Spot checks aim to keep drunks off the road

By George Lovyn Herald Reporter

COLCHESTER - Eleanor Sutton's son, Bobby, was returning home from a swim with three friends in the summer of 1981 when a drunken driver crashed into the vehicle they were driving. One boy was killed instantly, Bobby died 11 days later and was buried on what would have been his 17th birthday. Since then, Sutton has tried to make sure that what happened to her son doesn't happen to other drunken drivers off the road. "This is the time of the year when we experience the most accidents with drunk drivers," said Lt. Royal Schiffer, who announced the initiative at a news conference. "There are a lot of office parties and many people are drinking drunk."

"We're not looking for numbers (of arrests)," Schiffer said. "We're looking to deter drunk driving, who also attended Friday's Sutton said Eastern Connecticut is 'particularly hard hit' by deaths stemming from drunken driving. She said Friday that it is wrong to call such incidents accidents. "There was nothing accidental about them. The person chooses to drink and drive."

"Do some planning before partying," advised state Rep. Edith Prugan, D-Columbia, who joined Sutton and Davis at the conference. Prugan, who lost a niece in an alcohol-related accident, has been behind state legislation aimed at toughening penalties against drunken drivers. While the law is wrong to call such incidents accidents, there are still areas needing improvement, she said.

Upon the first drunken driving conviction in Connecticut, a person will lose his or her license for a year, be fined $500 to $1,000 and spend either 48 hours in jail or perform 100 hours of community service, Prugan said. The state's alcohol state legislation aimed at

Deficit accord is near

By Elaine S. Povich United Press International

WASHINGTON - House and Senate balanced budget negotiators neared agreement Friday on a plan to end deficit spending by 1991, but were just shy of final accord, conference leaders said.

House assistant Democratic leader Thomas Foley of Washington told reporters the chances of agreement this week "are pretty good." He said the House-Senate conference leaders are "85 percent of the way to agreement."

Sen. Warren Rudman, R-N.H., one of the initial proponents of the "Gramm-Rudman" balanced budget legislation said negotiators were "just polishing" the bill.

House sources indicated the accord could come as early as Friday evening. That would give staffers time over the weekend to get the agreement written for formal endorsement by the full House-Senate conference Monday.

The full House and Senate would have until Wednesday at midnight to act and get the legislation to the president because it is attached to a crucial bill to raise the federal debt ceiling to $2 trillion. Without the borrowing authority hike, the government would go broke.

Senate Republican leader Robert Dole, R-Kan., raised the possibility of a short term extension of the federal debt ceiling to tide the government over if agreement cannot be reached on balancing the budget.

That technique already has been used several times this fall, as agreement on the "Gramm-Rudman" legislation aimed at eliminating the federal deficit by fiscal 1991 proved elusive.

Both the House and Senate have approved different versions of the balanced budget legislation requiring Congress and the president to hit gradually decreasing deficit targets until the red ink is ended by fiscal 1991 or face automatic spending reductions.

Under the agreement worked on by the leaders of the conference, the Pentagon would have to shoulder half the automatic spending cuts and domestic programs the other half, except for a group of "poverty" programs that would be shielded entirely.

Blast destroys Derby eatery, injuring nine

Combined wire services

DERBY - An explosion caused by a gas leak demolished a downtown restaurant Friday, 2 people were killed and trapping as many as four others under the rubble, authorities said.

Fires continued to burn five hours after the explosion reduced the four-story building housing the River Restaurant to rubble, blowing out store windows in a commercial and residential area along Main Street.

Although casualty estimates varied late Friday night, at least nine people were taken to hospitals, including one man who was freed from under the rubble. Authorities feared leaking gas would trigger other explosions and ordered the evacuation of a 10 square-block area Friday night.

A second smaller explosion was reported at about 7 p.m., about three hours after the first blast, and Derby police Lt. Donald Germaine said it appeared the area of leaking gas was spreading along Main Street.

A construction crew had been digging near natural gas lines in the area, and Germaine said the smell of natural gas was very heavy. But he said authorities weren't sure what caused the explosion.

All gas lines in the vicinity were closed off after the blast, said Georgeanne Grant, a spokeswoman for Northeast Utilities.

Germaine said rescuers using rubble shovels and pick-axes pulled Michael Ippolito, whose family owned the restaurant, from the rubble. Authorities feared at least three more people were still trapped, Germaine said.

"Ten seconds after it happened it set out to do."

When asked what he wanted to learn from his meeting with the president, Casanova said: "To find out what the commander in chief knows about this (MIA) issue. It's common knowledge among MIA activists that there's a lot he (Reagan) doesn't know."

"Hopefully this meeting with the president of the United States will be a prelude to bigger and better things."

Vietnam veteran Gino Casanova is carried from his bamboo cage in Kent, Wash., on Friday at the conclusion of a fast to draw attention to servicemen who were reported missing in action during the war and never accounted for. Casanova emerged after President Reagan promised to meet with him.

Vet ends 51-day fast in cage

KENT, Wash. (UPI) - Vietnam veteran Gino Casanova shuffled out of his cramped bamboo cage in a muddy cow pasture Friday, ending his 51-day fast with a promise of a meeting from President Reagan to talk about missing servicemen in Southeast Asia.

The ex-Marine agreed to end his protest 10 days short of his goal after talking Thursday evening by telephone with Reagan, who agreed to meet the vet sometime within the next 60 days to discuss the MIA issue.

With help, Casanova emerged from a crouch from the hut just after 10 a.m. PST to talk briefly to supporters and reporters. He said he hoped his fast would "start a big bonfire across the nation that won't go out until the MIA's are accounted for."

"I had to cut this a little short because of an agreement with the president of the United States," Casanova said, joined by his 8-year-old daughter, Shannon. "I

MANAGUA, Nicaragua - Nicaragua recalled its ambassador to the United States Friday to protest the downing of a Sandinista helicopter by U.S.-backed rebels. The United States praised the missile attack that killed 14 Nicaraguans, including a Cuban flight instructor.

The shooting down of the helicopter provided the first evidence that Contra U.S.-backed rebels, with aid to the guerrillas is presently restricted to "humanitarian" assistance.

The Sandinista Defense Ministry issued a statement saying the helicopter, believed to be a Soviet-built Mi-8, crashed Monday near Nicaragua's principal army training base in Matukuku, 43 miles northeast of Managua. The statement did not say whether there was guerrilla activity in the area.

A spokesman for the Nicaraguan Embassy in Washington said Ambassador Carlos Tunnerman "is leaving sometime tomorrow (Saturday)."

"He's being recalled on consultation due to the shooting down of the Nicaragua helicopter by the Contra (U.S.-backed rebels), with land-to-air missiles provided by the U.S. government," she said.

"Yes, it is in protest," the spokeswoman said of the recall.

mission crashed as he was transporting comrades of the Sandinista Popular Army to war zones," the statement said.

U.S. officials said Thursday the Nicaraguan Democratic Force, the largest of three rebel groups seeking the overthrow of the leftist Sandinista government, shot down the helicopter with a Soviet-built, shoulder-launched surface-to-air missile called a SAM-7. Nicaragua charged the United States armed the rebels with the Soviet weapon.

"I certainly am concerned about the Cuban presence and the military presence in Nicaragua and on the mainland of this hemisphere," Shultz said.

More use shelter

This week's cold spell has spurred an increase in the use of the Manchester shelter for homeless people. The shelter, in a former church on Main Street, has been home to an average of 17 people on recent nights, its director said.

"Yes, it is in protest," the spokeswoman said of the recall.

Spot checks aim to keep drunks off the road

By George Lavin Herald Reporter

COLCHESTER - Eleanor Sutton's son, Bobby, was returning home from a swim with three friends in the summer of 1981 when a drunken driver crashed into the vehicle they were driving. One boy was killed instantly. Bobby died 11 days later and was buried on what would have been his 17th birthday.

Sutton, who started the Connecticut chapter of Students Against Drunk Driving in 1981, was on hand Friday at the state police barracks in Colchester when a new spot-check program aimed at apprehending drunken drivers was announced.

The program will start Tuesday in Andover, Bolton and 11 other towns in eastern Connecticut. State police trooper K. resident troopers and town constables will conduct "intensive" spot checks until Jan. 1 in the hopes of getting drunken drivers off the road. "This is the time of the year when we experience the most accidents with drunk drivers," said Lt. Royal Schiffer, who announced the initiative at a news conference. "There are a lot of office parties and many people are driving drunk."

"We're not looking for numbers (of arrests)," Schiffer said. "We're looking to deter drunk driving."

Sutton said Eastern Connecticut is "particularly hard hit" by drunken drivers off the road. "This is the time of the year when we experience the most accidents with drunk drivers," said Lt. Royal Schiffer, who announced the initiative at a news conference. "There are a lot of office parties and many people are driving drunk."

collisions involving a drunken driver. She said Friday that it is wrong to call such incidents accidents.

"They're not accidents," she said. "There was nothing accidental about them. The person chooses to drink and drive."

Deficit accord is near

By Elaine S. Povich United Press International

WASHINGTON - House and Senate balanced budget negotiators agreed Friday on a plan to end deficit spending by 1991, but were just shy of final accord, conference leaders said.

House Assistant Democratic leader Thomas Foley of Washington told reporters the chances of agreement this week "are pretty good."

Senate Republican leader Robert Dole, R-Kan., raised the possibility of a short term extension of the federal debt ceiling to tie the government over if agreement cannot be reached on balancing the budget.

That technique already has been used several times this fall, as agreement on the "Gramm-Rudman" legislation aimed at eliminating the federal deficit by fiscal 1991 proved elusive.

Both the House and Senate have approved different versions of the balanced budget legislation requiring Congress and the president to hit gradually decreasing deficit targets until the red ink is ended by fiscal 1991 or face automatic spending reductions.

Under the agreement worked on by the leaders of the conference, the Pentagon would have to shoulder half the automatic spending cuts and domestic programs the other half, except for a group of "poverty" programs that would be eliminated entirely.

Senate Republican leader Robert Dole, R-Kan., raised the possibility of a short term extension of the federal debt ceiling to tie the government over if agreement cannot be reached on balancing the budget.

Vietnam veteran Gino Casanova is carried from his bamboo cage in Kent, Wash., on Friday at the conclusion of a fast to draw attention to servicemen who were reported missing in action during the war and never accounted for. Casanova emerged after President Reagan promised to meet with him.

Vet ends 51-day fast in cage

KENT, Wash. (UPI) - Vietnam veteran Gino Casanova shuffled out of his cramped bamboo cage in a muddy cow pasture Friday, ending his 51-day fast with a promise of a meeting from President Reagan to talk about missing servicemen in Southeast Asia.

The ex-Marine agreed to end his protest 10 days short of his goal after talking Thursday evening by telephone with Reagan, who agreed to meet the vet sometime within the next 60 days to discuss the MIA issue. With help, Casanova emerged in a crouch from the hut just after 10 a.m. PST to talk briefly to supporters and reporters. He said he hoped his fast would "start a big bonfire across the nation that won't go out until the MIA's are accounted for."

"I had to cut this a little short because of an agreement with the president of the United States," Casanova said, joined by his 8-year-old daughter, Shannon. "I hopefully accomplished more than I set out to do."

When asked what he wanted to learn from his meeting with the president, Casanova said: "To find out what the commander in chief knows about this (MIA) issue. It's common knowledge among MIA activists that there's a lot he (Reagan) doesn't know."

"Hopefully this meeting with the president of the United States will be a prelude to bigger and better things."

Shultz applauds Contras

By Tracy Wilkinson United Press International

MANAGUA, Nicaragua - Nicaragua recalled its ambassador to the United States Friday to protest the downing of a Sandinista helicopter by U.S.-backed rebels.

The United States praised the attack that killed 14 soldiers, including a Cuban flight crew.

Secretary of State George Shultz told reporters it was "fine" that the rebels shot down the helicopter and said he was "all for it."

A spokesman for the Nicaraguan Embassy in Washington said Ambassador Carlos Tuneremann "is leaving sometime tomorrow (Saturday)."

"Yes, it is in protest," the spokeswoman said of the recall.

The Sandinista Defense Ministry issued a statement saying the helicopter, believed to be a Soviet-built Mi-8, crashed Monday near Nicaragua's principal army training base in Mulukuku, 85 miles northeast of Managua. The statement did not say whether there was guerrilla activity in the area. "A helicopter on a combat

Blast destroys Derby eatery, injuring nine

Combined wire services

DERBY - An explosion caused by a gas leak demolished a downtown restaurant Friday, sending nine people to hospitals in what had been the kitchen before the rubble, authorities said.

Authorities initially said at least 15 people were injured, but only nine were taken to hospitals. Some people may have been injured but did not require hospital treatment, police and firefighters said.

Seven of the injured were taken to Griffin Hospital. One person was taken to Yale-New Haven Hospital and one was taken to St. Vincent's Medical Center in Bridgeport, state police spokesman Lt. Ken

Governor nixes role in strike

Combined wire services

Gov. William A. O'Neill said Friday he had no plan to get personally involved in the Pratt & Whitney strike unless the it goes on for a prolonged period of time.

"I would hope they would be able to resolve their differences on their own," O'Neill said. "I have talked to both parties on the telephone. But as far as me saying to the two of them 'Get to the table, bargain, resolve this problem.' I don't really have that authority."

Meanwhile, state labor leaders pledged support Friday for mass picketing planned next week at Pratt & Whitney's main plant in East Hartford, where workers remain on the job despite the strike at the company's three other state plants.

Getting a lift

A production manager of a Concord, N.H., theater that's inaccessible to the disabled used a forklift to get violinist Itzhak Perlman inside. Perlman is partially paralyzed from polio, but when Frank Gardner suggested to Perlman's manager several days ago that they carry the violinist in, he got an unequivocal "no." Later, Gardner spotted a forklift at a nearby construction project and operator Kurt Zwickler volunteered to do the job. Perlman was lifted to the back door and performed earlier this week for a capacity crowd of more than 1,400 people at the Capital Theater.

Beautiful dreamer

Bobby Sherman, whose star rose briefly as a teen singing idol in the late 1960s, still maintains a kid's fantasy in his back yard: a scale model of Disneyland's Main Street. Sherman, who sang "Julie, Do Ya Love Me" and starred in television's "Here Come the Brides," said this week he started the project as therapy soon after the end of his reign as teen heart-throb. "At first, I thought it would take just three months," said Sherman, who intended the replica as a playhouse for his two sons. It ended up taking two years of work and $15,000 to $20,000 in materials. "A one-fifth size model features elaborate detail, down to gables and shutters.

Billy off the booze

Billy Carter has been sober for nearly seven years and is getting ready to go into the mobile home sales business in Waycross, Ga., his wife, Sybil, says. "He's just a contented daddy and granddaddy," Mrs. Carter said earlier this week during a visit to Omaha, Neb., to promote a campaign against drug and alcohol abuse. "A lot of the things that contributed to his drinking are gone," Mrs. Carter said. "A great deal of the stress is gone, and the fear. He's sort of mellowed with age." The sister-in-law of former President Jimmy Carter has been instrumental in getting the country for a Union Pacific System program called Operation Red Block, which seeks to stop on-the-job drug and alcohol abuse.

Room for no more

There was no room at the inn for The Amazing Kreskin, but the innkeeper said there might have been if the entertainer's staff hadn't insisted on free lodging for him. "They said he's been on Johnny Carson 71 times, so of course he should have a free room," said Elmer Hogwood, who owns and operates the King's Inn in Coralville, Iowa, with her husband, Bud. After he was turned away Thursday morning, Kreskin checked in at the Holiday Inn. He called his publicist to say he'd been refused a room at the King's Inn because Mrs. Hogwood thought he and his entourage in their Ford van were a rock band. Mrs. Hogwood said it was true the motel had stopped admitting rock bands because "we've gotten so many rooms ripped up." Kreskin, who claims to have extra-sensory powers, was in neighboring Iowa City for an appearance.

Kudos for Tutu

Nobel Peace Prize winner Bishop Desmond Tutu of South Africa has been named to the prestigious Independent Commission on International Humanitarian Issues. The black Anglican bishop has accepted membership and will attend the next meeting of the commission in Vienna this spring. "If the South Africans let him out," Prince Sadruddin Aga Khan, former U.N. High Commissioner for Refugees, said Thursday.

Rex replaces Lucky as nation's top dog

WASHINGTON — President Reagan gave his wife an early Christmas present — a new and smaller hound-dog — and the first lady says she will call him "Rex," after retiring head White House usher Rex Scouten, the White House said Friday. The new dog, a 16-pound brown and white floppy eared King Charles "Spaniel," is to replace Lucky, the rowdy black sheepdog with a "pudde problem" that was exiled last week to what Reagan called "dog heaven." The president's California ranch. Elaine Crispin, the first lady's press secretary, said Mrs. Reagan was "very fond" of Scouten and thought she would name her surprise Christmas present from the president after him. "She felt it would bring Rex back in her life," Crispin said. She said Scouten was "honored" to have the new White House mascot named after him. Mrs. Reagan "fell in love" with a "litter brother" of Rex while visiting publisher William F. Buckley in New York several weeks ago, spokesman Larry Speakes said. Lucky, who weighed four times as much as the new first dog, constantly pulled Mrs. Reagan into and out of helicopters, left town with the Reagans on their California Thanksgiving trip and never returned. "A Central Park before presenting it to Mrs. Reagan. The dog did not perform" on its walk, Speakes revealed.

"When Mrs. Reagan visited the Buckleys in the fall... the Buckleys had a dog, and Mrs. Reagan fell in love with the dog. The dog stayed on Mrs. Reagan's lap all day and at her feet at dinner. She couldn't stop talking about the dog to the president" when she returned, Speakes said. Speakes said Reagan found out that the Buckleys' dog had a brother and made arrangements to take it for "a secret walk" in Central Park before presenting it to Mrs. Reagan. "The dog did not perform" on its walk, Speakes revealed.

Grief shows on the faces of mourners Friday as bearers bring one of five caskets out of Spring Hope Church of God in Christ in Springfield, Mass., following funeral services for three

Police plan spot road checks

Continued from page 1 suspension can take a couple of months. Sutton agreed that it is important to get drivers who have been convicted of driving while intoxicated off the road. The man who killed her son had been driving without a license for three years after an earlier conviction on drunken driving charges, she said. Sutton said she works more than 40 hours a week promoting SADD throughout the state, speaking to high school students, PTOs and women's groups. Sixty-three Connecticut towns and cities have SADD chapters, she said. She said people also call her at home seeking advice, suggestions and somebody to talk to about

Elm judgment on hold

By George Loyne Herald Reporter COVENTRY — A court judgment seeking over $50,000 in back taxes owed by the Elm Water Co. has been delayed because the administrator of the estate that owns the utility has not yet completed the required legal papers. Town Attorney Abbot Schwebel said. Schwebel said he originally planned to enter a judgment in Tolland County Superior Court on Monday, but attorney David Had-den of Hartford, who is in charge of the estate of George Koppelman, has not yet completed the legal stipulation agreeing to the move. He said the papers should be filed by Dec. 16. The utility owes the town $52,000 in unpaid taxes that accrued while the company was owned by Koppelman, who died in April 1983. The town has been trying to collect part of the unpaid money without foreclosing and taking possession of the company. The town is seeking a judgment against the estate because the town cannot legally reduce the lien against the company while the utility is solvent and in operation. A judgment, which is an order to pay the unpaid taxes, could be reduced, Schwebel said. Under a plan worked out by Schwebel, the utility's court-appointed receiver, John Wittenzeller of Stafford, would agree to pay 10 percent of the unpaid taxes. The Town Council would then agree to collect only $5,200 in taxes and reduce the judgment. Wittenzeller, who owns the Aqua Pump Co., which serves the Coventry Hills and Pilgrim Hills sections, and has said he is willing to buy the company once the lien is removed. By seeking a judgment and settling with the estate for the back taxes, the way would be cleared for Wittenzeller to purchase the company, Schwebel said. The move would end a long-running controversy over the utility that began 10 years ago with complaints from the town and customers about how Koppelman ran the system. On Nov. 26, the state Department of Public Utility Control released a report that assessed the value of the utility before it was placed into receivership at $6,334. The current value of the company was not assessed, although the figure may play a part in the sale price of the property if it is sold to Wittenzeller. DPUC attorney Phyllis Lemell said the report was required under a new state law. However, she said the agency also hoped it would help move along the court proceedings. It will give them a better handle on the situation," she said.

"One man called me at three in the morning because he worked the night shift, but I didn't mind," she said. This year, Sutton is suggesting that parents give their teenage children a SADD contract for Christmas. The contract calls for parents to pledge to pick up their children, without argument, if they have had too much to drink. In return, children agree to call their parents when they've had too much to drink. Tagging along with Sutton as she goes from town to town is her 29-year-old son, Patrick, the fifth boy she and her husband have raised. "He was born into this," she said. "He was born the night I was attending a meeting of SADD." But it is the 17th birthday of Bobby that Sutton said she will always remember. "Patrick will never know his older brother," she said.

State Sen. Carl A. Zinsser, R-Manchester, said Friday he has not yet decided whether he will seek re-election to his Fourth District seat. "I honestly don't know now, I just feel I have to keep my options open," he said. Meanwhile, town Director Stephen T. Cassano said Friday that he plans to get an early start in his campaign to win the Democratic nomination for the Fourth District seat. Cassano ran against Zinsser in 1984 and lost by a vote of 24,759 to 20,721. Zinsser, an incumbent, won in all five towns in the district.

Cold spell spurs increase in use of homeless shelter

By George Loyne Herald Reporter This week's cold spell drove an above average number of homeless people to the shelter run by the Manchester Area Conference of Churches, its director said Friday. Patricia Maneggia, director of the shelter, said an average of 17 people have spent the past few nights at the shelter, located in a former church at 466 Main St. The daily average for December is around 12, she said. On Wednesday night, 18 people asked for a place to stay — the largest total of the month so far, Maneggia said. The fall months are usually the busiest at the shelter, she said. An average of 19 people took advantage of the facilities each night in October, she said. That number fell to 12 in November, partly because more people were able to find jobs and support themselves, Maneggia said. The shelter, which has been in operation at its current location since September, can hold up to 40 people. The highest number of homeless people MACC has sheltered on any one night this year was 32 in February and again in August, Maneggia said. She said most of the homeless people are between the ages of 30 and 60 and are predominantly single, although a few couples have shown up. Those who spend the night at the shelter are given a meal of soup and sandwiches at night and hot or cold meals in the morning, Maneggia said. A television is available for entertainment. Renovations are under way at the shelter, Maneggia said. The work has not interfered with operations. The work began last week, when volunteers and resi-

Senate battle to begin soon

At issue is whether Cassano filed notice of formation of a campaign committee before or after a July 12 deadline. Cassano said he was not nominated by the Democratic Party until July 28 and could not have filed a notice by July 12 since he had no campaign committee. But Pearl Williams of the Campaign Finance Division in the secretary of the state's office said records indicate that notice of a campaign committee was filed May 21, 1984, with Paul Rossetto listed as treasurer. There is a $50 fine for late filing of financial statements. Some workers have been annoyed by the requirement that they drive back to their headquarters instead of being able to go directly to lunch. The problem came to a head Wednesday when the town had difficulty getting some town department employees out to a break in a water line at 3 a.m. While no one officially linked the incident with the lunch-hour directive, sources close to the situation said privately they were connected.

Lunch dispute talks continue

night that everyone involved in the discussions has been "extremely open" and respectful of others' positions. Until recently, many public works employees went directly from their work sites to lunch. Some citizens have complained to the town administration and to members of the Board of Directors that town vehicles have been parked in front of restaurants for long periods of time. Assistant Town Manager Steven Werber and Robert Fuller, president of the union representing town public works employees, will resume discussions Monday in an effort to resolve a dispute over a directive that the employees report to their headquarters to punch out for their half-hour lunch periods. The two have been in discussions for two days over the directive, which was issued by Public Works Director George A. Kandra in response to reported abuses of the lunch period. Werber said Friday

Synfuels program still alive

WASHINGTON — The Senate Friday refused to kill the controversial Synthetic Fuels Corp. program, a plan that would have wiped out the bulk of the money set aside for the program.

By a 40-43 vote, the Senate refused to go along with an attempt by Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, and Dan Evans, R-Wash., to cut $7.4 billion from the program and send the remaining $500 million to the Energy Department for a synthetic fuels research program.

Soviets blast 'Star Wars' pact

MOSCOW — Tass said Friday that Britain's decision to participate in the Strategic Defense Initiative was "a dangerous step" for British security and it called the U.S. program a "cancer virus" being injected into Europe.

The British-American agreement to participate in research on SDI, or "Star Wars," was signed in London Friday by Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger and British Defense Minister Michael Heseltine.

Kentucky gets Toyota plant

GEORGETOWN, Ky. — After a reluctant farmer's wife almost scuttled Kentucky's efforts to lure Toyota Motor Corp.'s $500 million auto assembly plant, the final parcel of land needed for the factory was acquired Friday.

"It's done," said Billy Singer, whose 136 acres of farmland was the final parcel in a 1,000-acre site for the plant. "It's signed, sealed and delivered."

Singer's wife Marilyn prompted a flurry of negotiations when she refused to sign an option to sell the land for about $6,000 an acre, three times the average price for undeveloped farm acreage in Scott County.

The plant would provide more than 2,000 jobs and turn out 200,000 compact cars a year similar to the Toyota Camry.

ANC rebels sentenced

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa — Four African National Congress rebels were sentenced to up to 12 years in prison Friday and the white-minority government said it had jailed five children under the age of 16 for racial unrest.

In Cape Town, a spokesman for Law and Order Minister Louis le Grange acknowledged that five children under the age of 16 were jailed under South Africa's state of emergency regulations.

A police spokesman said Friday 949 people were in detention. A high-court judge in Eastcourt in Natal province sentenced four guerrilla fighters of the banned ANC to jail sentences ranging from seven to 12 years.

Bonner meets with pope

ROME — Yelena Bonner, wife of Soviet dissident Andrei Sakharov, met Friday night with Pope John Paul II to thank him for speaking out in behalf of human rights and prepared to fly to the United States on Saturday.

Bonner, ending a five-day visit to Italy, drove to the Vatican at about 7:30 p.m. for the private audience in the pope's apartments overlooking St. Peter's Square.

She was scheduled to go to Boston Saturday for a reunion with her family in the Boston suburb of Newton, Mass., and possible coronary bypass surgery.

Walesa faces questioning

WARSAW, Poland (UPI) — Solidarity founder Lech Walesa was interrogated Friday for a third day by state prosecutors trying to determine if he slandered the government by challenging its voter turnout figures in October.

Sources within the outlawed Solidarity union said Walesa again refused to answer questions during a five-hour session and handed over a statement in which he pledged to continue as the "true leader" of Solidarity despite the threat of a trial.

He was told to reappear for more questioning Monday.

"I read about 360 pages of the court documents for four hours. Walesa said in reference to a papers outlining possible charges against him.

Retired justice critical after stroke

HANOVER, N.H. (UPI) — Retired Supreme Court Justice Potter Stewart, 70, suffered a stroke early in the week and was listed in critical condition Friday, a hospital spokesman said.

"He is gravely ill," said Toni House, a Supreme Court spokeswoman in Washington.

Stewart was visiting his daughter in Putney, Vt., when he suffered a stroke and was rushed to Mary Hitchcock Memorial Hospital in Hanover Dec. 2.

Mike Noble, a hospital spokesman, said Stewart "was admitted December 2 after suffering a stroke. He is listed in critical condition. At the request of the family, no other information is being released."

Stewart stepped down from the court in July 1981 after 22 years of service. His vacancy brought a historic first to the court — the appointment of the first woman to the bench, Sandra Day O'Connor.

In a news conference after announcing his retirement, Stewart said he wanted to be remembered "as a good lawyer who did his best."

On his last day on the bench, Chief Justice Warren Burger said, "You will be missed at the deliberations at the conference table where your close grasp of the cases decided during your long tenure was a valuable resource to the court."

Stewart, an Ohio native, was appointed to the high court in 1958 by President Dwight Eisenhower.

He was known for many years as a "swing" vote on the court under both liberal Chief Justice Earl Warren and the conservative Burger. He was a relatively rare dissenter and joined the majority in many of the major decisions issued while he was on the bench.

Although he did not write the decisions, Stewart went along on finding a constitutional right for women to have abortions and opposing the "one person, one vote" rule applied to state legislatures.

On religious matters, Stewart was the lone dissenter when the high court struck down laws allowing organized prayer in public schools.

Stewart told an interviewer in 1973 his favorite decision was one holding blacks could sue realtors for refusing to sell to them under the Civil Rights Act enacted following the Civil War. But he joined the court majority a few years later in upholding suburban zoning ordinances that tended to keep out poor minorities.

The housing ruling was Stewart's favorite, but he will likely be better remembered for writing the Supreme Court's 1976 decision upholding the constitutionality of capital punishment.

Stewart squarely faced the constitutional issue of the death penalty and called capital punishment "an expression of society's moral outrage at particularly offensive conduct." Because more than 30 legislatures had passed new death penalty laws at the time of the decision, Stewart said, it was clear the sentence was not viewed as cruel and unusual.

Report depicts Burford as scapegoat

By Neil Roland United Press International

WASHINGTON — A House investigative report depicts former EPA chief Anne Burford as the victim of efforts by ex-Attorney General William French Smith and White House and Justice Department lawyers to block the release of explosive documents in 1983.

Burford in vain urged release of the sensitive EPA files in separate discussions with Smith, White House Counsel Fred Fielding and his deputy, Richard Hauser, and then White House chief of staff James Baker, according to the 1300-page House Judiciary Committee report adopted Thursday.

Despite her reservations, Burford defended President Ronald Reagan's decision to withhold the documents and was slapped by Congress with a criminal contempt citation — the first such finding against an agency head.

She resigned in March 1983 amid controversy over the documents and allegations that she and her EPA lieutenants engaged in political manipulation of toxic waste cleanup money, conflicts of interest and sweetheart deals with industry.

"Burford was a scapegoat of the Justice Department and White House staff," Rep. Don Edwards, D-Calif., a Judiciary Committee member, said Friday.

The committee, which urged Attorney General Edwin Meese to seek appointment of an independent counsel to investigate possible improprieties by Justice Department lawyers, found Burford twice urged Reagan to release damaging EPA documents to Congress. But Reagan decided first to defer to Fielding's argument that files should be withheld "on principle" and then to set up a meeting between Burford and Smith, the report said.

Reagan withheld the documents from November 1982 to March 1983, citing "executive privilege," a claim the House committee criticized as "untenable."

Bombs wreak havoc in Belgium, France

BRUSSELS, Belgium (UPI) — A terrorist bomb Friday rocked a courthouse in Liege, killing at least one person and injuring several others just a few hours after blasts shook NATO installations in Belgium and France.

In Brussels, police stopped traffic in the Avenue Louise quarter when passersby found a suspicious suitcase about 3:30 p.m. near a branch of the Banque Bruxelles Lambert.

The search caused huge traffic jams, but it was not immediately determined whether explosives were found in the suitcase.

Minister of Justice Jean Gol, who also serves as Belgium's vice premier, was in the courthouse in Liege, 60 miles southeast of Brussels, for the induction of lawyers into the Young Barriers Association at the time of the explosion.

Gol, who was not injured, told reporters the person killed in the Liege blast may have been carrying the explosives. Several other people were injured, one seriously, but police could not immediately provide exact figures.

The bomb occurred about 3 p.m. in a corridor connecting two floors of the court building, said a police official, who added the "damage spread to several floors."

Earlier in the day, a bomb caused minor damage to a secret NATO oil installation northwest of Brussels, the Belgian Defense Ministry said.

There has been a little leakage but the damage is not serious," a ministry spokesman said of the blast at the installation at Wortegem, about 20 miles from Brussels.

GOP may push legislation limiting insurance hikes

By Judd Everhart
The Associated Press

HARTFORD — Hoping to curb "dramatic and traumatic" increases in insurance rates, Republican legislative leaders on Friday proposed a series of insurance law changes and raised the possibility of a law requiring state approval of future rate increases.

"We have a crisis in this state in terms of insurance availability and affordability," said House Speaker R.E. Van Norstrand, R-Darien. "The thing we must have to do is ensure stability."

He cited numerous recent complaints from municipalities and business operators who face "dramatic and traumatic" increases in insurance costs.

Insurance companies have generally pointed to ever-rising medical costs as the cause of rate increases. Van Norstrand said GOP leaders considered, but rejected, the idea of putting any limits on the amounts of such awards.

He said that part of the problem could be attributed to insurance companies' cutting their rates over the past few years and now having to raise them. He said the insurance commissioner has the authority to require higher rates if he feels they are unreasonable.

"There have been no hearings held on inadequate rates," Van Norstrand said. "There has been a good deal of winking at what was going on by the insurance commissioner."

COMMISSIONER PETER W. GILLIES dismissed Van Norstrand's comments.

"That just reflects a lack of awareness of what this department has done," he said. "We have been probably one of the most severe states" in dealing with insurance companies.

The Republican leaders called for a study of the insurance rate structure and the possibility of requiring the commissioner to approve insurance rate increases.

Gillies said that requiring prior approval of rate increases deserves consideration, but he said the staff would have to be beefed up considerably. He now has a staff of 77 and a $2.5 million annual budget.

Gillies is heading a task force appointed by the governor to study insurance problems in Connecticut.

OTHER GOP PROPOSALS would:

- limit attorney's fees so that the larger the award in a personal injury case, the smaller percentage the lawyer would get.
- allow larger payments to be paid out over a number of years.
- discourage frivolous suits.
- change state liquor laws so that only the last licensee to serve an intoxicated person could be held responsible.
- require 60 days' notice, instead of the current 30, before a policy could be canceled.

Mass picket set Monday at Pratt

Leaders of major unions around the state met to plan the picketing Monday as no new talks were scheduled between the striking Machinists union and Pratt, the world's largest manufacturer of jet engines.

O'Neill said Friday in Hartford that he couldn't force himself into the dispute because Pratt is a private company and not a state government agency. He said the state Labor Department is prepared to go in at any time and help with negotiations.

On Thursday, Toby Moffett, O'Neill's opponent for the 1986 Democratic gubernatorial nomination, said O'Neill should intervene in the strike.

"When you're on the outside, you can be totally irresponsible," O'Neill said of Moffett's suggestion.

A total of about 5,300 workers at the plants in Middletown, North Haven and Southington walked off the job at 12:01 a.m. Monday after rejecting the company's last contract offer.

Another 5,800 machinists at the East Hartford plant also rejected the company offer, but in two rounds of voting failed to muster the two-thirds margin needed to reject the union constitution to call a strike.

Webster said the state AFL-CIO council also pledged at Friday's meeting to call on elected officials to put pressure on Pratt's parent firm, United Technologies Corp., to resume negotiations.

Webster said the union has been bringing out "as many as we can possibly muster" for the picketing and hopes that its members at East Hartford plant will honor the picket lines.

Court Fetus not human

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — A fetus is not a human being, the Minnesota Supreme Court said Friday in a decision that means a man who was accused of killing an 8-month-old fetus in an automobile accident cannot be charged in the child's death.

In a 6-1 ruling, the court said no specific state statute deals with the question of whether a fetus is a human being and that the Legislature has never precisely defined the term "human being," even though it has been used in homicide statutes since territorial days.

The decision whether to permit criminal prosecution involving a viable fetus is one for the Legislature to make, the opinion said.

Frank Parisi, a spokesman for United Technologies, said no new talks were scheduled. "We haven't been asked to return, and so it's not appropriate for me to make any predictions or comments," Parisi said.

In addition to Monday's mass picketing, the union plans to conduct "spot picketing" at East Hartford with members from the strike-bound plants putting up lines from time to time without advance notice.

neth Kirschner said.

"From what I hear nothing appears to be critical or serious," said John Carlton, a spokesman at Griffin Hospital. "We've got our fingers crossed in a big way."

The explosion blew out windows in nearby storefronts, littering Main Street with broken glass. Smoke from the resulting fire billowed upward and the smell could be detected for miles.

"It knocked bottles right off the shelves," said bartender Don Smalley, who lives a block and a half from the site of the explosion and works in a nearby cafe.

Smalley said police told him he would not be able to return to his home for three days. "I had to sneak in to get a jacket," he said.

"You're talking about a four-story, completely brick building that in one shot is down to the ground," Deputy Fire Marshal Charles Stanke Jr. said of the explosion, which occurred at about 4 p.m. EST.

Firefighters from 10 area departments were called to the scene and Route 34, the main thoroughfare to New Haven, was blocked. Traffic on the nearby Route 4 expressway was backed up for miles.

Derby is located northwest of New Haven in the Naugatuck Valley region of Connecticut.

Gov. William A. O'Neill, wearing a hard hat, visited the area around 10 p.m. with the state police commander and local officials.

"It's a very tragic thing," O'Neill said. "Everybody's doing all they can, obviously."

NEW HAVEN — A federal judge Friday granted preliminary approval to a class action suit which seeks to break down the exclusivity of state real estate multiple listing services.

U.S. District Judge Robert C. Zampano released his preliminary decision in the class action suit in a document over 100 pages long.

HARTFORD — Democratic Gov. William A. O'Neill on Friday called the expected announcement this weekend that Republican Sen. Lowell P. Welcker Jr. will definitely not run for governor next year "good news for us all."

Welcker reportedly will make what's described as a "Shermanesque" statement on Sunday declaring himself out of the sweepstakes for the 1986 Republican gubernatorial nomination.

It was Civil War Gen. William Tecumseh Sherman who told the 1864 Republican National Convention: "I will not accept if nominated and will not serve if elected."

Police seek gays' help

HARTFORD — State police have alerted the gay community that a killer may be preying on homosexuals, but those who might help solve the case are reluctant to talk, an investigator said Friday.

Police believe two slayings and the wounding of a third victim in the Vernon-Ellington area are related. All three men were shot in the head and were homosexuals, authorities claim.

A total of $30,000 in rewards have been posted for information leading to an arrest and conviction in the two killings, but police say they have been frustrated in efforts to obtain possible leads.

"The only way we ever get information from homosexuals is for me to go out and dig it up," said state police Detective Frank Griffin, who has sought leads through the state's network of gay groups, publications and gathering places.

For Paula LaBrec, night duty has turned into one cold shift

By Nancy Pappas
Herald Reporter

It takes Paula LaBrec nearly a quarter of an hour to don her work clothes these days. Although she is a nurse's aide, her uniform at present consists of pantyhose, thermal underwear, three pairs of socks, blue jeans, a blouse and two sweaters, all topped by a coat, hat, scarf and two pairs of mittens.

It's the coldest and the loneliest shift, said LaBrec. "You're talking some mean, cold weather out there on some of these nights," she said.

"There's only a few of us assigned to the line on that shift any two of us there — two women — alone all night."

At first, she didn't think much about her vulnerability. LaBrec said. But for the past 10 days or so, the nickname for that time slot — "the graveyard shift" — has sent shivers up her spine.

"You've got to think about what's been going on," LaBrec said, "about Jonathan and Alan."

Jonathan Rosenblum, a union organizer, was allegedly run off the road by one of the nursing home owners. A car belonging to Alan Dimlow, a striking worker, was bit with a blast from a shotgun as it sat in the driveway of the young man's home in Vernon.

Paula LaBrec bundles up to walk the picket line at Crestfield-Fenwood nursing home on Vernon Street. The strike is in its seventh week, and some picketers are fearful for their own safety.

IN THE PAST few weeks, both strikers and those who cross the picket line have had their cars vandalized.

On the night of Nov. 26, LaBrec and a fellow striker watched as a man drove up and threw trash around the area where the picketers gather. At 5:30 on Thanksgiving morning, a man started pushing and rocking the car in which she was taking a quick nap.

Sean has become fearful for his mother's safety. "When I'm going, he'll kiss me good night and say, 'Have a nice picketing, but be careful out there.'"

LaBrec said she won't consider retreating from the ranks of the strikers.

"All I have to do is think about Sean. All I have to do is think about where I've been with him, and where we're going," said LaBrec. "That gives me the 'oomph' I need to keep going."

LABREC'S LIFE hasn't been an easy one.

"I had Sean when I was 17, still in high school," she said Wednesday night. She shrugged slightly, and settled back on the couch in the L-shaped living room-bedroom she rents on West Middle Turnpike.

For a year after Sean's birth, LaBrec worked at a variety of jobs, leaving her son with his grandmother. "But I wasn't having any time to watch that baby grow," said LaBrec. "So I quit working and went on the state."

For six years, LaBrec and her son were supported by the welfare system. "I hated it, but I

Sour singing is designed to help cause

Editor's note: This column is prepared by the Manchester Area Conference of Churches.
By Nancy Carr
MACC Director

One of the side benefits of having children into your sunset years is that you get the inside scoop from the local junior high. Case in point — son David rummages up a can of green beans and several cans of tuna.

"Why are we having green beans and tuna for breakfast?" I say.
"I'm trying to keep the student council from singing this morning over the intercom," replies David.
At 7 a.m. this takes some sorting out but over toast and eggs I discover that the student council at Iling has pledged that they will sing EVERY MORNING until students have brought in at least 2,000 cans of food. "I know one kid — he brought in nine cans after they sang 'Rudolph the Red Nosed Reindeer,'" says David.

"It's reassuring to find our future in the hands of such dedicated and inventive young people. What's more, Iling sponsored a can-can dance. (get it?) Son David reports they played the can-can song and had can-can dancers on the posters. Cost of admission depended on the number of cans you brought to the dance (3 cans plus 50 cents, 2 cans plus a dollar, 1 can plus $1.50, no cans $2 and booze and catcalls.

ILLING DOESN'T have a corner on this year's miracles. Our young people are going out. The student council at Manchester High School sponsored a competition between homerooms to raise food for families needing help. To date they have collected 4,000 items of non-perishable food. Paul Murdoch, teacher adviser to the student council, handed us the check last Wednesday. Great, great job.
The students also provide special parties and gifts at convalescent homes over the holiday season.

Students at Bennett Junior High have also been collecting food. They have already collected enough food and money to fill 27 Thanksgiving baskets to the blind and then delivered them to the families' doors. Before Thanksgiving was over they were already planning Christmas for the 37 families they have adopted.

East students have divided the planning and organizing responsibilities for the past year. Sister Marion Raymond takes on the responsibility for Thanksgiving and the student council (Mrs. Caffrey, adviser) coordinates the Christmas giving program. The students also provide special parties and gifts at convalescent homes over the holiday season.

Students at parochial middle schools are also involved in giving. The young people prepared Thanksgiving baskets while students at Assumption Junior High adopted six families for Thanksgiving and are already getting gifts for each member of the family to put with the Christmas baskets.
Even our younger set is reaching out. Students at Keene Elementary School planned and carried out a successful schoolwide food collection that raised 1,000 items before they were finished. A terrific collection by our youngsters. At Buckley, the PTA organized a collection which originally started in the special ed classes and spread through the whole school. Buckley students are now planning to adopt two families for Christmas giving. Students at St. James were busy packing Thanksgiving baskets (Did you see the picture?)

Curry winner by a knockout

By Ed Schuyler Jr.
THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
LAS VEGAS, Nev. — Donald Curry knocked Milton McCrory cold with a smashing right to the jaw in the second round Friday night and won the undisputed welterweight championship of the world.
It was a devastating performance by Curry, known as the Lone Star Cobra, who struck with lightning suddenness in having the Detroit Ice Man in less than five minutes.
Curry, the World Boxing Association and International Boxing Federation champ, knocked McCrory down with a left hook before finishing the World Boxing Council champion off at 1:53 of the second round.
Curry, who now is 24-6 with 19 knockouts, took charge from the opening bell and hurt McCrory, 18-34, with two left hooks in the first round.
The scheduled 12-round bout decided the first undisputed 147-pound class champion since Sugar Ray Leonard, who relinquished the World Boxing Council and World Boxing Association titles when he retired in 1982.
It did not take Curry nearly as long as he predicted to win. The NBA in 1976 and it broke a five-game winning streak for Philadelphia.
Calvin Natt had 25 points and 16 rebounds for the Nuggets.
Philadelphia, playing without the injured Julius Erving, was led by Moses Malone, who had 26 points, and Maurice Cheeks, who had 18.
Hawks, 94, Bucks 93
At Atlanta, Scott Hastings tipped in a go-ahead shot by Michael Wilkins with 3 seconds left Friday night to give the Atlanta Hawks a 94-93 victory over the Milwaukee Bucks.
Milwaukee took a 93-90 lead with 40 seconds left on a layup by Paul Pressey, but Atlanta's Kevin Willis followed with a basket and drew the Hawks to 89-92 with 11 seconds remaining. Milwaukee turnover gave Atlanta the ball with 9 seconds left.
The 6-foot-10 Hastings then entered the game for the first time as a replacement for Willis. Willis attempted a 26-foot jumper, but the shot fell short, allowing Hastings to score his game-winning basket.
Atlanta, 10-11, got 20 points from Wilkins while guard Randy Wittman scored 14.
Milwaukee, 16-4, got 23 points, including 14 in the fourth quarter, from Sidney Moncrief. Forward Terry Cummings finished with 16 points and a team high 13 rebounds.
Pacers 107, Knicks 83
At Indianapolis, Herb Williams scored a career-high 37 points Friday night to propel the Indiana Pacers to a 107-83 victory over the New York Knicks.
The triumph was the second in three games for the Pacers, now 5-15. The Knicks slipped to 5-16, one of the three worst records in the NBA with the Pacers and Phoenix Suns.
After falling behind by three points early in the game, 7-4, the Pacers scored the next eight points for a 12-7 advantage with 7:24 left in the first quarter.
Indiana was up by 33-13 after the first quarter and 66-36 at the half. The Pacers' biggest lead was 34 points in the third period.
New York failed to trim the deficit to 20 at 72-52 with 1:29 remaining in the period before Indiana rebounded the lead to 30 in the final quarter.
Wayman Tisdale added 18 points for Indiana while Louis Orr led New York with 14 points and Rory Sparrow picked up 13.
Bullets 115, Sonics 109
At Landover, Md., Jeff Malone scored 37 points and Gus Williams added 26 Friday night to power the Washington Bullets to their seventh consecutive home triumph, a 115-109 victory over the Seattle SuperSonics.
Seattle 9-12, paced in scoring by Gerald Henderson, who led a pair of free throws to put Seattle within 111-109 with one minute left to play.
But Washington's Tom McMillen, in the game by tipping in a Williams' miss to give the Bullets a 113-109 lead with 15 seconds left.
Williams made 5-5 with his second power-play of the game at 4:49 of the second period before Stastny made 5-5 with his second power-play of the game at 8:27.
New York captain Denis Polvin scored his sixth goal of the season with a slap-shot from the blue-line at 10:22, putting him one point behind Bobby in the all-time scoring record for defenseman.
Devils 4, Canucks 1
At East Rutherford, N.J., Aaron Broten scored two goals Friday night to help the New Jersey Devils break a three-game losing streak with a 4-1 victory over the Vancouver Canucks.

Whalers acquire wily Doug Jarvis

By Bob Popelli
HERALD Sports Writer
HARTFORD — The Cat unsheathed his claws again.
Whalers' President-General Manager Emile Francis engineered what looks to be another on-the-trade Friday, acquiring defenseman Doug Jarvis from the Washington Capitals for disappointing left wing Jorgen Pettersen.
Jarvis, 30, is acknowledged as one of the top back-and-forth chasers in the NHL. He won the Selke Trophy — awarded to the league's best defensive forward — in 1983-84, and was runner-up last year.
Jarvis has played 825 consecutive games, second to Garry Unger's NHL record of 914 straight. An 11-year veteran, he has one goal and two assists this season.
The 30-year-old Jarvis was acquired by the Capitals from Montreal with Rod Langway, Brian Engblom and Craig Laughman in a 1982 trade for Rick Green and Ryan Walter.
"Doug is an outstanding defensive player, a fine penalty killer, and is recognized as one of the top face-off men in the league," said Francis. "We like his leadership quality and determination."
Pettersen, 29, the "future consideration" from St. Louis in last year's Greg Miller-Mark Johnson for Mike Luttbachbuster deal, was a major disappointment. Pettersen averaged 32 goals in five NHL seasons, but netted just five this year. Besides his lack of production — everyone expected 25-35 goals out of him — Pettersen had a problem with motivation and was eventually demoted from first- to fourth-line status.
Unger's NHL record of 914 straight is a record that no other player on the Whalers' checking line, which recently featured versatile Dave Tippett centering Pettersen and right wing Paul MacDermid, Tippett, who skated on left wing all last year, would undoubtedly move back to the post side.

Nords extend skein, whip the Islanders

By United Press International
QUEBEC — Peter Stastny scored two power-play goals and added an assist and Jean-Francois Sauve set up three power-play goals to lead the Quebec Nordiques to a 7-3 victory over the New York Islanders.
It was the Nordiques' fourth straight victory and enabled them to extend their unbeaten streak at home against the Islanders to seven regular-season games.
Stastny opened the scoring with the first of four Quebec power-play goals two minutes into the first period as he took Michel Goulet's centering pass and beat New York goaltender Billy Smith.
Islander Duane Sutter tied the game 38 seconds later, but John Anderson restored Quebec's lead at 5:14 with a power-play goal. Will Pettersen made 3-1 at 6:43 when he poked a loose puck past Smith, who bobbed Brent Ashton's original shot.
Goulet followed with Quebec's third power-play goal of the game at 4:49 of the second period before Stastny made 5-5 with his second power-play goal of the game at 8:27.
New York captain Denis Polvin scored his sixth goal of the season with a slap-shot from the blue-line at 10:22, putting him one point behind Bobby in the all-time scoring record for defenseman.

MCC a contender in Classic

By Bob Popelli

Herald Sports Writer

As far as pre-season basketball tournaments go, the host school — no matter its talent level — usually makes it a point to invite only those teams that it has a better-than-even chance of beating. You hold a tournament unless you make sure you've got a shot to win it.
Manchester Community College, which basically co-hosts the annual Manchester Rotary Club Classic each December, is an exception.
The Cougars have never won their own tournament, which celebrates its fourth anniversary Dec. 27-28. This year's tourney is being held at Manchester High's Clarke Arena.
MCC revamped this season after years in the doldrums, has a shot this time. The Cougars, who won just three games in 1984-85, have jumped off to a lopsided 4-0 mark.
Manchester travels to Johnston, N.Y., this weekend for the Fulton-Montgomery Tourney where the Cougars in first round action tonight.
"I think they probably invited us because of our record last year," says MCC sports publicist Bill Dumas, at the press luncheon of the Manchester Rotary Club Classic at East Catholic High Friday night.
The Cougars team is accompanied by coaches Pat Mistretta and Skip Olander and assistant coaches Bruce Hendricks and Steve Hendricks. "We don't know anything about any of the teams (Genesee CC and Columbia-Greene CC are the others), but I think we'll be surprised," added Dumas.
The first round schedule for Friday, Dec. 27, pits Mitchell against Southern at 2 p.m., followed by Windsor vs. Middletown at 4 p.m.
Local teams are spotlighted in prime time. MCC takes on Hartford State at 6 p.m., while Manchester Rotary Club president Frank Livingston (second from right) presented checks for $500 to MCC directors (from left), Mike Simmons, Pat Mistretta and Tom Malin at luncheon Friday in conjunction with Rotary Club Classic that will be held Dec. 27-28 at Manchester High.

High star Carter Russell is the Cougars' leading scorer, averaging 25.5 points per game. Kevin Hayes and Tyrrell Hartfield average 18 and 17 ppw, while Hayes is the leading rebounder with 11.8 caroms per game. East Catholic graduate John Theriault is Mitchell's top scorer. "First-year" Manchester forward Frank Knel, a former coach at MCC, notes that 45 players are out for this year's season, including lettermen Brian Miller, Marc Hendricks and Brian Arnold. "East Catholic's gunning guard and floor leader from last year, Chris Galligan, is now hardwood contributor for the MCC Cougars."

The Bible Speaks

by Eugene Brower

An anonymous pundit has said: "Most of us carry a stumbling block around. We cover it with a hat. And most people are their own worst stumbling over themselves."
This is the case because in this stumbling block lies prejudice against people of other faiths, against those who are different, against those who are different, against those who are different, against those who are different.

This also is the case because in that stumbling block ignorance prevails, tripping one up educationally, vocationally, and/or spiritually (John 8:12-21). There is no virtue in ignorance. It offers no viable shelter.

But that "stumbling block" can be converted into a storehouse of knowledge, a treasury of unconditional love, and a source of creative activity. A hat won't hide it, no reshape it into a stepping stone.

Holyfield said most of the gambling tickets were football cards. "They would gamble on what side of the bed they'd fall out of," added detective Wood.

Manchester called hub of gambling ring

By George Lovyn Herald Reporter

A Spruce Street man has been charged with running a betting operation that handled more than $40 million a year in connection with a raid police are calling one of the biggest in state history.

Police said they were informed of the gambling operation by a confidential informant two years ago. However, Manchester police did not have experience with professional gambling, they sought assistance from gambling experts with the Organized Crime Task Force and Hartford Police, Holyfield said.

Police said they were able to make the arrests before water was thrown onto the records. Police said Holmes, who operated the upstate business, and Dadikos were arrested outside 199 Forest St. as they loaded furniture onto a truck. Police said 20 officers participated in the raids.

Holyfield said most of the gambling tickets were football cards. "They would gamble on what side of the bed they'd fall out of," added detective Wood.

Striking machinists from Pratt & Whitney plants in North Haven, Southington and Middletown try to discourage a motorist from entering the company's East Hartford plant this morning. Employees of the jet engine manufacturer picketed outside the East Hartford plant, where union members last week refused to authorize a strike.

Hundreds picket to force new talks

EAST HARTFORD (AP) — Hundreds of picketers marched in support of Pratt & Whitney Aircraft's striking Machinists union outside the company's largest plant today as a walkout against the defense contractor entered its second week.

Union officials said 500 to 600 picketers from unions across the state convinced half of the jet engine maker's East Hartford plant employees to stay off the job while the company said a count of no-shows was not immediately available.

The Connecticut State Labor Council sponsored the labor demonstration in an effort to force Pratt & Whitney back to the bargaining table. The lines will not be fired, according to a Taking part in today's action

Chance lost for sewer grant

Manchester lost a chance to get a grant for improvements to the sewage treatment plant on Olcott Street Saturday when voters in Winsted authorized their town to issue bonds for sewage-treatment improvements, officials said today.

Winsted, part of the town of Winchester, has first call on $10 million in federal and state grant money available for improvements to Connecticut sewage treatment plants. The vote Saturday, which was 255 to 2, virtually assures that Winsted will get the grant.

In the current grant cycle, Manchester stands just below Winsted on the state's priority list for funding. Officials said today that the town will have to look for other funds to finance the improvements and expansion planned for the Olcott Street plant.

Asked what the next move for Manchester would be, Robert Young, superintendent of the town water and sewer division, said, "To be quite honest, I don't think we are going anywhere right away."

"We are studying the alternatives. We will explore every possible source for funding," said town General Manager Robert E. Weiss.

IN THE NOV. 5 ELECTION, Manchester voters authorized the expenditure of up to $14.3 million in municipal funds for the $28 million project. Weiss and other town
