Unusual surgical method proves 'hare raising'

By BARBARA RICHMOND

MANCHESTER — Manchester Memorial Hospital was the site of a very unusual surgical procedure Tuesday afternoon.

The "doctor" was trying to take her work seriously. But her assistants didn't share her feelings.

The patient was nonplussed about the whole thing. He probably would have rather been chewing on a carrot. The unusual patient is a six-foot rabbit named Harvey. He is known as the perianal patient in the pediatrics department. He has had an appendectomy, a cast on a broken leg and several injuries that require hundreds of bandages.

Harvey was donated to the pediatrics unit about three years ago at Eastertime and he's used for pre-op teaching for the young patients. He even gets to room with some of his young friends.

Performing the surgery on Tuesday was Mrs. John Henneberger of Hebron. Assisting her were her daughter, Joy, and Vickie Neff of East Hartford. Both young ladies have had recent appendectomies and are recovering nicely.

Mrs. Henneberger noticed that Harvey was having trouble holding his big head, with its big ears, up so she decided major surgery was necessary. Harvey was put on a surgical table and an incision was made (in his seam of course). Along with a lot of cotton batting, the doctor also inserted part of a garden hose in an operation that certainly was an example of innovative surgery.

Harvey was complete with a surgical cap holding down his ears and the "aides" kept track of his vital signs while the surgery was being

Jury weighs Metheney's fate

By MARTIN KEARNS
Herald Reporter

HARTFORD — A federal jury late Tuesday began deliberating the fate of Charles Norman Metheney, 19, the white West Virginian who faces up to 11 years' imprisonment for his alleged involvement in last October's firebombing of a black family's Manchester home.

Metheney is charged by federal prosecutors with intimidating and interfering with the civil rights of Lucinda Harris, Bruce Meggett, Nathaniel Graham and the four Harris children, and with possession of an unregistered destructive device, known as a Molotov cocktail.

As the prosecution began its closing argument, Mrs. Harris, whose Brent Road home sustained heavy fire damage in the late-night attack, left the courtroom where her family has sat for more than a week in tears.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Albert Dabrowski, at the time, was explaining a possible motive for the bombing, and his argument berated the emotional climax which Tuesday's proceedings brought to the six-day long trial. "There are some people in Manchester, Connecticut, who don't view the Harris' as ordinary people, but in their own words, as 'nigger,'" he said.

Appearing earlier as a prosecution witness was Eugene Gilliland, 18, of Manchester, who admitted planning a similar bombing in either July or August. Gilliland was convicted in state court of accessory to third-degree arson after he agreed to testify against Metheney, whom he met in Army Reserve training.

"It doesn't take much common sense to figure out that Gene Gilliland is a big talker, and that he doesn't like 'niggers,'" said Dabrowski, who added, "You bring a man with the mouth of Eugene Gilliland together with a man of action, Chuck Metheney, then you have an explosion of another kind."

Both Gilliland's and Metheney's testimony directly contradicted each other, and Dabrowski conceded "credibility is an issue," but said Gilliland has no reason to lie and every reason to tell the truth.

The government Nov. 18, 1980 signed a plea-bargaining agreement with Gilliland in which he was promised conviction on a reduced charge in return for his testimony against Metheney. "Sometimes we find people like Gene Gilliland who won't testify until they are promised a deal," said Dabrowski.

Nonetheless, Dabrowski stipulated to impress jurors with the stipulation in the agreement which gives the government authority to reinstate Gilliland's original first-degree arson charge, should he fail to testify truthfully.

In closing remarks for the defense, Metheney's court-appointed lawyer attacked the credibility of the government's witnesses, at one point accusing Gilliland of wearing the sweatshirt the prosecution alleged Metheney wore during the bombing. Referring to the evidence, Thomas Dennis, defense attorney said, "This (the shirt) was going to be the nail that permanently closed the coffin on Chuck Metheney." Dennis further alleged that after Gilliland was released Oct. 31, 1980 on bond, he corroborated his testimony with two other prosecution witnesses before signing the plea-bargaining agreement.

Eric Donze, a third suspect who has not been charged in the firebombing, and his brother, Blaine Donze, both testified against Metheney. Dennis, however, pointed to what he

Reagan walking; suspect probed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan got out of his hospital bed for a walk today and aides said he might return to the White House by next week. Police probed evidence the young drifter charged with shooting him was seeking the love of a teenage movie star.

White House Chief of Staff James Baker described Reagan as "cheerful," said he was up and about in his hospital room and still wants to go to Mexico in late April to meet with President Lopez Portillo.

A mid-morning medical bulletin issued by Reagan's personal physician at the White House said the president "continues to improve as well as can be expected." Dr. Daniel Ruge added that his diet has been changed from liquid to solid food.

Presidential press secretary James Brady, critically wounded when he was shot in the head in the assassination attempt, was reported by the White House to be making "astounding" progress and was even said to have played "catch" with his wife Sarah from his hospital bed.

Brady also was able to speak for the first time, but there was still no indication whether he suffered any mental impairment from the bullet removed from his brain after a five-hour operation.

Mental tests were planned today for John W. Hinckley Jr., 25, the man police tackled after he allegedly fired six shots at Reagan, also wounding Brady, a Secret Service officer and a Washington policeman on the downtown hotel Monday.

Brady was the most critically injured in the attempt Monday on President Reagan's life, and initial reports had indicated doctors were uncertain he would survive. But today Brady "played catch" with his wife, Sarah, and demonstrated his ability to move in spite of his weakened condition. Ruge said Brady was taken off a respirator today and "is breathing well," the doctor said.

"Mr. James Brady's condition continues to improve as he remains in critical condition," Ruge said. "Physicians continue to be cautiously optimistic as Mr. Brady's neurological condition continues to improve," he said.

Brady is "still seriously ill, but we're very hopeful," presidential counselor Edwin Meese said earlier today in an NBC interview. "His making astounding progress."

White House chief of staff James Baker said Brady's condition "miraculously continues to improve."

In a television interview, Reagan's son Michael, who visited his father Tuesday, said on his return to Los Angeles that the president told him he would still like to throw out the first ball at the opening game of the 1981 baseball season in Cincinnati next Wednesday.

Reagan and his wife Nancy stayed up until 11 p.m. EST Tuesday to watch part of the Academy Awards show, which included a message the president taped two weeks ago, aides reported.

The president is in good condition but is experiencing some pain and fatigue in response to his injury," Ruge said in the medical bulletin. "The president slept well during the night and is up and walking this morning."

Baker added that Reagan "experienced some discomfort overnight" due to soreness from the operation.

Baker said the president was "extremely pleased this morning" to hear about the Senate's vote Tuesday against a move that would have restored about $1 billion in budget cuts he had recommended.

Baker also said he believes there is "serious concern now with respect to the extent to which he (Reagan) ought to be exposed to large crowds."

Solidarity OKs deal

GDANSK, Poland (UPI) — Solidarity's leadership ratified a deal with the Communist government canceling a general strike, but militants charged union leader Lech Walesa "sold out" and a Pentagon analyst said Moscow was closer to intervention despite the compromise.

Bomb wrecks office

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (UPI) — A powerful bomb planted by presumed leftist insurgents demolished a U.S.-owned Citibank office in San Salvador and rebel government forces battled in the countryside.

Shuttle almost ready

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) — Top space agency officials checked the readiness of the nation's first reusable space shuttle today in deciding whether to permit next week's launch of John Young and Robert Crippen aboard the Columbia.

The Kennedy Space Center has recommended that the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, headed by acting administrator Alan Lovelace, approve a 6:50 a.m. EST Friday, April 10 launch for the revolutionary spaceship.

Lovelace was expected to accept the space center recommendation today. Spokesman Hugh Harris said the agency's management, which met all day Tuesday, was making a thorough review of all aspects of flight preparations before signaling the go-ahead to Columbia pilots Young and Crippen.

The decision is an important one. It represents a new stage in the nation's troubled nine-year, $9.6 billion effort to develop an efficient, cost-effective space transportation system.

March started

HARTFORD (UPI) — Social activist Ned Coll has begun a 100-mile march to the New York border to protest poverty and the failure of authorities to solve the murders of black children in Atlanta.

"We are seeing tremendous suffering day in and day out in poverty areas of this state, which is being ignored," said Coll, director of the anti-poverty Revitalization Corps in Hartford.

Firms share payment

CHICAGO (UPI) — American Airlines and McDonnell Douglas Corp. have agreed to share payment of damage awards in the 1979 crash of a DC-10, which will greatly speed up lawsuits filed on behalf of 373 people who died in the nation's worst air disaster.

In the out-of-court settlement Tuesday, the airline and the manufacturer agreed to share paying damages granted in past and future suits stemming from the May 25, 1979, crash of American Airlines Flight 191 near O'Hare International Airport.

Details of the landmark settlement were not disclosed. The agreement means there will be no full court hearing on the question of who was at fault in the crash, the two giant corporations could have lasted years.

McDonnell Douglas attorney Norman J. Barry said the agreement will have a "very, very material effect on rapid disposition" of about 160 damage suits pending.

Animal anguish

Beautiful blonde Sigrd Gebel-Williams is married to the world's top animal trainer — and she's afraid of animals.

"I wouldn't even walk over to that llama alone," she said at Madison Square Garden, where her husband, Gunter Gebel-Williams, performs spectacularly with the Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus that opens tonight.

Miners reject contract

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Worried that non-union coal operations might threaten their jobs, soft coal miners throughout Appalachia rebuffed their union's leadership and soundly rejected a tentative contract by a 2-1 margin.

The vote Tuesday extends indefinitely a United Mine Workers strike that began last Friday when the old contract ran out and raises prospects of another long and costly walkout in the coal fields. No major effect on the U.S. economy and energy supply is expected for several months because utilities have a four-month coal stockpile and 56 percent of U.S. coal production is non-union.

Zinc coins planned

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The copper penny doesn't make sense anymore, so the Treasury Department wants to start producing coins made mostly of zinc.

With a thin coating of copper, the new zinc coins would look the same as the traditional penny, but would be 20 percent lighter. Treasury officials said Tuesday, and they would cost about $60 million less to make.

Treasurer Angela Buchanan told a House Banking subcommittee production of the new coins is to begin this fall, with the zinc pennies being phased in through 1982.

Latest body not child

ATLANTA (UPI) — Authorities said today the decomposed body of a black male pulled from the Chattahoochee River late Tuesday was a young man, probably with no connection to the city's string of 23 slain and missing children.

The partially nude body was found in the river several miles from where the body of Timothy Hill, the 21st victim, was discovered Monday.

Clad only in a T-shirt, the body appeared to officials to be that of a black teen-ager at first, but an autopsy early today established the victim as over 20 years of age.

There had been immediate speculation that the body might have been that of 15-year-old Joseph Bell, missing since March 2. But the autopsy, conducted at a funeral home in suburban Douglasville, ruled that out.

"This is not Joseph Bell," said Douglas County Sheriff Earl Lee. "This is a black male who is about 70 inches tall and weighs about 150-175 pounds."

CCLU asks chief

EAST HARTFORD — William Olds, executive director of the Connecticut Civil Liberties Union, has called on Police Chief Clarence Drumm to rescind an order he issued some four months ago.

The general order issued by the chief permits searches of department employees' desks, lockers and police vehicles, without benefit of warrants.

Olds said the union believes that police officers should enjoy the protection of the Fourth Amendment, the same as other government employees and private citizens.

Denial appealed

VERNON — Owners of property on Route 30, who were denied a zone change for a proposed rent-subsidized apartment complex, are appealing the decision of the Zoning Commission.

Bety Gessay Kristofak and Elizabeth Peterson, property owners, applied to the commission to rezone 25 acres of industrial land to residential development.

Through their attorney, Martin B. Burke, they filed papers in Tolland County Superior Court Tuesday to ask the court to reverse the commission's decision.

Assistant chief named

EAST HARTFORD — James Harrison has been appointed as assistant chief in the East Hartford Fire Department, Chief Thomas Dawson announced Tuesday afternoon.

Dawson said Harrison is a 26-year veteran of the department, having been appointed on March 24, 1955. He was promoted to lieutenant in 1973 and captain in 1978.

Garage fire

VERNON — A fire Tuesday extensively damaged a seven-car garage at 160 High St. The damaged was primarily confined to two bays. The garage is owned by Wayne and Pamela Stone of South Windsor, according to records in the assessor's office.

Fire officials believe the fire was started from sparks from a torch that was used in the garage earlier in the day. The fire was under control in less than five minutes. Fire Chief Donald Maguda said.

New rectory planned

EAST HARTFORD — Plans are being made to build a new rectory for Our Lady of Peace Roman Catholic Church. The new building will cost an estimated $100,000 to $125,000 and will be built on May Street, adjacent to the church.

The existing rectory is two blocks away from the church and that has been sold. Plans for the building, which will be one-story of cinder-block construction designed along the lines of the church, have been submitted to the town's department of inspection and permits. If approved, construction will probably start in late spring.

Shrubbery planted

EAST HARTFORD — The town has contracted with a West Hartford nursery to plant trees, plants and shrubs along the banks of the Hockanum River to help prevent erosion.

Town officials hope the plantings will spur interest in many among high school students. The Parks and Recreation Department is providing about $250 for students to build bird sanctuaries in the habitat behind the pool at the high school.

New panel formed

SOUTH WINDSOR — In an effort to find out why the Sewer Commission granted a surcharge abatement to Nuyway Tobacco Co., the Town Council has formed a three-member panel.

Vice President George Bush leaves the White House Tuesday enroute to a visit to President Reagan, recuperating from a gunshot wound. (UPI photo)

Bush remains vice president

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Vice President George Bush is concentrating on making sure the world knows the United States' government is functioning normally, but the White House emphasizes he is not taking on the role of acting president.

Bush Tuesday chaired a Cabinet meeting — but sat in the vice president's seat — and met with congressional leaders and the prime minister of the Netherlands.

Besides the regular staff and national security briefings scheduled today, Bush planned to have lunch with CIA Director William Casey and in late afternoon see Dr. Garrett Fitzgerald, the opposition party leader of Ireland — meetings planned before Monday's assassination attempt on President Reagan.

In his stand-in role for Reagan Tuesday, Bush kept a low-profile, business-as-usual attitude and emphasized the government hierarchy was not out of place.

"Everything seemed so normal," Bush told Dutch Prime Minister Andreas Van Agt, recalling his 10-minute morning meeting at George Washington University Hospital with Reagan. "We feel very relieved in this country at what appears to be a very speedy recovery."

The 10-minute visit, Bush added, made him "feel the same thing the country feels — a great sense of relief, the feeling he is on the road to recovery."

"The important thing to note... is that the White House did not skip a beat, the government did not skip a beat," said acting White House press secretary Larry Speakes. Bush is "sitting in on the meetings the president would have attended were he here," and is "directing the staff to look into certain matters as they may come up," Speakes said.

"There has been no transfer of authority from the president to the vice president," said Bush's press secretary, Peter Teeley.

Haig, Weinberger clash

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State Alexander Haig and Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger clashed over a sensitive national security issue during the tense hours when President Reagan was incapacitated, administration sources say.

"They clearly had a disagreement," one source said. "It was not over who was in control. It was not considered a shouting match or a big row."

The sources said the issue in question concerned national security and was too sensitive to reveal.

White House chief of staff James Baker acknowledged a "difference of opinion" had existed. But he denied Haig and Weinberger fought over command of the White House situation after Reagan was shot in the chest Monday in a restaurant assassination.

Baker said Haig did "a hell of a job." Presidential counselor Edwin Meese also insisted there had been no row. "Both men talked to me today and that just simply didn't happen," Meese said in an interview with the Public Broadcasting Service.

Intensive probe continues into reaction of agents

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secret Service spokesman Jack Warner cradled his forehead in his hand and rubbed his eyes. He'd had less than two hours' sleep in the last 30. He had gone through interview after interview, but still the questions persisted.

Had the Secret Service failed in letting a would-be assassin within 10 feet of President Reagan as he emerged from a Washington hotel Monday?

Why didn't the agency have any previous knowledge of John Hinckley Jr., arrested last October in Nashville traveling with three hangers-on?

Is there any foolproof system for protecting the president?

The answers are not expected for several weeks — and the results will not necessarily be made public.

The Secret Service is investigating whether all possible steps were taken to safeguard Reagan just before and after the president and three others, including agent Timothy McCarthy, were wounded Monday. Warner said preliminary indications are the agents made no mistakes.

The agents, some brandishing 9mm Uzi submachine guns, immediately jumped the gunman, Jerry S. Parr, chief of the White House Secret Service detail, showed the wounded president into his limousine.

The investigation will consider allegations by some members of the media that bystanders — including Hinckley — were allowed into an area that was supposed to be secured for reporters and cameramen, and allegations Hinckley was "acting strange" as he stood among the reporters, Warner said.

"None of this has been verified, but we've got to find out whether it's fiction or fact," said Warner.

"We're reviewing each person's function" in interviews of agents, other law enforcement officers and eyewitnesses, he said. "It is imperative we interview them as soon as possible," he added, before memories lapse.

"It has always been my view that people who are going to carry guns will get guns anyway," he said. "I really question whether gun control laws would have made any difference in this kind of violence."

Chicago Mayor Jane Byrne said laws need to be strengthened to stop the carnage. She urged the U.S. Conference of Mayors to create a gun control committee to lobby for tough legislation.

"The tragic wounding of President Reagan and the others in Washington Monday is a horror that must not be met by words alone," said Mrs. Byrne.

"The shooting would have been a disaster. In Oklahoma, Democratic House Speaker Dan Draper said no gun legislation is pending in his state legislature and he doesn't anticipate any.

"The attempted assassination of Reagan stirred gun control talk in statehouses from New York to Nevada. The mood was mixed.

New York Gov. Hugh Carey said stiffer gun laws are needed nationwide, but a number of New York legislators doubted the shooting would lead to new laws.

In Oklahoma, Democratic House Speaker Dan Draper said no gun legislation is pending in his state legislature and he doesn't anticipate any.

"It has always been my view that people who are going to carry guns will get guns anyway," he said. "I really question whether gun control laws would have made any difference in this kind of violence."

Chicago Mayor Jane Byrne said laws need to be strengthened to stop the carnage. She urged the U.S. Conference of Mayors to create a gun control committee to lobby for tough legislation.

Actress seen as motive

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Just before Monday's assassination attempt, the troubled young man wrote a letter to a teenage film star he idolized and told her he planned to kill President Reagan.

"This guy had her (Miss Foster) on a pedestal," said another federal source. "He thought this would impress her so much she would fall in love with him."

Chief FBI spokesman Roger Yonko said: "By definition, we're dealing with an extremely troubled man."

Investigative sources said Hinckley, 25, due to undergo psychiatric tests today, pursued his crush on precocious Miss Foster by following her to Yale University when she enrolled last autumn and by sending her half a dozen letters. One or more of the letters allegedly contained threats to kill Reagan.

De Niro then went to a political rally carrying three guns, but did not get close enough to a presidential candidate to shoot.

The assassination attempt resembled a scene in Miss Foster's best-known movie, "Taxi Driver," in which she played a prostitute. In the movie, actor Robert De Niro told a woman that if she rejected him, he would carry out an assassination.

Questions of lifting trade embargo arise again

Should the United States end its trade embargo against Cuba and normalize diplomatic relations between the two nations?

Rep. Ted S. Weiss, D-N.Y., has introduced legislation calling for this, with a supporting statement printed in the Congressional Record.

"For nearly two decades the U.S. has tried, without discernible success, to use the trade weapon against Cuba," Weiss said.

"The embargo has not destabilized the Castro regime... slackened ties between Moscow and Havana... nor produced any apparent modifications in Cuban foreign policy."

America has much to gain economically and politically by restoring trade and diplomatic relations with Cuba, Weiss contended.

He listed a number of Castro actions in recent years which he said demonstrated a desire for diplomatic relations with the U.S.

These included an anti-hijacking agreement in 1973; a pact on maritime boundaries and fishing rights in 1977;

Lefever's words disprove stand Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — If President Reagan stinks by his nomination of Ernest Lefever as Assistant Secretary of State for Human Rights, the confirmation hearing seems certain to ignite the first really explosive opposition on Capitol Hill.

In two past columns, I've dusted off Lefever's expressed views on human rights and laid them on the table. His own words are the best evidence that he is unfit for this position.

But apparently the president remains unpersuaded so here is another serving of Lefever's philosophy, taken from the November 1970 issue of Worldview magazine.

Lefever wrote a virulent attack on the late Martin Luther King Jr., suggesting he was playing into the hands of the communists and accusing him implicitly of treason. Though Lefever conceded that the slain civil rights leader "cannot be held responsible for the orgy of black terror that followed his death," he wrote that "it would be fair to assume" that King contributed to the violence he deplored.

Lefever based his denunciation of King largely on a speech the black martyr made at New York's Riverside Church on April 4, 1967 — one year to the day before he was assassinated.

The slaughter in Vietnam had reached a new high that week, and King delivered an impassioned plea to end the carnage. He called for stopping all bombing, declaring a unilateral truce, setting a date for U.S. troop withdrawal and recognizing that the Viet Cong deserved a role in the government of South Vietnam.

Most of these proposals were adopted six years later by Richard

Nixon and Henry Kissinger, who finally withdrew U.S. forces from Vietnam. But King used some scathing language to make his point, calling the United States the "greatest purveyor of violence in the world."

Emotions had cooled down when Lefever wrote his article three-and-a-half years later. Still, he commented "This remarkable speech — its blunt, lopsided, unfeeling and unfair attack upon the United States, its more subtle praise for the communist and revolutionary force of liberation and its frequent use of communist clichés and slogans in contrast to King's customary Biblical allusions could have been drafted in Moscow, Peking, Hanoi or Havana."

King's speech, Lefever wrote, "was a disservice to the American people and a service to forces of revolutionary violence." At another point, Lefever coolly paraphrased the Constitution's definition of treason, saying: "Whatever his motives, King's Riverside speech gave aid and comfort to the enemies of peaceful change in Southeast Asia as well as to their allies in Moscow and Peking."

In typical Lefever style, he never came right out and accused Martin Luther King of being either a communist or a traitor, but the innuendo bubbled close to the surface.

In past conversations, the innuendo insisted to my reporters that he is a staunch advocate of human rights. He has boasted that he was a civil rights marcher before Dr. King. Lefever also complained that it is unreasonable to hold someone to statements he made in the past.

I was unable to get his explanation of the statements I have quoted above. His secretary told my associate, Lucette Lagnado, that he would return her repeated calls "after his confirmation."

Berry's World

Lefever coupled his assault on King with a corresponding enthusiastic expression of support for the white minority government of South Africa. At the University of Stellenbosch in the Cape province, Lefever delivered a paper in which he said South Africa should be "a close ally of the United States and a de facto member of NATO."

Certainly Ernest Lefever isn't the right man to speak for the United States on the subject of human rights.

Footnote: For the president's own good, he should withdraw Lefever's nomination. Private polls show he has failed to win the support of the black community. Of the 24 percent of Americans who don't like Reagan, the unpublished polls show 10 percent are black. He will only alienate them worse by putting a Martin Luther King critic in charge of human rights.

Reagan shooting raises questions

WASHINGTON — Dawn broke Tuesday over the capital with the American flag flying high over the White House in a perfect blue sky — in sharp contrast to Monday, a dark, rainy day when President Reagan's brush with death nearly sent the flag to half-mast to symbolize a nation's mourning.

President Reagan is doing exceptionally well following his gunshot wound to the chest Monday afternoon as he emerged from a speech at the Washington's Hilton Hotel a few miles north of the White House.

Dr. Dennis O'Leary, a spokesman for George Washington University Hospital where the president is recuperating, told reporters Tuesday morning that Reagan had "an excellent night" and already is conducting government business at his bedside with aides.

Relief over the president's excellent prognosis is tempered by deep concern over the condition of his press secretary, James S. Brady, who suffered massive brain injuries in the fusillade of shots.

Brady, a chunky, jovial man of 40 who is uncommonly well-liked by reporters here, had improved by Tuesday, however, and O'Leary said: "We believe he is going to live."

The events of Monday afternoon, played over and over by TV networks, were an eerie reminder of Nov. 22, 1963, when President John F. Kennedy was assassinated in Dallas.

There have been other presidential assassination attempts since, including two on former President Ford Monday's attempt on President Reagan, again raises serious questions about security precautions surrounding the chief executive.

A number of eyewitnesses to the shooting Monday recollect seeing a view that most Americans no longer want to believe. But the near assassination of President Reagan, and reminding the country of the violence that is so much part of the American scene, is almost certain to make many citizens sleep less easy tonight.

This week's columns are directed toward our younger readers — Junior and Senior high ages. Since the editorial page is probably not the most read section by this age group, Mom and Dad, please pass these thoughts on to your teens.

FEELING GOOD ABOUT ME

This week we are examining the teenagers number one problem — and how we can deal with this sometimes source of pain, hurt, and frustration. The solution is found in being the kind of person yourself who not only refuses to contribute to interpersonal conflicts, but goes further by seeking the best interests of the one who is trying to do you harm. In other words, don't just resist conflicts, seek peace. "Blessed are the peacemakers," Jesus said.

You might be saying to yourself, "It'll never work. In today's world you've got to get what you can when you can!" This is the thinking of an insecure person. If you feel you might get ripped off by "giving in" or seeking peace, you will constantly guard against that possibility by rarely seeking a compromise and instead taking chances in relationships.

Now the key of course is to feel good about yourself. No one can rip you off in something that you are willing to freely give. Remember Jesus saying no one could take his

Country club fees

As a member of the Manchester Country Club these many years, I must object to the innuendoes and suppositions implied in an article published in your newspaper concerning the financial and social conditions at the club.

Anyone reading the article might get the impression that the members are acting like wolves tearing at each other's throats and that the club is in deep financial difficulty. Nothing could be further from the truth.

The truth is, the majority of the members are congenial, responsible, amiable, fun-loving men and women of moderate means. The idea that a 10 percent raise would tend to make the Manchester Country Club a rich man's club is sheer nonsense. Even with the raise, the annual dues are one of the lowest, if not the lowest, of any comparable club in the area.

It is true that we have our differences which at times flare up and cause a little fur to fly. These disagreements arise from an honest and sincere care the members have for their club and generally are only temporary.

As to the financial situation, it is true that we are $20,000 in the red, but considering the present economic conditions with double-digit inflation, high interest rates, etc., this is not a calamitous situation. I feel this will be corrected by the board of governors this year.

There is one thing that bugs me and it concerns the criticism of the club by the Manchester Board of Directors in regard to the inefficient operation of the club's finances.

It seems to me that this criticism should have been tempered by some words of praise of the meticulous care that the club has taken to improve and beautify the course.

It has installed a watering system, planted trees, cleared the brush, drained the wet areas, seeded, fertilized, expanded the parking area, and with the skill and dedication of a most experienced greenskeeper, fashioned the course into one of the best groomed and layouts in the area. This is a public facility of which the Town of Manchester should be proud.

I worry that the Board of Governors in its attempt to balance the budget of the club will make some deep cuts to lower expenses. My concern should be the concern of the Manchester directors, is that this lovely course might become a public eyesore.

Educators study ways to deal with pupil drop

MANCHESTER — Manchester school officials heard from a member of The Hartford school system last night about the way that area had dealt with its dramatically declining enrollment.

Faced with a sharp drop in enrollment, the West Hartford system was restructured several years ago and two middle schools of grades seven and eight were formed.

While professional staff had opted for a six-seven-eight combination, strong community support for continuing the neighborhood school concept had made the two grade middle school idea the plan for The West Hartford system.

Neil Atkins, director of secondary education in West Hartford, explained the reorganization and decision-making process which had led to the restructuring two years ago.

Members of the planning committee of the Board of Education and a few members of the public he still preferred the six-seven-eight combination because he felt grade six students were "ready for a more expansive experience" and these students would also profit from working with the older students.

The idea was abandoned, he explained, because of strong support for a neighborhood school concept when it became clear three more elementary schools would have to be closed under the six-seven-eight plan.

In making the decision, Atkins said, "there are a lot of factors that go beyond what is ideal." One has to make the best decisions based on all the interests and information, he said. Ultimately, as long as an option is considered educationally sound, the assessment of "what the community holds most dear" is most important. "If we don't have that support," he said, "then we'd have a long row to hoe."

Atkins said there were strong educational reasons for moving the ninth graders into the high school, including the better opportunities for grade nine students in the high school and the fact graduation requirements could begin to be met earlier and with more consistency.

Bus is going to Wildwood

By WALLY FORTIN

Hi! The big news that had us all concerned and a bit worried was the assassination attempt on our president. Thank God, the news turned out very nicely for the president and we are all happy about that, however our prayers are now with the wounded for their speedy recovery.

Now, what is this world coming to?

On the brighter side the news here at the center starts with reminding you folks who signed up for the fifth bus to Wildwood that is going and therefore you must bring in your down-payment this week.

While on trips last week I mentioned the U.S. super trip coming up to Williamsburg on May 18 to 22 by the AARP Chapter, 1275. Unfortunately, we gave the incorrect telephone number, and they still have room for more people if you'd like to get more information regarding the trip, call Jeanne Johnson at 649-1837.

Big news at the center is about our up-and-coming Variety Show scheduled for April 24 and 25. Our bus will make the route on Saturday the 25 and if you're planning on taking the bus, please call our office and leave your name so that we can set up our route accordingly.

This coming Sunday the rehearsal will start at 2 p.m. and will be full dress and like I said before you are going to really enjoy this show as the costumes are really colorful and lots of them.

By the way, it is nice to have Helen Ramey and daughter, Martha, back helping us with the scenery once again. Helen was in a serious accident while on vacation last year and we were somewhat remiss in not wishing her well. Both she and her daughter have been a big help to the success of the show over the years and we are really glad to have them back with us.

Here's a report on last Friday afternoon's softball games:

Archie Houghtaling, 133; Felix Jesania, 128; Marjorie McLean, 127; John Klein, 124; Hans Frederickson, 122; Bernice Martin, 121; Al Gates, 121; Renie Higbee, 117; Marjorie Reed, 116; Herb LeQueere, 115; Jennie Fogarty, 115; Arthur Bouffard, 114.

Monday afternoon it was pinocchiette time and the best scores are: Archie Houghtaling, 90; Marjorie Jesania, 78; Sam Schors, 78; Ed Scott, 78; Fritz Wilkinson, 75; Mike Deatman, 75; Roy Duray, 74; Sue Scheiblenpflug, 73; George Frost, 73;

Housing plan still in limbo

MANCHESTER — A proposal to build 110 units of low-income housing off Rt. 83 remains in limbo today, despite an agreement by the Capitol Region Council of Governments to provide some, but not all, federal rent subsidy money for the project.

Arthur Anderson, a principal of the consulting firm coordinating the project, said Wednesday his firm will look for additional rent subsidies during the three and a half months left on the land option for the project. If the opportunity to get additional money looks bad, the project might have to be scrapped.

"Getting subsidies is a difficult task," he said.

Yesterday, CROCG agreed to provide $546,272 of the $714,782 requested for the project. Karen Ferrer, CROCG's director of housing and community development, said the project was fully subsidized because there was only a limited amount of money to be allocated.

She said she thought the money would subsidize from 80 to 85 units.

Anderson said he thought the amount would take care of about 20 to 25 one-bedroom units, 58 two-bedroom units and the rest would be development economical.

Under the federal regulations, a developer can only make a 6 percent profit on a housing project like the one proposed for Rt. 83. Many developers hope to realize a 15 to 20 percent profit in housing, Anderson said.

Anderson said it was unlikely an investor would be willing to provide the rest of the money needed for the project under these conditions.

Firebomb suspect's fate now up to federal jury

Tim Moriarty

Donze has not even gotten a parking ticket for what happened in Manchester Oct. 2," said Dennis. "He knows as long as he sticks to the story that police want him to tell, he stays out of jail."

Donze testified for the prosecution that Metheny executed the firebombing, and that he saw his gloved hands on fire when he turned back to see Metheny running from the Brent Road home. Metheny, on the other hand, told police Donze didn't want to get involved in the bombing.

In a dramatic statement, Dennis also accused the Manchester Police Department of overlooking evidence supporting his claim to innocence. "Mentioning that Donze and Metheny gave conflicting statements to police when they were interviewed shortly after the incident, Dennis said, 'The Manchester Police Department has been very deceptive in their statements, and at the same time tried to discredit them.'

"Three individuals (Gilliland, Donze and Metheny) supposedly witnessing the same events and telling three different stories," Dennis cautioned the jury.

About all the defense and prosecuting attorneys would agree on is that each of their witnesses had led at some point during the investigation of the firebombing.

The prosecution conceded to the jurors that both Gilliland and Donze had lied. "They're not pillars of the community," said Dabrowski.

Earlier in the trial, Metheny also admitted to the prosecution that he lied on four occasions.

Under one federal charge, Metheny spoke bluntly of the testimony provided by Gilliland and Donze, saying, "Their testimony was bought and paid for, not with money, but with their freedom."

"They had cracked a difficult case, they felt they had a man they could get a conviction on and they were under a lot of pressure. And that's why they didn't follow up leads," said Dennis.

Earlier he contended details of statements given police by Metheny were missing from their report.

In final rebuttal, the prosecution asked the jurors to consider the case in its entirety, and to piece together the circumstantial and direct evidence.

Holding the jar which the Federal Bureau of Investigation had reconstructed from glass fragments found at the bombing scene, Dabrowski said, "This jar has more flaws than the government's case, but there is no doubt that this is a jar."

"If you take all the pieces of this case and put it together, you'll have no doubt in mind that Chuck Metheny is guilty on both counts," concluded Dabrowski.

Club to honor Tim Moriarty

Tim Moriarty of Manchester will be inducted as Man-of-the-Year by the Hartford Gaelic Football Club at its annual dinner Saturday night, April 4 at the Irish-American Home in Glastonbury.

The 10-acre site has had a lot of activity in the past weeks. It was one of several options to be considered by a group of local churches if they decided to form a non-profit housing corporation to run housing for low and moderate income families.

The churches did not come to a decision about the non-profit housing corporation, and one church withdrew from the group when it feared there were political overtones which linked the project with the HUD lawsuit.

Harold Rothstein, of the Utility Development Corp. of East Hartford, was the developer who applied for the rent subsidy money from CROCG. Under Section 8 funding, a tenant would pay one-quarter of his income for rent and the rest subsidy money would provide the rest.

The project is estimated to cost about $4 million and is reported to include 20 one-bedroom units, 58 two-bedroom units and the rest would be three-bedroom units.

Manchester Emblem — The Manchester Emblem Club will meet tonight at 7:30 at the Elks Lodge on Bissell Street. There will be a parcel post auction after the business meeting.

Co-chairmen are Mrs. Samuel Vacanti and Mrs. Edward Bayles.

Judge explains charges

By MARTIN KEARNS
Herald Reporter

HARTFORD — A federal judge, charging the all-white jury considering weapons and civil rights violations against an accused firebomber, Tuesday reminded that the government bears the burden of proving beyond a reasonable doubt that Charles Norman Metheny willfully attacked the home of a Manchester black family.

Under one federal charge, Metheny, 19, is accused of intimidating and interfering with the civil liberties of a Brent Road family in Manchester when he allegedly threw a Molotov cocktail through a bedroom window of their apartment building.

No one was injured in the attack, although the homemade firebomb struck the arm of a 15-year-old girl who was sleeping in the room. Metheny was charged with the incident resulted in injury to persons. Metheny would have faced possible 10 years' imprisonment, had the result been death, the youth would have faced a life's withdrawal was racially motivated, along with Nancy Carr, head of the Manchester Area Conference of Churches.

Testifying for the plaintiff's that Manchester has the reputation of excluding minorities will be former Hartford Deputy Mayor Nicholas Carbone, who unsuccessfully attempted to persuade five Washington departments to withdraw all of Manchester's federal grants; John Honor, a Kent Drive resident, and Arthur Green, state housing official.

Both the plaintiff's and the defendants filed witness lists yesterday, and a total of 126 persons may be called for oral testimony. Not all the witnesses listed may be called during the trial scheduled to start April 14.

The plaintiffs filed the names of 34 persons. The Town of Manchester, represented by the law firm of Mayer, Phelan and Squitrito, filed the names of 92 persons it may call.

In considering whether Metheny sought to violate Lucinda Harris; Bruce Meggett, Nathaniel Graham and the four Harris' children's right to occupy their home at 41 Brent Road in Manchester, Judge Jose A. Cabranes said the jury will have to decide whether, and if he acted because they are black and live at the Brent Road address.

While Judge Cabranes said the jury needn't consider whether Metheny had knowledge of the federal statutes, he instructed the jury to decide whether he willfully used force against the family because they were black and lived specifically at Brent Road. In other words, had the jury found Metheny singled out the Harris family because they were black in order to convict him.

Under the second charge, in this case, more serious destructive device which had not been registered in the National Firearms Registration and Transfer Record. Convicted on the charge, Metheny carries a possible maximum sentence of 10 years' imprisonment.

The indictment handed down Oct. 15, 1980 by a federal grand jury charges Metheny with "knowingly possessing a firearm, that is, a destructive device known as a 'Molotov cocktail,' which had not been registered to him."

Judge Cabranes further described a Molotov cocktail as a bottle filled with a flammable liquid with wick or saturated rag ignited at the time of throwing. Judge Cabranes instructed the jury to consider whether Metheny possessed the device willfully, and for a destructive purpose.

The judge further defined legal possession in two ways: first, active possession in which a person physically possesses the object in question, and second, constructive possession in which a person knowingly has power to control either himself or another person in actual possession of the object.

The 12-person jury must reach a unanimous verdict, and Judge Cabranes reminded the government bears a heavy burden to prove the defendant's guilt beyond a reasonable doubt. A reasonable doubt, Cabranes explained, is one which would cause a prudent person to hesitate.

The jury was scheduled to continue its deliberations this morning. Before recessing Tuesday, jurors considered the case for about 20 minutes. Although no deadline is set, a verdict could come as soon as today.

Fan disconnected after suit threat

MANCHESTER — Multi-Circuits Inc. has disconnected the fan which had brought the threat of a lawsuit from Walter and Mary Zingler, neighbors who are opposing the firm's plans to expand its operations.

William Stevenson, controller for Multi-Circuits, said today the fan has been disconnected and is not needed now in the firm's operation.

While Stevenson did not admit that the noise level from the fan was excessive, he said the Zinglers' problem with it should be solved now.

He said the firm will conduct a noise level study of its own and take whatever permanent steps are necessary to solve whatever problem may exist.

Meanwhile, the fan is off. Presumably, the suit contemplated by the Zinglers is also off. They had planned to sue if the problem was not solved within seven days from Monday.

The Zinglers had had an engineering firm make a noise test from their home at 49 Hill St.

Multi-Circuits' plans to purchase the town garage on Harrison Street and expand its operation have brought protests from residential neighbors.

Student to face charges

MANCHESTER — A high school student who worked for the local police department was arrested yesterday in connection with the unauthorized use of the department's pickup truck.

Mark A. Karon, 17, of 26 Barry Road, will be arraigned on April 14 on charges that he used a motor vehicle without permission and operated a vehicle without a license.

Police have also charged Karon with second and third degree larceny.

Karon, who worked for the maintenance division through the youth services program, allegedly took the truck and a portable radio from the department on March 14. Police said Karon does not have a driver's license.

Karon was released of his police duties at the time of the incident and arrested yesterday, police said.

East Catholic will then use the facilities from 2:30 to dark on these days.

Player awards

Unless there is some conspiracy among the voters, Norm Barnes should walk off with at least two and possibly three awards Sunday when the Hartford Whalers wind up their 1980-81 National Hockey League season at home against Pittsburgh. The Most Valuable Defenseman will be named as well as the Unsung Hero, the Three Star Award for Excellence and the Most Valuable Award Acquired from Philadelphia. Barnes is the best defenseman, hands down, and could win the Unsung Hero and MVP awards as well. In the popularity contest among the fans, the steady defenseman polled the greatest number of votes. Barnes has been the only consistent defenseman with the Whalers over the last three months and also the men in the front office will try to build around next season. Tonight the Whalers face a red-hot Quebec City. Only three players in NHL history have scored 100 or more points on clubs that failed to gain the playoffs. Gordie Howe was the first

Gainey finished script

By LOGAN HOBSON
UPI Sports Writer

The Montreal Canadiens couldn't have picked a better time to recapture a little piece of their past glory. With the Stanley Cup Champion New York Islanders visiting the hallowed Forum, the fact that the Canadiens hadn't beaten them in more than two years and the triumphant return of Guy Lafleur — the stage was set.

Only the finishing touches of the script needed to be written and Bob Gainey arrived with pen in hand.

Gainey filled in a 60-foot drive late in the second period Tuesday night to snap a 1-1 tie and help the Canadiens to a 3-1 triumph that snapped New York's 13-game undefeated streak.

Against a team like the Islanders that helps when you score with less than a minute to play in the period," Gainey said.

"It was a big win for us," said Lafleur. "The players wanted this game badly because we wanted to stay in third place. We haven't beaten the Islanders in a few years. Everyone was working hard to get ready for the playoffs and our next two games."

It was the first loss suffered by the Islanders since Feb. 25 and also their first defeat away from home in eight straight victories on the road.

They remained tied with St. Louis, which also lost Tuesday night, atop the overall standings with 104 points. The Canadiens had not beaten them since Dec. 10, 1978.

Lafleur, playing in his first game after missing six straight because of a leg cramp and lacerations sustained in a car accident, assisted on two goals. The Canadiens' star right wing assisted on Napier's goal and set up the final goal of the game at 16:38, when Rejean Houle beat

Minnesota on an eighth-place tie with Boston in the battle for the final home ice advantage spot in the overall standings. Each team has 85 points.

Nordiques' 5, Penguins 1
At Quebec, Anton Stastny scored a pair of goals and Jacques Richard rifled home his 51st of the season power to help extending the Nordiques' unbeaten streak to 11. The triumph gave Quebec sole possession of 10th place in the overall standings. Red Wings 5, Flames 3
At Calgary, Alberta, Willy Huber blasted in a low shot from the point at 17:20 of the final period to help Detroit salvage a tie. The goal was Huber, who earlier in the day was named to the Team Canada roster for the World Hockey championship playoffs, unstaged the work of Calgary's Kent Nilsson, who notched two goals and added an assist. Kings 7, Jets 3
At Inglewood, Calif. Dave Taylor struck for his career high 44th goal of the season just 25 seconds into the game to knock off Los Angeles' revenge, first-period outburst that enabled the Kings to gain sole possession of fourth place in the overall standings.

Gilmore gains respect

NEW YORK (UPI) — Artis Gilmore doubts that he really intimidates anybody. He may just be playing with words, though.

"I don't think anyone can intimidate a professional athlete," he said. "But maybe they can have respect for what you do."

Whatever version you accept, it was obvious Gilmore made an impact on New York Tuesday night, leading a defense that gave the Chicago Bulls a 90-80 victory over the Knicks in Game 1 of their best-of-three NBA playoff miniseries.

The series is scheduled to continue Friday night in Chicago and if Gilmore repeats his 13-point, 16-rebound performance, the Bulls can start thinking about the Eastern Conference semifinals. Game 3, if necessary, would be played Sunday in New York.

"Our defense kept us in the ballgame," said Gilmore, who also blocked 7 shots. "I had to be in there defensively and that's what I did."

The Knicks, winners of 50 games this season, used 8 points from Ray Williams and 6 points from Michael Ray Richardson to take a 24-12 first-period lead. Chicago, however, showing how it had won its last eight games, began clogging the middle and soon the Knicks stopped scoring.

"I can't explain it, but you know you weren't going to score," said New York forward Larry Demie, who played 21 minutes in an effort to neutralize Chicago's size and strength. "Artis did something pretty well."

Gilmore needed some time to get going, mainly because David Greenwood, 23, was having some trouble. Greenwood got going in the third period, scoring 10 points en route to his eventual 17.

"When Greenwood isn't shooting well, they can collapse on Artis."

Jones off bench paces 76er win

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — It was a case of "Tar Heel Revenge" against the state of Indiana.

No, mild-mannered Bobby Jones didn't call it that, but the 1974 graduate of North Carolina apparently had to do something after watching his alma mater lose the national championship game to Indiana University Monday night at the Spectrum.

Jones came off the bench to score 20 points, put down eight rebounds, hand out four assists and register three steals Tuesday night to spark the Philadelphia 76ers to a 124-104 victory over the Indiana Pacers in the opening game of their best-of-three NBA playoff series.

The 76ers, who travel to Indianapolis for Game 2 of the series Thursday night, put to rest fears they would not be ready for the dreaded miniseries after finishing with an NBA-best 62-20 record but losing the first-round bye in a tiebreaker with the Boston Celtics.

"It's disappointing but you have to realize that the season is past," said Jones, who shot 8-of-11. "We had to put everything behind us. You can't think about things or what could have or should have been. Indiana is a dangerous team."

Ransey key for Portland

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — The bottom line in the Portland-Kansas City Western Conference mini-series the starting tonight could boil down to the inability of the "real Phil Ford" to stand up and be counted in the action.

The Trail Blazers, entering their fifth straight playoffs under coach Jack Ramsay, and the Kings, guided by Cotton Fitzsimmons, battle it out in the best-of-three series to advance into best-of-seven play to win the Western Conference championship to decide the NBA title.

Kansas City has to stop Ford's look-alike and play-alike rookie guard Kevin Ransey to slow down the Blazers in the tortoise and hare matchup that Fitzsimmons says can go to his tortoise if the Kings can keep the tempo slow.

Ford has been out of action since Feb. 23, when he suffered an eye injury in a game against Golden State. There is medical prognosis that he might be able to return to action if Kansas City plays by Portland.

The winner of the Blazers-Kings series meets Phoenix, the Pacific Division regular-season champ in round two of the conference playoffs.

Lakers set to defend NBA title

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — The Los Angeles Lakers tonight began their bid to become the first team since 1969 to successfully defend its NBA championship.

The Lakers retain vivid memories of last year's stirring victory over the Philadelphia 76ers when Earvin Johnson worked his special magic.

Los Angeles squares off against the Houston Rockets in a best-of-three opening-round series at the Forum at 11:35 p.m. EST. The second game will be played in Houston Friday night with a third game, if needed, in Inglewood Sunday afternoon.

The Lakers seem to have a clear-cut edge over the Rockets in the series. Los Angeles, which beat the Rockets in three of five games this season, finished second to Phoenix in the Pacific Division with a 54-28 record and has its championship squad intact — meaning healthy.

The biggest lift for the Lakers is the presence of Johnson, who was sidelined for 100 days during the season with a severe knee injury.

And of course, they still have six-time MVP Kareem Abdul-Jabbar. Many believe the Lakers' success in the playoffs will be determined by the play of the consistently spectacular 7'2 center.

"Now we can get down to serious business," Abdul-Jabbar said earlier this week. "Now the real season starts."

In last year's "real season," Abdul-Jabbar completely dominated centers Alvan Adams of Phoenix, Jack Sikma of Seattle and Darrell Dawkins of the 76ers.

"The big fella is ready to play," said assistant coach Pat Riley. "He wants a championship badly."

Abdul-Jabbar will get a tough test in the opening series, matching up against Houston's Moses Malone, the NBA's rebound leader.

Pro and con witnesses lined up for HUD suit

By MARY KITZMAN
Herald Reporter

MANCHESTER — A former town director, the head of the conference of churches, low-income housing developer and psychologist may all be called to testify in the Community Development lawsuit that alleges Manchester's withdrawal from it was racially motivated and that it has gained the reputation of a racist town.

Countering the plaintiff's witnesses may be testimony from nearly every town official connected with the HUD program, including past and present Board of Directors members, and zoning officials from surrounding towns.

The defendant's witnesses may be expected to testify that Manchester's zoning laws are comparable to surrounding towns with higher minority populations and are not responsible for Manchester's 3% minority rate according to a list filed in U.S. District court yesterday.

Backing the testimony for both the plaintiffs and defendants will be a barrage of exhibition including a reproduction between General Manager Robert Weiss, and HUD officials, and the assessments of homes throughout Manchester for the defendants.

The plaintiffs will exhibit the percentage of minority tenants in housing complexes such as Beechwood Apartments and Squire Village, two of the town's low-income housing projects built before the 1979 referendum.

According to a joint filing of the HUD Legal Aid Lawyers representing the three low-income woman who began the suit and the U.S. Justice department which joined it, low-income housing developers will testify Carl Panero, of New York and Anthony Bianco, of New York will be expected to testify.

Elizabeth Intagliata, who has already said in her deposition that code words such as North End replaced the term black during referendum discussions can be expected to testify Manchester's withdrawal was racially motivated, along with Nancy Carr, head of the Manchester Area Conference of Churches.

Testifying for the plaintiff's that Manchester has the reputation of excluding minorities will be former Hartford Deputy Mayor Nicholas Carbone, who unsuccessfully attempted to persuade five Washington departments to withdraw all of Manchester's federal grants; John Honor, a Kent Drive resident, and Arthur Green, state housing official.

Both the plaintiff's and the defendants filed witness lists yesterday, and a total of 126 persons may be called for oral testimony. Not all the witnesses listed may be called during the trial scheduled to start April 14.

The plaintiffs filed the names of 34 persons. The Town of Manchester, represented by the law firm of Mayer, Phelan and Squitrito, filed the names of 92 persons it may call.

Fiorych no puzzle

By United Press International
Mark "The Bird" Fiorych can't seem to get off the ground. Fiorych, the 1978 Rookie of the Year who has been battling arm problems ever since, gave up three runs on four hits in one inning Tuesday in the Tigers' 6-5 loss to Pittsburgh.

The outing inflated Fiorych's spring training stats to 13 hits, eight walks and 19 runs in 15 innings for an 11.40 ERA. Last season, after spending most of the year in the minors trying to regain his form, Fiorych joined the Tigers and appeared in nine games, compiling a 2.3 record and a 3.89 ERA.

Rusty Torres' sacrifice fly to deep center field in the bottom of the ninth inning gave the Pirates the triumph.

In other news, the New York Mets, tired of waiting for right-hander Juan Berenguer to figure out how to control his fiery fastball, traded the Panamanian native to the Kansas City Royals for minor league outfielder Marvyn Wayne and pitcher John Skinner.

Berenguer, 26, has been in the Mets' organization since 1978. In 16 major-league games, he has a 14 record with a 4.75 ERA. Noted for an overpowering fastball, Berenguer has always had problems with control and the Mets, encouraged by an impressive recovery by some-time

Los Angeles scored four runs in the bottom of the eighth inning and won to defeat the Cincinnati Reds 6-5. Trailing 4-3 in the eighth, the Dodgers scored runs on Steve Garvey's single, Pete Guerrero's infield hit, a throwing error by pitcher Jeff Labat and a wild pitch.

Steve Trout pitched six shutout innings and the Chicago White Sox won 4-0. The White Sox also won 5-0 in the eighth, leading the San Francisco Giants to their fifth straight Cactus League victory, a 5-1 decision over the San Diego Padres.

Bert Blyleven struck out seven and allowed only two hits and one run in seven innings to lead the Cleveland Indians to an 8-1 victory over the California Angels. It was Blyleven's most impressive outing of the spring.

Marshall Edwards singled home Ben Ogilvie in the eighth inning to cap a two-run rally and lead the Philadelphia Phillies last night to a 11-0 triumph over the Oakland A's. Twenty-year-old rookie sensation Gene Nelson made a strong bid to jump from Class A to the major leagues by pitching six powerful innings to lead the New York Yankees to a 2-1 victory over the Texas Rangers.

Yanks swing player deal

PORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (UPI) — Switch-hitting outfielder Jerry Mumphrey of the San Diego Padres was traded to the New York Yankees Tuesday night for outfielders Ruppert Jones and Joe Lefebvre and pitchers Tom Lollar and Chuck Welsh.

Mumphrey, 28, stole 52 bases last year, helping make the Padres the only team in baseball history to have three players with 50 or more stolen bases. He hit .288 and knocked in 59 runs.

In the deal, the Yankees also acquired John Pacella, a 24-year-old right-handed pitcher who was landed by San Diego from the New York Mets in a previous deal.

Y midget champs

Community Y All-Stars took the town midget All-Star Tournament by beating the West Side Red All-Stars, 54-52, last night at the West Side Stadium.

The Y crew clinched the best-of-five series, 3-1. Community Y scored 24 points. West Side had a 25-21 lead at the intermission.

Red Sox future 'unpredictable'

WINTER HAVEN, Fla. (UPI) — The only team in baseball history to have three perennial All-Stars — catcher Carlton Fisk, center fielder Fred Lynn and shortstop Rick Burleson — are gone and when a team loses that kind of quality up the middle, the prognosis is not good.

But only Fisk, who became a free agent over a contract technically and signed with the Chicago White Sox, was lost for good.

It is times like these that Red Sox fans seek out a voice of optimism and who's better at seeing big skies than Ralph Houk. Houk, lured out of retirement by Red Sox officials to help instill some discipline, has taken the club and will be given a chance in the starting rotation and Houk is also high on rookie outfielder Red Nichols; Rudi provides bench strength.

Otis sees trade after this year

PORT MYERS, Fla. (UPI) — General Manager Joe Burke claims the Kansas City Royals want to keep outfielder Amos Otis after this season. But Otis is not so sure.

"I'm not saying they don't want me, but I don't know yet," Otis said. "I get the impression they don't care. They won't talk to me. They won't make proposals."

Louisiana site of NCAA in '82

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Next year's finals of the NCAA Basketball Championships are not in Philadelphia, but that doesn't mean Indiana won't be heavily involved in the chase for another national title.

The Hoosiers won their fourth NCAA crown Monday night at the Spectrum with a 63-59 victory over the 1981 Final Four will meet at the Louisiana Superdome in New Orleans, and many expect Indiana to be right in the thick of things.

The Hoosiers return four starters from the 26-9 championship team. That includes All-American guard Isaiah Thomas, named MVP of the tournament after scoring 23 points in the finals, although NBA scouts would like to see the 6-foot-11 sophomore turn pro.

Ebree swims in AAU event

Angela Ebree, a member of the Manchester Swim Club, will compete with the Connecticut AAU All-Star in the Eastern States Regionals this weekend, April 3-5, in Philadelphia, Pa.

Ebree, a student at East Catholic High, was placed in the 200-yard freestyle and 400-yard freestyle relay. She participated in the top three in the state in the 300 free for 15-18 year old girls.

Mike Torrez raps scribes

WINTER HAVEN, Fla. (UPI) — Mike Torrez doesn't feel he has to prove himself to anyone this spring, at least not to those who run the Boston Red Sox rather than cover the team.

Torrez, in his third straight impressive outing, hurled a three-hitter over six innings Tuesday and Mark Clear mopped up with a fine relief performance as the Red Sox downed the Minnesota Twins 3-1. Torrez is now 3-4 in exhibition play with an ERA of 3.00. In 21 innings, he is a Bill Lee-type stat sheet, striking out five, walking 10 and giving up 21 hits.

"I have to prove to you guys (reporters) that I can pitch. You are the guys that said I couldn't pitch anymore and want to get me traded," said Torrez. "You guys started hammering on me because I had one bad year out of eight. When you read all that negative stuff, maybe you start believing it. Good baseball writers look at me and know I just had a bad year. Nobody wants to have a bad year, you know."

Torrez is concentrating on mainly fastballs this spring. He had relied in the past on the fastball as well as a slider and curve ball.

"You have to talk to him a bit," said catcher Gary Allenson. "Last year, whenever he shook me off, it was because he wanted to throw a slider. We'd get to 2-2, he wouldn't want to throw a fastball."

Minnesota scored its only run in the sixth when newly acquired Mickey Hatcher was hit by a pitch and moved to second on a walk to Roy Smalley. Glenn Adams then drove in Hatcher with a single. After Adams' single, Torrez walked John Castino to load the bases and got a walk-off home run to end the game.

Stapleton made 13.4 in the fifth when he belted his second homer of the spring.

Pats make offer to buy stadium

BOSTON (UPI) — Chuck Sullivan, executive vice president of the New England Patriots and son of team owner William H. Sullivan, said Tuesday he has offered to take control of the team's stadium and the adjoining land for a price of about $6.3 million.

The purpose of the proposed purchase, Chuck Sullivan said, was to immediately install improvements in Schaefer Stadium in time for the start of the 1981 NFL season. Chuck Sullivan said he plans to put some $600,000 into improving the rest rooms, parking lots and possibly even the road into the stadium.

The reason we're doing this is that seven years ago, we had $9,000,000 in stock to sell and we went down to 40,000 last year. We want to market survey of people and most of them like the team. But we've had a lot of complaints about the facilities — the parking lot, the rest rooms," Chuck Sullivan said.

Lapointe, Ruel said at odds

MONTREAL (UPI) — Irving Grumman, managing director of the Montreal Canadiens, and head coach Claude Ruel scheduled a meeting Tuesday with disgruntled defenseman Guy Lapointe.

The 35-year-old Lapointe, angered at being removed from the lineup for last Sunday's game, had called Ruel a hypocrite and went on to sharply criticize his coaching methods.

Lapointe was displeased with Lapointe's performance the previous night when he was on the ice for five of the goals the New York Rangers scored in a 6-2 rout over Montreal.

Toronto Blue Jays' infielder Danny Ainge limbers up his throwing arm in first workout yesterday in Dunedin, Fla. Ainge, an All-American basketball star, completed his hoop play at Brigham Young last week. The 6-5 hooper hopes to make the grade with the Jays at third base. (UPI photo)

Team Canada adds muscle

WINNIPEG, Manitoba (UPI) — Team Canada has acquired 228 pounds of defensive muscle, adding the cool strategists of Russian hockey. It now needs a scrappy stay-up goalie who will not whither under fire.

Wilhelm Huber, a tall German defenseman who has lloled for the hapless Detroit Red Wings this season, was named Tuesday to the Team Canada roster for the World Hockey Championships along with defenseman Barry Long of the Winnipeg Jets and Steve Tambellini of Colorado Rockies.

The selections, announced by general manager John Ferguson, brought the Team Canada roster to 14 players — five forwards and nine defensemen. Six players, including four goalies, are still to be named to the team.

Huber, a 6-foot-5 and 228 pounds, rates as one of the biggest players in the league. The native of Strasskirchen, West Germany, has scored 14 goals and has 33 assists so far this season. The 32-year-old Long, 6-1 and 210 pounds, is the oldest player named to the team so far.

He has scored six goals and has 21 assists for the season. Tambellini has 23 goals and 28 assists thus far. So far, Ferguson has named nine forwards and five defensemen to the team, all from the Jets, Red Wings, Rockies and Hartford Whalers. Still to be named are four more skaters and two goalies.

Ferguson said the final choices will probably come from one of the five NHL clubs still struggling for the 18th and last berth in the Stanley Cup playoffs.

The Bolton Road Race committee says plans for the April 26 5-mile road race are complete. This is the fourth year that the Bolton Athletic Association sponsored the event.

The race has nine divisions as well as six additional categories. There are six men's divisions — Juniors (12-17), Open (18-29), Sub-masters (30-39), Masters (40-49), Grandmasters (50-59) and Super-masters (60 plus).

Applications can be obtained by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope to: R.W. Chamberland, 140 Hebron Road, Bolton, CT 06040.

Penney boasts youthful squad

By LEN AUSTER
Herald Sportswriter
How quickly the young talent comes along will be the big factor in 1981 for the Penney High baseball team. The Black Knights, 9-11 a year ago, must replace six starters from that club when it opens to new campaign next Tuesday afternoon at Wethersfield High at 3:30.

"They have to adapt to varsity ball. Varsity ball is a lot different from Jayvee ball," remarked Knight Coach Mike Laappes. "The team lacks experience on the varsity level and that will tell the story."

Penney will open with junior Damon Dombek, who is pegged to be the Knights ace on the mound at first base. He is a switch-hitting lefthanded hurler who had an 0-3 victory mark a year ago. Jared Klock is the pitcher, scored when Hooken added a run in the third when Dave Stapleton singled, and, running on the pitch, scored when Hooken Powell trapped Carl Yastrzemski's long drive for a single. Yastrzemski reportedly was into his home run trot. Stapleton made 13.4 in the fifth when he belted his second homer of the spring.

Senior Gary Donovan draws the nod at second base with senior Al Dunfee, a two-year starter, at shortstop. Junior Jim Neary has the nod at third base with sophomore Jeff Enfield, a 11 South Catholic A, 1 p.m., 14 Simsbury H, 15 Bulkeley A, 16 Fern H, 20 Windham A 1 p.m., 22 Hall A 1 p.m., 24 Manchester A, 1 p.m., 27 Concord H, 29 East Hartford A, 30 May 1 Wethersfield H, 4 Enfield H, 6 Simsbury A, 8 Ferni A, 11 switch-hitter, and senior Ed Percaccio are vying for the job in rightfield. Behind the plate will either be junior Paul Mazzaferro or sophomore Jim

Upgraded schedule awaits East squad

By LEN AUSTER
Herald Sportswriter
An upgraded schedule awaits the East Catholic girls' track team as it readies for the 1981 season, which sprouts into action Tuesday afternoon in a triangular match against Bulkeley and homestanding Windsor Locks High at 3:15.

The Eaglettes punched out an 18-3 record last year ago but a beeted up schedule and the loss of two key operatives are situations to be met in 1981.

"We're going against tougher teams," voices East Coach Jan Abraham, starting her third year as coach. "We go against Windsor, Concord and Hall and those should be interesting meets."

Yvonne Nolen in the sprints. The loss of the former will hurt the most. "We have everybody but Yvonne back in the sprints. We should do well as last year's record, make a little bit behind," noted Abraham, taking account the schedule.

Schedule: April 7 at Windsor Locks with Bulkeley, 11 Watnong Relays (at Concord), 14 at Concord with East Hartford, 16 at Penney with North Catholic, 18 at Xavier, 14 at Hall with Enfield, 18 at Glastonbury with South Windsor, 29 State Sectionals, June 6 Class I Meet. Dual meets 3:30 p.m.

Foreign yachtsmen gearing up for America's Cup in 1983

By SUZANNE TRIMEL
United Press International
The 24th battle for yachting's prestigious America's Cup is more than two years away but foreign challengers already are raising millions of dollars and planning extensive training to boost "the best chance they've ever had."

The New York Yacht Club reportedly has received cables from a record 10 foreign yacht clubs which intend to put up yachts for the 1983 series off Newport, R.I.

Today is the deadline for filing a challenge but a spokesman for the club that sponsors the race said the design entries will not be released for some time.

A UPI survey showed Australia has cable three challenges and two more are being considered. Swedish and French yachtsmen plan campaigns. England will produce at least one challenge, and an Italian yacht designer may make Italy's first challenge.

"Everybody wants to challenge," he said. "It's become a national pastime. How do we win the America's Cup?" The surge of interest apparently was sparked by the club's decision to eliminate its "country of origin" rule.

Sports Parade

By MILT RICHMAN
A broken wrist he suffered when he was hit by a pitch that put him on the shelf the final month of the season. In spite of all this, Whitney Herzog, the Cardinals' general manager and field manager, wanted Lezcano to much this past winter that he made the 27-year-old right-handed hitter his prime objective in a seven-player deal with the Brewers. When the swap finally was consummated in Dallas at the winter meetings in December, the Cards gave up Ted Simmons, Pete Vuckovich and Rollie Fingers for Lezcano, Larry Seedorf, Dave LaPoint and David Green.

"I'm sorry," the kid said. "You don't have to be sorry," Lezcano reassured him. "I might have the same trouble saying your name in English."

The boy looked a bit happier. He thanked Lezcano for his signature and the Cardinals' new outfielder, who is coming over to them after spending the last six seasons in the American League with the Milwaukee Brewers, walked down the dugout steps and found a seat on the bench.

"Can you play left field?" he wanted to know, since Lezcano generally played right for the Brewers and George Hendrick has lock on the position with the Cards. "I can play anywhere," Lezcano answered. "I just want to play, but you gotta have a good hitter behind me."

The last part of that statement, in Lezcano's mind, anyway, had a lot to do with the poor year he went through last season with the Brewers.

Lezcano points out he usually hit sixth for the Brewers behind Cecil Cooper, Gorman Thomas and Ben Ogilvie, three of the best RBI men in the American League.

"When you got three guys like that hitting ahead of you, all of them driving in more than 100 runs apiece, there's nothing left for you," says Lezcano.

"What I'm saying is that they could pitch around me," he goes on. "I believe that for me to do good, I must have a good hitter behind me. When Dave Money was healthy, he would hit behind me last year. Otherwise, it would be (Sal) Bando or (Jimmy) Gantner. I'm not saying they are bad hitters, but to play me, they could afford to pitch around me."

The question now is where does Herzog figure to hit him? "Probably fifth or sixth," Lezcano shrugs. "Behind Hendrick, (Keith) Hernandez and (Darrell) Porter. That's okay. I'm not upset. They know what I can do and I know what I can do. I'm no 220 hitter."

Bill approved. SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — A state Assembly committee has approved a bill that would bar the Los Angeles Rams, the NFL team that moved last year to Orange County, from continuing to use Los Angeles in its name. The measure by Assemblyman Mike Hooper, D-Los Angeles, Tuesday cleared the Insurance and Commerce Committee, 104, and was sent to the floor.

Under the proposal, a professional sports team would be prohibited from using the name of a city or county in which it does not play its home games unless it had permission to use the name. The bill does not specifically mention the Rams, who played their home games last year at Anaheim Stadium.

Business Finance

Blue Cross loss is biggest ever

NORTH HAVEN — In 1980 Blue Cross & Blue Shield sustained the largest operating loss in its history, according to John M.C. Betts, chairman of the Board of the organization.

Although a net loss of $40.7 million was offset by other income, the bottom line was a $29.5 million deficit. Betts noted that the record loss would have been significantly higher had not the company's operating expenses been held to less than 6 percent and cost containment measures produced $45 million in additional savings.

The three prime reasons given by Betts for losses of this magnitude include an inadequate rate structure which required $1.08 to pay claims and operate the business for every $1 taken in, double-digit inflation, and a dramatic increase in the utility of benefits.

Joseph F. Duplinsky, president of the corporation, referring to inadequate rates, told the board that, "Even a not-for-profit corporation must maintain an adequate reserve in order to serve its members in times of emergency or the unexpected." Duplinsky cautioned the group that, "As long as we are forced to sell our products for less than its costs to produce them, our survival is in jeopardy." He pointed out that if the company had received the full rates requested in 1980 as prepared by actuarial consultants, "We would not now be facing this financial dilemma."

On a positive note, Betts commended the Insurance Commissioner for a recent decision to allow Blue Shield Merit Rating of large groups. Merit rating is a system in which the rate is determined by the claims experience of an individual group. The program will be implemented by mid-1981.

UConn physicist cited

STORRS — A University of Connecticut physicist professor has been named a Fellow of the American Physical Society, a national society honoring outstanding physicists.

Dr. Muhammad M. Islam, who works in the field of high energy physics and elementary particles, has been recognized by his colleagues for his contributions to the physics community. Being elected a Fellow to the society indicates the high esteem in which he is held by members of the Society.

Born in Chittagong, Pakistan, Islam received his bachelors and masters degrees from the University of Dhacca in Pakistan. In 1961, he earned his doctorate in physics from the Imperial College of the University of London, England. He has published numerous journal articles on his research including his theory on the structure of the atom. Islam joins eight other University of Connecticut professors of physics including the department head who previously were elected Fellows of the Society.

They are: Dr. Leonid V. Azaroff, professor of physics and director of the Institute of Materials Science; Dr. Ralph H. Bartram, professor of physics; Dr. Joseph I. Budnick, professor and head of the physics department; Dr. Kurt Haller, professor of physics; Dr. Quentin C. Kessel, professor of physics; Dr. Paul G. Klemens, professor of physics; Dr. Arnold Russek, professor of physics; and Dr. Winthrop W. Smith, professor of physics.

Your Money's Worth Funds offer services

By SYLVIA PORTER
Along with the "universe of about 800 stock-corporate bond mutual funds from which you now can choose, fund managers have invented an impressive array of shareholder services to lure you. Here are just a few of their old and new investment-financial services:

• Single Purchase Plans. When you buy shares in a fund, your purchase represents your fractional holding in a diversified list of up to 100, even more, corporations. You can get a single certificate or a fund may give you a simple account statement to relieve you of the chore and expense of safekeeping the valuable certificate.

• Income Dividends. You will receive, usually quarterly, your pro-rated share of income the fund receives from dividends and interest in the fund's securities, after deducting operating expenses.

• Capital Gains Distribution. Your fund also may distribute to shareholders on a yearly basis net long-term profits from sale of its securities, if they occur. These are capital gains distributions.

• Automatic Reinvestment. Most funds offer shareholders plans for automatic reinvestment of income dividends and capital gains distributions to keep all your funds at work.

• Withdrawal Plans. Many funds offer a service under which you may receive payments from your investment at regular intervals in fixed amounts on some other basis. The withdrawals are to help you supplement your current income or to meet special commitments.

• Exchange Privilege. This enables you to transfer your investment from one fund to another within the same fund group as your needs or goals change. (Say from growth to income as you reach retirement years.)

• Liquidity. An old service but important if you must sell your shares at any time. Your fund itself will buy back your shares, usually at net asset value at redemption; you need not seek a buyer.

• Privacy. With a no-load fund, you buy directly from the fund. There are no securities salesmen or other middlemen involved.

• Pre-Authorized Check Transactions. With this service, you can authorize your bank to make automatic deposits into your fund account at regular intervals. This allows you to use the valuable systematic investment technique known as dollar cost averaging.

• Tax-Sheltered Retirement Plans. With these, you can defer taxes on investment income and deduct plan contributions from taxable income. Included are Keogh plans for self-employed individuals; Individual Retirement Accounts

(IRA) for employees not covered by other retirement plans and certain corporations; 403(b) Plans for employees of certain tax-exempt organizations and public school systems; Pension and Profit Sharing Plans for corporations or professional groups.

Some shareholders in higher tax brackets choose to reduce their taxes by setting up temporary trusts which allow them to provide income for a child, grandchild or other beneficiary who pays taxes at a lower rate. Still others give their children or grandchildren shares of a stock mutual fund under the Uniform Gifts to Minors Act.

A variable annuity may be used in conjunction with funds offering this option. This investment plan helps shareholders accumulate capital for long-term goals by allowing them to defer taxes on investment income that is normally subject to taxes.

• Salary Deduction Plan. Under these plans, you may authorize your employer to make regular deductions from your salary to buy shares of a designated fund either through tax qualified plans or on a voluntary basis. You also may join group plans through which you buy regularly.

And of course, there are the services you would take for granted: custodian services, periodic reports about the operations of your fund or funds; management of your investments.

DESSERTS

THAT COMPLEMENT BUSY SCHEDULES

Since chocolate is nearly everyone's favorite flavor, the following recipes are variations on the theme of chocolate desserts. Unsweetened cocoa, chocolate in a very concentrated form, is called for in all recipes since it makes such treats as Marbled Cheesecake and Chocolate Cream Pie taste extra "chocolate." Corn starch, another versatile baking ingredient, is often mixed with flour when making cakes and cookies to provide finer textures. When used to thicken fillings such as the one used in Chocolate Cream Pie, corn starch creates a satiny smoothness without adding any flavor of its own.

Either the cheesecake or pie would make a perfect ending for a progressive dinner party, a theme that lends itself to shared cooking responsibilities. Everyone prepares a course on the menu, then hosts a portion of the meal. The cheesecake can be made ahead and frozen and, with a supply of ready-to-go pie crusts on hand in your freezer, the pies can be completed several hours in advance.

A lazy Sunday afternoon is a perfect time for a dessert party. Invite neighbors in for an impromptu coffee klatch featuring Cocoa Cherry Cupcakes or Almond Meringue Cookies. The cookies, piped through a pastry tube, have a meringue texture. Because they're made with egg whites and cocoa, they're also low in cholesterol.

Since fall means the start of another season of school and club activities, desserts for a crowd come in handy. Cocoa helps you economize in two ways — it costs less per ounce than baking chocolate and, 4-1/2 ounces of cocoa goes as far as 8-ounces of baking chocolate — so when you make a sheeecake calling for a significant amount, you'll save even more.

As commitments on your time and energy pile up like leaves in the backyard, consider these desserts developed and tested in the Argo and Kingsford's corn starch and Hershey's Cocoa kitchens.

Marbled Cheesecake

2 packages (8 oz. each) cream cheese, softened
1 cup sugar, divided
2 tablespoons corn starch
2 eggs, slightly beaten
1 teaspoon vanilla
1/3 cup unsweetened cocoa
1 (9-inch) graham cracker crust

In large bowl with mixer at medium speed beat together cream cheese, 3/4 cup of the sugar and corn starch until smooth. Beat in eggs and vanilla. Reserve 1/3 batter (1 cup). Stir together cocoa and remaining 1/4 cup sugar. Beat cocoa mixture into remaining 2/3 batter until well blended. Pour dark and light batters alternately into crust. Swirl with spatula. Bake in 350°F oven 30 to 35 minutes or until center is firm. Cool completely on wire rack. Refrigerate 4 hours or overnight. Makes 12 servings.

Chocolate Cream Pie

3/4 cup sugar
1/3 cup unsweetened cocoa
1/4 cup corn starch
1/2 teaspoon salt
2-1/2 cups milk
3 egg yolks, slightly beaten
2 teaspoons vanilla
1 baked (9-inch) pastry shell
3 egg whites
1/4 cup sugar

In 2-quart saucepan mix together 3/4 cup sugar, cocoa, corn starch and salt. Gradually stir in milk until smooth. Stir in egg yolks. Stirring constantly, bring to boil over low heat and boil 1 minute. Remove from heat. Stir in vanilla. Turn into pastry shell. In small bowl with mixer at high speed beat egg whites until foamy. Gradually beat in 1/4 cup sugar until stiff peaks form. Spread over filling sealing to edge of crust. Bake in 400°F oven 8 to 10 minutes or until lightly browned. Cool at room temperature away from drafts. Makes 10 servings.

Cocoa Cherry Cupcakes

1/3 cup brandy, optional
1 can (16-1/2 oz.) dark sweetened cherries, well-drained
1 cup unsifted flour
1/3 cup unsweetened cocoa
3 tablespoons corn starch
1-1/2 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup corn oil margarine
2/3 cup sugar
2 eggs, separated
2/3 cup milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
Buttercream Frosting (recipe follows)

In small bowl pour brandy over cherries. Cover; refrigerate 1 week. (If desired, eliminate this step.) In small bowl stir together flour, cocoa, corn starch, baking powder and salt. In large bowl with mixer at medium speed beat together margarine, sugar and egg yolks until well mixed. Add flour mixture alternately with milk, beginning and ending with flour mixture, mixing just until smooth. Stir in vanilla. In small bowl with mixer at high speed beat egg whites until stiff peaks form. Fold into batter until well blended. Spoon 1 teaspoon batter into bottom of each paper-lined (1-3/4 x 1-inch) miniature cupcake cup. Press 1 well-drained cherry to bottom of batter. Top each cherry with another teaspoon batter. Bake in 350°F oven 20 to 25 minutes or until cake springs back when lightly touched. Remove; cool on wire rack. Frost with Buttercream Frosting. Makes about 4-1/2 dozen.

Buttercream Frosting

In small bowl stir together 1 cup confectioners sugar and 1/4 cup unsweetened cocoa. In small bowl with mixer at medium speed beat together 3 tablespoons corn oil margarine and 1/2 cup of the cocoa mixture. Add remaining cocoa mixture alternately with 2 tablespoons milk, beating to spreading consistency. Add 1/2 teaspoon vanilla. Makes 1 cup.

Almond Meringue Cookies

3/4 cup sugar, divided
1/3 cup blanched almonds, finely ground
2 tablespoons sifted corn starch
3 tablespoons sifted unsweetened cocoa
1/4 cup sugar
3 egg whites
1/8 teaspoon cream of tartar
Pinch salt
1/2 teaspoon vanilla

Line cookie sheets with wax paper or foil. In small bowl stir together 1/4 cup of the sugar, almonds, corn starch and cocoa. In large bowl with mixer at high speed beat egg whites until foamy. Add cream of tartar and salt. Continue beating until soft peaks form. Gradually add remaining 1/2 cup sugar; beat until stiff peaks form. Add vanilla. Fold in almond mixture. Fill large pastry bag fitted with large cookie tip half full. Starting at outside edge and ending in center, use a circular motion to pipe meringue onto cookie sheet to form a 1-1/2 inch round. Or drop by tablespoonsful onto cookie sheets. Bake in 325°F oven 20 minutes, or until dry. Remove and cool on wire racks. Makes about 3 dozen.

Cocoa Sheetcake

1-1/3 cups unsifted flour
1/2 cup unsweetened cocoa
1/4 cup corn starch
2 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup corn oil margarine
1-1/4 cups sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 eggs
1-1/4 cups milk
Chocolate Mint Frosting (recipe follows)

Grease and lightly flour bottom of 1 (15-1/2 x 10 x 1-inch) jelly roll pan. In small bowl stir together flour, cocoa, corn starch, baking powder and salt. In large bowl with mixer at medium speed beat together margarine, sugar and vanilla until well blended. Beat in eggs, one at a time, until well mixed. Add flour mixture alternately with milk, beginning and ending with flour mixture, mixing just until smooth. Turn into prepared pan. Bake in 350°F oven 20 minutes or until cake tester inserted in center comes out clean. Cool cake 10 minutes in pan. Remove and cool completely on rack. Frost with Chocolate Mint Frosting. Cut into squares. Makes 35 (about 2 x 2-inch) squares.

Chocolate Mint Frosting

1 cup sugar
1/2 cup unsweetened cocoa
3 tablespoons corn starch
Dash salt
1-1/2 cups boiling water
6 tablespoons corn oil margarine
1/4 teaspoon mint extract
2 tablespoons crushed mint candy

In 3-quart saucepan stir together sugar, cocoa, corn starch and salt. Gradually stir in water until smooth. Stirring constantly, bring to boil over medium heat and boil 1 minute. Remove from heat. Stir in margarine, mint extract and mint candy. Cover; refrigerate until cooled. Makes 2 cups.

More men don apron, turn chef

For every man who prides himself on his chef's ability there are five who will burn pancakes, scorch vegetables, dry out roasts and cut their fingers carving a chicken.

Yet the working woman needs to be relieved of cooking responsibility once in a while, especially on weekends when so many other chores demand time.

If you have a male who has little watching or fine tuning. For instance, stew and whole-meal soups appeal to the male voice in the kitchen and are practically fail-proof. In fact, men do not mind chopping lots of ingredients as long as it's not into the finest dice.

You'll discourage your headstrong chef if you insist that he use a prime condition knives should be sharp and without broken points. Your chopping board should be hand one that's both workable, convenient and compact, such as Tupperware's sturdy plastic "porting" board makes preparation easier and smoother. Herbs and spices should be within reach and you might mention that it's better to follow the recipe than wing it free-style "the way mom used to do."

Kitchen amateurs have no idea about pot sizes and will often cook spaghetti in a one-quart saucepan, or a package of frozen vegetables in a Dutch oven. A short course from you will eliminate lots of pots to wash later.

Steaming, delicious and filling minestrone soup appeals to the male chef and can serve as a weekend-long reprieve from the kitchen. Just store the remaining soup in a sealed plastic bowl in the refrigerator and reheat when you need it. Nice with crusty bread and butter, a salad, and Brie cheese for dessert.

Barbecued ribs are another male favorite.

protected by the sauce from quickly drying out in the oven if the gentleman gets too involved with a televised game. The marinating is easy if you have a tightly-sealed plastic container designed to make the task simple and mess-free. Then he can quickly turn a whole thing over between quarters; no stirring needed.

It won't be hard to praise the results of these recipes and your enthusiasm may turn a reluctant cook into a chef.

His Marinated Ribs
 1 cup bottled red wine marinade
 1/2 cup tomato paste
 2 tablespoons honey
 2 tablespoons dried rosemary, crushed
 1/2 teaspoon hot pepper sauce
 1 can (28 ounces) tomatoes, undrained
 1 large potato, pared, cut in pieces

Season-Serve: pour marinade mixture over ribs and refrigerate 4 hours, turning every seven to ten minutes, or let stand overnight, turning when possible. Place ribs and marinade in a shallow roasting pan. Cover lightly with aluminum foil. Bake in a 450° F. oven 15 minutes. Reduce heat to 350° F. and continue baking 45 minutes longer. Baste frequently with pan liquids. Uncover; bake 15 minutes longer.

Yield: 4 servings.

Minestrone
 1/4 pound cooking ham, cut in pieces
 6 sprigs parsley
 2 ribs celery, divided
 2 medium carrots, divided
 1 tablespoon dried leaf basil
 1/2 teaspoon dried leaf oregano
 2 tablespoons olive oil
 1 can (28 ounces) tomatoes, undrained
 1 large potato, pared, cut in pieces

Macaroni is tender. Serve with Parmesan cheese. Yield: About 3 quarts. *If blender is not available, chop ingredients finely.

1 1/2 teaspoons salt
1 teaspoon pepper
3 cups shredded cabbage
3 cups sliced escarole
1 package (10 ounces) frozen peas
1/4 cup sliced onion (1 medium)
1 can (8 ounces) white beans, drained
1/4 cup cooked macaroni
1 Grated Parmesan cheese

Men who are taking their turn cooking enjoy preparing a big, hearty minestrone soup and serving it in a Tupperware container which can be sealed for storage if there's leftovers. Grated Parmesan makes a lively garnish.

Snacks threaten teeth

American parents are increasingly concerned that their children eat healthy diets. But many of them are overlooking the importance of protecting their children's teeth.

It is true that children's teeth are healthier today than they were a generation ago. That is largely due to fluoride in water supplies and toothpastes. But tooth decay is still caused by sugar. And Americans continue to eat more sugar per capita each year.

Sugar isn't found only in candies, cakes and cookies. It is also contained in such "natural" foods as fruits and fruit juices.

Dr. Seymour Stiber, a prominent New York City dentist, notes that snacking is a leading threat to young teeth. The result is often the "baby bottle syndrome" — that is, allowing the baby or toddler to feed at will from a bottle of milk or fruit juice that is carried with him or placed in his crib.

The result is often the rotting of all of the baby teeth down to the gum line.

When teeth are brushed immediately afterward. Pediatric dentists are just realizing the damage done to young teeth by what is called the "baby bottle syndrome" — that is, allowing the baby or toddler to feed at will from a bottle of milk or fruit juice that is carried with him or placed in his crib.

The result is often the rotting of all of the baby teeth down to the gum line.

Baby teeth should be cleaned with a tiny toothbrush from the time they first appear. Dentists stress that these teeth are just as important as the permanent teeth that will follow.

Children should be taught early the proper techniques for brushing and flossing. If you are not sure to those techniques, ask your dentist for a demonstration.

Bosc pears help make a lemony chicken skillet dish different.

Pear-chicken dish

There are many ways to prepare chicken and it makes an excellent base for a one-skillet dish.

A different lemony chicken is made with Bosc Pears added in the last few minutes of cooking. In this way the pears remain crisp-tender and juicy and add a tang to a simple chicken entrée.

Make a sauce from the drippings to spoon over the chicken and fruit. Serve with rice or noodles and a green salad. The succulent Bosc are an excellent choice for this dish and for baking since they hold their shape well.

Lemon-Pear Chicken-Supreme
 1 (2 1/2 to 3 pound) chicken fryer, cut up
 1 lemon
 Salt, as needed
 1/4 cup butter or margarine
 1/2 teaspoon grated lemon peel
 1/2 cup sherry (or chicken stock)
 1 Western Bosc pear, cored and sliced
 1 or 2 teaspoons flour
 1/4 to 1/2 cup water
 Paprika, if desired
 Rub chicken with lemon. Squeezing juice onto chicken, sprinkle with salt to taste. Let stand 15 minutes.

In skillet, brown chicken well in butter or margarine. Drain excess fat, pour sherry over chicken. Simmer, covered, 30 to 40 minutes or until chicken is tender; turn once during simmering. Add pear, simmer, covered, 5 to 10 minutes or until pear is cooked. Turn over; add flour, turn once during simmering. Blend flour into drippings; cook until thickened. Add water to desired consistency. Spoon sauce over chicken and pear; sprinkle with paprika, if desired. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 3 or 4 servings.

Restaurant's bread should be good

The bread a restaurant puts on its tables and uses in sandwiches can make or break its reputation with patrons.

If bread doesn't live up to their expectations, they seldom complain, a recent study shows, but they are less likely to return to the restaurant.

Many consumers questioned tended to think food service operators must regard bread and bread products as freebies given away with meals.

The consumers consider bread a good food in its own right, not just something to fill you up. It should be chosen, they said, to complement other food.

The study was commissioned by the Wheat Flour Institute, whose 55 members produce about 87 percent of the flour milled in the United States. It was conducted by Ritchie Research Associates, of Chicago, and Orman Guidance Research, Inc., of Minneapolis. In consultation with the institute and the market research staff of International Multifoods, The Institute for the Educational Division of the Millers National Federation.

Initial director Joan Reynolds said that more than 400 restaurateurs have asked the institute for bread merchandising ideas as a result of the survey findings.

Over 400 — "not the same ones necessarily," she said in a telephone interview — also asked for nutritional data on bread, although consumers' interest in that fact evaporates when they eat.

They regard bread served at home mainly as an implement to hold sandwich fillings or to sop up gravy. In a restaurant, their main interests are flavor and good eating.

Consumers indicated great disappointment with restaurant breads at all three meals and almost all types of eateries. They found plenty of room for improvement even at higher-priced table service restaurants.

Most of the 1,344 persons who returned questionnaires agreed that bread sets the tone for the meal — it's an early indicator of the quality of the food to follow. Participants were chosen to reflect the American population as a whole.

Among the turn-offs they mentioned were bread baskets carelessly tossed onto tables; the kind of store-bought bread served daily at home; cold bread or, at any rate, bread warm enough to melt soft butter; and paper napkins instead of cloth napkins in the breadbasket.

Succeeding in the world of coupons, refunds

By MARTIN SLOANE
 "Are you a professional refunder?" someone asked me recently. "Or are you just an avid amateur?" I thought about that question for a moment.

"I used to be a professional refunder," I finally answered. "But my newspaper column and my other activities take up so much time that I have been forced to drop down to amateur status."

Are there really such levels in the world of coupons and refunds? Certainly!

On the lowest rung of the ladder are the casual coupon clippers who suffer from perpetual coupon mess. These are the people who throw all of their coupons into a kitchen drawer and remember them only after they have expired.

Seemingly immune to ridicule, they do not hesitate to work their way through the trash bin in the local laundromat. At the drop of a hat, they will drive 100 miles to shop at a store offering double coupons or 300 miles to attend a refunder's convention.

Some refunders are content to stay at that level, but some get the fever and achieve the status of avid refunder. They have half of the neighborhood saving box tops and labels for them.

These offers. They go to conventions with cartons full of complete deals to sell to other refunders.

Refunding is a business that earns them many thousands of dollars each year.

Making Family Life More Fun

AVOIDING BATTLE OF THE SEXES
 The battle of the sexes is waged daily in homes all across America. But when the battle ground is the bathroom, the results aren't always clear cut.

The battle used to focus on a man's razor. No matter where he hid it, his wife found it—and used it! The advent of razors designed for women has helped solve part of that problem. Now, shaving cream is the disputed grooming article, and once again, women want their fair share.

Since women have discovered that using a man's and a woman's cream, instead of soap can produce a close, smooth shave, they have incorporated their husband's shave cream into their regular grooming routine. The delightful fragrance of producting who's????

Why wait for a special party to make and serve banana cheesecake?

Cheesecake, for some reason, is thought of as an Italian delicacy. Actually, it stems from a traditional dish of 17th and 18th century Britain and Ireland. Open tarts were made with pastry filled with a blend of cream, egg yolks, lemon or orange juice or puréed fruit, and were all referred to as "cheesecakes." The homemade version soon gave way to pastry shell versions in later eras. Sound familiar?

Try lemon-glazed banana cheesecake

2 eggs, separated
1/2 cup milk
2 teaspoons lemon juice
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
3 cups (24 ounces) cottage cheese
5 medium bananas, divided
1 cup heavy cream
 Combine 1/2 cup cracker crumbs and 2 tablespoons sugar; blend in butter. Press mixture evenly on the bottom of a 9-inch springform pan. Chill. Mix gelatin and remaining sugar in medium saucepan. Beat together egg yolks and milk; stir into gelatin mixture. Stir over low heat, until gelatin is completely dissolved, about 5 minutes. Remove from heat, stir in lemon juice and rind. Beat cottage cheese on high speed of electric mixer until smooth, 4 to 5 minutes; gradually beat in gelatin mixture. Chill, stirring occasionally, until mixture mounds slightly when dropped from a spoon.

Beat egg whites until stiff, but not dry. Fold into gelatin mixture. Fold in whipped cream. Pour into prepared pan. Chill until firm, about 3 hours. Remove sides of pan. Press remaining 1/2 cup crumb around sides of cake. Peel 3 bananas and cut into slices; dip in Lemon Glaze. Arrange top slices on top of cheesecake starting at outside rim of cake and working toward center. Chill 30 minutes before serving. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 12 servings.

Lemon Glaze
 1/2 cup lemon juice
 1/2 cup sugar
 1 teaspoon cornstarch
 1/2 cup water
 Combine lemon juice and sugar in medium saucepan; cook over low heat until sugar is dissolved. Mix cornstarch with water; stir into saucepan. Cook, stirring constantly until mixture boils and thickens.

Reagan, Fonda, impostor highlight annual Oscars

The Best Actor and Best Actress Oscar winners held their Oscars up for all to see after they got the top awards at the 53rd Annual Academy Awards at the Music Center in Hollywood, Calif., Tuesday. By VERNON SCOTT
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — A condescending Ronald Reagan opened the 53rd annual Academy Awards to five rounds of applause for his taped address, but top honors went to "Ordinary People" as best picture of 1980 and Henry Fonda who received the first Oscar of his 46-year career.

Tuesday night's program, watched by an estimated 300 million television viewers in 66 countries, kept East Coast viewers who were determined to see the finish up until 1:10 a.m. today.

In a bizarre occurrence, a tuxedoed impostor stepped out of the audience, accepted the Oscar for the Hungarian winner, bringing in four of the $500 gold statuettes.

"It's been a very rewarding 46 years for me and this has got to be the climax," said Fonda, 76, who had never won an Oscar. "I'm very proud and very grateful to the governors of the academy."

An honorary Oscar also went to "The Empire Strikes Back" for special effects, similar to the award given its predecessor "Star Wars." "Empire" also won the Oscar for best sound.

"Fame" won the best score and best song Oscars, with composer Michael Gore thanking his collaborator and sister, 1950s teen-age singer Lesley Gore — nominated with him for one of the losing entries, also from that film.

"Raging Bull" also won the film editing award for Thelma Schoonmaker.

"Tess," Roman Polanski's version of Thomas Hardy's "Tess of the D'Urbervilles," won art direction Oscars for Pierre Guyffroy and Jack Stephens, the costume design award for Anthony Powell, and cinematography for Geoffrey Unsworth and Ghislain Cloquet.

"The Fly," a Hungarian production, won the Oscar for best animated short and "The Dollar Bottom" was picked best dramatic live action short.

"Moscow Does Not Believe in Tears," a Russian production, won the best foreign language Oscar, which was accepted by its director during contribution to the art of motion pictures.

Redford, who usually has had on the world's most enduring art form. Film is forever," Reagan said, setting the theme of the program. "Film Forever" in his brief remarks.

A highlight of the night was presentation of a special Oscar to Fonda, honoring a half century of his work in the industry. He was the best supporting actor in 1974 for his part in "The Godfather Part II."

De Niro previously had been nominated for best actor for his role in "Taxi Driver" in 1976 and in "The Deer Hunter" in 1978. He won best supporting actor in 1974 for his part in "The Godfather Part II."

Sissy Spacek was best actress for her portrayal of singer Loretta Lynn in "Coal Miner's Daughter." Miss Spacek had been nominated for the same award in 1976 for "Carrie," but lost to Faye Dunaway's "Network."

But the evening also belonged to former actor Reagan, who opened the show officially with videotaped remarks, and received five rounds of applause from the star-studded audience of almost 3,000.

Although the gala was delayed 24 hours by the shooting of Reagan in Washington Monday, the mood of the evening was light and the recuperating president was even the target of many of once Johnny Carson's good-natured one-liners.

Carson, in white tie and tails, told the audience at the Los Angeles Music Center, "It was the
