Habib, Begin talk as raids continue

By Mona A. Ziade
United Press International

U.S. Middle East envoy Philip Habib met today with Prime Minister Menachem Begin to hammer out details of the Palestinian evacuation from Beirut, but Israeli warplanes dive-bombed guerrilla camps for the third straight day.

Begin said the evacuation of Palestine Liberation Organization guerrillas could start as early as next week.

Israeli warplanes bombed Palestinian positions in the Burj al-Barajneh refugee camp on the southern outskirts of the besieged Lebanese capital, the Israeli military command said in Tel Aviv.

It said the "terrorists" were violating an overnight ceasefire with mortar, bazooka and light arms fire from the camp, which it said "is almost empty of civilians." Three Israeli soldiers were wounded, it said.

"The air force has been attacking since noon (7 a.m. EDT) terrorist positions in the Burj al-Barajneh camp," the command said. It said the attack was still going on 45 minutes later.

Habib met for two hours in the morning with Begin, Israeli Defense Secretary Ariel Sharon and Foreign Minister Yitzhak Shamir, without reaching agreement. They were scheduled to meet again later in the day.

"We are all satisfied with Habib's plan," Begin said in an interview published today in the newspaper Yedioth Ahronoth. "If everything goes accordingly, the evacuation could begin next week already."

Both Israeli and Lebanese diplomats said the evacuation of PLO guerrillas trapped in the capital could be completed within two weeks of a final agreement.

Today's air raid followed attacks by Israeli fighter jets Tuesday and day-long air and artillery bombardment of besieged west Beirut Monday.

Begin's Cabinet conditionally accepted Habib's peace proposals Tuesday as Israeli warplanes bombarded PLO targets in the heart of the embattled capital and Syrian SAM-9 missile positions in the central Bekaa Valley.

Habib apparently brought with him to Jerusalem a list, demanded by the Israeli Cabinet, reporting the planned destinations for each of the estimated 8,000 PLO members in Beirut.

Syria agreed Tuesday to accept more than half the PLO fighters, reversing its earlier refusal to accept the guerrillas and making Israel's acceptance of Habib's withdrawal plan much more likely.

Former Lebanese Prime Minister Saeb Salam said approximately 4,000 fighters would go to Syria and the rest to Jordan or Iraq. The PLO leadership, he said, would be headquartered in Egypt.

PLO chief Yasser Arafat himself "would have no permanent base and would travel from country to country," Salam said.

Syria, which had earlier refused to accord the Palestinians sanctuary, is now willing to give asylum to an unlimited number of the guerrillas, statedun Damascus Radio said Tuesday.

Jordan said approximately 1,000 Palestinians with Jordanian nationality could resettle there and Iraq offered homes to those who are not accepted by any other nation.

Shamir termed Habib's proposals "very reasonable" and said they could provide for the removal of the PLO from Beirut and Lebanon "in a very short time — in 14 days — of their own will." Salam also set about two weeks for the pullout.

Despite the diplomatic moves, Israeli troops kept up pressure on the PLO to get out, using field artillery and tank and gunboat shelling against suspected guerrilla positions in and around Beirut.

Israeli warplanes struck Palestinian refugee camps Tuesday at Burj Barajneh, Sabra and Shatila, as well as positions around Beirut's airport for about two hours.

The screaming planes returned at night.

Woman hurt in Paris blast

PARIS (UPI) — A powerful bomb exploded today outside a building housing Jewish firms, wounding a woman passer-by who had been walking her dog, and the group that claimed responsibility demanded Israel's withdrawal from Lebanon.

Parisians from all walks of life, meanwhile, were scheduled to attend memorial services today for the six victims, including two Americans, of Monday's massacre at Goldenberg's restaurant in Paris' Jewish quarter.

Nine of the 22 wounded in Monday's attack were still in critical condition, police said today.

Prime Minister Pierre Mauroy, Paris Archbishop Jean-Marie Lustiger, delegations of nearly all major political parties and the grand rabbi of France, Rene-Samuel Sirat, indicated they would come to the ceremony.

Today's blast was the fifth incident of anti-Israeli violence in the French capital since Israel invaded Lebanon on June 6. The force of the explosion damaged the building and shattered nearby windows.

The explosion woke up hundreds of Parisians in the area. The Elysee presidential palace is a few hundred yards away.

"We demand the immediate and unconditional withdrawal (from Lebanon) of the Israeli fascists," said a message left under the door of a nearby building by Action Directe, an anti-Israeli group claiming responsibility for the attack.

Reagan pushes tax package

By Donald A. Davis
United Press International

WASHINGTON — President Reagan is enlisting his top lieutenants in the White House and on Capitol Hill to spread the word his $98.9 billion tax package is basically a "reform" of existing laws and not a tax increase.

Reagan was to personally take that message nearly across the country today in a marathon round-trip flight to Billings, Mont., where he will highlight the city's 100th anniversary with a major pitch for the package.

The president and several senators Tuesday launched the campaign to change the image of the tax program now before a congressional conference committee by placing it under labels other than a tax hike, although it will raise taxes on cigarettes and telephones, among other levies.

During one of three separate lobbying sessions with congressmen Tuesday, the president said the legislation "has been dishonestly portrayed and tagged as the biggest tax increase in history. It's nothing of the kind."

Nodding to Sen. William Roth, R-Del., the president added, "But he said maybe (it is) the greatest tax reform in history."

Sen. Bob Dole, R-Kan., chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, added, the legislation is "tax reform — loophole closings ... and tax compliance."

But the congressional conference committee headed by Dole, attempting to write a final version of the tax bill, reached what Dole called an "impasse" Tuesday night because of Senate refusal to add more money for welfare.

The president met with more than 50 Republican congressmen Tuesday in his continuing campaign to twist GOP arms in favor of the bill. Deputy press secretary Larry Speakes said there seemed to be "movement" among Republican opponents, a comment repeated by Dole and House Minority Leader Rep. Robert Michel.

Senate Majority Leader Howard Baker said Reagan "is gaining converts every day."

But Speakes said Reagan acknowledged "there is much more work to do," a remark emphasized by some of the congressmen who left the White House unimpressed by the presidential arguments.

"With the economy the way it is, it would be a serious mistake to raise taxes now," said Rep. Mickey Edwards, R-Okla. "If this is the bill, he does not have my vote."

The White House schedule called for Reagan to spend slightly more than seven hours in the air today — flying roundtrip from Washington to Montana — to make the 15-minute speech and appear at a pair of Republican fund-raising functions.

Cable TV changing way we learn

Editor's note: This story, the third in a four-part series, examines how television is becoming the classroom with the introduction of cable television. The series concludes Thursday with a look at the future in video technology.

By Kenneth R. Clark
UPI TV Reporter

NEW YORK — Once, any student who played hooky from the classroom every day in order to stay home and watch TV would have wound up with a dunce cap. Now, if he lives in the right place, he could wind up with a straight-A average and a degree.

In three midwestern cities, television already has become the classroom for many, and Warner Amex — creator of the two-way interactive QUBE system — is about to make physical truncky the order of the day in several other communities.

Under the two-way interactive system, a viewer tuned in on a college classroom in progress, is given the capability of raising his electronic hand simply by pushing a button that instantly identifies him to the teacher and indicates he has a question.

The question then is relayed to the teacher by a telephone hooked up to a speaker phone and dealt with for the benefit of all in the classroom and in the viewing audience.

So far, only Columbus, Ohio, Cincinnati, and Pittsburgh are linking QUBE subscribers with classrooms at Ohio State University and the Columbus Technical Institute, but Warner Amex spokesman John Petrie said half-a-dozen other cities soon may have the capability. "We're going into Houston in September and Dallas in October," he said. "We expect to be in the suburbs of St. Louis and Chicago early '84 and we'll be going into three New York City boroughs and into Milwaukee about the same time."

"Whether we'll call it 'QUBE Campus' or not is debatable, but there will be something similar to that in all our markets."

Late last month, Warner Amex broadened its educational base, striking a deal with the New York-based "Network for Learning" — which teaches everything from high finance to dating techniques — to carry four initial courses on a pay-per-view basis in the near future.

They will not be for credit, nor will they involve the two-way QUBE system, but they will be available in QUBE markets, on public TV and eventually on video cassettes.

First Network for Learning offerings will be "How to Borrow Money," "How to Become a Consultant," "Investing in Real Estate," "How to Start a Business," and "How to Start a Career."

News Briefing

Italy forming new regime

ROME (UPI) — Acting Prime Minister Giovanni Spadolini, whose coalition collapsed last week, agreed today to try to put together a new Cabinet and piece together Italy's 42nd government since World War II. But even before Spadolini met with President Sandro Pertini and took on the job, the key Socialist Party indicated it would withhold support for a new coalition Cabinet and that early elections might be unavoidable. "It seems like warmed-up soup to me," gazing Socialist Finance Minister Rino Formica said. Spadolini, whose five-party coalition government fell during the weekend after 13 months in office, met with Pertini for an hour and 45 minutes at the presidential Quirinale Palace.

Moon may be deported

NEW YORK (UPI) — Unification Church leader the Rev. Sun Myung Moon, spared deportation for federal tax evasion, could still face a move to expel him from the United States for allegedly lying to obtain permanent resident status in 1973. U.S. District Judge Gerard Goettel, who sentenced the 62-year-old Korean evangelist to 18 months in jail last month in the tax fraud case, said Tuesday deportation on the conviction would be "excessive" punishment. The recommendation by Goettel is binding on the Justice Department, but it does not bar the Immigration and Naturalization Service from seeking Moon's deportation on other grounds. The judge's order applies only to Moon's conviction in May on charges he failed to report personal income of $150,000 he received in interest from 1973 through 1975 from stocks and a $1.6 million bank account. Under immigration law, the government can seek to deport a resident alien such as Moon following his conviction for a serious offense and his sentence of prison for more than one year. The government proceeds on the idea that the crime involved represents a case of "moral turpitude" that is punishable by deportation. Despite Goettel's decision, Moon, who lives with his family on a $650,000 estate in suburban Westchester County, could still face deportation on charges he made false statements to become a resident alien in 1973.

$8 million in pot seized

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (UPI) — Law enforcement officials say a highly publicized federal-state crackdown on Florida drug running apparently is driving importers north in search of safer ports for their illicit cargoes. The seizure of $8 million worth of Colombian marijuana off the Rhode Island coast Monday night by a federal-state task force was the fifth major drug bust in five weeks in the New England area, according to the U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration. Robert M. Stittman, a DEA agent who heads the task force, said law enforcement officers were lying in wait for the ship near the resort beach at Watch Hill in the town of Westerly. Three men were arrested on charges of conspiring to import cannabis, and fourth suspect, who escaped by diving into the water. He was being sought. Coast Guardsmen unloaded 221 50-pound bales of pot, totaling 8,785 pounds, from the 46-foot sloop, Fiesta. Stittman said most of the marijuana would be incinerated, with a small quantity retained as evidence.

Indictment prepared

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Justice Department is preparing to seek an indictment against Rep. Frederick Richmond, D-N.Y., on tax evasion charges, the New York Times said today. Quoting unnamed law enforcement officials, the Times said U.S. Attorney Edward Korman, who has been conducting a wide ranging grand jury investigation of Richmond's activities, recommended to the Justice Department's Criminal Division the indictment be sought.

Dodd amendment OK'd

HARTFORD (UPI) — The U.S. Senate has given preliminary approval to an amendment offered by Sen. Christopher Dodd, D-Conn., to add $48 million in financial aid for needy college students. The Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grants for the coming school year were cut by 25 percent to $278 million, despite a legal requirement that each school receive no less than the amount it received in 1978-1980. "These cuts threatened thousands of Connecticut students," Dodd said in a statement released Tuesday by his Washington office. "Those in college would face an abrupt end to their education and those applying to college would be forced to change course."

Rate hearings planned

NEW BRITAIN (UPI) — Northeast Utilities' $139.3 million rate hike application has been accepted by the Department of Public Utility Control and hearings on the increase will open in September. Proceedings on the proposed increase — which would mean an average 3.1 percent hike for nearly one million electric customers and 132,000 gas customers — were delayed while Northeast corrected deficiencies the DPUC found in the application. The DPUC set a tentative schedule for public hearings beginning with Hartford and New Britain Sept. 2 and Sept. 7 and testimony from the utility beginning Sept. 13. The new rates would go into effect in 1983.

Woman's body identified

WETHERSFIELD (UPI) — The body of a woman found near Folly Brook last weekend has been identified as that of Christine Callahan, 19, and the death was ruled a homicide. Miss Callahan, formerly of Orange, was strangled, the state medical examiner's office in Farmington said Tuesday following an autopsy. The body was found by a newspaper carrier Sunday morning in a small clearing alongside a path through a wooded area near apartments on Folly Brook Boulevard. The victim's father, Ron Callahan of Orange, said his daughter grew up and went to school in Orange and had been living in Hartford with a boyfriend the father didn't know. Local police are being assisted in the investigation by the state police major crimes squad and the state's attorney's office.

Students riot in India

NEW DELHI, India (UPI) — Hundreds of students, some hurling bricks, clashed with police outside the U.S. Embassy today in disorders in which both police and students were injured. The students, from Jawaharlal Nehru University, demonstrated to protest what they said was U.S. collusion with Israel in the invasion of Lebanon. Police said about 200 students were arrested and five policemen, including Deputy Police Commissioner B.S. Brar, were injured along with two students. Police said they set up two cordons to prevent the students from entering the embassy compound, but a number of the demonstrators became "violent and hurled bricks at the police" and broke through the first cordon.

Miscarriages a concern

PLYMOUTH, Mass. (UPI) — A federal epidemiologist says the reported high rate of miscarriages among teachers at an elementary school located near a landfill and about four miles from a nuclear power plant "warrants concern." Dr. Richard Dickler from the federal Centers for Disease Control in Atlanta was to meet with local and state public health officials today. They were to discuss any possible links between environmental or other conditions at Indian Brook School and eight cases of birth defects and miscarriages reported since 1979 by the faculty at the 5-year-old elementary school. No other high incidences of miscarriages have been reported in the town or the community's 10 other schools.

Contract perks

Pop music gets paid in more than money — their contracts often call for special "perks." At each stop, the Rolling Stones get a ping pong table for Bill Wyman, a bottle of Jack Daniels for Keith Richards and video machines and champagne for Mick Jagger. The Grateful Dead must be provided with gourmet food and fine wines. Van Halen love M&M's — but with all the brown ones removed. The Chieftans, the Irish group that recently opened for the Stones in Ireland, have a contract calling for a case of Guinness and a case of Harp beer at each date — no problem during their current American tour that includes the World's Fair in Knoxville, Tenn., and a special stop in New York City to tape a commercial for Guinness. But where will the Guinness and Harp come from when the Chieftans tour the People's Republic of China in 1987?

Blind run

George Romanos is partially blind but there's nothing wrong with his legs or his spirit. Romanos, 37, of Wintrop, Mass., likes to run. But as his vision began to deteriorate, he became increasingly apprehensive. "The problems for blind runners range from anxiety to real danger," he said. "You worry about bumping into other runners, following the course, finding aid stations, finding bathrooms." In 1981 Romanos, who had become "pretty terrified" of running alone on 15-20-mile runs, formed a group of visually handicapped runners called "Inner Vision." The group offers its members moral support, team spirit, and sighted "guides" in races. Dean Demiston, an Inner Vision member, says, "Every time I run a race, I'm a winner."

Quote of the day

Former President Gerald R. Ford told a news conference in Providence, R.I., he had no regrets about pardoning Richard M. Nixon eight years ago for any crimes involved in the Watergate scandal. He said under the same circumstances he would do it again. He continued, "I had a full platter of problems at the White House. I finally decided in deference to the responsibilities of 230 million people, I had to spend 100 percent of my day on their problems. I couldn't afford to spend 25 percent of my time on Mr. Nixon's problems. I decided to get it over with."

Tighter discipline policy proposed for MHS students

By Nancy Thompson Herald Reporter
"Problem students at Manchester High School will find punishments 'much less comfortable' beginning this fall, under proposed revisions in the discipline policy." Manchester High School Principal Jacob Ludes III said that the revisions being considered by school administrators include holding back and suspending students in a room that is significantly less pleasant than the room previously used. Ludes said the new in-school suspension room is smaller than the previous room — "which shows we're hoping for fewer numbers of kids using it," Ludes said — and will have fewer windows, giving the students fewer distractions, he added. In addition, students in the in-school suspension room will be confined to the room for the entire school day, including lunch, he said. Previously, students were allowed to go to the cafeteria for lunch. The room will provide "an opportunity for youngsters to do some real work," Ludes said. THE ANNUAL revision of the discipline policy is aimed this year at repeat offenders, Ludes said. In the past, changes in the policy have had a broader scope, closing the campus for sophomores and some juniors and reducing the number of class cuts allowed. "We've been pleased with the changes we've made in the past," Ludes said. "Our disappointment was with students who broke the rules."

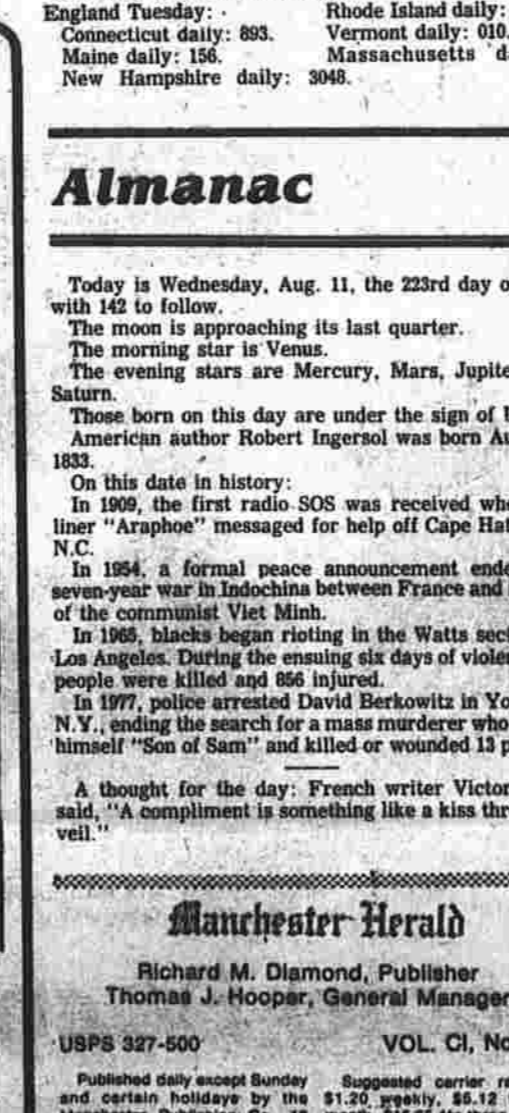

Lorbier jury date is Oct. 5

Loma Lorbier will face a grand jury Oct. 5 to determine whether she should be indicted for murder in the July 8 shooting death of Link Phommahaxay. The grand jury hearing date was set at Hartford Superior Court Tuesday. Lorbier, 26, is a former Manchester resident who moved to Memphis, Tenn., last summer. She is a refugee from Laos. He is accused of clubbing Phommahaxay, another Laotian refugee, with a baseball bat during an argument at the intersection of Walnut and Cedar streets. Phommahaxay died a week later at Hartford Hospital. Eugene Brewer, pastor of the Church of Christ of Manchester and a close friend of Lorbier, said this morning that he still hasn't received an assurance from a bail bondsman that the church may put up its property as collateral toward posting Lorbier's $100,000 bond. Last week bail bondsman Edward J. Bradley of Coventry told Brewer he couldn't accept church property as a bond guarantee because Bradley felt a judge would be reluctant to foreclose if Lorbier skipped bail. Brewer says he's since been in contact with two other bail bondsmen.

Victim is alive

Dan Lingard found out this past weekend what happened to a drowning victim he tried to revive at Rhode Island's Misquament State Beach two Sundays ago. "The victim lived." "That makes me feel a lot better," said Lingard, 25 Woodridge St., an emergency medical technician with the Eighth Utilities District Fire Department. An article in Saturday's Manchester Herald described Lingard's attempt to restore breathing to a middle aged man who had apparently fallen down in the surf and been knocked unconscious. "Sean Grady of Tanner Street, who accompanied Lingard to the beach, pulled the man out of the water and called for Lingard to take over. Lingard administered mouth-to-mouth resuscitation. After about 10 minutes, an ambulance arrived to take the victim to the hospital. At that point, the victim still wasn't breathing. Lingard heard about the victim's recovery from another friend John DuBois, who visited Manchester this weekend and learned the news from a lifeguard. Concern drive still not off ground

Plans for a fund drive to raise money from private sources to pay for Project Concern in Manchester have yet to get off the ground. Barbara B. Weinberg said Tuesday she is talking with several people in town about the possibility of organizing a fund drive. She said she hopes to have definite word about whether it will go forward by next week. But the fate of the program, which last year brought 80 Hartford students to Manchester schools, may already be sealed by then. Wilson E. Deakin Jr., Manchester's assistant superintendent of schools, said Monday decisions on the program must be made soon because school starts Sept. 1 and students must be notified of their status and scheduled into classes. Deakin said a meeting Thursday between administrators from Hartford and suburban school districts will be the last chance to approve a state-proposed plan that calls for the suburban schools to pay half of the students' transportation costs. That plan would cost Manchester about $20,000, which school officials have said is unacceptable. "That is the money Mrs. Weinberg is trying to raise. Mrs. Weinberg is the town's deputy mayor and an organizer of international exchange programs — said she is discussing the feasibility of a fund drive with other people in town. "I think it looks good," she said about the possibility of raising the money. "Raising money is never easy, but I think there's a good deal of community support. "That doesn't necessarily translate into dollars," she added. "In this economy, everybody's pocketbook is hurting."

Town, police union working out 'bugs' in a new contract

By Raymond T. DeMoe Herald Reporter
"A few bugs" remain to be worked out before the town and the police union can agree on a new contract for police officers. That work comes from Edward Tighe, president of Local 1495 of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, who says the union is trying to get the administration to agree to certain schedule changes that would allow officers to have more weekends off. Tighe says the union is looking for a pay increase "in the ballpark" of 8.5 percent a year. The town has allocated enough money in its 1982-83 budget for a 6 percent raise for police union members. Money to cover an additional increase would have to come from a contingency fund. Local 1495 represents about 83 town police officers. Tighe says. On July 27, representatives of the police union and administration met with a state-appointed fact-finder. At the time, Assistant Town Manager Steven R. Students riot in India

NEW DELHI, India (UPI) — Hundreds of students, some hurling bricks, clashed with police outside the U.S. Embassy today in disorders in which both police and students were injured. The students, from Jawaharlal Nehru University, demonstrated to protest what they said was U.S. collusion with Israel in the invasion of Lebanon. Police said about 200 students were arrested and five policemen, including Deputy Police Commissioner B.S. Brar, were injured along with two students. Police said they set up two cordons to prevent the students from entering the embassy compound, but a number of the demonstrators became "violent and hurled bricks at the police" and broke through the first cordon.

Miscarriages a concern

PLYMOUTH, Mass. (UPI) — A federal epidemiologist says the reported high rate of miscarriages among teachers at an elementary school located near a landfill and about four miles from a nuclear power plant "warrants concern." Dr. Richard Dickler from the federal Centers for Disease Control in Atlanta was to meet with local and state public health officials today. They were to discuss any possible links between environmental or other conditions at Indian Brook School and eight cases of birth defects and miscarriages reported since 1979 by the faculty at the 5-year-old elementary school. No other high incidences of miscarriages have been reported in the town or the community's 10 other schools.

Contract perks

Pop music gets paid in more than money — their contracts often call for special "perks." At each stop, the Rolling Stones get a ping pong table for Bill Wyman, a bottle of Jack Daniels for Keith Richards and video machines and champagne for Mick Jagger. The Grateful Dead must be provided with gourmet food and fine wines. Van Halen love M&M's — but with all the brown ones removed. The Chieftans, the Irish group that recently opened for the Stones in Ireland, have a contract calling for a case of Guinness and a case of Harp beer at each date — no problem during their current American tour that includes the World's Fair in Knoxville, Tenn., and a special stop in New York City to tape a commercial for Guinness. But where will the Guinness and Harp come from when the Chieftans tour the People's Republic of China in 1987?

Quote of the day

Former President Gerald R. Ford told a news conference in Providence, R.I., he had no regrets about pardoning Richard M. Nixon eight years ago for any crimes involved in the Watergate scandal. He said under the same circumstances he would do it again. He continued, "I had a full platter of problems at the White House. I finally decided in deference to the responsibilities of 230 million people, I had to spend 100 percent of my day on their problems. I couldn't afford to spend 25 percent of my time on Mr. Nixon's problems. I decided to get it over with."

Concern drive still not off ground

Plans for a fund drive to raise money from private sources to pay for Project Concern in Manchester have yet to get off the ground. Barbara B. Weinberg said Tuesday she is talking with several people in town about the possibility of organizing a fund drive. She said she hopes to have definite word about whether it will go forward by next week. But the fate of the program, which last year brought 80 Hartford students to Manchester schools, may already be sealed by then. Wilson E. Deakin Jr., Manchester's assistant superintendent of schools, said Monday decisions on the program must be made soon because school starts Sept. 1 and students must be notified of their status and scheduled into classes. Deakin said a meeting Thursday between administrators from Hartford and suburban school districts will be the last chance to approve a state-proposed plan that calls for the suburban schools to pay half of the students' transportation costs. That plan would cost Manchester about $20,000, which school officials have said is unacceptable. "That is the money Mrs. Weinberg is trying to raise. Mrs. Weinberg is the town's deputy mayor and an organizer of international exchange programs — said she is discussing the feasibility of a fund drive with other people in town. "I think it looks good," she said about the possibility of raising the money. "Raising money is never easy, but I think there's a good deal of community support. "That doesn't necessarily translate into dollars," she added. "In this economy, everybody's pocketbook is hurting."

Town, police union working out 'bugs' in a new contract

By Raymond T. DeMoe Herald Reporter
"A few bugs" remain to be worked out before the town and the police union can agree on a new contract for police officers. That work comes from Edward Tighe, president of Local 1495 of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, who says the union is trying to get the administration to agree to certain schedule changes that would allow officers to have more weekends off. Tighe says the union is looking for a pay increase "in the ballpark" of 8.5 percent a year. The town has allocated enough money in its 1982-83 budget for a 6 percent raise for police union members. ALICE BRIDGES VISITS ... Coppola's former wife ... ATTORNEY RUSSELL CANAN ... efforts proved futile ... OFFICIAL WAYNE FARRAR ... announces execution

Convicted killer goes calmly to Virginia's electric chair

By Jim Norvelle
United Press International

RICHMOND, Va. — Former policeman Frank Coppola begged a prison reformer, asked him to "please take care of my children," then was executed in the electric chair as he had requested.

Coppola, 38, convicted of murdering a woman during a robbery, died at 11:27 p.m. EDT Tuesday — about an hour after the U.S. Supreme Court ended a legal battle to block the execution. Death came after a three-minute blast of 2,400 volts.

He was the fifth convict executed since the high court reinstated the death penalty in 1976.

Coppola was escorted to the death chamber by prison officials and Joseph Ingle, director of the Southern Coalition on Prisons and Jails, who said Coppola's last thoughts were of his two teenage sons.

Ingle told ABC's "Nightline" Coppola was calm, saying to him, "I love you. Please take care of my family, my children."

"Frank and I gave each other a goodbye hug and I left," he said. "As soon as we hugged, he walked into the death chamber."

Coppola maintained he was innocent of the April 22, 1976, beating murder of Mariel Hatchell of Newport News, but said he preferred execution to life on death row. He fought all attempts to block the execution and sent a handwritten letter to the Supreme Court urging justices to let him die.

He requested a summer execution so his sons, Frank Jr., 14, and Vincent Anthony, 13, would not be tormented by schoolmates.

After his farewell to Coppola, Ingle, a death penalty opponent, went outside the Virginia State Penitentiary to join about 40 people, including protesters who staged a candlelight vigil and some who said they came to pray for Coppola's soul.

Warden James Mitchell read the execution order to the shaven-headed Coppola, then escorted him to the death chamber 30 paces from his white cell. Mitchell inserted a key in a slot in the death chamber, which opened the current and at the same time activated a signal to the executioner to push the button to electrocute Coppola.

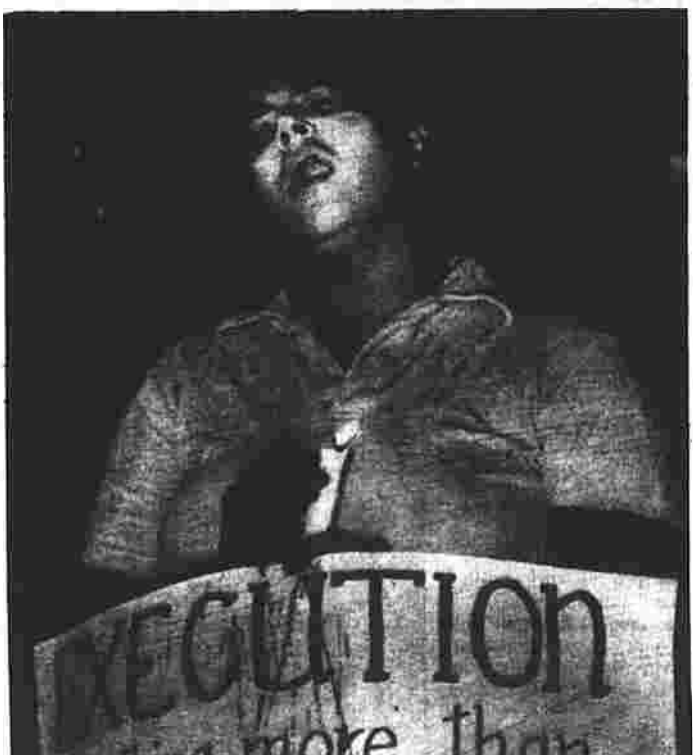

Gov. Charles Robb, shaken when Coppola, convicted in the 1978 murder of a Newport News woman, was strapped tightly into the electric chair. When the current was turned on at 11:21, there was "motion in the body," Glasscock said. "The body bolts forward even though it was strapped in tightly."

At 11:27, Coppola, 38, was pronounced dead. Glasscock described the scene as "horrible. There are a number of reactions. One is that it is unreal; that it's not really taking place. Then there is the realization that it is very real. I feel somewhat shaken by the experience. There are scenes that I'm just never going to forget."

Glasscock said there was silence in the witness room before, during and after the execution. Despite his opposition to capital punishment, Glasscock said corrections officials "did what they had to do," and Gov. Charles Robb followed the law.

"I just feel the law is wrong," Glasscock said.

Glasscock described Coppola's expression as "content" with his desire to be executed.

DEATH PENALTY PROTESTER SINGS ... outside Virginia state penitentiary

He met reporters, said his decision not to stop the execution was "the most difficult and emotionally draining decision I have had to make as governor of Virginia."

Hobbs said he respected those who oppose capital punishment but added, "the law of the Commonwealth provides for that penalty under certain, very limited circumstances, and I support the law."

Coppola fired his attorneys in March, stopped all appeals and requested an execution date. Fighting legal maneuvers to save him until the end, he sent a handwritten note to the Supreme Court Tuesday via prosecutors saying he wanted the sentence carried out.

"I, Frank J. Coppola, do hereby seek relief through the U.S. Supreme Court so as to bring about my execution this date," he said. About five hours later and 30 minutes before the 11 p.m. scheduled execution, the Supreme Court ruled, 5-2, to vacate a stay order, clearing the way for Coppola to die.

Lawyers — working without his permission — won the 11th-hour stay Tuesday from Judge John Batzner of the 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals. Batzner stopped the execution shortly before 3 p.m. EDT — about eight hours before Coppola's scheduled execution.

The same again lawyers attempted to stop the execution just minutes before 11 p.m. EDT but a half hour later the effort proved futile.

Coppola was one of four people, including his estranged wife, convicted for Mrs. Hatchell's slaying. Two of them were given life sentences and the third was sentenced to 20 years, but Coppola received the death sentence because he was the ringleader of the robbery.

Glasscock said he and the other witnesses entered a small, plain-glass-paneled room across from the electric chair at 10:40 p.m. EDT, and Coppola was escorted into the death chamber about 11:15. Glasscock described Coppola's expression as "content" with his desire to be executed.

Governorships at center stage in Michigan, Georgia primaries

By Norman D. Sandler
United Press International

Rep. James Blanchard promised fellow Democrats "happy days" are on the way, but had to wait until early today to see Richard Headley chosen to oppose his bid to break a 20-year Republican hold on Michigan's highest office.

Voter turnout was light to moderate Tuesday in primary elections in Michigan, racked by high unemployment, and Georgia, where an Aug. 31 runoff will award the Democratic nomination for governor to one of two veteran officeholders.

Five-term congressman Bo Ginn and 18-year state Rep. Joe Frank Harris survived a six-week primary to enter the runoff. The winner will face state Sen. Bob Bell, who hopes to secure his second state-GOP upset in modern times.

With incumbents leaving office in both states, the governorships were at center stage, overshadowing nominations for other state offices and for all 18 newly drawn congressional districts in Michigan.

As midnight passed, the only uncertainty in Michigan was whether insurance executive Richard Headley would hold his lead for the GOP nomination and the right to face Blanchard in the fall.

Headley has polled the vote to 30 percent for Lt. Gov. James Brickley and 28 percent for County Prosecutor L. Brooks Patterson.

Michigan Republicans also nominated Philip Tuppe, a former congressman and husband of Peace Corps Director Lorea Tuppe, to oppose Democratic Sen. Donald Riegle, who first won election to Congress in 1966 as a Republican.

GEORGIA DEMOCRAT BO GINN ... faces runoff in governor's race stepping down after 14 years. Blanchard becomes the hope of Democrats to begin a new political era in Michigan.

"Happy days are going to be here again," Blanchard told buoyant supporters at a downtown Detroit hotel.

The Michigan race shapes up as a tough fight for Democrats.

The outlook in Georgia may be clearer, even though the identities of some of the actors still are in doubt.

Still to be chosen are nominees for all 10 House seats at stake this fall. A federal court struck the House races from the primary ballot as the result of a racial dispute over the state's reapportionment plan.

Democrats are confident of retaining a decades-long hold on the governorship with the departure of George Busbee, who was ineligible to seek a third term.

Ginn held more than 39 percent of the vote to more than 23 percent for Harris. Political tradition will make the winner of their runoff the probable favorite in November.

Despite the odds, Bell, who defeated State Rep. Ben Blackburn, looked jubilant as he walked through the ballroom of an Atlanta hotel with members of his family, shaking hands and talking to some 300 supporters.

The crowded Democratic field for governor included some well-connected candidates — Jack Watson, chief of staff in the Carter White House, and Norman Underwood, an ex-aide to Busbee.

Psychotic woman-hater admits killing 22 people

HOUSTON (UPI) — A psychotic woman-hater, who stalked his 22 young victims on his days off and killed them because he thought they were evil, will not be tried for murder because authorities do not have "a stitch of evidence" beyond his confession.

Governor's conference ends with tangled nets, no big fish

By Arnold Sawilak
United Press International

APTON, Okla. — Grand Lake O' the Cherokees is good for bass and crappie angling. But the National Governors' Association ended its summer meeting on the lake with no whoppers and only a few small fish.

The governors, who at one time appeared ready to bypass President Reagan on New Federalism by going directly to Congress, ended up saying they would draft their own bill but try to sell the White House on it.

And, despite a great deal of indignant rhetoric about deficit spending, they found themselves unable to endorse the proposed constitutional amendment, now pending in Congress, that would require a balanced budget.

The three-day conference ended Tuesday with the governors' nets and lines entangled in their own ruse.

To guard against sudden power plays, any proposal that does not come through the lengthy committee process, requires a three-fourths majority for passage.

And that proved fatal for the proposal dealing with red ink spending that was drafted Monday by Govs. Bruce Babbitt, D-Ariz., and Lamar Alexander, R-Tenn., and brought up before the closing session by unanimous consent.

Although no governor opposed the proposal, dealing with red ink spending, some had their doubts about amending the Constitution to achieve it.

The Babbitt-Alexander proposal did not actually call for a balanced budget. Instead, it would forbid federal spending in excess of revenues except by three-fifths votes of Congress. It also would waive the requirement in time of war.

White House and go directly to Congress with their own plan for New Federalism.

Six months of negotiation between Reagan and the governors on his plan for ending most federal programs back to the states has produced a stalemate.

Williamson convinced the governors Reagan is their strongest ally in the battle for more power.

The governors voted to draw up their own plan independently of the White House and have it ready for their winter meeting in January, but also agreed to continue negotiations with the administration.

Alexander said asking Congress to restrain spending was "like asking a child to speak itself." Gov. William Janklow, R-S.D., said "Congress can't even figure out how to pass an annual budget."

But Gov. Scott Matheson, D-Utah, the incoming NGA chairman, said the Constitution was no place to negotiate on economic problems and said while the governors' amendment was "stripped of verbiage," it had "a dozen loopholes."

Witness calls it 'horrible'

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI) — A member of Virginia's House of Delegates witnessed the electrocution of convicted killer Frank Coppola and called the state's first execution in 20 years "a horrible experience."

Delegate Samuel Glasscock, a Democrat and staunch opponent of the death penalty, asked to see Tuesday night's event along with six other witnesses from outside the state Corrections Department.

Glasscock, who said he considers capital punishment "counter-productive," said he wanted to watch the execution so he could be "in a better position to tell people that we have got to find another way."

"I don't consider myself as soft on crime," the 13-year veteran of the House told the Roommate Times and World News. "I just consider the death penalty counter-productive in trying to reduce crime."

Glasscock said he and the other witnesses entered a small, plain-glass-paneled room across from the electric chair at 10:40 p.m. EDT, and Coppola was escorted into the death chamber about 11:15. Glasscock described Coppola's expression as "content" with his desire to be executed.

Suspect nabbed in five bloody murders

FORT WORTH, Texas (UPI) — A District Attorney J.M. McEntire said investigators had a suspect they wanted to locate.

Police discovered the four slaying victims while investigating the slaying and sexual mutilation of Rickie Lee Bryant, 31, whose body was discovered by his mother when she stopped in after he failed to answer his telephone.

He had been decapitated, castrated and stabbed repeatedly, a spokesman for the Tarrant County Medical Examiner's office said.

Medical reports were expected today. Police said they do not know of any relationship between the victims other than they were all neighbors. But McEntire said the man living alone probably was the target in a murder

SPORTS Braves complete collapse

Two red hot races in National League

By Tony Favia UPI Sports writer. The St. Louis Cardinals are doing their best to remind everyone that there are two mighty combatants racing going on in the National League.

Porter driving in two runs each and Steve Mura hurling a five-hitter, the Cardinals' triumph was made even easier by the marvelous play of their keystone combo of shortstop Ozzie Smith and second baseman Tom Herr.

George blasts Doyle Alexander

DETROIT (UPI) — It looks as though the only thing that's slowing Lou Whitaker down this season is the end of the schedule. Whitaker has been hot since Detroit manager Sparky Anderson installed him as the Tigers' leadoff batter July 6.

The Detroit second baseman started Tuesday night's 10-1 victory over the New York Yankees with a solo home run, ended it with a two-run home run, and got a two-run single in between.

Rookie center fielder Glenn Wilson had four hits, including a two-run home run, and rookie starter Jerry Ujdr pitched a four-hitter for his fifth victory in a row without a loss, retiring 16 straight batters in one stretch.

But the surge by Whitaker to a .300 batting average for the first time this season (101) grabbed the attention of everyone not interested in New York boss George Steinbrenner, through club Vice President Bill Bergsch, phoned the TORONTO (UPI) — While Toronto's Dave Stieb tossed his two-hit "dream game," Boston sluggers swatted helplessly at the right-hander's pitches.

Stieb brilliant blanking R Sox

"I've never pitched better, statistically or emotionally," said Stieb, 12-11, who was in complete command of all but eight pitches Tuesday night when the Blue Jays blanked the Boston Red Sox 4-0 for their fifth consecutive win.

Stieb's outstanding performance tied the American League lead in two departments: most complete games with 12, with Oakland's Rick Langford, and his fourth shutout put him even with Ken Forsch of California.

"It's just a matter of the stuff I had and the location of pitches," said Stieb, 35. "It's one of those days you dream about. Everything was at the knees, over the plate and had good velocity. I had good rhythm and great release points."

What added, "You look at the Oakland staff from last year and you'll see that's what they did — they changed speeds a lot for their effectiveness."

That's both Grogan and Cavanaugh will be given equal opportunities to play and will be able to work with the first offensive unit," the coach said.

"Steve was given the opportunity to start this game basically on the fact that he had started more games than Matt. Nothing else should be read into this situation," Meyer said.

All-Pro guard John Hannah, who had been sprained with a hand injury, returned to non-contact practice Wednesday, team officials said.

Hannah, however, is not scheduled to start quarterback for the Colts. "What is important

Astros hand Virdon pink slip. SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Bill Virdon led Houston from the cellar to a division title in 1980, but with the Astros now mired in fifth place in the National League West, the Astros have fired Virdon. Virdon was fired Tuesday and named first base coach Bob Lillis interim manager, and a team spokesman said that "the probability goes through the end of the season."

Father of N. E. Relays. Herald Angle. Earl Yost, Sports Editor. "I'm not worried about the crowd support. It will be slow at first, but it will come. At Drake the attendance was poor in the early years," he added. From 1922 to 1982, Mr. McCormick served as secretary-treasurer of the Central Connecticut Board of Approved Football Officials. He was the backbone of the organization. Like Mr. Wigren, he too, was the son of a minister. No one man can claim generating enough interest to establish a community college in Manchester but Mr. McCormick was right at the head of the parade. Hundreds of area young men and women today can be thankful education facilities were available in Manchester after high school through the efforts of Mr. McCormick. He distinguished himself in World War I as an officer in the infantry, being awarded the Distinguished Service Cross and the French Croix de Guerre and he rose to the rank of colonel in World War II. Financial support, for programs at MCC, received a considerable boost from Mr. McCormick, all without any publicity the way that the donor would want it. Two of the annual prized athletic awards at the college, to the male and female athletes, are given in the name of Mr. McCormick and his wife. Manchester has lost two outstanding citizens in less than one week in the passing of Mr. Wigren and Mr. McCormick. The town has been a better place to live because of these two men.

Softball playoffs launched

With the regular season completed in most town softball leagues' playoff action dominated the scene last night at several sites.

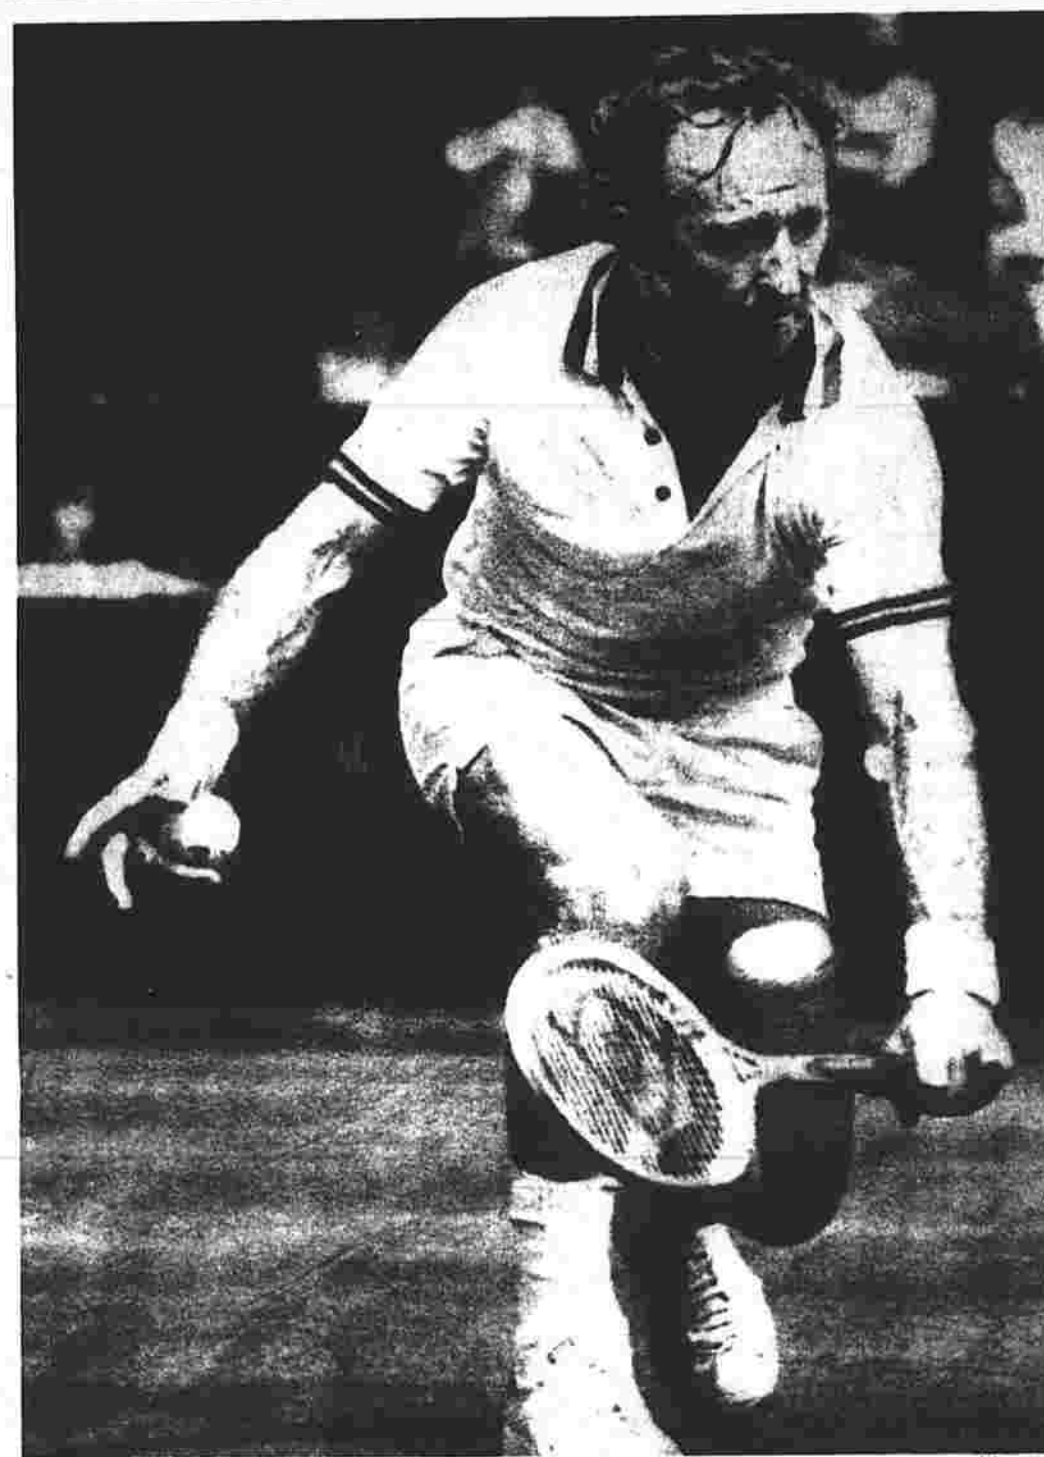

Over at Nike Field, Nelson Freightway banged out 20 hits en route to a five-inning 20-1 romp over Vitter's in a battle for third place in the Rec League.

Other action at Nike saw a Nike League playoff tilt go to Washington Social Club by a 9-3 count over Moriarty Fuel.

Wednesday at 7:30 for the tournament berth, Nick Peters and Wayne Maybeck each had two hits for B&M while Tom Zowari and Harry Cammeyer had a like number for Trash-Away.

Elliot Gun Shop tonight for the town tourney berth. Dave Gokey slugged three hits and Rich Krajevsky, Gary Desjarlais and Faraday two apiece for Buckland.

Twenty hits resulted in a 14-9 win for B&M Auto over X-Mart last night at Charter Oak. Ellen Poul had three homers, Joan Lindsay three safeties and Lorraine Barile a four-bagger for B&M.

Four hits, five runs in Moriarty triumph

Mustering only four hits, Moriarty Bros. nevertheless plated five big runs in the bottom of the sixth inning for a 5-1 win over Mallove's Jewellers in Twilight League playoff baseball action last night at Moriarty Field.

The Gas Housers will face Society for Savings, a 6-4 winner over the Newtonians, tonight at Palmer Field in Middletown at 8 o'clock in the second half of a doubleheader.

Mallove's took a 1-0 lead in the fifth inning on an Ed McMillan single, stolen base and RBI single by Chris Wren.

Connors struggles to win McEnroe returns to tour after extended absence

TORONTO (UPI) — John McEnroe, back from his longest rest from the tennis tour in four years, was yearning for his old friends — tension, anxiety and anger.

The world's No. 1 ranked player routinely dumped lightly regarded Nick Saviano 6-2, 6-1 Tuesday in the first round of the $200,000 Canadian Open.

It was McEnroe's first day back on the job since his loss to Jimmy Connors at the Wimbledon final five weeks ago.

The 23-year-old southpaw said it was nice to be back. That was the problem.

Returning to the tour which he dominated with ferocity, the past two years was only nice, not wonderful, as he put it.

McEnroe did indulge in a few of his customary tirades over officiating calls in his match against Saviano, a New Jersey native ranked 81st on the computer.

Raiders set for LA site

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Meet the Los Angeles Raiders.

The final legal hurdle was cleared Tuesday by the Raiders in their continuing struggle with the National Football League to move from Oakland, Calif., to Los Angeles as the 9th District Court of Appeals denied a request by the league to stay the team's move to Southern California.

At Verobeach, Fla., New Orleans coach Bum Phillips has sent linebacker Glen Reid, the team's leading tackler as a rookie in 1981, to a Utah eye specialist because of recurring dizziness.

At Thousand Oaks, Calif., the Dallas Cowboys said three players will miss Saturday's exhibition game against Buffalo at Irving, Texas.

Salvatore Mile Handicap winner

Count His Fleet, with Bill Nemel up, won the Salvatore Mile Handicap at Monmouth Park Tuesday. Explosive Bid, extreme right, was second under Bryan Fann. Winner ran mile in 1:35 and paid $42.80.

LaRussa off hot seat

CHICAGO (UPI) — Tony LaRussa, a licensed lawyer, leaned back in his swivel chair in a small office inside the Chicago White Sox clubhouse and tried to plead his case to a few people.

"I have maintained faith in this team all along. When we were going bad, I knew we'd snap out of it."

Tony LaRussa

LaRussa has been on trial during the past three weeks for his other job — manager of the Chicago White Sox — and what he was trying to prove was that he wasn't concerned about the hoopla surrounding his fate as skipper of the American League West.

"You know, my skin was about this thick before all this," said LaRussa, holding his hands slightly apart and gradually spreading them.

General Manager Roland Hemond has indicated the recent winning streak has proved his contention LaRussa is one of the league's best managers.

Lafleur no longer worried about possibility of trade

MONTREAL (UPI) — Guy Lafleur says the thought of being traded no longer scares him — and admits a trade could happen if Montreal Canadiens general manager Irving Grundman can't meet his demands for a renegotiated contract.

Grundman issued a curt "no comment" after a meeting with Lafleur Tuesday.

The star right wing, who hopes to bring his estimated $600,000-to-$700,000 a year salary in line with league salaries paid some of the NHL's other top players, said this offer or fight the battle in the newspapers or ask for the moon.

Unprecedented fourth ring championship goal for Alexia Arguello in November

NEW YORK (UPI) — If it is possible to "kill someone with kindness," then Alexia Arguello is guilty in the first degree.

Arguello, who smothered opponents with compliments, handshakes and good wishes before devouring them with left jabs, left hooks and straight rights, is already working on his next rival — World Boxing Association champion Aaron Pryor.

Arguello, one of only six men in boxing history to hold titles in three divisions, will attempt to capture an unprecedented fourth crown Nov. 12, when he faces Pryor.

The hot word on ginger: there's more to the spice than meets the palate

There's more to ginger than meets the eye or, more accurately perhaps, the palate. It just happens to have noticed references to it lately in such diverse publications as The Lancet (the prestigious British medical journal), an Australian newspaper and Gerard's "Herbal or General History of Plantes," which was published in London in 1597.

A native of Asia, the ginger plant is related to bamboo, and is from the rhizome, or underground stem and the root stock, that we get this wonderfully aromatic, exotic seasoning. The Chinese have used ginger since time immemorial, as have the people of India, both in cooking and as a very effective herbal remedy.

Ginger eventually found its way to Europe and was highly prized in medieval times. The earliest ginger cakes in England are on record as being rather solid affairs of flour baked with honey, ginger and spices. They were gilded and decorated (looking rather like toiled leather and offering about as much resistance to the teeth, I imagine) with gold leaf applied in a pattern or with a design of whole cloves that had a touch of gold leaf on the heads — just like little upholstery nails!

Ginger has always been popular in this country — it was introduced in colonial times in the East and was used mainly in baking, and later gained general popularity in the West via the Chinese culinary influence. A child in Oregon to quell tummy upsets and of course have enjoyed ginger in innumerable Chinese dishes.

Powdered ginger is derived from the dried root; stem ginger is the most delicate and is preserved in a heavy syrup or rolled in crystallized sugar. Fresh ginger is a knobby-looking root that you can grate into a dish for an exciting flavor. Carefully wrapped, it will keep well in the freezer.

The heat that emanates from peeled ginger is intense, so when using fresh ginger in any quantity learn by a mistake that it can make when making chutney. I must have peeled two pounds of the stuff without using gloves and suffering from burns for several days! Most people say that you should always peel ginger, but if I am grating a small amount I don't bother as it seems to make no difference to the flavor or texture of the finished dish.

These days we are getting some very good quality preserved ginger from subtropical Queensland, Australia. Unlike some of the Asian varieties, the Australian ginger is practically fibertree and doesn't have a burning aftertaste. Add to a basic ice-cream mixture for a delicious flavor. Fresh ginger mixed with soy sauce, Chinese wine or sherry, oil, garlic and some orange or tangerine peel is a marvelous marinade for many dishes, be they Chinese, Japanese or American. Steak, chicken, pork or duck so marinated will make a perfectly delightful eating experience, particularly if the meat or poultry is then grilled over coals.

I remember in the old days, when the Queen Elizabeth I plied the Atlantic, there was a roof terrace, or second dining room, where you could reserve a table for a small extra charge and dine there during the voyage. There was always a beautiful bowl of crystallized ginger at the entrance for consumption as a little digestive or "bonne bouche" after lunch or dinner. Those chefs know what they were about. According to that March 1982 issue of The Lancet that I mentioned earlier, candied ginger has been proved to be an excellent remedy for motion sickness — far better than such commercial preparations as Dramamine. Gerard's "Herbal of 1597" also praises the various medicinal properties of ginger.

I am giving you a recipe for a honey gingerbread that I greatly enjoyed in Nice, in the south of France. The gingerbread is just wonderful cut into very thin slices and served with sweet butter. Watch it during baking as all honey cakes will scorch quite easily.

Dissolve 2½ teaspoons baking soda in ¼ cup hot water and let cool. Cream 1½ tablespoons butter, add 1 teaspoon each of cinnamon and powdered ginger, 1 egg and ½ pound honey and blend well. Stir in the cool water and soda, and beat in 2 cups flour. Beat until the mixture is very smooth. Turn the batter into a loaf pan lined with wax paper and bake at 350 degrees for 50 minutes or until the cake tests done. (When done, cake should spring back from finger pressure and the tester should come clean.) This gingerbread can be prepared very quickly in a food processor.

Refrigerate or freeze until ready to serve. May be served in chafing dish.

- ### Pickled Shrimp
- 1 pound medium shrimp (cooked)
1 cup vinegar
2 tablespoons water
3 whole cloves
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 bay leaf
1 onion, sliced
2 teaspoons salt
1 teaspoon sugar
- Combine all ingredients, except shrimp, in saucepan. Bring to boil. Pour mixture over shrimp which has been shelled and deveined. Marinate for at least 12 hours in refrigerator. Drain. Serve with cocktail picks or forks.

Ratatouille Provencale

- 2½ cups diced eggplant
¼ cup olive oil
¼ cup thinly sliced onions
2 cloves garlic
¼ cup whole black olives
4 julienned green peppers (Remove seeds and membrane)
2 cups zucchini (½-inch slices)
2 cups quartered tomatoes
- Peel, slice and salt the eggplant to get rid of excess moisture. Put the olive oil in a deep skillet and saute the onions with the garlic until golden. Add the whole black olives, the peppers, zucchini and tomatoes. Add the drained eggplant and ¼ teaspoon oregano or chopped fresh basil.
- Simmer for about 45 minutes, covered. Uncover and cook for another 15 minutes.

Debbey Boone has great drama coach - her father-in-law

With a former teenage idol for a father, a man who has been in show business for what seems to be a billion years, Debbey Boone never found herself short of advice on how to pursue a career. But, strange as it may seem, she would rather get advice from her father-in-law, the legendary Joe Ferrer, than her father, Pat Boone, who once made teenagers squeal with delight when he appeared before them in white tuxedos.

Debbey wants son Jordan to get to know his granddaddy. "That's something she and Gabriel, whom she calls 'Gabby' and who helps manage her career, have wanted for a long time."

Q & A

Where does my favorite group, the Oak Ridge Boys, hail from? Also, where can I get a picture of them?—M.M., Sharon, Pa.

The quick answer is "I'm all over," although the lads prefer to say Nashville, Tenn. Joe Bonall is from Philadelphia, Pa., William Lee Golden calls Brewton, Ala., home. Dwayne Allen hails from Taylorstown, Texas, and Richard Sterban is from Camden, N.J. You can write to them at the Oak Ridge Boys International Fan Club at 329 Rockland Road, Hendersonville, Tenn.

Lady Bird Johnson still active?—F.R., Susan City, Calif.

You bet. The widow of President Lyndon Johnson works tirelessly at the LBJ Library in Austin, Texas. She also loves being a grandma and, during last year's successful gubernatorial campaign by son-in-law Chuck Robb in Virginia, she was invaluable as a baby sitter. Robb's married to Lynda Bird Johnson.

Q & A

Who's the actor who plays the detective, Roman Brady, in the soap operas "Days of Our Lives"? And was he ever in "Dynasty"?—R.M., Waverston, Md.

His name is Wayne Northrup and, yes, he also originated the part of Michael, the chauffeur, in "Dynasty." That's where the producers of the "Days of Our Lives" spotted him. Born in Sumner, Wash., he's now in his "early 30s." Northrup bopped about Europe doing odd jobs for 19 months before landing the soap. He and his wife, Lynne, who recently celebrated their first wedding anniversary, live "on the beach" in the area of Santa Monica, Calif.

Can you give me some information on my favorite actor, Jim Michael Vincent?—S.M.C., Mantoloking, Wis.

He's in Miami shooting a film, "The Last Place Out" with the late Bing Crosby's daughter, Mary Crosby. After it's completed, he'll dash home to Malibu, Calif., to be with his wife and child.

A.L. ump back on field after bout with cancer

"I'm feeling real good now. I'm back to exercising regularly, and the doctors are confident they caught everything in time. And so am I." It was last August that American League baseball umpire Bill Kunkel first felt a twinge of pain. Nothing much, thought Kunkel. Let it pass. After all, he was a healthy 45-year-old. "You're wonderful," the letter was signed by the museum's director, Steven Ling. Those wonderful days that were thanked by Larry Lombardi, Gene Enright, John Schellinger, Joe Karvelis, Bill Valente and John Frank.

Living Will promotes death with dignity

DEAR ABBY: About 10 years ago you advertised the Living Will in your column, saying readers could send for it by sending a few dollars to the nonprofit organization called Concern for Dying, 250 West 57th St., New York, N.Y. 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB: Can you send me some information on varicose veins? I am 21 years old and have problems with my legs. I had an operation to have some of my veins cut. After the operation I got small warty veins where the doctor cut me.

My faith and trust in "T" has been badly shaken, though she has the slightest possibility she is right, give her the benefit of the doubt.

A second response to serious illness comes in the form of guilt or shame. Many people see illness as a personal failure, a sign of weakness, and they feel uncomfortable being walked on by others — often complete strangers. Others see illness as a punishment, and therefore, assume they must have done something wrong. We may be familiar with Biblical passages that connect sin and illness — or we may be aware of some halibut of ours that have contributed to our illness.

Cocky bantam beats bigger roosters Blue is crowing champ

BLUE IS TOP ROOSTER
... Marion Peterson is owner

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (UPI) — Blue the rooster is feeling pretty cocky these days. Even though he is smaller than many of his barnyard buddies, he knows he has a bigger mouth.

The big-beaked bantam crowed his way to victory at the Illinois State Fair's Rooster Crowing Contest Tuesday, producing 69 cock-a-doodle-dos to clinch the title of grand champion and the $200 prize.

At about 20 ounces, the Old English Game bantam was pint-sized compared to his competitors. But Blue's lusty, deep-throated crows easily put to shame the vocal cords of seven other finalists.

Blue's owner, Marion Peterson, 78, of Victoria, said sweet nothings are the secret to persuading roosters to exercise their vocal cords.

"You have to talk to them real nice like you do a wife ...," Peterson said.

Peterson wasn't shy about giving Blue the needed encouragement to produce the winning number of crows.

"That a boy, let's go, it's daylight," he coached the rooster, stretching his neck back in imitation of Blue's prize-winning style.

A shapely black hen waded in front of Blue also produced some more cock-a-doodle-dos.

"It excites him," Peterson said.

Blue's 69 crows in the half-hour finals, plus 88 more in the half-hour preliminary, put him three shy of the record 160 cock-a-doodle-dos set by White Lightning in 1972, said Marion Nash, poultry superintendent.

Peterson, a retired state employee and former restaurant cook and chicken farmer, said he still keeps about 300 chickens in his garage at home. He said he has entered the contest unsuccessfully for the last several years.

To prepare for the competition, he said Blue underwent rigorous training for more than a year.

"You keep working at him, you give him a little piece of corn when he crows," Peterson said.

Carter splits; second banana wows them

By James V. Healion
United Press International

EAST HADDAM — The second banana in "High Button Shoes" has a line that goes, "Nice little burg you got here folks," but top banana Jack Carter couldn't agree and he — for want of a better word — split.

The sheep in the Connecticut meadows bleated their goodbyes to Broadway Jack and he lit out for Los Angeles. Ray DeMattis, the second banana, put in his bid for the part, a lollapalooza.

The role up for grabs — all 1,372 lines of it — was that of Harrison Floy, an ex-vandewillan and Big Apple smoothie — a "tall guy I'm gonna do" kind of guy. He joins a birdwatchers club to charm the lady members out of their nest eggs.

"A grouse in every house!" Floy proclaims, decked out in a plaid suit so loud it could be heard in the last row at the Goodspeed Opera House.

He believes in grand entrances and makes them through windows.

"Doors," he says in the manner of a man who would take a hot stove and go back for the smoke, "are too conventional."

FLOY IS paired with Mr. Pondue, played by the able veteran, John Remme. They visit the household of Mama and Papa Longstreet in New Brunswick, N.J., where daughter and boyfriend are taking a correspondence course — in the tango.

"It's so Spanish," she says.

The music is memorable, too. Two of the shows hits are "I Still Get Jealous," a love song sung by the Longstreets — it was set in 1914 when marriage was still popular — and the exuberant "On a Sunday by the Sea," and "Papa, Won't You Dance With Me."

If it sounds familiar it's because "High Button Shoes" was a Broadway success in 1947. Its music by Jule Styne and Sammy Cahn is still heard today. Phil Silvers made the role famous using the same style he did as Sgt. Bilko, the fireball Army non-com of "You'll Never Get Rich," a postwar television series of the 1950s.

Silvers was made for the Floy role and the Floy role for him, a comic playing a comic. The advantage would be completely lost to DeMattis because he would be an actor playing a comic, which made it a test of his acting skill. And he would be up against several dozen seasoned contenders for the role, some of them name comedians.

DeMattis has wanted to be an actor since high school in Hamden where Alice Hahn, a teacher, spotted his potential, encouraged him, and recommended him for private tutoring to Constance Welch, then the acting dean at the Yale Drama School and its first woman graduate.

He toured with a national company of "Fiddler on the Roof," and landed a role in the Broadway production of "Grease." He was a character actor, one of those virtuosi who lend texture and substance to the acting art.

He got the Goodspeed part of the second banana, Mr. Pondue, and when Jack Carter fled and left the role of Floy hanging, DeMattis jumped at the chance. Goodspeed boss Michael P. Price and director and choreographer Dan Siretta were impressed. How do you memorize 1,372 lines? He wrote them down first.

There's no rough edges in his flawless portrayal. People don't sense the underlying hostility they might if Carter's replacement were some aggressive comic who is at his happiest when he can bellow, "I killed 'em tonight!"

Crime rate in Hartford surges up 10.8 percent

HARTFORD (UPI) — The number of burglaries, larcenies, and car thefts in Hartford increased by 17.4 percent from March through June and police blame the rise on a political shakeup in the department and a staff shortage.

Crime in the city rose 10.8 percent overall during the second quarter of this year, although violent crime, including murder, rape, and robbery, decreased by 18.7 percent when compared with the same period last year.

The statistics, which show the first overall crime increase in Hartford in six months, were released Tuesday by Lt. Timothy Hogan, commander of the Police Department's crime analysis unit.

Hogan blamed the increase on leadership changes in the department, commitment of more police to crimes against persons at the expense of property crimes, and a possible increase in the number of false reports.

Police Chief George Sciaras was forced into early retirement last month after ongoing arguments with City Manager Woodrow Wilson Galtor about police's official duties, he said.

Sciaras was replaced by Bernard Sullivan.

There were 6,237 major crimes reported to Hartford police in the second quarter of this year compared with 5,631 the second three months of 1981. Homicides decreased 54.5 percent — to five from 11.

Navy: Trespass shows laxness

HARTFORD (UPI) — The fact nine protesters were able to enter the Electric Boat Shipyard and vandalize a Trident submarine shows EB is not well protected against terrorists and spies, Navy officials say.

The trespass and vandalism by demonstrators July 5 shows "our standards ... are too low, quite frankly. We're moving to correct them," says Rear Adm. James Webber, vice commander of the Naval Sea Systems Command.

But Fritz Tovar, general manager at the General Dynamics shipyard, questioned at the hearing in Washington Tuesday before the U.S. Senate Armed Services Committee seapower subcommittee whether security at any defense contractor is tight enough.

Tovar said the Navy should state whether it is willing to pay for increased protection.

Navy officials were taken aback when the protesters last month managed to enter the EB property, some by canoe and others by cutting their way through a chain link fence.

Webber said EB has increased security since the break-in.

New lights were installed and others were realigned; a strip of land was cleared to allow patrols near a fenced area, and the 4,200-foot of property bordering the Thames River is now patrolled 24 hours a day, he said.

Band director arrested again

ENFIELD (UPI) — The director of a drum and bugle corps who was charged with sexually assaulting a minor several days ago in Seymour was charged with similar charges in another town.

Francis Cormier, 34, of Enfield, director of the Connecticut Valley Crusaders, was arrested Tuesday and charged with employing a minor in an obscene performance: fourth degree sexual assault, and two counts of risk of injury to a minor.

Police said the arrest stemmed from a July 30 incident and followed a three-week investigation into complaints by parents. Police won't say if the charges were related to the 60-member corps of 8-to-18-year-olds.

Cormier, who has been a firefighter with the Thompsonville Fire Department for 15 years, was arrested Aug. 2 by Seymour police on charges related to a May 15 incident with an Enfield boy. He was charged with fourth degree sexual assault and risk of injury to a minor. Bond was set for $20,000 and Cormier was scheduled to appear in Windsor Superior Court today. He is scheduled to appear in Ansonia Superior Court Monday on the charges lodged in Seymour.

Bonds sold at lower rate

HARTFORD (UPI) — State Treasurer Henry Parker says a state decision last fall to hold off on the sale of $100 million in long-term bonds has paid off with the sale of the bonds at a lower interest rate.

The state Tuesday accepted a low bid of 10.53 percent on the general obligation bonds sold to a group represented locally by Connecticut Bank and Trust Co. and including Citibank and First Boston Corp.

The bond sale will cost the state more than $10 million in interest by having held off from last October — when the money was first needed — until Tuesday to sell the long-term bonds.

Parker said the state borrowed the money through short-term notes at 8.75 percent interest in October when long-term notes probably would have drawn a 12.5 percent interest rate.

Astro-graph

August 12, 1982

This should be an exciting year for you, astrologer. Many new acquaintances are likely. Some who might not appear too attractive at first meeting will later prove to be friends.

LED (July 29-Aug. 29) You could be intrigued by someone you meet recently, but you must be careful not to believe too deeply involved before you get to know this person further.

Fed out more of what lies ahead for you in the months following your birthday by reading your star sign Astro-Graph, Aug. 11 to Aug. 17 (Aug. 28-Sept. 27) The stars you formulate for accomplishing your aims today have a good chance for success, but there's a possibility late-month changes will impact them.

REASSURE (Aug. 28-Sept. 27) Reassure yourself with persons who can help you feel more secure. You will be favorably conducted today, but you might not feel confident with those who can't aid you.

ACQUAINT (Oct. 28-Nov. 27) In your ventures today, there might be demands of you that is unreasonable or fair. Be realistic, with those who sell as well as everything balance.

REASSURE (Nov. 28-Dec. 27) Reassure yourself with persons who can help you feel more secure. You will be favorably conducted today, but you might not feel confident with those who can't aid you.

ACQUAINT (Dec. 28-Jan. 27) Acquaint yourself with persons who can help you feel more secure. You will be favorably conducted today, but you might not feel confident with those who can't aid you.

Supermarket Shopper

Cashier will have to wait

By Martin Sloane

DEAR MARTIN: Please print this in your column for all the checkout clerks who get annoyed at customers who (a) insist that all their purchases be on the conveyor belt before the clerk begins to ring up prices and (b) get annoyed at customers who watch the register instead of helping to pack their groceries.

three weeks, and I vow that it is not going to happen again. So, to all the cashiers at my local supermarket: Sorry, but I won't be helping to pack anymore, and I won't let you start ringing up my purchases until everything is on the belt for me to watch. Please don't be offended, either, when I stand there with my calculator and point out 3-cent errors to you.

My next column will feature letters from several cashiers who want to give us the view from their side of the checkout counter.

TOWN OF MANCHESTER, CONNECTICUT
NOTICE OF ADOPTION OF ORDINANCE
In accordance with the provisions of Chapter 3, Section 1 and 2 of the Town Charter of the Town of Manchester, Connecticut, on August 3, 1982 the Board of Directors of the Town of Manchester, Connecticut, on August 3, 1982 BE IT ORDAINED by the Board of Directors of the Town of Manchester, Connecticut, that the following Ordinance be adopted and that the Board of Directors of the Town of Manchester, Connecticut, do hereby certify that the following Ordinance is hereby given to the Board of Directors of the Town of Manchester, Connecticut, on August 3, 1982.

These premises designated as Lot 15A, Backland Industrial Park, Town of Manchester, County of Hartford, and State of Connecticut are hereby conveyed subject to:

1. Industrial Park Regulations of the Manchester Economic Development Commission, recorded in Volume 66, Page 292 of the Manchester Land Records.

2. The zoning laws of the Town of Manchester and of the Eight United Districts of said Town on the current Grand List with Grantee's, by acceptance of the said Town of Manchester to the Board of Directors of the Town of Manchester, Connecticut, on August 3, 1982.

3. Planning and Zoning Regulations of the Town of Manchester, Connecticut, as amended, and all other laws, ordinances, resolutions, orders, rules and regulations of the Board of Directors of the Town of Manchester, Connecticut, on August 3, 1982.

4. Such easements and rights-of-way existing on said premises as of the date hereof which do not render title unmarketable or interfere with the enjoyment of the premises in any way whatsoever.

The premises are subject to the following conditions:

"The premises described herein are conveyed upon the conditions that construction of an appropriate building or buildings be commenced no later than 180 days after the date of this Ordinance and that said construction be completed no later than 180 months thereafter. The Board of Directors of the Town of Manchester, Connecticut, shall have the right to enforce these conditions by making a tender of the purchase price as established by the Board of Directors of the Town of Manchester, Connecticut, on August 3, 1982, or by causing the premises to be sold at public auction. The Board of Directors of the Town of Manchester, Connecticut, shall have the right to enforce these conditions by making a tender of the purchase price as established by the Board of Directors of the Town of Manchester, Connecticut, on August 3, 1982, or by causing the premises to be sold at public auction.
