Police cite prison 'confession'

A breakthrough in case of missing coed?

BOSTON (UPI) — Police investigating the mysterious disappearance 14 months ago of a Harvard graduate student fear a prison parolee may have dangled her overboard from his boat — named the "Evil Woman," authorities say.

Police today were seeking Leonard Paradiso's 26-foot cabin cruiser, which authorities believe may have been scuttled shortly after Joan Webster, 25, disappeared in November of 1981 from Logan International Airport.

Police said Paradiso, 41, of Revere, who was being held in jail awaiting trial for the 1979 murder of another woman, reportedly confessed his role in Ms. Webster's disappearance to a fellow prisoner.

The Boston Herald reported that Paradiso, who had also been paroled from prison in 1978 for the attempted rape of a hitchhiker, allegedly told the unidentified fellow prisoner at the Charles Street Jail he "took Webster out on this boat — way out and dumped her overboard."

The boat named the "Mala Femmia" — Evil Woman — used to be docked in Boston Harbor.

But authorities said they suspected it was scuttled shortly after the pretty, dark-haired graduate student disappeared Nov. 28, 1981 as she got off a flight after spending the Thanksgiving holiday with her family in New Jersey.

Her handbag and wallet were discovered four days later in a Saugus marsh six miles away — the same marsh where police say the 1979 murder victim's body was found.

A massive search was launched — including the dragging of historic Walden Pond, made famous by author Henry David Thoreau, on an anonymous tip. But no trace of Ms. Webster was found.

Her anguished parents, George and Eleanor Webster of Glen Ridge, N.J., have offered a $50,000 reward leading to her whereabouts and the conviction of those responsible for her disappearance. They could not be reached for comment.

The Boston Herald reported the inmate who tipped off authorities to Paradiso's alleged jailhouse remarks was given a polygraph test and it showed the informant to be truthful.

"We will evaluate the information received and continue to pursue the case until enough information is gathered to go before a grand jury," said Suffolk County First Assistant District Attorney Paul Leary.

Paradiso is awaiting trial for the August 1979 death of Marie Imuzzi of East Boston, whose body was found in the same marsh where police found Ms. Webster's handbag and wallet.

Paradiso was paroled from Walpole State Prison in 1978 for the 1973 attempted rape of a hitchhiker.

Winds, floods hit West

Beach houses and piers collapsed like tinkler toys under a pounding surf and hurricane-force winds that sent hundreds of people fleeing from homes along 700 miles of Southern California coastline. Winds up to 78 mph drove rain and snow from Arizona to Wyoming.

Six people were killed Thursday night when their twin-engine plane crashed in a severe thunderstorm near Scottsdale, Ariz.

Nine deaths were blamed on California's week-long series of storms and more high winds and tides were expected today.

Gov. George Deukmejian was expected to declare 16 counties and cities disaster areas today. Nels Rasmussen of the state Office of Emergency Services in Sacramento said.

The rains that pounded coastal areas turned to snow in the mountains, prompting winter storm warnings over the Tahoe Basin and the California Sierra Nevada.

In Arizona, up to 3 inches of snow was expected in the mountains during the night, and blowing snow and icy roads were forecast in the Colorado mountains.

Wind gusts up to 40 mph whipped a half inch of rain through Yuma, Ariz., and winds from 53 mph to 78 mph roared through Elk Mountain, Wyo.

Snow was scattered over the mountains of Nevada and changed to rain, which extended from eastern Idaho across western Utah, western Arizona and southern California.

Scattered snow dotted western Minnesota and rain reached from Georgia across the Carolinas as well as southern Florida.

Arctic cold froze the Midwest and Great Lakes, while record highs were reported in Idaho and Montana. It was minus 10 at Marquette, Mich., and Des Moines, Iowa, reported its first zero reading of the winter.

High surf caused the collapse of Santa Barbara as the Mexican and Malibu beachfront home and washed it into the Pacific. At least 100 homes along Malibu's 20-mile beachfront sustained damage.

"I've lived here 43 years myself and have never seen anything of this magnitude since a big storm devastated some homes in Redondo Beach in the 1960s," said Malibu lifeguard Capt. Steve Voorhes.

Reagan confident of GOP in 1984

By Helen Thomas
UPI White House Reporter

WASHINGTON — Forecasting an economic turnaround, President Reagan today said Republicans have "a good record to run on in 1984" but is not ready to reveal whether he intends to seek reelection.

Reagan made the remark before hundreds of top Republicans, who chanted "four more years" and "six more years," attended a farewell reception Thursday evening for outgoing GOP National Committee Chairman Richard Richards.

Richards, who had a rocky tenure, leaves his job today in favor of Sen. Paul Laxalt, R-Nev., Reagan's closest confidant on Capitol Hill and his personal selection for the party post.

Richards told Cable News Network in an interview that Reagan is the only Republican who can win the presidency in 1984, but cautioned, "If the economy doesn't improve by November, 1984, the nomination will be worth nothing."

"I think it's our do-or-die effort in the Republican Party," Richards said. "If Ronald Reagan can't win the presidency in 1984, no other Republican can."

Top White House aides have said they do not expect Reagan to announce his plans until after Labor Day.

The president told the enthusiastic GOP gathering, "I think our party is going to be in good shape in 1984, despite what you read."

Reagan said the party will do well because of its fund-raising ability, nuts-and-bolts organization and talented candidates, and added, "Let me say, the issues also will start to break our way as the economy improves and many of our problems begin to correct themselves."

"We're going to have a good record to run on in 1984," he declared.

"We want to urge you and Vice President (George) Bush to seek re-election and we will back you," Richards told him as the audience cheered and chanted, "Four more years!"

"You know I can't answer that now, but thank you," Reagan responded.

The president was spending the weekend in Washington and preparing to send his fiscal 1984 budget, with its $189 billion in red ink to Congress Monday.

Reagan also backed off, with a quip, his apparent gaffe in saying Wednesday it might be time to abolish the corporate income tax.

Jobs bill passage predicted this year

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Unemployment and what to do about it is the No. 1 issue on Capitol Hill, with leaders of both parties predicting passage of a jobs bill this year and individual members pushing forth plans of their own.

"The question is not if there will be a jobs program, but what it will look like," Sen. Dan Quayle, R-Ind., said at a news conference Thursday where he unveiled his four-point plan to deal with unemployment.

Quayle, who is a member of the Senate Budget Committee, said he was sure Congress could find the $2.1 billion necessary to pay for his plan, which would put 250,000 people to work by expanding existing federal labor-intensive programs.

He conceded the number of people that would be helped by his proposal is small compared to the nearly 12 million unemployed, about 18.4 percent, but he said by the time the one-year plan was over, the economy should be in a recovery.

Other parts of his plan would create a voucher system for unemployment benefits, increase funding for the dislocated worker retraining program, and encourage the federal government to target its procurement contracts in areas of high unemployment.

As the lawmakers discussed plans for a jobs bill, the Labor Department offered a glimmer of hope on the unemployment front.

It reported Wednesday that the number of American workers receiving regular state unemployment benefits dropped below the 4 million mark for the first time since last July.

At the same time, the department's Employment and Training Administration said new claims for benefits plummeted to 491,000 during the week ended Jan. 15, the lowest point in 16 months.

Presidential hopeful Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., introduced a jobs bill emphasizing repair, maintenance and rehabilitation of public facilities in high unemployment areas. It would cost $5 billion this year and $10 billion in fiscal 1984. Cranston said the legislation would create 1 million public jobs this year.

Earlier in the day, House Speaker Thomas O'Neill pledged to give a top legislative priority to passing a bill to help at least some of the nation's 12 million unemployed.

O'Neill said he hopes a Democratic jobs plan will be ready by late February or early March. He told reporters passage of the $5 billion to $7 billion program will be his top priority after approval of Social Security legislation.

Democratic Leader Robert Byrd of West Virginia said Senate Democrats will propose a federal jobs bill "at least" as large as the $5 billion plan they unsuccessfully pushed late last year.

And Senate Republican Leader Howard Baker said, "I would expect to see some sort of jobs bill this year," but cautioned, "It has to be a reasonable size, quick enough and not just make-work jobs."

Mubarak sees 'golden opportunity' for peace; but Israel holds firm

By Ohad Gozani
United Press International

Despite its claims of progress in the negotiations, withdrawing foreign forces from Lebanon, Israel remained locked in a dispute with the United States today on the terms for the pullout.

In Washington, President Reagan met Thursday with Egyptian President Hosni Mubarak, who warned the success of comprehensive Middle East peace talks depends on a speedy pullout of Israeli forces from Lebanon.

"The time factor is crucial to the success of our endeavors," Mubarak said afterward. "Top priority must be given to reaching an agreement to the withdrawal of Israeli forces."

"I believe the golden opportunity exists and that it would be a grave mistake to miss it," the Egyptian president said.

Reagan said after the meeting he had assured Mubarak there must be "an early withdrawal of all foreign forces" from Lebanon.

In his remarks, Mubarak mentioned the urgency of withdrawing 30,000 Israeli troops deployed in Lebanon since the June 6 invasion to drive out the Palestine Liberation Organization.

But a U.S. official said the 40,000 Syrian troops deployed in Lebanon since 1976 and 10,000 PLO guerrillas were expected to withdraw from Lebanon soon after the Israelis pull out.

Israel has demanded a simultaneous Israeli and Syrian troop withdrawal after a PLO pullout.

In the northern Israeli town of Kiryat Shmona, Israeli Foreign Ministry spokesman Avi Pazner said force withdrawal talks Thursday achieved "marked progress" toward ending hostile propaganda from Lebanon and creating lasting links between the two countries.

But as Israeli, Lebanese and U.S. negotiators met for the 10th round of the talks that began Dec. 28, state-run Israel Radio leaked details of what the government of Prime Minister Menachem Begin considers "unacceptable" U.S. proposals.

The radio said Habib rejected Israel's demand for Israeli-manned early warning stations in southern Lebanon to block the return of PLO guerrillas to the Jewish state's northern border.

Pazner said negotiation subcommittee, set up by Habib to work on the finer points of the withdrawal issue, will meet next week for the first time at the Israeli seaside resort of Netanya, and the following week in Lebanon.

DETROIT (UPI) — More than 21,000 General Motors Corp. workers at seven plants in six cities are celebrating the No. 1 automaker's announcement they will be recalled from indefinite layoff within the next three months.

"We're having a party," said Jim Schulte of Edmund, Okla., who found out Thursday he is among the 2,800 workers to be recalled at the Oklahoma City plant. "It absolutely put me back on my feet again. I've just been existing."

UAW Vice President Owen Bieber, who is slated to become the union's next president, said the announcement is "indeed good news."

In Fenton, Mo., a Chrysler Corp. executive said an agreement with the UAW will allow a truck plant ided since 1980 to reopen and produce the company's New Yorker line of luxury cars — another 13,000 will be on temporary layoffs in the nation's five auto manufacturers.

GM President F. James McDonald said his company's callbacks will be made possible by an increase in dealer orders resulting from an offer of 11.9 percent financing on new car loans.

The automaker's sales have risen for eight straight 10-day periods due to its offer of lower interest rates on new car loans.

Town, churches should aid homeless

When former state Rep. Walter Joyner first proposed an emergency shelter for the homeless street people last month, some thought it was a political gimmick designed to pave the way for a comeback. But Joyner demonstrated this week that he is serious about the idea and a committee, determined to make a shelter a reality this winter, began meeting. The committee was scheduled to meet again today with General Manager Robert B. Weiss, to ask that the vacant Spruce Street Fire House be opened as a place to put it bluntly — a flop-house.

Manchester Spotlight

By Paul Hendrie — Herald Reporter

The plight of the homeless has been brought vividly before the national conscience this winter, as a falling economy and inadequate social programs have put more people on the streets. Deinstitutionalization in mental health facilities is a trend that, translated into reality, puts people who need sophisticated care onto the streets with nowhere to turn.

Joyner, Vivian Ferguson, Bill Johnson and other members of the committee won't need to spend a cold night on Main Street, sleeping in dumpsters with the street people. — can you picture that? — to demonstrate the need for a shelter here.

THE NEED is obvious. Walk along Main Street some night and you'll run into a number of people wandering aimlessly, with no place to go. These people, many with histories of mental problems, can get along in the warm weather, by sleeping in parks, or other outside accommodations. But how do they survive those sub-freezing winter nights?

Some may find it hard to sympathize with the street people. They're on the periphery of society and many would prefer to pretend they're not there. But, as Joyner said, they're people too.

"We don't want to build a Holiday Inn for them," said Joyner. "Manchester really is in need of a good flop-house."

The town probably can find many reasons not to provide the space for the shelter, envisioned as a simple row of cots with blankets and a shower. The challenge is to find a way to make the idea work. This is a town with a well demonstrated knack of making creative ideas work, and the Board of Directors and town administration are so determined.

Joyner's committee is willing to maintain the facility, provide supervision, pay the utility bills and take care of any insurance problems. The town should find a way to provide the facility somehow. The churches should get actively involved, too. It's the least that can be done.

THERE WAS some reaction to last week's column that should be reported.

Democratic State Central Committee member Hal Allen, of West Haven, called to complain that the rumors of Jim Fitzgerald's imminent replacement by George Hanon as state party chairman simply are untrue. Those rumors have been circulating widely and were reported here last week.

According to the rumors, Hanon — who was in charge of finances for Gov. O'Neill's election campaign last year — is perceived as better equipped to lead the party and keep it in the black. The rumors say that O'Neill would prefer Hanon to Fitzgerald and that Hanon is maneuvering for the job.

Allen said, first of all, that the party is not in financial trouble. He conceded the central committee coffers were low last year, but said that was because party regulars felt it made more sense to donate to O'Neill's election committee than to the central committee's fund. He said a raffle and the coming Jefferson-Jackson-Bailey dinner-dance should keep the central committee's finances strong.

Promotion after misuse

WASHINGTON — Locked in the Defense Intelligence Agency's files is a strange case of military justice. It involves a high-ranking DIA official in West Germany who confessed to misappropriating government funds. Yet he was promoted, while officers who knew of his misconduct were removed from the scene.

My associate Donald Goldberg has seen investigative files and DIA cables. He has interviewed Pentagon officials and talked with sources at the U.S. Embassy in Bonn. Here's the story.

Air Force Col. Ronald Lord was first suspected three years ago of having misused several hundred dollars of DIA funds. He was stationed in Bonn at the time as the DIA's air attaché for West Germany.

Lord's commanding officer, Col. Jack Calloway, called in the Air Force Office of Special Investigations. According to DIA cables, Lord confessed that he had taken the money, and he made restitution.

Calloway sent this message to Washington: "I see a fairly consistent pattern of decisions made by Col. Lord, all of which revealed bad judgment and some of which would seem to indicate that deliberate deception was involved. . . I request that Col. Lord be removed from (the embassy) at least, and that consideration be given to removing him from the attaché position."

THERE WERE two reasons for wanting Lord out of Bonn. The first involved his subordinates in the embassy. As Calloway explained in a cable to the Pentagon: "The enlisted personnel in the office will not respond well to Col. Lord if he is found guilty and remains on station. . . They will not be disoriented or insolent, but they will suffer a drop in morale, motivation and efficiency."

The second reason involved U.S.-German relations. As another DIA official reported to Washington: "Knowledge of Col. Lord's involvement in these indiscretions is cause for concern among the Defense Attache Office, to include influential members of the U.S. embassy community, the foreign attache corps and the German Ministry of Defense."

Indeed, sources said a high-ranking German official spoke to Calloway about the incident at a diplomatic function. Speaking quietly in German, the official told Calloway he knew the Americans had a problem on their hands, and that he was confident they would take care of it. He implied that such a situation would not be tolerated by the West German military.

BUT THE DIA handled the situation by leaving Lord at the Bonn embassy. Recently he was promoted to a post at the Allied Forces Central Europe headquarters in Brunsum, The Netherlands. His only punishment was a written reprimand in his personnel file.

Meanwhile, Calloway, his disciplinary recommendations ignored, hurried his already-scheduled retirement. One of his subordinates also took retirement ahead of schedule, while another was transferred back to the United States.

As a DIA officer's cable to the Pentagon observed: "Those who know the situation could only interpret it as a strange application of justice — a case of the jury finding the defendant guilty and then sentencing the witnesses to punishment."

Are we being misled and misinformed? Do we have moles in high places? Well, the test will be in a few years when a clone of Jimmy Carter gets to be the president and Russia takes another country. Then, we will see if we have the moral fiber to defend our democratic ideals or whether we have the resources to take a stand.

Some people in a crisis of such magnitude will pick up a sword and say, "Better dead than Red," and some people will not understand what that means. Go to sleep America. You got your Pac-Man games for Christmas and the Russians got their chess sets! Checkmate!

Denied zoning nomination, Manning seeks school post

By Richard Cody
Herald Reporter

BOLTON — Thomas Manning, shot down earlier this week in an effort to gain the Republican nomination to run for the Zoning Commission, is now petitioning to run for the Board of Education.

If he succeeds in being placed on the Republican ticket — and he needs only 43 signatures — Manning will be pitting himself this spring against fellow Republicans incumbents Pamela Z. Sawyer and Board Chairman Joseph J. Haloburdo Jr.

Both Haloburdo and Mrs. Sawyer are strong candidates, and because of the minority representation laws, were assured of reelection until this latest development. Likewise, the Democratic candidates, Barry Stearns and incumbent Louis Cloutier, are assured positions and really need not even campaign.

Manning said Thursday night he is vying for placement on the Republican ticket, and has until Feb. 10 to file his petitions. He said he thought he would have no problem gaining enough signatures.

MANNING SAID he is chasing the ballot position because he has always considered running for the school board. He said he also thinks that issues should be raised, and the way the balloting is structured, none would be unless another candidate were to run.

"I want the candidates to raise the issues," said now they don't have to," he said.

Earlier Republican philosophy, as described by Republican leaders at the Zoning Commission meetings, would go against such a move. Party members said they didn't want to see Republicans campaigning against each other.

But Manning said Thursday he has the support of the town committee chairman and its vice chairman, and, in fact, only some confusion at the caucus prevented his name from being brought up as a possible candidate for the school board after he was denied a chance to run for the Zoning Commission.

TUESDAY NIGHT at the caucus, Manning, who is the Republican Town Committee's secretary, was denied a bid to run for the Zoning Commission when at a secret ballot he was voted out of the school board. He said he also thinks that issues should be raised, and the way the balloting is structured, none would be unless another candidate were to run.

COVENTRY — Police Wednesday charged a Hartford man in connection with a domestic incident that left a woman injured, they said Thursday.

Ellis Bialiste, 36, of Hartford, was charged with disorderly conduct and second-degree assault. He was detained on a $200 bond and presented in Tolland County Superior Court Thursday.

Police said the incident happened Wednesday night on Beebe Camp Road. They said the woman, whose name was not named, was brought to Windham Community Memorial Hospital, where she was treated for injuries and released.

Self-extinguishing cigarettes: Will this be their year?

By Bruno V. Ranniello
United Press International

Self-extinguishing cigarettes, an idea dismissed as impractical by last year's Legislature, will be brought up for public testimony.

Rep. Paul Gionfriddo, D-Middleton, sponsor of the bill to require "safe cigarettes," coaxed his colleagues on the Public Health Committee Thursday to raise the bill for a hearing. The vote was 6-5.

Gionfriddo, co-chairman of the committee, last year lost an effort to require the sale of safe cigarettes, which extinguish when not inhaled. Many legislators treated the matter lightly.

He said a cigarette with lower heat tolerance that goes out unless inhaled has already been made and can be mass produced.

"Twelve other states are studying the idea and once we approve it, they will implement it quickly," Gionfriddo predicted.

He said there is a serious need for such a cigarette, and he supplied figures to prove it is no laughing matter.

At present, Manning is an alternate to the Zoning Commission, and was nominated to run again for that position. He said earlier this week that he may withdraw his name from this ballot spot.

hospitals and residential treatment facilities.

The committee took no action on a bill which would have the state deal with pigeons who may cause a public nuisance. The committee agreed the problem of unsanitary pigeons was best dealt with locally.

No charges yet against Klutzz

BRIDGEPORT, Conn. (UPI) — Investigators are still deciding if charges will be lodged against a North Carolina truck driver whose truck collided with three cars on the Connecticut Turnpike, killing seven people.

"We explored all the evidence and determined additional areas that have got to be examined," Bridgeport State's Attorney Douglas Klutzz said Thursday. He said he didn't know when a decision on whether to bring charges will be made.

Seven women and children from Bridgeport and Milford were killed the pile-up Jan. 19, at the Stratford Toll Station, which left the tractor trailer and three cars in a twisted heap of charred metal.

The driver, Charles Klutzz, 35, of Cooleemee, N.C., was released from Bridgeport Hospital Wednesday morning and flown home to a hospital in Salisbury, N.C.

At the time of his release he was in satisfactory condition with lower back and eye injuries. Klutzz was to be transferred to Baptist Hospital in Winston-Salem upon his arrival.

State Trooper James Craig and several investigators met in Bridgeport Thursday with assistant state's attorney Isaac Mirvo, who represented Browne, to review the evidence. Browne said the transfer of Klutzz to a hospital in his home state will pose no problems in investigating the case.

The state Department of Transportation and state police said it would take several weeks to determine the exact cause of the accident.

Meanwhile, Motor Vehicle authorities in North Carolina said Klutzz's driver's license was under suspension at the time of the crash and had been suspended once before.

Fewer bettors but more bets

NEWINGTON, Conn. (UPI) — The state Division of Special Revenue says fewer people took a chance last year but those who did spent more money at the state's three jai alai frontons and the dog track in Plainfield.

Figures released Thursday to the state Gaming Policy Board showed the total handle at Connecticut's pari-mutual facilities was $423.6 million in 1982, up from $329.3 million in 1981 to more than $333.8 million in 1982.

The state's share of the total increased 7.72 percent from more than $20.5 million in 1981 to $22.1 million last year.

Payoffs also increased 4.15 percent with more than $10.8 million dollars more in winnings reported in 1982. Bets returned almost $262 million in 1981 and nearly $273 million last year.

At the same time, total paid attendance at the facilities increased around 2.5 million, with a slight dip in Hartford, Milford and Bridgeport, and at the Plainfield track, was down from 3,106 to 2,800.

State Trooper James Craig and several investigators met in Bridgeport Thursday with assistant state's attorney Isaac Mirvo, who represented Browne, to review the evidence. Browne said the transfer of Klutzz to a hospital in his home state will pose no problems in investigating the case.

Even small businessmen have cash flow problems

Your newspaper carrier depends on his collections each week to pay his bill, whether or not he has received payment from his customers. When he doesn't get paid, he has to dip into his pocket to make up the difference.

You can help make a small businessman from going under if you pay your carrier when he calls to collect. Thank you.

No easy task for Fuss & O'Neill

The latest meeting between town and state over the renovation or reconstruction of downtown Main Street seems to have left the door open for the town to do what it wants to do with the street — provided.

Provided the cost is substantially reduced. That will entail sacrifices that will displease some. But then none of the various plans that have been drawn has pleased everyone and none ever will.

A number of people will say that getting rid of the parking modules will make a very acceptable cut. Actually it's doubtful that those modules represented very much of the about $8.3 million in estimated construction cost. It will take more eliminating them to please the state.

Provided the plan satisfies DOT and the feds that it will move traffic safely and expeditiously. Here is the big obstacle. The state and federal officials seem to have one idea about what is safe and expeditious. Some Main Street merchants have another.

For instance, if you have an angle parking stall close to an intersection, does the motorist backing out into the hazard for traffic moving on Main Street or the side street or both? If you eliminate the angle parking stalls that are too close to intersections and the ones that are at the narrowest part of the street, how many do you have left?

It may seem frustrating to the staff at Fuss and O'Neill, the town's consulting engineers for the project, to go back to the drawing board when it seems all they have left of their earlier plans are the dimensions of the street and some basic studies. But it has been said that all an engineering firm ever has to do is what its client wants it to do.

Doesn't that seem simple? Just draw up a plan with angle parking on both sides of the street and plenty of roadway for travel with safe crossing for pedestrians, and then convince the state and the federal governments that it is a good plan with a good price tag.

N-freeze deep strategy is clear

Dear Editor:

Now that the results of the nuclear freeze referendum are in, I think it is time to give the movement a post-mortem from a conservative point of view.

I think the movement's overriding victory is mostly due to the news media's love affair with liberal and left-wing causes. I really feel that the American people have been taken as the results of the freeze movement's hidden agenda begin to unfold.

What is happening in the media is a subtle and not-so-subtle attempt to dismantle and discredit our abilities to defend ourselves.

This is happening because the press and media are misinterpreting what the freeze resolution meant. Every night you will hear and see on television or radio how horrible the MX and Trident submarine weapon systems are.

You will see glorification of groups symbolically sabotaging the Trident submarine. Great attention will be paid to the draft resisters as if they are the 20th-century saints. Prime time will be accorded to priests and ministers who will urge their flocks not to work in defense plants.

You will be painfully aware of the three nuns who were killed by American guns in El Salvador. Prime time will be accorded any group that opposes our involvement in South America. Our children will be half-educated in our colleges and universities by professors and scholars who believe in Marxism.

President Reagan's assertion that there are groups in this country that are misleading the people regarding the freeze movement was laughed upon by the press. Well, thank God in this country we allow groups to mislead and misguide the people. Do you really think this country that would like to change our form of government?

We have the Catholic bishops asserting that nuclear war is the onus of peace on America. Nothing has been said against the immorality of Russia striking first.

The Unitarians will never criticize Russia publicly. They are getting the word out through their frontis such as the American-Russian Friendship Force. The message to their flock is, "Don't pay any attention to what the Russians do, only to what they say."

Then, we have the American Friends Service Committee that will go after the young and promote peace on campus but never criticize Russia in the American Friends' mind, if a Communist kills it is to promote progressive government.

The point I am trying to make is that the American people did not vote for a weak America when they voted for the freeze resolution. We did not vote for total pacifism. We did not rebuke our foreign policy.

Oh, how happy the Communists must be when they see what is happening in America. We all know about Bulgaria now, but we didn't know too much about that country when the freeze movement got started. That's where the Left and the Socialist International met to map strategy for the freeze movement for the West.

Whether we know it or not, we

Simple way is best scientific way to find out if North would hold the club king.

There are various high-level asking bids to check for that card, but they were not at this pair's disposal.

South studied the hand carefully at trick two and saw that he would probably need a club finesse. Could he do anything about avoiding it?

Then he saw that dummy had three potential trump entries and maybe he could get some mileage out of them.

At trick two he led the jack of trumps to dummy's queen. Then he led and ruffed a small diamond.

Now he played the deuce of trumps, which he had been careful to preserve, over to dummy's three spot.

The ace of diamonds got rid of his 10 of clubs and when the king dropped he was able to shed the club queen on the diamond queen. If that king had not dropped he would have been forced to take the club finesse. (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

Convicted harasser arrested again

A 57-year old man whom police have repeatedly charged with making obscene phone calls and who was sentenced last week to serve 90 days was arrested again early Thursday morning and charged with harassment after allegedly making an obscene call to the police dispatcher.
Emil Habern, of Bissell Street and Main Street, was held on a $500 bond for a Manchester Superior Court appearance Thursday morning.
He was sentenced last Thursday on a Dec. 23 charge of one count of harassment. Habern had been charged with at least 10 counts of the crime. In the past, among other calls, he had called a female police dispatcher at the station, police said.

School budget hearing scheduled for small room

Manchester residents will have a chance to speak their minds on Superintendent James P. Kennedy's proposed 1983-84 school budget at a public hearing Tuesday.

The hearing is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. in the Board of Education meeting room at 45 N. School St.

The school board completed its review of the proposed budget at the last of four workshops Thursday. The town charter stipulates that a board-recommended budget must be in the hands of Town Manager Robert B. Weiss by Feb. 21.

The board isn't required by law to hold a public hearing on the proposed school budget, but it does as a matter of custom. In the past two years, the hearings have been held in the Robertson School gymnasium, next door to board headquarters.

"Normally about 10 people would show up," said board member Joseph V. Compose, chairman of the budget review subcommittee, explaining why the hearing was switched to the board room.

Thursday, the board examined the superintendent's budget request for capital improvement programs, central administration, maintenance and transportation.

Kennedy declined to reveal how he plans to make a proposed $35,000 cut in salaries for his central office staff.

He said the cut would be spelled out after a school budget is approved by the Board of Directors this spring.

Earlier, Kennedy said the savings would be achieved by consolidating the positions of his two assistant superintendents, Wilson E. Deakin Jr. and Dr. J. Gerald Fitzgibbon, and the pupil personnel services director, Allan B. Chesterton.

Kennedy is asking for $90,000 to cover capital improvement projects in the schools next year. The major one of these is the replacement of part of the Keeney School roof and the repaving of play areas at Buckley and Waddell School.

Kennedy asked for the same amount last year, but ended up with only $75,000 after the board cut from the budget the amount mandated by the Board of Directors.

"Some of the things that were cut (last year) were things we couldn't afford not to do," said Wilfred F. Dion, the school's director of buildings and grounds.

What happens in that case? "I have to steal from somebody else in order to complete the job," said Dion, explaining that the money needed is transferred from other maintenance supply accounts.

The highest-priority capital items are those that must be done to comply with state fire codes, he said. These include installing smoke barrier doors at Bowers, Verplanck and Waddell School, at $2,000 for each set of doors. Bowers and Waddell need two sets of doors.

Kennedy explained that the school can't afford to keep all its buildings up to current fire codes. "We're attacking the most obvious ones," he said. The administration applies for code waivers from the state Fire Marshal's office for what it can't do, "and we intend to keep going that way," he said.

THERE ARE other ways to cut corners on the capital improvement budget, Dion explained. For example, when the Iling Junior High School baseball field had to be relocated, the school system got fill and topsoil for the job from the construction sites of the J.C. Penney Catalog Distribution Center and Multi-Circuits Inc.'s Harrison Road plant.

ALSO THURSDAY, the board examined a proposed budget for pupil transportation that is $81,000 more expensive than this year's budget.

The figure of $982,000 for transportation is the administration's "best guess" of the actual cost, according to Deakin, because a contract still isn't finalized with the Manchester Bus Service.

Deakin said Manchester Bus was the only contractor to bid for the town's business this year and the year previous.

Panel approves highway bonds

The State Bonding Commission this morning approved bonding of addition funds for highway projects in Manchester and nearby South Windsor.

The new approved funds include $7,293,270 for widening Interstate 86 from Slater Street to West Middle Turnpike. That brings the state total for the project to $9,352,770. Total funds for the work, including the federal share, are $95,527,700.

Another new bond approved was $8,453 for the reconstruction of downtown Main Street, bringing the total state fund to $50,153. The project is one to be paid for largely from interstate highway turn-in funds. The existing plans for it have been rejected by the state Department of Transportation and the town is revamping the plan.

The commission also approved $1,875 more for reconstruction of Adams Street from the bridge over the Hockanum River to New State Road. The total for that project is now $17,625.

A $40,500 allocation was approved for reconstruction of Chapel Road in South Windsor from Route 5 to the point near Manchester where the road has already been widened in connection with the construction of the Buckland Industrial Park. So far $120,500 has been allocated for the work.

Freeze urged think of anything worse than to overspend and end up in a deficit position."

DiRosa said he would be "hard pressed" to vote against spending on anything he felt necessary, because he doesn't believe there really is a budget crisis.

"I will echo the sentiments of the Democratic governor that I believe the economy is going to turn around," said DiRosa.

MRS. WEINBERG denied that a higher-than-necessary mill rate was set last year to build in a cushion for the town. She said the voters would not put up with higher taxes than needed.

"We really struggled with that budget last year," said Mrs. Weinberg. "We tried to keep that mill rate as low as we could. You never know how much will be left in accounts until the end of the season."

For example, she cited the snow removal budget. The mild winter so far has left that account in good shape, she said, but until the snow season is over, there's no way to tell how much money will be left.

In a related matter, Mrs. Weinberg said she would like to see vacuum leaf collection reinstated next year. She said she has talked with at least 40 citizens who said it cost them more to bag leaves than they would have paid in taxes for the vacuum service.

Mrs. Weinberg again said layoffs of town personnel would be a "last resort" in setting the next budget. But she did not rule out eliminating positions through attrition.

Arms negotiations get in full gear

GENEVA, Switzerland (UPI) — The newly resumed U.S.-Soviet negotiations on limiting medium-range nuclear missiles in Europe stand at the center of an array of disarmament talks on nuclear and conventional weaponry.

The two major powers Thursday reopened their year-old negotiations in Geneva aimed at limiting the deployment of medium-range missiles in Europe — the Intermediate Nuclear Forces talks.

In Vienna, NATO and Warsaw Pact nations began a new round in the 10-year-old Mutual and Balanced Force Reduction talks on scaling down troops and conventional weapons.

By next week, the full disarmament conference — which began in 1962 with just 17 participating countries — starts another session in Geneva centered on the banning of chemical weapons.

Finally, also in Geneva, the United States and Soviet Union resume Wednesday their bilateral Strategic Arms Reduction Talks, which run parallel to the medium-range missile negotiations.

While issues are complicated at the troop reduction and chemical weapons talks, the complexity of negotiations between the two major powers on striking a nuclear arms balance sometimes defies understanding — even by the experts.

Paul H. Nitze, the chief U.S. negotiator for the medium-range missile talks, said this week if anything about the talks is simple to understand, it is that "they are not susceptible to easy solution."

At the medium-range missile talks, the two sides seek a balance between 600 nuclear missiles already deployed by the Soviets and 572 U.S. Pershing-2 and cruise missiles to be deployed by NATO beginning late this year.

President Reagan has proposed canceling NATO's deployment if Moscow dismantles all its missiles — the so-called "zero option" that has proved totally unacceptable to the Soviets.

Soviet leader Yuri Andropov offers — on condition the NATO plan is scrapped — to cut his missiles back to 162 to match British and French nuclear systems.

Actor Michael Bilon dies; he brought E.T. to life

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (UPI) — Michael Patrick Bilon, a 34-inch-tall actor who donned a costume almost as heavy as himself to bring the tiny space traveler in the movie "E.T." to life, died of complications from a blood infection Thursday. He was 35.

Bilon, who died at St. Elizabeth Hospital after being admitted Wednesday with the infection, was mourned by Steven Spielberg, the producer-director of "E.T."
"Pat Bilon was much more than just E.T.'s biggest helper," Spielberg said. "He was a good friend and we will miss him with all our hearts."

Because of a bone impairment, Bilon grew to be only 2 feet, 10 inches tall, but during his lifetime he also held jobs as a bouncer, an undercover agent and a grade-school basketball coach.

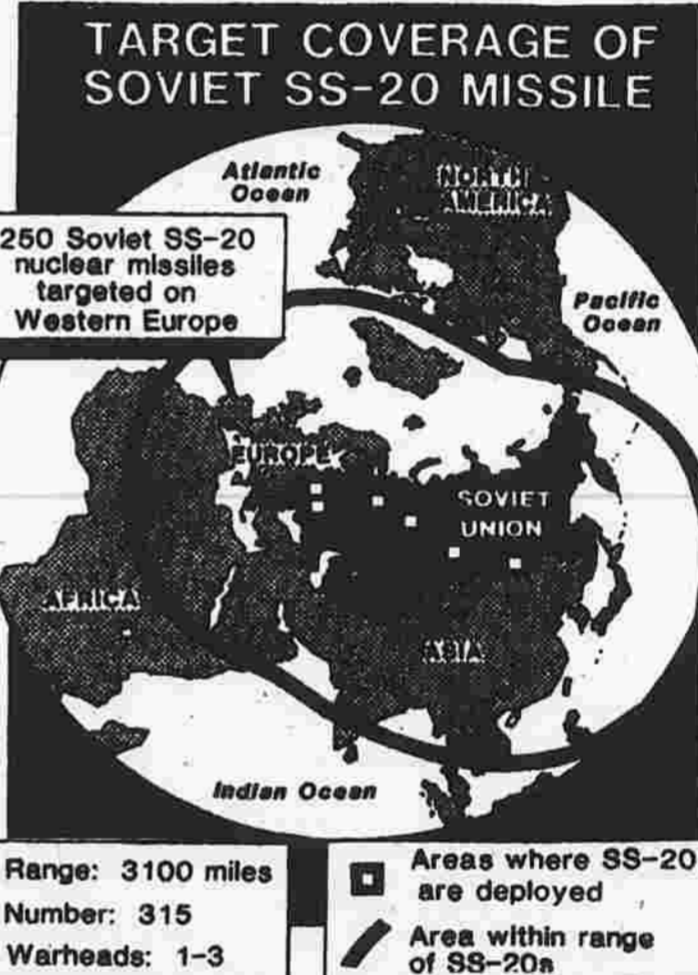

Two other actors shared the title role in Hollywood's biggest money-maker to date, but Bilon filmed most of E.T.'s scenes.

During the filming, the 45-pound Bilon spent many hours inside the 40-pound, polyurethane "E.T." suit, an experience he likened to a steam bath.

Bilon was to have begun work on a sequel to the film.
It was not known if Spielberg or other movie personalities would attend the services planned for Saturday at the Kinicki Funeral Home and in St. Anne's Byzantine Church. About 200 people were expected to attend.

Burial will be in Calvary Cemetery.
"I don't know who will be here, but I know the parents were calling Hollywood to find out," a funeral home spokesman said.

Before entering movie work, Bilon, a 1972 graduate of Youngstown State University in speech and drama, worked as a bouncer in the Wedgewood bowling alley in Youngstown.

Encounter too close

Joseph F. Doran of 34 Flower St. found a foolproof way to get himself pulled over Thursday, according to police: He nearly sideswiped a cruiser.

Police said a car driven by the 27-year-old Doran came close to striking the officer's cruiser as the two cars approached each other from opposite directions on Spencer Street. The officer said Doran nearly sideswiped two other vehicles before he was pulled over.

Doran was given a California intoxication field test, which he failed, police said. He was charged with driving under the influence of alcohol, and released on a promise to appear in Manchester Superior Court. In accordance with state law, his driver's license was revoked for 24 hours.

Man gets 90 days in prison

A 26-year old man charged Jan. 7 with 26 counts of passing phony checks and other related charges was sentenced Wednesday in Manchester Superior Court to serve a 90-day sentence.

Michael Lettieri, of 98 Hawthorne Road, was sentenced on two counts of issuing bad checks. The other 24 counts of this charge, 13 counts of third-degree larceny, 20 counts of forgery and seven counts of fourth degree larceny, were nolle.

Lettieri was given a two-year sentence for each of the counts he was convicted of. Each sentence is suspended after 45 days. He was also given a two-year probation term.

Most of the charges stemmed from a period between June 8 and July 9, in which the Manchester State Bank reported that 20 checks had been passed that bounced. Police said Lettieri had forged them.
