Jobless-riddled Britain has long, hot autumn of race riots

By Ed Lion
United Press International

LONDON — Unemployment-riddled Britain, with only 4 percent of its 56 million people non-white, has had an agonizing surge of racial problems in recent months that has shaken the country's self-image as a peaceful, tolerant society.

"Things seem to be going crazy," said a middle-class man during Britain's long hot autumn of racial violence. "I used to think things like this only happened in the United States — the Ku Klux Klan, riots, things like that. But it's happening here."

What has happened is this:

- Young men, most of them black, rampaged for two nights in fierce rioting and looting in Birmingham, the nation's second largest city. Two people were killed and 200 injured.
- Police accidentally shot and crippled a black woman in a dawn raid to arrest her son, triggering two more nights of violence in the Brixton section of London. Motorists were pulled from their cars and robbed, fires were started and two white women — one the daughter of a member of parliament — were raped by black gangs.
- The Brixton riot triggered a spate of violence in a neighboring section of London and the rundown Toxteth district of Liverpool, 150 miles away. Police were pelted with rocks and bottles.
- A young Asian mother and her three children were killed in a firebombing, turning Asian lives into a "nightmare of fear."
- Race relations workers say Britain lags behind the United States in trying to grant equal opportunities to minority groups. They note that only 200 out of 27,000 police in greater London are black.
- Blacks and Asians who immigrated from Britain's former colonies say they often feel smothered by racism in a nation that traditionally has been looked upon as a bastion of tolerance and civil liberties.
- "It's definitely a racist society," said Harvinder Kalyan, 27, of Indian descent, who immigrated from Kenya and now works as a civil rights campaigner for an Asian housing association.
- "I've had a brick through the window of my home and my car smashed. A lot of Asians living in housing estates are afraid to go out. They close off their mail slots because petrol can be poured inside and set alight. Some have had excreta shoved through their windows."
- "They live in a nightmare of fear."
- Such nightmares have become increasingly common, especially in London's East End where working-class white Cockneys lash out at Bengali newcomers.
- More than 10,000 signatures were collected on their behalf. The judge hearing their case acknowledged they were reacting "to very long-standing and serious provocations" and handed down lenient sentences.
- In the late 1970s and early '80s a series of street battles was blamed on whites of the neo-Nazi National Front Party. But the group has since splintered and Scotland Yard says it has no evidence that the new attacks against Asians are organized.
- "We have no information of these attacks being linked or planned together," said Scotland Yard Commander Larry Roach.
- In 1984 there were 1,515 reported racial incidents, ranging from verbal taunts to physical abuse and firebombings, in the London area — nearly 250 more than the year before. There were 414 such incidents in the East End alone last year.
- Police say incidents actually reported are only the "tip of the iceberg." Sir Kenneth Newman, chief of Scotland Yard, called racial violence a "worryingly large" problem.
- "Our society is becoming increasingly fluid and is multi-racial and there is conflict between different communities," Roach said. "The police play a peace-keeping role. We're desperately trying to hold the ring together."

Happy anniversary, Ann

Ann Landers is Eppie Lederer, but Eppie Lederer is not always Ann Landers, even after 20 years and 10,950 columns of advice to scattered lovers, confused teenagers and angry in-laws.

Lederer celebrated her anniversary as Ann Landers today with a column thanking her editors, staff and readers for 30 "incredibly rewarding" years.

"I have no plans to retire," Ann Landers told her fans.

"I intend to crank out this column as long as you find me useful and the good Lord gives me the strength to do it. On this special day, I send love and thanks to each and every one of you."

Lederer, 67, said over the years she has worked to maintain her identity apart from Ann Landers. "I tell my friends to call me Eppie," said Lederer. "If you hear someone call me Ann, you know they don't know me very well."

Lederer's advice column is carried by News America Syndicate and is printed in more than 1,000 newspapers in 16 countries, plus the United States and Canada.

Nuke commercial

Wally Schirra, the spaceman who became a pitchman, is appearing in commercials on behalf of an Arizona nuclear power plant. Schirra, who served on the Mercury, Gemini and Apollo space missions, will appear in advertisements that explain the role and safety record of the Palo Verde Nuclear Generating Station.

Scott Jacobson, advertising director for Arizona Public Service Co., which operates the plant, said Schirra was chosen because he represents "high technology" and teamwork.

Jacobson said the utility originally was concerned because Schirra had made commercials for Actifed, an allergy medicine he took in space to relieve hay fever symptoms. "We thought it might cheapen the message APS was trying to get across," Jacobson said.

Now you know

The first woman to appear on U.S. paper currency was Martha Washington who was pictured on the 1886 one-dollar bill.

A yabba-doo time

The theme was Neanderthal and the setting, the Rancho La Brea Tar Pits museum in Los Angeles, was appropriate for the 25th anniversary of "The Flintstones."

Among the 200 guests were actors who provided voices for the cartoon characters, but no one recognized Henry Cordes until he cut loose with Fred's trademark "Yabba Dabba Doo!" "No one knows me," he said, "and I don't want the public to know me because I know how popular Fred is. I don't want to take that away from him."

Jens Vander Pyl, the voice of Wilma Flintstone, also likes the anonymity of her job. "You just go to the studio, read your part and leave," she said.

Joseph Barbera, who created "The Flintstones," with partner William Hanna, never foresaw the cartoon becoming a classic. "The headline in Variety after the first show called it 'the pen and ink disaster,'" he said. "Now it will never go off the air. It's syndicated in 87 countries. I never envisioned anything like this."

Quote of the day

Philadelphia Mayor Wilson Goode testifying about the police bombing of radical group MOVE headquarters: "I went through very deep emotions at the time. I cried. I know lives would be lost, homes would be destroyed. It was very tough. We knew we had a disaster."

The viceman winneth

Glamour magazine has changed its taste in men considerably. Last year the magazine chose Michael Jackson, the "androgynous" singer, as its man of the year but for 1985 it is going with a little rougher image, Don Johnson of "Miami Vice."

Glamour's gushing description of Johnson says he is "pink-pant'd bad boy" who personifies "postmodern macho... a vital, primal male with predatory eyes, a warm, seductive smile and a stubborn 'I'll do whatever I damn well please' three-day stubble."

Other winners of the past decade are: playwright Sam Shepard, Tom Selleck, Mick Jagger, Richard Gere, Alan Alda, John Travolta, Woody Allen, Sylvester Stallone and Warren Beatty.

School projects may qualify for more state funding

By Susan Vaughn
Herald Reporter

School Superintendent James P. Kennedy told the Board of Education Tuesday that renovation projects proposed at five town schools may be eligible for more state and federal funding than originally anticipated.

Kennedy told board members he was encouraged to learn at a recent meeting with state officials that instead of paying for half of some projects, the state may reimburse the town for up to two thirds of their cost.

School officials were surprised in June when they learned that the estimated cost of renovating five schools would be $8.3 million — more than double initial estimates. Some of the renovations will be necessary to meet state building code requirements. The rest of the money would cover maintenance and improvement projects at the schools.

Even before learning of the higher cost estimates, the school board decided to not put a bond issue for the renovations before voters in the Nov. 5 town election because members feared it would be rejected.

The officials also learned from Langer that a second elevator will not be necessary at Bowers School. The schools that are to undergo renovations are Manchester High School, Bowers School, Wadwell School, Verplank School and Nathan Hale School.

Glaeser is teacher of the year

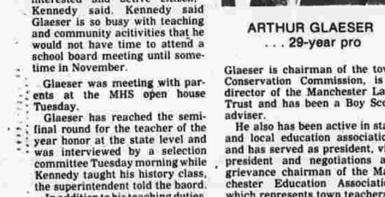

Arthur Glaeser, a social studies teacher at Manchester High School for the past 29 years, has been named the teacher of the year for the Manchester public schools.

In announcing his choice at Tuesday's school board meeting, School Superintendent James P. Kennedy said Glaeser is an excellent teacher, a scholar and an active citizen.

"One of his strengths as a teacher is that he is a dedicated, interested and active citizen," Kennedy said. Kennedy said Glaeser is so busy with teaching and community activities that he would not have time to attend a school board meeting until sometime in November.

Glaeser was meeting with parents at the MHS open house Tuesday.

Glaeser has reached the semi-final round for the teacher of the year honor at the state level and was interviewed by a selection committee Tuesday morning while Kennedy taught his history class, the superintendent told the board. In addition to his teaching duties,

Change lets all speak at HRC meetings

The Human Relations Commission voted unanimously Tuesday night to allow people who don't live in Manchester to speak at its meetings.

The rule change, which has been under consideration for several months, met with a mild protest from HRC member Eleanor Turney, who suggested that the commission consider suspending its old rules when the need arose instead of changing them.

"You don't want to make a lot of changes or recommendations for something that isn't likely to occur," she said. "It's like being overinsured."

HRC meetings are rarely attended by anyone other than commission members, town officials and reporters. Under the commission's previous rules, only Manchester residents were allowed to speak at its meetings.

HRC member Betty Tonnuci said she thought some people might be reluctant to bring their complaints or concerns to the commission if they knew it would require a suspension of the rules.

But commission member Geoffrey Naab said the rules "affect what we do, not whether somebody approaches us."

The Planning and Zoning Commission announced Tuesday it has changed the location of a public hearing tonight on the proposed Comprehensive Plan of Development to the auditorium at Wadwell School, 163 Broad St.

The hearing begins at 7 p.m. The change came after a group of residents who oppose the plan claimed that the Lincoln Center hearing room, where the hearing was to be held, would be too small. Residents from all over town, developers and town officials all have said they plan to attend.

The Southwest Manchester Property Owners' Association has announced plans to turn over its force at the hearing. The group opposes the housing densities proposed in the plan and is petitioning to remove the plan, when finally adopted, reflects what the towns want.

"The proposals under review are not final," Sieffert said. He said they are "the result of several years of research and discussion" by the PZC and by private citizens. The PZC released the plan Sept. 18 after four years of research.

Police candidates all white

Three minority group members who were among the top 27 candidates for positions in the Manchester Police Department are no longer being considered, town Personnel Officer Linda Parry told the Human Relations Commission Tuesday night.

The three — a black man, a black woman and a Hispanic man — were dropped from consideration for reasons that included failure to meet physical requirements, failure to pass a background examination and failure to appear for a scheduled polygraph test, Parry said.

However, one white woman remains in contention for one of the five positions open in the department, she said. Another woman who was among the 27 candidates certified to the police chief has withdrawn from consideration, Parry told the HRC at its regular monthly meeting in Lincoln Center.

The town has repeatedly been criticized for its inability to hire minority group members for its police force. The police department currently has no officers who are members of a minority group and four female officers.

In a related matter, the HRC asked Parry for clarification of the town's certification process after some members questioned the consistency of current practices.

HRC member Ronald Osella said he thought that all candidates for entry-level police positions who pass agility, written and oral tests should be certified to the chief as qualified.

Commission member Geoffrey Naab said that town personnel rules call for only the top 20 candidates who pass the three tests to be certified. But he said if more than 20 were being certified, as has been the practice in some rounds of hiring, then Osella's suggestion should be followed.

"Either you should limit it to 20 or you should go all the way," he said.

Parry said that the common practice has been to certify all candidates who pass the tests because a number of them often do not pass the background investigation. For non-police positions, the top five candidates are usually certified.

Today in history

On Oct. 16, 1884, black Anglican Bishop Desmond Tutu talked to reporters after it was announced he had won the Nobel Peace Prize for his struggle against apartheid in South Africa.

On this date in history:

In 1940, anticipating the Japanese war build-up, the United States banned all shipments of steel and scrap iron to Japan.

In 1964, China set off its first atomic bomb.

In 1972, a light plane carrying House Democratic Leader Hale Boggs of Louisiana and three other men was reported missing in Alaska. The plane was never found.

In 1976, Syria and the Palestine Liberation Organization at the urging of Saudi Arabia, agreed to a cease-fire in Lebanon.

In 1984, Black Anglican Bishop Desmond Tutu of South Africa won the Nobel Peace Prize for his struggle against apartheid.

A thought for the day: Oscar Wilde said, "As long as war is regarded as wicked, it will continue to have its fascination. When it is looked upon as vulgar, it will cease to be popular."

Few attend hearing on storm, but NU doesn't get off easy

By Kevin Flood
Herald Reporter

Only six residents turned out Tuesday evening for a hearing on Northeast Utilities' performance in restoring power to Manchester last month in the wake of Hurricane Gloria.

"It's that type of apathy that large corporations such as Northeast Utilities feed on," one of the residents who attended the hearing in Lincoln Center said in the turnout.

Mayor Barbara Weinberg and town General Manager Robert Weiss said they called the hearing in an effort to get input from townpeople before testifying Monday at a legislative hearing on NU's performance. The hearing will be held by the Legislature's Energy and Public Utilities Committee, co-chaired by Sen. Carl Zisser, R-Manchester.

Those who attended the hearing seemed to reflect the anger town officials and many other residents have expressed toward NU. Most speakers charged that the utility was not prepared to restore power quickly following the Sept. 27 storm, which brought 75 mile-per-hour winds and an inch and a half of rain to the Manchester area.

Jim Moroney of Hilliard Street told Weiss and Weinberg of receiving his utility power only after the storm was still without power. "I couldn't read it, I couldn't pay it," he said.

AND WHILE PRAISING both NU and out-of-state repair crews for the work they did following the storm, Moroney charged that utility officials failed to give the crews enough direction. He said he tracked down a Canadian crew in town one day just after the storm and found the workers taking an extended lunch break because no one had given them any work orders for the afternoon. "No where were these people getting any direction," he said.

"What really worries me is that these people are in charge of nuclear reactors," Moroney said. "I'm not anti-nuclear, but it worries me."

He said the state should compel NU to draw up better emergency plans by forcing them to put up a large bond. "They can't establish a plan, they forfeit the bond," he said. The state could also penalize the utility by raising its property taxes, he said.

Joan Wood, who lives on Bretton Road, also complained that repair crews seemed unprepared for their task. "These people appeared, and they didn't even have a blueprint or a schematic diagram of the lines," she said.

Wood said several residents in her neighborhood who acquired some knowledge of their power lines during the 1973 ice storm ended up assisting the line crews. "Some of the survivors of the '73 ice storm knew the lines better than they did," she said.

BUT AN NU LINEMAN who attended the hearing, Chambers Crestfield hearing set

By John F. Kirch
Herald Reporter

The National Labor Relations Board in Hartford will hold a hearing in January to determine whether owners of the Crestfield-Penwood nursing home engaged in unfair labor practices when they refused workers a pay raise in July and failed to negotiate with the union that represents them, a union official said today.

Officials of the nursing home on Vernon Street said today they had no comment on the matter and would not confirm whether or not they had received an NLRB order to appear at the hearing, which the union said is scheduled Jan. 16.

The union has threatened a strike next week if contract talks do not begin.

Bill Meyerson, communications director for District 1199 of the New England Health Care Employees Union, said the union had received a copy of the unfair-labor-practices complaint this morning. Such complaints are issued after the NLRB investigates charges and determines they have enough merit for a hearing. NLRB officials could not be reached for comment today.

Meyerson said the hearing will focus on whether the pay raise should have been given, if the NLRB rules in favor of the union, Meyerson said, the owners will probably have to give the pay raise retroactive to July.

Meyerson said the complaint charges that the owners failed to give a raise because the employees voted 46-40 to authorize in December 1984. It also charges that the owners engaged in unfair labor practices when they would not negotiate with the union and interfered with workers' rights to unionize.

The complaint this comes as the union, which represents 85 maintenance workers and aides, is preparing to hold a secret ballot vote on whether or not employees will strike Monday.

Manchester In Brief

Disposal day is Saturday

Townpeople who want to dispose of potentially hazardous substances in their homes can bring them to the landfill on Olcott Street on Saturday.

The hazardous waste drive is being sponsored by the town Conservation Commission.

Commission Chairman Arthur Glaeser said Thursday that articles that can be brought to the landfill include most types of insecticides, fertilizers, oil-based paints and aerosol spray cans. The collection will run from 8:30 a.m. to 3 p.m., rain or shine.

Glaeser said the material will be collected by the Radiac Corp. of Brooklyn, N.Y. Radiac will take most of the material to a special facility in Ohio, he said.

Besides getting rid of potentially dangerous items, Glaeser said, town residents can take home certain items dropped off by other residents at no charge. He said the items sometimes include full cans of paint or full bags of fertilizer.

Items that cannot be dropped off at the landfill are anything containing polychlorinated biphenyls (PCBs), pesticides and herbicides containing silvex, and any explosives or unstable materials.

Seader honored by town

Mayor Barbara Weinberg presented departing Board of Education chairman Leonard Seader with a community service award at a school board meeting Tuesday night.

Weinberg cited Seader's professionalism and civic duty in serving on the board for a total of 11 years in two stints. He has been chairman of the school board since 1980.

Seader decided earlier this year not to run for re-election. His current three-year term ends in November 1986.

During his tenure on the board, Seader has been a strong proponent of special programs such as the day treatment programs at the former Bentley and Highland Park schools.

He is vice president of First Hartford Realty Corp. and has served on other town commissions in the past.

Board approves programs

The Board of Education Tuesday night decided the town schools should participate in Project Concern and accepted grants for a special-education student and tutoring for refugee children.

The board authorized School Superintendent James P. Kennedy to sign a formal contract for Project Concern, a program that brings inner-city students from Hartford to suburban schools like those in Manchester. In its 19th year, Project Concern has 92 students in several town public schools.

The board will receive $18,757 for residential placement of a student with special needs. Last year, the board paid $35,000 for the student's placement, said Richard Cormier, special education director.

The new Excess Cost Grant which went into effect July 1 allows school districts to apply for state reimbursement when the cost of special education for any one student exceeds five times the pupil cost for the previous year. The local school system has only one such student this year, Cormier said.

The board also accepted a $2,311 grant for tutoring 14 Laotian children in English.

School calendar lengthens

With Hurricane Gloria already taking three school days this fall, School Superintendent James P. Kennedy told the Board of Education Tuesday that the last day of school is now June 23. He said the calendar now leaves four snow days before days have to be subtracted from the April vacation.

"My intent is to follow the calendar, but I'm putting you on notice that there is a real possibility we may have to take part of a vacation," he said he toyed with the alternative of taking the days from the February vacation, but that past experience had showed too much opposition to that proposal.

Kennedy also announced the total public school enrollment as of Oct. 1 was 7,087, or 140 fewer students than last Oct. 1.

To make sure NU is properly prepared for future emergencies, Weiss said, state officials should make the utility submit its plans for their approval, just as they review disaster plans for municipalities.

WELLS AGREED with her on that point. "We have to get more reflectors out so we have more protection," Weiss said. "That's a valid point."

Weiss told the gathering that NU failed to follow the plan it set up with the town following similar problems in the aftermath of the 1973 ice storm. He particularly criticized the utility for not assigning a liaison to the town immediately following the storm so town officials could tell the utility which power lines need to be repaired first.

Tenant-director picked for Bennet apartments

By Alex Grell
Herald Reporter

Tenant Kenneth Garrity has been selected by Democrats on the Manchester Board of Directors to become a voting member of the board that oversees the operation of the Bennet Apartments.

Cassano said the Garrity appointment will be on the agenda for the November meeting of the town directors. At the last directors' meeting on Oct. 8, Cassano said that only one of the five members of the Bennet board has to be a minority party member under the law.

But William Diana, the Republican minority leader, responded that there were originally two Republicans on the board. The second Republican, Robert Heavies, is still serving even though his term has expired.

Diana said Tuesday he will not oppose Garrity's selection for the post, which would give him the full powers of a corporate director, was announced Tuesday by Democratic Director Stephen Cassano, who coordinates the appointing process for the six-member Democratic majority on the town Board of Directors.

Republican Director Thomas H. Ferguson has also criticized the appointment of Democrats. He charged last week that Cassano was "displaying an arrogance of power" in his handling of the appointment.

The meeting at which the appointment will come up will be after the Nov. 5 town election, which could change the political makeup of the town Board of Directors.

In a news release announcing the appointment, Cassano said Garrity was the choice of Bennet tenants for the post.

Garrity was one of the tenants who spoke Sept. 8, when the BHC directors held a meeting at the apartment complex to discuss the resolution of tenant complaints.

PHILADELPHIA — Mayor Wilson Goode says Police Commissioner Gregory Sambor apparently ignored his order to stop the massive fire that killed 11 MOVE members and destroyed 61 homes during a police battle last May.

In testimony Tuesday before a commission he appointed to investigate the May 13 conflict, Goode said Sambor also failed to carry out his order that certain police officers be barred from taking part in the operation.

The fire, which broke out after police in a helicopter dropped a bomb on the heavily fortified MOVE house, killed 11 MOVE members, including four children, and destroyed 61 homes in West Philadelphia. The city is replacing the homes for 250 people at an estimated cost of more than $12 million.

Winds make fire areas risky

MALIBU, Calif. — Calming winds gave an army and air force of firefighters time to rest for another day of smoldering wildfires that have leveled at least 30 homes and burned 65,000 acres of Southern California.

But the Santa Ana winds, which blast out of the deserts and over the mountains to torch the flames into firestorms that can change direction in an instant, can be expected to kick up again today, forecasters said late Tuesday.

The biggest fire still burning out of control was near Santa Paula in Ventura County, where two fires met, scorching 35,000 acres and leveling eight houses, five mobile homes and several other buildings.

The most dangerous area seemed to be near Malibu, where about 200 houses strung along Corral Canyon were in the path of the fire Tuesday, when fire crews beat back the flames with the help of squadrons of planes and helicopters dropping water and fire retardant chemicals.

SALT LAKE CITY — Bombs that killed two people were either planted by an assassin to avenge a sour business deal or connected to a 156-year-old letter obtained by one of the victims that challenges official Mormon Church history, police said.

Police said they had a composite drawing of a suspect who may have planted the bombs Tuesday that killed a businessman and the wife of his ex-business partner in separate locations.

Steven P. Christensen, 31, Centerville, Utah, was killed Tuesday about 8 a.m. MDT when he picked up a package containing a bomb left outside his office in a downtown building, police said.

About three hours later, Kathy Sheets, 50, wife of Christensen's former partner in a business some $6 million in debt, died when she picked up a similar booby-trapped package at her suburban home.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden — The Royal Swedish Academy of Sciences today awarded the 1985 Nobel Prize in Chemistry to Americans Herbert A. Hauptman and Jerome Kariel. West German Klaus von Klitzing won the physics prize for research benefiting the computer and electronics industry.

Hauptman of the Medical Foundation of Buffalo, N.Y., and Kariel of the U.S. Naval Research Laboratory in Washington shared the award for outstanding achievements in chemistry.

Von Klitzing of the Max Planck Institute for Solid State Research in Stuttgart, West Germany, was cited by Nobel judges "for the discovery of the quantized Hall effect," an exact way of measuring electrical resistance.

Hauptman and Kariel are the 20th and 30th Americans to win the chemistry prize, awarded since 1901, and will share the $25,000 award.

Kariel's secretary, Margaret Williams, said he was flying to the United States from Munich, West Germany. "As far as we know, he doesn't know about it," she said. "I'm so excited I can't stand it. I got the phone call as soon as I walked in this morning."

Von Klitzing, reached in Stuttgart after learning he had been awarded the prestigious prize for physics, said, "It's fantastic. I can't conceive of it."

He is the 15th German to win the physics honor. The selection recognized new European influence in the field of physics. Europeans won the physics prize last year as well, ending a 10-year period of dominance by Americans.

Stig Lindqvist, chairman of the Nobel Committee of the Royal Swedish Academy of Sciences, said the discovery was crucial for the development of the semiconductor industry, which spans everything from transistor radios to computer chips.

"Laboratories around the world jumped when the discovery was made five years ago," Lindqvist told reporters.

Stone throwing and fire bombing were reported in the mixed race township of Wynberg near Cape Town, in black areas of Chessville near Durban and Kwa-Nobuhle near Port Elizabeth. The continuing racial unrest in parts of white minority-ruled South Africa followed an announcement that President Pieter Botha had refused to grant a second stay of execution for ANC guerrilla Benjamin Moloise, 30.

Moloise, convicted in September 1983 of murdering black police officer Philipus Selepe in an ambush near Pretoria 10 months earlier, was to be hanged at 7 a.m. Friday in Pretoria Central Prison.

Police said today they detained 87 people overnight in township unrest across the country.

In the black township of New Crossroads, also near Cape Town, students hurled firebombs at police cars after a police tear-gas canister started a fire in a home that killed a black man. Police opened fire, wounding at least nine people.

A wry D'Amore prepares for 1986

GOP State Chairman Tom D'Amore has a green T-shirt on display in his office at party headquarters in Hartford which bears the lettering, "SOME OF MY BEST FRIENDS ARE HOUSE LEADERS."

The "House" in this case is the branch of the state Legislature where some leaders would be hard put to order T-shirts proclaiming a similar message about the chairman. The difference is that they are darkly serious about it; D'Amore likes to kid about the cool relationship, T-shirt style.

D'Amore has decided to let it go at that and keep his distance from people in his own party who resent his presence on their turf during legislative sessions.

So when the General Assembly convenes in February, D'Amore will be back at his first love — running election campaigns. He'll do this mostly from the GOP compound downtown with its fine view of the state Capitol across Bushnell Park. That will be close enough for Tom.

THE CHAIRMAN WILL, with rare exceptions, confine his visits on The Hill to the state Senate and its caucus rooms on the third floor. He gets along there with his New Hartford neighbor, Senate Majority Leader Reggie Smith, and can co-exist with President Pro Tem Phil Robertson of Chebire, one of the free spirits in the Legislature.

For despite the wry message on his T-shirt, D'Amore finds it difficult to deal with House Speaker R.E. Van Norstrand of Darien, chief exponent of the attitude that party chairmen should leave legislative business to the experts, and the challenger politics as well.

The big challenge for Republicans next year is two-fold: trying to elect a governor and also retaining majorities in House and Senate.

Capitol Comments

Bob Conrad

D'Amore says that will take most of his time. He will love it.

D'Amore got his job in the first place because of the way he ran U.S. Sen. Lowell Weicker's successful bid for a third term in 1982. D'Amore doesn't mind taking some credit, either, for his party's gaining control of the Legislature in 1984 by the biggest margins anywhere in the country. He wants to go on with the battle of 1986. He is already gunning for Democratic Gov. Bill O'Neill.

For if Democrats intend to say, as this column indicated recently, that prosperity in Connecticut is reason enough to re-elect O'Neill, D'Amore will say it's really the trickle-down effect of President Reagan's performance and that this state cannot risk another four years of O'Neill's kind of administration.

"THERE IS A DISTINCT aroma coming from this administration," says D'Amore. "We're going to say it's time to clean house." The GOP will harp on a string of revelations which D'Amore calls scandalous in the O'Neill government. D'Amore concedes, with obvious frustration, that O'Neill is the "Teflon" personality who sheds any spattering of mud and maintains an image of a nice guy doing the best he can.

D'Amore says Republicans have "brought him (O'Neill) out" as a better governor in some people's minds because of his working the incumbency so well. But, says D'Amore, O'Neill is showing that he is worried over what could happen by doing so many favors and nice things so early. (One O'Neill proposal to pump big money into housing had Smith fuming, claiming the program is the GOP's idea and is in place.)

"If he keeps it up," says D'Amore, "all of the toys will be gone before Christmas."

D'Amore says O'Neill lacks initiative. And, in a tip-off on what to expect in the GOP campaign, D'Amore says O'Neill cannot even fire a state employee who ought to be canned.

ALTHOUGH THE GOP is hurting for money at this stage, D'Amore is high on its chances in congressional races next year. The exception is the 1st District, where the party has trouble finding candidates.

He is "very impressed" with James Pablonia of Windham as a rival of Francis "Bud" Mullen of East Lyme — D'Amore's early choice — in the 2nd. He sees State Senator Tom Scott of Milford and West Haven Mayor Larry Minichino as strong possibilities in the 3rd. He is happy with U.S. Reps. Stewart McKinney of Westport in the 4th, John Rowland of Waterbury in the 5th and Nancy Johnson of New Britain in the 6th.

Now if he could get Weicker to go for governor and sort out places on the ticket for others seeking that nomination, well, those GOP leaders on The Hill would be off his mind and free to operate without fear of his messing around up there. In all, that would make 1986 a grand year for D'Amore and his party.

North Korea's terrorists have their own ship

WASHINGTON — While the world was watching the strange saga of the Italian cruise ship pirated by Palestinian terrorists last week, U.S. intelligence was keeping close watch on another ship that has been linked to terrorism.

The ship is the Tong Gon Ae Guk Ho, a sometime merchant ship owned by North Korea, which uses it to support terrorist operations in the Far East. According to our intelligence sources, it is the only merchant ship in the world that has been identified as an engine of state-sponsored terrorism. The fact that it masquerades as a freighter only adds to the ship's sinister reputation.

Early this past summer, the Tong Gon Ae Guk Ho visited Japan, much to the alarm of Defense Intelligence Agency personnel in Tokyo. It dropped anchor in Japan a second time on Aug. 14, remaining there three days.

These two visits led military officials in Hawaii to provide us with details of the terrorist ship's known activities in the last couple of years. Here's what they told us:

THE TONG GON AE GUK HO made its first blip on intelligence monitors in 1983, when North Korean commandos planted a bomb at the "Martyrs' Mausoleum" in Rangoon, Burma. The bomb was detonated by radio, too early to kill visiting South Korean President Chun Doo Hwan, but 17 members of the South Korean delegation and four Burmese were killed in the blast.

One North Korean commando was killed and two others were captured. At least one of them gave the Burmese a detailed confession.

The assassination squad had been brought to Burma on the Tong Gon Ae Guk Ho. A secret U.S. military intelligence report said the ship "was tasked to put the terrorists and the equipment ashore and to exfiltrate the terrorists to North Korea on completion of the mission."

The report added that "the capture of the North Korean terrorists aborted the merchant ship's exfiltration mission and the ship returned to North Korea in November 1983."

"It basically remained inactive" in or near its home port of Nampo on the west coast of the peninsula "for long periods of time." During that interlude, the ship was involved in "limited Party Republic of China trade" across the Yellow Sea, the report stated.

The Tong Gon Ae Guk Ho extended its travels this year with two trips to Japan. What particularly worried U.S. intelligence was that the crew manifest, obtained by U.S. agents, made it clear that "much of the crew of approximately 31 persons — including most of the key officers — is identical to the crew which participated in the terrorist support voyage in late 1983," the secret report stated.

SUMMING UP THE EVIDENCE on the Tong Gon Ae Guk Ho, the report made these points:

- The ship has a "previous history of involvement in covert transport of terrorist-related personnel and arms."
- It has a "history of involvement in North Korean and smuggling activities in Japan and possibly other Asian countries."
- It has been "equipped with sophisticated communications devices, heavy machine guns, small firearms, grenades, a larger than normal crew and special 'training' facilities."
- The ship has undergone "periodic subordination" to the Korean Communist Party for special operations "while disguised as a trade ship."
- The ship has most likely been "part of the North Korean merchant marine (which) was recently organized into 'strike squads' in order to become the fourth defensive force of North Korea."

Under the dome
Members of Congress concerned over dope traffic think a federal "drug czar" could best deal with the problem, but the White House opposes the idea. In a compromise last year, the president appointed a Drug Enforcement Policy Board, headed by Attorney General Edwin Meese, to lead the war on drugs. It has yet to hold its first meeting, and Rep. Glenn English, D-Okla., wants to know why. He plans to ask board members to testify, if anything, they've accomplished and if the answer is unsatisfactory, he'll renew the push for a czar.

The ombudsman
The widow of a retired Air Force master sergeant wrote us to complain that she lost her husband's military pension when he died two years ago. Instead of the $600-a-month he got, she now gets $200 from the Veterans Administration. "It doesn't seem fair," she wrote. We agree, but when we investigated, it turned out there was nothing improper under the law. When a military pensioner's death is not service-connected and her husband's was not — and the survivor is entitled only to veterans' benefits. And if the widow supplements her income by getting a job, she'll lose the modest VA benefits entirely.

Mini-editorial
The proposed censorship of rock-'n'-roll lyrics is worrisome enough to lovers of the First Amendment, but there has been a disturbing new development. We've learned that the record industry was considering a blacklist of performers who didn't clean up their acts. We fully sympathize with the campaign to clean up the music our children listen to. Suggestive lyrics are indeed a problem — but one that parents, not government, should solve.

Coventry should appoint Gardner
To the Editor:
If Coventry may have another town planner, no better appointment could be made than that of Betty Gardner, who has the experience, the knowledge, the dedication, and a superb personality in human situations. Besides, she is a longtime resident of the town.

The Town Council should disregard so-called civil-service guidelines and appoint this competent lady. They were elected to make the important decisions for Coventry, and this is one such important decision.

The recent town planner — a self-styled "professional," wet behind the ears, despite apparent, extensive academic credentials and, likely imposing letters of recommendation, suggests the horde of like prospects eagerly for this important position — primarily as but one rung on their personal ladder of goals achievement.

Not so, I am convinced, with Mrs. Gardner — she's proven her competence and is fully entitled, not simply to consideration — but for appointment at the earliest opportunity.

'No' vote urged on sewage plant

To the Editor:

Until the middle of this year, I had favored approval of the proposed sewerage disposal plan. The plan called for a town bond of $9 million and federal and state aid of $17 million. These figures were consistently quoted by various town officials up to early August 1985.

On Aug. 8 the press reported that the town attorney drew up a formal resolution asking the voters to appropriate a sum not to exceed $26 million for the project, with not more than $14.3 million of it to be financed by town general obligation bonds and the rest by other sources, such as, state and federal funding.

With this announcement increasing the town's share from $9 million to $14.3 million, I smelled a "rat" and I am now asking the voters to vote "no" on the sewerage disposal referendum question.

My reasons why I now recommend a "no" vote in 1985 are as follows:

1. The administration has not been honest with its figures. Until August 1985, the tab was $9 million — not $14.3 million.
2. The extra $5.3 million, plus the carrying charges, is equal to $8 to $10 million more which will be reflected in your sewer tax bills.
3. Of course, the reason for the increase is not that the project costs have gone up $5.3 million but rather that the administration doesn't believe they can get $17 million state and federal (funding and therefore, you, the taxpayer, will be asked to foot the extra $5.3 million plus interest.
4. You are being asked to commit yourself to an increased bonded indebtedness without knowing when or if the state and federal support will be available. Remember, we are still third in line for these funds.

Town can be proud of ambulance firm

To the Editor:

Many individuals in this area will remember for a long time to come the date of Friday, Sept. 27, 1985.

But this writer will never forget Thursday, Sept. 26. This note is in front of our apartment at about 9:24 a.m. After treatment in the ambulance they brought me to Manchester Memorial Hospital in about 10 minutes.

While preparing to go to the dentist in Hartford, I had an usual tank penicillin, which apparently had reacted. I have been informed that this could have been fatal. It was only because of the exceptionally prompt service and good hand of God that I am able to write this letter.

On Saturday of that week, I left for the Poconos where I served as chaplain at the Salvation Army Conference Center for Senior Citizens.

Manchester has every right to be proud of that service and the efficient and thoughtful care given in the Manchester hospital.

Publishing letter was irresponsible
To the Editor:
I believe that you violated your policy regarding the right to edit letters for brevity, clarity, and taste on letters to the Open Forum, particularly for taste in the following letter.

I refer to Howard Epstein's letter of Oct. 7, 1985, to which you captioned "NU letter could have explained it" and allowed the use of Alfred Rogers' name as NU spokesman when you knew that the letter was a hoax. I would rather have had Mr. Epstein energize his wisdom and talents to impugn Northeast Utilities for trying to overcharge its captive customers for Millstone III's

To the Editor:

4. We can delay action for another year and by then we will have all the input necessary to put this item on the November 1986 ballot. Time is in our favor despite what the administration might say.

5. If you examine the Aug. 13, 1985, fact sheet published by the town, you will note three possibilities which could affect your sewer tax. The projections range from almost 2 times the present rates to 3.3 times the present rate. Again, you are being asked to approve a plan, without knowing exactly how much it will cost.

However, Mr. Taxpayer, if you really want the full unadulterated facts, a civilian review committee is essential. You will pay for this project sometime in the future but let's get the true facts on the table.

Vote "no" to the sewer disposal referendum question for 1985. We still have a simple time to consider this referendum in 1986.

Connecticut In Brief

Disaster money almost certain

HARTFORD — Federal money will almost certainly be made available to owners of private property damaged by Hurricane Gloria after all, according to Gov. William A. O'Neill.

President Reagan has already declared some southern sections of the state disaster areas, making them eligible for federal money. But that only applied to public property, not that owned by individuals or business.

The federal government would pick up 75 percent of the repair costs, the state would cover the remaining 25 percent.

After meeting with federal officials Tuesday, O'Neill said he had been assured that some federal money, in the form of low-interest loans, would be made available through the Federal Small Business Administration.

O'Neill outlines abuse program

HARTFORD — Gov. William A. O'Neill says he will propose a $1.5 million program in his budget next year to help reduce alcohol and drug abuse among students.

The money, he said Tuesday, would come from fees paid by those arrested for drunken driving and sent to the state's alcohol education program.

The program was drafted by a committee comprising members of government, students, the media, education and law enforcement.

It sets aside $500,000 for the Connecticut Alcohol and Drug Abuse Commission to create a public education campaign through the media.

Another $500,000 will be used by the Department of Education to help local schools set up programs and train teachers and administrators in the substance abuse area.

The final $500,000 will be distributed by the Department of Children and Youth Services to develop local community prevention programs.

United Cable adds Channel 18

HARTFORD — Citing a survey that indicates viewers would respond favorably to programming offered on WHCT-TV, United Cable Television Corp. has announced it will begin carrying the city's newest independent station today.

WHCT, Channel 18, is the first local station to be added by United since federal "must-carry" rules were ruled unconstitutional by a federal appeals court in June.

However, Karen Jarman, a spokeswoman for United, stressed in a statement released Tuesday that the cable company's decision to carry WHCT was not influenced by the court decision but rather by subscribers' interests.

WHCT will be carried on all three United systems within the state, and will reach about 130,000 viewers.

Convict may face new charges

HARTFORD — State's Attorney John M. Bailey says he may file additional charges against a man who upon being found guilty of murder buried a water pitcher at a jury foreman then lunged toward the jury box.

Clinton Milner, 26, of Hartford, was wrestled to the ground by Superior Court sheriffs and inspectors from the state's attorney's office Tuesday before he could reach the jury box, less than 10 feet away.

The foreman, Eugene Flynn, was struck on the hand by the metal pitcher but was not harmed in the incident.

However, Inspector David Best received a four-inch scratch above his left eye when he, another inspector and the sheriffs tackled the defendant, who was shouting profanities.

Milner was handcuffed and removed from the second-floor courtroom. His mother, Pecola Milner, and sister screamed throughout the disturbance which drew sheriffs and spectators from a third-floor courtroom.

Norwalk adopts AIDS policy

NORWALK — The city's board of education has adopted a policy under which children with AIDS will be admitted into public school classrooms provided they pose no risk to other students.

A risk to other students was defined Tuesday as a case in which the child has open sores that cannot be covered, has not been properly toilet trained or exhibits behavior that could lead to direct transmission of infected bodily fluids, such as biting.

Reacting to both parental concern and increased publicity surrounding Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome, the Norwalk Board of Education Tuesday night became the first school system in Fairfield County to approve a policy regarding the often fatal disease.

To date, there are no known cases of students with AIDS or AIDS-Related Complex, a form of the disease believed to be less deadly, enrolled in the Norwalk public school system.

Pro-choice forces raise more

BRISTOL — In campaigns to sway voters to their respective sides on a non-binding referendum on abortion that will appear on November's ballot, pro-choice advocates have raised slightly more money than their anti-abortion opposition, city records indicate.

Citizens Against Referendum — CARE I — reported spending about $4,000 on a recent poll that asked residents how they will vote on the referendum which asks whether the U.S. Supreme Court decision on abortion be overturned.

CARE I has raised slightly more money than Celebrate Life, according to financing statements filed with the city clerk.

Celebrate Life, an anti-abortion group, raised $1,635 in cash between Aug. 28 and Oct. 2 and received $1,500 in donated services. Care I reported that it raised $3,900 over the same period.

Bridgeport Democrats make peace
BRIDGEPORT — Democrats at war over recent primary results have buried the hatchet and are raking in support from the police department in hopes of ousting Republican incumbent Mayor Leonard J. Paolotta.

Charles B. Tisdale has dropped a threat to take his challenge of the Sept. 10 primary results to federal court and endorsed the winner, Thomas W. Bucchi.

In return Democratic Town Chairman John D. Guman Jr. and state Comptroller J. Edward Caldwell agreed Tuesday to support Tisdale for statewide office in 1986, perhaps for state treasurer.

The incumbent treasurer, Henry Parker, is expected to step down, but Guman said even so, Tisdale's chances of winning the nomination are "99 to one."

In addition, Bucchi promised to support a complaint by Tisdale to Attorney General Joseph I. Lippa about the actions of some of Bucchi's poll watchers during the primary polling.

Norwalk Hospital lowers rates
NORWALK — More outpatient surgery is helping Norwalk Hospital hold the line on inpatient rates and lower outpatient rates by 10 percent, the hospital says.

The hospital reported Tuesday a shift from inpatient to outpatient services is helping keep costs down for its 1986 fiscal year, which began Oct. 1, said Norman Bradley, hospital president and chief executive officer.

Now about 41 percent of all surgical procedures are performed on an outpatient basis, said Bruce Hutchison, a hospital spokesman.

In addition to more outpatient surgery, hospital officials said they are seeing a reduction in the average length of stay by patients admitted to the hospital.

The Legislature has passed a major hospital cost containment law establishing a new system for determining the amount insurers and other third-party payers reimburse hospitals for medical procedures.

Liver transplant patient 'very critical'

By Kenneth R. Bozinet
United Press International

HARTFORD — Doctors are keeping a close watch on a young woman who is "stable, but very critical condition" after she underwent a 15-hour life-saving operation to replace her diseased liver with a donated organ.

Christel Vongiczky, 18, of Brooklyn, N.Y., was in very critical condition Tuesday at Hartford Hospital with only a 10 percent chance of survival, said spokesman James Battaglio.

Doctors, who completed the transplant at 8 p.m. Monday, waited to see if the donor liver could take over the body functions

State eyes crackdown on airplane taxes

HARTFORD (UPI) — About 1300 private planes are missing in Connecticut, but the Civil Air Patrol isn't on the lookout for the aircraft — the state's tax collectors.

"By the data we have, there is a discrepancy between the number of planes recorded by the Federal Aviation Administration as being domiciled in Connecticut and the number of planes being assessed and taxed," said state Sen. James H. McLaughlin, R-Woodbury.

McLaughlin is chairman of a legislative study committee which met Tuesday to try to determine how the phantom planes have vanished, escaping the financial wrath of local tax assessors.

Sales tax revenues take a dip

HARTFORD (UPI) — Sales tax receipts were lower than expected in August but the state's chief economic forecaster says it's too early to tell if Connecticut's chief source of revenue is on a downward trend.

The state collected more than $115.7 million in taxes on sales made during August, or about $3.8 million more than in the same month a year ago, figures from the Department of Revenue Services showed Tuesday.

When adjusted for changes in tax rates and exemptions, this year's figures represent an 8.9 percent increase over last year, said Edward Balda, chief of revenue and economic forecasting in the Office of Policy and Management.

The state has been projected an adjusted 11.9 percent increase, Balda said, adding though that it is too early to say if the lower-than-expected showing represents a downward trend for sales tax revenues.

The sales tax is Connecticut's single-largest source of revenue and Balda said he would have a better idea if a trend is emerging when figures for the first quarter of the 1985-86 fiscal year are in next month's report.

He said his office may have overestimated the effect of changes on the tax in computing the growth figures for August, but said the state "tends to indicate that the sales tax continues to weaken."

While sales tax revenues came in lower than expected for August, Balda said the latest overall revenue figures show a strong performance by the state's taxes on corporations and real estate transactions.

He said the corporation tax is running 40 percent above last year's levels with the increase due to economic growth as well as to audits of taxes netting additional revenue from previous years.

Balda said the real estate conveyance tax is up 54 percent and is expected to continue its upward growth in the next few months because of lower interest rates but will likely moderate early in 1986.

Coventry signs up voters but tally below last year

By George Lovno

COVENTRY — Thirteen new names had been added Tuesday afternoon to the list of registered voters for the Nov. 5 election. But the overall total of 5,940 registered voters is about 150 less than the number of voters who were eligible in last year's election.

"The number of registered voters is always higher during a presidential election year," said Barbara Johnson, one of Coventry's four registrars of voters. A sign-up session was held Tuesday from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Town Office Building, but Johnson said, "This has been a real quiet year. There doesn't seem to be a lot of interest."

Tuesday's session was the last of three held before the election. Although the deadline has passed, absentee ballots can still be obtained, and those turning 18 years old by Nov. 5 can still register. Residents who move into town before the election can also become qualified to vote.

Despite this year's decline, the overall number of eligible voters has increased over the years, according to Margaret Jurkowski, District Registrar since 1968. "However, as the lists go up, the percentage goes down that votes in the election," she said.

"In 1968 and before," said Jacobson, "over 90 percent of the registered voters showed up for presidential elections, 80 percent for state, and 70 percent for local elections. Now, it's fallen to about 60 percent for presidential, 60 percent for state and about 50 percent for the town."

A large share of the 5,940 registered voters — 1,833 people — chose to remain unaffiliated, while 1,830 are Democrats and 1,342 are Republicans.

"More and more recently," said Johnson, "the number of unaffiliated has grown."

Jacobson and the two other registrars — Sandra Ashley and Marjorie Roach — agreed that most of their work has been correcting the voting list, not adding new names. The final list must be completed by Oct. 25.

"I like being registrar because I see people and am involved with what's going on," said Jacobson, a retired state policeman. "I wouldn't be here this long if I didn't like it," she adds. However, she said she is undecided about seeking re-election when her term expires next year.

Registrars serve four-year terms, and are recommended on the ballot by the Republican and Democratic town committees. Each party selects one person for each of Coventry's two voting districts.

Governor's salary mediocre compared with other states

By Judd Everhart
The Associated Press

HARTFORD — Twenty-three states pay their governors more than Connecticut does, and a special commission is working to improve the salary of the state's chief executive and other high officials.

Connecticut's governor gets $65,000 a year. The highest paid governor in the country is New York's, where the salary is $100,000.

The Commission on Compensation of Elected State Officials and Judges was scheduled to meet today to discuss boosting the pay, but any raises would have to be approved by the 1986 General Assembly and could not take effect until January 1987 — after next year's state election.

Commission Chairman Joseph McCormick said at the commission's last meeting that it was important to get something through by next year because otherwise, it would be 1991 before the next raise could take effect.

By then, McCormick says, the $65,000 will be way out of line.

Material prepared for the commission by the Office of Fiscal Analysis shows that there are nine state treasury commissioners and one deputy commissioner earning more than the governor.

The highest paid state agency head is the commissioner of mental health, who receives $79,739 a year.

In addition, office found that 18 states pay their lieutenant governors more than the $40,000 Connecticut pays its lieutenant governor.

The $50,000 salary of Connecticut's attorney general ranks 34th out of the 50 states, while the $35,000 salary of the state treasurer ranks 35th of the 45 states that have such an office.

The commission may also recommend changes in pensions for former governors.

Under Connecticut law, former governors get an annual pension equal to $5,000 for each year in office, with a maximum of $20,000 a year. A governor's surviving spouse receives half the amount.

That provision does not apply to Thomas Grasso, husband of the late Gov. Ella T. Grasso. When the pension bill was passed during Mrs. Grasso's tenure, she felt it would be wrong for her to sign a bill that could potentially benefit her husband.

80,000 strike at Chrysler

today in Toronto and at Chrysler world headquarters here, and the company and union said they would try to make it a short strike.

In Toronto, both sides met separately this morning to plan strategy. Robert White, president of the United Auto Workers of Canada, said he would contact Chrysler negotiators to set up a negotiation schedule, but he was optimistic about making progress today.

"I would think it's going to be tough to get it done today," said White. "The UAW and Chrysler are both in a bind."

UAW President Owen Bieber, leading the bargaining for 70,000 U.S. workers, said two months of talks failed to produce agreement on major non-economic issues, such as job security and curbing subcontracting of work outside the company at the expense of union jobs.

The UAW and the newly formed United Auto Workers of Canada also sought wage and benefit parity with their counterparts at General Motors Corp. and Ford Motor Co.

The goal separating us on key issues is simply too great for us to bridge at this point," Bieber told a news conference minutes after the strike officially began at 12:01 a.m.

Thomas Miner, the chief Chrysler negotiator, called it "a strike that should not have happened as we're climbing our way back to prosperity out of where we've been over these tough years."

Five years ago, Chrysler received $1.2 billion in federally guaranteed loans and workers eventually contributed an estimated $1 billion in contract concessions to the rescue effort.

The company lost more than $3 billion from 1979 until its recovery took hold two years ago. It earned a record $701 million profit in 1983 and tripled that to a new record of $2.3 billion in 1984.

In Toronto, Robert White, the militant president of the breakaway 10,000-member Canadian union, said, "We just couldn't do it. I feel troubled by it, but we've been through it before."

The main unresolved Canadian issues were pay and local affairs at the minivan and large-van plants in Windsor, Ontario.

U.S. Chrysler dealers have an estimated 47 days worth of cars on hand, the best inventory level of the Big Three but two weeks short of the 60 days desired in normal times and far short of what dealers eventually contributed an estimated $1 billion in contract concessions to the rescue effort.

Program to revive northeast corner

WILLIMANTIC (AP) — Gov. William A. O'Neill today proposed a $2.1 million program designed to revive industry in the state's economically depressed northeastern corner.

He also proposed a $5,000 program to help train northeastern Connecticut residents interested in starting their own businesses, and $15,000 in technical assistance grants for businesses.

He said he would introduce legislation in 1986 to establish the loan fund but that the other programs could be financed with money from existing programs.

The towns covered by O'Neill's program are Ashford, Brooklyn, Chapin, Eastford, Hampton, Killingly, Lebanon, Mansfield, Plainfield, Pomfret, Putnam, Scotland, Sterling, Thompson, Union, Windham, Windham and Woodstock.

Insurance payment higher than thought for wrecked truck

By George Lovno
Herald Correspondent

BOLTON — The town has been offered more compensation for one of its fire trucks than it originally thought it would receive from insurance after the vehicle was demolished in a July accident.

The Hartford Insurance Co. has offered to pay Bolton $34,772, an amount that Administrative Assistant Karen Levine said was greater than had been expected.

The town's fire commissioners have recommended the price be accepted, although the Board of Selectmen decided Tuesday to ask the insurance company for a breakdown of the appraisal.

Selectman Carl Preuss said the truck was purchased for $40,000 in 1971, and was insured for $100,000. The scheduled replacement date, he said, was 1981.

A new fire truck will cost $150,000, according to Preuss. The Board of Selectmen is expected to approve the specifications for the new vehicle at its Thursday meeting. The specifications will then have to be approved by both the Board of Finance and the Board of Selectmen.

Preuss said the new truck should be delivered in June or July of 1986. The replacement vehicle, he said, will be powered by a diesel engine and will have a larger water tank.

Selectman Michael Zizka was pleased by the offer. "It's probably pretty close to the mark," he said. He said he wants the insurance company to justify the amount before a check is accepted.

In another matter, the Fire Department reported to the selectmen that its expenses during Hurricane Gloria were between $300 and $400. The selectmen instructed the department to use its own account to cover the expenses, although it promised to help get an appropriation for the total in the future.

Chase suspect linked to scam

At his arraignment in Manchester Superior Court Wednesday, Klinger's bond was set at $20,000 in connection with the fire, the affidavit said the company had an audit of his records just before the blaze.

The company began that audit when it contacted several of Klinger's clients to discuss loans they had supposedly gotten from the company based on their insurance policies, the affidavit said.

Board to study computer

BOLTON — The Board of Selectmen Tuesday decided to study the purchase of a computer for town offices. A feasibility study committee will be set up to explore what type of system the town needs. The group's proposal may be included in next year's budget request.

"It's past the point where we need a computer," said Administrative Assistant Karen Levine. She said the assessor's office currently contracts out for computer service to help prepare tax bills and other items.

Rabies clinic scheduled
BOLTON — A rabies vaccination clinic for town dogs will be held next year in order to help residents meet the July 1, 1986, state deadline for such shots.

The Board of Selectmen decided Tuesday to arrange a date with the Connecticut Veterinary Medical Association, which is sponsoring the clinic. The vaccination will cost $6, and last three years.

The Board also will ask the town of Andover to participate. One of the two towns will provide space for the clinic, which will be held after March 1, 1986.

High school opens house
BOLTON — Bolton High School will hold its annual fall open house Oct. 22 beginning at 7:30 p.m. in the gymnasium.

Because the open house is a structured program in which parents will follow their student's schedule, parents should be at the school by 7:30 p.m.

Brett's wide shoulders keep KC in contention

By Harry Atkins
The Associated Press

TORONTO — The Kansas City Royals will learn tonight just how far they can go on the brawny shoulders of one man — George Brett.

Playing with a rare intensity, Brett almost single-handedly has brought the Royals back into contention in the American League playoffs. Trailing three games to one, Kansas City rallied to dead-end the series at three games apiece entering tonight's climactic showdown with the Toronto Blue Jays.

And it was Brett who led the way again in Game 6 Tuesday night, hitting his third homer of the series to lift the Royals to a 3-3 victory.

"You can't expect to win three straight, so you have to take it day by day, inning by inning, pitch by pitch," Brett said.

Mark Gubicz, making his first start of the series, checked the Blue Jays for four hits over the 5-13 innings he worked up to the victory.

Whalers power derailed by Quebec

By Combined Wire Services

QUEBEC — If there is one thing Michel Bergeron will always accept, it's the inevitable.

"If you keep giving other teams chances, sooner or later they will capitalize," the Quebec coach said after his Nordiques skated to a 4-1 victory over the Harford Whalers in one of only two games played Tuesday night in the National Hockey League.

"Harford has one of the best power plays in the league," Bergeron said. "I would have liked to see (Quebec goalie) Mario Gosselin get the shutout, but you can't hold them off forever."

Harford had six opportunities to tie at its manouevre advantage, but managed to beat Gosselin only on its final try when Jorgen Pettersson scored with 2:16 remaining in the game.

"It doesn't bother me not to get the shutout," Gosselin said. "I usually only get one a year, and I already got one last week, so I don't have to worry about it."

The Nordiques controlled the play through the first 40 minutes, outshooting the Whalers 21-7 while attempting a three-goal lead.

Harford goalie Mike Luit did a valiant job turning back the Nordique attack early in the game, coming up with big stops on Jean-Francois Sauve and Alain Lemieux midway through the first period.

His luck ran out, though, when Normand Rochefort banged home his own rebound to give Quebec a first-period lead at 18:27.

Gosselin got knocked off-balance, but that's part of the game, Luit said of the opening goal. "But we had only seven shots in the first two periods. That really tells you the story."

Peter Stastny made it 2-0 with a power-play goal at 3:01 of the second period. Less than three minutes later, his brother, Anton, increased the margin with the first of his two goals in the game.

"Our line is working really well together," said Anton, who also had two assists. "Everybody is getting a lot of scoring chances and that's important."

Anton scored his second goal of the game at 11:47 of the third period when he beat Luit high on the glove side after taking his brother's pass from behind the net.

Harford finally scored when Pettersson got his stick on a loose puck in front of the net during a scramble and slipped it by a screened Gosselin.

"We only started to play in the last few minutes of the game," Harford Coach Jack Evans said. "You've gotta go for 60 minutes in this league."

The victory was the fourth straight for the Nordiques, who have never won more than two in a row to start a season. Harford dropped to 1-3. The puck slid down ice towards Chabot, who picked it up just outside the blue line, skated down the left side of the ice and shot from the faceoff circle for his first goal of the season.

Penguins 3, Stars 2

At Pittsburgh, somewhere between the first and third periods of their game with the Minnesota North Stars Tuesday night, the young Penguins learned one of the facts of life in the NHL.

"There is no easy way in this league," Berry said after the Penguins rallied for three third-period goals, including an unassisted, short-handed breakthrough, to defeat the North Stars, 3-2, for their first victory of the season.

"I think after the first period, they realized they had to work hard to get a win."

"We started out slowly, but we picked it up in the second and third periods," Berry added. "I don't know why we started out flat, because we try to guard against that kind of thing. Maybe it had to do with the fact that we were out of two hard losses. But I think we realized after the first period that if we didn't pick it up, this one was going to end up just like the first two."

The Penguins lost their first two games in the third period to Montreal and Philadelphia.

After a scoreless, but intensely-played second period, the Penguins tied the score 1-1, 35 seconds into the final period on Doug Sheenan's first goal of the season.

Defensesman John Chabot got a chance to put the Penguins ahead for good less than six minutes later, when Minnesota defenseman Craig Levie made a wild swing attempting a shot from the point on power play. The puck slid down ice towards Chabot, who picked it up just outside the blue line, skated down the left side of the ice and shot from the faceoff circle for his first goal of the season.

A little more than two minutes later, Terry Ruskowski scored what proved to be the game-winning goal — and his third of the season — from just outside the right faceoff circle after taking a pass from Mario Lemieux.

Jays fate up to Stieb

By Joe Illuzzi
United Press International

TORONTO — The fate of the Toronto Blue Jays lies in the right arm of Dave Stieb — as long as it doesn't fall off.

Stieb, the Blue Jays' bulldog, will pitch the seventh and deciding Game 6 of the American League playoffs Wednesday night against Kansas City Royals ace Bret Saberhagen. It will be Stieb's third start in the series, and second in a row just three days' rest.

After pitching masterfully in Game 5, Stieb pitched the Royals' hander went 6-2 in Game 6 Wednesday night.

The question is, does Stieb, who has not pitched less than 207 innings in the last four seasons, have enough to keep the Jays' pennant hopes alive in Game 6 Wednesday night. "He could go all the way. You've got to hope he has a couple of easy innings. As long as he has his control, he'll be all right."

With Toronto's first pennant bighten he said that White, Manager Bobby Cox will stay with Stieb as long as possible.

"I think I'll stay with him for a while," said White. "Dave's given us some good games this season. He's our work horse. He creates some hope, but he finds a way to get out of them."

The big question for Kansas City in Game 7 could be the effectiveness of second baseman Frank White.

White's right hand was spiked Sunday sliding into third base, and before last night's game, the hand had swollen enormously. He did not decide on whether he would start until 30 minutes before game time.

White, who cut short his batting practice, said he could not drive the ball well, but he contributed to the plate with a sacrifice in KC's two-run sixth inning.

Local cross country squads have work cut out

The fourth annual Wickham Park Cross Country Invitational was staged Monday and three local entries, Manchester High boys and girls and East Catholic girls, discovered pretty much the same thing.

Each has work to do before state competition in November. East and Manchester garnered eighth and 10th placements respectively in the Girls' Championship Division. Those finishes are deceptive as there were entrants, such as the winning school, Notre Dame Academy of Hingham, Mass. that will not be in a challenging position come November.

FOR COACH KATHY KITREDGE'S EAGLES, the competition at the Class L Meets will come from St. Bernard's of Uncasville. The Saints did not place in the Top Ten team-wise but this is the crew East in particular has to watch.

Kitredge has one premier runner in Kathie DeMarco, who was 12th in the championship run. What has to concern Kitredge, and does, is the gap between her No. 1 runner and the rest of the bunch. It was, for awhile, over a minute and that would not be good enough to make East a six-time state Class champion.

Championship teams are bunched, not widely divided where placements are vital for victory. The team that comes to mind in this regard is the state competition. Not since 1978, when that squad won the 1978 East Catholic boys' team. He bunched four runners in the top four (Luke O'Connor 8th, John Clifford 13th, Steve Colbert 19th and Eric Lecko 30th).

Thoughts ApLEnty

Len Auster, Sports Editor

No other school was close. But then Hull waited. And waited. And waited. And waited some more. Until finally, Peter Kiro, East's No. 5 runner, came across in 102nd place.

East, which had the title within its grasp, had to settle for fourth place.

DeMarco's clocking was 15:27.9. Tina Little in 31st position turned in a time of 16:94. Cathy Cross in the 41st slot was another 31 seconds back with No. 4 finisher, Jennifer Taurus, in 59th place registering a 17:03 clocking.

EACH YEAR, COACH PHIL BLANCHETTE thinks — hopes — this will be the year for his Manchester High girls' squad. This preseason, again, Blanchette thought his runners could make noise in state competition. Not since 1978, when that squad won the CCLL title, took third in Class LL and fifth in the Open, has Manchester had a true banner campaign.

The 1984 season ended in disappointment as injuries put a damper on any and all hopes. Individually, '85 could be a good year for a couple of Blanchette's runners, such as Kim Jarvis and Sherry Veal, who were 13th and 18th respectively Monday. Team-wise, Blanchette would like to make it back to the State Open for the first time since 1981, but that — again — depends on injuries.

This year's major loss could be junior tri-captain Carolyn Fahey. She is currently sidelined with shin splints, possibly a stress fracture. Blanchette said her condition will be evaluated this week. If she's out, then an additional burden will be placed on his young sophomores in pressure-packed state competition.

FOR GEORGE SUTOR, coach of the Manchester boys team, Monday was a wasted day. Hobbling around on a walking cast, courtesy of surgery on an Achilles tendon, Sutor wasn't feeling good before during or after the boys seeded race. He has a young cast and in this invitational they fell down. One, Rob Shettel, literally did. Steve Gallacher, under orders from Sutor, dropped out when a leg problem started to act up. And Sean Toland suffered breathing problems.

Sutor has to hope there will be better days. "If we don't finish we don't score," he simply stated the obvious. You need five scorers — finishers — to be considered in any team standings. On this day Manchester was a DNS (did not score). Sutor does not want to see that again.

EAST CATHOLIC BOYS, one of the top teams in the state — No. 10 in the latest coaches poll — didn't run. Hull reportedly was disciplining his bunch for some acts of indiscretion. The Eagles, if matters get straightened out by state meet time, will be one of the picks in Class L.

Race notes For Notre Dame Academy, it was its second visit and second victory Monday. ND coach George Rose had good reason to return. "We enjoy it. They put on a fine race. In all the states we've run in, this is the most well-run meet. They do a lot for the athletes, they really care for the kids," he explained.

Dick Brinley, Bill Barron, George Sutor — take a bow. And you too, Jeff Maron, and the Wickham Park staff.

Can kids eat? The log cabin concession stand atop the park through approximately 70-80 pounds of food and hamburgers. And 50 cases of soda — at least — were consumed.

Hoop lineup set Second annual Rotary Club Christmas Basketball Tournament involving scholastic clubs will have hosts East Catholic in the field along with defending champ Windsor and Middletown. East and Manchester will meet in the opening round, assuring a local quintet in the championship game.

Chris Rovegno helps Manchester girls post victory

By Len Auster Sports Editor

For awhile it looked as if Manchester High had a thing going with the girls' posts. It banged the uprisings a couple of times early on, but sophomore striker Chris Rovegno pinballed one in, finally, and added a second tally later on as the Indians blanked South Windsor High, 2-0, in CCC East girls' soccer action Tuesday at Memorial Field.

The triumph avenged the only loss of the year for the 10-1 Silk Towers, who are well on the way toward their second straight league championship. They're 8-1 in CCC East games.

The coaches agreed on the difference between the two games, the first going to the Bobcats by a 3-2 count in overtime. "The first time we were coming off a few losses and were really ready to win. Plus they were minus a few players," observed Bobcat coach Ken Collins.

"The difference was in personnel. The last time we were without Rovegno, Denise (Belleville) and Wendy (Pedemonte)," said Manchester coach Joe Erardi. Belleville, at stopper, and Pedemonte, at sweeper, anchor the Indian defense. "Those obviously are three key positions," Erardi noted.

South Windsor, which alides to 4-3-1 in the CCC East and 4-6-1 overall, mustered just five shots in the 80 minutes of play as Manchester wouldn't allow the Bobcats to generate an offense. "They're good. We just don't have the skills to match up. Their defense is excellent," Collins cited.

Erardi couldn't agree more. "We'll go with the back four for the rest of the year and in the tournament. With Denise and Wendy in the middle, and Sarah (Nicholson) and Rachel (Odel) on the outside; those are four quality players."

Rovegno can also be put in that classification — quality. After Nancy Sheldon and Odel used up Manchester's attacking options Tuesday, Rovegno closed it out at 23:40 for Cromwell, completing a three-goal hat trick.

Cheney had a 3-2 edge in the shots department. "It was an even game. It was just a matter of converting," Soucy said.

Tech goalie Tom Dowd made 13 saves. Cromwell and qualified them for the Class S state tournament. They stand at 5-1 in the conference and 8-2 overall.

East, now 3-4, was paced by double winners Michelle Freemer, who scored triumphs in the 20th and 50-yard freestyles, and Carol Trocena, who won the 200 IM and 100 fly. E.O. Smith drops to 1-3.

The Eagles are in Meriden Friday, meeting homecoming Moloney High at 3:30 p.m.

Judge says Earl Kelley open to school discipline

By Chris Dahl
The Associated Press

HARTFORD — With formal basketball practices underway at the University of Connecticut, a federal court decision has left senior star Earl Kelley open to a school disciplinary hearing that could jeopardize his future on the team and at the school.

Kelley had filed a federal lawsuit on grounds that the hearing procedure violates students' constitutional rights because it denies active participation by a defense attorney. It is the court's view that under circumstances of this case, the procedural safeguard provided by the University of Connecticut meets due process standards. Judge M. Joseph Blumenfeld wrote in dismissing the suit at U.S. District Court in Hartford.

'Connecticut Cooks' has a tasty sequel

By Nancy Pappas
Herald Reporter

Elisa Dobkin of Manchester and Ginny Wickersham of Bolton are not cookbook editors whose names you're likely to know. Yet the first volume they produced, "Connecticut Cooks," sold more than 50,000 copies — 20,000 of those in the first five months.

The second volume, to be officially introduced at a cocktail reception in New Haven tonight, is expected to do just as well.

That's a record any New York publisher would be thrilled to achieve. But for the American Cancer Society's Connecticut Division, it's particularly important. This is a fund-raising cookbook, and proceeds are used for research on cancer cures and treatments, education, rehabilitation of patients and other community services.

Dobkin and Wickersham have not received a penny for the untold hours they've put into these books, not to mention the grocery bills they ran up while trying out recipes submitted by others.

Fortunately, recipe collecting is a hobby for both. Although a newcomer to the book production end of things, Dobkin said her recipe collection fills 45 index card file boxes, and she can see the need for three or four more. Most of these she has copied out of cookbooks borrowed from libraries or friends; they are well organized, both alphabetically and by topic.

This has turned into a sort of reference library for her friends. "Sometimes I'll get calls from friends, and they'll say, 'I need a recipe for this or that, and I'm sure you've got it.' Generally I do."

Wickersham edited a cookbook for the Bolton Junior Women's Club a few years ago, and helped produce a book for the Colonial Dames of New York City. The collaboration between the two women began four years ago, when someone in the Cancer Society's Manchester office approached Wickersham about putting together a fund-raising cookbook.

"Elisa was a cancer volunteer, and I guess I knew about her famous recipe collection," Wickersham said last week. "But we really didn't know each other, at all."

THAT MIGHT have been a problem, Dobkin said, if the pair had not been able to agree on the type of book they were going to put out. "It's not enough to say you're going to do a fundraising cookbook, and 'bang bang' you make a whole lot of money," she said.

In the case of "Connecticut Cooks," the pair of editors decided they would look for unusual recipes which would challenge the experienced cook, but would not scare away the neophyte. A few of the dishes, such as the bread duck with rice submitted by the chef at L'Americain restaurant in Hartford, are extremely complex. On the other hand, the quickie with a crust made of hash brown potatoes is something a youngster could prepare.

The recipes were to be short, so that three to five could be arranged on every two-page spread. Recipes using cake mix, biscuit mix or canned soups were to be avoided.

A few of the dishes, such as the quail with leeches nut contributed by Ann Howard Cookery in Farmington, require exotic ingredients. The average supermarket does not offer quail, canned leeches nuts or pate de foie unmanageable situation in which players, with or without encouragement from his agents, would join a team during the current season, now nearing the halfway point.

It also asks for exemplary damages of $3 million and punitive damages against the 28-team league of $10 million.

Davis' agent, Mike Trope, was not available to comment.

Elisa Dobkin and Ginny Wickersham look over a copy of "Connecticut Cooks II," the new cookbook they produced for the American Cancer Society. "Connecticut Cooks," their first cookbook for the Cancer Society, sold more than 50,000 copies.

gras (a spread made of goose livers).

BUT WICKERSHAM said she believes that most of the recipes are just new ways to combine familiar ingredients. A cream pie with cranberry topping on a cream cheese base is one example of this kind of innovation; it is souped up with carrots, rice and orange juice is another.

To find the 350 or so recipes for each book, the editors went through a lengthy process. Thousands of recipes were submitted by cooks in American Cancer Society chapters all across the state. All were examined, duplicates were filed together.

Dobkin typed out the unedited recipes — condensing directions as she went along — then sent the originals over to Wickersham. Both then had the opportunity to "get to know" the recipes.

"I tend to fall in love with all the recipes, that's why it's so hard for me to eliminate them," Dobkin said. "But eliminations were necessary, in order to come up with a collection of ideal length."

DUPLICATES were eliminated, of course. "You cannot believe how many cheesecakes and zucchini breads we received," Dobkin said. "And other desserts as well. People just love to send in desserts. Unfortunately, good grain and vegetable recipes were somewhat harder to locate. "We were committed to having a really big vegetable chapter, and some grains and tofu in this second volume," Dobkin said. "We felt that we needed to offer healthy, delicious suggestions."

The editors sent back another call to the individual towns, asking for more vegetable and grain recipes. Still they felt they didn't have enough. In order to expand these chapters, Dobkin pulled some from her four card boxes full of vegetable recipes.

Although the result of all these efforts is a good-sized chapter on vegetables, and a number of healthy condiments and relishes, this book is by no means a health food book. There is sugar, chocolate, whipping cream and butter throughout.

"We cannot 'do health,' because the book would be boring," Dobkin said. "It is a commercial book. We were there to make money. People are not standing in line to spend their $9 on a book full of low-fat anti-cancer recipes."

But the marketing people at the American Cancer Society are hoping that they will line up to purchase "Connecticut Cooks II." It is available at the cancer office, 127 E. Center St.

Is feta better?

Many supermarkets are carrying a Greek cheese called feta, but most consumers have no idea how to serve it. This salty, rather crumbly cheese is now being manufactured in Wisconsin as well as the Greek isles.

Patriotic chicken

Chicken has been a popular main dish since colonial times. The Delmarva Poultry Industry has gathered regional specialties from the past and put them together into a booklet called "All American Chicken Favorites." It includes Pennsylvania Dutch-style chicken and corn soup, and Southern fried chicken, among others.

Low-cal desserts

Everyone loves desserts, but few of us need the calories. A new booklet from the makers of NutraSweet artificial sweetener, called "Fruity Delites," offers reduced-calorie treats like cherry mousse and vanilla ice cream.

As easy as pie

The familiar term is, "As American as apple pie." But America's corn syrup producers would like to nominate the pecan pie as an equally American dessert.

Casserole Ideas

Everyone needs new ideas for easy, inexpensive casseroles. For a free copy of a recipe booklet, send a stamped, self-addressed business envelope to Creative Casseroles, Milk Promotion Services, 381 Governor's Highway, South Windsor, Conn., 06074.

Supermarket Shopper

Check-out aisles aren't designed for snacking

By Martin Sloane
United Feature Syndicate

In a recent column concerning "No Candy" supermarket check-out aisles, I printed a letter from a reader who suggested that it would be healthier if children were offered candy sticks rather than candy while Mom attended to checking out her groceries. At the time, it sounded like a good, healthy idea, but it didn't impress Opal Grumof of Long Beach, Calif. "I worked in a restaurant where dishes of carrot sticks were placed on tables, and several people nearly choked to death. Besides this danger, who would prepare the carrot sticks, and who would hand them out so they would be free of germs?"

Opal is right. After considering the issue more carefully, I came to the conclusion that the check-out aisle is simply not a proper place to feed youngsters.

DEAR MARTIN: When a company really cares about its customers, it's nice to let everyone know. General Mills cereals recently offered a 50th anniversary edition of the popular Monopoly game. The offer clearly warned that only 100,000 games were available and that once the supply was exhausted, proofs of purchase would be returned, along with the cost of the postage used to send them in.

Several weeks ago I sent for the offer, my 10 box bottoms were returned with a nice letter of apology

- 1/2 cup milk
- 1/4 cup finely chopped walnuts
- 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind

Advice

Mother confesses she's feeling allergic to her son

DEAR ABBY: Here's a problem I'm sure you've never had before. I am allergic to my son. Howard is an intelligent, good-looking senior in college. He and I have never had a very good relationship because our philosophies differ. I am an optimist who is willing to take responsibility for my actions. Howard is a pessimist who blames others for his problems. When he is around, his negative gloom-and-doom attitude irritates me and I break out in hives. I know that he is the cause of my hives because they disappear when he goes back to college. (This has been happening for four years.)

Dear Abby

plans are all set. The bridesmaids have already bought their dresses and paid for them themselves, but later in this one. One of my bridesmaids asked me who would reimburse the bridesmaids for the cost of the dresses if I fail to make it to the altar. Frankly, it never occurred to me that such a thing could happen. It would be a very tragic and traumatic happening, but I suppose each bridesmaid would have to handle the loss herself. Abby, do you think I should have to pay $14 times five?

DEAR MOM: You may know all the book answers, but the doctor who treats himself has a fool for a patient. If you let Howard come home, knowing he makes you sick, you need to see a psychiatrist about your masochistic behavior. Howard also needs help, but not as much as you. He gives hives, you get them. So, I advise you to scratch Howard, not hives.

DEAR ABBY: My wedding

Shingles is virus infection which involves nerve sets

DEAR DR. GOTT: Can you tell me anything about shingles? I have had them on my thigh for five months. I have been to four different doctors, and they all say they have to get well themselves with the milk.

Make a carob syrup first

DEAR POLLY: How can I make "chocolate" milk out of carob? The powder does mix easily with the milk.

DEAR TRACY: The best way to use carob in beverages is to make a syrup out of the powder first. Here's my favorite recipe: Mix 1/2 cup carob powder, 1/2 cup water and 1 tablespoon honey in a small saucepan. Stirring constantly, bring the mixture to a boil, then turn down the heat and simmer two to three minutes, continuing to stir. When mixture is

Could I lose my inheritance fighting the daughter for what is rightfully mine? If he left her a token inheritance, could she still protest? I love him very much and don't want to leave him, but I need to know that my future will be secure. We've been arguing about this lately because he thinks I'm trying to pressure him into marriage. I would love to be married to him, but could continue to live as we are, as long as I knew his daughter wouldn't take from me what he and I have put together.

DEAR NEEDS: Much will depend on whether you are living in a state that recognizes common-law marriage. Please see a lawyer.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 36-year-old divorced woman with two children from a previous marriage. For the last nine years, I have been living with a man I love very much. He's 46 and says he loves me. Last year, we purchased a beautiful house in both our names. My problem is that he has asked me to work for the last nine years because he wants me "at home." He's an excellent provider, and we lack for nothing. He has told me that I am the beneficiary

Thoughts

Stress is a common fact of our daily existence. It may be striving to achieve; it may be trying to satisfy supervisor, parents or spouse; may be an existence with too many burdens. How we handle stress is the result of many complex factors, but our attitude is the key factor. The book "Anchors in Troubled Waters," by Harold Hazell, Joe Barnett and Batsell Barrett Baxter, offers five ways to handle stress:
1. Recognize and understand the problem.
2. Get our priorities right.
3. Live according to right principles.
4. Develop the spiritual side of life.
5. Trust God to take care of us.
Philippians 4:6 says, "Do not be anxious about anything, but in everything, by prayer and petition, with thanksgiving, present your requests to God."

Hartford Symphony's season opener is a fine evening

Center Stage
Renee Taylor

HARTFORD - Bushnell Memorial Hall, basking in the glow of dozens of lamps, was a beacon to the flock of first nighters Friday night for the Hartford Symphony Orchestra's season opening. In furs and jeans they filed through the French doors as trumpets played the traditional opening night fanfare.

A dramatic program of three orchestral works and a refreshing oboe concerto was presented. First Wagner's "Overture to Rienzi," then Handel's Oboe Concerto No. 3 in G Minor, followed by Tchaikovsky's fantasy-overture, "Romeo and Juliet," and after an intermission, the powerful and majestic Beethoven Symphony No. 3 in E-flat Op. 55, the "Eroica," was played.

Usually a guest artist is chosen as soloist at each concert, but on this opening night, the symphony showcased the talents of its principal guest conductor, Maxim Shostakovich, son of the late Russian composer. The new music director, Michael Lankester, will make his debut conducting the Dec. 3 and 4 concerts.

Shostakovich's sweeping, expressive gestures and meticulous cues to specific instruments were evident from the Handel, Oboe Concerto No. 3 in G Minor. Coniglio played the delicate chamber work with a nice legato control throughout. The Grave section has a steady rhythm in the French opera tradition, while the Allegro AM-FM credit card radio and a Minolta talking camera. One difference between Videologue 1 and Videologue 2 is price. Products on the first ranged from $12.95 for "New York Times gloves" that help protect clothing from newspaper to $5,000 for a diamond necklace. The price range on the second video cassette is $19.95 to $250.

"We're looking for products that are unique and practical," said Brennan. "We hope to be the Neiman-Marcus, Sears, and Sharper Image catalogs all in one, but basically we're electronic, practical and unique." The most popular product on the first tape is "The Heroid," a cassette which (eventually) goes into video vending machines in malls, into liquor stores and beauty parlors. We could package them with VCRs.

Specifically, Videologue is a mail-order catalog on video tape. It contains a range of consumer items that the at-home viewer observes on his VCR. What sets video shopping apart from traditional print shopping is the element of action. "It is an action catalog," said Brennan. "Instead of a catalog in hand, 65 products on tape are demonstrated. It's like 65 salesmen doing a home demonstration for you."

In their first videocassette, Videologue 1, which came out in July and featured 35 items, the viewer saw, in 30-and 60-second clips, how an automatic potato peeler works, how to put a child's doll house together and how to use exercise equipment. "I've been saying Videologue should become a video shopping trend," said Cathy Brennan, vice president of the company. "Women with children don't have time to shop. The busy executive can shop for a gift at 10 in the evening." "According to our concept, our cassette will (eventually) go into video vending machines in malls, into liquor stores and beauty parlors. We could package them with VCRs."

Window shopping by VCR is new wave of the future

NEW YORK - As mail order shopping hit $2.2 billion in sales in 1984, it couldn't be long before stores, manufacturers and savvy entrepreneurs envisioned the home video screen as a catalog - the first player in what is certain to be a big game is Videologue. "I've been saying Videologue should become a video shopping trend," said Cathy Brennan, vice president of the company. "Women with children don't have time to shop. with its increased tempo and high-pitched trilling oboe melody. IN 1869, Tchaikovsky wrote the fantasy-overture, "Romeo and Juliet" at the insistence of fellow composer Mill Balakireff. The three themes are then combined in 1880 after much bullying on Balakireff's part. The meek Tchaikovsky was probably sympathetic anyway to the theme of Shakespeare's star-crossed lovers, having just been jilted himself by a French opera star. The work's Andante introduction has clarinets and bassoons playing Friar Lawrence's hymn in F sharp minor. The Allegro contains the rushing scales and vibrant rhythms of the B minor main theme that suggests the feuding Montagues and Capulets.

Beethoven's Symphony No. 3 in E-flat Op. 55, "Eroica" was his personal favorite among the nine he wrote. Originally it was titled "Napoleon Bonaparte" to honor the Promethian hero he believed Napoleon to be with his republican ideals. When Napoleon crowned himself emperor, Beethoven angrily changed the title to "Eroica." The symphony also is noted for its landmark change of form and style, from the classical, objective use of church themes and formal bridge materials linking themes, to the subjective composer-oriented themes and devices. Shostakovich succeeded in keeping the longish second movement funeral march and the fourth movement theme and variations with its labyrinth of interwoven phrases musically coherent and expressive. No small task! This last section was a poignant, sublimely uplifting experience for the audience, though it was apparent that structure was always paramount to both Beethoven and Shostakovich.

Baldridge sees threat to trading

By Mark A. Dupuis United Press International

WEST HARTFORD — U.S. Commerce Secretary Malcolm S. Baldridge says "protectionist fever" is worsening the problems caused by a growing U.S. trade deficit that threatens the world's trading system.

With the United States facing a trade deficit that could hit a record $150 billion, Baldridge said the nation must take steps to reduce budget deficits and deal with a strong dollar that has hampered international trade.

Baldridge outlined President Reagan's proposals for dealing with the massive trade deficit during a Tuesday night symposium at the University of Hartford on the topic of threats to American industry.

"Our growing trade deficit, caused by our strong dollar, the slow growth of other countries' economies, and some slippage in our comparative competitiveness has threatened the world trading system and the protectionist fever that has resulted has greatly exacerbated that threat," he said.

Baldridge said Reagan has pledged to use "the strongest trade law on the book" to combat what he said were unfair trade practices by using tariffs and quotas to attack the trade deficit.

He also said Reagan has proposed a review of antitrust laws to see if they are hampering the ability of U.S. companies to compete and also wants a $300 million "war chest" to use against subsidized foreign imports.

"We will see real action here," he said. "What we won't see is protectionist bill after protectionist bill that would cost this country jobs overall, drive up prices, inflation and weaken this country's competitiveness."

Chrysler strikers want job security

By Ed White The Associated Press

Striking Chrysler Corp. employees around the nation said today that they were willing to walk picket lines until the No. 3 U.S. automaker guarantees job security and pledges to stop subcontracting work overseas.

"We've been giving up since 1979 and enough is enough," said Willie B. White, 54, of Detroit, as he carried a picket sign today outside Chrysler's Jefferson Avenue assembly plant.

White and hundreds of co-workers on the night shift at the Detroit plant went to lunch about 8:30 p.m. and stayed out. Employees also walked off the job early at two Chrysler plants in Missouri. Picket lines were set up later in Indiana, Delaware and Ohio.

Imports hurt sweater firms

BOSTON (UPI) — The American sweater industry is being threatened by a dramatic increase in imports, according to the head of a national clothing makers' association.

Joel Gordon, the president of the National Knitwear & Sportswear Association, said imports of sweaters had increased 70 percent in the first six months of this year compared to last year.

Bankers see benefits in Heritage-Suffield deal

By John F. Kirch Herald Reporter

Shareholders and customers of Heritage Savings and Loan Association and Suffield Savings will not be hurt if the two banks complete a proposed merger, officials of both banks said today.

The Suffield-based financial services company signed a non-binding letter of intent Friday to purchase the Manchester-based Heritage, which has been troubled by a portfolio containing loans of questionable value.

But negotiations must still be carried out before the merger is approved by both sides, the officials said.

"It's good for the stockholders," William H. Hale, president of Heritage, said of the planned merger. "I think the increased capital is good for the bank."

The assets of the new institution would total more than $600 million, Hale said. Heritage has assets of about $310 million and Suffield's assets are about $270 million.

Because the letter is non-binding, both sides can pull out of the agreement if they decide not to

New Haven, has posted losses this year and in past years. It has been setting aside funds to cover potentially bad loans it acquired with the Fidelity transaction.

James H. Whittaker, vice president and chief financial officer of Suffield Savings, said today that the combined operating capital of $36 million could increase the bank's mortgage service and thus help stockholders in the long run.

Both Hale and Whittaker said that the merger would mean more branch service for their customers. Whittaker said there would be between 14 and 15 branches throughout the state.

"We want to make it as smooth and comfortable for everyone," Whittaker said.

"We've had a tough time absorbing their loan portfolio," Hale said. Whittaker said Heritage's problems were defined and that he didn't expect any surprises.

"We think the minuses are given at this time," Whittaker said, "and the pluses the opportunity to put the organizations together."

Hale said Suffield likes Heritage's market penetration and will combine that with its capital to make a more competitive bank

Car sales, inventories drop

By The Associated Press

The expiration of special sales incentives by the major U.S. automakers at the end of September led to a sharp drop in domestic car sales for early October, according to the nation's carmakers.

The slowdown in car sales was announced as the Commerce Department reported that business inventories fell 0.4 percent in August, the biggest drop in more than two years.

In separate reports Tuesday, the seven U.S. automakers said domestic sales for Oct. 1-10 fell 10.1 percent from the same period last year.

Among the Big Three automakers only Chrysler Corp. reported a sales gain, with a 39.2 percent increase over last year. General Motors Corp. reported a 14.8 percent drop and Ford Motor Co. domestic sales declined 14.8 percent.

The business inventories report said the value of goods on shelves and backlogs dipped to a seasonally adjusted $277.9 billion in August and following a 0.1 percent July increase. It was the sharpest drop since the 0.6 percent decline in March 1983.
