Police reorganization sparks Lannan rumors

The announcement Thursday of a rotation of the police department's three division commanders has sparked rumors that Chief Robert D. Lannan is planning to retire soon and is actually preparing one of the three men to take over his position.

But reports vary on who exactly may be being groomed for the spot.

Sources close to the police department said Lannan, 51, is eligible for retirement in October and, the word is, plans on stepping down soon. Lannan could not be reached for comment Friday night.

Sources also said one of the commanders i being prepared to take over the Lannan's position, though different sources named each of the three as possible candidates.

Escapee is arrested

DENVER (UPI) - Dan Eugene Bifield, who escaped from the Bridgeport, Conn., Community Correctional Center four months ago, Friday was arrested without incident by FBI agents, Denver Polive and the U.S. Marshal's office.

Bifield, 30, who federal prosecutors once described as the "most dangerous" man in Connecticut, apparently had been living in the Denver area about one month, said Gary Lisotto, acting special agent in charge.

Bifield, a reputed member of the Hell's Angeles motorcycle club, escaped last Sept. 23 with three other inmates from the Bridgeport facility, where he was serving a two-year sentence for a federal firearms violation and was awaiting sentencing for extortion. Lisotto said Bifield had an extensive record for violent crimes, including assault on police officers, and was a suspect in several violent crimes in West Collusion between some clubs in the NBA is suspected in the art of ballot-stuffing for the pro basketball league's All-Star game. A club in the West gets together with a club in the East, and they pool votes (each team gets 200,000 ballots) for each other's choice player. The most ridiculous vote of all was Bernard King, currently the hottest small forward in the NBA, finishing fifth behind such as Elvin Hayes, having a terrible year, and rookie Mark Aguirre, who's out for the season.

Q. In a recess column, you said that Herschel Walker of Georgia was the fastest man in football, I don't agree. Isn't Curtis Dickey of the Heltimore Colts clearly the fastest? He was going to be in the 1980 Olympics if it hadn't gotten boycotted. — C.M., Dixon, Ill.

hoycotted. — C.M., Dixen, Ill.

No one will know for sure unless they meet head-on, which is unlikely. There's no doubt about Dickey's speed. He once ran 100 yards in 9.2 seconds and was only one-tenth of a second off the world record in the 100 meters. But my money is still on the kid from Georgia, who was running with the fastest sprinters in the world last summer.

It has never happened, though maybe it should have. The closest to an aborted pro football game was the last All-Star game at Soldier Field in Chicago in 1976, when both the College All-Stars and the Pittsburgh Steelers were called off the field in the third quarter because of heavy rain, thunder and lightning. The Steelers were awarded the contest, 24-0. If they could play with a chill factor of minus 59 degrees, like they did in Cincinnati for the AFC championship recently, they can play in any conditions.

Q. We recently watched "North Dullan Forty" again and wonder what has happened to Peter Gent. Can you bring us up to date? — Judy Mason, Ventura, Calif.

Q. Just a note to let you know we disagree with your choice of who is turning the Detroit franchise around. We must not be reading about or watching the same games. — Mentes and John Rapchinski, Potistown, Pa.

The reference is to a mention here that Isiah Thomas of the Detroit Pistons iooms as the top candidate for pro baskethall Rookie of the Year for his efforts in making the Pistons.

tons a respectable team. The contention by our correspondents from Pottstown is that Kelly Tripucka has been even more vital ("Isiah who?" they note) as an addition to the Detroit team. Tripucka, whose dad, Frank, was a pro football quarterback, has been a first-year revelation. But the Pistons still get their new direction from Thomas, the only rookie voted to the NBA All-Star game starting line-ups.

Q. I thought the former NBC college basketball breadcast team of Emberg, McGuire and Packer was tremendom. What were the reasons for the breakup and were there any hard seelings, particularly between Al and Billy? — Nell Rudel, Altoena, Pa.

Billy Packer left NBC to do basketball broadcasts for CBS simply because he got a better offer, which provided him with more flexibility. He and Al McGuire remain the best of friends. In fact, they've stayed at each other's homes in Winston-Salem, N.C., and Milwaukee, respectively, when assignments took them into those areas. And they still do a syndicated radio basketball show together. Frankly, I think three men at the mike for one basketball game were too many anyhow.

Q. What nationality is Joe Montana, the quarterback of the San Francisco 49ers and a magazine cover boy now? — J.D., Shares, Pa.

He is, of course, American, born and raised in Monongahela, Pa. The autocodents were Italian. The name was originally Montagua, but somewhere along the line the "g" was dropped. The way he played this past season, Joe Cool is enough.

The best coaching job in basketball right now is being done by Pat Riley of the Los Angeles Lakers. Simply because, as a past player, he recognizes the progame for what it is — synchronized performances by individual virtuoses. He is content to let them, as the clicke goes, do their own thing, untrammuled by too many coaching maneuvers.

Providence College running ceach Bob Amato and University of Rhode telling prep prospects he is retiring laland basketball mentor Claude has drawn fire from the Alabama coachs.

Bob Alhato and University of Rhode Island basketball mentor Claude English were named 1981 co-coachs of the year today by Words Unlimited.

"The last 15, 16, maybe 20 years, other folks have told prospects I would soon be quitting. Well, if the Good Lord gives me strength to help win a few games, and the university wants me, I'll be around here," said the 68-year-old coach. "How long that'll be will be determined by the Good Lord and the university." Next Wednesday high-school senior recruits can sign national letters-of-intent.

Amato, who coaches cross country and track at PC, saw his cross country team finish second in the NCAA championships after taking their third straight Big East title and eighth consecutive New Eogland crown and the IC4A title.

Olivia's getting "Physical" about her image

New York—Olivia Newton-John hasn't always been the most accessible personality around. No, the gorgeous Aussie didn't have a falling out with the press either. She's been known to be a bit demure, which isn't hard to understand considering the romantic nature of her past musical successes.

But when Olivia took the plunge into filmmalding opposite John Travolta in "Grease," we began to see a slow transformation from a shy and somewhat sheltered superstar, to an independent career girl who has boddy asserted herself professionally and socially.

ween Sandy, Olivia's "Grease" character and her own being, which is why the 33 year old (she looks 23) beauty chose that as her first movie vehicle.

"I've always had a kind of Doris Day mage which will probably always slick with me," Olivia told me from her home in Malibu. "It's kind of nice at 33 to be on top of the charts for the last three months, but Physical has also spawned a TV special for ABC this week:

in the Bible," relating them to the world's present needs. "It's not so unusual to think of God as Father, the creator of all," she says. "But more people than ever are taking a look at the concept of God as Mother. Maybe the world is feeling the need of some of the qualities attributed to God in the Bible: God comforts us, it says, binds up our wounds, includes those alone in

This view of God as "Father-Mother," Mrs. Collins adds, "is a strong concept available today to heal the heartaches of divided families and nations." Christian healing, in terms of the public practice of Christian Science, has been Mrs. Collins' work and calling for many years. She includes a number of recent healing experiences in the hour-long lecture here - instances of physical healing, as well as cases of renewed harmony in families.

A lifelong Christian Scientist, Mrs. Collins is a graduate of the University of California at Berkeley.

"It's obvious Levi Strauss is losing market share and slowing in designer jeans sales that Joe, Avi and Ralph

Retirement

requires planning

By Marianna Ohe UPI Business Writer

> NEW YORK - Many Americans may find themselve unable to retire comfortably in the year 2000 if Social Security benefits dwindle and inflation continues — and they don't begin planning now.

No longer can 20-and 30-year-olds afford to ignore tha far-off day of retirement. "People are going to have to nent income," said Susan G. Fisher, Chemical Bank vice president and director of marketing

"I personally believe Social Security checks will not nearly fill my retirement needs." Company pension plans and personal savings programs such as the new Individual Retirement Account will do much to augment Social Security, Ms. Fisher said, but she warned against being lulled into a alse sense of security by visions of millions of dollars. Inflation will take its toll on the purchasing power of savings at the time of retirement, she said. . For example, under Chemical's IRA program, a 30year-old saver who begins today putting the maximum quarter) will have saved $1,028,198 by age 65, assuming an average annual interest rate of 12 percent compounded quarterly.

But $1 million today will be worth only $311,805 in 20 years and $174,110 in 30 years assuming a 6 percent an-nual inflation rate not compounded, Ms. Fisher said. "Nevertheless, without a personal savings plan, you're in danger of not providing for your retirement at all," she added. "The idea of a person in his twenties having to save used to be considered absurd. Today it's more like a necessity. And the tax-sheltered IRA is one of the best and safest means of investing for

Not only do IRAs lower your tax rate and allow in terest on the account to grow without being taxed, Ms. Fisher said, but when you withdraw the money usually it will be taxed at a lower rate than when you earned since income generally is lower during retirement. "As with any investment, the return you get on an IRA account depends on what you go into," Ms. Fisher said. "You have to put it into something that's going to grow at rapid enough rates."

Ms. Fisher said Chemical is launching a major consumer education program on IRAs, including seminars, a film and cable television program, a speakers bureau and toll-free hotline. In preparation for it the bank commissioned a survey of 700 working New Yorkers which showed a full 80 per-cent thought HAs are an appealing retirement income vehicle, but 62 percent cited "just keeping up with bills" as the major obstacle to saving for retirement. "Many people simply can't afford to put away $2,000 annually," Ms. Fisher said. "But that doesn't mean they can't put smaller amounts into their IRA account. They can even skip a year completely. And the penalty of withdrawing the money prematurely is offset by the interest income after a certain point."

For example, assuming a person in a 30 percent tax bracket put $2,000 in an IRA annually at a 12 percent interest rate compounded quarterly, and assuming a 10 percent early withdrawal penalty, that person would lose $173 if he withdrew the money in the first year. nical said. But by the seventh year he would actual ly make $31 if he withdrew the money. The seventh year is the break-even point.
