House passes own budget plan

By Elaine S. Povich
United Press International

WASHINGTON - In a show of Democratic muscle, the House challenged the GOP-controlled Senate Friday by passing its own plan to balance the budget, continuing a political squabble that could force the government to raise Social Security assets to keep checks from bouncing.

The government said it would begin selling assets in the trust fund later Friday if agreement were not reached on balancing the budget. The sale was needed to cover checks to recipients because the disagreement over the balanced budget measure was holding up approval of a bill to lift the federal debt ceiling to a record $2 trillion.

On a 249-180 party-line vote with only two Democratic defections, the House approved a Democratic alternative balanced budget plan drafted in response to the Senate-passed measure and sent the alternative back to the Senate, where the disagreement was likely to continue.

Democratic Reps. Paul Kanjorski of Pennsylvania and George Crockett of Michigan voted "no." (The Republicans) attempted to stink duck this issue so we couldn't deal with it," said Rep. Leon Panetta after the House vote. "They ran into a brick wall."

House Democratic leaders then attempted to pass a short-term

Shuttle alarms go off

SPACE STATION, Houston (AP) - A loud, warbling fire and smoke alarm sounded six times about Challenger Friday, sending the astronauts scrambling to find the cause, but they quickly reported everything was normal about the craft 200 miles above the Earth.

"We did fire checks on both sides of the house and with no apparent anomalies," said mission commander Henry Hartsfield. "We're not sure what's going on."

The alarm, described by NASA officials as "loud enough to get everybody's attention," echoed throughout the space shuttle's compartments, from the flight deck to the pressurized laboratory in the cargo bay.

Astronaut James Buchli first reported that the alarm sounded "four times in the last 20 minutes, but there are no indications other than that anywhere in the vehicle. We can't confirm where it came from."

Hartsfield said the alarm had a tone that indicated it was signaling fire or smoke in the laboratory, but that no fire was found.

Toll removal cuts into state surplus

Caldwell estimates $8 million reduction

By Mark A. Dupuis
United Press International

HARTFORD - The state's projected budget surplus has dropped by about $8 million because of the decision to end toll collections on the Connecticut Turnpike earlier than first planned, officials said Friday.

Comptroller J. Edward Caldwell, in his latest monthly update on the state's fiscal situation, said the state is expected to end the 1985 fiscal year in June with a $4.4 million surplus.

The estimated surplus as of Sept. 30 is about $4 million lower than the $2.4 million surplus projected in Caldwell's last budget update, which was issued at the end of September and covered through the month of August.

The drop resulted from Gov. William A. O'Neill's decision to end toll collections on the turnpike Oct. 9 instead of at the end of December as had been planned earlier, said deputy state budget chief Howard Rifkin.

Rifkin said the early end to toll collections cost the state $12.8 million in toll revenues that officials had figured into the state budget when it was adopted earlier this year.

"The $12.8 million loss was offset, however, by higher than expected revenues from the state's Lotto game and from the corporation and real estate conveyance taxes," Rifkin said.

Rifkin said the $4.4 million surplus still is up from the $1.4 million deficit projected in the state budget when it was adopted in June. He said the surplus projection could change in coming months depending on the economy, but the state doesn't expect to come near the record $25 million surplus posted in the last fiscal year.

Meanwhile Friday, two legislators exchanged checks over the issue of toll collections along the Merritt and Willbur Cross parkway and road deer hunting season, the turnpike toll removal decision.

Rep. Elinor F. Wilber, R-Fairfield, co-chairman of the Legislature's Transportation Committee, criticized a call from a

Arson suspect tabbed

EAST HARTFORD (AP) - Police said they have a suspect in an arson that gutted part of a large East Hartford apartment complex and left about 300 people homeless, but do not expect to make an arrest.

"We believe we have a suspect and we believe we have a motive. We'll be working along those lines," said detective Robert F. Kenary. "There is good physical evidence."

Fire marshal Albert J. Fournier said Thursday's early morning fire at the Madison Apartments was deliberately set in a third-floor apartment complex that had been soaked with an "accelerant."

Fournier estimated building damage at between $250,000 and $1 million.

Building manager Burr Carlson said his parent company, J&D Real Estate, would provide temporary shelter for as many residents as possible in vacant apartments the company and its affiliates own elsewhere.

The fire gutted nearly a dozen apartments and damaged about two dozen more. Two people were injured, including a person who broke his ankle when he jumped from a third-floor window, Fournier said.

Several people were treated for smoke inhalation, including two police officers who ran into the burning building to warn tenants to evacuate.

FAA proposes more inspections of jet engine

By Josef Hebert
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The Federal Aviation Administration, disclosing it has broader concerns about the Pratt & Whitney JT8D jet engine than previously thought, said Friday that cracks have been found in engines that regularly undergo sophisticated monitoring.

The FAA asked the airlines to comment on a proposal that all of the engines, which number more than 12,000 worldwide and are found on two of every three commercial U.S. jetliners, be inspected for cracks in the combustion chamber.

No final decision on whether to order the inspections is expected for at least two months until airlines have time to comment on the proposal, officials said.

Most of the airlines have been exempted from previous inspection orders involving the JT8D engine, manufactured by Pratt & Whitney of East Hartford, Conn., because they use a sophisticated computer monitoring system that had been believed to be adequate for detecting any problem.

"Today we have evidence that even those (engines) under the computerized maintenance system are subject to these cracks," said FAA spokesman Fred Farrar.

THE ENGINE, which is used on many jets including the Boeing 737, Boeing 727 and DC-9 and has for years had a superb safety record, has come under close scrutiny since two air accidents in Great Britain and Milwaukee in which an engine broke apart, although for apparently different reasons.

There were 55 people killed in the accident Aug. 22 in Manchester, England involving a British Airways charter Boeing 737 and another 31 people killed in the crash of the DC-9 commuter aircraft in Milwaukee two weeks later.

Investigators believe cracks in the combustion can caused the breakup of the engine in the Manchester accident. Parts of the engine tore through a fuel tank engulfing the Boeing 737 in flames as the pilot brought the plane to a halt during takeoff.

In September, the FAA told airlines to inspect the engines for possible cracks in the combustion can, but the directive specifically gave a broad exemption to any engines on planes operated by airlines who use a computerized monitoring system that keeps track of engine performance during such flights — could be inspected for months.

Farrar said that if an inspection of all the engines is ordered it is not likely to cause disruptions in air service since many of the engines will have long lead-times until an inspection is required. This will allow airlines to fit it into normal maintenance schedules.

In a separate action, the FAA also ordered airlines to examine three specific models of the JT8D engine, believed to be 256 engines, to assure a snug fit of the engine's turbine disks. These disks hold in place the turbine blades at the rear of the engine.

The action stems from a recommendation by the National Transportation Safety Board after the disks broke loose in a JT8D engine on a Saudi Arabian jetliner last May in Qatar in the Persian Gulf.

No one was hurt in the incident as the pilot successfully aborted the takeoff, but FAA officials said they have concluded that disks could be loose in some of the other 256 engines of the three model types.

While many state employees slept in on their day off, Nevada Gov. Richard Bryan was up bright and early to appear on ABC's "Good Morning America," sending the state's greetings to the rest of the nation on its 121st birthday.

Bryan apparently was better prepared for his appearance Thursday than the show's host. When the program switched back to the studios, anchor David Hartman responded, "Thank you, reverend."

Harald gets an honorary

Crown Prince Harald of Norway has received an honorary law degree from Strathclyde University in a special ceremony at Glasgow, Scotland, Cathedral.

The award reaffirmed the close links between Norway and the university, which has been admitting Norwegian students for several years and has about 200 this year, a university spokesman said Thursday.

The prince's father, King Olav, received an honorary law doctorate from Strathclyde in 1966.

Luck's luck is good

Dick Luck's luck seemed to be running out last month when he twice misplaced a weekend bag containing $18,300.

First, the elderly man left the battered bag at a railway station in Southend, 12 miles east of London.

A passenger, fearing the bag contained a bomb, alerted police, who traced the money to a 78-year-old Luck. The police persuaded Luck to put the money in a bank.

A few days later Luck withdrew the money and took it to London to buy a mobile home. He thought he lost the bag again and reported it missing to the police when he returned to Southend.

But police had stopped Luck during his trip to London and convinced him to put the money in a bank again. Authorities said Luck just forgot he had put the money in the bank before reporting it lost a second time.

Luck saved the money while working in New Zealand most of his life.

Board hopefuls near campaign's end

By Susan Vaughn
Herald Reporter

Candidates for the Board of Education said Friday that the public's response to the current election campaign has ranged from apathetic to positive.

And most of the six candidates interviewed by the Herald said they could not predict the outcome of Tuesday's election.

Republican school board candidate David Dampier Jr. and Joel D. Mrosek expressed optimism about how their party — now in the minority on the school board — would fare on Tuesday.

Dampier said he thought he had a "fairly decent chance of winning" based on feedback received from both friends and strangers.

Dampier, who has been on the school board since 1982, said he is up against stiff competition from Democratic incumbent Joseph V. Camposeo and Francis A. Maffe. The three, along with Republican Anne J. Gaurin, are running for three seats on the board for three-year terms that begin in November.

Dampier said he is also feeling positive about the chances all the Republican candidates have in the election.

Both Dampier and Gaurin said they will spend part of the weekend reorganizing campaign posters that were victims of Halloween vandalism.

Gaurin said the Republican candidates did a lot of outreach to the community through mailings. She said she was happy to be involved in the Republican campaign, which she said was well-organized. Gaurin said that although the GOP campaign had a broad base of support, it was hard to anticipate the election outcome.

GAUVIN SAID SHE WOULD have liked to have seen a candidate's forum, such as the debates sponsored by the League of Women Voters in past elections.

Mrosek, a Republican newcomer running for a term that begins in 1986, said he has a "gut feeling" that the Republican Party will do well in Tuesday's election. "But he said he does not have a feel for how he will do personally.

Mrosek said one impression he has received through telephone polls is that "People in Manchester do value a very good school system. Most people think ours is good, but not great."

Camposeo said he has received positive feedback on his chances of winning from the voters he has talked to by telephone.

"I am looking at it optimistically," he said. "I think people will entrust me with their confidence."

As far as the overall election picture, Camposeo said he does not have a feel for it.

Camposeo said he and the other Democrats have conducted a much more intense campaign this year, with more signs, phone calls and advertising than in previous campaigns. However, he said he has done no door-to-door campaigning this year and doesn't plan this weekend.

"I hope to squeeze in some golf," Camposeo said.

Maffe said he will be working at his fuel oil business in East Windsor and cannot campaign this weekend. But he added that he doesn't think campaigning at this stage will make a lot of difference.

"PEOPLE ARE FED UP" at this point. Why not give them a break?" he said.

Maffe said he is concerned about the apathy that he has perceived in telephone calls to voters. He predicted that only about 45 percent of the registered voters would vote Tuesday, which he said would mean the town would be ruled by 25 percent of the residents eligible to vote.

He said when a small number of people vote, there is a danger of a small minority getting elected.

Maffe attributed the apathy to lack of "issues that go to the heart." He said that many of the people he has talked to would be ruled by 25 percent of the residents eligible to vote.

"The only time when people are aroused is when things are going bad," he said. "Now if there was a vote on four schools being renovated, you'd have people out."

Probe into jet crash continues

IRVING, Texas — An air traffic controller who ordered Delta Flight 191 to "go around" after it had hit the ground testified Friday he saw a flash of lightning and "a definite wall of rain" but did not warn pilots about severe weather.

Gene Skipworth, supervising air traffic controller in the tower at Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport at the time of the crash, testified controllers did not report the storm to Flight 191 because they did not know it was dangerous.

"It appeared to be moderate rain, progressed to what I considered heavy rain," Skipworth said. Seconds later, Skipworth said he noticed the storm had gained strength.

He said he did not call Capt. Edward Connors, who was operating the radio on Delta Flight 191, about the rain because Connors had already mentioned it. The plane crashed on Aug. 2, killing 137 people.

Bonner to leave at month's end

MOSCOW — Andrei Sakharov's wife, Yelena Bonner, received permission to leave the country but she delayed her departure until the end of November to prepare her husband for a winter alone, a family friend said Friday.

A Soviet man who asked not to be identified for fear of retribution from authorities revealed the details to Western correspondents in Moscow.

"My wife has received a cable saying she (Bonner) had gotten permission to go abroad for treatment, but that she would only go at the end of November because she wanted to prepare her husband for winter," the man said.

The Soviet source and his wife are longtime friends of the Soviet Union's most famous dissident couple and they have previously passed on information about them to Westerners in Moscow.

Soviet authorities remained silent on reports that Bonner had been granted a visa in what Western diplomats called a goodwill gesture in advance of the Nov. 19-20 summit between President Reagan and Mikhail Gorbachev.

Messe to probe defector cage

WASHINGTON — A White House official said Friday the United States warned the Soviet Union it was ready "to use force" at one time last week to get a young Soviet sailor for questioning about his apparent efforts to defect.

The White House also disclaimed that President Reagan had ordered Attorney General Edwin Meese to investigate the handling of the case of the sailor, Miroslav Medvid.

Medvid, a Ukrainian, twice leaped into the Mississippi River last week and swam to shore near New Orleans and was twice returned to the ship by U.S. federal agents.

After weekend interviews with U.S. officials, Medvid signed a statement in Russian saying he wanted to return to the Soviet Union. He was sent back Tuesday to the Soviet grain carrier ship Marshal Konyev, moored at Belle Chasse, La., on the Gulf Coast. The ship has not yet left U.S. waters.

A senior White House official told reporters Friday that the warning to the Soviets about the use of force was issued so that U.S. investigators could question Medvid. However, the issue became moot when the Soviets permitted a second interview with Medvid, the official said.

Bomb rocks crowded Johannesburg

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa — A powerful bomb rocked a building in central Johannesburg at rush hour Friday as hundreds of police officers and soldiers patrolled the downtown streets in a "crime prevention operation."

Most office workers had already left for the day, but a white woman was treated for shock at a hospital, authorities said.

The bomb ripped through a hallway opposite a bank of elevators on the fifth floor of the Faschini building at Eloff and President streets as thousands of commuters headed home in heavy rains and a hailstorm.

The bombing came as hundreds of white and black policemen, armed with automatic weapons and police dog squads, patrolled the downtown area of Johannesburg in what authorities called a "crime prevention operation."

N.Y. anti-porn law takes effect

NEW YORK — A new state law banning public display of "offensive" sexual material such as magazines and video cassettes went into effect Friday with some newspaper managers saying it would hurt their sales.

The law requires wrapping to be placed on magazines and video cassettes whose covers show "anything that appeals to the prurient interest in sex," said Assemblyman Frederick Schmidt, D-Queens, the law's principle sponsor.

Schmidt said the law encompassed depictions of nudity, actual or simulated sexual conduct and actual or simulated sadomasochistic abuse.

However, Muna Syed, manager of seven newsstands in Grand Central Terminal, said the law will hurt his sales.

"People like to look at the magazines before they buy them. If they can't look at the covers they probably won't buy," he said.

Reagan gets 2nd checkup

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan went to Bethesda Naval Hospital Friday for his second postoperative checkup since his July 13 surgery for removal of a cancerous growth from his colon.

Reagan, accompanied by his wife, Nancy, and his sheepdog Lucky, flew by helicopter on a rainy day to the suburban Maryland hospital after a morning of meetings with staff members to prepare for his trip to Geneva later this month to meet Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev.

He was to leave the hospital by helicopter to spend the weekend at Camp David, Md.

Spokesman Larry Speakes said if the doctors completed their report Friday, a written statement would be issued later in the day. "If they don't get it till next week, we'll put it out when we get it," Speakes promised.

He said there would be no details on the tests if they were "within the norms."

Slide said earlier this week that "the president feels great" and officials described the checkup as routine.

Doctors were to examine his abdomen and take X-rays and blood tests.

Reagan last had a postoperative exam Sept. 20 and told reporters he had made a "100 percent recovery" from the surgery.

Jury can't reach verdict in spy case

By Catherine Gewertz
United Press International

LOS ANGELES — The jury in the case of Richard Miller, the former FBI agent accused of passing secret documents to his Soviet lover for sex and a promised $50,000 in cash and gold, told the judge Friday it is unable to reach a verdict.

The six-man, six-woman panel sent a note at 3:19 p.m. to U.S. District Judge David Kenyon saying that "after careful consideration of the testimony and the evidence presented, we are unable to reach a unanimous verdict on any of the counts."

The note, signed by all 12 jurors, capped a day that included a 20-minute tirade by the judge against news organizations who had reported Friday that he was worried about possible deadlocks.

After receiving the jury's announcement, Kenyon called panel members and urged them to take the weekend to reconsider their decision.

"Maybe they should go home and think about it over the weekend, relax and forget about it, whatever is good for them, with the idea of resuming deliberations Monday," he said.

Earlier Friday, Kenyon criticized the Los Angeles Times for reporting he was worried the jury was deadlocked, although other news organizations carried similar stories.

"Everyone in this courtroom who was listening knew (the possibility of a deadlock) was never raised," Kenyon said in measured but angry words.

"We were talking about the length of the deliberations and nothing else," he said.

During the Thursday meeting with attorneys, Kenyon said he was thinking of telling jurors that they may return separate verdicts on the seven counts if they wish.

"The reason the court thinks it is appropriate is that the longer a jury deliberates, the more chance there is of the jury not remaining a total unit," Kenyon said Thursday.

Kenyon said the Times article — headlined "Possible Jury Deadlock in Miller's Spy Trial Raised Publicly by Judge" — represented a "classic example of taking something out of context."

Kenyon said he was concerned about the effect such an article could have on a fair trial for Miller if a friend or spouse of a juror mentioned hearing that the judge was worried about a deadlock.

In a statement from Noel Greenwald, deputy managing editor for the newspaper, the Times stuck by its story.

The jury, meanwhile, asked Judge Kenyon in a note for a legal definition of "state of mind."

Kenyon, in response, told the jury that "State of mind is simply what a person is thinking about at the time."

"The U.S. response to the Soviet counterproposal is something we regard as an important step forward in the negotiating process," Speakes said.

The president has also made clear his intentions to make progress in talks with General Secretary Gorbachev in all of the basic areas which impact on East-West relations, and especially the U.S.-Soviet relationship, he added.

"These include bilateral and regional issues and human rights, as well as arms control."

"We believe progress is possible in all of these areas as the Soviet leadership approaches this meeting and our relationship in the same spirit that we approached it a year ago," he said.

Novosti, a state-controlled Soviet news outlet, dismissed Reagan's news as "constructive" but said it had nothing "constructive" to add.

Moscow silent on latest U.S. offer

By Helen Thomas
United Press International

WASHINGTON — President Reagan believes he and Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev will make progress on East-West issues if they both approach their summit meeting in the "same spirit of looking for ways to improve their relationship," a White House spokesman said Friday.

The statement by deputy press secretary Larry Speakes reflected an atmosphere at the White House in the past few days that the Nov. 19-20 summit meeting in Geneva, Switzerland, should be more than a "get-acquainted" session.

Reagan's new arms reduction proposal was put on the negotiating table at Geneva Friday, where the Soviets agreed to stay in session until Thursday to discuss details of the offer.

IN ANOTHER development, Arthur Hartman, U.S. ambassador to Moscow, delivered a letter from the U.S. to the Soviet government.

They are still in their trajectories in space.

"The U.S. response to the Soviet counterproposal is something we regard as an important step forward in the negotiating process," Speakes said.

The president has also made clear his intentions to make progress in talks with General Secretary Gorbachev in all of the basic areas which impact on East-West relations, and especially the U.S.-Soviet relationship, he added.

"These include bilateral and regional issues and human rights, as well as arms control."

"We believe progress is possible in all of these areas as the Soviet leadership approaches this meeting and our relationship in the same spirit that we approached it a year ago," he said.

Dutch cabinet OKs cruise deployment

By Michael Dennigan
United Press International

THE HAGUE, Netherlands — The Dutch government Friday approved the deployment of U.S. cruise missiles in the Netherlands as part of a NATO response to Soviet SS-20s aimed at Western Europe.

Prime Minister Ruud Lubbers said the decision by the center-right coalition Cabinet, which came after an 11½-hour meeting, cleared the way for the deployment of 48 Tomahawk medium-range missiles in the Netherlands in 1988.

The government Monday will exchange letters of agreement with the United States to formally authorize the deployment, Lubbers said.

The decision came one day after Lubbers told Parliament he had rejected a Soviet offer on Wednesday to hold direct arms talks with Holland if it would delay deployment of the U.S. missiles.

Dutch officials had said acceptance of the missiles would be conditional on agreement by other NATO allies to allow Holland to divert itself of four of its six current nuclear tasks within NATO.

Holland has one of Europe's most vigorous anti-nuclear movements. As of last week, more than 3.7 million people out of an entire population of 15 million had signed petitions protesting the cruise missile.

While the Dutch Cabinet met, some 4,000 school children gathered around the Parliament carrying banners, setting off fireworks and chanting slogans.

The Dutch decision was awaited in Washington as a crucial signal to the Soviets on the same day U.S. arms control negotiators presented new U.S. proposals at the Geneva disarmament talks.

It was also considered a key element in Western solidarity behind President Reagan three weeks before his Nov. 19-20 summit with Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev.

The history of cruise missiles has been a stormy one in Holland since NATO decided in 1979 to deploy 464 of them there and in Britain, Belgium, Italy and West Germany. Bonn also agreed to accept 108 Pershing 2 missiles under the plan.

Missiles already have started arriving in all the other countries. But with the Dutch population evenly divided on accepting their share, successive coalition governments have been unable to reach a decision in six years.

However, the Lubbers Cabinet decided June 1, 1984, it would intelligence reports that Moscow had installed 41 SS-20s despite some 378 SS-20s on their territory. Paris said only 243 missiles were targeted on European capitals.

Dear Friends,
I Love Manchester!
When I think of coming home ... I think not specifically of my house on Heckmatack Street, but of driving into the Town of Manchester, Connecticut.

My deep feelings for Manchester derive from my family's roots here in Town. My maternal and paternal Great Grandparents settled here when they were in their early twenties. My family has continued to live here and has served Manchester for four generations.

Although I am a lifelong Manchester resident, I am mindful of the many reasons that draw new families here. My wife, Kim and I have chosen Manchester as the Town to raise our children as my forebearers decided to do many years ago.

My deepest desire is to continue serving on the Board of Directors and put forth a continued effort to keep Manchester the progressive and enjoyable town that it should always be!

Sincerely,

Connecticut In Brief

Audit shows airport in the black
WINDSOR LOCKS — Bradley International Airport made a $1.46 million profit in the 1984-85 fiscal year even while undergoing a $100 million expansion, an audit shows.

The audit by the Hartford accounting firm of Pannell Kerr Forster found the airport took in $10.48 million in operating revenues, mostly from parking fees, which brought in $3.08 million, rental cars, $1.77 million, and landing fees, $1.75 million.

The audit said operating revenues increased more than $1 million from the previous fiscal year's total, while operating expenses increased only $130,000. The fiscal year runs from July 1 to June 30.

Radioactive gas leaks from plant
HADDAM NECK — A small amount of radioactive gas was released from the Connecticut Yankee Nuclear power station Friday afternoon, a Northeast Utilities official said.

The unplanned release occurred when a relief valve momentarily lifted while gas was being moved from one waste gas tank to another, NU spokeswoman Linda Oieicki said.

The release stopped within one minute when the valve automatically closed, Oieicki said. All the radioactive gas was released to the main stack through monitored pathways, she said.

The release rate was calculated to 33,400 micro-curies, the allowable rate being 39,500 micro-curies, she said. The maximum off-site dose was conservatively calculated as .001 millirem, which is "extremely small," Oieicki said.

Drug puts clamp on sex drive
HARTFORD — Depo-Provera is now available to Connecticut inmates, but state officials say they don't anticipate a great demand for the controversial drug used to suppress the male sex drive.

The drug will only be administered upon request to inmates whose conditions are determined to warrant its use after mental and physical examinations, Assistant Attorney General Leslie MacCallum said Thursday.

An inmate who sued the state in 1982 to use Depo-Provera was treated with the drug earlier this year through the state Department of Mental Health. This week it was made available through the state Department of Correction.

"It's going to be on a very small scale," MacCallum said. "I do not see ... a widespread major program utilizing Depo-Provera."

Police officer held in cocaine probe
WEST HAVEN — A veteran police detective has been indicted on federal drug charges related to a continuing investigation of what authorities believe to be an international cocaine-distribution ring operating from Connecticut.

Detective Sgt. Robert J. Weber Jr., an 18-year member of the force, was indicted Wednesday by a federal grand jury in New Haven on charges of possessing, distributing and conspiring to distribute cocaine.

In the Weber case, the West Haven Police Department's tactical squad worked closely with the federal Drug Enforcement Agency, according to West Haven Assistant Chief Theodore W. Forbes.

Two months into the 10-month inquiry, Forbes said, Weber was suspected of dealing cocaine. As second-in-command of the 4 p.m. to midnight shift in the detective bureau, Weber didn't supervise or conduct narcotics investigations, Forbes said.

Weber, 43, is free on a $50,000 non-surety bond, pending his arraignment next week in federal court in Hartford. He has been suspended without pay from the police department. He faces 31 years in prison and $255,000 in fines.

No verdict in Danbury High case
DANBURY — A jury recessed for the weekend Friday without reaching a verdict in the trial of a high-school girl charged in the slaying of a classmate who used to pick on her.

The Superior Court jury has spent six hours over two days deliberating the fate of Reyna Ruth Hawkins, 18, of Danbury, who has pleaded innocent to a charge of murder in the Jan. 2 stabbing death of Carrie Latham, 17.

Miss Hawkins has admitted stabbing her classmate in a crowded stairwell at Danbury High School between periods the day students returned from Christmas vacation, but said she did so in self defense.

A number of witnesses testified during Miss Hawkins' three-week trial that she was the victim of hatred by black students because of her nationality. Miss Hawkins was born in Jamaica and remains a Jamaican citizen. She has lived with her family in Danbury for three years.

Students sentenced in cocaine case
BRIDGEPORT — A federal judge on Friday sentenced three former Choate Rosemary Hall students to a year probation plus varying fines and periods of community service for their involvement in a cocaine importation scheme.

U.S. District Judge T.F. Gilroy Jr. sentenced Jerry Choe, 18, of Roslyn, N.Y., and Ellen Aubrey Gooch, 18, of Chevy Chase, Md., to one year probation, 300 hours of community service and a $1,000 fine each.

Another former Choate student, Christopher James Vlasto, 18, of Greenwich, received a sentence of one year of probation, a $100 fine and 100 hours of community service.

CHFA hikes price limits
ROCKY HILL (AP) — The Connecticut Housing Finance Authority has raised the price limits on houses eligible for CHFA mortgage financing.

The new limits, announced Thursday, are between $5,000 and $8,000 higher than before. Limits vary from county to county and are different for existing and newly constructed houses.

The new upper price limits range from $78,000 in Windham County to $104,000 in Fairfield County.

Orest T. Dubno, executive director of the housing authority, said the new limits reflect Connecticut's strong economy.

Governor dedicates cemetery

MIDDLETOWN (UPI) — Gov. William A. O'Neill dedicated the first statewide veterans cemetery Friday, saying the "partial payment" would be followed with a memorial and new services for living veterans.

O'Neill announced plans at the somber ceremonies for a statewide memorial, a state Office of Veterans Affairs and a task force to address the special needs of women who served in the armed forces.

"This cemetery is only a partial payment on the debt of gratitude and of freedom which we owe to those who so willingly responded to this nation's call," he said in dedicating the cemetery off Bow Lane in Middletown.

A military volley generally given at funerals was fired and taps were sounded at the 26-acre site, which is open to veterans from across Connecticut who served during times of war.

The truck belongs to Valerie's Transportation Service Inc., of Norwalk. Valeris was issued a summons for failure to educate employees on the proper handling of hazardous materials.

The shipper of the chemicals, Macdermid Inc. of Waterbury, was fined $100 for violating standard packaging requirements.

Such chemical leaks, Zieminski said, are "a pretty common problem, and it occurs mainly because the DOT-required containers aren't strong enough to take the movement. They're made of steel, but they're made to minimum specifications."

Truck stop employees were permitted to remain at the site, but rented rooms had to be evacuated. The restaurant was cleared and truckers sleeping in their rigs in the parking lot were ordered to leave.

Republic Auto owner and operator Fred Cohen estimated his loss in earnings from the evacuation at about $9,000.

"That's the busiest time of day," he said. "It puts a real damper on business to close the place down at that hour." The truck stop was reopened at around 7:30 a.m.

Cohen said he intends to file an insurance claim against the Valerie trucking company to recoup his losses.

Short cut

No public hazard

I-95 cyanide leak cleaned up
NORTH STONINGTON (AP) — A quarter-mile area around Interstate 95 truck stop was sealed off for about three hours early Friday when a truck driver reported a leak of a cyanide solution in his rig, police said.

A drum containing the 15 percent cyanide solution used in plating was either damaged or defective and "sprung a leak," state police Sgt. Robert Offen said. The chemical, because of its diluted state, did not pose a health threat to the public, he said.

"The hazard is only to the workers who have to remove it," said Charles Zieminski, a spokesman for the state Department of Environmental Protection's oil and chemical spill unit.

William Hagener, also of the DEP's oil and chemical spill unit, said less than five gallons of the weak solution were released.

State police said the driver of a tractor-trailer rig pulled into the Republic Auto and Truck Plaza, just off the highway, shortly after 4 a.m. and reported a leak from his load of chemicals.

"Approximately 2,642 pounds of commercial cyanide was on board that in itself is not dangerous," state police Lt. Raymond Morse said.

The driver and the driver of another company truck who had been traveling the same route and offered assistance were taken to the parking lot west of the Westley Hospital in Westley, R.I., for examination and released.

No public hazard

I-95 cyanide leak cleaned up
NORTH STONINGTON (AP) — A quarter-mile area around Interstate 95 truck stop was sealed off for about three hours early Friday when a truck driver reported a leak of a cyanide solution in his rig, police said.

A drum containing the 15 percent cyanide solution used in plating was either damaged or defective and "sprung a leak," state police Sgt. Robert Offen said. The chemical, because of its diluted state, did not pose a health threat to the public, he said.

"The hazard is only to the workers who have to remove it," said Charles Zieminski, a spokesman for the state Department of Environmental Protection's oil and chemical spill unit.

William Hagener, also of the DEP's oil and chemical spill unit, said less than five gallons of the weak solution were released.

State police said the driver of a tractor-trailer rig pulled into the Republic Auto and Truck Plaza, just off the highway, shortly after 4 a.m. and reported a leak from his load of chemicals.

The driver and the driver of another company truck who had been traveling the same route and offered assistance were taken to the parking lot west of the Westley Hospital in Westley, R.I., for examination and released.

The truck belongs to Valerie's Transportation Service Inc., of Norwalk. Valeris was issued a summons for failure to educate employees on the proper handling of hazardous materials.

The shipper of the chemicals, Macdermid Inc. of Waterbury, was fined $100 for violating standard packaging requirements.

Such chemical leaks, Zieminski said, are "a pretty common problem, and it occurs mainly because the DOT-required containers aren't strong enough to take the movement. They're made of steel, but they're made to minimum specifications."

Truck stop employees were permitted to remain at the site, but rented rooms had to be evacuated. The restaurant was cleared and truckers sleeping in their rigs in the parking lot were ordered to leave.

Republic Auto owner and operator Fred Cohen estimated his loss in earnings from the evacuation at about $9,000.

"That's the busiest time of day," he said. "It puts a real damper on business to close the place down at that hour." The truck stop was reopened at around 7:30 a.m.

Cohen said he intends to file an insurance claim against the Valerie trucking company to recoup his losses.

Fate of porn in Cambridge rests with voters

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. — Cambridge, the home of Harvard, Radcliffe and MIT, likes to think of itself as one of America's most progressive towns. But this liberal community is sharply split by a fierce debate over an anti-pornography referendum that will appear on the Nov. 5 ballot.

At stake, say opposing sides, are women's rights, free speech and the First Amendment. The debate cuts across liberal lines — women's rights vs. free speech — making for unusual political theater.

Robert Wagman

The referendum, if passed, would define pornography as a form of sex discrimination and thus put it in violation of Cambridge's strict human rights ordinance.

It would give legal recourse to anyone forced to give a pornographic performance, who has pornography forced on them at home, in school or in any public place; or who is inadvertently exposed to pornography. The measure would also open the door for a woman who has been assaulted to bring suit against a seller of pornography if it could be shown that her assailant had been exposed to the pornography.

THE PROPOSAL INCLUDES a very detailed definition of pornography, defining it as any depiction of a woman as "a sexual object," of women in "postures of sexual submission" or "women's body parts being exhibited in such a way that women are reduced to those parts."

It is identical to a model ordinance drafted by feminist attorney Catharine MacKinnon and author Andrea Dworkin. The measure has been intensely debated over the last several years in a number of communities where it has been introduced, including Minneapolis; Los Angeles; Suffolk County, N.Y.; Madison, Wis.; Des Moines, Iowa; and Indianapolis.

In only one — Indianapolis, in 1983 — did the model statute become law. Last year federal Judge Sara Baker ruled that the law was an unconstitutional violation of the First Amendment.

In a 58-page ruling, Judge Baker said that women do not deserve a special First Amendment exception. Proponents had argued that the court should grant the same kind of First Amendment exception that has been granted for libel, obscenity and child pornography. In August, the 7th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals unanimously upheld Judge Baker's ruling.

PROponents of the Cambridge referendum say it differs from the Indianapolis ordinance because it is couched in terms of the city's existing human rights law.

The referendum is sponsored by the Women's Alliance Against Pornography, a group of about 30 women who say they have about 300 active supporters working for the referendum's passage and the support of a number of feminist and women's rights organizations.

The referendum is being opposed by most city officials and business interests, civil liberties organizations including the American Civil Liberties Union, and even a feminist group that calls itself the Feminist Anti-Censorship Task Force.

Business interests argue that the definition of pornography is so widely drawn that someone seeing an ad or billboard featuring a sexy woman selling a product could bring suit against the company advertising the product or the store or newspaper displaying the ad. Civil liberties groups argue that the proposal abridges the First Amendment's free speech guarantee.

John Roberts, head of the Civil Liberties Union of Massachusetts, says "We're opposing the referendum. For us it's a classic case of censorship."

Proponents argue that pornography is a basic violation of women's rights and that the traditional American value of free speech is less important than the equality of women.

AS ELECTION DAY APPROACHES, the debate has grown more bitter.

Opponents challenged the referendum in court on the basis that it had already been ruled unconstitutional. But the Massachusetts Superior Court allowed it on the ballot, saying that its violation of the human rights ordinance raises issues not considered by the federal appeals court.

Then co-author MacKinnon, in Cambridge to urge passage of the referendum, refused to debate members of FACT, the anti-referendum feminist group. She dismissed FACT as "a front for the ACLU which, in turn, is a front for the pornographers." This brought sharp retorts from both FACT and the ACLU, who accused MacKinnon of ducking a debate she knew she would lose.

As the issue becomes more emotional there appears no way to predict if it will pass or fail at the polls. Experts also say that if it does pass, it is difficult to say whether it will withstand a court test.

Setting the record straight on Buckland

To the Editor:

In reading the Manchester Herald's editorial on the proposed sale of the Buckland fire station, I felt compelled to respond from the opposite point of view.

I was deeply interested in the Eighth Utilities District Fire Department during the 1970s. I also was an active member of the Republican Town Committee during that period. Today, because of my growing family and business commitments, I am not in any active role with either organization. Therefore, this letter is just an attempt to set the record straight from a point of view that has received little or no explanation.

Stephen Penny is correct in stating that the South Manchester Fire District was consolidated into town government in 1957. But what has been lost to history is that the vote to consolidate was extremely close and involved a great deal of controversy. Furthermore, when consolidation took place, the borders were set as all areas of Manchester outside the Eighth District. The reason for this was to provide a large tax base as possible for the new fire district.

Before 1957, while the Buckland area, along with the Vernon Street area and the Deming Street area and the Avery Street area, were all technically outside the Eighth District for the purposes of taxation, it was left to the Eighth District Fire Department to provide fire protection at no cost and with no agreement with the South Manchester Fire District.

It was only because of the newly consolidated Town Fire Department's desire to collect taxes on areas that had never served, or had the ability to serve at that time, that the late Victor Swanson, president of the Eighth District, entered into an agreement with Richard Martin, town manager, for reimbursement for services provided.

As an independent insurance agent I am fully aware of the Insurance Services Organization. ISO provides an independent service to member insurance companies that helps set basic fire insurance rates and evaluate fire services provided to communities.

What ISO does not do is go into any community and evaluate its fire service without a written request to do so. Furthermore, ISO does not specifically rate response time as a criteria for the need for a new fire station.

In 1970, as General Manager Robert Weiss who requested a survey by ISO. Also it was Mr. Weiss's initial recommendation to ISO that the station be built on town land on Tolland Turnpike east of Jefferson Street.

It has been stated many times over the years that the Insurance Services Organization required a station to be constructed in the northwest section of Manchester. This was never the case. It was the general manager's request to ISO for a review of the Town Fire District that sparked this entire controversy.

ISO was merely acting on this request and basing it on the geography of the Town Fire District as it was in 1970 and never taking into consideration or even entering into discussions with the Eighth District.

The die was cast to attempt to surround the Eighth District with fire services of the Town Fire District.

Ted Lingard is a very dear friend of mine. In my biased opinion I believe he was the best chief fire officer ever to serve in Manchester. All departments considered.

His quiet way of motivating his men on the fire ground and his foresight in seeing equipment needs and services provided the Eighth District with a supreme advantage in the 1970s.

Chief Mason had just retired in the Town Fire District. His successor, Ray Thompson, was chief less than a year when he died in office. It was truly a sad time for the fire service in Manchester. When Chief John Rivosca took command he was faced with many situations which were not entirely of his own choosing. I'm sure very close to No. 1 on his list of problems was the increasingly strained relationship with the Eighth District. Because of this scenario and because of the town manager's recommendation to the town Board of Directors to end its contractual arrangements with the Eighth District, Ted Lingard decided it was necessary to address the existing controversy by making a direct appeal to the town Board of Directors.

I remember discussing Ted's presentation with him. We thought that when he showed the services his department provided and the more-than-reasonable cost to the town, it would lead to a logical acceptance and extension of the district's service contract.

Never in his wildest dreams did he ever expect Jack Thompson and other Democrats on the board to seize on one emotional and exaggerated sentence calling on the town to build a Buckland fire station.

Nevertheless, the Democrats and the town firefighters union have dragged that sentence before the townspeople for over 10 years as one of the most important reasons for going forward with the Buckland fire station.

While the politicians were setting the ground for the change in fire services, a group of Buckland residents became curious. They formed an ad hoc committee to review and inspect both fire departments. They concluded that they could maintain the same level of fire service and reduce their fire taxes by two-thirds if they simply petitioned the Eighth District to formally serve an area it was already serving. Why the residents of the Kennedy Road area and the Bryan Farms area did not seize on this same point is not subject to interpretation. Stephen Penny's point of view regarding the J.C. Penny development certainly has merit. Nevertheless, Buckland residents had the right to petition and they acted.

When a new history of Manchester is written, this has to be considered one of the greatest blunders of the town Board of Directors.

The building and manning of the Buckland fire station constituted a tremendous neglect of the desires and wishes of the majority of the people it was intended to serve.

Associated News Features Incorporated BUSINESS & TRADES REVIEW

This is a selection of the leading business and professional people in your area. We urge you to keep and use the Business & Trades Review as a guide and service reference throughout the year.

Open space purchased by Associated News Features, Inc. Quotes reprinted are those of Associated News Features, Inc. and are not necessarily those of the paper.

AMBULANCE SERVICE OF MANCHESTER, INC. METRO WHEELCHAIR SERVICE, INC.

Occasionally in the preparation of our Review section we come across a business that provides many services and it becomes difficult to describe each singular service adequately. Such a business is AMBULANCE SERVICE OF MANCHESTER, INC., located at 124 East Center Street in Manchester, phone 643-1212, and METRO WHEELCHAIR SERVICE, INC., phone 643-4322 in Manchester.

While it is not possible to describe all the services of these two companies, the foremost thought is that they have found and filled many needs for this community. One of the many features of AMBULANCE SERVICE OF MANCHESTER, INC. is that they have been serving you for over 30 years and have eight extensively equipped ambulances with expertly trained technicians that stay with the patient for the duration of the transport.

People are prone to take for granted the services of the ambulance concern, little realizing the untiring efforts the people operating such a business must constantly put forth in order to be ready for any and all calls. Remember to phone 643-1212 for fast 24-hour ambulance transportation service.

For those who are ambulatory but need extra assistance, METRO WHEELCHAIR SERVICE, INC. offers a Medical Livery Service. With eight wheelchair vans and six limousines at your disposal, this company provides a very necessary service. They have been serving the area reliably for over 15 years. All their vehicles are newer models and their vans feature lifts, providing local and long distance service. They also offer stretch limousines going to most major cities and airports for any special occasion, be it business or pleasure.

Both AMBULANCE SERVICE OF MANCHESTER, INC. and METRO WHEELCHAIR SERVICE, INC. realize that satisfied customers and a good reputation are two of the best assets any company can have. When you are in need of any of the services offered by these firms, the Editors of this 1985 Business & Trades Review, are very proud to suggest AMBULANCE SERVICE OF MANCHESTER, INC. and METRO WHEELCHAIR SERVICE, INC. to all our many readers. We compliment them for the dependability of their services to our community.

SCRANTON MOTORS INC.

Family Owned & Operated For Over 33 Years
In this day and age when so many companies are offering automobiles for sale it is very easy to get lost in the maze of where to go for a new vehicle. All the companies advertise that their cars are the best, but who is to say which is. Obviously, all the cars on the market today will have the same features, but what sets one apart from the rest is the ups and downs of the business. Therefore, we can conclude that the real difference in buying a car is the dealer you buy from.

The ideal dealer is one who has a reputation for his new unit as well as an honest dollar for the car you trade in. However, the most important factor is the service that you receive on your new car year after year.

The writers of this 1985 Business & Trades Review would like to point out a dealer who considers the most important part of selling a car the quality of service for every professional person. They are always prompt and their service is courteous. They are known as the one business in the area whose purpose is to provide quality equipment and supplies at competitive prices.

We, the Editors of this 1985 Business & Trades Review, suggest you call HARRISON'S STATIONERS first to learn of all they offer the business world. You'll be glad you did.

HARRISON'S STATIONERS

HARRISON'S STATIONERS at 849 Main Street in Manchester, phone 875-2911, offers an excellent office equipment and supply service for the people of this area.

Because today's professional people are so busy they must be able to obtain all of their office supplies in one place. They are always prompt and their service is courteous. They are known as the one business in the area whose purpose is to provide quality equipment and supplies at competitive prices.

We, the Editors of this 1985 Business & Trades Review, suggest you call HARRISON'S STATIONERS first to learn of all they offer the business world. You'll be glad you did.

MIKE'S REPAIR SERVICE

Mike's Repair Service, at 123 Meadowbrook Road in Ellington, phone 875-2911, is the area's diesel and gas engine specialist and one of the foremost truck and fleet repair facilities. If you're having trouble with your truck, make it a point to have it serviced by MIKE'S REPAIR SERVICE.

AVIS CAR SALES

Jerry Provost, Manager
If you are tired of paying high prices for new cars, then it may be time for you to become acquainted with a reputable used car dealer. The automobile market is very confusing and that is why you should seek out an expert in this field. In the Vernon and surrounding areas, the experts are AVIS CAR SALES, located at 500 Talcoville Road, Route 83, phone 875-3656.

They are used car specialists, and that gives them a unique advantage over a dealership that looks at used cars as a sideline. When major manufacturers cut their costs, quality must suffer. This is one lot where you can get a quality-built car that will save you dollars for many years to come. Every vehicle that comes in is completely inspected and reconditioned before it can be sold, and the result is a "buy with confidence" and a "sell with confidence" for both parties.

The professionals at AVIS CAR SALES cordially invites you to come and inspect their fine cars and vehicles. They are confident that you will find just what you are looking for at a price you can afford.

We, the writers of this 1985 Business & Trades Review, commend this dealership for their fair and honest dealings, and suggest them to our readers. Stop by today for a quality pre-owned vehicle - we know you will be glad you did!

Thanks to many in the hurricane
To the Editor:
We the officers, members of the board of directors, disaster committee and staff of the Connecticut Valley East Branch, American Red Cross, want to publicly thank the many agencies and individuals who assisted our branch during and following Hurricane Gloria.

We wish to particularly mention the invaluable part played by the emergency by: Manchester Memorial Hospital Food Service Department; Manchester Sheltered Workshop Bakery; Manchester Senior Citizens Center staff; East Hartford Food Bank; First Congregational Church, East Hartford; East Hartford Soup Kitchen; AM-PM Convenience Store.

Because of the aid and outstanding cooperation of these groups and many others who were suddenly a part of the Red Cross family, we were able to provide for meeting essential needs, particularly of the elderly, during the extended power outage.

Our thanks also to the Manchester Herald for its outstanding coverage of Red Cross volunteer activities both in the office and action in the community.

Hebron seniors need the housing

To the Editor:
As municipal agent I have a responsibility to the seniors of Hebron. This past month I have attempted to be both an advocate and resource person concerning housing for the elderly in Hebron.

For a growing group of seniors in Hebron the time has come where daily living is uncomfortable. A couple of the most stressful producing events in a normal life are losing a job and changing one's residence. When a large residence becomes a burden either financially or emotionally, a change becomes necessary. A home provides images of familiarity, security and stability. The elderly housing complex will provide Hebron seniors requiring a change of residence with a place of warmth, security and most of all the ability to remain in the community of Hebron.

This "insulated" society of ours, where the issues of the elderly are not truly heard, causes great harm. To sit back and deny a primary element of civilized life - home to those in need - is uncaring. Today, you may need an elderly housing complex, but never say you will never need it.

Hebron seniors get a quality-built car that will save you dollars for many years to come. Every vehicle that comes in is completely inspected and reconditioned before it can be sold, and the result is a "buy with confidence" and a "sell with confidence" for both parties.

The professionals at AVIS CAR SALES cordially invites you to come and inspect their fine cars and vehicles. They are confident that you will find just what you are looking for at a price you can afford.

To a generation of TV fans in the 1950's, Phil Silvers was the top comedian of his day. The man who portrayed the sardonic Sgt. Bilko on "The Phil Silvers Show" died Friday at his home in Los Angeles. He was 73.

Comedian Phil Silvers, aka Sgt. Bilko, dies

By George Gorties
The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES — Comedian Phil Silvers, who portrayed the fast-talking, scheming Master Sgt. Ernie Bilko in the 1950s television series "The Phil Silvers Show," died here Friday. He was 73. Silvers died in his sleep at 1:30 p.m. of natural causes, said his daughter, Tracy Silvers, 73. His personal assistant, Jean Edwards, was with him at the time, Ms. Silvers said. Silvers, who started in show business as a vaudeville singer at age 12, made his film debut in "Hit Parade of 1941." He continued for the next decade to play comic roles in feature films, usually as the hero's friend.

His film credits in later years included such comedies as "It's a Mad Mad Mad Mad World" and "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum." He was best known for his role as the con man Sgt. Bilko in the hit program "The Phil Silvers Show," originally called "You'll Never Get Rich."

Paid for by Fogarty for Director Committee, Maria Negri, Treasurer.

Cleary may serve as council chair

By George Lavino
Herald Reporter

COVENTRY — Republican Town Council member Michael Cleary will serve as chairman of the council if the Republicans retain a majority of its seats in Tuesday's election, his fellow GOP candidates have announced.

"It's important that we have a united group and the chair is the key," said Cleary, who joined the council in May. Cleary is one of only two of the five Republican incumbents who are seeking to retain their seats in the election Tuesday. The other, Phillip Bouchard, was chosen by the Republican candidates to serve as vice chairman in the event of a Republican victory. Bouchard had been on the council since April. The current council chairman, Republican William Reudgen, is not running for re-election.

Bouchard said the announcement would give voters more information about what to expect if the Republicans are elected. He said the move was proposed by Republican Town Chairman Gregg Babbington at a meeting on Tuesday and was supported by the five GOP candidates. He characterized the selection of Cleary as "pretty smooth."

"We've all known that he was quite interested in being chairman," Bouchard said. Democrat Joan Lewis, a former council chairwoman who is seeking to regain a seat on the council, said she was not surprised by the selection of Cleary and Bouchard.

"They're both the incumbents," she said. The announcement will have no effect on the Democrats' strategy, she said. Lewis said the Democrats have not discussed the selection of a chairman. "It hasn't even been considered," she said. "The most important thing is that Democrats gain the majority."

The Republicans have held a 5-2 majority on the council since 1982. Cleary, who served as interim town manager for two months last year, said that if elected, he would move to expand the number of council committees. In addition to the current Finance and Steering Liaison committees, Cleary said he wants to form panels to study road repair, planning and economic development.

Cleary added that the Republican council candidates "are all businessmen, who are used to making economic hardball and playing decisions."

Besides Cleary and Bouchard, the other Republican candidates for Town Council are Thomas

Sparkman, a state police trooper seeking his first term on the council, and Douglas Whipple and Leonard Giglio, both former council members.

They face the Democratic slate of Lewis, incumbents Kenneth Donovan and Sandra Pesco, Richard Hines, an East Hartford schoolteacher, and Patrick Flaherty, an accounting clerk.

In a race of another sort, the Democratic candidates have challenged the Republican counterparts to a race around Coventry Lake today.

The contest will start at Guido's Supermarket at 11 a.m. and will feature a relay of the candidates.

Lewis said she plans to run one leg of the race. She joked that the event was being held in place of a debate between the candidates, and challenged the Republicans to outrun the Democrats.

Manchester survives Halloween tricksters

While Halloween may have been scary — or fattening — to most Manchester residents, it proved fairly uneventful for the town's police and firefighters.

"We had one tiny, small, malicious incident and that was it," set at the mythical Fort Baxter, Kan., the show was a satire of military life that revolved around Bilko's schemes. He passed his time gambling and pursuing various money-making plans, and was usually able to outmaneuver his superior, Col. John Hall, played by Paul Ford.

The series ran from 1955 to 1959 and won three Emmy awards in 1955.

In 1968, Silvers testified in a card-cheating conspiracy case that he had compulsively gambled away thousands of dollars on cards and sporting events.

"Gambling just engulfed me," he said at the time. "I just gambled to gamble. I've been gambling all my life."

Silvers' testimony in federal court came at the trial for five defendants accused of conspiring to cheat gamblers by devices that included peepholes at the exclusive Friars Club in Beverly Hills.

A raid on a Parker Street home Monday evening netted an unknown amount of heroin, cocaine and marijuana along with the arrest of a 38-year-old man, police said Friday.

Edgar Smith, of 269 Parker St., was charged with possession of heroin, possession of cocaine, possession of marijuana, operating a drug factory following the 9 p.m. raid on his home Monday, police said.

Sgt. Thurnauer said Friday night that he did not know how much heroin, cocaine, and marijuana were taken from Smith's home. He added, however, that police seized syringes, glass vials, razor blades, plastic bags, roach clips, mirrors and other suspected drug paraphernalia.

Police secured a search warrant for Smith's home based on information developed in the course of an investigation over the past couple of months, Thurnauer said. Smith posted a $1,000 bond.

Lyric warnings to go on records

WASHINGTON (AP) — Prominent parents, who sought to have the record industry alert people whenever songs glorify drugs, sex and violence, abandoned a drive for guidelines and a rating system Friday and agreed to an arrangement including a label warning: "Explicit Lyrics."

Under the agreement, recording companies could print the words of songs on the album jacket instead of using the advisory. Because there is no space for printed lyrics on a cassette, a statement "See LP for Lyrics" will be a substitute that can be used by companies taking this option.

Police Sgt. Gary Benson agreed. "Nothing out of the ordinary went on," he said. "You would have hardly known it was Halloween."

Beckwith said Halloween vandalism in Manchester seems to have fallen off dramatically in the past few years. "The last few have been pretty uneventful," he said. "I don't think Halloween has the same meaning it used to. You don't even have the same number of trick-or-treaters out as you did 12 or 15 years ago."

An Eighth Utilities District dispatcher said Friday night that it was a quiet Halloween for the north end of town, too.

The days are long for Manchester's Andy Henry

By Margaret Hayden
Herald Reporter

Andy Henry is planning to expand his landscaping work next spring.

"We'll just keep expanding, we've been expanding for over three years," said Henry, 19, who started working on lawns when he was 16 and now has about 100 customers contracting with his firm, Personalized Lawn Care and Landscaping. He is continuing his business in spite of an Aug. 17 diving accident which made him a quadriplegic.

"I'll be confined to a wheelchair, but I'll run my business," said Henry, a June graduate of Manchester High School. The busy season will start in April. Now, the firm is removing leaves and cleaning yards.

Henry works at Manchester Herald by telephone from his hospital bed at Gaylord Hospital in Wallingford. He said he expected to be at the hospital for five or more months, learning self-care and how to manipulate a wheelchair.

Although he has some use of his arms, he is considered a quadriplegic because most nerves in his arms have been permanently damaged.

HE IS LEARNING to use gadgets on his hands so he can feed and wash himself. He said he hopes to get enough hand control to drive a specially equipped vehicle so he can go to jobs to make estimates and check on his workers. He is not expected to regain control of the lower part of his body, including his legs, said his mother, Terry Henry.

Bed sores are confining him to bed but usually he is able to be in a wheelchair, his mother added.

She wished her son had more company. When he was in Hartford Hospital shortly after the accident, more people came, she said.

Many people do not know how to react to a person in a wheelchair, she said.

"He is still the same person," she said. She strives to see him every day and has switched her work shift to nights so she can visit him during the afternoons and talk with his doctors and therapists.

While he is undergoing rehabilitation, the family is running his business from their 54 Arrott Road home.

His mother does the bookkeeping and his father, Thomas Henry, and his brother-in-law, Russell Schealer, work for the firm. Three of the eight employees work full time. Some are students working after school.

THE FIRM HAS three trucks, a tractor, two heavy-duty vacuum blowers, his mother said. She does the firm's bookkeeping. The blowers are moving leaves to the curb for pickup, to a tarp for carting them away or to the woods for people with woods in their back yards who want the leaves there, she said. The blowers also clean sidewalks.

"I want to get the word out: 'I'm here,'" he said.

In the winter the firm will remove snow for homes and businesses. From December to April there is little work until it snows, Henry said. His territory is Manchester, Vernon, Bolton, and part of South Windsor.

Before his accident, Henry had been planning to enter the University of Connecticut to learn more about landscaping design. College still is a possibility, he said.

"Time will let me know," he said, adding that he will have to find out how much he can improve and learn to do through therapy. Besides therapy sessions and watching a video cassette recorder, he has too much time left over and is bored, he said.

"Seems like all of a sudden no one is around and I don't know why," he said. He added that his immediate family and close friends come regularly.

Estee Fashion legend talks about her climb to fame

Estee Lauder, founder of the international Estee Lauder Co., is one of the most famous names in cosmetics. Her autobiography, "Estee: A Success Story," has been recently published. This interview was supplied by Random House, her publisher.

QUESTION: You've always been very private. Why did you decide to write about your life?

ANSWER: It has always been my feeling, especially when my children and grandchildren were young, that public personalities should be reserved about their private lives. All these years, I have guarded my privacy because I believed that what I achieved in public was the public's right to know, but what mattered in our home was ours and ours alone. But I've read so many myths about myself that it's time to set the record straight.

QUESTION: Why is your age such a closely guarded secret? What is the real reason you won't reveal your age?

ANSWER: I've managed to keep that the best kept secret since "I" Day. I see no reason to alter that stance. Age is an irrelevancy to every woman. You ask my age? I tell you it simply doesn't matter. I'm 50, 60, 70 — whatever you choose. A woman can always have beauty and style. And that is all that matters. Even if I did matter, for the record, I wouldn't tell.

QUESTION: What first turned you on to beauty?

ANSWER: My very first memory is of my mother's scent, her aura of freshness, the perfume of her presence. My first sensation of joy was being allowed to reach up and touch her fragrant and satiny skin.

QUESTION: You were married to Joseph Lauder for many years. How did you meet?

ANSWER: He came in the form of a brash young man in knickers. I was on the porch one day during the hottest summer anyone could remember. I swung back and forth until my future strolled by. He was on his way to the Rock Hill Lodge (in Westchester) for the weekend.

"Hello, Blondie!" he called out. I froze. I remember blushing furiously. "Hello Blondie" would not have pleased my father. I did not answer, just turned away, and thought about him every moment all the next week.

The next weekend, a friend of my sister visited.

"There's a young man at the club who would like to be introduced to you," he told me. "Properly introduced," he winked. "A Mister Joseph Lauder."

That was a different story. Mother and Father said yes to a proper introduction.

QUESTION: Where did you begin selling your first products and what were they?

ANSWER: The House of Ash Blondes, a beauty salon on W

DEAR ABBY: When I married Sheldon (not his real name), we were very much in love, but he was a poor struggling college student, and my parents never thought he'd amount to much. I wasn't exactly an heiress, much. I was just a girl who had a little money, so my father thought I should have a prenuptial agreement...

DEAR ABBY: I went to a baseball game with a friend. A man sitting directly in front of me kept smoking one cigarette after another. The smoke kept drifting back to me and I actually had to leave the game several times because it bothered me so much to sit there and take it. Did I have a right to complain? After all, we were sitting out of doors, and there is no special "smoking section" in a baseball stadium.

I'm sure there are plenty of people who have the same thing happen to them. Please help us all. Is it worth our time to complain? BOULDER-DENVER DRIVER

DEAR DRIVER: Call your local police and see what they think about it. I think it's a public service to alert the authorities to a potentially dangerous driver.

DEAR ABBY: Please settle a giant family dispute. Is your mother's or father's new spouse your stepfather or stepmother only if you are living with them? You are the only one who can settle this, so please put your question in the paper as soon as possible. C.J. IN NEWPORT BEACH

DEAR C.J.: A stepmother is the wife of one's father by a subsequent marriage, and a stepfather is the husband of one's mother by a subsequent marriage. The relationship remains the same whether you live with them or not.

DEAR ABBY: Today coming home from work, there was a woman tailgating me. We were going about 55 mph. I touched my brakes as a signal for her to back off. As soon as she saw the light, she got to my side and started merging into my lane, laughing, I slowed down, and then she cut in front of me and braked.

DEAR DR. GOTT: This isn't a strictly medical question, but I hope you can help. Our youngest began drugs at 12, went all the way to cocaine, and even heroin. In the process, he conned and stole from us all our retirement income. He's now rebuilding his life, at age 29, with the love and inspiration of a lovely girl. He has a good job and will be married soon. But he hasn't been able to begin repaying us. He's signed a codicil admitting his indebtedness and disclaiming any part of our wills. But our two daughters won't forgive him and refuse to attend the wedding. He feels he should give them emotional support. Are we wrong? Are there any organizations or groups through which our daughters could realize that drugs are a horrible disease and learn forgiveness?

DEAR READER: A drug addict can cause phenomenal family upheaval. I think it is to you and your husband's credit that you have been able to forgive your son and persist in supporting him emotionally now that he is recovering. I'm afraid that the act of forgiveness is a highly personal decision, however, and your daughters may not have progressed to the point where they can forgive. Your decision is laudable; theirs may take time. While you are correct in wanting the family to rally around your son for his wedding, your choice to attend is yours; you cannot speak for your daughters. Saying that they "should" attend is a parental imperative which may serve to push them further away. Their attendance, and their forgiveness, has got to be voluntary.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I have had a terrible bitter taste in my mouth for about three years, for approximately 80 percent of the time. Had about every test that three doctors and clinics can think of. Is there any known cause or cure for this type of problem?

DEAR READER: If you have been medically evaluated - for conditions like sinus infection, diabetes, kidney disease and liver problems - and are found normal, your bitter taste may reflect disease in your mouth. This is something a dentist may be able to help you with. You may have an abscessed tooth, gum disease or some other disorder that would be taken care of by an oral specialist. Dentists are often quite skillful at diagnosing and treating the kind of problem you describe.

Supermarket Shopper

Shoppers can make world a better place

In my last column, I wrote about the National Supermarket Child Safety Committee and the message it is spreading - that toddlers can be kept safely in shopping carts when infant seat belts are installed and used.

One of the nation's largest food producers, General Foods Corporation, is also working to aid children in a different, but equally meaningful, way. Through its Tang breakfast beverage, it is supporting the work of Mothers Against Drunk Driving (MADD).

General Foods has also been supporting the Tang March Across America, which is raising additional money for local MADD chapters. The march will culminate on Dec. 9 in Washington, D.C., with a candlelight vigil in memory of victims of drunk driving.

Thoughts

One well known physician said that death is the ultimate absurdity. After struggling for a lifetime to build and establish relationships, they are broken and demolished by the grim reaper. How absurd! It was the Russian writer Nikolai Belyayev who said that it is only in the face of death that life has meaning. Perhaps, then, death is not so absurd after all.

Thoughts

Knowing that life will not continue indefinitely, knowing that there is a premium on the time relationships can exist, makes life all the more important. Elizabeth Kubler-Ross, who has done extensive work with the terminally ill says that as a person faces death, he/she looks back on the moments shared or missed with a loved one. Only in the face of death do those moments become more precious and treasured. How unfortunate that, that is the case. Why not take time out today to call a loved one you haven't spoken to, or visit a friend you haven't seen for awhile. Share the richness of life with them before death steals them away.

Breeders' Cup racing series has plenty at stake

By Fabio Smith
United Press International

NEW YORK — The $10 million in purse money and the millions of dollars in advertising that could be the most significant items at stake in Saturday's second running of the Breeders' Cup Championship Series at Aqueduct.

As many as a half-dozen division championships as well as the coveted Horse of the Year title — all worth countless millions of dollars in potential breeding fees — could be decided during the four-hour, seven-race extravaganza.

So could the sum of future investments by the giant corporations who plunked down big bucks for TV advertisements and sponsorships. The corporations hope the Olympics-style pageant will draw the same huge world television audience of consumers as the inaugural series did last year.

After threatening to rain on the Breeders' Cup post parades, the weather apparently has decided to cooperate. The National Weather Service forecast calls for considerable cloudiness with highs of 53 to 60, but no precipitation.

Reputations of the 42 entered horses and the couple hundred participating jockeys, trainers and breeders could be made or broken during the running of the most visible racecard in the history of the so-called sport of kings.

Favored Chief's Crown, for example, gets one last chance to move back to the top of his class in the climactic and richest of the Breeders' Cup championships, the 1 1/4-mile, $3 million Classic. The 1984 juvenile champion dropped dramatically in the standings by becoming only the third three-beaten favorite in the Triple Crown series. But the Danzig colt got back in the hunt for the division championship and the Horse of the Year Award with an impressive mid-summer win against his contemporaries in the Travers, a fall victory against the older boys in the Marlboro Cup Handicap and the retirement of his chief 3-year-old rival, Kentucky Derby winner and current top money-earner Spend a Buck.

D. Wayne Lukas, the former prep basketball coach who has endured knocks and back-biting for having the nerve to win a Triple Crown race less than three years after he began training thoroughbreds in 1978, also could finally see up the Eclipse Award that has eluded him despite three straight years atop the money list. The smooth-talking Californian, who already has a record 61 stakes victories on the year, could win as many as four more with the 10 highly regarded horses he has running in the $1 million Juvenile, $1 million Juvenile Filler, $1 million Sprint and $1 million Distaff.

His favored Distaff starter Lady's Secret also could become the favorite for Horse of the Year if Chief's Crown and challengers Greinton and Vanlandingham all bomb in the Breeders' Cup.

Besides getting what is for them a rare opportunity to run for six-figure purses, the 20 European horses and their owners and handlers running in five of the races get an opportunity to show that they're at least as good if not better at the sport than the Americans who stole their top studs from them a couple centuries ago.

English-based Pebbles, a robust and gorgeous 4-year-old chestnut filly, could become the Mary Lou Retton of the 1985 equine Olympics with her predicted victory in the 1 1/4-mile, $2 million Turf. She already has become the Kato and John Henry of England, earning a following of thousands who clog the mailboxes of trainer Clive Brittain with demands for autographed pictures and five-pound notes earmarked for purchases of Pebbles' favorite sweets.

Those with the most at stake, however, are founder John Gaines and the rest of the Breeders' Cup executives who are trying to provide a shot in the arm for the industry, which has been suffering from stagnating or declining audiences and betting handles. They need seven strong races, a big crowd, great ratings and a huge handle to prove that the rousing horse success of Breeders' Cup I did not result simply from novelty and curiosity.

Sports in Brief

Mattingly at World Series club

HARTFORD — New York Yankees' first baseman Don Mattingly will be guest speaker at the World Series Club of Hartford County's dinner on Monday night, Nov. 25, at 7 p.m. Cocktails will be at 6:30 p.m.

For reservations, information, contact World Series Club, c/o Quinlivan Insurance Agency, 740A Maple Ave., Hartford, Ct., or telephone 246-8861 or 224-9412.

Jarryd stunts Mats Wlander

ANTWERP, Belgium — Seventh-seeded Anders Jarryd stunned world No. 3 Mats Wlander Friday to reach the semifinals of $850,000 European Champions Tennis Championship.

Jarryd, demolished in the opening set, bounced back to defeat his Swedish compatriot 1-6, 6-2, 6-4 in an enthralling match that lasted 110 minutes.

Second-seeded John McEnroe of New York lost his temper but little else in another quarterfinal clash to overwhelm Mark Dickson of Tampa, 6-0, 6-0, in a 56-minute landslide.

McEnroe immediately broke service, then threw a ball at a cameraman, ignored the whistling crowd and powered home an ace all in one minute.

Cavanaugh replaces Montana

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. — The San Francisco 49ers announced Friday that quarterback Joe Montana will be replaced by Matt Cavanaugh in Sunday's game against the Philadelphia Eagles.

San Francisco coach Bill Walsh said Montana was suffering from a sprained shoulder and bruised sternum. The chest injury occurred in the 49ers' victory over the Los Angeles Rams Sunday.

Woodley starts for Steelers

PITTSBURGH — Pittsburgh quarterback David Woodley will make his first start in more than a year Sunday when the Steelers shoot for their 16th straight win over the Cleveland Browns at Three Rivers Stadium and a share of first place in the AFC Central Division.

Woodley's last start was Oct. 21, 1984, against the Indianapolis Colts. In that game, Woodley suffered a severely bruised leg and missed the remainder of the season.

USFL down to nine teams

MEMPHIS, Tenn. — The United States Football League will be reduced from 14 teams to nine for the 1986 season and one of the franchises will be shifted, USFL commissioner Harry Usher announced Friday.

The announcement came during a meeting at which USFL owners laid strategy for moving from a spring to a fall schedule. The league has lost almost $100 million in three years of operation.

Harry Gant earns pole position

HAMPTON, Ga. — Harry Gant surprised himself Friday, earning the pole position for this weekend's Atlanta Journal 500 in qualifying delayed a day because of rain.

"Coming in I didn't feel we had a chance at the pole," Gant said after winning his third top starting spot this season with a lap of 167.940 mph at the 1 1/4-mile Atlanta International Raceway.

Garden deal resurrected

BOSTON — Overcoming a last-minute snag, parties Friday resurrected a deal involving the $46 million purchase of the Boston Bruins and Boston Garden by a group of local businessmen.

The parties settled all contingencies involving concession sales if the building were taken by eminent domain, which threatened the transaction.

Delaware North, a Buffalo, N.Y., firm that owns the team and building, will sell both to a group headed by James Brennan, Lincoln Property will not, in turn, purchase the building from Brennan.

Sanderson declares for free agency

CHICAGO — Chicago Cubs pitcher Scott Sanderson declared for free agency Friday despite a vow from general manager Dallas Green that the club would not re-sign him.

Red Wings option Micalfe

DETROIT — The Detroit Red Wings Friday sent goaltender Corrado Micalfe to their Kalamazoo affiliate in the International Hockey League, club general manager Jimmy Devellano said.

The departure of Micalfe, who cleared NHL waivers, leaves Detroit with netminders Greg Stefan and Eddie Mio.

New England roundup

URI-UNH shootout highlights grid slate

By United Press International

A shootout in New Hampshire and a showdown in Providence are the highlights of Saturday's major-college football action in New England.

Rhode Island, 6-2, takes on New Hampshire, 6-1, in a game likely to help decide the Yankee Conference title. In the Ivy League, Harvard, 4-2 and 3-1, is hoping to get back into first place and travels to meet Brown, 3-2 and 2-2.

The URI-UNH contest will be a clash of contrasting offenses. The Rams' overwhelming passing attack is led by quarterback Tom Erhardt with 20 touchdowns and 2,132 passing yards.

The Wildcats will counter with their efficient ground game, now averaging 280 yards rushing, whether don't yet know whether it will have Aaron Garrison or Scott Perry at tailback.

Garrison suffered a bruised kidney two weeks ago and his status is "day-to-day," Perry, his replacement, sprained an ankle last week and his status is questionable.

If URI wins, the Rams will be invited to the Division I-AA playoffs. Even if UNH wins, it still faces two more games against league foes.

Harvard must defeat Brown to help decide the Yankee Conference crown. The Crimson play undefeated Pennsylvania, the defending champion, in two weeks, and cannot afford a loss this weekend.

"We're in control of our destiny," said Harvard coach Joe Restic, who respects the Bruins. "They're a senior club. They're still in the picture."

Brown will be looking for its first victory over Harvard since 1979.

In other Saturday games, Dartmouth, 1-5, will host Yale, 3-2; Holy Cross, 3-3, will meet Army 5-1; Middlebury, 4, travels to Northeastern, 5-3, which will be at Connecticut, 3-3; and Boston University, 2-5, hosts Richmond, 7-1.

Middleweight boxing champ 'Marvelous' Marv Hagler, sporting stitches on the bridge of his nose, should be back in training in two or three weeks. His Nov. 14 date against John Mugabi has been postponed indefinitely.

Hagler to be back in two-three weeks

WAREHAM, Mass. (UPI) — Middleweight boxing champ Marv Hagler suffered a strained back in training — not a ruptured disc, as feared — and will likely resume sparring in two or three weeks, his doctor said Friday following a 90-minute exam.

Dr. Charles Parsons said Hagler also sustained a fractured nose, which will prevent any contact for about six weeks, but he can start training again much sooner.

The diagnosis was greeted with enthusiasm by Hagler and his manager, who said the scheduled Nov. 14 Las Vegas bout against John "The Beast" Mugabi would probably be rescheduled for late February.

"(Injury) won't threaten his career," Parsons said of Hagler, who flew home to Massachusetts Thursday night for the exam. "The back won't be a problem and the nose will heal up."

Petronelli said the Hagler camp would start laying plans for another date with Mugabi.

"We've talked about a date in late February," Petronelli said.

Syracuse to test athletes for drugs

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (UPI) — Syracuse University will test its athletes for drug use next fall in a three-part effort to fight substance abuse, university athletic officials said Friday.

The drug tests, expected to be announced at any time during the school year, will complement a substance abuse program that also includes education and counseling.

Athletic Director Jake Crouthamel said.

"We feel (drug abuse) has become a societal problem and it's time to deal with it in a positive way," said Crouthamel.

The program was first proposed in 1984 and is unrelated to Wednesday's arrest of former SU basketball captain Tony "Red" Bruin, who is being charged with selling cocaine to an undercover city police officer in April 1984, he said.

No other SU athletes or former athletes have been implicated in the case, police said.

Because the testing will affect 600 to 700 student athletes, Crouthamel said the university decided to proceed slowly with its plans. University officials also are considering legal ramifications of conducting such tests on students, he said.

At its annual meeting in January, the NCAA will consider a proposal to test athletes at championship events.

B&L Enterprises 646-3425

B&L Enterprises of Manchester is your local stump grinding specialist. Bruce Litvinchik, owner/operator takes great pride in workmanship serving the community professionals and homeowners alike.

That is why I personally handle all parts of any job which is performed by the company. I am always ready to service your needs from Spraying, Deep-Root Feeding, Tree Removal, Stump Grinding, Dump Truck Service.

I firmly believe in at least one spring spraying. Even if there is not a heavy infestation of any certain insect. There are so many insects that will cause damage to your trees, that could be prevented at this important time of the year. If there is the need for two applications I would advise it at that time.

Trees can add as much as 30% to the value of your property. There is also a dormant oil spray that will suffocate insects such as scales, mites, mealybugs, thrips, psyllids, and certain aphids. To avoid not being serviced please book any sprays well in advance. Gypsy Moth spraying will assure being serviced at the proper time. All chemicals are EPA approved for all spray operations. All sprays are used around my family, home, pets and neighbors. I will not sell any service I would not use in my own yard. That I can guarantee to you!

Please call me if you are having any trouble with your trees or to get your Free Estimate on any of my services. I am available to you year round, for your convenience. There is an answering service available to you 24 hours a day from April 1st to Dec. 1st. From Dec. 1st to April 1st, please call any time preferable early mornings or evenings are the best time to find me in the office. I am insured and a Conn. Licensed Arborist #2176.

BUSINESS

Joblessness same, but more working

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Unemployment held steady at 7.1 percent during October — unchanged from the previous month — and more jobs were created, including 60,000 in factories, where employment has been shrinking for much of the year, the Labor Department said Friday.

The number of people without jobs, on a seasonally adjusted basis, was unchanged at 5.3 million. New jobs created during the month brought the number of people working in October to a record 107.8 million, eclipsing the previous employment high of 107.5 million in September.

The jobless rate had risen a tiny 0.1 percent rise in September from August's 7 percent rate — the lowest figure since April 1980. The August improvement followed six months of remarkable stability in the unemployment rate, when it remained stuck at 7.3 percent.

The Labor Department said its monthly survey of businesses, excluding agriculture, placed the number of new payroll jobs created during October at 415,000. About one-third of the growth was concentrated in the services industry, "especially in business and health services," said Janet Norwood, commissioner of the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Jobs in the services industry widened to 73.4 million and Norwood said jobs growth in the area was "pervasive" with gains occurring in retail and wholesale trade, finance, insurance and real estate. Norwood said 60,000 factory jobs were gained during the month, reversing a trend that has seen 200,000 manufacturing jobs disappear from January through September, largely as a result of competition from foreign manufacturers.

But she said the October manufacturing gains "may have been somewhat exaggerated because seasonal employment gains did not materialize."

About 19.3 million people were working in the nation's factories during September, 1.3 million more than in November 1982, the tail-end of the 1981-1982 recession.

OPEC woes send stocks to new high

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market swept ahead Friday, carrying the Dow Jones industrial average to a new high amid hopes for lower oil prices and interest rates.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials jumped 15.94 to 1,200.25, extending its gain for the week to 33.73 points. The average's previous closing high had been 1,175.37 on Wednesday.

Volume on the New York Stock Exchange came to 129.36 million shares, up from 121.53 million Thursday.

Analysts attributed buying to news accounts of a television interview Thursday in which the oil minister of the United Arab Emirates said the pricing structure and production quotas of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries had virtually collapsed.

"That was taken as a sign that the alliance of oil producers might be unraveling."

Some observers were skeptical that his remarks were a reliable signal that OPEC's problems had reached a critical stage.

If OPEC should fall apart, most analysts agree, it would not be an unmitigated blessing. But it would stand to benefit overall economic growth in the U.S. economy and strike another blow against inflation.

The OPEC news overshadowed some early uncertainty over the interest-rate outlook. Late Thursday the Federal Reserve reported an $8.5 billion increase in the basic measure of the money supply for the week ended Oct. 21.

The larger-than-expected increase gave some pause to traders who have been hoping for some new easing of the Fed's monetary policy.

However, Paul Volcker, the Fed's chairman, indicated early this week that the central bank isn't very worried that recent rapid growth of the money supply will rekindle inflation.

For several other reasons, including a continuing slump in the manufacturing sector of the economy, many analysts believe a move to loosen credit by the Fed is still a strong possibility.

Shares of leading airlines, which are large consumers of fuel, moved up. AMR gained 1 1/4 to 39 1/2; Delta Air Lines 1 1/4 to 38 1/4; and UAL 1/4 to 48 1/4.

Energy stocks, by contrast, were mostly lower. Amoco dropped 1/4 to 27, and Mobil lost 1/4 to 51 1/4. An exception was Exxon, up 1/4 to 82 1/2. Exxon raised its dividend 10 percent.

Hotel's new owners fire workers, kick out guests

BRIDGEPORT (UPI) — Angry workers fired without notice from the largest downtown hotel vowed Friday to picket the property for the foreseeable future, while furious city officials blasted the new owner.

Days Inn, an Atlanta-based budget hotel chain, bought the hotel Thursday and announced at 9 p.m. that all guests and employees had to be out by midnight.

While about 150 guests had to pack and scramble for alternate accommodations, employees took their pink slips and headed home.

The company had been in bankruptcy since October 1983. Service Inc. of West Palm Beach, Fla., took over the hotel at 1 p.m. Thursday from former owners Daniel Wolfe and Reginald Friend, but abruptly resold the hotel to Days Inn.

"I find it very strange that Days Inn, which has tried to buy the property from the (bankrupt) estate, should have chosen instead to deal with Service," Wolfe said Friday.

Representatives of Local 217 of the Hotel and Restaurant Employees Union do not find it strange.

The lock-out is designed to "break down you and the union that represents you," Wolfe said.

Warnaco gets bid to go private

BRIDGEPORT (AP) — An investor group led by managers at Warnaco Inc. has made a bid to take the company private in a $408.3 million leveraged buyout.

Robert J. Matura, Warnaco's chairman and chief executive officer, said Thursday the management offer was made to the company's board of directors. Matura said, but all the details have not been completed.

The acquisition proposal provides for a package of 27 cash and 113 principal amount of junior subordinated debentures for each of the Warnaco common shares outstanding.

Secretary-Treasurer Henry Tamarin told about 45 picketing members Friday outside the locked hotel.

"We're not going to permit that to happen," he said while the workers conducting the informational picketing cheered.

The workers plan a Saturday rally to protest the firings.

Mayor Leonard S. Paoletta also blasted the move at a Friday news conference called to announce Bridgeport's new downtown hotel will be a Hilton hotel.

"I certainly couldn't have been more disturbed or angry with any corporation coming to town in this way," Paoletta said. "It does not bode well for the city's administration."

Guests hustled out of the hotel Thursday night were furious.

"Some idiot called me up and said you're going to leave the hotel," said Arnold Mendelson of Sherman. "I said, 'You're kidding me.' He said, 'No, we're not. Nobody told us they were shutting down on Friday the hotel will be closed for refurbishing and renovations."

He said the chain originally intended to keep the 236-room hotel closed for three months, but had agreed to shorten the time to six weeks because of city officials' anger.

Union Carbide Corp. has sold its plastic grocery bag and plastic drinking straw businesses to Jet Plastics Industries Inc. of Hatfield, Pa., company officials have announced.

The sale of these businesses, which no longer fit our strategic plans, is part of a major corporate restructuring program announced by Union Carbide in August," Alan C. Egler, president of Union Carbide's home and automotive products division, said Thursday.

The new 240-room hotel is due to open in January.

The Bridgeport Post Friday said unnamed sources reported Day's Inn purchased the hotel from Service for the $7.6 million plus paying the $2.7 million debt Wolfe and Friend owed Service.

Service had previously owned the hotel through a subsidiary, Payne-Bridgeport Associates, before selling it to Friend and Wolfe in April 1982 for $9.9 million.

Developer Robert L. Schwartz, Silverman's partner in Downtown Ventures, said Friday the hotel will be closed for refurbishing and renovations.

He said the chain originally intended to keep the 236-room hotel closed for three months, but had agreed to shorten the time to six weeks because of city officials' anger.

Warnaco's board of directors had established a special committee to look into the going-private strategy. The committee intends to propose acquisition by Fleet of the other two banks, Fleet announced.

Special stockholders' meetings were held in Providence, Hartford, Conn., and Bangor, Maine.

The proposed merger, requiring approval by state agencies and the Federal Reserve Board, is expected to be completed during the first quarter of 1986.

Warnaco manufactures apparel items such as Hathaway shirts, Puritan sweaters, White Stag skiwear, Olga women's undergarment and Speedo swimsuits.

Sewer project support reaffirmed

By Alex Girelli
Herald Reporter

Republican and Democratic members of the Board of Directors this morning reaffirmed their support for a bond issue to finance improvements to the town sewage treatment plant in the wake of a weekend distribution of fliers calling for residents to reject the bonding in the town election Tuesday.

At a news conference in Lincoln Center, board members decried the lack of an identifying signature on the flier. The only identification on the one-page flier attributes it to "Taxpayers of Manchester."

Thomas H. Ferguson, a Republican, said the flier was not signed by the flier. He said it was not signed as the opinion of the Southwest Property Owners Association because the issue affects the whole town and not just the southwest section.

The flier urged voters to "vote no in the sewer treatment plant until properly designed for true future needs.

It calls on voters to "stop the townwide destruction of neighborhood zoning as proposed by the new plan of development."

The only incumbent director seeking re-election not at the conference this morning was Thomas H. Ferguson, a Republican. But Director William J. Diana, the board's Republican minority leader, said Ferguson, like the other Republican candidates, favors the bond issue and has said so in his political advertisements.

At the news conference were Democratic directors Barbara B. Weinberg, Stephen T. Penny, Fogarty and Kenneth N. Tedford, and Republican directors Diana and Donna R. Mercier. Peter DiRosa, a Democratic candidate for growth to a population of from 50,000 to 63,000 in 2010.

Mercier said a "yes" vote is important to the future of the town. Diana said all Republican and Democratic candidates have made it clear they support the sewer plant work.

DiRosa said it is obvious the work must be done.

Tedford said a lawsuit by the federal Environmental Protection Agency will be necessary if the town does not take action to improve the quality of sewage treatment.

Cassano said that one someone circulates and anonymous flier, he can make any claim he wants to without having to back it up.

Weinberg said the sewer bond vote — which would authorize up to $14.3 million in local spending for the $26 million project — should be passed because the town will get state and federal funds if it does the work now, because the sewage treatment process should be improved to protect streams and because the plan for plant improvements is responsible in providing for growth to a population of from 50,000 to 63,000 in 2010.

Cassano said that one someone circulates and anonymous flier, he can make any claim he wants to without having to back it up.

Weinberg said the sewer bond vote — which would authorize up to $14.3 million in local spending for the $26 million project — should be passed because the town will get state and federal funds if it does the work now, because the sewage treatment process should be improved to protect streams and because the plan for plant improvements is responsible in providing for growth to a population of from 50,000 to 63,000 in 2010.

Mercier said a "yes" vote is important to the future of the town. Diana said all Republican and Democratic candidates have made it clear they support the sewer plant work.

Under the NewsCurrents program, teachers in Manchester schools receive weekly study guides, written by educators, which cover five or six major topics of national or international interest.

The study guides are accompanied by weekly filmstrips containing news photographs, maps and charts. The Herald provides free and discounted newspapers to each of the town's 12 schools.

Part of the program is a daily panel, called "Focus," which will appear on page 2 of the Herald each day. In addition, there is a weekly news quiz, which will be published in the Herald on Wednesdays.

Reagan faults Soviet actions in interview

By Norman D. Sandler
United Press International

WASHINGTON — President Reagan in a key pre-summit interview with Soviet journalists, indicated today he would not seek to deploy a "star wars" missile-defense system until the superpowers "do away with nuclear missiles."

"I can assure you that we are not going to try and monopolize this — if such a weapon is developed — for a first-strike capability," Reagan said in the interview conducted Thursday and released today by the White House.

Surveying the landscape of U.S.-Soviet relations less than three weeks before his meeting with Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev, Reagan offered blunt talk about Soviet expansionism and sparred over arms control in the 42-minute interview. His remarks came as Secretary of State George Shultz arrived in Moscow to lay the groundwork for the Geneva summit. Shultz was to meet today with Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze. On Tuesday, he is to meet with Gorbachev and again with Shevardnadze.

In a set of prepared answers to written questions, Reagan, who last week offered a counterproposal to Gorbachev's latest arms offer, said the United States seeks "a balanced, fair, verifiable agreement" on arms reductions.

"The United States has no tricks up its sleeve and we have no desire to threaten the Soviet Union in any way," he said. "Frankly, if the Soviet Union would take a comparable attitude, we would be able to make very rapid progress toward an agreement."

Challenged by one of his four Soviet interviewers on the issue of military deployments around the world, Reagan insisted there is no parallel between the placement of U.S. troops at bases outside the United States and Soviet military involvement in Afghanistan, Angola, Somalia, Yemen and Ethiopia.

"There is a difference in occupation and a difference in having bases where they are there in a non-combat situation," he said.

"We don't put this weapon or this system in place — this defensive system — until we do away with our nuclear missiles, our offensive nuclear missiles," he said. "But we will make it available to other countries, including the Soviet Union, to the same thing."

Reagan reiterated his offer to share the technology with the world if a Star Wars "space shield" proves to be feasible and said while the Soviets should not fear his SDI program, the fact that they have been at work on similar weapons for an even longer period of time "would indicate that maybe we should be a little suspicious that they want it for themselves."

EPA may reject Route 6 permits

By Kevin Flood
Herald Reporter

The federal Environmental Protection Agency may block the proposed Route 6 expressway by vetoing any wetland permits the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers issues for the project, an EPA spokesman said this morning.

Jodi Manfredonia, a spokeswoman for the EPA's regional office in Boston, said the EPA will oppose issuance of the wetland permits, but stopped short of saying it will definitely use its veto power.

"We plan to work with the corps on it," she said. "But we are opposed to the permits. We're not coming out and saying we will deny them, but it certainly is an option."

Manfredonia's statements contradict those of a corps official who said the EPA does not plan to begin appraising land and making sale offers to homeowners by next spring. He said the state would use its powers of eminent domain — or forcing homeowners to sell their land for what the state considers a fair price — only after it has "used the voluntary sale route."

But Jon Berman, attorney for release of $170 million in federal funds for the project.

The proposed highway would affect about 79 acres of wetlands in Andover, Bolton and Coventry. DOT officials say they plan to seek the wetland permits sometime next spring.

Meanwhile, the lawyer representing a citizens' group opposed to the highway said Sunday that he may take the DOT to court if it begins buying homes and land in the way of the proposed highway before all the necessary permits are approved. Twenty-five homes and one commercial building would have to be purchased.

James E. Lewis, director of rights of way for the DOT, said Monday that he has already asked federal highway officials for permission to begin the acquisition process. The DOT does not plan to begin buying property immediately, he said, though it does plan to begin appraising land and making sale offers to homeowners by next spring. He said the state would use its powers of eminent domain — or forcing homeowners to sell their land for what the state considers a fair price — only after it has "used the voluntary sale route."
