House nixes balanced budget bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress won a political shoutout with President Reagan Friday and prepared to hit the campaign trail, with the House soundly beating a constitutional amendment that would have required a balanced budget.

The House, after backing to Reagan's highly touted demand for a vote on the amendment, rejected Democratic and Republican versions by wide margins. The votes were certain to become major campaign issues in the weeks before the elections.

Although a major legislative defeat for Reagan, the rejection was certain to be used by Republicans in the congressional campaigns.

"The HOUSE also Friday overwhelmingly approved a compromise stopgap funding measure for the federal government, which technically ran out of money hours earlier and loomed steps toward closing down."

The Senate was expected later to join the House in approving the compromise continuing resolution, which was drafted during a joint conference committee Thursday. President Reagan was also expected to sign it.

The House voted 290-123 for the resolution late in the day, after first debating and voting on the proposed balanced budget constitutional amendment.

In a separate voice vote, the House agreed to a Senate amendment to the resolution giving working air traffic controllers an annual 6.6 percent pay increase.

Barring an unexpected obstacle, Congress was expected to recess in the evening for an election-period recess that will run until the beginning of a lame-duck session Nov. 25.

President Reagan, filled with a "deep, burning anger," charged the Democratic House leadership with playing politics in the defeat of the amendment.

"We'll fight on," Reagan told reporters after his proposal was soundly defeated by the House.

"The American people are overwhelmingly with us and their numbers are growing."

"When Congress busts the budget

Emergency landing

A single-engine airplane made an emergency landing in a field behind the houses on Carriage Drive Friday afternoon. None of the three people in the plane — which was apparently on its way to Branford Field in Hartford — was injured in the landing, made with the landing gear retracted. The plane's pilot, Frank Ahearn, (shown speaking to Manchester police officer Gary Frost) said that was the safest way to make the landing because wheels could have gotten caught in ruts in the field.

(Above) Joseph Faries, of 70 Carriage Drive, the only eyewitness to the incident, examines the plane. Faries, an ex-pilot, said he heard the plane come over the hill in the background and knew immediately it was in trouble. He said he ran behind the plane as it landed and yanked the doors open when it stopped to help the people out in case of an explosion. Parts of the plane's propeller and exhaust pipe were scattered in the field and picked up by the crowd of neighborhood kids who came to observe the plane. State police and the Federal Aviation Authority are investigating the incident.

6th death laid to Tylenol

Police press search in 'monstrous crime'

CHICAGO (UPI) — A sixth death was attributed to cyanide-laced Extra-Strength Tylenol capsules Friday and investigators pressed a search for whoever committed the "monstrous crime" of methodically spiking the pills with the deadly poison.

Pain-sufferers nationwide were urged not to take any of the capsules until the mystery was cleared up.

Cook County Medical Examiner Dr. Robert J. Stein said his office would re-examine all blood samples from recent unexplained or sudden deaths to determine whether cyanide was involved.

The manufacturer, McNeil Consumer Products Co. of Fort Washington, Pa., confirmed several bottles had been "tampered with and cyanide poison added to some of the capsules."

McNeil recalled two lot numbers, M2980 and W101D, in some 264,000 bottles from store shelves nationwide and all Tylenol capsules in the Chicago area.

Squad cars blared warnings on suburban streets not to take Tylenol capsules and warnings flashed across television screens. The Rush-Presbyterian-St. Luke's Poison Control Center for the Chicago region said it received 700 calls Thursday.

The sixth death was that of Theresa Janus, 19, of Lisle. She died "a cerebral death caused by cyanide poisoning," said a spokesman at Northwest Community Hospital in Arlington Heights.

Five others, including her husband and brother-in-law, died Wednesday and Thursday.

"I think we're dealing with an isolated, bizarre case," FDA deputy director Mark Novitch said. "All the evidence points to a localized situation in the Chicago area."

Bob Fletcher, spokesman for the Illinois Department of Law Enforcement Division of Criminal Investigation, said investigators questioned store and warehouse employees of various Chicago area distributors.

"You're dealing here with an absolutely monstrous crime," he said. "Whether it's a psychotic individual, whether it's targeted at one particular person... whether a

Players barred by one-team rule can try out

By Nancy Thompson Herald Reporter

Students who were kept off the junior high school soccer teams will be allowed to try out under new guidelines issued by the school administration Friday.

The guidelines were developed by Superintendent of Schools James P. Kennedy with assistance from coaches, administrators and one of the two junior high school athletic directors in response to the Board of Education's rejection of an administration policy barring students from playing on more than one sports team per season.

Players and their parents from the Manchester Soccer Club objected to the policy which prohibited them from playing on the school teams.

The policy became controversial at the start of the school year because it was enforced at Iling Junior High School but not at Bennett Junior High School.

The Board of Education voted unanimously Tuesday to rescind the policy. A board committee, headed by Richard W. Dyer who made the motion to abolish the policy, and including Peter A. Crombie Jr. and H. John Malone, a pediatrician, has been appointed to study the question of junior high athletic participation. There is no deadline for completion of the study.

Until the study is completed — and the board adopts a new policy — the junior high athletic program will operate under the rules in force last year which do not limit the number of teams on which a student can play during the season.

The one-sport policy — which was based on guidelines from the Connecticut Interscholastic Athletic Conference — would have affected other athletes in addition to those on the soccer club, including at least one school team player who plays for a non-school football organization.

The soccer question stirred the most response, however, from Manchester Soccer Club players and their parents and from board members.

Under the new guidelines, both students at Iling (who were not allowed to try out for the team) and students at Bennett (who were encouraged to try out, then cut after the one-sport ruling was made by the administration) will be given tryouts, if they request them.

However, no student now playing on a junior high squad will be cut to accommodate new squad members added as a result of those tryouts, according to the guidelines. Coaches are authorized in the guidelines to exceed normal maximum numbers on the roster if necessary.

In addition, the guidelines state that players added to the squads as a result of the new tryouts "should be phased into" playing time.

The guidelines state — and Kennedy emphasized — that coaches must make the final decisions as to what players are used in a game and how long they play.

The end result of the new guidelines, however, will mean "diluting the playing time for somebody," Kennedy said.

Kennedy noted that the soccer club players will not automatically make the teams. That decision stays with the coaches, he said. Coaches

Children head for fathers' land

BANGKOK, Thailand (UPI) — Eleven children of American fathers and Vietnamese mothers picked up Friday the shiny blue U.S. passports which will speed them on their way to new lives in the United States.

The children leave Saturday for Hong Kong where they will spend the night before flying Sunday to Los Angeles where they are expected at 4:25 p.m. EDT.

One father who went to the American Embassy in Bangkok with his 15-year-old daughter to make sure her documents were in order said, "She is really a classy young lady."

Gary Tanous, 42, of Canas, Wash., was taking his lovely, long-haired child Jean Marie home after a seven-year separation.

The other children — aged 7 to 15 and flown from Vietnam to Bangkok Thursday — will leave for new homes in Washington, Oregon, Arizona, California, Georgia, Texas and Washington, D.C. after their arrival in Los Angeles.

U.S. Consul General S. Richard Rand signed and stamped the children's passports in a brief ceremony in his office. Those children who could speak English thanked Rand. The others smiled shyly. All the children still wore the name tags given them in Vietnam.

Paper: Sharon will be ousted

TEL AVIV, Israel (UPI) — Supreme Court President Yitzhak Kahan said Friday he will head a special investigation of Israel's role in the massacre of Palestinian civilians.

Kahan will head a special commission, including a reserve army major general and a former attorney general, to look into possible Israeli involvement in the Beirut massacre. The investigation will take up to a year to complete, official and legal sources said.

Meanwhile, Tel Aviv newspaper reports said Defense Minister Ariel Sharon will be ousted from the cabinet. Sharon admitted allowing Lebanese rightists into the Sabra and Chatila refugee camps where hundreds of Palestinian civilians were later killed. He may be replaced by Ezer Weizman or Moshe Arens, the Israeli ambassador to Washington.

Weizman, who quit in 1979 after two years as Begin's defense chief, was quoted by the Yedioth Ahronoth newspaper as saying, "there should be no let-up in the pressure for Sharon's dismissal."

Iraq asks meeting of U.N. council

By United Press International

Iraq launched its long-awaited offensive against Iraq Friday, recapturing strategic heights east of Baghdad in a "thunder-like" attack to end Iraqi forces entrenched on their common border for two years.

Iraq immediately called for an urgent meeting of the U.N. Security Council "to discuss the grave consequences resulted from today's Iranian aggression on Iran," the Iraqi News Agency said.

In a memorandum to the Security Council president, Iraq accused Iran of ignoring U.N. resolution 514, which calls for a cease-fire in the conflict, the withdrawal of all forces from occupied territories and the start of peace negotiations.

Iraq's Foreign Minister, Dr. Saadoun Hammadi, met separately in Baghdad with the envoys to Iraq of five Security Council members — the Soviet Union, China, the United States, Britain and France — to discuss "the latest Iranian offensive and its dangerous repercussions on the region and world peace," INA said.

Today in history

On Oct. 2, 1968 Supreme Court Justice Abe Fortas (seen standing in front of the court building in Washington) withdrew his nomination as chief justice. Six months later he resigned from the court admitting he had made a deal with a foundation guaranteeing him $20,000 a year for life.

Cocaine found hidden in Coffin

WATERLOO, Mass. (UPI) — State police have confiscated cocaine hidden in a coffin and arrested the son and daughter-in-law of an undertaker at a Holyoke funeral home.

Police Thursday seized about 2 ounces of nearly pure cocaine — some in the casket at the home — allegedly belonging to Robert Day, 35, and his wife, Delaine, 21, both of West Springfield.

The couple was free on bail Friday after pleading inability to pay cocaine possession and distribution charges Thursday in District Court.

Edward F. Day, owner of the Edward F. Day Funeral Home, said he was "shocked" to learn of the raid and arrest. He said his son hadn't worked at the mortuary for at least five years, but still visited to pick up his mail.

Police said they first found the cocaine in the couple's car when they stopped them for a motor vehicle violation, then obtained a search warrant to go into the funeral home.

New England job losses up

MONTPELIER, Vt. (UPI) — Job losses in New England outpaced the national average during the first half of 1982 — marking a reversal of progress made during the latter half of last year, an independent study showed.

Figures compiled by the New England Council, an independent business association, showed while the nation experienced an employment drop of 1.65 percent between December and July, New England's drop was 2.17 percent.

Figures for the same period in 1981 showed New England employment levels expanded while the rest of the U.S. job market contracted — an indication New England entered the recession later than the country as a whole, the council said.

Fire leaves 12 families homeless

WATERBURY (UPI) — The Red Cross scrambled Friday to find shelter for 12 families left homeless when a fire swept through three buildings in the downtown section of the city.

Fire officials said they had not determined the cause of the blaze that sent at least two people to Waterbury Hospital where they were treated and released and caused a firefighter to be overcome with heat and smoke.

There were no serious injuries reported, officials said. John Held, director of disaster services for the Red Cross, said the organization was trying to place 46-50 people with friends and relatives. The Red Cross also planned to provide temporary shelter overnight if needed, he said.

Fire Chief I.C. Debuono said the buildings at East Clay and Mill Streets were extensively damaged by the fire that began about 8:30 a.m. and was brought under control by 12 noon.

Connecticut has budget surplus

HARTFORD (UPI) — The state is projected to end the 1982-83 fiscal year with a $2.75 million budget surplus, state Comptroller J. Edward Caldwell said Friday.

Caldwell, in a report to Gov. William O'Neill, said the surplus projection as of Aug. 31 stood at $2.75 million, down 99.9 percent from the $2.94 million surplus projection at the end of July.

The state ended its last fiscal year on June 30 with an actual surplus of $25.84 million, but the bottom-line figure became a deficit of $39.83 million when the deficit from the previous fiscal year was carried over.

Extortionist forces Gulf shutdown

BAYTOWN, Texas (UPI) — Gulf Oil Corporation Friday ordered all its domestic nonmanufacturing facilities closed for the weekend because of an apparent widened threat from an extortionist who planted several "explosive devices" at the firm's largest chemical plant.

A Gulf spokesman in Baytown, where the Cedar Bayou Chemical Plant has been shut down since Wednesday, said only that the precaution was taken nationwide to end rumors that Gulf's two refineries would shut down.

"Runners that our refineries in Port Arthur (Texas) and Philadelphia are being evacuated is not true," said Barry Smyth, spokesman for Gulf Oil Chemical Company.

He said all Gulf offices and what he called "service operations" facilities would be locked and even janitorial staffs would be prohibited from entering the building.

Earlier Gulf said a search of the 1,100-acre Cedar Bayou plant continued Friday while the FBI tried to collar an apparent letter-writing extortionist who has demanded a reported $15 million to not detonate devices placed around the plant.

Fat majorette will march

MONONGAHELA, Pa. (UPI) — A high school majorette who school officials said was 1 1/2 pounds too fat to march in a football game Friday night was cleared to march because a doctor certified she was not overweight.

School officials said Peggy Ward, a 5-foot-4 Ringold High School junior who failed a hand weight Wednesday, obtained a doctor's note stating she should weigh between 128 and 130 pounds.

"I thought the weight restriction was stupid from the beginning," Peggy said before Friday's game. "Nobody should have to be under pressure."

School band officials two weeks ago told the 18-year-old majorette to slim down from 130 to 128 pounds or sit on the sidelines during Friday night's game with Allegheny High School.

Peggy dieted and skipped meals in an effort to meet the restriction but still tipped the scales at 127 1/2 pounds during the weigh-in. She said she would keep losing weight until she made the limit.

Her mother, Marjorie Ward, took the girl to a doctor in Pittsburgh Friday and was told the proper weight for her daughter's height was 128 to 130 pounds.

School board to review claims

HARTFORD (UPI) — The State Board of Education decided Friday to take no action other than reviewing a series of claims raised about the state's program for equalizing local education spending around Connecticut.

The board adopted a resolution stating "no new issues" were raised in a report prepared by a legislative staff lawyer concerning the Guaranteed Tax Base program.

The program was adopted to even out the amount spent on local education from town to town after the state Supreme Court ruled the reliance on the property tax to finance local education was unconstitutional.

A report released by Rep. John Manias, R-Wilton, on Thursday said the state may spend $13 million more than required by law under the program and said a change in one count used in the formula was pushing up the program cost.

The State Board of Education reviewed the report at a meeting Friday and adopted a resolution saying "no new issues" were raised in the report "that have not been addressed prior to this time."

Habib arrives for talks

Mine-sweep delays tank deployment

By Philip Williams
United Press International

U.S. Marines picked their way through minefields at Beirut airport Friday in a delicate clearing operation that has already killed one Marine and wounded three others, delaying the arrival of M-60 tanks to support American peace-keeping forces.

"We are moving cautiously, to the best of ability, to ensure that we have swept the whole area (of mines)," said Lt. Commander Mark Stoll, Navy public affairs spokesman in Beirut. "We are using extreme caution as we have since we arrived, in moving into our positions."

Marine Cpl. David L. Reagan, 21, of Chesapeake, Va., was killed Thursday while clearing an area around the Beirut airport. U.S. officials said only that he was killed by the explosion of a "clustertype" weapon, and not necessarily an American-made cluster bomb of the type used by Israel.

Pfc. Leslie R. Morris, 19, of Pasadena, Calif., was reported in serious but stable condition and Cpl. Anthony D. Moran, 21, of Macon, Ga., and Lance Cpl. George Washington, 19, of Elgin, Ill., had less serious injuries.

Navy spokesman Stoll said M-60 tanks and other support equipment aboard 6th Fleet ships would not be put ashore until the mine-sweeping operation was completed around the airport, which was bombed and shelled heavily by both the Israelis and Palestinians during the Israeli invasion.

Habib and President Amin Gemayel were expected to discuss proposals for the removal of all foreign troops from Lebanon — Israelis, Syrians and Palestinians — now that Beirut has been reunited and the Green Line separating Moslem West and Christian East Beirut has been abolished.

"The situation is just as you see it," a tight-lipped Habib said at the airport. "Now the airport is open, we just like you and everybody else, are still working."

The Green Line, an invisible barrier that has served as a constant reminder of a divided capital since the 1975-76 Lebanese civil war, virtually disappeared Friday when five main highways linking eastern neighborhoods with the west reopened to normal traffic.

In Tel Aviv, the government announced that the head of Israel's Supreme Court, Yitzhak Kahan, would head a panel investigating the massacre of Palestinians two weeks ago at the Sabra and Chatila camps.

PRESIDENT REAGAN MEETS RICHARD DE LA ESPRIELLA

... there was no discussion of Reagan's opposition to treaty

Reagan, Panamanian chief have 'forward-looking' talk

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan welcomed new Panamanian President Ricardo de la Esparilla to the United States Friday in a "forward-looking meeting" that dodged any mention of Reagan's former opposition to the Panama Canal treaties.

"We've played the cards from where they lay," said one senior official. He said Reagan and de la Esparilla had developed "a warm working relationship" and did not discuss Reagan's days as foe of the canal pacts.

"This was a forward-looking meeting, not something looking back," he said. "I pledged to work together on canal issues." The official reported that under current operating procedures, the canal is setting "all-time high" records in tonnage and revenues.

"It has been a success story," he said. The two leaders met for 30 minutes at the White House to round off de la Esparilla's visit to the United States. Their discussions ranged from the "destructive role" of Cuba and Nicaragua in the region to a new investment treaty signed between the two nations.

Red Cross workers said they had managed to rescue peasants stranded by floodwaters further east along the Sinaloa.

But another 3,000 people were trapped for the second day in the village of Huatusi in the mountains near Guasave.

Guasave and Guamuchil are both rich agricultural areas, and the floods were believed to have caused extensive damage to crops.

In coastal Los Mochis, the state's second largest city with 400,000 people, hurricane winds tore off the roofs of thousands of homes, forcing some 15,000 people to take shelter in churches, government buildings and parks.

CULIACAN, Mexico (UPI) — Flooding caused by Hurricane Paul swept two northern Mexico cities Friday, cutting off 400,000 people, and relief workers struggled to find shelter for another 60,000 people left homeless by the killer storm.

Twenty-four people were reported dead and at least 82 were injured after Paul slammed into Mexico's west coast early Thursday with 120mph winds and driving rains before doing out, state officials and government news reports said.

Sinaloa state Gov. Antonio Corro said the hurricane washed out bridges, torn down power and communication lines and destroyed crops in the northern part of the state, causing an estimated $20 million in damages.

Some 60,000 people, including 10,000 in Baja California, were left homeless when winds and floods razed or damaged thousands of houses, officials said.

State officials said the Sinaloa and Mocorin rivers surged over their banks, flooding large areas of two of the state's largest cities — Guamuchil and Guasave — with a combined population of 400,000.

Floods from the Mocorin river left Guamuchil "totally isolated by land and by telephone," Salvador Cazares, a spokesman for the governor's office said.

He said it was impossible to determine the plight of Guamuchil's 150,000 inhabitants because rescue workers had been unable to enter the inland city, some 100 miles northwest of the state capital of Culiacan.

In Guasave, he said, flooding from the Sinaloa River caused by heavy rain from the hurricane cut off the northern and southern entrances to the city, trapping some 250,000 people.

Red Cross workers said they had managed to rescue peasants stranded by floodwaters further east along the Sinaloa.

But another 3,000 people were trapped for the second day in the village of Huatusi in the mountains near Guasave.

7 in pot bust plead innocent

PLYMOUTH, Mass. (UPI) — Suspected drug smugglers caught after they ran their 56-foot schooner carrying an estimated $2.5 million worth of marijuana onto a beach and set it afire pleaded innocent Friday to charges of drug trafficking.

The schooner, Compass Rose, was damaged by the fire, but many of the estimated 100 bales of marijuana onboard — with a street value of $2.5 million — were not destroyed in the Thursday night seizure.

Plymouth District Court Judge George A. White set cash bail at $5,000 to $50,000 for the seven men, including one who jumped onboard into chilly waters during the 1.5-mile chase. A pretrial conference was set for Oct. 8.

At least six of the men were from Massachusetts. "It was quite a big cargo," said Boston Coast Guard spokeswoman Carolyn Feldman of the latest latest in the region's record string of seaborne drugbusts this year.

Plymouth police Friday were still trying to determine the boat's home port or the origin of the pot.

The Coast Guard said the word "Newport" was on the vessel under its name. Police also said it was not known if the boat was working alone or in tandem with others.

Sgt. George Madsen said authorities suspected the seven men had planned to unload the drugs on the beach overnight.

'Trident Nein' guilty

NEW LONDON (UPI) — Nine anti-nuclear protesters Friday were found guilty in Superior Court of entering the Electric Boat shipyard in Groton under cover of darkness to batter a Trident nuclear submarine.

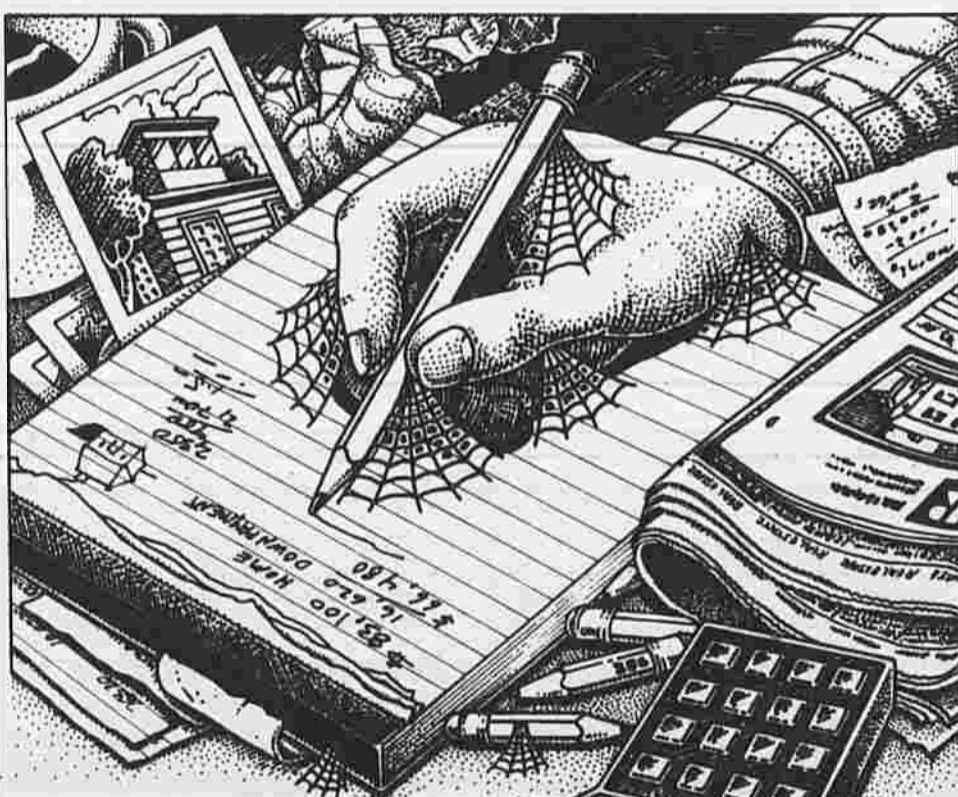

A shouting supporter of the so-called "Trident Nein" had to be ejected from the courtroom by police after the jury of three men and three women convicted the defendants of criminal mischief and trespass charges.

Police said John Shiel, of Washington, stunned the courtroom when he jumped to his feet and shouted, "The conscious of New London is dead." He apparently was not charged in the outburst and later was released by police.

The jury began deliberations about 11 a.m. and questioned Judge Seymour L. Hendel about his instructions concerning the basis for the defendants' plea of innocent. The verdict was reached about 3 p.m.

Before closing arguments, which took about two hours Thursday, the defendants asked Hendel to include reference to international law and justification defense in his instructions to the jury.

In its closing argument, the defense urged the jurors to reflect upon the threat Trident submarines posed to human existence. The prosecution argued the Trident strategic weapons program was not the issue in the trial.

Cheers for TV's 'Magnum'

The fill mignon of television beefcake is Tom Selleck of "Magnum, P.I." Selleck is currently starring in his second season as Thomas Magnum, the private investigator who lives on the estates of mysterious writer Robin Masters.

The CBS Thursday night adventure series has brought Selleck to international fame. Acting wasn't high on his list of priorities during his high school years in Los Angeles. The six-foot-four Selleck was an outstanding basketball player in junior college he switched his allegiance to basketball and the provided him with a scholarship to the University of Southern California. Eventually, he became a professional basketball player, but he concentrated on playing basketball and getting a degree in business administration.

Later he was chosen by Mae West, a fine judge of wit, to appear in "Myra Breckinridge," which was his film debut. On television, a guest starring role as a pompously private eye on James Garner's show, "The Rockford Files," brought him to the interest of television writers.

He currently lives in Hawaii, where "Magnum" is filmed, and enjoys the outdoor life including swimming, sailing and jogging. He has also become a volleyball addict and participated in the U.S. Volleyball Championships.

Previn prevails over Pitt

The new PBS series "Previn and the Pittsburgh" will begin Wednesday, Oct. 6 with "Period: God and Classics." Previn explains, "At one of our concert dates, I took one of our pianists, Irahk Pehman. He said he wanted to record some jazz. I thought he'd be a good idea. He's a very good pianist. He's worked for years with Mitchell. But where does the superstar violinist Perin fit in?"

The combination of a well-known violinist, a symphony conductor and a jazz musician may seem unlikely, but it's an event to behold when the quintet is Irahk Pehman, Andre Previn (shown), Shelly Mann, Red Mitchell and Jim Hall join forces. They recently combined talents in Pittsburgh's Heinz Hall for the Performing Arts.

Both personal and professional history tie Previn to the trio of jazz greats. Bassist Mitchell met Previn in Hollywood in 1944. Four years later, Previn and Mann, a well-known jazz drummer, were seeking a third member to fill out a touring trio and they chose Mitchell.

Guitarist Jim Hall is recognized by many as the best and greatest living jazz pianist. He and the Pittsburgher will begin Wednesday, Oct. 6 with "Period: God and Classics."

Tennant stars opposite Mitchum

BY Vernon Scott
UPI Hollywood Reporter

HOLLYWOOD — England's Victoria Tennant makes her American acting debut opposite Robert Mitchum in "The Winds of War," the long-awaited TV miniseries of the Herman Wouk novel.

Victoria, blonde, slender and teddily British, landed the plum role of Pamela Tudbury who romances Captain Hugh Henry (Mitchum) in the 19th-century, seven-part ABC-Paramount series that took a year to film.

Until "Winds of War" is telecast next February, Victoria is living low. She refuses to dilute her impact in the multi-million-dollar pre-World War II epic by appearing in TV guest spots.

Victoria, daughter of ballerina and film star Irena Baronova and British talent agent Cecil Tennant, is accustomed to waiting. She moved to New York from her native England seven years ago seeking an acting career.

She is anti-royalty and prefers the rigors of New York to the splendors of London. England's caste system sets her teeth on edge.

Hollywood and Broadway ignored her, but the persistent Victoria, who speaks fluent French and Italian, found roles in Hungary, Switzerland, Germany, Poland, France and England.

She was interviewed in London by director Dan Curtis for the role of Pamela. After learning she had the job, she was given two drafts of the seven-volume script and studied them during her wait. Victoria,

British newcomer lands 'The Winds of War' plum

Suppose he's beastly to me? Those roles were going through my mind. But Robert was lovely. He made me laugh and he was very kind right from the beginning."

All of Victoria's scenes were played by Mitchum. From Thanksgiving 1980 to Thanksgiving 1981 Victoria traveled from Hollywood to Yugoslavia, Austria, London and back to Hollywood in the course of the film.

There were weeks, once more than a month, when she was off the film, even appearing in an English TV show during an interim.

"Those periods away from the project were useful to me," she said. "They gave me a chance to work out my character. Much of my performance came from the back of my head, the subconscious. I had time to let things come to me."

VICTORIA'S DEVOTION to her role was such that she refused to read Wouk's sequel to "The Winds of War," "War and Remembrance," until she completed her role in the miniseries.

"I didn't want to know more about Pamela than I was supposed to know," she said. "It might have adversely affected my performance."

She would like to reprise the role of Pamela but isn't sure whether "War and Remembrance" will be made. "I'd like to do it only for Dan Curtis if the original cast were involved," she said. "It would have to be done quickly. Either that or she should be done five years from now with an entirely new cast."

It would be too difficult for Victoria to accept it just part of the cast returned. But I don't know

If Dan is ready to pour another four years of his life into a film of the second book.

"We all became closely attached to the project over the year and there was a definite sense of loss when we finished. 'Winds of War' and 'Remembrance' were strong."

"It's been almost a year since we completed the last scenes, but I've remained in touch with most of the others."

"I'm anxious to return to work, but I think it's best to wait until 'Winds of War' is seen. Then maybe Americans will know who I am."

Opponents clash on vets law

Assembly races heat

By Paul Hendrie Herald Reporter

Republican Sen. Carl A. Zinsser, R-14th District, and Rep. Walter H. Joyner, R-12th District, accused their Democratic opponents of playing politics with an obscure law that could give some veterans a property tax break.

The two Republicans launched their counterattack Friday afternoon at a news conference, held at Zinsser's campaign headquarters.

Democratic Mayor Stephen T. Penny, Zinsser's opponent, and Democratic Director James R. McCavanagh, Joyner's opponent, charged last week that the local delegation to the General Assembly failed to tell the Board of Directors about the legislation permitting the tax exemptions for qualified veterans.

A local ordinance is needed for the legislation to take effect.

Penny and McCavanagh had labeled their news conference last week "non-political," a description to which Zinsser and Joyner objected.

have almost complete discretion in assembling and fielding teams, he said, adding that the central administration does not like to become involved in athletic policy.

"We only peripherally get into athletics — unless we have to," he said. "It's something that's best done by the people closest to the students."

Kennedy said he has no idea how many students will request tryouts under the new guidelines, but estimated it is not a large number. He said the coaches said they can handle the additional attempts to make the team.

The new guidelines are not ideal, Kennedy said, but are the administration's attempt to "make the best out of what is a difficult situation."

Administrators had defended the onespport rule at the Board of Education meeting, saying that it was designed to protect the students physically and academically. They cited a CIAC rule which prohibits high school athletes from playing on more than one team per season.

Board member Dyer, however, said that the policy had far-reaching ramifications which could hurt organizations like Little League baseball, bowling leagues, running or swimming clubs, and Recreation Department programs.

Dyer also said the decision of whether to let a student play on more than one team should be left up to the student's parents and physician. The schools should not take that decision away, Dyer said.

Book fair set

BOLTON — The PTO will be sponsoring a book fair for elementary school kids next week at the K-4 building.

The public is welcome Wednesday from 6:30 to 9 p.m. There will also be an open house that time for parents and friends. Teachers will be on hand to discuss the curriculum.

Fire departments muster

COVENTRY — The two-in-town fire departments will square off against each other in a muster Sunday before the town hall beginning at 1 p.m., after the 11 a.m. road race.

It will be the first time the North and South Volunteer Fire Departments go against each other in the competition for efficiency and effectiveness in different aspects of firefighting and rescue activities.

The competition will include hand hoisting, midnight alarm and others, and a possible tug-of-war.

Zinsser said a copy of a secretary of the state's report describing the law was filed with the town clerk in June. He said an assessor's report, (Swenson) Wall and myself, and even (Democrats) Sen. Marcella Fahey and Rep. John J. Woodcock have done a good job in representing Manchester," said Zinsser. "Any time we are needed, we've been there. It works two ways."

Penny and McCavanagh said last week they would propose an ordinance as next Tuesday's board meeting, so qualified Manchester veterans could take advantage of the law.

"This isn't the only incorrect quote he's made," Zinsser said of Penny. "This is something that I would expect from Mr. Penny. But, quite honestly, I'm surprised Jim got involved."

Joyner and Zinsser both charged that the Board of Directors, controlled by the Democrats, has done a poor job of keeping in touch with the General Assembly delegation.

Joyner said he went before the board in February 1980 to tell directors about a program in which the town could issue risk-free revenue bonds to fund housing construction and repair. He said West Hartford used that program to finance $11 million worth of housing. He said Manchester failed to take advantage of it. The program expired in 1981.

Fire damages house

BOLTON — A fire Friday night caused minor structural damage to a house on Hebron Road.

The cause of the fire is undetermined, according to Capt. David Drew of the Bolton Fire Department. The fire apparently started inside an exterior wall, Drew said, in an area where the owner had been burning paint off the wall a few days ago.

The house is owned by Daniel Whelan.

Drew said the damage is estimated at $10,000. The fire burned through the wall, Drew said, and went up into a large inside closet. The house is still livable, he said.

The fire was apparently noticed by a neighbor who turned a garden hose on the fire and kept it under control until the fire department arrived.

The Bolton Fire Department was assisted on the scene by fire departments from Andover and Hebron. Fire departments from North Coventry and Columbia stood by.

Bush to stump for Guglielmo

Vice President George Bush and his wife will be in Connecticut Oct. 13 to campaign on behalf of Republican congressional candidate D. Anthony Guglielmo.

Diane Locke, Guglielmo's press secretary, announced the plans Thursday. Bush and his wife, Barbara, will be in Old Saybrook for a fund-raising event for Guglielmo.

Bush is also campaigning for D. Anthony Guglielmo, a candidate for gubernatorial candidate Lewis B. Rome.

What candidates are saying

Congresswoman Barbara B. Kennedy, D-District, announced the appointment of Herbert J. Stevenson, of 46 Kennedy Road, and Judith S. Pitts, of 53 Winthrop Road, as her Manchester campaign coordinators.

Stevenson is the Democratic registrar of voters, a member of the W.J. Irish Insurance Agency. She also is associated with Goodchild-Bartlett Travel in outside sales.

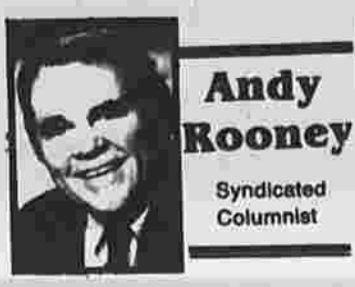

Mrs. Pitts is a member of the Democratic Town Committee.

Big Bird tells all

A rare look inside the Sesame Street character

By Susan Pleso Herald Reporter

Lament of a non-fanatic

Even those of us who don't care much one way or the other about baseball usually begin to get mildly interested at this time of year. I couldn't help noticing, for instance, that the St. Louis Cardinals were the first of four teams to reach the semifinals. The semifinals are called the playoffs in baseball and several other professional sports that don't want to end the season with a winner too soon. They don't want to end while there's another dollar to be got out of the fans.

This is the time of year you begin to hear people say, "I'm a Red Sox fan" or "I'm a Baltimore fan." It always lends a little class to being a fan if you root for a team other than the one that plays in your hometown. If you move from Cleveland to Philadelphia and continue to cheer for the Cleveland Indians, you get extra points as a fan. The Los Angeles Dodgers and the Brooklyn Dodgers and the New York Giants. They've both been gone for more than 20 years but there are still a lot of New Yorkers cheering for those teams. I like that kind of non-provincial loyalty.

I'VE NEVER been a fan of any baseball team, but if I followed the game at all, I'd get my kicks out of hating the New York Yankees and hoping they'd lose. The Yankees were used to be a good team to be for. They were everybody's great about baseball. They were Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig, Joe DiMaggio and Mickey Mantle. They were the All-American Good Guys in the pinstripe baseball uniforms.

Those Yankee glory days are gone. Today all the Yankees represent is the Big City, Big Money and a greedy owner who thinks he can win the World Series every year by paying for it. He hires and fires players so quickly that it's difficult for even a die-hard Yankee fan to keep track of who's on his first.

To be loved and followed by a fan, a team can't start all over with new players every year, no matter how good they are as individuals. To be loved, a team has to hang on to some of its old-timers past their prime. Management has to show that it's loyal to its players because fans like it that way. People like knowing the players and knowing their idiosyncrasies. That's part of the fun of being a fan.

LAST YEAR George Steinbrenner, the Yankee owner, fired Reggie Jackson, his home run hitter, because the year before he had hired another home run hitter, Dave Winfield. Dave Winfield is a very good, dull ballplayer. Reggie Jackson probably was never as good, but he was easier to love to hate and that's what brings the fans in.

It's interesting to try to figure out why Steinbrenner hasn't been very successful with the Yankees. Man for man, position for position, he has probably hired the best players in baseball, but as a team they've a flop. This year they've lost five or 10 more games than they've won and they're down around the bottom of their division. Steinbrenner will probably do the same thing this year that he did last. He'll see two or three great ballplayers around the league and offer them millions of dollars to switch to the Yankees. They will almost instantly become less good at hitting and fielding than they were with their old teams.

Sportswriters are always talking about the mystique of winning. Coaches like Vince Lombardi and Knute Rockne and our U.S. Olympic hockey coach, Herb Brooks, had it. There are other people who seem to have a knack for putting together a losing team. George Steinbrenner of the Yankees has it. It isn't easy to have a team finishing close to last, the way the Yankees are, with talented players they have, but Steinbrenner has imbued them with a losing spirit. He instills a lack of confidence, a disinterest in winning and a depressing team spirit that has permeated every Yankee team of recent years.

That career has included gigs this summer in Atlantic City, and at Las Vegas.

CARROLL SPINNEY IN HIS BIG BIRD COSTUME he appeared Tuesday in a class at Storrs.

"But it gradually dawned on us that he should be a child — a 4-year-old," Spinney says. "The Bird is someone small children can identify with — someone just like them."

"He's a very innocent person," Spinney says of his alter ego. "He's almost 6½ now, but I don't think he should ever get to be 7."

AND FOR A BIRD who's barely made it to first grade, he certainly is big. Spinney's costume is so large that he must literally climb into it.

Once inside, Spinney's right hand, held high above his head, works Big Bird's beak. His little finger works the eyes, making them turn or blink open and shut. The left arm is thrust into a wing.

But acting like a contentionsist isn't enough. Spinney also has to wear a TV monitor inside so that he can see where Big Bird is going. The monitor also enables him to see if the Bird is looking in the right direction when he is talking to another character.

Big Bird's costume itself is made of 3,000 real turkey feathers. His tail is made of real ostrich plumes.

The plumes were contributed by a colleague who collected them. Spinney says, but real feathers in the 1980s. They are replaced one by one in the tail as they wear out.

"BUT THIS IS THE LAST OF them," Spinney says, but real feathers in the 1980s. They are replaced one by one in the tail as they wear out.

And the Bird has never met Spinney, the puppeteer asserts. "A puppeteer is empowered and controlled by the puppet to be a great degree," Spinney says. "I lose myself in performance."

Marilyn Beck Syndicated Columnist

Vegas MGM Grand, where she's set for a return appearance next month. Next month will also see her starring in the CBS suspense movie, "Hotline," and hosting her tennis classic to be aired on the U.S.A. Network.

And then there's her fifth variety show which is set to go into production this fall. "I'm still working out the format. I'd like to take it out of the studio, make it a little more spontaneous than the others have been, do a little more dancing, maybe do some numbers with children. I'm eager to try things that are different now. I feel charged with energy. And couldn't be any more happy with my life."

TV TRAUMAS — "Gimme a Break" star Neil Carter was rushed to Century City Hospital late last week with what is being described as "exhaustion." She'll be absent from the series for at least a month. I'm told NBC was first made aware of Neil's condition when she failed to report for taping of the series last Friday (8-17) and when representatives of the show, dispatched to her house, were immediately aware that she was in no condition to work.

According to a Lamas aide, the accident occurred and that reshooting of those segments will now have to be done.

THE CABLE CORNER: Leonard Nimoy will host a series of 12-hour cable shows for the Warner-AmEx children's "nickelodeon." Called "Stand By Lights, Camera, Action," the program, being produced by Michael Baumohl, will feature a behind-the-scenes look at movie making and will be shot around the world, and assembled in New York.

"I'm not photographed because it takes away from the puppet," he continues. "I'd rather be (Big Bird) be famous."

Like the bird-child he plays, Spinney still is surprised by some things. "A lot of children think Big Bird is real," he says with delight.

Letters from children say things like, "Please come and play with me," or "I have a double bunk and you can sleep on top."

Spinney may be one of the country's most famous. In most puppeteers, but he's also an actor. And he speaks candidly about his life on stage.

"PEOPLE WHO LIKE PUPPETS are eccentric," he says. "It helps in their work. For me, it's therapeutic. You can be things you aren't, say things you ordinarily couldn't say. Acting is a release, puppetry is acting with the end of your arm."

Spinney also hits a smattering of other topics, usually in response to a student's question. About the other characters, he says:

"Susan is a fur stole and Corodoba type person. (For purposes of the show, however), she's always crawling out from underneath a car."

On Snuffleupagus, Big Bird's semi-imaginary friend: "It takes two men to work him. One man is all hunched up in back, and he doesn't even have any hooves to be seen."

"Show business is always like that," Spinney says with a shrug. They worry about the performance, not how comfortable the guy is."

On travel: "We used to buy Big Bird a seat on the airplane — he's under 6 and he gets half fare." Spinney says with a laugh.

"BUT NOW HE TRAVELS cargo, in a barrel. It's awkward getting around airports."

Does anything make the yellow fellow see red? Does anything ruffle his feathers? Only one thing, Spinney says. It's imposters.

He ran into an ersatz Big Bird one year at a local department store, he says. A big sign said: "Come meet Big Bird from Sesame Street."

There, in all his finery, was a fake — "a man in a red and white felt suit with a jacket undershirt and a beak made out of shoe box lids."

Spinney says a little 2-year-old, dragged over by her mother, said, "That's not Big Bird." Her imaginative mother kept insisting it was.

Spinney brought the charade to the attention of a manager, and then referred to a lawyer. The store promised never to play that game again, though a year later Spinney says he saw the same thing. "It's a rip-off of the public," he says indignantly.

Does Spinney, aged 13 years, have any urge to quit, or to graduate to another character? Or will he remain forever yellow-feathered?

"At times I get frustrated, like other jobs," he says. "But I can't imagine stepping out from it." Big Bird may be around for yet another generation of the Sesame Street bunch.

News for senior citizens

Center members are doers

Editor's note: This column is prepared by the Manchester Senior Center. It appears in the Manchester Herald on Saturdays and Wednesdays.

By Jeanette Cove Senior Center Director

Seniors as well as other community members use the center as a resource center, where they get information about services and programs. Recently, we had many calls regarding the need for a senior to babysit for working parents.

Needless to say, we do not have a pool of seniors looking for child care positions. It is important to point out that these seniors who are in need of work are looking for positions that pay at least the minimum wage.

The image portrayed at the Senior Center is not one of people who come to the center to sit. Manchester senior citizens are doers. They do not come because they have nothing to do, but fit the center into their schedules as only one of their activities.

Granny is no longer sitting in her rocking chair. She is taking new skills, preparing for the Nov. 6 crafts show.

The 10th annual Variety Show will have auditions on Nov. 28 from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m. at the Center. Marci and Roger Negro report that the show (scheduled for April 1983) will include the best of the past nine years. Its theme is "Let's Do It Again."

Marci asks that you start saving paper towel tubes.

A new program that will start Oct. 12 at 10 a.m. is entitled "Food to Save Health, Time and Money."

Gloria Weiss, a registered dietitian, will lead the program.

Programs will include food preparation, tasting, and take-home recipes. These will be weighed-in at the end of each session for those who are interested in weight control. The group will meet for a maximum of 12 weeks.

Also starting next week is a new program called "The Law and Senior Citizens." These group meetings will be conducted by the Neighborhood Legal Services and will include sessions on Social Security, Medicare and other public entitlement programs; the court system; wills, and housing as it relates to ownership and condominium conversion. The program will run for five consecutive Thursdays starting Oct. 7 at 9:30 a.m.

Blood pressure screening will take place on Wednesday from 9 to 11 a.m. and will be conducted by the Public Health Nurses Association. Please make note of other program schedules.

Fire prevention: it's worth the effort

DEAR READERS: Tomorrow marks the 60th anniversary of Fire Prevention Week, and I have had so many requests to repeat my column on fire prevention that it has become a tradition. So here it is, with updated figures:

In 1981, 6,823 Americans died in fires, of which 123 were firefighters. Nearly 300,000 civilians, plus 100,000 firefighters, were seriously injured in 2,693,500 fires.

The total fire loss in 1981 in property alone was over $6.5 billion in the U.S.

The chief causes of fires, in order of the toll taken were:

1. Smoking.

2. Wood and coal stoves.

3. Electrical wiring and appliances.

4. Children playing with matches.

5. Gas-fuel cooking and heating.

Now for some tips that could save your life:

most large fires start as small fires. So, invest in a compact, easy-to-use fire extinguisher. Keep it handy in your kitchen, or be sure you have one in every room. Don't run cords under rugs or over radiators where they may get damaged. Replace a cord if it is frayed.

Never use flammable liquids for dry-cleaning indoors.

Never smoke in bed.

Have a fire drill in your home to be sure everyone knows what to do in case of a fire. Designate a specific meeting place outside so you will all know who's outside of the house.

Remember: Fire extinguishers put out 97 percent of all fires on a few minutes.

Buy and install smoke detectors and then properly maintain them. They should be cleaned often with the vacuum cleaner hose so that they are dust-free. It is estimated that thousands of lives could have been saved last year had smoke detectors been in service when the fire happened.

Now, in case of fire:

If you suspect fire, alert the rest of the household. But first feel the top of the door. If it's hot, don't open it. Escape through the window if you can't open the door. Break it with a chair. Cover the rough edges with a blanket, sit on the window ledge with one leg hanging outside and one inside, and wait for help.

The phone number of your fire department should be taped on every telephone. If it isn't, don't be fumble around trying to find it. Get out and call from a neighbor's house.

Here're readers' tips

By Martin Sloane

Here are some good time and money-saving tips sent in by readers:

Gloria Bannon, of Rumenside, N.J., has a solution to the problem of "generic" refund checks:

"I record my refund requests in a spiral notebook and give each one a code number. When I fill out my address on the refund form, I put the code number after my street address. For instance, for my 513 refund request, I write my street address, 425 Clements Road, and I add the number 513 after the word 'Road.' Sure enough, when I receive my refund, the second line will read '425 Clements Rd. 513.' In this way, even if the check doesn't identify the refund offer which it was for, I see the address and know for sure."

Leon Mark of Leavenworth, Kan., wrote to tell me how she teams up with her working relatives to do some money-saving refunding:

"Since I am a non-working retiree, I have more time than money. I have teamed up with a working sister and we go to the store to refund together. They save their refund national brand 'trash' which I pick up several times a month."

Volunteers to follow relocation plans today

Editor's note: This column is prepared weekly by the staff of the Manchester Area Conference of Churches.
By Nancy Carr
Executive Director
Manchester Area Conference of Churches

In the event of nuclear attack or of presidential declaration of imminent threat of nuclear attack, the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) has developed a plan to move 62,000 Connecticut residents to Vermont, 377,000 to Massachusetts, and 437,000 to upstate New York.

Each family unit will be responding today as though they had just received a notification of crisis relocation from the governor. Each will follow the directions that apply to their particular situation. They will pack, follow evacuation routes, and assess the local situation once they reach the designated host areas.

For the second time in one month we've received a significant contribution to the Room At The Inn fund. These are designated monies to feed and house those re-entraining the community from correctional or mental health institutions.
