Dignitaries say farewell to Cotter

By Paul Hendrie
 Herald Reporter

HARTFORD—A Who's Who of big-time state and national Democrats gathered Friday at St. Joseph's Cathedral to pay final respects to the late Rep. William R. Cotter, D-Conn.

Cotter, 55, died Tuesday. He had been suffering from cancer of the pancreas, which was diagnosed six months ago.

Some 1,000 colleagues and friends jammed the cathedral to remember Cotter with a mass of Christian burial.

The dignitaries were led by House Speaker Thomas "Tip" O'Neill of Massachusetts and House Ways and Means Committee Chairman Dan Rostenkowski of Illinois, who praised Cotter as a competent public servant with dedication and a sense of humor.

Manchester Democratic Town Chairman Theodore R. Cummings joined other First District party leaders in serving as honorary pall bearers.

Manchester developer Raymond "Sonny" Damato, a long-time personal friend of Cotter's, also was in attendance.

Mayor Stephen T. Penny and Deputy Mayor Stephen T. Cassano were among the Manchester Democrats who went to pay their final respects. State Rep. Marcelle Fahy, whose district includes part of Manchester, was there, too.

A military honor guard carries the late Rep. Cotter died Tuesday after a six-month battle with cancer.

'Common sense of urgency'

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A senior U.S. defense official warned Friday the first open strategic alliance between the United States and Israel could be jeopardized if Congress blocks the sale of AWACS planes to Saudi Arabia.

U.S. and Israeli defense officials agreed during more than three hours of talks at the Pentagon there is a "common sense of urgency" to begin initiating strategic cooperation between their countries because of the Soviet Union's arm buildup and advances in the Middle East, the officials said.

The Pentagon will dispatch a technical team to Israel Sept. 20 to study ways in which the two countries can share in the defense against a Soviet threat to the region.

The official said the alliance initially could involve naval cooperation in the Mediterranean, Israeli protection of U.S. transport ships, Israeli warplanes "to fight off Soviet" aircraft and maintenance of U.S. warplanes on Israeli soil.

In addition, Israel would be permitted to use "several hundred million dollars a year" worth of U.S. aid to buy military equipment from its own defense industry. Nearly all of the $1 billion a year in military assistance to Israel is used to buy U.S.-made equipment.

U.S. links Israeli alliance to AWACS

An unwritten military alliance between the United States and Israel has existed since the birth of the Jewish state in 1948 — an outgrowth of the "unique relationship" that has reached into such areas as the sharing of information about Soviet tanks captured by Israel from Arab armies.

The concern still exists, the U.S. official said, expressing hope the Arabs will understand the target of the alliance is not them "but the Soviet threat."

The proposed sale of five Airborne Warning and Control System aircraft to Saudi Arabia did not come up during a meeting Friday between

Pageant judges talented

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (UPI)—It isn't easy to compare a singing ventriloquist and her two dummies with a soprano belting out an aria from an Italian opera, but the Miss America Pageant judges have managed to do the job.

The eight unpaid judges spent all week evaluating the talents of the 50 pageant contestants, including the ventriloquist, Miss Tennessee, Angelina Johnson, who used two dummies to sing the theme from the television show "Laverne and Shirley" and the aspiring opera star Miss New York, Suzanne Alexander, who performed the aria "Vissi D'Arte" from Puccini's "Tosca."

Sandwiched in between were such acts as a dramatic reading of the Greek tragedy "Antigone" by Miss Maryland, Robin Harmon, and an ice skating routine performed to the music of Mozart by Miss South Carolina, Jill Rankin.

With no common denominator, each act must be treated individually, said judge Rene Valenti, a television and film producer.

"When you are judging talent, nothing is less than the other," she said. "Nothing is less, and you take each as an entity."

Judge James Lipton, a television producer, said he might even prefer some of the more off-beat presentations.

"I would infinitely more like to hear a brilliant ventriloquist than an ordinary pianist any day," Lipton said.

Although talent accounts for half of each contestant's points, the judges also rate the women in swimsuit and evening gown competitions during three days of preliminary events, and during 7-minute individual interviews.

Two of the judges found the swimsuit competition a little easier to handle.

Entertainer Foster Brooks said he looked for a woman "who makes me gulp a few times," and Ms. Valenti searched for the woman who "I would give anything in the world to look like."

Lipton said he was "enormously impressed" with the pageant judging system, in which each judge awards points to his top five selections.

"By the time we get up to the final night, a kind of justice has been done," he said.

Despite the exhaustive competitions, one judge, noting the amount of time Miss America spends attending banquets, suggested a new event should be included in future pageants.

"There ought to be a competition for table manners," joked actor Dean Butler, one of the stars of the television show "Little House on the Prairie."

Solidarity asks for democracy

WARSAW, Poland (UPI)—The Solidarity labor union boldly challenged the Communist regime Friday by circulating a declaration demanding democracy for Poland, including free elections, civil liberties, freedom of the press and the release of political prisoners.

The seven-point declaration, formulated at the close of the first half of Solidarity's first national convention Thursday, coincided with another ominous warning from the Soviet Union, whose land and sea forces are currently on maneuvers around Poland.

The warning in the form of an "open letter" from 70,000 Moscow factory workers and published by the official Soviet news agency Tass said Solidarity's demands had escalated to the point where its leaders had raised their hands against the Soviet Union itself.

It referred to Solidarity's call for independent unions in other East Bloc states, saying "such provocations have always aroused anger and protest in Soviet people."

It was the closest the Kremlin has come to acknowledging publicly that its own interests were being put to the test by the year-long Polish crisis.

The seven-point declaration forged at the week-long Solidarity meeting in Gdanek openly called for the introduction of democracy in Poland.

"Today the nation expects... truth through the social control over the mass media and the purge of lies from the Polish education and culture... democracy through free elections to parliament and local councils... justice through equal rights for everybody, freeing political prisoners and the protection of those repressed by their political, editorial and union activities," the statement declared.

Nurses to join affiliate

MERIDEN (UPI) — Members of the Connecticut Health Care Associates have voted overwhelmingly to join an international AFL-CIO affiliate, union officials said Friday.

The proposal to join the affiliate was approved 788-115. Votes were cast Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

The Wallingford-based Connecticut Health Care Associates represents about 3,200 nurses in the state. About 2,500 dues-paying members were eligible to vote on the measure to affiliate with Local 1199, National Union of Hospital and Health Care Employees, AFL-CIO.

The Connecticut Health Care Associates will retain its name and have a new district of Local 1199, said Mary Lou Millar, CHCA executive director.

She said affiliation with Local 1199 was sought to gain access "to the resources of an international union." She said AFL-CIO membership also would help protect the group from membership raids by other AFL-CIO unions.

She said she referred to the American Federation of Teachers, AFL-CIO, which claims to have won representation elections in six of the health care group's 25 bargaining units in the state.

The American Federation of Teachers was unsuccessful in obtaining an injunction to block this week's affiliation vote.

Karen E crash re-enacted

NEW YORK (UPI) — Events surrounding the disputed collision of the 36-foot cabin cruiser "Karen E" and a tugboat on Long Island Sound were re-enacted Friday under the watchful eyes of Coast Guard officials.

Five West Hartford, Conn., residents were killed in the incident last month.

The re-enactment was commissioned by the company that owns the "Karen E" in an effort to disprove claims by the Karen E's owner, Richard Lublin.

The Coast Guard has heard conflicting testimony during hearings conducting hearings in New York on the incident.

Navy, EB make progress

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Navy and Electric Boat are making optimistic progress in negotiations to settle the contract battle that has held up new submarine awards for the shipbuilding firm, Sen. John H. Chafee, R-R.I., said Friday.

The senator, who was Navy secretary under the Nixon administration and is acting as a mediator of sorts in the dispute, said he is the most optimistic he has been in some time.

His report followed conversations with David Lewis, chairman of General Dynamics Corp., which is Electric Boat's parent firm; Navy Secretary John H. Lehman Jr.; and

New business tax revenue is way below expectations

HARTFORD (UPI) — Revenue from Connecticut's new tax on unincorporated businesses is coming in way below expectations because many businesses simply are not paying the tax, a state budget official said Friday.

Edward Balda, chief of economic and revenue forecasting for the Office of Policy and Management, said the state collected $4 million from the tax in July and August — the first two months of the fiscal year.

He said the state should have received $12 million in revenue from the 5 percent unincorporated business tax by this time and $30 million by the end of the fiscal year.

"A lot of people are not paying the tax on the advice of their lawyers or accountants because of the uncertainty of whether they're (the Legislature) going to repeal it," Balda said.

He said Revenue Services Commissioner Orest Dalou already has granted 2,000 extensions on the tax. The tax applies to all unincorporated businesses with gross receipts of more than $50,000 with a deduction of one-half of net income, or $15,000, whichever is greater. The minimum tax is $250.

Balda also said the state expected a 2 percent reduction in gas tax revenue but the take actually increased 6.8 percent the first two months of the fiscal year.

"People did travel a lot during the summer mainly because there was ample supply and gas prices were lower," he said.

Unlike the unincorporated business tax, the sales tax is generating optimism at OFM. Sales tax revenue for August, which reflects July sales, was $74 million, up 12.6 percent over last year.

The growth in the corporations tax, however, did not meet expectations. Balda said his office has reduced the expected growth in the corporations tax for the year from $34 million to $18.5 million. The overall estimated growth had been 11 percent.

Balda also said the state expected a 2 percent reduction in gas tax revenue but the take actually increased 6.8 percent the first two months of the fiscal year.

"People did travel a lot during the summer mainly because there was ample supply and gas prices were lower," he said.

Congregation fetes 20-year minister

Eugene Brewer, minister to the Church of Christ, 394 Lydall, was feted at a banquet Friday night in honor of his 20 years service to the congregation. "This Is Your Life, Gene Brewer" was the theme of the event held at The Colony in Vernon.

The salute to Brewer included a visual presentation of his life, taped messages of congratulations from friends and relatives, live phone hook-up to family members in Oklahoma, and presentations of numerous gifts.

Mr. Brewer, his wife, Barbara, and four children arrived in Manchester in the summer of 1961. Their last child was born in Manchester in 1962. He preached at the first service of the congregation, which met for three years in Orange Hall on East Center Street, on Sept. 10, 1961. Present at the first Meeting were seven families totaling 30 individuals.

During Mr. Brewer's 20 years, the congregation has grown to a membership of 247. Under his leadership the present auditorium was built in 1963, and a classroom wing was completed in 1978.

Also under his guidance, the following program were begun: Bible Call phone service, Friday day school, Tidal River Christian Camp, Storrs church of Christ, work among Laotians, and youth and counseling programs at the church.

Mr. Brewer's personal endeavors include speaking engagements in 15 states, numerous teacher training programs throughout the northwest, contributions to eight religious publications, department editor for "Search" magazine, weekly programs on WINF radio, "The Bible Speaks" newspaper article for 20 years and 13 years as a part-time teacher in Manchester schools.

The banquet Friday was the first of several events in a weekend of celebration of the church's 20th year in Manchester.

Tonight an old-fashioned hymn singing will be held at the church building beginning at 7 o'clock. Several singing groups will contribute their talents to the mainly congregational singing. The public is invited to join in the evening of old time gospel and hymn singing.

The weekend of activities will reach its peak when members and friends gather for Goal Day at which the congregation expects to host 300 worshippers. Mr. Brewer will preach the morning sermon entitled "What's In Name?" The public is again encouraged to participate in this worship period at 10 o'clock. Bible classes for all ages begin at 9 o'clock. A staffed nursery is provided for both hours.

Traffic detour planned

WETHERSFIELD (UPI) — West-bound traffic on Interstate 84-86 will be detoured through East Hartford Sunday so crews can finish repairs on an overhead bridge, Transportation Commissioner Arthur Powers said Friday.

The same repairs caused a monster traffic jam Aug. 30 as Sunday evening motorists were backed up for eight miles from East Hartford to Vernon and delayed up to three hours.

Crews expect to finish work on damaged beams on the Simmons Road bridge, Powers said. The project will be postponed in case of rain.

Powers said the westbound lanes will be closed from midnight Saturday to 11 a.m. Sunday and traffic will be detoured through East Hartford.

The tie-up lasted almost 24 hours

Operative denies bribe try in bungled sting

BRIDGEPORT (UPI) — An operative in a bungled FBI sting aimed at Bridgeport's police chief pleaded innocent Friday at a federal court hearing. The judge transferred the case from state to federal jurisdiction.

"Somebody else?" "Yes." "Who?" "Tellie Russo's," Gregorie said.

Russo had been identified by Walsh as the man who tipped him to the FBI's pending sting operation, allowing Walsh to thwart it and arrest Marra. Russo is a manager of a Bridgeport restaurant, a known hangout for federal agents as the center for a loan shark operation, that charged 40 percent weekly interest on a $1,000 loan.

Deputy sheriffs last May were reluctant to repossess equipment from the restaurant, fearing retaliation. As he left the courthouse, Walsh said he was convinced the attempted bribe was Marra's idea. "He left a hidden tape recorder but also with a body mike him and that's when Marra brought it up," Walsh said. Gregorie implied in his testimony the sting went awry almost from the beginning, despite precautions. First, Marra was outfitted not only with a hidden tape recorder but also with a body mike however, that Marra got into an automobile with payment Marra offered on the bribe, the tape recorder, and the body mike.

If Marra was convicted for attempted bribery he would face a 2½ to 5 year prison term, Brown said.

OPINION / commentary

Same evidence tried Williams twice

WASHINGTON — The Justice Department's pursuit of Sen. Harrison Williams, D-N.J., led the prosecutors to commit a long list of improprieties. Not the least among them was the stage-managing of the Senate investigation into his ethics. In effect, they tried him twice on the same dubious evidence. The Senate should have made its own independent determination of Williams' guilt in the ABS-CAM case. The presence of the ubiquitous prosecutors in the Senate wings raises a troubling question: How far should the executive branch be allowed to go in its efforts to drive a United States senator out of office?

Williams wanted the Senate Ethics Committee to conduct a full investigation, not just rely on the government's tainted evidence. Instead, Justice Department officials were allowed to guide the committee from backstage. They conspired with staff investigators and briefed the senators in closed sessions.

Long before Williams was found guilty, courtroom observers spotted a frequent visitor huddling with ABS-CAM prosecutor Thomas Puccio during the trial. The mysterious stranger was identified by witnesses as the Ethics Committee's counsel, Donald Sanders. This hardly reflects an independent investigation by the legislative branch.

The senator requested extra time to prepare his case and present it at a public hearing. He was turned down. Yet the committee granted the Justice Department months to prepare its case against Williams — which was presented to the senators behind closed doors.

This Star Chamber presentation — Williams was not allowed to be on hand to confront his accusers — did not persuade all the members of the committee from backstage. They were convinced the Justice

Jack Anderson
Washington Merry-Go-Round

Department didn't have a case against him.

In fact, a source close to the committee told my associate Indy Badwar that at one of the closed sessions a Justice Department official conceded that the facts did not match the law. The committee should have subpoenaed the prosecution records immediately. Instead, then-chairman Howell Heflin, D-Ala., gave the department an additional three months to make unleashed a convicted con man, Mel Weinberg, to lure the senator into the ABS-CAM trap. The FBI knew Weinberg was a liar, cheat and criminal. Yet he was given virtually a free hand to weave a web of lies in order to entrap a U.S. senator.

— This closely coincided with word to Williams that he could get in trouble if he supported Sen. Ted Kennedy, D-Mass., in the crucial New Jersey primary. Williams told me the warning was carefully worded and would have to be described more as a hint than a threat. Yet it's no secret that then-President Jimmy Carter, who controlled the Justice Department, felt menaced by Kennedy.

— Weinberg kept raising the bait in the ABS-CAM trap until it reached a staggering $100 million loan that belonged to two friends. Even chief FBI agent John Good acknowledged the sum "was almost an irresistible inducement for any normal human being."

— In any event, it is not illegal for a senator to negotiate a business loan from a wealthy Arab. Williams and his friends were seeking financing for a legitimate business venture.

The senator indicated he might acquire an interest in the mine. But he made it clear that he planned to put the stock in his own name and disclose his interest in the mine. Such open ownership would have made it impossible for him to seek government contracts for the mine.

— Thus the FBI agents clearly were failing in their effort to induce Williams to engage in criminal activity. So they instructed Weinberg to encourage the senator to solicit government contracts. The suggestion that he commit a crime positively originated with the FBI agent John Good acknowledged the government, with high-level approval.

An unwelcome addition to town

From the Pawtucket (R.I.) Evening Times

The man's name, according to Pawtucket Police Department records, is Raymond Fisher. He lives in an apartment house in Pawtucket with his wife. He has lived in Pawtucket, he told the Times, for 15 years, moving here from the all-white upper middle class Massachusetts town of Norwood.

Fisher says he is 39 years old and never saw a black person until he moved to Pawtucket. His statement would indicate he led a very, very sheltered existence in Norwood, an existence which would include never turning on a television set or picking up a newspaper.

Fisher also states quite pointedly: "I don't like blacks." That statement is not so hard to understand if you follow Fisher's background. He is the leader of the Pawtucket Klavern of the Invisible Knights of the Ku Klux Klan.

At the moment there are only two members of the Pawtucket Klavern — Fisher and his wife. Local "headquarters" is in a second floor apartment on Both Avenue which also serves as living quarters for Fisher and his wife.

Fisher, who is unemployed, admits he is having a little trouble rounding up more members for his klavern. "We're trying to grow here but we can't seem to get members. It's very hard, there's just the two of us." He maintains there were some members in Pawtucket but recent violence at Klan-sponsored rallies in Meriden, Conn., where Klansmen had to be rescued by police, scared his membership away. "Ever since Meriden, they all quit," he admits.

There are many things that need help and understanding to unite a very diverse population. Members of the Ku Klux Klan, proclaiming themselves to be staunch defenders of America, stand very meekly when standing alone. James Farrands, southern New England leader of the KKK and one of those who needed police protection in Connecticut, has an unlisted phone number, so proud is he to stand up for the Klan and America. Likewise Raymond Fisher, Pawtucket leader of the Klan.

After an interview with the Times, Fisher had second thoughts. He called and asked that his name be kept out of the paper.

Seems to say a lot about these "defenders of the American way" and what they really stand for.

Terror, old and new

Donald Graff

There is a more or less classic pattern for descent into revolutionary terror that was cut in France almost 300 years ago.

First the relatively moderate leadership, those who would temper revolutionary fervor with reason, are swept away by the fanatics. The Mirabeaus and Dantons give way to the Robespierres and marats.

Factional differences erupt into factional warfare and rule by institutions is replaced by the merciless tyranny of the mob, or those who would dominate the mob. The executor becomes for a time the supreme authority as the revolution devours its children by the hundreds and thousands.

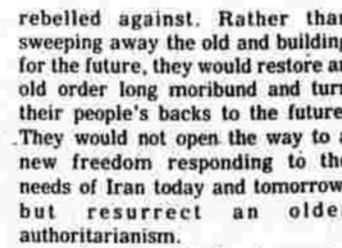

It is a pattern that is being followed with precision so far in Iran.

The Bakhtiaris and Bani-Sadr are gone. The foreign war against the Iraqi invader and quarrels with the Kurds and other rebellious minorities have been pushed to the background by the escalating internal conflict. The fundamentalist mullahs have triumphed over the moderate political opposition only to face what is proving itself as an even more formidable foe in the Mujahideen, young leftists who share the Islamic zeal but not the commitment to a dead past of the mullahs and are, if anything, even more ruthless.

The mullahs are responding to the Mujahideen's wholesale assassinations of the religious leadership with repression that increasingly not only resembles but exceeds that of the reviled shah.

Savak, the dreaded secret police, has been reconstituted with a thin cosmetic name change. Family members are instructed to inform upon each other. Suspected dissidents are being arrested wholesale. Firing squads, already working overtime, are exhorted to greater efforts. There have been an acknowledged 500 executions and very likely many more in the few months since the ouster of former President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr.

The terror is here and the Iranian rebelled against. Rather than sweeping away the old and building for the future, they would restore an old order long moribund and turn their people's backs to the future. They would not open the way to a new freedom responding to the needs of Iran today and tomorrow, but resurrect an older authoritarianism.

In this respect, the Iranian revolution is something new, an updating of a classic, and may have something to teach us.

Which could be another way of saying that the worst may be yet to come.

Reform becomes elitist

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The Democratic Party's most recent effort to examine the rules and procedures governing selection of its presidential nominees threatens to negate more than a decade of progressive structural reform.

For the fifth time in 12 years, the party has assembled a special committee to analyze the efficacy of its process of selecting presidential nominees and recommend revisions to the Democratic National Committee.

Unlike most of the previous panels, however, the new commission already is being subjected to considerable pressure from the party's leadership to accept ill-advised rules revisions even before it has an opportunity to seriously consider the merits — or lack thereof — of the proposed changes.

A top leaders' hidden agenda is a scheme to grant all Democratic senators, representatives and governors — and possibly other elected officials — automatic delegate status and full voting rights at all future presidential nominating conventions of their party.

When the commission held its first meeting here in late August, a "party line" was laid down by Democratic National Chairman Charles T. Manatt, who touted "the important role of the elected politician in the selection of the party (presidential) nominee."

While Manatt was promoting that concept as "a very vital part of the process," North Carolina Gov. James B. Hunt Jr., chairman of the 69-member commission, was offering a similar paean to his fellow office holders.

"I think it is essential if we are going to win."

Thus, the die was cast even before the commission began to solicit the opinions of grass-roots Democrats at a series of regional hearings to be held this autumn in Des Moines, Iowa; Chattanooga, Tenn.; Anaheim, Calif.; and Washington.

In fact, the current rules, in force during the 1980 Democratic National Convention, already grant to all senators, representatives, governors and DNC members ex officio delegate status with all privileges except the right to vote.

In addition, the present system authorizes a special 10 percent expansion of each state's delegation to the quadrennial nominating conventions for the express purpose of granting full voting rights to "party leaders and elected officials."

An elaborate survey conducted by CBS News showed that there were no fewer than 788 public officials at the party's 1980 convention — including senators, representatives, mayors, city council members and county commissioners — who comprised 24 percent of all voting delegates.

Your neighbors' views

What is your reaction to the death of Rep. William R. Cotter from cancer earlier this week?

DOUGLAS F. WELCH, Manchester: "It's very tragic. I think it was something that may have been expected, yet it came so much more quickly than anyone expected. It's very tragic."

JIM MARBROUGH, Manchester: "I think it was pretty bad. He was a good man from what I knew of him. He went through a lot."

RUSK, Manchester: "He was a good man. He was one of the greatest guys, and I'm not just saying that because he died. Any time you'd call him for a favor or for anything, he'd be right there personally."

TERRY SWEENEY, Manchester: "He was a pretty good man. He was one of the greatest guys, and I'm not just saying that because he died. Any time you'd call him for a favor or for anything, he'd be right there personally."

JOHN D. DIDONATO, Manchester: "He was a pretty good man. He was one of the greatest guys, and I'm not just saying that because he died. Any time you'd call him for a favor or for anything, he'd be right there personally."

WILLIAM FATSCHER, Manchester: "He was a pretty good man. He was one of the greatest guys, and I'm not just saying that because he died. Any time you'd call him for a favor or for anything, he'd be right there personally."

TONY LOPEDOTA, Manchester: "I thought there was nothing wrong with him—I would have voted for him. It seems everybody is dying of cancer now, first Grasso and now him. It's too bad."

STEVE CURRY, Hartford: "I'm not too politically involved, but I thought it was unfortunate. I've heard nothing but good things about him. He was a young man, too—that's for sure—and it wasn't his time. So, I think it was very unfortunate."

THEODORE SMITH, Hartford: "It's too bad. I hate to see anyone go with cancer. It's a bad way to go. I lost my mother that way."

Obituaries

Mrs. Luce G. Bessette, 80, of 333 Bidwell St. died Friday at Manchester Memorial Hospital. She was the widow of Ernest Bessette. She was born in Canada on Nov. 5, 1900 and had been a resident of West Springfield, Mass. for 50 years before moving to Manchester in 1973. She participated in the "Grandmothers' Program at Mansfield Training School from 1973-75. She leaves a daughter, Pauline Lautenbach of Manchester; two brothers, Dominique Gagnon in Canada, three granddaughters, Susan and Marie LaPlante in Canada, three grandchildren and two great-grandchildren. Funeral services will be held Monday at 9 a.m. at the Curran-Jones Funeral Home, Route 5, 109 Main St., West Springfield with a mass of Christian burial at 10 a.m. in St. Louis Church. Burial will be in St. Thomas Cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home Sunday from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m. Memorial donations may be made to a charity of the donor's choice.

Manchester Deputy Mayor Stephen T. Cassano was among the local citizens who attended Rep. William R. Cotter's funeral at Hartford's St. Joseph Cathedral Friday.

Two men rob bank

SOUTHINGTON (UPI) — Two men wearing ski masks and armed with either shotguns or machine guns held up the Southington Bank and Trust Co. Friday and escaped with an undetermined amount of cash, police said. Police said eyewitnesses said the bandits displayed either shotguns or machine guns, but no shots were fired and no injuries were reported. The bandits pointed the weapons at a teller, demanded cash and later sped from the bank in a small, brown car driven by a third man, police said.

There were no customers in the bank and only three employees when the robbery occurred about 9:30 a.m. at the bank's office at the corner of Route 66 and Old Turnpike Road, police said. The FBI was assisting local police investigating the holdup. The amount of money taken was not determined, police said.

Fire won't stop work

WATERBURY (UPI) — A minor fire that damaged scaffolding at the unfinished Millstone III nuclear power plant won't affect the plant's construction schedule, a Northeast Utilities spokesman said Friday. The fire in the 160-foot high containment building was reported at 9:02 p.m. Thursday and was under control 30 minutes later, police said. The Millstone III plant is 40 percent complete and scheduled to go into operation in May 1986. Northeast spokesman Clifford Hill said the fire marshal's report on the cause of the blaze was incomplete. He said two possible causes were a Curt lamp used for area lighting and a welding machine. The heavy smoke and difficulty in reaching the fire hampered firefighters, Hill said. "If the fire had been on the ground, it would have been over and done with in five to 10 minutes," Hill said he was told by firefighters. "But they (firefighters) had to go up a narrow, temporary stairway in darkness and heavy smoke," Hill said. "It was a minor fire but a considerable problem for firemen." The damage was confined to 50 feet of wooden planking on the scaffolding, 100 feet off the ground, police said. No injuries were reported, Hill said, and there was never any danger to the community or to the Millstone I and II plants.

Gov. William A. O'Neill delivered one of the Bible readings. A military honor guard carried the coffin into the cathedral, while Cotter's sister, Betty Adinolfi, and other relatives followed in procession. Rev. Francis Hale of St. John the Evangelist Church in West Hartford, a childhood friend of Cotter's, celebrated the mass, along with Archbishop John Whealon and 20 other priests. "Bill was filled with compassion and caring," said Hale in his homily. "He always did the best he could. And the best of Bill Cotter was, to say the least, superb. When this illness was discovered, he expressed great surprise at the outpouring of love and this surprise was the last expression of his great humility." "So far as we can judge, Congressman Cotter served his God just as much as he served his people," added Archbishop Whealon. A late morning memorial was held at a West Hartford funeral home before the procession to the cathedral. As the church bells rang, a crowd of more than 100 people gathered across Farmington Avenue, on Aet-

Boy injured hit by train

NEW HAVEN (UPI) — A 6-year-old Norwich boy was listed in fair condition Friday at Yale New Haven Hospital, recovering from injuries he suffered when he was run over by a freight train, police said. Police said Tracy Berge was playing on tracks near his home when he apparently tried to grab onto the Providence and Worcester freight train and slipped underneath Thursday. Police said the youth's foot was nearly severed in the accident. He was found near the tracks by his mother, who apparently heard his cries from the family's home, police said.

Man charged in robbery

A 24-year-old Colchester man was arrested Friday by Manchester police in connection with an armed robbery in August. Timothy Barry was being held on $10,000 bond. He was charged with armed robbery in the first degree and larceny in the fourth degree. Barry was charged in connection with an Aug. 24 robbery at Cumberland Farms, 210 W. Center St. Police said the man, one with a gun, held up the store, netting about $60, according to police reports.

Flim-flams similar

In a case Wetherfield police are calling "very similar" to a recent Manchester flim-flam an elderly woman lost $1,500 Thursday, police said. The man asked her to withdraw money from her account and hand it over. Police said the woman was then contacted by a man posing as a police officer who took the money from her.

Driver faces charges

An East Hartford woman was arrested Thursday and charged with interfering with a police officer and driving under the influence of alcohol, police said. Marie W. Dziedzic, 22, was stopped by police while driving on Hartford Road after an officer noticed one of her front tires smoking.

Driver faces charges

After observing Ms. Dziedzic the officer placed her under arrest, police said. Ms. Dziedzic was taken to headquarters and became violent when police attempted to place her in a cell, they said. Ms. Dziedzic was released on $500 bond and is scheduled to appear in court Sept. 21.

Martina upsets Chris 7-5, 4-6, 6-4

NEW YORK (UPI) — Martina Navratilova, bidding to win the U.S. Open in her first year as an American citizen, upset defending champion Chris Evert Lloyd in three grueling sets Friday to gain the finals against Tracy Austin. Navratilova, who defected from Czechoslovakia six years ago at this same championship and received her citizenship papers a month ago, turned back a gallant bid by Evert, 7-5, 4-6, 5-4, after Austin, the third seed, had disposed of Barbara Potter, 6-1, 6-3.

"I never felt like I played my game. It was like I was holding it back," said Navratilova, seeded fourth. "I was as excited as if I won the finals." Evert, a five-time Open champion, made the first break of the final set, in the third game, and with her experience and consistency it seemed she would be able to run out the match. But Navratilova broke back at love in the eighth game and then won the match with another break in the 10th.

Most unusual for Evert, she double faulted at deuce in the last game, then sent a forehand lob long to end the 2 and 12 minute match. "I feel disappointed because I played well all previous matches," said Evert, "who had won 28 of 41 previous matches with Navratilova." "I don't think I played well today. Maybe it's Martina's turn. On crucial points I played a little sloppy. "I never felt like I played my game. It was like I was holding it back."

The third set was interrupted twice because of a disturbance high in the stands. Three men continually annoyed Navratilova by yelling "Come on Chris" when Martina would serve, and police finally ejected them. One of the three was arrested for disturbing the peace. "This isn't a comfortable place," Navratilova said. "If I had two weeks off I wouldn't exactly come here and walk around."

Amateur Jimmy Horvath, right, of Manchester, enjoyed the company of Mike Reid, a touring pro, as his caddy. In winning the fifth annual National Caddy Golf Tournament last Monday in New York, usually the shoe is on the other foot, Horvath being Reid's caddy on the PGA circuit.

Trio of hecklers at wrong stadium

NEW YORK (UPI) — There were only three hecklers in section 306 of the sold-out Louis A. Armstrong Stadium Friday, but they were making enough of a scene to hold up the U.S. Open tennis championships. With Chris Evert Lloyd and Martina Navratilova engaged in a memorable women's singles duel, the hecklers decided to yell out, "Come on, Chris," or "Come on, Martina," at the worst possible times — when one was about to serve or during a tense volley. Gradually, the 18,000 fans became aware of them, and unfortunately, so did the players. Play had to stop for about 10 minutes with Evert leading 3-2 in the final set with a dozen unearned security guards, guided by pointing fans, attempted to escort the three out of the stadium. Two left peacefully but one had to be carried out, to the cheers of the fans while another day ensued. The victorious Navratilova, who at one point exhorted the hecklers to "Shut up," was upset by the incident although she said she had a worse experience once, when dead mice

Colts and Bills in headliner

Pro serves as caddy

If last week was any indication, Bert Jones may be able to rest his arm in the Baltimore Colts' "Pony Express" backfield carry the ball to its destination. The Colts, who host the AFC champion Buffalo Bills Sunday, boast a pair of impressive young running backs in Curtis Dickey and rookie Randy McMillan. In last week's 28-28 upset of New England, McMillan rushed for two touchdowns and 146 yards on 16 carries while the speedy Dickey had one TD and 80 yards on 22 carries. Overall, the Colts picked up 249 yards on the ground while Jones threw just 20 times, completing 12 for 96 yards. On Sunday, however, the Colts will go against a Bills' defense that was tops in the AFC in 1980. True to form, Buffalo allowed just 231 total yards against the New York Jets in posting a 31-0 triumph. It should be remembered though that the Colts have a three-game winning streak over the Bills, handing Buffalo two of its five regular-season losses in 1980. Elsewhere Sunday it's Atlanta at Green Bay, Detroit at San Diego, Houston at Cleveland, Denver at Seattle, Tampa Bay at Kansas City, St. Louis at Dallas, Cincinnati at the New York Jets, Los Angeles at New Orleans, the New York Giants at Washington and Chicago at San Francisco. Oakland is at Minnesota Monday night. In Thursday night's game, Miami blasted Pittsburgh 30-10 for its second straight triumph while the Steelers suffered their second straight loss. The loss marked the first time since 1970 that the Steelers dropped their first two games.

Whalers launch practice Monday

HARTFORD (UPI) — The Hartford Whalers open their fall training camp Monday with 68 players for pre-season workouts at the Ice Palace in Bolton, head coach Larry Pleau said Friday. The group includes 16 centers, 12 right wingers, 13 left wingers, 21 defensemen and six goaltenders. The Whalers, who celebrate their 10 years of major league hockey this season and their third in the National Hockey League, open the regular season Oct. 9 at Quebec. The first of eight pre-season games will be Sept. 19 at the Hartford Civic Center against the Toronto Maple Leafs. Pleau said the 68 players reporting for camp is the largest number ever invited to the Whalers' pre-season workouts. "However, it is important that we look at any player who can help our organization, either immediately or in the future," he said. Hartford failed to qualify for the 1980-81 playoffs, finishing the season with a 21-41-18 record. Assisting Pleau at the training camp will be former players Rick Gaudin, John Cummings, Binghamton coaches Larry Kirk and Jacques Caron; Gordie Howe, the Whalers' director of player development; and Bob Crocker, assistant director of hockey operations.

Morrone cited

TULSA, Okla. (UPI) — Tulsa Roughnecks midfielder Joe Morrone has been selected North American Soccer League Rookie Player of the Year, Roughnecks officials announced Friday. NASL representatives announced the award Friday and will honor Morrone at an awards dinner in Toronto Sept. 24. Morrone, 22, was the Roughnecks' third leading scorer last season. He was a member of the U.S. Olympic soccer team and was a three-time All-America soccer in college. His performance at the University of Connecticut last year won Morrone the Hermann Trophy as the nation's outstanding collegiate soccer player.

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — The Pittsburgh Penguins have acquired goaltender Paul Harrison from the Toronto Maple Leafs in exchange for future considerations, Penguin General Manager Bob Bastien announced Friday. Harrison, 26, was a second round draft choice by Minnesota in 1975 and was traded to Toronto in 1978.

All eyes on Irish and Coach Faust

By Kay McFadden
UPI Sports Writer

The original Faust traded his soul to the Devil in exchange for knowledge and power. It remains to be seen just what Notre Dame head coach Gerry Faust will beget for his quest for that honor Saturday in South Bend against Louisiana State, led by a Cincinnati who accumulated a 174-17-2 record at Moeller High School in Cincinnati, Ohio, and who has been dreaming about this job for a very long time. "I know it will be an emotional moment for me the first time we hit the field," said Faust, who was named Notre Dame's 24th head coach following the departure of Dan Devine at the end of last season. "That's something I've thought about a great deal since coming to Notre Dame."

But I also know that once we go out there, the honeymoon is over. It's time for us to get down to business and start trying to win football games. One of the things Faust has done to get off on a winning foot is to install a multidimensional offense, directed by quarterback Blair Kiel and featuring running backs Phil Carter and Toby Hunter and tight end Dean Maszack. Faust also benefits from the return of 16 returning starters — eight each on defense and offense — that he has inherited among 38 letter-winners back overall. The Notre Dame rushing attack was ranked 19th in the nation last year and will feature an awesome coupling in senior Phil Ponder, a 6'9", 276-pound right tackle, and junior Mike Shiner, a 6'8", 270-pound right guard.

LSU, which lost 24-7 to No. 3 Alabama last week, appears to be faced with a lopsided task at the very least. "We feel going to South Bend to play Notre Dame is a tremendous opportunity for us," said LSU Coach Jerry Stovall. "They may be physically as big as any team in America, including any team in the NFL." Opportunity is one way to describe it. Stovall will also have the doubtful luck to face one of college football's most powerful defensive lines as well. Led by All-America linebacker Bob Crable, the Irish allowed an average of 5.6 points per game, 166.5 total yards and 59.6 passing yards over the last seven regular-season

Yanks stop RSox, 4-1

NEW YORK (UPI) — Dave Rightt struck out 11 and combined with Rich Gossage on a two-hitter Friday night in leading the New York Yankees to a 4-1 triumph over the Boston Red Sox in the first game of the season between the American League East rivals.

Rightt was relieved by Gossage after giving up a single to Jerry Remy and his fifth walk to start the eighth. Gossage, who was credited with 20th save, yielded a sacrifice fly to Dwight Evans that drove in Rick Miller with Boston's run in the eighth.

All-Sports radio in $$$ trouble

AVON, Conn. (UPI) — Employees of Enterprise Radio, a 24-hour all-sports radio network, were told Friday the company will cease operations next week unless it receives a massive infusion of capital.

However, a company officer said he was confident an agreement would be signed by the deadline next Thursday. He said an apparent verbal agreement, which would allow the network to continue operations, had been reached with unnamed investors.

Preparation important

Very often, students will express the inability to hold groundstrokes when pressured or on the run. Many of the same players will also struggle on the return of serve or they feel rushed on every swing they take.

Tom Casalino, USPTA

In these situations the inevitable problem comes down to one thing — a lack of good preparation skills. By my definition, racquet preparation is the ability to bring the racquet into a position to start the forward swing into the ball. Some players refer to it as the backswing.

A student should put into perspective the time frame in which everything happens in a tennis stroke. Initially, as the ball is hit back to us the decision must be made whether we are going to hit a backhand or forehand.

Birdies by Stephenson wake up sleepy course

SUFFOLK, Va. (UPI) — Jan Stephenson woke up the Sleepy Hole Golf Course with seven birdies Friday to take a two-stroke lead in the first round of the $125,000 Suffolk LPGA.

Stephenson, with four birdies on the front nine and three more on the back side, led the field with a 67, a one-stroke lead over the par-3, 132-yard fourth hole, reached the par-5 fifth hole to snap a two-game losing streak and popped in another 12-fer on No. 6.

Following a 5-foot birdie putt that rimmed out on the seventh hole, Stevenson landed a 3-fer from the pin on the par-4, 322-yard eighth hole and sank her fourth birdie on the front side.

Her hot streak continued on the back nine as she put her second shot on the par-5 19th when she chipped it within 6 feet and the par-3 16th hole when she rolled in an 8-foot downhill putt.

Cedeno fined and suspension cancelled

NEW YORK (UPI) — Cesar Cedeno was fined $5,000 but his indefinite suspension cancelled Friday by the president of the National League, who partially exonerated the Houston Astros' first baseman for entering the stands to confront a fan in Atlanta.

"Therefore," Feeney concluded, "for entering the stands in Atlanta in the game of Tuesday, Sept. 8, Cesar Cedeno is fined the sum of $5,000 and the indefinite suspension is cancelled as of this date."

Rookie, amateur in golf spotlight

SUTTON, Mass. (UPI) — South African rookie Denis Watson, playing in just his 10th tournament of the year, shot a 4-under par 67 Friday to catch Curtis Strange and Jack Renner for a three-way tie midway through the $300,000 Pleasant Valley Classic.

When told he would probably be paired with Ray Floyd on Saturday, Faxon said, "I just hope to be able to get the ball on the tee."

Perry has same fire inside

NEW YORK (UPI) — Joe Torre has a way of getting right to the core of things. When he talks, it never hurts to listen because he doesn't make your ears tired.

Milt Richman

"Gaylord doesn't throw as hard as he used to anymore, he's not as thin as he used to be and he doesn't have as much hair on his head as he once had, but he still has the same fire inside. He's one of the most unbelievable competitors you'll ever see in your lifetime and he gives you your money's worth every time he goes out there."

"I'm not going around begging for the team to give me a chance," he says. "If they think I can help, maybe I'll get the chance without having to ask for it."

How much does it mean for him to get that 300th?
In some ways, no. Not that he says, yet another way, it means a lot—the name thing it means to someone like Early Wynn, who struggled so hard and so long to name down the last of his 300 wins and even came out of retirement for it.

"It's not really going to affect my life very much if I do or I don't get it," Perry says, possibly preparing himself for the disappointment of finishing up with only 299 or 298. "It probably means more to the people I know, to win." Whether he wins 300 or not, Gaylord Perry certainly will get my vote for the Hall of Fame and I can't see him having any great trouble collecting enough votes to be elected. You never know, though. Here's a man who's the only pitcher in baseball history ever to win the Cy Young Award in BOTH leagues—with Cleveland in 1972 and with San Diego in 1978 at the age of 40. No active pitcher has any more victories than him and he and Jim Bunning are the only ones to win 100 or more games and record 1,000 strikeouts in each league.

Perry has won 20 games or more five different times and you can win yourself some money betting no one remembers the last time he missed winning his regular turn. He fore some ligaments in his ankle with the Giants in 1966 and missed a few turns when he was on the disabled list then but still won 21 games that year. The next time he missed a turn, and then it was only one, was 12 years later when he came up with a back spasm with the Padres.

What he finds toughest now is controlling his weight. He broke into the big leagues at 215 back in 1962 and is 230 now. "You can accept losing some speed on your fast ball and losing some speed on your feet also comes rather natural," he says. "There are two things you can't control. Weight is something you can control. It takes discipline. I quit eating desserts some time ago and very seldom eat any potatoes. Usually, all I have for breakfast is a piece of dry bread and some honey."

For years, Perry has been accused of throwing the outlawed spitter, and if you go around asking National League hitters now, they'll tell you he still throws it.

Golden anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. John Lamenzo were honored at a golden wedding celebration given by their six children at the home of their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Lamenzo of Broad Brook. Eighty friends and family joined in the outdoor celebration. Included in their party were the 12 grandchildren.

Mr. Lamenzo, a Manchester native, graduated from Pratt Institute and retired from the Hartford Insurance Group in 1967. He spent the next 10 years as a management consultant for several insurance companies.

Mrs. Lamenzo, a graduate of St. Joseph College in West Hartford, taught at Nathan Hale School for two years, leaving there to teach in Greenwich for three years. She has been director of Hilltop Nursery School in Manchester for 35 years.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Lamenzo served their community and the state on various boards and commissions. They have traveled extensively on the North American and European continents and hope to visit the Orient soon.

They have three sons: Marshall Lamenzo of Broad Brook, David Lamenzo of Granby and John Lamenzo of Hartford; and three daughters, Mrs. Claire-Anne Oakley of Williamstown, Mass., Miss Jean Lamenzo of Glastonbury and Miss Mary-Alice Lamenzo of Warner, N.H.

Wife not able to get a 'bond'

DEAR ABBY: I am a 28-year-old professional woman who recently married a 38-year-old professional man with four children from a previous marriage. Although Rob claims not to care for his ex-wife, she still has frequent contact, allegedly over the children. When she asks him for money "for the children," he gives it to her. When I ask for something he'll "think about it."

I've worked hard for four years and want to stay home and raise a family. Rob says to both. He says he has enough children, but I believe that if he really loved me, he would want us to have a child.

My question: Is there a way to convince Rob that since he loves his four children so much, he would also love and enjoy any children we might have together? I also believe that a child would "bond" us and bring us together.

HATES WORK: IF I knew of a way to "convince" Rob to let you quit work and have a child, I wouldn't recommend it, because Rob has already said he has enough children. Furthermore, if you were able to convince him to have a child in an effort to "bond" you together, it would be a mistake.

Be honest. You are hoping to compete with Rob's ex-wife by giving him a second family, which he doesn't really want. You can't win. The "er" is held for ages.

DEAR ABBY: Please, please put something in your column about the futility of sneaking around to date married men. My beautiful 24-year-old daughter is having an affair with a married man, and nothing I say can stop her. He's twice her age and gives no hope of leaving his wife. He works in our small town and goes home to his wife on his days off, but my daughter sees him when she can.

I am afraid the whole town (including his wife) will find out about it, and I don't want to see my daughter dragged through a divorce court, but she won't listen to me. Maybe she will listen to you.

What are my risk factors?

DEAR DR. LAMB - Would you tell me what I can do to find out about my risk factors? I read your column and you said they were a good guide as to what you should do about exercise.

Will exercise help you lower your risk factors? Which do you think is the most important, an exercise stress test with an EKG or finding out what your risk factors are before you begin an exercise program? I am planning on becoming a serious jogger.

I am 47 years old, male, 5 feet 11 and weigh 165 pounds. My blood pressure has always been normal and I do not smoke. I am a little heavy since I do have a little fat around the middie. DEAR READER - The three most important risk factors are cigarette smoking, blood pressure and cholesterol level. You should see your doctor and let him have your cholesterol levels checked.

You might also want your arteries that predispose to heart attacks and strokes. Stay on top of the news - subscribe to The Manchester Herald. For home delivery, call 647-9944 or 646-9947.

Also, the less you smoke the better off you are but you will still have an increased risk even with light smoking.

How these three factors are used to evaluate your risk of heart disease is explained in The Health Letter number 13-2. How To Measure Your Risk of Heart Disease, which I am sending you.

Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

I think the risk factors are far more important in determining what you should do about exercise than an EKG stress test.

CLUES ACROSS:

- 1. STORM not story. The idea of the quiet before the STORM is an apt simile. "Story" is more strictly a question of people being quiet so that the story/teller can begin.
2. BELL not bell. The clue suggests the bell that man used to getting the things he wants in an acquisitive sense (favoring BELL), rather than a question of a man getting his own way in the matter of being told something.
3. WEEDY not weed. A very WEEDY (tall and thin) young man "may not be tall but he has a lot of weed" (as in the working suggestion of condescension), whereas a very weedy young man simply hasn't got the money.
4. SCALE not scale. The fact of publication being on a big SCALE gives "all the more" reason for accuracy, but the subject of the story (big money) is less to the point in this way.
5. IDEAS not ideal. The clue's usage: "The own social" (as in "as if in a dream") is not necessarily a "hardly viewed as restrictive" (as in "as if in a dream") but one is trying to avoid adding (as if) rather than specifically a bad side.
6. ABEY not abey. One ABEY certainly restricts one's activities in some ways. Being abey (not necessarily abey) is hardly viewed as restrictive.
7. LET not let. The fact that the dog looks your hand is not necessarily an indication that it wants you to pat it. You may, of course, be "quite sure" that it does what it appears to want, i.e., to lick your hand.
22. PURCHASES not purchase. The idea of "remembering, or not remembering, PURCHASES" in "detail" is truly apt, but there is no particular reason why the clues should be aware of a purchaser "in detail" even at the time of sale.

CLUES DOWN:

- 2. THINK not tick. The clue suits a container (as having contents) better than a vehicle which could have a load, say.
3. BELL not bell. The clue suggests the bell that man used to getting the things he wants in an acquisitive sense (favoring BELL), rather than a question of a man getting his own way in the matter of being told something.
4. WEEDY not weed. A very WEEDY (tall and thin) young man "may not be tall but he has a lot of weed" (as in the working suggestion of condescension), whereas a very weedy young man simply hasn't got the money.
5. SCALE not scale. The fact of publication being on a big SCALE gives "all the more" reason for accuracy, but the subject of the story (big money) is less to the point in this way.
6. IDEAS not ideal. The clue's usage: "The own social" (as in "as if in a dream") is not necessarily a "hardly viewed as restrictive" (as in "as if in a dream") but one is trying to avoid adding (as if) rather than specifically a bad side.
7. LET not let. The fact that the dog looks your hand is not necessarily an indication that it wants you to pat it. You may, of course, be "quite sure" that it does what it appears to want, i.e., to lick your hand.
22. PURCHASES not purchase. The idea of "remembering, or not remembering, PURCHASES" in "detail" is truly apt, but there is no particular reason why the clues should be aware of a purchaser "in detail" even at the time of sale.

Classes in English planned for adults

Day and evening classes for Manchester area adults new to this country will begin Tuesday, Sept. 15 when the Manchester Evening School classes begin.

Adults who are not proficient with the English language are eligible to attend these free classes, funded through the Adult Basic Education Program.

Classes will meet two mornings each week beginning Tuesday, from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m. at the Washington School, located at 94 Cedar St.

Mrs. Elizabeth Seigel will be the instructor for this class, which will meet Tuesdays and Thursday mornings. This class, in its second year, has been added to accommodate the large number of refugee and new immigrant families now living in the area, and with limited or no English skills.

Walz-Hunt

The engagement of Miss Linda Ann Walz of Glastonbury to Donald Edward Hunt of East Hartford was announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond W. Walz Jr. of Old Saybrook.

Mr. Hunt is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hunt of East Hartford.

Miss Walz graduated from Old Saybrook Senior High School and St. Vincent's Hospital and Medical Center School of Nursing. She is employed at Pratt & Whitney Aircraft Division of United Technologies Corp. in East Hartford.

Mr. Hunt graduated from Penn State University and St. Francis Hospital and Medical Center. He is employed as a pulmonary technician at St. Francis Hospital and Medical Center.

The couple is planning a Jan. 9, 1982 wedding at South United Methodist Church in Manchester. (Wilcox photo)

Family picnic planned

Games and sports from 2 to 5 p.m. for adults and children. Picnic attendees to the picnic should tell the guard at the gate that they are going to the Manchester International Council picnic. A donation of $1 per family should be paid at the registration picnic at area two.

News for senior citizens

Farewell party for Fortin first of many events

Hi, everyone! Now that Labor Day has gone by and fall is on its way, the following months will be very busy. First on the agenda: The seniors will be having a dinner-dance, a retirement farewell party for our director, Wally Fortin, on Oct. 1 at the Army and Navy Club. Cocktail hour will begin at 6 p.m., followed by a chicken dinner. The orchestra, led by Lou Joubert, will play for dancing. The donation is $6.50 and tickets may be purchased at the center. For those not able to attend, we will have a dinner at the center for Wally, followed by a program planned by Gloria and myself.

A reminder that our bowling league will be starting Tuesday at the Parkade Lanes. We still have openings for anyone interested.

Remember, starting Tuesday from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m., our oil painting class will begin. Our instructor will be Peg Winther. If you would like to try your hand at painting, be sure to attend. Then on Wednesday, Rosemary Cornelius will start a new class in drawing. The exercise classes and ceramic classes will start the first week in October. Incidentally, anyone interested in joining our retraining class is urged to sign up. It will start Oct. 6 and we have all the necessary tools and some knowledgeable and experienced seniors to guide you along. If you are interested in joining our popular canning class in November, your piece should be reformed first. Our chess league and dart league will start in November, so keep in touch for further details.

For Thursday, our program will follow a delicious baked meatloaf dinner. Gladys Hayes from the federal Food Stamp program will answer questions concerning food stamps.

These are just a few of the many programs to be offered at the center. Many of the programs are run with the aid of senior volunteers, which enables us to have so many different programs. For anyone with a suggestion about a program, I am always willing to listen. If it is feasible, we will try to implement it.

As far as trips are concerned, we will have registration Monday at 8 a.m. for the Restland Farms trip. The trip includes a musical and vaudeville, a dinner with a choice of roast sirloin or chicken, and a tour of the Restland Farms. The trip will be Tuesday, Nov. 3.

The Senior Citizen Membership Golf Championship will be Monday, Sept. 14, at the Manchester Country Club. It will be a nine-hole tournament with prizes awarded to "gross" and "net" players. Application forms may be picked up at the center or surrounding golf courses.

The center wants to buy a regulation table bottom pool for our game room, as well as a hand saw for our woodworking room. If you can help, please contact me at the center.

Attention to all our square dancers: Our new caller will be Don Atkinson. We are still trying to set the date to begin. Please save Wednesday mornings from 10 to noon and watch the column.

Let's talk a little more about trips we are planning. We have a 13-day bus trip to the sunny South scheduled for February. To secure reservations, we will have to sign up soon. Our first night stop will be in Petersburg, Va. The next night we'll stay in South Carolina. We move on to Ocala, Fla., the home of Silver Springs and the glass bottom boats. After some sight-seeing, we end up at Daytona Beach, which will be our home for six days. Some of the attractions included in the package will be Kennedy Space Center, Silver Springs, Disney World, Ringling Brothers, Barnum & Bailey Circus World, and stops in St.

Augustine and at South of the Border.

Also included will be six meals, transportation, hotel and motel accommodations, baggage handling (one bag per person), all taxes and gratuities, except for the driver. The complete package, with a few surprises, is $499 per person, double occupancy; $639.00 single, and $689.00 triple.

We'll get back to you about when we will register for this trip.

Menu for week:
Monday: shells with meat sauce, tossed salad, bread and butter, jello, beverage.
Tuesday: homemade vegetable soup, chicken patty on a roll, homemade cookies, beverage.
Wednesday: baked meatloaf with mushroom sauce, whipped potato, buttered carrots, ice cream, beverage.
Thursday: tomato rice soup, tuna salad sandwich, dessert, beverage.
Friday: tomato rice soup, tuna salad sandwich, dessert, beverage.
Saturday: tomato rice soup, tuna salad sandwich, dessert, beverage.
Sunday: tomato rice soup, tuna salad sandwich, dessert, beverage.
