Research generates consistent proof that low tar MERIT matches taste of higher tar brands.

Five years ago, low tar MERIT sparked a whole new era in smoking by delivering taste way out of proportion to tar.

Until MERIT, no low tar cigarette had been able to prove it could match the taste of higher tar brands.

Millions Endorse MERIT Taste

Switching studies confirm it. 90% of smokers switching to MERIT are coming directly from higher tar cigarettes.

Fact: Since its introduction, MERIT has gained more smokers than any other low tar brand!

Elections bring new violence

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — Polling stations for local elections were pelted with gasoline bombs today and a police reservist was wounded by attackers who blasted his home with 50 rounds of automatic gunfire.

The violence followed the killing of five British soldiers in the explosion of an IRA landmine Tuesday, the worst IRA attack in two years. Assistant Chief Constable Trevor Forbes called it "an absolute scene of horror, really sickening."

"Whether it's in 10 days or 10 years, we will get them (the killers)," Forbes said. Moderate politicians feared voters would back extremist Protestant and Catholic candidates in today's election for 26 local councils, which were seen as an indicator of support for the Irish Republican movement that seeks to unite Northern Ireland and the Irish republic.

Just hours before the polling stations opened at 8:00 a.m., gunmen shot a young reserve policeman in the back and foot and blasted his home in Portlengone with 50 rounds of automatic fire, police said.

Only three bullets hit him but his home was hit 50 times," a police spokesman said. "He was very lucky."

Polling stations guarded by armed police and soldiers were the targets of "sporadic rioting, petrol bomb and stone throwing," police said. At Maze prison, IRA inmates Raymond McCreesh and Patrick O'Hara were slipping toward death on the 80th day of a hunger strike to demand political status for IRA prisoners. Two other inmates, Bobby Sands and Francis Hughes, have starved themselves to death.

McCreesh, 24, sentenced to 14 years for attempted murder, was reported virtually blind, deaf and deteriorating rapidly. The relatives of O'Hara, also 24 and serving an 8-year sentence for possessing explosives, said prison doctors said he had developed a heart murmur and could die of a heart attack.

"I'm sure the rioters in Belfast's Catholic strongholds, hurled gasoline bombs and bricks at security forces and an 11-year-old girl suffered serious head injuries."

The spokesman declined to specify what decisions were taken, but said "they encourage chances of a peaceful solution" to the crisis over Syria's stationing of SAM-6 anti-aircraft missiles in Lebanon. But the government issued a strong statement denying reports that part of the U.S. peace plan would restrict Israeli flights over Lebanon and said that was not even discussed.

Begin had raised hopes for peace Tuesday, pledging after listening to Habib's proposals that Israel would not start a war with Syria. He scheduled another meeting with Habib after the cabinet meeting.

Despite the apparent reduction in tension, Syria reported Tuesday that its forces had shot down the second Israeli plane in a week. Israel denied the claim.

"We don't want war, orphanhood, bereavement and disability... but if they attack us, we will rise and be mighty," Begin told a rally of disabled veterans Tuesday. "We won't start a war and we don't want war."

In his letter, O'Brien said the town charter is superior in law to a local ordinance. The petition being circulated asks the board to adopt an ordinance blocking the sale of the town garage.

At issue is the petition's language which would require the board to unanimously vote in favor of the proposed sale. According to the charter, the board needs only five affirmative votes to pass an ordinance.

Berman today said he too was prepared to test the legality of the petition. "My research indicates to me that they are not in violation of the charter and that they are perfectly legal," he said.

"It's quite possible that a court may have to establish the validity of the proposed ordinance," said Berman, who added the petition is the neighborhood's most effective way of challenging the proposed sale of the garage to Multi-Circuits.

The Planning and Zoning Commission Tuesday voted a zone change to allow off-street parking on a half-acre parcel between the garage and East Center Street. The rezoning was considered essential to Multi-

Road worker Joe Parker uses a jackhammer to tear into Bissell Street near its intersection with Spruce Street. Parker is an employee of the Ameron Corp. of New Jersey which is under contract with the town to reline about 9 miles of water mains. (Herald photo by Pinto)

Problems of moths not bad

By Hilary Rosenberg Herald Reporter

MANCHESTER — Unlike other Connecticut communities, Manchester does not have a gypsy moth infestation this summer serious enough to warrant roadside spraying by the town, Superintendent of Parks and Cemeteries Bob Harridge said.

"I think Manchester is very fortunate compared to other areas in Connecticut," he said.

This year is the peak year in the regular cycle of population growth for gypsy moth caterpillars.

According to Harridge, Manchester wasn't hit as hard by the infestation as other areas such as South Windsor and New Haven since it has fewer wooded regions than these municipalities.

Earlier this spring, Parks Department personnel considered spraying trees in watershed areas, woods and parks, where the infestation is most prevalent, Harridge said. But now the spraying does not seem to be necessary, he said.

"Another year we might have to look at it closer," he said.

Although Manchester as a whole has not suffered a heavy gypsy moth infestation, he said, isolated areas of the town, near woods and watershed regions, have been hit hard.

Many homeowners in these areas have taken preventive measures against the gypsy moth caterpillar by wrapping bands of cloth around trunks of trees to catch the insects as they migrate up and down.

Homeowners are also calling on tree service companies, who are busier than usual this year because of the gypsy moth problem.

This week is the prime week of the season for spraying trees with insecticides since the caterpillars are now in their growth period and migrating on the trees, tree specialists contacted this week said.

"We had quite an influx of orders," said William J. Carter, owner of Carter Tree Expert Co. In the last peak year for gypsy moths in 1973, he said, his company handled about 3,000 calls in addition to its regular 2,000 customers.

So far this year the company has had about 600 additional calls due to the gypsy moth infestation, he said. But he expects the count to reach the 1973 level by the end of the year, he said.

An employee at B & M Tree Service remarked "It's really crazy. We get 50 calls a day."

Almost all the calls are for gypsy moth extermination, but most are from Glastonbury.

Counsel questions petition legality

By Martin Kearns Herald Reporter
MANCHESTER — The town attorney today questioned the legality of a petition being circulated by residents which would require the Board of Directors to vote unanimously in favor of selling the town Harrison Street garage.

Kevin O'Brien, town attorney, has sent a letter to John Berman, attorney for the Hill Street Residents' Association, informing him the town is prepared to test the legality of the petition, should it be forwarded to the Board of Directors.

In his letter, O'Brien said the town charter is superior in law to a local ordinance. The petition being circulated asks the board to adopt an ordinance blocking the sale of the town garage.

At issue is the petition's language which would require the board to unanimously vote in favor of the proposed sale. According to the charter, the board needs only five affirmative votes to pass an ordinance.

The Planning and Zoning Commission Tuesday voted a zone change to allow off-street parking on a half-acre parcel between the garage and East Center Street. The rezoning was considered essential to Multi-Circuits plans to expand its circuit-board manufacturing operation. Without the change, the firm has indicated that the cost of such an election to the town's taxpayers is approximately $11,000," O'Brien's letter said.

Should the residents get 1,500 signatures on their petition, the town attorney is authorized to review the legality of the document and forward it to the board for their action.

Rezoning passes PZC

By Martin Kearns Herald Reporter
MANCHESTER — By a narrow margin, the Planning and Zoning Commission Tuesday approved a controversial request to rezone 0.62 acres of town property on Harrison Street to permit off-street parking.

The decision keeps alive hopes of an industrial neighbor which earlier expressed dogged interest in buying the parcel along with the abutting Harrison Street garage.

Multi-Circuits Inc. last fall expressed interest in buying the town Park and Cemetery Department garage. The parcel rezoned Tuesday by the planning commission sits between the garage and East Center Street.

The circuit board manufacturer needs the parking area to allow for the expansion of its production facility. The off-street parking permit would be the first step in any town effort to sell the garage to Multi-Circuits.

The town Board of Directors is drafting an ordinance which, if approved, would set in progress the sale. A public hearing on the ordinance will be scheduled before the directors vote on it.

Multi-Circuits has proposed to purchase the garage and convert it to office space. The property surrounding it, including the parcel rezoned Tuesday, would be used for employee parking to allow for the hoped-for expansion.

At a public hearing May 4, residents flooded the municipal hearing room to oppose the zone change. In their arguments, residents said the zone change would bring the town one step closer to selling the garage to Multi-Circuits. The resulting expansion would increase noise and odor pollution, residents charged.

The residents also circulated a petition which was presented to the planning commission. The names of 500 townspeople were signed to it, said John Berman, attorney representing the residents.

Despite the opposition, the planning commission Tuesday voted 3-to-2 to rezone the half-acre parcel for off-street parking. Chairman Al Sieffert, Leo Quash and Ronald Gates voted for the zone change. William Bayer and Truman Crandall opposed it.

Berman today said he was surprised by the decision, and said the residents might appeal. The town charter permits any landowner with property adjacent to that which was rezoned to file an appeal within 15 days of a planning decision.

"There's something unfair to the residents about the zoning commission approving the zone change by an application of the town for a private company," said Berman. The application was filed by Town Manager Robert Weiss.

The residents are currently organizing a petition drive to block the sale of the garage and its possible relocation in the East Cemetery. The town attorney must first approve the petition, and Kevin O'Brien, town attorney, today lodged questions over the constitutionality of one petition.

Intagliata says racism figured in CD vote

By Paul Hendrie
Herald Reporter

HARTFORD — Former Manchester Town Director Elizabeth Intagliata testified yesterday in U.S. District Court that racism was one of several important factors that influenced Manchester's 1979 decision to pull out of the federal Community Development Block Grant program.

"I would have to say that, based on public statements made throughout the controversy, it (racism) was one of the significant factors," Mrs. Intagliata testified.

"It was one significant factor among a number of significant factors."

Mrs. Intagliata was called as a plaintiff's witness in the federal discrimination lawsuit against the town.

Although the plaintiffs earlier rested their case, defense attorneys agreed to allow them to call Mrs. In-tagliata yesterday, because she had been on vacation before.

The federal government and three low-income Manchester residents charge the town withdrew from the CDBG program because of racial prejudice. An April 1979 referendum mandated the pull-out.

Mrs. Intagliata said a concern that big government would usurp local autonomy was the other major reason people opposed the CDBG program. But she said statements made at two public meetings in November, 1978, showed racism clearly was a major factor.

"There were some racial statements made or statements that were biased, in my opinion," she testified. "It wasn't just what was said. It was how it was said."

Mrs. Intagliata, who supported the town's participation in the CDBG program said a number of those who spoke out against the program at those meetings pointed their fingers at local blacks as they spoke.

She said members of the black community who attended the meeting became angry at the statements they considered racist.

Mrs. Intagliata recalled that one black woman said she hoped she would never see a "No Blacks Allowed" sign at the Manchester highway exit.

Yesterday's testimony countered that of Mrs. Intagliata's Board of Directors colleagues. A series of past and present board members last week testified that racism played no significant part in the local voters' decision to withdraw from the CDBG program.

They claimed racial motivation was isolated to an insignificant minority of local residents, mostly members of the Concerned Citizens for Manchester Development.

Mrs. Intagliata was asked if Concerned Citizens for Manchester

Development had any impact on the referendum results.

"Yes, I believe they had an impact on the public," she replied.

"They were a special interest group that showed up at meetings and when a special interest group shows up at meetings, they have influence."

In testimony by defense witnesses yesterday, Department of Housing and Urban Development officials Lynn Strecker and Edward Szymanski testified that a town's non-participation in the CDBG program does not prevent the community from receiving other HUD housing funds.

In fact, the officials said a town's failure to have a Housing Assistance Plan, which is a listing of subsidized housing goals and priorities, in some cases makes it easier for the locality to qualify for HUD housing development funds.

A Housing Assistance Plan is a required part of a CDBG application.

"There was precedent for abstaining in appointments," countered Mrs. Intagliata. "I thought this was a political ploy to appoint someone who clearly had tunnel-vision."

A Housing Assistance Plan is a required part of a CDBG application.

This argument counters plaintiffs' charges that Manchester's decision to pull out of the CDBG program makes it difficult for the town to qualify for subsidized housing money.

The plaintiffs argue Manchester has sought to avoid building low-income housing so minorities will not move to town.

Bolton real estate developer Louise England countered previous testimony by housing developer John O'Connell of Norwalk that he scuttled plans to develop in Manchester after the town's CDBG referendum. O'Connell testified the referendum indicated that Manchester was hostile to projects like the one he proposed.

England, however, testified that O'Connell continued to negotiate for a piece of Manchester land she owns one year after the referendum.

Town policies set for airing

By Nancy Thompson
Herald Reporter

MANCHESTER — An affirmative action seminar to explain the town's policy and goals to its employees is being planned for this fall.

The Human Relations Commission Tuesday agreed to a request from Personnel Director Steven Werber to assist in planning the seminar, which is tentatively scheduled for September.

Werber said it has been three years since the town last held a seminar to instruct its employees on its affirmative action program. In that time, significant changes have been made in the laws governing the area, the town's goals and in the town staff involved in the program, he said.

At the same time, Werber said in response to a question from commission member Roy Craddock, significant changes have not been made in the number of minorities employed by the town.

"Obviously there hasn't been a great influx of minorities onto the town work force," Werber said. "There's been great awareness and a sincere effort on our part to bring in people who are experts on affirmative action can only help."

Commission members agreed that the seminar should include workshops on the broad question of affirmative action by experts in the field as well as training on local goals and plans to achieve them.

"Nothing can be more significant than having the town manager come in and say that we are committed to these goals and those who assist us will be rewarded," commission member Carl Chauburn said.

Werber said the program will be aimed at all levels of supervisory personnel, from department heads to the front-line level.

"It gets down to the accountability and responsibility of lower-level people," Werber said. The seminars should include discussion of what their role is in an affirmative action program, he said.

Earlier in the commission meeting, member Robin Fisher, reporting on the preliminary work of the Affirmative Action Subcommittee, said that Manchester's program suffers from a lack of definition or responsibilities.

"Affirmative action was something that was developed to make parties responsible," Fisher said. "You can't really do it without making all the parties understand what affirmative action is that it implies someone is accountable."

Fisher said the program fails to clearly define who is responsible for trying to attract minorities to Manchester's work force.

Commission member Frank Livingston commented, "Everybody's looking at it as somebody else's problem, but it's not. It's everyone's problem."

Demographers testify today

By Paul Hendrie
Herald Reporter

HARTFORD — Defense attorneys in the discrimination lawsuit against Manchester will call two noted demographers as witnesses today, to rebut plaintiffs' charges that minorities are reluctant to move to town because they feel unwelcome.

Defense attorney Thomas Fitzgerald said Tuesday that Dr. Thomas Stear of the University of Connecticut and Dr. Calvin Goldscheider of Brandeis and Brown Universities will be offered as expert witnesses.

Both specialize in demography. Demography is the study of what groups of people live where.

Legal aid and Justice Department lawyers are pressing the lawsuit which charges Manchester's 1979 decision, mandated by referendum, to withdraw from the Community Development Block Grant program was racially-motivated.

A series of plaintiffs' witnesses testified that Manchester has a reputation throughout the Hartford area of being hostile toward minorities. These witnesses said blacks are reluctant to move to Manchester because of the reputation.

This testimony was backed by the plaintiffs' expert witness, Dr. Kenneth Clark, a noted black social psychologist whose testimony in the historic Brown versus Board of Education trial helped the Supreme Court reach its decision to strike down segregation schools.

In the Manchester case, Dr. Clark testified that studies show blacks are reluctant to move to suburban areas where they feel unwelcome.

Attorney Fitzgerald said today's witnesses will challenge that testimony, at least as it applies to Manchester. He said the demographers will show that more blacks have been moving to Manchester in recent years than any other area suburb except Windsor.

Fitzgerald said the defense believes image is not an important factor when people decide where they will live.

He said the issue of image's effect on human migration is a central argument of the plaintiffs' case.

Dr. Stear is an assistant professor of demography in the Rural Sociology department at the University of Connecticut.

Fitzgerald described Dr. Goldscheider as "perhaps the leading expert in his field."

Defense attorney Dominic Squatrito told the court that, "in terms of migration patterns of human beings, this might be a central issue, the whole idea of what are key factors in why people make a choice of destination."

When cross-examining Dr. Clark, Squatrito challenged the validity of the testimony because the witness was not an expert in the field.

Defense attorneys said they expect to conclude their case Thursday.

Human Rights Week to spotlight Holocaust

MANCHESTER — In connection with the 40th anniversary of the attack on Pearl Harbor, the Human Relations Commission plans to use the Holocaust as the focus of this year's Human Rights Week.

It seems an appropriate time to focus on that particular event, 40 years after the beginning of World War II," commission member Mary Ann Roy said.

The commission enthusiastically supported Mrs. Roy's suggestion that the Holocaust be used as the focal point of the annual celebration of Human Rights Week which takes place in December.

The Holocaust, Adolph Hitler's systematic attempt to eliminate the Jewish population of Europe in which millions of Jews were killed in concentration camps, will serve as a starting point for the discussion of human rights.

Mrs. Roy said.

Commemorating the Holocaust shows the "danger of hatred and prejudice and ignorance," she said.

Commission member Roy Craddock commented that the subject can be tied into the current rise of the Ku Klux Klan. "Forty years later we're not that far from a similar thing," he said.

Last year's celebration of Human Rights Week included speakers and a church service, with a choir and a candle-lighting ceremony. Schools, town organizations and the public libraries were also encouraged to participate in related activities.

Shop Volunteer

MANCHESTER — For nearly 30 years, visitors to Manchester Memorial Hospital have stopped at the Auxiliary Gift Shop to select a card or a gift for their hospitalized friends and relatives.

On Thursday, the Gift Shop will celebrate its 30th year of service to the community and to the patients. During that time, the shop has become an integral part of the hospital, noted for the helpfulness of the volunteers who work there and for the wide variety of items available.

The Gift Shop is sponsored by the auxiliary of the hospital, which was responsible for its founding back in 1951. Today, the Gift Shop is actually two shops, the main shop located just off the entrance lobby of the hospital, and the Bright Spot, located on the ground floor of the Central Building. In addition, the Shopper's Wagon, with items from the shop, visits patient units every day, seven days a week.

In honor of its anniversary, the shop is sponsoring a two-day Anniversary Sale in the Bright Spot today and tomorrow. The celebration will be officially noted at a reception tomorrow, at 11:15 a.m. with Irma Harrison, a long-time volunteer in the shop, cutting the cake.

"The Gift Shop has been very close to my heart," explains Mrs. Harrison, who began volunteering in the shop in April 1952, less than a year after it opened. She remains a volunteer today, and is the volunteer with the longest tenure in the shop.

"It's been a great part of my life," continues Mrs. Harrison, who manages to put in at least three hours of donated time each week at the shop. "I've been impressed by its growth over the years and have had wonderful associations with the other volunteers and managers in the shop."

When Mrs. Harrison first started 29 years ago, the shop was just a long counter with display cases that opened into the main lobby. Although located on part of the space occupied by the shop today, the shop then was basically a window with no walk-in space. Initially, it sold only a few articles and gift items and had a less extensive selection of magazines and cards.

The shop's opening, however, created favorable impression in the community, with newspapers praising the "most attractive arrangements designed to present the wide and careful selection of merchandise." The showcases and shelves, donated by the House and Hale Department Store, were finished in maple.

"The Gift Shop was popular from the first day it opened," recalls Mrs. Harrison. "We had many requests for items and needed more space to display them." So the shop expanded through the years, until it too outgrew the location in the main lobby.

In 1971, the Bright Spot was opened to provide more display space for merchandise. It was started as a Christmas Shop," explains Ruth Edwards, assistant manager of the shop, "just to display holiday items. But it proved so successful and popular that we kept it open as an additional shop."

"The public really appreciate the Gift Shop," says Mrs. Harrison. "The people find it very handy to buy a gift there or to buy a necessity for a patient, such as a comb or toothpaste or cologne."

Among the items on sale in the shop are candy, flowers, cards, lingerie, slippers, sleepwear, stuffed animals, toys and puzzles, writing paper, wrapping paper, magazines, jewelry, toiletries, baby items, pewter, candles, cookbooks, brass, casserole dishes, mugs, place settings and many, many more.

"I've seen the Gift Shop grow from the beginning," Mrs. Harrison says, "and followed along as new sections helped it grow. I'm looking forward to the expanded space that will be available to use in the new Gift Shop in the new Main Entrance Administration building to be built as part of the hospital's expansion project."

Mrs. Harrison also thanked the auxiliary for their support of the shop and praised the hard work done by the various Gift Shop chairmen of the auxiliary and their committees over the years. Since the shop first opened, it has given an impressive total of $302,600 to the auxiliary in support of the auxiliary's many projects at the hospital.

"I enjoy this job," she concludes. "Thank goodness you don't have to retire volunteers. I look forward to coming in every Friday. You get a sense of doing something for the hospital and the patient — that's the main reason for coming here."

Red Cross mark 100th

MANCHESTER — This week the American Red Cross will celebrate its 100th birthday.

The Red Cross, a humanitarian movement, was born in Europe during wartime and its ideals of voluntary service to others was put into action in this country in 1881. Headed by Clara Barton, who was later to be known as "The Angel of the Battlefield", and a small group of associates, Red Cross began providing aid to victims of disasters and other calamities.

Throughout the years the American Red Cross has grown in scope but its aims remain the same — to improve the quality of human life.

The Manchester-Bolton Branch plans to celebrate this historic occasion Friday, when the Bloodmobile will be stationed at St. James School, 72 Park St. from 12:30 to 5:30 p.m.

As of today, Manchester is within only 189 pints of reaching its goal of 50,000 pints of donated blood and with the next visit this total may be reached. Plans have been made to award a suitable memento to the donor of the 50,000th pint of blood.

The quest for blood, since then, Manchester has rated near the top in blood collections even when compared to much larger communities.

And so, after 31 years Manchester is about to reach one milestone — the collection of its 50,000th pint of blood and embark toward its 100,000th pint!

All are invited to join us at the Bloodmobile May 22 for a piece of cake and say Happy Birthday to Red Cross.

Drug charges lodged

NEW HAVEN (UPI) — State and local police have begun rounding up 40 suspects on drug selling charges in what was described as greater New Haven's largest drug raid in recent years.

By mid-afternoon Tuesday, 28 of the 40 people named in Superior Court warrants over the past few days were arrested by officers from the Statewide Narcotics Task Force working with New Haven and suburban police.

The drug-raid sweeps were largest in the New Haven area. In several years, said state police Lt. Joseph Faughnan, commander of the task force.

The arrests started at 6:30 a.m. in the New Haven suburbs of East Haven, Branford and North Guilford with the suspects taken to West Haven Superior Court. Arrests later in the day centered in New Haven.

Most of those arrested range in age from 25 to 40 and were charged with the sale of heroin or cocaine. Several were charged with the sale of marijuana or a controlled substance.

Joseph Perillo, 39, of East Haven, who was charged with sale of a patient medicine, was also charged with professional gambling and possession of gambling records after police confiscated $16,000 in cash at his home.

Police said another man, whose name wasn't available, was arrested with 24 bags of heroin in his possession.

The drug raids stemmed from a 10-month investigation following a series of drug overdose cases reported last summer in the New Haven area.

The overdoses affected between 20 and 40 people last summer, averaging about five per weekend, said Adam Berluti, a state police spokesman.

Governor won't back tax relief

HARTFORD (UPI) — Gov. William O'Neill has turned thumbs down on pleas from community leaders for his direct support of a measure designed to provide tax relief for property owners.

"No, I will not," O'Neill bluntly told leaders of property tax reform groups from eight communities who had asked for his help Tuesday to petition the so-called classification tax bill onto the Senate floor for debate.

"It's not an administration bill, I'm not going to work for its passage," said O'Neill, who did agree to "talk with the leadership to see how they stand on the issue."

Members of the United Connecticut Action for Neighborhoods who met with O'Neill said Sen. William DiBella, D-Hartford, who has been pushing for the bill, had support from "14 or 15 senators" to bring out the measure.

The bill must be petitioned out of because the Legislature's Finance, Revenue and Bonding Committee killed the measure despite heavy lobbying by citizen groups and numerous rallies around the state.

O'Neill said he was concerned with the impact such a bill would have on business and industry. "I'm concerned about jobs and I'm not convinced this might be the right route," he said.

He also reminded the group that the state has pumped millions of dollars into local governments to help relieve Connecticut's heavy property tax burden.

Mrs. Brigitte Poulin, chairwoman of the property tax committee of Hartford Areas Rally Together, said there was "documented proof" that tax shifts had occurred from commercial and industrial realty to residential property.

An example, she said, was some 550 acres of prime land owned by Combustion Engineering in Windsor. "The land is assessed at $2,165 an acre, you can't even buy swamp land at that price," she told O'Neill.

David Caschetto of the Citizens of Milford Beach Assessment Trap, told the governor the bill sought to establish four classes under which local boards would be able to establish different tax assessment rates.

They would include residential property with less than three units, residential property with three or more units, industrial property and commercial property.

"This will not cost the state one dime," he said. "All we are asking in the bill is to give local boards options."

Paul Aust, president of Citizens for Action in New Britain, said he had documented evidence of a tax shift in New Britain since 1974 which has grown continually.

Mrs. Poulin said while the property tax on her Hartford home has risen 105 percent over 10 years, "The Travelers Insurance Co.'s lower assessment has risen by only 4 percent."

"We are the new working poor," she said, noting that many property owners on fixed incomes in Hartford were paying as much as $250 a month for their property taxes.

Also attending the meeting were representatives from Hamden, Bridgeport, New Haven and Thomaston.

Gov. William O'Neill swore in two new members of the Connecticut Freedom of Information Commission Tuesday. The Rev. Curtis McKinley Coffield, of New Haven and Robert J. Leoney, Bethany, editor of the New Haven Register. Leoney succeeded the late William Clew of Hadam and Coffield, pastor of Immanuel Baptist Church in New Haven, replaced John E. Rogers of Manchester, who resigned from the commission. (UPI photo)

More charges likely

NEW HAVEN (UPI) — Authorities say more indictments are likely in a federal grand jury probe of alleged racketeering and illegal gambling that has already netted four arrests, including a reputed associate of New York's Carlo Gambino crime family.

The last arrest came Tuesday when Thomas DeBrizzi, 58, of Bridgeport surrendered to federal authorities on a charge he conspired with two other suspects to impede the grand jury's investigation.

Also named in the indictment were Albert Testa of Shelton and Frank Piccolo, 58, who is believed by authorities to be a chief Connecticut associate of the Gambino crime syndicate.

The indictments were returned last week in U.S. District Court but ordered sealed until all of the arrests were made. U.S. Attorney Richard Blumenthal said the investigation "into racketeering, illegal gambling and other violations of criminal law is continuing very actively with a likelihood of additional indictments and arrests."

Bill protested

Group says anti-cult bill threatens religious rights

HARTFORD (UPI) — An adult's constitutional right to freedom of religion is endangered by so-called "anti-cult" legislation pending before the Connecticut House, religious and civil libertarian leaders have warned.

"Thank God that all the religious groups in the state of Connecticut have joined together in an ecumenical solidarity in opposition to this bill," Theodore James, a Fairfield University professor of philosophy, said Tuesday.

The bill would allow a probate court to appoint a temporary guardian for a person who shows a wide variety of personality changes after joining a group that practices "in-discriminational thought reform."

"Enactment of this bill will take us back to the witchcraft days," James said. The Catholic Archdiocese of Hartford and Episcopal Diocese of Connecticut, as well as Baptist, Methodist, and Seventh Day Adventist churches, have expressed opposition to the bill.

"Really what this bill says is someone may not have their own beliefs," said Rep. Richard Tulliano, D-Rocky Hill, co-chairman of the Legislature's Judiciary Committee.

Rep. Michael Helligott, D-Willington, said "an attack on anybody's rights is an attack on everybody's rights."

Rep. Thomas Ritter, D-Hartford, said some of his colleagues have said "I know this is a terrible bill but I hate the Moonies," referring to the Rev. Sun Myung Moon's Unification Church.

Supporters have said the bill is aimed at helping those who were caught up in cult brainwashing and need to be deprogrammed.

Burglary measure amended
HARTFORD (UPI) — Buyers of precious stones and metals would have to hold the items for seven days to determine if they were stolen under an amended bill approved by the Connecticut Senate.
The Senate added three amendments to the bill before approving it Tuesday and sending it back to the House for another vote.
The bill was drawn up as the result of a rash of burglaries involving the theft of silver and gold and prompted by the skyrocketing prices paid for the precious metals.
The Senate version of the bill would exempt transactions of $500 or less with the exception of goods sold at public auctions. It would also exclude broker dealers or agents.
Purchasers who would be required to hold the items for seven days in their original condition are those who do business in a tent, booth, building or other structure that is open less than nine months in a year.
Also approved by the Senate Tuesday and sent to the governor were bills to:
-Direct the state Income Maintenance and Health Services departments to compile a study by Dec. 31 on the impact of nursing home waiting lists of those seriously ill patients in the community.
-Allow a woman accused of fathering a woman's child to contest the issue of paternity before a court can impose support obligations on him.

House kills dirty oil ban

HARTFORD (UPI) — House lawmakers, faced with flip sides of an environmental safety question, have killed a bill to ban Northeast Utilities from burning waste oil laced with a potential carcinogen in Connecticut.

The bill, which was shot down on 79-70 vote Tuesday, would have required Northeast to ship the contaminated oil to incinerators in Texas and Arkansas which meet federal environmental standards.

Northeast began burning waste mineral oil laced with polychlorinated biphenyls, or PCBs, at its Connecticut River plant in Middletown this year. The city is appealing a Superior Court ruling which allowed the burning.

"I'm willing to raise a citizens' energy costs a few pennies if it might save a few lives," said Rep. Robert Sorensen, D-Meriden, who cited a list of adverse health effects and birth defects linked to PCBs. Rep. David Lavine, D-Durham, unsuccessfully urged his colleagues to approve the bill and "protect the environment, the health and safety of the citizens of the state."

"We know PCBs pose a serious health hazard," Lavine said. "The question is what is the best and safest way to dispose of this hazard." A string of Republicans argued it was safer to burn the PCBs in the Middletown plant, which has been approved for the job by state and federal environmental officials, than to transport the oil across the nation.

"You are talking about a catastrophic option," said Rep. Julie Belaga, R-Westport. Rep. Beatrice Murdoch, R-Avon, said the burning method was "safe" and represented the "use of a recycled material for conservation."

Rep. Richard Beiden, R-Shelton, said Connecticut already had among the highest energy costs in the nation and the additional expense to Northeast would send utility bills even higher.

O'Neill gets bill to end minimum markup

HARTFORD (UPI) — Connecticut consumers could say farewell to minimum markup and ring in next year with lower liquor and beer prices under a bill sent to Gov. William O'Neill Jr. by his signature.

The House took final action Tuesday on a compromise bill to repeal the state's minimum markup law for liquor and beer prices effective Jan. 1, 1982 and do away with minimum markups on wine as of Jan. 1, 1983.

The bill approved on a 125-17 vote would repeal the 46-year-old liquor pricing system which requires package stores and wholesalers to set prices at specific percentages above their costs.

Rep. Robert Carragher, D-Hartford, said the bill achieved its intent "to repeal minimum markup and lower the price to the consumer" after months of haggling and heavy lobbying by the liquor industry.

He said the bill provided several safeguards to protect the so-called "Mom and Pop" package stores, including a 5-year moratorium on issuance of new liquor permits above their costs.

The House passed an even though minimum markup bill earlier this session, but it ran into trouble in the Senate, where high-powered lobbyists and hordes of package store owners tried to kill the measure.

The amended bill finally cleared the Senate last week. It now goes to O'Neill.

The repeal should significantly decrease retail alcoholic beverage prices in Connecticut.

Rep. Robert Sorensen, D-Meriden, who originally sponsored retaining minimum markup, said the compromise measure addressed his concerns about the plight of the small package store.

"We are not only going to bring down the price of liquor in this state, we are going to be protecting the small businessman," he said.

The bill also modifies wholesaler-retailer agreements and provides for border state affirmation for beer which means beer producers can not sell their products at a higher price in Connecticut than in New York, Massachusetts or Rhode Island.

The last legislative attempt to repeal minimum markup, which took effect in the late 1950s, was in 1978.

Legislative leaders looking for new revenue sources to make up a projected budget deficit revived the minimum markup repeal effort this year.

Proponents said Connecticut's high prices sent consumers to neighboring states to purchase their booze and the state was losing valuable tax dollars.

By LEN AUSTER

Off to a flying start, Manchester High never looked back as it whipped Windham High, 90-64, yesterday at Pete Wigren Track to lay claim to the 1981 CCIL boys' track championship.

"I expected it (the meet) to be a little bit closer," remarked first-year Tribe Coach George Sutor, "but we got off to a real good jump at the start of the meet."

The Indians took 1-3 in the javelin

(Leon Bottrorn, Jay Higley), 1-3 (Butch Wemmell, Bill Brown) in the long jump and captured the 4 X 100-meter relay in the early phase of the meet en route to victory.

Manchester winds up 8-0 in CCIL competition and is 11-0 overall heading into Saturday's finale against cross-town East Catholic at Wigren Track. Windham slips to 7-1 in the league and 10-1 overall with the setback.

There were several personal bests turned in by Manchester trackers.

Higley in gaining second in the 5,000-meter run while sophomore Gary Gates had a 4:13.33 clocking in securing second in the 1,500. Peter Murphy and Dave Parrott sandwiched Windham's Harold Giel in a tight finish in the 800-meter run with the two Indians dented in 2:03.2. Kiehl was one-tenth of a second behind in third.

Dave Christensen turned in a good 23.9 in securing the 200-yard dash while Andy Wickwire, a converted distance runner, had a leap of 12.30 meters, about 40-feet, 4-inches, in taking second in the triple jump.

"I wasn't sure if we could win the league but I knew we had a lot of good kids," Sutor talked about the thought we might be weak.

Funds missing

MERIDEN (UPI) — The chairman of a local fundraising drive for victims of last year's Italian earthquakes has been charged with larceny in connection with the alleged misallocation of money donated to the drive.

Pino Parisi, 35, was arrested after a nearly two-month police investigation launched after members of the committee overseeing the drive complained about possible embezzlement of funds.

Parisi, who was released Monday on a written promise to appear in Superior Court, was one of two co-chairmen of the Italian Relief Fund — Meriden, Southington and Wallingford. He has denied any mis-handling of the funds.

Police said Parisi allegedly transferred about $2,000 from the relief fund bank account to his personal checking account.

The relief efforts were established last November after earthquakes devastated the Naples area of southern Italy.

Group to study roof alternative

By Hilary Rosenberg
Herald Reporter

MANCHESTER — The Building Committee Tuesday night postponed a decision on the type of roof that will be used to replace the leaky roof at Manchester High School in order to investigate an alternative to the proposed membrane roof.

William Dion, superintendent of buildings and grounds for the schools, raised concerns about using a rubber membrane roof laid over insulation and ballasted with stone which committee members agreed was "acceptable" Tuesday night.

Dion said he was worried the weight of the stones added to the weight of rain or snow could threaten the stability of the roof. In addition, he anticipated difficulty locating leaks in one of the concrete areas below the loosely laid insulation, he said.

He requested the committee study any alternatives to this method. He suggested a roofing procedure in which the insulation is sealed to the deck and the rubber membrane sealed to the insulation. When committee members expressed doubt about the feasibility of this method, Dion suggested trying it and ballasting later with stones if it doesn't work.

Architect Charles Gunnels of Russell, Gibson, Von Dohlen Inc. of Farmington assured the roof could easily withstand the stones. However, the committee agreed to check into the feasibility of Dion's idea "to satisfy everyone," committee chairman Paul Phillips said.

Phillips insisted Dion's suggestion would mean a greater expense and a less secure guarantee from the manufacturer than the originally proposed method.

Once information on Dion's suggested roofing method is obtained, a special meeting of the committee will be called to make a final decision on the type of roof that will be used. "It's very important that we get things solved as soon as possible," Phillips said.

He said the project needs to be ready to go out to bid by the beginning of June when the Legislature makes its ruling on the disbursement of state funds.

The Legislature has said preliminarily that it can reimburse the town $1.9 million for the project, leaving $3.6 million to be financed by the town.

Also at the meeting Tuesday, Phillips delivered a report on experiments committee member Theunis Werkhoven has conducted on the three brands of rubber membrane roofing.

After testing each brand for its durability in humidity, freezing temperatures and dry heat, Werkhoven concluded the three brands, Firestone, General Tire and Carlisle Tire are comparable in quality. Contractors bidding for the project will be required to use materials from one of these three companies.

School dollars

HARTFORD (UPI) — The House has formalized the budget line item which pumps $306 million into Connecticut's education funding formula in the fiscal year.

The bill, which was sent to the Senate Tuesday on a 108-36 vote, finances the complicated school aid equalization plan at 71 percent of the full funding five-year phase-in formula.

The formula was scheduled to be funded at 78 percent, which would have cost about $360 million and was used by budget-minded legislative leaders earlier this year.

A judge in 1977 ordered the Legislature to revamp the way Connecticut funds its public schools, ruling the former school aid system which relied heavily on local property taxes was unconstitutional.

Opposes nukes

HAMPTON (UPI) — Local residents say the U.S. Soviet nuclear arms race has gone far enough, and they decided to do something about it.

The Town Meeting voted 120-4 Tuesday night to call on Connecticut's congressional delegation to sponsor a resolution for a joint arms freeze between the two superpowers.

Our two families got together and we decided to do something," said Caroline Gaines, who sponsored the vote along with former selectman Wendell Davis. "We talked to other people in town about it, and we got other people to help us. It didn't take much convincing."

Mrs. Gaines said she wasn't sure how much of an effect the community of 1,400 could have on international affairs but she was hoping other Connecticut communities would follow its lead.

It is a way of communicating to the Congress that there are people who haven't given them a mandate for increasing money for nuclear arms," she said.

Sumislaski singled, Bill Herth bunted for a hit and Bob Piccin was safe on a fielder's choice that loaded the bases.

Britnell grounded out for one runner and Mike Oleksinski's suicide squeeze which eluded Knight pitcher Scott Garen to the third base side of the mound plated Herth.

Two more runs were added in the Indian fourth. Peck doubled to left centerfield and took third on a Sumislaski single. Herth singled home one run and Piccin rapped another RBI single.

Spears, Dave Quessel and Peck grouped singles in the fifth for another run while in the eighth inning Sumislaski singled, Herth blooped a Texas League single to left and Britnell drilled a sacrifice fly to right for the final difference.

"This was the 27th win and so we're in. I'd like to keep winning to win the tournament with a winning attitude. The key is to try to be consistent," voiced Peck, who has seen his club be inconsistent most of the campaign.

Spears hurls shutout

Sumislaski singled, Bill Herth bunted for a hit and Bob Piccin was safe on a fielder's choice that loaded the bases.

Britnell grounded out for one runner and Mike Oleksinski's suicide squeeze which eluded Knight pitcher Scott Garen to the third base side of the mound plated Herth.

Two more runs were added in the Indian fourth. Peck doubled to left centerfield and took third on a Sumislaski single. Herth singled home one run and Piccin rapped another RBI single.

Spears, Dave Quessel and Peck grouped singles in the fifth for another run while in the eighth inning Sumislaski singled, Herth blooped a Texas League single to left and Britnell drilled a sacrifice fly to right for the final difference.

"This was the 27th win and so we're in. I'd like to keep winning to win the tournament with a winning attitude. The key is to try to be consistent," voiced Peck, who has seen his club be inconsistent most of the campaign.

Tourney berth for MHS nine

With a second shutout in as many days, this one a six-hit outing by Shawn Spears, Manchester High qualified for the state baseball tourney by blanking Penney High, 7-0, yesterday at Kelley Field.

The victory ups the Silk Toppers to 10-8 for the season and guarantees them a post-season berth. The Black Knights slip to 9-10 and must top cross-town East Hartford High today to qualify for the tournament.

The whitewashing was Spears' third of the season and Manchester's fifth. He walked only two and struck out seven in improving his mark to 5-2.

"Shawn has some excellent wins and this was one of the better ones. He was in command from the start," cited Tribe Coach Don Race. Manchester played the only run it needed in the second. Alec Britnell boomed a leadoff triple to centerfield and scored on Paul Peck's two-out single to left.

The locals added two more markers in the third. Don

Managers ejected in Yankee win

NEW YORK (UPI) — There's usually one happy manager and one not-so-happy manager. But this time, both managers had nothing to smile about after the game.

Jim Spencer crashed a two-run homer and Oscar Gamble added a solo shot Tuesday night to lift the New York Yankees to a 6-5 victory over the Kansas City Royals, in a game which saw both New York Manager Gene Michael and Kansas City Manager Jim Frey ejected.

But neither went quietly, each putting on a post-ejection show which drew raves from the crowd. And if that wasn't enough, the game was played under protest by Yankees coach Yogi Berra, who claimed that Frey was in the dugout runway after his ejection. Frey was ejected from the game in the sixth inning, when he went into a wild dirt-kicking spree after arguing with homeplate umpire Dale Ford over a strike call to Willie Wilson. Frey kicked dirt on Ford's shoes and home plate before hurling his hat into the air and kicking it.

"Insofar as protests, they don't mean anything," said Frey, who has watched his American League champions get off to a 9-20 start, trailing the Western Division-leading Oakland A's by 11 games.

But neither went quietly, each putting on a post-ejection show which drew raves from the crowd. And if that wasn't enough, the game was played under protest by Yankees coach Yogi Berra, who claimed that Frey was in the dugout after arguing a trap call by Ford that was overruled by third-base umpire Joe Brinkman. The play could have been crucial, but New York reliever Ron Davis worked his way out of a none-out, bases-loaded situation.

"He (Ford) made the call right away," Michael said. "I just couldn't believe it. It was his call and he called him (Frank White) out. We wind up with both runners safe, (John) Wathan on second. It stinks. He said he got blocked out. I don't buy that. The play was right in front of him. It bothers me the way the play was handled."

With Kansas City leading 4-4 in the fifth, Craig Nettles led off with a single. Spencer, batting only .115 entering the game, belted a 3-and-2 pitch off reliever Rene Martin, 0-1, off the facing of the upper deck in right field to make it 6-5.

"I got batting practice today and I was keeping my eyes on the field. After a while you ask yourself, 'Can I hit anymore?' You just have to take it one at a time and concentrate."

The Yankees, who trailed 5-0 in the third, scored a run in the inning when Dave Winfield grounded into a double play, allowing Willie Randolph to score. New York added three runs in the fifth on Gamble's leadoff homer, his sixth blast of the year. Winfield's sacrifice fly and Winfield's bases-loaded walk.

The Royals scored three runs in the second off starter Rudy May on Chalk's RBI single. Kansas City went ahead 5-0 in the third on a sacrifice fly by Hal McRae and an RBI single by Wathan.

Doug Bird, 3-0, who relieved May in the third inning, picked up the victory, while Ron Davis, who pitched the final two innings, earned his third save. Davis struck out the side in the ninth and now leads the AL in K's with 42.

"My job is to keep Goose (ace reliever Rich Gossage) out of there as long as I can," Davis said. "Gene told me I was going to be the pitcher tonight and that he was giving him a night off. It was my game to save."

and four Bulldog errors. It added six runs in the second on three hits with a big blow a Brian Eaton two-run homer on the road and are at Bacon Academy Thursday and must win both to qualify for the state tournament.

Bolton dropped to 1-14.

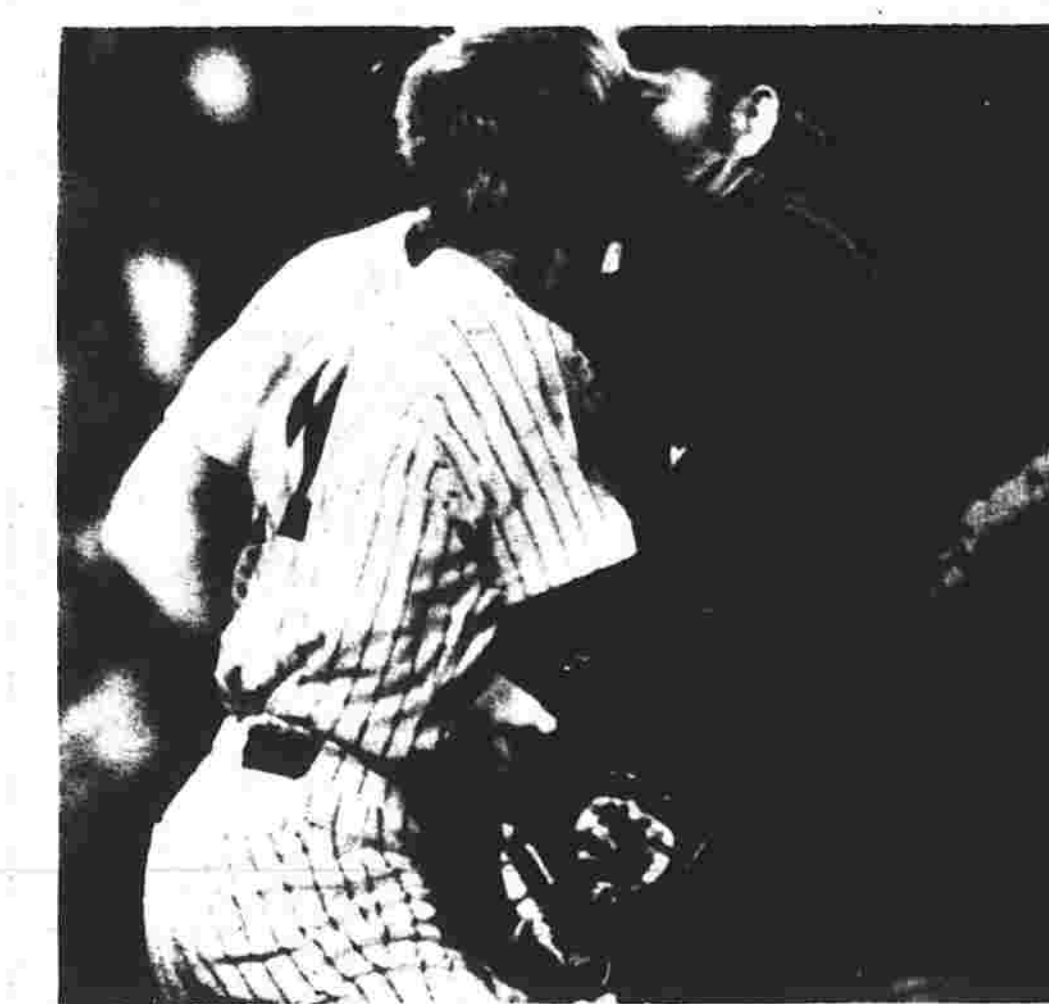

"We needed a big win today and getting the large lead early helped our morale quite a bit," voiced Tech Coach Rich Busick.

Cheney scored four times in the first on three walks, a passed ball and the first and fourth innings. Sophomore Tom Kaminski gained his fifth win without a loss for Cheney. He hurled a five-inning, striking out five and walking one. He has allowed only seven earned runs in 40 innings.

Shutout by Tanana raises RSox hopes

BOSTON (UPI) — Seattle Mariners Manager Rene Lachemann says Boston Red Sox pitcher Frank Tanana, who recorded his 25th career win with a five-hitter Tuesday night, has proven "he can pitch."

Carl Yastrzemski and Tony Perez knocked in two runs each to help Tanana and the Red Sox to a 4-0 triumph over the Mariners.

"You won't win any games when you don't score any runs," Lachemann said. "I remember Tanana as a hard thrower, but tonight he showed me that he can pitch."

Tanana, acquired from California in a big off-season deal, finally notched his first victory in a Red Sox uniform by striking out a season-high eight batters and allowing only two.

"I've got to drive with my legs more," Tanana said. "I'm talking about power pitching. My strike was 7 or 8 feet tonight and I was getting full extensions."

"I'd certainly like to pitch that way all the time. And if healthy,

Girls maintain win skein

Manchester High girls' softball team maintained its winning ways with a 13-2 romp over Penney High yesterday in CCLL play in East Hartford.

The Indians, 12-5, close out their regular season today against Windham High in Willimantic.

Nancy Curtin hurled a three-hitter, walking five and striking out three for her fourth win of the season.

Carol Mumford had a single and double and four RBI to pace the Indians attack. Karen Wright added two singles and two RBI and Goppeanne Eberhard and Shana Hergestead each chipped in two safeties and an RBI for the Indians.

Manchester scored three times in the first, two more in the third and three runs in the fourth. Penney in the interim managed only a run in the fifth inning.

The Indians added a run in the fifth and closed out the scoring with a four-run seventh.

Penney slipped to 8-9 with the loss and tripled and Pam Gurney added a double and three triples for the young Indians.

Manchester's jayvees remained unbeaten with a 17-6 win over Penney. Kathy Bran gained the win for the 17-0 Indians. Tammy Kleperis homered and singled twice. Pam Calhoun singled twice, doubled and tripled and Pam Gurney added a double and three triples for the young Indians.

Last night's softball results

WINNERS HAD 30 HITS, FOUR EACH BY Deb Gurski and Millie Valentine. Barbara Fink and Ann Kvasdas added three each and Mary Boyko, Simone Calhoun, Kay Enary, Ruth Nye and Tracy Tracy were in the two-hit group for Mart. No Beauty player had two hits.

NIKE
Making 14 hits count for 10 runs, Mota's trimmed Johnson Insurance Nike, 10-2, as Bob Wilson and Bill Lodge each stroked three hits. Tom Reiser and Pat McCabe added two blows each. Steve Hasher, Walt Sikowski and Pat Collett each banged out two hits for Johnson.

WEST SIDE
Four runs in each of the last two games enabled Red-Lee to tack on a 11-7 loss on Ward at Pagan. Brian Carter, Fred Rothhammer, Jack Hayes, Gaylon Gagnon, and Matt Kennedy each came up with two hits in the win while Kiki Boreau led Ward with three and Alan Lehrer and Vin Nadasy had two each.

Only one man reached second

That's the way I'm going to pitch. It's just a matter of how I pitch.

Seattle had only one man reach second base, and that came in the third, when Dave Henderson led off with a walk and was singled to second by catcher Terry Bulling.

But, according to Lachemann, Henderson's walk was a fluke.

"You won't win any games when you don't score any runs," Lachemann said. "I remember Tanana as a hard thrower, but tonight he showed me that he can pitch."

Base hit spoils Bibby bid for perfect game

BY FRED McMANE
UPI Sports Writer

Jim Bibby used to put the "heat" on the opposition to get results, now he uses his cold knowledge of the hitters to stay in command.

Using his book on the Atlanta Braves to perfection, Bibby came within a pool cue shot Tuesday night of pitching the second perfect game in the major leagues in four days.

Terry Harper, who smacked a first-inning leadoff single — a soft liner off the end of the bat which resembled a billiard shot — turned out to be the only baserunner the Braves were able to get off the Pittsburgh Pirates' righthander, who retired the last 27 batters in order en route to a 5-0 triumph.

"I'm excited about it, but I'm not going to jump up and click my heels together. I'd have felt the same way if we'd won 2-1," said Bibby, 22, after his triumph at Pittsburgh snapping the Pirates' three-game losing streak. "It just felt good to win."

Bibby was a member of the Texas Rangers when he pitched another one-hitter against Kansas City in 1973. That same year he tossed a no-hitter against Oakland and a two-hitter against California.

During that era, however, Bibby got the batters out with a blazing fastball that he estimates he threw at 100 miles per hour or better. Nowadays, he's strictly a control pitcher who relies on a cool head and savvy to get his outs.

"I think my fastball was about 60 mph tonight," Bibby joked. "I had that feeling that I was in control. Sometimes you know when you can throw to the inside corner or the outside part of the plate. And tonight I could tell I could hit the corner, throw the ball where I wanted to. Even when I got behind a big hitter

Caldwell lives up to form hurling Brewers' triumph

By United Press International
If Mike Caldwell could begin every game in the third inning, they'd be waiting for him in Cooperstown.

The veteran left-hander, who has a reputation as a slow starter and a strong finisher, lived up to form Tuesday night, getting roughed up a bit in the first two innings before settling down to pitch the Milwaukee Brewers to a 4-3 victory over the fading Minnesota Twins.

"One of the problems I have is trying to get through the early innings," Caldwell said. "Once I get through that, I usually go all the way. Sometimes I go out there and I get too pumped up. I throw the ball too hard and the next pitches don't break."

Cecil Cooper belted a two-run homer and Ted Simmons cracked a solo shot to help the Brewers hand the Twins their sixth straight loss.

Simmons slammed his fifth home run of the season to tie the score 1-1 in the second, and with two out in the third Roy Howell doubled and Cooper lined his second homer to

East softballers out

Eliminated from post-season consideration yesterday was the East Catholic girls' softball team as it was blanked, 12-0, by South Windsor High at the Bobcats' diamond.

The Eaglesles slip to 6-9 for the season and close out their campaign today at a make-up tilt against Northwest Catholic at Robertson Park at 3 p.m.

The Bobcats scored five runs in the first inning on one hit and four Eaglelets errors. They added a run in the second, four in the third stanza and single markers in the fifth and sixth innings for their final total.

Luci Hart started and took the loss for East.

The Eaglesles were hurt by seven errors.

East had five hits, two singles by Beisi Frazier leading the way.

Portland blanks Bolton

Tired from a previous encounter, Bolton High could muster only one hit in a 6-0 setback to Portland High in the second half of a split doubleheader yesterday at the Bulldogs' diamond.

The Bulldogs dropped an earlier tilt to Cheney Tech, 12-2.

make a loser of Fernando Arroyo, 3-3. Ed Romero doubled some what proved to be the winning run in the seventh.

Caldwell, 4-4, scattered 12 hits over 8 1/2 innings to get the victory, with Rollie Fingers getting the final out to notch his seventh save.

"We were hitting the ball solid," said Minnesota Manager John Goryl. "We had 13 hits and we should have busted the game wide open. Caldwell is a good pitcher and you have to get good pitchers early when they are struggling."

Minnesota's first run came in the second on consecutive singles by Pete Mackanin, Butch Wynegar and Ron Jackson. John Castino hit a two-run homer in the ninth.

In other games, Boston blanked Seattle 4-0, Baltimore edged Oakland 8-5, Cleveland topped California 7-3, Detroit routed Texas 14-1, Toronto defeated Chicago 9-5, and New York nipped Kansas City 6-5.

Orlando 6, A's 5
At Baltimore, Eddie Murray slammed a solo homer and Jose Morales knocked in two runs to lead

North Stars remain alive

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (UPI) — "I'm sure proud of my guys in there," coach Glen Sonmor said, pointing to the Minnesota North Stars' locker room.

His young players had just upped the defending champion New York Islanders 4-3 after losing the first three games of their best-of-seven Stanley Cup finals. There wasn't much celebrating, but there was plenty of relief about finally winning.

"Winning those six straight road games earlier in the playoffs brought this club together. We believe in each other now," Coach Al Arbour of the Islanders said it was "one heckuva game. To bad we were on the wrong end of the score. They gave a great effort and pulled out all the stops. But my team will be ready on Thursday."

Steve Payne, who scored the winning North Stars goal on a deflection in the third period, said Minnesota has to face it — "New York is still in the driver's seat. We're still in a lot of trouble."

But Bobby Smith, who scored the clinching fourth goal in the last two minutes, said, "We can beat this

Bennet netters lose

Bennet tennis team dropped a 3-4 decision to East Catholic jayvees yesterday at Manchester Community College courts.

Results: Hovance (E) def. Silver-O'Connell 10-9, Driscoll-Gallagher (E) def. Pagan-Knauth 8-6 (B) def. Turbie 10-9, (B) def. Turbie 10-9.

put pressure on them right from the start.

"This team doesn't concede anything. We said before the game we wouldn't give it to them. We didn't think about winning four in a row. That would be mind-boggling. We just said, 'Not tonight, and Thursday night we'll say, 'Not tonight' again and see what happens."

like (Chris) Chambliss. I knew I could go for that outside spot and get it there."

Bibby's hitting was almost as good as his control. He had two doubles in three at-bats, scoring the Pirates' second run in the fifth inning and driving in Steve Nicosia with the fifth run in the sixth off loser Phil Niekro, 2-2.

Elsewhere, St. Louis outlasted Houston 15-12, Cincinnati beat Chicago 5-0, San Diego defeated Montreal 3-1, Philadelphia edged Los Angeles 8-2, and San Francisco topped New York 4-1.

George Mitchell, above, well-known sports promoter who resided in Manchester for years, will be honored tonight along with John Kerashaw and the late Ed Thayer at the Explorers' Hall of Fame dinner at the Marco Polo in East Hartford. For more than a quarter century Mitchell booked numerous attractions to play in Manchester. Dinner is set for 7:30. Speaker will be Tom Penders, Fordham University varsity basketball coach.

Just Ask

Murray Olderman

Q. In regards to your recent comment about basketball players fouling out of games, I would like you to consider the following: change a foul shot to a penalty shot. Treat it in the same manner that a technical shot is treated today. — Bill Glasson, Liberal, Calif.

A. Which means that the team taking the shot automatically keeps possession. It's not an idea that I'm against and would, in fact, cut down the procession to the foul line that hems in basketball as a game of movement. Of course, in college basketball, without a time limit to shoot, it would impose an impossible burden on defense. Conceivably a team might never get the ball. But I agree that the rules of a game are intolerable when fouling becomes a strategy, as it so frequently does late in a game.

Refunders most frequent questions are answered

By Martin Sioane

Can friends put similar refund requests in the same envelope to save postage? This is one of the questions that I recently asked representatives of several of the largest refund-fulfillment houses. They replied that the companies who make refund offers are increasingly instructing them to reject requests from groups.

What is a "group" request? Two or more refund requests in the same envelope could be considered as coming from a group," said a fulfillment-house executive. He advised that refunders play it safe and use separate envelopes.

Refunders often ask about offers that do not state any limitations on duplicate requests — such as one per name, family or address — in the print of their refund forms. Can refunders send for these offers more than once? "Yes," says the fulfillment-house representative. If no limits are printed on the refund form, you should be able to send for the offer several times.

What if a request is rejected as a duplicate because the refund lives in the same house with her mother-in-law who already sent for the offer? Such problems have become fairly common. They can also occur when several refunders live in one apartment building.

The fulfillment houses have procedures to handle these problems. Refunders should write to them explaining the situation. Here is a letter with some good advice on requesting refunds. We will print it in the print of our SHOPPER — I work for a refund-fulfillment company. I thought that our readers might be interested in some advice from one of the people who open the envelopes. Don't put your name and address on a large sheet of paper. An automatic slitting machine opens all the envelopes. When a large sheet of folded paper fills the envelope, the machine often slits the paper at exactly the spot where the name and address are written.

Use a 3-by-5-inch card, instead. Be sure to print your name or use an address label. — Don't tape or staple your proofs to the refund form. This often causes the form to be torn when we remove the proofs.

If you want to be sure that your proofs remain together, tape or staple them to a separate piece of paper. Put your name and address on that paper, too. — If you are sending for different refunds from the same company, send them in separate envelopes, each addressed to the correct post-office box.

MANCHESTER — Senior Methodists of South United Methodist Church will meet Thursday at noon in the reception hall at the church. Members are reminded to bring a sandwich. Beverage and dessert will be served.

YWCA

MANCHESTER — "Turning On the Turned-Off Reader" will be presented at the Natmeg Branch YWCA on Wednesday, May 27, at 9:30 a.m. This talk, focusing on how to unplug children from TV and how to awaken their imaginations to books, will be sponsored by the YWCA Nursery School. Jim Trelasse, author of "The Read-Along Handbook for Parents and Teachers," will share his insights as journalist, illustrator, and teacher, on the joys and fun in books. He has been talking to parents and teachers since the mid-70's, discussing the importance of reading aloud to children. This presentation is open to all, at $2.50 per person, or $2. for YWCA members. Advance reservations may be made by calling the YWCA office at 647-1877. Childcare is available at a slight fee.

The YWCA Nursery School, which offers a two-day and three-day program to children aged three and four, is sponsoring this program in the interests of encouraging parents to develop good attitudes toward reading with their children. The presentation is suited for parents of preschool and elementary age children. The YWCA Nursery School is still accepting registration for the 1981-82 school year. The YWCA is located at 70 No. Main St.

Add bran to breakfast, casseroles

An easy way to incorporate fiber in the diet is to add bran to the foods we already eat.

CARROT SPICE MUFFINS

1 1/2 cups all-purpose flour
1/2 cup unprocessed bran
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cinnamon

1/4 teaspoon soda
1/4 teaspoon baking powder
1/4 teaspoon allspice
1 cup shredded carrots (about 3 carrots)
2/3 cup orange juice
1/3 cup raisins
1/4 cup vegetable oil
1/4 cup firmly packed brown sugar

1 egg
Heat oven to 425°F. Grease 10 medium cups or line with paper liners. In large bowl, combine flour, bran, salt, cinnamon, soda, baking powder and allspice; mix well. Combine remaining ingredients; add to bran mixture, mixing just until dry ingredients are moistened. Fill Prepared muffin cups 2/3 full. Let stand for 5 minutes. Bake for 20 to 25 minutes or until golden brown. Makes 10 muffins.

BRAN-TOPPED CASSEROLE

Topping:

1/4 cup dry bread crumbs
1/4 cup unprocessed bran
1/4 cup butter or margarine, melted
2 tablespoons finely chopped nuts

1/2 cup chopped onion, celery or mushroom soup
1 cup (4 oz.) shredded Swiss, Cheddar or Mozzarella cheese
One 10-oz. pkg. frozen peas, cut green beans or chopped broccoli, thawed, drained
One 4-oz. can mushroom stems and pieces, drained

1 tablespoon dry white wine (optional)
For topping, combine all ingredients; mix well. Heat oven to 350°F. For casserole, combine all ingredients; spoon into 8-inch square baking dish. Sprinkle with topping. Bake for 35 to 40 minutes or until heated through.

Garnish with tomato wedges and fresh parsley. Serve with barley, rice or noodles, if desired. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Easy summer soup meals

Old-Fashioned Chicken Vegetable Soup

6 cups water
3 pounds chicken parts
2 tablespoons original Worcestershire sauce
2 1/2 teaspoons salt
1 cup diagonally sliced carrots
1 cup sliced celery

1 cup chopped onion
1/4 cup alphabet noodles
1 cup sliced zucchini
1 cup fresh or canned corn kernels
1 cup seeded and diced tomato

In a large sauce pot, bring water to boil. Add chicken, Worcestershire sauce and salt. Simmer, covered, for 40 minutes. Remove chicken from pot; set aside to cool for 10 minutes. Pour broth through a fine strainer. Wipe out pot and return broth to pot. (If desired, chill broth and remove fat.) Remove cooled chicken meat from the bones; cut into 1/4-inch pieces. Add chicken to broth along with carrots, celery, onion and noodles. Bring to a boil. Reduce heat and simmer, covered for 7 minutes. Add zucchini and corn; simmer, covered, for 5 minutes. Stir in tomatoes. Cook 5 minutes longer. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 6 portions or 8 cups.

Meatball and Bean Soup

1 pound ground beef
1/4 cup soft bread crumbs
3 tablespoons ketchup
1 egg, lightly beaten
1 teaspoon salt
1 Original Worcestershire sauce
2 tablespoons oil
2 beef bouillon cubes

2 cups boiling water
1 cup carrots cut into 1/2-inch thick slices
1 can (1 pound) baked beans in tomato sauce
1 package (9 ounce) frozen cut green beans
1/2 cup small noodles

In a medium bowl, lightly combine beef, bread crumbs, ketchup, egg, salt and 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce. Shape into about 18 meatballs. In a large skillet, brown meatballs on all sides to the boiling point. Remove meatballs and set aside. In a medium for 10 minutes. Serve with saucapan, dissolve bouillon, hot, crisp Italian bread and cubes in boiling water. Add a green salad, if desired. Carrots, simmer, covered. This kitchen-tested recipe for 10 minutes. Add baked makes 6 portions.

Chicken salads

'Tis the season to be seeing and weeding. Or, if you're not a gardener, it's the season to be delighted with the grocer's colorful array of fresh vegetables.

Pick the tenderest and tastiest from the produce stand and combine them with cold chicken for delectable summer salads that maintain a low calorie profile.

How can you do only 173 calories per serving? This tasty variation on all-American classic is a cinch to prepare. Too that's because it starts with a can of tender chunk chicken, the kind that comes already cooked and boned for use in salads, sandwiches and casseroles.

Here, it's combined with potatoes, hard-cooked egg, green onions and grated carrot. A yummy dressing is created by mixing the broth which accompanies the chicken with yogurt and dill. Make this substantial main-dish-in-a-salad-bowl during the morning and avoid the dinner-time rush. To go along, a selection of cheeses and seasonal fruits.

If you've never tried tossing some chunk salad with your tossed salad, take this opportunity. Mr. MacGregor's Chicken Salad Toss provides a perfectly delicious vegetable. Ingredients include salad greens, sliced cauliflower, julienned beets, sliced red onions and, of course, chicken. Low calorie Italian dressing does its part in keeping the calories down to an appealing 173 per serving.

For a completely different salad experience, turn to Double Chicken Zucchini Aspic. This is a rigorous two-layer affair with a tomato aspic base.

BILED CHICKEN AND POTATO SALAD

- 1 cup (5 ounces) chunk chicken
- 1/2 cup plain yogurt
- 1/2 teaspoon dried dill weed, crushed
- 1/2 teaspoon pepper
- 2 cups cubed cooked potatoes
- 1/2 hard-cooked egg, coarsely chopped
- 1/2 cup diagonally sliced green onions
- 1/2 cup grated carrot
- Drain chicken, reserving broth. Combine broth, yogurt and seasonings. Fold in remaining ingredients. Chill. Serve on salad greens. Makes about 11 cups. 173 calories per serving.

MR. MAC GREGOR'S CHICKEN SALAD TOSS

- 1/2 cup salad greens in bite-size pieces
- 3 cups thinly sliced cauliflower
- 2 cups sliced beets cut in strips
- 1/2 cup thinly sliced red onions
- 2 cans (5 ounces each) chunk white chicken
- 1/2 cup bottled low calorie Italian dressing
- In bowl, combine all ingredients except dressing; toss lightly with dressing. Makes about 11 cups. 173 calories per serving.

DOUBLE CHICKEN ZUCCHINI ASPIC

- 2 cans (5 ounces each) chunk chicken
- 1 can (24 fl. oz.) tomato juice
- 1/2 teaspoon Italian seasoning, crushed
- 1/2 teaspoon garlic powder
- 2 envelopes unflavored gelatin
- 1/2 cup sliced zucchini
- 1/2 cup plain yogurt
- Drain chicken, reserving broth. In saucepan, combine broth, tomato juice and seasonings; sprinkle gelatin over tomato juice mixture to soften. Dissolve slightly, stirring until gelatin is dissolved. Pour about 1/2 cup gelatin mixture into hot pan (9x5x3); chill until slightly firm. Arrange zucchini slices, overlapping slightly, on gelatin mixture. Chill until slightly firm. Meanwhile, combine remaining gelatin mixture and yogurt. Gently fold in chicken. Pour over zucchini layer. Chill until firm. Unmold on salad greens. Makes about 4 1/2 cups. 224 calories per serving.

People Talk

Navel surgeon
Dr. Howard Bellin, the New York plastic surgeon who got national publicity when a woman patient took him to court for misplacing her navel, opened a mini-surgical hospital Tuesday on the penthouse floor of a midtown Madison Avenue office building.

The impressive setup was previewed by several hundred friends of the doctor and his wife, former Countess Christina Passolunghi, at a champagne party given by them on Monday evening.

Everybody oohed and aahed over Bellin's Louis XV desk with its malachite desk set surrounded by photographs of the doctor and his wife with VIPs, including several recent U.S. presidents.

Musical Ties
Supermodel Cheryl Tieg may be marrying photographer Peter Beard on May 24, but she also is expected to pack the Nashville International Raceway May 30 for the fifth annual "One For the Sun" concert. The Allman Brothers headline the all-day event, which this year is dedicated to Vietnam veterans.

Support has been tremendous from the music community. Gov. Lamar Alexander plans to proclaim May 30 "One For the Sun Day" in honor of the vets, says Carl P. Mayfield, who is coordinating the event.

"We plan a special opening ceremony to honor the Vietnam veterans. It will be great and it's about the time we honored them."

Quote of the day
Melissa Gilbert, the 16-year-old star of NBC's "Little House on the Prairie," told talk show host Mike Douglas she didn't have marriage on her mind—she wants to complete her education and become an obstetrician. She explained: "When girls my age think about getting married all they think of is a white gown. They don't realize there's a real world out there that includes cooking, cleaning and taking care of children. And you're making a long-term commitment to live with a person, perhaps even for the rest of your life."

Vietnam vets
Up to 25,000 people are expected to pack the Nashville International Raceway May 30 for the fifth annual "One For the Sun" concert. The Allman Brothers headline the all-day event, which this year is dedicated to Vietnam veterans.

Mickey Spillane at 63: 'a quiet, semi-retired man'
Inc. in New York, where he churned out action hero comic-book characters. "Mike Hammer was originally going to be a comic-book character named Mike Dinger," he said.

But despite huge success with his Mike Hammer books, Spillane said he grew weary of writing adult pulp and decided to try his hand at fiction. "You just get tired of the same thing. I once had seven of the 10 best sellers on the bestseller list and some critic said, 'Isn't that a deplorable state of affairs for the American reading public?' Well, I said to him, 'You're lucky I only wrote seven at one time. I could have written 10 and had 10 out of 10.'"

Now as a "semi-retired man with two careers — selling beer and writing books for kids," Spillane spends much of his time on his boat in South Carolina. He finds New York City "boring" and says he wants to enjoy his "old age" by fishing and traveling.

He opened a brown paper grocery bag and took out various items of clothing, a tie, a shirt, to show his leg log.

"I carry all my stuff in a bag — drives my wife crazy," he said.

He started to talk about clothes, then got around to women — his favorite topic.

Contestant cut from pageant due to padding
BLOXI, Miss. (UPI) — New York beauty contestant Deborah Ann Fountain, who padded her swimsuit top with foam rubber to compensate for weight loss, was eliminated from the Miss USA pageant.

"The suit was too big," said Miss Fountain, 25. "I was supposed to go on stage naked."

Her state measurements were 35-23-35, but Miss Fountain said they had diminished because of medication she took after the death of her 21-year-old brother in March.

The falsies were spotted Sunday by a fellow contestant, who informed officials.

Leonard Posner, Miss Fountain's attorney, said a female pageant official "literally tore it (her swimsuit top) off" to expose the padding that is banned in the contest's rules.

Harold Glazer, president of Miss Universe Inc., which runs the Miss USA pageant, said Miss Fountain was told she could still appear in the competition that will be nationally televised Thursday night from the Mississippi Coast Coliseum — without any chance of winning.

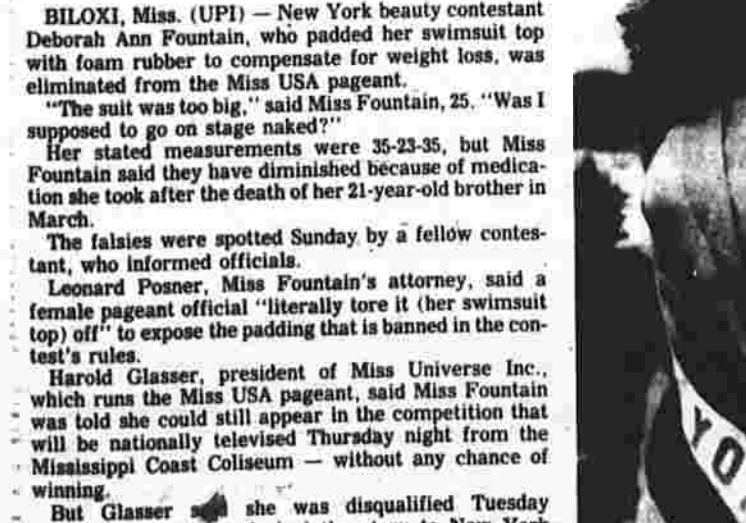

But Glazer said she was disqualified Tuesday because her attorney leaked the story to New York newspapers. Pageant officials then put the question to a vote and Miss Fountain's fellow contestants voted, 29-21, in a secret ballot that indicated their approval of her elimination.

Now there are only 50 women competing for the right to represent this country in the Miss Universe contest.

"She demonstrated an attitude that was inconsistent with the spirit of the pageant," Glazer said.

It was the first time in the 30-year history of the pageant a contestant was disqualified. As a result, New York state will not be represented this year.

"I will abide by the pageant's decision," said Miss Fountain, who moved to the Bronx from North Carolina more than a year ago.

Bolton selectmen table office vote

BOLTON - The Board of Selectmen tabled action on the town office space study last night at a regular board meeting, but afterwards the selectmen displayed overwhelming favor for the option of renovating the present town hall.

The board was presented with five options in the study they authorized to begin last year, which besides the town hall renovation include a new town hall, offices in the K-4 school building, and turning two different wings in the center school building into office space.

The most expensive option, a new town hall, stands priced at $586,400, according to the study, and though the town hall renovation is not the least expensive of the options at $219,800 (third, after the new town hall, and center school renovation for $240,000), the study shows that it would provide the largest amount of office space in relation to dollars spent.

First Selectman Henry Ryba was absent from the meeting, and this was the impetus for the board's decision to table action.

However, Ryba forwarded a memorandum to the selectmen outlining his opinion that the board consider the renovation of the present town hall as the most viable alternative for the five options offered in the study.

Ryba recommends, due to all angles studied, that the board "officially go on record to:

- Approve the concept of renovating the Community Hall for future use for offices and meeting space.
- Inform the Board of Education that, at the present, and for the foreseeable future, the town will not need office space in the schools."

No action taken on school study

BOLTON - Board of Selectmen members discussed the possibility of studying the school system last night at a regular meeting, took no formal action on the issue, but expressed concern that such a study may be both detrimental to the morale of professional and non-professional staff in the system and stir unnecessary excitement among residents.

Selectman Carl Preuss had urged the board to formulate a committee to study the University of Connecticut team, and said last night that the old study of the school system, almost three years old and filed under different circumstances, needs to be updated.

He said differing factors have changed since the study was completed by a state and federal educational aid, the local financial picture and the possibility of bringing in students from surrounding towns.

The school already has some students from the town of Willington within its ranks, and is pursuing bringing in students from Columbia.

Preuss said the school system could stand reorganization due to a declining enrollment picture of town students with no foreseeable remedy.

The Board of Education voted last year to maintain the K-12 system, and also to reorganize the school system.

Deputy First Selectman Al Ahearn said that bringing the town into such a study, only three years after the previous one, would be detrimental to the morale of the staff in the school, and questioned some of Preuss's reasons for the necessity of the study.

Ahearn said "I don't think the town is anywhere near bankruptcy," and added that the town should give the old study a time to "get" with the school operations before beginning a new study.

Selectman Jack Carey said that such a study could not be accomplished without raising emotions within both the school staff and the townspeople, and added "I'm not convinced there's such a strong settlement" in town to study the school system, as Preuss had argued.

"I don't see the necessity for it," he said.

Ahearn said that whether the school system can be afforded or not, and whether the town is providing an adequate education or not, are "good, legitimate questions," and Selectman Douglas Cheney said he expects the issue to be raised again.

Coventry budget rejected

COVENTRY - Voters at the referendum last night soundly trounced by a 2-1 margin the council's proposed budget, entailing a four-mill increase.

The vote sends the council back to the budget tables to look for additional cuts.

The council proposed a budget totalling $6.06 million, a four-mill increase over the present mill rate of 68.5. The increase, if approved, would mean that a residence assessed at $40,000 would pay $160 in additional taxes next fiscal year.

In a turnout of 1551 voters, which is about 35 percent of the total legal voters in the town, 995 voted against the budget, while 556 voted to approve it.

Council Chairwoman Roberta Koozts said the turnout was good, adding that the council will be meeting Thursday night at 7:30 to begin cutting the budget.

The council already had cut a total of six mills from the proposed budgets, including $176,000 from the Board of Education's request.

Ex-Town Manager Frank Connolly presented the council with budget showing a 10-mill increase, and council members immediately began cutting the proposal due to public input that the budget request would not be accepted.

The council eventually approved the $6.06 million budget by a 6-1 margin, and put the call out for the town meeting, held May 8.

The taxpayers association petitioned to force the town meeting to referendum, and acquired enough signatures as defined by state statute to meet their desires.

However, the town meeting, which was advertised to be adjourned, saw residents overrule the moderator's decision to accept the town attorney, Abbot Schwebel's, opinion that the petitions were valid, and then proceeded to vote the budget in.

But the following Monday the council revoked the town meeting decision by approving a motion to go to referendum.

Town Council disappointed

COVENTRY - The results of the referendum last night, which saw the council's proposed budget defeated by a 2-1 margin, left council members disappointed and expecting that services will be cut, but satisfied that the townspeople have spoken.

Chairwoman Roberta Koozts said the voter turnout, 1551, 995 of which voted against the budget, was "good," adding that it is "quite apparent that the people of the town are willing to accept less services."

She, as did other council members, attributed part of the cause of the defeat to the recent town meeting, which saw 173 voters attempt to approve the budget after overruling the moderator's decision to accept the petitions forcing the town meeting to referendum. The petitioning was spearheaded by the taxpayer's association.

"It (the town meeting) upset a lot of people emotionally," she said, adding that resentment among some voters "would be natural."

Council member Laurie DeMars said "it sounds like the people have spoken," adding that the result of the referendum displayed "definite" convictions that the town feels the budget is too high.

He said he feels the town meeting was instrumental in determining the outcome, saying that a lot of people objected "to having a handful of people dictating policy from the floor," adding that there might have been a feeling of resentment which caused the overwhelming defeat of the budget.

"We'll have to sharpen up the knives, axes and swords," he said, referring to the upcoming work on the budget.

Council Secretary Jeff Lancaster said he was "disappointed" with the outcome, adding that further cutting the budget will "have to be one of the biggest decisions we (council members) will have to make."

Councilwoman Betsy Paterson echoed Lancaster's sentiments, saying that she was not surprised by the outcome, that she "hoped" to pass.

Further cuts, she said, "will be devastating" to town services, she said.

Geraldine Bissonette, president of the taxpayers association which officially stood to reject the budget, said "the Americans of Coventry spoke. They exercised their right to vote. Hopefully the council will listen - we can't afford anymore."

William Hurley, president of We Are Taxpayers, Too, the organization which sponsored the town meeting action, said the people have spoken, "and added that he felt the result was representative of the total feel in taxpayers in Coventry.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Don't make unnecessary changes in course today regarding a matter which is moving in the right direction. Your alterations could hinder, rather than help.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 23) You must be very careful today not to ask others to do things for you which they feel you could or should handle yourself. Be self-sufficient.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Multiple gains through investment channels are likely today, but you're not apt to fare too well in situations where you take risks in hopes to get more.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) A domestic infraction could arise today. Your first reaction might be to treat the matter harshly. However, if you're tolerant and forgiving, it can be resolved smoothly.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) This should be a rewarding day for you, but there is a possibility you might put obstacles in your own path. Make things easy for yourself not harder.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) If you find yourself in need of financial or business advice today, seek expert counsel. Foreign the opinion of persons who lack real knowledge.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Once you set your mind to do something today, you're capable of achieving it. There is, though, a possibility you might use tactics which could make enemies.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Making premature assessments of judgment is something you must guard against today. Hunches can't be relied upon. Facts can.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) Be realistic in situations today where you hope to gain personally. Building your expectations beyond that which is reasonable will only lead to disappointment.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Your self-reliance and independence are admirable traits, but today you will be able to achieve more by working with others. Seek competent allies.

Taurus (April 20-May 20) Your financial prospects are something you must guard against today. Encouraging today, but be prepared to work hard for what you hope to get. Rewards will be proportionate to your efforts.

Dear Abby
Abigail Van Buren

Mother refuses to see doctor

DEAR ABBY: We have a 68-year-old widowed mother who needs a doctor but refuses to go to one or let one come to her house. She told us that if we bring a doctor to the house, she will throw us and the doctor out. She is not a Christian Scientist; she has had doctors in the past but she doesn't want one now. Abby, her feet and ankles are so swollen they look like elephant's feet! She can't wear shoes and isn't able to stand for more than five minutes. Her feet and legs are purple, so it's obvious she has some kind of circulatory problem. We have a brother living at home who does the laundry and cooking. He says Mother is so stubborn he can't cope with her. She's not senile; her mind is sharp as a razor. We feel so helpless. Every doctor we've spoken to says he can't treat Mother without her consent. We can't drag her to a doctor if she doesn't want to go. Or can we?

DEAR HELPLESS: No, you can't drag her to a doctor. Assuming Mother is of sound mind, the responsibility of what happens to her body must be hers. Don't fight her. When her condition becomes unbearable to her, she will be forced to do something about it. DEAR ABBY: Do you think an ex-spouse would make a good husband? I'm going with one who wants to marry me.

CATHY IN DETROIT: My ex-spouse should make excellent husbands. They've already taken an oath of chastity, obedience and poverty.

DEAR ABBY: You stated that people who avoid shaking hands are "mysophobic" — they have a pathological fear of germ contamination. Not necessarily. As a violinist, my sensitive hands are sometimes crushed to a pulp by bone-crushing handshakes from overly enthusiastic well-wishers. Cringing handshakes can also be expressions of conscious or unconscious hostility. Furthermore, many physicians — believe that handshakes are the most common culprit in transmitting germs. According to one theory, the custom of handshaking was originally intended to demonstrate that the hand concealed no weapon. How much more graceful is the Oriental greeting of bowing with upturned hands joined together as in prayer, demonstrating that neither hand conceals a weapon.

Could anything be more useful in today's gun-toting U.S.A.?

LA, CALIF. HENRY TEMANKA

DEAR HENRY: Gm control might help. DEAR ABBY: I am writing in reply to the 21-year-old girl who said her boyfriend doesn't kiss her because she wears braces on her teeth. Well, I have no idea why her boyfriend doesn't kiss her, but I'm sure the braces have nothing to do with it. You said that maybe the lips get cut from too much pressure. Wrong. I have a boyfriend with braces and he is better than anyone I've ever kissed.

I had my lip cut once during a kiss and the guy didn't even wear braces! L IN PITTSBURGH

O'Hearne will continue as assistant secretary, a position he assumed when he joined Pitney Bowes in 1971. Before joining the company, he was counsel for the Mobil Chemical Company. He is a 1968 graduate of Holy Cross College and holds an L.L.B. degree from Harvard Law School.

Industry takes the lead to reduce arthritis cost

So staggering are today's costs of arthritis — the nation's No. 1 crippling disease — that finally U.S. industry is taking the lead in developing innovative programs to help reduce the costs of disability through better use of medical and rehabilitative services.

Hailed as the first joint effort effort by industry, rehabilitation services and an academic medical center to deal with a health problem of profound impact on employers and employees, the pioneering program involves the creation of staffs of vocational counselors to work with individual industries. The goals are:

Medical screening to detect and monitor arthritis in workers; referral to proper health professionals in a company's community; extensive concentration on education of both employer and employee that "something can be done about arthritis if treatment is begun early."

The average person waits more than four years from the beginning of arthritis symptoms before seeking proper medical assistance, says the Arthritis Foundation, and that, stresses Dr. Kenneth Mitchell, associate director of the University of North Carolina School of Medicine, "may be too late for employment rehabilitation of the person concerned."

More than 31 million Americans are affected by arthritis, a disease which takes about 100 forms. The horrendous costs:

- 27 million working days lost in 1980 alone, representing nearly $5 billion in wages lost to employees.
- Over $1 billion in annual disability payments, or about 15 percent of all Social Security Disability Insurance Payments to workers.
- $450 million per year in Veterans Administration payments to veterans whose major disability is arthritis or rheumatic disease.

• $1.4 billion in lost homemaker services per year. • $5 billion per year spent on medical care, including nearly $1 billion annually for quick remedies and unproven drugs and devices.

All this, plus about $1 billion in lost federal, state and local income taxes, adds up to an annual price tag of $14 billion — and that sum is rising relentlessly day after day, year after year.

Industry always has recognized the deeply adverse economic impact of arthritis, particularly in absenteeism, productivity and disability payments; it has been impossible to miss.

But doing something about it on the simple premise that the cost of arthritis can be controlled and that it is worth spending money "to have happier people working more efficiently and costing their companies less," says Dr. Mitchell puts it — that's not.

Your Money's Worth
Sylvia Porter

First of the Industrial Rheumatology Rehabilitation centers has been set up in Greensboro, N.C., under the sponsorship of Burlington Industries, Inc., the world's largest textile manufacturer.

Since this disease is the leading cause of industrial absenteeism and second only to heart disease as a cause of disability payments, "our company would rather focus on rehabilitation than on disability," notes Burlington's medical director, Dr. Donald Hayes.

Burlington's fight against arthritis began back in 1974, but now, reports the Arthritis Foundation, other companies include:

General Motors establishing broad educational programs to reach over 14,000 of its employees as well as workshops for plant physicians and nurses. John Manville Corp., Western Electric, and Samsone.

Organizations involved now include Wisconsin Claims Council, Sentry Insurance and Wausau Insurance Companies.

A "plus" is the realization by employers that employees tend to hide their handicap, for fear of being fired. The only need is minor change in the employer's work environment: a new chair, a desk of the correct height, shop tools placed at more convenient levels.

But the "bottom line" here is that effective detection and efforts to help can cost pennies while disabled employees can cost a company millions of extra dollars in higher taxes and insurance premiums. The trade-off is so lopsided it can't even be labeled a trade-off.

Study confirms it

Firms evade responsibility

NEW YORK (UPI) — A new study by a University of Pennsylvania finance professor says that many public interest groups have alleged for some time: corporate America evades its social responsibilities.

The Reagan administration philosophy implies a confidence that social interests can be met even with less government regulation, Edward Herman of the University of Pennsylvania's Wharton School asserts that corporations won't voluntarily sacrifice profits for some social goals.

"The traditional drive toward profitable growth and the force of competition . . . continue to render voluntary corporate responsibility and the corporate conscience extremely weak reeds on which to base hopes for resolving current socioeconomic problems," says Herman.

The problem, he says, is that corporate interests often are at conflict with the social welfare. "The idea that the corporation has community obligations is more complicated, given its legal obligations to public stockholders and creditors."

Herman's study was sponsored by the Twentieth Century Fund, a non-profit foundation that supports research on public policy issues. It explores the effectiveness of government control has been eroded by such technological and structural changes as expanded communications and the internationalization of corporations.

But Herman charges corporations also have attempted to sabotage the system. While looking to government for help in commerce and protection, corporations compensated managers, or technocrats, from the owner-managers of years past. Despite the shift, he said, the corporate objectives of high profits and growth remain firmly entrenched.

While critical of the lack of corporate concern for the interests of society at large, Herman stops short of defining specific solutions.

He does say outside controls thus far have proven largely ineffective. The effectiveness of government control has been eroded by such technological and structural changes as expanded communications and the internationalization of corporations.

But Herman charges corporations also have attempted to sabotage the system. While looking to government for help in commerce and protection, corporations turn around in what Herman calls "cynical capitalism" to discredit and demoralize the government in order to undermine its ability to "plan and implement effectively some coherent and rational vision of domestic economic and social policy."

Resistance to community pressures, he said, has been in the form of "public relations, litigation, lobbying, bribery, threats to politicians and local communities, and moving to more congenial environs."

"This whipsaw treatment doesn't bode well for long-term growth," Herman said. "Business would like government to be weak and has not allowed a good bureaucracy to develop."
