Canadians won't clear U.S. flights

By United Press International

Some flights between the United States and Canada were delayed today as Canadian air traffic controllers, saying the strike by U.S. controllers has made border skies unsafe, refused to handle the traffic.

The Air Transport Association, representing major U.S. airlines, reported controllers in Montreal and Toronto began early today refusing to clear flights into the United States. Delta Air Lines also said one of its flights was turned back at Montreal, where an Air Canada spokesman said some controllers were claiming equipment problems. No delays were reported in flights out of Winnipeg, Vancouver or Calgary.

The Canadian government threatened disciplinary action against any controllers who refuse to handle U.S. flights.

FAA spokesman Dennis Feldman said there had been "sporadic refusals" by Canadian controllers this morning, but he said the protest did not appear widespread.

"All we can tell you is that there have been a couple of instances where they refused to grant clearances, but it's not very widespread. It's been so minor that we haven't been able to get a handle on it," Feldman said.

Transportation Secretary Drew Lewis was optimistic.

"A number of countries have started this," he said today, citing a

Fire destroys old terminal

The former Cheney Brothers freight terminal was destroyed early Sunday morning by a fire that officials said was deliberately set by someone.

The building, which was built more than 100 years ago, was located on the Elm Street extension of the railroad tracks, below the Park Street bridge in an area that is "plagued by vandalism," according to town Fire Chief John Rivosa.

The building was engulfed in flames when discovered by police about 12:30 a.m. Sunday. Built entirely of wood, the former freight terminal had been used for storage of building materials by its owner, Kenneth Burkamp.

The fire was brought under control quickly by

Tax cut encourages business

By Hilary Rosenberg
Herald Reporter

Members of the Manchester business community are optimistic that Reagan Administration's tax cut plan approved by Congress last week will encourage investment and stimulate the economy.

But businessmen are less hopeful about the effects of the cut in personal income taxes, saying it will be offset by inflation.

Millard Pryor, president of Lydall Inc., sees the tax cut plan as proof that the Reagan Administration, unlike past administrations, "makes business a priority."

Measures accelerating depreciation on equipment will "make investments more attractive to us," Pryor maintained, since it will put more money in the businessman's hands sooner. At the same time, he said, rapid depreciation will put businesses in the United States on an equal footing with businesses in other countries that have short periods of depreciation.

A reduction of taxes on unearned income, from 70 to 50 percent of that income, will encourage more investment, Pryor said. A cut in the capital gains tax from 28 to 20 percent of the profit from stocks will also boost investment. All told, he said, "it will be a better environment in which to invest."

A new 15-year depreciation on buildings might help spur development of buildings in the Cheney Historic District, said William Stevenson, controller at Multi-Circuits Inc. Multi-Circuits offices are located in the Cheney Historic District.

According to Paul Grady, chairman of the board of directors of the Manchester Chamber of Commerce, the impact of the tax cut bill on businesses will not be felt for a few months after the bill takes effect on Oct. 1.

Hank Rusman, director of Field Public Affairs for J.C. Penney, expects the tax cut plan will have long-term effects on the economy. "We don't view it in the short-term, very selfish way of having people buy our products," he said.

The plan will help J.C. Penney by stimulating the general economy, he said. "We're a significant supporter of the entire Reagan economic package," he asserted.

Nathan G. Agostinelli, president of Manchester State Bank, feels the tax cut plan will take hold immediately, but he said, "it won't be 'miraculous.'"

William R. Johnson, president of the Savings Bank of Manchester, predicted, "The current poor savings habits of people indicate that their savings will not increase in the future, he said.

Banks across the nation are suffering from a shortage of revenues resulting from low savings.

you cut taxes, you won't see that much expansion," he said.

Garman sees little benefit for retailers in the tax cut bill. "I don't think it's going to have any effect whatsoever," he maintained.

The five-percent cut in personal income taxes effective as of Oct. 1 will be "miraculous," Garman said. Inflation will offset the cut almost immediately, he said. "Prices of utilities and food will rise right away. The money is going to be absorbed in every day-living."

"Those with money to spend will most likely spend it rather than save it. William R. Johnson, president of the Savings Bank of Manchester, predicted, "The current poor savings habits of people indicate that their savings will not increase in the future, he said.

Banks across the nation are suffering from a shortage of revenues resulting from low savings.

GHO set despite troubles

WETHERFIELD (UPI) — Promoters of the Greater Hartford Open aren't letting an air traffic controllers' strike, potential loss of network television coverage and a shortage of top names crimp their enthusiasm.

"Sure, at this time of the year it's tough," said GHO chairman Paul Lankarge as he prepared for Thursday's opening round of the 20th annual PGA event at the Wetherfield Country Club.

The short, 4,524-yard, par 71 course, known as a "putter's course" on the circuit, is shunned by the likes of Jack Nicklaus and Tom Watson. This year, Lee Trevino, easily the most popular figure among the crowds at Wetherfield, won't be playing because of a TV commercial commitment in Europe.

"But ticket sales are good and we expect to hold our own," said Lankarge who added, "We'll end up with the guys who come to generally support the tournament" that offers $200,000 in prizes including $54,000 to the winner.

Lankarge said those scheduled to play included current tour winners Puzos Zoeller, Ray Floyd, Keith Fergas, Dave Barr, Jay Haas, Craig Stadler, Ron Strick and of course, the defending GHO champ Howard Twitty.

But there are other problems for the tournament, a charity event sponsored by the Greater Hartford Jaycees and started in 1953 as the Insurance City Open. In recent years entertainer Sammy Davis Jr. has loaned his name to the event that raises money to help disadvantaged and handicapped children.

Lankarge said it costs about $700,000 to run the tournament, including the prize money, and on top of that, "we hope to raise the $100,000 we did last year for the (charity) projects we run."

He said television pays 60 percent

State strikes given support; flights added

WINDSOR LOCKS (UPI) - Air traffic controllers in Connecticut welcomed increased support from other area labor groups at the close of their first week on strike.

At the same time, flight service at the state's largest airport reached its most efficient level since the walkout began. Officials said about 92 percent of normally scheduled flights at Bradley International were handled Sunday.

Demers claimed the limit on pickets was calculated to keep the controllers away from the terminal where they would be most effective.

Airport service better in region

Airports throughout New England reported traffic flowing at near-normal levels as the national air traffic controllers strike entered its second week today.

In nuclear war half of U.S. could die

WASHINGTON—Anywhere from 50 million to 150 million Americans would probably be killed outright in a nuclear exchange with the Soviet Union. This is the sober estimate of the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency, which raises serious doubts about the U.S. ability to "win" a nuclear war.

In fact, even these awesome figures are based on the assumption that there would be enough advance knowledge of the Soviet attack to conduct a planned evacuation of large population centers.

The arms control agency, apparently trying to accentuate the positive, words its horrifying prediction this way: "By 1985, given a planned evacuation, it is estimated that 35-65 percent of the U.S. population might survive the immediate effects of a large-scale nuclear attack."

The doomsday report states that "the main priority is reduction of immediate casualties—within a month after an attack." But it bases this assumption on a dubious premise, namely "that a crisis period lasting several weeks would occur and, therefore, that time

What's wrong with Reagan's stand

Reagan has taken a bold stand in the strike by air traffic controllers. But, for all his decisiveness, he has only made the problem worse.

In a situation that calls for the utmost in negotiating tactics, Reagan has chosen the tactics of confrontation. He has had striking air controllers fired.

White House staff say the president never seriously considered any other approach to solving the labor dispute.

Funeral services held for former state judge

WEST HARTFORD (UPI) — Funeral services were held Sunday for Abraham S. Bordon, a former Connecticut Supreme Court justice, who was nicknamed "the settling judge" for his skill at working out compromises. Although he retired in 1961 after 30 years on the bench, Bordon was one of the state's busiest referees for the last 20 years — presiding over contested divorces, land condemnation cases and other cases almost daily. Bordon died Friday at his West Hartford home. He was 89. A native of the Ukraine whose family came to America when he was 7, Bordon was known for his kindly manner and rich sense of humor. His humor sometimes made it way into judicial decisions. He once awarded $11,000 to a woman injured in a traffic accident who sued because she couldn't powder her broken nose. Frederick Farrar, a spokesman for the agency, also said the death figure was not unusually high, noting that 17 persons were killed in 11 accidents in the three days before the walkout began. He said the accidents during the past week were the result of pilot error or mechanical problems. Lewis insisted that the skies are safe. "We're looking at a few alternatives," he said, but admitted, "I'll come down to dollars and cents." He said one way to solve the TV problem would be to get a stronger commitment from the community and corporations. "Look at the Memphis Classic," said Lankarge. "It was canceled but the community got together and raised the money necessary to have the tournament."

Ferries collide; five injured

WOODS HOLE, Mass. (UPI) — A ferry loaded with 350 passengers returning from the resort island of Martha's Vineyard collided head-on with a ferry carrying freight in heavy fog today, injuring five people slightly, authorities said.

"They were not traveling fast," said Ray Martin, a spokesman for the Woods Hole Steamship Authority. The ferries hit almost head-on, he said. The accident occurred about 8:50 a.m. about 10 miles from Woods Hole in the Vineyard Sound, a 4-mile-wide body of water separating Martha's Vineyard from mainland Cape Cod. The ferry trips take about 45 minutes. The steamship authority owned both the passenger ferry Nauson and the freight ferry Auriga. The ferries both headed back to Woods Hole under their own power after the collision, arriving about 9:45 a.m. No one was evacuated as yet, Martin said.

Cleveland's Len Barker, who hurled a perfect game at Municipal Stadium less than three months ago, was the American League's most effective pitcher in Sunday night's 5th All-Star Game. # Nelson takes PGA title

DULUTH, Ga. (UPI) — Larry Nelson didn't take up golf until he was 21, but he proved in the PGA Championship that a kid doesn't have to be a prodigy to become a champion.

"I might have been burned out if I had taken it up when I was little," said Nelson, a hometown hero who won his first major title by four strokes Sunday over runner-up Fuzzy Zoeller.

Nelson, a quiet, balding 33-year-old former draftsman at an aircraft plant, shot a steady 1-over-par 71 Sunday to protect the four-shot lead he held over Zoeller at the start of play.

His 7-under 273 finish earned him $60,000, a 10-year exemption from qualifying, a berth in the World Series of Golf, and the final spot on the U.S. Ryder Cup team that will play a European team Sept. 18-20 at Walton Heath, England.

Nelson, who lives only 45 minutes from the 3,700-yard Atlanta Atlanta Club course, kept at least a 3-shot lead all day and never gave himself a chance to choke. When Zoeller missed the green at the 217-yard 17th hole and later bogeyed, he went up by four shots again and said he knew he had it won.

"I'm a choker," admitted Nelson. "I didn't want to go to 18 with either a one-shot lead or a two-shot lead. I wanted at least three shots. When Fuzzy bogeyed 17, I figured I could handle it from there."

Zoeller finished with a 71-277 total and picked up $40,000 to edge Dan Pohl, who had a closing 69, by one stroke. Jack Nicklaus (69) led a seven-way tie for fourth at 279, but also included Bob Gilder (66), Tom Weir (67), and Tom Weir (67).

Despite his late golfing start, Nelson said he had high hopes when he joined the tour in 1974. "When I came out and didn't qualify the first 11 weeks, I thought maybe I'm not good enough to make $100,000 a year and I had better shorten my goals," he said.

He was second on the PGA money list in 1979 with $281,022, however, and admitted "I feel I have accomplished something."

Nelson said he may change his PGA title, but he won't be planning his year around the so-called major championships.

"I think it's very difficult for someone to start as late as I did and compete mentally with guys who have been playing since they were 2," he said. "Mechanically, I don't think it's a disadvantage. I think a person can learn how to play in six months. But going out and scoring takes years and years."

Stacy snaps long drought

WHEELING, W.Va. (UPI) — Hollis Stacy broke a 15-month slump with a flourish Sunday, winning the West Virginia LPGA Classic from four other players in sudden death.

Former U.S. Open champ Stacy, 37, who hadn't won a tournament since the 1968 CPW Women's International, knocked in a 12-foot birdie putt on the first playoff hole.

She came up with a clutch stroke after watching Susie McAllister, Kathy Postlewait, Patsy Puh and Alice Ritzman all miss birdie putts.

For Stacy, winner of U.S. Open Championships in 1977 and 1978, the $15,750 paycheck went a long way to restoring the self-confidence that had disappeared since her last tour victory.

"I was into making the putt (on No. 17) and I didn't want to go to the 11th hole," she said. "I think this will help me a lot. I had lost a lot of confidence in my game the last three years. But I must say, my putting is a bit off right now."

Stacy took a one-shot lead over Postlewait with a 68 in the opening round at Spieldel Golf Course, and widened it to two shots with a 70 on the second day.

But she shot a "mediocre" 74 in the final 18 holes of regulation, allowing not only Postlewait but three others as well to catch her.

McAllister started the final at 1-under and carded a closing round of 68. Postlewait, who stole the lead for a few holes Sunday, managed a 72 while Stacy and Puh came up with the day's best round with 68.

"It's very difficult to lead all the way for 36 holes," Stacy said. "I was feeling the pressure. All those people were shooting 68 and 69 and I didn't know what numbers to pull out," she said. "I never use three, and I pulled three out of me."

It was a No. 3 ball that rolled down the fairway into the playoff hole, giving her the victory.

Stacy, who has played six tournaments in a row, said she plans to take off a couple of weeks and "just relax."

Rose next target Musial's standard

By Kevin Kenney
UPI Sports Writer

Pete Rose wants Aug. 10, 1981, to be remembered for something other than the resumption of the major league baseball season.

He wants it to be known as the date he broke Stan Musial's all-time National League record for base hits.

Rose, the 40-year-old Philadelphia first baseman who needs just one hit to break Musial's record of 3,650 hits, will face Bob Forsch at the Phillies' kick off their "second season" against the St. Louis Cardinals Monday night at Veterans Stadium in Philadelphia.

"I'm looking forward to Monday night," Rose said. "I don't know if I'm going to get a hit but if I get four or five at-bats, I hope to get a hit. If I don't, I'm not going to jump off the Walt Whitman Bridge. I don't care if I get a hit or not Monday, Tuesday or Wednesday, as long as we win."

Rose, who was hitting .330 with a league-high 72 hits before the June 12 walkout, said he has forgotten about the strike and is ready to get back to the business of playing baseball.

Should Rose get a hit, 3,631 balloons will be released and fireworks will go off. Musial will join Rose on the field for the celebration.

Steve Carlton, 3-1 with a 2.90 ERA and 94 strikeouts when play stopped, is expected to pitch for the Phillies, the NL East first-half champions, against Forsch, 6-2.

In other games Monday, it's New York at Chicago, Pittsburgh at Montreal, Cincinnati at Los Angeles, Atlanta at San Diego and Houston at St. Louis.

Cubs catcher Tim Lincecum sees signs of renewed optimism.

"We stuck up the difference, the first half but now everyone's got a new spirit," he said.

Mike Krukow, 3-6, faced Rick Riden, 4-1, or Jim Bibby, 4-3, against the Expos' Scott Sanderson, 6-2; Cincinnati's Frank Pastorek, 3-2, faces the Dodgers' Jerry Reuss, 4-2; Atlanta's Phil Niekro, 4-4, duels the Padres' Juan Eichelberger, 6-3, and Houston's Don Wilson, 4-7, battles the Giants' Doyle Alexander, 5-4.

They were defeated by the Bristol All-Stars, 11-9, at Murry Field.

The locals, 27-154 overall, next see the action in the semifinals of the Chicopee Tournament Tuesday at 5:30 at Spot Park.

Questions marks still hover

By Kay McFadden
UPI Sports Writer

The National League's 5-4 come-from-behind victory over the American League Sunday at the Cleveland Municipal Stadium may have reintroduced frazzled fans to the theory of baseball, but question marks continue to hover over the season itself. Although the dispute over whose game this really is has been temporarily settled, the fight between the two leagues continues to rage.

When the boys of summer deserted their small stadium for smoke-filled sessions at the bargaining table June 12, the New York Yankees and Oakland A's were the two AL division leaders, while the Philadelphia Phillies and Los Angeles Dodgers were successfully fending off their NL competition.

With those four teams declared off-field first-half winners in an unprecedented suspension, competition and the state wiped clean for everybody to start out even in the second-half title race, eight clubs out of 16 will be involved in post-season competition.

In the AL, it will be Kansas City at

Contract next for Carter

CLEVELAND (UPI) — In show business or in baseball, you're only as good as your latest performance, which is what they always say of me, and in Gary Carter's case, that makes it an even bigger headache for the Montreal Expos.

Anyone among the crowd of 72,000 in Cleveland's capacity packed Municipal Stadium who saw what Carter did Sunday night, or anyone among the millions of TV viewers throughout this country and Canada who witnessed the manner in which he emerged the Most Valuable Player in the National League's 10th straight All-Star voting, got a fairly good idea of what his worth would be as a free agent on the open market.

"The Expos have a pretty good idea of that, too."

His contract with them still has another year to run after this one, and they feel they've offered him the most — a multi-year package approaching $1 million a year — but so far, he and they have not come to terms although negotiations have been going on now for more than eight months.

Carter was much too elated over his two home runs which figured prominently in a come-from-behind 5-4 victory over the Oakland Athletics Sunday night to be concerned with money matters right then and there. But with the strike-interrupted season resuming today, he is beginning to think about his future.

Expos also will resume every effort to sign their 27-year-old four-time All Star because they agree with most everybody else that he's the No. 1 catcher in both leagues and they shudder at the thought of his ever getting away from them.

Tom Paolorek, the Seattle Mariners outfielder who applied a second-inning pinch single off Tom Seaver for the American League in Sunday's contest, which was the first major-league activity since the strike began June 12, wasn't aware of Carter's contractual status with the Expos, but he knows the going rate in baseball's market today and he happened to touch on it while talking to the home-runer Carter hit. Both of them came in from pitches off Ken Forsch, the Angels leading off the fifth inning and Yankee reliever Don Davis leading off the seventh inning.

Smiled some more

He couldn't help smiling some more. Sometimes before that Carlton Fisk of the White Sox and George Brett of the Royals were only two of those in the losers' dressing quarters who marveled at Carter's performance, particularly since it came after a period of protracted inactivity.

"It was amazing," said Fisk, who started behind the plate for the American League in the three weeks previous to the Clay Courts, Cleveland won the U.S. Pro in Boston, the Washington Star and the Grand Prix event in North Carolina, N.H. All those tournaments were won by Carter.

Clerc's win over Lendl was his 23th consecutive match victory. Still, he says he is not the best on the slow

Awesome power

"They talk about awesome power," Paolorek said. "Well, Carter certainly has it. If you want to put a price on value, he certainly has to be one of the most valuable properties in baseball."

Not only does Paolorek realize that, Carter does, too, even though he didn't particularly care to talk about it at all following the National League's victory.

When asked where negotiations between him and the Expos stood, he merely laughed and said nothing had been settled yet.

"Maybe now they'll want to negotiate more," he said still laughing.

Then he turned serious for a moment.

"I'm not going to use this as any kind of lever, though."

He doesn't have to. The Expos know what they have in him, and having satisfied Andre Dawson, their brilliant center fielder who some believe is the best all-around player in the National League, they'll undoubtedly satisfy Carter eventually as well.

He was the last player among the record 56 who participated in Sunday's contest to leave the ballpark. Long after all his own teammates and frustrated American League fans left the ballpark, Carter patiently stood with him at all catching the chubby screwball every last question put to him by newsmen.

"That's the kind of obliging individual he is. He also was soaking up all the enjoyment he was

Wants Leonard next

Gonzalez, of Bayonne, N.J., said he would like to see Leonard next.

Duran maintained the attack through the middle rounds, the sixth round was even, the seventh round was a broken arm and Gonzalez took the eighth. The ninth round also was fairly even and in the 10th, Duran again began laughing at Gonzalez, at times spreading his arms, and almost daring Gonzalez to punch him.

Referee Jackie Kough scored it 40-45, Judge Ed Maguire 40-45 and Duran won 40-45.

Duran said he was happy with his performance, but added, "I have not fought for nine months. I have to take my time. I was tired around the seventh round."

Duran wins in ring return

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Boxing promoter Don King indicated Sunday that the next opponent for Roberto Duran will be World Boxing Council junior middleweight champion Wilfredo Benitez but Duran left no doubt about who he wants next.

"I want (Sugar Ray) Leonard next," Duran said after his 10-round unanimous decision over Nino Gonzalez at Cleveland's Public Auditorium. "I'll fight Leonard whenever he wants to fight — anytime."

Whether the Panamanian is ready to take on Leonard, who defeated him last November and regained his championship when Duran quit in the eighth round of their welterweight title fight, is a big question.

Gonzalez was in no mood to concede defeat after the match.

"I fought the best fight out there," Gonzalez said. "I thought I won the fight."

Gonzalez, who had lost only one fight prior to Sunday's junior middleweight match, said Duran was holding him throughout the middle rounds, though Gonzalez threw some of his best body punches when the two clinched.

Coetsee screams Rutigliano sees tilts for tuning

TARRYTOWN, N.Y. (UPI) — South Africa, long the object of criticism in the sporting world because of its apartheid policy, was given cause to do some bitter complaining of its own Sunday by two American boxing officials.

In what amounted to robbery in broad daylight, Gerrie Coetsee, a white South African heavyweight contender, came out on the short end of a 10-round nationally televised decision in which Renato Snipes, who was knocked down in the first and fourth rounds, won on two of three judges' cards.

Coetsee's manager, Hal Tucker, was appalled at the decision and pointed to the irony of the situation.

Nearly $200,000 has been turned over to the Jimmy Fund by the Manchester Jimmy Fund Committee and another good crowd is expected. Donation of $1 is asked and tickets can be purchased at any fire station or at the Police Department.

Coetsee screams Rutigliano sees tilts for tuning

By United Press International

Cleveland Browns coach Sam Rutigliano says this about exhibition football games:

"They're fun when you win them. When you lose them, you have excuses."

Saturday night, Rutigliano was doing a little of the latter. But just a little. After all, these games aren't much more than elaborate workouts.

"The difficulty is sticking with your game plan, when first teams aren't playing against first teams," Rutigliano said after Cliff Stensrud passed for three touchdowns and ran for two more in leading the Pittsburgh Steelers to a 20-17 victory over the Browns in their first exhibition game for both teams.

"You get out of tune, but these games are for tuning."

Before giving way to third-string quarterback Mark Malone in the fourth quarter, Stensrud also passed for three touchdowns and ran for two more in leading the Pittsburgh Steelers to a 20-17 victory over the Browns in their first exhibition game for both teams.

Four in row won by Clerc

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — There aren't any major clay court tournaments for the next month, so Jose-Luis Clerc will have to wait at least that long to prove he is a better clay court player than Bjorn Borg. Clerc has first won the U.S. Pro in Boston, the Washington Star and the Grand Prix event in North Carolina, N.H. All those tournaments were won by Clerc.

Clerc's win over Lendl was his 23th consecutive match victory. Still, he says he is not the best on the slow

Cleveland Browns coach Sam Rutigliano says this about exhibition football games:

"They're fun when you win them. When you lose them, you have excuses."

Saturday night, Rutigliano was doing a little of the latter. But just a little. After all, these games aren't much more than elaborate workouts.

"The difficulty is sticking with your game plan, when first teams aren't playing against first teams," Rutigliano said after Cliff Stensrud passed for three touchdowns and ran for two more in leading the Pittsburgh Steelers to a 20-17 victory over the Browns in their first exhibition game for both teams.

Elm water is cleaner

By Richard Cody
Herald Reporter

COVENTRY — The water for 102 families at Coventry Hills, "lousy" for 10 years, is clearing up as Elm Water Co., charged with mismanagement and negligence by the homeowners, has apparently responded to town and state edicts.

Bert L. Chamberland, president of the Coventry Hills Homeowners Association, said Sunday the edicts "shook up everything." The company, he said, "bank $3,500 to do everything it has been asked to. And the water has cleaned up quite a bit."

An order issued in May by the town's health officer, Dr. Robert Bowen, calls for the water quality to be brought up to federal health standards by Sept. 30. If the deadline is not met, the company can face a fine of $250 a day. The order is supported by the Town Council.

The Department of Public Utilities Control ordered the company early this spring to have the water quality improved by January, 1982.

The town has also placed a lien on the company for at least $17,000 owed in taxes. The association, says Chamberland, would like the town to foreclose on the company if the debt is not paid by Sept. 30. Then the homeowners would move to take over the water supply.

Elm Water also supplies water to about 100 homes in Rockville, another 100 homes in Coventry and some number of families in Manchester.

Officials said the problem with the water comes from increasing amounts of iron deposits being released from the bedrock where the well is drilled. The result is rusty water. It has been becoming progressively worse since it appeared 10 years ago, officials say.

State officials have said the water is not unclean. The problem, they say, is a nuisance.

Direct efforts by the homeowners to obtain corrections from the company failed, Chamberland said, and the association approached the state two years ago. Chamberland said the state was slow in responding, and its mandates were ignored by the company.

He attributes the company's recent attempts to improve the water to the town's edict, the first accompanied by threat of a fine.

"They have cleaned the tanks and the lines," he said, "and the water is clearing up for the time being. Why it took 10 years to do it, I'll never know."

"The company is also treating the bedrock with chemicals to prohibit the secretion of iron, state officials said.

Chamberland said he feels the company will clear up the water before the deadline, but expects future problems with the company's management, which is undergoing a transfer from the owner, Katherine Lavitt, to the general manager, George Koppelman.

"We (association members) doubt very much he (Koppelman) will finance any future improvements. We'll have to keep putting pressure on him."

Parents' group to aid schools

COVENTRY — A group of parents have formed an organization to find ways to improve the educational opportunities available to the town's school children.

The organization is called Supporters of Expanded Activities and Resources for Children, and is abbreviated as SEARCH.

The members say it is an outgrowth of Board of Education Chairman Richard A. Ashley's plea for creative ways to return programs cut last spring by budgetary constraints.

They say their top priority is to seek funds for computer equipment. They are also looking for community volunteers wishing to share a special talent or expertise, such as a foreign language, with students. Volunteers should contact education board member Nancy A. Moore at 742-6248.

The next meeting is Thursday, 8:30 p.m., in the high school teacher's lounge. Membership is open to any resident. For more information, call Suzanne Johnson at 742-7237.

Puppet workshop slated

COVENTRY — The Pandemonium Puppet Co. is presenting its first workshop Wednesday, from 6 to 9 p.m., at the Booth Dimock Library.

Parents and children are welcome. The workshop is free, but registration is limited. To sign up, call 742-7606.

Autopsy planned in death of boy

HARTFORD (UPI) — The chief state medical examiner scheduled an autopsy today on a 9-year-old boy whose body was found in a vacant building several hours after he was reported missing by a parent.

Police would not confirm if the body found Sunday morning in Hartford's North End was that of Eugene Glenn, who earlier was reported missing.

Police Lt. John Telesky said there "signs of trauma" on the boy's body but the death was being treated as suspicious. Officials said the child's identity would not be released until after the autopsy.

Telesky said police received a call shortly before 3 a.m. from a parent reporting the boy had not been seen since Saturday night. Police searched the neighborhood and found a child's body in a building at 134 Mather Street three hours later, Telesky said.

Police Chief George Slocum, City Manager Woodrow Wilson Galtor and investigators from the Hartford state's attorney's office were called to the scene when the body was found.

Your Birthday

August 11, 1981

Many good things can happen for you in the year following your birthday. However, instead of just drinking the cream from the top of the bottle, indulge in the nourishment found beneath it.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Your good looks and luck won't be enough to get by on today. You're going to have to put forth the necessary effort before success can be yours. Romance, travel, luck, resources, possible pitfalls and career for the coming months are discussed in your Astro-Graph, which begins with your birthday. Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

VR000 (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Speculative or risky ventures should be avoided today, no matter how sweet they look. The bread this honey would cast is someone else's dough.

LIRIA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) Either misinformation or imagined lies are the real problem behind a family rift today. Before pointing the finger at blame, backtrack. Find the root cause of depression.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) In order to impress others today you may be tempted to paint an ostentatious picture. Try using a thinner brush, less paint and a smaller canvas.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) It isn't likely you'll achieve your goals today because you might have too difficult a time discerning fact from fantasy. Fairy tales are for children.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) You might have too many self-doubts today that you could place your faith in just anybody. If you do, you might jeopardize what you have going.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) Take care of you and not the bargain today. Don't attempt to save it off. You aren't going to find that "ranger" who can bail you out.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Guard against placing too much dependence on associations today. Their promises might raise false hopes which, if not delivered, would result in a big letdown.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) The lure of a fantasy world might be more than you can resist today, causing you to chase whimsies instead of tending to your duties.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) If you are enjoying working in a business involving a friendship, don't be enticed away from them by an associate who is trying to influence you to adopt his Polyanna outlook.

CANCER (June 21-July 20) If someone or something has annoyed you, don't take it out on the family today. Placing the blame on their already heavy load of problems will make something give way.

LEO (July 21-Aug. 10) Alan: "Seven clubs is a pretty good contract with the North-South hands. If diamonds break 3-2 South wins the first diamond, draws trumps, sets up the diamonds by ruffing one and takes all the tricks."

Oswald: "If declarer tries for seven he will run into a 4-1 diamond break and won't be able to run the diamonds."

Alan: "He does have 11 top tricks and can try the spade finesse for the twelfth. That is also wrong. Or he can try to develop an end play against West. The end play can be developed, but South will look mighty silly if he tries the end play and it turns out that the king of spades was over in the East hand."

Oswald: "A rubber bridge player forgets about seven. He is six and has a simple book safety play to insure round and leads a low diamond at trick two. Now he can set up diamonds by getting dummy with the ace of trumps and ruffing one. Then he draws trumps. He enters dummy with the ace of hearts and discards one heart and the queen of spades on good diamonds."

Alan: "An expert match point player would also make this play. He would see that if diamonds broke 3-2 those players to six no trump or seven diamonds would make their contracts and beat him. He would also figure that lots of pairs would not even be in slam and that six diamonds made would always be a fair score with the overtrick not worth more than a match point, or maybe two."
