department as an adviser. When the Republicans were turned out in 1976, Rockefeller named Kissinger chairman of the Chase Manhattan's international advisory committee.

In a series of columns four years ago, I identified the late shah of Iran as the leading drum-beater for a gigantic oil price increase. His megalomaniacal confidence that the United States would tolerate it rested on the delightful relationship he had developed with Henry Kissinger.

Nixon and Kissinger sought to build up the shah as the protector of American interests in the Persian Gulf area, rather than face the difficulties of having the United States look after these interests more directly. They quietly agreed that the shah should be allowed to raise more oil revenue to bankroll the vast responsibilities they were encouraging him to undertake.

It was at least an intriguing coincidence that the shah's stupendous oil profits were channeled largely through the Chase Manhattan Bank. The shah insisted "that all letters of credit for the purchase of oil go through Chase Manhattan," an Iranian official told me.

The Rockefeller were also partners with the shah in banking ventures and real-estate deals. Then after the shah was deposed, he turned to Kissinger and David Rockefeller, who arranged temporary refuges for him in Nassau and Mexico before they finally persuaded President Carter to admit him to the United States.

As secretary of state, Kissinger thwarted every proposal to prevent the oil gouge, save those concerned with ways to finance the rising oil bills. This must go down in history as a colossal failure which has dwarfed and undermined whatever his other achievements may have been.

When Ford asked the president-elect to consider Kissinger for secretary of state, Reagan amiably rejected the recommendation. But that was several weeks ago. Kissinger has now eased his way quietly, gently, almost invisibly into the anteroom of the Reagan administration. As one associate put it: "You should never underestimate Kissinger's charm."

Under the dome, Rep. Ed Stack, D-Fla., is a lame duck with heart. Shortly after he was beaten in the primary, he gave most of his staff pay raises, described as "cost-of-living increases."

Now it can be told: House Speaker Tip O'Neill was pretty sure the Democratic ranks would be depleted long before Election Day confirmed it. The speaker's polls, infact, were even gloomier than the election results demanded. They predicted that the Democrats would lose 34 House seats; actually, they lost only 33.

Spotting their silver lining where best they can in a cloud of gloom, Capitol Hill Democrats foresee an end to attempts to cut the extraordinary power of the House Commerce and Energy Committee. It's headed by the articulate Rep. John Dingell, D-Mich., and its budget is nearly twice that of most other committees. But as one of the few bastions of Democratic power left in Washington, it will be defended to the death.

Residents silent on new ordinance

MANCHESTER — Only one resident spoke at Monday's Planning and Zoning Commission hearing on a new ordinance to govern construction of public utilities.

Dan Chagnot, 341 Kennedy Road, questioned whether the new ordinance would include sewage treatment plants, "big sheds" and other municipal facilities. He suggested the Planning and Zoning Commission define what was included in "public utilities" before passage of the proposed ordinance.

Alan Lamson, town planner, explained the proposed ordinance would mandate frontage and screening requirements, plus a site plan before approval. The proposed ordinance would give the PZC power to grant special exceptions for public utilities.

The ordinance was suggested by town officials when the Zoning Board of Appeals denied a variance request by the Public Works Department to locate a water tank on Vernon Street. The zoning ordinances permit public utilities only in industrial and rural residential zones and require ZBA variance approval.

The new ordinance would allow public utilities in any zone, with approval of the special exception.

Lamson said the new ordinance would provide for protection of the public's safety and health. He used fire stations and police stations as examples that would fall under the ordinance.

Ironically, if the PZC passes the new ordinance the Public Works Department would have to apply for the special exception and schedule a public hearing.

After a ruling by the Thomas O'Marra, zoning enforcement officer, town officials learned the water tank would be permitted, under present ordinances, in two identified sites near Vernon Street without a public hearing. But the new ordinance would mandate a public hearing for construction on any zone. The PZC tabled a decision.

During a recent meeting of the Vernon Board of Education, the board was discussing the difficult problem of closing a school. One person commented during the citizen's forum portion of the meeting, "The nine members of the U.S. Supreme Court have an easier job."

The creative talents of students from the Vernon School of Art were on display Sunday at the Wadsworth Art Museum Holiday Festival of Trees. The grade 3 students had created a tree decorated with Santas made out of tongue depressors. It won many comments as the crowds filed past.

The Vernon Board of Education had a Christmas present for "the press" Monday night.

There are a lot of negative feelings among kids and staff when you close a school and the school of officials should study those effects before closing another school," Karen Goodwin said at Monday's Board of Education meeting on the proposed closing of East Hartford's Stevens Elementary School. Mrs. Goodwin's children were transferred from Willowbrook

School this fall when the school closed because of declining enrollments.

Obituaries

F. Donald McLaughlin — Donald McLaughlin, 65, of 41 Beechbush Road, died Monday at Manchester Memorial Hospital. He was the husband of Carla (Carpenter) McLaughlin.

He was born in Westbrook, Maine and had lived in South Windsor most of his life. He was a member of St. Margaret Mary Church and a charter member of the South Windsor Rotary Club. He was employed by the Town of South Windsor for 22 years, five years as the assistant building inspector and the past 17 years as the building inspector.

Besides his wife he leaves two sons, Frederick D. McLaughlin of J. Stafford and Thomas M. McLaughlin of South Windsor; a daughter, Mrs. Patricia Holladay of Tolland, his mother, Mrs. Ina (Dickinson) McLaughlin of Windsor Locks; four brothers, William McLaughlin of East Hartford, Bernard McLaughlin of Windsor Locks, James McLaughlin of Wantagh, L.I., N.Y., and Edward McLaughlin of Stafford; and two grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held Thursday at 9:15 a.m. from Samsel Funeral Home, 419 Buckland Road, South Windsor with a mass of Christian burial at 10 a.m. at St. Margaret Mary Church. Burial will be in Wapping Cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home today from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m. Memorial contributions may be made to the American Cancer Society, 237 E. Center St., Manchester or to Newtonington Children's Hospital, Newtonington.

Mrs. Mary M. Barnard — Mrs. Mary M. Barnard, 76, of 88A Ambassador Drive, died Tuesday at Manchester Memorial Hospital. She was the wife of Andrew A. Barnard.

She was born Sept. 3, 1904 and had lived in Manchester for the past 35 years. Before that she lived in West Bend, Wis. for many years.

Besides her husband she leaves a son, Andrew Allan Barnard of Glastonbury and two grandsons, both of Glastonbury.

Funeral services will be Thursday at 10 a.m. from the Watkins Funeral Home, 100 Main St., Manchester.

Board Votes school sale—again

MANCHESTER — For the second time, the Board of Directors decided to sell Buckland School.

The motion by Deputy Mayor Stephen Cassano Tuesday night passed unanimously, this time without strong opposition from Buckland residents. The board forwarded the sale to the next step, seeking a zone change from the Planning and Zoning Commission.

The school parcel is zoned residential and is used by J. Richard Vincent, town assessor estimated would sell for about $130,000. Cassano recommended, and the other directors agreed, the parcel should be rezoned for business use. Vincent told the board this was the "highest and best use" and would increase the lot's value to $300,000.

When a dispute developed over the price, Hayes wished to lower the price or be guaranteed the school board decided to try again, this time in a more orderly fashion.

Again the board attached a stipulation to the sale, that the two-acre light industrial and shopping center complex be rezoned.

Mayor Stephen Perno noted after the zone change ruling, the PZC could deny the request, the board would consider the means of the sale, either by public auction or by bid.

Barbara Weinberg strongly objected that no competitive sale was offered before selling to Hayes.

In another action, the board decided unanimously, not to co-sponsor the Manchester Community College relay races.

Thomas Moore, town controller, recommended to the board not to sponsor the races. Town sponsorship could lead to high insurance costs, and possibly lawsuits stemming from injuries, Robert Weiss, town manager, explained to the board.

The community college sought town financial support, after the sponsor Multi-Circuits Inc., of Harrison Street, indicated it was considering withdrawing.

Weiss said town sponsorship would add about $100 to insurance premiums, plus possible increases through lawsuits.

Gloria Della Fera, Republican director, said the town should not become involved in more "responsibility than we already have."

But William Dinnia, minority leader, suggested the town continue its present sponsorship, such as preparing the fields, and use of town trucks.

Kennedy added that housing around Waddell and Verplanck schools, in the western quadrant of town, is the most affordable to families just starting out, which would be reflected in the school enrollments at these schools.

The enrollment projections for the town were studied in detail Monday night by the committee, Kennedy said. It is chaired by Joseph Compas, and its other members include Nicholas Costa and Peter Crombie.

Kennedy said the group also reviewed the studies on school closings in area schools. The phenomenon of declining school enrollments, has become a nationwide trend for some time. This provides plentiful data for the committee to review as it seeks to cope locally.

The next meeting of the committee will be announced at the regular meeting of the Board of Education, Monday.

Police are also seeking the whereabouts of another man in connection with the incident. All three, Pedraza, Cotto and the missing man, reportedly were living on Park Place at the time of the shooting.

Reportedly Cotto was involved in a fistfight with one man when a second man came down the stairs of the apartment building on Park Place and shot Cotto three times with a handgun.

Cotto was carried to the nearby Rockville General Hospital by friends.

Residents challenge decision

Hartford Superior Court, alleges that the PZC's change in its comprehensive development plan was improper because it is based on transportation changes beyond PZC control and because there is enough industrial and commercial land in town already.

Before the revision, the development plan had designated the southern part of South Windsor for agricultural and residential uses.

The 55-acre site, bounded by the Manchester border, Wheeler Road, Smith Street and Pleasant Valley Road, is part of a large tract proposed for a huge residential, light industrial and shopping center complex.

Schulman said the PZC's change in the development plan constituted rezoning for the benefit of one developer.

Rezoning of the area for the Buckland Commons shopping center was denied in 1979. Schulman said, and the PZC's recent action would make it difficult to reach a similar conclusion when a new application is filed by the developer.

Enrollment decline discussed

Education met earlier this week to discuss how to handle declining enrollments.

Superintendent of Schools James Kennedy stressed it would be "irresponsible" to assume Martin is the next school facing a closing, simply because more of its constituents attended the meeting.

"Obviously, parents of students attending Martin think there's a possibility," Kennedy said.

"It is on the east end of town, and that area, along with center of town, is where Manchester has had its largest dropoff in population," Kennedy said, adding that if housing is built, it is in the southwest area of town.

Kennedy added that housing around Waddell and Verplanck schools, in the western quadrant of town, is the most affordable to families just starting out, which would be reflected in the school enrollments at these schools.

UConns gain physical test

By LEN AUSTER
HERALD SPORTSWRITER

The offense was sporadic but the enveloping defense was the sustaining force as UConn throttled Fairfield, 72-50, in a physical, turnover-filled collegiate basketball affair that nearly ended in a free-for-all last night before a crowd of 9,593 at the Hartford Civic Center.

"Our kids played defense," Coach Don Perno, "they (Fairfield) were struggling to get good shots. I was pleased with the effort."

The Stags, 3-3 for the season, tried to get the ball inside but were not very effective against the sliding 1-2-2 Husky zone, which also turned into a 2-3 at times. They were reluctant to shoot from outside and the end result was a 19-for-53, 35.8 percent, shooting performance.

College basketball roundup

NEW YORK (UPI) — The state of Indiana, the nation's basketball heartland, went with two of its favorite sons Tuesday night.

No. 13 Notre Dame vs. No. 6 Indiana — and the matter, not surprisingly, was settled by defense.

The Irish held Indiana without a basket during a 5½-minute stretch in the final minutes and came away with a 66-64 victory.

"We who close the gap defensively," said Notre Dame coach Dick Phelps, whose club is 4-1. "I think we got a little closer to that tonight."

Indiana was down 35-32 at halftime and was still very much in the game. But while Indiana went stone cold in the second half, the Irish kept their edge in controlling the game, it gets difficult.

Post-season teams cash in at gate

By Earl Yost
Sports Editor

It pays big bucks to get invitation to post-season college football bowls.

The grand daddy of them all, the Rose Bowl, is the most lucrative.

Each team in the Pasadena, Calif., extravaganza will leave the West Coast with $2.1 million.

The Cotton Bowl in Dallas will present checks to the two competing teams for $1.7 million.

The Orange Bowl in Miami will bring $1.3 million to each college.

Other major bowl games and the guarantees for each team are as follows: Gator Bowl $400,000, Liberty Bowl $351,000, Fiesta Bowl $343,000, Peach Bowl $325,000, Holiday Bowl $271,000 and Hall of Fame Bowl $263,000.

Those fat guarantees go a long way in running the athletic programs at college that qualify for the post-season meetings.

Brightest lights

Brightest lights and most consistent performers with the Hartford Whalers this season have been Mike Rogers, Pat Boutelette, Elaine Slaughter, and Nick Fotis. Rogers, the finest skater on the squad, is also the top scorer with 36 points, three more than any other player.

Notes off the cuff:

Indiana meeting

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Irish went to a four-corner spread offense to protect the lead.

"It was one of those things and after all, it's a 40-minute game," said Tripucka. "I knew I had 20 minutes left. And besides there were other things I could do to help our team besides shoot the ball."

Indiana's Landon Turner had 23 points and Ish Thomas 22. John Paxson, who had a 22 record, has lost consecutive games to two of the country's most powerful teams — Kentucky and Notre Dame.

"We had a December schedule just for that," Knight said. "This was a good basketball game."

In the only other game involving a ranked team, No. 5 Iowa crashed Nevada-Reno 112-71.

Kenny Arnold scored 20 points and Iowa hit 61 percent of its shots in running the game to a 41-14 lead.

"Kenny Arnold shot the ball beautifully," said Iowa coach Late Olson. "He has played like the Kenny Arnold of the past year. I know he would be the cause as soon as he was physically sound and in condition."

"I hope the Big Sky Conference isn't as tight as the Big Ten," said coach Sonny Allen. "Iowa can play with anyone. They were just too physically strong for us."

Elsewhere, Earl Belcher scored 24 points to lift St. Bonaventure over Rutgers 77-67.

Bryan Warrick's free throw with two seconds left in overtime carried Princeton past St. Joseph's 51-50.

Horace Owens scored 5 of his 15 points in the final two minutes as Rhode Island upset Oregon 67-64.

Vince Taylor scored 7 of Duke's 4 points in overtime as the Blue Devils clipped Vanderbilt 72-69.

Gordon Welch's six fouls shots in the final 2½ minutes sent Southern Methodist past Iowa State 58-55.

Andra Griffin fired in 31 points and Washington outlasted Seattle Pacific 95-87.

Celts teach Bucks lesson in power

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Boston Celtics taught the Milwaukee Bucks a lesson in power basketball, and the Bucks have the bruises to prove it.

The Celtics, trailing 58-53 at halftime Tuesday night, held the NBA's second best road club to just 31 points in the second half and overpowered the Bucks 112-89.

"It ended up being a game where they banged us more than we banged them," said Milwaukee's forward Marques Johnson, who had 20 of his game-high 27 points in the first half. "That was the difference."

Milwaukee, which now has lost two consecutive games on the road after going 12-1 early in the season, crumbled in the face of a 21-4 Boston surge in the final period, highlighted by rookie Kevin McHale's eight points. The Celtics' defensive pressure was so good the Bucks had just 11 of 44 shots in the second half (25 percent).

"I think we just ran out of gas," Johnson added. "They killed us on pressure and took us out of our offense. I didn't feel tired, but one of the big guys told me to slow it down."

The Celtics outscored the Bucks 26-16 in the third quarter, with all but four of the points coming from Boston's front line of Cedric Maxwell, Larry Bird and Robert Parish. Boston was ambling along with an 89-83 lead midway through the final period quarter when it took off on its 21-4 streak.

It was a good feeling coming back and winning the way we did," said Parish, who had 16 points, 11 rebounds and a team record seven blocked shots. "We just played better team defense in the second half."

Maxwell led Boston with 23 and Bird added 20.

Johnson said the Bucks have some work to do if they're going to meet again in the playoffs.

"I'll tell you this. We're going to need at least two weeks to pump weights to get ready," Johnson said. "Elsewhere in the NBA, New York's Ray Williams scored a career-high 42 points and made a key steal late in the game to power the Knicks. Williams, the younger brother of Gus Williams of Seattle, had 15 of the points in a third-quarter spree that moved the Knicks from a one-point deficit to an 85-77 lead. Greg Ballard had 21 for the Bullets.

The Jazz fell behind 500 for the first time in two months with the loss. George Gervin led all scorers with 31 points and James Silas had 20. Adrian Dantley, the NBA's leading scorer, was held to 19 points — 13 below his average.

Trait Blazers 111, SuperSonics 98.

Jim Paxson scored a career-high 30 points to pace Portland to its fourth consecutive win. The loss also ended the Sonics' four-game winning streak. The Blazers led all the way and Seattle got no closer than 49-46 at halftime.

Patriots hopeful of playoff berth

FOXBORO, Mass. (UPI) — Disheartened New England Patriots fans shouldn't give up hope despite the fact their team has lost three of their last four games. They still have a chance at a playoff berth.

The Patriots, 8-6 in the AFC East, could conceivably get a spot in several ways if they win their remaining two games against the Buffalo Bills and the New Orleans Saints.

They have lost three recent games to the L.A. Rams, the San Francisco 49ers and the Cincinnati Bengals. They have a chance of beating out the Pittsburgh Steelers (8-6), the Oakland Raiders and San Diego Chargers (each 9-5) for a playoff spot, and a very slim chance of beating out either the Cleveland Browns or Houston Oilers.

But if the Patriots win their last two they will finish the season at 10-6. They have a chance of beating out the Pittsburgh Steelers (8-6), the Oakland Raiders and San Diego Chargers (each 9-5) for a playoff spot, and a very slim chance of beating out either the Cleveland Browns or Houston Oilers.

"Let's put it this way. It would be better to be in the playoffs than to spend another Christmas drinking Scotch in front of the Christmas tree," said veteran defensive lineman Tony McCrex.

"We still have a chance. When you look at it, only two teams in the conference seem to have a playoff spot right now. Everything else is up for grabs," he said. "All we have to do is execute. That's what's been hurting us."

Veteran Harold Jackson bemoaned what started out as an excellent season for the Patriots.

"Steve (Grogan) being hurt, a few players here and a few players gone. Like in LA (his old team) about this time we would have the division wrapped up. Now we have to beat Buffalo and New Orleans and hope Buffalo loses its last game, so we can win the division. You just never know what will happen."

McEnroe gains easy win in Challenge Cup play

MONTREAL (UPI) — John McEnroe and Vijay Amritraj easily won their opening round-robin matches at the $20,000 World Championship Tennis Challenge Cup Tuesday night.

McEnroe, of New York, defeated Wojtek Fibak of Poland, 6-3, 6-1 after the Indian Amritraj beat an indolent Fibak, 6-3, 6-3.

The second-ranked McEnroe used his powerful serve, clever net work and deft placements down the lines to defeat the 14th-ranked Fibak.

Fibak, who helped coach the Czechoslovakian team to its first Davis Cup title this weekend, arrived in Montreal late Tuesday afternoon, and appeared somewhat tired for his encounter with the U.S. Open champion.

"I can see why Fibak got upset," he said. "It's really frustrating when the guy in the chair doesn't see right.

Cardinals wheeling and dealing

DALLAS (UPI) — Lots of teams came to baseball's winter meetings determined to deal and deal all week. But until late Tuesday, only one had.

The St. Louis Cardinals did it again Tuesday, getting relief ace Bruce Sutter, and they may do it again today. And in the process they have reshaped their bullpen.

Later, the Pittsburgh Pirates traded Bert Blyleven to the Cleveland Indians as part of a six-player deal.

The Cards have reshaped the team so much that Chicago Cubs general manager Bob Kennedy, whose club took part in the Cardinals' latest swap, thinks St. Louis is now the team to beat in the National League East next season.

With Bruce Sutter they can win the pennant, said Kennedy. "With Sutter alone we didn't think we were going to be in the pennant race."

Sutter, the National League's Cy Young Award winner in 1979, was dealt to the Cardinals Tuesday in exchange for outfielder-first baseman Leon Durham, third baseman Ken Reitz and a player to be named later.

"I've heard a lot of talk that St. Louis two of the best known relief pitchers in baseball — Sutter and Rolfe Fingers, acquired in an 11-player deal with San Diego on Monday.

But Fingers might not be around St. Louis long enough to try on a uniform. The Cardinals appeared ready to send him off to the Oakland A's for Steve McCatty, one of the crew of hurlers that carried the surprising Athletics into second place in the American League West last season.

"I've heard a lot of talk that I might be moved," said Fingers, who was in town to accept an award in conjunction with the winter meetings. "But as far as I'm concerned I'm going to be in St. Louis next season."

"When I was with Oakland we had three relievers who got into 60 games. I'm sure there would be enough work for both Bruce and myself."

"I've never had a top relief pitcher since I've been a manager," said St. Louis general manager-manager Whitey Herzog. "Now I have two. It makes it easier to do the things I want to do as a manager."

"If I can manage a few more deals this week I will have done my job as general manager. Then if the manager doesn't mess up we'll be all right."

Fingers has only one year remaining on a contract he originally signed with Oakland and he said he wants to negotiate a new contract of three or four years.

"I think I can pitch effectively until I am 37 or 38 years old," said Fingers, who celebrated his 34th birthday in August.

In a deal that took only 12 minutes to make, Blyleven was sent along with catcher Manny Sanguillen, who celebrated his 34th birthday on Tuesday.

Bristol, Giants parting

DALLAS (UPI) — He stood there rather forlornly in the huge, cold marbled lobby dressed completely in western gear, looking forward to the coming season, but now he was unemployed after being fired by team owner Bob Lurie for what Lurie called "philosophical differences of opinion."

"I was just standing here in the lobby," Bristol said speaking of Lurie and himself. "And he said, 'Who could we go to talk?' I told him we could go to my room. He was very upset over a story I had given out, a story in which I guess he was too long for a long time and I finally sensed he wanted to tell me something he hadn't already said."

"Bob, are you here to fire me?" I asked him. He said, "I don't think it would be best to bring you back. Well, let's get it over with," he said. And that was that. I got angry, I wanted to blame myself. Dave Bristol got Dave Bristol fired. Nobody else.

Wound up fifth

The Giants ultimately wound up fifth in the National League West, only two games ahead of the last place Padres and six games behind the Braves, whom most everyone picked to finish first.

Bristol had his problems during the season. At one point, Giants pitcher John "The Count" Montefusco and he engaged in a two-week fight in which the younger Montefusco came out second best. Then there was the sudden "retirement" of Mike Lee, who changed his mind a few days later and returned to the club. But with it all, Bristol still said he enjoyed managing the club.

"It wasn't a tough club to manage," he said. "It was a good club. And I liked the Giants' organization."

Bristol had been fired three times before while managing the Reds, Brewers and Braves, and when he was let go this time, it was said one of the reasons might be because he wasn't getting along with general manager Spec Richardson and another because he didn't go along with the trade the Giants made Monday when they got third baseman Enos Cabell from the Astros for leftfielder Bob Knepper and outfielder Chris Bourjos.

"Neither of those reasons are true," Bristol pointed out. "I was thrilled with the deal for Cabell. He's my kind of player. And I like Spec. Bob Lurie has a lot of deep integrity, spoke with me at some length Monday night telling me how he encouraged all his employees to speak their minds and disagree with him if that was the way they honestly felt. He didn't go for yes men, he said and that let me to believe Dave Bristol wasn't in any trouble because no matter what else he is, Bristol is not a yes man."

He's no misquoting, either. Whatever he has to say, he says straight out — to his players as well as anyone else. Some of them didn't like the fact he didn't spoon feed them like babers. Some of them complained to their agents about the way he handled them and one of the agents went back and told Lurie. "Whether that was the deal or not, Lurie's final decision or not, I don't know."

But I'll tell you a few more things about Dave Bristol. Nobody is going

Boston Celtic rookie started out in hockey

BOSTON (UPI) — Winters in the iron country of northern Minnesota can produce temperatures of 30 below, and those who wear the name for themselves in the sporting world usually do so on ice skates.

Kevin McHale started out like every other kid in Hibbing, Minn., would wake up early to change a black disc along a glazed pond or rink.

"I was a hockey player, a defenseman, right up into the ninth grade," McHale says. "Everybody played hockey. But on those outdoor rinks. I knew it had to be warmer in winter."

The puck grudgingly gave way to the roundball as nature contrived to turn a 5-foot-9 freshman into a 6-foot-10 senior.

"Basketball," McHale says. "A lot of my friends thought it was such a funny sport. There was some resentment. I was 5-foot-9 in ninth grade and I wasn't even the biggest kid in my class. I made the varsity because some kid left the team. But that's when I really started to enjoy the game."

Four years and 13 inches later, McHale was dominating the high school scene and earning himself a basketball junket to the University of Minnesota. Although he beat out Ralph Sampson for a starting job in the U.S. Pan American team in the summer of 1979, he was still relatively unknown until the end of his senior year.

But as NBA teams discovered in post-season action, he's got up in that iron country. The Boston Celtics took McHale on the third choice in the first round of the draft after a couple of heavyweights named Joe Barry Carroll and Darrell Griffith.

"Not until the day of the draft did it really dawn on me that I was going to go that high," McHale says. "Oh, I had read about it but I read everything with a grain of salt. I had never thought of basketball as a livelihood before. This was just a pie-in-the-sky type thing."

He left Minnesota as the school's No. 2 all-time scorer behind Mychal Thompson. But he discovered the trade to the pros wasn't as easy as he had hoped.

There was a salary dispute, with post-season action, he's got up in that iron country. The Boston Celtics took McHale on the third choice in the first round of the draft after a couple of heavyweights named Joe Barry Carroll and Darrell Griffith.

Ken Reitz saw handwringing on wall

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Ken Reitz could see the handwringing on the wall.

"He is St. Louis Manager Whitey Herzog," put me on the bench last year for a couple of weeks to give me a taste of what it was going to be like this year," Reitz said Tuesday.

"He said flat out that I wasn't going to play for him next year. At first I said I would go down to spring training and win my job back. But then he said I wasn't going to have a chance to win my job back."

And since he knew he wouldn't play in St. Louis, Reitz played he won't be spending time there next year. He will be in Chicago, playing with the Cubs.

The Cardinals Tuesday traded Reitz, prospect Leon Durham and a player to be named later to the Cubs for ace reliever Bruce Sutter, ending a two-year quest for the former Cy Young award winner.

"The deal was finalized after Herzog agreed to accept a $150,000 payment — $75,000 from each team — as compensation for Reitz not invoking the no-trade clause in his contract."

"I wanted him (Herzog) to know that it would cost me to live in Chicago for the next four years."

Dodgers still after Lynn

DALLAS (UPI) — The Los Angeles Dodgers have made Boston Red Sox general manager Haywood Sullivan an offer for center fielder Fred Lynn, and Sullivan says "the ball is in my court right now."

"They've made me an offer, which is a rearrangement of the original deal," Sullivan said Tuesday. That deal which fell through was a swap of left-handed pitcher Steve Howe, third baseman Mickey Hatcher and right-handed pitcher Kei Beckwith for Lynn.

He said the Dodgers have indicated they'd be willing to give up either Howe or Hatcher, but not both.

Los Angeles has indicated that if the names are agreed upon, the team will talk to Lynn's agent "to see if we've got a chance to have him past the '81 season," Dodgers executive Al Campanis said.

"I'm not sure one deal or two we're working on wouldn't help us more," Sullivan said. "We have a couple of other proposals out, and we have a couple of others made to us."

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Roberto Duran, the recently dethroned World Boxing Council welterweight champion who was charged with assault in an alleged attack two years ago on the 42-year-old father of one of his sparring partners, Tuesday filed a deposition in the case.

Duran is named in a civil suit filed by Jorge Morales, now 44, who claimed the Panamanian boxer punched him in the face several times on Jan. 5, 1978 at the Main Street Gym in Los Angeles.

Bruins change

BOSTON (UPI) — The Boston Bruins Tuesday called up Ray Schultz from the club's Springfield Indians farm team of the American Hockey League. Schultz is slated to serve as a backup goalie on Wednesday night's game at Quebec.

Rochie Vachon will start the game for Boston but Jim Craig, the usual backup, will not be present in order to attend his uncle's funeral.

Schultz has played 13 games for Springfield this season with a 5-5-2 mark and a goal against average of 3.69.

Royals get May

DALLAS (UPI) — The Kansas City Royals signed free agent slugger Lee May to a one-year contract Tuesday, it was announced at the winter baseball meetings.

The 37-year-old May, who played last year with Baltimore last season after five years with the Orioles, hit .343 with seven homers and 31 runs batted in for 78 games in 1980.

Chapman watched, Scoreboard waited for chance

NEW YORK (UPI) — When Blair Chapman recovers from his injury and is ready to rejoin the St. Louis Blues, he may not find his spot saved for him.

"I am happy we are getting Lee May," said Royals manager Jim Frey. "I was with him for four seasons at Baltimore and he is an excellent RBI man and clutch hitter. His role will be to back up at first base and designated hitter and be a pinch hitter."

May, 37, has a lifetime average of .266 and has hit 251 career home runs in his 15 years in the majors.

Bristol's firing came as a surprise and apparently stemmed from his 23 consecutive starts during his last season at Baltimore and his poor performance last year by hiring Rene Stennett.

It was the fourth time Bristol had been dismissed from a managerial position. He last was being led by the league in that department again last year with 28.

They are two pretty easy guys to play with and they make it pretty easy, Sutter is so strong and Bernie (who had three assists) is so unselfish. Sutter may be the hardest working player I've ever seen."

Currie set up a power play goal by Sutter and a goal by Federico in the first that gave St. Louis a 4-1 lead. The North Stars' Al MacAdam cut the margin to 2-1 at 15:12 of the first period on a power-

Duran in news

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Roberto Duran, the recently dethroned World Boxing Council welterweight champion who was charged with assault in an alleged attack two years ago on the 42-year-old father of one of his sparring partners, Tuesday filed a deposition in the case.

Duran is named in a civil suit filed by Jorge Morales, now 44, who claimed the Panamanian boxer punched him in the face several times on Jan. 5, 1978 at the Main Street Gym in Los Angeles.

New coach, look with Bolton five

By LENA AUSTRER
HERALD SPOSTER

Only two players with appreciable varsity experience are on hand as Bolton High heads into the 1980-81 basketball season with a largely young and inexperienced cast.

That, plus the normal rigors of facing the likes of Cromwell, Portland and Bacon Academy in the Charter Oak Conference could cause loss for first-year Coach Dave Leet, especially in the early going.

Leet is the third Bolton coach in three years. Neither of his predecessors, Bill Morgan or Dan Moore, were in the building and that may give him an advantage. He is a math teacher at the school. Plus he carries impressive credentials with 15 years of varsity basketball coaching experience in New Jersey.

Bolton, and Leet, will get an early indoctrination as it taps off the campaign Tuesday night at home against Bacon in an 8 o'clock start. That schedule into a 20-game swing, 18 against OOC foes.

Norm Harpin, a 5-foot-10 junior, returned at a guard slot for the Bulldogs hope to improve on 1979-80's mark of 1-17. Six-foot-year junior Travis Cassella, a reserve a year ago, moves into a starting berth at forward.

How to be GREAT

two places HOLIDAY at once.

GIFT IDEA!

Now you can be "at the phone" and "in the pool" at the same time. You're taking a long distance call while taking a bath. Or dialing in the yard while dialing a friend.

The totally portable Freedom Phone from Electrica keeps you in touch — without using your down. It's cordless. So it goes where you go. It's compact so you can take it — or make — calls anywhere around the home or office.

Features include a "secure" function to prevent outside access through someone's phone; a dynamic speaker and built-in condenser microphone so you get top reception on both ends of the conversation.

Come in for a test-dial today. Find out about the Cordless Freedom Phone from Electrica, the telephone that goes where you go. It's almost like being in two places at once.

Hal Wallis: Hollywood's last starmaker

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Producer Hal Wallis' autobiography is titled "Starmaker," a legitimate claim by a man who discovered more than a dozen major stars in his 50 years in motion pictures.

It was Wallis who made American movie stars of Shirley Booth, Martin and Lewis, Shirley MacLaine, Elvis Presley, Anna Magnani, Genevieve Bujold, Burt Lancaster, Errol Flynn, Kirk Douglas and many others.

More importantly, as head of Warner Bros. production during the studio's heyday, Wallis made superstar of James Cagney, Humphrey Bogart, Bette Davis, Olivia De Havilland, Paul Muni, Edward G. Robinson and Ann Sheridan.

Wallis was public relations director at Warners when sound came to movies with "The Jazz Singer." Still active in films, although his last picture was "Rooster" in 1976, Wallis is the last of the pioneer movie giants.

Despite a string of outstanding film successes, perhaps Wallis' greatest contribution to modern Hollywood was establishing himself as the first truly independent filmmaker in 1944.

Wallis, who is past 80, produced most of his memoirs on a beach in Hawaii, talking into a tape recorder. He had access to Warner Bros.' voluminous records, correspondence, contracts and memoranda deposited at the University of Southern California.

In the decade from 1933-44, Wallis, more than any one man, was responsible for the realistic, hard-hitting Warner movies, contrasting with the glossy, well-lighted drama, comedies and adventure films of the other studios.

As production chief for Jack and Harry Warner, it was Wallis who helped build the studio stock company which included Frank McHugh, Alan Jenkins, Hugh Herbert, Joan Blondell, Pat O'Brien, Glenda Farrell, Louise Fazenda (Wallis' wife) and the now President-elect, Ronald Reagan.

In "Starmaker," Wallis describes his battles with Bogart, Flynn, Joan Fontaine, George Raft and Cagney who never cared for Wallis and always referred to the producer as "the front office."

Many stars who fought against playing in the pictures that Wallis assigned them — including Davis, Bogart, Gary Cooper, John

How shoppers are 'blindfolded' at scanner-equipped supermarket positioned directly between me and the items that were being passed across the scanner. With my purchases several feet away and blocked from view, it was almost impossible for me to see the individual price markings and to compare them with the numbers that flashed on the display screen. And that wasn't all. After items were scanned, the cashier pushed them behind the check-writing shelf where they were hidden from my view. I asked other shoppers if the location of the display screen made it difficult for them to see the prices of the items they were purchasing. They all confirmed that it did. In response to my inquiries, Kroger assured me that its policy is to place the scanner at the front of the counter opposite the cashier. I received a letter from Audrey McCafferty, Kroger's manager of public information. She said I had probably experienced my problem because I had been standing where the bagger normally stands.

By MARTIN SLOANE

No way! As a veteran supermarket shopper, I certainly know where the bagger is supposed to stand. I'm a manager of a Kroger, give us a break!

How can shoppers determine if their purchases are being recorded correctly if they must stand several feet from the scanner? If their vision is obscured by the register-control panel? If the display screen is turned away from them? And if their purchases are then hidden behind a chest-high shelf?

This was the closest I have ever come to being pushed over the edge in wearing a blindfold.

Shoppers must be considered in the design and installation of the electronic scanners that will be appearing in more and more supermarkets. The display screen should be pointed directly at the shopper. And it should be easy to read under all lighting conditions — even afternoon sunlight streaming through the big front windows of the store. The shopper should be able to get a clear view of each item as it is scanned. The scanner should be close enough to the shopper that the price on each package can be easily read. The shopper should also be able to pick up an item after scanning to return it to the scanner. If the display screen is turned away from them? And if their purchases are then hidden behind a chest-high shelf?

Social Security

Q My wife and I never had a wedding ceremony but we have lived together for over 30 years. Now that I am getting ready to retire, I want to know if my wife will be able to get Social Security benefits on my record.

A In some states, a valid marriage may be created without a formal ceremony if the man and woman are free to marry, consider themselves to be husband and wife, and meet any other state requirements. These marriages are called common-law marriages. If you and your wife have lived together for 30 years and you both recognize common-law marriages, the Social Security Administration will also recognize your marriage and pay benefits to your wife as long as she meets all other requirements.

Q I am 18 and would like to go to school full time next year. Can I get student benefits on my stepfather's record? He died last year.

A If your stepfather was insured under Social Security and if you meet all the requirements, you can receive Social Security benefits. In order for you to qualify as a surviving stepchild, the marriage between your natural parent and your stepfather must usually have lasted nine months or more until your natural parent died. If you received an SSI check every month, your husband and I have finally gotten divorced. Do I have to notify Social Security even though we've been separated for years?

A Yes, you should notify Social Security of any change in your marital status.

Quickie meals from leftovers

Quickie meals using leftovers and convenience foods of the shelf or out of the freezer can really grab the attention of all sandwiches, Reuben casserole or layered beef bake fit into busy work, school or club activities, without cutting back on each day's nutritional needs. Serve with milk and fresh fruit for youngsters. These are also easy dishes to make for spur-of-the-moment guests.

Hot Turkey oregano, basil, salt and pepper. Stirring occasionally, simmer 30 minutes or until thickened. This kitchen-tested recipe makes about 3 cups.

For a more filling meal, whip up your own pizza. Here is a basic pizza dough and tomato pizza sauce to rival that of any from a take-out pizza parlor. You can make several in advance if you've invited a large gathering. Once baked, they freeze well and merely need reheating. If there are teenagers in the house, drag them into your "pizza parlor" when they want this all-American favorite to clean their plates. Top with your favorite mushrooms, onions, green peppers, Italian hot or sweet sausage or pepperoni.

Uncover, bake at 325-degrees for 45 minutes or until set. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 6 to 8 servings.

Pizza and sauce

It's bowl-game fever time. And it's always a dash to the kitchen between plays and at half-time to round up snacks to keep the all-day munchers happy.

Give a gourmet twist to a folksy holiday table

This holiday season surprise your family and guests with some special dishes from the rich treasury of America's folk and regional traditions. All these recipes are contributed by southern Georgians who took part in the Smithsonian's 1980 Festival of American Folklife this fall in the nation's capital.

Hot Mulled Wine
1 pint light red wine
4 cloves
1 piece cinnamon stick
2 slices fresh lemon
Sugar (optional)

Put the ingredients in a stainless steel saucepan and heat the mixture until it gets foamy. Remove from heat before it boils and serves in cups. When using a glass or crystal cup, pour the wine over a silver teaspoon to prevent the cup from cracking.

Herst of Veal
or Chicken in White Wine Sauce
1 pound breast of veal or chicken
3 tablespoons butter
4 tablespoons flour
1 1/4 cups broth from meat
1/2 cup dry white wine
2 egg yolks
2 teaspoons lemon juice
Dash of white pepper
Mustard (optional)
Cut the meat into serving pieces and place in pot. Add salt, depending on your taste. Cover with water, bring to a boil and cook half an hour to an hour until done. Set meat aside.

Minnie Pearl Brown of Tifton, Ga., is renowned for her baking products which include sweet potato pie, made from a recipe learned years ago from her mother-in-law.

To prepare white sauce, melt butter, stir in flour, pour in broth and wine gradually, heating with whisk. Bring sauce to a boil. Reduce heat and simmer for a couple of minutes. Beat the egg yolks with a fork in a small bowl, then mix with a small amount of the simmering sauce. Add this mixture and mushrooms to remaining sauce and bring to a boil. Boil for 30 seconds, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and stir in lemon juice. Correct the seasoning. Add meat and simmer 30 seconds.

Serve with noodles or rice. For a more elegant dish, cut the meat into smaller pieces and serve in shells or over toast.

Peggy Miller of Sylvester, Ga., another festival participant, makes a delicious pepper jelly which she uses as a sauce for meats, though she says she's discovered recently that "the young people like it with cream cheese on crackers." Mrs. Miller got the recipe from "Mother Miller 30 years ago" and serves the jelly on special occasions—Christmas and Easter dinners, barbecue, church socials. She has won numerous prizes at country fairs for this tasty treat.

Maria Agner of Fitzgerald, Ga., demonstrated winemaking at the Festival of American Folklife in Washington, D.C.

1 cup chopped bell peppers
3 chopped banana peppers, with all seeds removed
1/2 cup hot peppers, chopped
6 1/2 cups sugar
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 cups apple cider vinegar
1 1/2-ounce bottle Certo or other gelling agent

Mix vinegar, peppers, sugar and salt and boil 20 minutes. Add Certo and cook 10 minutes. You can add a few drops of green or yellow food coloring. Pour into hot pint jars. Makes 6 to 8 pints.
Minnie Pearl Brown of Tifton, Ga., showed festival visitors her special techniques for canning day at a local daycare center. As to what kinds of pies and cakes she can bake, Mrs. Brown says, "You name it, I make it!"

Peggy Miller of Sylvester, Ga., recommends pepper jelly as a lively accompaniment to holiday meat dishes.

Using 8-inch pie crusts, Mrs. Brown gets four pies from this recipe, which she learned years ago from her mother-in-law, Della T. Hooks.

Sweet Potato Pie
6 medium sweet potatoes
1/2 cup butter
3 1/2 cups sugar
Dash nutmeg
1/2 teaspoon allspice (or 1 teaspoon vanilla flavoring)
1 cup sweet milk (or 1 can condensed milk)
Peel the sweet potatoes and cut into quarter-inch squares. Cover with water, boil until tender, then drain. Mash the potatoes in a bowl with a fork until smooth, then add the butter, sugar, nutmeg and allspice (or vanilla) and beat in a mixing bowl. Add the milk in small quantities until the filling reaches the proper consistency (similar to pumpkin pie filling—firm but not too thick). If the filling seems to be getting too soft, don't use all the milk.

Mustard Beef
1 pound beef boneless sirloin steak, 1/2 inch thick, cut into halves
Salt and pepper
1 teaspoon margarine or butter
1/2 cup mustard
1/2 teaspoon snipped parsley
1/2 teaspoon prepared mustard
Dash of onion salt
Place steak halves on rack in broiler pan. Set oven control to broil and/or 550 degrees. Broil with tops until brown, about 5 minutes. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Cover and refrigerate 1 steak and use within 2 days for Marinated Beef and Buttered Brussels.

Buttered Brussels
Mix remaining ingredients; spread over remaining steak. To prepare Mustard Steak only: prepare 1/2 pound beef boneless sirloin steak, 1/2 inch thick, as directed.
1 medium potato, cut lengthwise into eighths
Vegetable oil
Seasoned salt
Place potato wedges on rack in broiler pan. Brush with oil; sprinkle with seasoned salt. Set oven control to broil and/or 550 degrees. Broil, with tops about 3 inches from heat until brown, about 5 minutes. Turn, brush with oil. Sprinkle with seasoned salt. Broil until brown and fork-tender, about 5 minutes.

Summer Fruit Bowl
1/2 small cantaloupe, cut into 1/2-inch pieces (about 1 package (10 ounces) frozen Brussels sprouts
1 teaspoon margarine or butter
Salt and pepper
Cook Brussels sprouts as directed on package.
Cover and refrigerate remaining cantaloupe and yogurt for Cantaloupe Drink.
To prepare Buttered Brussels Sprouts only: divide 1 package (10 ounces) frozen Brussels sprouts into halves. Cook 1/2 half as directed. Store remaining half in sealed package in freezer.

Mothers and Babies
LITTLE KNOWN FACTS
Some infants may sleep better if mother dabs a little of her favorite perfume on the crib sheets. The baby smells "mother" when he's in bed and feels more secure and comfortable.
You can make and freeze your own baby foods. Puree some fresh vegetables and place them in ice cube trays.

Layered Sweet Potato and Cranberry Casserole
4 large sweet potatoes
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 cup fresh cranberries
1/2 cup fresh orange juice
Place sweet potatoes in saucepan, add water to cover and boil 30 to 40 minutes until tender. Drain, cool slightly, peel and cut into 1/2-inch slices. Arrange half of the sliced sweet potatoes in greased 1 1/4-quart casserole and sprinkle with 1/4 cup brown sugar. Dot with butter and sprinkle 1/2 cup cranberries over the top. Cover with remaining sweet potatoes, sprinkle with 1/4 cup brown sugar, add remaining cranberries and pour orange juice over all. Cover and bake in 350 degree oven 45 minutes. Uncover, distribute Walnut Topping* over the sweet potatoes and cranberries and bake 10 minutes longer. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 6 to 8 servings.

*Walnut Topping

Banana Pumpkin Pie
1/2 cup packed dark brown sugar
1 tablespoon flour
1/2 teaspoon ginger
1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
1/2 teaspoon cloves
1 cup canned pumpkin
1 cup mashed ripe bananas (3 medium)
2 eggs, slightly beaten
1 cup evaporated milk or light cream
1 unbaked 9-inch pastry shell
In large bowl, mix sugar, flour, salt, cinnamon, ginger, nutmeg and cloves. Stir in pumpkin, bananas, eggs and evaporated milk. Pour into unbaked pastry shell. Bake in 400-degree oven 40 minutes, or until tip of knife inserted in center of pie comes out clean. Serve warm or cold. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 6 to 8 servings.

New cookbook makes cooking for one exciting

Living alone means a lot of things. But it doesn't have to mean eating every meal at the fast-food chain, dining or unexciting meals of hot dogs and sandwiches. The all new Betty Crocker's Cooking for One (Golden Press, $5.95), gives practical tips and complete menu ideas to make cooking for one varied and exciting.
Designed for every single — from student to senior — both men and women — the book is written especially for one of the fastest-growing segments of the U.S. population, the single. According to the 1979 U.S. Census Report, 22 percent of the population or some 18 million persons are adults living alone in the United States. Single households have increased five times as fast as family households. While this growth rate will slow, it is estimated that by 1990 there will be 26 million single adult households.

In Betty Crocker's Cooking for One, singles will find suggestions for low-cost meals in "When the Budget's in a Bind" as well as ideas on how to prepare special meals for one.
The book concentrates on single-serving menu ideas with variety rather than on preparation of one dish after another. It is divided into sections for one, two, three, four, five, six, seven, eight, nine, ten, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31, 32, 33, 34, 35, 36, 37, 38, 39, 40, 41, 42, 43, 44, 45, 46, 47, 48, 49, 50, 51, 52, 53, 54, 55, 56, 57, 58, 59, 60, 61, 62, 63, 64, 65, 66, 67, 68, 69, 70, 71, 72, 73, 74, 75, 76, 77, 78, 79, 80, 81, 82, 83, 84, 85, 86, 87, 88, 89, 90, 91, 92, 93, 94, 95, 96, 97, 98, 99, 100.

Four-color photographs depict many of the menus in this attractive soft-bound, 8 x 11-inch book. Published by Golden Press, New York, a division of Western Publishing Company Inc., Betty Crocker's Cooking for One can be found wherever good books are sold.

Update on cake contest

Many of you have asked about the carrot cake contest. Here's how things stand to date.
We have authenticated published recipes going back to the 1920s and heritage recipes which can be traced back to the 1800s. A number of disqualified entries have been used as their source a secondary source, like relatively recent magazine articles that claimed the carrot cake recipe dated back to the 1800s. Since these recipes often call for ingredients like corn oil or canned pineapple, we have reason to doubt the authenticity.
As far as all of the oldest authenticated recipes have come from cookbooks.
As a bonus, Pillsbury is learning much about how

Pound cakes star at holiday parties

Ever since the first English settlers brought their pound cake recipes to America, the rich, moist cakes have starred at holiday buffets and as party desserts. Over the years, good cooks have worked out a number of variations of the classic cake. Two that are especially suitable at this time of year are Eggnog Pound Cake and Date Nut Bourbon Cake.

As a plus during this hectic time, these variations both begin with a 24-ounce pound cake mix, for a big cake that is quicker and easier to prepare than "scratch" versions.

Eggnog Pound Cake lets your guests enjoy two favorite holiday foods in one. You simply add the eggnog flavors of cream, nutmeg and rum to the pound cake mix. An easy glaze is poured over the cake while it's still in the pan, warm from the oven. While early pound cake recipes called for rum or brandy as flavoring, Date Nut Bourbon Cake uses bourbon to accent the popular date-nut combination. An especially moist cake that keeps well, Date Nut Bourbon Cake can be baked a day or two in advance. Just cover tightly to store. This flavorful cake needs no frosting or glaze, so it's less sweet than most desserts, a pleasant change for guests tired of too many holiday sweets.

Eggnog Pound Cake
1 pkg. Pillsbury Pound Cake Supreme Bundt Cake Mix
1 cup half-and-half
1/2 cup water
1 cup margarine or butter, softened
1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
1 teaspoon rum extract
3 eggs
Topping:
1/4 cup sugar
1/4 cup margarine or butter
2 tablespoons water
1/4 teaspoon rum extract
Heat oven to 325 degrees

Preheat oven to 325 degrees. Grease and flour 12-cup Bundt pan. Blend 2-cup packets of cake mix and remaining cake ingredients in mixer until moistened. Beat 2 minutes at medium speed (portable mixer at highest speed). Pour into prepared pan. Bake at 325 degrees for 45 to 55 minutes or until toothpick inserted in center comes out clean. During last 10 minutes of baking, combine topping ingredients. Stir over medium heat until mixture comes to a boil. Remove from heat. Immediately after cake is removed from oven, pour half of sauce mixture around edge of cake in pan. Cool upright on cooling rack 10 minutes; invert onto serving plate and brush or spoon remaining sauce on cake. Store tightly covered. 16 servings.

Date-Nut Bourbon Cake
1 pkg. Pillsbury Pound Cake Supreme Bundt Cake Mix
1 cup water
1/2 cup margarine or butter, softened
1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
1 teaspoon rum extract
3 eggs
Topping:
1/4 cup sugar
1/4 cup margarine or butter
2 tablespoons water
1/4 teaspoon rum extract
Heat oven to 325 degrees

Preheat oven to 325 degrees. Grease and flour 12-cup Bundt pan. Blend 2-cup packets of cake mix and remaining cake ingredients except dates and nuts at low speed until moistened. Beat 2 minutes at medium speed (portable mixer at highest speed). Fold in dates and nuts. Pour into prepared pan.

Bake at 325 degrees for 50 to 60 minutes or until toothpick inserted in center comes out clean. Cool upright on cooling rack about 25 minutes; invert onto serving plate and brush or spoon remaining sauce on cake. Store tightly covered. 16 servings.

Make toffee crunch at home

Toffee is a hard sweetmeat or confection that comes in many guises. Often, it is made with nuts, candied fruit or coconut added. But the classic is basically a sugary confection, plain, with no added fruits, other than perhaps another flavoring such as coffee.
Homemade toffee crunch squares are easy to make — as long as you watch the cooking time and temperature. These will keep hidden, of course, for many weeks in a tightly covered container. However, they go fast when kept within reach of visiting children and adults who have a weakness for toffees similar to that of peanut or popcorn devotees.

Toffee Crunch Squares
1 1/2 cups sugar
1/2 cup light corn syrup
1/2 cup heavy cream
1/2 cup margarine
Line 2 cookie sheets with aluminum foil. Grease foil. In heavy 2-quart saucepan, stir together sugar, corn syrup and heavy cream until well blended. Stirring constantly, bring to boil over low heat. Add margarine. Stirring occasionally, cook until thermometer reaches 285 degrees or until a small amount of mixture dropped into cold water separates into threads which are hard, but not brittle. Pour onto prepared cookie sheets. Spread with greased spatula to cover entire surface. Cool a few minutes until a film forms on top. Using a sharp knife, mark surface in squares. Begin marking candy from outside and work toward center. With wide metal spatula, press along marked lines. Do not break through the film surface. If lines do not hold, cool candy a while longer, then continue to press along marked lines, pressing the spatula deeper without breaking film. When spatula can be pressed to bottom of candy in all lines, candy is shaped. Cool. Break into squares. Store in tightly covered container.

SAVORY STUFFED MUSHROOMS
24 medium mushrooms
1/3 cup seeded and finely chopped tomato
1/4 cup finely chopped green pepper
2 tablespoons sliced scallions
1/3 cup low-calorie Italian dressing
Snack Mate pasteurized process cheese spread
Triscuit wafers
Remove stems from mushroom caps; chop stems and mix with tomato, green pepper and scallions. Place mushroom caps and vegetable mixture in a shallow dish. Pour dressing over mushroom caps and vegetable mixture. Cover and refrigerate at least 4 hours or overnight, turning mushroom caps occasionally. Spoon vegetable mixture evenly into mushroom caps. Garnish with Snack Mate pasteurized process cheese spread. Serve with Triscuit wafers. Makes 24 mushroom servings.

VOTE YES

If you were a depositor as of Nov. 4, 1980, you have received a proxy card entitling you to vote on the plan to convert Heritage Savings from the mutual form of capitalization to the stock form. The Board of Directors of Heritage voted unanimously in favor of this step because we believe it will pave the way to a future in which Heritage can serve its communities with new and expanded services. And we believe that it is progress. Your vote is very important, particularly since failure to vote has the same effect as a vote against the plan. Bear in mind that voting for the plan does not obligate you to buy any stock. Furthermore, after the conversion, your savings will continue to earn the same rate of interest and carry insurance coverage up to $100,000 by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation. The Board and Management urge you to vote promptly by returning your proxy in person or by mail to any office of Heritage Savings. We recommend that you vote yes for the conversion. It's a vote for progress.

William H. Hale, President

Psychiatrist seeks permit for adolescent center

MANCHESTER — A local psychiatrist seeks to establish a private day treatment center for adolescents on East Center Street.

Dr. Jamshid Marvasti has applied to the Health Systems Agency of North Central Connecticut for a Certificate of Need to establish the center at 139 East Center Street. The center would be an expansion of his present office.

Marvasti said Monday the center would begin with about 12 patients, and perhaps expand. The center would provide therapy for adolescents and adults for several hours a day, rather than the usual hour session.

Marvasti said the center would probably treat post-hospitalized patients who are not ready to re-enter active society.

At its Nov. 13 meeting the HSA reviewed Marvasti's application and found it incomplete. He said he is working on it for presentation within the next several months. The agency must award the CON before Marvasti can establish the center.

Through the CON the agency reviews and decides what medical facilities are needed to avoid duplication.

Marvasti said his proposal complies with town zoning and fire ordinances. Obstacles remaining are the CON, Marvasti said, and a letter of need.

Marvasti said he had spoken with Manchester Memorial Hospital officials, but working more closely with counselors and managers of the Community Child Guidance Clinic here.

There are psychiatric day treatment centers in New Britain, Willimantic, and Hartford, according to Marvasti. But he added these centers had waiting lists.

"I would like a small, intense treatment center," he said.

An increase of Manchester Memorial's psychiatric ward, from 26 to 36 beds, was approved last spring by the HSA. The approval was included in the hospital's expansion plans. During the CON hearings, the agency commissioners questioned whether the treatment center was needed here.

The hospital's treatment center is not geared toward a specific age, but accommodates all the hospital's patients. The day treatment center is included in the two-story mental health addition, according to hospital spokesman Andrew Beck.

MACC reveals seasonal basket needs

MANCHESTER — Two hundred and five Christmas baskets are needed to assist low income families in Manchester this year, announced Nancy Carr, director of the Manchester Area Conference of Churches.

The figure was determined after a meeting with area social workers. With 146 baskets pledged by local churches, schools, organizations, and concerned individuals, the conference is still 59 baskets short of its goal.

Of the households still to be taken care of, 18 are elderly; 14 are disabled; and 27 are families. Of the families for whom MACC hopes to provide baskets, four of them are families with six members or more.

Christmas baskets include not only the "fixings" for a Christmas dinner but enough food to stretch over a week. The community food collections at Thanksgiving produced an abundance of cans of soups and vegetables.

However, fruit, fruit juice, puddings, protein foods (peanut butter, tuna, hash, stew, etc.) and cereal products are still badly needed, as well as fresh fruits and vegetables.

Cocoa mixes, puddings, and Jell-Os are particularly nice treats for low income elderly, as well as fruit which everyone loves, particularly children.

"The most expensive item is the meat," said Mrs. Carr. "With ham and beef so expensive, we are looking at small turkey, roasting chickens and turkey rolls to provide the traditional meal."

Each of the 205 baskets will include a gift for each child in the family, or in the case of elderly and disabled persons, a special Christmas treat.

Anyone wishing to "adopt" a person or family for Christmas sharing is urged to call the MACC office at 649-2093. Checks may be mailed to: Seasonal Sharing, Box 773, Manchester, Connecticut 06040.

Give the gift of Christmas to someone who really needs it.

This Christmas, the Manchester Area Council of Churches is collecting gifts for kids, and elderly persons who are less fortunate than the rest of us. But in order to make Christmas a happier time for these individuals we have to ask you for help.

The contribution of any gift you may wish to give will be very welcome. The Council just requests that all gifts be unwrapped and deposited in gift receptacles located at the Main Office of Heritage Savings and Loan, or the K-Mart office.

Remember — giving is the best Christmas tradition of them all. Your gift will mean so much to that young or old person who has so little.

Lack of planners quorum delays group home request

By BARBARA RICHMOND
Herald Reporter
VERNON — Lack of a quorum only two members were present at the Planning Commission meeting last night to postpone a hearing last night on a request of the Capitol Region Education Council (CREC) to establish a group home on Elm Street, Rockville.
About 25 persons attended the hearing. They were led by William Houle, commission chairman, that the hearing will be deferred until the Jan. 13 meeting of the commission.
It will have to be readjusted and all abutters will again have to be notified.
The education council wants to set up the group home for emotionally

Board votes early closings for four teacher workshops

ANNONER — The Board of Education approved a resolution to close four early closing days to the school calendar for teacher workshops at its meeting Tuesday.
The additional early closings will be for workshops in spelling, mainstreaming, communications and curriculum review. The added days will bring the total of teacher workshops to 14.
Beatrice Kowalski, school board chairman, said board members felt the programs were important so they approved the additional days.
Board members approved theoretical settings for the new gymnasium and music room. The temperature in the gym will be kept at 58 degrees day and night.
Mrs. Kowalski said the thermostat settings were approved by the school physician.
The temperature in the music room will be kept at 68 degrees during the day and 58 degrees at night, after 3 p.m.
The board will have to take money out of its planned budget for a school bus turnaround at the end of Route 316, where it meets the Hebron town line.
The board had requested funds for snow plowing the turnaround in its

Holiday choral concert set

SOUTH WINDSOR — While a teen-ager, Dr. Bernert performed on local and network radio. He has directed for many theater groups and has written and published short stories in national magazines.
At Saturday's concert, the chorus will perform holiday music including "O Holy Night," "Do You Hear What I Hear," "Ring Those Christmas Bells" and traditional carols.
Tickets are available from chorus members and at the Recreation Department and will be sold at the door. Admission is $2 for adults and $1 for students. Senior citizens are admitted free.

Town to honor official

SOUTH WINDSOR — The following is a letter written by South Windsor Mayor Edward E. Havens in tribute to Donald McLaughlin, South Windsor's first building official, who died Monday.
As mayor of Town of South Windsor, and speaking on behalf of the South Windsor Town Council, the town manager, and all other town officials and employees, it is with profound sorrow we note the death on Monday, Dec. 8, of our Building Official, Mr. Donald McLaughlin.
As a lifelong resident of South Windsor, Don's sincere interest in and love for "his" town was exemplified in the dedicated performance of his duties as our chief building official for the past 18 years.
He was a man of courage, understanding, and common sense. He commanded the respect of all who knew and worked with him. We will all miss him greatly.
In gratitude for his friendship and devoted service to our community, I declare Thursday, Dec. 11, an official day of mourning of his passing, and request that flags on all public buildings be flown at half-staff on that day.
All of us extend our deep and most heartfelt sympathy to his wife, Carla, his daughter, Patricia, and his sons, Frederick and Thomas, for their irreparable loss.

News for Senior Citizens

Christmas party drawing close

By WALLY FORTIN
Hi folks! Well, it's good to be back again and lucky for me the weather turned a little warmer. Now I last long, and in fact by the time you read this, the weather will be back to normal for this time of the year. Cold, cold, cold. I guess the first bit of news is to remind you that tomorrow we will have our annual Christmas party. It will all begin with a delicious turkey dinner with all the trimmings, including good old mashed potatoes. After the meal, the action will move into the auditorium where we'll have a visit from Santa, who along with his elves will pass out gifts in order to participate in the gift exchange. Each person must bring a nice gift which should be at least $2. A woman will bring a woman's gift and a man for a man. As you arrive at the center, there will be a large box for each to place their gifts in and get a ticket, because without a ticket you won't get a gift. More later.
By the way, with the cold weather moving in you should be getting in the mood to head south and if so, we have just the trip for you. Thirteen days to Florida starting Feb. 12. We have quite a few seats left and if you're interested, call our office 647-2211 for more information.
While I was vacationing in Florida I had a chance to call my friend George Vailone. George and I have teamed up over the years with all kinds of skits especially for our variety shows. George and his wife now reside in St. Anthonis, 841, Jennie Fogarty, 829; Sam Schors, 117; John Klack, 806; Audrey Durey, 706; Maude Oster, 793; Bert Turner, 788; Ethel Scott, 779; Grace Gibbs, 773; Roy Durey, 767; Arthur Bouffard, 766; Martin Bakastar, 759; Gus Frank, 745; Edith

Abby

By Abigail van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I have had it with all this meaningless gift giving to people who already have more than enough. Here's a suggestion: I give out how much you spent last year on Christmas gifts, add 10 percent for inflation, then make out a check in that amount to UNICEF, The Christian Children's Fund or to some other non-profit organization that feeds starving children.

To your check, staple your Christmas gift list. Mail. Then to all those on your Christmas gift list, send a card stating, "In the true spirit of this holiday season, a donation in your name has been sent to..."

Be sure to advise them early that you are not sending them a gift this year, so they won't send you one.

Sometimes being Thanking and Christmas have more than one bow of rice and a glass of water for dinner to remind yourself of how lucky you are to be who you are, living where you are, instead of someone else, living on the other side of the world.

Under your unnumbered Christmas tree will be a nice warm glow, guaranteed not to burn your carpet. Enjoy it. Consider the above advantages, plus no racking your brain about what to buy those who already have more than they need, no shopping, no gift wrapping, and no thank-you notes to write. And best of all is knowing that somewhere a child lives who would be glad without you.

DEAR ABBY: My name is Danny and I am 10 years old. My grandparents always give me and my sister money for Christmas, but it is getting nothing at all because my mother makes us put it in the bank. Don't you think kids should be able to buy whatever they want with their own Christmas money?

GYPPIED IN JACKSONVILLE

DEAR GYPPIED: That depends. If the money is given to "buy a gift of your choice," then you should be able to buy what you want. If it's intended to be put away for your education, or saved for something specific, it should be banked.

DEAR ABBY: I am 15, and can't decide whether to do something or not. The guy whose gym locker is next to mine reads pornographic magazines. He's not allowed to keep them at home, so he stores them in his gym locker. He's got quite a collection, and it's growing.

He ran out of room in his locker, so he asked me to "rent" him space in my locker to store his magazines. I could use a few bucks, but I'm not crazy about keeping this kind of stuff in my locker.

It's not real hard core porno, but it's bad enough. If I kept this stuff in my locker, I doubt that I'd ever get caught, but something tells me not to.

What do you think?

UNDECEID

DEAR UNDECEID: That "something" that tells you not to rent space in your locker to store pornography is a good sense. Skip the chance to make a few bucks and never be a party to any deal you can't feel proud of.

Dextrous show-up squeeze made his slam even though both lines were wrong and diamonds didn't divide 3:3. The hand was played in a rubber bridge game this year and proved that John has not lost any of the skill that made him a national champion almost 30 years ago.

The opening lead was won on the closed hand with the club queen. John cashed the ace of spades and crossed to diamonds. John cashed the ace and king of clubs and East had to go to hearts to keep the jack of diamonds.

John won his hand East pitching another heart. Then, in rapid succession, John cashed the fourth and fifth trumps, pitching two small hearts from the dummy. East pitched two small clubs.

Next John cashed the king of diamonds and led a second diamond to the ace. If not there was still the heart finesse in reserve. Now John cashed the ace and king of clubs and East had to go to hearts to keep the jack of diamonds.

At trick 12, John led the jack of diamonds and the dummy East was known to have the jack of diamonds and no other card. John went up with the heart ace and dropped West's diamond king. John had turned his bad luck, two finesses wrong and a poor diamond division into a skillfully developed show-up squeeze.
