Several biggies considered vulnerable

Report rates best, worst banks

With the stock market in turmoil, and considering the record-breaking performance of the Dow and the biggest one-day volume in the history of the New York Stock Exchange, you're probably expecting a column on where the market goes from here.

And it's what I planned to do — until I learned of a significant and frightening report that was going out this past weekend: a probing, just-completed analysis of the country's 14,000 commercial banks (the best and the worst).

Considering (1) the Penn Square fiasco, (2) the recent surge in bank failures (27 thus far in '82, vs. 10 in all of '81), (3) the hefty reported losses (from dumb investments) by such biggies as Chase Manhattan and Continental Illinois (4) rumors of recent bank problems with Mexico (the world's most indebted nation) and (5) my reader mail peppered with the question: How safe is my bank? I went with the bank story.

THE FINDINGS of the analysis have to be viewed as downright disturbing — what with many of the biggest banking names around showing glaring deficiencies in their balance sheets.

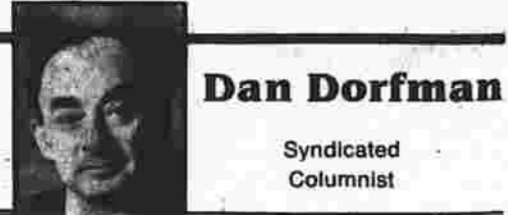

It is based on a slew of material submitted by the banks to the Federal Reserve — information that's considerably more detailed than what you'll find in the banks' annual reports. It was conducted by the investment advisory firm of T.J. Holt & Co. of Westport, Conn. And the results, covering the latest bank data as of Dec. 31, 1981, were mailed out over the weekend to Holt's roughly 10,000 clients in the firm's biweekly investment newsletter.

The study zeroed in on the 100 strongest (and 100 weakest) banks, based on the Holt findings (see accompanying chart for top 25 in each category). In brief, here's the way the analysis worked. The focus was on six key ratios — with each given a rating number. Then each ratio was assigned a certain weighting, depending on its importance. And from the analysis evolves a composite rating. This runs from minus to plus, with zero considered normal. The higher the plus figure, the stronger the bank; the higher the minus figure, the weaker the bank. Holt regards anything above a minus-150 as a cause for concern.

HERE ARE THE SIX RATIOS used to determine the banks' financial condition:

- The equity-to-asset ratio (regarded as the single most important one). This is the amount of equity banks have on hand to support total assets. A 5 percent equity-to-asset ratio is generally viewed by banking regulators as adequate, though many banks, especially the biggies, sport a lower number.

- The loan loss reserves, as a percentage of total loans: the more the reserves to cover bad loans, the more conservative the bank.
- The percentage of total loans accounted for by borrowings from less-developed countries. Of the $96 billion in outstanding U.S. bank loans to non-OPEC developing countries at the end of '81, more than half — $50 billion to be precise — was owed by Argentina, Brazil and Mexico. And repayment of this debt by the trio is considered questionable by numerous banking officials themselves.

Dan Dorfman
Syndicated Columnist

Interestingly, as of the end of '81, all U.S. banks had a total of just $28 billion in loan loss reserves for some $208 billion in foreign loans.

• The percentage of total loans accounted for by commercial and industrial loans; roughly 50 percent is considered normal, but some banks exceed 80 percent. And this is especially relevant, considering the record number of corporate bankruptcies.

• The purchased liability ratio: this is the amount of funds — called repos — that banks borrow short-term (generally overnight) from financial institutions, such as other banks and corporations, as a percentage of total borrowings. The higher the PL ratio — which has been greatly expanding — the more vulnerable the bank. The reason: such funds can quickly dry up, even any institutional flight to safety (which we're seeing now in the sharply higher purchases of Treasury bills) and any kind of cash squeeze (which a number of pros are forecasting because of the huge government and corporate financing needs).

REFLECTING FLAMBOYANCE (and vulnerability) in lending policies, a below-average equity-to-asset ratio or an excessive purchased liability ratio — or a combination of several of these — many of the country's biggest banks are conspicuous among the list of the 25 "weakest banks."

These include Citibank, Manufacturers Hanover, Morgan Guaranty Trust, Bank of America, First National Bank of Chicago, Chase Manhattan, Republican Bank of Dallas, Bank of New York, Continental Illinois, Bankers Trust and Chemical Bank.

It's noteworthy that of the 25 weakest banks so designated by the analysis, 12 of them are headquartered in New York. However, these include a number of affiliates of foreign banking concerns, such as the Israel Discount Bank, Bank Leumi Trust, Fuji Bank & Trust and Daiwa Bank Trust.

Clearly, the analysis shows strengths in smallness; none of the strongest banks has assets of more than $150 million.

Interestingly, none of the top 100 has any loans to less developed countries. Their real estate construction and development loans average only 1.1 percent of total loans vs. 4.2 percent for the 100 weakest.

Loans reserves, reflecting conservative management, run 2.2 percent (vs. a considerably lower 0.9 percent for the 100 weakest). And their repos, as a percentage of total liabilities, average just 12 percent compared with slightly over 60 percent for the weakest banks.

PROBABLY THE MOST tattle clue to the financial vigor of the banks can be seen in the big difference between the best and the worst in the equity-to-asset ratio. The 100 strongest have an average 16.5 percent ratio, the 100 weakest, 4.1 percent.

Let's say, for example, a bank's assets decline 4 percent in value from such things as defaulted mortgages, uncollectible loans or losses from marketable securities. In effect, then, you're practically wiping out the net worth of the 100 weakest banks.

Take the strongest bank in the country, designated by the analysis as Morgan Bank Delaware. Its equity-to-asset ratio is a whopping 57 percent.

Rounding out the top five are First Blair City National Bank (Pa.), First Union Bank (Ohio), Barnett Banks Trust Co. (Fla.) and McDowell County National Bank (W.Va.).

In looking at the list of the 25 weakest banks, it's significant to note that three of the 10 worst sport extremely low equity-to-asset ratios. They are Bank of Commonwealth, Mich. (1.7 percent), Metropolitan Bank & Trust, Fla. (2.4 percent) and Banco Central Corp., Puerto Rico (2.6 percent).

AND OF THE 100 weakest banks, it's equally significant to find four cases where foreign government loans (mostly to lesser developed countries) account for more than 10 percent of their total loans. These are the Riggis National Bank, Washington, D.C., Fuji Bank & Trust, First Pennsylvania and the UBAF Arab-American Bank.

The concern about the strength (and strategy) of the biggies can be seen in the way the Holt analysis rates the country's biggest bank of them all — West Coast Bank of America; it's considered the ninth weakest bank. Among the key reasons: a purchased liability ratio of 69 percent, a real estate loan portfolio that represents more than 45 percent of total loans (in an area where real estate prices reflatined and are coming down) and an equity-to-asset ratio of 3.4 percent.

So there you have it — the best and the worst, as one probing analysis interprets its findings. Clearly, the Federal Reserve is not about to allow one of the biggies to go under; that's what financial panics are all about. But it's also clear that bank failures are on the upswing. And, as Holt puts it, why risk your capital — even though insured — with a questionable bank? At the very least, you could be inconvenienced for a while by having your funds frozen.

P.S. Each time I write an article about bank failures I'm besieged with reader mail (which is always welcome). In this case, since I'm only mentioning the 25 strongest and 25 weakest banks — and Holt's analysis is not about to allow one of the biggies to get the other names (if you want them) from Holt himself at 200 Post Road West, Westport, Conn. 06880. And let's hope all our banks are safe.

State claims four art firms fixed prices

HARTFORD (UPI)—Four companies that manufacture and sell crayons and other art supplies conspired to fix prices of their products for sale and resale, the state of Connecticut claims in an antitrust claim.

The Binney & Smith, Inc. of Easton, Pa., the Milton Bradley Co. of Springfield, Mass., the Joseph Dixon Crucible Co. of Jersey City, N.J., and American Art City Co. of Indianapolis, Ind., were named Monday by Attorney General Carl Ajello as defendants.

He said the state is seeking an undetermined amount in damages, attorneys' fees, and other costs and civil penalties up to $250,000 for violation of the state's Antitrust Act.

The lawsuit alleges that, beginning at a time unknown to the state and continuing until 1978, the art supply firms conspired to fix selling prices and eliminate or prevent the giving of allowances or discounts to purchasers of art supplies.

The state also charged the companies allegedly fixed prices and prevented allowances or discounts on the resale of art supplies.

The complaint indicates the state has done substantial business with the defendants since at least 1972.

Ajello said the state seeks a jury trial on behalf of "its public agencies, cities, towns and school districts."

The four firms manufacture and sell crayons, chalk, paint, water colors, brushes, paint sets, art materials, educational supplies and related products. The art materials industry has sales in excess of $75 million per year, he said.

He said the suit is expected to be consolidated in an Ohio federal court with antitrust suits brought against the art supply firms by other state and private parties.

Marines take control of Beirut port area

By Julie Flint
United Press International

With the cry of "Let's go, Marines!" a crack unit of 800 U.S. troops landed in Beirut just after dawn today and spread through the city's devastated port area to oversee the evacuation of Yasser Arafat's Palestinian guerrillas.

As six ships of the U.S. 6th Fleet watched from the horizon, 800 men came ashore on their mission in a country racked by war since June 6.

Fighting broke out Tuesday between Syrian and Palestinian forces on the one hand and Christian militias or Israeli troops on the other in the hills east near the Beirut Damascus highway.

Israel denied its troops were involved and announced the land evacuation of 2,000 PLO fighters to Syria was being postponed. The PLO asked instead to leave by sea to the Syrian port of Latakia, Israeli news reports said.

"There it is, right on course," Habib said, pointing to the first landing craft, when asked if the withdrawal plan he negotiated with Israel and the PLO was on schedule.

"Let's go, Marines. Right on the money. The Marines arrive on time," shouted Col. James Mead as he led his men ashore.

The Marines landed in full combat gear, carrying M-16 rifles, machine guns, mortars, grenade launchers and antitank weapons. They were all onshore and fanned out across the port 90 minutes after the dawn landing.

The distant crackle of machine-gun fire and isolated explosions could be heard a few miles to the east, a reminder of the difficulty of their mission in a country racked by war since June 6.

U.S. envoy Philip Habib, wearing a blue shirt, black slacks and loafers, watched the troops pour ashore to join a contingent of French Foreign Legionnaires. Some 530 Italian soldiers were to land in Beirut later today.

Lebanese sources said the PLO asked for a change because of fears its guerrillas would come under attack by right-wing Christian militia if they drove to Syria in a bus convoy along the Beirut-Damascus highway.

Phalange Radio said 1,500 PLO fighters would leave Beirut by sea today — 1,000 on two ships to the Syrian port of Latakia and another 500 to the South Yemeni capital of Aden.

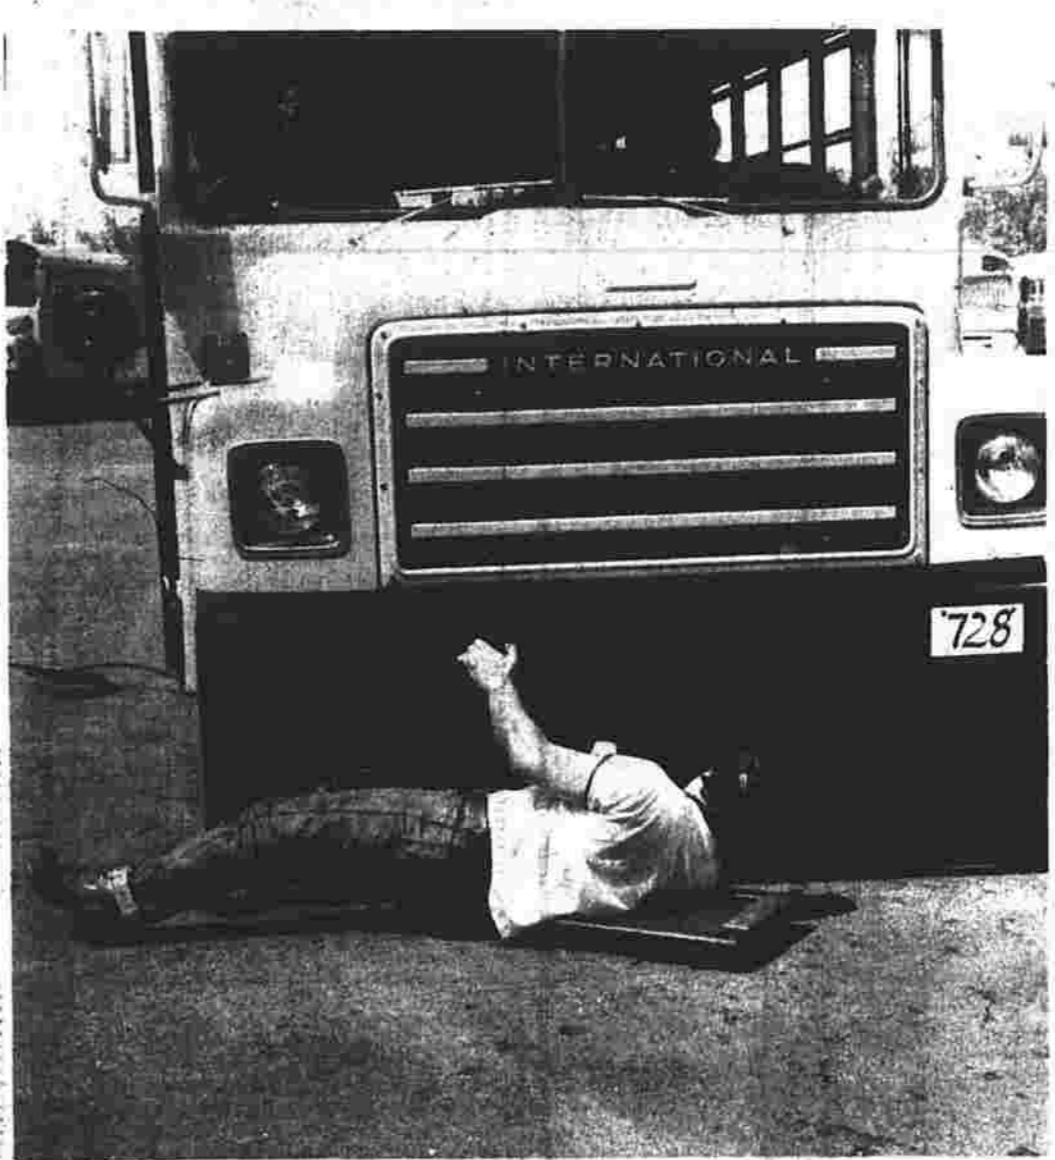

In the first four days of the PLO evacuation, 2,673 guerrillas left for new homes in Iraq, Jordan, Tunisia, North and South Yemen. An estimated 7,000 to 9,000 will leave before the evacuation ends in approximately two weeks.

So far all departing guerrillas have left through the port, placing U.S. troops near holding the area in the position of protecting the fighters of an organization Washington refuses to recognize or talk with.

The Marines are under instructions to shoot only in self-defense and will withdraw from Beirut with the French and the still-to-arrive Italian forces if the cease-fire collapses, a Pentagon spokesman said.

Pension Board talks set Lease tabling delays fight on Bennet plan

By Paul Hendrie
Herald Reporter

A partisan fight over plans to convert a former Bennet Junior High School building to elderly housing was postponed Tuesday night, when the Board of Directors tabled a decision on whether to lease the school to a newly formed non-profit corporation.

The three Republican directors Tuesday morning had announced they would oppose the Bennet conversion. Instead, they had proposed selling the building for private development as office space.

Democratic Director Stephen T. Cassano — the leading proponent of the Bennet project — said after Tuesday night's meeting the question was tabled so his real estate committee can talk to the Pension Board's consultants.

Although an application for Pension Board funding of the project was withdrawn last week in favor of bonding, Cassano said his committee wants to hear how viable the consultants hired by the Pension Board think the Bennet project is.

Republican Director William J. Diana said Tuesday he had heard a rumor that the Pension Board's consultants were ready to advise against investment in the Bennet project, because they thought it was not viable. Nobody on the Pension Board would comment on those rumors.

lot of decisions as a result of rumors," said Cassano. "It doesn't make sense to jump to conclusions with incomplete data, when they're so close to getting complete data."

Cassano said the Republican proposal to sell the building as private office space was explored and rejected, because other new Main Street office buildings have had trouble finding tenants.

Cassano pointed out, for example, that plans to convert the Watkins building to business condominiums had to be dropped, because there were no interested buyers. The former House and Hale building — now known as One Heritage Place — remains largely unoccupied, he added.

"It was specifically based on those concerns and those needs that we moved in the direction of housing," he said.

The Bennet project first was unveiled in October. The since-aborted plan to convert the Watkins building to office condominiums was not announced until November.

Cassano also said the decision to fund the mortgage with bonding, rather than a pension fund investment, does not change the nature of the project.

"The project was never dependent on the Pension Board," said Cassano. "At that time, they seemed to complement each other."

Profit-taking sends stocks down Investors just as enthusiastic about selling

By Denis G. Gullino
United Press International

Investors who sent the Dow Jones average plunging 16 points showed they could be just as enthusiastic about selling their shares for profit as they were about buying them.

Trading volume in Tuesday's selling spree soared to a second-highest one-day record, 121.65 million shares.

The moderate 7.3 percent annual beginning of the year and most analysts see little reason for any substantial acceleration beyond that pace for at least the next several months.

The White House pointed to the reduced inflation rate as evidence the administration has achieved "considerable progress" in bringing stability back to the economy.

Deputy press secretary Larry Spokes told reporters traveling with President Reagan in California the administration is "hopeful and somewhat optimistic" the inflation rate "will remain in single digits over the next several months."

The inflation index, up 0.5 percent at a seasonally adjusted monthly rate, showed price hikes for gasoline had about run their course through July while declining mortgage rates were holding down the heavily weighted home ownership costs.

And food prices remained steady at their June level.

But the category of medical care kept up its reputation as the area of the economy most resistant to anti-inflation progress and climbed another 1 percent for a total of 11.6 percent in the past year.

Rents also were up 1 percent, a disturbing sign for some analysts the nation was developing a housing shortage after three years of producing about 1.5 million fewer housing units than new families.

The Treasury Department reported Tuesday the federal deficit for the first 10 months of the government's fiscal year already totaled $9.2 billion, climbing relentlessly toward — perhaps beyond — the administration's latest estimate of $10.9 billion for the fiscal year ending Sept. 30.

Recession and high interest rates were the main causes of the escalating red-ink figures.

23 killed in Guatemala

GUATEMALA CITY (UPI) — Leftist rebels killed seven soldiers in an ambush along a western town and 12 other people were assassinated, authorities said. Four rebels were killed in two separate clashes. Officials Tuesday reported a total of 23 deaths in four different sites in Guatemala.

An army bulletin said the seven soldiers were killed near the El Quiche province town of Camambol, about 50 miles northwest of Guatemala City.

It said rebels Monday detonated a Vietnam war-style Claymore land mine hidden alongside a rural road when an army troops transport passed. The rebels then strafed the truck with automatic rifles. It said.

Soldiers who survived the initial attack were able to repel the guerrillas, killing two insurgents, the communique said.

The bulletin reported two other guerrillas were killed in the western province of Solola when rebels staged a daylight raid on an army outpost in the town of Los Encuentros.

Comet lights up sky

By UPI International

A fiery red and pink meteor shower left by Halley's Comet lit up the night sky across the Eastern seaboard, prompting a flood of calls to police to report everything from UFOs to an enemy attack.

"We had people calling in saying it was a red glow, a pink glow, and that Baltimore was under attack," Paul Foley, operations manager at Baltimore-Washington International Airport in Linthicum, Md., said Tuesday night.

Police took reports of an invasion from another planet with tongue in cheek.

"If it was a landing from outer space we're all in big trouble — including police," said a spokesman for the New York City Police Department, which was swamped with calls.

A Massachusetts state police dispatcher who missed the light show along the Eastern Seaboard from New York to Maryland, added his own details.

"There's a little guy here running around eating Reese's pieces," he said in a reference to the space adventure movie E.T. "We got real crimes down here and we're in trouble if we had problems from space, too."

A Yonkers, N.Y., police spokeswoman said a female witness described the sighting as "red flames in the sky over the Hudson," while a witness in Fairview, N.J., said blue, red, orange and green flames appeared to be 50 to 100 feet long.

Reagan resting again

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — President Reagan, all smiles and handshakes while capping two days of politicking, resumed his vacation today with his attention diverted by U.S. troops in Lebanon and issues closer to home.

White House aides kept close watch on the situation in war-torn Beirut, where 800 U.S. Marines arrived early today as Reagan prepared to leave for his mountaintop ranch near Santa Barbara.

His Los Angeles stay was highlighted by campaigning for GOP candidates, socializing with fellow members of the California elite and tending to personal affairs that included a trip to the ear doctor for a longstanding appointment. Afterwards Reagan said "I feel fine."

Reagan, however, has eight operations with his left eye — a broken blood vessel. It was examined in recent days by a White House physician and a spokesman said Tuesday it should soon correct itself.

Shortly before attending a GOP political event Tuesday, Reagan cleared the way for U.S. peacekeeping troops to enter Beirut to join a multinational force in safeguarding the evacuation of Palestinian fighters.

New archbishop

Joseph L. Bernardin became the seventh archbishop of the Archdiocese of Chicago during an evening prayer service Tuesday. Bernardin, appointed by Pope John Paul II, gave his first homily in which he described himself as a "quite ordinary man."

Police took reports of an invasion from another planet with tongue in cheek.

"If it was a landing from outer space we're all in big trouble — including police," said a spokesman for the New York City Police Department, which was swamped with calls.

A Massachusetts state police dispatcher who missed the light show along the Eastern Seaboard from New York to Maryland, added his own details.

Granny put on probation

HOUSTON (UPI) — Despite a defense lawyer who dropped to his knees and begged for an acquittal, a jury of six men and six women found an 82-year-old grandmother guilty of growing marijuana in her vegetable garden.

Laura Ethel Clark, who argued she did not know the weeds growing alongside her tomatoes were marijuana, Tuesday was convicted of felony possession of 9 pounds of pot and ordered to serve two years' unsupervised probation.

"I'm surprised," Mrs. Clark said. "As many nice letters as I've gotten from people, I'm surprised."

Asked how it felt to be convicted felon at 82, she replied, "I don't like it one bit."

Jurors, who refused to discuss the verdict and said the law does not allow hearing final arguments in which defense attorney Bill Portis got on his knees and pleaded with them to find Mrs. Clark innocent.

District Judge Mike McSpadden told Mrs. Clark to call him "every couple of weeks or so and let me know what you're doing."

T-shirt test

The nose knows. So says Richard Porter, a psychologist at Vanderbilt University in Nashville, Tenn., in Omni magazine.

Porter believes the human sense of smell is inhibited but still sharp. To prove it, he had 12 pairs of siblings wear T-shirts to bed for three nights, storing them in plastic bags during the day to prevent contamination by others.

Of the 24 children, 19 could pick out their sibling's shirts by smell alone.

Porter also tested 10 mothers and eight fathers. All but two could tell their children's shirts apart.

"We found it a lot harder to get fathers to join the study," Porter said. "They didn't want to take it seriously. The mothers were intrigued by the idea."

Video violence

The National Coalition on Television Violence is spreading out into video games and finds 80 percent of the electronic games in arcades and 65 percent of the home video games are in the violent category.

NCTV chairman Dr. Thomas Radecki, a psychiatrist at Southern Illinois University, warned of the psychological impact of games like Atari's "Berzerk," saying, "In this game you're a stick figure with a handgun. The object is to kill as many other stick figures as possible before they kill you. This type of roleplaying practice is certain to have long-term harmful effects on the player."

Musical event

It comes as a shock to big band fans, but they no longer have a corner on the nostalgia market. Rock 'n' roll has been around long enough to grow its own nostalgic groups. That's what the producers of a Broadway show due to open in October are betting on.

It's called "Rock 'n' Roll: The First 5,000 Years," and with Dick Clark as consultant it plans to bring young performers onstage to deliver the music of Chuck Berry, Little Richard, Bill Haley and the Comets, Jerry Lee Lewis, Elvis Presley, Chubby Checker, the Beatles, Janis Joplin, Rolling Stones, The Who, The Doors, Elton John, Alice Cooper, David Bowie, Kiss, Pink Floyd and many more.

Congressman to resign

NEW YORK (UPI) — Rep. Fred Richmond, D-N.Y., who has been under investigation by a federal grand jury, will resign from Congress, NBC News reported.

A spokesman for Richmond refused to comment on the report and said only, "I don't know where they got it from. It's not from us."

Richmond has not been indicted on any charges, but NBC reporter James Foley said on the Early Today program that the Congressman agreed to a plea bargain arrangement. Richmond will plead guilty to tax violations today in federal court in Brooklyn as part of a deal with the Justice Department to drop the rest of its investigation, Foley said.

"Richmond will drop his reelection campaign," Foley said. "Sources say Richmond will announce his resignation from Congress later today."

Richmond, whose district covers a section of the borough of Brooklyn, had been campaigning for a fifth term even though he was under investigation by a federal grand jury examining a number of charges.

Federal law enforcement officials have confirmed reports the Justice Department was in the process of seeking an indictment against Richmond on an income tax charge as a result of the grand jury investigation.

Richmond's spokesman, Michael Kahane, said the congressman was in New York City but he did not know what his schedule was for today.

Tornadoes hit Midwest

At least six tornadoes swarmed across Illinois and Indiana as thunderstorms roared through the nation's breadbasket, triggering a traffic accident that killed two elderly women and destroying crops ready for harvest.

Three tornadoes were flung from the clouds over east central Illinois and another three twisters raged through central Indiana damaging houses and uprooting trees Tuesday.

Thunderstorms packing high winds raged across southern and southwest Ohio blowing down trees, trees and powerlines. A number of homes were left without power.

Another storm system in the Southwest touched off flash flooding in Yuma County, Ariz., and damaged a bridge near Gallup in western New Mexico.

Death well is sealed

TECATE, Mexico (UPI) — The well where eight people died from gas fumes was sealed today because of a relative of five of the victims, maddened by grief, tried to throw herself down the shaft and join them in death.

Fire Chief Alfonso Varona said Tuesday Ernestina Puga, 18, tried to jump into the well where her parents and three brothers died Sunday, killed by carbon monoxide fumes.

The only family members to survive were Miss Puga and three younger brothers, Mauro, 12, Janitilo, 11, and an unnamed 3-month-old baby.

A fireman and two would-be rescuers from a neighboring ranch also died in the tragedy. The eighth victim, Andres Portugal, 17, died Monday in Tijuana General Hospital.

Another rescuer killed by the lethal fumes at the bottom of the well, Eleazar Aceves, 35, survived and was discharged from the hospital Tuesday.

Mrs. Josefa Mammal Jasso, wife of the mayor of Tecate, a brewery and farming town near the California border, launched a fund drive Tuesday for the Puga children.

"It was just like a nightmare, except it was real," Varona said. "The people who died were unaware of the danger from carbon monoxide. They did not know they were committing suicide when they entered the well."

Cable TV unit to be revived

The Cable Television Advisory Committee may be revived, town Assistant General Manager Steven Werber told the Board of Directors Tuesday night.

The Democrats tabled their appointment to a vacancy on the committee. Democratic Director Stephen T. Cassano wondered if the committee actually does anything.

Werber said the panel has been inactive for a while, but that the local cable television company has asked that it be revived, so the company can meet state requirements for community input.

"They said they would carry the ball once the appointments are made," said Werber.

The Library Board and the Board of Education also have appointments to make to the Cable Television Advisory Committee.

Board of Directors rejects demolition notice ordinance

The Board of Directors Tuesday night rejected a request of the Manchester Historical Society for an ordinance requiring advance notice of the demolition of historical buildings.

The board removed the item from its agenda, effectively killing it. Although Republican Director Joan V. Lingard said he might try to research the need for such an ordinance and bring it up again later.

Under the ordinance, anyone who wanted to demolish a historic building would have to file public notice and wait 90 days.

"What is being suggested is what amounts to a cooling-off period," said town General Manager Robert S. Weiss. "It is not to prohibit it (the demolition) from happening, but it would give interested groups a chance to save the building."

Democratic Director Stephen T. Cassano said the ordinance was unnecessary, because demolition of public buildings requires public hearings, anyway.

But Democratic Mayor Stephen T. Penny said the ordinance would apply to privately-owned buildings, as well as public structures. He said the Historical Society had some concern, because some buildings with historical value have been demolished without anyone knowing about it.

He cited, as an example, one old north end home which once housed one of Manchester's original mill owners, which recently was torn down by Samuel Churches. Penny pointed out that Coventry

Mayor called into fray over who's studying building needs

By Paul Herdrie Herald Reporter

Mayor Stephen T. Penny was called upon Tuesday night to arbitrate a disagreement over jurisdiction between two Board of Directors subcommittees.

The disagreement arose over the question of which subcommittee should study the space needs of town departments, so decisions about capital improvements to the Municipal Building and the Hall of Records can be made.

Deputy Mayor Barbara B. Weinberg's budget subcommittee and Director Stephen T. Cassano's real estate committee both have sought jurisdiction over the capital improvements.

Disagreements between Democrats Cassano and Mrs. Weinberg — both considered interested in succeeding the mayor's office — were resolved in November to the state Senate — have become increasingly open at recent board meetings.

THE REAL ESTATE committee has been considering the use of proceeds from the sale of Backland Station to pay for capital improvements, like a proposed expansion of the Probate Court. Mrs. Weinberg argued that her committee should consider any capital improvements, because they would involve the expenditure of funds.

Both committees eventually agreed that an in-house study of town departments' space needs should be conducted by the board's

Barber determined to have revenge on insurance firm

By Raymond T. DeMeo Herald Reporter

It's a little bit like kicking the Rock of Gibraltar with a hand chisel, but Bob Fritz is determined to have his revenge on the Prudential Insurance Company of America.

Maybe you've never heard of Fritz, 40, of Andover, owner of Mister Haircut at 568 Center St. But chances are his son's 1972 diagnosis of the signs in his shop window that read "Think Twice Before You Buy Prudential" and "Watch Your Piece of the Rock Turn to Sand."

Fritz' gripe against the multi-million dollar insurer stems from Prudential's refusal to pay a claim Fritz submitted last September, under a medical insurance policy, to cover the costs of his son's visits to a psychologist.

FRITZ SAYS he bought the medical policy two years ago, just after his divorce. From a private insurance agent from West Hartford, Prudential did some checking on

DiRosa says it's impractical

The Board of Directors Tuesday night approved a 5-4 ordinance to require anyone spraying trees and shrubs for 400 months to notify all neighbors, tenants and beekeepers in the area 48 hours before spraying.

The ordinance passed over objections, raised chiefly by Republican Director Peter P. DiRosa Jr., that the measure is impractical.

DiRosa said a lot of people contract with companies to spray their properties for gypsy moths. He said these companies cannot accurately predict their schedules in advance.

"I talked to the company I do business with and, in my case, I have no idea when they're going to come and spray my property," said DiRosa, the board's Republican leader.

Democratic Mayor Stephen T. Penny said DiRosa's priorities were mixed-up.

"You're talking about a question of inconvenience," said Penny. "I'm talking about a concern for the public health."

Cheney parking request tabled

A decision on the Cheney Hall Board of Commissioners' request to allow a parking lot adjacent to the hall was tabled Tuesday night by the Board of Directors.

The board currently has control of the lot.

Democratic Director Stephen T. Cassano said his real estate committee had not had a chance to review the request, because committee members have been on vacation.

Directors displayed some reluctance about turning over the lot to the Cheney Hall Board of Commissioners.

"My recollection was that the parking lot was not included in

Well causes sinkhole at parking lot

By Raymond T. DeMeo Herald Reporter

There ain't no place like a hole in the ground — except when the ground is underneath your parking lot.

When that happens your nice flat parking lot turns into a ravine, as the businesses at 269 E. Center St. have discovered.

A couple of weeks ago a small hole opened up in the corner of the lot, in front of a building occupied by Tommy's Pizzeria and a Cumberland Farms store.

"It started out really small. The next thing we knew we had a crater," said Steve Laramie, manager at Tommy's.

David Livermore, manager of the Cumberland Farms store, said, "It looked for a while like the whole lot was going to cave in."

Last week a woman nearby backed her car into the widening crevice, according to Laramie. This week Cumberland Farms, which owns the lot, called in a contractor to do something about the problem.

Turns out that the hole got started when the soil underneath the asphalt got washed down into a dry well located about three feet underground, according to Livermore.

"We had the heavy rains of early June probably causing the erosion. The dry well apparently served as a trap for rain water. Now, contractors are ripping up the parking lot surface to fill the well with dirt, Livermore said.

"I just took my son this week for an asthma test and he's allergic to everything. I want to know what's being sprayed. I don't want my kids out there in that stuff."

"I think we're being over-protected," said Republican Director William J. Diana. Diana said the town should rely on common sense.

Water ban set in Glastonbury

An alternating water ban has been placed on homes in Glastonbury served by the Town of Manchester Water Department.

The ban — which covers lawn sprinkling, car washing and other activities that use large amounts of water — is in effect on Briarwood Drive, Knollwood Drive, Woodhaven Road, Brookhaven Road, Cedar Ridge Drive and Shady Hill Lane.

Under the ban, even-numbered houses can use their water without restriction on even-numbered days and odd-numbered houses on odd-numbered days.

The ban is in effect from 5 a.m. to 9 p.m.

A water department spokesman says the ban is needed because pumping facilities which serve this area are overloaded.

There is a risk of loss of water in higher elevations and possible pump burn-outs, when the entire area would lose pressure or water.

Nuclear freeze referendum OK'd; amendment fails

By Paul Herdrie Herald Reporter

The Board of Directors Tuesday night officially put a nuclear freeze referendum on November's ballot, but refused to go a step further and word the question so it would call for a reduction of nuclear weapons.

Democratic Director Stephen T. Cassano and Republican Director Joan V. Lingard attempted to amend the question so both a freeze on new weapons development and a reduction of current stockpiles would be advocated.

"I think that was the intent of the original resolution," said Cassano referring to the board's resolution in June which supported a weapon freeze.

Democratic Mayor Stephen T. Penny said the Cassano-Lingard move went beyond even what original freeze supporters sought.

"We give you an inch and you want a mile," said Penny.

The Cassano-Lingard amendment failed by a vote of 5-7.

Democratic Directors Arnold M. "Ike" Kleinschmidt and James F. "Dutch" Fogarty, who oppose the freeze, motioned to table the issue. That would have had the effect of keeping the referendum off the ballot, because the board's September meeting will be held after the legal deadline for adding referendum questions.

CHICAGO (UPI) — Piano lessons can help handicapped children develop self-confidence and a feeling of accomplishment, says a music professor and authority on music for special education.

In a booklet written for the National Piano Manufacturers Association, Marcelle Verazza says playing the piano is also an emotional stabilizer for the handicapped, an intellectual discipline, a motivation to use the hands, a creative experience, a socializing agent, a means of communication, and using time and a way to express pent-up emotions.

Nassiff's pessimism about Lebanon

Manchester Spotlight

By Rick Diamond — Herald Publisher

For the past month the conversation among the lunchtime regulars at the Olympia Deli, on Main Street around the corner from the Manchester Herald office, kept coming back to the Israeli-PLO confrontation in Lebanon. The ups and downs of the current peace talks were replaced by heated debates on the pros and cons of the Israeli invasion.

So two weeks ago when Salem Nassiff, proprietor of Nassiff Camera Shop and an occasional habitue of the deli, stuck his head briefly into the middle of one of our little debates to proclaim that we didn't know "the real facts about Lebanon," I decided to see if he could shed some light on the subject.

I knew that the 62-year-old Nassiff, who came to this country from Lebanon just before he was born, maintained close ties with his family's native land. His brother, Fred, owner of Nassiff Arms, is married to a Lebanese native and his sister Terry lived in Lebanon for a number of years.

AT THE SAME TIME, our daily discussions in the deli were an exercise in whine-spinning — the same arguments, usually picked up from pronouncements made by prominent spokesmen for either side, were hashed and rehashed without our gaining any new information or insight.

"The PLO posed a military threat to northern Israel with its heavy buildup of Soviet arms."

"Well, maybe, but the Israeli military response was disproportionate to the threat."

"There is no justification, whatsoever, for imposing large-scale casualties on an innocent civilian population by the repeated shelling of West Beirut."

"The Israelis tried to show restraint with precision bombing; the PLO inserted itself into the civilian population. Where was the world outcry when the PLO terrorized and murdered Lebanese civilians by the thousands when they moved into Lebanon?"

"There will be no lasting peace until the Palestinians are given their own homeland."

"Well, yes, but not at the expense of Israeli's security. When they had the West Bank (which was then part of Jordan) prior to the 1967 war, they continued their attacks in Israel. If the Palestinian nationalists weren't satisfied then, why will they be now?"

SO WITH THESE old arguments reeling back and forth, I thought perhaps Nassiff might have a fresh perspective. I spent a pleasant two hours chatting with him in his studio.

Nassiff is a friendly, soft-spoken individual, whose face is often creased with a sad smile, and his views were far from encouraging.

What he said was that he had no hope for the future in either Lebanon or the West Bank. The election of Bashir Gemayel is a disaster, it will only increase the divisions and strife already existing in that tragic, war-torn country.

Gemayel, the right-wing Christian militia leader, was elected president of Lebanon on Monday by the Lebanese parliament in an election boycotted by most of Lebanon's Moslem deputies.

While there were fears that the election of the 34-year-old firebrand might trigger a civil war between Christians and left-wing Moslems, some newspaper accounts seem to suggest that Gemayel, who has support among Israelis and moderate Arabs, might prove to be a unifying force in Lebanon.

When asked about this possibility, Nassiff scoffed. "The man's an animal. His private army slaughtered both Moslems and members of rival Christian factions. He will never seek a strong, democratic central government, only a favored, dominant role for the Maronite Christians."

While Lebanon's three million inhabitants are equally divided between Christian Arabs and Moslems, the Maronites, whose

The situation there is not a healthy one, the Israelis cannot continue to treat Arabs as second-class citizens. The Arabs have a long memory, and a growing population, so real security for Israel can only come with peace," cautioned Nassiff.

But, I pointed out, the Israelis claim they have been seeking peace with their Arab neighbors for 35 years and only Egypt has offered an olive branch.

"Let them try harder, the Arabs are changing," added Nassiff with his same sad smile.

Managua could be the start

WASHINGTON — Central America is a powder keg that could explode within the next few months. The impact could make El Salvador's civil war seem like a backwater disturbance.

The timebomb is Nicaragua, and the principal combatants would be the leftist Sandinista regime in Managua and their opponents in exile in neighboring Honduras. They have already had numerous bloody clashes.

There is grave danger these skirmishes could precipitate open conflict between Honduras and Nicaragua. The Honduran forces, armed with U.S. equipment, probably would have a military edge over the Sandinistas.

Nicaragua therefore might call on Cuba for help. The appearance of Cuban soldiers would be countered by increasing U.S. involvement. The Cubans, of course, rely on the Soviet Union for arms. This could bring a confrontation between the United States and the Soviet Union.

A PRINCIPAL catalyst in this explosive equation is Joe Francisco Cardenal, leader of the anti-Sandinista Nicaraguan Democratic Force. He is a former Nicaraguan businessman, popularly known as "Chicano," who organized opposition to the late dictator Anastasio Somoza. After Somoza's overthrow three years ago, Cardenal served briefly as vice president of the Sandinistas' Council of State.

In an interview with my associate Jon Lee Anderson, Cardenal said he quit his council post and took up arms in exile because "Marxist-Leninist elements had begun to monopolize what was supposed to be a council representative of all sectors of Nicaraguan society."

He said his force, which is already conducting guerrilla operations inside Nicaragua, is composed of patriots who want to rid their homeland of its Communist rulers. Cardenal admitted that his troops include former members of Somoza's detested National Guard. "We take anyone who comes to us as a Nicaraguan ready to fight," he explained. "We have ex-Guardians, sure — just like we have ex-Sandinistas."

The short, stocky exile leader, prematurely gray in his mid-40s, said he has 2,000 to 3,000 active fighters operating within Nicaragua's northern province, and claimed, "We have eight to ten thousand more waiting for the word inside Nicaragua. They are under training and waiting for the arms we shall get to them."

Cardenal says his guerrillas have modern weapons, including machineguns, bazookas and shoulder-held guided-missile launchers. He hopes to have surface-to-air missiles soon.

"One doesn't negotiate with the communists," he declared. "You don't win a war by talking — you win it by killing, and that is what we are doing, every day, inside Nicaragua. We will triumph, too. We will have Managua in six months."

HOW CAN HE be so confident? There are whispers that Cardenal is the principal beneficiary of the reported $19 million in covert CIA funds that President Reagan approved to destabilize Nicaragua. Cardenal denies this.

Cardenal denies this. He says the U.S. government to help us with political pressure. The CIA could help us by relaying information back to Washington. But their direct involvement would hurt more than help us because of their bad reputation in Latin America.

He would not specify the amounts and sources of his arms supplies, other than "several Latin American countries." Sandinista diplomats in Washington say Cardenal — and other elite groups — are getting their arms and funds directly from the Honduran military.

A Honduran official in Washington insisted that his country is taking a neutral position between the contending Nicaraguan groups.

Technology sale ban upheld

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan's ban on the sale of U.S. pipeline technology to the Soviet Union was bolstered by a federal judge who refused to let the government from penalizing a Dallas firm and its French subsidiary for violating the order.

"We are pleased the U.S. District Court has ordered the Dresser Co. to follow the laws and procedures of the United States," Commerce Secretary Malcolm Baldrige said in a statement.

U.S. District Judge Thomas Flannery said Tuesday Dresser Industries failed to show it could suffer "irreparable damage" if he did not issue a temporary restraining order.

Dresser went to court after the French government, in a direct challenge to U.S. policy, ordered Dresser France to deliver three compressors and complete manufacture of 18 more ordered by the Soviets for a natural-gas pipeline under construction from the Soviet Union to West Germany.

Flannery said Dresser's case involved major foreign policy considerations and he could not block the administration with a temporary order on the basis of evidence presented to him.

The judge said the company could appeal administratively to the Commerce Department. Dresser attorneys indicated they are considering taking the case to the U.S. Court of Appeals in the District of Columbia.

Dresser's attorney John Vanderstar argued his company does not intend "to deny the foreign policy objectives of the United States" but is caught in "a terrible jam" between conflicting directives from Washington and Paris.

Asking the court to block Baldrige and other top government officials from acting against the firm, Vanderstar said penalties would violate international law and due process of law under the Fifth Amendment.

Attorney Richard Willard, representing the government, said "we believe the president acted properly" in issuing his ban, one of the sanctions he imposed in retaliation for the Soviet role in political repression in Poland.

"It is the discretion of the president and the secretary of commerce to impose these types of restrictions," Willard said.

Reagan prohibited the transfer of technology for the pipeline by U.S. firms or foreign firms manufacturing equipment under U.S. license. A bill pending in Congress to overturn the ban, which has severely strained relations with America's Western European allies and is opposed by U.S. businessmen.

Baldrige, Secretary of State George Shultz, Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger and other top-level administration officials met at the State Department Tuesday to consider Reagan's options for responding to the French challenge.

It was not clear what action the government might take against Dresser but it could include criminal penalties, civil, or administrative measures. One step would be to place Dresser France on a "denial list," prohibiting it from receiving goods or data from the United States.

But if Dresser fails to carry out the terms of its contract with the Soviets, it also could face substantial criminal penalties under its contract with Moscow.

Dresser France delivered the three compressors, manufactured under license from the General Electric Co., to the French port of Le Havre Tuesday.

No thaw in Cold War between town, Soviets

GLEN COVE, N.Y. (UPI) — The City Council again told Moscow "nyet," voting not to lift a ban barring Soviet diplomats from using the town's beaches, tennis courts and golf course.

Mayor Alan Parente said the council voted, 5-1, Tuesday to retain the ban until the chief elements of a settlement are agreed on.

The dissenting vote came from Councilman Donald De Ruggi, who has always contended the mini-Cold War is a waste of time.

"We can compete very well with the Russians militarily, economically, scientifically and surveillance-wise, but we can't compete with them in the area of petty nastiness," he said.

Under the plan worked out in Washington last week, the State Department is to negotiate with Moscow on a fee for municipal recreational passes used by residents of a Soviet diplomatic compound located on a 40-acre Glen Cove estate.

Rep. John LaBoutillier, R-N.Y., promised to introduce a bill providing for a $100,000 annual payment to compensate the Long Island Sound community for taxes lost because of the estate's diplomatic immunity.

"It has been my position and I believe it is the position of the (other) council members who voted for the ban, not to raise the ban or lift the ban at this time," Parente said after the vote.

The council imposed the ban in early May because of reports the 49-room mansion belonging to the Soviet Mission to the United Nations was a spy nest filled with electronic equipment used to eavesdrop on Long Island's defense industry. Officials also were concerned because the Soviets paid no taxes.

Cameras barred from Gates trial

HARTFORD (UPI) — Connecticut's one-year experiment with cameras in the courtroom was being derailed for the first time with the refusal of the judge in the Larry Gates murder trial to allow photos or film.

Hartford Superior Court Judge Thomas H. Corrigan said Tuesday some of the charges against Gates might fall in the sexual offense category — which are excluded in the order allowing televised trials beginning June 1.

Gates, 20, is charged with the June 17, 1980, kidnap and murder of his Glastonbury neighbor, Elizabeth Hart, 29, and her 14-month-old son, Thomas. His trial is scheduled to start Sept. 8.

Chief Assistant State's Attorney Robert Meyers and lawyers representing newspapers and television stations covering the trial argued the clause on sexual offense charges was intended to protect from embarrassment living victims of sexual offenders.

The argument, Corrigan conceded, "is persuasive," but "the charges may fall within the designation of a sexual offense charge."

Gates' lawyer, Maxwell Heiman, of Bristol, said if Corrigan had allowed television cameras in the courtroom he would have used the ruling in an appeal to the state Supreme Court should Gates be convicted.

Heiman is president of the Connecticut Bar Association and tried to block the experiment with televised trials.

Corrigan, in a separate ruling, refused to move the trial to southern Fairfield County, despite Heiman's claim that extensive pre-trial publicity precluded a fair trial.

"There was no attempt by the news media to create guilt nor dwell on punishment," Corrigan said. "The court did not find the publicity to be inflammatory or discriminatory."

Gates is being held at the Hartford Correctional Center on $500,000 bond.

DiFazio is close to qualifying for ballot

HARTFORD (UPI) — A last minute entry in Connecticut's U.S. Senate race says he's close to winning a spot on the ballot as the candidate of the newly formed Conservative Party.

Wethersfield attorney Lucien P. DiFazio said with one week to go, he is within 1,500 and 2,000 signatures of the 13,841 needed to qualify for the November ballot.

DiFazio was picked for the third party effort by conservatives upset with the two major party candidates — Sen. Lowell Weicker, R-Conn., and Rep. Toby Moffett, D-Conn., the Democratic nominee.

"We're very close," DiFazio said as he prepared to file more voter signatures with the Secretary of the State's Office Tuesday.

Candidates seeking to petition their way onto the ballot had until Tuesday to file the petitions with the Secretary of the State's Office but have until next Tuesday to file them with local town clerks.

DiFazio said 163 people are collecting signatures and he hoped to exceed the required number by 60 percent as "insurance" against signatures being invalidated.

The former unsuccessful GOP congressional candidate, who is backed by the National Conservative Political Action Committee, repeated his candidacy as well as Republicans.

NCPAC has pledged to have $500,000 or more available and waiting for DiFazio's campaign if he makes the ballot.

DiFazio said he had no intention of running for the GOP Senate nomination, said Monday DiFazio had no chance of winning and the Conservative Party effort was "one of the most important" goals of NCPAC.

The latest game, billed as "Win for Life," will consist of a total of 18 million, $1 tickets that will yield 2.7 million winners a total of $9.7 million in prizes.

The chances to win the nine top prizes are a slim 1-in-32 million while 40 prizes of $10,000 each will be available at odds of one-in-400,000.

Another 140 prizes of $1,000 will be available at odds of 1-in-122,000. The rest of the pot is divided among winners of $5, $5, $10 and $50.

Under no circumstances am I in this just to scuttle the candidacy of Lowell Weicker," said DiFazio, adding he wanted just as much to "scuttle" Moffett's bid.

Prescott Bush Jr., who withdrew a challenge to Weicker for the GOP Senate nomination, said Monday DiFazio had no chance of winning and the Conservative Party effort was "one of the most important" goals of NCPAC.

DiFazio said he can win by, like President Reagan did in Connecticut's 1980 presidential election, drawing votes from Democrats and unaffiliated voters as well as Republicans.

Rome didn't mean he'd cut UConn budget

HARTFORD (UPI) — Republican gubernatorial candidate Lewis Rome now says he doesn't know whether, if elected governor, he would recommend that the University of Connecticut control its own budget.

Rome, expanding Tuesday on statements he made in an interview televised Sunday, also said he didn't mean to say he would cut the university's budget if he defeats Gov. William O'Neill in the November election.

Rome made his comments after a group of student leaders from the state's public colleges met with reporters to discuss his comments in the weekend show.

Appearing on WFSB-TV's "Face the State" program, Rome said he spoke with UConn President John A. DiBiaggio and was told UConn could operate with a smaller state allocation if it had autonomy over its budget.

DiBiaggio said later Rome apparently misunderstood his position. He said he had said that increases in state allocations to UConn would not have to increase as much if the university had control over how money was spent.

Rome conceded Tuesday he may have misunderstood DiBiaggio, but believed it had become irrelevant.

"The emphasis, my words, were inartfully done by me and inappropriately, in my judgment, reflect the views that I have consistently had on higher education and the university," Rome said.

"For emphasis he was saying we don't probably get along with less but can't expect that I'm going to suggest that we need less or should have less."

Miss Foster, 19, who attracted Hinckley in her role as a child prostitute in the film "Taxi Driver," took a leave of absence in December 1981 and has been filming a CBS-TV movie, "Svengali," with co-star Peter O'Toole.

She will start her fourth semester at Yale as an English Literature major.

Yale is prepared to provide protection for Miss Foster if it is needed, a university spokesman said.

Norstrand blames Demos for tax break law snafu

HARTFORD (UPI) — Democratic legislators are responsible for the paltry number of applications under the new Neighborhood Assistance Act, which gives corporations tax breaks for municipal improvement projects, a GOP leader says.

House Republican Leader R. E. Van Norstrand of Darien said Tuesday only six of the state's 169 municipalities applied for the $1 million program because the Department of Revenue Services hasn't boned up on procedures.

The deadline for municipalities to submit possible projects, including crime prevention, job training, environmental programs, and community services, is Sept. 1.

One month ago, corporations can select a project to fund from a screened list and qualify for tax credits of 20 percent to 70 percent, or up to $100,000.

Van Norstrand said his office is getting calls from city and town officials who want to meet the Sept. 1 deadline, "but who conceivably might fail to do so because the Department of Revenue Services cannot provide responsive and timely answers to the inquiries which are made."

The Legislature passed the new law at the close of its 1982 session in June.

Eight injured in chemical plant fire

SOUTHINGTON (UPI) — A federal environmental suit is pending against a chemical recycling plant in Southington which exploded into flames and later injured eight of 70 firefighters battling the blaze.

A degreaser in a vat at Solvents Recovery Service of New England Inc. exploded about 6 p.m. Tuesday, sending thick, black smoke spewing from the plant. The degreaser, trichloroethylene, is considered hazardous.

Firefighters wore breathing equipment to protect themselves from vapors released in the explosion. The eight injured were treated at Bradley Memorial Hospital for minor chemicals burns and cuts and released.

Three employees were working outside the plant when the explosion occurred and were not injured.

The two-alarm blaze was brought under control 30 minutes after it was reported. The cause of the explosion is being investigated. The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency filed suit against the New Jersey-based company in 1976, claiming it dumped hazardous wastes into unlined lagoons on plant property between 1967 and 1967.

The EPA said Southington closed three of the wells that supply the town with drinking water because the wastes contaminated part of the water supply. The suit is still pending.

Fire and electrical standards at the plant were criticized last fall when firefighters from Haverhill, Mass., toured the plant.

Demo officials back Tashjian over Hendel

Manchester Democratic elected officials have endorsed Julia Tashjian — the convention's nominee for secretary of the state — for Sept. 7 primary against challenger Patricia Hendel. Democratic Town Chairman Theodore R. Cummings announced this morning that Mayor Stephen T. Penny, Deputy Mayor Barbara B. Weinberg, Directors James R. McCavanagh, Arnold M. "Ike" Kleinschmidt, Stephen T. Casano and James P. "Dutch" Fogarty, Town Clerk Edward J. Tomkiet, Town Treasurer Roger M. Negro and Registrar of Voters Herbert J. Stevenson all back Mrs. Tashjian. Cummings said he and state central committee member John J. Sullivan also endorse Mrs. Tashjian. Sullivan said the Manchester endorsements are the first in a series around the state. He said elected officials in at least two large cities will be announcing public support for Mrs. Tashjian soon.

Guglielmo tells income

Republican District congressional candidate Anthony Guglielmo today released his 1981 tax return, and called upon his incumbent opponent, Democrat Sam Gejdenson, to be "equally up front with the taxpayers of this district." Guglielmo reportedly made $83,146 in 1981 running his insurance business, and paid one third, $27,654, to Uncle Sam. "I'm proud of the fact I've worked hard to make my small business in Stafford a success," he said in a news release issued today. "I think that says something about the kind of person I am." Gejdenson's spokesman could not be reached for comment today.

Cheney Hall restoration cost estimate is doubled

The cost of the restoration of Cheney Hall is now being estimated at $1 million — twice the original estimate for the work. That $1-million figure is the opinion of William Bayer, a consulting engineer who has donated his services to the restoration effort, and his consultants, according to Mary Blish, head of the committee which is raising money for the renovation. Mrs. Blish said the figure is still preliminary but it appears to be more accurate than the original $500,000 estimate done last fall. The price doubled partly because damage to the structure was more extensive than anticipated and because costs of having the work done are increasing, Mrs. Blish said. An actual estimate of the cost of the work will not be available until an architect is hired, she added. A committee of the Manchester Community College Foundation's regional performing arts center to $500 for tools for the senior citizen center — that add up to $6.3 million.

Police make two arrests
COVENTRY — Police Tuesday lodged a sexual assault against one man and an arson charge against another unrelated individual, they said today. James B. Campbell, 25, of Dunn Road was charged with third-degree sexual assault, unlawful restraint and third-degree assault. Police said the charges stem from a complaint filed July 18 by a woman who allegedly was held at Campbell's home where the alleged sexual assault happened. He was released after posting $5,000 bond, police said, and was ordered to appear in Tolland County Superior Court Sept. 14. Charged with third-degree arson Tuesday was Harry R. Hamilton, 20, of 1121 North River Road, police said. The arrest, they said, followed an investigation into a fire at a vacant house on Carpenter Road and Broadway recently. He was released on a written promise to appear in court Sept. 14.

Open on weekend

Connecticut's leading amateurs and golf professionals will be in this vicinity Saturday and Monday to take part in the 36th Manchester Open at the Manchester Country Club. Approximately 350 players are expected for the two-day play, which is limited to amateurs on Saturday and pros on Monday. Defending champion is Chuck Lasher, who defeated amateur Dave Kays of the host club and fellow pro Joe Benevento and Jeff Hadley in a playoff after the foursome each registered a three-under par 69 round. Manchester Racquet Club's official indoor season opening will be Sept. 12. Fred Dan Kennedy and Bonnie Castellan will be assisted by Tom Rodden and Phil Hyde. Julius Boros, winner of the Manchester Golf Open in 1956, remarked after his recent heart surgery, "When they cut me open, they found five arteries that needed to be bypassed. Since the price for five was the same as for three, they did them all." The former Connecticut pro has been picking up some easy money on the PGA veterans' tour. A number of the veterans are pulling down bigger purses than they did during their biggest years on the regular PGA tour 15-20 years ago. Bob Toski, another former Manchester Open champ (1953), in Golf Digest had this to say about Tom Weiskopf, "Some of Weiskopf's problems stem from his admiration of Tommy Bolt. The two of them are a lot alike. You can only control what your ball is doing, not what your opponent's ball is doing. Bolt never accepted this. It looks like Weiskopf can't, either." Both golfers have explosive tempers.

Back in 1946 while playing American Legion ball, Berra was sitting on the ground with his legs wrapped around each other, yogi style. Bobby Hoffman, a teammate, took a look at Lawrence — as Berra was called in those days — and said, "He looks like a yogi." From that day on, Berra became Yogi to the world as a player with the Yankees, then as manager with both the Yanks and New York Mets and now as a coach with the New York American Leaguers. What ever happened to Hoffman? He played seven years with the New York Giants and is now director of scouting for the New York Yankees.

Johnson to speak at shrine dinner

New role will be occupied by Gene Johnson when he assumes the role as speaker at the third annual Manchester Sports Hall of Fame induction dinner Sept. 17 at the Army & Navy Club. The former professional baseball player who has guided Moriarty Brothers' entry in the Greater Hartford Twilight League for more than two decades to one regular season and playoff title after another will be the key speaker. Johnson, a three-sports letter-winner in high school, signed a pro contract shortly after graduating from Manchester High. After a half dozen years in the minors, he came back home and is an automobile salesman at Moriarty Brothers. He's as much at home on the data as on the ball field and the committee feels elated that he'll help boost the industry. Scheduled for induction are Dick Danielson, highly successful soccer coach at Manchester High for three decades, nationally-known distance runner Dr. Charlie Robbins and the late Sam Massey, an outstanding all-around athlete and former coach. A special honor will go to John Phelps for his efforts over the years in helping the youth of Manchester. He's the second to be named for the Unusung Award. Tickets are available from Nate Agostinelli at the Manchester State Bank, Henry McCann and the Herald sports desk. A prime roast beef dinner will be served at 7 following a happy hour.

Perry's next pitch in own defense

SEATTLE (UPI) — Gaylord Perry's next pitch will be his own defense. The Seattle Mariners' pitcher, who was suspended 10 days and fined $250 by American League president Lee MacPhail Tuesday for allegedly throwing an "illegal pitch," plans to appeal the action.

"It's a joke, I didn't do anything wrong," Perry said Tuesday.

In addition to his appeal, Perry said he would file a complaint about the officiating of home plate umpire Dave Phillips, in hopes Phillips and his whole crew would officiate no more Mariner games this season. "He will have his day in court," Perry said.

Perry was charged with violating official baseball rule 2.10 and was suspended for 10 days and fined $250 as the result of his ejection from Monday night's game against the Boston Red Sox in the Kingdom. The 49-year-old right-hander was warned about throwing illegal pitches in the fifth inning when home plate umpire Dave Phillips, who said he found a "foreign substance" on the ball. A second violation prompted Perry's ejection in the

Henderson swipes two more bases, umpire calls him out on third try

By Mark Friedman
UPI Sports Writer

On the verge of breaking Lou Brock's record, Ricky Henderson is getting more attention these days for the bases he fails to steal. Henderson swiped two bases in the first inning of Oakland's 3-0 victory over Detroit Tuesday, leaving him one short of Brock's record of 118 set in 1974. But an unsuccessful attempt in the eighth inning prompted two ejections and an angry prediction from Tigers manager Sparky Anderson.

"The integrity of the game has been tainted," said Anderson. "Fred Stanley got picked off intentionally. I guarantee he's going to get the biggest fine ever assessed. This was worse than the Black Sox scandal."

Stanley, trying to give Henderson an opportunity to tie or break Brock's record, let off the eighth with a walk and Henderson followed with a single, advancing Stanley to second, where he became an easy San Francisco target as he tried to steal and was caught. With Wayne Gross at bat, Henderson tried for the steal and in a close play, he was called out by umpire Durwood Merrill. Television replays showed Henderson beat the tag by shortstop Alan Trammell, who took a hard throw from catcher Bill Fahey on a pickoff.

"He doesn't know what he's talking about," Oakland manager Billy Martin said of Anderson. "I had the double-steal sign on. Stanley didn't get picked off on purpose."

"It was very close, but I know I was safe," said Henderson. "Of course, I'm disappointed, but the umpires are trying to do the best they can."

Following the eighth inning, both Martin and Dwayne Murphy were ejected from the game for continuing the argument on the call at second base. Almost forgotten were the two steals by Henderson in the first inning, triggering a three-run uprising that opened and closed the scoring. The 23-year-old Henderson, playing in his fourth major-league season, walked in the opening inning, stole second and after Gross walked, the two worked a double steal.

Henderson scored the game's first run on a wild pitch, with Gross moving to third. Murphy also walked and stole second before Tony Armas grounded out to score Gross. Murphy advanced to third on the play and scored on a sacrifice fly by Dan Meyer.

In other AL games, it was Cleveland 14, Chicago 7; Baltimore 7, Toronto 5; Minnesota 5, New York 0; Kansas City 5, Texas 3; Milwaukee 7, California 3; and Boston 5, Seattle 4 in 12 innings.

At Cleveland, Andre Thornton drove in four runs and Mike Hargrove knocked in three with a pair of doubles. Rick Watts, who had not posted a victory at home since Aug. 29th of last year, came on in the third inning to notch his second victory against 12 losses.

At Baltimore, Joe Nolan hit a grand slam with two out in the 10th inning off Joey McLaughlin and Dennis Martinez fired a four-hitter for the Orioles. Martinez, 12-10, who walked one and struck out five.

In other AL games, Texas Hal McEhee drove in three runs and John Wathan became the all-time base stealing catcher with his 31st theft to boot Kansas City. Larry Garraway survived six innings to raise his record to 15-8. Dan Quisenberry went the last three innings in recording his 11th save.

Brewers 7, Angels 3

At Anaheim, Calif., Ted Simmons and Robin Yount each cracked a home run and Pete Vuckovich pitched his 15th victory with a seven-hitter. It was the fifth straight victory for Vuckovich, 15-4, who walked five and struck out five.

Bright spot for lowly Cubs Buckner on hot streak

By Fred McMane
UPI Sports Writer

BILL Buckner playing for the Chicago Cubs is almost certainly working with house painters.

Buckner, a smooth-talking first baseman, somehow seems out of place with the lowly Cubs, who are perennially fighting to stay out of the National League East cellar.

But in the few months since the major leagues who possess the skills of Buckner, but his contributions are sometimes lost among the ruins of many losses.

Buckner has been the hottest batter in the NL during the month of August and the San Francisco Giants can testify to that.

After knocking out a perfect 4-0 against the Giants Monday, Buckner drove in four runs, including three with a homer that capped a five-run second inning, to lead the Cubs to an 8-4 victory over the Giants Tuesday and hand San Francisco its fourth straight loss.

Buckner, who also signed in a run in the seventh to increase his August production to 31 RBI, now has driven in 85 runs in the year and has raised his batting average to .307.

Buckner also hit into two double plays Tuesday but wasn't complaining.

"I'll hit into two double plays any day if I can drive in four runs," said

Wathan rewarded simple

Dickie Tson led off the eighth with a single off loser Mike Scott, 7-11, and was sacrificed to second by Terry Puhl before Garner delivered his game-winning hit.

At Pittsburgh, Tony Pena's two-out, 11th inning single with the bases loaded scored Jerry Roster, who gave the Pirates their victory. Bill Madlock hit a solo homer in the ninth for Pittsburgh to tie the score 5-5. Steto Lezcano hit a two-run homer for San Diego.

At Cincinnati, Scott Sanderson scattered nine hits in snapping a personal seven-game losing streak. He struck out two and walked one in hurling his fifth complete game of the year.

At Atlanta, the Braves won their sixth in a row behind the power-hitting of Jerry Roster, Dale Murphy and Bob Horner, who combined for three home runs and three doubles. Atlanta erupted for seven runs and eight hits in 3-2-3 innings against Steve Carlton, 16-4, who suffered only his second loss in his last 11 decisions. Garry Maddox and Ivan DeJesus homered for Philadelphia.

Wathan, who before this year had never stolen more than 17 bases in a single season, swiped his 31st base Tuesday night in the ninth inning of Kansas City's 5-3 victory over the Texas Rangers. The night before he had equaled the all-time major league stolen base mark for catchers—first set in 1916 by the Chicago White Sox' Ray Schalk.

With his team leading 3-2, Wathan started the seventh with a single. Two outs later he was on second base, with the count 1-2 on U.L. Washington. Wathan set off for third base and he made it easily.

"I usually don't like to try to steal third with two outs," said Wathan, 32, who is in his seventh season with the Royals. "But manager Dick Howser has always stressed that with two out you can get people moving around and because U.L. is a pull hitter he might be able to drive one past the third baseman."

Before the dust had settled around third base from Wathan's slide, a member of the Rangers' ground crew ran onto the field carrying a base. Texas manager Don Wakelin commented before the game that if Wathan set the record, he should get the base as a reward.

"It surprised me to see to guys coming out there," said Wathan, who claimed the record despite having missed five weeks of the season with an ankle injury. "I thought if we were at home they might have had a little ceremony when they set the record. I'm glad it's mine. I know what to expect on the road."

When the ground crew member started trying to lift third base out of the hole in which it sat, he struggled and struggled and it would not budge. Finally umpire-chief came over and started kicking the bag.

"I told them to forget it," said Wathan. "I asked them to wait until after the game. But Halter said I deserved it and I should get it." It was nice of him to say that.

It was nothing' Among the members at the Manchester Country Club to register a hole-in-one this season was Herold Criffell. It was the first for the well-known Manchester businessman.

At Cleveland, Andre Thornton drove in four runs and Mike Hargrove knocked in three with a pair of doubles. Rick Watts, who had not posted a victory at home since Aug. 29th of last year, came on in the third inning to notch his second victory against 12 losses.

At Baltimore, Joe Nolan hit a grand slam with two out in the 10th inning off Joey McLaughlin and Dennis Martinez fired a four-hitter for the Orioles. Martinez, 12-10, who walked one and struck out five.

In other AL games, it was Cleveland 14, Chicago 7; Baltimore 7, Toronto 5; Minnesota 5, New York 0; Kansas City 5, Texas 3; Milwaukee 7, California 3; and Boston 5, Seattle 4 in 12 innings.

Nichols leads RSox second night in row

SEATTLE (UPI) — As far as the Seattle Mariners can figure, Field "Nicks" Nichols is the reincarnation of Babe Ruth.

The Boston outfielder belted a solo homer in the 12th inning, his homer of the evening, to lift the Red Sox to a 5-4 victory Tuesday night in the Kingdom.

It was Nichols' third home run in two games against the Mariners and the second game-winning homer in his career. The 165-pound Nichols has five major league home runs — four of them have come against Seattle in the Kingdome.

"I thought the pitch I hit down the line (for his first home of the night) was a good pitch," Nichols said. "I was in four and the other one was just a medium high fastball."

Tom Burgmeier, 7-0, picked up the victory after giving up just three hits in four and two innings of work as Boston's third pitcher.

The Mariners' starter, Steve Largent, pitched his fourth straight loss as he was struck out by a batter in the ninth inning.

Other second-round winners included No. 7 Barbara Potter of Woodbury, Conn., who won a battle of hard-hitters with a 6-4, 7-5 triumph of Andrea Tesevsky; Iva Budrova of Czechoslovakia, who topped 18-year-old Barbara Gerken of Thousand Oaks, Calif., 6-3, 6-3; and Kathy Jordan of King of Prussia, Pa., who struggled to a 6-7, 7-5 victory over Elise Burgin of Baltimore.

Ex-Giant Kotor fights for life

NEWARK, N.J. (UPI) — Doug Kotor, the former running back of the New York Giants, was always the kind of player to fight for every yard during his eight years in the NFL.

Now he's fighting for his life.

Kotor, 31, the fourth-leading rusher in Giants' history behind Alex Stewart, Ron Johnson and Frank Gifford, underwent an eight-hour operation Tuesday for removal of a brain tumor. Doctors were unable to remove the tumor because it is too close to "vital areas" of the brain.

At the Giants' afternoon practice at Pace University in Pleasantville, N.Y., Coach Ray Perkins asked the team to gather on the field and kneel.

Many of the team, when first told of Kotor's condition last Saturday after an exhibition game, wept openly in the locker room.

"It all happened so fast," said Sloan said Tuesday — possibly radiation, chemotherapy or antibiotics — would depend on the biopsy results.

Before the operation, Sloan described Kotor's "naturally, very scared."

The 6-foot-1, 235-pound back was a runner who consistently gave second and third efforts. His slashing style was characterized by fine balance and the ability to break tackles for long gains after being stopped at scrimmage. He rarely went out of bounds, choosing instead to dive for the extra yard.

Kotor, who played halfback and fullback, retired July 23 with 3,380 yards. He played just seven games over the previous two years because of a knee injury and separated shoulder.

The Giants acquired Kotor, who attended the University of Kentucky, as a free agent from Pittsburgh in July 1974. He finished first or second among the club's rushing leaders for the next six years.

He suffered a season-ending knee injury in the final exhibition game in 1980 and was sidelined for the final nine games last year with a shoulder separation.

Hanika, Shriver advance

MAHWAH, N.J. (UPI) — Pam Shriver, Sylvia Hanika and Bettina Bunge scored straight set victories Tuesday to advance to the third round of a $100,000 women's tennis championship.

The tournament is sponsored by Volvo.

Shriver, the No. 4 seed sidelined since Wimbledon with a shoulder injury, defeated England's Jo Durie 6-4, 6-3. It was the first match of the tournament for the 20-year-old from Lutherville, Md., who received a first-round bye.

No. 5 Hanika fell behind 2-4 in the second set but recovered for a 6-7, 5-7 triumph over Rema Tomovska of Czechoslovakia. The West German has had much success since handing Martina Navratilova her only defeat of the year last March in the finals of a tournament in New York.

Bunge, the 18-year-old No. 6 seed from Coral Gables, Fla., outlasted Peam Louie of San Francisco 6-1, 6-3.

In the day's lone upset, No. 8 Mima Jausovec of Yugoslavia started well but fell before the aggressive play of qualifier Beth Norton of Fairfield, Conn., 4-6, 6-3, 6-1.

Other second-round winners included No. 7 Barbara Potter of Woodbury, Conn., who won a battle of hard-hitters with a 6-4, 7-5 triumph of Andrea Tesevsky; Iva Budrova of Czechoslovakia, who topped 18-year-old Barbara Gerken of Thousand Oaks, Calif., 6-3, 6-3; and Kathy Jordan of King of Prussia, Pa., who struggled to a 6-7, 7-5 victory over Elise Burgin of Baltimore.

NFL training camps Cribbs flees Bills, claims free agency

By United Press International

Buffalo Bills' All-Pro running back Joe Cribbs has fled the corral.

Cribbs proclaimed himself a free agent after negotiations with the Bills failed and says he is accepting offers from other NFL teams, a Buffalo newspaper reported Tuesday.

In a telephone conversation with the Buffalo Evening News from Suitland, Minn., Cribbs said he feels he has been "material breach" of his contract, which allows Cribbs to become a free agent.

The Bills refused to renegotiate after the July 15 deadline, when the collective bargaining agreement between the league and the NFL Players Association expired. The Bills maintain that a resumption of talks would leave them open to an unfair labor practice charge by the union.

Cribbs, who has played in the Pro Bowl his first two seasons, and was in need of my services and are going to be interested in," he said.

But Jim Miller of the NFL Management Council said, "there is no NFL team that is going to bid for Joe Cribbs."

There are 28 teams in the NFL and all the other players were waived by Atlanta. The Falcons also placed three players on injured reserve.

McElroy linebacker Mark Jerie, and waived two others.

Cornerback Holland Lawrence and eight other players were waived by Atlanta. The Falcons also placed three players on injured reserve, while running back Eddie Meyers and cornerback Willie Douglas were placed on military reserve.

Baltimore cut 21 players, including wide receiver Dave Stupac and Miami Dolphins coach Don Shula. Other cuts included center Tony Berryhill, a ninth-round draft choice from Clemson and safety Tom Deery, a 10th-round pick from Widener College.

Miami activated wide receiver Mel Moore, fullback Woody Bennett and reserve cornerback Eddie Taylor. Starter cornerback Don McNeal also began work Tuesday for the first time after injuring his ribs Aug. 6.

Pittsburgh released two rookies and placed three players on the injured reserve list. The Steelers cut tight end Mike Hirt, a ninth-round draft choice out of Michigan, and wide receiver Bill Evans, a free agent out of West Virginia.

Cleveland cut wide receiver Ron McCall and running back Phil Blatcher.

Coupon clipper shows how $37 in groceries for just $3.40?

By Adele Angle
Focus Editor

The checkout clerk at the A & P, 1135 Tolland Turnpike, was clearly impressed.

"Wow, that's the way to use coupons," he said shaking his head in amazement.

Lynn Walnum, 27, of 503 E. Center St. had just bought three bulging bags of groceries — $37.50 worth — for $3.40.

"A & P probably lost money on me this week," said Mrs. Walnum, as she backed her grandmother's LTD out of the A & P parking lot last week.

Yes, that's $33.10.

"A & P probably lost money on me this week," said Mrs. Walnum, as she backed her grandmother's LTD out of the A & P parking lot last week.

Here are figures

To compute how Mrs. Walnum came up with her $3.40 grocery tab on items totaling $37.50, she used the amount on the coupons. That's because the store she stopped at was offering double coupons.

Remember that coupons are not good for more than the original price of the product. If you have a coupon worth $1 for an item marked 99 cents, you will not get seven cents back.

Here's glossary of terms

Refund: you send in a proof of purchase and the company sends you back coupons, cash or merchandise.

Coupon: there are a couple of different kinds.

One type is a regular manufacturer's coupon you cut out of the newspaper or magazine. The manufacturer reimburses the store for the amount of money the coupon is worth.

Manufacturer's coupons may be cashed at any store which carries the merchandise. For example, if you have a manufacturer's coupon for Wisk detergent, you may cash it at a chain discount store like Bradlees or at a supermarket.

When a store doubles the coupon, they pick up that second part of the coupon. For example, a Duncan Hines coupon is 25 cents off. So the makers pay the store back 25 cents. The store, if it's doubling coupons, has to pick up the remaining 25 cents.

Store coupons: the store puts these coupons into its newspaper or magazine. These coupons generally can only be used in one particular store.

Triple play: that's when you take a coupon out of a newspaper or magazine. You buy the product at a store that's doubling the coupons. Then you take the qualifier box top or label, send that in, and the company sends you back money, merchandise or more coupons.

Here is the method

Yes, there's a method to her madness.

"One of my rules of thumb is I don't buy things I don't need," said 27-year-old Lynn Walnum of 503 E. Center St. "Unless it's for free. Then I buy it," she quickly added.

"You can look very generous doing coupons and refunds," she said. For example, she routinely gives the small jars of Maxwell House coffee which she can get for free with double coupons to her grandmother. She doesn't drink much instant coffee herself.

Another Walnum rule of thumb: Never go shopping alone.

"I usually go with my mother and my grandmother. It saves gas. It's foolish for me to go by myself for four triple coupons," she said.

Rule number three: go down every aisle in the supermarket.

"You never know when you're going to see a refund offer," she said.

Walnum rule number four: buy the perishables like milk and meat last. For obvious reasons, when a shopping trip can last an hour and a half per store.

Walnum rule number five: don't get into chatty conversations with the cashier when you're going through the checkout line. Concentrate on what's being run up on the register.

"You get a chatty cashier. She's talking and you're talking and you never know how many mistakes she's making."

Set aside as much money as you can so that you can take advantage of coupon bargains. Though many area stores are beginning to discourage the practice, some still allow unlimited coupon offers, instead of just one per customer. If you see an unlimited coupon offer for something like toilet paper or toothpaste, go after it.

THEN SHE LOOKS FOR RIGHT COUPON

MATCHING COUPONS, BARGAINS BRINGS SMILE

... and more than a $30 savings.

"It just doesn't happen to be the case," she said last week, as she Her husband, Clayton, a headshot radiographer's assistant at Parker & P.

Admittedly, on this trip she had some items which can only be placed in the junk food category: Archway Oatmeal Cookies, Real Lemon Lemonade, Reese's Pieces, and Duncan Hines Pudding Pies, cake mix and a frosting mix to go with the cake.

However, in her shopping cart also went Vaseline Intensive Care Lotion, Moist and Chunky dog food, a loaf of Split Top white bread, one half gallon of milk, and two pounds of chicken legs. And all for free.

(See attached list)

In the cookie aisle, she rejected a box of Barry's Fudgestown cookies, and instead, chose Archway Oatmeal Cookies.

Burry cookies, she explained, cost only 79 cents. Since she had a 50-cent refund offer which doubled to a dollar, she chose the more expensive Archway.

Finally — about an hour and a half later — she stood at the checkout counter, carefully watching as the clerk rang up her coupons.

And, she couldn't help smiling as she watched the astonishment of the customers behind her line.

"I love doing this," she said, wheeling her cart with the three bags of groceries to her car.

Nelson wants Cowens for Milwaukee Bucks

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Milwaukee Bucks Coach Don Nelson says he is trying to work out a compensation package for Dave Cowens, the former Boston Celtics center who wants to return to basketball.

But Nelson, a former teammate of Cowens at Boston, said Tuesday he is being hindered by the refusal of Boston General Manager Red Auerbach to allow him to talk directly to Cowens.

"Red wants to get a deal set with us that would satisfy him before he will allow us to talk to Cowens," said Nelson. "If we can do that, he would give us permission to try to work out a contract with Cowens. Then if we could do that, we'd call them back."

Auerbach said the club is trying to accommodate Cowens' request for a trade, but he wants to look out for the Celtics' interest as well.

Here's a new Scottish regional cookbook that has class

I adore well-researched books on the regional cookery of any country — it puts the various dishes in their proper perspective — and I was particularly pleased to come across Catherine Brown's "Scottish Regional Recipes," which was recently published in Glasgow by the Melendinar Press.

The Scots have a deep sense of tradition and national heritage, and a rugged individualism that is matched only by their rugged scenery. As one might suppose, that is all reflected in Scottish food, which can be extraordinarily good. I need hardly sing the praises of Scotch salmon, Scotch whiskey, Dundee marmalade, shortbread and those marvelous smoky kippers, but there are other facets of Scottish food that may come as a surprise.

For example, did you know that the reputation of the roast beef of Old England rests squarely upon the glossy black backs of Aberdeen Angus cattle? Not that the Scots ate too much of their own superb beef in days gone by, they desperately needed all the cattle they could raise from exports. (Today, the tables have turned.) They have!

Catherine Brown's book has been lovingly researched, and almost every recipe has some comment about its history and origin. The names alone are enchanting. A Kingdom of Fife Pie turns out to be a perfectly delicious mixture of rabbit and bacon chunks seasoned with nutmeg, lemon, thyme and parsley, topped off with puff pastry. A Selkirk Bannock is a rich, yeasted bun, generously filled with sultanas. (When Queen Victoria visited Sir Walter Scott's granddaughter at Abbotsford, she is said to have refused anything with her afternoon tea save a slice of Selkirk Bannock.) A Tweed Kettle is a tasty dish of flaked salmon, mushrooms and shallots that is traditionally served with creamed potatoes. It got its name from the fact that the salmon originally came from the river Tweed.

NATURALLY ENOUGH, the book discusses different regions, and it may come as yet another surprise to realize that there are sheltered areas in the Lowlands of Scotland that have sunny summers and a comparatively dry climate that make for very productive farmlands. I read only the other day that Albert Roux, French chef of the only Guide Michelin three-star restaurant in Britain (La Gavroche, in London), maintains that the best raspberry in the world is the Scottish raspberry. Honestly compels me to note that he says this is because they bloom in June but are not ripe until September — the slow maturation of the fruit concentrates the flavor. This seems to imply that what the Scots call a sunny summer may be rather less sunny than elsewhere!

Happily for American readers, the author has seen fit to include a chapter explaining the difference between standard British and U.S. equivalent measures, cooking terms and even food descriptions. What the British call, rather harshly, "blood heat," we would call lukewarm. Their desiccated coconut is our flaked coconut. Their mince is our hamburger or ground beef. Treacle turns out to be molasses, and so on.

The book is not generally available here, but I ascertained from the publisher that if you send him an overseas money order for $19.95 to cover both the cost of this nicely produced hardbound book and the postage, he will mail you a copy by return. Write Richard Drew Publishing Ltd., 29 Park Circus, Glasgow G3 6BE, Scotland.

I am giving you two recipes from the book that I am sure you will enjoy. I couldn't begin to pronounce it, but I am told that there is an old Gaelic proverb that says: "S' mara a' na tarcais air bhith," or "Foolish is he that despises food." Amen to that.

Cock-A-Leekie Soup

Put a 2½- or 3-pound boiling fowl (this has the most flavor; do not substitute a roasted chicken) in a large, deep pot and add 4 pints water. Bring slowly to the boil, and reduce to a gentle simmer. Add a bay leaf, a sprig of thyme and some parsley stalks (tied together with string), salt, freshly ground pepper and the white part of 1 ½ pounds leeks, finely chopped. Simmer for 1

½ to 2 hours or until the meat is tender. Half an hour before the end of the cooking time, add 2 ounces (½ cup) raw long-grain rice.

Remove the bird and cool slightly. Add the tender green part of your bunch of leeks, finely chopped, and cook for another 10 minutes. Remove some of the meat from the hen and chop coarsely. Return chopped meat to the soup and heat through. Check seasoning, remove bunch of herbs and serve garnished with parsley.

Ecclefechan Butter Tart

In the bowl of a food processor, combine 4 ounces (1 cup) flour, 2 ½ ounces butter, 2 tablespoons superfine sugar and 1 egg yolk. Process to form a ball of dough. Roll out between two sheets of plastic wrap (this is a delicate pastry) and then transfer to a lynch fluted quiche pan with a removable bottom.

For the filling, mix together 1 egg, 3 ounces (¾ cup) soft brown sugar, 2 ounces melted butter, 3 teaspoons wine vinegar, 4 ounces (¾ cup) mixed dried fruit such as raisins, saltans, currants etc., and 1 ounce ½ cup) chopped walnuts. Pour into pastry shell and bake for 30 minutes at 375 degrees. Serve hot or cold.

Your neighbor's kitchen

Miriam Snyder likes easy but good recipes

By Barbara Richmond Herald Reporter

Miriam Snyder, wife of Dr. Herbert Snyder, of 47 Highwood Drive, loves to entertain family and friends, and she likes to prepare foods that look and taste good, with a minimum of effort.

"I think people of today are very busy and are looking for good recipes that are easy to prepare," Mrs. Snyder says. She adds that she has tried some simple recipes that she didn't think were very good, and has discarded them.

"I have a chicken recipe I have been making for years. It tastes wonderful, looks very attractive, and it's very easy to make," she explains.

"I like to entertain. This house is lived in. I enjoy entertaining and I like to spend time with my guests. That's why I'm always looking for easy but good recipes," she says.

A LOT of Mrs. Snyder's time is given to the American Cancer Society. She's coordinator for Reach to Recovery, a group that was started about 12 years ago for mastectomy patients. She's also served in other capacities for the society.

Mrs. Snyder isn't really new to the Neighbor's Kitchen column. She appeared in it back in 1966. At that time she submitted two favorite recipes, a Bing cherry cream cheese mold and one for peppers and steak. She described peppers and steak as "a hearty he-man dish," and said the cherry mold always scored a big hit when she served it to guests. She said she served it as a salad mold garnished with greens for buffet-style dinners.

"The dish is so rich it might also qualify as a dessert," she adds.

"The peppers and steak recipe can be an inexpensive one or an expensive one, depending on your pocketbook," Mrs. Snyder says. Anything from chuck up to sirloin can be used for the steak strips. Even leftover roasts can be used.

One of Mrs. Snyder's favorite casseroles to make for family and friends fulfills her requirements for tasting good, looking good, and being easy to make. It's a recipe she's named "Elegant Chicken Casserole."

"This casserole, served with a gelatin mold or a vegetable, makes a nice party supper with a minimum of effort," she explains.

She says her favorite vegetable is green beans. "I love green beans fixed any way. I have a recipe for fried green beans I got from a cousin. It sounds like it has a lot of oil — it calls for 1 1/2 cups. You can start out with less and add more if needed," Mrs. Snyder advises.

"However, the recipe has sort of an Italian flavor and it's delicious," she says.

A recipe for branded peaches also falls into the easy but good category for several days in the refrigerator. "I use Grand Marnier because I like the taste, but any brandy can be used. It makes a delightful dessert after a big dinner," she says.

Cherry-Cream Cheese Mold
1 package red raspberry

Branded Peaches
1 large can Malba peach halves
1-3 inch stick cinnamon
8 whole cloves
2 tablespoons brandy

Elegant Chicken Casserole
1 1/2 cups raw rice (Not Minute Rice)
1 can cream of chicken soup
1 can cream of celery soup
1 can cream of mushroom soup
3/4 pound butter, melted
1/2 cup dry sherry
1 1/2 packages sliced almonds (3-ounce packages)
6 to 8 whole chicken breasts (halved, skinned and boned)

the rice mixture and blend to moisten all of rice. Place chicken, side by side, on top of rice. Pour remaining soup mixture over raw chicken. Put cheese and almonds on top. Sprinkle with paprika. Bake at 275 degrees for 3 1/2 hours.

Fried String Beans
1 pound green beans
1 1/2 cups vegetable oil
1 cup bread crumbs
4 cloves garlic, minced
1/2 cup chopped basil
1/4 cup Parmesan cheese grated
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper

Market Cheque is two financial services in one. Like a money market fund, it's a high yield investment. Like a checking account, it can be used to pay all of your household or business expenses.

Money Market Interest on Your Entire Balance

Unlike similar plans, your entire Market Cheque balance earns high money market interest — as long as you maintain a balance of $2,000 or more. Plus, your rate changes weekly to reflect the latest trends in the money market. If your balance falls below $2,000, you'll earn 5% interest, but only for those days it falls below. As soon as your balance returns to $2,000, you'll once again receive the higher rate.

Works Like a Checking Account

Like a checking account, you can use your Market Cheques to pay your bills. Simply write one in any amount. You'll still earn interest on the money until the Cheque clears.

Each month, you'll receive an itemized statement listing every transaction, your current balance, and your interest earned.

Market Cheque For Your Business

Market Cheque is a perfect investment for your business too. Use it to invest your extra cash, and your accumulated interest could amount to thousands of dollars in extra profit each year.

You Pay No State Dividends Tax

The high money market interest you earn with Market Cheque is not subject to the Connecticut State Dividends and Income Tax, whereas the interest earned on money market funds is.

How To Open Your Market Cheque
Visit any Heritage Savings office and open your Market Cheque with $2,000 or more. Once you have Market Cheque, you'll know exactly why everybody's talking about it.

9.00% Current Annual Rate

Available thru 9/30/82. Simple interest credited monthly. THE MARKET CHEQUE PLAN IS NOT A SAVINGS ACCOUNT OR A DEPOSIT, AND IS NOT INSURED BY THE FDIC. ONLY SAVINGS AND LOAN INSURANCE CORPORATION. Have you ever tried a recipe worth $10,000

Recipes come from all of the states and the District of Columbia and emphasize the versatility of chicken. The recipes include everything from tasty hors d'oeuvres to chicken pizza, with lots of other things in between.

All of the top-price winning recipes for the past 11 years, plus many other entries, are contained in "The Chicken Cookbook," put out by the National Broiler Council, sponsors of the contest.

The book, a paperback, can be purchased for $1.25 by sending a check or money order to Chicken Cookbook, Department NBC, Box 307, Coventry, Conn. 06238.

The winner of the 1982 contest isn't listed in this edition as the winner was just chosen about a week ago. The $10,000 winning recipe was from South Dakota and was for Impossible Chicken Pie. A recipe for "Pirates' Treasure Chicken," was submitted for this year's contest, by Nancy Eisenman of Simsbury and won the top award in the state.

Impossible Chicken Pie

1 broiler-fryer chicken (Cut in parts)
2 cups water
2 teaspoons salt, divided
1 cup shredded mozzarella cheese, divided
1-6 ounce can tomato paste
1 teaspoon oregano leaves
1/2 cup small curd cottage cheese
2/3 cup prepared biscuit mix
1 cup milk
2 eggs
1/2 teaspoon pepper
In deep saucpan, place chicken. Add water and 1 teaspoon of the salt. Cover and simmer about 45 minutes or until fork can be inserted in chicken with ease. Cool. Separate meat from bones. Discard bones and skin. Reserve broth for later use, if desired. Cut chicken in bite-size pieces and place in large bowl; add 1/2 cup of the mozzarella, the tomato paste, oregano and basil; stir to mix and set aside. In a lightly greased large quiche dish or deep-dish pie pan, place cottage cheese and spread evenly over bottom of pan. Place chicken mixture evenly over cottage cheese. In medium bowl, place biscuit mix, milk, eggs, pepper and remaining 1/2 teaspoon salt; beat 1 minute with hand mixer. Pour over chicken mixture. Bake in 350 degree oven about 30 minutes or until brown and a knife inserted in middle comes out clean. Remove from oven and sprinkle with the remaining mozzarella. Let stand 5 minutes before serving. Makes four servings.

Pirates' Treasure Chicken

1 broiler-fryer chicken (Cut in parts)
2 tablespoons corn oil
1 onion, sliced
1/2 cup sliced dried prunes
1/2 cup rum
1/2 cup molasses
1/2 teaspoon ground allspice
1/2 cup broken pecans
In electric frypan, place oil and heat to medium temperature. Add onion and saute about 5 minutes or until golden. Remove onion and set aside. In same frypan, place chicken and cook, turning, about 5 minutes or until brown on all sides. In small bowl, mix together prunes, rum, molasses and allspice; pour over chicken. Return onions to frypan. Cover and cook on low heat (200 F.) turning once, for 40 minutes. Remove cover, add pecans and cook about 10 minutes or until fork can be inserted in chicken with ease. Makes 4 servings.

Woman desperate to get out of house

DEAR ABBY: If I weren't a Christian with three young children to raise, I would have ended my life. I am in mid 30s, divorced and on welfare because I am unable to leave my house to go to work. I am normal in every other respect, but I panic when I get more than a block away from home. I haven't been to a movie or out for dinner for over two years. I'm attractive, but I gave up dating two years ago because it was hard to explain to a man that I was too terrified to leave my house.

Dear Abby
Abigail Van Buren

knowing there are a lot of other people with the same problem. My total income from welfare is $770 a month, and it's a miracle we even make it through the month. I want more than anything in the world to get well so I can get a job and take care of my children. Is there any hope for me? I have "agoraphobia," which means, "fear of open spaces." I joined a support group, but all I got from it was the comfort of beginning. Foundation. It's a non-profit, charitable corporation formed to help agoraphobics. It offers a step-by-step program designed to rehabilitate people who suffer anxiety attacks when they leave their homes. There are no drugs, medication or deep analysis involved. It's a self-help program that begins by playing cassettes at home. I have investigated this organization and found it to be legitimate, sincere and effective. Many who have been treated by this method have reported excellent results. Write to New Beginning Foundation, 1581 North Western Ave., Suite 229, Los Angeles, Calif. 90027. Please enclose a long, stamped self-addressed envelope. And please write to me in six months and give me a progress report. I care.

DEAR ABBY: I JUST FINISHED READING YOUR NEW BOOK AND I LOVED IT. I forced myself to read the chapter titled, "Smoking the Bore," but it's the best thing that ever happened to me. I haven't given up smoking yet, but you'll be credited when I do. I've cut down on the number of cigarettes, and by reading that chapter every night I think I can finally quit. Oh, about the chapter on divorce, I agree. The kids should try to see their parents' side of it. Their mom and pop have lived most of their lives for their kids. Now it's time they (the parents) start living for themselves. Everybody who's had a divorce should read your book. Give mom and dad a break. CORY BRINDLE

Does your club need publicity?

Attention, publicity chairman. Do you feel your press releases are ignored? Would you like to see your club or organization get more than the usual two-paragraph listing? Do you ever wonder why some groups in town seem to get all the publicity? Then come find out at a YWCA-sponsored seminar Sept. 22, "Getting Your Message Across" will be a practical workshop led by Manchester Herald Focus Editor Adele Augie. The workshop will take place from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. at the YWCA, 78 N. Main St. The session is free to members and $1 for non-members. Call the YWCA at 647-1437 to register.

Thoughts

In one way or another all of us are ordinary. We are average people in many ways. That does not mean we cannot be outstanding in some ways but in the majority of things most of us are quite average. That realization comes hard in the early years and more difficult in mid-life. We respond to our ordinariness in a variety of ways. Some respond with resignation. They give up. They make the assumption they are too stupid, or whatever. Some respond to being average with resentment, like a child with a piece of candy. They resent not having two thumbs up. Some respond with a plain way of life and, as victims, whine their way through life. And some respond with rebellion; they want to charge my horse. Jesus Christ can make a difference in this situation for he believed that each person was interesting and important and of infinite worth in the eyes of God, ordinary or not. God gives us Christ to show us that he loves us as we are.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get them off your chest. Write to Abby, P. O. Box 389-23, Hollywood, Calif. 90038, North United Methodist Church.

There's more to coffee than caffeine

DEAR DR. LAMB: I read your column where you told the lady not to drink decaffeinated coffee if she had to cut down on coffee, tea, colas, etc. Your comment really threw me for a loop. My husband who has a heart condition - one heart attack, one bypass surgery and narrowed arteries since - was told to quit smoking, which he did and to cut out coffee or limit his intake. For a year now he has been using decaffeinated coffee. Please explain your reasoning. I'd like to tell them and I'll bet a lot of other readers would too.

Your Health
Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR READER: Your description of yourself answers your own question. Yes, it can cause psychological harm, not because of the caffeine but from the individual's reaction to it. So you have a physical harm or cause ment illness. When done to the extreme I suppose it could cause local mechanical irritation but that is about it. Numerous sexual surveys for the past 30 years have pointed out it is simply another normal means of sexual expression or release. It is often a substitute by both males and females for mature sexual expression with a partner. Your problem is not masturbation but being able to develop a meaningful relationship with the opposite sex. You may be excessively shy. Make the effort. Get out there and socialize. Live. You may find that you enjoy it and other people will like you better if you follow your natural impulses.

DEAR DR. LAMB: Does frequent masturbation cause any physical or psychological harm? I'm 21 and have practiced this terrible self abuse for about seven years every night. I have never made love to a woman, not even close. I am filled with depression and guilt. I could never ask my doctor.

DEAR READER: We advise for one patient is not what we advise for another in all cases. The biggest reason is that you may be treating different things. I do not recommend decaffeinated coffee to anyone who has stomach ulcers, acid stomach conditions or bowel complaints. Why? Because coffee means that the coffee is 3 percent caffeine. No, no, no. That statement means that 97 percent of all the caffeine that was originally in the coffee has been removed. The amount that is left in the coffee in that case is physiologically insignificant. I'm sending you the Health Letter 14-4, Comptrol Beverages: Coffee, Tea, Colas and Chocolate, to clarify your questions about coffee and the heart. Others can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of the Herald, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Sta-

Drug lists' prompt Medicare rip-off

New forms of rip-offs are "rippling" through the U.S. economy at a speed which defies memory - the latest of the rip-offs involving tax dollars supposedly earmarked to finance medical care for the "truly needy." This is being tested for effectiveness by segments of the drug industry and works this way: A pharmaceutical house designates a "suggested list price" that wholesalers might, if they see their way clear, want to collect from pharmacists. (This is thoroughly modern in an era when some economists argue price pegging by manufacturers promotes "efficiency in marketing.")

Your Money's Worth
Sylvia Porter

1) The pharmacist will tend to give the patient the pill that has the (pick one) higher or lower "suggested" price? ANSWER: You guessed it. The higher price, paid from our tax money. 2) Drug houses that specialize in the sale of less expensive generics will (pick one) gain or lose business? ANSWER: You're right again. Companies offering lower-cost items will lose out to their higher-priced competitors. 3) The "society of compassion" featuring such benefits as health care for the poor will (pick your answer) gain or lose in popularity?

ANSWER: Lose, of course. Not because the poor are so piggish but because the big drug firms have set up procedures (with the cooperation of state authorities in some cases) that favor the drug firms. 4) When drug suppliers give hefty discounts to pharmacists who buy in bulk as many do to get the business, the taxpayers (pick one) will or will not get in on the savings? ANSWER: No, the taxpayers won't, because the soaring "suggested" prices that set what Medicaid pays aren't cut back to reflect these discounts in all cases. Peculiar omission. 5) The truism that "honesty is the best policy" wins or loses? ANSWER: I won't insult by giving you the "answer." Obviously, an ultrahonest drug company will be penalized to the limit. They will lose sales if they resist pressure for a "suggested price." One counterargument to this maze of rip-offs is that processing Medicaid paperwork is expensive for the pharmacist; he has to be paid in some way to handle prescriptions for the truly needy. Pegging prices of the drugs paid for by Medicaid is an excellent way to do this - and the pharmacists are the victims, not the beneficiaries of this Medicaid rip-off, this argument goes. Paying the pharmacist a fair processing fee for the paperwork is dismissed as a solution. Criticizing the drug houses or pharmacists is called indefensible. Will anything be done about this? In the short run, probably not. From the federal viewpoint, this is one of the many problems best left to the wise policy-makers at the state level. From the state viewpoint, something just might be done - if sunlight reaches the sensitive spot involved. (I'm trying to light the spot.) But the catch is that even a politician worried about the consequences of exposure of a big rip-off may not be able to penetrate the layers of bureaucratic doubletalk. An insider who will blow the proverbial whistle (and perhaps join the ranks of the unemployed) may be needed to help even one who is willing to face reprisals to try to begin the task of wiping out this rip-off. Well, I'm ready. I have the facts; I'm blowing my whistle hard. What's next? ### In brief NU earnings up

HARTFORD (UPI) - Northeast Utilities' earnings increased $1.62 per share for the 12 months ending July 31. NU President Lelan F. Sillin Jr. said Tuesday the earnings were eight cents a share higher than the 12 months ending June 30, 1982, and 33 cents per share higher than those reported for the calendar year 1981. Consolidated net income was $131.7 million, up $8.8 million from a year ago. Sillin said the primary reason for the continued improvement in earnings was the rate relief granted NU's Connecticut operating subsidiaries late last year. In the 12 months ending July 31, nuclear energy supplied 59 percent of the electricity needs of NU's one million customers, Sillin said.

Refunds slated

HARTFORD (UPI) - Customers who bought securities from unregistered dealer brokers for a Wall Street investment firm are eligible for refunds which could total more than $1 million, state banking officials say. First Investors Corp. agreed in Hartford Superior Court Tuesday to offer customers their original investment plus 6 percent interest if they bought securities from 17 unregistered broker-dealers in Connecticut. First Investors, which has about 200 dealers in the state and handles $1.6 billion in assets, suspended the dealers immediately when notified by the Banking Department they were unregistered. "We're also implementing procedures to make sure this doesn't happen in the future," said Andrew Donohue, secretary and legal counsel to First Investors, a mutual investment company with nine diversified portfolios. Donohue said it resulted from an "administrative error."

Dividend declared

BRIISTOL - Directors of The Superior Electric Co. of Bristol have declared a 10 cents a share third-quarter dividend on the company's common stock. The cash dividend is payable Sept. 15 to stockholders of record Aug. 31. The directors also named Dr. Oswald G. Villard as an adviser to the board. Dr. Villard is professor of electrical engineering at Stanford University and a senior scientific adviser with SRI International. He was for many years the company's West Coast sales representative and recently was a member of the company's outside technical advisory team.

AT&T breakup is under way

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The process of dismantling American Telephone & Telegraph Co. is under way as a move that will reshape the nation's communications network and telephone service for every consumer. U.S. District Judge Harold Greene Tuesday placed his stamp of approval on the agreement that opens the way for AT&T to spin off its 22 local operating companies within 18 months, and for the first time to enter lucrative new markets such as data processing. AT&T spokesman Pic Wagner said the court-ordered divestiture "by itself should have no effect on local rates."

UNDER THE SETTLEMENT, AT&T keeps its long-distance division, manufacturing subsidiary and research arm. The local operating companies will be allowed to publish the highly profitable Yellow Pages and market customer equipment in competition with AT&T and other sellers. The judge's action ended an 8-year-old lawsuit filed by the Justice Department charging the nation's largest corporation with engaging in a "classic case" of monopoly since the end of World War II. It came two weeks after Greene conditionally approved the settlement, asking for several major changes the government and the Bell system subsequently incorporated. The decision was praised by Rep. Tim Wirth, D-Colo., chairman of the House telecommunications subcommittee who abandoned efforts last month to pass a bill that would have toughened the terms of the antitrust settlement.

But it's seen as temporary solution Tax bill satisfies insurance firms

HARTFORD (UPI) - Connecticut's major insurance companies say they have to start work now on extending key provisions just granted in the $98.3 billion tax bill approved by Congress. The bill means $8 billion more in taxes each year for the insurance industry. But it clears up costly tax confusions hampering the sale of products such as tax-deferred annuities and universal life policies, industry spokesmen said. The chief complaint: It is a temporary solution to complicated problems with the Internal Revenue Service. Key provisions expire in 1983, forcing insurance lobbyists to renew negotiations almost immediately with the government. "The good news in this new tax legislation is that it resolves certain tax uncertainties relating to deferred annuities and improves the deductibility for policyholders' dividends. Those are certainly moves in the right direction," Arthur L. Bailey, vice president and associate general counsel to Phoenix Mutual Life Insurance Co., said Tuesday. "The fact I like the least is that it is a temporary two-year tax statute. The important parts expire in 1983. We have to start working, literally, when the ink dries (on the tax bill) at finding a permanent solution to our problem," Bailey said.

THOMAS G. THORBURN, a tax attorney for The Hartford Insurance Group, said "The Hartford is generally very pleased with the bill. We have been looking to bring out new products. One of them is universal life insurance. "Together with the provision for excess interest puts companies in a marketing them (new products) in proper competitive position with everyone else," Thornbury said. The bill allows mutual companies to deduct 7.5 percent of the excess interest on insurance and annuities. Stock companies get an 85 percent deduction. Thornbury said his shortcomings include lack of a permanent guideline for flexible premiums and defects in the statutory formula used to determine the deduction of interest on annuities and reserves. "The formula was adopted in 1959 when interest rates were 56 percent. It is not working right in an era when interest rates are 10-12 percent," said Lanchin McLean, vice president and legislative tax counsel at Aetna, Connecticut's largest diversified financial company with assets of $39.6 billion. "Companies can live with the law, but they look for permanent solutions. "Because of the long-term nature of the life insurance business, it is almost inevitable the statutes covering it are going to be complicated," Aetna's McLean said. "Certainly we'd be better off if we had a few years to negotiate a permanent settlement. But we'll make a good faith effort." Quincy Abbott, CIGNA's vice president in charge of taxes, said, "If the stopgap bill were to be continued 10 years we'd be very happy. (Two years) is a very small time frame to allow for planning."
