Aid available to adult students, too

More than one-third of all full-time and part-time college students today are adults over 25 years of age — a record total with fascinating economic and social implications. If you're among them or will be in the near future, your big question will be: "How do I pay for this expensive education, much as I need it or want it?"

The answer: With financial aid, still available to you even if you're not a teen-ager going directly from high school to college. "You're never too old to learn, and you're also never too old to get financial assistance to further your schooling," says Carol B. Aslanian, director of the College Board's Office of Adult Learning Services and co-editor of a new College Board book, "Paying for Your Education: A Guide for Adult Learners."

1) In spite of the highly publicized cutbacks, the federal government remains the largest provider of educational grants and loans in the nation. Check with the financial aid office at your local college for details on how to apply for the various aid programs.

2) If you are currently employed, ask the personnel office at your company if your employer fringes benefit package includes money for education or training. More than $10 billion of this type of aid is available each year but only a small fraction of the education funds offered by employers is used.

3) If you are a woman, there are special aid programs designed specifically for you. Explore national women's organizations for a free list of more than 200 career resource centers affiliated with Catalyst, a non-profit organization working to expand career and family options for women, writing to its New York City headquarters, 14 East 60th St., New York, N.Y. 10022.

Other sources of financial aid for women include local chapters of the American Association of University Women and the American Business Women's Association. Check your library for a copy of the "Selected List of Postsecondary Education Opportunities for Minorities and Women." Also, send Clairor a stamped, self-addressed, business-sized envelope for a free pamphlet, "Educational Financial Aid for Women." Write to Clairor Pamphlet, Box 14680, Baltimore, Md. 21286.

4) Adults 60 and over may be eligible to take college courses and pay no tuition; many states and colleges have plans with free or reduced tuition for these adults. An excellent guide to these learning resources is "Learning Opportunities for Older Persons," available free from the Institute of Lifetime Learning, NHTA-AARP, 1900 K St., N.W., Washington, D.C. 20049.

5) If you are a member of a minority, you will find hundreds of programs especially designed for you. Look at "Minority Organizations: A National Directory." It has an index of organizations that provide financial aid information or scholarships. Check your local library.

6) If you have any official military connections, you may qualify for educational benefits as well. If you're on active duty, you can take off-duty course work and the services will pay 75 percent or more of tuition and fees. Many states have educational incentives if you serve in the National Guard or participate in a reserve unit.

7) You may be eligible for veterans' education benefits under the GI bill or the Post-Vietnam Veterans' Educational Assistance Program.

If you are a spouse, daughter or son of a veteran who is completely disabled, the VA will help cover the cost of your education. Look under U.S. Government in the phone book for a nearby VA office.

8) If you are disabled or have a handicap, HEATH (Higher Education and the Handicapped) provides information on higher education for you and distributes a free newsletter. Write HEATH, Box 1492, Washington, D.C. 20013.

"Do not be afraid of applying because you weren't at the top of your class in school or you feel you're 'too old,'" stresses Aslanian. "There are hundreds of special aid programs for adults."

You CAN afford it. Think again. Apply. The rewards are more than worth the effort.

Petitions ask repeal
CONCORD, N.H. (UPI) — Officials of 13 New Hampshire banks have presented thousands of petitions against a new interest withholding law to Rep. Norman D'Amours, D-N.H.

Thursday's presentation was part of a two-day tour D'Amours is making of New Hampshire towns as his House bill calling for repeal of the withholding regulations. The bill has been co-sponsored by about 10 other congressmen.

Starting July 1, banks will start withholding 10 percent of interest and dividend payments from customers. The money will be applied toward the customers' federal taxes, in an effort to cut down on tax cheaters.

John Bickel, president of the New Hampshire Credit Union League, estimated as many as 100,000 credit unions in the state could fold because of the cost of implementing the new regulations.

Guard flies shotgun for truckers

By Donald E. Mullen
United Press International

North Carolina National Guard helicopters flew shotgun for non-striking truckers Friday and Maine ordered all law officers including game wardens to guard trucks in a stepped-up fight against highway terror.

Pennsylvania National Guardsmen stood by in the Keystone State that has borne the brunt of the shootings, stonings and burnings in the five-day strike.

President Reagan, reacting to a demand by the independent truckers for a rollback on laws raising fuel and highway use taxes, condemned the violence and said there would be no backing down.

SS plan gaining support

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Social Security plan drafted by a presidential commission picked up growing support Friday amid indications its savings may be short of what the retirement system will need to stay solvent.

Meantime, the chairman of the House Ways and Means Social Security subcommittee, which began hearings Friday, indicated he would favor a one-year postponement, until 1985, of the requirement new federal employees join. If adopted, that would cost at least $1 billion in savings.

The commission's plan, the blueprint for congressional action, raises $168 billion by 1990 and closes two-thirds of the system's estimated 75-year cash gap. It would raise payroll taxes, freeze benefits for six months and tax benefits for the first time.

But congressional aides said they are concerned it may not raise enough money from 1984 to 1987. The plan raises $25 billion in 1983, but nearly half its savings — $73 billion — come in 1988 and 1989. The years in between raise no more than $20 billion each.

The commission suggested enacting a "fat-safes" — tax hikes, benefit cuts and general revenue borrowing — in 1983 and 1984. Short Rep. J.J. Pickle, D-Texas, subcommittee chairman, said general revenue borrowing cannot be rejected.

The commission said Social Security needs 1.8 percent of the nation's taxable payroll over 75 years, and its plan solved two-thirds of the problem. But the Washington Post reported Friday that Social Security's actuaries, in a report to be sent Congress next week, probably will predict the need is one-sixth higher — about 2.1 percent.

The main reasons are lower projections for birth rates and wage growth. Lower birth rates and mean fewer workers paying into Social Security.

If the new numbers raise the ante, they could fuel a brewing battle. A commission majority suggested raising the retirement age to solve the long-term problem. Liberal Democrats — including Rules Committee Chairman Charles Stenholm, D-Iowa, — say they will never accept that, preferring a standby tax hike.

The National Association of Manufacturers, whose president, Alexander Trowbridge, served on the presidential panel, endorsed the package Friday despite reservations about its payroll tax hikes.

Gasoline, oil prices fall in New England

By Ron Riechmann
United Press International

BOSTON — New England energy prices tumbled for the second straight month in January with the cost of gasoline and home heating oil falling to their lowest level in nine months, according to a UPI regional consumer survey.

The same survey revealed consumer rates for mortgages and auto loans were down for the seventh straight month, and at their lowest level since the fall of 1980.

Average regional food costs were virtually unchanged in late January compared to late December.

The UPI survey, which has been running for three years, showed the average cost of a gallon of regular gasoline in the six-state region was $1.19 6 in late January. That compared to $1.23 3 a month earlier and was the lowest the average has been since May 1982 when the price was $1.18 3.

Even though some service stations have been raising land oil prices, business with pump prices of 99 cents per gallon for regular gasoline, experts Dan Lumborg says falling prices don't reflect a "gas war."

Lumborg said this week the decrease in energy costs is coming at the refinery level, reflected by a $1 per barrel drop in the price of oil on the world market.

New England homeowners continue to enjoy a double-barreled blessing on the home heating oil front — unseasonably warm weather this winter and lower prices.

The average regional cost of a gallon of home heating oil, according to the UPI survey, dropped to $1.22 1 in late January, like gasoline.

Fuel aid program expanded

HARTFORD (UPI) — Some 900 families who have exhausted their winter energy assistance program will be eligible for added assistance under a change to the program approved Friday by lawmakers.

The change, proposed by the Energy Division of the state Office of Policy and Management, shifts some funds within the current federal block grant and possibly adds federal funds from another grant if needed.

The change was approved by the Energy and Public Utilities and Human Services committees, which earlier this winter adopted the overall program that uses $41.3 million in federal funds to help the needy pay winter heating bills.

The change is expected to be taken up next week by the final committee that must approve it, but officials said they would begin working on applications submitted by the 900 families anticipating the final approval.

Bruce Carlson, director of the assistance program, said the change was needed to provide added assistance to about 900 families who exhausted the benefits they received under the program.

Carlson said about 50 or 60 of the families were without fuel and officials would work to try to assure the families would not have to go without heat over the weekend.

People receiving the additional funds also must agree to allow officials to weatherize their homes, since they are among the high energy users, as evidenced by the fact their regular benefits were exhausted.

The money to finance the additional assistance will come from money left over from people who don't use all the money for which they were eligible under the program's earlier provisions.

Rivlin says recession ending

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Congressional Budget Office, usually more pessimistic than the administration, says the 2-year-old recession is finally ending and economic recovery is on the way.

"We think the recession is ending and the economy will grow at a moderate rate this year," office Director Arvin Rivlin told reporters in explaining her unit's annual economic forecast report released Thursday.

"This is the first year in some time the CBO and the president's budget forecasts are close to the same," she said. "In general, we've been slightly less optimistic than the administration. This time we're slightly on the optimistic side of them, which is unusual."

The office, which has been issuing more pessimistic forecasts than every administration since its creation in 1975, said in its annual economic report the economy will grow 4 percent in 1983 and 4.7 percent in 1984, and the budget deficit will be $194 billion this year.

In contrast, Reagan's 1984 budget estimates the economy will grow only 3.1 percent this year and 4 percent in 1984 and the budget deficit will be about $206 billion in 1983.

The similarity of the two estimates should speed the budget process in Congress this year, she said, because legislators will not have to "fight about the forecasts."

She said the modest growth rates are not sufficient to quickly bring the unemployment rate down.

"We expect unemployment to remain above 10 percent this year, and dip below 10 percent to 9.8 percent next year," she said.

The report estimates unemployment, which reached 10.8 percent in December, will be 10.6 percent this year and then slowly decline to 7.5 percent by 1985.

The Reagan budget predicts unemployment of 10.9 percent this year, 10 percent in 1984 and 9.6 percent by 1988.

The report also projects deficits of $197 billion in 1984, $214 billion in 1985, $231 billion in 1986, $250 billion in 1987 and $267 billion in 1988 if Congress enacts no new spending cuts or tax hikes.

The Reagan budget estimates the deficit would be $231 billion in 1984 and then increase to $300 billion in 1988, no action is taken.

Other predictions were made Thursday as well. U.S. trade representative William Brock told Congress' Joint Economic Committee that the United States will face a record trade deficit this year of up to $70 billion.

The Commerce Department reported that the adjusted balance of payments deficit for 1983 climbed to its highest annual total on record, $58.1 billion.

Last spy satellite chunk nears doom

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The highly radioactive third and final chunk of the Soviet spy satellite is expected to burn up in the atmosphere between 6:30 a.m. Monday and 8 a.m. EST Wednesday, Air Force officials said Friday.

The main part of Cosmos 1492, weighing several tons, made its fiery entry Jan. 23, with only remaining debris plunging into the Indian Ocean about 1,800 miles southeast of the Indian subcontinent.

Air Force officials said the spyship's reactor section, believed to contain about 100 pounds of enriched uranium, weighs only a few hundred pounds and is orbiting the Earth once every 88 minutes.

It was separated from the main radar and guidance section when a Soviet-ordered maneuver in late December failed to loft the satellite into a higher "parking" orbit that would have kept it in space for up to 800 years.

"Based on experience in tracking similar-sized space debris, it (the reactor) will certainly burn up completely before reaching the Earth's surface," one official said.

Officials said there was no way to predict where the re-entry would take place until several hours before it dipped into the atmosphere.

The reactor section was only 102.6 miles above Earth Thursday at the lowest portion of its elliptical orbit, and 106.2 miles at the highest point.

There will be no worldwide alert for the entry as happened with the heavier portion because of the certainty the reactor will be vaporized in the crucible of atmospheric friction.

A small segment of the satellite, believed to house its antenna, fell out of orbit and burned in the atmosphere earlier last year.

Cosmos 1402 was a maritime surveillance satellite used to track the movements of ships — mainly those of the U.S. Navy.

Parts of an earlier spy satellite, Cosmos 954, penetrated the atmosphere in January 1978 after a similar mishap in space. Tiny fragments, some radioactive, were scattered over a wide area of remote Northwest Canada.

Although no debris was expected from the reactor section, a Canadian scientific team stood by just in case. Defense Minister Gilles Lamontagne announced in Ottawa Friday.

Lamontagne said the reactor is expected to disintegrate, but he warned some pieces could survive the intense heat of re-entry and hit the ground.

PRESIDENT, MRS. REAGAN DIG INTO CAKE
... Reagan, who will be 72 Sunday, was discussing unemployment

Reagan: Americans can take heart in jobless rate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan said Friday unemployment, the darkest shadow over his administration, has finally begun a downward trend and will not bounce beyond the post-Depression high level last year.

In a White House news conference, Reagan also confirmed he is "looking at" the possibility of accelerating currently budgeted construction projects to provide additional jobs. And he predicted economic recovery will open 4.3 million more jobs by the end of next year.

Reagan took the verbal offensive shortly after the government released the latest unemployment figures, showing a decline in the jobless rate from 10.8 percent in December to 10.4 percent in January — the first such drop in 18 months.

"TODAY MILLIONS of Americans can take heart that unemployment has finally started down," he declared.

"This dip in unemployment, coming just after word of higher retail sales, higher auto sales are one more sign that America is on the mend," the president said in opening the 10-minute session with reporters.

"Confidence is returning and with reason. And while we may see some ups and downs on the way to recovery, we're on the move now, and that's our best hope for more productive, lasting jobs."

Asked if the statistical reduction — which translates to 11.4 million Americans not finding work — was only a dip, the president replied, "I think it is a trend."

He said unemployment figures have "volatility" during recessions, but "that doesn't mean they come up higher than the highest point."

WHILE THE RATE may bump higher than 10.4

percent in some future month, "I don't think you'll see it come up above the high mark of 10.8," Reagan said.

The slide in the unemployment statistics carried definite political potential for the president. He came into office pledging to reduce inflation and interest rates, both of which have come down, leaving behind the record jobless rate.

Since Reagan sent his budget to Capitol Hill last month, aides have hinted he is willing to step up construction programs already budgeted by various departments to create more immediate jobs.

Administration asks judge to dismiss birth control suit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Reagan administration asked a federal judge Friday to throw out a lawsuit challenging regulations that require federally funded clinics to tell parents when their daughters are getting birth control devices.

New storm zeros in on Plains

By Tim Coder
United Press International

A foot of snow buried mountain towns in New Mexico and Arizona Friday and a winter encore swept into the snow-packed southern Plains, the latest in a weeklong avalanche of storms that killed at least 43 people. Frantic last-minute shopping sprees wiped staples from store shelves.

A foot of new snow fell near Santa Fe, N.M. New snow fattened the Flagstaff, Ariz., snow blanket to 20 inches as the powerful storm steamed toward the southern Plains. Law officers reported violent outbreaks of "cabin fever."

Nearly 4 inches of snow fell on the Oklahoma Panhandle. Travelers were urged to stay off highways.

"We still have motorists stuck in snow drifts that we haven't been able to rescue and more are winding up there now," said highway patrol Lt. Cliff White.

CITIZENS IN THE Panhandle town of Guymon rushed to squirrel away groceries before the new storm hit.

"I understand all the grocery stores are out of bread. People are making a pretty good run on groceries," said Ann Bobbit, a clerk for the highway patrol. "People are afraid they might not be able to get back to the grocery store."

Winter storm warnings for more heavy snow were posted for the Texas Panhandle, northwest Oklahoma and southwest Kansas — still reeling from more than a foot of snow and 4-foot drifts — and for southwest Colorado.

Since Monday, six deaths were reported in Kansas and Minnesota, five in Nebraska and Illinois, four in Iowa, three in Louisiana, Florida, Kentucky and Wisconsin, two in Michigan and one each in Alabama, New Mexico and Ohio.

Rain fell in lower elevations of Arizona and New Mexico. Flash flood watches were posted for southern Arizona.

GUSTY WINDS IN THE Midwest swirled nearly 2 feet of snow into blinding clouds that hampered highway plows and snow shovellers burrowing out of head-high drifts. Some schools in from Nebraska to Michigan held their first classes in two days.

Below zero temperatures froze cities in North Dakota, Minnesota and Iowa. The mercury plunged to 7 below zero in the Mississippi River town of Dubuque, Iowa, buried under nearly 2 feet of snow.

Liberal, Kan., a town of 15,000 near the Oklahoma border which is used to relatively snow-free winters, girded for up to 10 more inches of snow on top of more than a foot earlier in the week.

"We're starting to get evidence of cabin fever," said police Chief Rick Kistner. "We've got more fights. There were four reported on the evening shift last night."

Light snow and brisk winds spanned the Great Lakes region, the Ohio Valley and central Appalachians. Nearly a half-foot of snow layered Chardon, in the northeastern Ohio snowbelt, which has had an exceptionally mild winter.

Nicaragua claims 73 rightists killed in two border clashes

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (UPI) — Nicaraguan troops killed 73 rightist guerrillas inspired by U.S. Honduras war games in two clashes near the Honduran border in Miskito Indian territory, the government said Friday.

The heaviest fighting occurred Saturday in the Nicaraguan border town of Bismama, where 38 rightists were killed, the Defense Ministry said, and another 15 "counter-revolutionaries" died in combat Sunday in nearby Ciego La Leonia.

A ministry spokesman said five Sandinista Army soldiers died and five more were wounded in the fighting about 200 miles northeast of Managua in Zelaya Norte province and about six miles from the border with Honduras' Gracias a Dios province.

Some 4,000 Honduran soldiers backed by 1,600 U.S. troops are staging war games dubbed "Big Pine," the biggest joint military maneuvers between the two countries in 18 years, as close as nine miles from the Nicaraguan border in Gracias a Dios.

The official Sandinista newspaper Barricada Friday said the rightist attacks in Zelaya Norte were staged "under the stimulation" of the games.

Nicaragua has called Big Pine a "provocation" and Cuba's official news agency said the United States and Honduras are trying to "intimidate and harass" the Sandinistas.

There was no explanation for the delay in reporting the clashes, the latest incidents of rightist guerrilla activity in the area settled mainly by Miskito Indians who have resisted rule by the Sandinistas since they came to power in a 1979 civil war.

A Defense Ministry communique said the "rightists who attacked Bismama crossed into Nicaragua from Honduras on launches piloted along the Tura River that cuts through swampy Zelaya Norte in a region called the Mosquito Coast.

After being routed by Sandinista troops, the rightist fled and left behind a Chinese-made rocket-propelled grenade launcher and ammunition for it, the defense ministry said.

A "military helicopter" flew in from Honduras to aid the escaping rightists, the ministry said, but the communique did not specify the make or nationality of the craft.

Meanwhile, a U.S. Catholic delegation of Bishop James Hickey of Washington, D.C., Bishop Patrick Flores, of San Antonio, Texas, and Peter Gerethy, of New Jersey, arrived in Managua to meet church and government officials.

Symphony is a genuine Mozart

COPENHAGEN, Denmark (UPI) — Experts have determined that a symphony discovered in a cellar in Denmark 40 years ago is a genuine Mozart, written when the composer was barely 9 years old, the Odense Musical Conservatory announced Friday.

The three-movement, 10-instrument, A-minor symphony was found among notes handed over to the Odense Symphony Orchestra by the local official after it cleared out rooms in the cellar of the county hall in 1943.

The symphony continued to go unnoticed until Odense orchestra librarian Gunnar Thygesen began sifting through the old papers.

"It's only in the past year that I have had a chance to go through the material that has been lying in our library for years," Thygesen said.

Believed to be one of Mozart's first, the piece was bought by the Odense Music Club in 1793 as a written work called "Symphony for 10 Instruments" and signed by "Herr Mozart."

"Initially I thought that the piece might have been written by another Mozart, possibly the great composer's father, but our research has shown that the way in which the music is written, its type and moods make us certain that the piece is genuine," Thygesen said.

He said international experts have been working on the piece for some six months and have now declared it to be genuine.

"We didn't want to leak the news until we were absolutely sure," Thygesen said.

The symphony is divided into three movements containing allegro, moderato, andantino, rondo and allegro moderato moods. Thygesen claims the rondo mood is the first of its type that Mozart ever wrote. The music contains voices for two violins, a cello, bass, two oboes, two fagots (bassoons) and two horns.

"Although the symphony has been known, it has only survived as a four-bar introduction in the Kuchel textbook (of Mozart works)," said music professor Jens Peter Larsen of Copenhagen University. "We have had no music."

OPTICAL Style Bar "Over 25 Years of Service"

We have created one of the most respected, dependable and most complete optical laboratories and visual care centers in Connecticut. For many years our motto was "If It's Made of Glass We'll Grind It." With the advent of plastic lenses it became necessary to amend our motto to include plastic. We fully intend to incorporate our laboratory to accommodate additional lens materials as they are developed. We stay on

She leaves two brothers, Alfred M. Steele of Manchester and Frank O. Steele of Coventry; and several nieces and nephews.
Private funeral services will be held at the Watkins Funeral Home, 142 E. Center St., Burial will be in East Cemetery. There are no calling hours.

Trio to discuss trip

Deputy Mayor Barbara B. Weinberg, Manchester Herald editor Dan Fitts and Herald reporter Paul Hendrie will talk about their experiences visiting the Soviet Union at 11:30 a.m. Sunday on WINF radio's "Focus" program.
WINF reporter Lynn Brophy will interview the three, who traveled to Russia in November through the Friendship Force.

The Manchester Herald wants your club news. Submit club announcements to Focus Editor Adele Angle at least five days before you'd like to see them appear. Always put a name and phone number where you can be reached in case there are questions.

News for senior citizens

Center will use lottery system for trip registration

Editor's note: The following column is prepared by the staff of the Manchester Senior Center. It appears in the Manchester Herald on Wednesdays and Saturdays.
Individuals who live close to the center as well as to individuals for whom transportation is not a problem.
We discussed this with all the members of the trip committee as well as with all the individuals who attended our last Open Forum meeting. As a member, we want all to participate and have a fair chance and we don't want to inconvenience anyone.
Remember our glaucoma clinic on Wednesday from 1 to 3 p.m. The test is fast and painless. Individuals with transportation problems should contact the center 24 hours in advance to make arrangements.
Individuals taking advantage of our free health screening clinic on Wednesdays are reminded that they must make an appointment with the individuals who draw a number out of a hat and be signed up accordingly.
This will give everybody an equal chance and eliminate people from arriving at the center long before the registration time. It also will not give unfair advantage to individuals who live close to the center as well as to individuals for whom transportation is not a problem.

Thoughts

It happens. We can know where something is but not be able to get to it, or trips. In fairness to all, we have decided not to register individuals on a "first come, first served basis," but rather on a random selection basis where individuals will draw a number out of a hat and be signed up accordingly. This will give everybody an equal chance and eliminate people from arriving at the center long before the registration time. It also will not give unfair advantage to individuals who live close to the center as well as to individuals for whom transportation is not a problem.

Town committee to honor 6 Republicans

The Republican Town Committee will honor six prominent Republicans later this month at the annual Lincoln Day dinner-dance, breaking the old tradition of honoring just one party member at the gala.
GOP Town Chairman Curtis M. Smith announced that M. Adler Dobkin, Carol E. Kuehl, Donald E. Kuehl, Russell B. Granis and Marion P. Taggart were selected by the party's executive committee to be honored. Paul E. Willhide will be honored posthumously, Smith added.
Smith said six people, instead of one, will be honored to "open the party up by encouraging broad participation in this annual event." In addition, Smith said he believes numerous Republicans are worthy of such recognition which, in some cases, he said, is overdue.
The honorees were chosen based on length and consistency of service, as well as overall party loyalty, Smith said.
The dinner-dance will be Saturday, Feb. 12 at Pianos restaurant in Bolton. The guest speaker will be U.S. Sen. Lowell P. Weicker. Reservations may be obtained by calling Pat Lawrence at 643-6577.
Following are sketches of the six honorees:
M. Adler Dobkin has been active in Republican politics since 1958, when he joined the town committee. He was elected party town chairman in 1968 and served until 1972. He has served as chairman of the town Planning Commission and now serves on the town Ethics Commission.
Carol E. Kuehl became active in Republican politics in 1958. She joined the town committee in 1972 and has served as a voting district leader. Mrs. Kuehl's more recent activities have centered on campaign advertising and publicity in general. She has maintained a photographic history of the Manchester Republican party for more than 12 years.
Donald K. Kuehl, the husband of Carol Kuehl, has been active in party affairs since the 1950s. He is past and current leader in Voting District 5 and has served on the town Building Committee for more than 20 years. He now serves on the Cheney Hall Board of Commissioners and is a former town director, elected to the board in 1969.
Russell B. Granis has served on the town committee for most of the past 25 years. He has served on the Liberty Board in addition to serving as a party voting district leader. He has served on the party finance committee. Much of his work for the party has involved encouraging voter turnout.
Marion P. Taggart has been a long-time town committee member, serving for a number of years as a voting district leader. She is an alternate to the Planning and Zoning Commission, was elected constable in 1981 and now serves on the Jury Selection Committee.
Paul E. Willhide, who died in December, will be honored posthumously for years of party service. He was a former town director, appointed to fill a vacancy in 1975, which he followed up by winning a full term in his own right. He served on the town committee for many years and was a member of the town Ethics Commission at the time of his death. Smith said many of his contributions to the town and the party were made behind the scenes.

Breach of peace charges lodged

Two men were charged with breach of peace Thursday after allegedly causing a disturbance at an X-TRA Mart on 385 Main St., police said Friday.
Roger P. Plante, of 210 Main St., and Francis J. Kettledon, 23, of 92 Grisson Road, were released for Manchester court appearance Feb. 28.
The two were arrested after police investigated reports of a disturbance at the store, a police report said.
In an unrelated arrest, Kenneth J. Norton, 22, of 17 Lucian St., was charged on a warrant Thursday with failure to appear in the second degree and disorderly conduct. He was released for court date of Feb. 28.
Gary Schlichting, 16, of 41 Strickland St., was charged with sixth-degree larceny on a warrant Thursday. He was ordered to appear in court Feb. 28.

Two men get suspended sentences on drug charges

Against Drugs - that capped a year-long undercover surveillance of the local narcotics rings. Both local police and the Eastern Division of the Statewide Narcotics Task Force participated in the undercover work and the arrests.
The Manchester department assigned one of its officers to work undercover the entire year.
Mitchell Manseau, 27, of West Willington, received a punishment from the court Friday, similar to Tierney's.
He was arrested the night Tierney was, and was charged with sale of hashish, regarding a separate incident.
Several other persons arrested in the sweep have been sentenced, and more cases are pending. The sentences have run from suspended terms to full two-year terms.

Two reappointed

BOLTON - Kevin Julian and Robert Higher were reappointed as constables Tuesday night by the selectmen.
Their terms will run into 1987.
The selectmen Tuesday, at a regular meeting, also reappointed Wilmer Wison to the position of dog warden. His term will be up in June, when the selectmen will reappoint him again.
The reason for not extending his term further Tuesday was to have more uniformity among town-appointed workers. Most terms end and begin in June, at the end of the fiscal year.

Those old saws make Joyce just pine away

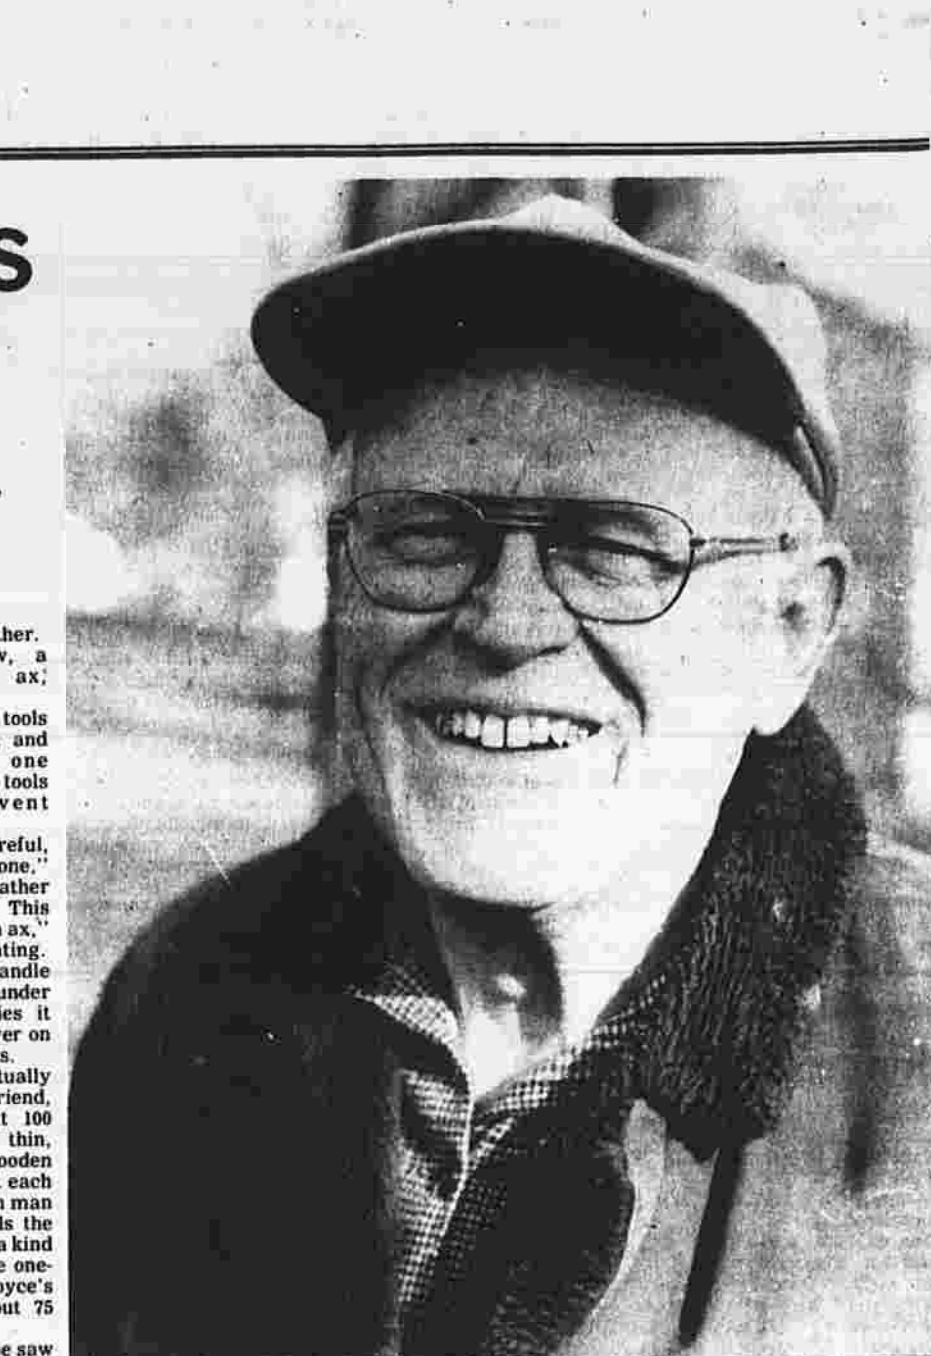

1984 is not far off

By Susan Plesse
Herald Reporter
The man in work boots, heavy brown coat and orange cap bends over a gnarled log resting in a makeshift wooden cradle. He's chiseling a long, deeply serrated saw with wooden handles.
He begins to cut. One hears the raspy sound of the saw scraping the dry log as a little pile of dust sprinkles to the frozen earth below.
JOYCE HAS cutting tools

ARTHUR JOYCE OF 476 PARKER ST., SHOWS HOW... sawing takes strength

Arthur Joyce, 72, of 476 Parker St., is a woodman of the manual age. He felled timbers in the woods of Holden, Mass., nearly 60 years ago. He had only his hand saws, and the help of a horse and sled with wooden runners.
"I started when I was 14, with my father," he says. "I quit about 1932 when I got other jobs, but I did still cut some - odds and ends, takin' down a tree now and then."
He holds the ax handle close to the top, just under the blade, then carries it close to his side. "Never on your shoulder," he says.
The two-man saw, actually the property of his friend, John Hayes, is about 100 years old. It has thin, serrated blades and wooden handles for gripping at each end. To cut a tree, each man grabs an end and pulls the blade, then carries it close to his side. "Never on your shoulder," he says.
Joyce also carries the saw at his side, for safety. "I saw this movie where they carried the saw over their shoulders. That's a good way to get killed," he says, shaking his head.
AS A TEEN in Holden, Mass., Joyce used to cut a cord of wood a day. That's a stack four feet high, four feet wide, and eight feet long. "You got a dollar a cord, then it went to a dollar and a half," he says.
"Ya know what we used to like was the swamp. You'd go in there in the winter with the horses, when it was frozen.
"The trees were straight up, no branches. You could lay a cord out there much quicker," he says. "We used to use 10 cords a winter at home."
Joyce remembers cutting

ARTHUR JOYCE OF 476 PARKER ST., SHOWS HOW... as a young man, he once sawed wood

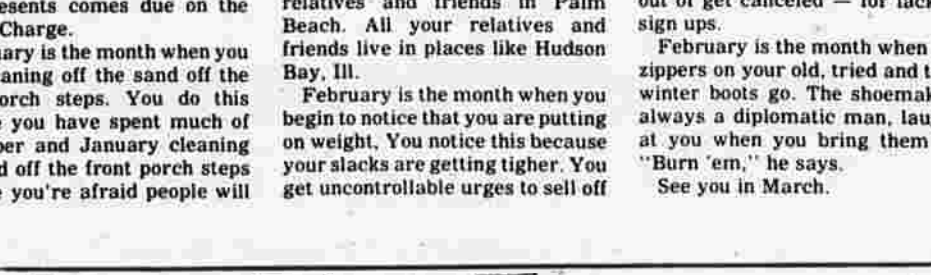

JOYCE'S WOODSMAN DAYS are over. "I wouldn't want to do it now," he says. "Ya need good wind." So now the woodcutter, a retired fruit and Whitney engineer, has turned woodworker.
"Two other fellas and I built the train at Lutz this summer before the move," he says. The train, a child-size model, includes the engine, a car, and a bright red caboose. The cars together reach a length of almost 20 feet. They are

Why February is strictly the pits

It's simple. It struck me yesterday as I was pulling the dead trailing ivy leaves off my dead trailing ivy.
I'm calling off February. Anybody who wants to invite me to dinner in February; any bill collectors who want to get ugly; any contest sponsors who want to let me know about the washer and dryer I've just won.
Please wait until next month. I cannot handle this month.
Here's why.
FEBRUARY is the month when all the buttons start falling off winter coats but it's not worth sewing them back on because it'll soon be spring and then who cares. February is the month for staying inside all the time. This leads to uncontrollable urges to sell off half the furniture and burn the rest of it. Those who are subject to such urges have tag sales and track it inside on the rugs. In February you decide to stop cleaning the front steps and hire an expensive commercial rug cleaner in the spring.
FEBRUARY is the month when you pull up the shades in the morning, see it's gray outside, and pull the shades back down again.
February is the month when you start to envy people who have relatives and friends in Palm Beach. All your relatives and friends live in places like Hudson Bay, Ill.
February is the month when you begin to notice that you are putting on weight. You notice this because your slacks are getting tighter. You get uncontrollable urges to sell off half your wardrobe with the furniture.
February is the month when you seem to get mail which begins with greetings like, "The last person who broke this chain letter died in '76 hours."
February is the month when you find out what adult evening courses you've been closed out of. The ones you haven't been closed out of get canceled - for lack of sign sheets.
February is the month when the zippers on your old, tried and true winter boots go. The shoemaker, always a diplomatic man, laughs at you when you bring them in. "Burn 'em," he says. See you in March.

Profile

There are some government debt statistics that are too depressing to translate into terms of a kid's allowance. I couldn't do it to a kid. For instance, last year the government borrowed $119.7 billion to cover the year's expenses.
Of that amount, $10.48 billion - more than 80 percent of it - was used to pay the interest on money it had borrowed in the year before. In other words, the money is borrowed didn't buy a thing. It was used to pay interest in debt and then the amount borrowed was added to the debt... interest on which, will be that much higher next year because of it.
Simple, isn't it?
