And what about some of the bears who were dead wrong in their market judgment? What do they think

For starters, it's worth noting the market's diverse reaction to that incredible post-election explosion las Wednesday in which the Dow ballooned over 43 points. The overriding view is that the big run-up came about because the Republicans avoided the bloodbath that some political pundits were predicting. Accordingly, the pros conclude that the masses are still buying Reaganomics - which apparently suggests the prospects of further market gains in the face of a growing perception of a gradually improving economy. ON THE OTHER HAND, a few analysts credited the rise to the Democratic gains in Congress. "That means," says one of them, "that we'll re-inflate, spend more money and the economy will get better." Maybe one Wall Street trader summed it up best

"You don't confuse brains with a bull market." he says: "you just buy, sit back and enjoy."
Forecasts of a pullback in the Dow to perhaps the 940-980 range are conspicuous. But these are being heralded or the most part as little more than the normal correct tions one might expect in an ongoing bull market. The general view is that the likelihood of a further decline in interest rates, coupled with the prospects of increased capitulation by the short sellers (the fellas betting on lower stock prices), adds up to still more market sizzle As such, predictions of a 1,150 and 1,200 Dow in '83 are all over the place. If you believe that, what stocks do you buy? One significant clue - keeping in mind the sharp price advances that have already taken place - is the buying activity of the big institutional investors.

A JUST-COMPLETED private analysis of the October sales and purchases in roughly 1,000 institutional portfolios - embracing over $100 billion of assets shows General Motors, IBM and Tandy Corp. (in that order) to be the most heavily bought stocks.

On the other hand, Evans Products, Minnesota Mining & Manufacturing and PepsiCo were the three the in stitutions dumped the most. A full listing of the top 20 purchases and sales, as compiled by Indata Services of Southport, Conn., can be ound in an accompanying chart. Since the overwhelming perception is that we're in a bull market, I rang up the single best stock picker I've net in the 15 years I've been writing about Wall Street He's 40-year-old Jim Rogers, a onetime money manager who's now a private investor. Rogers, who parlayed $600 into $14 million in 12 years, is a long-term bull on the market at this juncture. His reasoning: We've broken the back of inflation and we should have a strong

Colt announces more furloughs

HARTFORD (UPI) - More manufacturing workers face the unemployment line because of layoffs this week at Colt Firearms plants in Hartford and West Hartford Slow commercial gun sales were blamed Monday for the third round of lavoffs in four months at Colt, a division of Colt Industries Inc. Colt's latest cutbacks will affect 180 production workers, raising to 655 the number of employees laid off since August. "I would hope this is it, but in today's economy, I don't know if anybody can predict," said Donald J. In August, Colt laid off about 350, or 25 percent, of its workers with a pledge employment would remain steady through the end of 1983. A month later another

Rogers, essentially a long-term investor, is gung-ho on the mobile home stocks — specifically on those in-volved in manufactured housing. The era of the stickbuilt house is over because it's too costly, he says. His top choice: Oakwood Homes. He also likes Skyline, Fleetwood Enterprises and Mobile Home Industries.

MOTOR HOMES ARE ALSO favored by our market whiz because of lower gas prices and an improving economy. And here he likes Winnebago Industries, with Fleetwood also a participant. Citizens & Southern Bank of Georgia, described as a fast-growing, turnaround situation, is another Rogers

HE WENT ON TO SAY that "the whole rally is based on a house of cards" - that "we're not out of the woods economically and we're not going to solve the (debt) problems of Mexico, Brazil, Poland, or you name the country, overnight.

However, the strength of the market is such that the dvisory firm is not nearly as bearish as in the past. Its latest reading: The market's in a topping process that should take the Dow down to around 900 between mid-December and early January.

As Campbell sees it, if the Dow, at around Christnastime, has managed to hold above its August '82 low of around 780, that would signal another big leg upward of at least 100 to 150 points. On the other hand, he says a Dow closing at that time of below 780 would mean the bull market is over. GOP directors: stop paramedics

By Richard Cody Herald Reporter

The Republican minority on the Board of Directors Monday unexpectedly called for a halt to work on the developing paramedics

Presenting a unified front at an afternoon press conference, they said they want to re-evaluate the because it no longer resembles the concept voters ap-proved at a referendum last year. They said that for varying reasons has developed into a program most people wouldn't favor if they knew about it. And they said they want to stop it in its tracks for close scrutiny before the town becomes egally and financially "tangled."

IRA takes bomb blame

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) - The outlawed Irish Republican Army claimed responsibility today for a boobytrap car bomb that killed an off-duty policeman

The IRA said it regretted the death of the woman passenger, but warned that "anyone associating with the security forces was at risk." The Tuesday attack came two days before the opening of the controversial Northern Ireland Provincial Assembly.

The slain policeman, Detective Constable Gary Ewing, 31, died immediately in the explosion which occurred as he drove away from a recreation center in Enniskillen, 75 miles west of Belfast, near the border with the Irish Republic

Helen Woodhouse, an employee of the recreation center who had accepted a ride home from Ewing, died as she was en route to a hospital.

The car, a blue Toyota Corolla, was blown up with the use of an automatic switch device when about 200 vards from the center," the police spokesman said. The officer's body was found near the car, witnesses said.

p.m. Saturday when the car he was driving swerved on Route 9 and struck one of several police cruisers pursuing him for making an illegal turn in Groton. The board of selectmen met this week to investigate the incident because the town of Old Lyme has a written policy forbidding high speed chases.

Trooper spokesman John McLeod said Eddy fled when a Groton police officer approached his car after he made the illegal turn. He then drove onto Interstate-95 and hit speeds exceeding 100 mph, McLeod said. Several other cruisers had joined in the chase by the time Eddy's car flipped over after hitting a cruiser driven by Old Lyme constable Stewart Dapson. The outh was thrown from his car and died later at PROVIDENCE, R.I. (UPI) - Four people have been arrested in connection with a string of five separate veekend, shocking residents and puzzling police. Robert Lamoureux, 23, of Central Falls, was ordered held without bail Tuesday in the stabbing death of a 27year-old Pawtucket woman Saturday.

Lamoureux was arrested Monday in his Central Falls home where police found a kitchen knife believed to be No one has been charged yet in the murders of a young Johnston couple, but police said they are getting a number of telephone tips and have "two or three strong possiblities" for solving the shotgun slayings.

Donna Marie Hicks, 18, a former state gymnastics champion at Mount Pleasant High School and Robert E.

Leveille Jr., 19, of Providence were killed when a 12gauge shotgun was fired four times through the window of their parked car in Johnston.

The result in Pennsylvania where the unemployment rate is 11.5 percent, is another indicator. Less than a week before the elec tion, Republican Gov. Richard Thornburgh led Democrat Allen Ertel by 15 points in a poll conducted by Teeter, and his approval rating remained at an impressive 67 percent.

But he won by only four points in this case because although turnout in Pennsylvania declined slightly overall, it rose among hard-core Democrats in Philadelphia and elsewhere. The result was that Republicans in general took a bath in Pennsylvania, losing four con one house of the state legislature.

The one apparent exception to this trend in the industrial belt was in Michigan, where Republican Richard Headlee ran a closer race than expected in the state with the nation's highest memployment rate before losing to Democrat James Blanchard. But professionals in both parties attributed that largely to the fact that, as one put it, "there were two terrible candidates and two terrible campaigns.''

The national turnout pattern is the same. According to Curtis Gans, a leading expert on voter participation, overall turnout increased about 2 percent from 1978, to slightly over 40 percent of those of voting age. Turnout was generally higher in the Midwest, nixed in the Northeast, down in the Far West and up in the South, where it usually increases as

What is obvious is that to the extent the White House raised the salience of Reagan and anomics, the answer that came back from the voters was a loud negative. As Martin Franks, executive director of the paign Committee, said of newly elected Democrats in the House, "most of them won by being national Democrats."

The White House will argue that there was no way they could have avoided having the 1982 results read as a referendum President Reagan and his policies. There is some obvious validity in that.

But what the White House cannot escape is the belief amor many Republicans that Ronal Reagan's personal campaigning made things worse rather than better — and that the White

I wondered. And, to find out, I visited Manchester's three high school cafeterias and one unofficial annex — the Seven Eleven Food Store on Main Street.

Going back to Manchester High School was a nostalgia trip for me. I am a graduate and a former

MHS teacher. I am also a veteran of MHS cafeteria du-

Some bought the featured lunch, milk, cheeseburger and cranberry salad that day; 12 bought sandwiches; 16 bought salad plates; and the other 22 ought snacks - cake, chips, ice cream or cookies, often with milk. It is fair to assume that some of the snackers had eaten lunch first, purchased at school or brough

Breakfast snacks, available during much of the first three periods, include milk, hot chocolate, coffee (not popular), doughnuts, bagels, coffecake, juice and fruit. From observation and from comparison of quantities sold to the number of students I'd say at most 50 percent of the students are shopping regularly in the cafeteria. Extra subsidies are available for families in need of them, so money can't be the whole story. Is 50 percent right? Without offering my figures, I asked Frank Lynch, a senior, how many of his friends ate at school.
"About half of them go out," said Frank.

"Where?" I asked. "Burger King, McDonalds, home."

'Why do they go out?" I asked 'Just to have a break . . . I don't know. I used to eat ere last year. The food was pretty good." 'Where do you eat now'

Following Frank's lead, I dropped by the Seven-Eleven just around the corner on Main Street. Sure enough, there they were, or there were those who fidn't have cars to get them further afield. Suzanne was there and Jane and Kim and Ann Marie and another Jane, all sophomores, lunching cheerfully under the Notality Loitering sign, eating chips and Doritos and soda. The talk and the cheerfulness were great — part of that special teenage animation that makes high school teachers like their jobs.

Shane and Tom and Peter and Greg were there too along with Steven and Rick and David and Eric, eating ourritos and hot dogs and chips and drinking soda.

They all appeared delighted to have escaped life's more pressing obligations on a beautiful October day. "Why?" I asked anyway. Why not eat in school?
"The food," said Greg. The burrito he was eating realy didn't look all that had.

"You get more food for the price," said Steven. Not o, except for hot dogs and soda by the quart. I wasn't about you in the paper.

ADULTS CALL IT JUNK FOOD . . . kids call it snacks

Sheridan didn't emerge, so I went in search of him. He is Sheridan Vernon, franchise owner, manager of his own store, substitute teacher, and man who knows kids. He knows what they like to eat, too - anything heavily advertised on television. That means mostly chips and nuts and soda. But they like sandwiches, too, and Sheridan makes good thick sandwiches, contents visible inside the plastic wrap. What else? Pizza slices.

The kids also buy lots of individual containers of fruit juice and V-8. I'd seen them ignore plastic cups of juice at the high school. They buy brand names, it seems.

How about beer, available to customers 19 and over?
"We have to see their I.D.'s," said Vernon. Pressed to expand on day-time use of beer by high-school studand went on to explain that not even the police could top someone who came in sober and had a valid I.D. The topic switched quickly to the man he pays to clean,

East Catholic High School

On to East Catholic. The cafeteria is cheerful, attractive blue and white accented by four colorful soda machines lining the end wall. "How many sodas a day are consumed, I wondered.

'About 25 cases," said Tom Benoit, who is in charge been a Student Council project, but the school had assumed responsibility for them.

The Seiler Corp. is handling East Catholic's cafeteria service this year. Bob Lowney, East Catholic manager for Seiler's, sells the leatured meal, usually a pasta or meat and vegetable to between 35 and 100 students a day. This is 2.5 to 7 percent of the student body. Students more often buy sandwiches, beverages and snacks. As at MHS, they are not ready for a full meal at one sitting. David Lanciano, an East Catholic freshman science breakfast and lunch totals from one line and from the soda machines - one morning period and one later. Bob Lowney and I used register tapes to fill in records from the other line. Between us we found that in an average breakfast period students bought: 70 sodas from the machines, 60 doughnuts, 22 breakfast sandwiches (egg on a roll), 15 Devil Dogs, 24 milks, 24 cups of soda, six bagels and five popcorns. At lunch they bought 90 orders of fries, 85 cans of soda, 63 burgers (cheese and plain), 31 hot dogs, 27 cups of soda, 24 nilks, 22 Devil Dogs, 16 ice creams, 10 grinders, eight hot sandwiches, eight cold sandwiches, seven featured lunches, and six soups. Apples and oranges were ignored that period. Each sampled period represents oneseventh of a school day.

sidy to bring prices down - is sold at slightly-betterthan fast food restaurant prices.

TYPICAL ITEMS and their costs: hamburger, 60 cents; fries, 60 cents; hot meatball grinders, 99 cents; soup, 30 and 45 cents depending on size Sean Meehan, a junior, wandered into my chemistry lab one afternoon and quickly found himself under interrogation. Why wasn't he eating the school lunch, I

He answered that he was still getting used to the food service. He had tried a hamburger last week, though, and found it much better than the one had tried last month. Sean said he thought he'd try the hamburgers again. You have to give these new people time, he said. In the hopes of getting students more interested in good eating habits, Lowney has offered them a free pamphlet titled "Seiler's Shape Up Program."

Response has been good, he said. Perhaps the pamphlet will have some effect on soda consumption at East Catholic, currently running at one soda or more per day for almost 60 percent of the stu-

Cheney Technical School

Chency Tech has a beautiful new addition to its cafeteria, with huge windows looking out on blue sky and green hemlocks. And the cafeteria is as clean as it is unny. Short lunch periods (20 minutes) help, leaving little time for the socializing that leads to messes. Small groups in the cafeteria help, too - no one is really out from under the eye of the staff. Another thing which imions was getting rid of the soda machines. said Sandra Beckwith, the school nurse. No more spilled Cokes and soda cans all over. Mrs. Beckwith also feels nutritional needs are better met with the machines out of the cafeteria.

More than one third of Cheney students, buy the featured meal of the day (almost half the day I was there), and most of the rest bring substantial bag lunches which they supplement with milk, juice, whole fruit and snacks.

'Why?" I asked again "I've got hungry kids," said Dr. Lawrence Lerardi,

Cheney principal "Why?" I asked faculty members eating their own lunches at the end of the cafeteria. Faculty members had two more reasons. A lot o Cheney students go straight from school to work, and they have only two brief periods each day in the cafeteria, a 10-minute recess in the morning for beverages and snacks and 20-minute lunch. It was eat

They were eating then. That day Mrs. Frances Koehler had made them, for $1 30 a lunch; cube-steaks mashed potatoes, and corn, with bread and butter, milk and pudding or fresh oranges. I watched 29 buy that lunch (out of 61 who came through the lines then). They seemed to be appreciating it.

Conclusion

How do Manchester's high school students futures' look based on their present eating patterns? Awful. How many eat fruits and vegetables, not counting french fries with lunch? Little over one third of Cheney students, 20 percent at MHS, and almost no one at Eas

Who eats a high salt, high cholesterol lunch? Samples hamburger, french fries, whole milk; chips, santwich, ice cream. At least half of the students at each school. Most people would argue - they'd be wrong - that a hamburger, fries and milk are good for teenagers. Leave salt off the fries, substitute low-fat milk, add an apple, and nutritionists would come closer to agreeing How many Manchester students are getting through he day - more or less - on sugar and caffeine, with a ew high-fat, high-salt snacks thrown in? Very few of those whom I saw at Cheney; Too many at MHS and at East Catholic, where chips and snacks are big sellers. Soda, in school at East Catholic, and off-campus for MHS students, seems to be used by about half of the students. Some tighter surveys could be useful here Students, who wants to take a closer look?

Former 'Kotter' star is fan of reruns

It's been three years since "Welcome Back, Kotter" went off the air but the reruns have found a new audience-and that includes Lawrence-Hilton Jacobs. Jacobs, who played Washington on the hit series, is also one of the program's biggest fans. "But I really don't miss doing the show," Jacobs told People Exclusive. "I miss the guys and we get together as often as we can. In fact, we were together just a few weeks ago, John Travòlta (Vinnie), Bobby Heggyes (Epstein) and Ronnie Patillo (Horshack). They're all doing well, working at different things. "It was real funny, you know? We said, what the heck, let's goof around the streets in Los Angeles together for a while. And we did.

"It blew people's minds. They couldn't believe that it was really the four of us, back together again hanging around, singing songs and acting silly.

"At one point, we all climbed into Bobby's Volkswagen and rode around. We had the radio up real loud playing Beatles tunes and people would look and shake their heads. We ended up drinking a little wine and eating pizza and nobody could believe it. We really messed up their minds. We were in a nutty mood.

"But from a sentimental point of view, it was really great

Jacobs, who's now 29, took some time out after he did a Broadway play "and just rested-I needed that." 'It's not so, really, and let me tell you about how cool Perry Como is," says Williams, "When I did his show I was so scared I was shaking, you know being there on live TV with Mr. Cool himself. But you know what happened when I got close to him? My knees were shaking. But I sure enough there was his lower lip, shaking and he was really nervous. It was live TV and there we were, two guys really shaking. Can you imagine the great Perry Como neryous? The audience never knew.

Williams has Como on a pedestal and tells tales of Perry only with respect. "Let me tell you how relaxed he really is before going before the cameras. He takes a nap, always, just before his show. I watched this in awe. He sleeps in his underwear and socks. They wake him up five minutes before show time. They put his shirt and pants on, keep dressing him and touching up his make up as he is led to an elevator to the stage. So when he goes on he is really still half asleep. That's why he was so casual at the top of the

Both singers are avid golfers and now spend more time on the links than they do performing. Williams, 54, however, is seen on reruns on TV. HARTFORD (UPI) — A legal battle may be brewing behind the scenes of a television movie based on the celebrated "devil made me do it" murder trial of Arne

Cheyenne Johnson in 1981. Producers for the program reneged on verbal promises to help pay legal fees and expenses of the trial. Johnson's attorney, Martin Minnella, claimed Tuesday. But Preston Fischer, vice president of theatrical and television production for Dick Clark Television Productions, denied any agreement, verbal or otherwise, had been made with Minnella.

"We used public accounts and official records of the case and trial; we made no promises to anyone," said Fischer on location in Newport, R.I., where the movie is Fischer said the show, tentatively titled "The Rhode or $200 all the way to $10,000.

QUESTION: How will interest on the EE bonds be

ANSWER: Interest on EE bonds is compounded miannually and paid as part of the redemption value when you redeem your bond. Interest will accrue on a fixed increasing scale until you hold the bond five years. At that time, interest accrues at 85 percent of the average yield on outstanding five-year Treasury marketable securities for the entire period. Every six months, the Treasury will compute the average market

It's complicated (I think too much so), but don't bother trying to do it on your own. The rates will be announced and publicized - and you know the minimum you can get is 7.5 percent.

OUESTION: What about your outstanding bonds? ANSWER: If you hold your outstanding E, EE bonds and savings notes five years from this past Nov. 1, you will receive a market-based return or the guaranteed inimum rate, whichever is higher. If you cash your bonds within five years, you will receive the guaranteed return. If you need to cash in your bonds before the fiveyear maturity, you may cash in EE bonds any time six onths after burchase.

QUESTION: Why did the Treasury do this?

ANSWER: It had to act or permit the whole great savings bond program to go down the drain. Bonds were amount, with denominations ranging from $50, $75, $100 paying such non-competitive returns that payroll savings buyers had declined from 9.5 million in 1979 to 6 on today and the total outstanding had sunk from $80 billion to $67.5 billion. 1982 Product Show offers wide range of goods, services

One of the widest ranges of goods and services available to the American fami-ly will be gathered for public sampling at the first combined South Windsorchester Product Show to be held at the JES Industrial Park on Route 5 in-South Windsor on Nov. 12, 13 and 14.

Approximately 42,000 square feet of floor space in the former Merchandise Equipment Group (MEG) plant will be covered with over 170 booths from area companies, antique cars, an inter-national food fair and a child-care center.

Exhibitors listing their booth contents for the show, which is co-sponsored by the Greater Manchester and South Windsor chambers of commerce, indicate the main emphasis will be on products and services for the home, for the family automobile, for the "dining out" evening, and for the body.

Some of the home elements to be covered by the exhibits include: residential siding, electrical fixtures, residential lifts new furniture and reflicibles of tial lifts, new furniture and refinishing of old; cooling equipment, power equipment; coal, oil and wood heating equipment; kitchen equipment, draperies and slip covers, bathrooms, floor coverings, sewing machines, home decorating and cleaning emergency researchers. cleaning, emergency generators, glass cutting, swimming pools and jacuzzis. 1Heavy emphasis, in these days of energy conservation, will be placed by many exhibitors on energy savings, energy management, energy related products, replacement doors and win-dows and other valuable ideas for reducing the home energy bills.

Automobiles, motorcycles, racing bicycles will be featured for the visitors interested in straight transportation or recreational movement, whether on two wheels or four.

Local financial institutions, conscious of the revolution in money handling, will emphasize remoted automated tellers and other innovations in banking. In another example of the computer age, one insurance agency will provide in-stantaneous read-out insurance different companies.

wide selection of restaurants will supply American and foreign dishes for the hungry visitor, and other exhibitors will show you how to counteract the calories and select the fashions that suit you best. For those who find that "getaway" feeling coming on, there will even be a travel agency or two to help you plan that trip.

The 1982 Product Show will be open its doors Friday, Nov. 12 at 6 p.m. to 9 p.m.; and will run Saturday the 13th from noon to 9 p.m. and Sunday the 14th

In addition to the $1.50 discount tickets available at numerous outlets around the area prior to the show, general admission tickets will be available at the door at a price of $2. Children under 10 are free.

Cash Discount Card of America: an idea whose time has come

An idea who's time has come!

Cash Discount Card of America makes its consumer card debut at the fanchester and South Windsor Chamber of Commerce Product Show on Friday, Saturday and Sunday. . . November 12th, 13th and 14th. You may be asking yourself, "What is a CASH DISCOUNT CARD and where did it come from?" Simply stated, it is a national program initiated in California which unites connumers willing to pay for merchandise and services with cash, and merchants willing to discount for cash sales. Today's credit card costs to the conmer. as well as the merchant, make this concept beneficial to both.

William Peoples, a lifelong resident of Manchester, has recently opened the Greater Hartford Division of Cash Discount Card of America. Peoples is one of eight divisions operational in the state of Connecticut. Working primarily in the Manchester Area, Peoples and his staff have organized an attractive group of merchants in just eight weeks o operation. He feels confident the program will appeal to Manchester Area consumers. Peoples, an entrepreneur with a strong marketing background, feels his marketing plan for Hartford County will have a core of necessity-type merchants where consumers can save on eir weekly purchases. "The card will have wide appeal only if people can use it on a weekly basis for goods and services 9

"We have tried to organize what we call the Model Market Community." Included in the marketing concept are grocery stores, dry cleaners, package stores, gas stations, oil companies, restaurants and drug stores.

In just eight weeks of operation, Peoples and his staff have assembled this "Model Market Community" in the Manchester Area. "We've put forth a lot of thought and effort turning an idea into a reality. We feel we have a situation that will be of value to consumers and that will be of value to consumers and merchants alike," Peoples states. There are over ninety merchants and two hundred card holders already participating in the Cash Discount Card program, most of which do business east of the river. Some of the merchants that form the "Model Market Community" in Manchester include: Andy's Foodtown of Manchester. Charmons's Package Store Manchester, Cherrone's Package Store, Moriarty Brothers, Vanity Cleaners, B & B Oil Company and McCann's Texaco.

Andy's will introduce the program in its Manchester store and has the option to use the program in the other three stores if consumer demand cells for it. "We feel a supermarket is absolutely essential to the program. The agreement with Andy's of Manchester is for a 5 percent discount on all groceries with the exception of beer and cigarettes. This is unprecedented in the gracery business," states Peoples.

In addition, Cherrone's Package Store is offering up to a 20 % discount excluding weekly advertised specials, Vanity Cleaners offers a 10% discount for dry cleaning, B & B Oil Company rebates 5c to 7c per gallon on home heating fuel oil, Moriarty Brothers is offering an additional 3c off per gallon of gasoline in addition to the 4c Mobil discount program for a total of 7c per count program for a total of 7c per gallon, McCann's Texaco Station is offering 3c per gallon and 10% on parts and labor for service work. Along with the savings you will realize at these "necessity type" merchants, the Cash Discount Card of America will allow you to realize savings the next time you rent a car. Avis Rent-A-Car has signed a National Agreement with Cash Discount Card of America. In addition you can realize savings at three area florists, three area hair stylists, four area restaurants, a furniture shop, two appliance stores, two tire stores and over forty specialty merchants in the Manchester Area. "The cash paying consumer can realize substantial savings for their $35.00 annual fee," Peoples states. "The average family spends $4,000.00 per year in the grocery store; a 5% dis-count will save this family $200.00 annually. With the additional merchants on the plan, a consumer can realize up to

$1,000.00 per year in real cash savings. Promotion of the card begins with the "Product Show" and Peoples is prepared to market and promote the card in several ways.

Point of purchase, phone solicitation and newspaper advertising will be primary. You can purchase the card at the product show or clip the coupon at the end of this article. You will be able to buy the card at Andy's of Manchester's courtesy desk starting November 15, Cardholders and interested consume who visit the product show booth will be eligible for an attractive drawing for merchandise. Some of the prizes that will be drawn following the show will in-clude: $100.00 worth of groceries at An-dy's, $100.00 towards a Kero-sun heater or fuel oil at B & B Oil Company, $100.00 worth of gas at Moriarty Brothers, $100.00 towards an appliance at B.D. Pearl, and a case of wine from Cherrone's Package Store.

Perhaps it is time for the American people to move back to a cash flow my. Interest rates and inflation cut an incentive to make this move. Thanks to the hard work of Bill Peoples and his Hartford County office, the concept is a working reality in Manchester.

If you are interested in purchasing a card, stop by the Cash Discount Booth at the Product Show or mail the coupon Win Over $500.00 In Prizes.

PUT YOUR MONEY WHERE YOUR CARD IS.

If you're paying cash . . . you should be paying less. Now there is a card that can save you money every time you pay with cash. This card has changed the way people buy across the nation. It's the Cash Discount Card of America. When you present the Cash Discount Card at participating stores, you're going to receive savings from 5%, 10%, 20% and more, just by paying with cash.

The Cash Discount Card of America will be represented at the Manchester and South Windsor Chamber of Commerce 1982 Product Show. If you're interested in finding out more about us, come on down to the show . . . and cash in! If you can't make it to the show, call us for information at 646-5328.

With the Cash Discount Card of America, you can save on your grocery bills at Andy's Supermarket. Use your card at the pump, and save on gas at Moriarty Brothers. Oil savings are made easy with your card at B & B Oil Company. Use your card and say it with flowers at Park Hill Joyce Flower Shop. Get a bigger slice of the pie at Tommy's Pizzaria by using your card. At Cherrone's Package Store you can say it with spirits and your card. Clean up at Vanity Cleaners with your card.

House of Chung is successful as restaurant

The House of Chung is one of Manchester's most successful restaurants. This is probably because of its authentic Chinese cooking and reasonable prices.

The owner is Henry Chung of West Hartford who got his training in New York and at his father's restaurant in Hartford, Song Heys. He knows most facets of the restaurant business from top to bottom; he's worked as a dishwasher, waiter, cook, bartender, and finally owner and manager. Even today he'll fill in as a cook if necessary.

The success of the House of Chung is the result of Mr. 'Chung's diversity and background. Having lived in China until the age of 10, he's familiar with the cooks, who are also Chinese, many of them coming from Chinatown in New York City.

A couple of years ago, the restaurant was expanded to provide more dining area and a new exotic cocktail lounge. Its unique styling, including skylights, bamboo furniture, and many exotic plants, adds to the over-all green effect of the rooms.

The lounge's atmosphere is out of the ordinary, being reminiscent of a Hawaiian beach. The House of Chung specializes in tropical drinks with some of the favorites being Mai Tais, Pina Coladas, and Jungle Jims. One of the newest drinks is the Volcano which is served in a large bowl with a flaming

But drop by and look around. You'll be surprised at what you see. For example, you'll find gas-powered generators, rototillers, outboard motors and even lawmowers — all part of the Honda power products line.

The generators can be used for home or business. They range in capacity from 500 watts to 4500 watts, and owning one could generate a warm feeling the next time a blizzard knocks out your house current.

The rototillers, on the other hand, are a fair-weather product. Say you have your own garden and you're weary of heeing furrows. These labor-saving devices might be just the thing.

The outboard motors range in power from 7½ to 10 horsepower. Mount one of these on your skiff or motorboat and you've got the same quality Honda puts in their cycles at the back end of your boat.

The lawnmowers are another surprise. Who'd a thought it? Honda lawnmowers. But there they are. Either pushed or self propelled.

Yes, Manchester Honda has come a long way since the little place on Center Street in the mid Sixties. Then they had only 12 models of Honda motorcycles and eight models of Kawasaki bikes.

Today, Manchester Honda-Kawasaki is the largest Honda-Kawasaki dealer in the area. Situated on a 3½-acre tract of land at Adams Street, the dealership boasts 25,000 square feet of floor space in two modern buildings.

Preuss company started in 1911 as an art shop

The company started in 1911 in Rockville under the name Rockville Art Shop. The small enterprise advertised picture framing, custom awfings and imbrellas secovered. After a few years and several moves in Rockville the name was changed to W.H. Preuss Variety Store. Radio, or crystal sets as it was better known then were introduced and W.H. Preuss was active in the field. The company built & sold radios in that early 1931 the company became W.H. Preuss still making canvas awnings and selling radios, and large & small electric appliances. The business continued very much the same till 1944 when it was closed for a short time due to the death of W. H. Preuss.

In 1946, on the return of W.H. Preuss' sons from military service, the bus was resumed with the name being changed to W.H. Preuss Sons. The operation was similar to pre-war days with lawn equipment being added, followed by television sales & service.

The company was incorporated and an additional store in Bolton was added in 1964 which is its present location today. For over 70 years and 3 generations, policy of sales, service & parts remains the same. Lawn equipment, household appliances and awnings are still the major items of W.H. Preuss Sons Inc.

Fogarty Bros. sold coal first and switched to oil in 1947 by Bernard M. & J. Raymond Fogarty. It first dealt in strictly coal. However, nard Fogarty was employed by American Oil Co. prior to commencing his own business. It was very natural then, when Fogarty Bros. switched to oil in 1947.

The next eight years were a building period. Fogarty Bros. were determined to build a business of Reliability and Confidence. In 1954 the company moved to its present headquarters at 319 Broad Street in Manchester.

Mr. Bernard Fogarty passed away in 1966, his wife Catherine was determined that the confidence that had been built with customers of the company should and would continue as she took over the control of the business

John Fogarty graduated from Providence College in 1968, joining the company. The following four years to 1972 saw John in all divisions of Fogarty Bros. He was conversant with what Fogarty Bros. represented, and what their customers expected in the service and delivery side of the oil business. John Fogarty assumed the President's position in 1972. John was already looking into the next 20 years. He saw that customers would demand more than just delivery of oil. He planned energy saving equipment, plumbing services, and installing central air conditioning

General Oil makes a promise to help solve heating problems

General Oil promises to take more interest in you, and in helping you solve your heating problems, than any other oil company you've ever had.

We really do want to send you smaller heating bill.

By answering your energy conservation needs, guaranteeing you a steady supply of heating oil, and guaranteeing reliable service for your heating system, we know we'll keep you happy. (and that, of course, means good business for us.)

We offer easy 12-month payment plans that include the highest possible interest on your credit balance. No oil company pays more.

Once you become a customer and get to know the folks at General, we think you'll want to tell other people how satisfied you are. And to encourage you to talk about us, we even offer a referral bonus credit for any new customers you send our way. Still another way to reduce your heating bill.

Our president, Aaron Cook, wants to hear from you. If for any reason you're not satisfied with us, pick up the phone and talk right to him. You'll find everyone at General Oil, from the presi-dent on down, is eager to please you. (Yes, there is an oil supplier who cares.)

is handcrafted by designers from the U.S. and around the world.

Mr. Kumar enjoys doing business in the family business. He began his business in Canton and was located there for 2 years. He then sold his business and came to Manchester, looking for a new location. He found a place on Broad Street and opened up the store in 1978. The business expanded and a new location had to be found. The present location on Center St. was opened in 1982. Besides retailing, Mr. Kumar wholesales the merchandise to other businesses around

East-West Imports carries a variety of items: Fashions include designer lines of Indian clothing, South American and Mexican heavy sweaters, Alpaca wool ponchos and Ruanas, and Mexican Jerga shirts in various designs and price ranges. The store also carries the domestic designer line, Jessica of California (maker of Gunne Sax). The line includes prom gowns, wedding gowns, dresses and tops. This line sets a Victorian mood by bringing Romance into fashions with the touch of lace trim

The extensive gift line includes hand-crafted brass, Chinese fans, jewelry boxes, hand painted eggs, soapstone carvings and paintings, and much more. The store also carries fine handcrafted jewelry, mostly in sterling silver which

Power plants for emergency their specialty

Standby Power Systems, operated, by Edward and Raymond Berntsen and located at 81 Tolland Turnpike specializes in the sale of Emergency Power Plants. Our units have brightened blackouts, kept elevators running, com-puters thinking, refrigerators cooling and lights burning. They've kept critical surgery going and helped avoid panic and

We provide smooth quiet generator sets for recreation vehicles to provide better living electrically on the road. These units are also used in emergency mobile equipment such as the Neo-Natal unit from the University of Connecticut

Many of our customers have boats with generators. These provide off shore T.V., air conditioning, light and galley

Homeowners are becoming more aware of the importance of a Standby unit. When utility power is interrupted due to over burdening demand, electrical storms or mechanical breakdown, homes are left without lights, heat and other essentials of life. We here at Stand by Power are proud to be able to provide

" Here's some advice on how to buy a kerosene heater

Using small heaters to supplement the central system has gained a foothold in this country in recent years. Before buying a Kerosene Heater you should consider the cost of the heater, and fuel (and the payback you can expect), the work involved in running the heater, the question of safety, and the alternative types of heaters available. Here are some buymanship tips on kerosene

Until the Japanese-style kerosene heater was introduced here, the only kerosene heaters on the market were smelly, dangerous units not suited for use in homes. But the Japanese heaters set new standards by greatly reducing the odor problem and eliminating many of the unsafe features, and now careful owners should have few complaints or

As safe as the new models are, accidents still can happen. The Consumer Product Safety Commission estimates that at least 600 fires were caused by the heaters in 1980, and this was before the big sales year of 1981. Most kerosen heater fires are due to simple carelessness. That's why the National Kerosene Heater Association says the heaters require careful and constant heater you'll need, multiply the square footage of the room or rooms you wish to heat (to 70 degrees) by the number 28. A 7,200-Btu model, for example, would adequately heat a 16x16-foot room (256 square feet times 28 equals 7,168.)

To estimate your savings, figure that on the average you'll save about 3 to 5 percent on your heating bills for each degree you turn down the thermostat Thus, if you turn it down to 60 from 70 and heat the room you primarily live in to 70 with a kerosene heater, you can heating bills.

Another factor to keep in mind is how often you'll have to buy fuel and refuel the heater to keep it operating most of the time you're home. Most heaters have a one- to two-gallon tank. A 7,200-Btu model burns one gallon of kerosene to warm a 16x16-foot room for 20 hours.

Operating 12 hours a day, a heater would use about $27 worth of kerosene (at an average of $1.50 per gallon) in a month, and you'd have to refill the tank every other day. A 9,600-Btu unit will burn one gallon of fuel in 15 hours to warm a 8x20-foot room.

To estimate the payback period for a kerosene heater, subtract the cost of the heater and the kerosene you'll use from the savings you'll realize. As an example, if you estimate your $240 heater will use $160 worth of kerosene in a fourmonth heating season and will cut you months by 40 percent, you'll save about $320 on heating bills the first year, $80 less than you spent on the heater and

For more information, you can pick up manufacturers' brochures at retail stores. Also, a 48-page book, A Con-sumer's Guide to Kerosene Heaters, is available ($3.95) from PFS Consumer Information Center, 2402 Daniels St., Madison, WI 53704.
