Inmates take guards hostage in Oklahoma

By Hebert G. McGinn The Associated Press

McALESTER, Okla. — State troopers and sheriff's deputies ringed the maximum-security Oklahoma State Penitentiary today as authorities sought the release of seven guards held hostage by about 80 prisoners who went on a rampage, stabbing three guards.

House Ways and Means Chairman Dan Rostenkowski, D-Ill., left, looks at a copy of the tax overhaul bill that passed the House Tuesday during a celebration following the vote. Reps. Fortney Lupton, D-Calif., and J.J. Pickle, D-Texas, hold the tax bill which members of Congress signed for Rostenkowski.

Reagan, GOP vow further change in bill

WASHINGTON — President Reagan jangled his way to the rescue of his tax overhaul effort with his dramatic visit to Capitol Hill and a campaign of persuasion that lasted until the final hours, GOP lawmakers say.

Reagan gave that pledge. "I said, 'Mr. President, I'm very cynical about the Senate, but I'm not cynical about you.'" He said that even before last week's vote had promised Treasury Secretary James A. Baker to back the House plan with the caveat that he would oppose any final version produced by a House-Senate conference committee if it ended deductions for state and local taxes.

WEATHER

Some thumb-number

Today: becoming mostly sunny. Windy and colder with high in the mid 20s. Wind west increasing to 20 to 30 mph. Tonight: clear and much colder. Low 3 below to 5 above. Wind west 10 to 20 mph diminishing to less than 10 mph after midnight. Thursday: mostly sunny and cold. High in the low 20s. Drawing by Ryan Oliver, 9, of 680 Spring St., a fourth grader at Martin School.

National forecast

During early Thursday, snow is forecast for parts of the Mid to Northern Plains States. Scattered showers and rain are possible in the extreme South Atlantic Coast. Elsewhere the weather will be fair.

PEOPLE

War of wits

Rich Little's imitation of George Burns is perfect except for one little flaw, Burns says. Burns recently caught Little's act and sent him a complimentary telegram. "Saw you last night on television," Burns wrote. "And you were marvelous. In fact, you were so good, I'm not sure whether I'm you or you're me, or we're both me. P.S. You hold your cigar in the wrong hand." Little wired back and included an explanation for the problem. "Thanks for the kind words. I appreciate it," he said. "P.S. I practice you in the mirror." Burns waited a bit and then responded by saying, "Nobody likes a smart aleck."

Hemingway's new tact

Ernest Hemingway's 16th posthumously published novel will be a departure from machismo, the publisher says. "The Garden of Eden," which Hemingway worked on for 14 years, deals with bloodsucking and has "tenderness and vulnerability," says Scribner's editor Tom Jenkins, who carved the book out of a 1,500-page manuscript. "Those people who have scorned Hemingway for machismo and a kind of brutality in his public life will have to reassess him," Jenkins said. "The Garden of Eden" is about a writer and his new wife who find themselves lusty for the same woman. "I know from conversations with Mary (Hemingway, the writer's last wife) that Ernest was involved in androgyny more than one of his marriages," said Hemingway biographer Peter Griffin.

Santa von Bulow

The season's greetings from Claus — von Bulow, not Santa — are not very traditional. Instead of a Christmas tree or pastoral snow scene, Von Bulow's Christmas cards feature a photograph of him and his daughter, Cosima, leaving a Providence, R.I., courthouse the day his second trial went to the jury June 6. Von Bulow, eventually acquitted of twice trying to kill his heiress wife, Sunny, is shown with a wide smile on his face. The message inside is more in keeping with the Christmas spirit — "Merry Christmas with many good wishes for the coming year." Von Bulow and Cosima reportedly spend the holidays on the island of Barbados with his girlfriend, Andrea Reynolds.

Take that

Chicago alderman Richard Mell, whose threatened lawsuit over the use of the name "Chicago Post" persuaded Mary Tyler Moore's new TV series to rename its fictional newspaper, is being asked to stop using the name himself. Mell, who has published a neighborhood newspaper, the Chicago Post, for two years, threatened to sue when he learned that CBS' "Mary" was going to use the name for a newspaper. MTM Productions Inc. switched the paper's name to the Chicago Eagle. But now Mell has received a letter from an attorney representing Chicago Post, a video production company, warning him to stop using the name. An attorney for the company, Patrick Talley, said it registered the name with the state in December 1983, before Mell starting using it. "If his trademark had validity, it responded Mell, "we'd never have gotten a trademark."

Today's forecast

Connecticut, Massachusetts and Rhode Island: Becoming mostly sunny today. Windy and colder with highs in the 20s and lower 30s. Clear and much colder tonight. Lows 3 below to 5 above northwest and 5 to 15 above southeast. Mostly sunny and cold Thursday. Highs in the 20s. Maine: Light snow or flurries likely today. Clearing south in the afternoon. Becoming windy and turning colder with highs in the teens north to lower and mid 20s south. Clearing north and mostly clear south tonight. Slowly diminishing winds. Lows 5 to 15 below north and 5 above to 10 below south. Mostly sunny Thursday. Highs in the single numbers to mid teens north and teens to mid 20s south. New Hampshire: Light snow or flurries likely today but clearing south portion in the afternoon. Becoming windy and turning colder today with highs from the teens north to lower and mid 20s south. Mostly clear with diminishing winds tonight. Lows 0 to 10 below north and 5 above to 10 below south. Mostly sunny Thursday. Highs from the single numbers to teens north and teens to mid 20s south. Vermont: Turning windy and very cold today with flurries and a little sun. A few heavier snow squalls possible. Highs 15 to 20. Very cold tonight and Thursday with a few more flurries. Lows 0 to 10 below to 5 above. Highs Thursday in the teens.

Extended outlook

Extended outlook for New England Friday through Sunday: Connecticut, Massachusetts and Rhode Island: Mostly cloudy with a chance of snow Friday. Clearing windy and cold Saturday. Partly cloudy Sunday. Highs in the 20s. Lows in the teens along the coast and 0 to 10 above inland. Vermont: Except for a few flurries, dry and quite cold through the period. Highs in the teens and lows in the single numbers to 10 below. Maine: Increasing clouds Friday. Chance of snow late Friday into Saturday. Fair Sunday. Lows zero to 10 below north and zero to 10 above south. Highs in the teens north and upper teens to mid 20s south. New Hampshire: Increasing clouds Friday. Chance of snow late Friday into Saturday. Fair Sunday. Lows zero to 10 below north and zero to 10 above south. Highs in the teens north and upper teens to mid 20s south.

Across the nation

Snowshowers will be locally heavy near the lower Great Lakes. Snow will also be likely across northern New England. Scattered light snow will occur near the upper Great Lakes, across the upper Ohio Valley and over parts of the northern and central Plains. Rain will be scattered across the Gulf Coast region. Valley fog will persist west of the Rockies. High temperatures will only be in the single digits from eastern South Dakota across the upper Mississippi Valley. Highs will be mostly in the teens and 20s over the northern plateau, the Missouri and Ohio valleys, the Great Lakes region and New England.

Today in history

In 1984, the White House said President Reagan, shown here a month later answering a reporter's question, would cut military spending by $28 billion over three years to help slash the deficit from $200 billion to $99 billion in 1988.

Almanac

Today is Wednesday, Dec. 18, the 322nd day of 1985 with 13 to follow. The moon is nearing its first quarter. The morning stars are Mercury, Venus, Mars and Saturn. The evening star is Jupiter. Those born on this date are under the sign of Sagittarius. They include Swiss modernist painter Paul Klee in 1879, baseball player Ty Cobb in 1886, actress Betty Grable in 1916, West German statesman Willy Brandt in 1913 (age 72), boxing champion Muhammad Ali in 1942 (age 43), and film director Steven Spielberg in 1947 (age 38). In 1865, the United States resumed heavy bombing and mining operations against North Vietnam after the communists refused to agree to end the war. A thought for the day: Muhammad Ali said, "Not only do I knock 'em out, I pick the round."

Bluegrass great Bill Monroe has been victimized again. A 300-pound safe containing more than $10,000 in cash and rings was taken from the bedroom on his tour bus sometime in the past week. The theft comes a month after vandals broke into his Goodlettsville, Tenn., home and smashed his first mandolin.

'Til politics parts us

Rep. Jill Zwick, R-Ill., knows one of her opponents in the GOP primary in March very well. He's her former husband, Morton Zwick, a commodities broker from East Dundee, filed his candidacy petitions Monday for the 65th District House seat that his ex-wife, living in nearby Elgin, has occupied since 1981. The Zwicks were divorced in 1984 after 16 years of marriage and have four children. Zwick said they are on amicable terms. "I'm not running against anybody. I'm running for the office of state representative. I think I've got some new solutions to some old problems," Zwick said. "I have the highest regard for my former wife. She's a lovely person, a good mother. There is no vindictiveness. We share, among other things, capital assets, a house, and four lovely children."

Way to go, Waylon

Waylon Jennings, who has written such country music hits as "Are You Sure Hank Done It This Way?" and the theme from "The Dukes of Hazzard," will be honored by the Songwriters Guild of America in Nashville, Tenn. The guild announced Tuesday that it is saluting the country star for his contributions to songwriting and his encouragement to aspiring songwriters. Jennings will be presented the award Jan. 13 during the 6th annual National Songwriter Awards on a syndicated television special at the Tennessee Performing Arts Center.

Town may cut time it takes to hire police

Town officials and the police department are considering shortening the process used to select patrol officers as one way to improve the chances that a minority-group member will be hired. By shortening the hiring process, the department would be able to attract more candidates, patrol Capt. Henry Minor said Tuesday. "The candidates are career-oriented. Many more are looking for employment in other departments at the same time," Minor said. "We may lose candidates if it takes too long." The current process takes about six months to complete, he said. It includes written and oral examinations, physical and agility tests, and background investigations. A review of the hiring process is currently being conducted in the wake of criticism from the Manchester Intercultural Council and others. A new round of police hiring is scheduled to begin in January to fill five positions that will be vacant by the end of the year. The department employs 57 regular patrol officers, all of them white. Two officers are scheduled to retire, two openings were not filled in the last round of hiring, and one officer resigned during training at the police academy. In November, police hired three new officers to help fill five openings. Police officials said in May, when the process began, that the town hoped to hire at least one officer from a minority group. Although several minority-group candidates passed written and physical exams, they failed background checks or physical examinations, officials said later. Minor said he would not speculate on whether the department has made progress in efforts to hire minority patrol officers. He said, though, that the review of hiring procedures may lead to some changes. The review is being conducted by the town manager's office, which coordinates police hiring. Assistant Town Manager Steven Werber said Monday that he will work with the Intercultural Council and other groups to reevaluate the process. He said earlier reviews have resulted in changes, such as the inclusion of an oral examination. "If there's been a suggestion, it's been explored seriously," Werber said. He said the evaluation should be completed by the time the next round of hiring begins.

Commission asks Cheney changes

If the state Historical Commission has its way, there will be no fixtures at ground level to light the walls of Cheney Hall and there will not be as much planting on the grounds as is shown in the present plan. Richard Bartlett, the commission's historical architect, is preparing a report for the Cheney Hall Foundation that will recommend against the lights and in favor of less planting. Bartlett told the Herald today that lights at ground level would light the building from the wrong direction and accentuate any imperfections in the building's walls. The shrubs planned for the grounds of Cheney Hall would impose a maintenance problem, he said. At the last meeting of the Cheney Hall Foundation, which is overseeing restoration of the historic building on Hartford Road, Vice Chairman Donald Kuehl explained Bartlett's objections. "While the foundation took no vote, the consensus appeared to be that the recommendations of the historical commission should be followed."

Parties set for retirees

Retirement parties have been scheduled for two employees of the town's Finance Department who will retire at the end of the year. A retirement dinner will be held Jan. 3 for Thomas Moore, director of finance, at the Marco Polo Restaurant at 1255 Riverside Ave. in East Hartford. A retirement luncheon will be held Dec. 30 for Laurier R. Tardiff, payroll supervisor, at the Manchester Country Club. Anyone interested in attending either should phone the office of the controller, 647-3102, for further information.

Fire Calls

Friday, 5 p.m. — Medical call, 702 W. Middle Turnpike (Paramedics). Friday, 6:13 p.m. — Medical call, 801 Main St. (Paramedics). Friday, 9:06 p.m. — Medical call, 308 Broad St. (Town and Paramedics). Saturday, 1:21 p.m. — dryer fire, 150 Pine St. (Town).

Manchester In Brief

Swenson hits central lists State Rep. Elsie L. Swenson, R-Manchester, said she will oppose a $5 million plan to centralize the state's voter registration lists. "I just don't think we need this expensive program," she said in a news release. Swenson, the vice chairwoman of the Legislature's Government Administration and Elections Committee, said the current system, in which towns and cities have the sole responsibility for voter registration, works well. "While a statewide system might be of some help to registrars in small towns which do not have large staffs or budgets, I do not see this idea as a necessity and therefore cannot justify the expense," Swenson said.

Permits up in November

The town issued building permits last month for construction projects with a total estimated value of $660,000, according to a report by the Building Division for October. The comparable figure was $285,000. The November tally included permits for nine single-family dwellings, 14 attached single-family dwellings and two two-family dwellings. The October tally includes six single-family dwellings, one attached single-family dwelling and two two-family dwellings.

Velvet developer files plans

A Massachusetts-based company has filed a site development plan with the Planning Department for conversion of the former Cheney Brothers Velvet Mill at 60 Elm St. into 210 apartments. Plans filed by the Velvet Mill Limited Partnership of Cambridge, Mass., also show indoor and on-site parking at the Velvet Weave Shed on Pine Street.

ECHS holds make-up test

East Catholic High School will have a make-up entrance examination Jan. 11 for students who were unable to take the test Dec. 7. The test will begin at 7:45 a.m. and end at 12:30 p.m. Students are reminded to bring $10 for the test fee and two No. 2 pencils. Pre-registration is advised. For an application, call 649-5536.

HRC sees April adoption

New hiring plan advances

A new affirmative action plan could go into effect by April if the Manchester Board of Directors Commission members stress that the hiring goals contained in the plan must be "reachable" if the plan is to be effective. Members of the HRC have criticized the town's first affirmative action plan, adopted in July 1976, as unrealistic. The new plan is still in rough-draft form, but should be ready for the Board of Directors by April 1, HRC member Geoffrey Naab said.

Injuries prompt suit

Injuries suffered by a student at the Nathan Hale Elementary School last year have prompted a lawsuit against the town. The suit seeks an unspecified amount of money for the cost of medical care. The suit says the student "suffered a fracture of the left elbow, contusions, abrasions, swelling to the left elbow and left hand, and a severe and lasting shock to her nervous system." The papers did not say what caused the injuries.

Committees review work at Verplanck

By Alex Girilli
Herald Reporter

Members of two town committees accompanied architect Richard Mankey on a tour of Verplanck School Tuesday night to review his recommendations for renovations and code work.

The Board of Education's Building and Sites Committee and the town Building Committee reviewed Mankey's recommendations for work at the 36-year-old school line by line, but decided to set priorities later, according to Frank Maffe, chairman of the Building and Sites Committee.

OPINION

Shooting spree shows need for review of law

One person was killed and two others were wounded in a shooting spree at Portland Junior High School last week. But because he is 13 years old, the boy who allegedly fired the shots faces a maximum sentence of four years' supervision under the auspices of the state Department of Children and Youth Services.

That is the maximum penalty anyone under 14 can receive in Connecticut for any crime.

The seeming laxity of the law, as highlighted by the Portland incident, prompted some state legislators to start crying for reform well before custodian David Brington, the lone fatality in the school shooting, had been buried. Although their call was premature, it was not necessarily wrong.

Because emotions often dominate reason in the wake of tragedy, reactionary legislation must be avoided on principle as a means of eliminating a troublesome situation or legal loophole.

But the law governing youthful offenders in Connecticut deserves review, and the pleas of those motivated by the shooting in Portland should not be summarily dismissed.

While most young offenders certainly deserve protection from the adult court and corrections systems, the law should be made more flexible to accommodate individual incidents.

It is difficult to define the age at which children become adults, particularly at a time when young people are continually bombarded by adult messages and pressures. To say that a 12-year-old — or even an 11- or 12-year-old — who shoots someone is a child and should not be held totally accountable for his or her actions is not always the best thing for either society or the perpetrator.

Many habitual criminals in this country started their careers at an early age, and some no doubt discovered along the way that their youth offered a virtual license to wantonly violate the law. A four-year stay at a juvenile detention center — with no strings attached afterwards — hardly fits crimes of such seriousness as murder and rape, and would seem to offer little deterrence to a youngster bent on disregarding the law.

Ideally, reform and psychological help should be the goal of any criminal sentence, whether it is handed down to an adult or to a child. But in the case of some young offenders, particularly those who have already compiled long police records, it is doubtful the state can even come close to accomplishing those goals in four years.

Without passing judgment on the suspect in the Portland shooting, the state Legislature should take another look at the way lawbreakers under 14 are treated.

I remembered seventh-grade days at Nathan Hale School and the eighth grade at Burnard. We saw the old Manchester High I would have attended and thought of Jimmy Roach scoring touchdowns at Mount Nebo field. We passed the Armory from Korea. I felt like a time traveler from some distant land privileged to visit my own past.

Driving past the old Nazarene Church on Main Street where my dad pastored, I remembered the wonderful people I had known there. I discovered that a newer Manchester High School now stood where I played baseball for the champion Little League Yankees in the early '50s. I remembered sports writer Earl Yost, who used to write nice things about that team in the Manchester Herald. A new building loomed into view in the center of town where the Center Restaurant and Walter's Barber Shop once stood. I remembered my dentist, Dr. Fancher. I wondered where all of these people were now and hoped, even though some may be gone, that God had richly blessed their lives as he had mine.

That evening, we attended the fireworks display at the community college, and afterward went to Shady Glen for ice cream. As we watched those fireworks along with a large crowd of apparent strangers, I realized that some of my old friends, and their children, yes, and possibly grandchildren, may have been nearby. However, I could not see a familiar face although I searched hopefully. Somehow though, I felt very much at peace and at home. Thank you, Manchester. May God bless you always.

WEICKER HAS A VIEW of what being a candidate means — going ahead and organizing a campaign, raising funds and doing other preliminaries. In that sense, he says now, "It was never a likely move by me." He hadn't gone that far.

It must also be said that events in Welcher's life in the past year had a heavy and probably compelling impact on his decision.

The Welcher move puts new and critical pressure on the four potential gubernatorial nominees. Alphabetically, they are State Rep. Julie Belgard of Westport, and former State Sens. Dick Bozuto of Watertown, Gerry Labriola of Naugatuck and Romeo Petroni of Ridgefield.

They must show something very soon — get the momentum rolling and "catch on" with the public.

Otherwise the stage will be set for an open convention in July and the possibility of new faces popping up. If that happens, don't ever discount or take lightly the chance of a leading candidate by T. Clark Hull of Danbury. As an Appellate Court judge, he cannot say a word now. But in June, he turns 66. He may retire, and seriously address a lifetime desire to be governor.

Just in case, of course, the door is ajar then.

Sen. John Melcher, D-Mont., is a veterinarian by training, and in his eight years in the Senate he has learned how to handle the assorted bureaucratic beagles, teacup terriers and papparshuffling poodles in the State Department. When he wants answers from Foggy Bottom, he sends a letter to the secretary of state that is "firm and decisive, without being obnoxious." (As in, "Good boy. Roll over.") If that doesn't work, he sends an angry follow-up letter. ("Roll over, blast you!") The final step is to call and request a personal meeting with the secretary. ("Dog pound? Do you pick up?") That usually does the trick.

The dope trail

A huge new cocaine refining factory has sprung up in the jungles of Suriname, and drug experts suspect it's a replacement for a plant seized in Colombia last year. Like that one, the Suriname facility has uniformed soldiers on guard, but it's not known if they're government troops sent to protect the industrial investment or just renegade soldiers. The new coke factory is processing about the same amount of cocaine as its Colombian predecessor.

Fond memories of return home

To the Editor:

As I reflect over the past year, my fondest memory is of my return trip to Manchester, Conn., where I lived from 1947 to 1952 during a part of my childhood. It was the July 4 holiday and I had returned with my wife, son and daughter, each of whom had never been there before. They knew, though, that Manchester held a special place in my heart.

It was amazing how easily I remembered my way around town after 33 years. We drove through my old neighborhood at Flower and Elro streets and I thought about friends George Irwin, Steve Hummel and Ray Korner, then past Center Springs Pond where I fished and ice-skated.

I remembered seventh-grade days at Nathan Hale School and the eighth grade at Burnard. We saw the old Manchester High I would have attended and thought of Jimmy Roach scoring touchdowns at Mount Nebo field. We passed the Armory from Korea. I felt like a time traveler from some distant land privileged to visit my own past.

Iran bears responsibility for hijacking

WASHINGTON — One year and two weeks ago today, U.S. intelligence intercepted a telephone conversation that established beyond any doubt Iran's behind-the-scenes control of Lebanese Shiite Muslim hijackers who subsequently murdered two Americans and brutally tortured two more.

Yet, to this day, the tough-talking Reagan administration has taken no retaliatory action against the fanatically anti-American regime in Tehran that was responsible for the atrocity.

The "smoking gun" conversation took place shortly after noon, Tehran time, on Dec. 4, 1984, just a few hours after four armed terrorists had hijacked Kuwaiti Airways Flight 221 and forced it to land at Mehrabad airport in Tehran. The phone call was intercepted by the National Security Agency.

On one end of the line was Ayatollah Mohtashami, Iran's ambassador to Syria. U.S. intelligence later learned that Mohtashami had participated in the meeting in Lebanon at which the hijacking was planned.

Part of the conversation was garbled, but the implications of the deciphered discussion between the two Iranian officials was clearly grasped in Washington.

The crucial statement came during a discussion of the airliner's possible move to Beirut. Mohtashami, in Syria, said: "Just as we told you in Telex 22296 of 2 December, America brought its Marines to Lebanon. They might intervene in this matter."

U.S. intelligence analysts immediately realized the significance of this remark. It meant that the warning about the Marines had been transmitted by Mohtashami more than a full day before the Kuwaiti plane was hijacked in the early hours of Dec. 4. The Iranian ambassador clearly knew the hijacking was about to occur, and had warned officials in Tehran by cable no later than the possibility of Marine intervention if the plane was diverted to Beirut.

Having repeated his warning about possible U.S. response, Mohtashami proceeded to recommend in the phone conversation that the plane be flown to Beirut anyway. Pro-Iranian Shiite militia would be able to withstand any rescue attempt by the Marines, he explained.

Under the protection of the Shiite militiamen, according to the transcript of the conversation, the hijackers could then "take revenge on the VIPs one by one at a specific time so that Kuwait might agree" to the hijackers' demands. The Lebanese hijackers wanted Kuwait to release 17 Shiite terrorists imprisoned for 1983 bombings there.

THE IDENTITY of "the VIPs" soon became tragically clear. The plane stayed in Tehran, but two American officials of the Agency for International Development — Charles Hegna, 50, and William Stanford, 52 — were shot several times and thrown out the plane door to the tarmac 20 feet below. When they moved, the terrorists shot them in the back as if they were holding target practice, according to a chilling account by Nathan Adams in Reader's Digest.

Two other Americans on board — AID employee Charles Kapar, 57, and businessman John Costa, 50 — were seriously tortured. Hijackers jumped up and down on Costa's back, cracked three ribs by beating him, extinguished a cigarette in his ear, burned his face with another cigarette and set his hair afire. Kapar was choked with a rope, pistol-whipped and beaten till two ribs were cracked, teeth were broken and his face was swollen; he was also burned on the face with a cigarette.

After six days of hell, Iranian police seized the plane. The U.S. government, though fully aware of Iran's complicity, issued only a mild, grumbling protest complaining that Iran hadn't done all it could have to prevent the bloodshed.

Sen. John Melcher, D-Mont., is a veterinarian by training, and in his eight years in the Senate he has learned how to handle the assorted bureaucratic beagles, teacup terriers and papparshuffling poodles in the State Department. When he wants answers from Foggy Bottom, he sends a letter to the secretary of state that is "firm and decisive, without being obnoxious." (As in, "Good boy. Roll over.") If that doesn't work, he sends an angry follow-up letter. ("Roll over, blast you!") The final step is to call and request a personal meeting with the secretary. ("Dog pound? Do you pick up?") That usually does the trick.

The dope trail

A huge new cocaine refining factory has sprung up in the jungles of Suriname, and drug experts suspect it's a replacement for a plant seized in Colombia last year. Like that one, the Suriname facility has uniformed soldiers on guard, but it's not known if they're government troops sent to protect the industrial investment or just renegade soldiers. The new coke factory is processing about the same amount of cocaine as its Colombian predecessor.

WEICKER HAS A VIEW of what being a candidate means — going ahead and organizing a campaign, raising funds and doing other preliminaries. In that sense, he says now, "It was never a likely move by me." He hadn't gone that far.

It must also be said that events in Welcher's life in the past year had a heavy and probably compelling impact on his decision.

The Welcher move puts new and critical pressure on the four potential gubernatorial nominees. Alphabetically, they are State Rep. Julie Belgard of Westport, and former State Sens. Dick Bozuto of Watertown, Gerry Labriola of Naugatuck and Romeo Petroni of Ridgefield.

They must show something very soon — get the momentum rolling and "catch on" with the public.

Otherwise the stage will be set for an open convention in July and the possibility of new faces popping up. If that happens, don't ever discount or take lightly the chance of a leading candidate by T. Clark Hull of Danbury. As an Appellate Court judge, he cannot say a word now. But in June, he turns 66. He may retire, and seriously address a lifetime desire to be governor.

Just in case, of course, the door is ajar then.

Connecticut In Brief

4th person charged in Torrington

TORRINGTON — The fourth person charged in a grand jury probe of municipal corruption in Torrington has been arrested on perjury charges by state police.

State police said attorney Michael Zawadzka, 36, a former Torrington councilman, showed up at the Cnaan barracks Tuesday and was later released on $10,000 bond for a hearing Monday in New Haven Superior Court.

Zawadzka was named in an ongoing one-man grand jury corruption investigation by Superior Court Judge Anthony DeMayo.

Last Thursday, two Torrington policemen and a car salesman from New Hartford were arrested on drug or perjury charges as a result of the investigation.

The arrest warrants are sealed, however, a preliminary report by DeMayo made public last week showed Zawadzka was summoned to testify about drug activity and was cited for perjury.

State probes open-heart programs

HARTFORD — The state will investigate unauthorized open-heart surgery programs because of concerns some hospitals may begin doing the delicate operations without required state approval, officials said.

The Commission on Hospitals and Health Care announced Tuesday it had voted to conduct the investigation and that officials from three hospitals have been subpoenaed so far to testify.

The commission said it had learned that various hospitals are planning to introduce open-heart surgery programs without getting approval first from the agency, which regulates hospital budgets in Connecticut.

Commissioner Nancy S. Watters, who will conduct the investigation, said the agency is concerned both about the quality of the new programs and their effects on existing, state-approved open-heart surgery programs.

Officials from Norwalk Hospital, Danbury Hospital and New Britain General Hospital have been subpoenaed to testify, Watters said, adding that officials from other hospitals also could be summoned as the probe progresses.

Colleges seek more minorities

HARTFORD — The state Board of Governors for Higher Education Tuesday recommended a three-step program to attract more minority students and staff to Connecticut's public colleges and universities.

The policy-making board voted unanimously to include the program, which would cost an estimated $1.2 million in its first year, in the state college system budget request for the fiscal year that begins July 1, 1986.

Higher Education Commissioner Norma Foreman Glasgow said the program is geared to making minority high school students interested in college and then enrolling them in a public college or university.

The third aspect of the program is designed to recruit blacks, Hispanics and members of other minority groups as faculty and professional staffs at the colleges and universities.

Minority enrollment this semester ranged from less than 1 percent at Northwestern Connecticut Community College in Winsted to just more than 35 percent at Greater Hartford Community College in Hartford.

GOP turns to Eddy for Senate run

By Barbara Yull

NEWINGTON — Roger W. Eddy, a member of the Republican National Committee, says he's the mystery candidate top state Republican officials have been leaning on to run against Democratic U.S. Sen. Christopher J. Dodd.

"I can say I am the mystery candidate, sure," Eddy said during a Tuesday interview at his Newington home. "As to whether I am a candidate, my decision has not been made."

A former state senator, Eddy, 65, said U.S. Sen. Lowell P. Weicker Jr. and state GOP Chairman Thomas J. D'Amore Jr. asked him to consider running.

Weicker spokesman Andy McLeod said Weicker confirmed Tuesday afternoon that he had had "lengthy discussions" with Eddy and that Weicker was "very interested" in getting Eddy to run.

"I'll come out with a decision in mid-January," Eddy said. He added that "if I wasn't going to do it, I'd just say 'no'."

EDDY MET IN Washington on Monday with Weicker, D'Amore and Sen. John Heinz, R-Pa., chairman of the National Republican Senatorial Committee, which could be expected to put up some of the money needed for the campaign.

Eddy is now serving as chairman of Deputy House Majority Leader Julie D. Belaga's bid for the 1986 GOP gubernatorial nomination.

The former treasurer of the Republican State Central Committee, Eddy wouldn't comment on what factors are holding up his decision, or on what issues would be key in a campaign.

Peter W. Gold, executive director of the committee, said Eddy had originally turned down the idea of running when first asked in February. Three weeks ago, he was approached again and Gold confirming that Eddy was the "mystery candidate," said Eddy is now "a 50 percent possibility" for the race against Dodd.

"We hope that Roger will take on the task, but it is by no means a certainty," Gold said. "We're hopeful it will become a certainty."

Since Dec. 11, when Weicker said he had a candidate in mind to run against Dodd, Connecticut political circles have been buzzing with speculation.

The lack of a credible candidate to put up against Dodd, a popular Democrat, has concerned Republicans for months.

The nominating convention is in July. It often takes at least a year to put together a campaign for statewide office. In addition to working on such things as issues, the Republican candidate is going to have to raise at least $1 million and probably much more.

DODD REPORTEDLY already has $1 million in his war chest. His first choice of Weicker, D'Amore and Gold was being urged by Yale University President A. Barlett (Jan. 11). But after thinking about it for a couple of months, Gold rejected a candidate.

Eddy served in both the state House and Senate in the 1960s and early 1970s.

Others mentioned for the nomination have included former U.S. Rep. Lawrence J. DeNardi of Hamden; former Lt. Gov. T. Clark Hull of Danbury, now an Appellate Court judge; state Rep. Christopher H. Shays of Stamford; U.S. Rep. Nancy L. Johnson of New Britain; U.S. Commerce Secretary Malcolm Baldrige of Woodbury; former state Sen. Richard C. Bozuto of Watertown and Gerald Labriola of Naugatuck; and Romeo Petroni of Ridgefield.

Poll gives election edge to Moffett

By Judd Everhart

HARTFORD — Democrats who say they would be likely to vote in a primary between Toby Moffett and Gov. William A. O'Neill for the 1986 Democratic gubernatorial nomination prefer Moffett, 46 percent to 41 percent, a Becker Institute poll finds.

The poll, paid for by such Connecticut businesses as Northeast Utilities and Astra, also shows Moffett favored 52 percent to 28 percent among unaffiliated voters.

Moffett said the poll confirmed what he has found as he has campaigned around the state. There was no immediate comment from the governor.

A Hartford Courant-University of Connecticut poll released Tuesday showed Moffett trailing O'Neill, 41 percent to 37 percent.

Those voters who described themselves as liberal said they favored Moffett, 60 percent to 26 percent; conservatives said they preferred Moffett, 40 percent to 38 percent; and those describing themselves as "middle of the road" favored O'Neill, 47 percent to 42 percent.

THE POLL ALSO showed Moffett preferred in four of the six congressional districts.

Percentages were: 1st District, 53 percent Moffett, 35 percent O'Neill; 2nd District, 39 percent Moffett, 47 percent O'Neill; 3rd District, 45 percent Moffett, 29 percent O'Neill; 4th District, 25 percent Moffett, 53 percent O'Neill; 5th District, 50 percent Moffett, 35 percent O'Neill; 6th District, 54 percent Moffett, 34 percent O'Neill.

AIDS disease worries state

HARTFORD (UPI) — At least 5,000 Connecticut residents have been infected with the virus that causes AIDS disease, prompting state officials to spread a new program to limit the spread of the deadly ailment.

The current edition of Connecticut Epidemiologist, a publication of the epidemiology section of the state Department of Health Services, reports at least 5,000 residents are carrying the AIDS-causing virus, HTLV-III.

"They are not new numbers," Dr. Matthew Carter, editor of the publication, said Tuesday. "We have been saying them for months."

Carter said the DHS derived the Connecticut estimate from national studies by the Centers for Disease Control. Based on those studies, there are about 50 HTLV-III carriers for every person who has Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome.

Carter said there have been 175 reported AIDS cases in Connecticut, which would actually place the state HTLV-III number at 8,750 probable carriers.

Portland seeks healing in shooting's aftermath

Shooting spree calls for review of law

PORTLAND (UPI) — A community effort will be undertaken in Portland to deal with the trauma and shock in the aftermath of a school shooting that left a custodian dead and two other people injured, a school official said.

LeRoy E. Dyer, superintendent of schools, said steps already taken involving faculty, school employees and students have greatly improved the morale and spirit at Portland Junior High School.

Dyer said "There's a 100 percent difference in feelings" at the school, one week after a student fired 12 shots, killing a school janitor and wounding the principal and a secretary.

Follow students said Floyd Warmley, 13, carried out the shootings after an argument with the principal in the latest of a string of disciplinary actions taken against him. Warmley surrendered to police following the incident.

Warmley has been turned over to Juvenile Court where all proceedings are held in secret.

"We're meeting to see where we go from here," said Dyer. "We're concerned some kids may need more help coping with the incident."

As a juvenile, Warmley faces only a maximum of four years in state custody.

Dyer said meetings have been held with counselors and psychologists to determine the best route to go in reaching out to the entire community over the shooting incident that led to the death of custodian David Bengston, 36, of Portland.

The school was closed Wednesday and again Friday to allow students to attend funeral services for Bengston, who was gunned down as he tried to help students to safety during the incident.

Child abuse reports proving to be false

By Sandy Johnson
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The American public, overreacting to graphic news accounts of beaten, starved or sexually abused children, is jumping to conclusions and reporting suspected child abuse where at times none exists, an authority says.

Nationwide, 65 percent of all child abuse reports eventually prove to be false, Douglas J. Beharav, director of the American Enterprise Institute's Social Invention Project, said Tuesday. In 1973, 35 percent of those reports were deemed groundless.

"This flood of inappropriate cases is not just unfair to the parents who are investigated, it also creates real danger for children who are in true jeopardy," he said. "These children who need to be protected are getting lost in the avalanche of new cases."

People falsely accused of child abuse are striking back, often with lawsuits, he noted. The organization, Victims of Child Abuse Laws, was formed a year ago to help wrongly accused parents protect themselves, and it now has more than 3,000 members in 38 states.

"False reports put innocent families through the anguish of an investigation and also overwhelm the limited resources of child protective agencies," Beharav said.

Beharav, whose findings were published last week in the Harvard Journal of Law and Public Policy, said the public must be educated about what should be reported. He urged people should "be careful — don't report on flimsy evidence" such as a single bruise or a brief change of behavior. He said the guideline should be, "If you think the child is in serious danger, then you should report."

Other recommendations:

- The news media and politicians should curb rhetoric about child abuse. Beharav said graphic news stories about children beaten, starved or sexually assaulted make people too eager to "do something" about the problem.
- Hotline workers should screen calls. Half the states prohibit hotline workers from making judgments about suspected abuse, so all reports are treated as true.
- Anyone can report and trigger an investigation, he said.
- Federal and state laws must be modified to discourage reports without basis. He said in at least six states it is a crime not to report suspected child abuse. To protect themselves, doctors and social workers are overreacting and reporting even marginally suspicious cases.

on how town officials feel about the Winchester tax-district plan, since the matter has not yet come before the Board of Directors.

The creation of a tax district between the towns might have to be approved by special legislation in Hartford, Bronson said in his letter to Wetas.

"We would pay the professional costs of promoting such legislation for its enactment," Bronson said. "We would ... guarantee to Manchester 38 percent of the taxes assessed for the entire development if the special legislation is enacted or if development and tax assessments take place before such special legislation is enacted."

Neither Bronson nor Allan Hutensky could be reached by phone this morning.

Although the Buckland Hills developers have received the backing of town officials, the Winchester developers appear to be ahead in the crucial race for anchor tenants. G. Fox and Co., Sage-Alan and Co. and Steiger's have all said they plan to open stores in Winchester. The Buckland Hills developers have a commitment only from Sears, Roebuck and Co.

Both developers have acknowledged the area will support only one of the malls. Both plans and lawsuits that are currently pending in court.

and voted against it in "a routine procedural protest," never dreaming of the preliminary measure might fail.

"I was stunned," she said. "It was a legislative fluke."

Within hours, she and other GOP lawmakers were at the White House listening to Reagan's appeal. "I wanted to say, 'Mr. President, I think you're right that the process should move forward, but as far as I'm concerned state and local tax deductibility are off the table.'"

Lawmakers scoffed at any suggestion that public works projects or any such traditional blight-remediation were dangled as a lure to potential vote-switchers.

"It's not like the president comes down and says, 'Do you want a dam in your district,'" said Rep. David Martin, R-N.Y., who did not switch his vote. "That's not the way the president operates."

A top Republican aide, speaking on condition he not be quoted by name, did say that in a meeting in Michel's office, White House Chief of Staff Donald Regan told lawmakers that "You want to have the president out there" at campaign time. "Michel said nothing," the staffer said.

NEW COLLAGEN TREATMENT FOR CORNS, CALLUSES AVAILABLE LOCALLY

MANCHESTER, CT, DECEMBER, 1985—A new treatment option for chronic corn and callus sufferers may make trimming or surgery unnecessary, says Manchester podiatric physician Dr. Loren Schneider.

Dr. Schneider recently attended the first professional training seminar in the use of Keragen™ Implant, a highly purified form of injectable bovine collagen. The seminar, co-sponsored by Collagen Corporation, the manufacturer of Keragen Implant, and the Pennsylvania Podiatric Medical Association, included a national video-conference linking podiatric physicians in thirteen cities, the clinical researchers on the procedure, and Collagen research scientists.

The three-hour session included technique training as well as review of the clinical data. According to Dr. Schneider, the collagen material is injected subdermally to form a protective cushion between bone and skin. By acting as a kind of internal "shock absorber," this cushion helps to prevent a recurrence of the lesion in the same place.

Once inside the foot, Dr. Schneider says, the implant forms a kind of open framework for the body's own connective tissue cells to weave through. Like the body's natural collagen, Keragen Implant wears away with time, he says, but can be re-injected every six to twelve months without any problem.

According to Dr. Schneider, Keragen Implant will be available only from specially trained podiatric physicians and dermatologists. Collagen Corporation also manufactures and markets Zyderm® Collagen and Zylplast® Implant for use in cosmetic and reconstructive medical procedures.

Ewing equal with Jabbar but Lakers upend Knicks

Combined Wire Services

Patrick Ewing has proven he can play with the best center in the NBA. While that may utilize New York fans with hope for the future, it made little difference to the Knicks Tuesday night.

In the first meeting between the veteran and the young phenom, Ewing outscored Los Angeles' Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, but the Lakers held on to beat the Knicks 105-99.

Ewing, playing before a capacity crowd at Madison Square Garden, poured in a game-high 28 points. Abdul-Jabbar, playing in his NBA record 17th season, finished with 28 and some kind words for the rookie.

"He's going to be a very fine center," said Abdul-Jabbar, 38. "He's only been in the league two months, and he's doing a very good job under very difficult circumstances. Patrick is going to be a force for a long time when he gets some seasoning."

Did the two 7-footers have much to say to each other?

"He wished me a happy holiday," Ewing said.

"I just tried to keep him from getting high percentage shots," said Abdul-Jabbar, who played 33 minutes to 45 for Ewing.

Abdul-Jabbar took advantage of Ewing's inexperience when the Lakers needed it most. He gave the Lakers the lead for good with a 24-9 left with a skyhook over Ewing for a 96-94 lead. The teams battled throughout and the lead changed hands nine times in the final period.

"He was tough," said the 23-year-old Ewing. "There's no way to stop that skyhook of his. When he gets the ball, you try to take him far away from the basket as possible, but I don't think I can block his hook."

The Knicks held the Lakers to their season-low offensive output. Los Angeles, the NBA's top scoring team, came into the game averaging 124 points.

The Lakers improved their league-leading record to 21-3 and have won 10 of their last 11 games. New York dropped to 7-17 and are on the bottom in the Atlantic Division.

The Knicks pulled to 103-99 in the final minute when Ewing converted a 3-point play to trim the Lakers lead to 103-99. Magic Johnson closed out the scoring with 2 free throws.

For Los Angeles, Maurice Lucas added 19 points, and Johnson and James Worthy chipped in 18. For the Knicks, Trent Tucker had 22 and Rony Sparrow added 16.

Rockets 98, Cavaliers 94

Houston kept the lead in the Midwest Division as Lewis Lloyd scored 25 of his career-high 38 points in the second half against Cleveland, while Eddie Johnson had 28

Ghosts of centers past meets the future

By Hol Brock
The Associated Press

Charles Dickens would have loved the confrontation.

It was sort of a basketball version of a Christmas Carol, the ghost of centers past ... and present ... against the ghost of centers future ... and maybe the present, too.

There was, however, no Tiny Tim in this holiday tale.

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, at 38 in the twilight of a magnificent career and still good enough to be named Sports Illustrated's Sportsman of the Year, faced 23-year-old Patrick Ewing for the first time Tuesday night. The formal introductions were taken care of early in the game between the world champion Los Angeles Lakers and the New York Knicks.

Less than three minutes after he had won the opening tip, Abdul-Jabbar was anchored in the pivot with Ewing leaning over him, looking like a kid peaking out from behind the Great Wall of China. The ball came inside and Abdul-Jabbar's huge body began to stop that. When he gets it, you have to try to take him as far away from the basket as possible. I just tried to push him away. I did an OK job, but there were lots of mistakes, but mistakes on rebounds where I had the ball and let it get away."

Still, Ewing did not come off badly in his first meeting with the NBA who has become the dictionary definition of an NBA center. In fact, the Knicks' rookie outscored Abdul-Jabbar 28-28 and outrebounced him 9-8.

Abdul-Jabbar was impressed with the young man who had battled so gallantly against him. "He's an excellent player," Abdul-Jabbar said. "He's played this (pro) game less than two months and he's already learned this game very well. He's a fine young center."

It was the first time Ewing had ever seen

Spurs 126, Blazers 118

Artis Gilmore scored a season-high 28 points and Mike Mitchell 25 to lead San Antonio over Portland.

Steve Johnson added 24 points and Alvin Robertson 22 to give the Spurs four players with more than 20 points.

Nuggets 122, Warriors 114

Denver handed Golden State its ninth consecutive road loss as Alex English scored 31 points and Calvin Natt 27.

Woolridge entered the contest with a 25 ppg average.

"My offense was going and his shots were falling," Woolridge said. "Once his (Bird's) offense gets going, Boston is a different team. I'm not going to say anything else, because I have to face him four more times."

The defeat was Boston's third in its last six games, while the triumph was only the Bulls' third in their last 12 contests.

The Bulls led 65-62 entering the fourth quarter. A basket by Danny Ainge from the top of the key pulled Boston within 104-103, but that was the closest the Celtics would come.

"We had the shots down the stretch, but they weren't dropping," said Boston coach K.C. Jones. "They had good scoring off of offensive rebound." (George Gervin and Quintin) Dailey did a good job offensively."

Gervin had 19 points and Dailey 15.

Bird made no excuses for his performance.

Suns 104, Sonics 99

Larry Nance scored 31 points and James Edwards 29 for Phoenix, which survived a 15-point second quarter against Seattle.

Nance scored 10 of his points in the third period to help Phoenix regain the lead.

Hawks 104, Nets 103

Eddie Johnson's jumper and two free throws in the final 35 seconds lifted Atlanta past New Jersey.

After Darryl Dawkins' layup gave the Nets a 101-100 lead with 1:40 left, there was no scoring until Johnson's basket with 38 seconds left. Dawkins then missed two free throws and Johnson two free throws made it 104-103 with eight seconds remaining.

Jazz 106, Bullets 98

Utah snapped Washington's 10-game winning streak at home as Adrian Dantley scored 30 points and rookie Karl Malone 25.

The Jazz led 82-73 going into the final 12 minutes, but Washington scored the first eight points of the fourth quarter to cut the deficit to one. The Bullets took a one-point lead twice in the period until Dantley put Utah ahead to stay at 94-93 with 5:07 left.

Malone later scored four points to spark a 6-0 run that made it 102-95 with 2:06 to go.

76ers 102, Pacers 98

Julius Erving, starting his second game at guard, scored a season-high 28 points and Charles Barkley added 18 points and a career-high 20 rebounds for Philadelphia against Indiana.

Most Malone had 24 points.

Spurs 126, Blazers 118

Artis Gilmore scored a season-high 28 points and Mike Mitchell 25 to lead San Antonio over Portland.

Steve Johnson added 24 points and Alvin Robertson 22 to give the Spurs four players with more than 20 points.

Boston's Bill Walton (20) and Dennis Johnson (3) and Chicago's Gene Banks (5) all have their eyes on the basketball, which no one can control. Bulls controlled Celtics at the finish, 116-108.

Maris deserved better in life than he received

Thoughts ApLEnty
Len Auster, Sports Editor

When Roger Maris was tearing up the baseball world in 1961, the outside world was tearing him up internally. What should have been the greatest year of Roger Maris' life turned out to be a living nightmare.

It was one Maris would not wish upon his worst enemy. Maris didn't have a lot of hair to lose, not with his trademark crew-cut, but the stress from the outside world resulted in him suffering hair loss in the closing days of the 1961 campaign.

Maris, finally, is at rest. He died at the age of 51 on Saturday from cancer, a disease that unfortunately for him had gone undetected for five years. Voting for baseball's Hall of Fame will be conducted soon. It is a shame the recognition he deserved during his lifetime can only come now posthumously.

Baseball treated Roger Maris shabbily. He was, in 1961, in no pursuit of the record held by the exalted Babe Ruth. Sixty homers in one season was the record set by Ruth in 1927. There had been a few players, Ralph Kiner in 1954, Hack Wilson in 1930 and Mickey Vernon in 1956, who had been on a Ruthian pace.

None broke the mark until Roger Maris slammed 61 roundtrippers in 1961.

But Maris was more vilified than glorified in that agonizing season. There are those who know what Maris had to endure. "To me, Roger Maris was one of the greatest Yankees of all time," said present Yankee owner George Steinbrenner. "That's a mouthful because there are so many of them. I think Joe Dimaggio's hitting streak (56 games) and Roger's home run mark are the two greatest records in baseball."

accomplishment in that? Why aren't these 'achievements' rewarded as Frick did with Maris.

Maris had 142 RBI to go along with those 61 homers in '61. He followed that up with a 33-homer, 100-RBI season in 1963. That, by today's standards, would have been considered a fantastic season.

He was chastised for it.

Maris did not receive his due. Maris finally received warm greetings from the crowds at Yankee Stadium in recent Old-Timer games. It was, however, almost too late.

Now it is.

Jets have to beat Cleveland and the Giants have to beat Pittsburgh on Saturday to assure themselves of post-season berths.

It became reality last weekend, as it was figured all along, that the clubs wouldn't make life easy for themselves. The Giants beat it against Dallas, contrary to what some believe. Phil McKinney's drop of a perfectly thrown Phil Simms touchdown pass set the tone of the day.

You knew they were going to lose.

The Patriots gave a better shot of it in losing to Miami than the Jets did against the Monsters of the Midway. The three clubs have to strap on their helmets tightly this weekend.

Otherwise Week 15 will be the end to their season. And that's not what we've come to expect from our local favorites, right?

There's a new seat belt rule in Connecticut high school basketball that says all coaches must remain seated during play. Frank Kline, first-year Manchester High coach, says he doesn't like the new rule, but added the officials have indicated they will allow some leeway. "According to the officials at a meeting we had, we can stand up for a moment and then sit right back down," Kline said. "What a moment!" he added. "We can get up to make a coaching point but we can't move away from our seat."

"When you make a coaching change you have to get their attention. This is going to make it harder," he added. But, if the officials follow through, at least they're not making it impossible.

Bits and pieces

UConn basketball, off to its biggest start since 1981-82 when it ran off 11 straight wins, will get its first real test of the 1985-86 season Saturday afternoon when the Minnesota Golden Gophers test the Huskies at the Hartford Civic Center at 1 p.m. The Big Ten squad has an impressive 8-2 record and they feature 7-0 senior center John Shatsky, averaging 17.8 points and 8 rebounds per game. The clubs met a year ago in Minneapolis with the Gophers edging the mistake-prone Huskies (23 turnovers) by a 61-60 count. Eddie Williams says the Huskies owe Minnesota for last year.

The New York Jets, New York Giants and New England Patriots all had shots in Week 10. 15 of the NFL season to make life easy for themselves in regards to the playoffs. Now all three are in danger of not making it. The Patriots have to beat the Bengals,

Unity theme for East

By Bob Popelli
Herald Sports Writer

Hard work and unity are the themes for the East Catholic High wrestling team this year. A core of seven returning lettermen from last season's 6-6-1 squad provide Coach Santos Corpus with a wealth of experience. But work ethic and camaraderie may be the keys to the Eagles' fortunes. "Overall, the whole team seems to get along better and work harder than most of the teams that I've had in the past," said Corpus. Top returns for East in 198-85 include junior Richard Lee, a two-time letterman. "He is outstanding, a well-rounded wrestler," noted Corpus. "I expect him to do very well." The Eagles boast six other lettermen, including five in succession from the 118- to the 145-pound classes. Junior Mike Manganello fills the 119 slot, while sophomore Jeff Villar competes at 125. Both look quite good, according to Corpus. Junior Matt Terzo checks in at 132, while junior Sean McGinn holds down the 138-pound position. In the 145-pound class is senior captain and three-time letter winner Brian Lynch. Rounding out the incumbents is senior David Lenciano, in the 165-pound class. Newcomers include freshman Steve Karlson at 91, freshman Rick Carlson at 98, sophomore Mike Carlson at 112, sophomore David DiGiacomo at 117, sophomore David Hickey in the heavyweight division. Corpus hinted that East's season may not hinge on his squad's talent or abilities, but their well-being. "Keeping the wrestlers that I do have healthy," said Corpus, "is my most pressing concern. 'It's a sport that if one kid gets sick, he could come to practice and get everybody sick. We're not that deep." As for goals, more emphasis is being placed on the end-of-competition post-season state tournaments, rather than dual meets. "The final goal is to do well and place in the states," concluded Corpus. Schedule: Dec. 19 Fernal A 6 p.m., 21 Manchester Tournament 10 a.m., 27-29 Watford Lancer Tournament, 31 Manchester/Cheney Tech A (CT) 11 a.m. Jan. 3 Fairfield Prep A 5 p.m., 14 Bristol Central/Windham A (BC) noon, 21 Watford H 3:30 p.m., 25 Bloomfield/Farmington A (F) 1 p.m. Feb. 5 RHAM/Cheney Tech A (CT) 5:30 p.m., 4 Rocky Hill A noon, 10 Xavier H 4 p.m., 15 St. Bernard/Fairfield Prep A (SB) 10 a.m.

Big, Bad Heels still perfect

Combined Wire Services
The Big, the Bad and the Still Perfect. That's what the North Carolina Tar Heels were at Jacksonville. Dean Smith's top-ranked team couldn't shake the pesky Dolphins until the final minutes Tuesday night, when freshman Jeff LeBoit hit a 15-foot jump shot with 1:57 to go and Kenny Smith sank two free throws to clinch a 69-63 victory. "When we came here, I said we'd be happy with a one-point win and I guess we got more than that," said Dean Smith, whose tall Tar Heels couldn't use their height advantage against the aggressive jumpers from Jacksonville. The Dolphins, who had no starter taller than 6-foot-7, battled North Carolina on the boards all night. "Defensively, we gave up 14 points on second shots of 10 of his 22 points in the first eight minutes," said Mark Price added 20 points for Tech, mostly from long range. Bruce Dairymple had 19 and Darrin Fennell 18. Keith Thomas led the Monarchs with 22 points and Kenny Gatison added 20. Memphis State, a Final Four team last spring, used its aggressive defense to subdue Mississippi. The Tigers, now 8-0, were led by 7-foot center William Bedford, who scored 23 points and grabbed 12 rebounds. "This was an interesting game in that it was a teaching game," said Tigers Coach Dana Kirk. "We were not shooting the ball well so we went with defense and won with defense." The Tigers also got 11 points and 10 rebounds from forward Vincent Askew. Another set of Tigers, from LSU, trailed by seven at halftime but Nikita Wilson led a second-half comeback with 23 points. LSU, which trailed Texas 35-29 at the half after shooting a dismal 29 percent from the field and being out rebounded 23-15, didn't look like an 8-0 team until the second half. Patrick Fair's 18 points and nine rebounds led Texas. Second Ten Steve Mitchell's 20 points and a tight full-court press turned things UAB's way. The Blazers went on a 12-2 run in the second half, sparked by the aggressive defense which held Cincinnati to 28 percent shooting from the field in the second period. "We think our defense was superb," UAB Coach Gene Bartow said. "I think our defense and rebounding were them down and that was the difference." Elsewhere, at Winston Salem, N.C., Mark Cline sank 2 free throws with two seconds left to boost Wake Forest to a 64-61 victory over Georgia Southern. David Boone scored 21 points, and Kerry Trotter added 20 — 18 in the first half — to carry Marquette to a 74-63 victory over Minnesota. Marquette, 4-2, led 39-28 at the half and was in front 53-48 with less than eight minutes left when the Gophers made their final run. Minnesota scored 8 straight points, including a 4-point play by Kevin Smith, to pull within 63-56. The Gophers, 8-2, got no closer. Also, at Cambridge, Mass., Todd Lichte scored 20 points guiding Stanford past Harvard 78-62. Stanford shot 68 percent from the field in the first half to take a 38-30 lead at intermission. Bill Mohler led the Crimson with 16 points. Stanford raised its record to 5-1 while Harvard slipped to 2-5. Cedric Hill scored a game-high 31 points, including a 20-foot jumper from deep in the right corner at the buzzer to lift Southwestern Louisiana to a 66-64 overtime victory over Auburn. Hill's missed a desperation 25-foot jumper at the buzzer in regulation. Darrel Ivery scored a game-high 16 points including 2 free throws with 1:15 left in the game, to boost Tennessee-Chattanooga to a 48-47 victory over Mississippi State.

Gloria Kissmann of 60 Carpenter Road shows off some of the dishes she'll serve her family for Christmas. She's an enthusiastic cook who learned to cook at a very young age.

By Nancy Pappas Herald Reporter

Kissmann Christmas starts in the kitchen

These RECIPES — as well as those she takes from cookbooks and magazines — are tried out first on her family. "I always use them as my guinea pigs," she said, referring to her parents, her husband, Rudy Kissmann, and her daughter, Jodi-Lynn. She appreciates my cooking, but she also gives me honest criticism. They'll tell me, 'OK, Gloria, you can make this again.'" The only difficulty with her hobby, she said, is that she frequently doesn't have the opportunity to try everything that interests her. Her own career, as owner of Gloria's Designers of Hair in Vernon, keeps her away from home several nights a week. Her husband is a town firefighter and paramedic, so his schedule, too, is rather erratic. But there is another budding cook in the family. "Jodi is just like me. ## Library friends give the staff a sweet thanks

When Friends of the Library say thank you, the organization does it with style. A reception took place Monday afternoon at both Mary Cheney Library and Whiton Memorial Library to say thank you to the staffs. Members of Friends baked up a blizzard of delicious goodies, including Christmas breads, cakes and cookies. Here are some of the goodies prepared for the library reception:

- Fran Girard's Italian chocolate spice cookies
8 cups flour
2 cups sugar
1 tablespoon ground cloves
1 tablespoon cinnamon
1 tablespoon nutmeg
1 tablespoon baking soda
1/2 cup cocoa
1 cup melted margarine, cooled
1/2 cup white raisins
2 cups milk
- FOR LEMON ICING:
1/2 cup powdered sugar
1 tablespoon lemon juice
- Sift dry ingredients together into a bowl. Make a depression and pour the milk and melted margarine in. Mix well and knead dough thoroughly. Scoop out and roll into balls about an inch across. Bake on ungreased cookie sheets, in a 375-degree oven, about 10 minutes.
- When all dough is baked and cooled, glaze cookies by combining lemon juice and powdered sugar.
- Drizzle over tops of cookies, then let dry thoroughly. Yield: 14 dozen.
- Debbly White's ginger cookies
1 cup sugar
2 tablespoons molasses
1 cup shortening or 2 sticks margarine
1 egg
2 1/2 cups flour
1 teaspoon baking soda
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
1/2 teaspoon ground ginger
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon vanilla
Granulated sugar
- Cream sugar, molasses and shortening or margarine together. Add egg.
- Sift dry ingredients together. Add to the cookie dough, then stir in the vanilla extract. Chill dough in refrigerator for a couple of hours. Make into small balls and roll in granulated sugar. Place each ball on a cookie sheet. Press each down crosswise with a fork. Bake in a 375-degree oven for about 10 minutes.
- Shirley FitzGerald's lemon bars
1 cup margarine
2 cups powdered sugar
2 cups plus 4 tablespoons flour
4 teaspoons lemon juice
Grated rind of 2 lemons
4 eggs, well beaten
1 1/2 cups granulated sugar
1 teaspoon baking powder
- Mix together margarine, powdered sugar and 2 cups of the flour. Dough will be very stiff. Pat into a jelly roll pan. Bake in a 350-degree oven for 15 minutes, or until crust is firm and cool.
- Mix together the lemon juice, lemon rind, eggs, sugar, baking powder and remaining 4 tablespoons flour. Pour over crust. Continue baking in the 350-degree oven for another 25 minutes. Cut into bars or squares and serve at room temperature.
- Kathy Sinnamon's date pinwheels
1/2 cup butter
1/2 cup brown sugar
1/2 cup white sugar
1/2 cup vanilla extract
1 egg
2 cups sifted flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon baking soda
- FOR FILLING:
1 1/2-ounce package dates

MHS expects a winner

By Len Auster Sports Editor

The fortunes of war have not smiled on the Manchester High wrestling team in recent years. Coach Barry Bernstein, who begins his eighth year, has sent his troops up against the likes of Windham, Fernal, Enfield and Simsbury — all state powers — and has seen his Indians scalped at most turns. "The record a year ago was a disappointing 3-12-1. Injuries took their toll, along with the competition. The losing mark was the fifth in a row for a Manchester wrestling contingent. Not since Bernstein's second year, in 1979-80 when a commendable 10-4 record was logged, has Manchester had a winner. Bernstein sees that becoming a reality in 1985-86. "We should have better than a .500 mark," he said reassuringly. The Silk Towners begin the mat campaign with their own fifth annual Manchester Holiday Tournament on Saturday at Clarke Arena beginning at 10 a.m. The tournament features eight teams, including two-time defending champion Simsbury, with the consolation and championship finals to begin approximately 4 p.m. Bernstein sees this year's contingent with a little bit of everything from top to bottom. "We have decent experience in the early weight classes for the first time in awhile. We have some experience in the middle and have some powerful kids at the top. It's the first time in several years we are balanced in experience," he cited. Manchester cannot avoid the competition of the likes of Windham, Enfield and Fernal, along with a combined East Haverhill and Fenney team that is always tough. In the Central Connecticut Conference's East Division. But the veteran Indian coach believes he has the horses to go up against them. He is, however, minus two wrestlers who would have helped. Senior Frank Hoher, the only wrestler to beat state champion Anthony Grant of Glastonbury a year ago, is out for the season with a knee injury suffered during the football campaign in the fall. Bernstein was convinced Hoher would have been either the No. 1 or No. 2 ranked wrestler in the 125-pound class in the state. And senior Darien Flanagan, who was a strong contender in the 167 and 180 pound divisions, was stabbed in the chest last Friday at Goffland in Vernon and is now recovering in the hospital after surgery. "There were 81-pound weight division this year for most matches and, when it appears, Manchester will probably have to forfeit. The thing that allows ninth graders to compete on the high school may

Is young Shula too young?

By Joel Sherman United Press International

NEW YORK — Nine current NFL head coaches put in less than five years as an NFL assistant coach. Six — Sam Wyche, John Mackovic, John Robinson, Bill Parcells, Don Coryell and Darrell Royal — were head coaches in college. Two — Bud Grant and Forrest Gregg — were head coaches in the Canadian Football League. Only one coach had less than five years as an NFL assistant and had no head coaching experience anywhere else — Don Shula. Which brings us to the successful Miami coach's eldest son, David. David Shula has been mentioned as a candidate for the head coaching job of the Eagles. Marlon Campbell was fired as Philadelphia coach Monday and Fred Bruney, the team's assistant head coach, was named in the interim. In his fourth season as the receivers-quarterback coach of the Dolphins, Shula is definitely benefitting on the job market from the famous name of his father. Besides his obvious lack of coaching experience in his age, Shula is 26, or nearly 23 years younger than the average of the 28 current coaches. "A great leader is a great leader if he is 23, 35 or 45," said Dick Vermeil, who was hired as Eagles coach in 1976 at age 39 and lasted through 1982. "The question is whether he will have the background to base all the decisions he'll have to make on."

Maris memorial service set for today

FARGO, N.D. (UPI) — Friends, fans and former teammates will remember Roger Maris at a memorial service today, honoring the single-season home run champion who was unable to enjoy his record-setting year. The Rev. Al Blitt will preside over a prayer service at 8 p.m. EST at St. Mary's Church, where Maris attended mass as a boy. Former New York Yankee teammate Bobby Richardson will deliver the eulogy and Roger Maris Jr. will speak for the family at Thursday's funeral. Maris died Saturday of lymphatic cancer at 51. Richardson, the Most Valuable Player in the 1962 World Series, played second base in 1961 when Maris hit 61 homers to break Babe Ruth's record. The achievement is marked by an asterisk in Maris' record books because Maris played eight more games than the popular Ruth. The Rev. John E. Moore of West Fargo, who knew the Maris family while the young slugger was growing up in North Dakota, will deliver the homily at Thursday's services in Fargo. Several of Maris' former teammates are among the pall bearers, including Mike Shannon, formerly with the St. Louis Cardinals; and Bill Skowron, Clete Boyer, Whitey Ford and Mickey Manzie, formerly with the New York Yankees. Other pall bearers will include St. Patrick's Cardinal manager Whitey Herzog, former Minnesota

Sports in Brief

- Jabbar SI Sportsman of the Year
NEW YORK — Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, the 36-year-old center of the NBA champion Los Angeles Lakers, Tuesday was named Sportsman of the Year by Sports Illustrated magazine. Abdul-Jabbar, the oldest player in the league, is only the second NBA player to win the award since its inception in 1954. Boston Celtics center Bill Russell won it in 1958.
- Kings drop Michael Adams
SACRAMENTO, Calif. — The Sacramento Kings Tuesday signed guard Mike Bratz and waived rookie guard Michael Adams. Adams, who played his high school ball at Hartford Public, was a third-round draft pick from Boston College. He averaged 2.2 points per game for the Kings.
- Dave Hunter gets off easy
EDMONTON, Alberta — Edmonton Oiler Dave Hunter was released from custody Tuesday within three hours of receiving a four-month jail sentence for driving while intoxicated. Hunter was convicted for the third time, which in Canada carries a mandatory jail term. The short time lapse between his second and third convictions — four months — was the major reason Hunter was in police custody.
- Provincial court Judge Percy Marshall said the shortness of time between the two crimes is "bordering on contempt" for drinking and driving laws in Canada.
- Clippers reactivate Derek Smith
LOS ANGELES — Los Angeles Clippers guard Derek Smith, who missed 16 games because of a knee injury, has been reactivated and will be in uniform for Wednesday's game against the Golden State Warriors, the team announced Tuesday. To make room for Smith on the roster, the Clippers waived second year forward-center Jay Murphy, a native of Meriden, Conn.

Coupon redemption helps needy youths

By Martin Sloane
United Feature Syndicate

One morning last August, Community Coffee received a call from Earl Mercer of the Louisiana Baptist Children's Home in Monroe. "I have a van full of premium coupons," said Mercer. "How do I turn them in?"

'Care and Share' is the message on the wall at Waddell School, where students Colleen Lynam, Allison Ross and Stephen Haag, from left, hold food collected for the Governor's Sharing Program. The program provides food for the needy.

Several days later, at a ceremony at the Baton Rouge offices of Community Coffee, the officers of the company presented the Children's Home with a check for $61,746.48. Coupons have been redeemed by a total of 82 organizations, and the company has paid them a total of more than $90,000.

It is worth noting that not all the people who contributed their coupons to the Children's Home were Baptists. One batch of coupons were received with a note signed, "Three Methodists, one Catholic and an Episcopalian."

Although the Community Coffee Company has eliminated its premium coupon program, the use of premium offers by food manufacturers continues to grow. In 1985, the manufacturers will increase their expenditures for premium offers by approximately $66 million to a record-setting $1 billion.

Community coffee decided to "match the value" of all the coupons that were outstanding and allow them to be redeemed for any Community Coffee products as well. The coupons, which have a value of approximately 3 cents each, were now worth 6 cents.

Olives are low in sodium and contain no cholesterol

By Tom Hoge
Associated Press

The United States is a land of olive lovers, and the American-grown black fruit is gaining fast in popularity.

The green, fermented olives known as Spanish-style, have long been a fixture at cocktail parties and picnics in this country, but the black, or "ripe," fruit, which is much milder, is being served more and more in American homes.

The blacks are grown in California, where they cover some 30,000 acres, supplying 98 percent of all the ripe olives grown in this country. In the 1984-85 crop year, sales of California olives totaled 11,541,200 cases, about 718,000 cases above the previous year.

One reason for the popularity of this ripe fruit is our preoccupation with health foods. A medium-size olive contains less than six calories and has no cholesterol. It is also low in sodium.

California's olive industry got its start about 1900 when the commercial ripe olive process was developed. Actually the first olives appeared here in the mid-18th century when Franciscan missionaries brought them to our West Coast.

Most rolled olives

- 1 3/4-cup can extra large pitted ripe olives, drained
- One-third cup coarsely chopped toasted almonds
- 1 tablespoon finely chopped rosemary, fresh, or 1/4 teaspoon dried rosemary, crushed
- 1/4 teaspoon finely chopped dill
- 1 egg white

Drain olives and pat dry with paper towels. In a shallow bowl, mix together nuts and herbs. Lightly beat egg white in a separate bowl. Dip the olives in egg white and roll in nut mixture.

Makes about 2 dozen canapés.

Friday: Chicken croquettes, zucchini, broccoli, salad, pudding. Tuna salad sandwich, fresh apple, milk.

Tuesday: Leg of veal with gravy, baked potato, wax beans, salad, pudding. Sliced turkey sandwich, fresh grapes, milk.

Wednesday: No meals served. Christmas.

Thursday: Roast turkey with gravy, sweet potato and apple casserole, peas and onions, dinner roll, plum cherry compote.

Friday: Fishbowl on a bun, tartar sauce, baked beans, Hawaiian coleslaw, chocolate nut cake.

Senior citizens

The following meals will be served at Mayfair Gardens and Westhill Gardens the week of Dec. 23 through 27 to Manchester residents who are 60 or older:

Monday: Braised beef cubes over noodles, mixed vegetables, rye bread, chilled peas.

Tuesday: Six-bean soup, plum-glazed chicken, mashed potatoes, buttered zucchini squash, wheat bread, black bottom pudding with topping.

Wednesday: No meals served. Christmas.

Thursday: Roast turkey with gravy, sweet potato and apple casserole, peas and onions, dinner roll, plum cherry compote.

Friday: Fishbowl on a bun, tartar sauce, baked beans, Hawaiian coleslaw, chocolate nut cake.

until they turn pink. Rinse well in cold water, so that you can handle them easily. Clean out all waste. Cut into 1-inch cubes. Put in the hot fat. They will puff and begin to brown almost immediately. Cook until golden brown, then remove with a slotted spoon and place on a dish covered, for 45 minutes to an hour. Serve with hot cooked pasta.

Crispelli (Italian fritters)

- 2 1/2 cups sifted flour
- 4 cups flour
- 1 cake yeast or 1 envelope dry yeast
- 1 cup raisins
- 2 cups warm water
- Pinch salt
- 1 to 2 teaspoons fennel seeds

Vegetable oil for frying

Combine all ingredients, except oil. Knead for several minutes, then place in a deep greased bowl. Turn to cover top of dough with the fat, then cover loosely. Set aside to rise. When dough has doubled in size, it is ready to fry. DO NOT punch down the dough. Heat oil in a deep saucepan. Scoop out teaspoons of the dough and drop into the hot fat. They will puff and begin to brown almost immediately. Cook until golden brown, then remove with a slotted spoon and place on a dish lined with paper towels. Continue until all dough is cooked.

Serve warm or at room temperature, with bowls of honey or jam for dipping. If there are many extras, they can be frozen and reheated in the toaster oven.

Zuppa Inglese

- 2 1/2 cups sifted flour
- 6 egg yolks
- 6 tablespoons sugar
- 6 tablespoons flour
- Pinch salt
- 4 cups milk
- Strips of peel from 1 lemon
- 1 teaspoon vanilla extract
- 3 8-ounce packages lady fingers
- 1 cup rum
- 2 cups heavy cream
- 6 to 10 maraschino cherries for decoration (optional)

Whip cream until it is stiff, and cover the entire surface of the dessert. Arrange cherries at the edges for decoration, if desired. Chill for several hours, then make the dessert easier to dish out. Serve 12.

Thoughts

"There is no fear in love, but perfect love casts out fear." (1 John 4:18) The only way we can achieve wholeness is by loving and being loved. The person who refuses to love others (and to allow others to love him) is already living in hell. The bridge between brokenness and wholeness is the personal experience of God - loving - us. Without his loving presence in our life, we are somehow incomplete. God sent his only-begotten Son into the world to show us he is not far from the human condition. He came among us so we could experience his love even in a broken and sinful world. He calls each of us to wholeness - a vocation to grow that involves risk and pain. The salvation that God offers us is not "pie in the sky" but the breaking of sin's power over us so we can live in newness of life here and now.

U.S./World In Brief

RFK assassin gets new hearing

SACRAMENTO, Calif. — Sirhan Sirhan, the Palestinian immigrant who assassinated Sen. Robert F. Kennedy in 1968, will get a new parole hearing because his June hearing did not follow appropriate guidelines, the state ruled.

"We had a bizarre case conducted in a carnival atmosphere," Sirhan's attorney, Luke McKissack said Tuesday after learning of the decision. "It went way beyond what was necessary to violate the rules."

An official of the state Board of Prison Terms Tuesday announced the nine-member board decided hearing officers acted improperly in denying parole last June and scheduling the next hearing for two years later.

McKissack said his 41-year-old client was treated unfairly at the June hearing when his seventh request for release from prison was rejected.

Captors threaten to kill four hostages

BEIRUT, Lebanon — The kidnapers of four Lebanese Jews warned they would kill their captives "very soon" unless an Israeli-backed militia freed some 300 Shiite Muslim prisoners from a camp in southern Lebanon.

The warning, published Tuesday in the An Nahar newspaper, coincided with moves on other fronts to seek the release of victims of kidnappings by Muslim and Christian militiamen in Lebanon.

A spokesman for Church of England envoy Terry Walte said he would return to Beirut Friday to resume negotiations for the release of four kidnapped Americans. French mediators, meanwhile, arrived in Beirut to seek release of four kidnapped Frenchmen.

NBC Television said Tuesday a search was under way for two of its Lebanese employees who were missing. It was feared the two U.S. network employees were kidnapped Monday as they crossed Beirut's Green Line no man's land.

Loose part may have caused crash

GANDER, Newfoundland — A loose engine part may have played a role in an Arrow Air charter jet crash that killed 256 U.S. soldiers and crew members — the worst single charter jet crash in history, investigators said.

As investigators in Canada examined engine parts and reviewed flight data recorders in hope of determining what caused the Dec. 12 crash, pathologists at Dover Air Force Base in Delaware began the delicate task of identifying the victims.

Four giant C-141 Starlifters — each carrying 35 aluminum caskets containing remains of the servicemen and crew members who perished in the fiery Newfoundland crash — arrived at the base Tuesday. The rest of the bodies were scheduled to be flown to Dover today.

Meanwhile, Tom Hinton, chief investigator with the Canadian Aviation Control Board, said Tuesday experts believe the right outboard thrust reverser on the DC-8's No. 4 engine was separated.

He said the thrust reverser, used on landing to slow the aircraft, may have separated as a result of the crash or may have been loose before takeoff.

California must wait for suspect

CALGARY, Alberta — A former U.S. Marine suspected in as many as 25 sex-slave murders in the United States must serve at least 18 months in prison before he can be extradited to California, where he could face the death penalty.

Charles Ng was convicted of robbery, aggravated assault and illegal use of a weapon Tuesday and sentenced to 4 1/2 years in prison.

The charges stemmed from his arrest July 6 at a Calgary department store. He also had been charged with attempted murder — a security guard was shot in the hand during a struggle — but the judge found him innocent on that count.

Senate to get crack at tax bill in '86

By Joseph Mionoway United Press International

WASHINGTON — President Reagan's view of a new tax code for America, surviving incredible odds, is going to the Senate next year following House approval of a historic bill to cut rates and make business shoulder more of the burden.

Responding to Reagan's plea to keep his top domestic priority moving, the House late Tuesday night plowed through stiff Republican opposition and passed a sweeping tax overhaul measure drafted by the Democratic-led Ways and Means Committee.

Approval came, surprisingly, on a voice vote when no one asked for a roll call.

Reagan, in a statement, praised the House action as a "historic step" and noted, "we now look to the Senate to move quickly and to make all necessary changes to ensure that the final bill is unambiguously pro-family, pro-job and pro-growth."

House Democratic leaders, happy to have at least temporarily finished with the thorny issue, also pointed to the bill's arrival in the Senate next year.

House Speaker Thomas O'Neill, D-Mass., claimed Democrats "rescued tax reform from the jaws of big business Republicans. We have delivered on our historic commitment to tax fairness."

"Only the Republican Senate can stop tax reform flow," Write Packwood," he said, referring to a roll call.

Senate approves Buckley as judge

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate approved former New York Sen. James Buckley as a judge on the federal appeals court in Washington despite criticism from opponents that his "resume of legal activities is empty."

Buckley, who has headed Radio Free Europe since 1982, was approved Tuesday on a 84-11 vote after Sens. Christopher Dodd, D-Conn., and Lowell Weicker, R-Conn., voiced their opposition, saying he was not qualified for the job.

"This nomination is being advanced almost exclusively because of Buckley's conservative views," said Dodd, who beat Buckley in the 1980 race for the Connecticut Senate seat.

Weicker said Buckley had limited legal experience, had never tried a case or even argued one before a jury.

"We can predict what his ruling will be when it comes to a woman's right to choose abortion," Weicker said. "He has opposed civil rights legislation and extension of the Voting Rights Act."

Senate Finance Committee Chairman Bob Packwood, R-Ore. In another part of the Capitol, Ways and Means Committee Chairman Dan Rostenkowski, of Illinois, and other Democratic members of the panel, uncorked a bottle of champagne and toasted passage of the measure.

"This is an accomplishment of the House of Representatives and to a bumpy ride in the Senate," said Rostenkowski, D-Ill., adding, "you'll be busy all next year over there."

Given that Reagan's tax project was on the ropes just days ago, the win Tuesday night was especially sweet. Last week, the Democratic bill was considered virtually dead, the victim of a Republican-led revolt that had blocked its consideration.

But the president, personally lobbying for the legislation in a trip to Capitol Hill Monday, turned around enough GOP votes to prompt a new stab at the measure, which would lower tax rates and curb or eliminate numerous tax breaks. It also would remove about 6 million poor Americans from the tax rolls, while shifting about $140 billion of the tax burden from individuals to businesses over five years.

Republicans generally opposed the nearly 1,400-page bill because they said it was unfair to business and could spark an economic disaster. They pushed their own substitute tax plan, but that proposal was defeated in the House on a 204-153 vote largely along party lines.

Consult broker before note purchase

QUESTION: I have some two-year U.S. Treasury notes, with a maturity date of June 30, 1986. A newspaper table of Treasury bonds and notes, a clipping of which I have enclosed, lists its price as 14.87, as of June 1986, but shows it dropping to 12.82 in July 1986. I don't understand this. Have I misread the clipping?

ANSWER: Yes. The numbers you mention are not prices. They are the interest rates our federal government pays on two different issues of Treasury notes.

The only Treasury note issue due to mature on June 30, 1986, is one paying 14 1/2 percent annual interest. That's 14.875 percent — the 14.87 number in the table, with the final digit deleted.

For every $10,000 face value of those notes you own, you receive $1,487.50 annual interest — $743.75 every six months, because Treasury notes and bonds pay interest semiannually.

And, when your notes reach maturity, you will receive their full face value.

The 12.82 number immediately below the 14.87 number in the rate column of the newspaper Treasury bond and notes table has nothing to do with your notes. That number refers to the 12 1/2 percent — 12.825 percent, 12.82, without the final digit — issue of Treasury notes due to mature in July 1986. That's an entirely different issue of notes than those you own.

Also, you're confused about other aspects of your notes. The Treasury notes you own are not two-year notes. Those particular notes were issued in 1982. They are four-year notes.

It may be that you bought your notes in 1984, when they had two years left to maturity, leading you to believe you purchased two-year notes. Not so. Please don't think I am picking on you, but you should find out what you're buying before you make any investments in the future. My strong suggestion is to sit down with your broker or banker and have every investment you make, or are considering making, explained in detail.

Investors' Guide
William A. Doyle

Fortunately, the Treasury notes you now own have been excellent investments. However, if you're mixed up on what you're buying, you might make some bad investments in the years ahead.

QUESTION: I am 78 and may lose my sight. So, I would like to buy 10-year Treasury notes. Is this possible?

ANSWER: The U.S. Treasury issues notes with maturities of anywhere from two to 10 years at different times, depending on the federal government's needs to finance this nation's debt.

If a 10-year note issue is offered for sale, you can purchase some at that time. If no such new offering is made, you can buy whatever previously issued long-term note issue is available in the "secondary market" — where notes are traded. A brokerage firm or bank will handle the purchase for you.

QUESTION: Can I purchase U.S. Treasury notes maturing in two or three years and have the interest paid to me monthly or quarterly?

ANSWER: You can't have that arrangement. If all the notes you purchase are of the same issue, for the simple reason that notes pay interest semiannually. You can accomplish what you have in mind by purchasing notes with different maturities, which pay interest at different times. For example, you can purchase some notes that pay interest in March and September and others that pay interest in June and December. That way, you'll get an interest check quarterly.

And, if you buy six different note issues — one paying interest in January and July, the second in February and August, the third in March and September, the fourth in April and October, the fifth in May and November, the sixth in June and December, you'll receive an interest check every month.

Here's a word of caution. You'll probably have to pay a commission, markup and/or service charge on each note issue. The extra costs involved could negate the advantage of receiving monthly interest checks.

Also, the total commissions, markups and/or service charges on the purchase of two or six purchases of notes almost certainly would be higher than on one purchase.

U.S. is not debtor

By The Associated Press

The widest measure of U.S. trade hit a near record $39.5 billion in the third quarter, according to the latest government statistics.

The Commerce Department said Tuesday that the deficit in the current account jumped by 9.9 percent in the third quarter over the $27.7 billion imbalance suffered in the April-June quarter.

In other economic news Tuesday: Housing construction was reported to have plunged 12.2 percent in November, the sharpest drop in six months, despite the lowest mortgage rates in six years.

The Labor Department reported that unemployment rates in October were above those of a year earlier in 25 states, even as the national rate fell from 7 percent to 6.8 percent on a seasonally adjusted basis.

The new comptroller of the currency said efforts to gain permission for commercial banks to enter new lines of business are being hampered by a crisis in the savings and loan industry.

With the latest trade figures, the nation has gone deeper into the hole as a net debtor country.

The current account, also known as the balance of payments, measures trade not only in merchandise but also in services, a category which includes investment flows between countries.

Since 1982, the merchandise trade deficit has mushroomed and the disparity between U.S. investments abroad and foreign investments in this country has shrunk.

These changes turned the United States into a net debtor this year for the first time in 71 years. Commerce Department officials said it is likely that the United States at the end of September was in debt to the rest of the world by $43 billion.

On another matter, it reported that new housing was constructed at an annual rate of 1.55 million units in November, the lowest pace since April 1983.

Housing starts had risen 9 percent in October following a 7.1 percent September decline. The November total was the largest drop since a 13 percent fall last May.

Some analysts blamed extreme cold and blizzards for the sharp decline. Meanwhile, the Labor Department said that while unemployment increased in half the states between October 1984 to October 1985, nine of the remaining 25 reporting decreases in unemployment had declines of one percentage point or more.

The largest decreases were in West Virginia, which dropped 2.9 percentage points to 12.5 percent, and Alabama, down 2.6 percentage points to 7.9 percent.

New Hampshire had the lowest jobless rate among the 50 states in October, at 2.6 percent. West Virginia and Louisiana, which was at 10.9 percent, were the only two states with double-digit unemployment in October.

On the banking industry, Robert L. Clarke, who took over as supervisor of national banks two weeks ago, said he favors giving banks more leeway in the business activities they can engage in as a way to enhance their profitability — as long as care is taken to safeguard the safety and soundness of the banking system.

Asked about the wisdom of allowing such diversification with so many banks experiencing difficulties of their own, Clarke said, "There's an even more crying need in times of trouble than times of profitability."

"I think the crisis is definitely abstracting what needs to be done," Robert L. Clarke told reporters. "In the public's mind, there is not a differential between banks and thrifts."

Commercial banks in fact deal in a number of areas while thrifts are largely restricted to mortgage lending though less so than historically.

Trade measure jumps in third quarter

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Treasury Department said Tuesday that an average yield of 7.99 percent, the lowest rate in seven years.

The department said it received $29.9 billion in bids for the notes it sold. The average yield was down from 8.58 percent at the last auction on Dec. 2 and was the lowest since 7.84 percent on May 1, 1978.

The notes were sold in minimum denominations of $5,000 at 99.9 percent of par, or face value, with a coupon rate of 7.75 percent.

Business In Brief

Stocks make early rebound

NEW YORK — Stocks began to rebound in active trading early today after an opening decline.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, which dipped in the first half hour of trading, rose to 159.24 by 10:30 a.m. EST, 5.84 points over Tuesday's closing figure.

The New York Stock Exchange composite index, which measures a wider range of issues than the Dow, remained unchanged at 121.17. The American Stock Exchange index fell 0.30 to 242.55.

Decliners led gains by a 3-2 margin on the Big Board, but the gap appeared to be narrowing from the opening, when falling stocks held a 2-1 lead. More than 191.6 million shares were traded in the first hour.

Polaroid's CEO to retire

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. — The Polaroid Corp.'s chief executive officer says he will retire from the post Jan. 1, but will continue to function as the company's chairman.

William A. McCune Jr., 70, has been Polaroid's chief executive officer since 1980. He said Tuesday I.M. Booth, 54, would replace him as chief executive officer. In addition to maintaining his current position as president, Booth previously served as Polaroid's chief operating officer, a position which has now been eliminated. The company in 1983 and has been president of Polaroid since 1983.

Survey sees sluggish trade

FARMINGTON — Sluggish economic growth in most countries, persistent high unemployment and extreme trade imbalances will further fuel the trend toward protective tariffs, a year-end analysis prepared for Emhart Corp. has concluded.

The Farmington-based Emhart also said protectionism has nearly halted the growth of world trade and will likely be a major political dilemma next year.

The survey of world business conditions was conducted by Business International Corp. among the research, publishing and consulting firm's correspondents in 35 countries. The results were released Tuesday and will be published in the company's worldwide newspaper, Emhart News.

Town residents participate

SMITHFIELD, R.I. — Michael Ann, Lisa A. Erickson, and Lynn Michaud, Manchester residents attending Bryant College, have participated in the annual Bryant Fund fall phonathon.

Ann, a junior marketing major and son of Dr. & Mrs. William Ann of Weymouth Hill Road; Erickson, a junior marketing major and daughter of Mr. & Mrs. Joseph Erickson of Clinton Street; and Michaud, a sophomore marketing major and daughter of Mr. & Mrs. Joel Michaud of West Street, were three of 300 students who helped to raise more than $150,000 for the Bryant Fund. The Fund raises money each year to support financial aid, library acquisitions, data processing, and other academic programs at Bryant.

Courtroom is battleground in Carbide takeover drama

By Peter S. Howes
The Associated Press

DANBURY — The fight for control of Union Carbide Corp. moved from a federal courtroom in New Haven to one in New York today as GAF Corp. tried to quash Carbide's takeover defense.

On Tuesday, a federal judge in New Haven said he would rule Thursday on a request by GAF to have a lawsuit filed against it by Union Carbide either dismissed or transferred to New York.

Carbide filed the lawsuit on Monday as part of its defense against GAF's hostile, $4.3 billion takeover bid. But in court on Tuesday, GAF argued that the action should have been filed as a counter-claim to a lawsuit GAF filed the same day in U.S. District Court in New York.

GAF asked U.S. District Judge Jose A. Cabranes to either dismiss Carbide's lawsuit or move it to New York, where GAF's own lawsuit was scheduled to be heard this afternoon by U.S. District Judge Andrew Peck.

Cabranes said he would rule Thursday on GAF's request. In the New York case, GAF accuses Union Carbide of using its defense to illegally frustrate GAF's bid by confusing shareholders and giving unfair advantage to friendly acquirers over those making hostile bids.

ON DEC. 19, GAF launched a $48-per share bid for Union Carbide that it sweetened to all-cash several days later. Carbide responded Sunday with a "poison pill" defense designed to make an unfriendly acquisition prohibitively expensive.

The defense includes an offer to buy as much as 70 percent of the company's stock for $30 in cash and debt securities if values at $5 per share if GAF acquires 30 percent or more of Union Carbide's outstanding stock.

Meanwhile, Union Carbide said in documents filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission that it was considering other defensive actions that include a friendly merger with a company other than GAF or the sale of some of its large assets.

Also, the company was reported to have offered its five top executives a total of $2.75 million in special compensation — so-called golden parachutes — in the event of an unfriendly takeover.

A Carbide spokesman would not elaborate on the SEC filings, in which it did not rule out a friendly merger with another company. Wall Street analysts have said Carbide would be a more attractive merger partner if it could quickly settle litigation over the 1,787 deaths in a chemical leak from a company factory last year in Bhopal, India.

SOURCES CLOSE TO the settlement process have been quoted recently as saying that out-of-court talks among Union Carbide, lawyers and the government of India have escalated with the company softening its position. Carbide has not publicly commented on the progress of the talks.

According to Tuesday's edition of the Wall Street Journal, so-called golden parachutes would be offered to 42 executives of Union Carbide in the event of an unfriendly change of control. The documents did not list the value of severance contracts that could be awarded to all 42.

Union Carbide spokesman Ed Van Den Ameel confirmed Tuesday that the company had offered a severance package to its executives on Oct. 22, but he would not confirm the figures.

However, the Journal reported that at least $2.75 million would go to the company's top five officers, representing payment of about three times their average annual compensation.

Of that amount, $2.87 million would go to Chairman Warren M. Anderson. The next four executives under Anderson are Alec Flamm, vice chairman; James M. Rehfeld, executive vice president; J. Clayton Stephenson, executive vice president and chief financial officer; and Elio E. Torika, executive vice president.

Van Den Ameel said the severance offer was made "to permit top management to focus on serving the best interests of shareholders. These contracts give them the financial security to do that."

Coming to town

Santa Claus is making regular appearances during the Christmas shopping season at the Manchester Parkade and in downtown Manchester. Left, Fred Peck greets shoppers outside Liggett's at the Parkade. Santa will be back at the Parkade Saturday through Tuesday. Right, Lloyd Smith and Lucille Giguere appear as Mr. and Mrs. Claus at the downtown Manchester Mall, listening to the wishes of Frank Bell of Manchester. Santa will be at the mall again Saturday.

Dollar mixed in European trading

LONDON (UPI) — The dollar opened mixed in quiet trading on world money markets today, trading in a narrow range, dealers said.

Gold eased between $1 and $2 an ounce. In London a pound bought $1.4377, against $1.4382 at Tuesday's close.

The dollar also moved ahead in Zurich to 2.1070 francs from 2.1033, in Brussels to 51.46 francs, compared with 51.42, and in Paris to 7.6745 francs, compared with 7.6725.

But in Frankfurt the dollar shed almost a penny to 2.5085 marks from 2.5170 and in Milan it fell slightly to 1,713 lire, compared with 1,714.30 Tuesday.

Farm measure awaits action from Reagan

Capitol Hill says president will sign

By Jim Drinkard
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — President Reagan will sign the 1985 farm bill on Monday, despite its expense and the mixed policy outcomes for the administration, congressional sources said today.

Agriculture Secretary John Block scheduled a news conference to announce the decision, and sources on Capitol Hill said the president had decided to approve the legislation despite objections from some in the administration.

Many members of Congress, which passed the bill on Wednesday, had urged the president to approve it as a compromise that would restore market competitiveness to American agriculture while offering farmers an income safety net.

The House endorsed the 1,297-page compromise bill on a 235-96 vote, and the Senate approved it 55-38 a few hours later.

Block was said by members of Congress to have recommended approval by Reagan, and some farm-state GOP members of Congress sought Reagan's signature to spare them the harsh political fallout of a veto.

"This gives the president everything he wanted in the way of change, except for the schedule on which he wanted those changes to occur," said Rep. Edward Madigan, the senior Republican on the House Agriculture Committee.

A presidential veto would be "a political disaster in the farm belt for the Republican party," the Illinois lawmaker added.

But administration sources said other forces within the executive branch are weighing in against the bill, citing policy problems of trade and foreign policy and objections to the bill's cost.

The five-year farm bill is the result of a year of struggle to reconcile powerful and competing forces: a deep and extended depression in the farm economy; massive budget deficits and the need to cut federal spending; and a slump in farm exports, which traditionally have been the backbone of U.S. foreign trade.

The aim is to lower prices enough to normal new and competing crops such as corn, wheat, cotton, rice and soybeans will be substantially reduced and tied more closely to prices on world markets, rather than being set at arbitrary levels decided by Congress.

Among policy negatives for the administration were provisions offering retaliation for foreign trade practices Congress regards as unfair, and continued protection of imports for the domestic sugar industry and a new assessment on dairy farmers which the administration derisively calls "a milk tax."

Bolton roof almost finished

By George Lyons
Herald Reporter

BOLTON — Things have returned to normal now that only minor items remain to be completed on the new roof at Bolton Center School, Principal Anne Rash said today.

"As far as I'm concerned, it's finished," Rash said of the roof. All that remains is for workers to finish installing metal trim that runs along the edge of the roof, she said.

"It's no longer disruptive, and most of the equipment is gone," Rash said. She said it was unlikely workers would brave the cold today to finish the edging.

The $74,000 project, which began on Nov. 18, was slated to be completed in 15 working days. However, delays caused by weather and major leaks slowed the work. In addition, students and teachers have complained that classes were disrupted by loud noise and strong odors from the construction.

On Dec. 12, hundreds of gallons of water flooded four classrooms that had been covered by a tarpaulin. The water damaged a copying machine and left two to three inches of standing water on classroom floors.

Rash said this morning that an estimate of the damage has not yet been prepared. Head custodian James Veitch will probably wait until Christmas vacation before assessing the work that needs to be done, she said. However, Rash said the water has dried and classes are being held in the rooms.

She said a complete assessment of the damage caused by the work will be conducted once the project is finished. In addition to the trim, Rash said, some re-seeding must be done where equipment damaged part of the school grounds.

Hutensky said the creation of a tax district, which might need special legislation, would distribute revenue from the project more equally among the towns.

"One of the concerns of the town of Manchester in regards to the project is that the burden would be on the town of Manchester, but the tax dollars would go to South Windsor," Hutensky said. "I think this is in response to that concern."

The 800,000-square-foot retail space would lie in South Windsor, while a parking lot and an office complex would be located in Manchester. The Winchester proposal stands in contrast to one for the Buckland Hills mall, which would be located entirely in Manchester.

Officials reviewing tax offer

By John F. Kirch
Herald Reporter

South Windsor officials said today they will review a proposal made by the developers of the planned Winchester Mall to create a special taxing district that would guarantee Manchester almost 40 percent of the revenues generated by the mall.

South Windsor Manager Richard Sartor said today that he has discussed the idea of a tax district with the developers, Bronson and Hutensky of Bloomfield and Melvin Simon and Co. of Indianapolis, but has not studied it in detail. The plan would give Manchester 38 percent of the tax dollars from the entire development, even though less than 38 percent of the taxable property would be located in Manchester.

Sartor said he received a letter from the developers this week that outlined the plan.

"We told them that if they want to make a formal proposal, we would discuss it with the Town Council," Sartor said. He said the developers would be invited to a council meeting in January to discuss the plan in detail.

Alan Hutensky, a partner in Bronson and Hutensky, said Wednesday that the proposals were made to answer Manchester's concerns that Winchester would bring much traffic to the town but few tax dollars.

Most of the regional mall's retail space would lie in South Windsor, while a parking lot and an office complex would be located in Manchester. The Winchester proposal stands in contrast to one for the Buckland Hills mall, which would be located entirely in Manchester.

Hutensky said the creation of a tax district, which might need special legislation, would distribute revenue from the project more equally among the towns.
