RICHARD RUSSELL ... store's a political first stop

By Richard March
United Press International

KEENE, N.H. — Ronald Russell's campaign button board — plastered with some 600 in memoriam of political hopes — is becoming a routine stop on the first-in-the-nation presidential primary trail.

It rests on a wall near the back of his Main Street clothing store in this southwestern New Hampshire city. For about 30 years, candidates ranging from the obscure to the historically secure have dropped by to pin their buttons into the cork board.

"They come from people who drizzle through here over the course of the years," says Russell, gazing at the cluttered surface that reads like a crash course in political slogans.

In one corner there's a patriotic pitch from former Alabama Gov. George Wallace, requesting voters to "Stand up for America." In another there's "LBJ for the USA" that alternately flashes images of a grim-faced Lyndon Johnson and a map of the lower 48 states.

"That's a double blinder," explains Russell. "You don't see many of them anymore. They're so expensive."

Of all the candidates, Richard Nixon leads the list of contributors. His numerous buttons dot the board, spelling out his political resume.

On one side there's "Let's clean house like Ike and Dick." On another side is a "Nixon-Lodge" button shaped like a small egg and studded with pearls.

"I couldn't tell you if they're real," says Russell, who occasionally smiles when a certain button triggers a certain memory.

"There," he says, pointing to a dignified button from former Michigan Gov. George Romney. "He gave me that off his lapel."

Some of the buttons represent special interest groups. Former Vice President Nelson Rockefeller has one pledging "Nurses for Nelson." Another button supports former Vice President Spiro Agnew. "Write in Agnew."

During his 30 or so years of collecting buttons, Russell has met dozens of presidential hopefuls.

"It's literally been in the hundreds — serious and non-serious," he says. "The easiest to talk to, the most intelligent was Jimmy Carter — no ifs, ands or buts about it. He just softly related to you."

Russell admits he has a preference for Democrats. His wife, Pat, served several terms as a Democratic state representative and has held a number of tea parties for state and presidential candidates.

Hubert Humphrey stands out in Russell's estimation as "a real tactician," and he remembers Estes Kefauver as "an old smoothie."

But one of his fondest memories is of an Oklahoma hopeful whose legacy never spread much farther than Russell's board. Russell recalls that Rick Lowenherz came up from Tulsa eight years and "froze his butt off" during his short-lived presidential bid.

"It's interesting to talk with them all," says Russell, whose button collection includes contributions from statewide candidates.

He says he has had a life-long interest in politics but prefers to remain an observer. He has also encouraged his four sons and one daughter to keep an eye on politics.

"When you raise a family, some good things to keep them together are sports and politics," says Russell. "I brought my children up to be very concerned citizens. If they do not vote, they do not deserve to talk about it."

Revelations and a song

Alexander Haig Jr., who reportedly resigned from the Reagan administration under pressure, has written a book about his tenure as secretary of state. Barry Manilow will sing the "Star Spangled Banner" at the start of Super Bowl XVIII this coming Sunday.

Quote of the day

Lee Iacocca may be the best-known executive in America — or is he? Tom Brokaw and an NBC crew spent much of last summer preparing an NBC Reports special, "Iacocca: An American Profile," to air Jan. 29. Brokaw said: "The private Lee Iacocca is not very well known to the American public. He is a man whose public image is that of a hard-driving businessman for the resurging Chrysler Corporation. The private Lee Iacocca, however, can vary often be altogether different. He can be shy, sensitive and old-fashioned. He is extremely close to his family and calls them every day, often twice a day, just as his late father called him every day. For a big-time, hard-driving businessman he really is, at the core of it all, an old-fashioned Italian patriarch."

Richard Dawson's feud

Not all the fighting on "Family Feud" is done on-camera, according to TV Guide. And some of it involves the magazine itself. The cover of the Jan. 21 issue of the magazine pictures game show hosts Pat Sajak, Monty Hall, Bob Barker, Jack Barry, Bill Cullen and Wink Martindale. Notably absent is the host of one of TV's hottest games, Richard Dawson of "Family Feud." TV Guide, in a story unfavorable to Dawson, says Dawson refused to be interviewed without a guarantee his picture would be on the cover — alone. Dawson's press representative, Leonard Grainger, told UPI that was "totally untrue." "I'm the one who turned it down," he said, "and I thought I did it very graciously. We did not choose to be interviewed." He said it is Dawson's policy to be "very selective" and he almost never gives interviews.

Michael Landon Lady Diana

Triple casting

Robert Parker has three top actors playing his fictional detective, Spenser — and he is particularly interested in the casting because the character is based on himself. Parker, who lives in Lynnfield, Mass., is pleased with the choice of TV honk Tom Selleck to play Spenser in the movie version of his mystery novel "Early Autumn," but shy at the comparison. "Someone tactlessly suggested that I not stand too close to him... I hope he's short," Parker said. Meanwhile, Spenser in the television version of Parker's novel "Ceremony" will be played by ex-MASHer Mike Farrell, while Richard Dreyfuss has been assigned to play the sleuth's role in the film version of Parker's novel "Hiderses."

When Lady Diana married Prince Charles, she requested that all his trouser pockets be sewn tight because she didn't think his hands-in-his-pockets habit was in keeping with a royal image. That's one of the tidbits dug out by Robin Leach, who will host and direct the second two-hour edition of the syndicated TV show, "Lifestyles of the Rich and Famous." Leach also learned while taping the show that the Princess of Wales makes a rule to spend 5 a.m. to 7 a.m. uninterrupted with her son, William, during which time she also exercises to Jane Fonda's workout tape. Other rich and famous types on the TV special include Morgan Fairchild, Cher, Donald Trump, Stefanie Powers, Robert Wagner, Jill St. John, Michael Landon and David Hasselhoff.

Almanac

Today is Monday, Jan. 16, the 16th day of 1984 with 349 to follow. The moon is approaching its full phase.

The morning stars are Mercury, Venus, Mars, Jupiter and Saturn. There is no evening star.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Capricorn. They include German philosopher Franz Brentano in 1858, Andre Michelin, the French industrialist who first mass-produced rubber automobile tires, in 1853, and singer Ethel Merman in 1899.

On this date in history:
In 1920, the United States went legally "dry" as prohibition of alcoholic beverages became effective under the 18th amendment to the constitution. It was repealed in 1933.

In 1925, Leon Trotsky was dismissed as chairman of the Russian Revolution Military Council.

In 1942, screen star Carol Lombard, her mother and 20 other people were killed in a commercial airliner crash near Las Vegas, Nevada. Lombard was the wife of actor Clark Gable.

In 1974, the White House denied that President Nixon personally made any erasures in the so-called "Watergate tapes."

A thought for the day: The Roman poet Horace wrote, "Setze the day. Put no trust in the morrow."

Today in history

On Jan. 16, 1942, screen star Carol Lombard, along with her mother and 20 other people, were killed in a commercial airliner crash near Las Vegas, Nev. The actress was the wife of actor Clark Gable.

Elliott recalls years in court — and before

By Sarah Posselt Herald Reporter

Thomas Elliott retired last month after serving for 23 years as the head of the Manchester Superior Court Family Relations Division — not a bad record for a man who used to hop freight trains and ride them from one end of the country to the other.

Some time after he quit riding the trains, Elliott, a Manchester native who is now 52, settled down more than 30 years ago when he and his wife, Lorraine, moved to Columbus Street and helped organize a neighborhood social cooperative. Short of money, the group of young couples created its own entertainment. Elliott remembers fondly the botties they built at night in each other's back yards.

While a crowd gathered around the fire to roast hot dogs, small groups would take turns patrolling the neighborhood to make sure children were in bed. Now defunct, the Hilliard Association, as the group was called, was a model of what Elliott thinks all communities should have.

"The kids who came from those families didn't get into trouble," he said in an interview last week. "If it was up to a neighborhood like this, there wouldn't be any prisons."

HIS THREE CHILDREN surprised him by staying out of trouble. Not that he distrusted them, he said, but he expected to force a bargaining unit election by early spring.

In the past, Tognalli said, teachers have been pleased that there haven't been more layoffs. "The general feeling," he added, "is that the administration has done a good job keeping layoffs down."

He said he found it gratifying to work with people who had problems. So when the Manchester Circuit Court posted an opening for a family relations officer, Elliott applied for and got the job.

WHEN HE STARTED, Elliott and one clerk made up the staff. Now it takes two officers, two clerks and a supervisor to manage the 10,000-case load. And the circuit court, after two transformations, is now the state superior court.

The family division's main charge is to collect delinquent child-support payments. The staff also advises broken families and families whose problems have come to the court's attention.

After a few years on the job Elliott drew up a list of ten "commandments" for separated parents. He submitted the list to syndicated columnist Ann Landers, who printed it. Dozens of family agencies and courts around the country later wrote to request copies of the list.

Elliott said the division's services are available to troubled families free of charge. Although staff members do little counseling themselves except in crises, they make referrals to public

Cranston, Ernest Hollings, George McGovern, Gary Hart, Walter Mondale, Jesse Jackson and Rubin Askew.

Tsongas' cancer like a 'valley of darkness'

BOSTON (UPI) — Paul Tsongas always seemed to have luck and good timing as he rose from a city councilor to county commissioner to congressman and then to the United States Senate in less than a decade. But a few months ago, the Massachusetts Democrat thought his luck had run out after feeling a lump in his groin while showering. Tsongas, 42, went for an exam on Oct. 7 and soon found he had cancer of the lymph node, a mild and easily treatable form but serious enough to convince him his political career was over. He said in an interview published Sunday in the Boston Globe and aired WNEV-TV, Channel 7, that the discovery plunged him "into the valley of darkness" and eventually caused him to decide not to seek re-election for a second term.

SEN. PAUL TSONGAS

In 1978, Tsongas defeated Republican incumbent Edward Brooke, the first black member of the Senate since Reconstruction, and quickly became a leading spokesman for the Democratic Party's liberal wing. He had already begun campaigning for a second term when the cancer was discovered. Doctors say Tsongas suffers from a mild form of the cancer which is curable in half to two-thirds of all cases. "You immediately start on the road into the valley of darkness," Tsongas said. "It wasn't the medical condition. It was all the mental and psychic fears."

Mondale, Glenn give good show

Debate erupts into shouting match

By Don Phillips United Press International

HANOVER, N.H. — No clear winner emerged, but the eight Democratic presidential candidates gave the country a round of good theater in their televised debate, including a shouting match between Walter Mondale and John Glenn.

"That's the same vague gobbledegook of nothing that we've been hearing throughout this campaign," Glenn said. Mondale tried repeatedly to interrupt Glenn, saying, "Point of personal privilege." Point of personal privilege? He finally said, "There's just been a six minute speech and all of it is baloney."

for the B-1 bomber, poison nerve gas. And he uses woodcock numbers to say what my programs would cost. My position is responsible." Jesse Jackson attempted to soothe the troubled waters, admonishing the two that with the country watching, "We have to conduct the affairs of this business in a serious vein."

Asked later if he thought the exchange between him and Mondale might be considered petty, Glenn said, "That wasn't petty. That's spelling out our differences." Hollings said he was concerned that the candidates focused too much on each other, when we should be putting the net over Ronald Reagan.

Kidnapped U.S. soldier found unharmed

STUTTGART, West Germany (UPI) — Police searched for the suspected kidnappers of an American soldier found unharmed after reporting his abductors threatened to kill him to protest West Germany's new U.S.-made nuclear missiles. A farmer's wife found Cpl. Liam Fowler, 21, of Port Orange, Fla., asleep in her farmyard near the town of Miesbach, 30 miles south of Munich, at sunrise Sunday, a police spokesman said.

Gmuend, 30 miles east of Stuttgart and 150 miles northwest of where he was found. Maj. Anthony Maravola, a spokesman at Fowler's brigade, said police returned the soldier to the base after questioning him. "West German police are treating the incident as a kidnapping, and they are continuing their investigations," Maravola said.

happened by six German anti-missile activists, police said. Fowler said the activists had threatened to kill him unless the American militia, within 72 hours, published a statement that the German police do not want new U.S.-made Pershing 2 and cruise missiles deployed in the country. "The West German government announced Dec. 30 that the first battery of Pershing 2 missiles is to be deployed in the county to counter Soviet SS-20 missiles," were operational.

Thousands run for cover

BEIRUT, Lebanon — Artillery shells fired at random crashed into Christian east Beirut today, killing at least two civilians and wounding 18 others as thousands of terrified residents ran for cover, radio reports said.

Reagan image shields him

WASHINGTON — President Reagan's image as "an honest, straightforward man" has helped shield him from a number of controversies that have forced more appointees out of government than at any time since Watergate, aides say.

Shultz, Gromyko to meet

LONDON — U.S. Secretary of State George Shultz said today he will meet his Soviet counterpart Wednesday in a "constructive spirit" but refused to predict if the encounter could begin a thaw in U.S.-Soviet relations.

Lottery mystery unfolds

TORONTO — The mystery behind the holder, or holders, of a $13.9-million ticket in the Lotto 649 draw may begin to unfold today when Ontario Lottery Corp. offices open.

Association projects 550,000 heart attack deaths

DALLAS (UPI) — The American Heart Association Sunday projected up to 1.5 million Americans would suffer heart attacks this year, an estimated 550,000 of them would die. In its annual study, "Heart Facts 1984," the association said that despite advances in research and treatment, cardiovascular disease was still the nation's No. 1 killer, and 427 million Americans have it in some form.

Schoolgirl rapes stir fear and anger in Detroit

DETROIT (UPI) — School officials have increased security following sexual assaults against 45 young girls but the city's public school superintendent says more will have to be done before the epidemic of rapes is halted. "If you ask me if I'm satisfied with what has been done, the answer is no," Superintendent Arthur Jefferson told The Detroit News Sunday. "I'm not satisfied we as a community have solved this problem."

By Joseph Mironov United Press International

WASHINGTON — Several Democrats in Congress are trying to quickly neutralize last week's Supreme Court ruling that the federal government need not consider the environmental wishes of coastal states when offering offshore oil and gas leases.

But at the same time, the lawmakers are moving cautiously in the hope that new Interior Secretary William Clark, who last week said he would tighten the offshore areas to be opened for drilling, will be willing to work out a solution. Within 4 days of the Wednesday Supreme Court ruling, aides to Reps. Norman D'Amours, D-N.H., Gerry Studds, D-Mass., and Leon Panetta, D-Calif., began drafting legislation designed to specifically overturn the decision.

All planned to formally introduce legislation immediately after Congress returns to Washington next week. By late last week, however, the aides were debating what approach would have the best chance of accomplishing their goals, while at the same time remaining politically acceptable. They also were being careful to avoid an immediate confrontation with the Reagan administration.

have a legal recourse. The overall issue is of prime importance to the Northeast because of previous attempts by the administration to open up sensitive North Atlantic areas to drilling — primarily the Georges Bank off the coast of Massachusetts, which is recognized as the world's richest fishing grounds.

directed by former Interior Secretary James Watt, had been planned for last year but never took place. Clark has also said a new Georges Bank lease sale scheduled for May has been indefinitely delayed.

Skii town has a birthday

WOODSTOCK, Vt. — An ancient engine resting in the rusting body of a Model T cranked back to life this weekend, marking the 50th anniversary of the first ski town in the United States. The town set up in 1934 on a snowy hillside two miles north of Woodstock, quietly launched the modern ski industry.

Union workers to return

WINDSOR, Vt. — Union workers were to return to work at the Cone-Blanchard Machine Co. today, but officials said the plant's future in Windsor is still uncertain. The machine tool workers approved a proposed contract, ending a bitter 7-month-old labor dispute, but officials said as many as 25 of the 140 workers may be laid off.

Dairy farming still healthy

Vermont lost 65 dairy farms between 1978 and 1982, but U.S. Census figures show production and income at the remaining farms increased. Officials said the figures show dairy farming is still healthy in Vermont, but he predicted more farms will go out of business in the next four years.

Even high tech professionals need 'basic' resume

QUESTION: As a biochemist with a Ph.D. in nuclear medicine, I wish you'd tell me how to write a resume. The information you've given so far seems to be for workers in "everyday" kinds of jobs. How about it?

ANSWER: All right... First, start with your name, address and phone number. Then, list personal data (age, marital status, health, etc.), followed by education (where you list colleges and universities attended, degrees granted, etc.). Next will come your work experience, and your resume will end with the line: Reference—Supplied upon request.

What's that you say? "That sounds just like what you advised workers in 'everyday' kinds of jobs to write in previous columns." You're right, y'know! The basic format for a resume is the same regardless of your occupation. And besides, an "everyday" job to you is probably not that at all to the person doing the work.

Job Search
Norman M. Gerber

You may think of a computer programmer or a secretary or a cashier as "everyday" occupations, but the people who have those positions have their responsibilities and require certain degrees of proficiency to accomplish their work, as does a biochemist.

To a prospective employer looking at your resume, the information given above must stand

Court rules videotaping OK in home

By Elizabeth Olson United Press International

WASHINGTON — The Supreme Court, in a precedent-setting decision, ruled 5-4 today American are free to use their home video recorders to videotape television programs.

In a major victory for the $3 billion-a-year home video recorder industry, the justices overturned a hotly contested ruling that even private, in-home taping of TV programs violated television copyrights and that manufacturers of the recording devices were responsible for the illegal copying.

"One may search the Copyright Act in vain for any sign that the elected representatives of the millions of people who watch television every day have made it unlawful to copy a program for later viewing at home, or have enacted a flat prohibition against the sale of machines that make such copying possible," Justice John Paul Stevens wrote for the majority.

Stevens wrote that the sale of Sony's Betamax video cassette recorder is "capable of substantial noninfringing uses. Sony's sale of such equipment to the general public does not constitute contributory infringement of respondent's copyrights."

The case was brought by Universal Studios and Walt Disney Productions against Sony, manufacturer of the Betamax video cassette recorder. Also named as defendants in the suit were one user of the Sony Betamax recorder and one retail outlet that sold Betamax devices.

The court's decision spares the electronics industry from the threat of millions of dollars in fines or royalties or even a court injunction halting sales of home videotape recorders.

It also frees 5 million owners of home videotape recorders to record their favorite shows and movies from television.

Stevens noted that "it is not our job to apply laws that have not yet been written" and acknowledged Congress may "take a fresh look at this new technology."

Lobbyists for Hollywood are now expected to press Congress to rewrite copyright laws and provide for new royalties to compensate TV producers and performers.

In a key finding on copyright law, the court ruled copying in the home for personal use is a "fair use" exempt from the copyright laws.

"Any individual may reproduce a copyrighted work for a 'fair use,' the copyright owner does not possess the exclusive right to such a use," Stevens wrote.

Such copyright protection "has never accorded the copyright owner complete control over all possible uses of his work." Instead, the law gives the copyright "exclusive rights to use and to authorize the use of his work in five qualified ways including reproduction of the copyrighted work in copies.

Dissenters, led by Justice Harry Blackmun, said "It may be tempting, as, in my view, the court today is tempted, to stretch the doctrine of fair use as to permit unfettered use of this technology in order to increase access to television. But such an extension erodes the very basis of copyright law by depriving authors of control over their works and consequently of their incentive to create."

Heat failure shuts ECHS

All 1,343 students at East Catholic High School got a surprise day off today, after the building's ailing heating system broke down Monday night.

"But we should definitely be in full swing tomorrow," the Rev. William Charbonneau, principal, said this morning. "I would hope that we'll even be able to have the basketball game scheduled here tonight."

Charbonneau said he decided to call off school Monday evening when the circulation pump in the school's 22-year-old heating system began "acting up," adding to problems with pipes that had either frozen or broken while the system was turned off for repairs.

This morning, East Catholic had no heat. By 10 a.m., Charbonneau reported that the broken pipes had been repaired and a new circulation pump had arrived and was being installed. He expected that heat would be restored to the building by noon.

Mid-term exams, scheduled to begin today, have been postponed until Wednesday. "We wanted to give kids their best crack at taking exams, rather than take them in a freezing classroom," Charbonneau said, to explain his decision to close the school.

Exams will continue through next Monday, Charbonneau said, though they were originally scheduled to end Friday.

Area radio stations began reporting the closing shortly after 5:30 a.m. But a couple of students who missed the reports showed up at school anyway, Charbonneau said.

Peace plea opens parley

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (UPI) — Swedish Prime Minister Olof Palme opened the 35-nation European security and disarmament conference today with an urgent appeal to the superpowers to adopt a "grand strategy of peace."

With hundreds of people singing peace songs outside, Palme told the conference that Europe already has the world's largest concentration of conventional and nuclear weapons and there is "anguish" among the population over the rising danger of war.

"These peoples all unite in an urgent appeal to the leading powers to use every opportunity to find the road to meaningful dialogue and serious negotiation," Palme said.

"They are not looking for new military strategies. They are looking for a grand strategy of peace."

Palme especially appealed to the United States and Soviet Union to reverse the build-up of nuclear weapons in Europe.

Nearly all the 35 participating nations at the Stockholm Conference on Confidence and Security-Building Measures and Disarmament in Europe — from East and West Europe plus the United States and Canada — were represented by foreign ministers at the conference opening.

A crowd of about 700 people, braving driving snow, sang peace songs in the plaza outside as the ministerial limousines pulled up to the modernistic conference building in the center of Stockholm. They rolled a huge, 12-foot high balloon painted to represent the earth across the plaza.

U.S. Secretary of State George Shultz was scheduled to address the meeting today and call on Moscow to return to the Geneva talks on limiting medium-range nuclear missiles.

The foreign ministers of France, Portugal, East Germany, Denmark and Czechoslovakia also were scheduled to speak today.

U.S. Secretary of State George Shultz shares a story with Sen. Nancy Kassebaum of Kansas, who is traveling with U.S. delegation to Stockholm as a congressional adviser.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko had been expected to include himself on the list of those wishing to address delegates today but declined at the last minute. He will speak Wednesday.

Shultz will meet Gromyko privately Wednesday afternoon at the Soviet Embassy in their first session since superpower relations were ruptured by the Soviet downing of a Korean passenger jet in September.

In his 23-minute speech of welcome, Palme told delegates that the conference, which will continue its work for at least three years, should begin "modestly and realistically."

He called for initial measures to reduce east-west suspicion and increase confidence and cooperation and said only at a later stage should members move on to actual arms reduction discussions.

Manchester man critical after getting heart transplant

By Susan Pleser Herald Reporter

Allan Levy, 55, of 26 Florence St. received a new heart in a four-hour transplant operation early this morning at the Presbyterian-University Hospital in Pittsburgh, Pa. At 9 a.m. today his condition was listed as critical.

Levy, a former machinist at Dynamic Metal Products Co., suffered the first of several cardiac arrests exactly eight months ago today. He was transported to Pittsburgh via air ambulance on Thanksgiving Day. He has been waiting there since for a suitable transplant. Dr. Bartley Griffith headed the transplant team.

Levy's plight came to the attention of Manchester residents in November when the local chapter of the men's service group UNICO began raising money for his air ambulance trip to Pittsburgh.

News that a heart had been found came at about 5:30 p.m. Monday. Levy's wife Edwina said this morning in a telephone interview.

The hospital was unwilling to release the name of the donor. "They told us it was a 90 percent go," she said. "At 10:30 it was a definite go," she said. Levy was prepared for surgery, and the actual procedure began at 12:30 a.m., almost two hours before the donor heart had even arrived at the hospital.

At 2 a.m. the hospital organ recovery team returned to Pittsburgh with the heart. By 4 a.m. Griffith told Mrs. Levy that the team was "closing up." He told her the patient looked good and there were no complications.

"We were worried about his lungs," Mrs. Levy said. Mucus had developed in the lower lobes, a condition that could have caused complications during surgery.

Fortunately, none of Levy's vital organs had deteriorated during his long wait. Barring any complications, he will spend from four to six weeks at the hospital.

LEVY'S NEW HEART is pumping nearly three times as much blood as his old heart. "His old heart was almost ready to stop," Mrs. Levy said. His condition had deteriorated in the past several days and the heart arrhythmia had increased.

Levy's spirits before surgery were good, Mrs. Levy said. "He was very positive, very relaxed. I was apprehensive," she said.

Hospital spokeswoman Judy Blanchard described the surgery. "The surgery lasted four hours — a relatively short time for a heart transplant. It can go right up to six or eight hours or longer," she said.

Levy will remain in the intensive care unit for at least a week. Although Levy was still unconscious this morning, Mrs. Levy was permitted to see him several times, a few minutes at a time.

Levy will be kept heavily sedated for the next few days. He is hooked to a respirator and a heart monitor, and he has a chest cavity drain. "And he had about 10 different medications through I.V. (intravenous) tubes," Mrs. Levy said. Levy is receiving the new anti-rejection drug cyclosporin.

The first 24 hours will be critical in Levy's recovery. He faces the dual threats of organ rejection or infection.

MRS. LEVY HAS been warned that her husband's recovery won't necessarily proceed smoothly.

Democrats caucus tonight in three voting districts

Democratic voters in three of Manchester's 12 voting districts will elect district party committees tonight, with polls open from 7:30 to 8 p.m.

In each of the districts there is one more candidate than there are positions.

At District 10, Manchester High School, Michael Pohl is running as a single candidate and a slate of nine candidates is also running. Voters cast paper ballots and will have to mark the ballot individually for each candidate for whom they want to cast a vote.

The other candidates are Theodore T. Cummings, William Desmond, William V. Hickey, Josh M. Howroyd, Leo J. Kwash, Richard LaPointe, James R. McCavanaugh, William Rice, and Mary Wellemeyer.

An advertisement in Monday's Herald supporting the slate was in error in that it advertised ment was paid for by the Democratic Town Committee.

Town Democratic Chairman Theodore R. Cummings said Monday afternoon that the advertisement was paid for by Desmond, one of the candidates. He said Desmond was in error when he told the Herald the committee was paying for the ad.

He said the error will give "aid and comfort" to Pohl, the challenger.

Other contests are in Districts 1 and 4.

In District 1, Philip E. Parenteau III, has filed singly and a slate of nine candidates has filed for the nine positions. The slate is made up of Francis A. Muffe Jr., Dennis S. Schain, Maureen F. Gallo, Kathleen F. Maloney, Linda J. Alibicki, Lynne M. Duda, Jay Giles, and John W. Cooney.

The polling place is Robertson School.

In District 4, Ben Z. Rubin has filed and so has a slate of eight for the eight spots. The slate consists of Amelia P. Burns, Jack D. Goldberg, Nicholas R. Jackson, Joel E. Jansenda, Robert B. Price, James M. Reardon, John J. Sullivan, and John W. Thompson.

The polling place is Martin School.

There are no contests in the other nine districts.

Growing glut sets petroleum prices sliding

Texas's nearly $10 billion offer for Getty Oil may be sparking a rash of investor interest in the energy field, but the immediate industry outlook is anything but bright.

Here are several solid reports I've picked up that suggest new downward pressure on the price of oil.

- Saudi Arabia with tankers chock full of unsold oil is said to be quietly offering quantity purchasers — 100,000 barrels or more — a price of $25 a barrel on the spot market. That's $4 below the $29 a barrel price set by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC).
- Libya is reportedly producing more oil than it's supposed to under its OPEC agreement and is quietly selling the excess to the Soviets. The payment is primarily in arms and the Russians, according to reports, are reselling the oil to Western Europe for slightly less than $29 a barrel.
- The Russians, in what appears to be an accelerated effort to become the world's largest exporter of oil — they're now second to Saudi Arabia — may initiate additional price breaks prior to the next OPEC meeting in March.

ASIDE FROM THE DEVELOPMENTS reported above, Ecuador, another OPEC member, recently dropped its price by $1.50 a barrel (though on lesser quality crude). And Oman recently extended credit terms twice — which is tantamount to a price cut.

Dan Dorfman
Syndicated Columnist

On top of this, Venezuela, one of the more important OPEC members, has let it be known that it's so broke that it doesn't know how it can maintain OPEC's price and production quotas and still pay its bills.

Another price pressure: Nigeria, which produces one of the highest quality crudes among OPEC members, is deeply in hock — about $8 billion in arrears in short-term debt. And $6 billion of that debt represents imports it hasn't paid for.

The only out, sources say, is the sale of more oil at discount prices.

INTERNATIONAL OIL SPECIALIST Harry Neustein sees a veritable Russian oil blitz — in other words, a lot more exports — as it pursues a bigger chunk of the world energy market.

The Russian rationale:

- A hunger for Western currency, be it for grain purchases, strategic metals, or what have you.
- A Soviet view that a power position in the international economy is derived from power in the world oil markets.

At present, Russia, the world's largest oil producer, exports 2.3 million barrels of oil a day — about 2 million of which goes to the free world.

Until late last year, it was third in the export arena — topped by North Sea output at slightly under 3 million barrels a day and the Saudis at 4 million a day. Neustein figures the Russians will be exporting at the rate of 3 million a day to the free world by year-end '84.

And not only that, he tells me he wouldn't be surprised to see Americans filling up their tanks with Soviet gas late this year or in early '85.

NEUSTEIN'S BOTTOM-LINE on the price implications: A $1-a-barrel drop in the OPEC price some time this year.

Unless you got a cure for cancer in a barrel of oil — which you don't — the price has to come down because it's too high; there's just too much of it around," he says.

In November, estimates put excess world oil

Heavy snowfall possible

Connecticut residents today girded for a developing winter storm system the National Weather Service said could produce heavy amounts of snow across the state.

The Manchester Highway Department readied its crews and equipment today for a predicted snowfall of 6 to 12 inches.

The weather service said a winter storm watch was in effect through tonight for Connecticut and Hampden County, Massachusetts. The storm was forecast to move to the mid-Atlantic Coast by early tonight, then slide further north to take up a position east of Cape Cod by early Thursday.

The weather service at Bradley International Airport in Windsor Locks said the route of the storm was uncertain, preventing forecasters from predicting exact snowfall amounts. When the winter storm watch was issued Tuesday evening, the weather service said as much as 6 inches of snow was possible.

A winter storm watch is used to alert the public in advance of the possibility of a winter storm.

The snow was forecast to begin in southern Connecticut during the afternoon hours today, then spread north during the evening.

Charles Zalungo, a driver with Manchester Highway Department, said repairs were being made to trucks damaged during last week's storm and sand was being "screened" — that is, larger stones were being removed.

"We're very low on sand," he said.

Zalungo said the department expected to have 20 of its drivers on the road when the snow starts to fall, as well as 18 outside contractors hired to help with the plowing.

Crews also spent part of the morning pushing back snow that fell last week from curbs "so there will be room for the snow that falls tonight," he said.

Meanwhile, Manchester police reported that most sidewalks in town had been cleared. No citations were issued, police said.

A town ordinance requires homeowners to clear their sidewalks within 24 hours after a snow.

A spokesman for the state police barracks in Colchester said roads in surrounding towns are in good condition.

"About 3 p.m. this afternoon, I don't know what they'll be like," he said.

George Murray, moderator, and Margaret Dion, presiding officer in the District 10 caucus for election of Democratic Town Committee members, compare notes on the election procedure.

Democratic slates defeat challengers

By Alex Girelli
Herald Reporter

Manchester Democrats defeated three individual challengers in caucuses Tuesday night when Michael Pohl, Phillip Parenteau, and Ben Z. Rubin turned out to be low-votegeters in their respective districts.

Pohl got only 13 votes in District 1 to 25 for the next lowest vote-getter, Mary Woldemeyer. The high vote-getter there, and in the entire election, was Theodore T. Cummings, son of Democratic Town Chairman Theodore R. Cummings with 83 votes.

In District 1, Parenteau got 13 votes, compared to 25 for the next lowest vote-getter, Lynne M. Duda.

In District 4, Ben Z. Rubin got 14 votes, compared to 22 for the next lowest vote-getter, Robert B. Price.

The turnout of Democratic voters was biggest in District 10, Manchester High School, where 100 cast ballots.

The result of the election is that 27 members of the new 101-member town committee will be new. All nine of the members in District 1 are new. There will also be 23 women on the committee, a gain of 10 women, according to town chairman Cummings.

It was after 9 p.m. before all the results had been brought to the office of the Registrars of Voters when Cummings and Herbert Stevenson, Democratic registrar, were waiting. Balloting started at 7:30, but party rules say the moderator must keep the polls open for least 30 minutes and for 10 minutes after the last voter has cast his ballot.

Here are the vote tallies:

District 1, Parenteau, 13, Linda J. Alubicki, 26, John W. Cooney, 29, Duda, 25, Maureen F. Gallo, 31, John Giles, 30, Francis A. Maffei, 29, Kathleen F. Maloney, 28, Dennis Schain, 29, Geraldine H. Thompson, 26.

District 4, Amelia P. Burns, 66, Jack D. Goldberg, 65, Nicholas P. Jackson, 78, Joel E. Janenda, 65, Robert B. Price, 63, James M. Reardon, 30, John J. Sullivan, 81, John W. Thompson, 72, Ben Z. Rubin, 14.

District 10, Theodore T. Cummings, 83, William Desmond, 78, William V. Hickey, 73, Josh M. Howroyd, 74, Leo J. Kwash, 79, Richard LaPointe, 79, James R. McCavanagh, 82, William P. Rice, 78, Mary Woldemeyer, 72, and Michael Pohl, 19.

'To compete in war of ideas'

By Jim Anderson
United Press International

WASHINGTON — The U.S. Information Agency does not have enough people, money or power "to compete in the war of ideas" around the world, a study by a USA advisory commission said today.

The commission said the agency has been forced to "compete in the war of ideas with inadequate resources and obsolete equipment."

Even more disturbing ... is the drop in the number of USA employees overseas where the work of explaining U.S. actions and supporting U.S. policies takes place," the report said.

In addition to its annual report, the commission said it is "deeply and unanimously concerned" about the former practice of USA director Charles Wick of taping his telephone conversations.

The commission said the Wick tappings could affect the USA's ability to perform its overseas mission and its credibility, and recommended the creation of a task force to study how other countries use international broadcast for their own political purposes. As an example, the commission said the agency should take measures to fight Soviet use of words such as "liberation" or "democracy" to describe various forms of communist totalitarianism, the report said.

The Voice of America, although it now has 42 language services, needs new equipment, the commission said.

More than 35 percent of VOA's transmitters are 30 years old or older, the report said. The commission recommended developing direct satellite broadcasting for the VOA or "superpower" 500 kilowatt transmitters.

GOP votes tonight

Manchester Republicans will vote tonight in the town's 12 voting districts to elect a new Republican Town Committee. The caucuses begin at 7:30 p.m.

All but one of the caucuses will take place in the polling places for the appropriate districts.

The caucus for District 5 will be held in Buckley School and not at the Senior Citizens Center. Nominations will be made from the floor in all caucuses.

Top court rules judges can't close jury-picking

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court ruled unanimously today that judges may not bar reporters and the public from jury selection in a criminal trial.

The 9-0 ruling came in a case brought by the Riverside, Calif., Press-Enterprise. It extends the Constitution's open proceedings provision to include the selection of jurors for criminal trials.

"Openness ... enhances both the fairness of the criminal trial and the appearance of fairness so essential to public confidence in the system," Chief Justice Warren Burger wrote for the court.

He added that, "No right ranks higher than the right of the accused to a fair trial."

"The primacy of the accused's rights is difficult to separate from the right of everyone in the community to attend the voir dire (jury questioning) which promotes fairness," he wrote.

The Press-Enterprise appealed a decision closing a California courtroom when jurors were chosen for a 1981 murder trial.

Burger said openness "is sometimes described as a 'community therapeutic value' when there is a violent crime."

Whether this is viewed as retribution or otherwise is irrelevant. When the public is aware that the law is being enforced and the criminal justice system is functioning, an outlet is provided for anger and frustration and emotions.

"Proceedings held in secret would deny this outlet and frustrate the broad public interest in contrast, public proceedings vindicate the concerns of the victims and the community in knowing that offenders are being brought to account for their criminal conduct by jurors fairly and openly selected."

Bomb forces plane down

ISLAMABAD, Pakistan (UPI) — A suitcase exploded in the cargo bay of an Air France jumbo jet carrying 281 people on a flight to Paris today, forcing the jet to make an emergency landing in Karachi.

The plane landed safely at Karachi Airport after descending from an altitude of 18,000 feet when the blast occurred. No injuries were reported, officials said. The plane had taken off from Karachi some 20 minutes before the explosion.

Authorities in Karachi said they were investigating whether the suitcase had contained a bomb. An Air France spokesman in Paris said the blast apparently "was not a criminal act."

The Paris-bound Air France flight AF-717 carried 246 passengers and 12 crew. It originated in Manila and stopped in Bangkok before heading to Karachi, sources said. They said 64 passengers had boarded the plane in Karachi.

An airport source said Pakistani security forces were interrogating all 246 passengers in a lounge at the Karachi airport.

Be fair, consistent in firing

By Steven W. Syre
United Press International

LEXINGTON, Mass. — A company's decision to fire an executive can turn into an expensive dispute if handled poorly, but specialists say many of the problems are avoidable with good communication and a little basic psychology.

Chief executives and high ranking management often have lucrative arrangements worked out when they come on board in the event of termination, so-called "golden parachutes." They know they may be stuck with the blow if the company does not do well and realize these payoffs.

Middle and lower management or executives of small firms rarely are in the same position. Often they've spent many long years with the company and employment understandings may not really be so well defined.

Attorney Alonzo D. Saunders II, speaking at a recent seminar, said there has been an explosion of court cases involving unfair firings in recent years, and the incidence of costly settlements that go unreported probably is way up as well.

Saunders said most people who fight their pink slips are angry with the company, usually because they believe they've been treated unfairly. Often they think unmet expectations never were defined or people falsely led them to believe in a certain level of job security.

"If people believe the company is treating them fairly they will be less inclined to believe injury has been done when they are dealt with," Saunders said. "Nine times out of 10, dealing in an earnest, face-to-face manner will defuse the anger."

Consistency in dealing with fired employees also can make a big difference. A juicy package designed to get rid of a troublesome executive may set a precedent that will come back to haunt the corporation the next time a manager is fired.

Saunders said companies that spell out specifics and use sound handling with stated policies can keep help themselves out of trouble because courts are considering implicit promises of job security.

One company ran a help wanted ad that suggested qualified people join the corporation and "retire" in Florida, which might indicate long-term job security was certain.

When a company reviews a manager's performance once a year, does the employee have a right to assume a good review assures him another 12 months of security? The question is not entirely certain from a legal standpoint, Saunders said.

Although the loss of a job is routinely a traumatic experience, most executives land on their feet, said Beverly H. Robsham, who runs an executive search and outplacement business.

Ms. Robsham said a fired manager normally spends about three months out of work, but finds a better paying job in the end. They also get a chance to evaluate their career, for the first time maybe," she said.

Despite what may sound like a simple way of avoiding a lot of problems, there still are many cases of blatantly illegal terminations that are painful for the employee and expensive for the company, Saunders said.

"There are a lot of war stories kuhre," Ms. Robsham agreed.

Some companies hope they can avoid any cost of firing an employee by creating an atmore that will make him quit instead.

Saunders said a strategy of "Mickey Mousing" a manager, cutting out some benefits or making it clear he's going no place in the organization — can wind up costing a lot of money if it becomes "nasty and brutish." A jury could easily take on a much bigger award than what even if a suit ever gets to court, he said.

Swiss top investors in U.S.

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Swiss own more equity in U.S. companies than any other European nation, but the British are more active traders, the French are hampered by currency controls and the Germans prefer bonds to stocks.

That are some of the conclusions of a study on European ownership of U.S. equity prepared by Ranier Esslen, a consultant to Burson-Marsteller public relations firm.

"At the end of 1982, the study found, European investors probably held $100-$120 billion in U.S. equity. It was not unusual for Europeans to invest up to 50 percent of their entire portfolio in companies outside their borders, the study said.

The Swiss held about 43-45 percent of the European investments in U.S. stocks, Esslen estimated. But the British overtook Switzerland in total trading volume, accounting for $18.8 billion or 40.1 percent, compared to the Swiss $14.2 billion or 30.3 percent.

The British jumped from 26 percent (56.9 billion) in 1979, and the Swiss credit the surge to the Thatcher government's decision to end currency controls, which has restricted investments in foreign securities since World War II.

Currency controls are now restricting the French, who can use only proceeds from sales of foreign stock to make foreign investments.

"The total pool is pretty limited," Esslen said. "They can buy only with investment currency, which sells at a premium. The last time I heard it was more than 30 percent over the normal exchange rate."

The restrictions don't top the French from trading, he said. "The trading volume has not fallen off. What has fallen off is the net purchases."

The United Kingdom and Switzerland together count for well over 70 percent of the foreign trading in Europe, much of it on behalf of clients in other countries.

"The Swiss of course are managing substantial sums for their clients," Esslen said. "The Swiss are estimated to manage $400 billion worth of portfolio assets all told.

"The total market value of Swiss stocks and bonds is only $80 billion, approximately $29 billion is being invested by the Swiss in foreign stocks and bonds. Esslen estimated about $28 billion of that is in equity, and about half in U.S. stocks.

The British are investing for non-nationals too. One of the reasons for the jump in the volume of British trading, Esslen said, is the growth of London's role as an international investment broker.

Esslen believes portfolio turnover rates are much higher in Britain than Switzerland, with the British more aggressive than the conservative Swiss.

German investments are more closely guided by currency considerations than in most other countries," Esslen said. German institutions, he wrote in his report, "have been known to clean off their portfolio entirely of holdings in a certain currency, including U.S. dollars, if they expected a decline vis-a-vis the Deutschmark."

German holdings generally emphasize bonds rather than stocks, Esslen said. Belgian investors prefer high-yield bonds, preferably Eurobonds that do not require withholding tax on interest.

Esslen, who has served as a senior consultant to Burson-Marsteller in Europe since his retirement from the firm, says the study may be updated in the spring, when 1983 figures are available.

Nicaraguan rebel officer claims he gets U.S. supplies

By Anne-Marie O'Conner
United Press International

LAS TROJES, Honduras — A rebel officer said American supplies for insurgents trying to overthrow the Nicaraguan government are routed through a Honduran military base and stockpiled in barns one used for curing tobacco.

The United States and Honduras deny sending soldiers into the area but the rebel officer, Agapito Leon Tinoco Ruiz, said Tuesday the Americans "are our friends."
Tinoco, head of the supply base,

Las Trojes is less than 8 miles from where Nicaraguan troops last Wednesday downed a U.S. Army helicopter on the Honduras-Las Trojes border, on a large tobacco farm, and killed the pilot, Chief Warrant Officer Jeffrey Schwab of Joliet, Ill.

The dirt road on which Schwab died, which runs between Las Trojes and Cifuentes, another border town, is regularly used by rebels to transport supplies.

Schwab was taking two Army engineers to El Aguacate to work on the airstrip the day he was killed. The engineers survived and plan to meet with reporters today to give their first public account of the incident.

The U.S. Army said the improvement at El Aguacate base, which will allow large transport planes to use the dirt strip, is for the Honduran army.
Honduras denies it aids the insurgents.

Residents of Las Trojes said Honduran soldiers allow the guerrillas to pass freely across the border to Nicaragua, located less than 2 miles from the town.

U.S./World In Brief

Soviets deploy missiles

MOSCOW — The Soviet Union has begun the deployment of nuclear weapons in East Germany to counter the new U.S.-made cruise and Pershing 2 missiles in Western Europe, the Soviet army newspaper said today.

The missiles are controlled by Soviet personnel in agreement with the East German government. The army newspaper Krasnaya Zvezda (Red Star) said in a dispatch from a correspondent who visited a missile unit.

President Yuri Andropov warned in November the Soviet Union would install nuclear weapons in both East Germany and Czechoslovakia once the deployment of the American weapons began. NATO began installing Pershing and cruise missiles in West Germany and Britain last month to counter Soviet SS-20 missiles aimed at Western Europe.

Israeli poverty called 'lie'

JERUSALEM — Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir, whose government faces a challenge over the country's escalating economic crisis, today branded as a "lie" a report showing one in eight Israelis live below the poverty line.

The report leaked to the media this week by the National Insurance Institute said about 500,000 Israelis — one out of every eight — live below the poverty line, which is set at a monthly income of $115. The institute is the Israeli equivalent of the U.S. Social Security Administration.

The NII is controlled by the ethnic Sephardi Tami Party, which has been threatening to bolt Shamir's fragile government coalition over Israel's worsening economic crisis.

Soviet spurns Shultz's request

By E. Michael Myers
United Press International

STOCKHOLM, Sweden — Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, spurning Secretary of State George Shultz's call for easing East-West tensions, charged the Reagan administration today with pursuing a policy of war.

"War and nuclear war is the policy of the United States," Gromyko told the 35-nation Stockholm Conference on Security and Disarmament in Europe. "The U.S. administration is thinking intensively of war and acting accordingly," Gromyko said in the Soviet Union's opening address at the conference, which opened Tuesday.

Gromyko rejected Shultz's challenge to Moscow to return to Geneva negotiations on limiting intermediate-range nuclear missiles in Europe as well as long-range strategic nuclear weapons.

"Having started the installation of its missiles, Washington has rendered negotiations pointless," he said, adding that negotiations could resume only if NATO reduces the new U.S. medium-range missiles in Western Europe.

The veteran Soviet minister said that current U.S. policy was "a folly" and based on militarism. "How can we limit missiles with this policy?" he said.

"It was a tough speech," a high U.S. official said afterward, "but it was not out of line with what we've heard before."

Arctic winds shift back, bringing snow to Plains

By United Press International

Arctic winds shifted back across the central United States, sending wind chill readings down to 60 degrees below zero today and combining with Gulf Coast moisture to frost the central Plains with a half foot of snow.

Sub-zero temperatures stretched from Montana and Wyoming across the northern Plains to the Great Lakes and as far south as Kansas. Wind chill readings of 60 below were reported in Wyoming today and forecasters said would get colder across the central states later in the day.

"The wind pattern has changed back to something not that much different from what we had in December, although the cold is no as severe," said National Weather Service meteorologist Hugh Crowther. "It's back to a north-south pattern more so than a west-east."

Snow was reported from New Mexico and Colorado to Illinois but accumulations were heaviest where the winds from Canada clashed with moisture pelting the Gulf Coast states with rain.

"The combination of the southern moisture and the temperatures are responsible," Crowther said. "The heaviest snow is just north of the Gulf Coast rain."

Six inches of snow plastered Oklahoma and Arkansas and Missouri had 3 inches. Forecasters warned Kentucky and Tennessee could face similar accumulations today.

Bay State's tax pay-up brings windfall

By United Press International

BOSTON (UPI) — Penitent tax evaders rushing to beat a midnight deadline and heavy-eyed state revenue workers cheered early today to mark the end of Massachusetts' back-tax amnesty program expected to net a record $40 million.

"It has been phenomenal," said Deputy Revenue Commissioner Tom Herman, after the last of some 10,700 people who swarmed through Boston office Tuesday finally reached a tax examiner at 12:38 a.m.

In all, the department estimated 30,000 procrastinators flocked to tax offices across the state Tuesday, including four open until midnight.

The last minute rush brought the total proceeds to more than $35 million since the program began Oct. 7. Officials said it was likely the final tabulation, expected later this week, would reach $40 million. Officials today were to dig through more than 18,000 unprocessed applications mailed in Thousands more were expected to arrive by Friday.

The Boston office alone took in about $2.5 million on the final day and Herman said no "showing up" with checks was turned away who came after the midnight deadline.

Late-night offices in Hyannis, Worcester and Springfield pulled in as much as $800,000 each in the final day. At the department's Cape Cod office, one person walked in and handed officials a check for $60,000 a spokesman said.

The amnesty offer — a procrastinator's dream of delinquency with impunity — was designed to recover some of the estimated $500 million lost each year in unpaid state taxes.

Herman said it cost the state $500,000 to administer. One relieved taxpayer, who declined to be identified, walked out of the Boston office at 12:45 a.m., after handing over $300 in back taxes despite waiting until 15 minutes before midnight to pay.

Massachusetts Revenue Department offices, including this one in Boston, were flooded Tuesday with delinquent taxpayers who wanted to take advantage of the departments three-month amnesty program, which ended at midnight.

Marooned sailor believes cigarette lighter saved him

By United Press International

BANGOR, Maine (UPI) — A clam digger, whose 15-foot boat was swamped in the icy Atlantic, says he wouldn't have survived without his 95-cent cigarette lighter to warm him while he clung to a bobbing buoy for 27 hours.

"I wouldn't have made it without my lighter," said Robert Curtis, 25, Tuesday shortly before he was scheduled to be released from Eastern Maine Medical Center, where he was treated for hypothermia and frostbite on his hands and feet.

"I had big boots on, I took them off, shredded them up and burned them with the lighter — one shredded at a time, one about every two hours. The air was wicked cold and I was wet."

Curtis, of Waldoboro, was plucked from the buoy three miles south of Vinahaven Island by the crew of a Coast Guard cutter in a foot seas Monday afternoon after spending 27 hours clinging to the buoy, which bobbed up and down bringing him inches from the icy seas.

"I wondered how much suffering I could take," he said of the long hours. "I wondered if it might be easier just to die."

Curtis told reporters he was unaware conditions morning to do some clamming toward North Haven Island his boat began taking on water and he steered it with one hand and began bailing it with another.

O'Neill's growing accustomed to his job

Capitol Comments
Bob Conrad
Syndicated Columnist

A small miracle is taking place on Capitol Hill in Hartford and it could have a bearing on the race for governor in 1986, especially for the Democrats.

The miracle is that Governor O'Neill — of Bill the Unbinding — is beginning to enjoy his press conferences.

Last week, for example, aides could tell by the cut of his chin and his general disposition after meeting with reporters that he was quite pleased with himself.

In fact, O'Neill was heard telling someone that he thought he had done rather well.

This is a remarkable change in attitude by a governor whose coolness toward — even distrust of — the capitol press was monumental during his first couple of years on the job.

It took months of friendly persuasion by political veterans inside his office and one or two times — playing against an inner circle of staffers riding the brake — to convince O'Neill that he ought to try regular press conferences.

using it has also found that these sessions can be fun.

The banter isn't exactly hilarious, but O'Neill has loosened up in recent weeks. When a television reporter arrived late and then popped a question, O'Neill asked in mock concern, "Where have you been?" To another whose favorite line during questioning is "Let me press you on this," the governor drew sympathetic laughter by responding, "You can press me as much as you like, but..."

To a reporter who asked, straight-faced, whether O'Neill might back a Republican, Democratic governor, said, "Some day I'll have to talk to you about politics." To another who asked about a GOP charge that café owner O'Neill was running the state like a barroom because of Democratic spending ideas, he said "I never provided free drinks for anyone."

ONCE HE STARTED, he found they weren't so bad after all. The new wrinkle is that a tongue who has found his governor and is less gun-shy about

IF THE REPORTEER at regular press conferences is becoming more natural and if O'Neill is more at ease than in the old days, a development of political significance is happening here. And let's understand that his relationship with the press is not the issue. The press conference is only symptomatic of the larger change taking place.

The greening of Bill O'Neill — with no play on his heritage intended — means that this Democratic governor is finally feeling comfortable and confident in his job — one that was thrust on him three winters ago under difficult circumstances.

That was when O'Neill, a private person despite his years in upper level politics, succeeded the gregarious, super-confident Ella Grasso after her tragic death.

One of these days O'Neill may exert the tough leadership which the legislature which ranking Democrats there would actually welcome. And he may even take on direction of a troubled Democratic Party — something that goes with his position if he wants to act.

CERTAINLY A GROWING list of Democrats who are looking at 1986 and the gubernatorial nomination will be watching O'Neill. For starters, there are former U.S. Rep. Toby Moffett, Attorney General Joe Lieberman, House speaker Irving Stulberg, Senate Majority Leader Dick Scheller, New Haven Mayor Ben DiLieto and Congressman Barbara Kennedy.

Six months ago, most of them thought no play on his heritage would win in the Democratic Party — that O'Neill would not want to run again in 1986.

But a governor who is comfortable in the job is a governor who just may decide he would like to stay there.

And Bill O'Neill is a governor who fits that description more every day.

Cap's wish a costly prospect

WASHINGTON — Is Cap Weinberger planning to bankrupt the country?

The defense secretary would deny such a suggestion, of course. But unless Budget Director David Stockman or Congress stops them, Weinberger and the other profligate Pentagon poobahs will spend the nation right into the poorhouse.

Their own secret "wish list" doesn't include solid gold Cadillac — yet. But some of their budget proposals are just about as extravagant as that.

My associate Donald Goldberg has obtained copies of the military's dream proposals. They're classified "secret," and were intended strictly for internal use. Neither the White House nor Congress has seen the documents.

Here are some of the most outrageous elements of the Pentagon's planned raid on the Treasury over the next five years:

- Weinberger wanted a $322.4 billion budget for fiscal 1985, but the White House decided on a more "reasonable" sum of $305 billion. The defense secretary recommends an increase of $30 billion to $40 billion each year through 1989. That would make the budget that year $464.7 billion — not far short of half a trillion dollars.
- The bulk of these billions will go to the Navy and Air Force, presumably to fund such high-priced programs as the B-1 bomber, the MX missile system, Aegis-equipped cruisers and Arleigh Burke-class destroyers.
- The Navy has been ordered to "start preliminary alternative designs of a new nuclear attack submarine to ensure our present acoustic superiority is maintained over the increased Soviet submarine threat projected in the 1990s."
- As reported earlier, this supposed threat is a Pentagon fantasy.
- The Navy also wants to "deploy one additional carrier battle group to bring the total number of peacetime forward-deployed carrier battle groups to four."
- Communication with missile-carrying nuclear submarines is given high priority. The Pentagon wants the controversial Extremely Low Frequency receivers, which would be installed under a big chunk of northern Michigan, operating by 1987. Other communications systems should be operational by 1988. Protection from electromagnetic pulse, caused by nuclear explosions high in the sky and believed to disrupt all existing communications systems, should be tested by them.
- The Air Force wants $9 anti-satellite missiles by 1989, and a new air-to-surface missile to be developed.
- All the armed services will help develop a new, low-cost helicopter in hopes of cutting down on the wide variety now in use. The service chiefs have been told: "Be prepared to accept development programs that are 'second best' solutions to your service's mission needs, in order to provide a 'first best' solution for the Department of Defense as a whole."
- A total of 31 combat zone hospitals are to be funded over the next two years.
- The Army has been ordered to start developing "two laser weapon systems concepts, including a close combat version and (an) air defense high-energy laser weapon version."
- The Pentagon's ask-for-the-moon approach is of course just a budgetary weapon to use on Congress — the technique of an Oriental bazaar. The brass hats don't really expect to get everything they want — or do they?

Four die in two fires

A woman and her 5-year-old daughter and two infants died from separate fires that broke out at homes in West Haven and Stamford.

Children 3 years and 18 months old died in a fire at a house on Meadow Brook Court in West Haven shortly after 1 p.m. Tuesday afternoon, said Fire Chief James Burns. Police and officials withheld the children's names.

Firefighters found the first and second floors of the house fully involved in flames. They entered and found the bodies of two children in a corner of a bedroom, said Burns.

Stamford woman and her 5-year-old daughter died when their two-story, single-family home in the Springdale section also caught fire Tuesday afternoon, said Springdale Fire Chief Tom Russell.

Wife charged in shooting

CANTERBURY — A Canterbury woman has been arrested on attempted murder charges for the shooting and wounding of her husband during a family dispute, state police said.

Police said Corinne Griffin, 46, was arrested Tuesday at her home on Buck Hill Road after police responding to a call about an domestic dispute found her husband suffering from gunshot wounds.

She was charged with attempted murder and first-degree assault in the wounding of her husband, Donald, 43.

Mrs. Griffin was later arraigned before Willimantic Superior Court Judge Michael Mack, who set her bond at $50,000 and ordered Mrs. Griffin to return to Superior Court in Danielson on Jan. 27. Mrs. Griffin posted bond and was released.

Grandmother gets probation

HARTFORD — A 70-year-old grandmother and former Baptist Sunday School teacher who worked as a bookie for 5 years has been granted accelerated rehabilitation and put on two years' probation.

Dorrene Dunleavy of Hartford was arrested Dec. 9 in a raid by four Hartford police detectives carrying an ax and wearing bullet-proof vests.

She was charged with five counts of violating the state anti-gambling act. She told police a book-maker known to her only as "Jack" paid her $70 a week for taking telephone bets, collecting from losers and paying off winners.

Mrs. Dunleavy said her late brother-in-law set up the betting arrangement decades ago.

Trucker must stand trial

BRIDGEPORT — A North Carolina truck driver must stand trial in Bridgeport in connection with the deaths of seven women and children in a chain collision last January at the Stratford Toll, a judge has ruled.

Superior Court Judge James F. Bingham Tuesday denied defense motions to have the trial moved elsewhere in Fairfield County because of heavy publicity surrounding the fiery crash.

Charles Klutz, 36, of Colesville, N.C., was charged with seven counts of misconduct with a motor vehicle after his rig slammed into a row of cars waiting for the tolls on the Connecticut Turnpike.

In Manchester

MMH rules shift was positive step

Manchester Memorial Hospital took an important step last week. By a vote of its executive committee, children will now be permitted in MMH birthing rooms to watch their mothers give birth.

The policy is already in effect in Hartford Hospital and in other hospitals across the country. It is a direct result of consumer demand.

Someone not familiar with this issue probably would be inclined to react with disbelief. "Children WATCHING childbirth?" The idea sounds preposterous, shocking, even ridiculous. Childbirth is a painful process — why expose children to something that might well traumatize them?

Obviously, not every set of expectant parents is going to take advantage of this new policy. In fact, Manchester doctors and childbirth educators say very few are likely to do so.

But the change shows that the hospital is willing to listen to the public, and that's important.

It's also about time.

Manchester was the first hospital in the entire country to offer the Lamaze method of natural childbirth. At the time, MMH got much national attention for its pioneering efforts.

In the intervening years, MMH has opened birthing rooms — rooms with a homelike setting. There are now six birthing rooms in operation at the hospital — and few hospitals in the state boast of having more.

It is curious, then, that the hospital took so long to take a step which other hospitals across the country adopted two and three years ago. It is especially curious because the policy requires no special addition in facilities, nor any special personnel. It won't cost the hospital any money.

Those who advocate home birth have long argued that children who are properly prepared ahead of time will benefit from the experience of watching a birth. Children in the birthing rooms mean that the home-like setting concept is carried one step further for those who want it.

At best, most Manchester obstetricians are likely to be lukewarm about the idea, and are not likely to encourage their patients to pursue it.

Having children present could prove to be a distraction to parents. Surely, the facts are not all in, either, on whether or not a child's psyche is harmed by the experience.

New policy or not, women who want their children at natural childbirth. At the time, MMH got much national attention for its pioneering efforts.

But at least one roadblock has been removed by MMH.

Lucky!

To the Editor:

The Town of Manchester is very lucky this year to have two outstanding High School Varsity Hockey Teams, East Catholic and Manchester may very well meet in the Division II Championship game. East has a more rugged schedule which may prove in its favor, but don't rule out the Manchester High team.

The spirit and caliber of both clubs is high, and the greatest improvement has been the ability to stay out of the Penalty Box. The coaches and players deserve a lot of credit and the support of the townspeople. If these two teams do meet, it could very well be the high school game of the year in hockey.

I have played organized hockey for over 40 years in Massachusetts and Connecticut. I have coached youth hockey teams and refereed high school and prep school games for years and it does my heart good to watch these fine young men "play their hearts out" for their school teams.

Residents of Manchester: if you have not watched either of these teams play — give yourself a treat and venture out at the Bolton Ice Palace some night — you'll really enjoy it!!!

Thanks

To the Editor:

The Mental Health Association of Connecticut wishes to thank the residents of Manchester for their generous donations to our holiday gift drive. Without their thoughtfulness for others in the midst of their own busy Christmas season, the patients at Cedarcrest and Norwich hospitals would have had a particularly dreary holiday.

A special thank you to the Center Congregational Church and Connecticut Bank and Trust Company for being drop off centers for the area.

We need to be able to plan for alternative education for our children, other than Manchester schools, and we need to do this now.

A loss

To the Editor:

This is an open letter to Superintendent of Schools James Kennedy:

Dear Mr. Kennedy, As the parents of a third grader at Highland Park School, we are very concerned about the possible closing of our school, as are all the parents of Highland Park School youngsters. We know only too well we may be losing the best elementary school in Manchester.

But why are we losing a good school, filled with exceptional teachers, at a time when everyone is so concerned about the diminishing quality of education?

Because, you, Mr. Kennedy, are looking for ways to cut the budget. We the parents see it as cutting into our children's future, trying to save a few dollars. And yes, it is a few dollars when you consider the education budget as a whole.

But thank goodness for Dr. Malone, Mr. Dyer and Mrs. DellaFera. It seems they are the only ones who are concerned about our fears, the only ones who stand up for our children!

Please decide soon about Highland Park, and please, let us know where our children will be based next year, and the year after that, and the year after that, because that seems to be the path you are taking. Save a dollar, close a school.

Connecticut In Brief

Police change angers some

A new order limiting the stay of state troopers assigned to a town to two years has angered some town officials and prompted an unfair labor complaint by the Connecticut troopers' union.

The new directive issued Tuesday says resident trooper assignments will be re-advertised after two years, but the district commander can extend the original contract by one year.

About half a dozen officials whose towns are among 45 served by resident state troopers said, however, the plan undermines the basis for having a state trooper program. Town's people are generally possessive about their resident trooper, some said.

Jerry Herzkowitz, president of the Connecticut State Police Union, Tuesday asked the union's legal counsel to file an unfair labor practice complaint with the state Board of Labor Relations by the end of the week. He said a union request to be represented on the committee was rejected.

Ruling said threat to speech

HARTFORD — The National Organization for Women says a ruling by the state Supreme Court prohibiting the group from circulating petitions and distributing literature in Westfarm Mall threatens individuals' free speech rights.

The high court in a 3-2 decision Tuesday reversed a lower court ruling in favor of NOW. The Supreme Court ruled the Connecticut statute's free speech provisions are intended to protect individuals against interference by governments but do not extend to conflicts with private groups or individuals.

Kinsella goes to high court

By Mark A. Dupuis
United Press International

HARTFORD — Attorney General Joseph I. Lieberman says the state could face a "constitutional crisis" if its highest court agrees to intervene in the first impeachment case in Connecticut history.

Lieberman warned Tuesday the state Supreme Court agreed to a request to halt a legislative investigation into whether Hartford Probate Judge James H. Kinsella should be impeached.

Attorney General Wade, representing Kinsella, argued before the high court that the state constitution's provisions for impeaching a state official or judge were in themselves unconstitutional.

Lieberman countered before the justices that impeachment is a responsibility left solely to the Legislature and not subject to review by the courts and warned afterward court involvement could prompt a constitutional crisis.

If the court assumes jurisdiction of this case in any way, in his opinion, it represents a constitutional crisis and a confrontation between two branches of government," the attorney general said.

Wade wants the Supreme Court to order an end to the legislative probe by a special, eight-member House committee, which will recommend to the full House whether Kinsella should be impeached.

The House created the committee to study impeachment last year after Kinsella was censured by the Council on Probate Judicial Conduct for his handling of the $33 million estate of Ebel A. Donaghe of West Hartford.

The special committee will report to the full House, which will then decide whether Kinsella should be impeached.

If the House votes impeachment, a trial would be held by the Senate.

Wade told a five-judge Supreme Court panel that the state impeachment article violated rights guaranteed by other sections of the state and federal constitutions and thus was unconstitutional in itself.

Wade said he would have no problem if the House voted to impeach Kinsella on the grounds of the council's findings, but challenged the creation of the House committee with "virtually limitless" powers to do further investigation.

The well-known defense lawyer also questioned the Legislature's right as a statewide body to consider impeaching a judge elected on a local level and the wider issue of whether the impeachment process itself met the constitutional muster.

"We have nothing to define an impeachable offense," he said, labeling the state constitutional provisions a "document which in and of itself violates federal due process standards."

"This court should endeavor to

Case could create 'constitutional crisis'

Lawyers for Walsh, 67, who was forced to retire last month as chief of police in the state's largest city, Tuesday called the first of their several witnesses in a Superior Court suit seeking his reinstatement. The witnesses are expected to include Mayor Leonard S. Paolella.

Two members of the Board of Police Commissioners said they had met with other commissioners, city attorneys and Paolella a few days before Walsh was removed to discuss sweeping changes in the 420-member department.

Commissioner Alfonso Losada said he was at the meeting in Paolella's home, where it was decided to ask Walsh to step down voluntarily and, if he refused, to force his retirement.

Walsh was sharply criticized less than two weeks before in a private consultants' report that blasted his management style and was hoped recuperating from surgery when the police board took action at a public meeting.

Losada said Walsh's age and the fact he was a veteran of nearly 42 years with the department played a part in the decision, but also accused Walsh of calling suggested reforms "garbage."

In a series of incidents, Losada said he and Paolella went 22 times to check on Walsh's foot patrol at the Father Panik Village housing project and found officers sitting in vans.

The police board provided building space for the officers, he said. "One time, I found them playing cards in the office with the door locked. I never found them walking. I felt the police department was completely mismanaged, he said.

Commissioner Joseph Iannicello said he was at the meeting in Losada's house and added that resolutions later considered by the board were delivered by an aide to Paolella shortly before the public meeting.

Walsh supporters, officers and other spectators pressed into the small courtroom until Judge Robert J. Berdon ordered sheriff's to bar the door.

The tense exchanges between Walsh's lawyers and witnesses produced loud murmers in the crowd, and several times Berdon threatened to clear the courtroom.

Judge considers fate of ousted chief

BRIDGEPORT (UPI) — A hearing during which it has been revealed the police board huddled in a private home with the mayor and lawyers for the board before ousting Police Superintendent Joseph A. Walsh was scheduled to resume Tuesday.

HRC members hit town on hiring

By Kathy Gormus Herald Reporter
Manchester's affirmative action plan came under fire Tuesday night from members of the Human Relations Commission who said the hiring of women and minorities has increased little since the plan was adopted in 1976.

The criticism was prompted by a personnel report for the year prior to June 30, 1983, filed by the town with the federal government. The report showed that only 22 percent of the town's full time employees were women and less than one percent were minorities.

Republican commission member Geoffrey Naab said "the town has fallen abysmally short" of the non-binding goals it set forth in its affirmative action plan. Under the plan, an additional 32 women and 45 minority group members were to have been hired by 1982.

"We have an affirmative action program on paper—we don't have it in practice," Naab said. "At the time the plan was adopted, minorities accounted for only 5 percent of full time municipal employees."

THE PERSONNEL REPORT—Known as an EEO-4 report, showed only 97 women and 3 minority group members among the town's 430 full-time employees. "I think the report speaks for itself," said Republican commission member Louis C. Koestler Jr. "I think it's obvious to this commission what has to be done."

However, Democratic commission member Joseph T. Sweeney said the low number of women and minority group members on the town payroll reflected the low rate of employee turnover.

Directors don't act on new sewer regulations

Turning aside an administration plea for quick action, the Board of Directors Tuesday night tabled action on the adoption of new sewer regulations.

Their approval would have cleared the way for the town to collect $270,000 in federal money coming to it.

The stumbling block was a provision in the rules for creation of a board to arbitrate disputes over the application of sewer rates and similar matters.

The chief objector to passing the rules was Director and Democratic Majority Leader Stephen T. Penny.

That would have permitted the town to seek the $270,000 immediately.

Manchester reserve forward Russ Anselmo (14) came off the bench to drop home six points, including this pair, as Manchester overwhelmed Wethersfield in CCIL action Tuesday at Clarke Arena.

Manchester zone turns back Wethersfield

By Len Auster Sports Editor
Man-to-man defense has been Manchester High's trademark in Coach Doug Pearson's 10-year tenure. He has been a stickler of this while the rest of the CCIL sat back in comfortable zones.

Pearson decided to join the rest of the league and play a 1-3-1 zone. The Indians went to a 1-3-1 zone and it was most effective as the Indians routed Wethersfield High, 5-27, in CCIL play at Clarke Arena.
"The 1-3-1 zone worked very well," said Pearson, who saw his club go to 5-3 in the league and 6-3 overall with the win. "We're trying to protect Brian (6-8 junior center Brian Spano) a little more," he explained. Spano, in last Friday's game against Ferti, fouled out in the third quarter. "We need his points and occasional rebounding. And he came to life a little bit tonight."
Spano, after scoring zero points against Ferti last Friday, had 10 markers in the easy win over Wethersfield. The youngster, in only his third year of organized ball, isn't ready to assume the responsibility of helping out defensively when others lose their man in a man-to-man defense. He tends to pick up fouls. "We were playing the 1-3-1 zone and sagging man-to-man and that jams up the middle and helps Brian."
Manchester didn't need much help in downing the woeful Eagles, 1-04 remained in the third quarter. By that time the Silk-Towners had reeled off a dozen unanswered points to take an unchallengeable 34-13 ledge.
It was all academic afterwards. "We played more of a halfcourt game tonight. We were patient on offense. The shots didn't go in early but started to," Pearson said. Manchester was 6-for-11 from the field in the second period and 7-for-15 in the third stanza when it broke matters open. "In the third quarter we just shut them off completely. We dominated the boards and got some fast breaks. I thought it was a good team effort. Wethersfield is not as bad as the score might indicate."
Wethersfield mistired on its first 11 shots of the third stanza against Manchester's defensive pressure. "Pearson was encouraged by what he saw offensively. Most of the time we did a good job. We're not a great shooting team but if we take the shots when they're there, we can be a better shooting team," he said. He was also pleased by the cutdown in the number of fouls. "When you play a sagging man-to-man, you're not apt to foul that much. We've been fouling too much. And also you're in better rebounding position," Pearson said.

Manchester had an overwhelming 43-22 edge in the rebounding department. Willis had eight rebounds, Albie Harris seven, Spano six and reserve Russ Anselmo five for the Indians. Willis also had five assists, getting the ball inside to

Penders left wondering after latest East loss

By Rich Cahill Herald Sports Writer
A discouraged Jim Penders sat alone Tuesday night in the equipment locker in the boys' locker room of the East Catholic gymnasium — his feet propped on a shelf, his eyes staring straight ahead. "I really don't know what to say positively," he said, searching for a bright spot in his team's latest effort, a 65-46 thrashing at the hands of St. Bernard. "Same old story — too much strength, too much quickness."

The story was a particularly disappointing one for Penders because, after Friday's well-planned overtime loss to South Catholic, he thought his team had begun to live up to his pre-season expectations.
"As well as we played Friday — I don't want to take anything away from St. Bernard — we played as poorly as we played all year in the last three quarters."
After a strong opening eight minutes, the Eagles fell apart in the last three periods and reeled to their seventh defeat in the last eight games. Five of those defeats have come to teams ranked among the elite in the state. Two of the losses have been to St. Bernard, which is now 10-4 and ranked fourth in one state high school poll.
The schedule has been a back-breaker for the Eagles. The worst part is over, but some difficult games still remain. On Friday, the Eagles will entertain St. Paul, whose 5-4 record may be deceiving because it includes results such as a one-point loss to once-beaten St. Thomas Aquinas, East will play St. Paul again on Jan. 31, and also must play return matches with two of the state's powers, Aquinas and South Catholic.
At this point, the opposition may no longer matter for the 37-Eagles. Penders, quoting the always forward North Carolina State coach Jim Valvano, said: "When you're losing it's tough to win. When you're winning it's tough to lose."
Tuesday's game began well for the Eagles. They led by as many as seven points, at 13-6, in the first quarter, and held a 12-12 lead at the end of the period. The lead was built in part, in good shot selection, as the Eagles were able to get the ball inside center Chris

New Jersey winger Jan Ludvig (29) takes a tremendous hit from Hartford defenseman Ed Hospodar, who goes sprawling, during first-period action Tuesday night at the Civic Center. NHL clubs battled to 3-3 tie.

Nine taken by Bosox in draft

BOSTON (UPI)—The Boston Red Sox Tuesday chose nine players in the regular phase of the annual winter draft of amateur free agents and three in the secondary phase, the American League club said.
The Red Sox's first pick, 13th overall, was Gregory Mayberry, 18, of Appomattox, Va.
Also chosen were Mark Winner, 21, of Eagle Point, Ore.; Daryl Irvine, 20, of Groton, Va.; Edward Slikko, 20, of Cumberland, Pa.; Charles Bell, 19, of Nashville, Tenn.; C. Patrick Hewes, 19, of Bakersfield, Calif.; Terry Scott, 20, of Morristown, Tenn.; James Ritt, 18, of Atlanta and Ed Creekmore, 20, of Porterville, Calif.
In the secondary phase, Boston chose Daniel Gakeler, 19, of Burlington, N.J.; Larry Herrel, 19, of Tulsa, Okla.; and John Leister, 22, of Falls Mills, Mont.

Whalers, Devils in 3-3 tie

HARTFORD (UPI)—Whalers coach Jack Evans wasn't belittling the New Jersey Devils after his team battled back to a 3-3 tie Tuesday night against the team tied for the poorest record in the National Hockey League.
"You have to respect the Devils," said Evans. "They beat Montreal, which is something we haven't done in the Forum. They played Edmonton to a 5-4 game (a Devils loss). So they're playing very good hockey."
Evans hopes his players can shake off their longest road trip of the year, which they completed with a 1-3-1 record before returning home to meet the Devils Tuesday night, before they take on the Canadiens Thursday.
"We'll probably play like gangbusters against Montreal," said Evans. "The road trip was a long one. By the Montreal game, I think we'll be back to playing good hockey."
The Devils are looking forward to moving out of the Patrick Division cellar, which they share with Pittsburgh.
"Now we have to go ahead and pass them," said Mel Bridgman, who assisted on all three New Jersey goals.
Risto Siltanen's fifth goal of the season with 1:23 left in the third period lifted the Whalers into the tie.
The Devils went into the third

Coventry converts from foul line for victory

COVENTRY — Coventry shot 17 for 20 from the free throw line in the fourth quarter Tuesday night, as it bested Rocky Hill High, 63-47, here in COC action.

The Patriots rebounding from their first loss of the season Friday night against Cromwell, won their eighth game in nine outings. They are 6-1 in the Charter Oak Conference. Rocky Hill is now 4-4 overall and 3-3 in the conference.

The Patriots led 18-8 after one period, and stretched their margin to 24-17 at the half and to 40-29 after three quarters. They then stretched it from the free throw line in the fourth quarter, with senior guard Mark Berkowitz hitting nine of 10.

Berkowitz led Coventry with 15 points. Juniors Brett LaFerriere and Bob Harris each had 14.

Senior center Steve Lewis, who played most of the second half with four fouls but never did pick up his fifth, had 14 rebounds for the night.

Coventry converts from foul line for victory

COVENTRY — Coventry shot 17 of 20 from the free throw line in the fourth quarter Tuesday night, as it bested Rocky Hill High, 63-47, here in COC action.

The Patriots rebounding from their first loss of the season Friday night against Cromwell, won their eighth game in nine outings. They are 6-1 in the Charter Oak Conference. Rocky Hill is now 4-4 overall and 3-3 in the conference.

The Patriots led 10-8 after one period, and stretched their margin to 24-17 at the half and to 40-29 after three quarters. They protected it from the free throw line in the fourth quarter, with senior guard Mark Berkowitz hitting nine of 10.

Berkowitz led Coventry with 15 points. Juniors Brett LaFerriere and Bob Harris each had 14.

Senior center Steve Lewis, who played most of the second half with four fouls but never did pick up his fifth, had 14 rebounds for the Patriots. LaFerriere and senior Ken Kaplan each had eight rebounds. LaFerriere also had five steals.

Technon off target

Cheney Tech shot a poor 12-for-33 from the free throw line Tuesday night, as it lost at home to RHAM High, 63-58, in COC basketball action.

"When you miss 21 fouls shots you should lose, and that's what we did," said Cheney coach Aaron Silva.

The loss was the ninth straight for Cheney Tech and its seventh loss in Charter Oak Conference play. RHAM is 3-3 in the conference and 4-4 overall.

RHAM led from the opening tip and had an 11-point lead, 32-21, at the half. At that point, the Beavers already had missed 11 free throws, some of them coming on the front end of one-and-one opportunities.

Cheney wasted a line effort from senior center Bob Elliott, who had his first foul in the second quarter. He was the game's high scorer with 26 points. No other Beaver scored in double figures. RHAM (63) — Senior Alan Carpenter led RHAM with 16 points. Keith Owen and

MHS girls fall short

WETHERSFIELD — Unabel to come up with the second time around, Manchester High fell to Wethersfield High, 49-46, here Wednesday afternoon in CCIL, girls basketball action.

The loss was the sixth in a row for the hard-kick 3-7 Indians, 2-6 in the conference and 2-15 overall.

Manchester, down by a single point with 22 seconds to go, had a rebounding lead of 34-32, but a six-foot jumper by Heather Hohenthal came up short with the homecoming Eagles grabbing the important rebound. A pair of late points sealed the victory for Wethersfield, 4-4 in the league and 5-5 overall.

"We had our chances and just couldn't do it," said Manchester coach Steve Armstrong. "Heather just couldn't hit and we got beat."

Kathi Shea had 19 points and Maribeth Blonski 15 to lead Wethersfield. Michelle Morianos had a team-high 10 points along with 13 rebounds to pace the Silk Towers.

"The key at this point is to stay up. If we can continue to work and improve we may be able to surprise some people the second time around," Armstrong said.

Manchester's next game is Friday at home in Clark County against Windham High at 7:30 p.m. WETHERSFIELD (49) — Blonski 7 1-2 15, Shea 8 3-4 19, Demuse 0 0-0, Leppert 0 0-0, Kehne 0 0-0, McCurkin 3 0-2 6, Tommasia 4 1-4 7, Totals 22 12-49.

Wrestling

Eagles upended

WATERFORD — The record of the East Catholic High wrestling team fell to 4-5-1 here Tuesday evening, as it was thrashed by Waterford High, 55-9.

The defeat was the worst of the season for the Eagles, whose only wins were scored by Brian Dunn in the 112-pound class and Pete Foley in the 132-pound category. East's Darren Houle also scored an exhibition victory in the 91-pound class. That win did not count toward the team record.

Eight of the 12 Eagle wrestlers were pinned by their Waterford opponents.

East's next match is at home Saturday afternoon, against the Clark County team at 7:30 p.m. Results: '98, Orsini (W) pinned Richard Lee, 105; Morton (W) pinned Scott Meyer, 112; Bron-Dawson (EC) dec. ### Walton rejoins club

SAN DIEGO — San Diego Clipper center Bill Walton, out with a broken hand since Dec. 4, will rejoin the team for practice Thursday, the club announced Tuesday.

His return to game action will be determined on a day-to-day basis. Clipper spokesman Jim Dunlap said.

Walton broke the metacarpal bone in his right hand when he hit the backboard going after a rebound against the Lakers during the Dec. 4 game in Los Angeles.

The 6-foot-11 center has suffered recurring stress fractures in his foot that nearly ended his career two years ago.

Indians sign Easterly, Bernazzari. CLEVELAND — The Cleveland Indians have signed free agent pitcher Jamie Easterly and recently acquired second baseman Tony Bernazzari to contracts, the team said Tuesday.

Easterly signed a two-year agreement and Bernazzari signed a one-year pact, but the team declined to disclose terms of the contracts.

McEnroe to be better. NEW YORK — John McEnroe expects to handle being the No. 1 men's tennis player in the world a lot better the second time around.

McEnroe was named 1983's top player Tuesday by the International Tennis Federation. He was No. 1 in 1981, but slumped the following year.

"I didn't handle it too well in '81," McEnroe said before an exhibition match against Guillermo Vilas Tuesday night at Columbus, Ohio.

"As I grew up as a kid, I never really imagined I'd become No. 1 in the world. Then, all of a sudden when I got there, I said, 'what's next? I didn't know what to do at that point.'"

"It's just a matter of maturing and learning. I hope that next year, I'll play a lot better than I did the year after '81.'"

LeClair signs with Generals. CINCINNATI — Jim LeClair, a starting linebacker for the Cincinnati Bengals for 12 years, has agreed to a multi-year contract with the New Jersey Generals of the U.S. Football League.

Buffalo's Gilles Hamel (9) tries to establish position in front of the Vancouver net as Canucks' Rick Lanz tries to move him out of the territory during first period play.

power the Nordiques. The victory enabled the Nordiques to extend their winning streak to 19 games and ended the Bruins' five-game winning streak. After backup Doug Keans had blanked the Islanders Monday night, Pete Peeters played in Boston's goal for the first time in six games after being dropped to club record of seven consecutive road victories.

Hamel broke a 1-1 tie at 7:12 of the second period, the first of four straight Buffalo goals.

TAMPA, Fla. — Even though they don't receive their official game plan until today, the Los Angeles Raiders have already ripped a page out of their "Trade and Poise" manual.

The Raiders, who relish their games by drawing the wrath of the NFL, were in town less than 24 hours when they made news Tuesday by drawing the wrath of Coach Tom Flores. Flores, $1,000 apiece were levied against seven Raiders — including quarterback Joe Jim Plunkett — for arriving late at a team meeting, according to two Los Angeles players.

Linebacker Ted Hendricks said Flores had handed down seven fines but refused to specify the amount of the penalty. Rookie defensive end Greg Townsend fingered himself and Plunkett as the players who were the least cooperative in attending the meeting. Townsend and Plunkett said they were "in a bind" because of a car problem. Townsend said he was in the car when he was late.

"The Raiders' disciplinary style was never more evident than in our scrambling to get to work for the Super Bowl. These are the two best teams in the National Football League playing for the championship. If they start cheap shuffling us, we'll take advantage of their penalties. We'll maintain our cool and we'll win the game," Townsend said.

Washington guard Mark May remembers the first game for its ferocity and he said cooler heads will prevail in the rematch.

"I think the first few series on Sunday will decide things," said May. "They'll come out ready to intimidate us with all their pushing and shoving and talking, just like they try to do with everyone else. We know each other. We played against Seattle and we'll settle down and play a good game."

"In a game like this, one team doesn't intimidate the other. We're scrambling too long on our job for the Super Bowl. These are the two best teams in the National Football League playing for the championship. If they start cheap shuffling us, we'll take advantage of their penalties. ## Florida eats up Wildcats

By Fred Lief UPI Sports Writer

So much for Florida vacations. The University of Kentucky, coming off its first win at Auburn, had every right to expect better things Tuesday night at Florida. Here all day long, the cats of the Southwestern Conference last year, losing 13 of 18 games.

But before a school and state record crowd of 12,034 at O'Connell Center in Gainesville, the cats took one healthy bite out of country's No. 3 team with a 69-57 victory.

"This is a big, big victory for all of us," said Florida coach Norm Sloan. "It was a convincing win and I loved it."

Kentucky, which dropped to 12-2, folded up on defense and got little support underneath. Its two big wings, Son Boney and Melvin Turpin, had just 4 points apiece.

Maybe we thought it was going to be easy," said Kentucky coach Joe Hall. "But now we have to regroup."

Eugene McDowell scored 16 points on 8-of-9 shooting for Florida as the Gators beat the Wildcats for the first time since 1979. Kentucky's Williams added 15, Vernon DeLancy 14 (5-of-5 shooting) and Andrew Moten 13. In Manchester had 19 points and Kenny Walker 16 for Kentucky.

"I knew we could go down to the wire with these guys and Williams whose team is 7-6. But I didn't think we could win by this much. Kentucky trailed 18-14 at the half and had to take to the outside with Florida's zone shutting off the middle. The Wildcats cut it to 42-41 with 5:39 left but came no closer.

"They are great players but we just took it to them," McDowell said. "They're still great but we won the game."

In other Top 20 games, No. 7 Maryland defeated Clemson 85-72 and No. 13 Wake Forest ripped Duke 97-66.

At College Park, Md., Ben Coleman scored 21 points and grabbed 18 rebounds and Adrian Branch scored 22 points to carry Maryland, 42-2, in an Atlantic Coast Conference game. Clemson, which had its four-game winning streak broken, had its top scorer, Vincent Hamilton, limited to 5 points.

At Greensboro, N.C., Lee Garber scored 16 points and guards Danny Young and Delaney Rood had 15 each, as Wake Forest hiked its record to 12-2 in an ACC contest. Duke shot less than 40 percent from the floor and 36 percent from the line.

"It was just a bad night for all of us," said Duke coach Mike Krzyzewski. "It's not one of those nights where you watch the film to see what went wrong — everything went wrong. You might as well throw it away."

Elsewhere, Auburn, coming off its upset of Kentucky, lost 73-71 to Vanderbilt as Jeff Turner scored 27 points, including a jumper with five seconds left. Tom Gwydir scored a second-half run to send Columbia over Lehigh 76-55. Steve Black 24 points pushed LaSalle past Manhattan 78-72. Marquette beat Creighton 63-54 for its 10th consecutive victory over the Bluejays. Steve Britt struck for 25 points and Iowa dropped Wales 51-42. Francis (N.Y.) 90-73. Damon Goodwin sank two free throws with 23 seconds remaining as Dayton took Temple 63-42.

Kansas City's Mark Oberding (left) sends Boston's Dennis Johnson flying as pair went for loose ball in NBA action Tuesday night. Oberding was called for a foul.

Bird hits bullseye in Celtics' victory

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Even superstars like Larry Bird have off-nights. But the reason they are superstars is that they rarely string those off-nights together.

Bird had his worst game of the season for the Boston Celtics Sunday when he scored only eight points on 3-of-13 shooting in Milwaukee (game). Bird said of his previous outing, "That's the past. That game is history for me. As long as I don't play like that again."

"I've had games like that before and I'm sure I'll have games like that again. When the ball doesn't go in the hole there's not much you can do about it. I was taking the same shots tonight that I took in Milwaukee — it's just that these were falling for me."

Robert Parish, Dennis Johnson and Kevin McHale contributed 20 points apiece for the Celtics with Parish also grabbing 14 rebounds and point guard Gerald Henderson chipping in 14 points and 8 assists as the Celtics improved the NBA's best record to

Organization is key to Chinese cooking, author says

By Jeanne Lesem
United Press International

NEW YORK — Author Pearl Kong Chen learned to cook because her husband kept bringing people home to dinner.

"He is very hospitable," Mrs. Chen said in an interview during a trip to New York. "He would call (mostly on weekdays) and say, 'So-and-so is visiting San Jose — can I bring him home?'"

Many of the recipes she developed or adapted over the past 15 years are in a new cookbook she wrote with her husband, Tim Chi Chen, a research scientist, and dietitian Rose Tseng, chairperson of the Nutrition and Food Science Department of San Jose (Calif.) State University.

Mrs. Chen's husband had worked in Yorktown Heights, N.Y., and San Jose before taking a leave of absence from his job to teach at and head the United College of the University of Hong Kong. They will be returning to the Yorktown Heights area early in 1984, Mrs. Chen said.

BRINGING GUESTS home to eat is not a Chinese tradition, she added.

"The Chinese used to take people to dinner... In China kitchens are very small and very primitive... Before co-authoring 'Everything You Want to Know About Chinese Cooking' (Barron's, $19.95), Mrs. Chen was a guest demonstrator in home economics classes at San Jose State University and taught menu planning courses in a program for high school home economics teachers and a college course in creative international cooking.

After her mother died of cancer, she also began catering fund-raising dinners for the American Cancer Society.

"There's a very little room for creativity in Chinese cooking," she said. "Everything has been done before and passed down verbally from chefs to writers."

CERTAIN RECIPES require certain ingredients and cooking methods and should be served at certain times, often as seasonal specialties, she said.

Many Chinese specialties are named for generals or artists or great gourmets, such as her grandfather, Kong Hungyun. He was royal librarian to the Imperial Chinese Court and the acknowledged leading gourmet of Canton (now Guangzhou) for half a century during the Qing dynasty, Mrs. Chen said.

His private kitchen covered a city block and his reputation for hospitality was matched only by his gift for culinary perfection, she says.

Some of his favorite recipes in her book include tai shi bean curd, spinach velvet soup and deep fried custard.

Planning worthy of a general is evident in her recipes and menus for entertaining.

YOU HAVE to be very well organized, she said. She said some westerners make the mistake of dressing over wedge of iceberg lettuce.

DEAR MARTIN: I am a sister in the convent of St. John the Baptist in Newark, N.J., and I just mailed another package to our sisters in Zambia, Africa. These packages are possible because of the coupons I use at the supermarket and the refund offers I send for.

This past week I went to the supermarket and my purchases added up to $20.00. After my coupons were doubled and deducted, I saved $4.02. Among the items I purchased were Eveready batteries, which were on sale, and using coupons and a refund offer, the four packages cost me only 72 cents.

At the convent I was often laughed at because of the way I saved labels and box tops, but the tune has changed to something more lively when they noticed the refunds I was receiving in the mail and the increasing number of packages I was able to put together.

I want to thank the supermarkets for taking coupons and the manufacturers for distributing them and making refund offers — and thank you for your column — Sister Marie Antoinette, Newark, N.J.

DEAR SISTER MARIE: Thank you for showing us a view of couponing and refunding that's elevated in character and spirit, and truly lofty.

DEAR MARTIN: What would happen if I was a supermarket at the checkout counter and when I opened my purse to take out my money, the cashier noticed that in my purse I also had a can of hairspray. She might assume that I was guilty of shoplifting, whereas I had actually purchased the hairspray on a previous shopping trip. If I were accused of shoplifting, how could I prove my innocence? — M.K., Madison, Wis.

Try crab dip on special occasion

By Aileen Claire
NEA Food Editor

Special occasions call for special party treats. A dip made of pureed vegetables, cottage cheese, sour cream and snow crab is just right for a party appetizer, or may be served as part of a casual fireside supper with French bread and a mug of soup. Dippers are very special — Alaska Snow crab and vegetables, such as red and green pepper, squash or zucchini, mushrooms, green onions, carrot slices and cauliflowerets.

Carafe keeps coffee hot

By Aileen Claire
NEA Food Editor

CHERRY HILL, N.J. (UPI) — A thermos carafe with matching filter cone is designed to keep coffee hot and flavorful for up to 20 hours because the coffee is brewed directly into the glass liner. The matching filter cone for the Melitta Thermos Filter Drip Coffee Maker holds one liter of liquid, the same amount as the carafe. After wetting the coffee grounds, the cone should be filled to the brim and allowed to drip through. The beige and brown carafe retails for about $30.

Sweet-sour cabbage makes great wrap around ground beef

By Aileen Claire
NEA Food Editor

A different type of meat loaf combines low-cost ingredients for a flavorful new dish. Ground beef is extended with the use of oats and egg, with green pepper, onion and ketchup added to enhance the meat loaf flavor. Surprise seasonings include cinnamon and nutmeg. All this is molded into a ring surrounded by cabbage leaves. A special sweet-sour sauce tops the stuffed cabbage ring.

Snow crab with vegetable dippers is a neat party treat.

Vegetables for dipping: red and green pepper strips, yellow squash, mushrooms, green onions, carrot slices and cauliflowerets. Finely chop carrot, green onion and parsley in food processor or blender. Add cottage cheese, sour cream, lemon juice, garlic salt and hot pepper sauce; process until smooth. Rinse crab under cold running water. Remove crab shoulder meat and add to cottage cheese mixture. Process 30 seconds. Chalk mixture. Cut crab legs into serving-sized pieces. Score backs of leg sections using heavy knife or slit with kitchen shears. Serve cottage cheese mixture as a dip with crab legs and vegetables. This kitchen-tested recipe makes about 2 cups. Variation: Serve dip as cream, lemon juice, garlic salt and hot pepper sauce; process until smooth. Rinse crab under cold running water. Remove crab shoulder meat and add to cottage cheese mixture. ## Stuffed Cabbage Ring

8 large cabbage leaves
Boiling water
1/2 cups ground beef
1/2 cup quick or old-fashioned oats, uncooked
1/2 cup chopped onion
1/2 cup chopped green pepper
1 egg, beaten
1/2 cup ketchup
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
1/4 teaspoon pepper

1 carrot
1 to 2 green onions
1/2 cup parsley
1 cup large curd cottage cheese
1/2 cup dairy sour cream or sour half-and-half
1 teaspoon lemon juice
1 teaspoon garlic salt
1/2 teaspoon bottled hot pepper sauce
1 to 1 1/2 pounds Alaska Snow crab clusters, thawed if necessary

Sauce:
1/4 cups water
1/2 cup firmly packed brown sugar
1/2 cup raisins
2 tablespoons vinegar
2 tablespoons cornstarch
2 tablespoons butter or margarine

FOR CABBAGE RING: Heat oven to 350. In 4-quart Dutch oven, cook cabbage leaves in boiling water about 10 minutes; drain. Line ungreased 6-cup ring mold with cabbage leaves, extending edges of leaves over side of mold. In large bowl, combine remaining ingredients; mix well. Spoon into cabbage-lined ring mold. Cover meat mixture with leaves extending over edge of mold; cover with foil. Bake about 1 hour. Remove foil; drain. Immediately invert onto serving plate.

FOR SAUCE: Meanwhile, in medium saucepan, combine all ingredients; mix well. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until mixture becomes thickened and clear. To serve, spoon warm sauce over cabbage ring. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 6 to 8 servings.

Don't be a chicken

Ms. Steinitz starts by melting butter in a pan on low heat and pouring in the egg mixture.

"How much butter? One tablespoon is customary for most 2-to 3-egg pans, but one tablespoon is enough for seasoned, non-stick pans."

"Let the bottom layer cook like an egg skin. Pull the skin back and let the top part run underneath. Keep the pan moving by sliding it with a back and forth motion on the burner."

"Once the egg is cooked, and the filling off center. Flip the other half over and move the whole thing to the edge (by tilting) the pan."

"To slip your creation onto a plate, Ms. Steinitz suggests grabbing the pan's handle with your palm up and holding it in a fist."

"Flip the pan up as you're turning the page of a book. The omelet should land neatly on the plate."

IF YOU'RE CHICKEN, use a spatula to push it gently onto the plate.

Homework excuse bombs

HOUGHTON LAKE, Mich. (UPI) — A student accused of setting off a bomb in a high school photography lab may have been trying to come up with a good excuse for not getting his homework done on time.

A warrant was issued Monday charging 17-year-old Matthew Anderson with making the bomb that went off in the darkroom of Houghton Lake High School Friday morning.

Roscomon County Prosecutor Thomas Swanson said Anderson, who was injured slightly, may have set off the bomb to avoid a deadline he was unable to meet.

"If (the bombing) would eliminate the deadline," Swanson said, "it appears that, due to his inexperience with explosives, it went off prematurely."

CHECK LISTINGS FOR EXACT TIME

Area Towns In Brief

GOP committee elected

COVENTRY - Republicans Tuesday elected 35 people to two-year terms, leaving no vacancies on the Republican Town Committee.

"This is the first full slate we've had in a long time," said Robert F. Kozm, committee chairman.

Also, Roland Green, Gertrude Havens, Ann Hicks, Clara Huddy, Margaret E. Jacobson, Margaret C. Johnson, Robert F. Kozm, James N. Ladd Jr., Nancy Moore, Robert Oimstead, Alfred Quintillano, Josephine Quintillano, David Roche, Donald Raymer, Lynn Raymer, David Rapp, William Ryden, Pamela Sewell, Blanche Strath and Dorothy Wilcox.

Health hours change

BOLTON - Community Health Care Services Inc. recently announced a change in office hours for 1984.

Andover residents may go to the main office in Yeomans Hall on Route 87 in Columbia Tuesdays from 9:30 a.m. to noon.

Democrats to caucus

COVENTRY - The Democratic Town Committee will caucus tonight at 8 p.m. in the Town Office Building, Board room.

The committee will meet before the caucus begins to endorse a slate of 40 candidates recommended by the nominating committee after two months of interviews.

Democratic Town Committee Chairman Jack Myles said the slate will be elected as a group and vote will be either by voice or by show of hands.

Stove fire burns house

COVENTRY - The South Coventry Fire Department called to North Coventry and Eagleview firefighters Monday night to help fight a blaze at the Main Street home of Douglas Lang, South Coventry Fire Chief Michael LaChapelle said Tuesday.

It took firefighters two hours to put out the fire, which apparently started in the walls near the chimney of the house at 104 Main St., LaChapelle said. He said the heat from a wood stove hooked to the chimney probably ignited the walls.

Chief warns of suits

BOLTON - The Board of Selectmen recently issued a list of town roads maintained by the state rather than by the town.

Latin scholars named

BOLTON - Bolton High School has named the Latin students who will take the National Latin Exam this spring.

'5 Town 8' meets tonight

BOZRAH - '5 Town 8,' an organization of Republicans in five towns in the Eighth Assembly District, will meet tonight to report and elect a Republican to run for the Eighth Assembly District seat in the Legislature.

Panel eyes prison tables

COVENTRY - The Recreation Commission is considering the purchase of four 8-foot concrete picnic tables to install at two town beaches. The state correctional department currently has the tables "practically indestructible."

Art teacher makes news

BOLTON - An article by Bolton High School art teacher Marion Nicolay appears in the January issue of "School Arts," a nationwide publication.

The article is about a mosaic students in Mrs. Nicolay's art classes designed and constructed in 1981.

Some of the students who worked on the mosaic are now seniors, and Mrs. Nicolay said, were thrilled to see the article along with a color photograph of the mosaic in print.

Bolton board creates, but delays, task force

BOLTON - The Board of Selectmen and Board of Finance met separately Tuesday and settled a few questions of mutual concern, while postponing decision on some major tasks anticipated.

Selectmen talked at the idea of forming a joint task force with the town Board of Finance based on capital improvement projects. The idea came last week from Raymond A. Ursin, finance board chairman.

The selectmen also endorsed and sent to the finance board a school board request for more money additional funds to improve the high school soccer field.

Although the selectmen voted 2-2 to establish the capital improvements task force, they refrained from defining the task force's duties, pending further discussion at their next meeting.

First Selectman Henry P. Ryba and Selectwoman Sandra Pierog voted against the task force as it was proposed Tuesday.

But the finance board delayed action on the request, pending a special meeting Jan. 30 to discuss the request with the town engineer, members of the school board, the Public Building Commission and the selectmen.

Finance board members agreed they have heard too many conflicting cost estimates and reports of what kind of work the field needs to make a decision Tuesday.

Bids on the project were opened last week and are due to expire Feb. 23.

THE FINANCE BOARD granted two requests from the Board of Selectmen to transfer funds between accounts.

Selectmen asked to move $1,000 to the account for maintenance of the town police cruiser and $150 moved to the Recreation Commission and Margaret Johnson to the Cemetery Commission.

Marjorie Roach and David Cayer were reappointed to the Board of Welfare. Antonio D'Ambrasio and Richard Godwin were also reappointed to the Parks and Recreation Commission.

After a presentation on the town's Workforce program by Human Services Administrator Dorothy Barrell, the council voted to approve the program as submitted for another year.

McCarthy said, "We have had amazing success with this program."

SEVERAL CITIZENS concerned about possible contamination in wells near the town landfill attended the meeting, but the issue was postponed until Jan. 30.

At that meeting, the council hopes to bring in experts from the Manchester consulting firm of Ross and O'Neil and the University of Connecticut, along with Planning and Zoning and Conservation Commission members to discuss the problem.

A December letter from Charles Kirker of the Department of Environmental Protection warns of landfill leachate flowing in "an unanticipated direction. Kirker said increased monitoring is warranted to protect well water quality of the homes in the landfill vicinity.

DANIEL MANLEY, a member of the Conservation Commission, addressed the council during the meeting and urged the council to seek an environmental impact statement on court-ordered sewers around Coventry Lake.

Manley said, "We have had a long history of the legal basis for fighting the court order requiring the sewer."

Frank Falanga, also addressing the sewer issue, said once the sewer is in other people near the lake will try to hook up. "You will not need the council's approval to hire Pescetto."

Manley said, "We have had a long history of the legal basis for fighting the court order requiring the sewer."

Manley said, "We have had a long history of the legal basis for fighting the court order requiring the sewer."

The board agreed to consider his protest and answer in writing - they did not say when.

The Board of Selectmen also voted to recommend the Bolton Lions Club undertake as its next major project the construction of a pond and picnic area in Herrick Memorial Park.

Other suggestions for Lions' projects were fund-raising to help buy and operate a van for service for the elderly and handicapped, or to help pay for a Bolton resident's care at the Manchester Sheltered Workshop.

The board recently received a request from the Sheltered Workshop for a grant to cover part of the costs of the Bolton resident's enrollment.

Republicans fill committee

BOLTON - Republicans Tuesday re-elected 19 of the current Republican Town Committee members for a two-year term. One new member was elected and four members left the committee.

The new member is 21-year-old Suzanne Silverstein. Finance Board Committee Secretary Thomas A. Manning recommended her to fellow Republicans at the Tuesday night caucus.

Mrs. Silverstein, finance board Chairman Raymond A. Ursin, William T. Wisniski, Mark Johnson, Bette S. Martin, David Mix and Kathleen Mix. Robert A. Dixon, Joseph F. Gately, Town Clerk Catherine Leiner and Ronald E. Miller were not re-elected. Under the town committee's rules, those members who were not able to attend at least half of the meetings during their term are not generally eligible for another term.

ALSO in the audience of citizens, Roland G. Green of Ripley Hill Road said he was "very disturbed" to find that two years after the Board of Tax Review pointed out inequities in the town's tax assessment, the town council has still done nothing to rectify the situation.

Arnold E. Carlson of Standish Road asked the council to consult the town attorney on new state legislation known as the Common Interest Ownership Act with regard to tax exemptions for commonly-owned land.

Thomas W. Brainard, president of the Coventry Taxpayers Association, questioned the town manager about the rehiring of Sam Pescetto as a temporary building inspector.

McCarthy confirmed that he had hired Pescetto again for 2 to 3 days since the last town meeting.

Brainard wanted to know whether McCarthy's action met with the approval of the Town Council. Olmstead said McCarthy did not need the council's approval to hire Pescetto.

Coventry council authorizes check signers

By Tracy L. Geoghegan
 Herald Reporter

COVENTRY - The Town Council authorized weekly check signers Tuesday to authorize Chairman Robert E. Olmstead to sign town checks. It also voted to establish the Town Committee as acting town manager when the manager is away and to give him the power to sign town checks in the manager's absence.

Olmstead, Holmes and Town Manager Charles E. McCarthy were also authorized by the council vote to sign checks from the Board of Education accounts.

THE COUNCIL, acting on recommendations from the nominating committee, approved the appointments of Susan Drogowicz to the Board of Welfare, Robert Wallace and Josephine Quintillano to the Parks and Recreation Commission and Margaret Johnson to the Cemetery Commission.

Marjorie Roach and David Cayer were reappointed to the Board of Welfare. Antonio D'Ambrasio and Richard Godwin were also reappointed to the Parks and Recreation Commission.

After a presentation on the town's Workforce program by Human Services Administrator Dorothy Barrell, the council voted to approve the program as submitted for another year.

McCarthy said, "We have had amazing success with this program."

SEVERAL CITIZENS concerned about possible contamination in wells near the town landfill attended the meeting, but the issue was postponed until Jan. 30.

At that meeting, the council hopes to bring in experts from the Manchester consulting firm of Ross and O'Neil and the University of Connecticut, along with Planning and Zoning and Conservation Commission members to discuss the problem.

A December letter from Charles Kirker of the Department of Environmental Protection warns of landfill leachate flowing in "an unanticipated direction. Kirker said increased monitoring is warranted to protect well water quality of the homes in the landfill vicinity.

DANIEL MANLEY, a member of the Conservation Commission, addressed the council during the meeting and urged the council to seek an environmental impact statement on court-ordered sewers around Coventry Lake.

Manley said, "We have had a long history of the legal basis for fighting the court order requiring the sewer."

Frank Falanga, also addressing the sewer issue, said once the sewer is in other people near the lake will try to hook up. "You will not need the council's approval to hire Pescetto."

RHAM roundup

Test scores up sharply

HEBRON — The performance of RHAM ninth-graders on state proficiency examinations is up sharply this school year in mathematics, and achievement rose several points in each of three other categories, Principal Diana Vecchione said.

Dr. Vecchione said that it is the first time in RHAM history that the number of RHAM students at or above state math standards has exceeded 90 percent. She attributed the rise to redoubled efforts last year to improve the math curriculum.

The tests are used by school systems to identify students who need remedial help in their course work.

Teachers needed

RHAM High School is looking for instructors to teach adult education courses this spring.

Anyone who would like to teach a course on a vocational, recreational or academic subject should contact high school Principal Diana Vecchione at 228-9474 by Friday.

RISE forum set

HEBRON — The RISE Teachers Center, which serves teachers, school administrators and parents of school-age children in east-central Connecticut will present a forum of teachers perspectives on education Thursday at RHAM High School.

The title of the program is "Conditions for Quality Teaching in Connecticut: The Teachers' Perspective."

...struck eight-inch cigars in the air. "A strike costs me $100 million a week. In two months, there's no more meaning to life." The Chrysler chairman said he wishes he could have done better in the summer talks but felt Chrysler's eventual fate was more important. "I did the best I could weighing in the balance the future of the company and of people depending on me doing it right," he said. DOING IT RIGHT began for Iacocca in Allentown, Pa., in 1924. His father, Nicola, came to the United States from Italy at age 12 and owned one of the nation's first real car agencies. The future Chrysler chairman was christened Lido Anthony — Lido from the beach in Venice where his parents had spent their honeymoon. He dropped the name in favor of Lee when he left Pennsylvania for Detroit. Iacocca was a competitor in sports and in his studies, earning a mechanical engineering degree from Lehigh University and a master's degree in engineering from Princeton.

In 1922, he turned down a job in Ford's engineering department in favor of another position in sales. In the next 14 years, with the help of mentor Robert McNamera, who was then a Ford executive, Iacocca climbed through the corporate ranks to the key post of vice president in charge of the Ford division. In this job, the flamboyant Iacocca scored a key success — the introduction in 1964 of the Ford Mustang. The sporty car that he had once considered a classic landed Iacocca the cover of Time and put him in position to assume the presidency of the company. Iacocca brought with him from Ford a group of executives many analysts feel are the best in the business. In 1968, the top members of this team were consolidated into an Office of the Chairman that includes Iacocca, Vice Chairman Gerald Greenwald, President Harold Sperlich and Executive Vice President Bennett Bidwell. This action, which came shortly after Mrs. Iacocca's death, led to speculation that Iacocca might leave the firm, perhaps for a political career. Iacocca did nothing to fuel the rumors but in early December, outside members of the Chrysler board decided they had enough of the constant speculation and offered Iacocca a three-year contract with an optional fourth year worth millions in stock and stock options.

THE DEAL COULD MEAN nearly $20 million for Iacocca should he stay on all four years, which he says he intends to do.

In this clash, officers set the stage for the historic day in 1978 when Ford called Iacocca into his office and fired him, uttering the now-immortal words, "I just don't like you." Only a few months went by before Iacocca landed the president's job at Chrysler, taking over the chairmanship a year later when John Riccardo stepped down. FILM INDUSTRY LEADER JACK VALENTINI pushing for copyright law changes

Royalties sought on home videotaping

Film industry going to Congress

By Elizabeth Olson United Press International

WASHINGTON — The Supreme Court ruled that Americans are not breaking the law by videotaping television programs at home, but the entertainment industry vows to press Congress for changes in copyright laws that would give them royalties on taped shows.

House assistant Democratic leader Thomas Foley of Washington said he would fight any legislation to reverse the thrust of the decision.

Sen. Dennis DeConcini, D-Ariz., who sponsored a bill last year to exempt home taping from current copyright law, warned that those trying to change the law in Congress will have to fight charges of being anti-consumer.

Jack Valentini, president of the Motion Picture Association of America, said the future of creative entertainment for the benefit of the American family is at stake.

No progress in Shultz talks

By E. Michael Meyers United Press International

OSLO, Norway — Secretary of State George Shultz today said he and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko failed to resolve a deadlock on resuming U.S. Soviet negotiations to limit medium-range and strategic nuclear missiles.

There was no headway on that subject, Shultz said of the more than five hours of talks he held Wednesday in Stockholm, Sweden, where he and Gromyko were attending the opening of a 35-nation conference on European security.

Asked if any ground was gained in his talks with Gromyko, Shultz responded: "Nothing I would identify."

Shoveling snow is a family affair this morning on Spring Street in Manchester. Though Wednesday's storm brought less snow than was forecast, hazardous driving prevented the Post family from making it home to Willington at night, so John Muschko of 277 Spring St.

Snow comes early and stays late

Commuters across Connecticut slipped and skated to work this morning in the aftermath of a double-barreled storm that dumped 2- to 3 inches of snow in some areas Wednesday and another 2 to 3 inches early today.

Despite numerous fender-benders and breakdowns, which polka-dotted the highways during the afternoon and evening, there were no serious injuries reported in the Manchester area, police said.

People involved in six accidents in town before 10 p.m. Wednesday and one accident this morning were treated for minor injuries in the Manchester Memorial Hospital emergency room, a hospital spokesman said.

Manchester police spokesman Gary Wood said the number of accidents in town was not much higher than usual under normal conditions. The one-hour delay in Manchester school openings

Tucci wins seat on GOP committee

"We are not going to have a circus on the floor of the committee," Smith said.

The disputes between Smith and Tucci have involved what Smith felt were abuses of order at meetings of the town committee.

Intersection causes wrecks, neighborhood residents say

By Sarah Passell Herald Reporter

A group of Parker Street residents, frustrated with what they consider a large number of accidents and near misses at the intersection of Parker and East Center streets, say they may ask the town to close off part of the intersection to slow down traffic.

Lee and Laurie Pallas, of 115 Parker Street, said earlier this week that the lost straw was an accident one evening shortly before Christmas when, according to police, a drunk driver hit a teenage boy who was walking down Parker Street near the intersection.

Edward Firestone, who owns the Pinewood Furniture store at the western corner of the Y-shaped intersection, said he has seen some spectacular collisions from the window of his store.

Pallas described Parker Street as a major route for between Vernon and Bolton. He said he thinks it would be safer for traffic to use Walker Street, which is wider and, unlike Parker, also has sidewalks. He said many large trucks travel Parker, a claim substantiated by an informal 15-minute survey of traffic made this week by a Manchester Herald reporter.
