Former higher tar smokers affirm MERIT choice for taste, ease of switch, and long-term satisfaction.

The research results are overwhelming.

Latest National Smoker Study provides solid evidence that 'Enriched Flavor,' MERIT offers a satisfying alternative to higher tar cigarettes.

MERIT Taste Sparks Switch.

Nationwide survey reveals over 90% of MERIT smokers who switched from higher tar are glad they did. In fact, 94% don't even miss their former brands.

Further Evidence: 9 out of 10 former higher tar smokers report MERIT an easy switch, that they didn't give up taste in switching, and that MERIT is the best-tasting low tar they've ever tried.

MERIT Clear Choice In Latest Tests.

In addition, extensive unmarked-pack tests confirm that MERIT delivers a winning combination of taste and low tar when compared against higher tar leaders.

Confirmed: The overwhelming majority reported MERIT taste equal to—or better than—leading higher tar brands.

Confirmed: When tar levels were revealed, 2 out of 3 chose the MERIT combination of low tar and good taste.

Year after year, in study after study, MERIT remains unbeaten. The proven taste alternative to higher tar smoking—is MERIT.

Argentines sink fourth British ship

By United Press International
Waves of Argentine bombers sank a fourth British warship in the Falklands war — the destroyer Coventry — and a "back-door" Exocet missile attack forced the crew of a merchant vessel to abandon ship, Britain said today.

"HMS Coventry, a destroyer, was hit and has been lost. The Atlantic Conveyor, a merchant ship, requisitioned to support the fleet, was also hit and had to be abandoned," Defense Ministry spokesman Ian McDonald said of Tuesday's fighting.

Rescue operations continued throughout the night, McDonald said. He gave no details of casualties but said next of kin were being notified. The Coventry had a crew of 280 men.

Late Tuesday, Defense Minister John Nott said the Coventry had fallen to a "major attack" and reporters quoted British navy officers who said Argentine pilots were using "kamikaze-type" tactics against the fleet.

London's Daily Express reported that British commandos blew up most of Argentina's French-made Etendard warplanes in a top-secret sabotage raid on a mainland Argentine airfield at Rio Gallegos early last week. The Express said commandos planted explosives in five planes.

A spokesman for the Ministry of Defense refused to confirm or deny the report, saying the ministry had "no knowledge of it."

Scattered clouds over much of the Falklands were not expected to hamper further air operations. News reports from the fleet said British troops were engaging Argentine forces in scattered fighting on East Falkland, but the Defense Ministry said it had no details. Britain holds an estimated 60-square-mile beachhead.

The British Broadcasting Corp. quoted unidentified reports of British patrols advancing near the Falklands capital of Port Stanley but the Defense Ministry said it had no confirmation.

The Argentine military said its ground troops attacked the British beachhead. A British reporter said British troops fought off Argentine troops that attacked Monday at night.

Diplomatic maneuvering continued at the United Nations which produced a watered-down Security Council resolution calling only for a new U.N. peace effort but not a cease-fire. It was expected to be approved today.

Argentine President Leopoldo Galtieri was to meet with papal envoy Msgr. Achille Silvestrini who arrived in Buenos Aires carrying Pope John Paul II's offer to visit Argentina to pray for "a victory of peace over war."

The letter addressed to "my Argentine children" said the pontiff would "pray incessantly for peace" during his upcoming trip to Britain. Published in Argentina's major newspapers, the letter said the pope was "profoundly concerned with the cause of peace and moved by my love for you so important in this time of pain. I would like to go direct from England to Argentina and there, with you, my beloved brothers and sisters, say the same prayers for the victory of peace over war."

BEEKEEPER JOHN MUZIKEVICH blames 'Sevin' for dead bees

Beekeeper fears loss of hives to Sevin spray

By Alex Girelli Herald City Editor

A Manchester beekeeper is watching his hives closely these days to see if some of them will be lost because of spraying for gypsy moths with Sevin. Already many bees have died.

John Muzikevich, who keeps his hives at 224 Charter Oak Street, is one of five beekeepers currently registered in Manchester and the beekeepers are concerned because of Sevin, a broad spectrum pesticide used widely against the gypsy moth, is hard on bees and other insects.

This morning, Muzikevich saw a professional sprayer across the street from him preparing to spray. He told the sprayer about the bees and the sprayer agreed to come back after 5 p.m. when the bees are not so active.

But the damage to the Muzikevich hives already may be done. Time will tell, and if hives are damaged, he estimates he could easily lose about $2,500 in the sale of honey alone.

Since the keepers generally register in June, the list is about a year old.

ACCORDING TO THE United Concerned Beekeepers of Cheshire, it is usually necessary to contaminate their food supply with an insecticide.

The organization explains that field bees bring back contaminated pollen from flowers. The young nurse bees feed on the pollen and die.

Dr. Turek has also asked that sprayers using Sevin notify owners and managers of apartment houses and before spraying so that tenants can leave or close windows if they want to.

Nuclear protest spreads

By Peter Costa UPI Senior Editor

NEW YORK — They hate the bomb. Old and young, liberal and conservative, preppe and proletarian, the members of the anti-nuclear movement agree that nuclear bombs must die for civilization to live.

The 50,000 nuclear warheads around the world atop rockets in concrete-hardened silos, under the sea in silent submarines or held aloft by wide-winged bombers pose the greatest threat to life as we know it. The total explosive strength of the worldwide nuclear arsenal, according to a United Nations study, is equivalent to about 1 million Hiroshima bombs, or more than 3 tons of TNT for every man, woman and child on the earth.

And bomb designers told UPI that technology already exists to "miniaturize" low-yield nuclear devices.

Scientists said basketball-sized nuclear bombs with the explosive power to topple the two Trade Towers in New York City are a distinct possibility and may already be in superpower arsenals. A growing concern is that these portable bombs could fall into the hands of terrorists or madmen.

FOR THE FIRST TIME the entire planet stands threatened by forces once seen only through telescopes.

Nuclear technology has coupled physics with fire to generate star-stuff explosions so powerful they have the potential to kill the earth's major civilizations and leave its radioactive remains uninhabitable for years.

There is no tomorrow after a nuclear today. Consider this scenario by Jonathan Schell, author of "The Fate of the Earth," in which he describes the effects of a nuclear bomb attack on New York City.

"Burst some 8,500 feet above the Empire State Building, a one-megaton bomb would gut or flatten almost every building between Battery Park and 125th Street, and would heavily damage buildings between the northern tip of Staten Island and the George Washington Bridge — or an area of about 200 square miles."

Schell says those who were not instantly vaporized in the blast would be picked up and hurled away along with the rest of the debris. The narrow streets of New York would fill with toppled buildings and crushed bodies.

AND THEN COME the winds and fire. "At a distance two miles or so from ground zero, winds would reach 400 miles an hour, and another two miles away they would reach their less toxic methoxychlor, not Sevin.

Inflation, Social Security erode cut

Most will pay higher taxes

By Gary Klotz UPI Business Writer

Unless you're earning over $40,000 a year you're not likely to find your federal tax bill reduced by 1984 — even with the scheduled three-year, 25 percent cut in individual income tax rates.

For those in the lower income groups, the federal tax burden in 1984 will generally be the same or even higher than it was in 1980.

come tax rates is not enough to offset the impact of Social Security increases and inflation-induced "bracket creep."

In an analysis prepared for Congressmen by the Congressional Research Service, those in the $100,000 bracket in 1980 will have the sharpest reduction in tax burden with their total effective tax rate moving down to 27.23 percent from 29.47 percent.

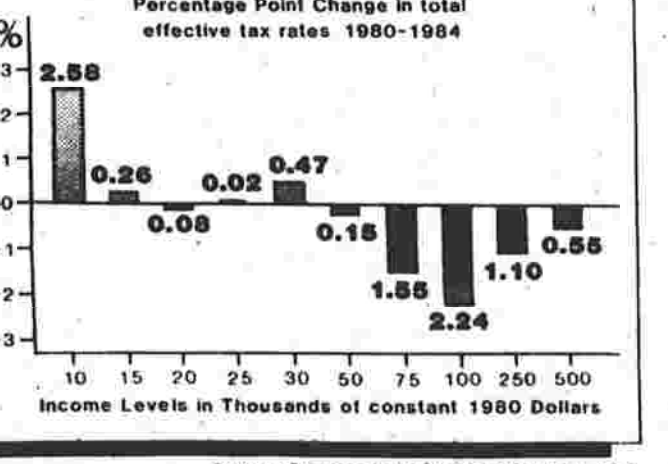

IN DOLLAR TERMS, the reduction means an individual who in 1980 paid taxes of $29,466, or 29.47 percent of his $100,000 in earnings, will in 1984 be paying taxes of $37,664, or 27.23 percent of his inflation-increased income of $138,301.

The biggest percentage increase in tax burden faces those who earned $10,000 in 1980. For that group, the effective tax rate will rise to 12.45 percent from 9.87 percent in 1980.

A main reason for the contrast in effects is that taxpayers in the lower and middle-income brackets move into higher tax brackets quicker. The average width of the first 10 tax brackets is $5,600 while the average width of the last four brackets is $38,850.

Therefore, as incomes are increased to compensate for inflation, taxpayers in the lower-to-middle-income ranges are pushed into higher tax brackets at a much faster rate.

Amnesty offer draws criticism

GUATEMALA CITY (UPI) — A government offer of amnesty for leftist rebels, political kidnappers and police who broke laws while pursuing insurgents was labeled a "farce" aimed at obtaining U.S. aid.

The capital's Prensa Libre newspaper Tuesday called the amnesty offer by Guatemala's three-man ruling junta "not only inept, but a sign of weakness."

"It's an injustice to the pain and anguish of the families of so many members of security forces who have fallen in battle... and civilians who have died in this wave of terrorism directed by Cuba," the newspaper said.

In Mexico City, the amnesty deal was dubbed a "farce, a masquerade" by Guatemalan dissident leader Luis Cardoza, a noted Latin American author and president of the opposition Guatemalan Committee of Patriotic Unity.

Iran presses Hussein overthrow

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Iran, riling to victory over Iraq, said it had no ambitions to seize enemy territory but was pressed to press the overthrow of Iraqi President Saddam Hussein.

The fall of the port of Khorramshahr, the last Iranian city held by Iraq, and the retreat of Iraqi forces back to the border they crossed 20 months ago was bound to increase fears of Iran's Islamic revolution among Arab nations around the Persian Gulf.

Iraqi officials announced withdrawal of their forces from the embattled city Tuesday, just 25 days after Iran launched its "Operation Jerusalem" to recapture the city that had fallen early in the 20-month conflict.

White Iran celebrated the victory, Iraqi war communiques spoke of continued fighting. But military analysts said it would be extremely difficult for Iraq to mount any military reply to the Iranian offensive.

Twelve hours after Iraqi military communications confirmed the fall of Khorramshahr, they reported fighting just north of the city and claimed to have killed 2,711 Iranian troops.

Today in history

On May 26, 1954 more than 100 crew members of the USS Bennington were killed when an explosion rocked the aircraft off Rhode Island. Some of the injured crewmen are removed to waiting ambulances after the carrier docked at the Quonset Point (R.I.) Naval Station.

Drunk driver, speeding bus cited

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A California Highway Patrol report blames a speeding bus driver and a drunken motorist for the spectacular explosion that killed seven people last month in the heavily traveled Caldecott Tunnel.

The 314-page report said the April 7 disaster occurred when an AC Transit bus swerved to avoid a stalled car and was struck by a tanker truck that then overturned and exploded.

The tunnel, which links Oakland to Contra Costa County communities, was turned into a 2,000-degree inferno, disintegrating the vehicles trapped by the blaze and burning the victims alive.

Sgt. Jim Miller of the Sacramento Valley Division's Multi-Disciplinary accident investigation team told a news conference Tuesday the "primary cause of the accident was a combination of inattention and excessive speed" by bus driver John Dykes, 55, Oakland.

Dykes, who was killed in the crash, had tried to pass the 8,200-gallon gasoline tanker truck in the tunnel.

House wants budget vote Friday

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House is aiming for a Friday showdown on three budget plans — each with a deficit of over $100 billion.

Representatives were to try again today to make progress in a debate so far mired in partisan charges and counter charges.

President Reagan is keeping tabs on the budget battle from his California ranch, where he is vacationing and calling wavering congressmen in behalf of the budget plan backed by House GOP leader Robert Michel.

An informal United Press International poll, however, found that far Reagan has been unable to change the minds of any congressmen about a half dozen remained uncommitted.

On the House floor, Republicans have accused Democrats of wanting to reduce some of the deficit factors in the campaign, such as the impact of redistributing, the strength of the two state tickets and the organization of the two parties.

But those factors may have as much to do with who wins as the ideological differences between the relatively liberal Penny and the relatively conservative Zinsner.

Redistricting, for example, has drastically altered the old face of the 4th Senatorial District. Instead

Hinckley: FBI was 'stupid'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Months before he shot President Reagan, John W. Hinckley Jr. concluded the FBI was "stupid" because it failed to identify him as the man who sent a note threatening to kidnap actress Jodie Foster, a psychiatrist says.

Dr. Thomas Goldman told a jury Tuesday, even after Hinckley reached this conclusion, he still feared FBI agents were tracking him for "illegal" activities he had on his mind.

He said while Hinckley contemplated killing a president, Miss Foster, or himself, he sensed "the FBI and the authorities knew what was on his mind and they were coming to arrest him."

By the end of December, when nothing happened, he concluded the FBI would not catch him, Goldman said. "He concluded they hadn't put two and two together and that they were stupid."

Balcony collapse injures 34 people

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UPI) — A crowded balcony, possibly weakened by a tornado, collapsed during a birthday party at a religious retreat, plunging 67 children and adults 12 feet to the ground.

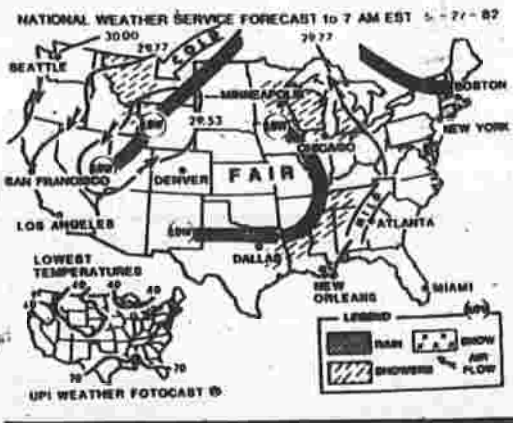

Thirty-four were injured, one seriously.

Seventy members of the Real Life Ranch near Rogers, in northwest Arkansas, were on the second-story sundock of the main residence late Tuesday when a hole opened in the center section, ranch owner Neida Jones said.

"We were having a birthday party for four of our children. We had had dinner and then gone out to balcony to sing and play games," Mrs. Jones said. "We had gathered to say a birthday prayer when it just happened in a split second."

"There was a sound, there was the hole, and then there were just people crying," she said.

She said the hole in the 120-foot-long, 26-gallon tank sent 67 people plunging to the ground.

Glastonbury may hold key to election

Senate race starts without announcements

First in a series
By Paul Hendrie
Herald Reporter

Perhaps the most eagerly anticipated of the area campaigns for the General Assembly this fall is the race for the 4th Senatorial District seat.

Nobody has announced his candidacy for that seat yet, but it is commonly assumed that Republican incumbent Carl A. Zinsner will face off against Manchester's three-term Democratic Mayor Stephen T. Penny.

It is a race that even a Las Vegas odds maker would find difficult to predict.

The personalities of these two popular, outspoken and rather colorful politicians may overshadow some of the district factors in the campaign, such as the impact of redistricting, the strength of the two state tickets and the organization of the two parties.

Manchester Democratic Town Chairman Theodore R. Cummings predicted his Democratic candidate would lose in Glastonbury. He said the goal is to hold that loss to a minimum and make up the ground in Manchester and elsewhere.

Cummings predicted his candidate would win in Glastonbury, along with South Windsor, Glastonbury and some outlying towns, the 4th District now will include all of Manchester, Glastonbury, Bolton, Columbia and Hebron. South Windsor has been eliminated from the district.

It probably is to Zinsner's advantage to lose Democratic South Windsor, while retaining Republican Glastonbury. Political experts, sizing up the new district, agree that Glastonbury may hold the key to the election.

GOP panel to discuss nuclear arms freeze

By Paul Hendrie
Herald Reporter

The Republican Town Committee tonight will discuss the issue of a bilateral freeze on nuclear weapons, joining a number of local governments and area civic groups which recently have taken up the issue.

Christine Joyner of the Manchester Nuclear Freeze Coalition will make a presentation to the GOP Town Committee. She will make a presentation the following night to the Democratic Town Committee.

Republican Town Chairman Curtis M. Smith said this morning the party's executive board decided Monday night the nuclear freeze should be discussed by the town committee.

"I do think it's appropriate for a political party to discuss issues which the public thinks is important," said Smith.

Smith said he is not sure if the town committee will take a position on the issue tonight. That, he said, depends on whether the town committee feels it is properly informed.

Smith said he disagrees somewhat with the position taken by the Democratic Mayor Stephen T. Penny and others that the Board of Directors should not be involved in national issues.

"As far as town government is concerned, president that been said," said Smith. "I don't think local government should get bogged down on national issues, but certainly if there is enough momentum to place this on the ballot in November, at an extra expense to the taxpayers, we might consider supporting that."

Penny, too, has said a November referendum may be appropriate, although a Board of Directors-sponsored nuclear freeze resolution would not be binding.

Another source said one town committee member may seek tonight to call a new election of the town committee. This person charges the January town committee election is invalid, because it took place under the old 10-voting district set-up, which since has been replaced by a 12-district plan.

However, the source said research has shown that the January town committee election is valid, because members elected under the old district plan have been "grandfathered" until the next scheduled town committee election in 1984.

Health course delayed

A health course at the high school that was set to start in the fall has been postponed because of lack of interest, a school official said Tuesday.

J. Gerald FitzGibbon, assistant superintendent of schools for curriculum, told the Advisory Board of Health that an elective on health was included in scheduling options for the fall, but "almost no one signed up."

The course will be fine-tuned and offered again at a later date, FitzGibbon said.

Meanwhile, a course is being developed to be offered to junior high school students. FitzGibbon said a pilot health course will probably be offered in the second semester at Bennet Junior High School as an elective.

The course will probably be offered for ninth graders.

If the pilot is successful, the health course may be made a requirement for junior high students, FitzGibbon said.

FitzGibbon said a survey of students by the school's task force on health and safety education showed that ninth grade was a good time to introduce such a course.

Comments from ninth grade students indicated an interest in health-related courses, FitzGibbon said.

FitzGibbon and the school's pupil personnel services director, Allan Cherterton, gave a presentation to the Advisory Board of Health on school health services and health education.

Dr. Alice Turek, town Health Director and the school's physician, noted the increasing role of school nurses over the years. Several years ago, nurses only sent sick students home. Now they attempt to determine what is wrong with students, treat them, and teach them about their bodies, she said.

"The sick part — sending a student home got better — is easy," Dr. Turek said. "The hard part is teaching wellness. Is his stomach ache the breakfast he didn't eat or the lesson he isn't prepared for or illness?"

For the Record

The Manchester Grange will sponsor a card party tonight at 8 at Grange Hall, 205 Olcott St., not on Friday night, as was mistakenly reported in the Tuesday Manchester Herald.

Abigail Van Buren offers personal advice daily in one of America's best-read columns, "Dear Abby," in the Manchester Herald's Focus section.

Democratic State Central Committee member John Sullivan pointed out that the portion of Manchester that will move from the 3rd Senatorial District to the 4th Senatorial District under redistricting is heavily Democratic.

That area, Sullivan noted, includes old voting districts 6 and 8, which have been the town's Democratic strongholds. That, said Sullivan, will help Penny.

SMITH'S REPUBLICANS can be expected to try to erode Penny's hometown base by playing the Eighth District card.

"I don't think Penny has done anything to endear himself to the citizens of the Eighth District," said Smith. "I think he may even have contempt for the Eighth."

Penny has been outspoken on attempts by the district to get the town out of its Buckland fire house. He also has spoken out on other controversial disputes between the town and the district.

Yet, he has spoken out on town-district disputes before past elections and, so far, it hasn't seemed to hurt him.

OTHER KEY factors in this election may be the strength of the statewide tickets and the state of the economy by the fall.

Smith believes the top of the Republican ticket statewide will be stronger than the Democrats'. If a GOP gubernatorial candidate wins, he said, it could help carry local candidates.

Cummings believes the voters will be fed up with Reaganomics come November and will vent their dissatisfaction in local elections.

"The tables have turned," said Cummings. "In 1980, it was dissatisfaction with Jimmy Carter that won it for the Republican candidates. There is a big hangover of discontent with the Reagan administration that's going to affect the local races. The Democrats will vote this time for Democrats."

But, in the end, the two candidates

Cohn and Walters?

Roy Cohn never married — but Barbara Walters could have changed all that.

"She, to me, is everything a woman should be," Cohn said. "She's pretty, she's brilliant. She's fun. We never had a dull second."

Cohn told Dave Marsh on CBS-TV, New York's News at Five he has known Barbara for 25 years.

As for her marriage, which ended in divorce: "Her husband didn't like me and I didn't like him because the night before she got married, I went to a phone booth and she had a 45-minute conversation... I just gave her all the reasons why she should not marry this guy."

Miss Walters had the right answer, Cohn admitted: "She said, 'Well, are you giving me an alternative?' And I knew she was pulling my leg, because I wasn't giving her an alternative — although I could have been persuaded to."

Penny may get boost for running

Democratic Mayor Stephen T. Penny's anticipated campaign for the state Senate may get a boost at tonight's 4th District state central committee convention, where a move to elect Penny the convention chairman is expected.

In any event, the Democratic chairman from the five towns in the 4th Senatorial District will be on hand at tonight's convention and state central committee member John Sullivan said this should give Penny an ideal chance to make a good impression with political leaders whose support he will need.

The convention, scheduled for 7:30 p.m. at Manchester's Knights of Columbus Hall, will feature two members of the central committee from the 4th District. Manchester's Sullivan is expected to be selected for another term.

State planning to join lawsuit

HARTFORD (UPI) — Connecticut plans to join nine other states in a class action suit that will challenge a decision to distribute federal money for an education program on the basis of 1970 census figures.

U.S. Education Secretary Terrel H. Bell decided to use the 1970 figures instead of 1980 census estimates in dividing funds for a remedial education program designed to aid disadvantaged children.

Vandals won't leave Savin Brothers alone

Vandals. They just won't leave Savin Brothers alone.

Last winter, they ripped gauges off the construction equipment stored at the company's Deming Road work site, just off Exit 94 of I-88. Two weeks ago, they chucked boulders through windshields, causing thousands of dollars worth of damage. But what happened over the past weekend was the last straw, says John Daly, Savin Brothers' office manager.

"We had a brand new (bull) dozer. They came and poured sand in the radiator, the gas tank, anywhere they could find a hole. We had to tear the whole thing down and flush it out with oil. Probably cost a few thousand dollars," he says.

Now, the construction company is offering a $1,000 reward for information that will help arrest and convict the person, or people, who are vandalizing Savin Brothers' equipment.

The reward offer was published in Tuesday's Manchester Herald. On Tuesday night, Daly says.

Bank robber executed

TAIPEI, Taiwan (UPI) — A taxi driver was executed today with a point blank shot through the heart for committing Taiwan's first armed bank robbery and killing a policeman.

The Taiwan Garrison command said Li Shih-ko, 55, was shot in the back through the heart at point blank range, the standard form of execution in Taiwan. Li was sentenced to death Friday after a trial by a military court in terms of martial law, in force for 33 years. The government believes swift justice deters crime.

Crossroads is open but not for schools

By Nancy Thompson Herald Reporter

Although Crossroads Inc. reopened Tuesday, the agency will not be back in the schools this academic year. Superintendent of Schools James P. Kennedy said the school administration made a firm decision to suspend Crossroads' drug and alcohol education and counseling efforts in the schools for the rest of the year.

The administration will decide whether to reinstate the program next fall after meeting with the agency's staff and Board of Directors and the town Human Services Department, which funds the program, to determine if Crossroads has the credibility to conduct drug education programs.

The agency suspended operations last week after the assistant director, Jacala Mills, submitted her resignation following her arrest on drug charges.

The Crossroads Board of Directors reopened the center on Park Street Tuesday after an investigation found no connection between Ms. Mills' arrest and the agency's operations.

Although Kennedy said there is no question in school administrators' minds that Crossroads runs an effective drug education program, officials must be convinced that the arrest of Ms. Mills has not affected the image of the agency.

Town assessor honored

Town Assessor J. Richard Vincent has been appointed as a director on the advisory council of the International Institute of Public Appraisers.

He was chosen for that honor among assessors nationwide.

Vincent also had an article on the phase-in of tax revaluation in Manchester published in the most recent edition of Assessment Digest.

The article details problems the town faced with its phase-in of the 1977 revaluation and how these problems were overcome.

Ms. Mills was arrested May 13 in Mansfield. She was charged with possession of cocaine with intent to sell, possession of marijuana and illegal cultivation of marijuana.

Her arrest followed the arrest of Robert Scheinost, the man she lives with, on drug charges.

Pascal Pregnano, a member of the Crossroads' Board of Directors, said Tuesday the agency would not attempt to reintroduce its program into the schools this year because it is undaunted with the resignation of Ms. Mills. Crossroads will only offer counseling to the most critical cases, he said.

The agency will hire a new counselor as soon as possible, he said.

Kennedy said the schools have attempted to identify all students who were in counseling with Crossroads' staff and provide alternative means of counseling.

Summer school will cost more

Summer school will cost more but will be held on only four days each week this year, instead of five. Classes will begin June 28 and run through Aug 5. J. Gerald Fitzgibbon, assistant superintendent of schools for curriculum, said.

Classes will be held four days each week, but the hours will be lengthened so that students get the same amount of instructional time as in previous years when classes were held five days per week he said.

"We think this will be a boon to student attendance," he said.

The cost of classes has increased from $15 to $25 for residents and from $35 to $50 for non-residents. According to Fitzgibbon, the reason for the increase is that the amount paid to teachers increased and a nurse is being added to the program.

Available classes are: English for grades seven, eight and nine; sophomore language; Summer School English for grades 11 and 12; math for grades seven, eight and nine; Algebra II for grades nine through 12; Consumer Math B for grades 10 through 12; U.S. History B for grades 10 through 12; physical education for grades 10 through 12; driver education; Biology A, regular level, grade 10; social studies, area studies B, grade 10; social studies for grades seven, eight and nine; and keyboarding-personal typing, grade seven through adult.

Classes will be held at Iling Junior High School. Registration will be at Manchester High School on June 22 from 1 to 3 p.m., and June 25 from 9 a.m. to noon.

Registration must be done in person. All registration is on a first come, first served basis, with Manchester residents given priority over non-residents. Classes with enrollments of less than 10 may be canceled. Maximum enrollment will be 20 students per class.

Preference in registration will be given to students who need credits for graduation or to enter high school. A summer enrichment program of non-credit courses will also be offered. Two sessions will be held, from July 10 to 23 and from July 26 to Aug. 8.

LaBelle to speak on Memorial Day

The key speaker at the town's Memorial Day celebration Monday will be attorney John D. LaBelle Jr.

The program will take place in Center Park following the Memorial Day parade. The parade, led by Capt. Robert L. Kenniff, will start at 9:30 a.m. at the Army & Navy Club, proceed on Main Street to East Center Street, along East Center Street to Munro Park and back to Center Park.

Kenniff will be the master of ceremonies for the program. Mayor Stephen T. Penny will give a welcome address, followed by the youth speaker, Stephen Palon of East Catholic High School. The MHS band will play a musical selection, before LaBelle's remarks.

Kenniff will read the names of deceased veterans. The Stewart Highlander Pipe Band will play "Amazing Grace," and Reardon will offer the benediction, followed by a gun salute by the Connecticut Army National Guard and "Taps" by the MHS buglers.

In case of inclement weather, the program will be presented in Woodruff Hall of Center Congregational Church.

The parade will stop briefly at Munro Park. The Rev. Norman Swensen of Trinity Covenant Church will present a eulogy.

A memorial service will also be held Sunday at 10:45 a.m. at South United Methodist Church. Decoration of veterans' graves will take place Thursday evening.

Voter outreach program set

The Registrars of Voters office has announced institution of a voter outreach program for the coming summer and fall.

Weekly voter making sessions will be conducted every Thursday evening in June, July, August and September from 6 to 8 p.m. at the Savings Bank of Manchester, 923 Main St.

Democratic Registrar of Voters Herbert J. Stevenson announced. In addition, Stevenson announced sessions every Saturday morning, through September, from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. at Andy's Market, North Main St., and Crispino's Market, Hartford Road.

The session is designed to provide easy access for would-be voters, Stevenson announced. The sessions are staffed entirely by volunteers, at no cost to the town, he added.

Any 17-year-old who will be 18 prior to the Nov. 2 election day is eligible to register now, Stevenson added.

Hospital's budget can't be set early

Manchester Memorial Hospital did not submit its 1983 budget proposal to the state Commission on Hospitals and Health Care because it does not qualify for speedy review and approval.

Twenty-four of the 35 hospitals in the state have already filed with the commission, claiming they qualify for quick approval because the budgets fall within the 9.5 percent increase the commission has deemed acceptable for next year.

Andrew Beck, public relations representative, for Manchester Memorial, said that because of the extensive renovation under way at the hospital and the effect renovations have on the budget proposal, the hospital cannot qualify for early approval anyway. It will submit its budget by July 1.

Meanwhile negotiations between the hospital and the commission over the current budget are nearing completion, according to the hospital spokesman. Beck said that knowing what the current budget provides will give the hospital administration a better hand on the forthcoming budget.

The hospital sued the commission when the commission cut its $31,000,000 request to $29,175,000. The hospital is operating under that budget with an amount in escrow while litigation is pending.

The hospital's latest proposal is being reviewed by the attorney general's office. It is expected to bring a settlement that will end the lawsuit.

School bus drivers picket

HAMDEN (UPI) — School bus drivers picketed their way to a second day to protest a delay in holding elections to decide if they will be represented by a union.

Although the picketing continued at County School Services, a division of ARA Transportation Inc., the drivers did provide transportation Tuesday for special education students attending the town's schools.

Members of Teamsters Local 448 and some of the bus company's 70 drivers began the protest Monday to protest a delay in holding elections to decide if the drivers would be represented by a union.

County School Services transports about 70 percent or 4,500 of the students enrolled in the Hamden public schools and about 570 private and parochial school students.

Arms race everybody's business

The following was written by Aloysius J. Ahearn, Bolton selectman, in response to the editorial in the May 19 Manchester Herald.

By Aloysius J. Ahearn

If the writer of the May 17 editorial (which questioned the Bolton selectmen's passage of a nuclear freeze resolution) had read Paul Hendrie's illuminating article on page one ("Nuclear at lack would annihilate town") in the same issue, perhaps he might have tempered his criticism. Hendrie reported that a one megaton bomb strike on Hartford would instantly kill 90 percent of Manchester residents and kill or injure 99 percent of Bolton residents.

Your editorial writer, however, tells us that local governments should not get involved in national or international issues. He wonders

"how long and hard the Bolton selectmen spent in arguing its merits," and he asks, "Did this take time away from responsibilities the town's charter has given the selectmen?" I am happy to respond.

May I suggest that a little interdepartmental communication at the Herald would have answered your writer's questions. Your Bolton correspondent, Rich Cody, was present at our meetings.

When the selectmen ordinarily spend their time discussing such "major issues" as pot holes, traffic fees, and appointments to the Senior Citizens Committee, it seems to me that we might be forgiven for taking time out to discuss a threat to the life of every man, woman, and child in our town.

Actually, we discussed the freeze resolution briefly at two regular meetings, passed it with a 4-1 plurality, and recommended the resolution to the May 17 Town Meeting (still the most democratic and representative form of government).

The 70 or so voters present at the town meeting passed the resolution after 20 minutes of discussion with only eight voters dissenting. We still had time to discuss a town budget and consider 11 other items on the agenda in the hour meeting.

Bolton's resolution gives substance to the feelings of the people of Bolton. It adds an more plank to the platform calling for residual radiation (fallout) would fall over the entire world for years, making the planet unfit for anything but insects and mutations.

The hoary old argument that U.S. lags behind the Russians in nuclear weaponry is the same old argument the generals have given us every time they want an increase in the military budget.

The argument is phony and always has been. There's no way the Russians could avoid total annihilation if they initiated a nuclear strike. One nuclear submarine, for instance, has enough fire power to completely destroy every major city in Russia.

I doubt that the people of Moscow or Minsk have any more desire to be annihilated than the people of Bolton or Manchester.

The time has come for rational people to protest the pouring of our limited economic resources down the nuclear rat-hole in order to satisfy the insatiable greed and peurile jingoism among us.

By approving a resolution calling for a freeze on nuclear weapons, the selectmen and the people of Bolton have acknowledged their moral obligation to future generations of Americans.

We have joined those other concerned people of the world who demand that those in power at all levels of government take an active and aggressive role in reducing the threat of nuclear war.

The latest data shows that those with adjusted gross income in excess of $100,000 in 1979, a 1987 manager to slice their tax to an effective rate of less than 10 percent — the burden normally carried by those earning less than $13,000 a year.

Why the fence?

To the Editor:

My 6-year-old son and I were taking an evening walk, and we walked by the Pitkin Glass Works.

My son asked me why it was all fenced in so no one could enjoy it. Why is it fenced in with an ugly barbed wire fence?

Does Manchester have that much open space left, that it can lock up a huge field that would be enjoyed by neighborhood youngsters?

The Pitkin Glass Works field would be a nice place for an evening neighborhood softball game, or a game of Frisbee, or it would be nice to just take a quiet walk through. It's very odd to have a nice field like that fenced in and wasted to the taxpayers.

The other side

To the Editor:

During the hearings in Bolton recently on condominiums there was considerable press coverage of the very strong feelings expressed by some Bolton residents who opposed Larry Flano's plan.

Essentially the same group of Boltonites attended each of the sessions, and they denounced the idea of condos which, if built, in their opinion, would practically insure the doom of the town as we now know it.

There were few voices in favor of condominiums. Before a decision is issued by the Zoning Commission I feel compelled to state publicly several factors which may have been overlooked in the heat and emotion of the past several weeks.

Larry Flano, and indeed the entire Flano family, have been respected Bolton residents for very many years.

They have been most generous in their support of townpeople and town projects. They are large taxpayers to the town. They have developed the lands they have owned in good taste and always with regard for upholding and ability by the town's standards and regulations.

In short, they are fine residents of long standing who have proved that they have pride in their homes, their businesses and our town. They have at least as large a stake in Bolton's future as almost any of us.

... strictly off limits

If condos are built now or at some other time — as they most certainly will be — is it not better to have them built by people like them instead of outsiders who have no vested interest in the town?

When Larry Flano proposed apartments on South Road there was an outpouring of objections similar to the current condo opposition.

The apartments were built. The town increased its tax base, and living in those apartments are many people who have contributed in various ways to Bolton's wellbeing.

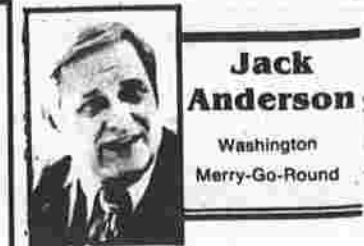

Virtually every other town in Greater Hartford has condominiums, yet these towns, such as Glastonbury and Simsbury, still have fine reputations as good places to live and they have benefitted by the increased taxes received.

The number of people who spoke at the hearing and signed petitions in opposition to the condos is considerably less than the number of residents who did not attend or sign petitions.

It is reasonable to assume that the large majority of townspeople who have not expressed opposition either favor the condos or do not care one way or the other.

The Zoning Commission has the responsibility to weigh all the facts carefully — to consider the environmental impact and the rights of

A close look at Begin

WASHINGTON — Israel's embattled Prime Minister Menachem Begin, though capable of statesmanship, "tends to revert to his former style of rigidity and narrowness of view that makes negotiations difficult," so warns a secret psychological profile prepared by U.S. intelligence experts.

The appraisal is used as a guide by top U.S. policymakers who deal with Begin. If the Israeli leader should visit the White House, for example, the president would study a psychological profile.

He would be told that Begin is an activist — a puncher rather than a counter-puncher. "As an initiator, he is apt to strive for the dramatic to attract attention. When he reacts, however, he tends to be very cautious and precise."

The reason for this, the psychological profile suggests, is that Begin has spent most of his life "in the role of the opposer, the voice of a minority, an opponent of establishment."

For five years, he has stood at the center of the establishment. Yet he still has trouble conceiving of himself as a leading actor on the world stage rather than as an angry voice from the wings.

THE SECRET psychological profile has been reviewed by my associate Indy Badwar. It represents the best assessment of Begin by experts on the Middle East. Here are the highlights.

Begin is not considered, nor does he behave as, a man of compromise or flexibility. His image in the past has been that of passionate believer in his position and an outspoken and somewhat crude or unrefined representative of the Holocaust philosophy. He represents the mentality of those Jews unable to update in their perspective the Nazi treatment of their brethren.

"Begin believes that 'any expression of curbs on the sanctity of the Jewish state, or the potential Arab 'infringement' on Israeli territory' should be 'dealt with severely.'"

"To label his views as paranoid is inaccurate," the analysis states, adding: "At the same time one might admit that Mr. Begin is and was defensive and overly reactive to such so-called threats. He has built his entire life and political career on this basis."

"Even Begin's closest advisers have warned him not to behave like the underdog he was for so many years in Israeli politics. They urge Begin to become the spokesman for the Israeli people as a whole, 'rather than (for) a strident and zealous minority' of ultraconservative religious Jews who are outside the mainstream of Israeli society. 'Their strength is not great, but adherents may increase as the balance between Ashkenazi (Western Jews) and Sephardic (Oriental Jews) changes in favor of the latter.'"

"Begin's role as the perennial outsider became evident in his public appearances with the late Egyptian President Anwar Sadat during the Camp David negotiations.

"Begin appeared to be under stress and uncomfortable," the profile states. "It was Sadat's show and Begin behaved as if were not sure what to do next. He was not in control, therefore uneasy."

Once this "unfamiliar and uncomfortable" role was over, the analysis noted, "Begin reverted to the 'minority behavior,' the strict and somewhat strident zealot's view of Biblical rights and overprotection of the Jewish state."

The Herald welcomes letters to the editor. Letters ideally should be typed and should be no longer than two pages, double-spaced. The Herald reserves the right to edit letters in the interest of clarity and taste.

The article was much too generous and the headlines embarrassing but I do want to let you know that I think Mrs. Thompson did an outstanding job of writing it. She had so many disparate bits of information to work with and yet gave a coherent, interesting (for me, for sure) story.

Her nice sense of what to include showed maturity and sensitivity. Several people have commented on how well-written the article was in mentioning it to me, so it isn't just my "rosy" perception.

Mr. Thompson was a skilled interviewer and I feel she has an outstanding career in journalism ahead of her.

I congratulate the Herald on having such a fine staff person.

Inflation, Social Security hike offset tax cut

pace than as taxpayers in the upper-income range," Gregg A. Eswenew, economics analyst at the Congressional Research Service, said.

Social Security hikes affect higher income groups less since the increase in both the Social Security tax rate and the income base it is imposed on is small in comparison to the size of their incomes.

Without the 1981 tax cut, tax rates indeed would have continued to escalate to much higher levels. And that probably would have created additional work and investment disincentives — although the extent to which, and at what levels, taxes erode work and investment incentives are debated issues among economists.

The important question now is whether stabilizing marginal tax rates is going to give people greater incentives," Meyer said. Joseph A. Pechman, director of economic studies at the Brookings Institution, says the Reagan tax cuts have "offset a lot of the inflation impact on income tax rates that occurred during the 1970s. The top marginal tax rates are now lower than they have been since World War II."

"Our analysis suggests the three-year cut in personal income tax rates will have little effect on people's behavior, because few taxpayers will face the total federal tax rates in 1983 that they did in 1980," they said.

"Basically what we're saying," Meyer explained, "is that wherever we were on the Laffer Curve in 1980, we'll be about in the same spot in 1983. Even for the over $40,000 group, there won't be much of an effect."

When all types of individual federal taxes are considered, said Pechman, "we don't have much of a progressive system." For the vast majority, he said, the tax burden is essentially proportional. Thus, contrary to the widely held perception, the tax system has little effect on the distribution of income.

Distorting the progressive income tax rate structure are the special tax breaks, or "tax expenditures."

Economist Michael Dogavero of Alfred University, who has done extensive research on the distribution of tax expenditures, found that many of the provisions which were legislated to aid all groups of taxpayers "have the effect of aiding certain groups more than others. The incidence of most of the provisions seem to be focused on the upper-middle income individuals."

While completely escaping U.S. taxes is a relatively rare occurrence, the rich do have a variety of ways to reduce their tax liability, through such deductions as investment contributions, charitable interest expenses, tax sheltered, and large capital gains.

TAX-EXEMPT MUNICIPAL bonds are very popular among the rich. Although the bonds may pay a lower rate than Treasury and corporate bonds, their yield can be much more attractive because of the tax-exempt feature. To someone in the top tax bracket, a municipal bond paying 12 percent interest is equivalent to earning 24 percent on a taxable bond.

The rich also have capital gains income from the sale of stocks or bonds or other types of investments. If the investment income was slashed to 50 percent from 70 percent at the beginning of this year, some still are profitable ways of keeping Uncle Sam from at least part of the wealth.

Further, the percentage of wealthy Americans who have managed to escape tax-free has fallen over the past decade with the strengthening of the minimum tax provision and limitations on tax shelters.

In 1980, only one in 1,265 Americans with adjusted gross income in excess of $200,000 paid no tax, compared to one of 130 for returns filed four years earlier.

Nevertheless, the fact that many individuals manage to pay far less than what is considered to be a fair share of the tax burden underscores some of the inequities in the tax system.

HOW DO SOME of the wealthy manage to get away with paying little or no tax? A 1980 Treasury analysis of high income tax returns in 1976 found that most of those who had no tax on their adjusted gross income either had large foreign tax credits or casualty losses.

In the case of the foreign tax credits, the analysis found the individuals paid taxes to foreign governments at very high effective tax rates, typically in excess of 50 percent.

Moreover, most of them were actually living abroad and deriving their incomes there.

Most wealthy Americans in fact bear a substantial income tax burden. Internal Revenue Service data on returns for 1979 showed that 87 percent of those in the $200,000-plus bracket paid more than 30 percent of their adjusted gross income in taxes.

Three out of five paid more than 40 percent in taxes. The signs of progressivity are there. Those in the $100,000-plus brackets in 1979 had income accounting for 6 percent of all income, yet their share of the total tax burden was nearly 15 percent.

Only few rich people escape big tax burden

By Gary Klott
UPI Business Writer

When America's rich figured their tax returns in 1980, 669 of them paid nothing on income over $100,000. Eight were millionaires.

In another fortunate group were the growing ranks of high-bracket earners who managed to whittle their tax rate to the level normally reserved for lower income groups.

The latest data shows that those with adjusted gross income in excess of $100,000 in 1979, a 1987 manager to slice their tax to an effective rate of less than 10 percent — the burden normally carried by those earning less than $13,000 a year.

But the notion that the rich as a group are able to escape the wrath of the tax collector is a myth.

The 29.6 million tax returns filed by individuals in all income groups in 1980, roughly 21 million escaped tax-free. But 97 percent were those with incomes under $10,000.

MOST WEALTHY Americans in fact bear a substantial income tax burden. Internal Revenue Service data on returns for 1979 showed that 87 percent of those in the $200,000-plus bracket paid more than 30 percent of their adjusted gross income in taxes.

Three out of five paid more than 40 percent in taxes. The signs of progressivity are there. Those in the $100,000-plus brackets in 1979 had income accounting for 6 percent of all income, yet their share of the total tax burden was nearly 15 percent.

In Manchester A second chance for Crossroads

Crossroads has a big job ahead of it. The youth counseling agency reopened Tuesday after its board of directors found no link between the agency's operations and the arrest of its former assistant director on drug charges.

It's open again, but the stain on its reputation in the community is only too apparent. The schools have already canceled all Crossroads programs for this year, that means that the services of two Crossroads counselors, a drug and alcohol education program at the upper elementary school level and the junior high level and a jobs program at the junior high level have been terminated for this year.

Whether they'll be continued when school reopens next fall depends on what steps Crossroads can take to convince worried school administrators and town officials that it has no links to the very element it is trying to fight.

Surely, the positive evaluation that an independent citizens group recently gave Crossroads will help some. The group gave the 13-year-old town funded agency high marks.

Another factor in Crossroads' favor will be its longevity. For 13 years the independent drug counseling agency has existed in Manchester, and, as far as can be determined, no one has gotten into trouble with the law before. It has served a vital need in town, and its patron dozens of kids over the years who have knocked on its door for help, can attest to its effectiveness.

And, when trouble did come, there was no cover-up operation, another point in Crossroads' favor. The agency's board of directors made no attempt to hide the fact that the arrest occurred. Instead, they immediately shut down all operations as launched their own investigation. And, convinced that there was no link between the assistant director's arrest and the agency, they opened their doors again.

But the damage has been done. A reputation which has taken 13 years to develop and mature has been badly damaged. School officials had little choice but to temporarily suspend all links with the agency; it's just too bad that students who'd looked to the agency for counseling will suffer.

Though school officials have promised that kids who got Crossroads counseling will be given alternatives, one can't help but wonder what important relationships have been dashed. How do you explain to a troubled teenager who has finally found someone to talk to that he or she will receive "alternate sources of counseling?"

We're behind Crossroads. We think the community should be, too.

Anti-nuclear drive fueled by fear for future

180 miles an hour. Meanwhile, the fireball would be growing, until it was more than a mile wide, and rocketing upward, to a height of over six miles. For 10 seconds it would broil the city below.

Anyone caught in the open within nine miles of ground zero would receive third-degree burns and would probably be charred and killed instantly, Schell said.

That is what would happen if just one one-megaton bomb exploded above New York. But military theorists estimate the Soviet Union would use at least a 20-megaton bomb on strategically important cities like New York. A 20-megaton bomb has a yield 1,600 times more powerful than the bomb dropped on Hiroshima.

And even if one were fortunate enough to be hundreds of miles away from New York during the attack, radioactivity hurtled into the atmosphere would eventually rain down in deadly doses of fallout.

According to scientific and health experts, the radioactive effects of an all-out nuclear war would kill many more millions in addition to the millions killed by the actual bomb bursts, pulse waves and fallout could last for 5,000 years, affecting generations of people yet unborn.

ONE IRONY is that while man, birds, trees, mammals and plants would die from radiation, some insects and some species of grasses and algae would survive. The pests would inherit the planet.

And not only would the surface of the earth be devastated in a nuclear war, so would the sky above.

The National Academy of Sciences says that a 100-megaton war likely megatonnage in a missile attack by a super-power would destroy half the ozone in the

"We're talking about nuclear war not power. There is no controversy where war is concerned."

"People are seriously concerned about the future of their children and grandchildren — whether there will be a world for them to live in. I've been in town meetings now in New Hampshire and Massachusetts and in Utah and Arizona and it's very exciting to see how people have the sense that yes, the involvement of an individual can make a difference."

AND THE ANTI-NUCLEAR movement seems to accommodate the individual.

"I think it's a new phenomenon — middle-aged, middle class people are supporting this movement," said Randall Forsberg, founder and director of the Institute for Defense and Disarmament Studies in Brookline, Mass. "It's supported even among Democrats and Republicans and the young and the old and minorities alike."

IT IS THIS WORRY of global catastrophe that fuels the anti-nuclear movement.

Dr. Howard Hiatt, dean of the Harvard School of Public Health, said he became involved in the issue 2 1/2 years ago when a student asked him to speak on the medical consequences of a nuclear war.

"Like so many others I had concerns about it. They were projecting what would happen to a city in the event of nuclear war," Hiatt said. "This has to be looked at as one looks at an epidemic for which there is no cure. You must bend all efforts toward prevention in this case. The problem would be so extreme that this would be the last epidemic the civilization would endure."

Hiatt makes a distinction between nuclear war and nuclear-powered electricity generating plants.

The facts

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — The following facts are from the United Nations study on nuclear weapons:

- At least 95 percent of all nuclear weapons are held by the two superpowers.
- The United States and the Soviet Union spend $10 billion a day to establish, maintain and develop nuclear weapons.
- Perhaps 10 times as much is spent on the associated delivery system.
- About 4 to 5 percent of the uranium believed to be available in the United States has been processed for military purposes.
- About 20 percent of the U.S. military budget is being used for nuclear forces.
- In a limited theatre nuclear war, civilian casualties would still outnumber military casualties, 12 to 1.
- Since 1945, there have been 1,200 known nuclear test explosions, 90 percent of which were conducted by the superpowers.
- In the 1970s, 419 explosions were reported, the Soviet Union made 189, the United States 153, France 56, China 15, Britain 5 and India 1.
- Latin America has no known nuclear weapons because of the Treaty of Tlatelolco of 1967.
- The capability to develop a rudimentary nuclear arsenal of 12 warheads is probably within the reach of 20 to 25 nonnuclear-weapon states and this number can be expected to increase as reliance on nuclear power grows.

FOR YEARS PEOPLE could not psychologically deal with the utter terror of nuclear war and repressed their fears and believed there was absolutely nothing they could do to alter the balance of terror imposed and orchestrated by the superpowers.

Movement leaders say this is changing.

"There is a feeling of a new sense of hope of exerting power over lives and deaths. The situation is both desperate and hopeful," Lifton said.

The movement's prime mission, leaders say, is to stop the nuclear arms race and eventually do away with nuclear weapons.

"The movement has focused on the short run in calling for a freeze. If they achieved those goals, there would probably be disputes between members of the movement as to what to do next," said Barton Bernstein, associate professor of history at Stanford.

Bernstein said the movement really is not demanding more than SALT II and has a narrow band of concerns.

"The movement doesn't have enemies beyond Reagan, Haig and Weinberger," he said.

But some call the movement just the latest phase of protest hysteria.

"I feel the people are well-intentioned but I don't regard it as a realistic movement. The problem is who is going to use the movement and for what purpose," said William Poole of the conservative Heritage Foundation in Washington.

Northeast Utilities to request new rate hike

By Jacqueline Huard
United Press International

WINDSOR LOCKS — Northeast Utilities says it will formally notify state utility regulators Friday of its intention to seek higher rates for its customers in Connecticut.

Northeast, which received a record $186 million rate hike last year, Tuesday became the state's second major utility to announce plans to seek higher rates in the past week.

Northeast Chairman Lelan F. Sillin Jr. said the amount of the proposed rate hike would not be disclosed until the company filed notice Friday with the state Department of Public Utility Control.

"A decision on this proceeding will be reached in December of this year and the outcome should help provide the revenues necessary to cover the cost of operation in 1983," Sillin said at Northeast's annual stockholders meeting.

Northeast was the second major utility in Connecticut to announce plans to seek a rate increase in the past week. Southern New England Telephone Co. announced plans last week to seek a $128 million rate hike.

Although they would not disclose the amount of the rate hike,

Northeast officials disputed a claim by the president of the Committee for Lower Utility Bills group that the amount involved was a whopping $25 million.

"Where is he going to get that $4 billion?" asked David Truskoff, president of the Simsbury-based consumer organization.

Truskoff's group joined three others, including the Connecticut Citizens Action Group, at a news conference outside the Windsor Locks hotel where Northeast shareholders met.

The groups called the news conference to protest the company's planned rate filing and to demand an end to work on the Millstone III nuclear power plant, which is under construction at Waterford.

Sillin said an updated cost estimate would be available in September for the Millstone III plant, which now has an estimated cost of $2.6 billion. Some citizen groups claim the cost will rise to as high as $4 billion.

Sillin said despite the current oil glut, the Northeast region was still in danger of not having enough petroleum because it remained dependent on fuel from one of the most unstable areas of the world.

He said Millstone III was crucial to reducing Connecticut's dependence on imported oil.

The utility will have an estimated $440 million worth of construction costs this year, including work on the nuclear plant, Sillin said.

Millstone III is expected to be completed in 1988.

He said Northeast will finance its construction program by selling common stock, bonds, and preferred stock. It will also create a construction trust and a new nuclear fuel trust, he said.

Helen Johnson, spokeswoman for the CCAE, said the construction of Millstone III will be a detriment to stockholders because the value of their holdings will be diluted when

The sale of 9 million shares (in 1981) reduced the value of each share by 6 cents, about 7 percent," she said.

The Legislature defeated a CCAE-backed bill this year to require an independent study of Millstone III and to decide if it still made economic sense to build the plant.

Forests buried

The canyon walls of the Yellowstone River, Wyoming, consist of 15 fossil forests, one buried atop another. The oldest forest flourished 19 million years ago.

Northeast sells more shares to pay for the plant.

The sale of 9 million shares (in 1981) reduced the value of each share by 6 cents, about 7 percent," she said.

The Legislature defeated a CCAE-backed bill this year to require an independent study of Millstone III and to decide if it still made economic sense to build the plant.

Prices for gas up 6-9%

HARTFORD (UPI) — Customers of the Connecticut Natural Gas Corp. will be paying an average of 6 to 9 percent more for gas under a $10.3 million rate increase approved by state utility regulators, officials say.

The increase approved Tuesday by the state Department of Public Utility Control represented less than half of the roughly $23 increase the company had sought.

State Consumer Counsel Barry S. Zitzer estimated the rate hike would mean average increases of 6 to 9 percent in the bills paid by the 125,000 customers CNG serves in the Hartford-New Britain and Greenwich areas.

Zitzer, whose office represents consumer interests in utility rate cases, said he believed the DPU's decision was "balanced in the interests of consumers."

"If you just go through it issue by issue there are some real expenses in this rate application and those weren't ignored," he said. "I thought it was a pretty balanced decision."

He said the rate hike approved by the DPU represented a 7 percent overall increase for the gas company, which had sought a 14.6 percent hike.

Zitzer pointed out that the DPUC awarded CNG "slightly less than half" of the $23 million increase the company wanted and also cut the company's request for a 20 percent profit margin for its shareholders.

He said the approved rate increase would allow CNG a 16.2 percent profit level, which compared to a 15.5 percent level advocated by an expert brought in by his office.

"That's a little higher than I would have liked to see but it's less than their actual earnings for 1981," he said of the approved profit level.

Zitzer also said the DPUC had rejected a bid by CNG to require ratepayers "to pay for what CNG fears might be future conservation" and to more than double its basic monthly charge for gas service.

Talks at GE in 4th week

NEW YORK (UPI) — Representatives of 73,000 unionized workers are in their fourth week of contract negotiations with General Electric Corp. in a session focused on union shop provisions.

A spokesman for the International Union of Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America, which represents 60,000 workers nationwide, said this week's sessions will continue Wednesday and conclude Thursday.

The IUE and United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America (UEA), which represents 13,000 workers across the nation, are negotiating with the Fairfield, Conn.-based company for a 3-year pact to replace a current contract that expires June 27.

Contracts for about 20,000 GE workers in 11 other unions also expire about the same time although new agreements are worked out on a local basis.

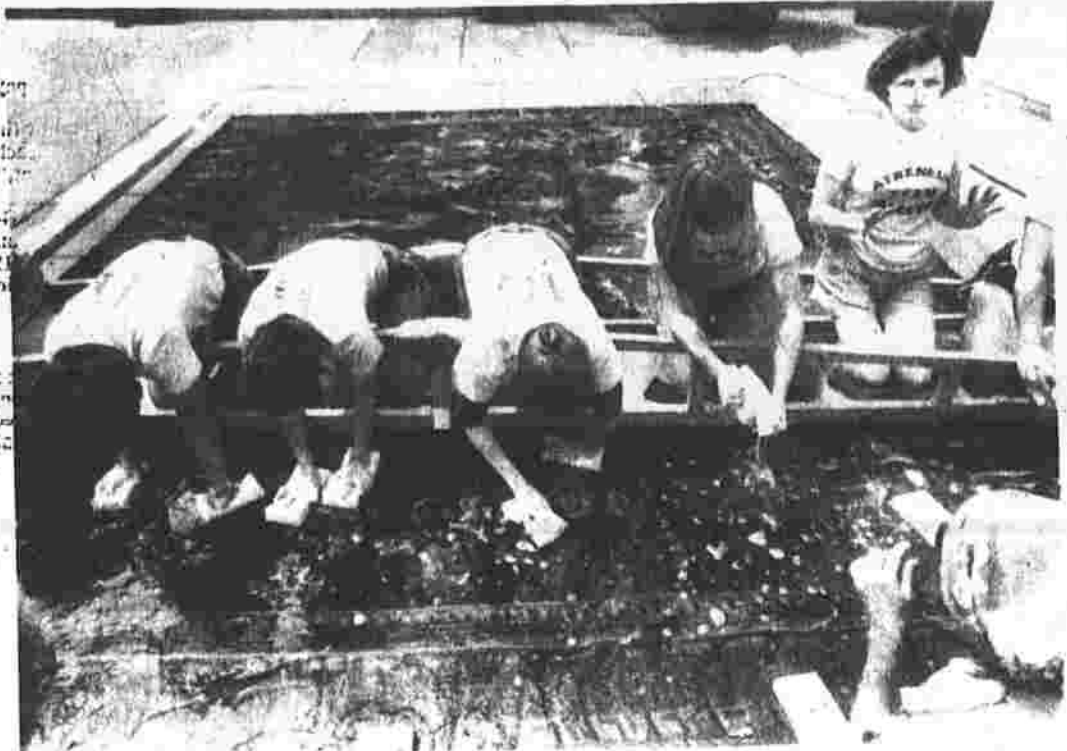

The IUE spokesman said working talks will concern contract language.

Jail work begins

HARTFORD (UPI) — Facing court-ordered limits on the inmate populations of some jails, the state is starting work on a $10.7 million prison facility at the Connecticut Correctional Institution in Enfield.

Gov. William O'Neill announced the construction project Tuesday and said the 500-bed facility should be ready by the end of next year.

The $10.7 million prison will be a minimum-security facility and the existing Enfield prison will be converted to medium security with new double fencing and 24-hour motorized patrols, the governor said.

The state Department of Correction has been looking into ways to provide more prison beds to reduce overcrowding that has resulted in court-ordered limits on the populations of some correctional facilities.

O'Neill on Monday signed into law a bill authorizing $128 million in bonding for a wide range of state capital projects, including funds for the Department of Correction to provide more beds for inmates.

The new prison will be built by an outside construction firm, O'Neill said.

Sexual assault conviction of ex-policeman overturned

HARTFORD (UPI) — The sexual assault conviction of a former Hartford police union president has been overturned by the state Supreme Court on the grounds that improper instructions were given to the jury in the case.

The high court ruled unanimously Tuesday that Jerome Martin was denied a fair trial because of the instructions given by the jury at his trial by Hartford Superior Court Judge David M. Shea, who is now a Supreme Court Justice.

Martin, who was a Hartford police officer and president of the police union at the time of his arrest, was charged with first-degree sexual assault and first-degree unlawful restraint for an incident that occurred in January 1978.

He was acquitted by a Hartford police jury of the unlawful restraint charge but convicted on a lesser charge of third-degree sexual assault.

In overturning the conviction, the Supreme Court ordered the lower court "to render judgment that the defendant is not guilty of sexual assault in the first-degree and ordering that he be discharged."

In another case, the Supreme Court upheld the conviction of a man found guilty of first-degree assault for a 1978 attack on a man in the victim's East Haven apartment.

Michael Hines claimed he had acted in self-defense after the victim allegedly picked up the knife and rushed at him during a quarrel over a debt — an account that differed sharply from that given by the victim.

In another case, the Supreme Court upheld a lower court's ruling in a dispute stemming from a Middletown police officer's dismissal for making ethnic slurs at band members at a policeman's ball and fighting with the band leader.

Purolator motions to be heard June 17

WATERBURY (UPI) — Arguments on motions filed in the case of two women charged with killing three guards during the 1979 robbery of an armored car depot have been set for mid-June.

Judge Albert W. Cretella Jr. decided Tuesday to allow attorneys time to review rulings by another judge on similar motions filed in earlier proceedings in the 1979 robbery at Purolator Security's Waterbury depot.

A court clerk said attorneys hoped they may be able to avoid repetition by reviewing transcripts of proceedings on the earlier motions, which involved some of the same points raised in the latest motions.

The clerk said a "slur" of motions were filed by lawyers for Evelyn Vega, 28, of East Haven, and Donna Couture, 26, of Wallingford, who are each facing three counts of felony murder and one count of conspiracy to commit robbery.

Cretella scheduled the next round of proceedings for June 17.

Ms. Vega and Ms. Couture, both who were in court Tuesday, were arrested the day after the robbery in which more than $1.8 million was stolen from Purolator's Waterbury depot. Three guards were gunned down during the heist.

Ms. Vega's boyfriend, Lawrence Pelletier, and Ms. Couture's ex-husband, Donald Couture, were convicted earlier this year in the robbery and slayings and sentenced to 15 years to life in prison each.

John at his best beating Blue Jays

NEW YORK (UPI) — If the Yankee Stadium infield grass hadn't been mowed too well Tuesday night, Tommy John made sure it was clean-cut by the time he was through.

Working with the kind of control hitters have come to dread, John fashoned his 4th career shutout with a five-hit, 5-0 victory over the Toronto Blue Jays. He struck out only one batter, but his patented sinkerball induced 21 groundouts, including 13 of the first 18 Toronto outs. Shortstop Roy Smalley had eight assists.

"Tommy John is a super pitcher," said hitting Blue Jays' left fielder Barry Bonnell, who had two of the hits off John to raise his average above .400, "and he can put you in a slump in a hurry."

John was so sharp that he never allowed a runner past first base and walked just one. The Yankees, meanwhile, locked up their sixth straight triumph with a three-run second inning and a five-run seventh off rookie Jim Gott, 6-2.

"He had a good sinker and great control," said Toronto Manager Bobby Cox. "He knows how to pitch; he knows what to do with the stuff he has. He's been there before."

He has, and John has also learned to deal with the frustrations of pitching well without any support, which is why he is only 4-4 this season. His ERA dropped to 2.23, fourth-best in the league.

"I think I've had good stuff all year," said the left-hander. "I even had a good fastball tonight, too."

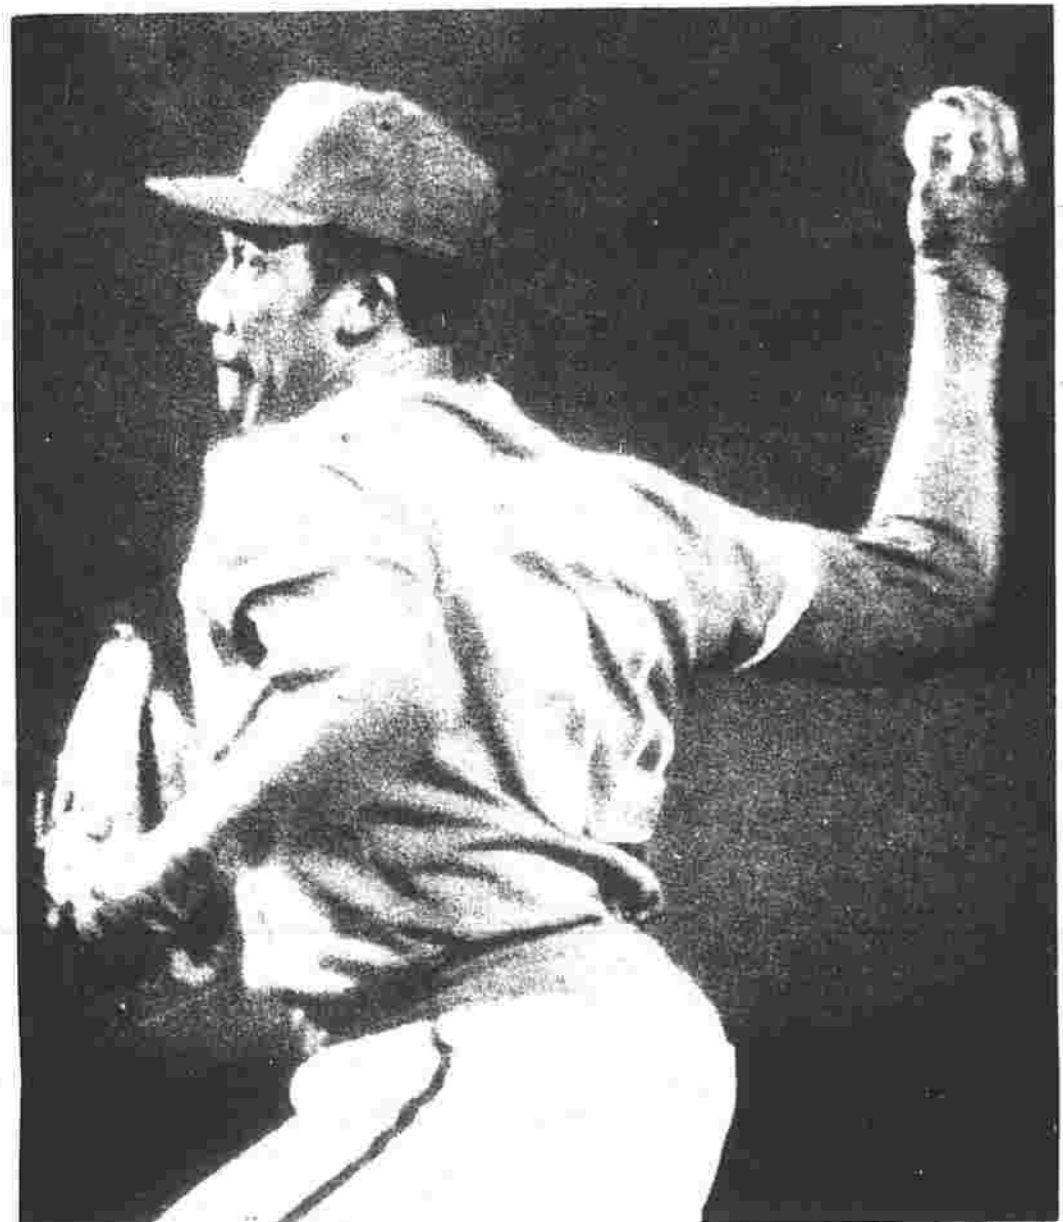

"When you're not going good, like we were earlier this year, the groundballs tend to go through and the line drives go through. I was hitting well, but things weren't happening. We weren't scoring runs, but things were. We needed a hot arm and a roll like this."

The winning slush has carried the Yankees, 21-19, to within six games of first-place Boston in the American League East. And it is making for a much more relaxed clubhouse, even if most of the players are still getting to know each other.

"Fun," said Oscar Gamble, who hit a three-run homer off left-hander Jerry Karvin in the seventh, his second homer of a southpaw in a week after he hadn't accomplished the feat in three years. "This is fun now."

So the Yankees, who have been beset with many injuries recently and troubled by confusion over owner George Steinbrenner's many trades, have won six in a row anyway. They are proving once again that they are a team that functions best under duress.

FERGUSON JENKINS UNLOADS HISTORIC PITCH ... strikeout was 3,000th of career last night against Padres

Two years of struggling paid off for Dave Palmer

By Fred McMane
UPI Sports Writer

After two years of struggling to find the road back to the major leagues, pitcher Dave Palmer of the Montreal Expos found it. He led the team to a 10-4 record in the National League during the 1979 and 1980 seasons. Palmer underwent surgery for ligament damage in his right elbow in November of 1980 and has spent the better part of two years trying to come back.

"I'm on cloud nine," said Palmer. "This is something I've worked hard for and dreamed for and it's here. My arm feels great."

Palmer had some trouble with his direction when it came to finding home plate, but he allowed only two hits before giving way to Bryn Smith. Palmer walked six and hit a batter but the only run the Astro got came in the second without benefit of a hit.

"I haven't changed my style at all," added Palmer. "I challenge the hitters. I throw 110 pitches so I might have gone longer."

Andre Dawson and Gary Carter provided plenty of batting support for Palmer. Dawson hit a pair of solo homers and Carter chipped in with another solo blast to tag Vern Riffe with the loss. Dawson also added a two-run double in the ninth.

Elsewhere in the National League, Atlanta walloped New York 10-2. Cincinnati edged Philadelphia 4-3. Los Angeles dominated Pittsburgh 8-2. San Diego edged Chicago 2-1 and St. Louis whipped San Francisco 8-3. Reds 4, Phillies 3.

At Cincinnati, Dan Driessen singled home the winning run to cap a four-run eighth inning that enabled the Reds to snap a six-game losing streak. Larry Christenson was coasting along with a two-hit shutout and a 3-0 lead when the Reds put together five hits and a walk to pull the game out. Garry Maddox homered for Philadelphia.

If Jim Palmer really wants to be traded, he'd better stop pitching like a three-time Cy Young award winner or Earl Weaver will never let him go.

Palmer, who said he wanted out of Baltimore when Weaver sent him to the bullpen, was inserted back into the starting rotation Tuesday night and helped the Orioles to a 10-3 victory over the Texas Rangers with his 25th career win.

"It was not a milestone as far as I'm concerned," said Palmer, who tired in the ninth and was replaced by Tippy Martinez. "I guess it is as far as history goes. But when you get 249 wins you obviously don't want to stop at 250."

On a steamy night in Arlington, Gary Roenicke drove three runs and a sacrifice fly to pace a 10-hit Baltimore attack.

Palmer, who needed 15 years to win 250 games, had not started since

Lighter Whisenton produces such as Joe Torre predicted

ATLANTA (UPI) — Joe Torre took one look at an overweight Larry Whisenton in spring training and it brought back memories of Torre's own battles with his waistline.

The rookie outfielder reported to camp weighing 235 and immediately became Torre's "pet project."

"We're definitely going to need some bench help to remain in the pennant race," he said. "I'm just happy I made the team. Joe told me when I went to spring training that I had a good chance to make the club. He got my confidence up. That was the first time I had heard that from a manager."

The Braves, snapping a three-game losing streak, hammered the Mets for 14 hits, with every starter getting at least one, and scored eight runs in the second inning, then biggie single-inning outburst in three years.

Whisenton had two RBI in the inning with a booming triple to the center field wall and a single. Dale Gribble, who registered the National League home run lead with 14, led off the inning with a solo shot and Rick Mahbar added a three-run blast — his fourth home of the year and second in two nights.

"Some people were saying they thought I was big because we had lost three games, but I thought we were playing pretty good ball," said Hubbard. "We just weren't bunting our hits together and tonight we did."

Hubbard added a fourth complete game of the season, moving into a tie for the league lead. After giving up a run in the second, he faced the minimum number of batters until George Foster touched him for his ninth home, a solo shot, in the eighth.

Long fight predicted for Tony C's recovery

BOSTON (UPI) — Former Boston slugger Tony Conigliaro has succeeded in his battle against a paralyzing coma caused by a massive heart attack four months ago but he still has a long fight ahead, doctors say.

Dr. Maximilian Kaubach confirmed Tuesday Conigliaro spoke his first coherent words to nurses and family members on Sunday at the Dr. J. Shaugnessy Chronic Disease Rehabilitation Hospital in Salem.

But doctors warned Conigliaro, 37, has a long battle ahead of him.

"I want to emphasize that we are not out of the woods," said

Angels unlead on Sox with Foli leading way

BOSTON (UPI) — Gene Mauch calls his new shortstop "an old-fashioned ballplayer." Tim Lincecum is just happy to be the shortstop, period.

Foli, who has replaced the injured Rick Burleson, is on a tear lately and Tuesday night he gave a demonstration to the Boston Red Sox on just about every conceivable method of driving in a run. Foli drove in four — one with a homer, one with a single, one with a sacrifice fly and one with a sacrifice squeeze bunt. He produced two more runs than the opposition, as the Angels crushed the Red Sox 10-2 for the ninth triumph in their last 11 games.

"My main job is to play good defense, but it's exciting and fun to be able to contribute offensively, too," said Foli, who in his last 11 games is batting 500 with 12 RBI.

"The hitting is contagious. I'm around such great hitters it can't help but be contagious."

Foli, the sparkplug shortstop for the wild wild chugging Pirates, was a backup until Burleson tore a rotator cuff. It was not the kind of break a backup player seeks, but it's one on which he must capitalize.

"It was a chance for me to play every day at the position I'm most comfortable in, shortstop," he said. "All they want me to do is play defense and if I don't hit, we still have a chance. When I do hit, that's an added plus."

His sacrifice bunt was a perfect illustration of what Mauch means by an "old-fashioned ballplayer." Fred Lynn was breaking from third and the pitch was in on Foli. He still got the bat on the ball and Lynn scored standing up.

"That's the kind of player he is," Mauch said. "He comes to the park every day, every day. He's an old-fashioned ballplayer."

Foli was waiting for his chance, and got it, his former Pirate teammate, Bruce Kison, is making game for his comeback attempt.

Kison, who underwent open surgery in July, 1980, raised his record to 4-0 with a four-hit, walking home run and lowering his ERA to 2.06.

"I'm pretty close to being as comfortable as I've ever felt," said Kison, who retired 17 of the last 19 batters he faced for his first complete game since May, 1980. "There have been a lot of ups and downs in the recovery process. You just have to take things as they come."

Kison got a big break when the Angels took a 4-0 lead in the second off John Tudor of five singles, three of the seeing-eye variety, and a sacrifice fly. After Boston moved to 5-2 in the fourth, Kison led the Red Sox hitless until Carl Yazstrzyski led off the ninth with a bloopy single.

"Kison moved the ball around well," noted Red Sox Manager Ralph Houk. "When you're ahead like that, you seem pitch better."

Tudor saw his ERA drop from 3.25 to 4.55, but said he felt he had excellent stuff.

"I didn't think I pitched that bad, but I guess it's hard to say that after you gave up eight hits," Tudor said. "Brian Downing knocked in three runs for California with a two-run homer and a sacrifice fly. Bobby Grich added a solo homer for the Angels, his first in Fenway Park since 1977.

Dwight Evans, with a second-inning double, and Rich Papagna blanked the Elks, 15-0, at Pagan, Dan Fox, Bellevue, John Bremser, Guy Desimone and Mike Jacobs each had two hits and Kevin Flynn homered for the Painters.

Mike Bertrand and Rich Papagna each were in the two-hit class for the Elks.

Bolton nips Rocky Hill in extra frame, 7-6

With Bob Cusano's second successful suicide squeeze chugging home the winning run in the bottom of the eighth inning, Bolton High nipped Rocky Hill High, 7-6, in COC baseball action yesterday in Bolton.

The win lifts the Bulldogs, who had to forfeit their last encounter due to lack of players, to 3-15 for the season while the loss sends the Torters to 1-13.

Bolton wraps up its season Thursday at home against Bacon Academy at 3:15.

Rocky Hill plated a run in the top of the eighth to snap a 5-0-1 deadlock. Bolton, however, refused to give in.

Norm Harpin tripled and scored the equalizer on a Jeff Peterson RBI single. Peterson stole second and took third as the throw flew into centerfield. He then scored the game-winner as Cusano put down a perfect bunt inside the third base line.

It was Cusano's second successful suicide as he squared matters in the bottom of the sixth at 5-1 with a similar procedure. Cusano was 2-for-3. Jody Finkelstein in relief was the winning pitcher. He worked the final 5 2/3-innings giving up four hits while striking out four.

Winfield sues Steinbrenner for renegeing on contract

NEW YORK (UPI) — George Steinbrenner, who spends money more freely than anyone else in baseball's free agent market, has been sued by one of his star employees, Dave Winfield, for not paying enough.

Winfield is charging his boss with renegeing on the 18-year, $23-million contract the slugger/outfielder signed in December of 1980.

A suit for $2,850,000 plus damages for an unknown amount was filed against Steinbrenner in the U.S. District Court in Manhattan Tuesday by the David M. Winfield Foundation. The Foundation, a charitable organization headed by the 30-year-old Winfield, has accused Steinbrenner of not complying with his original agreement.

The Foundation was part of the negotiations that made him decide to sign with the Yankees after the Yankees made an annual donation of $100,000 to the Foundation. "This complaint is not being brought by me individually, but by the Foundation," Winfield said.

Winfield's contention is that the $3 million Steinbrenner promised to the Foundation was part of the negotiations that made him decide to sign with the Yankees after the Yankees made an annual donation of $100,000 to the Foundation. "This complaint is not being brought by me individually, but by the Foundation," Winfield said.

Book features healthy recipes

By Barbara Richmond
Herald Reporter

Nutrition, health and fitness — that's what seems to be on the minds of people who put together the cookbooks these days. One of the latest, "Cooking for the Health of It," was developed by Gail L. Becker, a dietitian.

It's a small, easy-to-handle book that sells for $5.95 in the bookstores but can be had for $3.50 by writing to the Cumberland Packing Corp., Dept. B, 60 Flushing Ave., Brooklyn, N.Y. 11205, the company which brought us Sweet 'n Low.

The author knows all about nutrition. She has directed dietetics at a large metropolitan hospital and headed dietetic services for a major food company. Many of her articles have appeared in leading women's magazines.

Several pages of the book are dedicated to explanations of what one should eat to stay healthy, suggested body weights, foods that should be avoided, the use of substitutes for butter, sugar and salt, and other nutritional information.

The book also has several pages of color photos of the completed recipes showing that foods that are nutritious can look and taste good, too.

The book does promote several commercial products such as Sweet 'n Low sugar substitute, therefore most of the recipes call for one of these products. However, anyone who cooks can adjust the recipes to use their favorite shortening or sugar.

A sampling of some of the recipes follows:

Orange Muffins

- 2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
  - 6 packets sugar substitute
  - 1 tablespoon baking powder
  - 1/2 teaspoon salt
  - 1 egg beaten
  - 1 cup low-fat milk
  - 2 tablespoons margarine, melted
  - 2 teaspoons finely grated orange rind
- Preheat oven to 425 degrees. Use non-stick muffin tins or spray regular muffin tins with non-stick coating agent. Sift dry ingredients into medium-size bowl. In separate bowl, combine egg with milk, margarine and orange rind. Beat with fork or whisk to mix thoroughly. Make a well in center of dry ingredients. Pour in liquid ingredients; stir quickly until dry ingredients are just moistened and mixture is still slightly lumpy. Divide batter into muffin cups, filling each two-thirds full. Bake 15 to 20 minutes, or until golden brown and toothpick inserted in center comes out clean. Loosen edges of muffins. Let stand 1 or 2 minutes. Turn onto cooling racks.

About Town

No dog licenses yet

Dog licenses cannot be issued until June 1, a spokesman for the town clerk's office said. Dogs older than six months must be licensed by June 30, but the licenses will not be available before June 1.

Quilters meet Tuesday

Nutmeg Quilters will have the final meeting of the season Tuesday at 7 p.m. in the community room at Vernon Police Station, Route 30. A workshop on scrap quilt making will be conducted by Mary Lou Smith.

Paprika Meatballs

- 1 pound lean ground beef
- 1/2 cup melted shortening (or liquid Butter Buds)
- 3 tablespoons minced onion
- 2 tablespoons fine bread crumbs
- 1/2 teaspoon garlic powder
- 1/4 teaspoon dry mustard
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- 1 medium-size ripe tomato, chopped
- 1/4 teaspoon basil
- 1/4 teaspoon thyme
- 2 cups low-fat milk, divided
- 1 packet Butter Buds
- 3 tablespoons all-purpose flour
- 2 teaspoons paprika

In large bowl, combine beef, Butter Buds, onion, bread crumbs, garlic powder, mustard and pepper and mix thoroughly. Shape mixture into 16 cocktail-size meatballs. Brown in large non-stick skillet over medium heat about 10 to 15 minutes, or until meatballs are browned on all sides. Remove from skillet and drain off excess fat.

Combine tomato, basil and thyme in same skillet. Cook until tomato is very soft, 5 to 10 minutes. In saucepan, heat 1 1/2 cups milk until warm. Add Butter Buds and stir until dissolved. Add flour and paprika to remaining milk and stir to a smooth paste. Add to heated milk mixture and blend thoroughly. Slowly add cooked tomato to milk mixture, stirring constantly. Transfer mixture to large skillet and add meatballs. Heat thoroughly just until hot. Do not boil.

Spinach Noodle Fettucine

- 1 cup low-fat cottage cheese
  - 1/2 cup plain low-fat yogurt
  - 1/2 cup toasted sliced water chestnuts
  - 1/4 cup toasted slivered almonds, divided
  - 1/4 cup finely chopped pimento
  - 1 packet Butter Buds
  - 1 tablespoon chopped fresh parsley
  - 1 tablespoon grated Parmesan cheese
  - 1/4 teaspoon oregano
  - 1/4 teaspoon basil
  - 1/4 teaspoon thyme
- Freshly ground pepper to taste
8 ounces uncooked spinach noodles
In medium-size bowl, blend cottage cheese into yogurt. Add remaining ingredients, except noodles, using only 1/2 cup almonds. Mix well. Prepare noodles according to package directions, omitting salt. Drain. In a warm pan, toss hot noodles with cheese mixture. Turn onto warm serving platter and sprinkle with remaining almonds.

Ellen Meyers links chemistry, cooking

By Barbara Richmond
Herald Reporter

Ellen P. Meyers of 88 Ambassador Drive says her background in chemistry may be the reason she enjoys following recipes. Miss Meyers is an associate professor at Manchester Community College and is coordinator for the medical lab technician program.

She's a weight watcher and has learned to make calorie conscious substitutes in some of her favorite recipes. One of her most popular substitutes is yogurt.

For instance, she's discovered that a few drops of almond flavoring, plus a sprinkling of cinnamon in plain yogurt, makes a great topping for fresh fruit cup. And it's much less fattening than whipped cream.

She usually makes a fruit cup of cantaloupe, strawberries and grapes, and puts this yogurt topping on it for a nice light dessert to serve after a lunch or brunch of quiche and her favorite broiled tomatoes.

Her penchant for using yogurt, coupled with her background in chemistry, has led her to be brave about substituting yogurt for cream in many of her recipes.

Her recipe for spinach quiche, for instance, calls for light cream. She uses plain yogurt instead and it makes a very tasty quiche.

Her recipe for bran and yogurt muffins, sounds very healthy but isn't necessarily low-calorie. The recipe calls for a cup of pure bran, which she describes as looking and tasting similar to sawdust. But combined with the yogurt and other good things, the muffins are delicious.

This recipe is accompanied by a comment that using the pure bran in the muffins is a good way to "get extra fiber into your diet, without tears. These muffins are so tasty you'll forget they're good for you."

ELLEN MEYERS CUTS UP FRESH VEGETABLES
... Mediterranean Salad is her own concoction

Spinach Quiche

1 9-inch shell (deep)
10 ounce package frozen chopped spinach
4 eggs
1 cup plain yogurt (or light cream)
1 package onion-mushroom soup mix
1 cup grated Swiss or Jarlsberg cheese
1 tablespoon sherry (optional)
Bake the empty pie shell at 400 degrees for 10 minutes. While shell is baking, mix the eggs, yogurt and spinach (thawed and drained) and the soup mix and sherry together. When pie shell comes out of oven, sprinkle the grated cheese over the bottom of it and pour the other mixture over it. Bake at 375 degrees about 40 minutes or until set. Let set about five minutes before cutting. Can be served hot or cold.

Grilled Tomatoes

Tomatoes (number desired)
Vegetable oil
Garlic powder
Oregano
Basil
Italian flavored bread crumbs
Parsley

Cut tomatoes in half and take off the top and bottom. Spread a little vegetable oil on top and then add a little garlic powder, oregano, basil and bread crumbs and a little parsley. Bake along with the quiche for the last 5 or 10 minutes.

Mediterranean Salad

Romaine lettuce (or spinach)
Zucchini (raw)
Tomatoes
Green olives
Black olives
Anchovies
Peppers (optional)
Carrots (optional)
7 ounce can tuna (in water)
Cut up tomatoes, slice the zucchini very thin, break up lettuce, mix all ingredients together and serve with Vinagrette dressing in large bowl.

Bran & Yogurt Muffins

1 cup pure bran
1/2 cup unbleached flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup brown sugar
1/2 teaspoon baking soda
1 cup plain yogurt
1 egg
1/2 cup safflower oil
1 cup raisins
Heat oven to 425 degrees. Grease 12 muffin pans. Mix dry ingredients. Beat together liquids and add all at once to bran mixture. Stir only enough to moisten flour and bran. Bake 20 minutes. Remove from pans immediately.

Chicken Tarragon

Boneless, skinless chicken breasts

Pepper
Garlic powder
1/2 cup Dijon mustard
1/2 teaspoon tarragon
1/2 teaspoon parsley

Put pepper and garlic powder on both sides of chicken breasts and broil for about 6 minutes on each side. Make a sauce of the mustard, tarragon and parsley and after chicken is cooked the 6 minutes on each side, coat with the sauce and continue broiling until done, about another 7 minutes on each side.

Shrimp Curry

1 1/2 ounce can semi-condensed cream of mushroom with wine soup
1 teaspoon minced dried onion
1 teaspoon curry powder
1/2 teaspoon dried parsley flakes
1/2 teaspoon paprika
1 7 ounce package frozen shelled shrimp
1/2 cup yogurt
Hot cooked rice
Assorted condiments (optional)

In one-quart pan combine soup, dried onion, curry powder, parsley flakes and paprika. Bring to boil. Stir in shelled shrimp. Return to boiling. Reduce heat, cover and simmer 5 to 10 minutes or until shrimp is tender. Gradually stir in about 1/2 cup of the hot mixture into the yogurt and return to the hot mixture in the saucepan. Heat through but don't boil. Spoon the curry mixture over hot cooked rice. Serve with any of assorted condiments. This recipe serves two.

Pennsylvania Dutch Pork Steaks

2 pork shoulder steaks (cut 1/2 inch thick)
1 tablespoon cooking oil
1 8 ounce can sauerkraut
1/2 teaspoon caraway seed
1/2 cup applesauce
2 tablespoons finely chopped onion
Parsley sprigs (optional)

In medium-size skillet, slowly brown pork steaks on both sides in hot oil. Remove from skillet. Drain off excess fat. Drain sauerkraut, reserving 2 tablespoons liquid. In same skillet combine sauerkraut, the reserved 2 tablespoons liquid and caraway seed. Place steaks atop sauerkraut mixture; sprinkle with a little salt and pepper. Cover and simmer about 30 minutes or until pork steaks are nearly tender.

Combine applesauce and chopped onion; spoon atop steaks. Cover and cook about 5 minutes more or until meat is tender and applesauce is heated through. Garnish with parsley, if desired. This recipe makes 2 servings.

Use flower power

1/2 cup bulgur wheat
1 small sprig parsley
1 10 ounce can corn, drained
1 16 ounce can peeled tomatoes, with liquid
1 1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
6 cups chicken bouillon
1/2 teaspoon each dried rosemary leaves, tarragon, dill weed
1/2 cup dry white wine
1 10 ounce package french cut frozen green beans, thawed
1 small orange marigold, washed

Save any liquid left from roasting chicken. Remove bones and skin from cooked chicken and cut into chunks. Add roasting juice and chicken to rest of ingredients, except green beans and marigold. Simmer 1/2 hour.

Add thawed green beans and simmer just a few minutes longer. Beans should be crisp-tender and still bright green. Just before serving, scatter marigold leaves over soup, and stir to blend.

Western chrysanthemum

8 cups canned chicken broth or consomme
1 small can water chestnuts, sliced thin
2 large scallions, chopped fine
1 Peel of one lemon, sliced matchstick thin
6 large spinach leaves, shredded
2 slices cold boiled ham, cut in strips
1 tablespoon sherry
1 tablespoon soy sauce
1 large chrysanthemum
Heat broth to boiling and add all remaining ingredients, except chrysanthemum. Bring to boil again and transfer to serving tureen. At table, just before serving, pull petals from ham and scatter over the hot soup. (Recipe from "The Best of Bon Appetit")

Mai Bowle

1 gallon Rhine wine or Chablis (Rhine makes a sweeter wine, Chablis, a dryer. You may add a few tablespoons sugar, if desired, to either wine.)
1/2 cup woodruff leaves and blossoms
1 pint fresh strawberries
Wash the woodruff leaves well, and add to the wine. Keep the bottle and keep at least a week. When ready to serve, pour wine into a large punch bowl, add washed, unilled strawberries, and float some woodruff blossoms on top.
Note: The wine with woodruff won't spoil. I've had some Mai Wine that was a year old, and tasted marvelous. The flavor improves on standing.

MARIGOLD'S PETALS MAY BE SCATTERED OVER SOUP
... if with corn chowder or chicken vegetable soup

Less sugar recommended

By Gaynor Maddox

If you doubt that Americans eat too much sugar, consider that each of us consumes more than 130 pounds of sugars and sweeteners a year. That includes not only spoonfuls from the sugar bowl but also sugars and syrups in jam, jelly, candy, soft drinks, ice cream, sweetened breakfast cereal, ketchup and hundreds of other foods.

The federal government recommends that we eat, not only white sugar, but brown sugar, raw sugar, honey and syrup.

The government also advises that we reduce our consumption of foods and beverages containing sugar. Why? Because sugar provides what are termed "empty calories" — that is, calories but little else of nutritional value, such as protein, vitamins or minerals.

The body uses sugar — and carbohydrates that convert to sugar — quickly. Sugar does provide quick energy, but this effect lasts briefly. And soon we may be tired and hungry again. This is why a breakfast or mid-morning snacks of coffee and rolls leaves us wanting another snack in an hour or two.

It's best to start your day by eating more protein and fewer sugar (sucrose) products. Instead of a sweet roll, try fresh fruit or fruit juice (without sugar added), cheese, cottage cheese, eggs, meat or fish as a breakfast snack.

Meanwhile, scientific attitudes toward sugar are changing. In other words, sugar is no longer just sugar in the eyes of the researchers.

As the types of sugars that are consumed by the public change, new attention is focused on their metabolic and nutritional roles.

Despite research, misinformation about certain sugars still exist.

Fixing simple, filling meal is as easy as baking potato

By Aileen Claire
NEA Food Editor

Preparing a simple, filling meal is as easy as baking a potato. Only these potatoes have special hearty toppings. For example, there is a pizza-type topping that includes pepperoni and mushrooms; another has Italian sausage and eggplant; and there's one with corned beef, Swiss cheese and sauerkraut.

These are all prepared with soup as the base for a sauce topping for the spuds. Serve with a platter of sliced fresh vegetables and a cooked green vegetable such as broccoli, if you wish.

Pizza Potato
Topping
1/2 pound pepperoni
2 cups quartered mushrooms (about 1/2 pound)
2 large cloves garlic, minced
1/2 teaspoon Italian seasoning, crushed
2 tablespoons olive oil
2 cans (10 1/2 ounces each) tomato soup
1/4 cup water
8 large baked potatoes
Split pepperoni in half lengthwise; slice. In saucapan, brown mushrooms and cook garlic and Italian seasoning in oil. Add soup, water and pepperoni. Heat; stir occasionally. Split potatoes; fluff with fork. Serve sauce over potatoes. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 8 servings.

Vorone-Styie Potato Topping
1/4 pound mild Italian sausage casing removed
1 cup diced eggplant
1/2 cup sliced onion
1/2 teaspoon basil leaves crushed
2 tablespoons olive oil
1 can (11 ounces) condensed tomato bique soup
1/2 cup water
2 teaspoons lemon juice
4 large baked potatoes
In saucapan, cook sausage, eggplant and onion with basil in oil until done. Add soup, water and lemon juice. Heat; stir constantly. Split potatoes; fluff with fork. Serve sauce over potatoes. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 4 servings.

Reuben Potato Topping
1 can (10 1/2 ounces) condensed creamy chicken mushroom soup
1/4 cup water
8 large baked potatoes
Split pepperoni in half lengthwise; slice. In saucapan, brown mushrooms and cook gar-

In saucapan, combine all ingredients except potatoes and parsley. Heat; stir occasionally. Split potatoes; fluff with fork. Serve sauce over potatoes. Garnish with parsley. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 5 servings.

Cherry compote is party fare

By Aileen Claire
NEA Food Editor

Garden parties, wedding receptions or bridal showers all call for something special in the way of food. A festive, cooling dessert takes advantage of fresh fruits in season which add their brilliant colors to a cherry party compote.

2 cups fresh apricot or peach halves
1 1/2 cups chilled white wine
2 tablespoons orange liqueur
1 cup club soda
Mint sprigs

In large glass bowl or compote, layer blueberries, pineapple chunks, half of the cherries, apricots and remaining cherries. Combine wine and liqueur; pour over - fruits. Chill thoroughly. Just before serving, pour club soda over all and garnish with mint sprigs. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 12 to 15 servings.

Gloria now is reader

This column is prepared by the staff of the Manchester Senior Citizens Center. It appears on Wednesdays and Saturdays.

By Gloria Benson Activities Specialist

Hi! Can you believe that this will be the last column that I will be writing for the Senior Citizens Column? From now on, I will be reading it along with the rest of you.

I have been looking forward to retirement for a long time. Now that it is here I have mixed emotions about it. I actually like people and especially seniors and have worked for 15 years in this endeavor.

OSTOMY ASSOCIATION CELEBRATES ANNIVERSARY Marianne Washburne (left) and Anne McNeill

Banquet notes birthday for ostomy association

The Manchester Area Ostomy Association celebrated its 10th anniversary at a banquet Friday night hosted by Anne McNeill, a charter member.

Marianne Washburne was recently elected to a third term as president of the club. Other officers are: Salvatore Vendrillo, vice president; Margaret Desile, secretary; and Samuel Zupka, treasurer.

The Manchester chapter is one of some 600 chapters around the United States of the United Ostomy Association. It was founded in 1972 under the leadership of the American Cancer Society by Ms. McNeill and two other ostomates.

The area group now consists of some 60 members. It meets on the second Monday of each month from September through May, at Manchester Memorial Hospital.

Membership is open to all ostomates, members of the medical profession, the field of ostomy service, as well as family and friends.

PEOPLE PHIL ROURA TOM POSTER EXCLUSIVE!

Women's place: Is it in the statehouse?

The movement really started in 1917, when the first woman was elected to Congress. Since then, two world wars and a depression stilled the drive to have more women in city halls, in statehouses, and in Washington. Now, the crusade is underway again, and this fall's election are the target. Women are pushing to raise the national percentage of women in state legislatures from the present 12 percent to a minimum of 15 percent.

Jeanette Rankin of Missoula, Mont., took her seat in Congress and became the first congresswoman ever. That was five years before the suffrage amendment, which gave women the right to vote, was added to the constitution. Rankin never won the accolades that the women's movement has accorded some of those who followed her. Betty Friedan and Gloria Steinem—but that's changing. Women in politics are urging an annual Jeannette Rankin Day, and many like the idea that it honor a woman from the plains to pioneer the way.

Where did it all start? It was April 2, 1917, when Jeanette Rankin...

Hugh O'Brian: Giving back something constructive

"Why recruit high school sophomores through their principals," asked Hugh O'Brian, who once won the West as Wyatt Earp. "I have a larger constituency than any politician around today."

The actor was referring to his nationwide Hugh O'Brian Youth Foundation, which he formed in 1958 to give the country's high schoolers a taste of leadership. Twenty-two years later, his foundation takes up "70 to 90 hours of my time each week."

Hugh O'Brian: Pied Piper?

Mr. Family Feud, himself: Richard Dawson (right)

Fewds? Not in Richard Dawson's own family

For the past six years, Richard Dawson has been the host of "Family Feud," TV's most popular game show, and before that he spent six years as a regular on "Hogan's Heroes." But what places the easygoing Dawson more than his fame are his two boys, Mark, 22, and Gary, 19, whom he raised by himself after his five-year marriage to '50s sex symbol Diana Dorn ended in divorce in 1964.

"But even after our divorce, Diana and I — she's since remarried — have remained friends. We never went through that nonsense of hating each other. It's always amazed me that adults do that. They can be together eight, 10 or 12 years have really good times, and end up hating each other. People should remember the good times."

Both Gary and Mark, who's married, are busy with their own careers. Mark has a rock band called Midnight Eyes, and Gary is writing an album. As for "Family Feud," Dawson hopes to stay on the show as long as possible, but is also writing a detective series for TV and heventually star in a film, "I Love the 'Feds,'" said Dawson, who was born in Gosport, England, 47 years ago. "It's the only time in America that an entire family can become a television show for a day."

"The kissing? That started early. I kissed an elderly woman for luck because she was very nervous, and she got the answers right. Then, a Japanese family and a black family asked me to do the same. And that started it. There was no way I could not kiss anybody after that. I would just have crushed them."

"But I must tell you a lot of people got upset and worried about it. I got letters from people complaining I was kissing blacks. You'd never believe it. Now, it's accepted."

Producer says commercials show his idea

NEW YORK (UPI) — When NBC aired a funny special Tuesday night about television commercials, everybody laughed except Steve Gruberg. He was suing.

Gruberg calls his copyrighted program "The Commercial Show," and he said last July, before taking it to cable in September, he sent NBC a tape and an outline of the production in an effort to sell it to them.

"I got no response," he said. "I got nothing back from them — not even the tape." But what places the easygoing Dawson more than his fame are his two boys, Mark, 22, and Gary, 19, whom he raised by himself after his five-year marriage to '50s sex symbol Diana Dorn ended in divorce in 1964.

Thoughts

"Blessed are the meek, for they shall inherit the earth." Jesus often taught concepts which were in direct conflict with the era in which He lived, and although He is now recognized as the greatest teacher of all history, many of the things which He taught seem, on the surface, to be wrong.

Pump, among men, is recognized and expected. Selected esteem or asserivens is heralded as the way to the future. The constant desire for elevation in one's lifestyle and career is presented as "the way to go."

How different are Jesus' teachings! He knew that meekness is the true way to inherit the value of life on earth. It is not self-esteem but esteem accorded by others, not a self-chosen position but a position into which others have pressed and encouraged you because of the value in your ministry and service, which gives you significance.

Only the meek can be truly led by God's Spirit; everyone else misses the point. Rev. Norman E. Swensen Trinity Covenant Church

Advice

Reader decries animal abuse

DEAR ABBY: For "Save the Fish," who cannot bear to see fish suffer... I'm sure that nine out of 10 decent, sensitive, humane people who actually see a suffering animal will do everything in their power to help, whether it's a stray dog, homeless kitten, injured bird or even a fish.

DEAR ABBY: Vegetarians shouldn't be all that high and mighty because they don't "kill" to eat. Vegetables also are living things. In fact, it's more sporting to eat cows, pigs, deer and fish. At least they have a chance of getting away. Pity the poor vegetarians who have absolutely no chance for escape.

Correct chemistry, bad breath

DEAR DR. LAMB: I was interested in your column on bad breath. I have had bad breath all my life. My dentist claims it comes from my stomach. I have consumed antacid tablets to no avail.

Supermarket Shopper

Customers like toll-free number

By Martin Sloane
Trudy Anderson of Bruel Mims opened a box of Pampers and found the tapes kept ripping off as she attempted to diaper her daughter.

Procter and Gamble is so considerate of its customers. When I recently visited its headquarters in Cincinnati, I met Dorothy Puccini, manager of customer relations, and received an insight into the "secret ingredient" in P&G customer relations.

Ms. Puccini told me that her department was started in 1941 when an employee was given the sole responsibility for answering letters from consumers. The company emphasized the use of mail until the early 1970s.

When someone suggested taking customer questions over the phone. Ms. Puccini and her staff recognized that letters often omitted important information. By the time a letter was received, a problem product may have been discarded, thereby eliminating the opportunity for the company to obtain a sample for testing.

But asking customers to phone in their questions was a big chance. As far as they knew, no other company had ever tried it before, certainly no company as large as Procter and Gamble.

Should they use a toll-free number? Would additional customer-service representatives be needed? What would happen to the company's telephone bill?

All these things were considered, but the potential benefits of closer contact with customers had great appeal. In the end, someone used a familiar P&G phrase: "Let's test it!"

In February 1974, the first package of Duncan Hines Brownie Mix appeared on the supermarket shelves bearing a special "800" toll-free number for customers who had questions.

"We heard lots of questions," recalls Ms. Puccini. "Although we thought that many of them would involve problems, we were surprised to find that most were requests for additional information on how to best use the product."

The rest is P&G history. By 1979, all of the company's divisions had tested the toll-free telephone number on their packages. The test was declared a success.

In that year, Procter and Gamble had 160,000 "contacts" with customers, either by mail or phone. Over the next two years, the toll-free telephone number was placed on all of the company's packaging. By the end of 1981, customer contacts had grown to more than 500,000 a year — of which 300,000 were telephone calls such as the one from Trudy Anderson about Pampers.

Other companies are testing toll-free numbers. Let's hope they will follow in P&G's footsteps. If only more companies would realize that good customer relations is good business!

Myths about housing are dangerous

While the housing market has been buried in the deepest depression since the 1930s, several dangerous myths have taken hold, particularly among middle-income would-be buyers of single family homes. They are not true — myths rarely are — and they are threats to you. In fact, when the housing market finally perks up again, these erroneous beliefs can lead you to decisions on mortgages and prices perilous to your interest.

Money's Worth
Sylvia Porter

MYTH ONE: The fixed-rate, fixed-term mortgage has just disappeared, various negotiable or adjustable-rate mortgage loans are the only mortgages available. REALITY: Fixed-rate, fixed-term mortgages accounted for about two-thirds of last year's mortgage obligations for both new and existing homes.

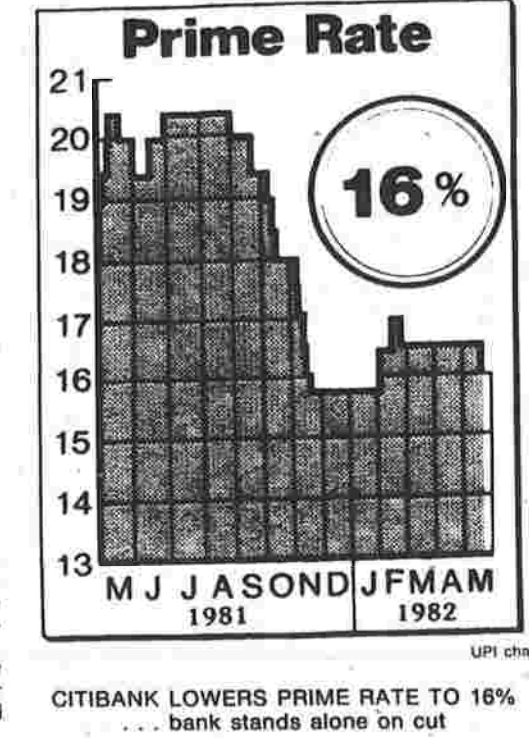

MYTH TWO: First-time home buyers are priced out of the market altogether. Only 10 percent of less of U.S. families can afford to purchase a new home. REALITY: The vast majority of the U.S. population lives in areas of the United States where 50 percent of households can afford a starter home.

MYTH THREE: Housing has been consuming a disproportionate part of available credit in the U.S. economy, to the disadvantage of the reinvestment of American industry. REALITY: Recently, housing has not consumed as much of total credit in the United States as it has traditionally. American industry's failure to reinvest has been the result of other causes. Residential mortgages, for instance, accounted for a smaller proportion of total funds raised in the credit markets in the latter half of the 1970s (23.6 percent) than in the 1950s (29.5 percent).

MYTH FOUR: At these interest rates and in this economy, owning no longer provides an economic advantage over renting. REALITY: For a first-time homeowner, owning a home is economically advantageous compared to renting so long as interest rates do not top 27 percent. This is based on a taxpayer in the 32 percent tax bracket whose home appreciates at a 5 percent annual rate and who sells it after 12 years. Even assuming appreciation, Prime figures show that net return does not exceed 20 percent. His calculations bear out his statements — and explain why we are a nation of middle-class homeowners beyond any other in the Western world.

Prime rate cut gets both smiles, frowns

By United Press International
The nation's second-largest bank dropped its prime lending rate one-half percent to 16 percent, bringing smiles to the White House. But on Wall Street, frowns of skepticism remained. Citibank's decision Tuesday to drop the rate it charges its best corporate customers was the first reduction in the prime rate by a major bank since late February.

State housing starts drop to all-time low

HARTFORD (UPI) — The State Department of Housing says housing starts in April dropped further below the pace of last year's all-time low performance. The Housing department reported 752 starts in April, off 11.7 percent from the previous month. The total was 26.3 percent below the strong showing of April 1981.
