Petition plans

Attorney Jon Berman today addressed a press conference in the East Cemetery, announcing residents plans to petition against the proposed site of the Park and Cemetery garages and its relocation in the cemetery. About 10 persons, including representatives from the Temple Beth Shalom, attended the conference. Story on page 8 (Herald photo by Kearns)

Will there be a compromise?

Dole says benefit cut not likely

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., says compromises are likely on President Reagan's plan to save Social Security, and he suggests those about to retire at age 62 will not have to worry about slashed benefits. Dole, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, which will deal with Social Security legislation, said any major changes, particularly on benefits, likely will be phased in over a period of years, starting sometime before 1990.

"But beyond that," Dole said on CBS' "Face the Nation" Sunday, "I would guess those who are going to turn 62 in the next few years probably don't have too much to worry about."

Dole's statement was designed to quell what one commentator called

President is willing to listen

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan says he's willing to consider an alternative to his proposed three-year, 30 percent tax cut. "But he believes in his program and he's not actively seeking a compromise," Reagan told Senate Finance Committee Chairman Robert Dole, R-Kan., in a telephone call Sunday, according to White House chief of staff James Baker. Appearing on CBS' "Face the Nation," Dole said he would meet over lunch today with Rep. Dan Rostenkowski, D-Ill., chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, Rep. Barber Conable of New York, the ranking Republican on the committee, and Sen. Russell Long of Louisiana, the ranking Democrat on the Finance Committee, to go over the tax cut issue in search of common ground. Hostenkowski is the author of a Democratic alternative to Reagan's tax plan. While en route back to Washington Sunday after the president's commencement speech at Notre Dame, Baker made it a point to tell reporters Reagan watched Dole on television and called him about Dole's planned luncheon meeting. Baker said Reagan hoped Dole would hold to the president's position of not actively seeking compromise. "Senator Dole indicated that he would, and that he understood that the president was committed although he was willing to listen to any alternatives that might be advanced," Baker said. Baker said there was no discussion of specifics, but "the president feels that the idea of multi-year cuts, the idea of incentives for economic growth by way of accelerated depreciation — these concepts are the sine qua non (essential elements) of his program."

Baker said the president "is pleased" about Dole's meeting.

Firm can't find place to go

By HILARY ROSENBERG
Herald Reporter

MANCHESTER — Sebastian "Sonny" Mollica, owner of Imported Car Parts Inc. at 527 Main St., will probably go out of business next month due to a state highway improvement project at Center and Main streets.

"There's no rents in town," said Mollica who has been looking for a place to relocate for the past three months. "I'm hoping I'll find a rent in the next month and a half."

Otherwise, he said, "I'll collect unemployment checks from the state."

Mollica's business is located in one of the three buildings between Main and Ford streets targeted for demolition to make way for road improvements at the intersection of Main and Center streets. Two of the buildings, the Odd Fellows building at Main and Center streets and a building at Main and Ford streets, were condemned by the state Department of Transportation in March. The third building was sold to the state Friday. Before the state can start on the project, businesses and residents have to be moved out of the buildings, transportation department officials said. According to Hannah Marcus, director of the town Human Services which is handling the relocation of families, "no one is relocated yet. Things are really moving slowly."

Six Laotian families now reside in the Odd Fellows building and are providing difficult to relocate because of their large size, said. Businesses located in the buildings have been given 90 days from the date the state assumed ownership to relocate, businessmen said.

"They're basically just putting us in the street," objected Mollica, who has been in this location for more than five years.

Next door, John Muller of the Connecticut Valley Coin Co. said he has found only one shop he could possibly rent in about seven months of searching, "and it has about three times the space I need."

He said that although businessmen in the buildings knew of the state's plans for the past several months, they were unable to move until the state actually took over the buildings. When the state became owner of the premises, he said, then was required to pay costs of relocation.

Tony Adomaitis, owner of Tony's Package Store, is hardly looking for a new location, he said. "It's impossible. The rents are very high. And second is my age."

Adomaitis, 60, has been in the present location for 16 years and feels he is too old to develop his business in another place, he said.

Sixteen years ago he was forced to relocate from Colchester, he said, because of another highway project on Route 2. He fought the state in court, spending $11,000, he said, but lost in the end.

Adomaitis said he will probably go to work in a liquor or beer warehouse.

According to businessmen in the buildings, the only business that has moved out far in the Old Hook Gallery at 505 Main St.

Businesses in the Odd Fellows Building were closed Monday morning and their proprietors unavailable for comment.

War not ruled out by Syria

DAMASCUS, Syria (UPI) — Syrian President Hafez Assad has vowed to halt by force any Israeli attempt to intervene in Lebanon despite efforts by both Washington and Saudi Arabia to avert a new Mideast war.

Assad said in an address over state-run radio in Damascus that his country's recent deployment of Soviet-made SAM-6 missiles in Lebanon "is simply to increase Syria's defense capabilities."

"Syria will strongly resist any attempt by Israel to intervene in Lebanon's internal affairs or to escalate its aggression against the country," said the Syrian President late Sunday.

As Assad spoke, U.S. presidential envoy Philip Habib held talks with Saudi Arabian leaders in Riyadh in efforts to defuse the Lebanese crisis, and a special Saudi Arabian envoy delivered a message from King Khalid to Assad.

The Syrian president blamed Israel for the escalation of tension in Lebanon to "justify an attack on Lebanon aimed at liquidating the Palestinian resistance."

He described the deployment of Soviet-made SAM-6 missiles in the Bekaa Valley of eastern Lebanon as "a Syrian defensive screen."

The Israeli Cabinet agreed Sunday to give Habib as much time as necessary to end the crisis over the Syrian SAM-6 anti-aircraft missiles in Lebanon.

"We want a peaceful solution," Prime Minister Menachem Begin said after the Cabinet meeting.

Habib, whose shuttle mission began May 7, was scheduled to go to Damascus today for his third round of talks with Syrian leaders and then fly to Israel.

Israel has threatened to knock out the missiles with force if they are not removed, raising the possibility of a Syrian-Israeli war. The Syrians say the missiles are necessary for protection from Israeli warplanes.

In Alexandria, Egyptian President Anwar Sadat signalled for the first time that he would remain neutral if Syria and Israel went to war.

Arab analysts suggested the Saudi envoy might offer the Syrians financial aid in exchange for restraint in the missile crisis.

Earlier this year the Saudis reportedly cut off the funds they were providing, along with other oil-rich Arab regimes, for the 30,000-man Syrian peacekeeping force based in Lebanon.

Israeli Deputy Defense Minister Mosheche Zippori said after the Cabinet meeting that "as long as there is a spark of hope to solve the crisis by diplomatic means, Israel will pursue that spark ... and it still exists."

In Beirut, heavy fighting broke out Sunday between Christian militiamen and Syrian troops and continued into the night. Police sources said 20 people were killed and 50 wounded.

The U.S. Embassy Saturday ordered the evacuation of its diplomats from Lebanon and advised some 2,000 other Americans to leave the country.

Both U.S. and Soviet destroyers along with support craft were reported patrolling the Mediterranean waters off the Lebanese coast.

Christian militiamen set up an 82mm mortar position in the Samine Mountains in Beirut, Lebanon, Saturday, as the fight for strategic heights continued. Pro-Israeli Christian militiamen and Syrian peacekeeping forces waged artillery and rocket duels Sunday while U.S. presidential envoy Philip Habib continued his diplomatic efforts in Saudi Arabia to avert all-out war between Israel and Syria. Residents start drive against new garage

By MARTIN KEARNS Herald Reporter

MANCHESTER - Residents living in those neighborhoods surrounding the East Cemetery today united with the Temple Beth Shalom by launching a petition drive to prohibit the construction of a town garage in the cemetery.

Attorney Victor Moses, representing the Temple Beth Shalom, today opposed the construction of a town garage in East Cemetery, saying it would desecrate the burial ground.

The group is also seeking to block proposed sale of the town Park and Cemetery Department garage to Multi-Circuits, Inc. A second petition would require that any vote the Board of Directors to sell the garage and build one in another location be a unanimous vote.

At about 10 persons gathered this morning in the East Cemetery to announce plans for a townwide petitioning. The residents would need 5 percent of the electorate — about 1,500 signatures — to force the Board of Directors to pass an ordinance supporting their demands.

At the hearing, the residents requested the town to purchase the cemetery, or to purchase the cemetery and build one in another location. They also requested the town to purchase the cemetery and build one in another location.

Jane Gebals, coordinator of the Manchester Chamber of Commerce's Beautification Award, presents Hans Weiss with a Certificate of Appreciation for his properties at 134 and 138 Oakland St.

Three-family Victorian house has beige aluminum siding, rust-colored shingles on front and sides, white trim and a blue door. Located next door, not pictured, is the Weiss Gallery.

Restored Victorian

Renovates house, service station

Hans Weiss gets Chamber award

By BETTY RYDER
Focus Editor

When Hans Weiss first began his search for a property to use as an art studio, he could not have envisioned tackling the task of restoring a Victorian home and converting a service station with a two bay area into an art gallery.

The outcome was such a success, that the Manchester Chamber of Commerce has presented him with a Certificate of Appreciation for City Beautification of his properties at 134 and 138 Oakland St.

"This, the first award of its kind, was presented May 14 by Jane Gebals, coordinator of the program for the Chamber. Previously,

"The more we cleaned, the more we found," he said. "At first, the only thing I wanted to do was clean it up, paint it, fix it, and make use of it. But, the more we cleaned the more problems we found. The floors had sunk about one foot on one side of the house. Finally, we stripped the entire house and garage and redesigned them."

Today, the garage is the Weiss Gallery, where Weiss, an artist of note, displays some of his work and that of other artists.

The house is now a three-family unit, tastefully painted in shades of rust and white, with beige aluminum siding resembling old-fashioned clapboards, and a blue door. "I think the color emphasizes the architecture," Weiss said.

"Old records dating back as far as 1887 to a Frank R. ... have been found between the walls in the house. These will be on display at the house at a later date," he said.

Weiss, owner of Dynamic Metal Products Co., Inc. at 422 N. Main St., Manchester, is understandably pleased with his accomplishment. "I am very proud of retaining some historical value in the town of Manchester. It is only if you have completed a project such as this, that one realizes the beauty and joy of having something in that fashion."

Weiss is still working on completing the landscaping and hopes to have it finished in a few months.

He is hopeful his home and studio will serve as a catalyst for others to renovate some of the old town properties and restore some of the charm of yesteryear.

"I was delighted to see that the Heritage Savings Bank is converting an old home on Main Street into new offices. Let's hope more of this continues to help beautify the town."

MACC news Ecumenism and racism

By NANCY CARR
Executive Director

In the New Testament of Christians Paul says, "There is a variety of gifts but always the same Spirit, there is all sorts of service to be done, but always to the same Lord, who is working in all of them." He goes on to talk about those differing gifts all given by the Spirit as He chooses and all given for the common good and ends by telling the people of Corinth that though each has a differing function and differing gift, together they are Christ's body.

It is this understanding that motivates the present day search of Christian denominations for unification, both through theological dialogues and bilateral conversations that seek doctrinal convergence and agreement on unification, and through structural models which provide opportunities for common service and witness. MACC provides the separated Christian and denominational churches of Manchester with a structure through which they can together carry out their mission to the poor, the sick, the lonely, the imprisoned, the lost, the suffering. However, while we are committed to ecumenism, we are not committed to racism as a major problem in the world today and insisted that Christians cannot talk about unity without talking about race. The National Workshop was held in Hartford at 9:30 in the evening. Over and over ecumenical officers and representatives strive to understand and identify the barriers to unity. For the past 30 to 40 years Protes-

Stagecoach wedding

When former boxing promoter Ross Fields and his common-law wife of five years, Alice Vicki Darrow, were married Sunday in a lavish poolside ceremony, they wore gold wedding rings adorned by stagecoaches.

Why? It's the symbol of the Wells Fargo Bank. Fields, alias, Harold J. Smith and the former head of Muhammad Ali Professional Sports, is a central figure in an alleged $23 million embezzlement from Wells Fargo.

"I started wearing mine this morning," laughed Fields, showing off his stagecoach ring, "and I'm going to keep wearing it until they give me my $21 million."

Honeymoon plans were not announced — match Fields is under court-ordered travel restrictions pending the start of his trial next month in North Carolina on passport charges.

Lindbergh memorial

Mrs. Reeve Lindbergh Brown, daughter of Charles A. Lindbergh, will dedicate a 30-foot stainless steel sculpture at Roosevelt Field Mall in Long Island on Wednesday, as a permanent marker of her father's historic transatlantic flight.

Fifty-two years ago — on May 20, 1927 — Lindbergh took off from Roosevelt Field in "The Spirit of St. Louis" on his historic non-stop flight to France.

The big winged sculpture, commissioned from Swedish sculptor Bjorn Eriln Evensen, arrived from Sweden earlier this month by ship, accompanied by Evensen and his wife.

Also present at Wednesday's ceremonies will be actor Cliff Robertson, a classic plane enthusiast who has a collection of early planes.

Douglas: "Most of the time I was just in the background. If Gene Kelly got into a fight, for example, I was the one who held his coat."

He recalled that his comedian father Ed Wynn used to tell people, "For those of you who don't know what Keenan does, when Father Williams gives into the pool, he's the fellow who gets splashed."

Artists to visit MHS

Manchester — A variety of professional artists will be visiting Manchester High School this week in celebration of Fine Arts Week at the school.

The schedule for the remainder of the week follows:

Tuesday — David Hayes, internationally known sculptor speaking on sculpture and Andrea Hanson, broadcast schedule coordinator for Connecticut Public Television speaking on television and the arts.

Wednesday — Professional photographers, Richard Daley and Guy Freeman, will host a multimedia presentation photography as media and fine art.

Thursday — A group of Hartford string musicians will present a lecture-concert workshop entitled, "All in the String Family."

Friday — A condensed version of the comic opera, "The Barber of Seville," presented by the Connecticut Opera Association.

In addition to the professional presentations, several displays depicting student involvement in the fine arts will be shown throughout the school during the week.

Fine Arts Week was coordinated by Betty Kirby of the high school fine arts department and Dr. Lee Hay of the high school English department and the cooperation of Mrs. Blanche Stone of the Manchester Arts Council.

tant Christians, and for the last 12 years Roman Catholic Christians have struggled with the thorny issues of those theological, doctrinal and liturgical differences which lock Christians in separated churches. As we have moved slowly but undeniably closer toward one church, we are discovering new and troubling barriers to unity.

Manchester is not immune to racism. It is endemic in our culture, it is perpetuated in our secular institutions and in the church. As an institution the church is, indeed, part and parcel of our culture, and people in pilgrimage share in and reflect the life of the community. The work of ecumenism continues through interfaith dialogues, prayer services, fuel banks, and black and white dialogue.

As Paul said, "There are all sorts of service to be done but always the same Lord working in all sorts of different ways in different people." We invite you to join us in our ecumenical service to the community.

Wonder about weight

DEAR DR. LAMB - I have had to fight a weight problem all my life. I don't think I eat as much as some people who do not have my problem and I'm sure I'm more active than most. I have been wondering if the problem people who are really healthy are caused by their colon. I have had irregularity all my life. It seems logical that the food passes more slowly, more calories will be absorbed. That would cause you to get fat because you use all the calories in your food, while other people may not use all their calories. Just what role does the colon play in all of this?

DEAR READER - Not much. It is true that some people who have diseases that cause diarrhea lose a tremendous amount of weight. In these instances it is not just the colon that is involved but the small intestine as well. If you have diarrhea and the involvement is of the colon alone, you may still lose a lot of weight from loss of water. But that is not fat and after the acute episode is over you are usually right back where you started.

Digestion occurs almost entirely in the small intestine. And most of the calories in your food are absorbed within a very short distance of the small intestine just beyond your stomach. The stomach does not absorb food, although some alcohol can be absorbed directly from the stomach.

The role of the colon is really to absorb water and to play an important role in regulating your salt and water balance. It does not absorb any calories. Thus you can have the slowest bowel function in the world and it won't be the cause of your getting fat. The rate of passage of food through the colon has been studied to answer the very question you raise and it is not a factor in obesity.

Many people do not know which parts of the digestive system are involved in processing food.

Quirks in the news

- A Texas love story
 IRVING, Texas (UPI) — Paul Crouch and Robin Corllo are expecting a baby in July, so they want to get married.
- But in this Texas love story, the father of the 17-year-old would-be bride won't let her tie the knot. So she filed suit last week, asking a judge to waive the state parental consent statute required for minors.
- Miss Corllo says her father refuses permission because her 18-year-old boyfriend comes from a different background than she.
- "We're more or less from two different classes," said Miss Corllo. "I'm not really a redneck. Lived in semi-upper middle-class and I guess Paul lived in lower middle-class. I guess that's one of the main deals."
- Her father, Sam, says his objection is to his age, nothing else.
- Although the two could marry when Miss Corllo becomes 18 in September, their baby is due in July and Miss Corllo would like to be Mrs. Crouch by then.
- Crouch's mother has given her full blessing to the marriage. She said Miss Corllo's father, an aerospace engineer, "doesn't like my son because he's a goat roper. He wears western clothes all the time and dips snuff. He's just a normal teenage-age goat roper."

Whale harpooning

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Steve McGarrett of "Hawaii Five-O" and Cap'n Ahab are teaming up to try to harpoon commercial whaling — with a special emphasis on torpedoing Japanese whalers.

Actor Gregory Peck, who portrayed the fictional Ahab in the film version of the classic "Moby Dick," and actor Jack Lord, the chief law officer from television's "Hawaii Five-O," are featured in anti-whaling TV ads sponsored by the Animal Welfare Institute.

A spokesman said Japan was singled out because it is one of the last countries to provide a market for whale products and is also the major killer of whales.

The ads will be televised in the United States, Canada and have been distributed in Japan.

"A hundred years ago during whaling's romantic heyday, a three-year expedition netted an average of 37 whales. Today a modern Japanese or Russian whaling fleet can eliminate 37 whales in a day with brutal military precision," Peck says in the ad.

Plans for subdivision may face dissolution

ANDOVER — Due to a mistake in the original map, a subdivision of five lots in Bear Swamp Road, approved by the Planning and Zoning Commission at the request of Fri-Land Equities, Inc. more than two months ago, is in danger of dissolution.

The Planning and Zoning Commission, at their last meeting May 11, decided not to sign the final map for the subdivision, granting approval, because the final map displays a zoning violation.

When the subdivision was approved, commission Chairman John Kostic said May 11, the maps displayed no zoning violations. But the final map, redone by Fri-Land Equities, Inc., a sister corporation of "Firestone Realty, Inc.," shows zoning violation, since a two-car garage on one of the lots is 11 feet from boundary line, which is too close, according to regulations.

Apparently, Kostic said, the mistake in the original map was realized by one of the land owners when surveying the land before building a home. So Fri-Land, Inc., submitted the final map, the nylar, with the correction on it, for approval. But the commission denied approval, unless either the garage is Seniors meet — The senior citizens will hold a regular meeting May 20, 1:30 p.m., at the town hall to listen to Fred Nelson from the state's extension service talk on gypsy moths.

Blood pressures will also be taken at the meeting, and members wish to remind anyone interested in participating in the planned day-trip to Rhode Island and Massachusetts that money for the trip should be in by Monday.

Cotter to visit — First District Congressman William Cotter will be visiting the town hall Wednesday at 10:30 a.m., to communicate with residents and town officials about all matters involving the federal government.

Cotter will be seeking input from persons in the district he represents, as the visit is part of a series of stops in various towns within the district.

Dance study — Students from the elementary school will participate in a dance study program today and be given a performance by "The Dance Company," Tuesday.

Youths injured in auto crash

BOLTON — Two Vernon youths are in critical condition at Hartford Hospital this morning, and two others have been admitted to Manchester Memorial Hospital, after the 1979 foreign car they were riding in on Route 85, near the intersection of Camp Meeting House Road, swerved off the road and hit a utility pole yesterday at 6:30 p.m.

Thomas Quigley, 18, of 7 Cindy Terrace, and Jill Brooks, 17, of Summit Drive, were taken to Manchester Hospital, police said, and were later transferred to Hartford Hospital.

A Hartford Hospital spokeswoman said the two youths, who were passengers in the car, were admitted to the surgical wing of the building after suffering multiple abdominal and chest injuries, and are in critical condition this morning.

Diane Moritz, 16, of Discovery Lane, also a passenger in the car, suffered fractures of facial bones and lacerations and is in serious but stable condition at Manchester Hospital.

Jon Orlewski, 20, of 38 Bette Court, the driver of the vehicle, was admitted to Manchester Hospital after suffering lacerations and is in satisfactory condition this morning.

Police said the accident happened when the car, traveling northbound on Route 85, went off the road and hit a utility pole. Police are investigating the accident.

Van rapist spree terrifies women

LEBANON (UPI) — A mother of two has armed herself with a hammer and baseball bat and other women have stayed clear of the back roads of northeastern Connecticut while police searched for a man known as the "van rapist."

Two women have been raped in Lebanon and Hampton since March, and two others in Eastford and Mansfield have been assaulted but not raped by a man in a dark-colored van police said stalked his victims and ran their cars off the road in deserted areas.

Police said other attacks may not have been reported. The "van rapist" is in his mid-20s, 6 feet tall, with brown hair, a beard or mustache and a "beer belly," police said.

Some of the women were raped after their attacker used a hammer to break his victim's car windows, police said.

"So I'll use a hammer, too," a 36-year-old mother of two from Lebanon said. "I don't want to hurt anybody, but I'd use it to defend myself."

She also keeps a baseball bat at arm's reach in her car, she said.

Cops at Eastern Connecticut State College in Willimantic said they would no longer go out at night alone.

Another young woman who lives in the sparsely populated area said she was frightened every time she saw a van in her rear-view mirror.

And a 17-year-old Windham High School student who works as a waitress said, "I lock my car doors and go straight home (after work). It bothers me to think about the danger, but I try not to think about it."

State police at Troop K in Colchester, Troop D in Danielson and Troop C in Stafford Springs said they were following several leads given, then by area residents.

The state police crime unit in Meriden said 22 sexual assaults were reported in northeastern Connecticut in 1980. So far this year, 15 sexual assaults have been reported in the area, police said.

New Groton sub joins Navy fleet

GROTON (UPI) — The nuclear fast-attack submarine Jacksonville, the 12th of its class in active service, has officially joined the Navy's fleet.

The 360-foot long sub, which displaces 3,900 tons, was commissioned Saturday at the Naval Submarine Base and will join the Atlantic Fleet with its homeport at Norfolk, Va., under the command of Capt. Robert B. Wilkinson.

The Jacksonville was the seventh 688-class sub built by the Electric Boat Co. division of the General Dynamics Corp. and the first Navy ship to be named after the Florida city. It was launched in November 1978.

Rep. Charles Bennett, D-Fla., chairman of the House seapower subcommittee, whose home is Jacksonville, spoke at the ceremonies, attended by EB and Navy dignitaries.

The Jacksonville, powered by a pressurized, water-cooled nuclear reactor, is equipped with anti-submarine torpedoes and submarine rockets.

The launching of a sister ship last month, the USS Corvus Christi, at EB's shipyard in Groton, drew several hundred anti-nuclear demonstrators.

Your Birthday

May 18, 1981

Your financial prospects are quite encouraging for the coming year, but there is also a possibility you may spend as much as you earn. Try to save a little more for your future needs.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Normally you're pretty good at finding the best buys, but today your shopping instincts may not be up to par. You could pay more for things than they are truly worth. Romance, travel, luck, resources, possible pitfalls and careers for the coming months are all discussed in your Astro-Graph which begins with your birthday. Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 488, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Charm and wit count for something, but today in your one-on-one relationships substance may be more important. Try combining the two.

CANCER (June 21-July 20) Persons whose assistance you may need today could be reluctant to help you if you play upon their sympathies. Keep emotions out of the picture.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You're a bit more susceptible to flattery today than usual. One who is aware of this may try to use it to your advantage. Avoid ego trips.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) If there is something important you want completed today, you'd be wise to rely only on yourself. Promises made by others may not count for much.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Unfortunately, if you have to make a choice today between two things which must be done or doing that which is more pleasurable, you may choose the latter.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) The tendency to spend beyond your means is something with which you might have to cope today. Don't buy items, hoping to have the funds later.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Members of the opposite sex could find you even more appealing today, but be very careful you don't respond in a manner so as to give another a teasing.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You're the type that others can rely upon because, when you say you'll do something, you'll do it. However, this may not be the case today.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Be on your best behavior socially today. Don't overindulge or act in ways which could cause others to think less of you.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) You have the ability to achieve difficult goals today, but there's a chance you could put forth only nominal efforts and fail to do it.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) It's important to give praise to the deserving today, but be very careful if you try to use flattery to achieve your ends. Sincerity is a must.

Lady has no willpower

Dear Abby
Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: You are my last hope. I am an obese woman who has tried every kind of diet imaginable, but nothing works for me. I saw a woman on Tom Snyder's show a while back who had her mouth wired shut so she couldn't eat solid foods; she could only drink liquids. I can't find a dentist who does this. I even called the American Dental Association, but they said they didn't know who to call either. I am desperate. Please hurry. I weigh 220, and can hardly breathe.

NO WILLPOWER IN THE BRONX
DEAR NO WILLPOWER: I rarely gave unasked-for advice, but wiring your mouth shut is not the answer. Please locate the Overeaters Anonymous chapter nearest you and go to a meeting. I've attended some of its organization's meetings and found the people there to be an unbelievably loving, supportive group. You need friends who have been through your kind of hell. Please go. Then write again and let me know how you're doing. I care.

DEAR ABBY: I work for an advertising company, selling ads on the phone. I live in Iowa and make phone calls all over the country. Last November I called a man in Texas who had the most wonderful voice I had ever heard! He bought some advertising from me, so I called him back for business reasons. He must have liked my voice too, because we started talking and found we had a lot in common. He

I realized instantly what he meant. Early in February, while I was interviewing him for a story, I had asked routinely if he had any children.

"No," he replied, "but my wife and I have been trying for a long time." So I quipped, "You have got to quit wearing jockey shorts." That broke him up, of course, and after admitting that he did wear jockey shorts, he asked what his shorts had to do with it.

I said he had obviously missed the Dear Abby column in which you stated that jockey shorts reduced a man's sperm count.

I promised to send him a clip of your column, and he said that while it sounded a bit crazy, he and his wife were desperate enough to try almost anything.

In his call today, he said that when his wife learned she was pregnant, they counted back and found that she conceived a month after he switched to boxers! He also said if they have a baby girl, they may name her "Abby."

DICK ELLERS, REPORTER
DEAR DICK: Wonderful! Thanks for the report. Your letter made my day!

You're never too young or too old to learn how to make people like you. Get Abby's new booklet of practical advice. Send $1 and a stamped (35 cents), self-addressed envelope to: Abby, Popularity, 132 Rocky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Opera Guild Benefit

Bill Sleith, at left, and Millard Pryor, president of Lydall, Inc., in Manchester, discuss just what they'd do if they won the 1981 Cadillac Cimarron being offered by the Connecticut Opera Guild for the benefit of the Connecticut Opera Association. Drawing for the car, the first of its kind to be delivered in Connecticut, will be held Thursday at 7 p.m. at the Thomas Cadillac Showroom, 1530 Albany Ave., Hartford. Tickets are $100 each and only 300 will be sold. (Herald photo by Pinto)

Winners named

MANCHESTER — The raffle sponsored by the Martha White Singers of Manchester took place at the Manchester Chamber of Commerce. The winners are as follows:

Winner of the first prize, trip for two to Las Vegas, was won by Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Healy of New Britain, CT.

Second prize AM/FM radio was won by Sid Wright, Manchester, and third prize, dinner for two at Willie's Steak House, went to Mrs. Mary Spaulding of Manchester.

Consolation prizes were also awarded.

Regents elected

WEST HARTFORD (UPI) — A newspaper publisher and four corporate executives have been elected to the board of regents at the University of Hartford, the school has announced.

The five new regents were elected at the board's annual organization meeting this week and will begin their terms on July 1.

Elected for three-year terms were: Keith L. McGlade, publisher of The Hartford Courant, Wallace Barnes, chairman of the Barnes Group in Bristol; Gunnar S. Overstrom, executive vice president of Hartford National Bank; and Michael Saitman, president of Saitman and Blumenthal Inc. in Hartford.

Samuel W. Childs of the General Reinsurance Corp. of Hartford was elected to a one-year term.

Winner to retire

HARTFORD (UPI) — A Clinton man has won the top prize of $250,000 in the Connecticut Lottery's weekly "Money Tree" game.

Joseph Somnisky, 53, a forklift operator for Cheesborough-Pondus, said Thursday he would use his winnings to retire.

Grange No. 31

MANCHESTER — Manchester Grange No. 31 will meet Wednesday at 8 p.m. at 206 Olcott St. This will be the Grange's 90th anniversary. It is an open meeting and anyone interested in joining is welcome.

Several members are going to receive their 25th pins and certificates. Also, one will receive a 50-year pin and another her 65 seal.

Brother John Waterhouse of Glastonbury will make the presentation. There will be an auction table.

Edith Schoell, P.M., is in charge of refreshments. There will be a needlepoint contest and exchange of seeds.

Roast to honor Weiss

Robert Weiss

MANCHESTER — Town Manager Robert Weiss will be cited June 2 when the Manchester March of Dimes committee holds its 4th Annual Roast, with all proceeds going to the yearly campaign. The roast will be at Willie's Steak House, with a social hour at 6:30 p.m. and dinner at 7:30.

The co-chairman of the event are James McCavanagh and Joseph Hackey, with McCavanagh, as in previous years, serving as master of ceremonies.

Tickets may be obtained from Manchester: Terrence Sullivan, at 646-3800; Phil Harrison, at Harrison's on Main St.; and Steve Werber, in the Municipal Building.

Weiss has been Manchester Town Manager since Jan. 1, 1968, only the town's third since 1947, when the council-manager form of government was adopted. His first public service job was as administrative assistant in Keene, N.H. from 1948 to 1949. He then served as town manager in South Berwick, Maine to 1953, when he became town manager in Windsor, CT until he came to Manchester.

A native of Medford, Mass., he is a graduate of Boston University and the University of Pennsylvania's Wharton Graduate School, where he received a master's degree in governmental administration. He is a past vice president of the International City Managers Association and a past president of the Connecticut Association of Town and City Managers.

His wife, Gloria, also is a graduate of Boston University and a dietician. The Weiss' children are Peter, Jay and Wendy.

Save fuel and dollars on summer vacations

The paradoxes beg for clarification. The hotel/motel trade is holding firm; the restaurant business is mixed but no worse than that; travel, though, is a disaster.

The contrasts are clear. We, famed the globe over as a nation of wanderers, are relaxing and playing as hard as ever. But we are staying closer to home than in many years, and saving in other ways.

The peak holiday months are directly ahead. Here are our rules for fuel-saving and dollar-cutting vacations. You can't help but win with them.

(1) Go early or late. Choose what's left in May or go in June or wait until September-October. Avoid the peak July-August period. Try going south in summer, north in winter. Timing alone can slash your expenses 20-40 percent. It's "in" to go off-season or shoulder-season.

(2) Stagger your travel days or even hours to save 30-40 percent off "prime-time" fares. Take fullest advantage of weekend and fly-by-night air travel prices.

(3) Seek out the off-beat. Avoid the newest hotel in the latest hot spot. Pick the outskirts and often save 25-40 percent off mid-city or center area places. Use the interstate highway system and expressways to bypass the main action scene.

(4) Search for the new cut-rate airlines and less fancy resorts. You will have to fly smaller, slower planes from out-of-the-way airports, forfeit frills, even pay for on-board food. But your net savings on these cut-rate lines can run 30-75 percent off regular fares.

(5) Become your own travel expert by reading travel publications. Thoroughly investigate tour packages. You may not be able to book many of the most attractive tours on your own. But a travel agent can do the job for you — at no expense to you.

Your Money's Worth
Sylvia Porter

(6) Look into the rapidly spreading "Bed 'n' Breakfast" places. They may be just rooms and baths in private homes, but they can be exceedingly attractive as well as inexpensive. "B & B" organizations list names of members, addresses and prices. You make arrangements directly. B & B groups range from "Urban Ventures," through which you can get rooms in homes and apartments in Manhattan and Brooklyn, to "Bed & Breakfast Hawaii," which features scenic packages throughout the island chain. Bed & Breakfast International, at Kensington, Calif., and the Bed & Breakfast League, Princeton, N.J., have members from coast to coast.

(7) If you like the sea, local marinas. Call local yacht

Money is not enough

BURBANK, Calif. (UPI) — Many corporate executives think money alone will protect their companies from raids by executive recruiters, but they haven't considered the importance of "psychic currency," an executive searcher says.

Exclusively yours

HIGH GILLESPIE, chairman of Back Consultants, an employee-benefit consulting firm, questions whether there should be some lengthier transition period for the sake of the Social Security fund and private pension funds.

"The abrupt timing of the proposal could result in a rash of retirements. Clearly the way it is structured places the burden on employers if they wish to maintain the same level of benefits for their employees. Some concern is being expressed over the increase in cost."
