'Hit list' set at $277,963 by Kennedy

Sunny today, clear tonight — See page 2

By Raymond T. DeMeo
 Herald Reporter

Superintendent James P. Kennedy Friday released a new, more extensive list of spending cuts he's proposed to balance the 1983-84 school budget.

The cuts total $277,963. Of that, $282,000 is the reduction ordered by the Board of Directors and the remainder is to offset projected deficits in two school spending accounts.

Kennedy proposes eliminating a high school teaching position, 13 teacher's jobs from Bennett Junior High School, a special education teacher and aide, several other aides' jobs and clerical positions, and one maintenance worker.

If adopted, Kennedy's revised budget would eliminate 26 school jobs and cause the layoffs of an estimated 15 people.

Kennedy also wants to cut $33,000 from capital spending, eliminate junior varsity sports and golf and tennis at the junior high schools, and hold administrators' raises to a 7 percent maximum next year.

The new "hit list" differs only slightly from the one Kennedy drafted in March, after General Manager Robert B. Weis suggested the $282,000 cut in the school budget eventually adopted by the Board of Directors. Kennedy prepared the March list at the request of Mayor Stephen T. Papp, who wanted to know how Weis' cut would affect the school system.

"The budget reductions outlined will, in my opinion, result in less educational services for Manchester," Kennedy said in a letter to Board of Education members Friday.

"A number of budget assumptions have been made which will make balancing next year's school budget more difficult," he said. "For example, if fuel oil costs should go above present estimates or 'snags' develop in transportation plans, then there will be need for further budget reductions."

Kennedy has proposed cutting $20,000 from the school food account, which was already reduced by about $100,000 in his original budget request.

His new list of cuts calls for reducing pupil transportation expenses by $12,200, in part by eliminating some bus runs.

Other cuts include reductions in equipment spending, a $8,000 reduction in the multi-cultural education budget, $13,500 from curriculum improvement programs and $1,000 from the field trip account.

Kennedy said the capital spending cuts he's proposed will force the buildings and grounds department to put off replacing crumbling pavement at Buckley School, sealing blacktop at Iling and Waddell, refinishing a floor at Verplank, and replacing a Keenev School roof and Nathan Hale School fence.

Kennedy estimated that the staff cuts he's proposed in next year's budget will enable the school system to avoid paying some $1,000 in fringe benefits, for another projected saving.

Kennedy's proposed cuts would fix the 1983-84 school budget at $21.5 million, or about 5.3 percent more than this year's. His original budget, adopted by the Board of Education in February, asked for $21.4 million, a 1.56 percent increase.

TOWN FIREFIGHTERS SURVEY DEVASTATION ... Business appears to be a total loss

Blast, fire gut Birch St. firm

By Raymond T. DeMeo
 Herald Reporter

An explosion, followed by a spectacular fire, gutted a small business on Birch Street Friday and sent about 20 residents of nearby apartments into the street.

Town firefighters quickly extinguished the blaze that erupted at 9:08 p.m. and demolished Manchester Rubber Stamps Printing and Engraving at 20 Birch St. No one was reported injured, and the fire didn't spread to adjoining buildings.

Peter Compose, owner of the business, was on hand Friday night to survey the damage. His wife, who was also there, reportedly complained of trouble breathing and an ambulance was dispatched to her aid. She refused to be transported to the hospital, however.

Deputy Fire Chief James R. McKay said firefighters found a leaking propane tank and a propane stove in the rear of the burned-out building. But he said it's not certain that the propane caused the fire.

The explosion that preceded the fire shattered the window and door panes of the small brick building, covering the sidewalk outside with broken glass.

Terry G. Edberg of 84 Hamlin St. was standing near the scene with a friend when he heard the explosion. "I ran up to the door of the house next door and started yelling for everybody to get out," he said.

"By the time all the tenants were out, the flames were five or six feet over the top of the building," he said.

Evelyn Morrow of 26 Birch St., tenant and manager of the eight apartments above Pentland Florist, just adjacent to the scene of the blaze, said she heard the explosion and glass breaking and "thought it was a car accident. Then I ran to the window and all I saw was flames and black smoke. I dialed 911 and it rang four times, so I hung up and dialed the operator, and told her there had been an explosion. She called the police, and I got out of the General Statutes."

A crowd of about 35 people gathered to watch the wreckage of the building for anything salvageable, McKay said the business appeared to be a total loss.

Multi-Circuits will buy land

Multi-Circuits Inc. has agreed to pay $350,000 to a Massachusetts real estate firm for five acres of industrial land on Adams Street, according to documents filed Friday in the town clerk's office.

The land, at 165, 185 and 191 Adams St., is owned by Paul G. and Ernest A. Marks of Framingham, Mass., doing business as Marks Realty. Some of the property is adjacent to the Adams Mill Restaurant; the 191 Adams St. parcel is where the Standard Washer & Mat Co. is located.

Under the terms of their agreement, Multi-Circuits will pay Marks $350,000 in monthly installments of $7,610 starting July 1 and ending July 1, 1988. The interest rate on the mortgage is 11 percent.

Multi-Circuits officials could not be reached for comment Friday on their plans for the land.

what the bottom line on the proposed budget would be, except to indicate it was higher than the $3.27 billion budget Gov. William O'Neill recommended to the Legislature in February.

Mrs. Polinsky also refused to disclose specifics of the budget plan, except to say there were increases to reflect higher welfare costs and to provide for certain new programs for which O'Neill's budget didn't include funds.

She also said there had been a significant cut in the amount O'Neill included for fuel to reflect lower fuel prices, but said the reduction was surpassed by the additions made by the committee.

Mrs. Polinsky said the committee would meet Monday to run through the proposed budget, and then take a break to give minority Republicans a chance to prepare their proposed additions or deletions.

The apparent agreement on the spending side of the budget brought lawmakers a step closer to resolving a stalemate over the budget and tax package for next year before their June 8 adjournment date.

However, the budget package

Reagan firm; no agreement on tax hikes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan, undeterred by the defeat of a Republican 1984 budget in the GOP-led Senate, Friday refused to budge on tax increases despite a growing consensus among senators for higher taxes and lower deficits.

"No, we don't have an agreement," Senate Republican leader Howard Baker told reporters as he left a White House meeting of congressional leaders and Reagan.

"The president is adamant on taxes," deputy press secretary Larry Speakes said. "There's not much of a crack in the door for new taxes."

With seven Republicans defecting, the Senate Thursday rejected a budget plan favored by Reagan that would have preserved the 10 percent income tax cut scheduled for July 1 by raising only $2.6 billion in new taxes next year. But, because of the small taxes, the plan projected a whopping $192 billion deficit.

An alternative plan drafted by moderate Republicans that would have raised $1.5 billion in new taxes next year, presumably by placing a $500-per-person limit on the tax cut, also was defeated. It projected a $184 billion deficit.

Several members of the Senate Budget Committee, which now must draft a new budget plan by Wednesday, said the new proposal must contain at least $9 billion in new taxes next year

Baker said while there was no agreement reached Friday, "We had a good meeting and laid out the dimensions of the problem."

"Neither side won yesterday, so we're back to the beginning to see what can be done," the majority leader said when asked if an agreement can be expected. "It's too early to tell."

"It's interesting to point out that last year the House had seven budget resolutions and each was voted down before a substitute that was satisfactory to the administration was passed," Speakes said. "So this is nothing new."

"In the past we have had to go through this type of situation before people realized what the situation was and were able to rally behind a comprehensive budget."

"It's clear right now that nobody has the votes," Speakes said. "We will continue to work with the (Senate Republican) leadership."

Coventry residents overrule moderator, adopt town budget

By Sarah E. Hall
 Herald Correspondent

COVENTRY — In a controversial move which will probably be contested in court, residents at the annual town meeting adopted the proposed $7.2-million municipal budget for 1983-84, overruling the moderator's request to bring the budget to a referendum vote.

Immediately after the meeting, the Town Council set next fiscal year's tax rate at 28.1 mills, an increase of 1.5 mills. "I think we did the right thing," said Town Council Chairwoman Joan A. Lewis, "but I'm afraid we'll be in court soon."

"I would anticipate that we would be filing for an injunction in the near future," said Coventry Taxpayers Association President Thomas Brannard, "because the council clearly violated state statute."

He claimed the overrule by residents at the meeting of a 345-name petition circulated by a CTA members and calling for a budget referendum was illegal, and went on to cite Tolland Superior Court Judge Eugene Kelly's recent ruling on last year's budget overrule as proof.

In that ruling, Kelly said it was too late in the fiscal year to overturn the current budget, even though the right to a referendum vote on town budgets is guaranteed by Section 7-70 of Connecticut General Statutes.

The new fiscal year will begin July 1.

MEETING MODERATOR Jack C. Myles, also head of the Democratic Town Committee, ruled to adjourn the meeting to the polls only minutes after it began. He said the CTA petition was sufficient to carry the budget vote to referendum, but then entertained a motion, made by Conservation Commission Chairman Daniel Manley, to consider appealing his original ruling.

At that point, residents voted to send the budget vote to referendum, and to go on discussing it. Less than an hour later, after some discussion but no amendment-making, Manley moved for another vote, and the budget was adopted as proposed.

A vocal contingent of residents, who early in the meeting had loudly protested the proposed $7.1, 729 budget increase, seemed to give up their protest later on as it became apparent that most residents attending were in support of the budget.

Resident Roland Green complained the council "was putting the cart before the horse" by appropriating $4,400 for operating expenses for an as-yet-unapproved North Coventry fire substation, while Robert Olmstead objected to the proposed increase in town personnel, although both were quickly rebuffed by others.

Mrs. Lewis and others said they were "pleased" with the turnout of 347 residents, which is high in comparison to past years and closely matches the number of names on the CTA petition.

Five of the seven Town Council members attended the meeting, and all voted to adopt the budget. Republican Councilwoman Roberta Koons and Democratic Councilman Frank Dunn were both absent from the meeting. Mrs. Lewis said both were ill.

Democrats hammer out spending plan in secret

HARTFORD (UPI) — Majority Democrats on the Legislature's budget-writing committee Friday hammered out a tentative spending package for the upcoming fiscal year, but refused to say how much it was or what it included.

Democratic members of the Appropriations Committee met for several hours in a closed caucus to work on the spending plan, after which committee co-chairman Rep. Janet Polinsky, D-Waterford, said a tentative plan apparently was reached.

Mrs. Polinsky refused to say still must go through several hurdles and will in all likelihood not be put to a vote in the full Legislature until agreement is reached on a tax package.

Lawmakers are locked in debate over whether to go with a tax package built on O'Neill's tax proposals issued in February or to go with one built around a personal income tax, which the governor has vowed repeatedly to veto.

Mrs. Polinsky said there was no wide fight among Democrats on the Appropriations Committee in working out the spending package.

"Not like we've had in other years," she said. "I think everybody's energy is on the finance side this year."

The major areas of disagreement between lawmakers and O'Neill on the spending package and state aid to local communities for school equalization grants.

O'Neill proposed no increase in welfare benefits under the Aid to Families With Dependent Children program while lawmakers have talked about an increase of 3 percent to 7 percent.

'Gallant' toddler, Brandon, buried

WALNUT, Miss. (UPI) — Brandon Hall, a "gallant little fighter" whose battle to survive two liver transplant operations touched a president and a nation, was buried Friday, exactly one month after he first underwent surgery. In a closed-casket service at Walnut Baptist Church, Chaplain Mike Robertson read a letter from President Reagan expressing sorrow over the 15-month-old blond toddler's death. "It grieves me so to have to send this message," the president wrote. "What a gallant little fighter he was." Reagan sent his prayers and said the boy's mother, Billie Hall, was a "truly remarkable lady." The church choir sang "Precious Memories" and "The Lord's Prayer," and sounds of muffled sobbing could be heard throughout the 30-minute service at the quaint white frame church in the small town of Walnut.

Skylarking first by a lone woman

MIAMI (UPI) — A sarong-clad woman who hijacked a Capitol Air DC-8 to Cuba was the first female to commandeer a jetliner and the used a lethal, $16 flare gun that defied metal detectors, officials said Friday. The Thursday hijacking was the second time in as many weeks the same Capitol Air San Juan-to-Miami flight was diverted to Fidel Castro's communist island. No one was injured in either incident, but officials said it was unlikely either hijacker would be returned to the United States for punishment. The barefoot, turbaned woman pointed the flare gun, made mostly of plastic, at flight attendant Kathy Lardiere's stomach and announced the weapon would "do the job." After learning the hijacker was armed, pilot Vincent Brusco headed the big DC-8 for Cuba, and the 248 people aboard made an unscheduled 3½-hour stop at Havana, where many of them shopped for cigars and souvenirs.

Adultery law said unconstitutional

BOSTON (UPI) — Massachusetts' adultery law was ruled unconstitutional by a unanimous ruling Friday of the state Supreme Judicial Court. The court, in a 5-0 decision, rejected defendant's arguments that the law violated the right of privacy and the right of having sexual intercourse with a man in a park in a secluded, wooded area of Westchester. "Whatever the precise definition of the right of privacy and the scope of its protection, it is clear that there is no fundamental personal privacy right implicit in the concept of ordered liberty barring the prosecution of consenting adults committing adultery in private," Justice Neil Lynch wrote in the nine-page opinion. Lawyers for the Massachusetts Defenders Committee had argued the statute violated the fundamental right of privacy guaranteed by the U.S. Constitution and Massachusetts' Declaration of Rights.

Pope quietly notes vatican anniversary

SHOOTING CITY (UPI) — Pope John Paul II Friday quietly marked the second anniversary of an attempt to kill him by celebrating mass in his private chapel for the 15 doctors and nurses who nursed him back to health. The pope, who turns 63 May 18, made no public appearances to mark the anniversary and spent the rest of the day in routine private meetings. John Paul was shot and critically wounded during an outdoor audience in the Vatican's St. Peter's Square May 13, 1981, Turkish gunman Mehmet Ali Agca, 24, is serving a life sentence in prison after being convicted of the shooting. Attending the private mass in the pope's chapel was John Paul's personal physician, Dr. Renato Buzzonetti, and 14 doctors and nurses from Rome's Policlinico Gemelli hospital, where the pontiff was treated following the assassination attempt.

White House denies black vote writeoff

WASHINGTON (UPI) — "It's wrong, dead wrong" to say that President Reagan has written off blacks or any other minority voters for the 1984 campaign, a White House spokesman said Friday. "If the president decides to run again, he will neglect no voter in this country," Larry Speakes said. "He has not written off any vote for black Republicans." A report in the Washington Post that the Reagan administration "has written off blacks politically for the 1984 campaign" struck a nerve in the White House and evoked a testy rebuttal. "Hilarious," Speakes said in response to the Post story. Asked if Reagan were unhappy with the story, Speakes said: "Yes, so am I because it's wrong, dead wrong." The newspaper said unidentified black administration appointees "cited as one example the fact that the White House office of public liaison has had no one dealing with blacks for more than two weeks." It also quoted a senior White House official as saying the administration has decided "no effort in the next 17 months would be sufficient to moderate the opposition of blacks to President Reagan and capture a sufficient amount of the black vote."

Army says rebels executed civilians

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (UPI) — Rebels marched 16 men into the main plaza of a fallen pro-government town, tied their thumbs behind their backs and executed them, a Salvadoran colonial and government reports said Friday. Survivors of the battle and government soldiers denied the reports and said the men died in combat. The massacre was alleged to have occurred Sunday in Cinquera, a town 20 miles northeast of San Salvador that fell to rebels after savage fighting that left more than 100 people, including women and children, dead. Col. Roberto Rodriguez Murcia told UPI in a telephone interview. "Yes, it's true," when asked about reports that guerrillas executed 16 men in Cinquera. Rodriguez Murcia, the top commander in Cabanas province, said rebels executed the men in the main plaza of Cinquera on Sunday afternoon after a 12-hour gun battle. "They massacred 16 civilians, all of them men," Rodriguez Murcia said. His comments conflicted with statements by civilian survivors of the attack and government soldiers interviewed by a UPI reporter who visited Cinquera Tuesday, the day the army took back the town from guerrillas. Both the survivors and the soldiers said the victims died in combat.

Latin nations OK checks of border

PANAMA CITY, Panama (UPI) — Latin nations in the Contadora group ended a 15-hour meeting Friday with an agreement to send observers to the tense Costa Rican-Nicaraguan border. The foreign ministers of Mexico, Colombia, Venezuela and Panama said they would each send two representatives to the area to study an urgent request made last week before the Organization of American States by Costa Rican President Luis Alberto Monge. Monge, citing stepped-up fighting between Nicaraguan troops and Sandinista rebels along the border, asked that the Contadora group supply a multinational force to patrol the frontier "to guarantee Costa Rican neutrality." The border area became a combat zone last month when renegade Sandinista war hero Eden Pastora, known as "Comandante Zero," declared war on the Nicaraguan government. The Sandinistas claim Pastora, who went into voluntary exile in Costa Rica, crossed into Nicaragua with 500 to 700 guerrillas.

Do you think Manchester has enough good restaurants?

DEANE PREUSS, Bolton: "I think they're starting to improve. You can see a better class of restaurants coming into town."
STEVE WEIR, Manchester: "I'd say there are enough good places. There are a couple of good Italian restaurants, and there's some good grinder shops... those are about the only places I got to."
THOMAS PREUSS, Bolton: "Things are starting to get better. You've had the Adams Mill, the new place up the street (the Mulberry) and the Jury Box over on Walnut Street... you're starting to see some nicer places moving in."
ED BACHL, Manchester: "There are quite a few, if you know where to go. For the size of the town, I'd say there are plenty of good places."
DARLENE MAJOR, Manchester: "I really don't go out to eat very much, so I wouldn't know."
ANDY ROBINSON, Manchester: "I'd say there are about three or four good places... other than those, I don't think there are too many that you'd call terrific."
GRACE LYMAN, Manchester: "No, not really. I don't think there's enough variety... McDonald's, that's about the size of it. It moved up here from Florida, as a matter of fact I'm a chef, and I'm looking for a place to work."
DON HAYES, Manchester: "I haven't been to too many of them... McDonald's, that's about the size of it. It moved up here from Florida, as a matter of fact I'm a chef, and I'm looking for a place to work."

Manchester briefs

Group home planned for retarded
The state Department of Mental Retardation will build a group home for the mentally retarded on a parcel of land owned by Manchester Community College by the end of 1983, department officials said Friday. The home, on a 1.5-acre parcel on the southeastern edge of the college's property on Wetherell Street, will house eight people who at Mansfield Training School Mental retardation department officials estimate the construction cost at $200,000. The building will have four bedrooms housing two occupants each, a dining room and an activity room. It will be staffed by supervisors at all times. "The home is one of 40 planned in the state in an effort to de-institutionalize mentally retarded patients at state facilities. Two more are in the process of construction in Hamden."
Firm to face fine
State Department of Environmental Protection officials said they will fine Multi-Circuits Inc. for illegally discharging copper-laden waste water into public sewer lines. If you fined one, it is also helpful. The second imposed in two years against the Harrison Street printed circuit manufacturer for the same alleged offense. Waste samples from manholes near the Multi-Circuits plant showed levels of copper well above the level the company is allowed to discharge, DEP officials said. Town officials say that when it reaches the town sewer plant, the copper kills bacteria used to break down and purify organic wastes. Last year, the DEP imposed a $400 fine against Multi-Circuits for dumping improperly treated waste water.
Rebates available
Elderly renters can apply for state-sponsored rent rebates at the town hall starting Monday, Town Assessor J. Richard Vincent said Friday. The rebate program is sponsored by the state Department of Income Maintenance for people 60 or older with incomes of $11,500 or less for single people and $14,500 or less for couples. Benefits range from $50 to $600, depending on income. To qualify, recipients must apply to the assessor by Sept. 15. If you think you're eligible, information you should bring to the assessor includes proof of income, Social Security checks and numbers, and rent and utility receipts. A copy of your 1982 income tax return, if you filed one, is also helpful. If you can't make it to the assessor's office, the town plans several clinics at various locations where you can also apply. Clinics will be held at Westhill Gardens from 9 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. on May 24, at Mayfair Gardens from 9 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. on May 26, and at Spencer Village from 1 p.m. to 3:30 p.m. on May 26. Vincent suggests coming in between 9 a.m. and noon, when a team of volunteers will be available to assist the assessor's staff. Since there is no advantage to applying early, he suggests waiting until the second week to avoid long waits in line.
Voters registered
Herbert J. Stevenson, Democratic registrar of voters, has announced results of the third month of the voter-outreach program. A total of 78 new voters has been added to the town's voters registry of which Democrats numbered 37, Republicans 20 and unaffiliated 21. In addition, 32 new voters were registered for other towns within Connecticut. Stevenson said the voter-outreach program will be expanded to weekly outdoor sessions beginning the first week in June at various locations in addition to those now being held at Marshall's Mall. Since the drive was launched in February, a total of 247 new voters have been added to the town's registry of which 117 are Democrats, 56 are Republicans and 74 are unaffiliated. In addition, a total of 123 registrations have been taken for other Connecticut towns.

Trial scheduled in crash fatality

David McKenna, the 20-year-old Manchester man charged April 12 with second-degree manslaughter and drunk driving in a fatal accident, is scheduled to face a jury trial June 24 in Manchester Superior Court. He attended a pre-trial hearing Thursday. McKenna has been released from the Hartford Correctional Center, where he was being held in lieu of $55,000 bond. He was released on 10 percent of the bond. A resident of 12 Flint St., he is also charged with operating a motor vehicle without insurance. He had been arrested by Manchester police in December on a drunk driving charge, and was to begin an alcohol education program April 13, the day after he was arrested. He is charged in connection with an April 12 accident in which Grace Dixon, 66, of East Hartford, was killed. The Dixon car rolled over on the median strip of Interstate 84 near the Highland Park exit after being struck from behind by the McKenna car, police said. McKenna was taken into custody at the scene of the accident, police said.

Police roundup

A Main Street clothing and jewelry specialty shop was burglarized on Tuesday night or early Wednesday, and $5,000 in merchandise was taken, police said Friday. A garage at 829 Main St. had its door, which had a deadlock, pried open. The store was ransacked and designs on clothes worth about $5,000 were taken. The store sells women's clothes. A garage at a home on Woodland Street was burglarized Wednesday but the goods that were taken were left on an adjacent homeowner's lawn, according to a police report released Friday. Police said the garage was entered and exited by a perpetrator through an unlocked door, and that the items taken which include a bicycle, a chain saw and fishing poles, were recovered from a neighbor's lawn. The report did not speculate about a motive for the burglary. A bicyclist suffered minor injuries Tuesday afternoon after being struck by a motorcycleist driving on Hartford Road, police said Friday. Michael J. Rospa, 20, of East Hartford suffered a forehead contusion and a sprained ankle in the 3:30 p.m. accident, police said. Police said the accident happened when Rospa tried to ride across Hartford Road near its intersection with West Street but was struck by a motorcycle driven by Henry D. Strube III, 27, of Vernon. No charges were lodged. Charges lodged
An East Hartford man was arrested Wednesday on a warrant alleging fraud, police said Friday. Joseph Temple was charged with concealment of leased property, illegal use of a credit card, and fifth-degree larceny, according to police reports. He was arrested on a $25,000 surety bond for court date June 1. In an unrelated warrant arrest Thursday, Mario O. Matarzo, 45, of 18 Blis St., was charged with harassment, police said. She was released on a written promise to appear in court June 6. In separate incidents, Melvin M. Varley, 51, of 328 Hilliard St., and Todd D. Lanz, 20, of Ellington, were charged with drunk driving Thursday, police said Friday. Both were released for court dates May 31. On Wednesday, Peter R. Albert, 41, of East Hartford, was charged with drunk driving. He was released for a court appearance May 24.

Connecticut briefs

None of the numbers paid off, but lottery officials already are bracing for a run on number 113 on Jan. 13, 1984. Jury trials asked
NORWICH — Eighteen people accused of living year-round on property zoned for seasonal use near three Lebanon lakes have pleaded innocent and asked for jury trial by Friday. The cases, continuing Thursday in Superior Court to a pre-trial hearing June 13, could alter the concept of private rights and environmental quality of the lakes, residents and town officials said. The residents were summoned to court by Assistant State's Attorney Vincent Hauser at the request of Lebanon town officials. They are charged with the unlawful occupancy of seasonal dwellings, a

Gamblers take a chance with bad luck

HARTFORD (UPI) — Gamblers with a hunch that Friday the 13th might be their lucky day rushed to play the Connecticut Daily Lottery and forced the suspension of number 313 — the 13th time play has been halted on a number. The Connecticut Lottery said Wednesday that the three-digit number reached the legal limit by about 12:30 p.m. when the possible payout in all combinations exceeded $5 million. All bets accepted up to the cutoff time were valid, lottery officials said. The 13th halt on a Friday three times last year and was busy days for the Connecticut Lottery. On Friday, March 13, 1982, the limit on number 313 was reached shortly after the three-digit number 213 was suspended about 11 a.m. on Feb. 13, 1982; and it took betters until 7 p.m. on Aug. 13, 1982, to halt play on number 813. County sheriff's office said a warrant was filed on March 30, 1979, accusing Johnson of allegedly hiring someone to commit a murder. Charity total high
HARTFORD — Contributions to the 1983 Hartford Easter Seal campaign will total more than $15,000, Thomas Brennan, director of the volunteer effort, said Friday. Brennan, regional vice president of the Hartford Easter Seal Rehabilitation Center, said the funds include campaign contributions and receipts from special events and fund-raising programs. Programs include contributions will support programs for children and adults with disabilities at the Hartford Easter Seal Rehabilitation Center. Programs include speech, restoration, speech and hearing services, vocational development and training.

SAM, A SMART AUTOMATED MANIPULATOR built by students and faculty at UConn

SAM toils at UConn

Robot's work never done

STORRS (UPI) — A lifetime of repetitive, demeaning, and dangerous work is the lot of SAM the robot as he toils away at the University of Connecticut. UConn researchers say SAM — a Smart Automated Manipulator — was created to allow faculty and students to study the design, construction and operation of modern robots.

A robot must have built-in intelligence and the ability to work independently without constant direction from human beings, Rice said, and computers have broadened the possibilities of robotics by providing a sophisticated "brain."

Smug CBS picks, chooses and gambles with next season's lineup

By Kenneth R. Clark
UPI TV Reporter

NEW YORK — When you're No. 1, you can afford to be smug, and in the high-pressure, ratings-ridden world of commercial television, few programs for the fall schedule is being smug indeed. ABC's "The Dick Van Dyke Show" trumpeted nine CBS will only have one — one new half-hour sitcom with old, familiar faces, and four hour-long dramatic series which, at first glance, would seem to range from the idiotic to the sublime.

CBS can afford to pick, choose, gamble a bit and bring 73 percent of last season's programming back into the numbers war.

The network finished its latest championship season with nine of 10 top-rated shows and a 21 percent lead over NBC.

CBS unveiled its new schedule Thursday with full pilot screenings of most of its new material.

The line-up ranged from a ragged, ill-edited spy thriller pilot called "Scar" to a military prime-time soap opera starring Dennis Weaver as a straight-arrow admiral with three not-so-straight daughters.

For the first time in 12 years, nothing in the CBS line-up will deal with Archie Bunker or any of his family. Both "Archie Bunker's Place" and "Gloria," the Sally Struthers spin-off that faltered after a single season, were cancelled.

Midseason replacements "The Missus" and "Goodnight, Beantown," both made it into the schedule. Other cancellations included "Seven Brides for Seven Brothers," "Cagney and Lacey," "Bring 'em Back Alive," "Tucker's Witch" and "Square Pegs."

CBS will leave its powerful Thursday and Friday evening schedules intact, and Cliff Robertson to the "Falcon Crest" cast and pour most of its new ammunition into a Monday night time slot in an effort to dilute some of the power engendered by ABC's "Monday Night Football."

The final CBS newcomer will be "Navy,"

Woman won't give up quest to marry her uncle

MIDDLEBURY, Vt. (UPI) — Ramona Forbes, 65, of Middlebury — learning her long-awaited marriage to her 88-year-old uncle, Harold Forbes, was illegal — refused Friday to give up her quest to marry her lover of 45 years.

She's not sure what her next move is — having already been thwarted by both Vermont and Canadian law — but first she will hire a lawyer.

"I'm going to the law with it," she said. "I don't know what I'll do beyond that."

After dreaming for nearly half a century of marrying her uncle, Miss Forbes donned a long white wedding gown last Saturday and the couple pledged their love to each other in North Hatley, Canada.

They had shared the same house about four decades, but it appeared that was as close as they would come to becoming spouses. Vermont law forbids blood relatives to marry; the 1983 Legislature refused to grant them an exemption.

The Forbes' minister, Rev. Brendan Hadash of Derby Line, assured them the marriage would be legal if they crossed the border into Quebec. Hadash, minister of the Unitarian Universalist Church in North Hatley, Quebec, said he had been told the marriage ceremony could take place as long as it was approved by the church.

The only other requirement was to post notice of the union three weeks in advance — which he did at his church. But said in Ottawa Thursday Canadian law prohibits the marriage unless it is approved by the government; the only possible concern being they might have deformed children.

Board meeting ends

Council of Churches lauds bishops' letter

By David E. Anderson
United Press International

SAN FRANCISCO — The National Council of Churches Friday endorsed its four-day governing board meeting by praising the Roman Catholic bishops' pastoral letter condemning nuclear war.

At the same time the governing board called for a stronger Protestant and Orthodox commitment to peace-making.

The 256-member governing board, following an address by Roman Catholic Archbishop John R. Quinn of San Francisco, passed a resolution praising the bishops' courage in urging a "new theology of peace ... which views nuclear war as a most sinful confrontation with our Creator."

Quinn, one of the leaders of the "peace bishops" at last week's meeting in which the bishops approved their 4,000-word statement, was greeted with a standing ovation by the Protestant and Orthodox religious leaders who make up the National Council.

In a brief address, Quinn highlighted the pastoral letter's content and told the governing board

BOSTON (UPI) — An electrical explosion and fire accidentally touched off by a carpenter's pneumatic bolt gun drove hundreds of people from a downtown office building Friday and sent 20 persons to area hospitals for treatment.

John J. Collins, 37, of Nashua, N.H., a carpenter whose bolt gun hit a wire in a sub-basement vault and started two fires, was in serious condition at Massachusetts General Hospital with second and third degree burns over nearly half his body.

Witnesses said they heard the 9:32 a.m. explosion moment, before smoke began billowing out of the 12-story building at 18 Tremont St. in the heart of the city's Government Center section.

Several employees of the publishing house Little, Brown and Co., with offices on the 10th, 11th and 12th floors, said they heard no warning alarms and did not know there was a fire below until they saw the lights flicker.

"It was really scary," said Sally Stinchey, of Little, Brown. "We couldn't get down for awhile."

Many persons were hanging out of top-story windows as firefighters instructed them to climb down fire escapes at the rear of the building.

"We knew we could get them out. But we were afraid they'd start jumping," Deputy Fire Chief Leo Stapleton said of the building's 300 occupants who were evacuated safely. About 50 people were stranded on the roof about 15 minutes.

"We thought we were going to have to jump," said Kim Rieck, an editorial assistant for Little, Brown, who was working on the 11th floor.

When smoke began filtering into their offices, Ms. Rieck and her co-workers ran down a floor and put themselves in a room. They put jackets under the door and opened all the windows, but still the room filled with heavy smoke.

Boston Edison Co. work crews shut down power to the building so firefighters could contain the blaze. Hundreds of people lined the narrow streets to watch the firefighting efforts. Downtown traffic was rerouted as the scene was cordoned off.

Some of the 50 firefighters who responded to the blast remained at the scene late in the afternoon checking to make sure the fire was extinguished, fire department spokesman William Murphy said.

The injured, mostly smoke inhalation victims, were taken to four area hospitals, where three were admitted and many held for observation.

Most Americans not superstitious

NEW YORK (UPI) — A majority of Americans are not superstitious about Friday the 13th, a recent survey shows.

Nearly eight out of 10 questioned in a public opinion survey supervised by Audit & Surveys, Inc., for a cigarette manufacturer said it was very unlikely something bad will happen to them on Friday the 13th and another 12 percent said it was somewhat unlikely.

Eight out of 10 also said it was very unlikely they would avoid the path of a black cat, become upset when a mirror is broken or react to similar superstitions.

Some of the 50 firefighters who responded to the blast remained at the scene late in the afternoon checking to make sure the fire was extinguished, fire department spokesman William Murphy said.

The injured, mostly smoke inhalation victims, were taken to four area hospitals, where three were admitted and many held for observation.

Lower costs, more output double boost

WASHINGTON — In a double boost for the economy, factory production posted its most dramatic improvement in nearly eight years as wholesale prices dropped 0.1 percent in April, the government reported Friday.

The combination of lower costs and more business promised higher earnings and faster re-employment, although business leaders gathered at a meeting of the prestigious Business Council warned against too high expectations.

At the White House, chief presidential economist Martin Feldstein said the new reports are "further evidence that the recovery is on course, and indeed, shifting into higher gear."

The strong 2.1 percent increase in factory production last month was the biggest improvement since August 1975's 2.2 percent, Federal Reserve analysts said.

"Despite a slow beginning, it's clear that factories now have the green light, that recovery is under way," economist Jerry Jasnowski said, speaking for the National Association of Manufacturers.

"The continuing decline in wholesale prices is due to slack demand earlier in the year," he added. "We can expect that wholesale prices will firm up during the next few months as the economy grows more rapidly."

Cross currents within the government's producer price report suggested inflation is reappearing on some fronts, primarily the 1.2 percent increase in food prices, the biggest surge in a year, due in part to rainy weather.

Raw materials prices also climbed 1.4 percent, their fastest rate in almost a year.

Waits for hearing

Jon Lastfogel, the New Jersey truck driver believed the first and only violator of Connecticut's ban on tandem trailers, waits outside court in Stamford Friday after withdrawing his guilty plea.

Lastfogel was stopped on Interstate 95 at a Darien truck stop April 29, issued a summons, and escorted out of state in the direction of New York. His case was continued to May 20.

Crash course in film

HOUSTON — Photographing the United States from a helicopter is not like taking pictures of a mountain out your car window with a Brownie.

People who don't know much about flying or taking pictures are always asking helicopter pilots and photographers to do things they can't do. I'm one of those people.

For example, a photographer cannot take a satisfactory picture from a helicopter if there is a strong wind from behind on the helicopter's tail.

The wind blows the tail around and, as the pilot tries to correct it, a wide variety of motions take place simultaneously. These gyrations include up, down, sideways and a kind of shudder that shakes the frame of the aircraft. The photographer, torn between art and life, holds on, but the pictures look like those of a hummingbird shot at one-third of a second.

If conditions are perfect for the pilot, the photographer often finds light conditions unsatisfactory and wants to wait a few minutes until the sun emerges from behind a cloud.

There are a hundred reasons why photographing from the air is difficult. Let me reconstruct a typical bit of conversation that might take place in our 57-8 Helicopter as we traverse America.

Bill and Dave, the pilots, are up front. They have the best view of what's coming up and offer good suggestions about what we might see. Behind me, in a seat immediately behind them, looking out the window slightly to the front and to the side, Mark, the cameraman, is hanging out the side door, strapped with his camera, to a 300-pound mount especially designed to take some of the motion out of the picture.

They talk over our four-way intercom, punctuated by interruptions from the air controllers on radio from the nearest airfield, might go like this:

ANDY: I like that car dump up there at 11 o'clock...think we can get that?

DAVE: Sure can. It'll be on your side, Bill. Why don't you fly this one?

BILL: Got it.

MARK: This'll be nice. Bring me in on the middle of it is sitting on the coffee table underneath a stack of old — and as yet unread — copies of the New York Times book review section.

It was a highly symbolic act for Miss Angle to leave the bracelet at the cleaners. That's because after the auction she realized just how much she'd been taken to the cleaners.

She was taken to the cleaners by about $22. That is the difference between what she paid for the bracelet — $32 — and what three jewelers on Main Street said the bracelet was worth in silver scrap.

TV's RICHARD SIMMONS HAS CAUGHT ON — he grew up overweight in New Orleans

HE HAS ARRIVED for our 10 a.m. meeting (in white slacks and a sweatshirt emblazoned with a "Chicken Lips" logo) after a three-hour run with his dogs, and before a 12-hour taping session of several segments of "The Richard Simmons Show."

The next day the dynamic, frenetic Weight Saint will leave for the opening of three Anatomy Asylums in the Miami area, a charity appearance in New York, a visit to his hometown of New Orleans, and a trip to Australia to lead 600 members of the armed forces in a workout. Then there will be appearances in Toronto, at the state fairs in Illinois and Kentucky, and...

"It never stops," he says, running his fingers nervously through a mane of tightly-curled hair that adds an inch or two to what he claims is a height of 5'7". "I'm booked solid for the next 41 weeks — and I love it."

It's the same animated, hyper success is undoubtedly the fact that his fans feel he is one of them, that, as he puts it, "I'm not a Tom Selleck. Looking like Orphan Annie does have its drawbacks — but it has its advantages, too."

give you $15 for a dozen bananas, and $20 if they were bruised. However, that person does not have a jewelry shop on Main Street in Manchester.

Now this is a fair question. Why did Miss Angle bid on a silver bracelet if she didn't want it?

That's because Miss Angle thought maybe she could pawn the bracelet off on a close relative. She thought maybe if its estimated value was $125, she was getting an Amazing Deal by bidding $32.

She got carried away. She got greedy.

What is it about people who invite other people to auctions and then blithely tell them, well, if the bracelet is worthless, heck, at least you can get a column out of it. Ha, ha, ha, ha.

They can sit there, stone-faced,

Not even the heating oil for six months. Not even the services of a private detective agency. Not even four days on Nantucket. Not even the six-course dinner prepared entirely by the rabbi.

Not even a silver onyx bracelet only a weight lifter could wear.

Midlife women defy stereotypes and experience renewed energy

By Patricia McCormack United Press International NEW YORK — Sister Colette Mahoney, college president, said something guaranteed to raise self-esteem in millions of middle-aged American women. "Women in middle are one of the nation's greatest natural resources," she said, opening a seminar on the status of women in the midlife years of life. "Just think of the energy that can be released."

Slow poke widows aren't up to widower's speed

In Brief Smith speaks

HARTFORD — Manchester insurance agent Robert H. Smith was the special guest at a dinner honoring the graduates of the 32nd session of Actna Life & Casualty's Home Office Sales Course for independent insurance agents.

Smith, a graduate of the third session of the course in 1953, is principal of Robert J. Smith, Inc., an all-lines insurance agency located at 65 East Center St. During the dinner, Leo McParland, manager of agents training for Actna, presented Smith with a copy of a special edition of Actna's magazine, Robert's publication for independent casualty and property agents. In his remarks to newly graduated agents, Smith emphasized that insurance sales is a wideopen field for those willing to expend the energy.

Experts predict stock surge

While a growing number of big institutionally-oriented investment funds (such as Morgan Stanley & Co.) think stocks are ahead of themselves and that a market correction (perhaps a stiff one) is on the way, meet three investment advisors who not only called the current rally, and — more importantly — were gutsy enough to ride it all the way through, but who are convinced there's more to go before any significant setback.

Our ongoing optimists are: Lynn Elgert, publisher of the Lynn Elgert Report, Grand Island, Neb.; Martin Zweig of the New York-based Zweig Forecast; Peter Eliades, the publisher of Stock Market Cycles of Los Angeles.

"If anyone tells you the market's losing momentum, forget it," says Elgert. "Our technical indicators are still too strong. And when the majority expects one thing — in this case a sell-off — you know the market invariably proves the majority wrong. There are just too many people expecting the market to go down..."

Dan Dorfman

Syndicated Columnist

Raymond Engineering, Media General, IBM (Rayman family holding) and First Boston. Our third bull, Peter Eliades, tracks market cycles (periods during which the market goes up and down) as well as a series of technical indicators. His bi-weekly letter — which has about 1,500 subscribers — uses research on market cycles dating back to 1789. Two key conclusions: The market, on average, reaches a bottom every 212 weeks, and a major bottom is achieved every 60 years.

Elgert concludes that the market bottoms of March '80 (about 750 Dow) and August '82 (around 776) represented the historic bottom of a 60-year cycle. "We're not apt to see prices like those for at least the next 15 years," he says. If you're about to snicker — don't. On August 6, Stock Market Cycles told its subscribers that the market was within two weeks of a major market bottom: since the rally started August 17, it was an uncanny call. If you think that's something, bow's this for an encore: Starting last October and again in November — with the Dow in the 1050-1060 area — Eliades said the next important bottom would occur January 21. On that exact day, would you believe, the Dow hit a bottom of around 1050. And Eliades has been bullish ever since.
