Israelis bomb rebels while civilians leave

By Jack Redden
 United Press International

BEIRUT, Lebanon — U.S. helicopters evacuated Americans from west Beirut Friday as fighting continued in the heart of the divided city and Israeli warplanes joined the battle to support the beleaguered Lebanese government.

"This is by far the worst," Margaret Cummings, an American resident in Lebanon for 22 years said while sitting on her suitcase beside the seaside evacuation zone. "I'm just fed up with it all."

U.S. Marines took 244 people aboard 29 flights, mostly American citizens but also including employees of the Japanese, South Korean and Egyptian embassies.

More than 500 British, Commonwealth and West European citizens fled into British helicopters on the roof in front of the U.S. and British embassies for the short hop to ships waiting offshore.

"Everybody seems happy to be leaving, no regrets," said Lt. George Miller, supervisor of the U.S. evacuation. "A lot of Americans have had enough of the Middle East. If I were a civilian I wouldn't stay."

Although the atmosphere was relaxed at the site of the evacuation, the sound of explosions and machine-gun fire echoed in the streets from battles along the "green line" that divides the Moslem west of the city from Christian east Beirut.

For the first time in the week of fighting that has driven the Lebanese army from west Beirut, Israeli warplanes joined the attack on the rebels opposed to President Amin Gemayel with an airstrike 12 miles east of Beirut.

Israeli air force planes attacked this afternoon 10 targets in Bhamdoun area, an Israeli spokesman said. "These targets have been serving as headquarters by extremist groups for launching missions against civilian and security targets in Beirut and the south (of Lebanon)."

A Western diplomatic source said the attack was aimed at rebel reinforcements streaming toward west Beirut through the corridor that links the rebels in the south of the capital with the rebel-held mountains.

The attack was a signal to Syria and the rebels that Israel would not accept a return to the Palestinian and Syrian presence in Beirut that preceded the 1982 Israeli invasion, although it would probably go along with a military stalemate in the capital, the diplomat said.

While Gemayel held lengthy talks with U.S. Ambassador Reginald Bartholomew at the presidential palace in the Christian suburb of Baabda, clashes continued along the green line with shells slamming into adjacent areas.

Beirut radio, the state radio station now in rebel hands, reported that a food convoy relieved 80,000 people tied down in the Moslem Ras Naba neighborhood near the Museum crossing of the green line.

At Beirut airport, home for the shrinking contingent of U.S. Marines, a Boeing 707 chartered by the International Red Cross landed with 22 tons of medical supplies. It was only the second plane to land since last Sunday.

Many possible as successors to Andropov

By Louise Branson
 United Press International

MOSCOW — The death of Yuri Andropov left no obvious heir apparent to the Soviet leadership but speculation for the succession focused on Konstantin Chernenko, Andropov's second-in-command, and two of the youngest Politburo members.

The announcement Friday that Chernenko, 72, was to take charge of the funeral arrangements was considered a sign he could assume the leadership job 15 months after Andropov defeated him in the struggle to succeed Leonid Brezhnev.

The first indication Andropov would succeed Brezhnev was when he was put in charge of the funeral proceedings.

A Western diplomat said Chernenko, a Brezhnev protégé, was widely considered a man of the past whose age counted against him.

"But he should not be discounted as a compromise candidate since he is officially the second-in-command," he said.

"The choice of a successor is going to be a real problem this time around with no clear candidate and the risk that if an older figure is chosen he could fall ill," a Western diplomat said.

He said front runners for the leadership are Mikhail Gorbachev, 52, the Politburo's youngest member, and Grigory Romanov, 60, the former Leningrad party boss.

Other possible successors besides Chernenko include Viktor Grishin, 49, and Geidar Aliyev, 60. Another strong possibility is that the leadership could be shared by two or more of the 12 surviving full Politburo members if they fail to agree on a single candidate.

Several Western diplomats believed Andropov had been grooming Gorbachev for the succession.

Gorbachev was given wider-ranging responsibilities to oversee the election of key provincial officials and also to travel to Canada and Portugal.

But Gorbachev's relatively young age may count against him because "he may not be able to command the support that the older Politburo members do," a Western diplomat said.

The average age of the full Politburo members is 67. Other possibilities are two veterans of Soviet politics — Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, 74, and Defense Minister Dmitri Ustinov, 75.

"They may give Gorbachev the important general secretary position but curb him by naming older figures like Ustinov or Gromyko to the presidency," the diplomat said.

Other Kremlin watchers believe Romanov stands a better chance in the succession stakes since "he is of a more intermediate and therefore less threatening age," one diplomat said.

Romanov was linked to the defense industry during his 13 years as Leningrad party boss. Some Soviet experts feel that background will help him win backing from the military.

"But it is anybody's guess how big a role the military plays," one diplomat said.

Last June, Romanov was brought from Leningrad to Moscow and made a secretary of the party Central Committee. Diplomats say he has some responsibility for defense and economic matters.

Malcolm Toon, the Carter administration's ambassador to the Soviet Union for three years, recently predicted Romanov would be the next Soviet leader.

January inflation spurs mixed predictions

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Wholesale prices jumped 0.6 percent in January, as much business inflation as for all last year, in the wake of severe winter weather that slowed supply lines and damaged crops, the government said Friday.

Analysts from Wall Street to international commodity markets have said they would not be surprised by some surge in business inflation in 1984, but most dismissed the January increase as a temporary repercussion of December's frigid weather.

The rate of increase for everything besides food and energy remained at 0.2 percent a month, the average for the past year and a clear sign that fundamental inflationary pressures are not building in the economy, analysts said.

Food prices were up 2.7 percent overall, while energy prices dipped 1.2 percent.

Because of the exceptionally cold weather the first three months of the year will "be a tough quarter" for inflation for both businesses and consumers, economist Donald Ratajczak said.

Yet Ratajczak, director of Georgia State University's price forecasting project, predicted the Producer Price Index would end the year only about 3.5 percent higher than at the start of the year.

Last year's 0.6 percent increase was a 19-year low. January's increase matched the 1983 yearly figure and was more than in any single month since an identical jump in November 1982. December's increase was a revised 0.1 percent.

White House spokesman Larry Speakes said in Santa Barbara, Calif., "Our viewpoint on it is that although this is the largest one-month increase in 14 months, it is still a relatively modest gain."

"We believe the weather-related increase in January will not dampen the overall progress made last year," Speakes said.

For technical reasons, the January report did not include a 17-cent-a-gallon increase in heating oil prices that could have taken the index even higher.

However, department analysts said the report also greatly exaggerated changes in egg prices, without which the index change would have been about one-third lower.

While egg prices appeared from the report to climb more than 40 percent in January, they actually went up much less, department statisticians said. The increase was an accumulated "catch-up" adjustment for egg figures that were missing in October, November and December as an outbreak of avian influenza had an increasing effect on egg supplies.

Prices on freeze-damaged Florida citrus crops were not reflected in the index.

The weather also was a factor in sending pork prices up 9.2 percent because producers slowed deliveries when frigid weather kept down hog weights. Prices for beef and chicken also went up in January, but not by as much as in December.

Fuel prices showed their sixth decline in the last seven months.

Wreckage of plane is found near bodies

TEMPLETON, Mass. (UPI) — The wreckage of a small plane missing for two weeks with four people believed aboard was found Friday along with several bodies in a swampy, wooded area near the Gardner airport, state police said.

No survivors were found and police were trying to identify the victims from body parts found at the scene, said State Police Sgt. Bernard Lajoie.

"It must have been a high-impact crash. We have bodies at the scene but we don't even know how many," he said.

A special vehicle designed for swamps was called to the rugged terrain near the Gardner town line off Route 2A to begin pulling parts of the Piper Cherokee Arrow out of the swamp, Lajoie said.

A medical examiner was called to begin identifying the bodies, and the Federal Aviation Administration and National Transportation Safety Board were to investigate, he said.

The wreckage was found in thick brush about a mile away from the airport at 11 a.m. by Carl Wilber, 46, of East Templeton and his 18-year-old daughter Cheryl. They called the Athol State Police barracks just before noon after spotting the fragments.

"It took them so long to look for the plane to begin with it was really pathetic," said Cheryl Wilber. "Someone could have been out there suffering and no one would have known about it."

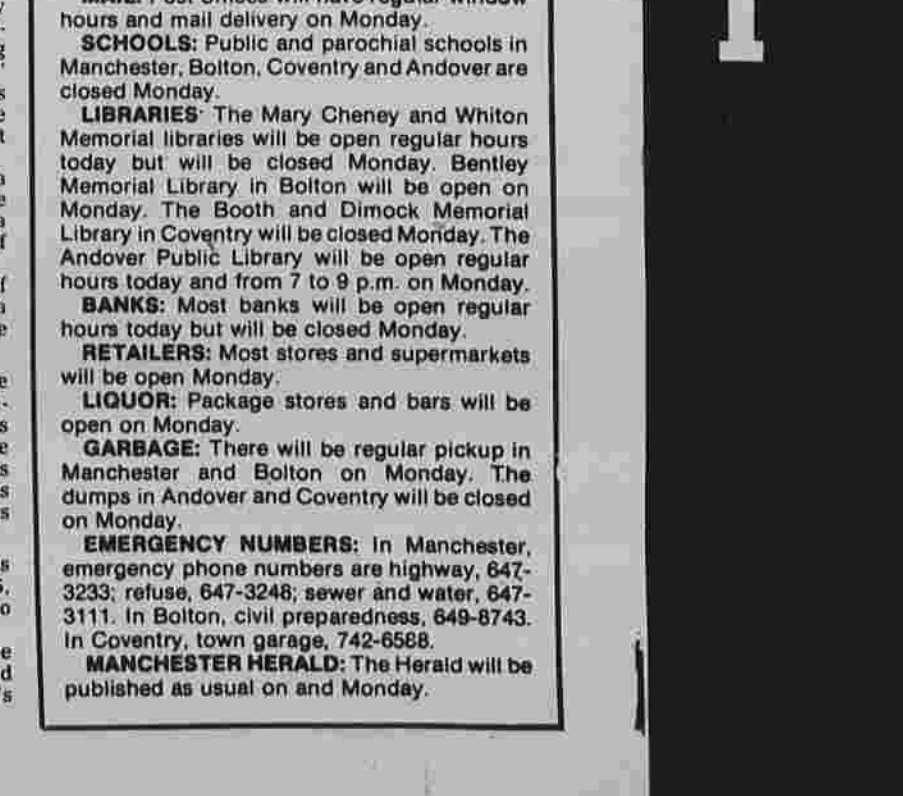

She said there were no footprints near the wreckage. Two years ago, the Wilbers found another plane in about the same area.

At about 2:30 p.m., police used a registration number found at the scene to confirm the wreckage was from a rented plane missing since it took off Jan. 28 from Mansfield, he said.

The single-engine plane took off without filing a flight plan and a three-state search was launched three days later.

The search was shifted to the Gardner-Templeton area after officials received reports from witnesses who said they thought they saw a plane crash in the area. Two snowfalls frustrated Civil Air Patrol volunteers who were scouring the area and efforts to find the plane were abandoned.

Although no official identifications have been released, Charles Perry, 55, of the Brookline area, was believed to be the pilot. He was believed to be Robert Brewster, Arthur Herbert and Caroline Porter, with the woman's hometown being Naples, Fla.

The wreckage of a small plane missing for two weeks with four people believed aboard ended Friday when the wreckage of the plane was found near Templeton, Mass. The wreckage and several bodies were found in wooded areas near the Gardner Airport Friday.

Your neighbors' views:

Are you willing to pay more in gasoline taxes and motor vehicle fees to support a program to improve roads and bridges?

Beth Jenkins, Manchester: "I think taxes are already high enough. We should not have to pay more in taxes."

Valerie Laurel, Manchester: "The government has not done enough on roads and bridges. I think we have been paying for work."

Angus Drever, Manchester: "No, I don't think enough money goes to the government to take care of roads and bridges."

Kevin Thompson, Manchester: "Sure, the roads are so bad now, we need to do something."

Mark Connors, Manchester: "I'm in favor of it if it used for the repair and doesn't duplicate other taxes."

Reno Kurion, Manchester: "No, I'm not in favor of it. That's ridiculous. There's already enough money for the work."

Dennis Sulpes, Manchester: "I think they should come up with a few different ideas. It's going to be more expensive to drive to work."

Larry Sack, Manchester: "No, I'm not willing to do it. Our tax situation is completely out of control. Let's look at spending cuts like the pay of legislators."

EPCOT POLL

The chances of having a woman in the White House in the 80's is a virtual certainty, according to a recent survey at WALT DISNEY WORLD EPCOT Center. But, how out of line participants in the survey say it ultimately could come to pass.

Could a woman be elected President in 1988 or will it take longer, if at all?

Yes, maybe 1988 15%
No, maybe by 1992 31%
No, maybe by 1996 or later 33%
No, never 15%

As might be expected, responses from women differed substantially from their male counterparts.

MALE 11%
Yes, maybe 1988
No, maybe by 1992 26%
No, maybe by 1996 or later 37%
No, never 20%

FEMALE 21%
Yes, maybe 1988
No, maybe by 1992 26%
No, maybe by 1996 or later 39%
No, never 9%

No woman this decade

The results of a recent poll taken at the EPCOT Center in Lake Buena Vista, Fla. showed that most people think a woman won't become president or vice president in the 1980s. However, four out of five participants in the survey said they thought a woman would eventually become president or vice president.

Rain showers and scattered thunderstorms are falling throughout the region. A band of frontal clouds stretches from Nevada to Montana.

Air Quality
HARTFORD — The state Department of Environmental Protection reported good air quality levels across Connecticut Friday and forecast good to moderate conditions statewide for Saturday.

White death
Avalanches of dry snow usually strike so swiftly that even when someone sees the slide coming, there is no chance to get out of its way. But some victims buried alive have been able to breathe in air pockets — like trapped miners — until rescue workers dug them out. The "white death" avalanche, however, makes escape impossible. It consists of masses of very light, powdery snow.

Rain Saturday In Connecticut

For Saturday there is a 60-percent chance of showers. Highs are predicted to be in the mid 40s. Winds will be from the southwest at 10 to 20 mph. Saturday night weather will show gradual clearing. Lows will be between 30 to 35. Sunday will be mostly sunny and mild. Highs will be expected to be around 50 degrees. Today's weather picture was drawn by John Papa, 9, of 37 Park St. He is a fourth-grade student at St. James School.

Manchester In Brief

Tree removal scheduled
A public hearing on the removal of trees at the site of a parking lot for the Kennedy Road soccer complex will be held Thursday at 8 p.m. in the hearing room at Lincoln Center.

Teacher picture charted
The age, salary, and education level of Manchester teachers has been going steadily up over the last five years, a report released recently by the Connecticut Public Employees Council shows.

Meanwhile, the number of pupils per teacher has been going down, but is still above the statewide average. Last year, there were 14.9 students to every professional staff person in town, compared to 14.2 per teacher throughout Connecticut.

The mean age of Manchester teachers was 42.4 years in 1983, up from 40.5 years five years ago, according to the report.

In the same time period, the number with master's degrees increased from 66.2 to 82.2 percent, and the mean salary went up from $15,003 to $21,201. That compares favorably with figures for Vernon teachers, and although a higher percentage of Glastonbury teachers had master's degrees, their mean salary was lower.

In East Hartford, both mean salaries and the percentage of teachers with masters degrees were higher than in Manchester.

School fair spurs scientific thought

By Sarah E. Hall
Herald Reporter

Molds like to eat oil even better than sugar, after they get used to it.

Twins think alike — at least some of the time.

And Oxy-10 zaps pimples better than other brands of cream.

No unproven bits of hearsay are these. After months of research, all three of these conclusions have been verified — scientifically, of course — by seventh and eighth grade students participating in the St. James School science fair this week.

And true to the scientific method, at least some students disproved their own hypotheses.

Larry Deputala, an eighth grader, was surprised to find that Oxy-10 worked better than the other acne remedies he tested. "I haven't heard that many good things about it," he explained in the report which accompanied his display.

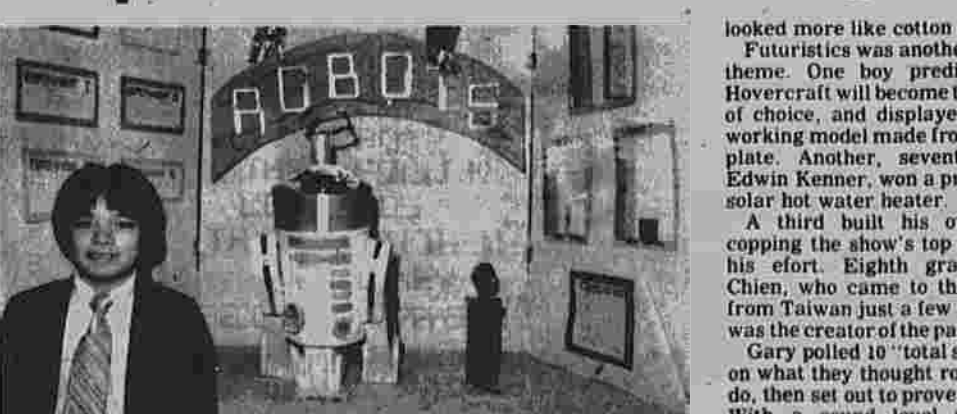

But his conclusion was firm. "I will now switch from Clearasil to Oxy-10 and tell all my friends," he wrote.

Deputala's display itself was arresting. Big grey letters on a red background spelled out ACNE VILLAGES, and a cut-out of a boy's face showed the dread symptoms.

A CARD PLACED next to a pack of "Fresh-up Magic Linen Facial Blotters" invited the less self-conscious onlookers to make greasy imprints of their own foreheads. "See how oily your skin is," it said.

No-nonsense practicality was the thrust behind other exhibits, too. One on generic foods showed that while name brands are more popular, they are often more heavily sugared and not always as nutritious as the stuff that comes in less flashy packages.

Even tap water was given the consumer angle. "So many chemicals are used nowadays to purify water, that it's coming out more polluted than when you started," complained Carolina Nyardy, a giggling seventh grader. The prize-winning solution she and classmate Sherry Combra came up with: Use layered filters and aeration pumps to do the work instead.

Gary Chien, an eighth-grade student at St. James School, devised a working robot for his entry in the school's science fair this week. The top prize winner, he was among 110 students who put up colorful displays on subjects ranging from mold to tornadoes to procrastination.

Amid Hyland, an eighth grader, said she and classmate Katie O'Toole got the idea for their exhibit on colors and emotions from 60 minutes. But Amy had a more personal motive for pursuing the idea.

"I remember I had a pink room ('really hot pink,' she specified later) and I kept getting a lot of headaches. Then we painted it blue, and I didn't get the headaches anymore."

SEVENTH GRADER Theresa Riley probably didn't put off completing her project on why people put things off, or else it wouldn't have been good enough to win her an honors award.

Other young scientists among the 110 in the fair discounted personal concerns. Mike Carter, a looked more like cotton candy. Futuristics was another favorite theme. One boy predicted that Hovercraft will become the vehicle of choice, and displayed his own working model made from a paper plate. Another, seventh grader Edwin Kemner, won a prize for his solar hot water heater.

A third built his own robot, copying the show's top award for his effort. Eighth grader Gary Chien, who came to this country from Taiwan just a few years ago, was the creator of the paper R2-D2.

Gary pulled "total strangers" on what they thought robots could do, then set out to prove it himself. With a sound level meter, he showed that they could both respond to simple commands and recognize a person's voice — without a computer.

"I consider this a great invention," he said.

OTHER DISPLAYS were just plain evocative. Kim Ament's on the "Moire Illusion" showed how a patterned screen slid back and forth over patterned paper looks like shimmering water.

Or, Kim explained, you can use lined screens to produce the "beat effect" — as if when you're riding on the highway and there's two sets of railings, one in back of the other.

Like most of the exhibitors, she had put together a book bulging with information to back up her visual display.

Two girls got the information for their display from their own families.

Eighth graders Kelly Anderson and Monique St. Laurent posted photos of four sets of twins — aunts, cousins, and a mother — then chronicled the many similarities in artwork and lists of favorites from each set. The younger lookalikes were quizzed on their top choices of toys; the older ones, on things like pets and novels.

But in the end, the girls found no mental clones. Like many other exhibitors, they made the discovery that science refutes neat categorizing — even if it would look good in a display.

So on Thursday, Corriveau and his son Michael will hold a grand opening at 53-55 John Fitch Boulevard in South Windsor in a 3,400 foot space that will permit them to carry an expanded line with a lot of imported beer he has no room for in the present store, as well as wines and cordials.

Corriveau lives in Hebron, so the new location will mean a longer drive. But he is looking forward to the new venture nonetheless. The store on Bissell Street was his introduction to retailing. For years he was a pressman at the Hartford Times.

Michael was an associate contract writer with Phoenix Mutual Life Insurance Company in Hartford before he became manager of drinking-age to 20 have hurt the business, particularly since his store had come to be what the trade calls "a beer store." Beer stores depend on young customers, he says.

Being on a side street didn't help either, says Corriveau. Beginning Thursday, the Corriveaus will adopt a new business slogan. They will drop the little store around the corner from Little Street in favor of "the big store with the personal touch."

OPINION

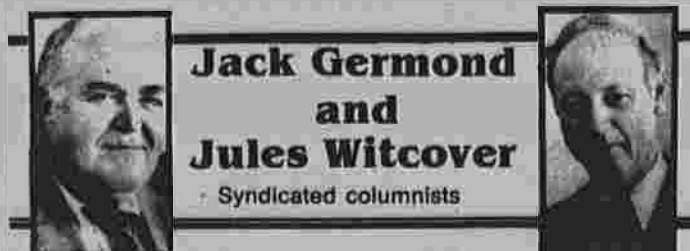

Jackson vs. Mondale a tricky question

ATLANTA — It is no secret here that Mayor Andrew Young is supporting Walter F. Mondale for the Democratic presidential nomination. He has appeared at Mondale's side and said all the right things about him — all the right things, that is, short of a flat public endorsement of his candidacy.

Andy Young is not usually counted as a cautious politician. But then again, he has never had to confront a situation quite like the one posed by the awkward choice between Mondale and Jesse Jackson. So he has contented himself with letting his position become clear without making a federal case out of it.

"My difficulty is that I want to be sure we have a united party at the convention, not after the convention," Young says. As a result, he adds, "I've been a little reluctant to be seen running around the country trying to stop Jesse."

YOUNG'S TIGHTROPE act is a measure of the toughness of the political situation with which Fritze Mondale is dealing in the primaries in Georgia and Alabama March 13 — primaries that are critical to him in acquiring

Jack Germond and Jules Witcover
— Syndicated columnists

the "southern" credential he needs to be considered a realistic challenger to President Reagan in a region Reagan swept four years ago.

At the moment, Mondale is considered at least a nominal favorite in both of these Deep South tests despite the fact that the conservative Democratic electorate here seem such fertile ground for John Glenn, still ostensibly his prime competitor for the Democratic nomination.

But that status as the front-runner rests in large measure, rather not entirely, on the assumption Mondale will win a substantial share of the Black vote, which could amount to one-fourth of the primary turnout in Georgia and as much as one-third in Alabama. And the trick, as Andy Young clearly division is there. Tyrone Brooks, the state legislator leading the Jackson effort in Georgia, says, "He's been to Tifton and Moultrie and Gainsville and Americus. People know him." And state Democratic chairman Bert Lance, officially neutral but

AS A RESULT, the Mondale campaign is walking softly. Lt. Gov. Zell Miller, who is heading Mondale's effort, says, "I'm not going to make any of my black friends mad." He would like to see Andy Young out front vocally but understands why he isn't.

UP TO THIS POINT, there is little evidence of bitter division among black politicians here. Julian Bond, who became the first prominent black leader to declare for Mondale last fall, says he has seen no evidence he is facing retribution from other blacks.

But the real question is whether that kind of effort is necessary, either here or in Alabama. And that depends to a large degree on the results of the New Hampshire primary Feb. 28. If John Glenn emerges from that primary still a credible challenger to Mondale, the pressure on Andy Young and other blacks from the Mondale

More waste at Synfuels

WASHINGTON — Congress is having serious second thoughts about the $15 billion black check it gave the U.S. Synthetic Fuels Corp. to develop new sources of energy.

Rep. Howard Wolpe, D-Mich., has introduced a bill that would stop further Synfuels grants until Congress has had a chance to sort out the agency's obvious problems.

Unfortunately, these good intentions may come too late to save the taxpayers much money. The SFC is planning to spend at least $10 billion by the end of the year.

What makes this rush to dole out the billions particularly outrageous is that the corporation has said it may not submit a comprehensive strategy plan to Congress this year, as required by law. This means that the lawmakers will have no control over the kinds of projects Synfuels is pumping its money into.

It also means that the projects may not get the close scrutiny they should have if they are to avoid harm to the environment. Internal SFC documents obtained by my associates Corky Johnson and John Dillon provide a shocking example of the agency's apparent indifference to environmental considerations.

THE PROJECT INVOLVES peat mining on North Carolina's coastal wetlands by First Colony, whose partners include CIA Director William Casey and other influential Republicans. The peat would be synthesized into methanol gas.

The project will start out as a relatively small pilot plant, which the SFC staff believes will have little impact on the environment. But the obvious point of Synfuels' $450 million investment is to create a large-scale commercial operation — and that's a different story.

A "Women for Mondale" committee was announced Friday at the New Hampshire state house in Concord. Vermont Lt. Gov. Madeleine Kunin (left) and New York City Council President Carol Bellamy are among the women that comprise the committee.

CONCORD, N.H. — Walter Mondale, seeking the Democratic Party's presidential nomination, ended a week in search of gender support Friday by picking up the endorsement of 500 women in the first primary state.

"I don't think they understand the problem," said Mrs. Chambers, who unfurled a long computer printout listing the 500 women supporters of Mondale. "There is a serious gender gap in New Hampshire. We're talking about working women and women who are trying to get by."

Reagan is popular, state poll shows

HARTFORD (UPI) — A University of Connecticut poll has shown strong support for President Reagan, who leads two top Democratic presidential candidates despite a Democratic dominance in voter registration in the state.

The poll Friday showed Reagan with a comfortable margin over former Vice President Walter Mondale and Ohio Sen. John Glenn.

Residents preferred Reagan to Mondale by 55 percent to 35 percent. Mondale led Glenn by 56 percent to 32 percent.

The University of Connecticut's Institute of Social Inquiry polled 500 randomly chosen adults between Jan. 25 and 31. The results published Friday had a margin of error of plus or minus 5 percentage points.

New England In Brief

Richardson seeks seat

BOSTON — Former U.S. Attorney General Elliott Richardson will seek the Republican nomination for the U.S. Senate Feb. 19, the executive director of the Massachusetts Republican State Committee said Friday.

Richardson's entrance into the race could ruin the bid by wealthy businessman Raymond Shamie of Sharon, who challenged Sen. Edward M. Kennedy in the 1982 election.

Longshoremen halt talks

BOSTON — No goods were being moved in Boston's port Friday as longshoremen and shipping officials halted talks temporarily. The executive director of the Boston Shippers Association said a long strike could cause serious delays in the shipment of food and autos, but longshoremen were more confident of a settlement.

Police investigate death

BARNSTABLE, Mass. — A British-born Canadian citizen with a criminal past and living under an assumed name on Cutchunk Island apparently fatally shot himself accidentally with his own gun last month, State Police said Friday.

Woman: honor Marines

LEWISTON, Maine — A 20-year-old Lewiston woman said Friday that she is starting a movement to build a national monument to memorialize the Marines killed in fighting in Beirut. Jody Fraser said she received a letter of support from Sen. William Cohen, R-Maine. Ms. Fraser, who works as a barmaid, said she wants to start a nationwide fund to raise money for the project.

Jury still being selected

FALL RIVER, Mass. — Jury selection continued Friday in the trial of six men charged in the rape of a woman on a barroom pool table last March. A Superior Court judge also continued to deliberate the decision by a Providence, R.I. television station not to give up a tape involved in the case.

Maine sardines a winner

ROCKLAND, Maine — A tin of Maine-packed sardines beat out imported brands coating 10 times as much in a recent food sampling conducted by 15 of the world's most knowledgeable palates at a famous New York restaurant.

Defense spending needs trimming

The United States is not at war, but the 1985 defense budget, proposed this week by the Reagan administration, approaches war-time levels.

Even after accounting for inflation, the whopping $305 billion budget — 13 percent more than the current $258.2 billion budget — would be the most the United States has spent on the military since World War II. The 13 percent hike after inflation is the biggest since a 21 percent increase in 1966, during the Vietnam War.

Even key Reagan aides admit, however, in the words of Budget Director David Stockman, "that $305 billion isn't chiseled in stone."

Whether this indicates a sense of realism and willingness to compromise on the part of Stockman, Treasury Director Donald Regan and others remains to be seen. That certainly would be welcomed, because at the Pentagon there appears to be the usual lack of flexibility. As in other years, Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger says cuts are out of the question.

This is unfortunate and futile, since, as Sen. Sam Nunn of the powerful Senate Armed Services Committee said Wednesday, "The question is not whether it will be reduced but when and by how much."

Maybe I'm getting cynical, but don't you think the voters are ready for something a little more substantial?

Manchester hoops wins one, it should have

By Rich Cahill
Herald Sports Writer

It's often toughest to win when you know there's no way you should lose.

The Indians of Manchester High found that out Friday night when they defeated Conard, 64-54, in a Central Connecticut Interscholastic League basketball game played at Clarke Arena. The West Hartford school came in the game with a record of 3-12. To add insult to injury, five of the Chieftains' top seven players were suspended for disciplinary reasons following Tuesday's loss to Windham.

"Sometimes, these types of games are the toughest," said Manchester coach Doug Pearson.

"You don't know what to expect. I would have rather had those guys playing."

In the absence of the five players, Manchester faced a lineup dominated by players from Conard's junior varsity squad. Nevertheless, the Chieftains were able to hold the Indians to a two-point lead, 28-24, at the half.

Manchester began to pull away early in the second half.

"The first couple of three quarters we did what we wanted to do," said Conard coach John Beney. "We played a good game. We missed a couple of shots at the end."

Beney declined to discuss the circumstances which led to the suspension of the live players. He said it was "a disciplinary thing" that's "been taken care of."

Pearson said his team learned about the suspensions before the game, and that it might have missed some of his players to suffer an emotional letdown. He said his squad had been prepared for a difficult game.

"When their good players are playing and they want to play, they can play with anyone," he said of Conard.

One Indian who obviously did not suffer a letdown was senior captain Ken Willis. He followed his 30-point effort Tuesday at Fenway with 25 points against Conard.

Willis was 8-for-13 from the field and 9-for-15 from the foul line.

"Ken Willis was tough as nails tonight, there's no doubt about it," Pearson said. "Kenny played an outstanding game, especially offensively."

Only one other player — junior forward Russ Anselmo who had 10 points — scored in double figures for the Indians. Conard was paced by forwards Mike Grande and Walker Wright, who each had 10.

Manchester was able to take advantage of Conard's inexperience for some early layups and a 14-9 lead after the first period.

The Chieftains clawed their way back in the second quarter, however, pulling to within two at the half.

"Their intensity was greater," Pearson said of Conard. "I think they were trying to prove: 'We don't need those guys (the suspended players).'"

"Those kids wanted to do something tonight for their coach, and they did. And, I give them credit."

The Indians began to pull away during the third quarter, and spent much of the final period at the free throw line.

Manchester was only 22-for-39 from the line, which allowed Conard to stay in the game.

Manchester played much of the second half without junior center Brian Spano, who sprained an ankle early in the first period.

Pearson said he did not know how serious the injury was or if Spano will miss Tuesday's home game against Hall.

Going into Friday's action, Hall was in first place with a conference quarter. Manchester's ability to stay in the game was a major factor.

Manchester's record is 1-11-1. Conard is 1-11-1. Willis is 8-for-13 from the field and 9-for-15 from the foul line.

Manchester's Brian Spano (44) and Ken Willis (observed by Spano) fight two Conard Chieftains for a rebound in Friday night's game at Clarke Arena. Manchester won its third straight, 64-54.

Manchester's Ken Willis tries to get the handle on the ball in the first half of Friday's game against Conard. Looking on are Mike Grande (21) and Dan Gerstein. Willis led all scorers with 25 points.

McHale paces Celt win

BOSTON (UPI) — Kevin McHale came off the bench to score 30 points Friday night to lead the Boston Celtics to a 114-101 victory over the Houston Rockets.

The Celtics went on a 15-1 run to open the second quarter and take control of the game.

Robert Parish scored 23 points, 17 of them in the second half. McHale scored 19 of his 30 in the second half. Larry Bird had 17 for the Celtics.

Ralph Sampson, the Rockets All-Star rookie center, was held to 12 points, scoring just three in the second half.

The Celtics trailed 28-23 at the end of the first quarter but then prevented Houston from scoring a field goal for the first 7:04 of the second quarter, when Sampson scored on a slam dunk.

Houston was led by Lewis Lloyd with 20 points and Allen Leavell had 17 for the Rockets.

The Celtics led at the end of the first half 46-36 and expanded their lead to 101-83 midway through the fourth quarter. Boston's Gerald Henderson had 18 points.

Bulls 100, 76ers 91
At Philadelphia, Orlando Woolridge scored 25 points. Friday night to lead Chicago to a 100-91 victory over the Philadelphia 76ers.

The victory marked the first time Chicago has won in Philadelphia since March 4, 1981. Since that time, they have lost seven games at the Spectrum.

The Bulls took a 39-32 lead on two free throws by David Greenwood with just under 4:00 to play, but Julius Erving then scored five straight points to help the Sixers close to within 89-87 with 3:00 left to play.

Woodridge connected on two foul shots at the 1:43 mark for a 94-89 Chicago lead, and after Clemon Johnson hit two more with 1:32 left, Greenwood made a long jumper with 1:08 to play. Rookie Ennis Whitely's two free throws with 32 seconds remaining sealed the victory.

The Bulls led 20-14 at the end of the first quarter as the Sixers connected on only 7-of-27 shots from the floor.

Philadelphia took its first lead of the game, 61-59, on a jump shot by Clint Richardson with 1:11 left in the third quarter. The teams then battled evenly until the Bulls stretch drive.

Quintin Dailey added 23 points and Greenwood 18 for the Bulls, while Erving had 21 and Andrew Toney 18 for Philadelphia, which lost its fourth game in its last five starts.

Bullets 98, Lakers 93
At Landover, Md., Jeff Rutland scored 18 points and Ricky Sobers added 16 to lead the Washington Bullets to a 98-93 victory Friday night over Los Angeles, snapping the Lakers' eight-game winning streak.

Rutland rebounded a missed shot and led Sobers, who raced in from half-court for a layup that put the Bullets ahead 94-93 with 16 seconds remaining.

The Bullets had led by as many as 19 points early in the second quarter but by the half the Lakers had gone in from 38-35. Washington did not take the lead again until midway through the fourth quarter, and through the last seven minutes neither club led by more than four.

South halts East streak

HARTFORD — When you play the South Catholic team, you're in trouble.

East Catholic found itself in trouble here Friday night.

The Eagles, coming in tied for a game-winning streak and led by the Hartford County Conference lead, found itself at the wrong speed and fell to the homecoming Rebels, 74-42, in a battle for first place.

"What happened was we got into an up-and-down game and that's what they like," said East coach Jim Penders.

Two key segments were in the second quarter when South's desire to run it with the Rebels, and fell victim to the Rebels, 74-42, in a battle for first place.

East, despite the loss, stands second in the HCC at 6-3 and is 9-8 overall. South is 1-11-1 in the state schoolboy teams in the state, sits atop the conference at 7-2 and is 14-13 overall.

Penders hopes this is not the final meeting against South this year. "I'm confident the kids will come back up," he said. "I'm looking forward to playing South twice again in the HCC's and in the state. Penders added, referring to upcoming tournaments.

South did a good deal of damage inside with Doug McCrory and Pop Fountaine performing the services for the Rebels. McCrory totaled 18 points and Fountaine 10 for the Rebels. Brian Walmaley on a mixture of inside and outside stuff added 15 markers for South.

East put all five starters in double figures. Chris Galligan had 14 points, Jim Dargati and Chris Brunone 13 apiece. John Theriault 12 and Joey Smith 10.

"We certainly wanted this game but it is far from the end of the season," said Penders. "We have a big game coming up Tuesday (at home) against Bulkeley and I'm sure the kids will be back up. The kids attitude is very good and I'm sure they'll bounce back."

"The kids played extremely hard and played well but in some spots we didn't play as intelligently as we could have," Penders said. "East was 27-for-46 from the field but shot equally as well from the floor."

SOUTH CATHOLIC (74) — Murray 8-12, Walmaley 7-13, Fountaine 5-9-10, Strudwick 6-12, Newmover 0-1-3, Williams 5-0-10, Malowowski 1-0-2, Lattanzio 1-4-6. Totals 52-82-76.

EAST CATHOLIC (62) — Galligan 6-22-14, Dargati 6-13-23, Brunone 4-12-13, Theriault 5-2-12, Smith 4-2-10, McPadden 0-0-0, Perno 0-0-0, Stanford 0-0-0, Pineo 0-0-0. Totals 37-113-67.

Alpine events rescheduled

SARAJEVO, Yugoslavia — Continuing violent snowstorms Friday forced a drastic rescheduling of alpine ski events at the 14th Winter Games.

The new schedule decided by organizers and team captains Friday evening.

Men's downhill on Sunday, Feb. 12.
Women's downhill on Monday, Feb. 13.
Women's giant slalom on Tuesday, Feb. 14, both legs run that one day.

The original schedule was for the men's downhill to be held Thursday, Feb. 11. It was postponed until Friday but had to be called off again.

The women's downhill had been set for Saturday, Feb. 11.

Originally, the two legs of the women's giant slalom were to have been held on consecutive days, next Monday and Tuesday.

The two runs had to be rescheduled for the same day, Tuesday next week, to make room for the downhill.

Shriver, Turnbull advance

CHICAGO — Top-seeded Pam Shriver and fourth-seeded Wendy Turnbull each scored impressive quarterfinal victories Friday in the $10,000 Chicago Women's Professional Tennis Tournament.

In Friday's other quarterfinal matches, Barbara Potter faced Kathy Rinaldi and Marcela Mesker took on Helena Sukova.

Shriver of Lutherville, Md., ousted unseeded Bonnie Gascook of Pittsburgh, 6-3, 7-5, while Turnbull, a 31-year-old Australian, eliminated eighth-seeded Carling Bassett of Toronto, 6-3, 6-3.

Hoyt signs new pact

CHICAGO — Cy Young award winner Lamar Hoyt has signed a one-year contract with the Chicago White Sox, the team announced Friday.

Hoyt, who has been with the Sox for four years, finished the 1983 season with a 24-10 record and a 3.66 ERA.

Maryland pair convicted

UPPER MERLBORO, Md. — Maryland basketball players Adrian Branch and Steve Rivers were convicted Friday of possession of marijuana, sentenced to six months probation and fined $200 each.

"I just want to tell the public, my family, my friends, the administration that I'm very sorry for everything that has happened," Rivers said after a court hearing. "I hope that in time, everybody I love and who I hope still loves me, will learn to forgive me."

Branch left quickly without comment.

U.S. figure skaters off to promising start

By Morrin Loder
UPI Sports Writer

SARAJEVO, Yugoslavia — Four days into the Winter Olympics, the United States still is looking for its first medal.

The Americans were shut out in three more events Friday, although the figure skaters, who should provide the bulk of the country's strength, got off to a promising start.

American champions Kitty and Peter Carruthers tied for second after Friday night's short program of the pairs, and Judy Blumberg and Michael Seibert placed third after three compulsory dances of the ice dance competition.

In the meantime, Olympic organizers had to be a lot more concerned that a majestic blanket of white snow would smother the Winter Games and throw the schedule into chaos.

"If the weather does not improve, things will get very complicated indeed," said Hans Baumgartner, spokesman for the International Ski Federation.

Soviet athletes, mourning the death of President Yuri Andropov in Moscow, captured two of the three gold medals decided Friday, with the other one going to East Germany.

Nikolai Zimiatov, a triple gold medalist at Lake Placid using a visor borrowed from an American television commentator, made a successful defense of the 30-kilometer cross country championship, and compatriot Sergei Fokichev won the men's 500-meter speedskate.

Christa Rothenberger, a German finisher, led a 1-2 East German speedskater, led an Olympic record in the 500 meters on Thursday, carried the silver in 41:28 and 19-year-old showing of the Games in the men's 500, where Dan Jansen of West Allis, Wis., the 1983 junior world champion, placed fourth and Nick Thonietz of Minnetonka, Minn., was fifth.

Bonnie Blair of Champaign, Ill., placed eighth in the women's 500 and Kathryn Glass of St. Paul, Minn., was 10th and Connie Paaske of Detroit, a world champion cyclist, was 13th.

The latest disappointment for the United States came Friday when Bill Koch finished a badly beaten 21st in the 30-kilometer cross country, almost five minutes behind Zimiatov.

The 28-year-old Koch, from Eugene, Ore., earned a surprise silver in this event in the 1976 Olympics and was third in the 1972 World Championships.

"I know a lot of people are going to be disappointed about no American medal, but I gave it my best and we've got three more races," said Koch, whose training this winter was interrupted twice by sinus problems.

Zimiatov, who races barehanded, had a time of one hour, 28 minutes and 56.3 seconds. His compatriot Alexander Zavalov, the current World Cup champion, was second in 1:29:23.3 while young Swede Gunde Swann took the bronze in 1:29:57.7. Koch's time was 1:33:44.4.

Fokichev, who turned 21 last Saturday, was in the first pair to skate in the 500 and his time of 38:19 stood up. Yoshihru Kitazawa of Japan earned the silver in 38:30 and Canadian Gaetan Boucher took the bronze in 38:39.

Rothenberger, 28, an Olympic record of 41:02 seconds for the women's 500 meters in a driving snow on the Zetra rink. East German Karin Enke, winner of the 1,000 meters on Thursday, carried the silver in 41:28 and 19-year-old showing of the Games in the men's 500, where Dan Jansen of West Allis, Wis., the 1983 junior world champion, placed fourth and Nick Thonietz of Minnetonka, Minn., was fifth.

Baseball camps open soon

By Fred McMane
UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK — If the Winter Olympics isn't exactly your cup of sylvan, then grab a beer.

The baseball season will be upon us faster than a downhill racer.

Spring training camps begin opening Feb. 16 from Florida to California and by the time the Olympic Expo training camp in West Palm Beach, Fla., after five years at the Phillies' training site in Clearwater, Fla., Rich "Goose" Gosage heads for the San Diego Padres' training base in Yuma, Ariz., after six seasons at the Yankees' training camp in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., and Phil Niekro will be at the Yankees' camp after 18 seasons in the Atlanta Braves' training site at West Palm Beach.

Other players heading for new camps this spring include Dave Parker (Cincinnati from Pittsburgh), Joe Morgan (Oakland from Philadelphia), Manny Trillo (San Francisco from Montreal), John Tudor (Pittsburgh from Boston), Mike Essler (Boston from Pittsburgh), Tim Lincecum (Yankees from California), Toby Harrah (Yankees from Cleveland) and Darrell Evans (Detroit from San Francisco).

A total of 366 exhibition games will be played this spring, beginning on March 3 when the Yankees host the Orioles at Fort Lauderdale. There will be three spring training exhibition series played outside the United States: Philadelphia will meet Toronto in the Roberto Clemente Memorial series in Puerto Rico, March 19-20; the Yankees will face Houston in the Dominican Republic, March 28-30; and Toronto will play Milwaukee in Vancouver, British Columbia, March 30-April 1.

Judge says Sims can stay a Lion

DETROIT (UPI) — A federal judge Friday threw out running back Billy Sims' contract with the Houston Gamblers of the USFL, clearing the way for Sims to remain with the NFL Detroit Lions.

U.S. District Judge Robert E. DeMascio said he was dismayed at the "egregious conduct" of Jerry Argovitz, Sims' agent, who also is an owner of the Gamblers.

"The careless fashion in which Argovitz went about ascertaining the highest price for Sims' services convinced us of the wisdom of this ruling. No man can faithfully serve two masters whose interests are in conflict."

Sims signed a contract with the Gamblers for $3.5 million and later with the Lions for $4.5 million. "I'm glad the whole thing is over," Sims said by telephone from Hooks, Texas. "I was prepared to do whatever the judge said — even go with Jerry (Argovitz) and Gene (Burroughs)."

Burroughs is Argovitz's partner and general manager of the Gamblers. "I'm happy for Billy Sims and I'm happy for the fans," Thomas said. "Validity of the July 1 pact with the Gamblers was the only issue DeMascio considered during the trial, which ended Feb. 3. It was decided under Texas law, where the contract was made."

In a suit filed Dec. 19, 83, Sims claimed Argovitz and the Gamblers used fraud, misrepresentation and breach of fiduciary duty to get his signature on the contract.

Big payday bout hope of Hearn

DETROIT (UPI) — Thomas Hearn makes the first defense of his WBC super welterweight crown Saturday night against underdog Luigi Minchillo of Italy, a 2-10-round junior middleweight contender.

Hearn dislocated two bones in his right hand, which has given him problems since winning the WBA welterweight title from Pippo Cuevas on Aug. 2, 1980.

FLOHSSANT, Mo. — Pete Couture of Windsor Locks, Conn., won six of eight match games Friday to take a 7-1 pin lead after five rounds of the $125,000 Eagle Open.

The top five bowlers after Friday night's final round of match play advance to the championship round Saturday with first place worth $20,000.

McHale paces Celt win

BOSTON (UPI) — Kevin McHale came off the bench to score 30 points Friday night to lead the Boston Celtics to a 114-101 victory over the Houston Rockets.

The Celtics went on a 15-1 run to open the second quarter and take control of the game.

Robert Parish scored 23 points, 17 of them in the second half. McHale scored 19 of his 30 in the second half. Larry Bird had 17 for the Celtics.

Ralph Sampson, the Rockets All-Star rookie center, was held to 12 points, scoring just three in the second half.

The Celtics trailed 28-23 at the end of the first quarter but then prevented Houston from scoring a field goal for the first 7:04 of the second quarter, when Sampson scored on a slam dunk.

Houston was led by Lewis Lloyd with 20 points and Allen Leavell had 17 for the Rockets.

The Celtics led at the end of the first half 46-36 and expanded their lead to 101-83 midway through the fourth quarter. Boston's Gerald Henderson had 18 points.

Bulls 100, 76ers 91
At Philadelphia, Orlando Woolridge scored 25 points. Friday night to lead Chicago to a 100-91 victory over the Philadelphia 76ers.

The victory marked the first time Chicago has won in Philadelphia since March 4, 1981. Since that time, they have lost seven games at the Spectrum.

The Bulls took a 39-32 lead on two free throws by David Greenwood with just under 4:00 to play, but Julius Erving then scored five straight points to help the Sixers close to within 89-87 with 3:00 left to play.

Woodridge connected on two foul shots at the 1:43 mark for a 94-89 Chicago lead, and after Clemon Johnson hit two more with 1:32 left, Greenwood made a long jumper with 1:08 to play. Rookie Ennis Whitely's two free throws with 32 seconds remaining sealed the victory.

The Bulls led 20-14 at the end of the first quarter as the Sixers connected on only 7-of-27 shots from the floor.

Philadelphia took its first lead of the game, 61-59, on a jump shot by Clint Richardson with 1:11 left in the third quarter. The teams then battled evenly until the Bulls stretch drive.

Quintin Dailey added 23 points and Greenwood 18 for the Bulls, while Erving had 21 and Andrew Toney 18 for Philadelphia, which lost its fourth game in its last five starts.

Bullets 98, Lakers 93
At Landover, Md., Jeff Rutland scored 18 points and Ricky Sobers added 16 to lead the Washington Bullets to a 98-93 victory Friday night over Los Angeles, snapping the Lakers' eight-game winning streak.

Rutland rebounded a missed shot and led Sobers, who raced in from half-court for a layup that put the Bullets ahead 94-93 with 16 seconds remaining.

The Bullets had led by as many as 19 points early in the second quarter but by the half the Lakers had gone in from 38-35. Washington did not take the lead again until midway through the fourth quarter, and through the last seven minutes neither club led by more than four.

Rutland rebounded a missed shot and led Sobers, who raced in from half-court for a layup that put the Bullets ahead 94-93 with 16 seconds remaining.

Yugoslavian troops brave the snow storm as they are called to remove the heavy snow from the men's downhill course at Bjelasnica. The Olympic downhill was postponed for second time until Sunday.

Natalya Chive of the Soviet Union was third in 41:50.

World pairs champions Valena Valova and Oleg Vasiliev of the Soviet Union ran up a string of six high marks of 5.8 to stake a strong claim to the gold medal. Despite mis-timing their double loops, the Carruthers, a brother-sister team from Haverford, Pa., gained a tie for second with another Soviet duo.

Larissa Selezneva and Oleg Makarov. Heavily favored Jayne Torvill and Christopher Dean of Britain took the lead after the opening three compulsory dances in the ice dance, followed by Natalia Bestemianova and Andrei Bakin of the Soviet Union and the American pair of Blumberg-Seibert.

The original set pattern dance will be staged Sunday and the free program on Tuesday.

The United States was considered to have a good medal shot in the Nordic Combined, which begins Saturday with the 70-meter jump, weather permitting, and concludes Sunday with the 15-kilometer cross country. Kerry Lynch of Granby, Colo., currently is tied for the World Cup lead.

Other players heading for new camps this spring include Dave Parker (Cincinnati from Pittsburgh), Joe Morgan (Oakland from Philadelphia),

Revolutionary sale coming

Main Street merchants are getting in the spirit for a revolutionary one-day Presidents Day sale being sponsored by the Downtown Merchants Association. The retail sales promotion, which has become a Manchester tradition, normally involves an imaginary odyssey with a thin plot that ends in a thick list of

Station held up 3 times

The Shell station on Tolland Turnpike was robbed three times at gunpoint Sunday by three different men, and a pair of teenagers stole the station owner's car the same day, Manchester police said today.

One suspect was apprehended in the car theft and another suspect was identified, but none have been identified in the three robberies, which are under investigation, police said.

The first robbery occurred at 2:45 a.m. Sunday, when a white man wielding a long shotgun forced station employees to turn over an undisclosed amount of cash, police said.

The man was last seen fleeing west on Tolland Turnpike in a brown Cadillac with a white vinyl top, they said. He was described by witnesses as 6 feet tall with brown hair and moustache. They told police he wore a green army jacket with the hood pulled up and a scarf covered his face.

Less than four hours later, at 8:28 a.m., a bearded black man, 6 feet tall and wearing a blue hat and sunglasses, pointed a small handgun at station attendants and forced them to turn over the station's receipts, police said. The man then locked the attendants in the office before fleeing with the money in a blue South Windsor bank bag, police said. Witnesses were not able to describe the getaway car, police said.

At 3 p.m. police returned to the station after the owner's car was reported stolen. Police spotted the car traveling west on Tolland Turnpike and followed it through the stretch of west Manchester, finally stopping it and apprehending one suspect at 40 Olcott St., police said.

The chase came to a halt when the driver pulled into the parking lot behind the Olcott Street building and two occupants jumped out while it was still moving, police said. The two ran into the building, where an officer apprehended one of them, police said. A civilian who had been riding with the officer stopped the moving car, they said.

Chernenko, 72, gains control

By John Iams
United Press International

MOSCOW — Konstantin Chernenko, who lost a power struggle 15 months ago to Yuri Andropov, was elected today to succeed his former rival as Soviet leader and immediately called for "peaceful coexistence" with the United States but not at the cost of military superiority.

Chernenko, 72, the oldest man to assume control of the Soviet Union, praised his predecessor and one-time rival as "an ardent patriot, Leninist and tireless fighter for peace." Andropov died Thursday. The announcement that Chernenko was chosen by the central committee of the Communist Party to succeed Andropov as party chairman was broadcast simultaneously on television and radio and carried by the official Tass news agency.

"Konstantin Chernenko has been elected General Secretary of the CPSU Central Committee at an extraordinary plenary meeting of the CPSU Central Committee which was held here today," said the official announcement.

In a lengthy speech to the Central Committee, Chernenko mourned the loss of Andropov and said his 15 months in office was a "short, painfully short time." Andropov, 69, died of heart and kidney failure after a year of dialysis treatments and increasingly poor health. He was to be buried Tuesday in Red Square following a full state and military funeral service.

Lenin bequeathed to us the principle of peaceful coexistence with states of different social systems," Chernenko said in his speech.

In the age of nuclear weapons and super-accurate missiles, people need it as never before. But, he said, "Some leaders of the capitalist countries, to all appearances, do not clearly realize, or do not wish to realize that, the first high-level contact between Chernenko and the United States will come during a reception after Andropov's funeral when he was expected to briefly exchange views with Vice President George Bush."

Chernenko, quickly making his views on Soviet-U.S. relations known, said: "We need no military superiority. We do not intend to dictate our will to others." But he warned in words similar to those of Andropov: "We will not permit the military equilibrium, that has been achieved, to be upset."

Konstantin Chernenko (right) is at the side of then-Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev during nuclear arms treaty talks with the U.S. in Vienna in 1979. Chernenko, who rose to prominence as Brezhnev's closest aide, is succeeding Yuri Andropov as leader of the Soviet Union.

Let nobody have even the slightest doubt about that." Chernenko vowed to strengthen Soviet military might so "that we should have enough means to cool the hot heads of militarist adventurists."

"This, comrades, is a very substantial prerequisite for preserving peace." Chernenko was nominated by Prime Minister Nikolai Tikhonov, at 78 the oldest member of the Politburo, and elected unanimously.

Following the nomination speech and Chernenko's acceptance remarks, the roughly 300-member committee observed a minute of silence in memory of Andropov before adjourning. In recent public appearances,

Choice is a surprise

Theodore T. Cummings expressed surprise today when he learned that the Communist Central Committee had selected a 72-year-old man to succeed Yuri Andropov as general secretary of the Communist Party in the Soviet Union.

Cummings was one of the Manchester people in the Soviet Union with the Friendship Force when Leonid Brezhnev died and was succeeded by Andropov. Cummings said he expected a younger man might have been chosen this time. He said the idea that a young and more aggressive person might be selected worried him.

Andropov's successor is Konstantin Chernenko, Cummings was not surprised that the choice went to a rival of Andropov, however. Chernenko lost to Andropov in a struggle for the post 15 months ago. Cummings said he doubted the change would have any material effect on relationships between the United States and the Soviet Union.

He said the Russians have a deep fear of the Western World. Two others on the Friendship Force trip disagreed on the comparison of the atmosphere at Brezhnev's death and at Andropov's.

Mayor Barbara Weinberg, who led the trip, said it was her impression from watching television that the presence of the military was not so overwhelming when Andropov died as when Brezhnev died. She was watching Russian television in the earlier case.

She said she had spoken to several others who were on the trip and they shared her impression. But William Brindamour said the pictures he saw of scenes after Andropov's death seemed to him the same as the earlier ones he had seen when in Russia. Brindamour, like Cummings, was surprised that the Politburo had chosen an elderly leader again.

Food delivered; war zone quiet

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Relief workers arranged a mercy mission to deliver more food and supplies today to rebel-controlled west Beirut and President Amin Gemayel vowed the crisis in the capital would end within a few days.

Although rival guns in and around Beirut were silent today during heavy rainfall in the capital, a peace effort by Saudi Arabian mediator Rafik Hariri ended without progress, said Lebanese rebels opposing Gemayel. The sources said Hariri returned home "empty handed" following his weekend mission in the region aimed at ending the latest slide toward an all-out civil war.

The capital's western Moslem sector has been under siege since rebels seeking to topple Gemayel gained control last week in the worst fighting since the 1975-76 civil war. Army troops have battled rebels, making it too dangerous to cross the "Green Line" dividing Moslem west Beirut from Christian east Beirut.

But a Red Cross convoy carried food and medicine to west Beirut through the crossover point at the National Museum on Sunday and Social Services Minister Adnan Mroueh said flour would be delivered today. Black market prices have soared amid fears of food shortages.

Beirut radio said Sunday the museum crossing would be open and protected by French peacekeepers today for 8½ hours.

French troops moved into positions on both sides of the crossing, stationing themselves between the Lebanese army and Christian militias to the east and Moubarratoun gunmen from the Sunni Moslem militia to the west.

Gemayel, making his first public appearance since the Moslem takeover of west Beirut, promised that "in a matter of hours or days the situation will be resolved." He did not elaborate.

As Gemayel spoke, government artillery fired at Syrian-backed Druze Moslem rebels in the hills beyond, shaking the house in the eastern Beit Meri suburb overlooking the capital where the news conference was held.
