

Fires can start at a drop of a match, but it takes a conscious effort by all of us to prevent one! Tragedy can strike anytime... anywhere... unless we observe fire safety rules and practices. Let's make the effort. Prevention is protection!

U.S. backing bad regimes, Abrams says

By Jim Anderson
United Press International
WASHINGTON — A senior State Department official said today the United States sometimes reluctantly supports "highly imperfect regimes" such as that in El Salvador — because the alternative of a communist regime would be worse.

Smith fired by Kennelly

State Sen. Wilbur Smith has been fired from his job as a part-time aide to Rep. Barbara Kennelly, D-Conn., for making public statements libelous and damaging the "integrity" of her office.

"When a member of my staff surrounds himself in controversy and fails to take the necessary precautions to ensure that his personal statements do not call into question the integrity of my office," Mrs. Kennelly said Tuesday, "it is appropriate, and I believe, in the best interest of my constituents, to sever his relationship with the office."

Smith, who is paid $12,500 annually for the part-time job, said he believed he lost his job as a result of "political interference" from people upset by his controversial public statements and not because he was unqualified.

"I've always worked where I was wanted," Smith said. "I feel I had more to offer her than she had to offer me."

Smith, who is on trial for allegedly libeling a former city official by claiming he was a KKK sympathizer if not a member, testified last week he believed four former Hartford City Council members were also KKK sympathizers while they served on the council.

Willie Nelson

Raised eyebrows

Willie Nelson surprised more than a few people when he showed up wearing a black "Willie" T-shirt, blue jeans and sneakers for the Country Music Association awards show.

Most of the people in Nashville's Opry House were decked out in black tie or flowing evening gowns. "Nobody knew what he was going to wear," said one person in the know. "Even the wardrobe lady went up to Willie's wife and asked if he needed help with his wardrobe. She told him, 'No, I know what he's going to wear. It's right here in my purse.' The wardrobe lady went into shock."

Two other outfits caused some stir. Dolly Parton wore a black dress split up to the thigh, and female vocalist of the year Janie Fricke wore the most revealing dress she's ever worn in public — a V-necked net job.

Bette's health

Producer Aaron Spelling issued a personal statement this week on the health of Bette Davis, a star of his new "Hotel" TV series who is recuperating from a mastectomy and a stroke.

"Ms. Davis has asked me to explain to the public, through the press, how ill she had been since making the pilot for 'Hotel,'" he said.

"In June, she had a mastectomy and nine days later, a stroke. This made it impossible for her to continue with 'Hotel.' For a time, her doctors held little hope that she could recover ever. Her main concern when she was ill was that she may never be able to work again. She is now recovering and will return to 'Hotel' during the second half of the year. All of us are awaiting her return with open arms. She calls her recovery a miracle, as do her doctors."

Friendship force

Former first lady Rosalynn Carter addressed an international conference of Friendship Force in Las Vegas this week. The organization provides the framework for an exchange of "citizen diplomats" from the United States and foreign countries who live in host homes while traveling.

Mrs. Carter, a supporter of the organization for a decade, told delegates that several members of her family had formed new friendships through Friendship Force, including her daughter, Amy, who traveled to England.

"Even the Secret Service agents who went to England with Amy made friends," Mrs. Carter said.

Naval officers getting closer to knowing the Soviet mind

By James V. Heaton
United Press International

NEWPORT, R.I. — The president of the Naval War College says officers at the school are making "tremendous strides" understanding the Soviet thought processes.

"It is important in warfare 'to be able to anticipate the other guy's reaction. If it ever comes to a confrontation, you're equipped to come out much better,'" Rear Admiral Chester Nimitz said, college president, said in a recent interview.

"The Soviet thought process is a different one. It's motivated by a variety of factors. I think what you have to think about the Soviets is in an historical frame of reference."

"To use your own frame of reference would be foolhardy. If it was as simple as our own process it would be real easy. It's a new nation relatively speaking," he said.

"We're an open book to them. They're almost paranoid. Do we understand them? The simple answer is: I think we are making tremendous strides understanding them. I think we're getting smarter every day," Service said.

His comments were made prior to Sept. 1, the day a Soviet jet fighter shot down the U.S. South Korean commercial jetliner carrying 289 people, and seemed to shed new light on the way the U.S. military tries to fathom the Soviet mind. While he pointed to Soviet paranoia as an apparent factor in the downing of the jet, he also mentioned by several specialists analyzing the airliner tragedy.

For almost a century the se-managers in strategy and war gaming. While the courses are by no means equal to the 16 months of schooling offered future flag officers, "it's a way of exposing more guys to war college thinking than would normally get to go up here," he said.

David C. Brown, 44, a native of Port Huron, Mich., and skipper of the guided missile destroyer USS Lawrence, said the college offered him "the ultimate to perform professionally" in a 10-month course that is aimed at getting him to think on a different plane.

"To serve a four-star (admiral), you've got to think like a four-star," said Capt. James E. Went the college's media liaison and once a newspaperman in Altoona, Pa.

A subject of intense study at the college the past year was the Falkland Islands conflict. Student Art Humphries, 33, a lieutenant commander from Winona, Minn., looked at it from the standpoint of his job as a public affairs specialist.

He said both Great Britain and Argentina employed disinformation, but for different reasons. Great Britain's was directed at the Argentines mostly for strategic, political purposes. The Argentines directed theirs at their own people and it was a calamity because they lied.

"They lied to the people. That's O.K. if you win, but if you do anything short of winning, the public will get you. They'll fire you. They'll riot. Of course, the Argentine public had enough reason to riot before the war with at least 300 percent inflation," he said.

Faculty and students were reminded by Chief of Naval Operations James D. Watkins that in the past 25 years the Soviet Navy has become a global power and enjoys a 1,700-to-500 difference in ship strength, a better than 3-1 advantage.

Beating these kinds of numbers requires being able to fight intelligently and it involves more commanders and captains attending the college so they'll know better how to go about it.

Watkins has laid out some new initiatives at the school because he wants the officers to "understand the Soviet thought processes and deal with them in order to exploit and defeat him."

Service said there's no practical way the college can educate all commanding officers, but it does the best it can by offering high intensity short courses four times a year for 60 or 70 talented com-

Inmates protest liver

In Phoenix, Ariz., State prison inmates staged a brief protest over the institution's inclination to give generous portions of chicken livers but skimpy amounts of more favored items.

"The main problems dealt with selection and quantity," said John Turner, spokesman for the state Department of Corrections. "One complaint in particular was getting served chicken livers for dinner one night."

"Apparently that wasn't a popular item."

About 100 inmates at the Alhambra prison participated in the half-hour protest Sunday.

Describing the demonstration as "low key," Turner said the department has agreed to vary menus, increase servings and review the food-service policy.

Food is the "highlight" of an inmate's day, Turner added.

Almanac

Today is Wednesday, October 12th, the 285th day of 1983 with 80 to follow.

Today is Columbus Day.

The moon is approaching its first quarter.

The morning stars are Mercury, Venus and Mars.

The evening stars are Jupiter and Saturn.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Libra. They include Elmer Sperry, the American inventor who devised practical uses for the gyroscope in 1860, civil rights activist Dick Gregory in 1922, and opera star Luciano Pavarotti in 1935.

On this date in history:

In 1492, it is said Christopher Columbus discovered America, making his first landing in the New World on the island of Guanahani in the Bahamas. Columbus believed he had reached India.

In 1822, Brazil declared its independence from Portugal.

In 1980, Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev removed one of his shoes and pounded on his desk with it during a speech before the United Nations.

In 1973, President Nixon nominated House Minority Leader Gerald Ford for the vice presidency to replace Spiro Agnew who had resigned in disgrace two days earlier.

A thought for the day: In a letter, written eight years after arriving in Columbus said, "By divine will, I have placed under the sovereignty of the King and Queen an Other World, whereby Spain, which was reckoned poor, is become the richest of countries."

Manchester In Brief

State grant: No one asked

No public or private, non-profit service agency in town applied for $1 million in state funds earmarked for "transitional living facilities," says an area mental health official — and now the deadline has expired.

After the meeting Tuesday of Catchment Area Council No. 15 of the Regional Mental Health Board, Chairman Ernst Englebrecht pointed out that under Special Act No. 63-17, the state Legislature authorized a $1-million bond issue for alterations, repairs and improvements of residential facilities serving ex-offenders, the mentally ill and alcoholics. Horizons, a facility run by the Manchester Area Council of Churches for recently discharged mental patients, might have been eligible for aid had coordinators applied, he said.

But Manchester isn't the only town where no local agency took advantage of the offer, Englebrecht added. Only one program — a facility for the mentally ill, run by Hartford Hospital — in the entire region put in a request, he said. Other towns either missed the deadline, were unaware of the grant, or weren't interested, apparently.

Open house at ROTC

All parents of students at Manchester's Regional Occupational Training Center on Webster Street may attend an open house tonight from 7 to 8 p.m. Teachers will be on hand to meet parents and discuss ROTC programs, and light refreshments will be served.

Seader asks for report

School Board Chairman Leonard E. Seader asked Tuesday that members consider starting a daytime treatment program for troubled adolescents. He cited the Bentley Day Treatment Center, which serves younger children, as a model for the new program.

Board member Richard W. Dyer said there's been an "alarming increase" in the number of students who are referred to the regional high school-age children with psychiatric problems. "If you have a local program to meet that need, you may be able to save some money on out-of-district placements," he added.

Board denies bus request

It was a matter of practicality versus precision. The school board voted unanimously Monday to deny a bus-service request for Eric Miller, a 7th grader at Hling Junior High, even though his mother says he has to walk exactly .03 mile over the 1.5-mile legal walking limit to get to school.

Ruth Miller says she paced out the distance with a surveyor's wheel. But when the school's transportation committee sent out a police cruiser to check the distance, the odometer measured no more than 1.5 miles.

Mrs. Miller and Joyce Lundberg, both ambassador Drive residents, complained before the board that odometer readings are imprecise. "I'm very disappointed with the transportation committee refusing to measure the distance to my house accurately," Mrs. Miller said.

MHS will have a MORP

At the school board meeting Tuesday, student representative John Rogers announced that Manchester High School will soon have a MORP — a backward pron, that is, in Sodie English, style, girls will ask boys to dance. Other formal ball conventions will also be turned upside-down, he said.

The MHS student council has not yet set a date for the event.

Okay to ask for money

The Board of Education has granted local school administrators permission to seek two separate federal grants, both funded under the Educational Consolidation Improvement Act.

The director of the Regional Occupational Training Center, now that he's gotten the go-ahead, will apply for $7,500 worth of federal funds to buy computer hardware and software. The computers, if purchased, would be used to teach basic skills, telling time, recognizing words, counting, dealing with money — to trainable mentally retarded adults.

Administrators at the three secondary schools in town plan to apply for a $18,427 grant to carry out a staff-development program. With the money, they would fund teacher workshops and seminars and improved monitoring of the existing staff evaluation program. Developing a network between the local public schools and industry, business, the community and colleges is another of their aims.

New nurse at Hling

The school board has appointed Gail B. Hinchey of Manchester as a part-time nurse at Hling Junior High School. Mrs. Hinchey, a graduate of Russell Sage college who got her nursing degree from Columbia-Presbyterian Hospital, has been a substitute nurse with the Manchester schools since 1978. She's also worked as a hospital nurse and as an office nurse for a physician.

The board has also approved a long-term maternity leave — from mid-January 1984 up to the start of the 1986-87 school year — for Linda Adams, a fourth-grade teacher at Verplanck School.

GOP chief won't retract

Though Republican Town Chairman Curtis M. Smith recently has received a letter from an attorney for Deputy Registrar Voters Gertrude Starkey, he says he has no plans to retract statements he made that were critical of Mrs. Starkey when she was appointed in September.

Smith says he stands by the statement: "I've never known Mrs. Starkey to be a hard worker. I don't think the appointment will make much difference in voter registration."

He said today the comment was nothing to do with Mrs. Starkey's work outside the Republican party. "It was my fair and honest assessment of her work in the party," Smith said.

Smith said he will consult with his attorney and write a response to Mrs. Starkey.

Long-term subs will get more respect

At its Tuesday night meeting, the Board of Education approved a policy granting teachers' privileges to some long-term substitutes — and another that allows them to serve in unruly or violent students.

The move to boost the status of those substitutes who replace an absent teacher for more than one semester to that of full-fledged teachers was based on "long-standing concern," said assistant Superintendent Wilson E. Deakin Jr. The newly-designated teachers will enjoy the same pay and benefits as teachers appointed on a permanent basis, he said.

Deakin noted that a rise in the number of long-term illnesses among teachers and also in part-time teaching positions has made it more common for substitutes to take over classrooms for months instead of days.

Although board Secretary Peter A. Crombie Jr. "absolutely opposed" voting on the matter while contract negotiations with the Manchester Education Association are continuing, Deakin contended the action was timely. One long-term substitute is already in place. Deakin said, and several more will be needed soon to fill in for teachers planning lengthy maternity and child-rearing leaves.

"There have been quit-pro-quo's rendered by the MEA," the assistant superintendent added, although he did not say specifically what concessions the union negotiators made. Deakin and MEA President Peter Tognalli have met several times over the course of the year to discuss the substitute problem.

The agreement the two parties reached "shows responsible and mature abilities" on the part of each, said board member Richard W. Dyer.

Under the new policy, substitutes hired to replace teachers who are on short-term pregnancy leave or absent with illness for less than one semester will not have their status upgraded to that of a teacher. In general, only substitutes who are in place one semester or more will benefit from the policy.

But while some substitutes are being rewarded as a result of school board action Tuesday, some students will be punished. To bring school policy in line with a special act adopted by the state Legislature, board members voted to physically or verbally abusive while awaiting or on school buses. Striking a student or school bus driver, threatening others or using obscene language, stealing, vandalism, possessing weapons or drugs, and refusing to obey the driver are sufficient reason to suspend bus service under the new rule.

The policy was adopted unanimously without any discussion.

An old practice — drilling — revived

Now as in the Sputnik era, the national concern over public education has Manchester school officials looking for ways to improve their performance — and teachers, too — demanding improvement. That assessment

Democratic candidates agree to Naab's terms

All four Democratic candidates for the Manchester Board of Education agreed Tuesday they will support a debate Thursday evening, they have announced.

Incumbents Richard W. Dyer, Peter Crombie, Susan L. Perkins and Leonard Seader said Wednesday they will meet Naab at the Mot's Auditorium near the Shop Rite store on East Middle Turnpike. Naab had previously challenged the Democrats to discuss the issues.

In accepting the challenge, however, the Democrats criticized Naab for not inviting any other GOP school board candidates to the debate. In addition to Naab, Republican candidates are Bernice Cobb, Gloria DellaFera and incumbent Dr. H. John Malone.

"Our opponent says that he wants to discuss important educational issues," Dyer said. "But he apparently doesn't

Werbner questions utility of police-hiring activities

The costly and complicated procedure for filling police positions in the town's police hiring effort is being questioned by Assistant Town Manager Steven R. Werbner, who is in charge of the process.

Werbner, in a memorandum to the Human Relations Commission, says he will soon provide the commission with recommendations.

The memorandum reports that the town has hired five white males to fill positions in the Police Department after a recruiting effort that resulted in certification of 18 people, 14 of them white.

The town found itself with only nine eligible candidates after its oral examination, seven of them white men. To get a larger pool of candidates, seminars and improved monitoring of the second oral examination, inviting 30 others who had passed the written examination. Of the 24 who took that second oral exam, only nine passed it.

Thus the town had 18 candidates to certify to the chief.

Four withdrew, one failed to show for the lie-detector test, and one was rejected for bad eyesight. That left 12 for the chief to consider, nine of them white men, one a black man, one a white

New fighting erupts in 3-year Gulf War, oil block threatened

By Samira Kower
United Press International

BEIRUT, Lebanon — New fighting broke out in the three-year Gulf war and Iran threatened to block world oil shipments from the region if Iraq uses French-supplied bombers to halt Iranian oil exports.

An Iraqi military communiqué said four Iranian soldiers were killed when Iraqi forces struck at Iranian troop concentrations in the northern Haj Omran area and the central Mehran area, 100 miles east of Baghdad.

The Iraqi forces also destroyed an Iranian radar and a military emplacement, the communiqué said.

Iraq accused Iran of shelling the eastern Iraqi city of Mandali but reported no casualties, while Iran said three Iranian civilians were killed and 20 wounded during an Iraqi air raid on the city of Marivan, 300 miles west of the Iranian capital.

Iranian Parliament Speaker Akbar Hashemi Rafsanjani, quoted by Tehran Radio monitored in Beirut, vowed Iran would fight the United States if it attempted to reopen the strategic Hormuz Straits, through which 8 million barrels of oil flow daily to the West, and said, "Not even a third world war would manage to reopen them."

Rafsanjani said Iran would blockade the 90-mile-wide Hormuz Straits if Iraq used French-supplied Super Etendard jets to halt Iranian oil exports. He said France "must pay a high price" for its decision to supply Iraq with five Super Etendard jets equipped with Exocet missiles because this will prolong the Gulf war.

"But if any power — Saddam (Iraqi President Saddam Hussein) or the superpowers — try to prevent Iran from exporting its oil, then the Persian Gulf has no importance to us," Rafsanjani said. "Anytime we feel necessary, we can put the Persian Gulf out of use."

Iraq's oil exports have been severely hampered by the Gulf war and are restricted to one pipeline via Turkey.

In Paris, however, the newspaper Le Monde disputed earlier French reports that the five Super Etendard fighter jets had been delivered to Iraq and said they may be used as a bargaining chip to arrange a cease-fire.

The newspaper said the planes would be used as a deterrent to facilitate a U.N. Security Council resolution calling on Tehran and Baghdad to agree to a cease-fire and guarantee the freedom of Persian Gulf navigation.

The newspaper said Baghdad supported the resolution in principle and predicted Iraqi President Saddam Hussein might publicly voice his approval upon the arrival of the Super Etendards in Baghdad later this week.

The Gulf war started Sept. 22, 1980, when Iraqi forces crossed the Shi-ah-Arab waterway at the head of the Gulf in an attempt to capture Iran's giant Abadan oil refinery.

High court rules it will not hear Jonestown case

By Spencer Sherman
United Press International

WASHINGTON — Allegations that the government knew more about the 1978 Peoples Temple mass suicide than it has revealed did not persuade the Supreme Court to allow survivors of the tragedy to sue U.S. officials for damages.

The high court Tuesday refused to hear an appeal from survivors of the calamity, which ended in the death of more than 900 people, including Rev. Leo Ryan — the first congressman to be killed on an official investigative mission.

The justices refused without comment to consider whether survivors of the 1978 Jonestown, Guyana, tragedy have the right to sue U.S. officials for failing to warn of the imminent collapse of the cult or to take any action to stop it.

Their complaint charged that Peoples Temple leader Jim Jones had been in the service of the CIA since 1963 and, thus, the government should have known of the oppressive and explosive conditions at the jungle settlement. In other actions, the justices:

- Refused to review the 33-year-old perjury conviction of Alger Hiss, who was accused of being a Communist spy during the post-World War II "red scare."
- He had asked the court to re-examine key evidence used against him.
- Hiss served a jail term in the 1950s for a perjury conviction in connection with spy charges leveled against him before a House committee in 1948. His case helped propel a young congressman from California named Richard Nixon to national prominence as an avid anti-Communist.
- Denied a request from former Rep. Richard Kelly to review his 1981 Abscam bribery conviction for accepting $25,000 from FBI agents posing as Arabs interested in buying influence. The justices have cleared the way for the former Republican congressman to be sentenced for bribery.
- Refused to block a new trial in the $1.8 billion dispute over charges American Telephone & Telegraph illegally tried to shut MCI Communications Corp. out of long-distance telephone markets. The case would consider damages the telephone giant owes its rival.
- Sidestepped a major test of the Newspaper Privacy Act by refusing to review a joint operating agreement between the Seattle Times and the Post-Intelligencer. The papers have been operating jointly since last May since a federal appeals court approved the arrangement.

The Peoples Temple case was dismissed by U.S. District Judge Stanley Weigel in San Francisco after an attorney for the six survivors failed to inform all the defendants that they had been sued and failed to diligently pursue the lawsuit.

"The case has become information that has come to me that would indicate a large amount of mind controlling drugs and supplies of weapons were being sent and used by Jim Jones at Jonestown with the consent, knowledge and aid of the Central Intelligence Agency of the United States," lawyer Robert J. Bockelman told the lower court.

On Nov. 10, 1978, Jones ordered the entire cult to commit suicide by drinking a poison-laced soft drink after temple "security forces" killed Ryan, D-Calit, as he left for the United States with a dozen defectors.

Ms. Bagby, Ms. Turner and Thomas Bogue were defecting from the cult with Ryan when he was killed at the Port Kaituma airstrip. They were wounded by gunfire from CIA loyalists.

Former Japanese prime minister Kakuei Tanaka responds to reporters today after he was sentenced to four years in prison in the Lockheed bribery trial at Tokyo District Court. Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone suffered a heavy blow to his leadership when his mentor, Tanaka, drew a jail sentence in post-war Japan's biggest political scandal. Behind Tanaka is Shigezo Hayasaka, Tanaka's secretary.

Tanaka's conviction blow to Japan leader

By P.-Y. Chen
United Press International

TOKYO — Former Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka, one of Japan's most powerful politicians, was convicted today of taking $2 million in bribes from an American aircraft firm and sentenced to four years in prison.

The Tokyo District Court found Tanaka, 65, guilty of accepting some $2 million in payoffs from Lockheed Aircraft Corp. in 1973 to aid the company's chances of selling jetliners to a domestic airline.

The ruling by the three-judge tribunal capped nearly seven years of legal proceedings and sent shock waves through the government of Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone, one of Tanaka's political proteges.

The charismatic powerbroker of the ruling Liberal Democratic Party, known as the "shadow shogun," was the first Japanese prime minister to be put on trial, in what has become Japan's worst post-war political scandal.

A chorus of "banzai" went up from several hundred people who gathered outside the gray downtown courthouse for the verdict.

Tanaka, who has denied the charges, showed no emotion as he returned to his seat in the packed courtroom after the verdict. Court observers said he appeared to tremble slightly as he bowed to the judges.

Tanaka was sentenced to four years in prison and ordered to pay a $60 million yen penalty — some $2.1 million at current exchange rates. His attorneys immediately appealed to the Tokyo High Court, beginning an appeals process that could reach Japan's Supreme Court and ultimately take 10 years.

Chief Judge Mitsumori Okada said the bribe "seriously impaired the Japanese people's confidence" in government and the ill-effect was "immeasurable."

However, he said, the court "took consideration of the defendant's achievements as a cabinet member and prime minister" in giving Tanaka less than the five-year sentence demanded by prosecutors.

Arms delegates meet amid Soviet protest

By John A. Cottrill
United Press International

GENEVA, Switzerland — U.S. and Soviet negotiators met in full session today at talks on limiting medium-range nuclear missiles in Europe that came amid Soviet demands for an immediate suspension.

The United States said earlier that Moscow is pressing for suspension of the negotiations because of imminent NATO deployment of new missiles to counter Soviet weapons already in place.

Yuli A. Kvitsinsky, chief Soviet delegate to the Eurornissie talks, refused to discuss the situation with reporters before today's session — the 95th day of the Intermediate Nuclear Forces talks first began Nov. 30, 1981.

"We are continuing," was all Kvitsinsky would say.

Plenary sessions at the negotiations currently are being held just once weekly instead of twice-weekly as had been usual.

Chief U.S. negotiator Paul H. Nitze is restating Soviet demands for an open-ended recess, U.S. and other Western officials said Tuesday.

The Western officials warned that despite U.S. efforts to keep the talks going there could be an indefinite break in the 23-month negotiations as early as next week because serious business appears impossible.

Moscow also has told U.S. negotiators that it wants an early recess again without setting a resumption date — at the parallel but separate Strategic Arms Reduction Talks (START), diplomats close to those negotiations said in Geneva.

If and when talks are resumed, the Soviets said, the Intermediate Nuclear Forces talks and the START negotiations, which began in June 1982, would have to be combined.

The Kremlin's stance was in protest at the scheduled deployment by NATO in Western Europe of U.S. medium-range missiles capable of reaching Soviet territory. The deployment was to begin in December in West Germany, Britain and Italy.

"This, the Soviets maintain, will make the new NATO Pershing-2 and cruise missiles 'a back-door extension' of U.S. strategic intercontinental nuclear systems and the two sets of talks should therefore be combined."

Paul H. Nitze, the veteran arms negotiator heading the U.S. team at the INF, or Eurornissie talks, wants to keep going until Dec. 13 and then resume in January.

Nitze announced this proposal in The Hague last week but said it had been rejected by the Soviets.

Soviet INF chief negotiator Yuli A. Kvitsinsky instead demanded an immediate and mutually agreed recess, according to the Western officials.

Five slain in rampage
WHARTON, Texas — A man accused of killing five people and kidnapping six others in a five-hour, 190-mile rampage across southeast Texas killed those who did not pursue the man but spared those who did, officials say.

Eladio H. Moreno, 24, of Mercedes, Texas, was caught at a roadblock in Wharton County at 11:15 p.m. CDT Tuesday. He offered no resistance, authorities said.

Moreno was charged with capital murder early today in the slaying of state trooper Russell Lynn Boyd, 25, and held without bond.

The other victims, all killed within a five-hour period Tuesday night, were a young couple in College Station and an elderly man and woman in Hempstead.

Monroe files censored?

NEW YORK — FBI files on the death of Marilyn Monroe have been heavily censored in an effort to protect the reputation of former U.S. Attorney General Robert Kennedy, former Los Angeles County Coroner Thomas Noguchi says in a new book.

In the book, entitled "Coroner," Noguchi says a theory exists that the FBI kept files on the actress because she possessed a diary "that was somehow a threat" to former U.S. Attorney General Robert Kennedy.

The book is slated for publication next month by Simon and Schuster.

Noguchi also writes of a theory that Miss Monroe, who possibly died from a drug overdose on Aug. 4, 1962, was murdered by "some rogue elements in the CIA" who worried about information that Kennedy had given (Miss) Monroe which she kept in a diary.

The former coroner writes that the FBI never fully released pertinent files.

Teacher talks break off

CHICAGO — Striking teachers walked out on negotiations with the Board of Education and said they would return when the board offers more than a 9.5 percent pay increase.

Talks broke off Tuesday after a three-hour negotiating session. No date was set for resumption of the strike that has idled 455,000 students since Oct. 3.

"How will we ever re-open our school doors when the union won't even offer the bargaining table?" asked Board President Sol Brandzel.

"This action is certainly not in the best interest of Chicago's students nor does it in any help to get employees back to work."

Brandzel said the board may ask a federal mediator to join talks.

Drug problem worries Pell

WASHINGTON — Federal efforts at drug enforcement and anti-drug education need to be coordinated to be effective, says Sen. Claiborne Pell, D-R.I.

Pell said Tuesday the Senate Foreign Relations Committee will hold a hearing in Newport, R.I., later this month to focus attention on the problem.

"We are literally being engulfed" by drugs smuggled in by every means possible, Pell said in a statement, adding that nearly all dangerous drugs consumed in the United States come from other countries.

"We see the byproduct of this problem daily in our own communities — in the stores and homes burglarized by addicts supporting their drug habit and in the innocent citizens who are victimized by muggings, assaults and other drug-related crimes," he said.

Ten die, two lost in storms

Thunderstorms raced through the Plains and Mississippi Valley ahead of a cold front. Ten people died when a commuter plane crashed during a thunderstorm in southern Illinois and two men were missing in snowstorms in the Rockies.

More storms swept the Gulf Coast states, and warm, moist air drifting up from the South spread rain from the Tennessee Valley east to New Jersey and Florida.

Four inches of heavy, wet snow fell Tuesday in the Colorado Rockies but quickly melted, and snow in Colorado and Wyoming interfered with searches for two missing men. Snow spread into North Dakota Tuesday night.

An Air Illinois turbo-prop commuter plane bound from Chicago to Carbondale, Ill., crashed during a thunderstorm Tuesday night outside Pinckneyville, Ill., about 50 miles southeast of St. Louis.

Lightning struck a playing field at East Central University in Ada, Okla., during football practice, critically injuring one team member and shocking 14 others.

Storms across Texas downed power lines, leaving hundreds of Dallas residents without power for up to an hour. Hall pounded parts of Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas.

Palsy victim wants to die

RIVERSIDE, Calif. — For Elizabeth Bouvia, death is an attractive alternative to life as an invalid with cerebral palsy. Alone and dependent on others for survival, she is fighting for the right to die.

"I'm not eating because I wish to die," she said Tuesday. "People are saying I've given up hope. That's not it, I'm just being realistic."

Born with cerebral palsy and needing round-the-clock care because of her paralysis, Mrs. Bouvia is a patient at Riverside General Hospital where she has been refusing solid food for three weeks.

Mrs. Bouvia, 28, can brush her teeth, smoke a cigarette and drive her own wheelchair with assistance. Everything else must be done for her.

Gemayel sets date for talks but no place

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — President Amin Gemayel today set Oct. 20 as the new date for peace talks between Lebanon's warring factions, but failed to say where they were to be held because of objections by Syria and its Lebanese allies.

Khalil Mekkaoui, political director of the Lebanese foreign ministry, said a preparatory committee will meet Thursday at the Health Ministry to draft an agenda for the long-delayed talks.

But he acknowledged that leaders of Syrian-backed opposition factions still disagreed on the site of the full meeting of representatives of the Lebanese factions, forcing Gemayel to announce the Oct. 20 date without a site.

Beirut radio, in making the official announcement of the new date, said the site of the talks would be announced the day before the talks began.

The newspaper Al Safir said the talks convene at the presidential palace in the Beirut suburb of Raabda, but Syria rejected the proposal and suggestions they be held in Jeddah, Saudi Arabia, were being revived, Mekkaoui said.

The peace talks were called as part of a Saudi-Urduze cease-fire that ended 22 days of civil war last month among the Christian-led government and Druze and Shiite Moslems seeking greater power.

The government has ruled out Druze Moslem leader Walid Jumblatt's compromise proposal to hold the conference on a Greek ship anchored off the coast of Lebanon, he said.

Mekkaoui said a preparatory meeting will be held Thursday at 11 a.m. at the Lebanese Health Ministry, on the so-called green line separating Christian east Beirut from the Moslem west.

The new developments came after renewed violence flared around the country in which six people were reported killed.

In the port of Tripoli, 42 miles north of Beirut, fighting between pro-and anti-Syrian factions resumed last night, state-run Beirut radio said.

Explosions rocked the city and the sound of light and medium arms fire could be heard, forcing shops to shut down and clearing the streets of motorists and pedestrians, the radio said.

As Safir said, at least three people were killed and 13 wounded in fighting Tuesday as two attempts to arrange a cease-fire collapsed.

Eiffel souvenirs
Ancient spiral staircases of the Eiffel Tower are gathered outside Paris and cut in pieces to be sold at auction in December. Renovation of the famed tower will be almost finished by the end of the year.

The work has taken about 35 months — 10 months more than Gustave Eiffel took to build the major landmark in 1887-89.

Biggest in 10 years

Chileans stage huge rally

SANTIAGO, Chile (UPI) — Police fired tear gas and buckshot to break up a protest by about 60,000 Chileans demanding an end to military rule, the largest anti-government rally since President Augusto Pinochet seized power a decade ago.

The Chilean Human Rights Commission said at least four people, including a 41-year-old Chilean journalist, were injured by gunfire or beaten by police in the violence Tuesday.

People shouting "Democracy now" packed five city blocks, reporters estimated. Rally organizers calculated the crowd at 60,000.

As the four-hour protest ended, thousands tried to march down Santiago's main Alameda Avenue toward the presidential palace, but were blocked by rows of some 1,000 riot police.

Witnesses said the police fired a five-minute barrage of tear gas and water cannon to disperse the crowd, which included groups of students shouting "murderer" and "the dictatorship will fall" as they hurled rocks at police.

The rally — the largest since Pinochet seized power 10 years ago — was the sixth anti-government protest in as many months. Some 10,000 people gathered a week ago to demand a return to Democracy.

At least 41 people have been killed and hundreds injured by police and soldiers in five previous protests since May 1979.

Pinochet toppled the elected government of Socialist Salvador Allende in a CIA-backed coup on Sept. 11, 1973, ending a 15-year tradition of Democracy in Chile.

Pinochet, while allowing some resurgence in political activity, outlawed until now, insists he will not let go of power until 1989 — the date set for him to relinquish the presidency according to a constitution he wrote in 1980.

In Valparaiso, 70 miles west of Santiago, three policemen and two students were injured and several dozen people arrested when police used tear gas, water cannon and attack dogs to break up a "sit-in" by several hundred students at a local university, police said.

Before the violence erupted, the crowd was addressed by Fabiola Letelier, sister of former foreign minister Orlando Letelier, who was assassinated in Washington in 1976, allegedly by Chilean secret police.

Why Weicker is running so hard

Capitol Comments

Bob Conrad
Syndicated Columnist

U.S. Senator Lowell Weicker of Greenwich, who rode his campaign machine to third-term victory a year ago, is still tearing around the state as though he doesn't know how to shut the damned thing off.

Weicker is one of the busiest weekend warriors in Connecticut. This fall, however, he isn't running for anything.

WEICKER IS BACK to the basic political nuts and bolts that have helped him go through 20 years of elective office without ever losing at the polls.

You have to listen to what he says very closely. Weicker admits he cannot stop the politicians and writers from speculating about his future.

O'Neill road plan held up by House

By Mark A. Dupuis United Press International

HARTFORD — The key element of Gov. William O'Neill's $41.9 million road and bridge plan was left in limbo today by a freshman lawmaker's last-ditch effort to block plans for a shooting range in Plymouth.

O'Neill's call for stiffer penalties for trucks violating legal weight limits and use of $5.6 million in expected surplus funds to hire more road crews, bridge inspectors and truck weight enforcement squads.

The chambers also approved labor contracts for two groups of judicial workers and $7 million in bond funds to assure the state doesn't lose federal funds slated for the since-abandoned completion of Interstate 84 and now set for other projects.

The $38.3 million bond plan ran into trouble in an unusual string of events that began when Rep. William Butterly Jr., D-Waterbury, proposed an amendment to shift funds for the shooting range at Hancock Brook in Plymouth to the road and bridge package.

Buttery, who said to the shooting range would be unsafe, acted on the eve of the planned opening of bids today by the Department of Environmental Protection for the project.

His amendment passed 68-64 on an initial vote, which was taken over when the machine to record the vote malfunctioned. The amendment died on a 66-64 tie the second time around and then passed 68-62 on a third vote.

PHASE-OUT legislation. "The fairest tax in the world is a toll because those who use it pay for it," said Miszkowski, who survived two parliamentary challenges that his proposal was not properly before the House before the vote was taken.

Rep. Ronald Smoko, D-Hamden, co-chairman of the Finance, Revenue and Bonding Committee, said the plan lacked support of enough majority Senate Democrats. He said he would bring the matter up in the regular session beginning in February.

Miszkowski vowed to bring the measure up again possibly later in the current special session or next year's regular session. "I'll forever try it. Never say die," he said.

Man an apparent suicide

A Heublein executive was found dead in the cellar of his Valleyview Road home Tuesday afternoon, an apparent suicide victim, police said.

Police said they found Christian J. Donahue, 38, of 227 Valleyview Road hanging from basement pipes. His 15-year-old son found what police said appeared to be a suicide note in the kitchen when he arrived home from school. The youth went to a neighbor's house and called the police.

Mrs. Donahue told police her husband was depressed because he had just learned that his job at Heublein was being eliminated in the next 11 days.

Donahue had been director of strategic and environmental analysis for the Food and Beverage Group of R.J. Reynolds, the company that bought Heublein last year, a company spokesman said today. Before the purchase, Donahue had directed economic analysis for Heublein.

MHS heading for soccer crown

Tops Simsbury, 4-0; still tied with Hall

By Len Auster
Herald Sports Writer

There were several keys — subtle maybe — but if you read them correctly, you saw why Manchester High had an easy time of it in whipping Simsbury High, 4-0, in CCLL soccer action Tuesday at Memorial Field.

For one, you could tell by the wing play. Sophomores Nick Cacace and Robert Chang, each with a goal, have opened matters up for the Indians on offense. "We can open it up more with Cacace and Chang. They give us more options," said Manchester coach Bill McCarthy, who saw his troops slip to 3-1.

And then there was the defense where sweeper Eric Wallert and stopper John Janenda, both juniors, allowed nothing to the visitors. "Wallert and Janenda had super, super games," emphasized McCarthy. "You can't be any more impressed with Eric and John." Peteren chimed in, "Wallert's presence is enough to keep the tempo to their advantage."

The victory left Manchester tied for the CCLL lead with Hall, a 3-1 victor over Windham Tuesday. The Indians and Warriors tied 2-2 in their previous meeting and are looking forward to the rematch Oct. 25 at Manchester High.

Manchester opened the scoring with only 30 seconds gone. Brad Pelligrinelli, after one of many Simsbury fouls, lofted a 20-yard boot to a wide-open Cacace on the left side. He went in on freshman goalie John McVay and just flicked it over his head, letting it roll slowly into the goal. It was Cacace's fifth goal of the season.

"That first goal was damaging but it's a cop out to say it was over then," Peterson said.

"They tried an off-side trap but Brass got the ball to Nicky," McCarthy said.

It looked like it would be a 1-0 game until the 8:20 mark of the third period. Pelligrinelli picked up a loose ball about 30 yards out and then boomed home a 22-yarder on the ground. McVay had not held onto a long boot from Janenda and carelessly sent it back towards the playing area. Pelligrinelli made Simsbury pay with his eighth goal of the season.

Cacace's square pass to Chang at 18:30 of the same period resulted in the latter's initial variety goal. He rocketed home a 10-yarder.

And Tom Pinesnap capped it at 16:10 of the final period, trapping a long boot by sophomore defender Brian Milone and flipping it over an advancing McVay.

Manchester goalie Chris Peterson didn't see the ball the second half as Simsbury was credited with no shots. He had one stop in the first half for his sixth shutout of the season, building his school-record total to 29 blankings.

Wallert and Janenda had to get much of the credit for Peterson's inactivity.

McCarthy's pre-game orders were to "go out and get dirty." I think our pressure made them pay."

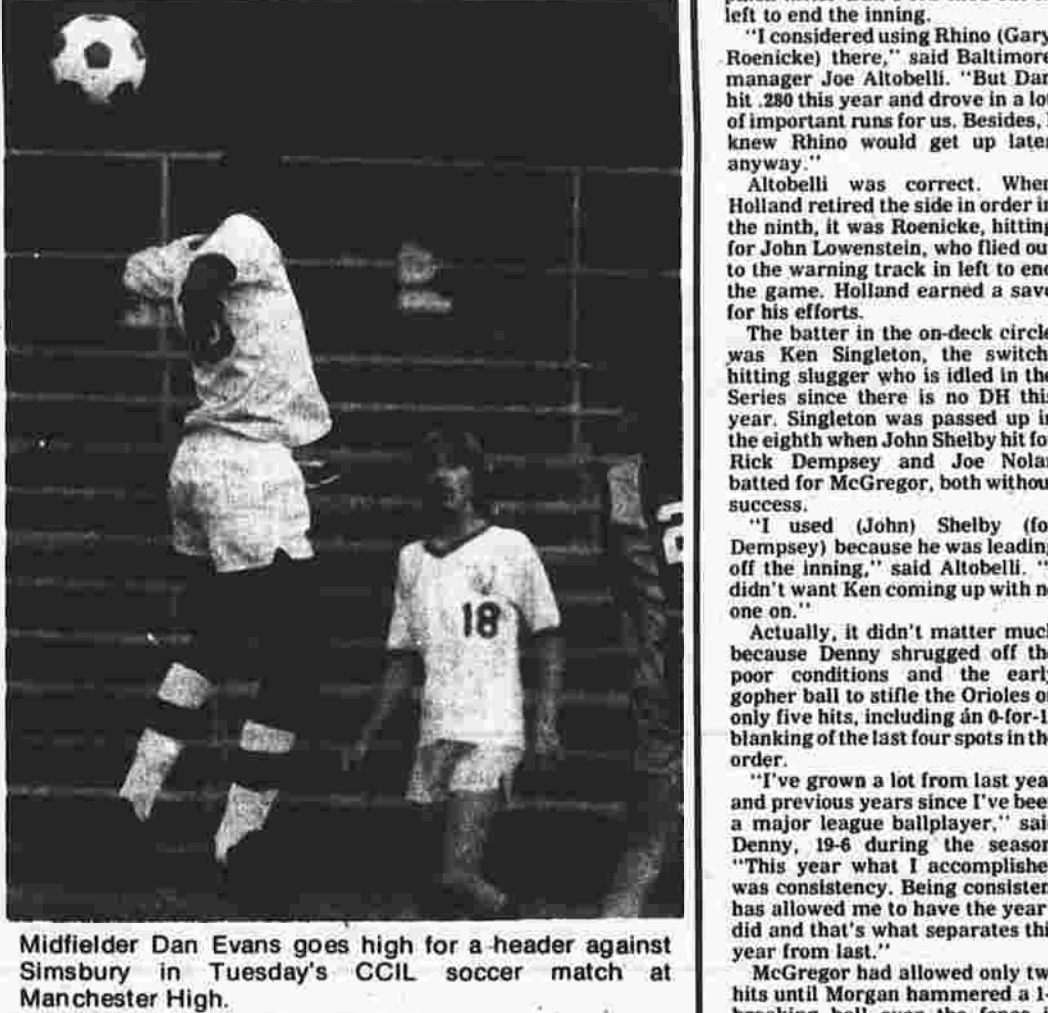

Manchester play Friday at Memorial Field at 3:30 p.m.

Manchester's Brad Pelligrinelli (B) and Simsbury's Jim Orad (15) battle for a header in Tuesday's Indians-Trojans soccer contest. Manchester's Dan Evans looks on.

Manchester sophomore Dave Kelly Simsbury in the Indians' 4-0 victory prepares to blast a shot against Tuesday.

Beats Bolton, 5-0

At RHAM, the shutout is everything

By Barry Petrus
Herald Sports Writer

BOLTON — The RHAM boys' soccer team has adapted Shakespears to the soccer field with a new twist. "The shutout is the thing."

Leading 5-0 with only 8:30 to play against Bolton Tuesday, the Sachems survived the Bulldogs' most threatening pressure. Upon repelling the onslaught, the Sachems hooted and hollered as if they had just scored the game-winner.

The shutout was everything.

New at 8-1, RHAM has allowed only one goal all season, in a draw with Lyman Memorial. They've outscored the opposition 29-1, but RHAM coach Mike Zotta isn't worried about the offensive output.

"The shutout is everything," said Zotta, whose Sachems are tied with Rocky Hill, which has allowed only two goals all year, for first place in the CCL. "The shutout's more important than scoring goals. In the tournament, you have to have the strong defense."

The Sachems were indeed struck against the Bulldogs, shutting down the trio of Arnie Bogan, Mal Ferguson and Doug Moore, the only players to score for Bolton this year. The Bulldogs fall to 5-3 on the season.

Actually, RHAM had to contend with Moore, who has five goals thus far, for only the first half. Still in a cloudy state from being knocked out of Friday's win over Bacon Academy, the Bulldog striker didn't have his bearings and left the game at the half for observation.

Ray Boyd's Bulldogs were just a little too small and a little too undermanned to handle RHAM, but Boyd still threw some bones to his 'Dogs.

"We don't have the lines to overlap and play more than one position," said Boyd. "But I'm pleased to see the team didn't give up. It was a legitimate 2-0 shutout."

Boyd's last statement was rendered plausible by the fact that Bulldog goalie Don Halobardo had a hand in three of the RHAM goals, letting the Sachems get easy rebound goals. In Halobardo's defense — and there wasn't that much in front of him Tuesday — he's a converted goalie playing his first year in the nets, and he came up with 17 saves, many difficult chances that could have raised the RHAM total closer to double figures.

"Their offense really put the pressure on," said Boyd, whose team was outshot 35-4. "And it shouldn't have been a shutout."

At the aforementioned 36:30 mark, Bolton's Mal Ferguson blasted a fading direct kick through a maze of players at RHAM goalie Tim Cavanaugh. The RHAM keeper dove forward and made the save, but the ball scoted loose into a flock of young Bolton players who were picking up playing time. None could convert and the ball was finally cleared, giving RHAM its eighth shutout.

Right wing Dan Keefe scored two of RHAM's goals, his second the prettiest of the five. Driving down the right side with a nice feint from John Ratti, Keefe went in as far as possible on Halobardo. The Bolton keeper committed, diving forward, and Keefe blasted it to the short side for a 2-0 RHAM halftime lead.

The Sachems' other pure tally came only 50 seconds into the second half. Winger Dan Allard, who had three assists on the day, banged a shot at Halobardo, who managed to deflect it off the left post. Scott Kopac was alone in front to pick up the ricochet, draining the Bolton hopes for a comeback.

Pablo Rexha and Dave Gúmas accounted for RHAM's other scores.

Boyd complimented the play of fullback Will Klesman, who had the unenviable task of playing Keefe's shadow much of the time.

"He did a heckuva job," said

Boyd. "He matched up with Keefe and held his own against him."

Both coaches also had kind words for Ferguson, who remains tied with Moore for the Bolton team lead in goals with five.

"He's really consistent every game," said Boyd, who had to move Ferguson, normally a sweeper, to center half back in order to try and get some scoring with Moore out.

"My kids told me at halftime he (Ferguson) is as hard a player as they've had to face," said Zotta. "He's a nice ballplayer. He kept the ball underneath him so no one can get at it."

"It wasn't an afternoon for Bolton to hang their heads, not with RHAM's record. Perhaps Zotta paid the Bulldogs the best compliment: "Anything you beat a Ray Boyd-coached team, you're accomplishing something. They're very clean and good sportsmen."

The shutout's the thing — but the way Bolton hung in wasn't too bad either.

"They hit some balls hard here and there," said McGreggor. "Some fell short, two got out."

The other one that got out was Maddox's never-in-doubt shot into the bleachers.

"It fell great," said Maddox. "What can I say? The information we got on McGreggor is that he's a breaking ball pitcher and I thought that's what he would throw me. The first two times up he didn't throw any. Not one."

So Maddox was expecting a fastball the next time up. He got it, and he didn't waste it.

"I was sitting next to Joe on the bench after he made out his first time," said Philadelphia first baseman Pete Rose. "He said, 'Pete, they got me on a curveball and I'll hit it out, if he throws it again I'll hit it out. You can't throw too many curveballs to Joe Morgan. He doesn't bail out against lefties.'"

Clark may go to Pirates

SAN FRANCISCO — San Francisco general manager Tom Hunter says that there is a "50-50 chance" that the Giants might trade outfielder Jack Clark after the World Series is over.

He did not deny reports Tuesday that the team was close to a deal with Pittsburgh in August which would have sent Clark and reliever Gary Lavelle to the Pittsburgh Pirates in return for four players, including first baseman Jason Thompson and second baseman Johnny Ray.

The other two Pirates in the deal were believed to be outfielder Lee Lacy and sealpaw reliever Rod Scurry.

Celt trio scores 20 in win

INGLEWOOD, Calif. — Larry Bird, Cedric Maxwell and Dennis Johnson each scored 20 points Tuesday night, leading the Boston Celtics to a 121-103 pre-season victory over the Los Angeles Lakers.

Mike McGee led the Lakers with 20 points. Los Angeles played without five probable members of their regular season roster, including Abdul Jabbar, Sven Nader, Kurt Rambis, rookie Byron Scott and James Worley.

English appealing to play

NEW ORLEANS — Attorneys for Tulane quarterback Jon English say they will appeal today to the Louisiana Supreme Court in a last-ditch effort to overturn the NCAA's ruling that the transfer student is ineligible.

A state appeals court Tuesday ruled 2-1 against continuing a temporary restraining order that has allowed English to perform in each of the six Tulane games this fall.

The NCAA ruled the senior quarterback ineligible because he did not sit out a year during a transfer from Iowa State to Tulane, where his father is head coach.

English has claimed he fulfilled that requirement during an earlier transfer from Michigan State to Iowa State. He also has attended junior colleges in Pittsburgh and New Orleans.

Can Studley stop the streak?

HOUSTON — The Houston Oilers will seek to avert their 14th straight loss with their 11th coach in 23 years at the helm, and new head coach Chuck Studley is both shocked and excited by the prospect.

Studley, a career assistant coach, was named Tuesday as interim head coach of the Oilers to replace Ed Biles, who resigned Monday.

"I'm still a little shocked by the way this happened," said Studley, who will seek to stop the Oilers' winless streak Sunday against the Minnesota Vikings.

Cards' Dierdorf retiring

ST. LOUIS — All-Pro lineman Dan Dierdorf says his decision to retire from the St. Louis Cardinals at the end of this season fulfills a promise he made to himself when he entered the NFL 13 years ago.

"I always told myself that when it got to the point where I couldn't maintain my level of play, I wouldn't try to kid myself or fool the coaching staff or Mr. Bidwell," Dierdorf, 34, said at a news conference Tuesday. "I realize that point has come."

Dierdorf, who was selected an All-Pro six times during his career, said he made the decision this would be his final season before the team reported to training camp.

Tekulve to try market

PITTSBURGH — Pittsburgh Pirate relief pitcher Kent Tekulve plans to file for free agency next month because he received what he considers an unsatisfactory contract offer, a newspaper has reported.

Tekulve, 36, a six-year veteran, said from his home in Pittsburgh he would have, "no other choice" but to try the free agent market. The Pittsburgh Post-Gazette reported today.

Bullets sign Malone

LANDOVER, Md. — Jeff Malone, the Washington Bullets' No. 1 pick in the 1983 NBA draft and the nation's third-leading collegiate scorer, has signed a contract with the NBA club.

The 6-foot-4 guard from Mississippi State signed after holding out for several weeks, general manager Bob Ferry said Tuesday.

Winters' jersey retired

MILWAUKEE — The Milwaukee Bucks said Tuesday they will retire Brian Winters' jersey number, No. 32, during halftime ceremonies of the club's home opener Oct. 28 against the Atlanta Pacers.

Winters, 31, played eight of his nine NBA seasons with the club. A sharpshooting guard, he scored more than 10,000 points in his career and had a career high of 43 points in 1976 against Portland.

"I'm genuinely excited about the Bucks' decision to retire my number," Winters, who announced his retirement this summer.

Nets give up on Richardson

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. — Michael Ray Richardson, a three-time All-Star who has been treated for cocaine abuse twice in the last four months, Tuesday was waived by the New Jersey Nets after failing to appear at an assigned rehabilitation center.

Richardson, 28, was placed on waivers by the Nets after the 6-foot-5 point guard failed to show at a rehabilitation center chosen by the Life Extension Institute, an organization used by the NBA to help players with personal problems.

Royals may be investigated

KANSAS CITY, Kan. — A special federal grand jury scheduled to meet Monday will consider a cocaine investigation that possibly involves members of the Kansas City Royals, U.S. Attorney James Marquez said Tuesday.

Marquez in August confirmed that former Royals pitcher Vida Blue was one of "less than 10" baseball players being interviewed for alleged cocaine abuse in Johnson County. He did not, however, say the drug probe involves people other than baseball players.

Newspaper reports, though Marquez never confirmed them, said Royals players Willie Aikens, Jerry Martin and U.L. Washington also were named in documents tied to the cocaine investigation.

Coventry edges winless Tech

Cheney Tech played an even game with the Coventry Patriots everywhere but on the scoreboard Tuesday.

In dropping a 3-1 boys' soccer decision to the visitors, Cheney falls to 0-8 on the year. Tech coach Paul Soucy called the game even, only increasing his frustration in not winning.

"They scored on two throw-ins and an indirect kick," said Soucy. "The score should have been 0-3." Even Dan Wright's second half goal for Cheney tally came when his corner bounced off a fullback and into the Coventry net. Steve Lewja, registered two goals and Eric Wisniewski the third for Coventry, 3-4.

Wright was the only player Soucy would mention as having played an "excellent" game. Cheney used two goalies to combine for 12 saves while Coventry's Peter Palmer made 10 saves. Coventry outshot Cheney, 22-15.

East again

It was a first for the East Catholic boys' soccer team in 1983. Don't panic — it wasn't a loss; the defense just buckled slightly and allowed its first goal of the year. Despite the surprise tally, East Catholic, now 7-0-1, still defeated Bristol Central, 3-1, as Pat Loneragan, John King and Lewis Lester scored to overcome Bristol's early 1-0 advantage.

"After giving up the goal, the players showed great intensity and desire to come back," said East coach Tom Malin. "They showed me a great deal of courage and pride."

East's first score came five minutes after Central's goal 10 minutes into the first half on Loneragan's 12-yard direct kick. The winner came 1:45 into the second half when John Furey made nice cross to King, who volleyed the ball from close range. Lester tally came on a penalty shot after he was pulled down in the penalty area. The goal gave him a team-leading six for the year.

Coventry girls fall

COVENTRY — The Coventry girls' soccer team fell under the domination of E.O. Smith Tuesday, falling 4-1 after scoring the game's first goal.

Dana Kurtz had the Patriots' goal, scoring on a breakthrough 10 minutes into the contest. Smith goes to 4-5 while Coventry falls to 3-2-4.

Bolton nipped

HARTFORD — It was the perfect opportunity for the Bolton girls' soccer team to gain its first victory. Unfortunately, the Bulkeley girls had something else in mind.

Bolton found themselves in an even-tussle with Bulkeley but couldn't convert its chances, falling to Bulkeley 2-1 Tuesday.

All the scoring came in the second half. Barbara Lynch scored twice around Bolton's Dawn Howe, who took a pass off a direct kick from Dawn Howe and headed it home.

Bulkeley won only its second game in eight tries while Bolton falls to 0-7.

Cross Country

Cheney easily

The Cheney Tech cross country team allowed only two Coventry runners in the first half in a 16-47 win over the Patriots Tuesday at Wickham Park. The win moves Cheney to 8-3 while Coventry falls to 0-5.

Danny's stats down

What's wrong with White?

By Mike Robbin
UPI Sports Writer

DALLAS — Sooner or later it seems to happen with all quarterbacks and it is happening again to Danny White. The more pressure there is on the one who plays for Dallas — even though the Cowboys are the only unbeaten team in the National Football League.

What's wrong — the question is being asked — with Danny White? While his interception stats are good, the more times you are hit, the more interceptions you throw.

"Danny took a tremendous beating in that (Tampa Bay) game," Landry said. "And he survived it all right. I'm not really concerned that he won't correct the situation."

Though White was going through his third straight tough afternoon last Sunday, Landry said he never considered changing quarterbacks something he admitted to thinking about during a recent break the club record of 25, which White owns jointly with Eddie Lebrun.

"Sure," said Dallas coach Tom Landry. "we're always concerned about so is Danny. A lot of things have been happening to him — some on his part and some on the receivers and some on the pass protection."

"You work with him more and try to straighten out what he is doing," the coach said. "He will come through it as most good quarterbacks do. Roger (Staubach) would have a lot of interceptions sometimes and then he would shut it down."

"Danny is just going through a siege of interceptions right now and we need to correct all the things that are causing them. The pass protection needs to be better, the routes need to be a little better and his decision needs to be a little better. It's a little bit of everything."

Mancini-Chacon in doubt

By Donno Boloncio
UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK — The promoter for the world boxing title fight between champion Ray Mancini and Bobby Chacon said Tuesday the bout has been postponed from November until February.

But Mancini's manager, David Wolf, said Tuesday night has not been told of the postponement and may not agree to the new date.

Promoter Robert Andreoli announced the postponement, saying problems of finding a suitable site for the bout prompted the change. The development caught Wolf by surprise.

"They haven't told us yet," he said. "We had a contract to fight between November 18 and December 12. He (Andreoli) spoke to us last week and asked whether we

Isles triumph; Bossy injured

By Mike Bourne
UPI Sports Writer

An injury to Vancouver goalie John Garrett may have cost the Canucks a game. The one to Mike Bossy Tuesday night may cost the New York Islanders a bit more.

Bossy received the Lady Byng Trophy, symbolic of his gentlemanly play last year, in pre-game ceremonies honoring the four-time Stanley Cup champions. However, he didn't stay around too long after the presentation.

The right wing, who scored 60 goals last season, went down after taking a shot in the second period during New York's 5-2 victory over Los Angeles. He suffered a pulled hip muscle and will be out indefinitely.

Meanwhile, Garrett suffered a deep gash over his left eyebrow when he was hit squarely on the mask by Guy Chouinard's shot just 7:25 into St. Louis' 3-1 triumph. His injury is not believed to be as serious.

Garrett was replaced by Richard Brodeur, who permitted power play goals to Rob Ramage (on the first shot he faced) and later to Brian Sutter. "That can be tough on a goalie (to come in and not be ready)," said Blues' netminder Mike Liut.

"If you can get by the first five or six minutes, then you're usually all right and it's not any different than if you started the game. Maybe if he had stopped that first goal he wouldn't have given up any."

Garrett, who received nearly 20 stitches, later returned to the bench, but coach Roger Nelson doubts he will be able to play tonight in Chicago. At Uniondale, N.Y., the Islanders struck quickly when Clark Gillies scored 2:26 into the contest and Wayne Merrick scored less than five minutes later. Anders Kallur and John Tonelli made it 4-0 before Jim Fox and Charlie Simmer tallied for the Kings, 0-4.

Bob Bourne, who scored short-handed for the Islanders' final goal, said he was inspired by the pre-game festivities.

"It just reminds you what it's all about," he said. "Sometimes over the summer the feeling slips away a little bit. All you have to look forward to is nine months of hard work again. When you see that flag go up, the adrenaline starts flowing and it is just reminding you what the whole season is all about."

Blues 3, Canucks 2

At St. Louis, Sutter gave the Blues a 2-0 lead and then set up Andre Dore for a 2-0 advantage. Liut lost his shutout 6:58 into the third period when Darcy Rota scored for Vancouver. Tony Tanti also scored for the Canucks with 61 seconds remaining. His sixth of the year.

Phillies, O's also facing rain and wind

By Pohio Smith
UPI Sports Writer

BALTIMORE — The Philadelphia Phillies had to beat both the Baltimore Orioles and the weather in Game 1 of the World Series, and they just may have to battle the same duo again in Game 2 scheduled for tonight.

Steady drizzle and baffling winds challenged the defenses and hitting of both teams Tuesday night, turning the contest won 3-1 by Philadelphia into a pitchers' duel decided by Garry Maddox' game-winning line-drive homer in the eighth inning.

More of the same was forecast for Game 2, scheduled for 8:20 p.m., with the National Weather Service predicting a 70 percent chance of rain.

"It's too bad we had to play in these conditions," Phillies third baseman Mike Schmidt said. "Of course, both teams had to play in the weather. But it's still a shame."

Schmidt said those wind-aided outs included the fly ball into center that was made in his first-two at bats and a fly ball by Bo Diaz that Baltimore left fielder John Lowenstein caught above the wall right after Maddox's home run.

"Line drives were the only things not affected by the wind," said Phillies left fielder Gary Matthews. "The wind out there tonight was like it was when I was playing in Candelstick (Park in San Francisco)."

"What the wind did was make the high balls drop down. I'm an old pro at playing out there. That's what being with the Giants at Candelstick taught you."

Matthews' Candelstick experience may make him into a pre-game clubhouse Dear Abby should the winds and rain show up as expected tonight.

"I never did figure them out," said Philadelphia first baseman Pete Rose. "It made some balls carry and held others back."

Neither team complained that the game was played without any rain delays, but some Phillies, accustomed to playing on artificial turf, admitted to being tentative on the rain-slicked grass field.

"It was tricky," said Maddox, Green River county's son, who wants to fall down.

Fortunately, for both teams, the superb pitching by starter John Denny and reliever Al Holland, who picked up a save, helped limit the chances of mishaps.

Denny gave up just five hits over 7-23 innings and Holland none the rest of the way. Denny struck out five and Holland one.

"The wind was a real ballgame for Denny, and Al pitched super too," Schmidt said.

Baltimore catcher Rick Dempsey appears bewildered by all the goings-on in the 1983 World Series.

Maddox has more on mind than World Series heroics

By Mike Robbin
UPI Sports Writer

BALTIMORE — Garry Maddox always has struck me as one of the most polite and gentle-mannered players I've ever met. He has usually given me the impression he's rather sad, and I never really knew why but I do now.

It has nothing to do with baseball. It's much more important than that. Most certainly, there is a life apart from baseball and this could be the reason why the Phillies introspective 34-year-old center fielder often seems pensive and somber.

Nobody among the Phillies knows Garry Maddox better than Gary Matthews. They played together in the minors, and with the Giants, and they've known each other since they were kids. They're not only friends, they're more like two brothers.

You should've seen Matthews on the Phillies bench when Maddox led off the eighth inning with that homer of his that beat the Orioles, 2-1, in Tuesday night's rain-dampened World Series opener. He was glowing. He also was the first one out of the dugout to greet Maddox.

Matthews says Maddox would give you the shirk of his back.

"He has an Andre Dawson personality," Matthews was saying in front of his locker about Maddox, who hadn't returned to the clubhouse yet from the interview area. "He's quiet and not rah-rah. If you leave him alone, he'll have a helluva year for you. He doesn't show much emotion, so some people have trouble understanding him, but I don't."

"I guarantee you when he comes in here, it won't be with a big head or a smile."

When Maddox finally did get back to the Phillies dressing room, he was composed, quietly happy but rather subdued and unsmiling.

Maddox DOES have a burden, what could be a deadly serious one. And the only reason he talked about it at all Tuesday night was because it came up in the course of my conversation with him.

Maddox, who is 34, was in Vietnam. He was a corporal in the Americal division, which served at Chu Lai.

While Maddox was there, the U.S. armed forces used a defoliant called Agent Orange as part of their chemical warfare to scorch the countryside of everything that was growing. If you don't know about Agent Orange, ask any Vietnam veteran about it.

It mustard gas was the scourge of World War I, then Agent Orange has turned out to be the most dreaded chemical substance utilized in the Vietnam conflict.

Statistical evidence indicates Agent Orange may be responsible for eventually inducing cancer and affecting the reproductive process of those who were exposed to it. The evidence is so strong that a group of Vietnam veterans are petitioning the government for relief for all Agent Orange victims.

Garry Maddox fears worrying he is one of the victims. He has good reason for his concern.

"When I got back from Vietnam in 1970, I noticed three bumps on my stomach," the Phillies eight-time Gold Glove winner said. "I had them taken out and the doctor told me they were not malignant."

"But I've got 60 bumps on my body now. Look at them." Maddox said, showing me the protruberances all over his arms and upper body. "They don't hurt, but they make you think."

When I asked Maddox point-blank if he believes

WORLD SERIES 1983

Denny equal to the hype

By Don Cronin
UPI Sports Writer

BALTIMORE — John Denny convinced the Baltimore Orioles Tuesday night that all they had heard about his best major league season wasn't just hype.

Denny allowed just five hits and walked no one in nearly eight innings to hurl the Philadelphia Phillies to a 2-1 victory in the opening game of the World Series.

After Jim Dwyer's first-inning home run, Denny retired 18 of the next 20 Orioles. He left after Al Bumby's two-out double in the eighth, but not soon enough to suit the Orioles.

"You have to give most of the credit to Denny," said Orioles shortstop Cal Ripken, who sandwiched a groundout and a strikeout around an opposite-field single to right off Denny. "After Jim Dwyer's first-inning home run, he backed down and didn't come close to giving up much else."

"It's a smart pitcher. You try to watch him and try to figure out what you might get, but then you get something different. It's like he knows what you're thinking."

Ripken also was impressed with Philadelphia's right-handed reliever Al Holland, who got him to pop to short leading off the ninth.

"It's tough to see the ball off Holland," said Ripken. "I don't know if it's his motion or the way he hides the ball or what. But his motion is slow and he's slow on top of the rubber. Then, all of a sudden, the ball is on you in a hurry."

Dwyer became the 18th player to hit a home run in his first World Series plate appearance when he drilled a Denny fast ball over the 376-foot sign in right field for the Orioles' only run.

"I just hit a ball good that he didn't get where he wanted," said Dwyer. "The rest of the way, he was as tough as anyone you can face."

Losing pitcher Scott McGregor gave up home runs to Joe Morgan and Garry Maddox before leaving in the eighth.

"They hit a couple of mistakes, but you expect mistakes to get hit when you get this far," said McGregor.

The philosophical left-hander was disappointed but not upset over his second-straight 2-1 post-season loss. McGregor absorbed the Orioles' only loss to the Chicago White Sox in the American League playoffs.

Green magic

Parsley's not just for garnish anymore!

By Susan Pless Herald Reporter

Parsley, that garnish that comes with your steak and potato when you eat in a restaurant...

There are more than 30 varieties of parsley, but American cooks are probably most familiar with the tight, curly-leaved parsley...

THE FLAT LEAF parsley is prized by cooks, for it has a fuller, richer flavor than its smaller cousin...

But the Greeks and Romans also used a wealth of parsley to ward off intoxication...

TODAY, IT IS said that parsley sweetens the breath. But there are other reasons to partake of the leafy herb...

At Cavey's Restaurant on 45 E. Center St., not a dish is served without a garnish of parsley...

Fair ladies of South outdo the Candy Man

By Barbara Richmond Herald Reporter

'I bet there are few people who didn't think, as children, that the ideal job would be one in a candy factory...

Last week they had their first work session. After testing several samples, people in the editorial department at the Manchester Herald decided they'll try to be first in line at the fair...

The ladies say that the no-fail chocolate fudge is the mainstay of the candy booth...

THE DAY BEFORE the fair the fudge is cut and weighed. Some is packed into pound boxes and some into half-pound boxes...

The fondant centers that will include Fudge, Grandmother's Light Penuche, it is creamy and delicious and slightly rich...

Spicy appetizer a winner with chili

By Allen Claire
NEA Food Editor

A well-seasoned fruit appetizer will wake up your taste buds. One, which is a melange of fruit, replies upon either curry or a combination of coriander, turmeric, cumin and ground ginger. This certainly is a different way to begin a meal. And, a different type of chili also relies upon a change of ingredients from the Texas meat and spices. This one is served atop sliced bananas, an unusual but good way to enjoy your chili.

Spicy fruit appetizer and chili on bananas.

Curried Fruit Appetizer

1/4 cup chopped onion
1 clove garlic, minced
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon coriander
1 teaspoon turmeric
1/2 teaspoon cumin
1/2 teaspoon ground ginger
1/2 teaspoon dry mustard
1/2 teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons vinegar
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1/2 teaspoon honey
1/4 cup tomato juice
2 apples, cored and cut into cubes
2 pears, cored and cut into cubes
1/2 cup halved, seeded grapes
6 bananas
In large saucepan, mix onion, garlic, salt, coriander, turmeric, cumin, ginger, dry mustard, pepper, vinegar, lemon juice, honey and tomato juice. Place over low heat, cover and simmer 15 minutes. Cool in large bowl; combine apples, pears and grapes. Peel bananas and slice. Add fruit and mix lightly. Add curry sauce just before serving. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 6 servings.

Rocky Road Fudge

1 6-ounce package chocolate bits
1 6-ounce square unsweetened chocolate
1 tablespoon butter
2 eggs
1/4 cups confectioners sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 cups salted peanuts
2 cups miniature marshmallows
Melt first three ingredients in saucepan over low heat, stirring until smooth. Remove from heat. Beat eggs until foamy. Mix in sugar, salt and vanilla. Blend in chocolate mixture. Stir in peanuts and marshmallows. Spread in 8-inch pan. Chill in refrigerator.

Creamy Fondant

3 cups granulated sugar
1 cup whole milk
1 cup heavy cream
4 tablespoons butter or margarine
1/2 teaspoon cream of tartar
1 teaspoon flavoring
Ground nuts, optional
In large saucepan combine all ingredients except the flavoring and nuts. Stir until sugar is moistened. Place over high heat and bring to a boil. Cook without stirring, lowering heat slightly as mixture thickens. Cook to exactly 238 degrees. Pour mixture onto a marble slab until it cools to lukewarm. Then work or paddle it with a spatula until it cools and gets creamy. Then knead with hands, adding flavoring such as vanilla, orange, raspberry, strawberry or peppermint. Nuts can also be added, if desired, along with food coloring to correspond with the flavoring. Then form into a big ball and let it rest until it's cool. Then form into 3/4-inch balls. Dip into melted chocolate. Buy the special chocolate for dipping. It comes in a great variety of colors. The fondant recipe makes about 125 centers.

Dilly rice salad a terrific dish

By Allen Claire
NEA Food Editor
1/4 cup sliced celery
1/4 cup thinly sliced green onions, including tops
1/4 cup cider vinegar
1/4 cup vegetable oil
1 tablespoon sugar
1/4 teaspoon powdered mustard
1/4 teaspoon dill weed
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon ground black pepper
Combine rice, beans, carrot, celery and green onions in large mixing bowl. Blend remaining ingredients, toss lightly with rice mixture. Chill. Serve on fresh greens, if desired. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 6 servings.

A rice salad with red kidney beans, carrot, celery and green onions makes an easy, nutritious entree.

Precede it with hot soup, such as tomato bisque or Manhattan clam chowder, and top off the meal with an apricot upside down cake.

Dilly Rice Salad

3 cups cooked rice, cooled
1 can (15 ounces) red kidney beans, rinsed and drained
1 medium carrot, chopped
Flatten chicken breasts one at a time by pounding evenly with a mallet. In the center of each breast, place one tablespoon of butter topped with a teaspoon of chopped parsley and a teaspoon of chopped chives. Roll the breast neatly, tucking in the corners, so none of the filling is visible. Fasten with toothpicks. Dip each breast in beaten egg, then roll in bread crumbs. Place on a rack in the refrigerator for at least an hour. Breasts may be deep fried, but a simpler method is to place them side by side in a greased shallow casserole pan. Bake at 375 degrees for 30 to 40 minutes, or until browned. Rolls may be basted with melted butter, if desired.

This salad is a flavorful and different meal in itself. Chock full of nutritious ingredients, it's an easy way to feed a healthy family.

Not just a garnish anymore

These hard-shelled beauties offer a good supply of Vitamin A the enjoyable way. Acorn squash, for example, often is baked and filled with a meat or vegetable filling. This version has a grape filling with a special sauce.

Parsley Bread

1 16-ounce loaf French bread
1 stick butter or margarine
1/4 cup grated parmesan cheese
1/2 cup chopped green onions
1/4 cup chopped fresh parsley
Split bread horizontally down the middle. Spread each half with the butter or margarine, and lightly sprinkle with cheese, onions and parsley. Put the loaf back together again, wrap tightly in foil, and heat in a 350 degree oven for about 20 minutes. Good accompaniment to steak.

Parsley Spread

2 cups parsley
1 minced garlic clove
3 tablespoons minced fresh basil (or 1 teaspoon dried)
1/2 cup fresh orange juice
2 tablespoons red wine vinegar
2 tablespoons olive oil
1/4 cup red pimento
3 tablespoons capers
Combine all ingredients in a blender or food processor. Use to garnish fish or as a spread for crackers.

Cheese Balls

8 ounces cream cheese
1 teaspoon chopped chives
1 teaspoon prepared horseradish
1/4 teaspoon paprika
1/4 teaspoon salt
chopped parsley
Mix cream cheese with remaining ingredients, except parsley. Chill well. When chilled, roll the mixture into small balls and roll into chopped parsley, coating well. Serve on picks as an hors d'oeuvre.

Braised Pig's Hocks

Grapes and sauce fill seasonal baked acorn squash. They are a good source of Vitamin A, as well.

Braised Pig's Hocks

Arrange 6 meaty pig's hocks in a braising pan on a bed of 2 sliced onions, 12 cloves of fresh garlic, unpeeled, 1 rib of fennel and 1 tablespoon chopped fresh dill (or 1 teaspoon dried dill). Add 1 1/2 cups dry white wine. Cover and braise in a 300-degree oven; reduce heat to 250 degrees and cook for a further 1 1/2 hours, or until tender. Serve with plain boiled potatoes or with crusty French bread and a salad.

Jeweled Acorn Squash

4 acorn squash
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 tablespoons flour
1/2 cup fresh orange juice
2 tablespoons fresh lemon juice
1/4 cup brown sugar, firmly packed
1/4 cup halved, seeded dark grapes
1/4 cup halved, green seedless grapes
Cut squash in half lengthwise and scoop out seeds. Place cut-side down in shallow baking dish with 1/2-inch water. Bake in 375-degree oven 45 minutes, or until squash is tender. In small saucepan, melt butter; blend in flour; stir in orange juice, lemon juice, brown sugar, salt and pepper. Cook, stirring constantly, until sauce boils and thickens. Add grapes; heat through. To serve, spoon sauce over squash. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 8 servings.

Party Franks and Kraut

8 frankfurters
8 strips American cheese
8 strips Swiss cheese
8 split frankfurter rolls
1 cup sliced onion rings
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
3 cups drained sauerkraut
Split frankfurters lengthwise without cutting through bottoms. Insert cheese strips. Place frankfurters on grill and cook 4 to 5 minutes. At the same time, toast the frankfurter rolls; set aside.

Kraut and Frankfurter Skillet

3 to 4 tablespoons vegetable oil
3 cups frozen hash brown potatoes
2 cups drained sauerkraut
1 cup canned whole onions
1/2 cup red pepper strips
Dash pepper
Heat oil in large skillet over medium-high heat. Add hash brown potatoes. Cook 8 minutes.

Knuckles and bones: eat them with relish

Most of us eat knuckles with great relish. Pig's knuckles, for example, which are sometimes called known as pig's hocks, are popular with the Germans, the French (particularly the Alsaticans), the Pennsylvanians, Dutch and the Pennsylvania Germans. Pig's knuckles or hocks and sauerkraut has long been a gem of gastronomy, albeit bourgeois gastronomy — this dish can hardly be considered haute cuisine.

It's cooked slowly in a well-flavored broth with perhaps a little white wine, peppercorns, onions, garlic, sage or thyme and a dash of vinegar until just tender (overcooking is a grave error; the meat becomes stringy and raggedy) and allowed to cool. This dish is just delicious. I like to pull the meat off the bones, arrange it in a dish and dress it with a pungent vinaigrette. Chilled well, it makes a marvelous first course.

Beard on Food

Beard runs too big to do a braised knuckle, but the tail, in the form of braised oxtail, can be superb. I like it slowly braised in broth with onion and shallots, red wine and tomato paste. The sauce thickens and reduces, and is thoroughly lip-smacking. This is not a "politely" dish; you must eat it with your fingers. If you stop and think about it, the wing of a chicken or turkey is a kind of knuckle that becomes more popular with each passing week. People barbecue them on the outdoor grill. They braise them with vegetables. They are simply baked in the oven, like spareribs. The next time you see some good, fresh turkey wings at your market — they will be agreeably inexpensive — try this recipe.

Braised Turkey Wings Provençal

Heat 3 tablespoons butter in a braising pan or flameproof casserole and add 1 large onion, sliced, 2 carrots cut into julienne strips, 2 ribs of celery cut into julienne strips and 2 or 3 sprigs of parsley. Let them wilt a bit in the fat. Toss in 12 cloves of fresh garlic, peeled, and add 1 cup dry white wine, 2 tablespoons tomato paste, 1 teaspoon rosemary and some salt and freshly ground black pepper to taste. Arrange 4 turkey wings on top, cut in two and tips removed, and sprinkle with a little more salt and pepper. Cover and cook in a 350-degree oven for 1 to 1 1/2 hours, or until tender, removing the cover during the last 20 minutes so that the wings brown nicely. Serves 4.

Franks are sure to please when dressed up for a party

Hangry teens will go for a combination of franks, cheese, onions and sauerkraut after a full day of school. They are quick to prepare as is a kraut and frank skillet, which also includes hash brown potatoes and red pepper strips.

chopped onion or shallot, 2 teaspoons capers and 2 tablespoons chopped parsley. Marinate for several hours before serving.

The famous Italian dish of braised veal shanks, "osso bucco" (correctly that is ossa buchi), is another bourgeois dish of bones that is deservedly popular. The marrow from the center of the bones adds a very special dimension, and the tender, delicate meat in its rich sauce is set off by the classic gremolata, a last-minute seasoning of finely chopped garlic, finely chopped lemon peel and a good deal of finely chopped parsley. It is usually served with rice, but I find that it is equally good, if not better, served with pasta such as wagon wheels, or orzo, the rice-like pasta, or angel hair, that very fine spaghetti. This can form a nest for the veal when served.

Lamb shanks are very popular in the United States, particularly in places where Basque or Greek settlers have left their culinary mark. Once tasted, lamb shanks tend to become a firm favorite, so now they are popular all over the country. They are usually

Robert MacNeil says 'Newshour' appeal is laid back approach

By Julieanne Hostinas
United Press International

NEW YORK — One month down the road, PBS' Robert MacNeil believes the "MacNeil-Lehrer Newshour" is meeting its promises by continuing to provide live debriefings of key news sources while also updating the day's top stories.

"We were living proof that TV can be boring and get away with it," MacNeil quipped, referring to the old half-hour "MacNeil-Lehrer Report." "Now we're proving we can be twice as boring and get away with it."

"Newshour" premiered Sept. 5, the same night NBC and ABC both went to the solo-anchor format on their early evening news programs in an effort to catch up with CBS' ratings-winning Dan Rather.

Although "Newshour" has made no noticeable dent in network news viewership (in several major cities, a portion of the program competes with the half-hour network newscasts), MacNeil said audiences have increased in most TV markets.

Not that MacNeil and "Newshour" executive producer Lester Crystal really are that interested in ratings.

"I am constantly asked what the difference is between working for public and commercial TV," said Crystal, former president of NBC News. "For the first six months, I couldn't answer that because we were so busy organizing the show. "But now I know," Crystal told a recent meeting of the National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences.

"We are more concerned about how we are going to cover today's news, and how we are going to explain the ratings," Crystal said.

"Professionally, I have never had more fun," he said.

MacNeil said "Report" had an audience of 4 million who watched the show every night and 15 million who watched at least once a week. "We hope to encourage those once-a-week viewers to watch more often," he said.

Although the two men said there has not been any audience research done to determine the impact of the new program, MacNeil said that mail has been mostly favorable.

"We've had a maximum of 100 letters from people saying they're not watching the news because of scheduling or they wanted us to go on with the party of handling a single subject," MacNeil said.

Neither man was concerned about the prospects of competing with the commercial networks in the event that they also adopt hour-long formats.

"I always felt the networks were capable of doing an hour, but personally I doubt they ever will," Crystal said. "I couldn't answer that because we were so

Advice Woman won't hold her peace on a chauvinistic tradition

DEAR ABBY: I am a 38-year-old woman. When I was a young girl, I attended a formal wedding and was greatly enraged when I heard the minister ask, "Who gives this woman...?"

The question still arouses my anger, and I am amazed that more women are not insulted by this question — asked publicly yet!

Only the woman herself has the right to "give" herself to anyone, any time, for any reason.

I've finally begun to express defiantly my indignation when a bridegroom tells me she is going to be "given away" by her father or stepfather. Of course, I am a "nut" to even suggest that a woman belongs to no one out here!

"We're not selling the news. We're not hyping the news to make our look more important than the commercial networks." — MARGARET JONAS

DEAR MARGARET: The original marriage vows were written during biblical times when a woman was considered tried for six years, but it was never forgiven. I considered leaving Barry to find a man who could love me and adopt a child with me — one way or another.

Last August I went with my wife to her 42nd high school reunion. I figured it was her class and her party. On my name tag I wrote "MR. Mary Smith" and just wandered around in the crowd.

The affair lasted two days, through five o'clock hours. I had a cocktail hour, talked with many people, didn't skip any of the events and didn't go sit in the lobby. JUST LOVE US REUNIONS

When combatting foot odor, let's have first things first

DEAR DR. LAMB: I wanted to make a point about foot odor. First and foremost, the dead skin of the underside of the feet needs to be removed by vigorously scrubbing with a scrub brush or any other method so desired. You have to do this to remove the cause of the odor.

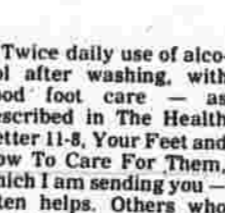

Dead skin isn't perfume. So the next time you write about someone's complaint on feet, you know the answer.

DEAR READER: I appreciate your suggestion and it is a good one. Did you ever stop to ask why dead skin isn't perfume? Dead skin isn't perfumy, but the callouses, but the callouses on your hands do not smell.

The reason is that dead skin is a good place for bacteria to grow. Much of the odor that people find objectionable from the feet and other locations is from bacteria just under the horny outer layer of the skin. You can't see the bacteria, but they are there. You know them by the smell they cause.

You can't wash off the bacteria because they are protected from the soap by the superficial skin cells. Some soaps are better than others at penetrating the thick layer and stopping the odor.

But certainly removing the callouses or dead skin is helpful in getting rid of the place where bacteria may persist. So by all means those who have such build-ups can and should remove them with a brush, a pumice stone, or whatever, at the time the feet are washed and the dead skin is softened and easy to remove.

Kids' cartoons mask commercials

By Sydney Shaw
United Press International

WASHINGTON — Children who watch certain cartoon shows are being subjected to "program-length commercials" not real programs, a Children's television watchdog group says.

Action for Children's Television wants the Federal Communications Commission to order stations to log cartoon shows such as "Pac-Man" and "Smurfs" as commercials. Such logging would effectively force the programs off the air because TV stations that carry more than 16 minutes of commercial time per hour face a full FCC review to renew their licenses.

Peggy Charren, president of Action for Children's Television, said the characters

Supermarket shopper

Companies appreciate couponers

By Martin Sloane
United Feature Syndicate

What do manufacturers think of coupons and "coupon clippers"? Do the national brand companies have a positive attitude about coupons, and do they really appreciate sales clerks and buyers who support their products against the supermarket house brands and lower quality generics? These are questions that coupon clippers often wonder about.

To get some answers, I called several dozen manufacturers and here is a sampling of the replies I received.

"We believe that coupons are an important marketing tool. They provide us with an opportunity to encourage consumers to try new products and to stimulate the purchase of established products because of savings that go directly to the consumer." — W. Lee Abbott, vice president marketing services, Nabisco Brands.

"Coupons are an excellent way for consumers to try our products. We have helped consumers by eliminating expiration dates on our coupons, so consumers can use them when they fit into their purchasing plans. We hope that consumers will do their part by being honest and thoughtful about using our coupons." — Katherine Smith, vice president consumer affairs, Quaker Oats Co.

"Our coupon users are careful shoppers. We find these are people who also use shopping lists. They do a lot of planning, and coupons are part of this planning. We therefore feel coupons are a good idea. They also allow us to pass along savings directly to the consumer." — Bill Blodgett, director of corporate relations, Hunt-Wesson.
