A hot hand picks the 'best' cheap stocks

When the stock market replaces sex as the hot topic of conversation on the cocktail party circuit and everyone's boasting about the fact few thousand he (or she) made, stock tips draw 'em like crazy. And the lower the price of the stock, of course, the better. So for the gambler, speculator or perhaps longer term investor, this column contains a list put together by one of the country's hottest managers — of a dozen securities (11 stocks and 1 warrant) you might want to think about that are under $10 a share.

Dan Dorfman
Syndicated
Columnist

The bulk of the companies are rife with negatives — from earnings problems to participation in the much-maligned energy sector. So if problem companies are not your cup of tea, this column's definitely not for you.

Our sizzling stockpicker is Patrick Kildoye, who runs three of nine funds that operate under the First Investors Corp. banner. All told, there's about $1.6 billion under FIC's management. But the hot story is Kildoye. Each of the three funds he manages is No. 1 in its category among the more than 500 money management firms tracked by Lipper Analytical Services.

AT PRESS time, the average Lipper-tracked fund this year was up just under 5 percent; so too for Standard & Poor's 500-stock index.

But under Kildoye's supervision, First Investors Discovery (assets: $10 million) leads the small-company growth funds with a gain of over 22 percent. In growth funds in the $50 million to $100 million category, First Investors Fund for Growth (assets: $82 million) tops the field with a nearly 18 percent advance. And among the international funds, First Investors International (assets: $2 million) heads the list with a gain of almost 14 percent.

For the purpose of this article, I'm going to focus on the First Investors Discovery Fund, whose emphasis is stocks in the single-digit category. That fund — so you know Kildoye's no flash in the pan — was up 44 percent last year, nearly triple the gain of just under 15 percent for the S&P index.

FIRST, though, to Kildoye's philosophy. A former Federal Reserve Bank of New York economist (between '63 and '77) before joining FIC about five years ago, Kildoye looks for "bombed out stocks" — ones steeped in negative psychology, but with good growth prospects down the road.

"I'm constantly monitoring the list of new stock lows, looking for negative stories that could produce substantial selling, and that's when we go in if we think the comeback story is right," explains Kildoye.

"We're betting investors will care again."

The fund is frequently early, but as Kildoye explains it, "we'll stick it out and buy more if the stock goes down — so long as we're convinced of the bullish case." The fund's average holding period for a security is about two years, though it could be much longer. It's strategy: to buy stocks well below book value and selling at two or three times what Kildoye views as peak earnings three to five years out.

Recent Kildoye "killings" include Virco Mfg. (from 2 3/4 to 13); National Medical Care (5 to 14); Takilly Industries (4 to 9); Rowe Furniture (under $1 to 5), and a slew of savings and loans, such as Gibraltar Financial, a number of which tripled and quadrupled.

OF THE LIST of 12 securities he put together under $10, Kildoye's favorite is Telefonos de Mexico, the $1 percent government-owned telephone company of Mexico. The stock — one of the few Mexican securities you can buy in the United States — trades over the counter and is quoted at a bid price of eleven-sixteenths (70 cents).

Kildoye, whose funds own about 3.5 million shares, says the company is selling at a big discount from its book value (5 a share); further, it has only a small amount of debt that's well covered by dollar-dominated revenues. Moreover, Kildoye views Mexico as a potential turnaround economy with the prospects of 8 percent growth in real gross national product.

His price objective on the stock: About $3 to $4 within two years. Basically, Kildoye thinks his dozen recommended securities have the potential — given a good market environment — of doubling and possibly tripling within a two-year period.

Another Kildoye favorite is Broken Hill Property, which is essentially a call on the Australian steel and energy industries. The company, Australia's largest (it accounts for about 3.2 percent of the country's GNP), has a $1400 million value. The current price: 6 1/4.

Florida Cypress Gardens (4), a Florida resort outside of Orlando, is yet another favored stock. The company is viewed as an important beneficiary of EPCOT, the new Disney educational facility in Florida.

THE OIL services companies have gone on the skids (like all other energy-related companies), but Kildoye is partial to three companies in the field — Parker Drilling (9) Newark Resources (7) and Varco International (6). His reasoning: Each has something special — its own niche that separates it from the rest of the world.

Parker — with great expertise in deep oil and gas drilling — can break up an oil and gas rig and fly it in 110-second packages (via helicopter) to remote areas of the world. Newark mines and sells drilling fluids (muds) which are important in controlling the flow of oil and gas at the drilling site; it also specializes in cleanup (for ecological reasons) after drilling is completed. Varco, a 75-year-old firm that's also viewed as a takeover candidate, specializes technically superior tools used at drill sites.

Inco warrants — which sell at 5 1/2 and give you the right to buy the company's shares at 14 (now 12 1/4) — are viewed by Kildoye as a solid play on an economic recovery.

Rounding out the list are Jack Winter (8), rated turnaround in the women's fashion arena; Permian Basin Trust (9 1/2), a Southland Royalty spinoff engaged in oil and gas income-receiving properties; Stewart Sandwiche (3), a sandwich-preparation service, mostly to gas stations; Johnson Products (5 1/2), a producer of hair and cosmetic products, mainly for blacks, and ISS-International Service System (4 1/2), a building maintenance firm (formally Prudential Building Maintenance) that's 62 percent owned by a Danish company.

'Significant increase' due in taxes

Town faces $1.85 million gap between expenses, revenue

By Paul Hendler
Herald Reporter

There will be a "significant increase" in property taxes in the coming fiscal year, General Manager Robert B. Weiss said Friday afternoon when he released the preliminary budget requests of department heads.

Department heads requested a 9.2 percent increase over last year's adopted budget, or 8.8 percent above the adjusted budget, for fiscal year 1983-84. Weiss stressed that these requests are preliminary, but he predicted he would make few changes to them when preparing his final recommended budget.

The figures released Friday do not include fixed costs, like contingency accounts, insurance costs and the cost of borrowing money. Those costs are expected to increase expenses significantly, because the town will have to go to expensive long-term bonding on its major projects in the coming year, Weiss said.

Even excluding those fixed costs — which are yet to be determined — the town faces about a $1.85 million gap between the additional requested expenses and anticipated new revenue from state grants, education equalization funding and growth in the Grand List.

The only way to bridge that gap, and the larger gap that will result when the fixed costs are included, is a hefty mill rate increase, Weiss predicted.

Related stories on page 10:

Manchester Police Chief Robert D. Lannon is seeking a 17.9 percent budget increase for the coming fiscal year so he can hire three more patrol officers, one more sergeant, two more detectives and three more dispatchers.

The town attorney's office would like to hire a full-time assistant town attorney, replacing one of its three part-time assistant town attorneys, General Manager Robert B. Weiss said Friday.

Weiss credited the department heads with keeping their non-salary requests below the 5 percent limit he set for them. He said the budget he will recommend to the Board of Directors neither will seek drastic cuts in services nor provide for ambitious new programs. He said he will propose no layoffs.

"The department heads have been extremely conscientious in their budget requests," said Weiss. "There's no balloon in there. They know if something is cut, a service is going to be cut."

The biggest requested dollar increase is in the Police Department, which asked for a 22.5 percent increase over last year's adopted budget, to $61,272. Weiss attributed most of that increase to the cost of implementing the newly adopted affirmative action implementation plan when recruiting for town positions.

The Human Services Department administration, which asked for a 27.5 percent increase over last year's adopted budget, to $74,569. Weiss said that every second year

Weiss attributed much of the increase to making the part-time contract evaluator's position a full-time job.

The Senior Citizens Center, which asked for a 14.8 percent increase to $122,358. Weiss attributed that increase primarily to operating a third bus and increasing the work week of a part-time secretary.

The library, which asked for a 13.3 percent increase to $612,109. Weiss attributed the increase to the rising cost of books and the library's wish to buy more books. He said even if the library can buy the same number of books it bought two years ago, it would be buying fewer books than several years ago, Weiss said.

Weiss had no comment on the Board of Education's request for a 7.7 percent budget increase from last year's adopted budget, to $21.8 million. He said he has yet to review that request.

The Public Works Department asked for a 7.2 percent increase from last year's adopted budget, to $3.9 million. Most of the budgetary changes among divisions of the Public Works Department can be attributed to shifts in personnel, Weiss said.

Several departments actually requested less money than last year.

The General Services Department asked for 4.7 percent less for fiscal year 1983-84. Weiss said that was primarily because the

'I want to hear the bell ring' P&WA woos workers to help win contract

By Raymond T. DeMeo
Herald Reporter

"I want to hear the bell ring. Then we'll meet in the winner's circle."

An out-take from "Rocky IV," a Budweiser beer commercial? No, that's the prose of Robert J. Carlson, United Technologies Corp. executive vice president, in a Friday letter urging Pratt & Whitney Aircraft workers to be extra-productive so the company can win a big U.S. Air Force jet fighter contract.

Carlson's letter, with the heading "Dear Fellow Employee," was distributed to offices and shops in all P&WA's plant locations.

"Let me begin by reminding everyone we've not lost any F-100 business and it's not our intention to lose any," the two-page missive proclaims.

What P&WA has lost, at least for now, is its bid for an exclusive contract to supply F-100 engines to 2,285 Air Force F-15 and F-16 fighters. The Air Force last week rejected P&WA's offer of a $2 billion discount on the $10 billion order, and said it would go ahead with a planned competition between the F-100 and an engine manufactured by P&WA's main competitor, General Electric, called the F-110.

The F-110 hasn't yet gone into production, but on paper it's a more powerful engine than the F-100. The Air Force has said maintenance, operability, and cost are more important factors than engine thrust in deciding how to power its jets, but some P&WA officials are skeptical of this claim.

Carlson's letter makes no reference to this skepticism. "The Air Force has assured us thrust will not be an issue in the current competition. We accept that assurance," it says.

P&WA's F-100 already powers existing Air Force F-15's, while the F-110 is a new engine, adapted from a model that was originally supposed to power the controversial B-1 bomber.

"It remains my unshaken belief ... that this Congress and this administration will not take jobs away from proven, experienced people in states throughout this country, and will not spend billions of unnecessary dollars to put in place a second engine if our offer ... is truly as cost effective and competitive as I know it will be," Carlson's letter says.

The Air Force's planned competition, scheduled to begin in March, would be a "paper" comparison of the two engines without in-flight testing, since the GE engine isn't in the production stage.

Carlson's letter says the F-100 "has over 1 1/2 million hours of operational service life behind it. Every problem that has surfaced in the normal engine maturing process has been addressed to preclude similar future occurrences. These are occurrences that come to light — only through actual service life in the hands of pilots of many nations and in the actual combat this engine has experienced."

The letter makes no direct reference to possible layoffs. On Tuesday a P&WA spokesman predicted 4,000 jobs would be lost at the company if P&WA didn't win the competition and all the engine orders; the following day he revised the statement, saying "there's no way of predicting" how many jobs may be lost.

Not since depression bankruptcies as high

NEW YORK (UPI) — Commercial and industrial business failures this week ended Feb. 17 surged to 713, surpassing the post-depression record of 696 bankruptcies reported last week, August, Dun & Bradstreet reported Thursday.

In the face of plunging world oil prices, three large Houston-based oil and gas exploration firms were listed among the failed concerns. Southern Pipeline Construction Co., with liabilities of $855.8 million; Laredo Exploration Inc., with liabilities of $855.5 million; and Southern State Exploration Inc., with liabilities of $852.4 million all filed for bankruptcy during the latest week, said D&B, a credit rating service.

The record casualties compared with 461 last week and 505 in the comparable 1982 week. So far this year 4,919 firms have been reported failed for an average 617 per week versus 3,065 or 438 a week for the same period last year, D&B said.

Companies with liabilities over $100,000 accounted for 377 of the failures, compared with 229 last week and 222 in the like 1982 week. Smaller firms, those with under $100,000 in liabilities, made up 236 of the week's total, against 283 a week before and 222 a year ago.

All sectors of industry posted increases in business failures compared with the previous week and last year, with the retail industry reporting a substantial 54.4 percent gain from the previous week and a 41.2 percent gain over year-ago levels.

Geographically, all regions except the East South Central showed increased business failure activity, especially the Mountain region, D&B said.

Panel hears debate on costs of Millstone

By Susan Kinsman
United Press International

HARTFORD (UPI) — Marilyn Crossley paid $61.30 for electricity in February. She estimates her bill would be $115.30 in 1986 if the Millstone III nuclear power plant is completed on time and within current estimates.

The "It" were big questions Thursday as the Legislature's Energy and Public Utilities Committee considered seven bills, including proposals to cap the construction estimate on the plant and keep customers from paying for it until it works.

Northeast Utilities has estimated it will cost $3.54 billion before Connecticut's fourth nuclear power plant is completed in May 1986. The project was originally estimated at $700 million.

However, in testimony before the committee, no one — from a utility spokesman to the state Department of Public Utility Control — could say for sure what the plant will cost, when it will be finished or what portion will be passed on to ratepayers.

Rep. Sam Gjedrem, D-Conn., and members of the Connecticut Citizens Action Group, including Mrs. Crossley, urged the committee to protect utility customers from what could be a costly unknown.

"If people can't afford to pay electric and gas prices now, what will happen in 1986 it costs 16 cents a kilowatt hour, double what it is now," said Andrew Wilson, a CCAAG spokeswoman for the former Naugatuck Valley.

AT LEAST 30 people wore white painter caps supplied by the CCAAG reading "put a cap on the cost of Millstone III."

The committee is considering bills to require the companies' shareholders to absorb any such costs in excess of the $3.54 billion estimate. Another would prohibit the state Department of Public Utility Control from forcing utility customers to pay for construction work in progress when setting the utility rate base.

Other bills aimed would study possible public takeover of Connecticut's electric and gas companies and create a fund to pay for decommissioning a nuclear power plant or cleaning up after a nuclear accident.

"No one knows what the final cost of this project will actually be," said Peter G. Boucher, public utility control commissioner. He urged caution in considering the restrictions.

He said capping the estimate will not keep down construction costs, would force higher capital costs onto the utility and would block the DPUC from passing on more favorable rates to utility customers.

E. James Ferland, executive vice president and chief financial officer for Connecticut Light & Power Co., a Northeast subsidiary, agreed.

"Not only would our ability to complete Millstone III be threatened, but, more importantly, the people of Connecticut would ultimately bear the higher costs," Ferland said.

Ferland said banning CWP charges from the rate base would be "incredibly poor public policy" that could "impair rather than advance the public interest."

Several investment bankers said the utility's borrowing costs would rise if the amount it could pass on to ratepayers was capped.

"The companies' credit ratings can be expected to decline further and their cost of capital can be expected to rise even higher than present levels," said Martin L. Lyons, manager of the public utilities group for E.F. Hutton & Co.

Oil-cost drop sets off a spree

NEW YORK (UPI) — Falling oil prices sent the Dow Jones Industrial average skyrocketing above the 1,100 mark in a record-setting buying spree spurred by predictions lower energy costs will help fuel the economic recovery.

The Dow jumped 24.87 points to a new high Thursday, closing at 1,121.81 — well above the old high of 1,097.18. Most other barometers of market activity also closed at record levels.

A day of good economic news and rosy forecasts from the Reagan administration apparently convinced investors that falling oil prices will lead to lower inflation and interest rates, not an international financial collapse.

State bond panel OKs UConn athletic facility

By Mark A. Dupuis
UPI Capital Reporter

HARTFORD — The State Bond Commission gave initial approval Friday for construction of a $18.5-million athletic facility at the University of Connecticut, answering long-standing pleas from university officials.

The bond commission with no discussion authorized $60,000 to begin design of the proposed field house as part of a two-step project that will also include renovation of UConn's existing nearly 30-year-old field house.

State budget chief Anthony V. Milano said the bond authorization represented a firm commitment by the state to build the new field house, sought for more than a decade by UConn officials.

"The university has made this a major, major priority," Milano said in explaining the state's decision to go ahead with the project after years of pleading by UConn officials.

Milano, secretary of the Office of Policy and Management, said the state decision showed "the recognition that there is a real need there to provide a balanced education."

UConn Athletic Director John Toner said the new facility would give a boost to athletic recruiting efforts and also provide additional space needed for all of the school's athletic programs.

"I think it's just super," Toner said in a telephone interview from his Storrs office. "It's been a good 12 years that we've been requesting this facility," said Toner.

The new field house would include an Olympic-sized pool and an assembly area that would seat about 8,000 people and could be used for basketball games and other events.

In addition to more seating for basketball, Toner said the new facility would provide added space for practice and teaching, which he said was important to recruiting efforts.

Toner said the new field house was needed because current facilities were "overcrowded, over-used and under-equipped at a time when we have men and women increasing numbers" interested in sports and recreational activities.

The current field house, which was built in 1954, seats 4,600 people for basketball games, Toner said, and is "desperately" in need of the planned refurbishing.

The design work covered by Friday's $60,000 authorization will take at least six months to a year with construction of the new facility taking an additional two years or more, Milano said.

First jobs bill passes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Democratic-led House Appropriations Committee, working under limits set by President Reagan, Friday drafted a $4.8 billion emergency jobs bill its supporters estimate will put hundreds of thousands of people to work.

But the committee's ranking Republican called the first emergency jobs bill produced in the new Congress a "lousy" piece of legislation that would "pour money like corn down a rathole."

Estimates of new jobs it would create, some possibly starting within two months, ranged from 300,000 to 600,000.

The committee approved the draft by voice vote and sent it to the full House for possible action next week.

Chairman Jamie Whitten, D-Miss., said the Democratic leadership believes any bill that spends less than $5 billion will not be voted by Reagan, who originally asked for only $4 billion in spending, most of it moved up from next year's budget.

Liberals attacked the measure as too limited to do anything serious about the 14 percent unemployment rate and the millions of people having trouble making mortgage payments, putting food on the table or getting medical care.

EPA contracts reviewed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The White House said Friday contacts with presidential aides and Environmental Protection Agency officials are being reviewed for "improper activity," but insisted no formal investigation is under way.

Aides to President Reagan were asked 10 days ago to report any contacts with EPA officials to White House counsel Fred Fielding, deputy press secretary Larry Speakes disclosed.

"To date," Speakes said, "we have found nothing that would indicate any wrongdoing, any improper activity." However, he said the review, part of "an internal assessment" by Fielding, is continuing.

Congressional investigators are looking into accusations of political manipulation in the EPA's handling of the $1 billion "Superfund" established to clean up hazardous waste sites around the country.

Two top-level EPA officials were fired this week. Reagan replaced them and made three other top EPA appointments Thursday, saying he still has confidence in Administrator Anne Burford and the only scandal at the EPA is the "one in the media."

The Justice Department, meanwhile, turned over to a House subcommittee the first four documents from scores of EPA enforcement files Reagan had ordered withheld from Congress last fall but agreed last week to release.

Mill town seeks relief

JOHNSTOWN, Pa. (UPI) — Johnstown residents Friday voted to "fight back" from economic troubles that have burdened the mill and mining community with the nation's highest unemployment rate.

About 100 people gathered at a town meeting in a downtown motel to answer Mayor Herbert Pluh's call for ideas about how to tackle the city's 22.7 percent jobless figure.

Pluh said he would take the suggestions to Washington next week and present them to the secretaries of labor and housing and urban development.

"They tell me we're sitting on coal, millions of tons of coal," said retired steelworker Paul Parashin, citing one advantage he sees in the Johnstown area, about 45 miles east of Pittsburgh.

"Our labor" has an outstanding record," said Parashin. "We have the lowest rate of absenteeism, which means a lot to an employer. We have the skill. We have the lowest crime rate in the country. Now we find ourselves with the highest unemployment. Why should it be here, with a town with all these advantages?"

Mimi Coopersmith, a local advertiser, hung a large black-and-blue banner that read, "Make the right move in Johnstown."

Habib falls in accord

By United Press International

U.S. Middle East envoy Philip Habib fell in seven hours of talks Friday to reach a common position with Lebanese leaders to break the deadlock in talks with Israel on withdrawal of foreign forces from Lebanon.

Lebanese officials, calling the meeting in Beirut "the most crucial and important" since the Israeli-Lebanese talks began Dec. 28, said the Americans and Lebanese had agreed on two-thirds of the topics discussed during the day.

But the Lebanese Central News Agency, close to the government, said "the difference between the Lebanese and American opinions deals with mutual cooperation and security arrangements" — the key demands Israel is making.

Newspaper reports in Beirut said the Lebanese and Israeli negotiators, who have made little progress in two months, were now discussing a two-zone security strip in the south of Lebanon to satisfy Israeli demands for security along its northern border.

The Amal newspaper of the Israeli-backed Lebanese Christian militia said the Israelis and Lebanese army would jointly control a strip 110 miles wide north of the Israeli border.

A second strip further north would be 28 miles wide, manned by Lebanese soldiers and multinational peace-keeping forces.

In a related development, the Jerusalem Post newspaper said Israeli defense experts were extremely pessimistic about a Syrian withdrawal from Lebanon and believed Syrian-Israeli tensions might explode into fighting by mid-Spring.

Nigeria joins OPEC talks

By United Press International

OPEC maverick Nigeria said Friday it would join other members of the 12-nation oil cartel at an emergency meeting next week on a unified oil price cut, raising the odds that a global price war could be averted.

Analysts said the Nigerian announcement indicated the African oil producer would reconsider its decision to roll back prices by $5.50 to $30 a barrel last week and to undercut non-OPEC competitors Britain and Norway.

The Nigerian price move set the stage for a pricing free-for-all.

OPEC's powerful Persian Gulf producers retaliated by threatening to unilaterally slash their prices unless Nigeria and other cartel dissidents agreed to unified reduction in the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries' 434-barrel base price at next week's summit.

"The Nigerian oil price is very flexible and negotiable," said Alvin Silber, oil analyst at Dean Witter Reynolds Inc., New York. "There are serious economic difficulties in Nigeria, which has little leverage for playing games and must maximize its oil revenues."

The government-run New Nigerian newspaper, quoting official sources in Lagos, said Nigeria is willing to attend the OPEC meeting to work out a uniform and acceptable oil price.

MARGARET HECKLER TESTIFIES ... at confirmation hearings

Senate grills Heckler

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Health Secretary-designate Margaret Heckler said at her confirmation hearing Friday she "cannot imagine coming down" on the side of abortion rights and would back the president on a teenage birth control rule.

Although the former Massachusetts congresswoman is certain to win approval as secretary of health and human services, she ran into tough questioning by the Senate Finance Committee on abortion and the federal regulation requiring parents to be notified when teen-agers seek birth control information.

Sens. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., Nancy Kassebaum, R-Kan., and Paula Hawkins, R-Fla., introduced the diminutive Mrs. Heckler, who sat on a pillow at the witness table, her two grown daughters behind her. A Republican, she was the dean of women serving in Congress until her defeat last fall.

Sen. Robert Packwood, R-Ore., asked Mrs. Heckler whether she believes Congress ought to use legislation to reverse the 1973 Supreme Court decision legalizing abortion.

"I've always voted for the Hyde Amendment. I am proud. I sincerely believe in that position," she replied. The Hyde amendment prohibits use of federal funds for abortion.

Queen due in California

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Buckingham Palace and the White House Friday put finishing touches on plans for the first stop on Queen Elizabeth II's historic California visit, a whirlwind tour of military, scientific and cultural institutions.

The queen and Prince Philip will sail into U.S. waters Saturday aboard RMY Britannia, which will be met in San Diego Harbor by a Naval frigate and colorful flotilla of private boats — including a contingent of Irish nationalist protesters.

Queen Elizabeth will sight San Diego from the same vantage point as did its European discoverer, Juan Rodriguez Cabrillo, in 1542, as she cruises into the sparkling Southern California harbor at the start of their 10-day tour.

"Lots of folks will be out there with their own boats," a port authority official said. "The Navy and Coast Guard will be out there to keep them at a distance."

N. Korean pilot defects

SEOUL, South Korea (UPI) — A North Korean pilot flew his Chinese-built MIG-19 jet fighter to South Korea Friday in the first defection from the communist North in 12 years, Defense Ministry officials said.

South Korean fighters scrambled and air raid warning sirens blared as the MIG-19 piloted by Lee Yong-pyong, 28, a junior grade captain in the North Korean air force, approached Seoul, officials said.

The South Korean fighters escorted Lee's single-seat fighter to a base near Seoul. South Korean officials were elated. "He defected to freedom in the South," one said.

South Korean defense spokesman Park Jong-shik said anti-aircraft positions were placed on full alert until Lee's plane had landed.

In escaping, Lee flew his supersonic jet fighter south from Haeju, a North Korean port and air base about 80 miles northwest of Seoul, toward the South Korean island of Yonpyongdo not far from the North Korean coast, Park said.

Lee was the first North Korean pilot to defect to South Korea since Army Maj. Park Seon-kuk, 35, flew south in a Mig-15 on Dec. 2, 1976.

Truck's brakes locked

WILLOW CREEK, Calif. (UPI) — Officials Friday blamed a county-owned dump truck's locked brakes for a head-on collision with a crowded school bus that killed the truck driver and a 14-year-old boy on a rural road in the Trinity Alps.

It was determined that the truck driver applied his brakes, but for some reason they locked up, "causing it to swerve across the center line and hit the bus, California Highway Patrol spokesman Jim Burgess said of the Thursday afternoon accident.

The bus, travelling 45 miles per hour, was carrying 37 students home to the small logging town of Willow Creek from nearby Hoopa when the empty Mendocino County dump truck swerved and hit it, Burgess said.

The truck's downhill speed was not determined.

Killed was the truck driver, Bing Siles, 44, of Oriskany, a tiny community along the Klamath River, and James Flint, a student at Hoopa High School.

Bus driver Sam Gentile, 28, of Willow Creek and five students were hospitalized and listed in critical and serious conditions Friday. The other students were treated for shock and minor injuries and released from the Humboldt Medical Center in Hoopa.

The sheriffs collect

HARTFORD (UPI) — State revenue officials Friday acknowledged there were problems with sheriffs in collecting delinquent taxes but they were outweighed by their ability in chasing down deadbeats.

State sheriffs, appointed under a patronage system acknowledged by both parties, are used by the Department of Revenue Services to go after tax delinquents.

Lawmakers, including those who want to outlaw the system, met with Revenue Services Commissioner Orest Dubno and his top aides to discuss the issue.

The Capitol meeting was set up in response to charges by Republican lawmakers about political favoritism in the system resulting in "obscene profits" to the sheriffs.

The Republican attack followed a state auditor report the state had little control over what the sheriffs went to work and said they were being taken for a more equitable distribution of the lucrative assignments to trick down tax cheaters.

Cut-rate air fares OK

MONTREAL (UPI) — U.S. officials Friday granted a weekend reprieve on an order outlawing cut-rate fares on flights between Canada and the United States.

The U.S. authorities have given an interim approval for passengers to travel on the airline's weekend trans-border seat sale for the period of Feb. 26, 27 and for return travel as planned," the officials said.

In Washington, Transportation Department spokesman Tom Blanks said the Canadians would send a delegation to Washington Monday to meet with U.S. representatives on the disputed weekend discount program.

In meantime, while the negotiations are ongoing, Air Canada discount fares will be able to continue in effect," Blanks said.

A U.S. Civil Aeronautics Board order earlier in the day said $8,000 Air Canada tickets sold at discounts up to 70 percent were invalid. U.S. carriers sold a comparable number of tickets at the same prices on competing flights.

Royalties help convicts

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (UPI) — Claus von Bulow, free on $1 million bail while appealing an attempted murder conviction, says he will use any royalties from a book on his life to help people convicted of crimes pay for their court appeals.

The Danish jetsetter's literary agent says von Bulow was hurt by published reports he is peddling a book on his life and attempted murder convictions as a way to pay his lawyers.

"He didn't want to be accused of benefiting from the horrible situation," said Sheldon Reynolds, a film producer and personal friend acting as von Bulow's literary agent.

St. Martin's Press confirmed it has a verbal commitment to publish von Bulow's account of his life and the events surrounding his conviction in Newport last March of twice trying to kill his wealthy wife with insulin.

Von Bulow is appealing his 30-year prison sentence.

State to begin search

HARTFORD (UPI) — The state will begin a public search next week for more than 20,000 Connecticut residents who own over $2.8 million in unclaimed savings, stock and bonds, State Treasurer Henry Parker said Friday.

He said the state will look for the lost owners of inactive accounts, unclaimed insurance refunds and payment checks, unclaimed payroll checks and unclaimed stocks and bonds dating back to 1961.

More than 75 percent of the unclaimed property escheated to the state is from dormant savings accounts between $25 and $100, said Parker.

Of the remaining 25 percent, 5,000 accounts range from $100 to $500; 537 accounts range from $500 to $1,000; 291 accounts range from $1,000 to $5,000; 31 accounts range from $5,000 to $10,000 and 28 accounts are for $10,000 or more, with the largest being $66,000.

Lease sale to proceed

BOSTON (UPI) — An Interior Department official Friday reaffirmed the federal government's commitment to proceed with the March 29 sale of leases for exploratory offshore drilling on Georges Bank despite objections from Massachusetts officials.

Dan Miller, the Interior's assistant secretary for energy and minerals, said the department made its commitment to the sale of oil and gas leasing rights for 2.8 million acres of submerged land off the New England coast and would stick by it.

"We will go forward with this sale," he said after a Boston briefing for department employees.

Interior Secretary James Watt on Wednesday approved the sale of leases for 448 new offshore tracts for exploratory drilling off Cape Cod, in some of the nation's most productive fishing grounds.

State environmentalists balked, saying drilling on 57 of those tracts could be environmentally devastating.

State Environmental Secretary James Hoyle said Massachusetts wanted to continue negotiating to reach a compromise but Interior won't talk — denying Watt's assertion that Massachusetts terminated negotiations.

He said Massachusetts had not ruled out going to court to block the lease sale.

Almanac

Today is Saturday, Feb. 26, the 57th day of 1983 with 306 to follow.

The morning stars are Mercury, Jupiter and Saturn.

The evening stars are Venus and Mars.

Those born this date are under the sign of Pisces.

French novelist and poet Victor Hugo was born on this date in 1802, as was American frontiersman William "Buffalo Bill" Cody, in 1846.

On this date in history:

In 1831, an estimated 20,000 people were killed when a devastating earthquake struck Lisbon, Portugal.

In 1815, Napoleon Bonaparte and 1,200 men left the Isle of Elbe to start his 100-day re-conquest of France.

In 1919, Congress established Grand Canyon Park in Arizona.

In 1935, Germany began operation of its Air Force — the Luftwaffe under Reichsmarschal Hermann Goering.

A thought for the day: American poet Ralph Waldo Emerson said, "The reward of a thing well done is to have done it."

Drug charges bring seven-year sentences

By Richard Cody
Herald Reporter

Two narcotics dealers busted Oct. 21 with 26 other alleged Manchester-area drug sellers were given seven-year prison sentences Friday in Manchester Superior Court.

Michael Mercier, 18, of 1558 Manchester Road, Glastonbury, and Jonathan Gillespie, 30, of 85 North St., were also each given five years probation effective after being released from Cheshire prison.

Mercier's sentence is suspended after five years. Gillespie, the first man arrested the night of Oct. 21, will be free after three years.

Gillespie's sentence came after he pleaded guilty to one count of sale of cocaine. Another count of the charge had been nolle by the prosecution.

Mercier, one of two men who sold an undercover Manchester officer 100 lbs of LSD-laced gum drops, June 22, pleaded guilty earlier this month to one count of sale of LSD. A charge of sale of FCP and another of LSD were earlier dropped.

It was this sale of the hallucinogen in the form of treated gum drops that caused a statewide warning issued by the state police and the Eastern Division of the Statewide Narcotics Task Force. It was the biggest one-time bust in the history of the Manchester department.

While at the home during the raid, police answered the phone and talked to a person who wanted to buy drugs. The state trooper on the line didn't identify himself and told the young man to come over. Two hours later, three persons showed up at the door and police arrested them.

This started the ball rolling on the mass bust that night. In total, 38 suspected dealers were busted on warrants in three consecutive days by Manchester police and the Eastern Division of the Statewide Narcotics Task Force. It was the biggest one-time bust in the history of the Manchester department.

No problems so far with new roof at MHS

The new roof at Manchester High School has been substantially complete for more than a year without any problems, according to Paul Phillips, chairman of the Town Building Committee.

The roof was constructed by Eagle Moisture Protection Corp. at a cost of $794,955 with materials supplied by Carlyle Rubber Company. Carlyle will make a preliminary inspection of the material before March 1, Phillips said, and a final inspection will be made in early spring by representatives of the committee, the architect, Carlyle and Eagle before the town accepts the job and signs a guarantee agreement.

Phillips said work on renovations at the school is on schedule and should be completed by summer. A new all-weather track will be installed at the end of the school year, Phillips reported. The physical education locker rooms under construction will be ready for occupancy by March 1.

Painting of classrooms, corridor walls, and student lockers is now being done.

The elevator for handicapped that provides access to the pool and the corrective gym has been installed and is ready for inspection by the state. New pumps, valves, and filters have been installed in the swimming pool and ramps for handicapped have been provided.

The new industrial education wing has been completely enclosed. New word processing and computer equipment is now in place and in use by the students.

Windows have been replaced with thermal windows or insulated panels as an energy-saving move and the heating system has been upgraded.

The total cost of the renovation project is $5,552,281.

Workshop set to tell men how to deal with women

By Richard Cody
Herald Reporter

It's been said throughout the ages — usually by men — that women are incomprehensible creatures, governed by emotion.

Tired, after studying the human mind for 25 years, said he had never found a satisfactory answer to the question: "What does a woman want?"

Well, a community at Manchester Community College has decided it's time for men to find out. He is offering a program titled "Workshop for Men: How to Deal With Women," which he hopes will help men understand what women need from a relationship.

MCC Counselor Ronald Clinton said he decided to offer the program because in sessions he's held with groups of men, all the talk degenerates to women. "They don't know what women want," he said. "They all try to figure it out, and wonder why they can't get along."

"I don't profess to know that much about women," he said. "But that's not the issue. The issue is how to deal with yourself and make (the relationship) a more favorable communication."

The thrust of the program, he said, is to help men deal with women on the emotional level — to be unafraid of releasing emotions. This might cut down on the number of abuses or break-ups.

The program will take place from March 10 through April 14, at the Human Growth Services office on Route 44 in Coventry. The six sessions will be on consecutive Thursday evenings from 8:30 to 10 p.m. The cost is $10 per session. To register, you can contact Clinton at 675-5888, or Dr. Robert Heavilin at 232-7013.

Two requests heard by the Planning and Zoning Commission Tuesday were approved virtually without discussion.

One was from Preferred Equities for a subdivision into three lots of the parcel on Broad Street which is the site for Color Your World, Color Tile, and Manchester Sewing Center.

The other was from Maurice French for a special exception to convert a single-family house to a two-family house at 82 Ridge St.

There was no opposition to either expressed at the hearing.

O'Neill stays with Police set-up

By Mark A. Dupuis
UPI Capitol Reporter

HARTFORD — Gov. William O'Neill, who considered abolishing the vacant post of state public safety commissioner, Friday said he decided to keep the position and nominated the state police commander to fill it. O'Neill said he reviewed the administration of the Department of Public Safety and decided to place state police commander Col. Lester J. Forst in the dual role of state police commander and public safety commissioner.

Dioxin leak found here

PORTLAND (UPI) — One barrel of herbicide containing traces of dioxin was found to be leaking Friday by inspectors of the Department of Environmental Services who examined several barrels found in a Department of Transportation shed.

The inspectors examined the barrels after receiving reports from the Connecticut Employees Union Independent and Rep. Eugene Migliaro, R-Wolcott, said Stephen Hitchcock, hazardous materials manager for the DEP.

The DOT's Portland Supply Depot contains 50 to 60 barrels of the herbicides 2,4,5-T and 2,4-D and some of the barrels are leaking or rotting, union official Steven Ferruccio said.

The one barrel found to be leaking does contain 2,4,5-T, but not enough to do any damage, Hitchcock said. The herbicide contains "minute amounts" of dioxin, an extremely hazardous chemical that has contaminated Times Beach, Mo., and forced residents to abandon their homes.

The chemical also is contained in Agent Orange, the defoliant used in the Vietnam War and which has been linked to birth defects in children and Vietnam veterans.

"The herbicide 2,4,5-T can still be used, but it's restricted on what it can be used on," Hitchcock said.

DOT Maintenance Operations Manager James Schaefer said he didn't think the stored barrels posed a hazard unless they decide to bathe in it (2,4,5-T). He said the chemical was used to kill poison ivy on roads and DOT property.

The DOT stopped using it after the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency put the chemical on its list of restricted materials.

State rates high in labor

HARTFORD (UPI) — The latest federal labor data showing Connecticut with one of the nation's lowest unemployment rates in 1982 virtually explodes the "myth of the invincible Sunbelt," state Economic Development Commissioner John J. Carlson said Friday.

Carlson said the state's performance proves that it is the diversified economy with a balanced mixture of basic manufacturing, high technology, and service industries which has the best chance of successfully battling recession.

Connecticut's 7.9 percent jobless rate in 1982 was the ninth lowest in the country and was significantly below the national average of 9.7 percent.

"Connecticut is clearly outperforming the rest of the nation," Carlson said. He said Connecticut's comparatively good standing nationally is indicative of a broad-based economic diversity that has taken hold in the state over the past eight years.

"The Sunbelt is burning out," Carlson said, noting that the sustained recession has "poked a huge hole in those states' wily-nilly development styles."

"States are ill-advised to put all of their development eggs in the high technology basket, as we can clearly see in California (10.6 percent unemployment) and North Carolina (9.2 percent unemployment), both states which have highly visible and much heralded high tech centers," Carlson said.

Carlson said the only states with the lower unemployment rates than Connecticut in 1982 were primarily farm states. The two states with the lowest jobless rate South Dakota 5.3 percent and North Dakota with 5.5 percent.

Misuse alleged

ROCKY HILL (UPI) — State prosecutors say they have found a pattern of misuse of town supplies and services by Rocky Hill town employees, particularly in the Highway Department.

Many town employees seem to believe "personal use of town equipment is one of the perks of their job," said Assistant State's Attorney Ernest Diette Jr., head of the state's Economic Crime Unit.

Diette said there may have been justification to bring lesser larceny charges against 20 unidentified workers, but the state would not have been able to prove the allegations because of a lack of inventory control by the town.

The town's finance director, Diette said Thursday, believed it was cheaper to absorb the losses of property than to put in financial auditing controls.

ing the public safety commissioner's job, a center of controversy into the former commissioner, Col. Donald J. Long.

However, O'Neill, who announced the nomination of Forst at a swearing-in ceremony for 21 other state agency heads, said he would not ask the Legislature to restructure the Department of Public Safety.

Forst, a Southbury resident, was named deputy commissioner of public safety in a shakeup of the Department of Public Safety following controversy over the state police handling of a bloody 1981 Ku Klux Klan rally in Meriden.

Governor's new car causes stir with GOP

By Mark A. Dupuis
UPI Capitol Reporter

HARTFORD — At least one Republican legislative leader cried foul, but Gov. William O'Neill said Friday, the state got a "super deal" in leasing a new luxury car for his official use.

House Minority Leader R.E. Van Norstrand, R-Darien, issued a statement Friday morning criticizing O'Neill for "the height of hypocrisy" in obtaining the Lincoln Town Car at a time when the state faces a deficit and higher taxes.

"I hope the governor enjoys his new limousine while the taxpayers of this state enjoy his new taxes," Van Norstrand said.

O'Neill took the Republican criticism in stride, explaining that the new car is being leased to the state at the same or less cost than what is now paid for to lease a standard state police cruiser.

"All he has to do is become governor and he can have a Lincoln," O'Neill said of the Republican leader's criticism.

O'Neill said the car, which he began using Thursday, was leased from Ford Motor Co. for $256 a month. The model

Long was criticized when state police deemed to send troopers into Meriden to assist local police at the Klan rally despite requests from Meriden police for assistance.

In reaction, O'Neill banished Long to a desk job in the Department of Public Safety and appointed Forst to the then-vacant position of deputy commissioner with command over the state police.

O'Neill said Friday the deputy commissioner's post would remain but would not be filled, in effect returning the public safety hierarchy to the system in place before Long's demotion.

The commissioner's job has been vacant since Long opted for early retirement last fall, accusing O'Neill of tampering with the integrity of the state police.

Although O'Neill seeks to retain the public safety commissioner's post, a legislative committee voted Thursday to hold public hearings on a bill that would make the division of state police an independent department.

The bill approved after a hearing by the Public Safety Committee would abolish the job of public safety commissioner, who also has jurisdiction over the state Military Department and Office of Civil Preparedness.

Two sought in shooting

ORANGE (UPI) — Arrest warrants were issued Friday for two gunmen who burst into a suburban home, held a woman's head and then killed her son and wounded her husband and daughter, police said.

Police sought Eugene Jarvis, 23, of West Haven and Joseph Doehrer, 24, of Milford in the slaying of Barry Antoni, 27, who died of a gunshot wound to the stomach.

Cleto Antoni, 64, father of the victim, was shot in the stomach and was in critical condition at the Hospital of St. Raphael in New Haven. His daughter, Patricia, 25, was in a good condition with a gunshot wound to her left wrist.

Assistant Police Chief Russell McLean said the two gunmen, one about 6 foot 1 with a stocky build and the other about 5 foot 7 and slender, rang the doorbell at the 279 Hemlock Dr. home at 7 p.m. Thursday and pushed their way in when Mrs. Antoni opened the door.

"They went to the house and accused a family member of stealing something from them," McLean said. He said the gunman knew the daughter but he would not say what she was supposed to have taken.

"They placed a gun to the mother's head and confronted Patricia, and about that time her father and brother arrived at the scene and one of the subjects opened fire with a handgun," he said.

McLean said Mrs. Antoni was not shot but was kicked and knocked to the floor.

Reward posted

HARTFORD (UPI) — The state has posted a $20,000 reward for information leading to the arrest of a Bridgeport man suspected in the slaying of a Stratford police officer, the Governor's Office said Friday.

The reward was posted for information leading to the arrest of Lester M. Allen, who was charged in a court warrant with attempted murder in Sept. 29, 1980, shooting of Stratford police officer Thomas Masterson.

Masterson was shot in the head by the driver of a vehicle that had been stopped for a traffic violation. The officer sustained a skull fracture and was unable to return to work for eight months.

State's Attorney Donald A. Browne, in requesting the reward, said a police investigation remains in the warrant for Allen's arrest, however, the suspect has not been located.

Magazine loses
NEW HAVEN — A Superior Court judge has denied a request by the Yale Literary Magazine to prevent Yale University from attempting to revoke the magazine's use of the Yale name.

In a five-page decision Thursday, Judge William L. Hadden Jr. said, "At this point, there is no evidence that the university has done anything to alter the status quo." What the University has done, the judge said, is send formal notice to the magazine's publisher, Andrei Navrozov, of the impending revocation.

The University claims the magazine has forfeited its right to continue publishing under the Yale name because it failed to comply with recently revised regulations governing undergraduate organizations and has failed to register as an undergraduate organization.

However, Navrozov claims the magazine is not required to comply with regulations and the regulations were revised solely to wrest control of the publication from him because of the conservative political viewpoint he espouses.

HUD moving in
BRIDGEPORT — A team of federal public housing experts next week will begin assisting local officials in managing the Bridgeport Housing Authority, and bus terminal for almost a year without proper authorization.

The Bridgeport Park Authority Commission has instructed city attorneys to start legal action against Robert Dwyer, who operates the concession at the Water Street trolly station and installed the machines early last year without the necessary permits.

It is the second attempt by city officials to have the machines removed. Last May the executive director of the parking authority had the machines locked up.

Test your skills

Now can you find any combination of advance cards that will allow you to make your slam against the 5-1 trump break?

Let's work it out. You can make the slam against the 5-1 trump break if you can discard your three diamond losers on dummy's long club before the main winner. You must start by playing your high trumps and you must play your king and second trump to dummy's ace. Next, lead a low club from dummy. If you can get a 3-3 club break since that deal, your ruff come as you get your second diamond discard. Further study will show that there would be no way to clear the whole club suit against any 4-2 break. A word about the bidding. South's five-trump call was the old-fashioned call. It is going to break 2-3, the hand is a cinch. However, trumps break 2-3 less than 41 percent of the time.

The queen of diamonds is opened and you take your

Your Birthday

February 27, 1983

In the year ahead you will be developing attitudes which can help you to better cope with the world around you. As they blossom you'll become more and more of a success. Pisces (Feb. 20-March 20) is important to you. Associate with persons with whom you share common interests. You may come to a turning point if your companions aren't on your side. Order now: The NEW Astro-Graph Matchmaker wheel and booklet which reveals cosmic compatibilities for all signs. Tells how to get along with hidden qualities, plus more. $4.95. Send an additional $1 for your Astro-Graph prediction for 1983. Be sure to give your zodiac sign.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) A lack of concentration could hamper your productivity and effectiveness today. Try not to let your mind wander from your work.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 23) Strive to be prudent in all of your investments today, especially those of a social nature. In order to have a good time, you might ignore the cost.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 23) Understand you are very tactful in making requests today, your mate may respond by doing just the opposite of what you want.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) To have your plans run smoothly today, let others know your intentions in advance. They won't be prepared to cope with your last-minute changes.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 23) Subdue your inclinations today. Subdue your inclinations today. Look for gains of dubious nature. Your hopes aren't to be based upon realistic factors.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Be realistic today when assessing competitive situations. Play hard on your common sense. Friends will welcome your company today, but they're not up to too hospitable if you drop in unexpectedly. Be sure to call in advance.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Look for hopes in the month ahead. Someone may promise to do something for you, but in the end you might do all the giving and get nothing.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Face-up to mistakes. It prevents the boss from wrinkling your shirt if he has to collar you.

WEAVER role

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Dennis Weaver, long a favorite for his good boy roles in "Gunsmoke" and "McCloud," turns urban for "Cocaine: One Man's Struggle," a story of a successful real estate agent who becomes hooked on the drug.

The tense, two-hour NBC-TV drama co-stars Robert Grasso as his character, Weaver as his teenage son. Weaver's character deteriorates from a casual cocaine user to an addict.

The strong anti-drug movie illustrates the false sense of security provided by cocaine and the nearly fatal final results of constant usage.

Burns blast

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — George Burns will play host on "The Kids from FAME," an hour-long television special March 3 featuring highlights of the first live concert by the cast of TV's "Fame" series.

The show was filmed last December at London's historic Royal Albert Hall and starred the series' leading actress, Debbie Allen, who choreographs the series in addition to choreographing the stage presentation.

Police chief asks for more officers

By Paul Hendrie
Herald Reporter

Manchester Police Chief Robert D. Lannan is seeking a 17.9 percent budget increase for the coming fiscal year so he can hire three more patrol officers, one more sergeant, two more detectives and three more dispatchers.

Town General Manager Robert B. Weiss said Friday afternoon one Police Department goal is to add a second shift of detectives, in part because of the recent crackdown on drug dealing.

Weiss said he is not yet certain, however, if he will recommend new hirings to the Board of Directors. He made Lannan's budget requests public at a news conference.

The additional positions would bring the police patrol force up to its fully authorized strength of 57 officers, Weiss said. Now, the Board of Directors has authorized the town to fill 54 of those positions.

Patrol strength will be up to 54 officers if the three currently proposed positions are filled next week, as expected.

The addition of three new dispatchers is proposed to handle overtime payments and protect against "burnout" of dispatchers, Weiss said. He said Chief Lannan is especially concerned about the performance of the dispatchers with the townwide paramedics program due to come on line later this year.

Weiss said the police force is making a "strong pitch" to hire more detectives.

"What the police want to do, for the first time, is to assign a second shift of detectives," said Weiss. "They want to have a crew to work the night shift."

Weiss linked the request to recent rash of drug busts.

"It takes manhours to do that job," said Weiss. "If they put all the work into drug work, maybe some other things are not getting done."

Weiss said he supports the anti-drug program. Without such an effort, Manchester would risk earning the reputation as a haven for drug dealers.

"As the city of Hartford steps up their efforts, there's a tendency to drive them (the dealers) to the suburbs," said Weiss. "If you get a reputation for being easy on drugs, they will come here."

Cops nab 2 men in pot bust

By Raymond T. DeMeo

Manchester and state police arrested two men and seized 15 pounds of high-quality marijuana in a Friday night drug bust, capping an undercover investigation.

At 7 p.m. Friday, troopers from the state police Colchester barracks closed in on Paul M. Dumphy, 24, of Hampton, who was waiting inside the Three J's Cafe in Bolton for his alleged accomplice, Robert P. Marsh, 34, of Chaplin, who had been arrested by Manchester police minutes earlier.

Inside Dumphy's car, waiting outside in the parking lot, police said they found 15 pounds of high-grade, California-grown marijuana with a wholesale value of $15,000.

The bust culminated a hectic night for Manchester police, who called in state troopers at the last minute when Marsh, who allegedly arranged to sell the marijuana to an undercover police officer, changed the location of the would-be transaction to Bolton, which is in state police jurisdiction.

According to Capt. James D. Sweeney, head of Manchester's detective division, the transaction was supposed to take place Friday night at the Essex Motor Inn at 100 E. Center St. But "only about 30 or 40 minutes before the deal went down" Marsh changed plans: He would meet the buyer at the Essex and turn over the goods at the Three J's, Sweeney said.

"Since such a large amount of money was involved, he wanted to see the cash first," Sweeney said. But Marsh never saw the money. He was arrested a few minutes before the deal went down.

Manchester police charged Marsh with possession of marijuana and possession of cocaine. Marsh was taken to the state police station in Bolton.

Weapons interest not pure

In an argument with Michigan Sen. Donald Riegle last week, Defense Secretary Casper Weinberger reminded the legislator that 154,000 jobs depended on defense contracts in Michigan.

I guess I didn't realize that unemployment was a consideration in the Defense Department's budget, if Secretary Weinberger sees his budget of $230 billion as primarily a jobs program, he should have told us that before. We might all feel differently about spending that much money if we understood that we are basically building missiles, tanks, airplanes and nuclear submarines as a means of reducing unemployment.

The Pentagon would have some persuasive arguments on its side if it said that, over a long period, making weapons would lead to fewer people being out of work. For one thing, if we keep making weapons and the Russians match us, we are making weapons, it could lead to a LOT fewer people in the world. This alone would be a major factor in reducing the number of unemployed. It would, at the same time, reduce the number of EMPLOYED people, too, but no program is perfect.

I HAD NO IDEA that Caspar Weinberger's interest in weapons was purely humanitarian. Apparently he just can't stand to see long lines of unemployed people on television every night and he thinks making weapons is the best way to shorten the lines. More power to "Cap Weinberger. I say, if we actually get into a shooting war, unemployment could be reduced to nothing, along with the population in general.

The question of where to put the MX missiles has never been resolved. If Weinberger is consistent in his thinking and wants to see defense spending as a means of reducing unemployment, he will recommend that those MX missiles placed where unemployment is greatest.

For instance, if a cluster of MX missiles were placed in downtown Detroit, their presence would have a twofold effect on the labor force. First, a lot of unemployed people would leave town, thus improving Detroit's image as a place where there are long lines of people not working. A second, more drastic possibility would be, of course, if the Russians decided to eliminate those missile sites. Some people might not think a nuclear missile strike on midtown Detroit would be good for the city, but it would, undeniably, cut down on those lines.

THERE ARE PEOPLE who don't agree with Weinberger that making weapons is a good way to reduce unemployment. A great many Americans whom Weinberger might consider fuzzy thinkers believe that there are more important things to be done with our money. They suggest that repairing our bridges, searching space and improving the nation's educational system would be better things to spend money on than weapons. The president himself has proposed a $4.8 billion emergency jobs program. The argument is, how do you spend it so the most people get jobs they need, doing work that benefits us all?

Most public service jobs in any emergency program usually involve physical labor. This is terribly unfair because it isn't necessarily laborers who are unemployed.

Today there are so few people left in the country doing any physical labor that if all of them lost their jobs it wouldn't make a line long enough to show on a television news broadcast. You can't expect an unemployed architect, an accountant or a secretary to take an emergency job filling potholes with asphalt.

Unemployment is such a difficult problem that you can see how Weinberger apparently came to the conclusion that making weapons is an effective way of keeping people employed.

HOLLYWOOD — "There are 63,000 actors in the United States. And no more than 1,200 of them work."

The discouraging point is being made by "Hart to Hart" co-star Lionel Stander. That the 75-year-old gravely voiced performer is among the elite corps of employed actors becomes all the more dramatic when you realize that — before McCarthyism was a household word — he was the victim of an industry blacklisting.

HART TO HART'S LIONEL STANDER ... in 50s he was blacklisted actor who's ever been president of a brokerage house.

During that period he also did some stage work, most importantly for director Tony Richardson, who decided he wanted to use him in the film "The Loved One" and succeeded in thawing Lionel's movieland freeze when he insisted the studio put its refusal to use Stander in writing.

"Of course," Lionel says, "they wouldn't do that." And thus his involuntary Hollywood exile officially ended in 1965. But then came an unexpected turn in his career.

He MADE "cul-de-Sac" with Roman Polanski in 1966, which became a tremendous hit in Europe and led to his making 50 Italian films. "You stay where you're wanted," he says. "I was a bankable Italian star for 10 years."

He did not return to the United States to live until he made "New York, New York" with Robert De Niro in 1977. In the meantime he had married 24-year-old Dutch actress Stephana — his sixth wife. He has a daughter, Jennifer, whom Lionel considers "the greatest thing since the discovery of humanity."

"AT THESE PRICES I'd be crazy not to work," he says, as he talks warmly of the "Hart to Hart" team. "It isn't a chore. It's a pleasure. A minimum of effort — a maximum of reward."

"We blend. We like, love each other. We get along. We enjoy working together. We hope this comes across on screen."

"If at first you don't succeed, fail, fail, again," answers Stander. "I finally hit the jackpot. I'm very lucky."

At 75, lucky in love, lucky at work. He is planning to retire only six years ago, but Stephana urged him to "give it two years." He did, and two years to the day, he signed with "Hart to Hart." "If it weren't for my wife, I'd be a retired English country gentleman."

Tennessee Williams dead at 71

NEW YORK (UPI) — Tennessee Williams, whose dramas of tortured human relationships in his beloved South made him the leading American playwright of his generation and won him two Pulitzer prizes, was found dead Friday. He was 71.

Williams died apparently of natural causes in his private suite at the Elysée Hotel, just off Fifth Avenue, officials said.

A half-empty wine bottle and empty pills were found near the body. Deputy Police Inspector Stephen Kelly said death could have been caused by an overdose or one of many — inlets Williams suffered, including a heart condition.

Chief Medical Examiner Elliot Gross confirmed Williams was under treatment for heart disease. He said an autopsy set for Saturday was only a formality.

Williams, whose plays served as vehicles on both stage and screen for such actors as Marlon Brando, Elizabeth Taylor, Vivien Leigh, Richard Burton, Katharine Hepburn, Paul Newman and Natalie Wood, was found dressed in his night clothes on the floor near his bed by his secretary about 10:45 a.m.

The secretary, John Decker, said he heard a noise from Williams' room about 11 p.m. Thursday, but did not check on the dramatist until Friday morning.

Williams, whose self-destructive lifestyle was plagued with drugs and alcohol, was pronounced dead at 11:10 a.m.

His brother, Dakin Williams, a Collinsville, Ill., attorney who had just finished a biography of Tennessee, said he was in his study when the playwright had "gone back on drugs," a habit that put him in a hospital in 1961.

"I last talked to him on the phone when he was still in Palm Beach to assure him the biography I have written was something of a neutral object to him. He had been very angry that I had written it and wouldn't let me see it," Dakin said.

Brando, saying he was "ever grateful" to Williams for giving him his first leading role on Broadway in the Pulitzer Prize-winning "Streetcar Named Desire," told UPI "we are all diminished by his death."

"He was a man who lived with death all his life," Dakin said. "I think he died many times before he died. He was a very brave man because he was delicately put together — finely honed edge. He never lied or flunked. He told the truth as best he perceived it, and never turned away from things that best him of frightened him."

By the time death came, he had been close to it so many times psychologically and physically that it was just a shave and a haircut to him. His was a wounded life," Brando said of Williams, an avowed homosexual.

Among Williams' best known plays, many of them subsequently made into films, were: "Battle of Angels," 1940; "The Glass Menagerie," 1944; "A Streetcar Named Desire," 1947; "Summer and Smoke," 1948; "The Rose Tattoo," 1950; "Camino Real," 1953; "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof," 1954; "Orpheus Descending," 1957; "Sweet Bird of Youth," 1959; "The Night of the Iguana," 1962; "Small Craft Warnings," 1973; "Vieux Carré," 1977; "Clothes for the Summer," 1980.

Lloyd Richards, dean of the school of drama at Yale University, said Williams' work allowed "a sensitivity to people, to society, to smell, to atmosphere, to everyday life that affected a human being."

Town attorney wants full-time assistant

By Paul Hendrie

The town attorney's office would like to hire a full-time assistant to replace one of its three part-time assistant town attorneys, General Manager Robert B. Weiss said Friday.

The job would pay $34,200. It was unclear whether the position is intended for one of its three assistant town attorneys, Malcolm F. Barlow, William J. Shea or Barry W. Botticello.

"I would like to see a person in there who would remain regardless of the political affiliation of the town attorney."

It would be hard to accuse O'Brien, a Democrat, of politicizing the office. One of his assistants, Botticello, is a Republican. Botticello shares a law office with Democratic Mayor Stephen T. Penny.

Weiss said it is a common practice for towns to have a part-time town attorney and a full-time assistant town attorney. He said a full-time

Male take-off artist isn't a good bet for a shower

My question: How are the older women at the shower going to react? The grandmothers of the bride and groom (both past 65) will be there. On one hand they might get a kick out of it, but on the other hand, I'm not sure.

I really need your opinion, and possibly the opinions of your female readers who have been through this.

CONCERNED SISTER DEAR CONCERNED: When in doubt, don't. To embarrass or offend even one person could spoil the occasion.

And by the way, age is not necessarily the criterion - some older women are more broad-minded than the younger ones.

DEAR ABBY: Eight years ago I purchased a pair of artificial legs for my husband. He wore them until he refused to wear them again. They are like new. Since that time, they've remained in the closet.

Last December my husband passed away and now I'm stuck with a pair of useless legs. Do you know of any organization

WITHOLD MY NAME

DEAR WITHHOLD: Get in touch with your nearest orthopedic rehabilitation center.

If that doesn't get the legs out of the closet, you might consider donating them to the local chapter of the National Society for Crippled Children and Adults for a tax reduction.

DEAR ABBY: My husband, who is in his 40s, has a new hobby. He makes obscene phone calls. He dials numbers at random, and from time to time he gets a woman to listen to her on the phone.

I have caught him at his several times. He says he isn't really doing anything wrong, it's just a harmless pastime. Then he begs me to forgive him.

I hate to leave the house because I know the minute I do he will start making these calls. When I'm away and call our house, the line is always busy. I think there's something wrong with him.

Dear Abby

WORRIED IN MAINE

DEAR WORRIED: Your hubby's hobby is a symptom of a sick mind. It could also bring him trouble with the law.

I urge you to get him to a doctor before he finds himself in serious trouble. He needs to be examined by a psychiatrist.

DEAR ABBY: My husband works for a cable TV series. Every day he comes home and tells me about parents who leave their kids at McDwitt Drive, where the Rev. David Hodgson performed the double-ring ceremony.

What are parents thinking? Why don't they try to protect their kids? These kids could be opening the door for a thief, murderer or rapist.

I think all service companies should receive that a person 18 years or older has to receive services of all kinds.

MOBILE, ALA. DEAR MOBILE: So do I.

You're never too old (or too young) to learn how to make friends and be popular. For Abby's booklet on Popularity, send $1, plus a long, self-addressed stamped (37 cents) envelope to, Popularity, P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038.

Washing feet during day hard for those who work

DEAR DR. LAMB: I can't believe your recommendations to wash your feet during the day help control foot odors. A working person can't take time out in the middle of the day to wash his feet. I can just see myself taking off my panty hose at work and lifting my leg up to get my foot in the sink to wash it. I always change shoes daily, but I still had foot odor until I sprayed the insides of my shoes and my feet with my usual underarm dry deodorant spray. I haven't had foot odor since, and now simple. You might want to pass it on.

Your Health Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB: I'm 22 years old and I have finally found a miracle pill that helps me get rid of foot odor. I used to be confined to my bed three days, vomiting and doubled over with pain. The pill is called Motrin and I have found it to be the only thing that works. I used to use Tylenol, but it never worked. However, I have to take Motrin around the clock, every five hours, for the first three days to get relief.

DEAR DR. LAMB: Motrin is one of several medicines that inhibit the uterus' production of prostaglandins. These are hormones in the lining of the uterus that stimulate the strong uterine contractions. These contractions cause the painful cramps. Other medicines that have been found to have a similar action are Indocin, Fonalat and Naproxen. You may recognize all of these medicines, including Motrin, as medicines often prescribed for arthritis.

What used for menstrual cramps, they should NOT be used until the cramps or menstruation begins. Why? Because we don't know what effects they may have on a pregnancy but once menstruation begins, use of cramp medicines will not interfere with a pregnancy.

About Town

Irish program planned

Manchester VFW Post 2046, and its auxiliary, will sponsor a St. Patrick's dance and dinner on March 12 starting at 7:30 p.m. at the post home, 608 E. Center St. A corned beef and cabbage supper will be served at 7:30. This will be followed by entertainment to include Irish step dancers. Dancing will follow to the music of the "Penthouse 4."

FOCIS sponsors classes

FOCIS, the Family Oriented Childbirth Information Society, will sponsor a series of classes for expectant parents, starting Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the conference room of Manchester Memorial Hospital. The classes help expectant parents to prepare themselves for their new baby by participating in classes on pregnancy and nutrition, labor and delivery, preview to parenting, and baby care and nutrition. The classes will run on Tuesdays for four weeks. Participants should register ahead of time by calling Carol Norton, 875-1356 or by writing to FOCIS, P.O. Box 748, Manchester.

Civitan Club to meet

Manchester Civitans will meet Tuesday at 12:15 p.m. at Wilkes Steak House. Jack Peak, director of the Regional Occupational Training Center on Wetherall Street, will be the speaker. He will give a slide presentation and present a short history about the center. Anyone interested in attending or for more information should contact Rick Gowen, 646-7246 or 643-1126.

Interracial group to meet

Manchester Interracial Council will meet Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the Student Center dining room at Manchester Community College. The movie, "Black History: Lost, Stolen or Strayed," will be shown.

Oratorical contest winners

Stephen Balon and Patricia McNamara, students at East Catholic High School were winners of the oratorical contest sponsored recently by the American Legion Post 102. Balon took first place and McNamara was runner-up. The winner received a $25 savings bond and his name will be engraved on the award plaque of Post 102. The plaque will be retained for a year, by the school. The judges were from Toastmasters International, Frances Harshaw, Roy Keith and William Greene. The timekeeping judge was Robert Mongelli, a past commander of Post 102.

Registrations still open

Registrations will be accepted through March 8 for the scuba classes sponsored by the Recreation Department. There are still a few openings. The basic charge for the 10 pool and lecture sessions and the three open water swims is $125. Registrations are accepted at the recreation office, Garden Grove Road. For more information call the office, 647-3064.

Singles to see travel film

The East Hartford Christian Singles Club will meet Sunday at 7:30 p.m. at St. Christopher's Church hall on Brewer Street. A travel film on Rome and the Holy Land will be shown. Refreshments will be served. Tickets are $2 for non-members.

News for senior citizens

New class is perfect for the inactive

This column is prepared by the Manchester Senior Center. It appears in the Manchester Herald on Saturdays. By Joe Diminico, Activities Specialist

Greetings, Seniors are reminded about our upcoming exercise class scheduled for every Monday and Wednesday afternoon and beginning on March 7. The class is sponsored by the Manchester Recreation Department and will run for 12 weeks.

This class is different than our popular dance class and will involve exercises specifically designed for seniors who have been inactive with exercise for some time. I urge all of you to participate for it will enable all to continue with an active independent life-style.

Individuals are reminded that we will be having a registration for the Plainfield Dog Track on Wednesday at 9:30 a.m. The cost of the trip is $12.50, which includes transportation, admission and lunch. The trip is scheduled for April 15.

Pauline has informed us that they still have a few openings for April after-bus for the Willwood trip scheduled for June 19-23rd. The cost of the trip is $18.00. For further information you may contact Pauline Maynard at 643-1126.

Arthritis sufferers are reminded about our arthritic clinic scheduled for March 7 at 1:30 p.m. which will run for 10 weeks. Items to be discussed are nutrition, exercise as well as an understanding of the many different types of arthritis. This class proved to be popular as well as beneficial to all who attended the last session, so please make a point to attend.

Here's what we have lined up for the month of March for Thursday programs. On Thursday Gerry Barry will have a slide presentation for us consisting of past variety shows as well as past activities of the center. I'm sure this will bring back many memories so please attend.

On March 10, retired pharmacist Henry Seltzer will be giving a speech entitled "The Use and Misuse of Legally Prescribed Drugs." Are you aware that the average senior citizen is taking seven different types of drugs and the interaction of all may sometimes have side effects. I urge all of you to attend this program.

On March 17 we will be having a St. Patrick's Day Dance starting immediately after lunch.

Grassroots lobby needs citizen support

This column is prepared by the Manchester Area Conference of Churches. It appears in the Manchester Herald on Saturday.

By Nancy Carr, MACC Executive Director

We're calling all peace makers and peace lovers together. Today, in large, small and middle-sized communities across Connecticut, we are beginning the observance of the Connecticut Nuclear Arms Freeze Week, Feb. 26 to March 5.

Thousands of citizens concerned with nuclear disarmament will be meeting in Washington March 7 and 8 to urge passage of the legislation calling for a bilateral verifiable US-USSR freeze on the production, testing and deployment of nuclear weapons.

Most of us, even though we fully support a bilateral verifiable US-USSR Nuclear Arms Freeze now will not find it possible to join in this grassroots citizens' lobby. But many of our neighbors are planning to participate and they are willing to make your concerns and support visible.

You will find available statements of support for the freeze in MACC churches and offices Sunday and Monday. Once we place our signatures on the "proxies" they will be gathered up and taken to Washington by the Connecticut delegation.

Calendar

Church plans films

The Presbyterian Church at 43 Spruce St. will sponsor a film series entitled "Whatever Happened to the Human Race?" beginning Sunday at 7 p.m.

The five-week series will examine issues of abortion, infanticide and euthanasia in light of Christian truth.

The first episode, entitled "Abortion and the Human Race," looks at medical and ethical questions. It features U.S. Surgeon General C. Everett Koop, a pioneer in pediatric surgery.

Gospel team at Trinity

Trinity Community Church will host the Grove City College Gospel Team Monday at 7:30 p.m. at the church on Hackmatack Street.

The interdenominational youth group from Pennsylvania will present an evening of music and testimonies entitled "Music Messages." One of the team members is James DeValve, a Manchester native.

Calvary plans prison film

The Calvary Church, 400 Buckland Road, South Windsor, will present a documentary entitled "God's Prison Gang" Sunday at 7 p.m.

The film, shot behind prison walls, is hosted by Art Linkletter. It features four criminals who tell how they turned from crime to Christ.

Play performed at Center

The following events are scheduled at Center Congregational Church for the coming week: Sunday - 11:15 a.m., church school play "Let My People Go"; 7 p.m., new member conversations, 184 New State Road, apt. 35; seminar on life and death, Carver Room; 7:30 p.m., faith journey, "Living the Adventure," 56 Woodstock Drive.

certain means of making sure that our voice is heard as this crucial vote on the nuclear arms freeze approaches. The proxies are being made available in Manchester by members of MACC Peace and Justice Committee in cooperation with the Manchester Nuclear Freeze.

PRAYER FOR PEACE

In conjunction with the Freeze Week in Connecticut and the upcoming Congregation vote, an Interfaith Service of Prayer and Witness for Peacemaking will be held Wednesday at 12:30 p.m. at Christ Church Cathedral on the corner of Main and Church streets in Hartford.

You and all who are interested in peace-making are cordially invited to join us as we continue to pray for peace and give witness to our common commitment to working for peace.

Participants in the service will include the Rev. Arthur Walsley, bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of Connecticut; Dr. Harold Silver, rabbi of Congregation Beth Israel; the Rev. Carroll Kann, Conference Minister of the Connecticut Conference of Churches; the Rev. William Lynch, Rev. Thomas Lynch, chancellor of the Archdiocese of Hartford for the Roman Catholic Church, and many other religious leaders.

PEACE VIGIL

An ongoing Peace Vigil sponsored by the Peace Center of the Capitol Region Conference of Churches is scheduled for Wednesday during Lent from 12 to 1 p.m. in front of the Old State House. The Vigil will be planned by different church peace groups each week.

On all Thursdays during Lent, a peace prayer service sponsored by the Episcopal Peace Fellowship is scheduled at Christ Church Cathedral in Hartford.

NO FIRST USE

And if you haven't seen it yet, you are welcome to view the film "No-First-Use: Preventing Nuclear War" a 30-minute film produced by the union of concerned scientists being shown 7:30 p.m. at the Windsor Public Library on Broad St., Windsor.

Although many of you have already seen films concerning nuclear war and disarmament in your own church communities, we would be happy to arrange for films and/or knowledgeable speakers around any specific area of concern to members of your organization. Just call the MACC Office at 646-2083 or send us a note indicating the topic you wish addressed and the time, place and contact person.

READER'S DIGEST AND APPLE PIE

We've been amazed at how many people read the Reader's Digest. Far be it for me to attack motherhood, apple pie and the Reader's Digest but the best rebuttal I know of to the June 1982 article in Reader's Digest to "Ban Whose Bomb?" is available in our office. Hopefully it's not necessary to respond to the attacks accusing freeze supporters and peace makers of at best naivete and at worst aiding and abetting Soviet supremacy. If you have been troubled by the name calling, there is a "rebuttal red-baiting" booklet also available. Plus fact sheets directly addressing any, and I do mean any, question you might have and others speaking directly to our fears and our responsibilities to one another. I suspect that most of you have already read much of the material available. Just wanted you to know it's available.

To repeat our warm invitation, come join us in prayer and prayer vigil. One of the very best gifts we can give to those we love is a peaceful future. Let's pray for it and in a spirit of prayer let's work for it. Please start the working committee by letting your President, Senators and Representatives know where you stand. Happy are the Peace Makers.

BIG AND BIGGER

Pat Obue and Mary Lucas tell me we need men's, women's and children's LARGE sizes in the Clothing Bank - cubby for children and sizes 18 thru 44 for women and X-L and up for men. They can be dropped off at the Clothing Bank, Mayfair Gardens, Cronin Hall, Monday 1-3 p.m. and Wednesday evening 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. Please remember to list the items. A pre-addressed stamped envelope from you makes us stamp our feet and clap our hands with delight (and relief).

Rocky Hill High, 62-2 in Charter Oak Charter School action Friday night in Rocky Hill. The win lifts the Terriers to 14-3 in the conference and 18-3 overall. Cheney Tech, 57-1 in Charter Oak Charter School action Friday night in Rocky Hill. The win lifts the Terriers to 14-3 in the conference and 18-3 overall.

Cheney has a road engagement Tuesday at RHAM High in Hebron and entertains Stafford High Wednesday at Rocky Hill. The Cougars are ready for post-season playoff action tonight against Mid-dlesex Community College at Kenedy High in Waterbury.

Boxers rushed today

Take it from a man who knows, Johnny Cesario, veteran of more than 100 professional fights, boxers today are being rushed into main events.

Cesario, former Manchester restaurant owner and now in charge of concessions at the Hartford Civic Center, noted, "Fighters today spend, at most, three months of the year in the gym. That's not enough. You've got to be a fighter 12 months of the year."

"There's too many divisions. When we had eight recognized weight divisions (Flyweight, bantamweight, featherweight, welterweight, lightweight, middleweight, light heavyweight and heavyweight), boxing was a better sport. Few would disagree on that point. Recently, there was a cruiserweight championship bout. There are junior divisions in most weight classes which list champions and add to the confusion. Boxing, like most other sports, is diluted as a result."

"There are too many associations today, too," the former New England welterweight champ and former sparring mate of Willie Pep said. "At one time there was one recognized champion in each weight division. Today, there are two or more champions, depending upon which association you follow."

Cesario recalled when he was fighting, "I was busy the year round. I remember once I had five fights in one month. Fighting was my life. 12 months of the year. You can't go to the gym and work out just a few months and expect to get to the top."

"Managers and promoters are rushing their fighters today into main events. That's one reason there are so many mismatches today. The sport is being run by two or three men. They control the fighters and have television all tied up," Cesario said. "There should be a better way to check out the records of fighters, especially those from other countries. Because of television contracts there are fights being made just to fit the schedule. That's why there have been some bad fights of late."

Earlier this month, Howard Cosell was called before a senate hearing to speak out on boxing and he recommended that the sport be abolished. Funny how Cosell is now talking out of the other side of the mouth. For years, Cosell pictured himself as boxing's No. 1 authority and tried to build up mediocre boxers and bouts on the public instead of telling it like it was. He held back on accurately assessing some horrible mismatches which he was part of.

Hartford Whaler hockey fans have missed Nick Fotis since the rugged winger was shuttled back to the New York Rangers two years ago. Thanks to Fotis, hundreds of young hockey fans went home with souvenir pucks that were tossed into the crowd before every game when Fotis wore the colors of the Whalers. Fotis was by far the most popular player with the club, chiefly through his pre-game efforts. Of late, Ron Francis, the Indians victorious, quality for playoff

Manchesters' victory over Windham in the final six round scheduled contest, they won four times. Included were victories over Cheney Tech, Hall and Windham. The latter was accomplished Friday night in Windham by a 56-55 count.

That win pushes the Indians, who looked all but out of the running not long ago, into the upcoming CCIL champ Simsbury High Tuesday night in Simsbury at a time to be announced in a first round Playoff clash. Windham and third-place finisher Penney will meet in the first round. The winners meet Thursday night at a site to be announced.

"I think the win will give us great confidence," said Manchester Coach Doug Pearson, enthusiastically. "We've beaten three of the top four teams in the league due to the strength. It was a great, great win. We needed a total team effort and got it."

Defense, a hallmark of Manchester ever since Pearson took the helm in 1974-75, was instrumental in the win in the Thread City. Jeff Gardner and Wilson Ramos, two dead-end outside shooters, were each held to a single two-pointer by the aggressive Manchester defense. "We played an exceptional first half," said Pearson. "We played a great defense on their outside shooting guard, drew his first starting assignment and did well.

ROCKY HILL— Coming on strong at the end, Cheney Tech ran out of time as it succumbed to Rocky Hill High, 62-2 in Charter Oak Charter School action Friday night in Rocky Hill. The win lifts the Terriers to 14-3 in the conference and 18-3 overall.

Cheney has a road engagement Tuesday at RHAM High in Hebron and entertains Stafford High Wednesday at Rocky Hill. The Cougars are ready for post-season playoff action tonight against Middlesex Community College at Kenedy High in Waterbury.
