Israel, Syria won't go along with Saudi plan

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — President Amin Gemayel agreed under rebel pressure Friday to a peace plan that cancels the Israeli-Lebanese troop-withdrawal accord but needs the unlikely support of Israel and Syria to succeed.

Syria and Israel, both with veto power over the plan, expressed opposition.

I am confident this initiative will lead to national reconciliation and the withdrawal of foreign forces from our country," Gemayel said of the eight-point peace plan sponsored by Saudi Arabia.

But, he added in an interview with American television networks at the presidential palace in suburban Baabda, "If this plan does not succeed, we will try another one."

More fighting was reported with Syrian-backed Druze militiamen shelling Lebanese army troops at the Shouf mountain town of Souk El Gharb, which guards the approaches to the capital. The town is the army's last outpost outside Beirut.

Gemayel said he had not heard from either Israel or Syria, but "if I have to choose between the (Israeli-Lebanese troop withdrawal) agreement and national unity, for sure I prefer, I choose, national unity."

Gemayel's Druze Moslem and Shiite Moslem foes had long called for cancellation of the treaty with Israel. But Druze leader Walid Jumblatt said that irrespective of the fate of the treaty, Gemayel would have to resign for peace to return to Lebanon.

As Foreign Minister Elie Salem outlined the eight-point Saudi peace plan, the sound of Lebanese army artillery roared near the presidential palace.

Christian Phalange radio reported heavy shelling aimed at troops at Souk El Gharb, the last army post in the

No one hurt in rollover

Town firefighters wait for a tow truck after a rollover during rush hour Friday at Center and Parker streets. Vernon resident Margaret Blynn wasn't hurt and was able to crawl out of her car after it hit an embankment on the side of the road and flipped over. According to police, Miss Blynn was traveling east in the right-hand lane when she was forced off the road by another car. The second car did not stop and police said they have no clues to the name of its driver.

Economy leveled off as '83 ended

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. economic growth leveled off in the final quarter of 1983 to 4.9 percent because of the trade deficit, but the decline was less precipitous than earlier estimates showed, the government said Friday.

The latest economic report also demonstrated that a long awaited business spending boom had finally occurred, setting a record-high level for investment in modernization and expansion.

"It's just fantastic," senior Commerce Department economist Theodore Torda said. "We have a real boom on our hands."

Many analysts, reviewing this week's exceptionally strong reports on January sales, production and housing starts, expect the current quarter to turn out better than the final months of 1983.

It is clear to us that the nation is set on a strong economic course for 1984," White House spokesman Larry Speakes said. "We are poised for economic expansion of the kind that puts people permanently back to work and sets the country on a proper economic course."

Jerry Jasinowski, chief economist of the National Association of Manufacturers, said, "We are currently projecting growth in the 6 percent range for the first quarter. The economy continues to grow stronger even though growth in the fourth quarter of 1983 was somewhat slower than expected due to a drop in net exports."

The Commerce Department originally said growth in the gross national product adjusted for inflation was 4.5 percent during the final three months of 1983, compared with the previous quarter. In its routine revision, based on recent statistics on sales and the trade deficit, the department revised the final quarter GNP to 4.9 percent.

Economists generally consider a 4 percent pace for GNP sustained over several quarters, to be the "break-even" point above which the unemployment rate improves and below which it gets worse.

In dollars not adjusted for inflation, the nation's goods and services earned $3.310 trillion in all of 1983.

The bargains are coming

After "riding" through the streets of Manchester warning residents that the bargains are coming, Main Street merchants regrouped at the Greater Manchester Chamber of Commerce to prepare for today's Presidents Day sale.

The merchants hope to attract a army of people to Main Street with history-making low prices. The sale is being sponsored by the Downtown Merchants Association.

Winter storm is moving east

A vigorous winter storm Friday barreled through Utah, leaving a foot and a half of snow behind, and charged into Colorado. Residents along Illinois' swollen Rock River kept a wary eye on the muddy banks.

Dense fog covered parts of the Mississippi Valley and was blamed in a fatal Iowa traffic accident Thursday. In Michigan, a man was killed when his car hit a patch of ice and skidded into a tree.

Winter storm warnings were posted over all of Colorado and the northern third of New Mexico for 6 to 12 inches of snow and 50-mph winds and storm watches were issued for parts of Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas.

Six inches of snow blasted Monticello, Colo., in two hours as the storm moved east.

Up to 18 inches of snow hit the Utah mountains. The Alta ski resort got a fresh 16-inch snowcover and Tooele reported 12 inches before the storm charged on.

Roads in Utah and Colorado were slick and dangerous to travel.

"We're going to go to sleep for a couple of hours, let the sun come out and let the people go to work," trucker George Webster during a stop in Salt Lake City.

U.S. Highway 666 was blocked for two hours 10 miles north of Gallup, N.M., when at least eight tractor-trailer trucks jackknifed on the slick road.

Officials briefly closed Little Cottonwood Canyon near Salt Lake City while avalanche crews lobbed explosives at the mountainsides to bring down potential slides. The canyon was re-opened.

"Stay home," was the advice Utah Highway Patrol Dispatcher Patty Coon gave motorists in the Salt Lake City area.

Teton County, Wyo., authorities were investigating the death of a skier caught in an avalanche Thursday near Jackson.

Pierre Muhme, 27, Jackson, Wyo., was skiing in an avalanche path, Sheriff Roger Millward said.

"He went down about 30 feet. The snow fractured away and carried him down the slope some 300 yards through the trees. He sustained multiple injuries from the debris and from the trees as he was carried down the mountain."

The springlike temperatures that bathed the Midwest this week combined with rainfall to send streams and rivers over their banks.

Residents along the Rock River Friday paid close attention to the water.

Ice jams caused some flooding in Rock Island County Thursday and three families were evacuated by boats.

OPINION

Intelligent voters have a choice to make

For once, Democratic State Central Committee member John Sullivan had to agree with Republican state Sen. Carl Zinsser about something.

Responding to a comment by Zinsser that appeared in this column a few weeks ago, Sullivan said that Zinsser was right when he said voters in Manchester are pretty intelligent.

There, however, their shared perspective ended.

Zinsser had claimed that intelligent voters led to President Reagan's first term, and would be sure to give him another four years in office.

Sullivan, though he acknowledges Democrats have an uphill battle this year, says he's "not a defeatist by any means," and thinks electoral intelligence might make Reagan a one-term president.

Obviously, we'll have to wait a few months to see who's the better judge. Meanwhile, it's safe to say that intelligence will be only one of many factors in the campaign, and perhaps not the most important among them.

IN WHATEVER MANNER one regards intelligence, its weight will be diminished by the degree to which candidates and grassroots organizers can manipulate emotions about issues such as the arms race, civil rights, the treatment of minorities, a stop-gap foreign policy, and the possibly temporary nature of the expanding economy, to name a few. And given his problems in these areas, Reagan will need a lot of luck to stay on top.

Manchester Spotlight
James Sacks — Assistant News Editor

Because of that, it is good to see that town Democrats, pessimistic as some of them appear, are gearing up for a serious battle with the Republicans, who are pretty sure their man will remain in power, barring some kind of particularly Republican disaster.

It is also reassuring that Manchester Democrats in addition to Sullivan know they have an uphill climb this year if they hope send Reagan back to his California ranch. The question is whether our actor-president's "masterful performances" on occasions such as the recent State of the Union Address.

MANY PARTY LEADERS would prefer to see Ohio's Sen. John Glenn lead their ticket, but they almost unanimously predict that Mondale will emerge the winner at the convention in San Francisco.

And though they would undoubtedly unite behind Mondale if he won the nomination, it might not be with the enthusiasm they would show for Glenn, the candidate many believe could offer better protection to the lower part of the ticket. Among Democrats who see themselves as socially progressive but fiscally conservative, that's likely to be quite a problem this year.

A sampling of the opinions held by Sullivan and other Democratic leaders in Manchester generally supported this view. But, these Democrats warned, Republicans are fooling themselves if they think the 1984 election will be either a landslide or an easy victory for Reagan.

Sullivan admitted that even if the Democrats "work like beehives" in this campaign, much doubt remains as to whether they will prevail. But he said he thinks it can be done, adding as a joke that the party "should draft Gregory Peck" because he could match our actor-president's "masterful performances" on occasions such as the recent State of the Union Address.

MAYOR BARBARA WEINBERG, echoing Sullivan's sentiments and citing Reagan's appeal to "pocketbook power," said this will be "a difficult campaign and a difficult election to win."

An early supporter and friend of former President Jimmy Carter, Mrs. Weinberg called Mondale "a very capable man," but said he is a bit lacking in that "magical" quality in politics.

In the view of Democratic majority leader Stephen Penny, "When people feel happy, they're going to vote for an incumbent."

Turning to the issue of intelligence, Cummings said it's obvious to poor people, union members, minorities and a host of others that Reagan "doesn't think we're worth much."

"Trickle-down," he added glibly, "is really trickle-up, so the fat cats get the most." One Democratic advantage, he said, is a Republican Party whose members are "smug and think they've got it made."

Though Cummings, also a Glenn supporter, believes his candidate would prove more popular than Mondale, he says Mondale is leading and would do "real well" in the election.

BASED-ON THE FACTORS that are involved, it is premature for Republicans to forecast an easy win for Reagan on Nov. 6, especially considering the administration's lack of aptitude in diplomacy.

If anything proves to be a Democratic wild card, it will be the administration's lack of aptitude in foreign policy. Whatever one feels about Reagan, most should agree that this is one area in which he moves like a bull in a china shop.

Judging by the views of the Democrats, it is not hard to see why knowledgeable observers say that if the party chooses Walter Mondale, the uphill climb toward the White House will be a steep one.

But it is fortunate that the Democrats are being realistic and preparing for a tough battle that they aren't sure they can win, and here's hoping that John Sullivan, not Carl Zinsser, is right about the voters' intelligence.

"They supported groups which they knew to be pro-Nazi," Singlaub said. "They supported the Belgian secessionist group headed by a former Nazi SS officer."

The internal schism first erupted at the annual WACL conference at Rio de Janeiro in 1973. Respected American conservatives and the Taiwanese who funded WACL were surprised to discover that CAL had managed to exclude from the league a long-established Latin American conservative group, Tradition Family Property.

THEY SOON LEARNED WHY. TFP had an honorable record of opposing fascism that dated back to the 1930s. Apparently, anti-fascism was unacceptable to CAL's anti-Semitism was not.

Several of the conservative leaders boycotted WACL meetings when they learned of TFP's exclusion. "They couldn't understand why this well-known conservative organization, with branches in more than a dozen Latin American countries, was being kept out of the international league by CAL."

They should have gotten a clue to CAL's extremism from its magazine, Replica, published in Guadalajara, Mexico. An illustration covering the TFP shows a pig bearing the name of TFP's chairman. The story accused him of being a Jew.

Outraged by CAL's attack, TFP began investigating the group. The investigation showed that CAL's supposed anti-communism wasn't as strong as its anti-Semitism. In fact, according to one inside source, CAL leaders believe "it is better to have Russian domination than Jewish bankers." In short, better Red than tolerant.

The schism within WACL continued to fester over the years. The Taiwanese, who have close ties to Israel, must have been particularly offended by CAL's naked hostility to Jews and the Jewish state.

But apparently no one in WACL had the guts to do anything about its embarrassing Latin American affiliate — until last month. I'm pleased I was able to help judge them in the right direction.

Expulsion took much too long

WASHINGTON — After nearly nine years of hand-wringing, the conservative World Anti-Communist League last month finally expelled its Latin American affiliate, CAL, after reporting CAL's links to the notorious right-wing death squads in Central America.

The belated action was taken at an emergency WACL meeting in Taipei. The head of the U.S. chapter of WACL, retired Army Gen. Jhn Singlaub, told my associates Jan Lee Anderson and Dale Van Atta that the Latin American group was expelled because it was so blatantly anti-Semitic, not because of the death squad links.

"They were really anti-Semitic," Singlaub said. "They even accused the pope of being Jewish."

CAL's anti-Semitism is beyond argument. They supported the Belgian secessionist group headed by a former Nazi SS officer.

Another $25,000 was included for respite care programs for brain-injury patients being cared for at home to help ease the burden on their families, O'Neill said.

This is the amount that I felt we could do," O'Neill said of the allocations, now being considered by the Legislature. "I was told this would suffice at this time."

The traumatic brain injury task force was the first of its kind when O'Neill created the panel in 1982. The group studied the problems of traumatic brain injury patients and ways to avoid such injuries.

In addition to the two programs in the budget, the task force recommended the state require motorists to wear helmets and mandatory use of seat belts in motor vehicles.

State Health Services Commissioner Dr. Douglas S. Lloyd said mandatory seat belt use and motorcycle helmets were good ideas, but admitted this may not be the year to ask lawmakers to adopt them.

"You have to look at the reality" of getting the proposals through the Legislature, Lloyd said.

O'Neill, who voted to repeal a motorcycle helmet law when he was in the Legislature, said the task force report "may have people thinking in a different light."

Connecticut In Brief

Blast frightens neighbors
DANBURY — Robbers escaped employ-handed early Friday after blowing up an outdoor bank teller machine in an explosion that rattled nearby houses and jarred sleeping residents who rushed from their homes.

State police and the FBI sought leads in the 3:30 a.m. blast outside the City Trust bank branch on Route 6 near the Bethel line.

City police said there were no suspects and reported no injuries in the explosion.

"There was a very loud explosion that sounded like something blew up. The noise was loud enough to shake windows and shake the building," said William Muir, working at a nearby gasoline station. "It scared me enough to make me jump," he said.

Request pays for housing
WESTBROOK — Mary Leonard Pritchett, 92, has shown her love for the town by leaving it more than $300,000 to build 24 units of housing for the elderly.

Mrs. Pritchett also provided nine acres for the site in Westbrook, a Long Island Sound community of 4,900. It will be called Safe Harbor, and is to be run by a non-profit corporation led by six local leaders she chose, including two clergymen.

Mrs. Pritchett died this week in Santa Barbara, Calif., where she spent her winters. She was a literary agent and widow of Leonard W. Pritchett. They had no children.

Mrs. Pritchett had provided $15,000 to get the building going and it was expected to be completed while she was still alive to see it, said Donald Morrison, president of Safe Harbor. Morrison is a former first selectman and is the town treasurer.

Suburbs threaten Bridgeport
BRIDGEPORT — The city could lose its position as the economic center of the region if plans for downtown revitalization and the $700 million Harborpointe project do not succeed, a regional planner warned Friday.

James Wang, executive director of the Greater Bridgeport Regional Planning Agency, said Bridgeport's economic recovery may be threatened if suburbs continue to compete for industry and commercial developments.

"Our major problem is to find out how Bridgeport can achieve enough growth to sustain itself," he said. "The city right now is without attractions. We have to have new activities and new buildings to attract people."

Man's death ruled suicide
STRATFORD — A 66-year-old Stamford man who drowned after stopping his car on a Merritt Parkway bridge in Stratford and leaping into the chilly Housatonic River, committed suicide, state police said Friday.

Robert Brigham was plucked out of the river shortly after 9 a.m. Friday by rescue workers aboard a helicopter dispatched by nearby Sikorsky Aircraft. He was rushed by ambulance to Milford Hospital, but was pronounced dead on arrival about 9:45 a.m., hospital spokesman William Rooks said.

GOP asks waste task force
HARTFORD — House Republicans called Friday for creation of a task force to develop recommendations for coordinating the state's enforcement of laws dealing with hazardous and toxic waste.

The plan, endorsed unanimously by the House's Republican minority, called for the task force to develop proposals by Dec. 1 for creation of a single unit to investigate and prosecute violations of hazardous and solid waste laws.

Rep. T.J. Casey, R-Milford, ranking Republican on the Environment Committee, said the task force was needed to coordinate efforts on hazardous and solid waste now handled by several agencies creating some confusion.

The Environment Committee has agreed to hold a public hearing on the task force proposal, Casey said at a news conference where the GOP plan was unveiled.

Whealon to leave hospital
HARTFORD — Archbishop John F. Whealon will be released from the hospital Monday, 10 days after undergoing surgery to remove a rare cancerous tumor, a spokesman for the archdiocese said Friday.

"His rapid recovery has pleased and surprised the medical staff," said the Rev. Edmund O'Brien, adding the archbishop will be released earlier than had been anticipated.

Whealon was expected to resume his duties as the leader of 780,000 Catholics in the area by within a month, but will continue radiation treatments at present, O'Brien said.

Bridge aid $11.4 million
GREENWICH — The federal Department of Transportation has promised the state $11.4 million to help pay for temporary and permanent repairs to the Connecticut Turnpike bridge over the Mianus River.

Three people were killed and three others injured when a 100-foot section of the multi-lane bridge gave way last June 28.

The federal aid was announced by a spokesman for Rep. Stewart McKinney, R-Conn., whose district includes Greenwich and many of the surrounding towns affected by the collapse.

William A. Lisarek, deputy commissioner for the state Department of Transportation, said state officials need more information before deciding if the federal contribution would be sufficient.

The total cost of repairing the 26-year-old bridge is estimated at $39 million. Costs will be spread among insurance companies, the state and the federal government, Lisarek said.

Singer jailed three years
BRIDGEPORT — A country-western singer from Derby serving a 10-year prison term in Maine for attempted murder has been sentenced to three years for embezzling more than $18,500 from a Fairfield gas station.

Superior Court Judge L. Scott Melville Thursday said the sentence imposed on Michael Conley, 36, in conjunction with the murder case, was consecutive with the prison term in Maine.

Conley, who has appeared in nightclubs around the Northeast, pleaded guilty to one count of first-degree larceny. He was charged in May 1982 in a warrant with taking funds from a Fairfield service station where he worked as manager.

Tucker missing
Tucker, the bull mastiff dog scheduled for execution in Augusta, Maine, for killing a neighborhood poodle, was found missing from his pen at a kennel in Belgrade Friday.

Tucker's owner, Eric Leonard, said many people offered to kidnap the dog, but he told them he preferred the legal route to save his dog. Here, Tucker posed with his owner before he was sentenced to death.

Keep just historic tolls, O'Neill says

HARTFORD (UPI) — Gov. William O'Neill Friday reaffirmed his support for removing tolls from the Connecticut Turnpike and three Hartford-area bridges, but said he thinks tolls on two historic parkways should stay.

O'Neill also told a news conference he would look for plans for a new legislative office building now that the estimated price of the structure has risen to $50 million or more.

O'Neill rejected calls in the Legislature for repealing a law passed last year that requires the removal of tolls from the Connecticut Turnpike and three bridges in the Hartford area.

O'Neill rejected arguments by some lawmakers that tolls must remain to help pay for road and bridge repairs.

On another topic, O'Neill said he would have to look closely at plans for a new legislative office building, now estimated to cost $50 million up from an earlier estimate of $30 million.

"Before I give my okay to $50 million I want to talk to a awful lot of people," said O'Neill, who had indicated earlier he thought the Legislature needs additional space.

"If $50 million is the number, so be it," O'Neill said, adding that he wanted to be sure that much money was needed for the structure, which would help ease crowded conditions in the Capitol.

O'Neill said any legislative office building would have to be the first class and blend in with surrounding buildings, including the historic 165-year-old Capitol, which stands directly in the site of the proposed building.

Bill would ban booze in miniature bottles

HARTFORD (UPI) — A legislative committee changed its mind Friday and decided to hold a public hearing on a bill to ban the sale of liquor in miniature bottles in Connecticut.

The General Law Committee had decided earlier not to hold the hearing, in effect killing the bill, but reversed the measure at least in part about reports of problems with the miniature bottles.

Rep. Maurice Mosley, D-Waterbury, co-chairman of the committee, said he would be holding a public hearing on the bill to ban the sale of liquor in miniature bottles in Connecticut.

Reserves pick up slack in Manchester victory

ENFIELD — When a player is missing and another is bothered by a nagging injury, it's important that others pick up the slack.

Manchester High got that Friday night.

The Indians, without guard Chris Peterson, out with a knee injury suffered Tuesday, and with starting center Brian Spano on the bench with a tender ankle, got big contributions from John Janedna and Davey Woobright as they cooled off Fermi High, 68-59, in a battle for fourth place in the CCL.

Manchester, winners of five straight, goes to 10-6 in the league, all alone in fourth. Fermi, which had won four in a row, drops to fifth place at 9-7.

The top four clubs qualify for the CCL Playoff slated Feb. 28 and March 2.

"We're in the driver's seat," Manchester coach Doug Pearson talked about the fourth place slump. "We control our own destiny."

Pearson was impressed by his team's ability to beat a club like Fermi. "I'd have to say they're the best of everyone and Davey Woobright as they cooled off Fermi High, 68-59, in a battle for fourth place in the CCL.

Manchester, winners of five straight, goes to 10-6 in the league, all alone in fourth. Fermi, which had won four in a row, drops to fifth place at 9-7.

Woobright, drawing his first start, had eight important points for Manchester. He was starting in place of the 6-8 Spano, who has been bothered all season by 11 tender ankle, according to Pearson. Spano, nevertheless, did have seven points and grabbed a game-high 12 rebounds to lead the Indians to a 37-27 edge in that quarter.

"Manchester's next action is Tuesday night on the road at Wetherfield High. It concludes the regular season at home Friday night at Clarke Arena against Windham High.

East hot at right time, hold off Xavier at end

By Rich Coombs
UPI Sports Writer

If you're only going to get hot once during a season, you might as well make it at the end.

That's the way East Catholic coach Jim Penders felt about this season, which took a turn for the better nine games ago and has continued to improve since then. The Eagles won their eighth in the last nine games Friday night, when they hung on for a 67-67 victory over visiting Xavier High of Middletown.

The Eagles held a 12-point lead midway through the final period, and then held on in the face of an Xavier comeback. Senior Chris Brunne, who was East's leading scorer with 20 points, hit four free throws in the final minute to clinch the win.

After losses in seven of their first 10 games, the Eagles have an 11-8 record going into Tuesday's season finale at Windsor. East has a record of 7-3 in the Hartford County Conference, and will play St. Thomas Aquinas in the first round of the conference playoffs on Feb. 29 at the University of Hartford.

East won the game at the free throw line, hitting 21-of-27 shots, while the Falcons were able to shoot 16-of-35. East also shot 57 percent from the field. Tuesday's win over Bulkeley, East shot nearly 70 percent.

"You usually were a little hungrier tonight than we were," Penders said in reference to Xavier's need for a victory. That showed in the first period, when East shot 10-of-14 from the field and took a 20-14 lead.

HEBRON — RHAM outscored Cheney Tech 30-24 at the free throw line here Friday night to take an 86-74 victory over the Beavers in a Charter Oak Conference game.

The Beavers had only 12 free throw opportunities, while RHAM went to the line 41 times. Four Cheney players fouled out, including Bob Elliott who led the Beavers with 37 points despite sitting out nearly a full quarter because of the foul difficulty. Cheney coach Aaron Silvia said the loss of Elliott made a big difference in what he called "a very poorly officiated game."

Bolton throttled

CROMWELL — The Bolton High basketball team's hope for a spot in the state tournament ended here Friday night, as Cromwell defeated the Bulldogs 71-48 in a Charter Oak Conference game.

The loss dropped Bolton's record to 1-13. Even if the Bulldogs should win their final two games of the season — next Friday at home against Vinal Tech and Feb. 28 at Rocky Hill — they would not have the .500 winning percentage needed for a berth in the state tournament.

ROCKY HILL — Defenses dominated as homesteading Rocky Hill topped Coventry High, 35-32, in COC basketball action here Friday night.

The win moves the Terriers to 6-9 in the conference and 7-10 overall. The loss, the Patriots' third straight, drops them to 1-6 in the COC and 12-46 overall.

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Julius Erving scored 19 of his 39 points in the fourth quarter Friday night and Bobby Jones hit the go-ahead free throw with 35 seconds remaining to give the Philadelphia 76ers a 114-109 victory over the New Jersey Nets.

The game was tied 111-111 in the fourth quarter, the final time with 1:14 left on an Erving free throw following a technical foul called against the Nets' Albert King. After Moses Malone hit a free throw, Michael Ray Richardson's layup gave New Jersey its final lead at 109-108 with 57 seconds remaining.

Jones then sank two free throws to give the 76ers the lead for good. After Richardson missed a pair of foul shots with 23 seconds left, Andrew Toney and Erving each connected for a pair of free throws in the final 14 seconds to secure the victory, only the fourth for the 76ers in their last 12 games.

Erving hit seven consecutive shots in the first 4:45 of the fourth quarter to keep Philadelphia winning striking distance. King scored 10 of his team-high 22 points to enable the Nets to keep pace while Richardson contributed 10 of his 14. The Nets' biggest lead in the period was 107-104 on two free throws by King with 1:44 left before Erving slammed in an alley-oop dunk and a technical free throw.

Toney added 22 points for the 76ers while Malone, back in the lineup after missing nine games with a sprained ankle, contributed 15 points and 13 rebounds.

U.S. won't remember Olympic Games fondly

By Martin Loder
UPI Sports Writer

SARAJEVO, Yugoslavia — Despite the euphoria created by twice striking for gold on the hills of Sarajevo, the United States will have little reason to think fondly of the 14th Winter Olympic Games.

Entering the final week of competition, the United States has only five medals from 21 events. Not since 1936, when the Games were staged in Garmisch-Partenkirchen, Germany, has the United States come away with fewer than seven medals.

Given one certain medal in women's figure skating Saturday night, courtesy of Rosalynn Sumner, the Americans are virtually assured a sixth medal. But whether they avoid their worst wipeout in 48 years is questionable.

Sumners, the world champion, goes into the free skating in second place behind European champion Katarina Witt, claiming that her "main competition is myself."

Plenty of news for all

Welcome to the world of bowling. This is the first in a series of bi-weekly columns designed to keep you informed of local, state and national bowling news, as well as reports from the Professional Bowlers' Association.

Bowler's World
John Jenkins

Best wishes go to the new manager of Brunswick Park Lane, Sam Weiss. He is a personal young man from Philadelphia who has a tough task replacing Bernie Giovinio, who ran a very successful establishment for Brunswick for 20 years. Stop in and say hello to the new manager.

The Central Connecticut Bowling Association is presently running its annual tournament. This year, it is being hosted by Bill Walker and his staff at Earl Anthony's Bloomfield Bowling Center. The 1984 version has 186 teams as well as 256 doubles, 512 singles and 438 all-events. The tournament runs through Sunday. The leaders after the second weekend are: Scratch division — team: Slipki number one (3078), singles: George Villa (704), doubles: John Myers and Butch Paternostro, all-events: Bob Frazier (1965). Handicap division — team: DelGrecio Agency (2397), singles: George Villa (770), doubles: Steve Nesko and John Maiorca (426), all-events: Red Raulston (2136).

The Connecticut State Tournament entry blanks are available at local centers. Entries are open until March 7. This year's tournament will be at Saybrook Bowl in Old Saybrook. Tournaments are enjoyable and competitive. Go have some fun with your friends.

The Professional Bowlers' Association's winter tour is under way. Six weeks have produced six different winners, the latest being ABC commentator Nelson Burton Jr. It was the 18th PBA title for the American Bowling Congress and PBA Hall of Famer. In the process, he set a TV record of 1050 for four games. He rolled games of 278, 279, 257 and 236 to defeat Paul Gibson, Marshall Johnson and Gary Morgan. Steve Kass and Lessard each have one. Ted Kone has high triple with 828, while Kass rolled an 821. Morgan leads with 826, and John Myers is at 225.

Bosox sign Mike Brown

BOSTON — Right-handed pitcher Mike Brown agreed Friday to a one-year contract with the Boston Red Sox, and veteran right-hander Rich Caldwell was assigned to the team's Triple A club, it was announced Friday.

Rightly to try bullpen

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. — New York Yankees left-hander Dave Rightly agreed somewhat reluctantly Friday to go to the bullpen as the club's hoped-for replacement of former reliever ace Goose Gosage.

Rightly, who was first asked to go to the bullpen in January after Gosage announced he would not return to the Yankees, thought it over and was consulted again Thursday by Yankee manager Yogi Berra.

Mets sign Darling, Sisk

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. — Pitchers Ron Darling and Doug Sisk and rookie outfielder Herm Winfield signed Friday with the New York Mets, leaving five roster players left unsigned.

Those unsigned are pitchers Walt Terrell and Tom Gorman, infielders Wally Backman and Brian Giles and catcher John Gibbons.

Martinez ready to go

MIAMI — Baltimore right-hander Dennis Martinez said Friday his alcoholism was discovered just in time, and he is ready to battle for a spot in the starting rotation.

"I took it (the arrest) as advice from God," Martinez said. "It was if he was telling me this was my last chance. I tried to stop drinking before, but I couldn't do it myself."

Richard signs Tucson pact

HOUSTON — Former Houston Astros right-hander J.R. Richard has signed a minor league contract of undisclosed length with the Astros' Tucson farm club, the Astros announced Friday.

Richard, 32, was with the Astros' spring training as a non-roster invitee.

Heavyweights in feature bout

RENO, Nev. — Three-time Olympic gold medal winner Teofilo Stevenson meets Tyrell Biggs in the featured super heavyweight main event of Saturday's dual boxing meet between the United States and Cuba.

A confident Connors hasn't lost a set and has lost just 11 games in the tournament after receiving a Healy round bye. He said he came out early and had a good practice before the match, which seemed like a foregone conclusion to the left-hander.

Bidwell Home Improvement improved on its first-place standing by taking three games and tying one against the second-place team, CJ's Giant Grinders. Dick Murphy led the way with 258-70. John Myers had 247-60, and Pete Beaudry scored 21-23-638. Also in the league, AJ Senna totaled 256-628. Bidwell now leads by five games.

John Morin collected the $100 first prize in the No-Tap Tournament at Parkade Lanes last weekend. In a no-tap tournament, you get credit for a strike if you get a nine drop on your first ball. Morin shot games of 275-223-230 and added his 156 handicap for an 884 total. Ray Pointer finished second with 830, worth $75. Claudette Mertens captured the women's division over Judy Ann Soucy by one pin for the $91 first-place money. Mertens' scores were 219-209-202, plus 150 for 780. Recently, the juniors at Parkade had their annual "I Beat My Coach" tournament. Twenty-four bowlers collected awards for besting their coaches' three-game totals.

Weiss reports several tournaments coming up at the Parkade. The Manchester Town Tournament is being reinstated after a two-year absence. There will be four divisions consisting of men's scratch, men's and women's handicap and juniors' handicap. There will be a Brunswick doubles tournament on the same idea as the National Team Tournament. A $1000 first prize will be offered to the top duo in each region. Information on these will be announced. The weekend of Feb. 25 and 26 will offer a five-person tournament at the Parkade. Squid times are Saturday at 1 p.m. and Sunday at 11 a.m. The cost is $30 per team. March 17 and 18 will be the Scotch Doubles weekend. Details are available at the bowling alley.

If you have any bowling news from the Manchester area which you believe deserves special notice, leave the information at the desks in the Parkade. The news can be reached at 649-0819 or at the Parkade Lanes at 643-1507. Please leave a message if I am not there, and I will get back to you.

Go out and enjoy the most widely participated sport in the United States. Good luck and good bowling.

LOS ANGELES — Isao Aoki, trying to become the first Japanese player to win a PGA event on the United States mainland, bogeyed his final hole Friday to fall into a tie for the lead with Jay Haas and Rex Caldwell after the second round of the $400,000 Los Angeles Open.

Aoki, who joined the American tour three years ago, finished with a 7-under-par 70 and was at 141. He had a one-stroke lead before bogeying the 418-yard, ninth hole, his final hole of the round.

Connors, Noah gain semifinals

LA QUINTA, Calif. (UPI) — Top-seeded Jimmy Connors and No. 2 seed Yannick Noah of France swept into the semifinals of a $225,000 tennis tournament Friday with lopsided victories.

The tournament is sponsored by Congoleum. Connors routed Tim Mayotte 6-2, 6-1, while Noah had an even easier time against outgunned Eiel Teltshcher, posting a 6-1, 6-0 victory.

Also advancing to the semifinals were No. 3 seed Jimmy Arias, who defeated Shlomo Glickstein of Israel, 6-3, 7-6 (7-1) and fourth-seeded Jose Higueras of Spain, the tournament's defending champion, who beat Scott Davis, 6-1, 6-3.

A confident Connors hasn't lost a set and has lost just 11 games in the tournament after receiving a Healy round bye. He said he came out early and had a good practice before the match, which seemed like a foregone conclusion to the left-hander.

"I was eager to play today," he said. "I like to play early like I did today because then, win or lose, you have time to do other things like spend some time with the family."

Connors wife, Patti, and 2-year-old son Brett were at Connors' side for his match Friday. Connors, who has won the tournament twice since 1976, faces Higueras in Saturday's semifinals.

U.S./World In Brief

Peace is still the goal

WASHINGTON — President Reagan set in motion Friday the withdrawal of U.S. Marines from Beirut, after 17 months and 264 deaths, but he insisted America will maintain a strong presence in the Middle East.

Reagan gave his verbal approval to national security adviser Robert McFarlane for the plan to pull back the Marines from the Beirut airport to ships off Lebanon's shore.

In the meantime, the president said America is "pursuing every avenue in the search for peace and stability" in Lebanon.

His spokesman, Larry Speakes, said the Marines surrounded by anti-government Moslem rebels at the airport have negotiated informal "safe passage" agreements with the guerrillas, allowing the U.S. forces to travel to and from the embassy and the rebel soldiers to traverse the airport north and south.

Stormie greets her mom

PITTSBURGH — The 6-year-old girl who had her first simultaneous heart and liver transplants greeted her mother Friday with a warm "I love you" and sat in a chair for the first time since making medical history.

Stormie Jones of Cumbly, Texas, was allowed to sit up for 15 to 20 minutes in a chair in her room, said Children's Hospital spokesman Dick Riebling.

She was taken off a respirator Thursday night. Doctors expect her to leave the hospital's intensive care unit next week.

"I love you," Stormie said in her first words to her mother, Lois Jones, since the landmark 16-hour operation which ended Tuesday, Riebling said.

Iowa toddler heads home

NEW YORK — A curly-haired Iowa toddler whose life was saved by a spinal cord operation her hometown doctors would not perform and giggled Friday as she left a hospital for home with the hope of walking again.

Kandis Gerlach, and her mother, Leticia, said goodbye to doctors, nurses and other children in the pediatric wing of New York University Medical Center with a birthday cake celebrating Mrs. Gerlach's 24th birthday Saturday.

Mrs. Gerlach and Kandis were flying home to Newhall, Iowa, about 20 miles west of Cedar Rapids, to an expected welcome from friends and family.

The child's mother refused to give up when doctors in Iowa said the tumor on Kandis's spine was inoperable. Without surgery, she faced progressive paralysis and death.

Mondale counterattacks

MANCHESTER, N.H. — Walter Mondale ignored his Democratic opponents Friday and waged a strong attack on President Reagan and a "dump Mondale" advertising campaign planned by the National Conservative Political Action Committee.

Mondale said he agrees with a letter sent this week by Democratic National Committee Chairman Charles Manatt warning the eight Democratic presidential candidates to stop political infighting and concentrate on Reagan.

Mondale, the current Democratic front-runner, said he has not been one of those guilty of what Manatt called "personalized attacks or criticisms that could inhibit our ability to win in November."

Group raps union action

WASHINGTON — The National Right to Work Committee Friday branded as "legalized extortion" the AFL-CIO's use of union dues in Walter Mondale's campaign and said it will hire detectives to infiltrate the union effort.

Committee President Reed Larson said a legal challenge to efforts by the AFL-CIO and the National Education Association on behalf of Mondale was being filed with the Federal Election Commission.

The Right to Work Committee opposes labor-management contracts that require a worker to be a member of a union, or pay union dues, as a condition of maintaining employment.

Officials of the campaign of Sen. John Glenn, D-Ohio, also have charged that the Mondale campaign is exceeding federal rules on spending limits by its use of in-kind help from the AFL-CIO and NEA.

Iran attacks Iraqi town

LONDON — Iraq said Iranian jets attacked a border town Friday, killing 14 people in the first reported air strike against civilian targets since cross-border artillery bombardments began a week ago.

Iran said its troops captured strategic hills overlooking the Baghdad-Basra highway in southeastern Iraq during a two-day offensive that Tehran claimed killed or wounded 2,100 Iraqi troops.

Iranian jets swooped over the town of Ali Gharbi, 20 miles inside Iraq's eastern frontier, in mid-morning, the Iraqi news agency INA said in a broadcast monitored in London.

Mondale ends Iowa campaign with optimism

DES MOINES (UPI) — A confident Walter Mondale wound up his Iowa campaign Friday, promising backers "a larger than average party to celebrate" when he returns Monday on caucus night.

The comment was the closest to a victory prediction the former vice president has made. Polls show him getting between 40 percent and half the vote in the eight-candidate field in Iowa's first-in-the-nation precinct caucuses, with no clear contender for second place.

But Sen. Gary Hart of Colorado, in a grueling 14-hour blitz through six cities spanning Iowa, stepped up his campaign urging voters to pick him instead of the old politics represented by the front-runner.

Although there is no poll yet to support it, state party officials say Sen. John Glenn of Ohio appears to be in a three-way battle for second place in Iowa with Hart and Sen. Alan Cranston of California. A final Iowa Poll by the Des Moines Register will be published Sunday.

Glenn returns to Iowa Saturday for a final two-day push in the state. Two long-shot candidates, former Sen. George McGovern of South Dakota and former Florida Gov. Reubin Askew, campaigned on college campuses in Iowa while Cranston, Jesse Jackson and Sen. Ernest Hollings of South Carolina campaigned elsewhere.

"On Feb. 20 the citizens of Iowa are going to be the most powerful on Earth," Mondale told a rally of his precinct captains. "That's the night you'll run this country if you do it."

"We're going to have a larger than average party to celebrate," he told a cheering audience.

Mondale asked for a big Democratic turnout to send a message to President Reagan, who also will be in Iowa Monday to attend a pair of GOP rallies but will return to Washington before the caucuses start in the evening.

U.S. files suit in shipbuilding fraud

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Justice Department filed a civil suit Friday to recover more than $1.8 million from a former General Dynamics manager and two former Frigitemp Corp. executives for an alleged shipbuilding fraud.

The civil suit, seeking confiscation of kickbacks and repayment of government overcharges plus "exemplary damages," was filed in U.S. District Court in Boston.

It names James Gilliland, former assistant general manager of the Quincy, Mass., Division of General Dynamics; George Davis, former vice president of Frigitemp; and Gerald Lee, Frigitemp's former chief executive officer and chairman of the board.

Conspicuously not named in the suit is P. Takis Veliotis, another General Dynamics executive who fled to Greece after he was indicted with the others last September for the same scheme.

Harry Maidment is a Scout who's put in 35 years

By Barbara Richmond
Herald Reporter

Harry Maidment of Scarborough Road has been in Boy Scouting for 35 years. He's seen a lot of Scouts — probably more than 1,000 — come and go over the years.

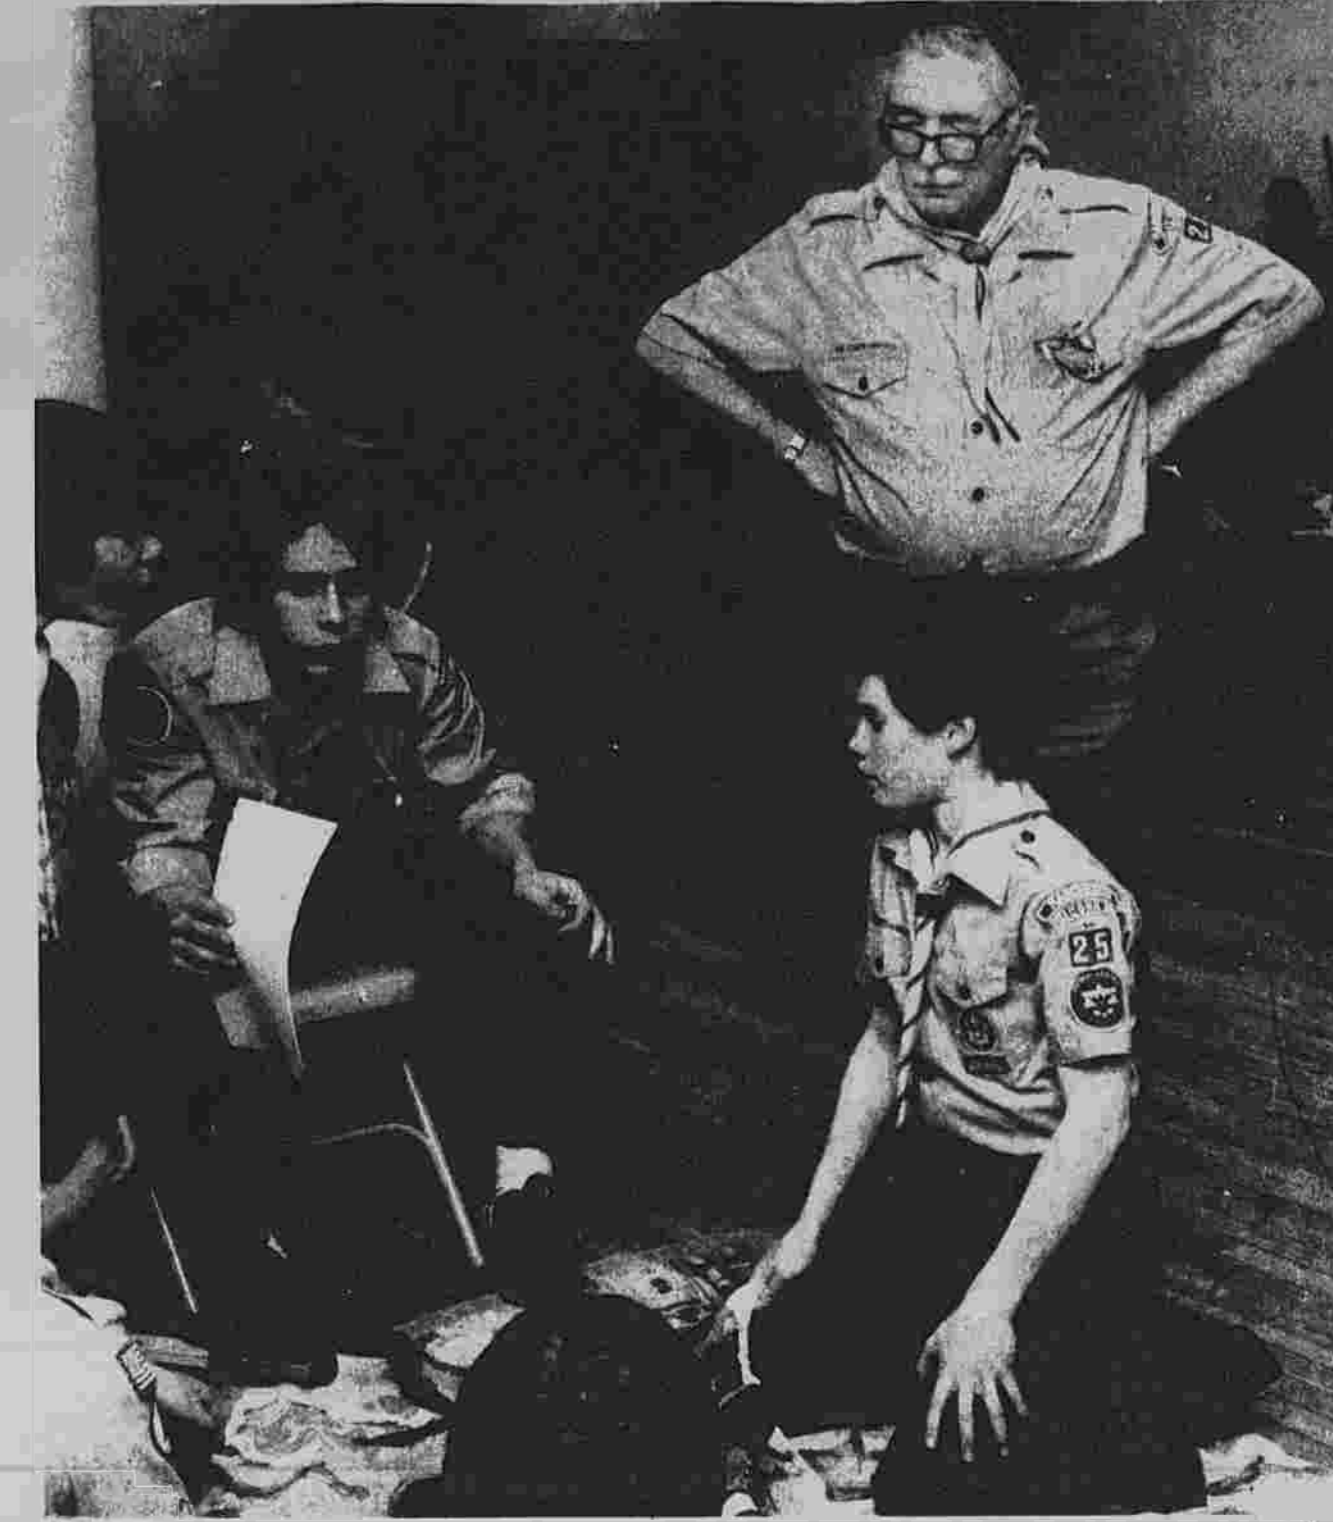

All in all, he said, the organization hasn't changed all that much over the years.

The one thing he does notice is the fact that there is a lot more competition for the kids' time today.

"Years ago there weren't all of the Little League sporting activities to vie for their time. We have to work to recruit them. And of course, there are fewer kids now, too," Maidment said.

Maidment, a guidance counselor at Manchester High School, is Scoutmaster for Manchester's Troop 25, the oldest Boy Scout troop in town. Founded in 1916, it's the same troop he belonged to when he first joined Scouting as a boy.

HE'S BEEN ACTIVE in Scouting since he began as a Cub Scout in 1932. He has been Scoutmaster since 1981, after serving in the U.S. Army during World War II and then graduating from Yale University in 1950. He also earned his master's degree from the University of Connecticut in 1952. In 1966 he went from teaching at the high school to being a guidance counselor.

Does he ever have discipline problems with any of the Scouts?

Maidment said he takes it all in stride. "It's part of our philosophy never to throw a kid out who gets in trouble. We try to help him. We may make him wait for badges. Some who have gotten into trouble turned out pretty well."

The familiar uniform of years ago — knickerbockers and broad-brimmed hats worn by Maidment when he posed for a snapshot at age 13 — has been modernized over the years. But the program itself has remained pretty steady.

The program still emphasizes outdoors skills, first aid and waterfront skills. "We have an exceedingly strong Red Cross program. The Scouts have an opportunity to get the whole Red Cross first aid and waterfront safety programs."

"Another emphasis is in the area of service. Part of the requirement to becoming an Eagle Scout is that the Scout has to lead a service project. Our Scouts have done a lot of work on the Hockanum River Trail and also for the church. For the past few years they've also helped at the Manchester Community College relay and they helped to clean up at Cheney Hall. Oh yes, Boy Scouts still have to learn how to tie knots."

Another unique thing about our troop is the fact we have our own camp — Camp Kirkham in East Lempeston, N.H.," he said.

THE CROWNING GLORY for those who are completing their seventh year of Scouting is a trip to Bermuda. The Scouts start earning and saving money for a four-year period.

Maidment has seen 200 of his charges become Eagle Scouts — the highest rank that a boy can earn. Only about three percent of Boy Scouts nationally ever attain that rank. He said he expects about one-quarter of his Scouts who remain in Scouting to eventually become Eagles.

He declines to take all the credit for the success of the troop. He said he's had a lot of help — "far from a one-man outfit. It was 35 years ago — but it's not now," he said.

While nature study has always been a big part of the Scout program, there is more emphasis on conservation today, rather than on learning to identify plants and birds, he said.

He chuckled as he recalled how, when he was working toward his Eagle Scout award, he had to identify 40 birds in the field.

"I can still spot the various birds but now that badge requirement is more on general conservation," he said.

Advice

Selection of wedding dress involves one mom too many

DEAR ABBY: This is in response to the letter from the 22-year-old bride-to-be who invited her future mother-in-law to go along and help pick out her bridal gown.

Dear Abby

Abigail Van Buren

I don't know what kind of relationship the bride had with her own mother, but I can tell you that the day my daughter invites her future mother-in-law along to help pick out her bridal gown, I will be busy elsewhere.

MRS. A. IN PINCKNEY, MICH.

DEAR MRS. A: So far, my surprise, the matriarch running 2-to-1 in favor of your point of view. But read on for a heartwarming letter for the opposing view.

DEAR ABBY: I was very proud of my daughter when she asked her future mother-in-law to come with us and help pick out her bridal gown.

BEEN THROUGH IT

DEAR BEEN: It's true, but what's wrong with breaking down? It's appropriate for one who has

DEAR DR. LAMB: My 68-year-old mother is senile. She still recognizes people she sees regularly but can't remember what happened 10 minutes earlier.

Your Health

Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

We read about the drug haloxone, which is used to treat manic depression. Have you heard of this drug being used to treat senility? Would you recommend using it?

DEAR READER: This was first reported by doctors from New York University Medical Center. Haloxone is a neuroleptic drug used to treat manic depression.

I can't recommend haloxone at this point and it's not yet available for treatment of senility. Studies are still in the early stages. The initial report of only seven patients showed improvement within an hour and the improvement lasted from one to three weeks. So it's encouraging.

Much can be done with a person's memory training and lifestyle to help improve a person's memory. Decreasing memory does not always mean senility. It can be a loss of concentration ability.

I'm sending you the Health Letter 14-2, The Aging Mind, to help you understand this common problem better.

DEAR DR. LAMB: Just how dangerous is an untreatable hernia in a 48-year-old man? My husband has had a hernia for five years now and it's visible through his trousers.

I can't get him to a doctor even for a consultation. What could happen if a rupture occurs at his age? Could he get prostate cancer if he doesn't take care of it?

DEAR READER: He won't develop prostate cancer from an inguinal hernia. Certainly the larger it gets the more difficulty he's going to have and it may produce mechanical problems and pain.

Large hernias seldom strangulate. They slide in and out fairly easily. There are two types of inguinal hernias, however, and it's usually smaller, which can be caught in its herniated position and strangulate. If this happens it must be repaired by medical or gangrene may develop.

Inguinal hernia repairs are not really a big deal. I know because I had both right and left ones corrected at the same time. The best way to decide whether or not the hernia needs to be repaired is to have a physical examination.

What's this I hear about drugs that cure senility?

DEAR DR. LAMB: My 68-year-old mother is senile. She still recognizes people she sees regularly but can't remember what happened 10 minutes earlier.

I can't recommend haloxone at this point and it's not yet available for treatment of senility. Studies are still in the early stages.

Much can be done with a person's memory training and lifestyle to help improve a person's memory.

DEAR DR. BLAKER: I am 20 years old and enrolled full time in a university. My relationship with my parents has been so bad over the years that I have started therapy.

My parents have always been very nosy and critical about my life. My mother, for example, read my diary for years without telling me.

My question to you is: How seriously should I take their objections? They have known me for a long time, but sometimes I don't think they have my best interests at heart.

DEAR DR. BLAKER: I have been divorced for two years and have now fallen in love with a terrific guy. I am very happy about our relationship but disturbed about my friends' reactions.

DEAR READER: I am 20 years old and enrolled full time in a university. My relationship with my parents has been so bad over the years that I have started therapy.

MACC News - SBM is challenging the rest of us - so give!

The Savings Bank of Manchester has once again granted a tremendous boost to our Fuel Bank by offering a challenge grant to the community. It can raise $1,500 in the community. The Savings Bank of Manchester will match it dollar for dollar.

We've already received 43 requests for energy assistance since the heating season began in October and granted assistance amounting to $5,256.72 to 29 households. So the challenge grant comes at the best possible time.

You can help capture the SBM dollars by mailing your check to MACC - Fuel Bank, Box 773, Manchester and making it out to Fuel Bank Challenge. We've already put out bulletin notices in the churches with the good news about the challenge and checks are beginning to come in.

FIVE YEARS AGO when we began to see more and more elderly families on fixed incomes who were unable to keep up with the rapidly rising utility costs, our answer was to establish the Fuel Bank.

Although energy costs are not leaping upwards the way they were in 1981, you've undoubtedly noticed the steady increase in your electric, gas and fuel bills.

For many of our neighbors, particularly those who are retired or on disability or ADC, income increases have fallen far behind the increases in the basic cost of living.

In 1982 there were 74 grants made to Manchester residents from the MACC Fuel Bank. In 1983 there were 124 grants amounting to $20,417, almost twice as many grants and almost twice as much money as in 1982.

Part of the increase in last year's requests for fuel assistance reflects the cut backs in the federal-state energy assistance program. Over 40 of the families we assisted had already received some help on their utility bills, but in the face of small income and large rent and utility costs, it wasn't enough to get them through the winter.

OUR HUMAN NEEDS staff in Center Congregational Church works closely with the CRT (Community Renewal Team) in the Department of Human Services across the parking lot in Lincoln Center.

CRT (Community Renewal Team) is the Hartford CAP agency through which the Connecticut Department of Human Resources channels the federal-state fuel assistance money to this area. Referrals are frequently exchanged. When our Marie Michael-Rogers is taking an application for fuel assistance she will check figures and say "you are CRT eligible" and send them over to Marilyn.

On the other hand, Marilyn will call and say "I'm sending you Jane Doe - she's a $12.50 over the income level for Connecticut Energy Assistance Program (CEAP) assistance. Often she will advocate saying this family is almost out of oil and is in real trouble. A good lady, Marilyn.

We also disburse Operation Fuel Funds in the Manchester/Bolton area. Operation Fuel is a program sponsored by the Christian Conference of Connecticut (CHRISON) since January 1977, was initiated by private sector constituencies (religion, labor, business, utilities, government, etc.) to respond to people within the State of Connecticut who need financial aid for winter energy expenses.

TO BE ELIGIBLE for Operation Fuel, your income must fall between 150 percent and 200 percent of poverty. For example, a family of two would need a gross yearly income that falls between $9,810 and $13,080, a family of three's gross yearly income would fall between $12,330 and $16,440, and so on.

So far, since December 1, the day Operation

Fuel became operational, we have channeled an additional $5,000 to Manchester needy families.

Saudi envoy in Damascus for peace bid

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — The Lebanese army battled with Syrian-backed Moslem rebels today as a Saudi Arabian mediator arrived in Damascus for yet another bid to restore peace to Lebanon.

In south Lebanon, 70 Israeli army vehicles crossed the Awwal River bridge and deployed along the coastal road south of Damour, state-run Beirut radio said.

The broadcast said the Israeli unit moved into the area Sunday and was still south of Damour today. There was no confirmation of the report from Israel.

The latest rage for active or leisurewear! Polyester and cotton twill in choice of popular pull-on style with elastic waist, back pocket or zip-front model.

Blizzard dwindles to flurries

By Brenda Rotzoll
United Press International

A few snow flurries in Michigan and some blocked highways in Minnesota and Nebraska were all that remained today of the most severe blizzard to strike the Midwest this season.

Highway crews still were working overtime in southwest Minnesota and central and northeast Nebraska today to open roads buried by up to 2 feet of snow during the blizzard.

Rain was scattered from Maine to Florida along the Atlantic coast and from Alabama to southeast Texas on the Gulf Coast, with a little light rain in the Pacific Northwest.

Dense fog covered central and northern Florida.

Freezing temperatures spread from the northern and central Plains to the Rockies.

It was a balmy 76 degrees at 1 a.m. EST at Key West, Fla.

The remnants of the Saturday-Sunday blizzard that shut down parts of Nebraska and Minnesota dumped 6 inches of snow on Marquette, Mich., Sunday.

The storm lost its force before it crossed the Mississippi, but even so, "it could well be the strongest snowstorm of the winter in the Midwest," said Hugh Crowther of the Severe Storms Forecast Center in Kansas City.

The storm spread up to 2 feet of snow in eastern Nebraska, and high winds piled up 7-foot drifts on an stretch of westbound Interstate 90 in southwest Minnesota.

Highway crews in both states worked into the morning to open roads blocked or limited to one-lane traffic. All westbound traffic on I-90 was stopped much of Sunday in Minnesota until one lane could be opened.

At least 100 semis that waited out the storm at truck stops in Worthington, Minn., headed west Sunday night. State police halted traffic in some areas to aid snowplows on other roads.

Winds to 30 mph Sunday were blowing roads shut as fast as you can open them, "a Nebraska roads engineer said.

"We've got no troopers out," a Nebraska patrol spokesman said Sunday in Norfolk. "They can't even get out of their driveways."

A Nebraska woman died when she lost control of her car Saturday on a slushy road and collided head-on with a second car. In Wisconsin, one man died and two people were injured when a car hit a train at a county road crossing in fog Saturday night.

Lawmakers have a bill for almost every reason

HARTFORD — The Legislature has been in session for less than two weeks, but already the pile of bills introduced by committees or individual legislators stands nearly 6 inches high.

There are bills for almost every season and almost every reason, including the weighty issues that invoke deep feelings and will draw the most attention and headlines during the three-month session.

But for every bill on a major issue, a Lebanese military spokesman said at least 15 anti-government militiamen were killed or wounded in fighting early today alone.

Armed men tried to launch another attack at 6 a.m. (1 p.m. EST Sunday) on our forces in Souk el Gharb Monday from a cluster of desert buildings on the outskirts of the nearby village of Kalfoun, "a Lebanese army spokesman said.

He said 16 anti-government militiamen were killed and at least 40 others were wounded in similar fighting late Sunday.

Gov. William O'Neill didn't include a welfare increase in his proposed $4 billion state budget, but lawmakers are likely to approve one. Bills so far give them a choice of a 3 percent, 7.5 percent or even a 15 percent increase.

Or consider the issue of road and bridge repairs. O'Neill proposed setting aside all of the revenue from the 14-cent-a-gallon gasoline tax, plus from a 3-cent hike he wants, into a fund to pay for transportation needs.

The Legislature last year set aside 1 cent per gallon of the tax revenue into the road and bridge fund. Bills so far this year go from setting aside 2 more cents or more to all of the money, as O'Neill is advocating.

Many of the bills in the hopper for this session are similar, directed at the same goal but taking different approaches or differing in some other manner.

For example, there are a number of bills dealing with an increase in benefits for Aid to Families with Dependent Children recipients, the state's major welfare program.

Or consider welfare. In addition to the bills to raise AFDC benefits, there are bills to put certain welfare recipients in public jobs and one to allow cities and towns to bring back "poor farms" for the indigent.

O'Neill's plan also is in the legislative hopper, introduced in different form by Democratic leaders of the House and Senate, who also sponsored bills to carry out his proposed budget and other programs requiring legislative action.

On other topics, lawmakers might have one version of a bill, but that doesn't mean they're limited in the number of topics they can choose.

Take liquor bills. There are a number to raise the drinking age, either directly or if two neighboring states raise their ages. But there's only one bill dealing with exotic dancers who perform in bars.

The measure by Rep. Gerald Crean Jr., D-Southington, would require exotic dancers to register with the state and pay a fee. The revenue would go to offset the cost of state regulation of the bars where the dancers perform.

Jennifer Joy wins again

Manchester women sweep pageant

VERNON — Jennifer Joy of Manchester was crowned Miss Greater Vernon 1984 Saturday night after she and two other young women from Manchester swept almost every award at the pageant.

Elizabeth French of Manchester was named first runner-up, and took home a total of $650 in scholarship money for her victories in the evening gown and swimsuit competitions.

Heather Hornyak, a Manchester High School senior, was judged second runner-up, and she received a $250 scholarship.

In a contest full of vivacious talent and lovely faces, Miss Joy's star shined the brightest. She sang "Love Is Where You Find It" with a clear falsetto, and grace that delighted the capacity crowd at Vernon Middle School.

Having reclaimed the crown she wore two years ago, Miss Joy will have a second chance at the Miss Connecticut title in June.

"I wondered if I should try it again," she said backstage after the show, in between tears and congratulations. "My father told me to go for it, so I did," she shrugged.

The thin, fair-skinned, brown-haired Manchester Community College student said she worked harder for this pageant than she did for the ones in 1982. "I've been exercising for two months to get these stupid legs firmed up," she said.

"I've also been working with my voice teacher on my song," said the 18-year-old who is involved in several local theater groups.

Joy came away from this year's Vernon pageant with $1,500 combined scholarship money for her talent and overall victories.

Her talent won her second runner-up in the Miss Connecticut Pageant two years ago. "I'm a little nervous about being in it a second year. I don't know if that's a good thing or a bad thing," she said.

Miss French, 17, was snappy and poised in a black satin suit and bow tie as she sang "Nothing Can Stop Me Now." She truly beamed, however, when she piled her long hair on top of her head and donned a white evening gown.

"The Manchester High School senior said after the pageant, "I am absolutely elated! There aren't words to describe how happy I am."

Did she have to exercise to get into such fine swimsuit shape?

"Yes, and I'll tell you, I was even dieting — and that takes a lot for Liz French to diet, because I don't have much will power."

Miss Hornyak, 15, astounded the audience with the depth and intensity of her monologue from "Romeo and Juliet." She brought to life the scene in which Juliet decides to take the potion that will make her appear dead.

"It's the most dramatic scene I know," she said after the pageant. "And I knew I needed to do a dramatic scene."

One of the first things Miss Hornyak said she had to do after winning Saturday was to call her parents, who live in Georgia, to tell them the good news. "Don't worry," one of her friends backstage said. "I'm going to call them right now."

The only prize not given to a Manchester contestant was the congeniality award, which went to Danielle Glendening, a 20-year-old University of Connecticut junior from Beacon Falls.
