Stock pro has hot line for troubled investors

Let's say you have $2,500 to $10,000 to invest, and you would like to put your small nest egg into a mutual fund that would give you an income free from today's high federal taxes. What type of fund, of the hundreds now available, should you select?

ANSWER: A tax-exempt bond fund.

Or let's say you would like the federal tax-free income but you don't tie up your funds for the length of time required by a bond?

ANSWER: A tax-exempt money market fund.

Or let's say your investment goal is a long-term capital gain from, say, a range of common stocks?

ANSWER: An aggressive growth fund.

Or what if your objective is a combined portfolio of bonds and common stocks for income and growth—but you have only $2,500?

ANSWER: A special income fund.

And finally, if your aim is income from bonds primarily rated "A" or better by rating services—but your nest egg remains tiny?

ANSWER: A quality bond fund.

The mutual fund, as an investment medium, has been flourishing for only a half-century or so. But in this relatively short span, its growth has carried it to the point where today there are roughly 950 funds in existence — of which 650 are stock, bond and income mutual funds and just over 300 are money market funds.

Your Money's Worth
Sylvia Porter

This works out to a total of $385 billion of assets and 27 million investors, astounding numbers no matter how you view them.

At the same time, in response to a profound and incessant demand, mutual fund investments have gone way beyond traditional stocks and bonds. The range covers zero-coupon bonds, options on stock indexes, futures, options on futures, real estate syndications, dozens of other mediums. At your own neighborhood bank, you are confronted with investment decisions on a medium as simple as certificates of deposit. Should the CD be for three months, six, 12, 24, 36, longer?

Now, with hundreds of mutual funds to choose from, even this selection has become complicated. Thus, into this financial morass has stepped Howard Stein, a well-known professional who is chairman and CEO of Dreyfus Corp. Working with banks throughout the country, Stein has established a Wall Street Consumer Center, which you can reach by dialing a toll-free 800 number. When you have dialed this number, you will talk to trained people about your financial plans and goals.

Of course, Stein has his own ax to grind — the sale of one of his own mutual funds. Dreyfus manages more than 20 with over 1.3 million investors. But you need not follow the Dreyfus representative's advice. Use the center to get the facts and guidance you want and then go where you wish.

The Wall Street Consumer Center's numbers are:

Within New York state: call collect (718) 895-1347.
Outside New York state: (800) 468-8001.

You may be "introduced" to the center by one of the banks participating in the network. Dreyfus is starting the program with Norwest Bank of Minneapolis, which serves seven Midwestern states, and other regional banks are expected to sign up soon.

Why, you might ask, the suggestion of tax-exempt notes or bonds for an investor with as little as $2,500 to invest? Because the advantages of tax-exempt income apply to income levels far below those you might now imagine. For instance:

A married couple, filing jointly, in the 25 percent tax bracket, would need a taxable investment paying 8 percent to equal the income of 6 percent from tax-exempt investments.

In the 30 percent bracket (still very, very low), that same couple would need 8.57 percent taxable income to equal a 6 percent tax-exempt yield.

And in the 50 percent tax bracket, you would need 12 percent taxable to produce the same income as 6 percent tax-exempt.

Try that free "800" number. Stein is offering guidance without cost to you. How can you lose?

UTC holds annual meeting

Stockholders dump star wars resolution

HARTFORD — Stockholders at the United Technologies Corp. annual meeting rejected a resolution aimed at halting any company involvement in space weapons' production.

The resolution, proposed Monday by a group of Catholic nuns holding about 200 shares of UTC stock, sought information about UTC's connection to the controversial so-called star wars program.

The Sister of St. Francis of Philadelphia asked the board of directors to make available information on the outstanding UTC contracts to develop space weapons.

"We need information about the extent to which our company is involved in the militarization of space," the sister said.

The resolution cited the opposition by the leadership of the Roman Catholic Church and other churches to the arms race.

The resolution was defeated by a vote of 79 million shares voted to about 4 million. Only 4.8 percent of the shareholder vote were cast in support of the resolution.

It also asked the directors to give shareholders information on the amount of UTC funds being spent on space weaponry, whether UTC is planning to conduct or participate in materials-producing in space experiments, and whether an internal policy of direction for commercial development of space and development of space as a desirable battlefield has been determined by management.

In other business at the annual stockholders meeting, Chairman Harry J. Gray said investments in research and development by United Technologies surpassed more than $4 billion for the first part of the '80s, and he pledged a similar pace for the future.

During 1984, the Hartford-based firm had research and development investments of more than $1 billion, Gray told the annual shareholders meeting, adding the company's operating profit hit $1 billion for the first time.

The company's capital spending so far for the 1980s has topped $3 billion, Gray said.

UTC is the seventh largest manufacturer in the country and the seventh largest defense contractor. Its divisions include Pratt & Whitney, Sikorsky helicopters, Norden defense systems, Carrier air conditioners, Otis elevators, Hamilton Standard controls, Essex wire and cable, Inmont specialty chemicals, and Motest semiconductor products.

Company President Robert F. Daniell said UTC is no longer excessively dependent on government contracts as it was a decade ago.

Government contracts currently make up less than 30 percent of UTC sales.

Rite Aid earnings up

HARTFORD — First Connecticut Bancorp has reported a 20 percent increase in first-quarter net income and a 10 percent boost in the quarterly dividend payment to shareholders.

Net income for the quarter ended March 30, increased to $3.6 million, or $1.16 per share, from $3.0 million, or 96 cents per share, in the first quarter of 1984.

James J. Preble, chairman and chief executive officer of FCB, said that strong loan and deposit growth and the maintenance of a high-quality loan portfolio were the principal factors responsible for the growth in net income. Total assets grew $185 million, or 18 percent, to $1,262 million at March 30, 1985.

The quarterly dividend to shareholders was increased from 30 cents per share to 33 cents per share payable April 25 to shareholders of record as of April 22. Shareholder dividends have been increased 15 times since FCB was organized in 1970.

Phoenix Mutual makes grant

HARTFORD — The Phoenix Mutual Life Insurance Co. has awarded a $3,000 grant to the Hartford Area Private Industry Council to determine the needs of local employers for workers with clerical skills.

The study, which will be conducted by the National Alliance of Business, is the first step in a program to increase the number of companies who hire graduates of clerical skills training programs.

Colt has record earnings

NEW YORK — Colt Industries has reported 1985 first-quarter earnings about level with those of the first quarter a year ago.

Net earnings in the quarter ended March 31 were $22,000,000, or $1.60 a common share, on sales of $48,261,000. This compares with net earnings in the first quarter a year ago of $22,476,000, or $1.35 a common share, on sales of $48,258,000.

President and Chief Executive Officer David J. Margolis stated that "With no real vigor in the manufacturing and industrial sectors of the U.S. economy in the 1985 first quarter, we were, nevertheless, able to match the strong results of the first quarter a year ago."

ProTemp opens new facility

EAST HARTFORD — ProTemp of Connecticut Inc., a temporary employment service, will celebrate the opening of its expanded and renovated headquarters at 1011 Main St. on April 25.

More than 250 ProTemp clients and community leaders have been invited to attend.

Cathy Beck, president of ProTemp, said renovations of the newly acquired office building began in January. More than 1,500 square feet of office space has been added to the existing offices to include a total of 2,500 square feet of space.

Ten employees who perform secretarial, testing, recruiting and career counseling responsibilities will occupy the newly renovated offices.

Ames negotiates acquisition

MCKEESPORT, Pa. — A Connecticut retail firm has confirmed that it is conducting negotiations to buy G. C. Murphy Co., Ames Department Stores Inc., which operates 184 discount department stores in 11 northeastern states, said its own or has options to acquire about 22 percent of Murphy's common stock.

Ames said it began discussions with Murphy's management late last year with the intention of acquiring all of Murphy's stock for more than $42.50 per share, the amount in a recently purchased leveraged buyout.

Ames Chairman Herbert Gilman said he had no intention of closing Murphy's McKeesport headquarters and had no plans to immediately close any of Murphy's 31 stores if a deal goes through.

Word of the talks sent Murphy's stock up 3/4 to 1/2 on Monday at its close in New York Stock Exchange. Ames stock dropped 1/4 to 3/4.

Working on the railroad

They're working on the railroad in Manchester, replacing ties. Louis Sousa walks along the track with a marking stick and marks spikes to be removed. Behind him, Dan Leary operates a machine that pulls out spikes. After the spikes are removed other workers ride along the tracks with a shearing machine that makes two cuts in each tie between the tracks, dislodges the middle hunk of tie and pushes the two end pieces outward. Then comes another machine that picks up the three pieces. Still another machine digs up the ground between and astride the tracks. At right, Lorrin LaPalma lays new ties in place.

Discovery to return Friday

Seddon then took a final swat and ground controllers ordered Bobko and co-pilot Donald Williams to begin backing the shuttle away from the satellite.

The timer was designed to start a 45-minute countdown leading to the ignition of the satellite's ICBM solid rocket motor and the astronauts were taking no chances when it came to remaining in the area.

Engineers had speculated the switch did not engage fully when the $80 million Syncom was launched from the shuttle Saturday and they hoped the jury-rigged tools on the end of the arm would give it the nudge it needed for activation.

The tools were installed in an unscheduled spacewalk Tuesday by Hoffman and David Griggs.

McDonnell Douglas engineer Charles Walker and Sen. Jake Garn, R-Utah, were the other members of Discovery's self-described "swat team" but they did not participate in the rescue attempt.

Satellite salvage attempt fails

By William Horwood
United Press International

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) — Astronaut Rhea Seddon used Discovery's jury-rigged robot arm today to yank three times on the stranded Syncom satellite's activation lever but the effort failed to turn on the $80 million spacecraft.

The astronauts did everything asked of them but the satellite did not respond. They were ordered to back away and then were told they could land on either Thursday or Friday.

Commander Karol Bobko elected to remain in orbit an additional day and to land on Friday at the Kennedy Space Center, two days later than originally planned.

If the satellite activation attempt had worked, an antenna would have unfolded 90 seconds after Seddon triggered the 4-inch start switch with the mechanical arm's "fly swatter" tools.

"Houston, we have to report the omni (antenna) never did come up and the spin rate is still less than 2 rpm," Bobko told mission control.

It was a bitter disappointment to space agency engineers and the astronauts, who had mounted a valiant effort to improvise the plan to save Syncom and prevent another blow to the aerospace insurance industry, already reeling from three satellite losses last year.

"You did everything you could. It was a great job," David Hilliers told the crew from mission control.

The rocket engine, loaded with 7,382 pounds of solid propellant, was pointed toward the shuttle's open payload bay when Seddon tried to activate the timer.

Then Hoffman reported the satellite's omni antenna never deployed to signal the countdown was in progress.

During a normal countdown, the satellite would have increased its spin rate with small jets for additional stabilization prior to the ignition of the solid rocket.

Bobko and Williams completed the three-orbit rendezvous about 8 a.m. EST, leaving the shuttle within throwing distance of the glittering satellite.

Hoffman told mission controllers he could clearly see the start lever when the shuttle pulled along side.

"It is definitely not in the launch position," Hoffman said. "It's hard for us to tell if it's fully extended, but it looks like it's pretty near the perpendicular position and I'm not sure that's what you wanted to hear."

Ground engineers said the switch was designed to engage the timer when it was moved past the vertical position during launch from the shuttle Saturday.

After Hoffman's report, ground teams told the astronauts to proceed with the rescue effort.

It was a frustrating disappointment in the bold attempt to perform an orbital service call and salvage the satellite, built by Hughes Aircraft Co. and insured for $80 million.

Astronaut Sally Ride, working in mission control, had told Seddon to "let the fly swatter drag on the satellite and the swatter ought to catch the lever, move it to the proper position and then tear away."

Seddon had just six minutes to snag the lever in order to ensure the satellite would reach the proper orbit if the timer had activated and fired the engine.

Discovery blasted off Friday and the astronauts would up their first day in space with the successful launch of a $65 million satellite owned by Telesat Canada.

District to arrange meeting

By Sarah Passell
Herald Reporter

A state transportation official said Tuesday that his staff is keeping an eye on an illegal driveway the Eighth Utilities District has laid at the site of a planned fire station, to make sure the district does not do any more damage to the state-owned land the driveway crosses.

Joseph O'Hearn, chief of property management for the state Department of Transportation, said he will ask the Manchester Police Department to take action if the district does not remove the driveway by the end of the week or at least arrange to meet with him on the subject.

"It's a civil matter and the police are not going to get involved," said district legal counsel John D. LaBelle Jr. A

Official wants action on driveway

District officials said they had the driveway staked out last month that kept the town from hindering their efforts to turn the Kenney property into a fire station.

Town officials have gone on record opposing the planned firehouse.

The state DOT has offered the strip of land that lies between the district property and the relocated street for sale to the town. The Planning and Zoning Commission has recommended the Board of Directors approve the purchase.

The driveway also crosses a strip of land the town currently owns — the right of way of the old Buckland Street. But Manchester General Manager Robert Weiss said last week that he does not plan any immediate action against the district.

Banks ask high court to put clamp on zones

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Financial institutions hoping to expand their influence throughout the country have asked the Supreme Court to outlaw the increasingly popular notion of regional banking.

Chicago lawyer Stephen Shapiro, in arguments before the high court Monday, said banking zones that prevent banks from other regions from merging with local institutions cause "provocative trade warfare" among the states.

The justices heard oral arguments and will rule later this year on a challenge to the regional banking zone that Connecticut and Massachusetts have set up to prevent banks outside New England from merging with local banks.

Shapiro said the New England Compact, which has been approved by the Federal Reserve Board, violates well-established laws and should be banned.

"Preferential trade zones for some states which exclude other states" cannot be tolerated, Shapiro said.

At issue is an increasingly frequent practice by many banks attempting to establish themselves in distant states by taking advantage of a loophole in federal law that allows them to set up banking subsidiaries elsewhere under certain conditions.

The controversial law has taken hold in New England and in five Southeastern states and is being considered by five Midwestern states and three Western ones.

Major banks in New York and Texas have been challenging the practice of regional banking since the time of the stranded Syncom satellite's activation lever but the effort failed to turn on the $80 million spacecraft.

The astronauts did everything asked of them but the satellite did not respond. They were ordered to back away and then were told they could land on either Thursday or Friday.

Manhaker to stay in Rhody

PAWTUCKET, R.I. (UPI) — The city and toymaker Hasbro Inc. have worked out a plan to keep the manufacturer in the city, with Hasbro taking over a school next to its headquarters in return for building a new one.

Mayor Henry Kinch and Hasbro President Stephen Hasselfield said Monday that the plan would let the manufacturer begin a $10 million expansion program. The company would get the Potter School on Newport Avenue and would build a new one on land near Daggett Field.

Hasbro has about 7,000 workers in Pawtucket and annual sales of about $850 million.

The School Committee, which owns the school, needs to approve. Also, the city will have to get the state to relinquish the land for the new school.

"Some short term inconveniences will be necessary," Kinch said, "but if we are successful in this plan, we will keep Hasbro here in Pawtucket, where it belongs."

The company already has 47 acres of unutilized land in the North Smithfield Industrial Park, and it is not clear what the use will be for the Potter School site.

"The board of directors has made no final decisions on any construction plan," said Alfred Verrecchia, Hasbro's senior vice president of finance. "We're still working with the mayor, but no final decision has been made at this time."

The problem the city faces is where to send 450 Potter students next fall, because the next school would not be ready until 1986.

One development that helped the plan was an announcement Monday from Gov. Edward DiPrete that the state is turning its Ten Mile River State Park over to the city.

Kinch said the city "will gain a brand new school in a safe location with athletic fields to replace the tired, 62-year-old building on dangerous Newport Avenue."

Bach discovery causes international scene

By James V. Heillon

YALE LIBRARIAN HAROLD SAMUEL did Amsterdam scoop school?

NEW HAVEN — It looks as if Yale University got its Ivy League hand caught in the musical cookie jar. Up until Friday, the 2,000 people who attended two performances March 17 at Yale as well as millions of Americans via Public Radio listeners understood the presentation of 33 unknown organ preludes to have been a world premiere.

Now comes Howard E. Samuel, the popular librarian of the John Herrick Jackson Music Library at Yale, and Bach scholar, Christoph J. Wolff, who discovered the Bach manuscripts in the Yale stacks last year, where they had reposed since their donation in 1873 by American musician Lowell Mason.

Wolff contacted Samuel within a day or two of that call. He announced his discovery and his authentication of the Bach manuscripts. It created a sensation.

A concert was scheduled and it seemed every Bach lover, and the usual complement of Yuppies and Muppies within 200 miles of New Haven, bargained the Yale Music School for tickets, which were free.

Winds of more than 40 mph raked New York and New England, combining with overnight temperatures in the 30s and 40s to produce single-digit wind chill readings.

High temperatures will be in the 40s across the northern Great Lakes and northern New England and in the upper 30s over northern Maine. Readings will warm into the 60s from the desert Southwest.

In a brief but tearful moment, John B. DeQuattro accepted the "M" Award from the Greater Manchester Chamber of Commerce Tuesday night in front of about 300 people during a banquet at the Colony in Talcottville.

Chamber honors DeQuattro

DeQuattro has served as president of the Manchester Scholars' Fund Foundation, as president and a member of the chamber board of directors and as general chairman of the Manchester Memorial Hospital Capital Improvements Development Campaign.

DeQuattro has also been involved with Crossroads of Manchester, the University of Hartford Association and the University of Connecticut Athletic Development Fund.

SEVERAL OTHER chamber members were recognized Tuesday night for special contributions during the past year.

Outgoing chairman Michael D. Belcher presented plaques of appreciation to Peter Burgess for helping the chamber select a computer system; Richard P. Meduski and Steven H. Thornton, co-chairmen of the 1984 Product Show; and Roger Talbot, who allowed his building on New State Road to be used for the show.

He also thanked his board of directors and the chamber staff and cited several directors who finished their terms this year.

DeQuattro has formally endorsed Fingerra's mail and e-mail center plan.

Other chamber officers for 1985-86 are Burgess, vice president of finance; Dennis D. Badabaugh, vice president of business services; Thornton, vice president of urban affairs; William R. Humford, vice president of organizational affairs; Belcher as past chairman; and Katherine M. Gillin, member-at-large.

Tax refund snafu makes income plummet

By Denis G. Guilino
United Press International

WASHINGTON — U.S. personal income rose a moderate 0.5 percent in March but disposable income — actually available to spend — plunged 0.5 percent because of delays in income tax refunds, the Commerce Department said today.

Consumers also abruptly cut their spending in March for both goods and services, with personal spending down 0.5 percent.

But even cutting spending was not enough to sustain the savings rate, which took a dive to 4 percent in March, compared to the 1 percent of disposable income for all of last year.

The figures suggested the delay in refund payments were more than a nuisance in the first quarter, and instead billions of dollars were withheld from the economy during a period that was already slowing down from the end of last year.

The Commerce Department's Bureau of Economic Analysis said it appears $2.4 billion in refunds were held up at the Internal Revenue Service in February and about $4.3 billion in March.

The IRS has blamed the shortcomings of a new computer system, switched on nationwide in November, for the delays in refund processing that continued through the first two weeks in April. But IRS officials have promised they will catch up by June 1, raising the possibility of a bulge in income for May and June.

The report on personal income provided some of the last ingredients necessary for Thursday's first formal report on the gross national product for the January-March quarter.

The IRS refund snafu added another special circumstance to any analysis of the economy, already muddled by the temporary closing of savings and loans in Ohio earlier that appeared to prompt caution among consumers far beyond the state.

If confirmed Thursday, the tentative GNP projection in late March of a weak 2.1 percent GNP growth would mean the year got off to a bad start, virtually raising hopes the year could turn out as good as the White House hopes, with 3.9 percent annual growth.

The savings rate in March was the lowest since June 1983, department analysts said.

The 0.5 percent decline in disposable income was especially serious since it followed a revised 0.8 percent decline in February. The income declines made it easier to understand the massive installment borrowing in February, earlier reported by the Federal Reserve to have added $10.4 billion to the total loans being paid off monthly, as borrowing that was prompted by need rather than consumer enthusiasm.

Dr. William C. DeVries, who implanted Burcham's bionic heart, said the patient was "doing fine" this morning and has been able to recognize his family.

Burcham's bleeding, which was stemmed by a two-hour operation Monday by DeVries, showed the doctors the need to find the right level of anti-clotting drugs to avert a stroke without risking bleeding, DeVries said.

DeVries also said doctors "probably should have on hindsight" seven hours of material on the sutures anchoring the mechanical in place in the original implant surgery Sunday instead of having to add them during Monday's corrective surgery.

Judge wants Bhopal fund

NEW YORK — A federal judge presiding over lawsuits against Union Carbide Corp. urged the firm to set aside up to $10 million as "an indication of good will" for victims of a deadly December gas leak in India, but not as an admission of wrongdoing.

More than 100 lawyers from the United States and India flocked to a federal court in Manhattan Tuesday for the first hearing on more than 800 suits filed against Union Carbide on behalf of the Indian victims and their families.

Seeping methyl isocyanate gas killed at least 1,700 people and injured 200,000 Dec. 3 at the firm's pesticide plant in the central Indian city of Bhopal. Unofficial death estimates range up to 2,500.

U.S. District Judge John Keenan briskly opened the hearing with the statement that "fundamental human decency" required Union Carbide to immediately create a fund to help those hundreds of thousands maimed by the poisonous fumes.

"The situation is still critical here," Keenan said. "As an indication of good will, it is possible for Union Carbide to offer a truly significant sum — $5 or $10 million — to be immediately funded through the Red Cross."

No apologies from Soviets

WASHINGTON — The Soviet Union has agreed not to use force against U.S. military intelligence personnel in East Germany in the future, but has not yet apologized for the March 24 killing of Maj. Arthur Nicholson.

The document, which says the U.S. demand for an apology and compensation for the Nicholson family has been referred by the Soviets to "higher authority" and remains under discussion, was disclosed Tuesday by the March 24 killing of Nicholson, a member of the U.S. military liaison mission based in Potsdam, East Germany, by a Soviet sentry was discussed last Friday at a 4½-hour Potsdam meeting. Gen. Glenn Otis, commander of U.S. forces in Europe, represented the United States and Gen. Mikhail Zaitsev, commander of Soviet forces in Germany, represented the Soviet Union.

The two sides agreed to further discussions. A State Department spokesman said "it is too early to judge the results" of the meeting.

Missouri manhunt continues

BRANSON, Mo. — With National Guard troops on standby, Highway Patrol troopers closed in on a submachine-gun-toting white supremacist, trained in close combat and hiding in the dense Ozark woodlands.

"We're not going out there to take his life," said State Highway Patrol Sgt. Ernest McCutchen said. "We want him alive."

Two helicopters and National Guard troops stood by in Springfield as police patrols searched rugged terrain early today for David C. Tate, 22, of Albia, Idaho, and three of his associates. McCutchen said Tate was armed with an Ingram Mini-MAC submachine-gun, capable of extremely rapid fire.

Treasury Department weapons experts joined the FBI, Arkansas and Missouri state patrolmen and local police in a search that some authorities said will have to live with it.

Tate was one of 24 members of a neo-Nazi group named Monday in a federal indictment for continuing criminal offenses. He also is a suspect in the killing of a Denver radio announcer and an Idaho white supremacist.

Algerian leader visits Reagan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Algerian President Chadli Bendjedid, viewed by the United States as an important Arab leader and a friend in northern Africa, has begun a four-day state visit on a note of closer U.S.-Algerian relations.

Chadli arrived Monday for wide-ranging talks on security concerns and economic development, highlighted today by a full military honor guard welcome at the White House, a meeting with President Reagan and a black-tie state dinner.

The visit is the first by an Algerian president since that country won independence from France in 1962 and Washington and Algeria looked for the talks to produce a reaffirmation of relatively trouble-free relations.

Officials in San Diego inspect an American Airlines plane that physically lost its engine over Arizona enroute from Dallas to here Tuesday. It landed safely with no injuries.

Plane lands safely after engine drops

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — The crew of an American Airlines Boeing 727 with 89 people aboard knew their right side engine had stopped, but it wasn't until the plane landed safely that they discovered it had fallen off, officials said.

Flight 199 from Dallas-Ft. Worth to San Diego, landed without incident at San Diego's Lindbergh Field shortly before noon Tuesday. On the right side of the tail — on a 727 all three engines are mounted on the tail section — only the mounting brackets remained.

Officials said they assumed the missing engine was in a remote area of Arizona or New Mexico, but county sheriff's departments in the two states said there were no immediate reports of an engine falling in their areas.

The captain radioed to ground control that "the left a shudder and that one of the engines had apparently seized" when the aircraft was passing over Gila Bend, Ariz., said American Airlines spokesman Joe Strop.

"He could tell that the engine had stopped running), apparently, from instruments in the cockpit," the airline official said.

An unidentified passenger said the crew implied that one of the engines had come out, but they didn't say if it fell off.

There was no damage to the plane except for the missing engine and the crew had no problem landing the plane, which carried 81 passengers and a crew of eight, Strop said.

Linda Johnson, corporate communications manager for American Airlines in Dallas, said, "We don't know why the engine fell off. We have an investigation under way."

The aircraft was quickly towed to a hanger for inspection.

It is the second time an engine has fallen off a 727, Boeing spokesman Tom Cole said in Seattle. He said the earlier incident occurred on a National Airlines plane above El Paso on April 30, 1974. Cole said nobody was injured and that plane also landed safely.

But Reagan was not giving in. "The president believes his way is the right way," White House spokesman Larry Speakes said.

Reagan said he even had Pope John Paul II on his side. Speaking to a religious conference Tuesday, he said, "I just had a verbal message delivered to me from the pope urging us to continue our efforts in Central America."

He did not elaborate on the pope's message.

Republican House leadership aide said it appeared efforts to force a compromise have stalled although Rep. Michael Barnes, D-Md., a leading opponent, and Sen. David Durenberger, R-Minn., were still seeking an agreement.

He also said he would go ahead with the visit to the Bitburg cemetery, where members of Hitler's elite corps of stormtroopers, and the German border near the 2,800 German military dead.

SS members ran concentration camps and machine-gunned to death at least 129 American prisoners of war at Malmsey, just over the Belgian border from Bitburg during Hitler's desperate Battle of the Bulge offensive in late 1944.

Reagan stands firm on aid compromise

WASHINGTON — Republican efforts in Congress to force a compromise on releasing $14 million in aid to anti-Sandinista rebels in Nicaragua have run into an unlikely obstacle — President Reagan.

After hearing House Republican leader Robert Michel of Illinois say Tuesday the proposal might fail, Reagan issued a blunt warning to Congress against compromise. "A 'yes' vote will signal new hope for peace and a return to the original democratic promise of the Nicaraguan revolution."

"If Congress votes 'no,' they will be sending a message of desertion, a clear signal that the greatest democracy on Earth doesn't care if communism snuffs out the freedom of our neighbors and endangers our own security," he said Tuesday.

The Senate votes April 23 on Reagan's revised proposal for $14 million. Two weeks ago, Reagan said he would restrict the spending to humanitarian purposes if the Sandinista government and the rebels agreed to a 60-day ceasefire and opened church-mediated peace talks.

Reagan made the revision in his aid request to persuade a balky Congress to approve the money.

Michel told Reagan Tuesday the proposal still faces stiff opposition in the House. His chances in the Republican-led Senate are also in doubt.

Michel said he was seeking "something that would give us some running room" to avoid a possible defeat for the president. Reagan has opened a blitz this week to get Congress to approve the aid for the rebels, who he calls "our brothers."

"There are some talks going on behind the scenes," Michel said. "I hope we would bear fruit," Michel said.

But Reagan would not give in.

"The president believes his way is the right way," White House spokesman Larry Speakes said.

Princess says father only 'honorary' SS

LONDON — Princess Michael of Kent, who married into Britain's royal family, said today she was "deeply ashamed" to discover her father was in the Nazi SS, but stressed he was only an "honorary" member of Adolf Hitler's elite army unit.

In her first interview since her father's past was revealed, she told the breakfast television show "This Week" that her father had been involved with the Allies after World War II, and proof was on his way from Germany that cleared him of any involvement with concentration camps.

The document "states quite clearly that his position in the SS was an honorary position," the Czech-born princess said.

The princess said she "had no idea" her father, Baron Guenther von Reibnitz, had been a major in the SS. "I think it was sufficiently shocking to me that he'd been in the Nazi party, but I didn't think to look further and it came as a very great blow to me."

"It was a total shock to everything I've been taught to believe," she said. "I was desperately ashamed at first... It's a deep shame for me. It's a dreadful thing and I shall have to live with it."

The princess said her mother had felt there was no need to tell her about the SS connection. "She felt, honestly, but I now I think foolishly, that it served no useful purpose," she said.

Princess Michael, who is married to Queen Elizabeth II's first cousin, said she would continue with her public engagements, and Tuesday night she attended a glittering state banquet at Windsor Palace with the queen, Prince Philip, Prince Charles and Princess Diana, Queen Mother Elizabeth and other members of the royal family.

The interview was recorded Tuesday night, before the banquet with the queen, Prince Philip, Prince Charles and Princess Diana, Queen Mother Elizabeth and other members of the royal family.

Princess Michael said she could understand the reaction of the public to the revelations, but hoped that people would not judge her by her father's past.

Envoy expects summit

CAIRO, Egypt — Israeli envoy Ezer Weizman met with Egyptian President Hosni Mubarak and said he was "positive" the leaders of the two countries would hold their first summit meeting in four years within "a matter of weeks."

In Jerusalem, a group of prominent Palestinians told U.S. envoy Richard Murphy, who is expected to go to Egypt today, that Washington should open direct talks with the Palestine Liberation Organization.

Murphy, the State Department's top Middle East troubleshooter, received the Palestinian delegation at the U.S. consulate in Jerusalem Tuesday in what U.S. officials said was a "reception" to distinguish it from formal negotiations.

"They (the Palestinians) refused to negotiate directly with the PLO until it explicitly recognizes Israel's right to exist."

After his meeting with Mubarak Tuesday, Weizman said the leaders of Egypt and Israel had agreed in principle to attend a summit but indicated adequate "preparations" still were necessary.

Weizman, who was meeting today with Prime Minister Kamal Hassan Ali and Foreign Minister Sami Abdel-Meguid, described Egyptian-Israeli ties as "cooler than what we expected," but that the countries are working on a "package deal" to resolve their problems.

The minister without portfolio in the Israeli Cabinet said he believed a meeting between Mubarak and Israeli Prime Minister Shimon Peres would be held "in a matter of weeks."

"I am sure when the two gentlemen meet they will find common language not only to solve problems but to develop new ideas and go forward," said Weizman, who arrived from Jerusalem Monday on a diplomatic mission criticized by right-wingers in Israel's coalition government.

"I am positive the meeting will take place."

Diplomatic sources said that Weizman suggested a summit be held in the first half of May, but the Egyptians seemed to be holding out for progress in bilateral relations.

Osama El-Baz, an advisor to Mubarak, said a summit "depends on the amount of progress" made in resolving problems between the two countries.

"In principle, the president has no objection whatsoever to meet with Prime Minister Peres," El-Baz said.

The last Israeli-Egyptian summit, four years ago, was in the Israeli port of Elat between the late president Anwar Sadat and

Amtrak train derailment leaves 26 injured

GRANBY, Colo. (UPI) — Amtrak's California Zephyr hit a 100-yard mudslide, jumped the tracks and four cars plunged into a remote mountain canyon, injuring 26 of the 147 people aboard, authorities said.

Amtrak officials said five injured people were evacuated by air after the accident night crash, including two apparently suffering heart attacks. One Amtrak worker was admitted to Timberline Medical Center in Granby with unknown injuries.

"The injuries include four crew members," said Amtrak spokesman Clifford Black in Washington.

"We don't have the conditions of any of the injured, but we're told the injuries range from cuts and bruises to bone fractures."

Black said seven of the train's 14 cars left the track and four landed in the Fraser River.

State Patrol dispatcher Penny Dibble, in Hot Sulphur Springs, Colo., said the accident occurred about 10:30 p.m. EST in Fraser Canyon, between Granby and Tabernash in the craggy north-central Colorado Rockies, about 55 miles northwest of Denver.

It was caused by a 100-yard mudslide, Dibble said.

Tax refund snafu makes income plummet

The decline in personal spending was the first setback of any size in the broad indicator of consumer purchases since October and the largest decline since February of last year.

It confirmed the figures reported last week that retail sales, covering merchandise but not services, fell by the most in more than seven years.

Judge wants Bhopal fund

NEW YORK — A federal judge presiding over lawsuits against Union Carbide Corp. urged the company to set aside up to $10 million as an indication of good will for victims of a deadly December gas leak in India, but not as an admission of wrongdoing.

More than 100 lawyers from the United States and India flocked to a federal court in Manhattan Tuesday for the first hearing on more than 100 lawsuits filed against Union Carbide on behalf of the Indian victims and their families.

Seeing methyl isocyanate gas killed at least 1,200 people and injured 200,000 Dec. 3 at the firm's pesticide plant in the central Indian city of Bhopal. Unofficial death estimates range up to 2,500.

U.S. District Judge John Keenan briskly opened the hearing with the statement that "fundamental human decency" required Union Carbide to immediately create a fund to help those hundreds of thousands maimed by the poisonous fumes.

No apologies from Soviets

WASHINGTON — The Soviet Union has agreed not to use force against U.S. military intelligence personnel in East Germany in the future, but has not yet apologized for the March 24 killing of Maj. Arthur Nicholson.

The State Department says the U.S. demand for an apology and compensation for the Nicholson family has been referred by the Soviets to "higher authority" and remains under discussion.

The March 24 killing of Nicholson, a member of the U.S. military liaison mission based in Potsdam, East Germany, by a Soviet sentry was discussed last Friday at a 4½-hour Potsdam meeting. Gen. Glenn Otis, commander of U.S. forces in Europe, represented the United States and the Czech-born princess said, "I think it is too early to judge the results" of the meeting.

CAIRO, Egypt — Israeli envoy Ezer Weizman met with Egyptian President Hosni Mubarak and said he was "positive" the leaders of the two countries would hold their first summit meeting in four years within "a matter of weeks."

In Jerusalem, a group of prominent Palestinians told U.S. envoy Richard Murphy, who is expected to go to Egypt today, that Washington should open direct talks with the Palestine Liberation Organization.

Murphy, the State Department's top Middle East troubleshooter, received the Palestinian delegation at the U.S. consulate in Jerusalem Tuesday in what U.S. officials said was a "reception" to distinguish it from formal negotiations.

The United States has refused to negotiate directly with the PLO until it explicitly recognizes Israel's right to exist.

After his meeting with Mubarak Tuesday, Weizman said the leaders of Egypt and Israel had agreed in principle to hold a summit but indicated adequate "preparations" still were necessary.

Weizman, who was meeting today with Prime Minister Kamal Hassan Ali and Foreign Minister Ezzat Abdel-Meguid, described Egyptian-Israeli ties as "cooler than what we expected" but that the countries are working on a "package deal" to resolve their problems.

The minister without portfolio in the Israeli Cabinet he believed a meeting between Mubarak and Israeli Prime Minister Shimon Peres would be held "in a matter of weeks."

"I am sure when the two gentlemen meet, they will find common language not only to solve problems but to develop new ideas and go forward," said Weizman, who arrived from Jerusalem Monday on a diplomatic mission criticized by right-wingers in Israel's coalition government.

"I am positive the meeting will take place."

Diplomatic sources said that Weizman suggested a summit be held in the first half of May, but the Egyptian seemed to be holding out for progress in bilateral relations.

Osama El-Baz, an advisor to Mubarak, said a summit "depends on the amount of progress" made in resolving problems between the two countries.

"In principle, the president has no objection whatsoever to meet with Prime Minister Peres," El-Baz said.

The last Israeli-Egyptian summit, four years ago, was in the Israeli port of Elat between the late president Anwar Sadat and

Reagan stands firm on aid compromise

By E. Michael Myers
United Press International

WASHINGTON — Republican efforts in Congress to force a compromise on a $14 million in aid to anti-Sandinista rebels in Nicaragua have run into an unlikely obstacle — President Reagan's refusal to budge.

After hearing House Republican leader Robert Michel of Illinois say Tuesday the proposal might fail, Reagan issued a blunt warning to Congress against compromise. "A 'yes' vote will signal new hope for peace and a return to the original democratic promise of the Nicaraguan revolution."

"If Congress votes 'no,' they will be sending a message of desertion, a clear signal that the greatest democracy on Earth doesn't care if communism snuffs out the freedom of our neighbors and endangers our own security," he said Tuesday.

The Senate votes April 23 on Reagan's revised proposal for $14 million. Two weeks ago, Reagan said he would restrict the spending to humanitarian purposes if the Sandinista government and the rebels agreed to a 60-day ceasefire and opened church-mediated peace talks.

Reagan made the revision in his aid request to persuade a balking Congress to approve the money.

Michel told Reagan Tuesday the proposal still faces stiff opposition in the House. His chances in the Republican-led Senate are also in doubt.

Reagan, said he saw no prospects for a compromise.

"The administration (officials) think they can win," he said. "I told him he has to deal realistically with some people who share his objectives but disagree with his methods. He shouldn't go out of this losing."

Some critics oppose any aid to the rebels; others want to be sure the money cannot be diverted to buying military equipment if the peace talks fail.

Camp goes on itinerary

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Despite President Reagan's attempt to quell a firestorm by announcing a visit to a German concentration camp, Jewish leaders are angry he will honor Nazi war dead, including Adolf Hitler's elite stormtroopers.

Reagan reversed himself Tuesday and said that on his state visit to Germany May 5 and 6, he will visit a concentration camp to commemorate the liberation of Jews from Nazi atrocities at the end of World War II 40 years ago.

White House officials said no decision had been made on which site Reagan would visit. Reagan earlier had ruled out visiting the Dachau camp near Munich so as not to dwell on the horrors of the Third Reich when he wants to emphasize 40 years of U.S.-German friendship.

During his news conference last month, Reagan said he thought few people now alive remember the Hitler era.

But protests from Jewish groups over his decision last week only to visit the Bitburg cemetery of German war dead apparently spurred the White House to add a concentration camp to Reagan's agenda.

He told a gathering of religious leaders at the White House Tuesday he had a "mistaken impression" that a Holocaust commemoration was not part of Chancellor Helmut Kohl's official visit agenda.

Assured otherwise by Kohl in a letter received Monday, Reagan said he had accepted the invitation to visit a concentration camp.

"For years I've said it and I'll say it again today and I will say it again on the occasion. We must not forget the Holocaust nor should we ever permit such an atrocity to happen ever again. Never again," Reagan said.

He also said he would go ahead with the visit to the Bitburg cemetery, where members of Hitler's elite corps of stormtroopers, the Waffen SS, are among the 2,800 German military dead.

SS members ran concentration camps and machine-gunned to death at least 129 American prisoners of war at Malmédy, just over the Belgian border from Bitburg during Hitler's desperate Battle of the Bulge offensive in late 1944.

Princess says father only 'honorary' SS

By John Jones
United Press International

LONDON — Princess Michael of Kent, who married into Britain's royal family, said today she was "desperately ashamed" to discover her father was in the Nazi SS, but stressed he was only an "honorary" member of Adolf Hitler's elite army unit.

In her first interview since her father's past was revealed, she told the breakfast television show TV-AM that her father had been investigated by the Allies after World War II, and proof was on his way from Germany that cleared him of any involvement with concentration camps.

The document "states quite clearly that his position in the SS was an honorary position," the Czech-born princess said.

The princess said she "had no idea" her father, Baron Gunther von Reibnitz, had been a major in the SS. "I think it was sufficiently shocking to me that he'd been in the Nazi party, but I didn't think to look further and it came as a very great blow to me."

"It was a total shock to everything I've been taught to believe," she said. "I was desperately ashamed at first... It's a deep shame for me. It's a dreadful thing to have to live with it."

The princess said her mother had felt there was no need to tell her about the SS connection. "She felt, honestly, but I now I think foolishly, that it served no useful purpose," she said.

Princess Michael, who is married to Queen Elizabeth II's first cousin, said she would continue with her public engagements, and Tuesday night she attended a glittering state banquet at Windsor Castle with the queen, Prince Philip, Prince Charles and Elizabeth Diana, Queen Mother Elizabeth and other members of the royal family.

The interview was recorded Tuesday night, before the banquet at Windsor, and early reports of her remarks, the silence from Buckingham Palace and the royal family's customary unflappable performance at Windsor failed to stem a flood of stories and questions about von Reibnitz and his Nazi past.

Britain's newspapers devoted countless pages today to the baron's life. But there was no hard evidence to indicate that von Reibnitz, who died two years ago, was involved in the extermination of Jews or other serious war crimes.

Veteran Nazi hunter Simon Wiesenthal today dismissed the princess's claim that her father was merely an honorary member of the Nazi unit and never wore its uniform.

"This claim is absolutely unbelievable," Wiesenthal said in a telephone interview from his Vienna home. "Maybe that's what her father told her but it's not the truth."

He said von Reibnitz was "one of the first people mentioned on the SS lists. He joined the SS in 1937 and reached the rank of general. It is impossible to think that he never wore the uniform."

He said it unlikely von Reibnitz was involved in concentration camp atrocities. "It was not Hitler's policy to have the aristocratic involved in the camps," Wiesenthal said.

But historians noted that all members of the SS were involved in the Lebensborn program of German military men who bred with Aryan women were brought together with SS soldiers to create a German master race. Records showed von Reibnitz was assessed as an ideal candidate, said a researcher at London's Weiner library.

Princess Michael said she could understand the reaction of the public to the revelations, but hoped that people would not judge her by her father's past.

Plane lands safely after engine drops

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — The crew of an American Airlines Boeing 727 with 89 people aboard knew their right side engine had stopped, but it wasn't until the plane landed safely that they discovered it had fallen off, officials said.

Flight 199 from Dallas-Ft. Worth to San Diego, landed without incident at San Diego's Lindbergh Field shortly before noon Tuesday. On the right side of the tail — on a 727 all three engines are mounted on the tail section — only the mounting brackets remained.

Officials said they assumed the missing engine was in a remote area of Arizona or New Mexico, but county sheriff's departments in the two states said there were no immediate reports of an engine falling in their areas.

The captain radioed to ground control that "the left a shudder and that one of the engines had apparently seized" when the aircraft was passing over Gila Bend, Ariz., said American Airlines spokesman Joe Stroop.

"He could tell that (the engine had stopped running), apparently, from innumerable in the cockpit," the airline official said.

An unidentified passenger said the crew "implied that one of the engines had come out, but they didn't say it fell off."

There was no damage to the plane except for the missing engine and the crew had no problem landing the plane, which carried 81 passengers and a crew of eight, Stroop said.

Linda Johnson, corporate communications manager for American Airlines in Dallas, said, "We don't know why (the engine fell off). We have an investigation under way."

The aircraft was quickly towed to a hanger for inspection.

It is the second time an engine has fallen off a 727. Boeing spokesman Tom Cole said in Seattle. He said the earlier incident occurred on a national Airlines plane above El Paso on April 30, 1974. Cole said nobody was injured and that plane also landed safely.

Missouri manhunt continues

BRANSON, Mo. — With National Guard troops on standby, Highway Patrol troopers closed in on a submarine gun-toting white supremacist, trained in close combat and hiding in the dense Ozark woodlands.

"We're not going out there to take his life," said state Highway Patrol Sgt. Ernest McCutchen said. "We want him alive."

Two helicopters and National Guard troops stood by in Springfield as police patrols searched rugged terrain early today for David C. Tate, 22, of Albia, Idaho, and three of his associates. McCutchen said Tate was armed with an Iram Ingram Mini-MAC submachine-gun, capable of extremely rapid fire.

Treasury Department weapons experts joined the FBI, Arkansas and Missouri state patrolmen and local police in a search that some authorities said was the most intensive since the day of the 1960s.

Tate was one of 24 members of a neo-Nazi group named Monday in a federal indictment for credit unions, criminal offenses. He also is a suspect in the killings of a Denver radio announcer and an Idaho white supremacist.

Algerian leader visits Reagan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Algerian President Chadli Bendjedid, viewed by the United States as an important Arab leader and a friend in northern Africa, has begun a four-day state visit on a note of closer U.S.-Algerian relations.

Chadli arrived Monday for wide-ranging talks on security concerns and economic development, highlighted today by a full military honor guard welcome at the White House, a meeting with President Reagan and a black-tie state dinner.

The visit is the first by an Algerian president since that country won independence from France in 1962 and Washington and Algeria looked for the talks to produce a reaffirmation of relatively trouble-free relations.

Amtrak train derailment leaves 26 injured

GRANBY, Colo. (UPI) — Amtrak's California Zephyr hit a 100-yard mudslide, jumped the tracks and four cars plunged into a remote mountain canyon, injuring 26 of the 147 people aboard, authorities said.

Amtrak officials said five injured people were evacuated by air after the Tuesday night crash, including two apparently suffering heart attacks. One Amtrak worker was admitted to Timberline Medical Center in Granby with unknown injuries.

"The injuries include four crew members," said Amtrak spokesman Clifford Black in Washington.

"We don't have the conditions of any of the injured, but we're told the injuries range from cuts and bruises to bone fractures."

Black said seven of the train's 14 cars left the track and four landed in the Fraser River.

State Patrol dispatcher Penny Dibble in Hot Sulphur Springs, Colo., said the accident occurred about 10:30 p.m. EST in Fraser Canyon, between Granby and Tabernash in the craggy north-central Colorado Rockies, about 55 miles northwest of Denver.

It was caused by a 100-yard mudslide," Dibble said.

The train's two engines landed in the river on their sides, followed by two two baggage cars. A sleeper, used mainly as a dormitory for crew members, jumped the track next and ended up sideways across the rails, Black said.

"Then we have the first sleeping car, which derailed and is leaning off the track as if it were a ship off keel."

"Then there's the first coach, which is off the track but upright and in line," he said. "The balance of the train — which is seven cars consisting of three coaches, a dining car, a lounge car and two sleeping cars, none of which derailed — was used to carry the passengers and crew back to Granby."

A discovery by the Republicans

Francis "Bud" Mullen of New London is the hottest new prospect for high office the Republicans have turned up lately, but GOP state Chairman Tom D'Amore says he needs guidance on which direction to take.

Mullen, an FBI man for 19 years, then director of the nation's drug-fighting program for nearly four more, retired March 1 at age 50 and promptly announced he would like "to jump over to the political arena" in Connecticut.

Capitol Comments
Bob Conrad

One tempting arena, says Mullen, is the Second Congressional District, where Democratic U.S. Rep. Sam Gejdenson is expected to seek a fourth term next year. But hold on. Here comes D'Amore with what he says is a better idea.

D'Amore wants Mullen to take on U.S. Sen. Chris Dodd, a heavy favorite at this point to win re-election in 1986. "Think it over," says D'Amore with an earnestness that means, "Please do it." And Mullen, at D'Amore's urging, is thinking it over. He'll accommodate the chairman to that extent. But he won't make up his mind for six to nine months.

This GOP discovery comes to politics from waging war with the drug underworld. He was so effective that until February of this year he had a price on his head and lived under the threat of kidnapping.

Now he is back in New London, building a home in East Lyme for his "retirement" years, and talking with Republican leaders about his new interest. D'Amore makes no secret about how excited he is over Mullen and he hopes his enthusiasm will infect others in the party as well. "He's a very impressive guy," says the chairman.

MULLEN BEGAN HIS CAREER as a cop in New London while he was a student at Central Connecticut State (then) College in New Britain. He shared the driving to college with classmates

Clark Van der Lyke, now town clerk in New London and a Democrat who worked in Gejdenson's campaign last year. "He was always very serious," says Van der Lyke.

Bud and Nancy Mullen were married while they were in school and the first of their three children was born to the college pair. Mullen earned a bachelor of science degree in history and education, but missed his graduation in 1962 because he had joined the FBI in May that year. "They mailed me the diploma," he says.

The FBI moved him from Milwaukee to Los Angeles to Washington to Denver to Tampa and New Orleans — the last two as agent in charge. After President Reagan appointed him director of the U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration in 1981, Mullen added stops in Central and South America.

In his last job, he supervised a staff of 4,000 with an agency budget of $340 million at a salary of $68,500.

MULLEN DESCRIBES HIMSELF as "a good Republican" but not one who would be a "robot." In addition to D'Amore, he has talked with U.S. Sen. Lowell Weicker and party leaders in the New London area. Attorney Bob Reardon of Waterford is the likely head of his political team. Acknowledging a conservative leaning, Mullen says he would have no trouble living in the GOP with the liberal to moderate Weicker.

"That is the strength of our party," he says. "It is open to all."

Some Republicans say Mullen has another plus going for him. They say he resembles the tough, conservative former governor and now U.S. Circuit Court Judge Tom Meskill of Berlin.

While he ponders his next move, Mullen will work with former state trooper Harry Boardman as vice president of Boardman Associates of Groton, a security service.

Lawmakers parrot letter by lobbyists

WASHINGTON — Health and Human Services Secretary Margaret Heckler received virtually identical letters from seven distinguished members of Congress recently, protesting a plan to save the government several million dollars on the purchase of prescription drugs for the needy.

By no coincidence, the congressional letters were almost verbatim versions of a "suggested draft" proposed by lobbyists for the National Association of Chain Drug Stores.

The target of this mini-campaign is a report by the department's inspector general, Richard Kusserow, recommending changes in the purchase of drugs for poor patients under the Medicaid program. Essentially, Kusserow urged that the discounts pharmaceuticals get from wholesalers and manufacturers be passed along to the federal government.

Instead, Kusserow found, the drug stores have been reimbursed on the basis of "average wholesale price" figures, provided by the industry itself.

WHILE NOTING THAT virtually all drugs purchased wholesale by the pharmacies were heavily discounted, the report stated that "the Medicaid program does not receive any benefit from these discounts." Kusserow stated that almost 80 percent of the $1.7 billion that Medicaid spends on prescription drugs each year is reimbursed on the basis of the wholesale figures.

Kusserow estimated that restricting the use of wholesale figures for reimbursement would save Medicaid "at least" $360 million over the next five years.

But the chain drug-store association, in its letter to the members of Congress, claimed Kusserow's methodology resulted in a "skewed and inconclusive report." The $360 million in savings, the association said, is "simply illusory."

Seven nearly identical copies of the lobbyists' "suggested draft" were sent to the Health and Human Services Department by Sen. Spark Matsunaga, D-Hawaii, and Reps. Richard Shelby, D-Ala.; Henry Hyde, R-Ill.; Joseph Addabbo, D-N.Y.; Charles Wilson, D-Texas; William Hefner, R-N.C.; and Tony Coelho, D-Calif.

Shelby, Addabbo and Coelho adopted the association's suggested phraseology word-for-word in this key paragraph: "It has been brought to my attention that this report contains serious arithmetical as well as theoretical flaws. The more cautious Matsunaga changed "contains" to "may contain."

Some town officials have argued that the cost of engineering should be figured into the cost of the entire project. Others have said it is difficult to get funding for the project without at least preliminary plans to show those whose approval is necessary — namely, the Board of Finance and the voters.

Seventeen other congressmen simply passed on letters from irate local druggists.

A SPOKESMAN for the association told our associate Tony Capaccio that the approach to Congress followed years of unsuccessful attempts to get the Health and Human Services Department to study the entire reimbursement issue. "We ran out of patience," he said. "We couldn't get a response out of the bureaucracy."

The association's largest campaign donations since 1981, incidentally, went to Shelby ($2,150), Hyde ($1,950) and Addabbo ($1,550).

The ombudsmen

• Picking a fight with the federal government can be a costly experience, but sometimes citizens feel so abused by "the system" that they have to stand up to it. We salute their spunk, but in this less than perfect world, spunk alone is no guarantee that you'll win.

Here are a couple of examples that were brought to our attention, the fed-up citizens tangled with the system and emerged bloody but unowed:

• Frank Turano of Somers, Mass., read a book titled "How Anyone Can Stop Paying Income Taxes," decided it made sense, and didn't file returns for five years.

"I asked the Internal Revenue Service if I was required by law to file a tax return and they were never able to give me a straight answer," said Turano, a 19-year veteran of the Newport, R.I., police force.

Hauled into court last January, Turano cited cases dating back to 1895 in which defendants claimed that Congress never could define "income" and therefore the income tax was not enforceable. Turano also argued that the IRS doesn't say we "must" pay taxes, only that we "may" pay them.

The price Turano is paying for his challenge to the IRS is five months in a federal detention center in Pensacola, Fla. He has also resigned from the police force and will get no pension.

• Leighton Griffiths, 73, of Pompton Lakes, N.J., blames the Small Business Administration and the First National Bank of Pike County (Pa.) for the failure of a company he farmed with a partner. They applied for an SBA loan of $200,000 and signed the necessary papers at the bank — without reading the fine print. It was a fatal oversight.

The loan was at 18-percent interest, not the 5-and-one-half-percent the partners thought they were getting. And they also didn't realize the bank held a $100,000 lien on the equipment they bought to start their business. Griffiths has filed suit against the SBA and the bank, claiming they "misled" him and his partner.

I would like to express my sincere appreciation and joy to Dr. Allan Leventhal, D.V.M., for the "Pet Forum" column April 11 concerning dogs. It clearly expresses his love and concern for animals, especially dogs. I share that same feeling.

There is a terrible depression when one's beloved pet dies. Through the years I have had quite a few, and I did find that replacing one dog with another dog did ease the hurt and pain. Of course, the others that have passed on shall remain forever in my memory.

Bolton's board needs John Muro

To the Editor:

If the people of Bolton want someone who will truly work for them on the Board of Education, I ask them to vote for John Muro. Here's why.

I've known John for nearly 20 years. As classmates at Bolton High School, I watched his skills as class vice president, student council representative, and chairman of innumerable committees. Not surprisingly, John was selected by classmates as being the most dedicated and having done the most for his class. But his dedication went beyond the classroom. He was also a team player on the field as well. He was a captain of Bolton High's baseball team, and played a key role in bringing the soccer team to the state tournament. For his athletic and academic achievements, he received the Outstanding Sportsman Award.

Regardless of which task John undertook, he did so with enthusiasm, dedication and a sense of pride — pride in himself, in his work and, as important, in his community.

A graduate of Trinity College in Hartford, John's enthusiasm for education never waned. He went on to receive an M.A. degree from the University of Connecticut, and an M.L.S. degree from Wesleyan University, where he received several scholarships.

Because of his motivation and professional skills, John now serves as a corporate officer and has several years of management and budget experience. He has also served on behalf of several charities and non-profit institutions.

As a taxpayer and a father of two children, John knows how important an education is to town students. And he also knows that a school system committed to excellence truly benefits all town residents. And that's an issue I know he feels strongly about.

He listens. He cares. And he works. Many Bolton residents already know this about John. And I hope that they, along with me, will cast their votes for him in the May election. Bolton's board needs someone like John. Now.

Bolton panel to study competition for girl ballplayers

By Sarah Possell
Herald Reporter

BOLTON — Competition between Bolton High School and the town Recreation Department for girls' softball players has reached such an impasse that the boards of selection and education agreed Tuesday to set up a committee to mediate the problem.

After listening to both sides during a meeting in Community Hall, the Board of Selectmen agreed to a suggestion from the school board to establish a Sports Advisory Committee, made up of one selectman, a member of the Recreation Commission, the park director, a member of the school board and the high school athletic director.

The high school has had difficulty fielding a junior varsity softball team this year. The rules of the Connecticut Interscholastic Athletic Conference forbid a player for a school team to play on a non-school team at the same time.

High School Principal Joseph V. Fleming called it a scheduling problem and suggested that the recreation department move its softball season back several weeks.

But recreation officials have said privately that girls in town do not want to play high school softball because the high school program is not well run.

"We're not asking any member of their team to play on our team," protested Recreation Director Ronald Avery.

"Our concern is the statement of goals or philosophy," Fleming said. "We're looking to establish some rapport. We think there is certainly room for compromise."

Fleming said he believes the town recreation program should train younger players for high school sports, rather than compete with high school programs.

"It's our feeling that there really aren't students enough to go around," school board Chairman

James H. Marshall said. "We are a very small community and we put a kid in an awful bind when we say, 'Play here' or 'Play there.'"

"During the meeting Tuesday, school officials and Recreation Commission members traded what some took as thinly veiled threats of retribution should the dispute continue.

"You're going to ask for us of our ballparks," Marshall said, referring to the imminent shutdown of playing fields at Herrick Memorial Park, which is scheduled for renovation.

"Are you saying the recreation isn't going to let the Board of Education use the fields or the Board of Education isn't going to let the Recreation Commission use the fields?" Avery asked. "I don't think anybody is going to use something like that against the other."

Avery questioned the value of an advisory committee, claiming that several past committees comprising school and recreation officials have failed to resolve the competition for players. Selectman Michael A. Zicka urged Avery to cooperate with the new committee.

"This is a town that's too small for kingdoms," said Zicka.

Marshall hinted that David Fernald is the likely choice for school board representative to the committee. Marshall also suggested the Board of Selectmen name its representative chairman of the new committee.

The selectmen set an 18-month deadline for the committee to complete its work.

Recreation Commission member Lou Youssan said she thinks the committee should also look into why the high school softball program has been so unpopular.

An editorial

Add planner to town staff

There is no question that the town Planning Department needs more help, and the Board of Directors should heed the request for a principal planner.

In the past few years, there has been a substantial increase in the department's workload, and there has been no increase in staff. A perusal of annual town reports shows that the department handled 15 zone-change applications in 1978-79, and 38 zone-change applications in 1983-84; 13 subdivision applications in 1978-79 and 23 in 1983-84; 18 inland-wetlands matters in 1978-79 and 30 in 1983-84. The list goes on and on.

Planning Director Mark Pellegrini says his department has managed to keep up with the increase in development activity, but only at the expense of research and long-range planning. Because of the active market, planning decisions are being made case by case, piece by piece. And the planning operation should not be disjointed.

Among the major problems faced by the planners and zoners is the outdated Comprehensive Plan of Development. The town plan, developed by an outside consultant and adopted 22 years ago, has become almost useless in guiding important land-use decisions. In the fall of 1983, we were told the updated plan would be ready soon. It remains unfinished, probably because of the increased workload resulting from zoning and subdivision matters.

The position of principal planner, as proposed by Pellegrini, would allow completion of the town plan. It also would allow for more research and review, and for updating of regulations to keep long-range plans current.

As the reserve of undeveloped land decreases, the land-use decisions become more difficult, and planning and zoning officials need assistance. There are many examples of their need, but we'll cite just two:

• The Zoning Board of Appeals continues to violate zoning law by granting variances for reasons other than those permitted in the regulations. Many applications are approved on the basis of good-faith intentions by the applicants or because there is no opposition, even if regulations clearly prohibit such approvals.

• The Planning and Zoning Commission is faced with a plan for development of the "Mall at Buckland Hills" which flouts provisions of the Comprehensive Urban Development plan, one in which it would be located. Developer John Fingerra says he has no intention of building housing as stipulated in CUD zone regulations, and the town planner acknowledges that the regulations are unclear. Fingerra is "taking his chances," according to Pellegrini, but it seems the developer will be able to get away with it.

An experienced principal planner would cost between $21,765 and $26,443. It would be money well spent by the town of Manchester.

Selectmen get ready for hearing

BOLTON — The Board of Selectmen Tuesday reviewed cuts the Board of Finance has made in the town's 1985-86 budget for the coming fiscal year to decide which cuts they will oppose at tonight's public hearing on the budget.

Selectmen agreed at a meeting Tuesday in Community Hall that they will not protest the cutting of a proposed $360,000 reconstruction of Williams Road. When the finance board eliminated the project from the selectmen's proposed fiscal 1985-86 budget, some members said the project ought to be submitted to a referendum and, if approved, paid for through a bond issue.

The fiscal year begins July 1.

But First Selectman Sandra Pierog said she cannot go along with the finance board's cuts in salary raises proposed for the town clerk, tax collector and park maintenance. Pierog and other selectmen have repeatedly objected to finance officials' tinkering with individual salaries in their annual review of the town spending plan.

The town charter gives the Board of Selectmen the sole right to set salaries.

Selectmen also objected to a 50-percent cut in the surveying and engineering budget and to the finance board's transferring all the money from the selectmen's budget to the general highway budget. The transfer puts strict limits on what kinds of project the money may be used for: road projects only.

That means there is no category for engineering things like soccer fields or school roofs — both examples of capital projects that town officials have been trying to launch for more than a year.

Some town officials have argued that the cost of engineering should be figured into the cost of the entire project. Others have said it is difficult to get funding for the project without at least preliminary plans to show those whose approval is necessary — namely, the Board of Finance and the voters.

Suspect falls through ceiling

COVENTRY — A suspected shoplifter at Fowler's almost got away Saturday when he hid inside the store's suspended ceiling but was finally nailed when he crashed to the floor. Coventry police said today.

New Britain resident Stoner Smith, 31, was charged with two counts of sixth-degree larceny and one count of second-degree criminal mischief.

Police said that when a store employee spotted Smith stealing cartons of cigarettes and started to question him, Smith fled. The worker caught Smith and locked him in a room while police were summoned.

But Smith climbed into the ceiling, collapsing it in several spots as he made his way across the store and finally falling through, police said. Store customers and workers nabbed him again before he could escape, police said.

Smith was released after booking on a $2,000 surety bond and ordered to appear April 30 in Rockville Superior Court.

Ludes backs O'Neill on coach bill veto

HARTFORD — Gov. William A. O'Neill Tuesday cast his first veto of the 1985 legislative session, rejecting a bill to require periodic first aid training for all public school athletic coaches.

The bill, which cleared the Legislature's Education Committee on a 24-0 vote Tuesday, would have required all public school athletic coaches to take periodic training in first aid beginning Aug. 1.

Bruins can't beat history

MONTREAL (UPI) — After 42 years without a Stanley Cup series victory over the Montreal Canadiens, it could hardly have been different for the Boston Bruins this time around.

Mats Naslund made sure history repeated itself Tuesday when he scored with 51 seconds remaining to give the Canadiens a 2-0 victory over the Bruins in the fifth and deciding game of their Adams Division semi-final series.

The victory sends the Canadiens into the best-of-seven division finals against the Quebec Nordiques Thursday.

"I said to myself, 'Harry, it was inevitable,'" said Bruins coach Harry Sinden of his reaction to watching the winning goal slip by netminder Doug Keane.

"I saw Bourque's shot all the way," he said. "Our defensemen let me make the save and they held the Bruins from the rebound. We deserved to win, but the Bruins played a super series."

Naslund said his teammates were scared the last 10 minutes of the game with the Bruins pressing the attack and checking ferociously.

"We were starting to shake a little," he said. "We were scared. They had momentum in our zone."

His reaction when the 18,078 fans exploded in delirium after his goal?

"Their reaction was almost like when Guy Lafleur scored a hat trick," Naslund said. "I felt it under my back. You get empty and scream and jump."

With the victory, the Canadiens became the first NHL team to win 275 playoff games.

Mets are going to be serious contenders in '85

The Major League baseball season is a week old and some quick observations can be made about certain teams.

For one, the New York Mets apparently are going to be real contenders. Sure they lost their first of the season Monday night to the Pirates but no team is going to go unbeaten. But Gary Carter, who already has three game-winning hits, is going to be of service to the Shea Stadium tenants not only offensively but defensively.

Bruce Berenyi, when he faltered, credited Carter with giving him the verbal kick in the back he needed.

Another thing which I like about the Mets is Dwight Gooden.

What is there not to like?

The most exciting facet to this youngster is his make-up. The birth certificate says 20 years of age but the maturity level is years beyond that. New York fans, when Gooden takes the mound, are demanding strikeouts but the Tampa, Fla., native is having none of it. His strikeouts will come, but he's trying to retire batters as quickly as possible.

Darryl Strawberry, who got himself into trouble a year ago with his mooning, has been mostly silent. He appears to have learned a great deal from last year's semi-disaster — how can you call 28 homers, 97 RBIs a disastrous year — and hopefully a productive campaign will follow.

The Mets success will depend on their young pitchers. If they — like Roger McDowell come through — watch out.

Yankee owner George Steinbrenner, after his club had dropped two straight to the Red Sox, said some of the series was "crucial."

How absurd. If it was game No. 149 with 13 left and the Yankees down by 10 games in the standings, then the game is "crucial." But when it's the third game of the season with 159 to follow, "Crucial."

The Yankees need pitching. It's as simple as that. You can't count on Phil Niekro, the 46-year-old veteran, and Ron Guidry still must prove last year was not the beginning of the end for him.

The Red Sox, after a successful start of a sweep of the Yankees, dropped two straight to the Chicago White Sox but with John McNamara at the helm and a young pitching staff can only improve, the Red Sox are team to be reckoned with for the entire season.

On the local front

Manchester High's baseball team opened the scholastic season with a rush. Pete Frankovich and Ken Krajewski each twirled one-hitters and left-hander Chris Helin pulled a Johnny Van Diermer — albeit over a stretch of time — as he pitched a no-hitter.

There should be an interesting match-up today as Manchester visits croststown East Catholic. The Eagles swung the sticks well in their season-opening win over St. Paul but were stymied by Fairfield Prep.

It wasn't known until later that Fairfield Prep was considered the No. 1 schoolboy team in the state by many. The Jesuits used their No. 3 pitcher against East.

The strength with the Eagles is also in their pitching staff but hard-throwing left-hander Mickey Garbeck has to find the plate. He didn't in his opening two outings and the walks — 13 in all against Prep — were damaging.

Bits and pieces

Ralph Giannanti, area scout for the Atlanta Braves, was in a recent Cas Cas game. His son, Ralph, who is now playing pro ball in Italy, was once in the Braves farm system. The elder Giannanti remembers one telephone call from his son when he was in the Sally League. He told of a pitcher who was obviously a cut above. "This kid won't be here long," the younger Giannanti told his dad.

The player's name? Dwight Gooden.

UConn didn't land 7-3, 245-pound Alan Bannister of England. He decided to attend Oklahoma State, for those who missed Husky coach Don Ferris still needs a center desperately for the '85-86 basketball season. Where he'll get one is the million dollar question.

Manchester High grad Jennifer Kohut has appeared in one game for the University of Connecticut women's softball team. Kohut, an infielder, is a freshman. It may not be the perfect solution but how about a small stipend for college basketball players so they won't be enticed by gamblers. It wouldn't solve all problems, but it could be beneficial. Lots of these players are from the inner city and the temptations get to be too great. A small "salary" — in return for the thousands of dollars they generate for the universities — wouldn't be out of line.

Hagler knew outcome early

By Rich Tosches
United Press International

LAS VEGAS, Nev. — Heading into the fight there were memories of what Thomas Hearns had done to pretty good fighters with that mule-kick right hand of his.

There was the flashback to 1980 when he made welterweight champ Pipo Cuevas look like a child in a second-round knockout. There was the brutal one-punch destruction of the legendary Roberto Duran in 1984, also in the second round.

And in the first seconds of the first round of Monday night's fight against middleweight king Marvin Hagler, it looked like it would happen again. He caught the champion with a straight right. The same punch that had turned Cuevas and Duran and 32 other opponents into jelly.

It turned Hagler into a madman. "Right away he hit me with his best shot," Hagler recalled Tuesday. "A right, right on the chin. Nothing happened. I knew I could handle his punch."

In the ensuing minutes Hearns would land that same punch again and again. And several times he then went to a neutral corner, as he had done so many times to await the referee's count to 10.

But this time, he had company in the corner. Hagler's news conference, covering four stitches that were needed to seal a gash. That blood-spouting gash, incurred in the first round — a round considered one of the wildest, three minutes in the history of boxing — originally appeared to be the beginning of the end for Hagler.

It quickly, however, turned out to be the end for Hearns as a furious Hagler waded through the best punches the challenger could throw and crushed Hearns at 2:01 of the third round.

"I'm not scared of blood," said Hagler, who defended his undisputed middleweight title for the 11th time.

"Blood turns me on. It brings out the animal in me."

After referee Richard Steele halted the bout in the third round and ordered the ring doctor to examine the cut, that animal roared on an already wobbly Hearns. When the attack was over, Hearns was on his back. His eyes were vacant and unseeing. He got to his feet at the count of nine, but Steele wisely stopped the fight.

"I confused Thomas in there," Hagler said. "I got my leverage and found the distance and began switching from right to lefty, just as he was coming in. I didn't even realize I was switching hands."

"I hit him with a right jab from a southpaw stance, then switched to right-handed and zoomed in with my right hand. As soon as it landed, I figured that was the end of it."

For all intents, it was. A stunned Hearns careened crazily across the ring with the raging Hagler in pursuit. Five seconds later another right hand caught Hearns flush on the chin. The fight was over.

"Basically that was the only way to fight Thomas Hearns," Hagler said. "I told you I'd cut him down like a tree... just get inside and cut him down."

"I had to let him know right from the start who was boss. It was a big risk for me, fighting wide open like that, but I felt I could take anything he could throw. And I did. I was never hurt in the fight. Never."

For Hearns, who was en route back to Detroit as the champion spoke, the fight may have been even more costly than initially thought. His right hand, a wrecking ball of a fist that had crushed one opponent after another, was badly swollen and feared broken.

"I just don't like it," Dr. Fred Lewerent said after examining the hand. X-rays were to be taken in Detroit late Tuesday.

Hearns has sustained two prior fractures of the hand, once against Wilfred Benitez and once playing basketball. A third break of the fragile hand could possibly mean the end of Hearns' career.

Asked if a rematch with Hearns could be one of his final four fights, a broad, confident smile raced across his face. He reminded reporters his two losses in a 65-fight pro career were avenged by knockouts. He said what most observers who watched the brutal, frenzied fight also felt.

"I feel as though Thomas wouldn't want another fight like that," he said. "He knows how dangerous I'd be in a rematch. The next time, the first round might be it."

And Hagler — unlike Hearns, whose dream of moving up the weight ladder and eventually capturing four titles has taken a major setback — said there's no chance of him moving out of the weight class he's ruled for five years.

"I'm a legitimate middleweight," he said. "I see all these guys jumping around from one weight class to another. I'm the middleweight champion. Period."

Marvelous Marvin Hagler knew he had Thomas 'Hit Man' Hearns after he took Hearns' best shot — and stayed upright. Hagler, who suffered some cuts around his eyes, bombed out Hearns with a third-round TKO.

Sports In Brief

NBA approves Kings' move

NEW YORK — The city of Sacramento proved to the National Basketball Association it could support one of the league's franchises. It has yet to convince the league's board of governors it can adequately house one.

The Kansas City Kings are California-bound all the same.

The Kings' transfer to Sacramento for the 1985-86 season was approved by the Board of Governors Tuesday with one abstention. However, the transfer is contingent on building a permanent stadium in two years.

"We are delighted to have the Kings in Sacramento," said NBA Commissioner David Stern. "We feel the community can support the team."

Tulane students oppose abolishment

NEW ORLEANS — Tulane University students have voted to oppose an administrative move to abolish their school's scandal-ridden basketball program.

Students Tuesday charged Tulane President Eamon Kelly and faculty members failed to consult them before taking an action they believe would further harm the university's prestige.

The Associated Student Body passed a resolution Tuesday night asking school administrators to wait until a panel of experts completes a probe of the basketball program before effecting a permanent ban on the sport. Kelly met with students behind closed doors and expressed optimism he was winning converts to his view.

Vilas saves best for last

HOUSTON — Guillermo Vilas saved his best for last, rallying to defeat Vijay Amritraj in the first round of the $100,000 River Oaks Tennis Tournament.

Vilas and Amritraj played to five deuces in the 11th game of the first set Tuesday before Vilas broke his opponent to go up 6-5. Vilas went on to win the match, 7-5, 6-2.

Madden summed it up best

LAS VEGAS, Nev. — The best post fight sum-up of the "war" between Marvelous Marvin Hagler and Thomas Hearns was offered Tuesday by former Oakland Raiders coach and TV sportscaster John Madden.

"They certainly didn't bother wasting any time feeling each other out, did they?" he said.

Ruzici breeds in net play

AMELIA ISLAND, Fla. — Virginia Ruzici breezed through the second round of a $250,000 tennis tournament, beating 12th-seeded Michelle Jones 6-0, 6-3.

Debbie Spence, 17, upset 13th-seeded Alycia Moulton 5-7, 6-4, 6-3 while 14th-seeded Kathy Horvath defeated Beth Herr 6-1, 6-0.

In first-round play, Bettina Bunge beat Catherine Suire 6-3, 7-5; Gabriela Sabatini defeated Mercedes Paz 6-1, 6-4; Petra Huber beat Pascale Paradis 6-0, 6-3; Steffi Graf defeated Carina Karlsson 6-4, 6-3; and Rosalyn Fairbank eliminated Joy Cummings 6-0, 3-6, 7-6 (8-7).

The tournament is known as the Sunbelt Tennis Championship.

Bramble fined $15,000

LAS VEGAS, Nev. — World Boxing Association lightweight champion Livingstone Bramble was fined $15,000 Tuesday and his trainer, Lou Duva, was fined $5,000 by the Nevada Athletic Commission because the fighter used an illegal stimulant in his title defense earlier this year against Ray "Boom Boom" Mancini.

The fines could have been as high as $25,000 for each man and Bramble could have been suspended in Nevada for up to six months, but the lighter disciplinary action was taken because the commission decided neither Bramble nor Duva knew of the illegal substance.

Hawerchuk may be back

WINNIPEG, Manitoba — Winnipeg center and leading scorer Dale Hawerchuk, who suffered two cracked ribs in a first-round playoff game last Saturday, may be able to return to the lineup for Thursday's second-round opener against the Edmonton Oilers, the Jets announced Tuesday.

Hawerchuk, the league's third highest scorer in the regular season, sustained the injury while being checked by Calgary's Jamie Macoun in Game 3 of the Smythe Division semifinals.

Mulkey named assistant coach

RUSTON, La. — Olympic gold medalist Kim Mulkey and top girl's high school coach Mary Kay Hungate were named assistant women's basketball coaches at Louisiana Tech Tuesday.

They replace co-head coach Sonja Hogg who resigned last month.

Failures fresh in Sixers' memory

By United Press International

Recent failures are fresh in the Philadelphia 76ers' memory.

A stunning first-round playoff loss to the New Jersey Nets last season and poor play and dissension down the stretch has Philadelphia appearing very little like one of the "Sixers from the East."

But Julius Erving believes the recent past is just that and the powerful 76ers will arise again when they open the playoffs Wednesday night.

"I don't think they (the Bullets) are going to beat us," Erving said. "If they do, it would be an upset. But we've had our fill of upsets, so we're not going to lose."

Such pre-playoff declarations must ring more than a little hollow for 76ers and coach Andy Patashnik. Philadelphia has baffled Coach Billy Cunningham with its inconsistent play, and there are reports of dissatisfaction with his demanding coaching style.

The 76ers were 7-8 in their last 15 games, falling to third in the Eastern Conference. One of those defeats was a 116-106 decision to Washington and another was to the Nets, whom they may well meet if they can dodge the bruising Bullets.

"I feel we have something to prove after last year," Cunningham said. "We had a bad experience down the stretch, but this is a new season. Our finish may have affected a younger team, but this is a veteran team that knows what it takes in the playoffs."

One of the things it takes is a healthy ballclub, and in that respect the 76ers, who suffered their share of injuries throughout the year, may have an edge.

Philadelphia, which was 4-2 against Washington in the regular season, is sure to be a full-strength contender for the Spectrum opener. Starters Moses Malone and Andrew Toney and key reserve Clemon Johnson appear healthy.

The Bullets aren't so lucky. Rugged center Jeff Ruland has missed 43 of the last 44 games with a strained right shoulder that prevents him from extending his arm for shooting and rebounding. He is not expected to play much, if at all.

"We have to play just about perfect basketball to be competitive with them," guard Gus Williams said. "If we lag in one area, we're going to be in trouble. I don't see many weaknesses. If they have a weakness in one area, they've got strengths in others."

Even though the Sixers hold an advantage on paper, Cunningham still is cautious.

"Last year, they gave Boston as rough a time as anybody and it might have helped Boston the rest of the way," he said, noting the Celtics' 3-1 playoff victory on their way to the 1984 title.

"The Sixers and Bullets will open the NBA's post-season schedule, Thursday's series opener will include New Jersey at Detroit, Phoenix at the Los Angeles Lakers, San Antonio at Denver, Portland at Dallas and Cleveland at Boston. Chicago is at Milwaukee and Utah is at Houston in the playoff opener set for Friday night.

The playoffs have apparently become boring for Boston's Larry Bird — a ho-hum affair that he is glad has been spiced up with a new cast of characters.

"I'm tired of playing the same teams every year, we haven't played Cleveland or New Jersey or Detroit, and it will be good to have a change," Bird said.

But not even a bored Larry Bird in search of new faces to beat up on could have thought Cleveland, which went 2-15 to start the season, to be present at Boston Garden Thursday.

"No one expected the Cavaliers to make the playoffs," Celtics coach K.C. Jones said. "We have to be prepared for them to come in as loose as a goose."

The Cavaliers haven't won at Boston Garden since Oct. 12, 1979 and in their 15-year history have recorded a 19-58 record against the Celtics, including losses in all six games against them this season.

Celtics are not laughing at Cavaliers

By Frederick Waterman
United Press International

BOSTON — The Cleveland Cavaliers are no longer the joke of the NBA and the Boston Celtics, though confident don't expect their first-round playoff to be a laughing matter.

The defending world champions host Cleveland in the opener Thursday of their best-of-five series. In the view of Celtics coach K.C. Jones, it is Boston which is under the gun.

"No one expected the Cavaliers to make the playoffs, but we're the champions and anyone expects us to do well. We have to be prepared for them to come in as loose as a goose," said Jones, whose team beat Cleveland in all six meetings this season.

"But you can throw out the regular season, all those losses are in the past — they don't matter one iota," said Jones. "We know we can't just walk out on the court, open our shirts, show a big red 'S' and have the other team fall down."

Cleveland has reached the playoffs just three times, in 1976, 1977 and 1978, playing Boston once, losing in the 1976 Eastern Division finals.

The Cavaliers haven't won at Boston Garden since Oct. 13, 1978 and over the younger franchise's 15-year history, it has a record of 19-58 against the Celtics.

Boston, which in recent years has usually played Atlanta and Washington in the early playoff rounds, will be facing different opponents, to the pleasure of Larry Bird.

"I'm tired of playing the same teams every year, we haven't played Cleveland or Detroit, and it will be good to have a change," Bird said.

But he does not think the result will be any different.

"Right now, we're pretty confident," said the Celtics scoring leader, at 28.8 points per game. "We've had some injuries to people and we've given some people some rest, but we think we can come back and play hard."

Former sixth man Kevin McHale, who replaced injured forward Cedric Maxwell in the starting lineup, has bumped his scoring average up to 19.8. He believes that the skills of the Cavaliers shouldn't be confused with their losers' image.

Roof caves in on Cougars

The roof caved in on Manchester Community College Tuesday.

The Cougars were coasting along with a 5-2 lead over Mitchell College. Just two outs away from victory. Seven runs later and it was another shocking loss.

The Pequots went on to win, 9-6.

Manchester, which slumps to 4-10-1, returns to the diamond today against the Yale junior varsity in the 10th inning.

Mitchell, now 9-4, was sparked by RBI singles by Ric Jackson, John Sherman and Darin Binder in the ninth inning rally.

Run-scoring safeties by Bob Gagnon, Rob Hill, Peter Palmer and Jeff D'Angona plus Jeff Brennan's sacrifice fly, had staked the Cougars to a 3-2 lead in the fifth.

D'Angona had a single and double to pace Manchester's 10-hit attack. Palmer, Gagnon and Brennan added two singles each.

Manchester travels to Willamette Thursday to meet the Eastern Connecticut State University junior varsity squad.

MCC crushed

Undefeated Mitchell College handed out 16 hits and took advantage of 14 errors to crush Manchester Community College, 17-0, in a women's softball mismatch.

The pitcher Dawn Test limited MCC to just three hits, singles by Kathy Kirsch, Amy Glazer and Sue Donnelly.

The loss drops the Cougars to 3-4, while Mitchell raises its record to 9-0.

Manchester travels to Willamette Thursday to meet the Eastern Connecticut State University junior varsity squad.

Winnipeg center and leading scorer Dale Hawerchuk, who suffered two cracked ribs in a first-round playoff game last Saturday, may be able to return to the lineup for Thursday's second-round opener against the Edmonton Oilers, the Jets announced Tuesday.

Hawerchuk, the league's third highest scorer in the regular season, sustained the injury while being checked by Calgary's Jamie Macoun in Game 3 of the Smythe Division semifinals.

Ruston, La. — Olympic gold medalist Kim Mulkey and top girl's high school coach Mary Kay Hungate were named assistant women's basketball coaches at Louisiana Tech Tuesday.

They replace co-head coach Sonja Hogg who resigned last month.

Boston's Larry Bird (33), shown here against Philadelphia's Julius Erving, will lead the defending NBA champions against the Cleveland Cavaliers tonight as the playoffs get under way.

POTATOES - POTATOES - POTATOES

POTATOES - POTATOES - POTATOES

The old image of the Army included "punishment by potatoes" — forcing privates to peel mounds and mounds of potatoes on K.P. duty.

But in modern kitchens, that sort of punishment is a thing of the past. You can prepare a plenteous of potato dishes without ever lifting a peeler.

Potatoes in boxes have changed the way we cook. They appeal to the teens who cook for themselves; the singles, looking for convenient preparation and minimal clean-up; and the working wives, with limited time to prepare meals.

Potatoes Italiano is an easy-to-prepare "gourmet" dish, using herbs, mozzarella and Dijon mustard. Chicken pasta is sure to be a family favorite.

The versatile potato has literally given the skin off its back to create the most popular appetizer of the eighties. Here's a version of that crunchy delight, served at so many bars and fast-food restaurants.

Deep-dish potato pie

1 package au gratin potatoes
4 cups water
1 cup water
1/2 cup milk
1/2 cup dairy sour cream
1 can (10 1/2 ounces) condensed cream of chicken soup
1 1/2 cups cut-up fully cooked smoked ham
1 package (10 ounces) frozen peas and carrots, rinsed and drained
1 jar (2 ounces) diced pimientos, drained
1 jar (2 1/2 ounces) sliced mushrooms, drained
1/2 package (11-ounce size) pie crust mix
Heat potatoes and 4 cups water to boiling in 3-quart saucepan. Cook over medium heat, stirring occasionally, until tender, 13 to 15 minutes. Drain. Stir in sauce

Potato skins

1 package mashed potatoes (enough for 4 servings)
2 tablespoons all-purpose flour
1 to 1 1/2 cups shredded Cheddar cheese (4 to 6 ounces)
8 slices bacon, crisply cooked and crumbled
Dairy sour cream, if desired
Heat oven to 425 degrees. Lightly grease cookie sheet. Prepare potatoes as directed on package for 4

One-pan chicken fiesta

1 package au gratin potatoes
1/2 cup boiling water
1/2 cup milk
2 tablespoons canned diced green chilies, drained
2 chicken breast halves (excess fat removed)
1/2 cup shredded Monterey Jack cheese
1/2 cup shredded Cheddar cheese
1 medium tomato, chopped
Heat oven to 400 degrees. Place half of the potato slices (about 1/4 cups) and half of the sauce mix (about 1/4 cup) in ungreased square pan, 8 1/2 x 8 1/2 inches. Stir in boiling water, milk and chilies. Place chicken breasts on top. Bake uncovered until chicken

Cheesy potato patties

Package mashed potatoes (enough for 4 servings)
1/2 cup shredded Cheddar cheese
1/2 cup chopped onion
2/3 cup potato buds (mashed potatoes) (dry)
2 to 4 tablespoons margarine or butter
Prepare potatoes as directed on package for 4 servings except decrease water to 1 cup. Stir in cheese and onion. Refrigerate until cool enough to handle, about 10 minutes.
Divide into 12 equal parts; shape each into patty. Coat patties with dry potatoes. Heat margarine in 10-inch skillet until melted. Cook patties over medium heat until golden brown, 3 to 4 minutes on each side. Makes 12 patties.

Potatoes Italiano

1 package au gratin potatoes
1 cup cut-up cooked turkey or chicken
1/2 cup chopped green pepper
1/2 cup chopped onion
is done and potatoes are tender, 45 to 50 minutes.
Sprinkle with cheese; bake until melted, about 5 minutes longer. Garnish with chopped tomato. Makes 2 servings.

Cut cooking time if you're cutting a recipe in half

Cooking for one or two? The microwave can help enormously.

One of the unique features of microwave cooking is that the amount of food to be cooked makes a difference. The cooking time for a single portion is about one-quarter the time required for 4 servings.

Keep this principle in mind when cutting a recipe in half. Not only must the ingredients be cut in half, but the cooking time as well.

Cooking for one or two people begins at the supermarket. You can buy one-half-dozen eggs, or a stick of butter. Keep bread in the freezer and remove slices as needed to be thawed in the microwave.

A variety of foods is available in small sizes. The small cans may cost more per ounce, but the large economy size is false economy if you end up refrigerating leftovers and throwing them out after a few days.

When you buy frozen vegetables, bigger is better. You can open a poly bag and remove only one or two servings. The bag can be re-closed for later use. This is much easier than dividing a solid block of vegetables and trying to re-seal the box.

Several microwave cookbooks are available to help the single person or small family with microwave recipes. "Microwave Cooking for One or Two," from Litton is one such book. Another fine cookbook with amounts and times for small portions is "Microwave

Double cheese veal roll

1/2 pound veal boneless top round steak
1/2 slice (1-ounce) fully cooked ham
1 teaspoon grated Parmesan cheese
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1/2 cup ground ginger, divided
2 teaspoons cornflake crumbs
1/2 teaspoon dried parsley flakes, divided
1 teaspoon butter
Dash of salt
2 tablespoons milk
1 tablespoon grated Monterey Jack cheese
1/2 teaspoon dried parsley flakes, divided
Sprinkle with Parmesan cheese, pepper and a dash of

Swiss steak

1 pound boneless bottom round steak, cut into 2 pieces
1 tablespoon flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1 can (8-ounce) stewed tomatoes
1/2 cup chopped onion
1 tablespoon French dressing
1/2 teaspoon dried rosemary
2 green pepper rings
Pound meat to 1/4-inch thickness with the edge of a saucer or meat mallet. In paper or plastic bag, mix

Vegetable braised spareribs

1/2 pound fresh country-style spareribs
1/2 cup plus 2 tablespoons hot water, divided ginger. Roll up tightly. Secure with wooden pick.
In a small dish, mix cornflake crumbs and 1/2 teaspoon parsley flakes. Roll meat in the crumb mixture. Place coated meat in a 14-ounce oval individual casserole. Cover with waxed paper. Microwave at 50 percent power (Med) for 2 1/2 to 3 minutes, or until meat is no longer pink, turning roll over twice. Drain and set aside.
Increase power to high. Microwave butter in a 2-cup measure for 15 to 20 seconds on high, or until melted. Stir in flour, salt, remaining dash of ginger and 1/2 teaspoon parsley flakes. Blend in milk. Microwave on high for 15 to 30 seconds, or until thickened, stirring once.
Stir in cheese until melted. Pour sauce over roll. Makes 1 serving.
To increase for two servings: double all ingredients. Prepare as directed, except microwave meat at 50 percent power (Med) for 3 1/2 to 4 minutes. Increase power to high. Microwave butter for 30 to 45 seconds; sauce on high for 45 to 60 seconds.

flour, salt and pepper. Shake meat in the bag until coated. Place meat in a 2-quart square casserole. Mix tomato, onion, dressing and rosemary; pour over meat. Place green pepper rings on top of meat; cover. Microwave at 50 percent power (Med) for 15 to 25 minutes, or until tender. Let stand covered for 10 minutes, or until meat is no longer pink, turning roll over twice. Refrigerate one serving no longer than 2 days. To reheat, microwave 5 to 7 minutes, stirring sauce and turning meat after half of the time.

1 new potato, peeled and grated... 1/2 cup shredded cabbage... 1/2 cup sliced onion... 1/2 teaspoon instant beef bouillon granules... Dash of dried basil leaves... Dash of salt... Dash of pepper... 1 teaspoon bouquet sauce... 1 teaspoon water... Place spareribs in a 1-quart casserole, covered. Microwave at 50 percent power (Med) for 9 to 12 minutes, or until meat is no longer pink, stirring once or twice. Drain, set aside.

Combine potato, tomato, cabbage and onion in a 8 1/2-inch baking dish, or a 1-quart casserole. Dissolve bouillon granules in 2 tablespoons of hot water. Pour over vegetables. Sprinkle with basil, salt and pepper. Mix bouquet sauce and 1 teaspoon water; brush over spareribs.

Add spareribs to vegetables; cover. Microwave at 50 percent power (Med) for 25 to 30 minutes, or until meat is fork-tender, turning meat over and stirring vegetables every 10 minutes. Let stand covered for 5 minutes before serving. Serves 1 person.

Hint: to make servings for 2 people, double all the ingredients. Prepare as directed, except use a 2-quart casserole. Microwave spareribs and water at 50 percent power (Med) for 15 to 19 minutes. Microwave vegetables and spareribs at 50 percent power (Med) for 15 to 30 minutes.

Chicken livers

1/2 teaspoon butter... 1/2 cup sliced fresh mushrooms... 1/4 cup onion, thinly sliced and separated into rings... 1/4 cup hot water... 1 tablespoon vermouth... 1/4 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce... 1/2 teaspoon flour... 1/2 teaspoon instant beef bouillon granules... 1/4 teaspoon dried basil leaves... Dash of salt... Dash of pepper... 1 pound chicken livers... Place butter in a 15-ounce individual casserole. Microwave on high for 30 seconds, or until melted. Add mushrooms and onion. Microwave on high for 45 to 60 seconds, or until vegetables are tender, stirring after half of the cooking time to coat with butter.

Stir in water, vermouth, Worcestershire sauce, flour and bouillon granules, oregano, basil, salt and pepper into mushrooms and onions. Microwave on high for 1 to 2 1/2 minutes, or until thickened, stirring once.

Stir in chicken livers. Cover with waxed paper. Reduce power to 50 percent (Med) and microwave for 6 to 8 minutes, or until livers are no longer pink, stirring after half of the time. Let stand 5 minutes before serving. Makes 1 serving.

Hint: to serve 2 people, double all the ingredients. Prepare as directed, except use a 1-quart casserole. Melt butter on high for 30 to 45 seconds; microwave vegetables on high for 1 1/2 to 3 minutes; thicken sauce on high for 2 1/2 to 3 1/2 minutes. Reduce power to 50 percent (Med) for 8 to 10 minutes.

Scallops veronique

2 tablespoons butter... 1/4 cup chopped green onions... 2 tablespoons cornstarch... 1/4 teaspoon ground mace... 1 1/2 cups chicken broth... 1/4 cup white wine... 1 tablespoon lemon juice... 1 pound poached scallops... 1 cup green seedless grapes, halved... 1 1/3 cups cooked white and wild rice, hot... In a 2-quart casserole, combine butter and green onions. Microwave at full power for 2 to 2 1/2 minutes, or until green onions are tender. Stir in cornstarch and mace. Microwave on high for 30 seconds. Whisk in chicken broth and wine. Microwave at full power for 4 to 5 minutes, or until thickened and bubbly, stirring 3 times. Mixture should be thick and smooth.

Stir in lemon juice. Gently fold in poached scallops. Cover and microwave at full power for 3 to 3 1/2 minutes, or until heated through. Stir in grapes. Let stand covered for 5 minutes. Serve over hot cooked rice. Sprinkle with paprika.

To poach scallops: combine the following ingredients and bring to a boil in a 1-quart casserole. Add scallops to hot liquid. Push scallops under poaching liquid as much as possible. Cover and microwave at full power for 3 minutes, stirring three times. Let stand covered for 3 minutes. Remove with a slotted spoon. Add to recipe above.

Potatoes make for fine meals

1 1/2 cups boiling water... 1 1/2 cup milk... 2 tablespoons Dijon-style mustard... 1 tablespoon margarine or butter... 1/2 teaspoon dried oregano leaves... 1/2 teaspoon dried basil leaves... 1/2 teaspoon pepper... 1 clove garlic, crushed... 1 cup shredded mozzarella cheese (4 ounces)

Heat oven to 400 degrees. Place half of the potato slices (about 1 1/2 cups) and half of the sauce mix (about 1/4 cup) in ungreased 1-quart casserole. * Stir in remaining ingredients except cheese. Bake uncovered until potatoes are tender and mixture is hot, 25 to 30 minutes. Sprinkle with cheese; bake until melted, about 5 minutes longer. Let stand a few minutes before serving. Makes 2 or 3 servings.

Microwave directions: Mix half of the potatoes (about 1 1/2 cups), 1/4 cup hot water and 1 tablespoon margarine or butter in 10-quart round microwaveable casserole. * Cover with waxed paper and microwave on high (100 percent) 8 minutes.

Brian Kingsley of Bank Street holds two pans of his baked manicotti, fresh from the oven. Kingsley is a head cook at the Manchester Senior Citizens' Center.

Seniors' cook has sweet touch

By Adele Ande Focus Editor

This is a secret so don't tell anyone. The head cook at the Manchester Senior Citizens' Center is never so happy as when he's chowing down on Kraft macaroni and cheese. And he eats it straight from the pot, Brian Kingsley of 22 Bank St. admits.

"I like to sit in front of the TV and eat," he says. Family and friends, however, have been treated to far fancier fare. He is an expert candy and cake maker and decorator. He also loves to make his own manicotti.

The endeavor can often turn into a family affair, with his wife, Eva, and the couple's children, Jennifer, 7, and Steven, 11, joining him. The kids wear chef's hats and aprons, just like their dad. "They even help me clean up. It's amazing," says Kingsley.

He prefers to use crepes instead of shells. "I find they're lighter. The crepes aren't starchy at all," he says. Her wife, Eva, is the Italian in the family. She gently kids her husband when he tells people he likes Italian cuisine.

He still won't touch her asparagus pie, she says. Nor will he even go near spinach — an essential ingredient in many Italian dishes. But she forgives him when he makes chocolate mousse for dessert. The recipe, he said, he once used while working as a chef at Neno's, a restaurant in Vernon.

Manicotti SAUCE: 2 1/2-ounce cans tomato paste... 1 1/2-ounce can of tomato sauce... 2 1/2 cups water... 1/2 teaspoon basil... 1/2 teaspoon oregano... 1/2 teaspoon parsley... 1 small onion... 2 medium cloves garlic... 2 tablespoons Parmesan cheese... Salt and pepper to taste... 1 teaspoon sugar... 2 tablespoons olive oil... Combine the above ingredients. Simmer for 30 minutes, covered.

Dieter's Almanac

Weight loss requires habit change

T is for training. Diet and exercise are not enough. To lose weight and keep it off, you also have to train yourself in new, slimming ways. This means developing new habits — regular practices of proper eating and exercising. In other words, you have to modify your behavior.

Of course, there are emotional reasons for nibbling in the kitchen or cramming sweets. Psychologists can find out these reasons. But you don't have to know the reasons to change your behavior. Instead, apply the techniques of behavior modification. These techniques are so successful that big diet clubs — Weight Watchers, Diet Workshop, TOPS and Overeaters Anonymous — teach them to their members.

Dr. Albert J. Stunkard of the University of Pennsylvania led a study of TOPS (Take Off Pounds Sensibly) dieters. He found that those who followed their club's rules and modified their behavior were much more successful at losing weight than those who merely followed the rules.

YOU ARE BETTER OFF learning to modify your behavior in one of these groups. But you can teach yourself to develop good new habits. There are good instructions in "Act Thin. Stay Thin" by Dr. Richard Stuart (Norton) and "Eating Is Okay" by Drs. Henry A. Jordan, Leonard S. Levitz and Gordon Kimbrell (New American Library).

Stuart, of the University of Utah and psychology director of Weight Watchers International, points out that overweight people eat too fast. He quotes studies showing that people who eat slowly are less hungry than those who eat quickly, even though both groups eat exactly the same amounts of food.

Hanrahan joins society
Neal E. Hanrahan of Manchester, employed by Rene Drywall Co. Inc. of West Hartford, has been accepted by the American Society of Professional Estimators, Yankee Chapter 15, as a member in good standing. The action was taken at a board of trustees meeting at the Yale Motor Inn, April 9.

CBT Corp. income rises
HARTFORD — CBT Corp., the holding company whose major subsidiary is the Connecticut Bank and Trust Co., has reported that first-quarter net income was $18.4 million, an increase of 38 percent over the $13.4 million earned in the first quarter of 1984.

On a per-share basis, earnings for the quarter gained 37 percent to $1.35, compared with $1.13 in 1984. Much of this growth reflects healthy loan demand, favorable money market spreads, and effective control of non-interest expenses, CBT said.

CBT said asset growth continued strong into the quarter, with assets increasing 11 percent to $6.4 billion on March 31, 1985, versus $6.1 billion a year earlier. Deposits climbed to an all-time high of $4.4 billion by the end of the quarter.

WVIT-TV promotes Bova
WEST HARTFORD — Alfred T. Bova, vice president of marketing and sales for Viacom Television, has been promoted to vice president and station manager of WVIT Channel 30, announced Pat Brady, vice president and general manager.

Bova started his broadcasting career at WVIT as account executive in January 1979. He was promoted to local sales manager in July 1981, and to general sales manager a year later. Last year, Bova was promoted to vice president, marketing and sales, Viacom Television.

In his new position, Bova will continue to direct WVIT's sales and marketing department as well as assume new management duties in all other station areas.

Fairnir for sale
PROVIDENCE, R.I. (UPI) — Textron Inc. has put its Fairnir Bearing Division up for sale as part of its effort to cut debt from the purchase of Avco Corp.

Fairnir is the third Textron unit to be put on the block since Textron paid $1.4 billion for Avco in February.

In an announcement Tuesday, the Providence-based Textron said it had hired the Salomon Brothers corporate banking firm to handle the sale of Fairnir, which is headquartered in New Britain, Conn.

The company announced last month that it would try to sell Bell Helicopter, which it had held since 1980, and it announced in February that it was looking for a buyer for its Spencer Kellogg specialty chemicals division.

No buyer has been signed up yet for either of those divisions, spokesman John Carberg said.

In addition, the company's Shuron fashion frames subsidiary was sold to a group of Shuron managers, and the Jones & Lamson machine tool division is being sold to a group of investors.

The Jones & Lamson sale had been expected to be wrapped up by the end of March, but details are still being settled, Carberg said.

Kids' summer pay brings deduction

Walt Eller was the operator of several mobile home parks at which he employed his three children (aged 7, 11 and 12) in a variety of jobs in 1974. The children were paid a total of $4,400 that year, of which $2,100 went to the youngest.

The IRS took a dim view of the Eller children's compensation and determined that 98 percent of it was unreasonable. It disallowed every penny paid to the little guy.

The Tax Court disagreed, concluding that the children had performed substantial services. The court felt that the age of the children warranted a differential in compensation, but the pay scale was reasonable. The IRS has now come around to the Tax Court's view and allows reasonable compensation for services actually rendered.

By hiring your own children for some or all of their coming summer vacation, you can not only build their bank balances but also earn yourself a tax deduction on the bona fide wages you've paid them. To be sure there's no subsequent quarrel with the compensation you select, check the going labor rates for the kind of work you've planned.

You'll lose the dependency deduction if your child provides more than half of his or her support out of the wages paid. To be deductive, a child's compensation must meet two tests. First, the payments must be for services actually rendered. If you're a parent bringing the pros and cons of summer camp vs. summer chores for your children, several tips on taxes will help you make the choice.

Summer camp has appeal for children and parents alike because it provides a welcome change of pace and relief from regular responsibilities. If you want this convenience but are balking at the cost, you may be overlooking a tax credit available to two-income couples and working single parents — the majority of today's families.

As long as the camp doesn't provide significant educational services, the entire cost of the stay for a child under age 15 may qualify for the child-care credit, according to the American Society of Chartered Life Underwriters, the nation's largest society of professional insurance and financial planners.

The allowable credit varies. For instance, as taxpayers with an income below $10,000, you could take a credit as high as $720 for one child or $1,440 for two or more children. If you earn in excess of $28,000, the maximum benefit would be $480 for one child, and double that amount for two or more.

The IRS initially challenged summer camp costs as a tax credit, but changed its position to agree with the decision of a Tax Court ruling in 1982. In that case, a taxpayer-parent with an 11-year-old son was employed as an accountant in a position which required her to be away from home for some 55 hours a week. One year, she sent her son away to camp, figuring that the cost of the camp was about the same as hiring a housekeeper for the summer plus sending her son to a day camp for part of the day.

Your Money's Worth
Sylvia Porter

On another occasion, this taxpayer sent the boy on a school trip to Washington, D.C., during his school's spring break. The taxpayer included the full costs of both the summer camp and the school trip in computing the amount of credit for child-care on her taxes. The IRS disallowed the credit to the extent that it was attributable to such expenses.

The Tax Court's decision hinged on whether the costs for summer camp and the school trip were incurred for care of the taxpayer's son. It said the primary purpose of the spending must be to insure the protection and well-being of the child. It concluded the entire cost of the summer camp qualified for the child-care credit but only part of the expenses of the school trip to Washington.

Before claiming a child for the child-care credit, get professional advice! And if your child works at home, you'll not just save on taxes by handling it properly. You'll accomplish necessary work, preserve the financial benefit for a family member, and provide your child with valuable work experience in learning how to manage his or her money.

Whether it's camp or work this summer, both you and your children can and should benefit from the experience.

Shareholders at CBS keep wary eye open

CHICAGO (UPI) — The annual meeting of CBS shareholders is usually held with little fanfare, but this year's session opens amid reports of takeover attempts by cable television mogul Ted Turner and a conservative political group.

CBS is holding its meeting today as a routine forum to handle corporate business, including the election of a board of directors. But media observers say hostile merger firestorms are certain to surface some time during the session.

The New York Times reported Tuesday that Turner, the Atlanta-based cable and broadcast entrepreneur, is expected to unveil his hostile takeover bid for CBS after the meeting.

Reports have circulated for several weeks that Turner has been negotiating with his investment bankers to arrange financing to offer around $170 a share for CBS stock.

Turner denied any plans to sell Turner Broadcasting to finance a takeover. The New York Times reported today.

Sources also said William E. Simon, former Secretary of the Treasury, decided not to back Turner in his campaign to gain control and might make a bid for the broadcasting company on his own, the Times reported.

Turner has made no secret of his desire to acquire CBS. He has said he has sometimes described it as "nitwits."

There were rumors on Wall Street that CBS was preparing a defense against the Turner bid, which could take the form of either a "friendly" merger with another party or a proposal to take the broadcasting company private, the newspaper said.

CBS flatly denied that General Electric Co. was prepared to rescue the company if an unwanted suitor forced a bid. The Times reported General Electric had offered to act as a white knight for CBS and would offer about $150 a share in a friendly merger. General Electric declined comment on the report.

CBS stock gained $6.625 to $115.875 a share on the Turner takeover reports on the New York Stock Exchange Tuesday.

Less threatening but still nettlesome is the Fairness in Media takeover movement spearheaded by Senator Jesse Helms, R-N.C., who is angered by what he calls CBS' "liberal bias." He called on fellow-conservatives to buy CBS stock to take over the company and "become Dan Rather's boss."

Among other tactics, Fairness in Media sued to force CBS to hand over its shareholders list, which the network did in an out-of-court agreement limiting the purposes to which Fairness in Media could put the list. The media group front man in the suit was Hoover Adams, who owns 11 shares of CBS stock.

There is no indication the Helms group will make a serious bid at this time although insiders have speculated it may be hooked up with Turner, who has conferred with Helms.

Bake, don't shake
An operator at IBM's development and manufacturing facility in East Fishkill, N.Y., checks fiery silicon wafers "baked" at up to 1,100 degrees centigrade. The saucer-like wafers are placed in a glass tube, inserted into a furnace and heated to allow gases such as arsenic and boron to be diffused evenly into them. This diffusion gives wafers the electrical characteristics needed before they are diced into fingernail-sized chips.

Carter, at Central, fears Latin war

By Mark A. Dupuis
United Press International

JIMMY CARTER
sees troop engagement

NEW BRITAIN (UPI) — Former President Jimmy Carter says he fears U.S. troops will be "actively involved" in Central American within a matter of months. Carter said Tuesday President Reagan believes Nicaragua's Sandinista regime is "evil" and the United States has a duty to overthrow that country's leftist government. Carter said he agrees the Sandinista government needs to make changes, "but in my judgment what we are doing is slowly injecting the American nation into a Central American war."

In Central America," Carter said at Central Connecticut State University. Carter said Reagan initially argued that arms shipments to El Salvador were originating in Nicaragua, but unable to provide evidence has lately taken the stand the Sandinistas are evil and the U.S. has a duty to oust them. Carter said he disagreed with his former national security adviser, Zbigniew Brzezinski, who earlier this week endorsed Reagan's plan to provide another $14 million in U.S. aid to the "central" rebels fighting the Sandinistas. "I don't look upon it as a peace plan. It seems to me that what is asked for the $14 million primarily designed to be delivered to the Contras for their military action at the end of a job of the month," Carter said. Carter said he would be pleased if the Nicaraguan government carried out Reagan's demands "but it seems to me very unlikely."

Carter discussed Reagan's policies at a news conference and an evening speech at the state university, where he received the first honorary doctorate degree awarded in the school's 149-year history. Carter also attacked Reagan's stands on nuclear arms control, advocating human rights and dealing with the federal budget deficit. However, the former president, who was ousted from the White House in 1980 by Reagan, said he didn't want people to think he had nothing but criticism for his Republican successor. "I would guess that a staff person in the White House said, 'Okay, that's what the chancellor of West Germany wants, we'll do it, he's our host,'" Carter said. "I know the difficulties of a president who sometimes finds out what he's going to do in the newspaper," Carter added.

Carter honored
NEW BRITAIN (UPI) — In a brief ceremony, former President Carter received the first honorary doctorate degree awarded by Central Connecticut State University. Carter received the honorary degree after speaking on "American Leadership in a Changing World" in a distinguished lecture series at the 134-year-old college. In awarding the degree, the Board of Trustees for the four-campus state university cited Carter's strong religious beliefs and support for education. Carter received a warm reception, including repeated applause, during his speech at Central Connecticut.

New England In Brief Maine asks ITC for shoe quotas

WASHINGTON — If the International Trade Commission won't cap the flood of imported foreign footwear, a hearing becomes "nothing more than a eulogy for the domestic footwear industry," members of the Maine congressional delegation said. "The domestic footwear industry is the victim of a global trade game whose rules are anything but fair," Sen. William Cohen, R-Maine, told members of the ITC Tuesday. He and other of the state's congressional delegation appeared before the commission. The ITC is considering whether to cap the number of cheap foreign shoes that now account for about 75 percent of all footwear sold in the United States. By May 23, the commission will decide what action, if any, they recommend President Reagan should take to rectify the problem. Sen. George Mitchell, D-Maine, said the decline of the shoe industry has been particularly troublesome in Maine, the country's largest footwear producer, because many plants are in rural areas where there is no alternative employment. Unilateral access to the American market by other nations which supply heavy industrial subsidies to their industry is "a form of trade that is neither free nor fair," he said.

Advocates have concern for water

BOSTON — At least one-tenth of the people in Massachusetts have a "high risk" of being affected by drinking water supplies contaminated by hazardous waste dumping, a citizens lobbying group on Beacon Hill says. The Massachusetts Public Interest Research Group Tuesday released a report based on previously available statistics compiled by the state and federal governments. The report said local landfills throughout the state are likely to contain industrial hazardous wastes and current cleanup attempts are not adequate to save water supplies. State ratings indicate that 201 of 409 known hazardous waste sites pose a serious threat to public drinking water supplies and that 223 others pose a risk to nearby surface water supplies, the report said. In addition more than one third of the state's municipal water supply wells, serving some 500,000 people, are threatened by chemical waste sites.

Policeman faces weapons charge

JACKSON, Miss. — A two-count federal cocaine-related racketeering weapon indictment has been lodged against a suburban Boston, Mass. police officer already facing a May 20 trial in Hills County on a cocaine conspiracy charge. Lt. Thomas K. Doherty, a 26-year veteran of the Medford, Mass. police department who remains suspended from the force, pleaded "not guilty" to the federal indictment Monday in U.S. District Court in Jackson. A federal grand jury returned the two-count indictment which charged Doherty, 43, with "interstate transportation in aid of racketeering enterprises" and possessing a saw-off shotgun.

Maine rejects balanced budget call

AUGUSTA, Maine — A measure that would have called for a national convention to consider an amendment to the U.S. Constitution requiring a balanced federal budget was killed by both the Maine House and Senate. After close to two hours of debate, the House Tuesday voted 69-62 to accept a committee recommendation against the measure, and the Senate followed with a quick 18-7 vote — effectively killing the measure. The House debate, which often pitted Republican lawmakers against their Democratic counterparts, came after the body passed a resolution — in a 125-7 vote — asking the president and Congress to pass a balanced budget. Supporters of the bill calling for a constitutional convention said the resolution was, among other things, "stupid" and "worthless." As it stands now, supporters of a constitutional convention still need two more states to pass legislation to mandate the national convention. It takes two-thirds of the nation's states to request a constitutional convention for it to become a reality, and so far only 31 have done so, Hepburn said.

Harvard students fined for theft

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. — Two Harvard Crimson newspaper writers, charged with spiriting off a copper bird in a long-running feud with another campus publication, were slapped with $75 court fines and their cases dropped. Gilbert Fuchsberg, of Great Neck, N.Y., and John Ross of Washington, D.C., charged with larceny over $100 in connection with the disappearance of the Sacred Ibis, the mascot of the Harvard Lampoon, from atop the campus humor magazine's building, were arraigned Tuesday in Cambridge District Court. "I was confident (court officials) would realize it was part of long-running feud," said Jeffrey Zucker, president of the student newspaper, after the two student journalists' arraignments. A group of Crimson editors set out Sunday night to "liberate the Ibis" because of the recent theft from the Crimson building of caricatures of the newspaper's past presidents. Fuchsberg and Ross were arrested Monday. This Ibis, a copper statue of a large bird, was last taken from the rooftop in 1953, when two Crimson editors apparently captured it and presented it to a member of the Soviet delegation to the United Nations.

Disabled youth gets new home Danbury reaches out to neighbor

DANBURY (UPI) — The family of Bobby Williams has a new home and renewed hope provided by thousands of people around the nation who were touched by the plight of the 19-year-old boy whose lower body was amputated. The deed to a new house, funded with $120,000 in donations, was presented to Bobby and his large family Monday during a 10th birthday party for the happy youngster. "I want to thank you all for sending me this money to build the house and I thank you for my mother and father and sisters and brothers," Bobby said during an official presentation that included a large birthday cake. The youth suffers from a rare defect called humpo sacral agenesis. When he was born, his backbone did not connect his ribs to his pelvis and his legs were small and flippers-like. Bobby, who scampers around the house moving easily by walking on his hands, said he was thrilled by all the attention, but added with a smile, "It's a relief it's just about over."

Publicity concerns judge

PROVIDENCE, R.I. — Headlines blaring "Clas was a louse" and referring to a "scandal in Newport" have helped convince a judge to sequester the 16-member jury for Claus von Bulow's expected two-month retrial. "If ever there was a case in which sequestration was called for, this is it," Superior Court Judge George Grande ruled Tuesday during the seventh day of jury selection in von Bulow's second trial on charges he tried to kill his heiress wife with insulin. Jury selection was to resume for an eighth day today. It took eight days to seat a jury in the first trial in 1982. "The amount and kind of inadmissible and prejudicial material is very much like a time bomb ticking away," Grande said. "If it goes off, it will destroy the right of both sides for a fair trial." The decision delighted prosecutors and bitterly disappointed von Bulow and his attorneys. "We believe it's going to hurt us," defense attorney Thomas Puccio said before the judge ruled. After the ruling, he said sequestration can prejudice a jury even more than publicity. "The popular wisdom is ... clearly a sequestered jury favors the prosecution," Puccio told the judge.

Von Bulow jury will be sequestered von Bulow's German maid, Maria Schrablhammer. Another said "Scandal in Newport. The von Bulow trial. The black bag to the key," a reference to a black shagging bag the state charges contained an insulin-encrusted needle. Von Bulow, 58, a Danish-born financier and socialite, is being retried on charges he tried to kill his beautiful, multimillionaire wife so he could inherit $14 million and marry his girlfriend. The state accuses von Bulow of injecting Martha "Sunny" von Bulow in 1979 and 1980 at their 28-room Newport mansion. She remains comatose in a New York hospital. Grande ordered the jury isolated to preserve the integrity of the trial, which prosecutors said has attracted some 200 reporters and cameramen from around the world. "Sequestration is always a last resort," Grande said. "I think not to sequester in this case would be to abandon (the court's) duty to see to it that the trial was conducted in a fair way." At the start of today's proceedings, the tentative jury stood at eight women and six men, with two vacancies. Both sides still have four of their original eight jury challenges left.

Disturbance occurs before execution

RICHMOND, Va. — A disturbance erupted today at the State Penitentiary hours before convicted murderer James Briley was to be executed. Officials said there were an undetermined number of injuries. A prison spokesman said a group of inmates jumped six officers and helmeted prison guards rushed into the facility to quell the disturbance. Inmates were heard shouting from their cells at the downtown prison and ambulances were seen entering the complex. Officials were notified about 7:30 a.m. EST, but could not give an exact time of the incident, said Duncan Brogan, a Virginia Corrections Department official. The prison was reported "locked down" by about 8:30 a.m. Brogan said there was no immediate evidence to link the disturbance to the execution, scheduled at 11 p.m. "That would be an assumption that you could certainly make, but we don't have any factual information to that effect," Brogan said. He said there was no immediate word on what caused the disturbance. "Basically, six officers were attacked by inmates — not a large group of inmates. The penitentiary has been locked down. It is locked down now. Several of the guards were injured — some of the inmates were also injured but we won't (know how many) until we get the medical experts."

Garn gives backing to more flights

By William Harwood
United Press International

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. — Sen. Jake Garn said today he was awed by his experiences aboard the shuttle Discovery this week and predicted Heagan would work out the matter, which the president did Tuesday night. "I would guess that a staff person in the White House said, 'Okay, that's what the chancellor of West Germany wants, we'll do it, he's our host,'" Carter said. "I know the difficulties of a president who sometimes finds out what he's going to do in the newspaper," Carter added.

Manchester High baseball fans had plenty to cheer about Wednesday at East Catholic's Eagle Field as their Indians scalped the cross-town rivals on the diamond by a 10-2 score. For more pictures, story, see page 15.

GNP has slow gain

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In an abrupt slowdown, the nation's gross national product grew just 1.3 percent in the January-March quarter, the slowest advance since the end of the 1982 recession, the government said today. Higher trade deficits and a massive Internal Revenue Service delay in returning income tax refunds were the major factors cutting economic expansion from its 4.3 percent rate in the fourth quarter of last year. Sustained growth of about 4 percent is considered necessary to keep unemployment from getting worse. The Commerce Department report also showed inflation, as measured by the "implicit price deflator," jumped to a 5.3 percent rate compared to 2.8 percent at the end of last year. The low GNP reading, coming at the start of the year, makes it virtually impossible for succeeding quarters to make up the difference enough to reach the White House forecast for 1985 of 3.9 percent economic progress. The weakness was far more pronounced than any leading forecaster expected, even after most had resigned themselves to accepting the accuracy of a preliminary "flash" estimate of a 2.1 percent GNP increase at an annual rate, adjusted for inflation.

Town kids may get a helping hand

By Kathy Gormus
Herald Reporter

A roaming dog, the school bully or a stranger in a car who stops for directions can be terrifying experiences for a small child. While children confronted by such situations usually have no place to turn for help, some parents, police and school officials are working to extend Manchester schoolchildren a "helping hand." Police and school officials have presented the townwide PTA Council with a proposal to set up a Helping Hand program patterned after one Vernon has had since 1979. Under the program, residents who were selected to participate would put a symbol — an extended white hand on a red background — in the windows of their homes. Children who found themselves in any kind of trouble could go to those homes for assistance. Officer Larry Wilson, the Manchester Police Department's community relations officer, said Wednesday that he became interested in the program after receiving several calls from parents concerned about their children's safety on their way to and from school. "Rather than retain it at one school, we decided to bring the whole system in," he said. Wilson, who presented the idea to the PTA along with Youth Services Director Robert Digan, said he hoped the program could be developed during the summer and begun at the start of school in the fall. Digan said the fate of the program is now up to the PTA. "We made the pitch and we'll hope they respond," he said. Denise Kennedy, the PTA Council's representative on the Youth Services Advisory Board, said the matter has been referred to a PTA committee for study. The committee will probably report back to the council at its mid-May meeting, she said. If the program were adopted, Manchester would become one of several communities in the area to follow Vernon's lead. Darleen Humphries, coordinator of the Helping Hand program in

Confusion leads to field problems

A well-intentioned improvement project for Pagani Field at the West Side Oval has turned into a bureaucratic entanglement between the Public Works, Recreation and Park departments. The problem — a fence and a light pole obstructing an old cinder running track — came to light recently as runners turned out for their spring workouts. The $34,000 in improvements to the field on Cooper Hill Street completed last November included the installation of additional fencing along the baselines and six light poles. The work was commissioned by the Recreation Department and paid for with part of a grant for mural and Land and Water Conservation grant of $137,000. Park and Recreation Commission Chairman Joel E. Janusz said today. The problem of the "obstructed track" was discussed at length at Wednesday night's Park and Recreation Commission meeting, Janusz said. Janusz said the situation resulted from "serious management problems." The Public Works Department prepared the specifications for the project, which was contracted out and completed last November. Public Works Coordinator Jacob W. Bohr Jr. said today. He said that he checked on the field just last week to see that it was ready for the upcoming softball season. Bohr said he wasn't aware of a problem caused by the fencing until earlier this week when he learned that Park Department crews had installed two gates in the fence where the track runs through the ball field. The Parks Department also planted grass seed over that portion of the field, officials indicated. Bohr said that when specifications for the fencing project were prepared, the old track was not taken into consideration because it was thought that it was no longer in use. "Half of it is under grass," he said. But Bohr said he thinks the problem for runners has been solved now that the gates have been installed. He said he is not sure if the location of one pole on the third base line is obstructing the track. He said he thought it was at the track's edge, though he said. "It is hard to tell where the track is in some places." Janusz said he insisted that the gates be installed because there is still a core of "faithful runners" who use the old track, even though it has not been maintained in years. The completion of the improvements at Pagani Field also brought up another problem for the Recreation Department, Janusz said. Because the work cost about $100,000 more than was originally estimated, some of their work allotted for under the conservation grant will probably not be completed.
