STARTING MARCH 14th!

At a time when the sports pages are filled with stories of athletes involved in drug scandals, students at Bannet Junior High School seemed surprised to hear from two professional hockey players who said they have never used drugs.

The use of drugs and alcohol in professional sports today is especially disheartening because of the hard work needed for an athlete to reach that level of proficiency. Harford Whaler Dave Tippett told Bannet students Tuesday.

"Without preaching about the dangers of drugs, Tippett and teammate Kevin Dineen encouraged about 200 seventh-graders packed into the school library to set goals in sports and school instead of getting high.

Manchester — A City of Village Charm

Students at Bannet Junior High School clamor for an autograph from whaler Kevin Dineen Tuesday after an anti-drug presentation in the school library. Dineen, teammate Dave Tippett and announcers Rick Peckham and Chuck Kallon, encouraged the seventh-graders to choose sports and school activities over drugs. The players distributed posters and pictures to the more than 200 students who attended.

Bennet students get Whaler warning

By Susan Vaughn Herald Reporter

Appearing with Tippett and Dineen were Whalers announcers Rick Peckham and Chuck Kallon. All came to Bennet as part of an anti-drug program the Whalers have been participating in this year in connection with the Connecticut Anti-Drug Commission.

"You people are coming to the age where it's going to be crisis time," Tippett told the students. He said they would have to make decisions about achieving their goals, whether in sports or school.

"The key word is common sense. You know what you can handle," Tippett said.

"You've got to decide what you're going to do yourself," said Dineen. He said that while he does not use drugs, he has seen a lot of professional athletes use cocaine and other drugs.

Contract ends UAW strike at Pillowtex

By John F. Kirch Herald Reporter

Employees of the Pillowtex Corp. folded their picket line and ended a seven-month-old strike Tuesday afternoon after approving a three-year accord reached the day before between the company and United Auto Workers Local 578.

The employees will return to work next week under the first union contract at the Pillowtex plant on Regent Street, a company spokesman said today.

Richard E. Kerner, vice president of personnel and the company's chief negotiator, called the contract — agreed upon just as the National Labor Relations Board was to begin hearings on UAW complaints — "favorable" and "in line" with contracts the Dallas-based pillow and comforter manufacturer has at other union plants around the country.

"The important thing is that the strike is over," Kerner said this morning. "There was give and take on both sides. We're happy with the contract and happy to get back to making pillows. That's our business."

The union called the contract a victory for the labor movement in Manchester and said the company "met our bottom line," though Local 578 officials said it included some compromises.

"We won, you can't describe it any different," Phillip A. Wheeler, president of Local 578, said Tuesday after the union voted to ratify the contract. "Unfortunately we couldn't do it without a strike. We're happy it's over and we're happy we got an excellent contract."

Both Kerner and Wheeler said the contract includes provisions for an automatic pay increase each year. The workers will receive a 25-cent hourly wage increase in the first year, 20 cents in the second year of the contract and 25 cents in the third. Workers returning to their jobs will receive an increase anywhere from 25 cents to $1.80 "just for walking in the door," Wheeler said.

Under the contract, the workers will receive overtime pay of time-and-a-half for all hours worked over eight a day. They will receive overtime pay for all hours worked on Saturday and will be paid double-time for Sunday hours, the officials said.

In the past, workers received

Theory hints at reprisal by state's oil companies

HARTFORD (AP) — The state attorney general says he is looking into allegations that big oil companies may have inflated their prices for Connecticut gasoline prices in retaliation for tighter regulations the state imposed in 1981.

Connecticut passed the so-called divorcement law five years ago, forcing the major oil companies out of the retail business. The law prohibits gasoline distributors from competing against their own dealers by operating their own filling stations.

Attorney General Joseph I. Lieberman in February began investigating the failure of state retail prices to fall in step with plummeting world oil prices. The investigation seemed to point on the major oil companies earlier this month after the attorney general met with disgruntled dealers complaining of unfair treatment at the hands of the big refiners.

In Connecticut and every other state, the big oil companies can contract with dealers to lease service stations from them and to buy only their gasoline at a non-negotiable wholesale price.

Wayne Kontabel, executive director of the Connecticut Gasoline Retailers Association, has said independent filling station operators are free to buy their supplies on the open market.

Administration keeps eye on trouble spots

U.S. planes defied threats by Libyan leader Moammar Khadafi and roamed unchallenged today in the Gulf of Sidra, where the lack of any Libyan military activity signaled an apparent end to the battle, Pentagon officials said.

As relative calm returned to disputed Gulf waters, Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger and other Pentagon officials hinted that U.S. flight operations may be ended there sooner than the scheduled April 1. One Pentagon source said they may be over by Thursday.

Meanwhile, President Reagan is staying out of public view while moving behind the scenes to keep U.S. pressure on Libya and to send $20 million in military aid to Honduras to repel a Nicaraguan invasion. Story on page 4.

Supporters and opponents of President Reagan's $100 million aid package to Nicaragua rebels tried today to fashion a compromise that would win widespread Senate support. The Senate was scheduled later today to begin 10 hours of debate on the aid plan, with a vote likely tonight or Thursday.

Calm prevailed into the early morning hours today in the disputed Gulf of Sidra. But for a second straight day Tuesday, the U.S. 6th Fleet directed missile fire against Libyan forces. Four Libyan ships were hit in the two days of fighting, three of them sunk. And a Libyan radar site was struck Monday, then hit again less than four hours later.

In its latest update, the Pentagon said that as of 5 a.m. EST, "The U.S. naval exercise in the Mediterranean Sea continues as scheduled with both surface and air units operating within the disputed Gulf of Sidra."

The United States considers the gulf part of the Mediterranean and open to international traffic to within 12 miles of the Libyan coast, Khadafi claims sovereignty over the entire gulf.

"No additional incidents with Libyan forces have been reported," the Pentagon said. "Sixth Fleet surface vessels and aircraft continue to operate in the Gulf of Sidra in the same general area they have been in for the past two days. The fleet remains clear of the Libyan territorial waters."

The new quiet in Libya appeared to mean Khadafi conceded U.S. claims to rights to navigate freely in gulf waters and airspace and sought an end to the maneuvers by the 30-ship Navy force and its 265 planes.

Libya last fired on U.S. planes with a Soviet-built SAM-5 missile at 1:14 p.m. EST Monday, the Pentagon said.

Reaction is mixed in town

By John F. Kirch Herald Reporter

Two days after Libyan and American forces clashed in the Gulf of Sidra, local officials and politicians remain divided over what shape American foreign policy should take in the Middle East.

Officials and state legislators contacted Tuesday and this morning also disagreed on whether the U.S. Navy provoked a confrontation with Libyan leader Moammar Khadafi when it crossed into the gulf.

"We have every right to be there," said state Sen. Carl A. Zinsser, R-Manchester. "The reaction was a proper one to take. We have to establish that those are international waters."

"They've been provoking the gulf part of the Mediterranean and open to international traffic to within 12 miles of the Libyan coast," Khadafi claims sovereignty over the entire gulf.

"They don't seem to react as a reasonable nation would," he added, calling U.S. actions "logical."

U.S. warplanes and ships struck a Libyan anti-aircraft missile site and destroyed four Libyan boats earlier this week after the North African country fired at least six missiles at U.S. planes taking part in a military exercise over the Gulf of Sidra.

Libya claims the entire gulf as its territorial waters, while the U.S. and most of the world recognizes only a 12-mile boundary around the coast.

"What would others do if we drew a line across the Gulf of Mexico and said, 'These are our waters'?" Zinsser asked. "We would be wrong."

Other officials disagreed. They said that although Khadafi was

Divorce rate up in 1985

WASHINGTON (AP) — Americans were about twice as likely to marry as to divorce last year, but new government statistics show the divorce rate was rising while marriage was on the decline.

There were 10.2 marriages per 1,000 Americans in 1985, down 3 percent from 1984 and the lowest rate since 1977, according to the annual statistical summary from the National Center for Health Statistics.

At the same time, the divorce rate climbed 2 percent to 5 divorces per 1,000 people to match the rate of 1985.

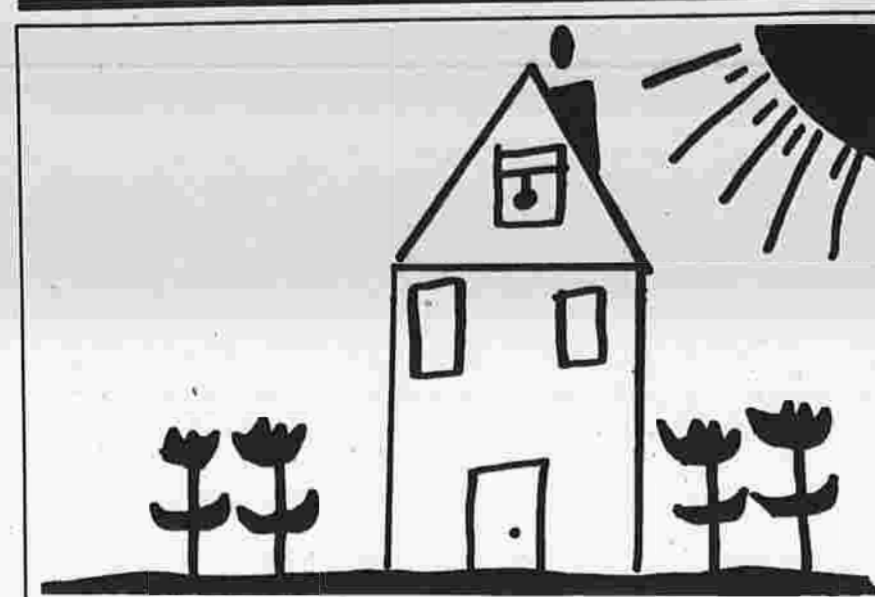

The Center reported 2,455,800 marriages in 1985, down from 2,487,000 in 1984. And there were 1,187,000 divorces, up from 1,155,000.

Overall, 1,025,000 people were added to the United States population last year as a result of natural increase — the excess of births over deaths. The rate of increase was 7 per 1,000 people, the same as a year earlier.

PEOPLE

A costly dozen

Eggs usually come cheaper by the dozen, but not to publisher Malcolm Forbes, who bought his 12th Faberge imperial Easter egg. The Rosebud Egg was a gift from Czar Nicholas II of Russia to his wife, Alexandra, in 1895, and was long thought to be missing. Forbes' son Christopher writes in the April issue of Art & Antiques magazine. But it turned up several months ago, and Malcolm Forbes shelled out an undisclosed amount for it, in one of two recent acquisitions. In London, he paid $148,770 Tuesday for a jeweled snuff box presented by Queen Victoria to explorer Sir Henry M. Stanley, Christie's auctioneers said. Don Garson, spokesman for Forbes, said the price for the 2 1/2-inch-long egg did not exceed the $1.8 million the publisher of Forbes magazine paid at a June auction for his 11th Faberge imperial egg.

Kicking the habit

It's never too late to stop smoking, says Pulitzer Prize-winning author A.B. Guthrie, of Choteau, Mont., who kicked his 65-year-old habit recently at age 65. "I just got tired of being a slave to it and got tired of coughing, and also I didn't like to spend $10 a week for nothing," said Guthrie, who lives in Choteau, said recently. Guthrie, who had smoked up to 10 packs a week, quit with his husband two days after Christmas. Nicotine gum was their only crutch. "The absence of smoking sharpens your sense of smell and your sense of taste," Guthrie, who lives in Choteau, said recently. "You relish things more."

Concert held up

An anti-apartheid benefit concert planned for Nashville, Tenn., won't go on with Pete Seeger, Gil Scott-Heron and folk singer Holly Near because organizers say they are having difficulty lining up other performers. The three performers had pledged their services for the Freedom Jam '86 that had been scheduled for April 12, said organizer Aashid Himeson who announced the cancellation Friday. Proceeds were to go to South African Bishop Desmond Tutu's South African scholarship and refugee funds; TransAfrica, a Washington-based anti-apartheid lobby; and a local group, the Afro-American Cultural Alliance.

YOKO ONO concert on hold

Yoko sells slowly

Yoko Ono, the widow of slain former Beatle John Lennon, is postponing a series of North American concerts scheduled for April because of insufficient advance ticket sales, a spokesman said. The concerts, scheduled to run April 1-29, were to follow her recent European tour, spokesman Elliot Mintz said Tuesday. "Ms. Ono... apologizes to the people who have already bought tickets for the North American Tour. She would have liked not to have postponed the concert," Mintz said. The singer hopes that after her Japan tour next month, she may be able to do the concerts, Mintz said. Information regarding ticket refunds will be announced at ticket outlets, he said.

Inmate Innovation The number of Americans in prison is expected to reach 491,000 this year, an increase of more than 10 percent over 1985. Prison crowding is causing many states to take a closer look at probation practices. John Augustus, a Boston cobbler, pioneered probation for inmates. He obtained the release of the first prisoner on probation in 1841, and became the first self-declared probation officer. He obtained the release of 2,000 more prisoners before his death in 1859.

Panel rejects Union Pond land bids

After rejecting the bids, the subcommittee recommended that the town pay to prepare the site for development, a project that would include building an access road from Tolland Turnpike to the site. Helen L. McMullen, owner of Pressure Blast Manufacturing Co. Inc., a manufacturer of blast equipment and abrasives that is located on Chapel Street, offered $17,500 an acre for the 11.02-acre site and possibly add another 35,000 square feet to the proposed building. She said without expansion, the company might be forced to leave town. "In my opinion, although we want Pressure Blast to stay in the town, the offer of $17,500 an acre is not reasonable at all," Werber said. "It would be a pit."

Hockey players urge Bennet pupils to check drug use

Continued from page 1 "Sure there are players in the NHL that use drugs, but they won't last long," said Dineen, who just turned pro last year. When asked by a student what kind of penalty a hockey player would face if found to be using drugs, Dineen told how Rick Natross of the Montreal Canadiens was suspended from the team for a year after he got caught "having a couple of joints." Because of that incident, Natross is now looked down on by players and fans and is "labeled for the rest of his life," Dineen said. Both Dineen and Tippett told of their experiences as members of the Canadian Olympic hockey team in 1984, when drug use was nearly impossible because the players were continually tested. "There is no way you can be involved with drugs in the Olympics," Tippett said. "Any trace of it in your system and they would know it."

Peckham, a resident of Manchester, who announces Whalers games for WITV-TV and the Sports Channel, said there is no drug testing in the National Hockey League, but that teams police themselves. "For a one-time offender, that's it," Peckham said, and more of the personal appearances are planned next year, Langan said.

Winchester Mall battle goes to court

By John F. Kirch Herald Reporter

WEST HARTFORD - A group of South Windsor residents who oppose the Winchester Mall planned on the South Windsor-Manchester town line brought their case before a Superior Court judge Tuesday.

In arguments before Judge Alan Smith, attorneys Bruce S. Beck of Manchester and Thomas P. Byrne of Farmington, who represent about 28 residents seeking to block construction of the mall, said the South Windsor Planning and Zoning Commission acted arbitrarily when it changed the zoning of 57 acres from Rural Residence to Design Commercial to allow the 800,000-square-foot mall.

But Ralph G. Elliot, the lawyer who represents the PZC, and Kevin Dineen, two Hartford Whalers players who came to the school to urge students to pursue studies and sports instead of drugs. "We did everything on that commission exactly to the letter that the state Supreme Court says we need to do," Elliot said during the proceedings, which lasted about an hour.

The PZC held four public hearings in November and December 1984 before granting the zone change to the developers, Bronson and Hutensky of Bloomfield and Melvin, Simon and Co. of

"If the court looks at those reports, the opinions are unanimous - no one disagrees that there is a severe traffic problem in the area," Beck said.

Indianapolis. SMITH NOW HAS 120 days to make a decision on the suit, which can be appealed to the state Appellate Court. The decision is considered crucial to the development of the Winchester Mall, which would be located mostly in South Windsor with parking lots and an office complex in Manchester.

The Winchester developers are competing with another partnership seeking to build a mall of about the same size nearby in Manchester. Both developers have used their knowledge of the area to make a decision they felt would benefit the community as a whole.

But the court must uphold the PZC's decision if it finds the commission gave at least one valid reason for the zone change. South Windsor amended its plan of development in 1980 and designated the area near the Manchester town line for commercial use, Lassarman said.

Area residents have fought construction of the mall because they say it would bring traffic congestion to the area and destroy the neighborhood. They have also argued that the PZC's action constituted spot zoning because most of the land around the mall site is zoned for residential use.

Lassarman conceded that some land in the area is residential, but said that the land to the south of the site in Manchester is almost all commercial. Beck and Byrne hope to prove that the commission did not act on the right evidence when it granted the zone change in February 1985. They cited three traffic reports that showed the mall would have a major impact on traffic in the area.

"IF THE COURT looks at those reports, the opinions are unanimous - no one disagrees that there is a severe traffic problem in the area," Beck said. The traffic studies, which were done on behalf of the developer, the town and the residents, recommended that 10 road networks be improved. Six of the road projects are eligible for federal and state funds, while the other seven are said to be done later.

Panel rejects Union Pond land bids

By John F. Kirch Herald Reporter

A subcommittee of the Economic Development Commission this morning rejected two offers for about 11 acres of town land near Union Pond.

Members said the bids, which came from Pressure Blast Manufacturing Co. Inc. and Ernest J. Reed, were rejected because they were lower than the appraised value of the land. The subcommittee - which is made up of Town Manager Robert B. Weiss, Planning Director Mark Pellegrini, EDC Chairman Alfred Werber and commission members William Anderson and Joseph Hachey will present a formal report to the full commission when it meets April 3. Hachey did not take part in this morning's meeting in the Lincoln Center conference room.

Townsend to replace Roth at Verplank

Douglas Townsend, who has been serving in administrative positions at Martin School and Bennet Junior High School, will become principal of Verplank School next year, the Board of Education learned Monday night.

School Superintendent James P. Kennedy announced Townsend's appointment in conjunction with the retirement of Verplank Principal Walter C. Roth. Both Roth, who has shared duties with Townsend as half-time principal at Bennet, will get increased responsibilities as a result of the transfer, Kennedy said.

The changes leave vacancies in the principalships at Martin and at Robertson School, where Principal William Freeman is retiring. The principal at Martin will double as system-wide elementary math supervisor.

The openings are currently being advertised. Committees of parents, staff members and board members will be set up to interview candidates after initial screenings of the candidates by Assistant School Superintendent Wilson E. Deakin, Kennedy said. Townsend, who has been principal at Verplank for the past 1 1/2 years and has worked in the town school system since 1982, indicated earlier this year that he was hoping for a change in principalship. He served as principal of Bentley School before that school was closed.

Panel rejects Union Pond land bids

The land's appraised worth is $20,000 an acre if it is sold as is, officials said. The appraisal showed that if the town builds the access road from Tolland Turnpike to the site, which is estimated to cost about $170,000, the land's worth would be $30,000 an acre. Pellegrini said he and other officials thought it would be worth even more with the improvements. Town officials said it would be hard to justify selling McMullen the land while the other seven acres owned-land in the area has been sold for $40,000 an acre and up.

Reed, a contractor who owns a business adjacent to the site, said that since he made his bid, the Plastifilm Corp. of Rockville has expressed interest in renting space at a building on the site. Weiss told Reed to talk with the company and invited Reed and McMullen to attend the EDC's full meeting next week.

In his proposal, Reed made three separate offers to buy the land. The first was to buy five acres for $114,600 and construct a 10,000-square-foot building. The second was to buy the entire site as two separate parcels for $220,000 and construct a building on each site. Both proposals required the town to prepare the site for development. Under the third option, Reed would buy the entire parcel for $25,000 and do all the necessary site work, including constructing the road, at his own expense.

Gerber Scientific Products Inc. of South Windsor originally planned to buy the site, but withdrew its offer in September because it determined the site wasn't big enough.

State's senators disagree

Combined Wire Services

WASHINGTON — Connecticut's two U.S. Senators disagree on whether President Reagan should have invoked the War Powers Act before sending Navy vessels near Libya, a move that resulted in an armed conflict.

Sen. Christopher J. Dodd, a Democrat and a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said Reagan had no legal obligation to consult with Congress before responding to Libyan hostilities.

But Sen. Lowell P. Weicker Jr., a Republican, said the actions raised questions.

"When the armed forces are employed and placed in a position of imminent danger, the War Powers Act must be taken into account," Weicker said Tuesday. "In this case, there should have been greater consultation with Congress."

Dodd said he did not feel the Navy maneuvers off Libya were invoking the 1973 law, even though the hostile Libyan response was not a surprise.

The War Powers Act, enacted in response to congressional unhappiness with the way U.S. troops were used in the Vietnam War, requires the president to notify Congress within 48 hours after American forces are put into a situation where they may become engaged in hostilities. It also requires those forces to be withdrawn within 90 days if Congress doesn't declare war.

Rep. Barbara Kennelly, D-Conn., also joined the chorus of lawmakers backing U.S. activities in the Gulf of Sidra.

"There is no question that U.S. forces were operating legally," she said, "and I fully support the fleet's defending itself once it was attacked. Nonetheless, Khadafy's record made it clear that he would respond recklessly and violently to American efforts to navigate in the international waters of the Gulf of Sidra. I believe the American action was planned with full knowledge that armed conflict might result."

"The issue now is whether Khadafy will take further, more aggressive steps," she added. "Will he pull back in the Gulf of Sidra or become more provocative? Worse, will he plan and carry out terrorist activities in other parts of the world? I certainly hope the administration has taken all possible long-range consequences into account when choosing this time and this place to challenge Col. Khadafy."

President, out of limelight, lets surrogates take charge

By Helen Thomas United Press International

WASHINGTON — President Reagan is staying out of public view while moving behind the scenes to keep U.S. pressure on Libya and to send $20 million in military aid to Honduras to repel a Nicaraguan invasion.

The president has made no appearances since U.S. forces entered the Gulf of Sidra Monday to challenge Libyan leader Moammar Khadafy's "line of death," a self-proclaimed boundary line.

Khadafy claims the entire gulf as Libyan territorial waters, but the United States recognizes only the internationally recognized 12-mile limit from the coast.

Military commanders got the go-ahead from Reagan March 14 to challenge the Libyan leader's one-two punch to Libya or land and at sea, sinking at least three missile boats and knocking out an anti-aircraft radar station.

So far, Reagan has no plans to disrupt his Easter vacation schedule. He flies to New Orleans Thursday to speak at a Republican fundraiser and then on to his California ranch for a holiday stay. His appointments today included a luncheon for astro-physicists. The president consulted with government lawyers Tuesday on whether to invoke the War Powers Act to formally involve Congress in the Gulf of Sidra.

Under the act, Reagan must report to Congress within 48 hours of the incident. That deadline expires later today.

Pentagon officials said Tuesday the Mediterranean battle zone had quieted down after two U.S. light bombers disabled a Soviet-built missile boat menacing the American flotilla.

No American casualties were reported but an unofficial estimate indicated some 25 Libyan casualties in the attacks on the patrol boats.

In a move Tuesday to bolster his drive to arm Nicaraguan rebels, Reagan notified Congress the United States would provide material and support, including troop lifts by American pilots, to the Honduran government.

Despite the participation of U.S. pilots, there were no plans for Reagan to invoke the War Powers Act in the Honduran situation.

State Department spokesman Charles Redman said up to 1,500 Nicaraguan troops crossed into Honduras Saturday and that "intelligence sources indicate that reinforcing attacks by up to four Sandinista battalions can be expected within the next 24 hours."

White House spokesman Larry Speakes said Honduras President Jose Azcona Hoyos made the request Monday by telephone, asking for the aid in order to repel this and future attacks by government troops from Nicaragua.

The assistance was cast as a transfer of existing Defense Department resources not requiring congressional approval.

Congressional leaders signaled support for the move, which brought fresh condemnations of Nicaragua's Marxist-led Sandinista government and added impetus to Reagan's drive to provide $100 million in aid to the rebel Contras.

Assistant House Democratic leader Thomas Foley, an opponent of Contra aid, said Congress and the administration would "stand together" behind Honduras and if Nicaragua perished, "it may spill over into wholesale U.S. support for the Contras."

Speakes said the Nicaraguan incursion appeared to be "a large-scale effort to locate and destroy" rebel positions in Honduras, where most of the Contra force is based, and the drive might be intended to deal a death blow to the Contras before U.S. support can be provided to them.

A lengthy debate was predicted Tuesday on the measure. Dole said the Senate would consider the bill with the intention to compromise it.

"This is an aggression by a nation into another nation, I bitterly, absolutely oppose it," O'Neill said if the House were voting on the aid now, the outcome could be different.

LOS ANGELES — The Motion Picture Academy's failure to bestow any Oscars on "The Color Purple" is "a slap in the face of producer-composer Quincy Jones and director Steven Spielberg, the NAACP says in a complaint."

The NAACP's Hollywood-Beverly Hills branch sent a letter of protest Tuesday to the academy, complaining about what publicist Connie Watson called a "black-out" — an industry effort to suppress black film projects.

The film about a rural black woman's struggle for self-worth went into Monday night's awards ceremony with 11 nominations, the same number as "Out of Africa" which won seven Oscars, including best picture.

A spokesman said the Academy would have no comment, noting that winners and losers were the result of secret balloting by its 4,244 members.

"Unless we replace some of the members who voted against this, I don't see any way we are going to pass this in the next Congress," Sen. Orrin G. Hatch, R-Utah, said Tuesday after the Senate voted to kill the proposal he helped sponsor.

Senators voted 66-34 for the amendment, but Senate's 100 voting members — to win passage. The proposal would have required Congress to spend no more each year than the government collects in revenues.

Dodd says Senate will OK contra aid

By E. Michael Myers United Press International

WASHINGTON — Sen. Christopher Dodd, D-Conn., a strong opponent of aid to the Nicaraguan Contra rebels, said today the Sandinista incursion into Honduras guaranteed approval of President Reagan's $100 million aid request, which faces a Senate vote late today.

"I think the president would have won (in the Senate) anyway," Dodd said on the "CBS Morning News" program. "As one of the leaders of the Senate was overheard saying yesterday, 'This is the best news we've had in 10 days.' So I suspect if there was any question about the administration, this will ice it for him and I suspect they'll win it handsily."

Should the measure be approved by the Senate, it will go back to the House where it lost by 12 votes last week.

Sen. William Cohen, R-Maine, appearing with Dodd, said rather than sending military aid, the administration must devise a policy that would "restructure the Contras, not only to make them a viable fighting force, but a viable moral force."

Cohen said Reagan's aid package "will have to be structured so that a limited amount of money is provided initially, that there is a substantial waiting period and that there will be a commission formed to help to oversee and monitor the kind of good faith efforts and negotiations that we're going to insist upon from the administration to try and resolve the serious conflict in the region."

Republican leader Robert Dole of Kansas and Democratic leader Robert Byrd of West Virginia sought a broad agreement that would send military aid to the rebels but also requires President Reagan to push for a diplomatic solution to the conflict between the Contras and Nicaragua's Sandinista government.

"We have the votes without a compromise," Dole said, but he sought a compromise that could attract 70 or 80 votes rather than a slim majority.

A lengthy debate was predicted Tuesday on the measure. Dole said the Senate would consider the bill with the intention to compromise it.

"This is an aggression by a nation into another nation, I bitterly, absolutely oppose it," O'Neill said if the House were voting on the aid now, the outcome could be different.

Sunburn tied to skin cancer

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. — A blistering sunburn during childhood can double the risk, even for a good tanner, of developing skin cancer later in life, a new study indicates.

Dr. Arthur J. Sober, a Harvard Medical School dermatologist, said Tuesday a study of 218 people found that those who suffered one or more blistering sunburns when they were children or teenagers were twice as likely to develop malignant melanoma, a form of skin cancer.

Poor tanners and those who took long vacations in sunny areas when they were young were also twice as likely to develop the disease, he said. The study found good tanners faced the same risk if they had blistering sunburns early in life.

About 23,000 cases of malignant moles called nevi, which are more serious than other forms of skin cancer, occur in the United States each year, causing about 5,600 deaths.

Beirut explosions leave many dead and wounded

By David Zenlin United Press International

BEIRUT, Lebanon — Two explosions ripped through residential neighborhoods of mostly Christian east Beirut today causing extensive damage and heavy casualties. At least six people died in one of the blasts.

Artillery battles, meanwhile, engulfed a string of villages on the mountains overlooking the Lebanese capital, military sources said.

The second explosion was very large, and initial reports indicate that many people have been killed or wounded. We have now counted at least 30-40 wounded. We do not know how many are dead ... we cannot reach them. At the moment our main concern is to get the wounded out and put out the fires," a civil defense official leading the rescue operation said.

"We have so far removed six dead, and others are still buried in the rubble," said the civil defense official. "The blast was caused by 330-440 pounds of TNT and dynamite placed in or under a car. The explosion left a hole 6 feet wide and 1-2 feet deep," said the official.

Interviewed on the Christian Voice of Lebanon radio, a witness said the second explosion was caused by a car packed with explosives.

"I saw smoke coming from under a Mini-Cooper car, and while I rushed to a nearby building to alert people, the car blew up behind me," said Elie Attalah with a breaking voice.

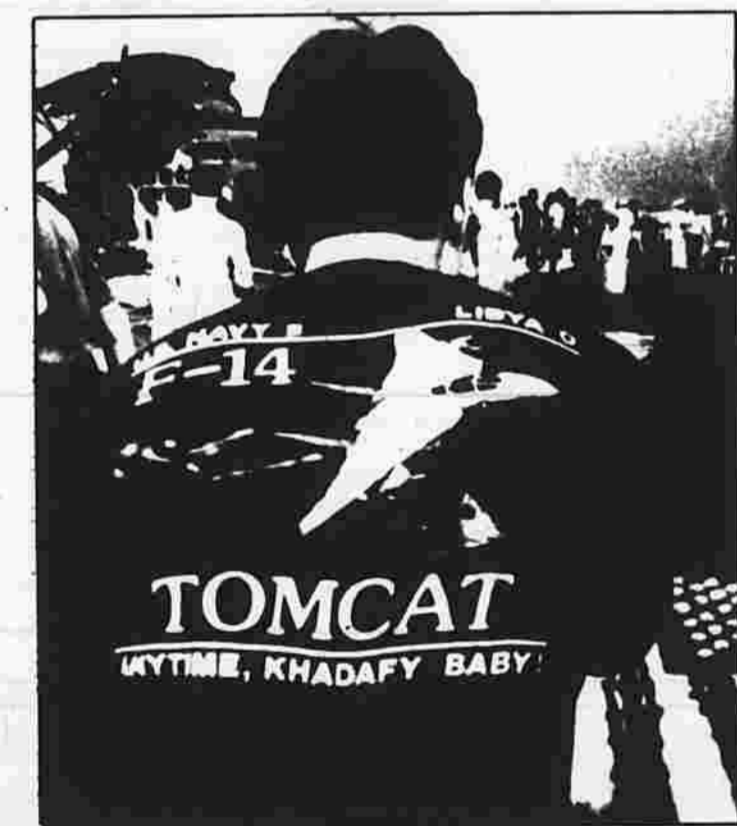

"Everything around me suddenly caught fire, and people — dead or wounded — were flung across several hundred yards. ... Dozens of cars, shops and several apartments were on fire. It is an inferno," he said before being taken to a hospital to be treated for shock.

The first bomb, containing an estimated 33 pounds of explosives, ripped through an apartment building in Christian east Beirut today, and at least six people, including a woman and her 4-year-old child, were wounded.

A U.S. sailor lets his combative feelings known to Libyan leader Moammar Khadafy.

Palestinian faction supports Khadafy's call for reprisal

By The Associated Press

Libyan leader Col. Moammar Khadafy said it is "a time of war, a time of confrontation, and we have decided the Gulf of Sidra (Sidra) is ours. We have decided this by sacrifice, by blood."

Asked about the Americans still in Libya, Khadafy said, "They are our guests. We are a civilized people."

NBC News showed a film clip Tuesday night of Khadafy at an international trade fair in Tripoli, and he told the network's correspondent, Bonnie Anderson, "It is a time of war, a time of confrontation, and we have decided the Gulf of Sidra (Sidra) is ours. We have decided this by sacrifice, by blood."

Asked about the Americans still in Libya, Khadafy said, "They are our guests. We are a civilized people."

Olympic Airways, Greece's national carrier, canceled its flight to Tripoli today because of the U.S.-Libyan conflict, an airline spokesman said. "We're an airline and we don't want to take any risks flying over Libya," said the spokesman, who spoke on condition of anonymity.

Administration briefs Congress on actions

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Vietnam-era War Powers Act, designed to curb the authority of presidents to commit troops abroad, does not stop President Reagan from sending U.S. helicopters, crews or ordering naval bombardment of Libyan boats and missile installations, administration officials say.

White House Chief of Staff Donald T. Regan said Tuesday the act does not apply to U.S. actions in Libya, although President Richard Nixon's War Powers Act did.

"War Powers do not come into play here," Regan told reporters after briefing congressional leaders on the Libyan crisis. "This is not something new. We answered fire with fire."

If the act does apply, Congress must be notified within 48 hours of the onset of hostilities, which Speakes said would presumably mean by today, since the firing began Monday.

The chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, Rep. Dante B. Fascell, D-Fla., said he urged the White House to file such a report because "it will help matters considerably to say the law has been complied with."

Senate Majority Leader Bob Dole, R-Kan., said the administration does not believe the law should be invoked either.

The minority leader, Democrat Robert Byrd of West Virginia, said he does not believe the law should be invoked either.

In Central America, where Reagan has approved $20 million in emergency military aid for Honduras in the wake of an apparent Nicaraguan border incursion, the administration contends the law clearly does not apply.

Contras make it tough for soldiers to return

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras (AP) — More than 1,500 Nicaraguan soldiers who pursued U.S.-backed contra rebels into Honduras are trying to fight their way out again, but are meeting fierce rebel resistance, military intelligence sources said.

A spokesman for the U.S. Embassy told The Associated Press late Tuesday. The anti-Sandinista performed efficiently ... and they continue doing so after killing in combat more than 100 soldiers of the regular Nicaraguan army, which is now receding."

The film about a rural black woman's struggle for self-worth went into Monday night's awards ceremony with 11 nominations, the same number as "Out of Africa" which won seven Oscars, including best picture.

A spokesman said the Academy would have no comment, noting that winners and losers were the result of secret balloting by its 4,244 members.

"Unless we replace some of the members who voted against this, I don't see any way we are going to pass this in the next Congress," Sen. Orrin G. Hatch, R-Utah, said Tuesday after the Senate voted to kill the proposal he helped sponsor.

Senators voted 66-34 for the amendment, but Senate's 100 voting members — to win passage. The proposal would have required Congress to spend no more each year than the government collects in revenues.

"It's a big disappointment," said Sen. Dennis DeConcini, D-Ariz., another sponsor. "It's going to be a long time before we get an opportunity to pass it again."

Both supporters and opponents said the Gramm-Hudman deficit reduction law passed last December at a 61-31 Senate vote, was a significant factor in the amendment's defeat.

8th budget is missing essentials

The proposed 1986-87 budget for the Eighth Utilities District is noteworthy not for what it includes — a 15.4 percent increase in spending — but for what is missing.

At first look, it is not much of a plan. In its four pages, half of them handwritten, there is no information to support the spending requests, which total more than $1 million. There is no documentation of past spending experience. And there is no estimate of the revenues required to finance the spending, so there is no prediction of what such a budget would mean to district taxpayers.

But what is most extraordinary about the proposal is that it includes just $1,000 for costs associated with the biggest capital project in Eighth District history: the construction of a new firehouse in Buckland.

It is irresponsible at best for the district's elected officials to prepare a spending plan that does not take into account the firehouse proposal. The 1986-87 budget is not ready to go before the voters and it may be revised next week, but the district president has said he does not expect major changes.

Perhaps the district leaders are having second thoughts about the proposed firehouse. When construction bids were opened last week, the lowest was about $490,000 — $90,000 higher than had been anticipated. When that price tag is added to the bills for the land, the design and contingencies, the district is approaching a total cost of $600,000. And that figure does not include the costs of financing construction.

It certainly would be wise for district officials to reconsider the proposed firehouse. First, there is the absurdity of the plan to build a firehouse just two lots away from an existing town firehouse. Second, the cost of the firehouse would be much more than estimated; not surprisingly, about the same amount that the town's Democratic directors declared to be the value of their existing firehouse. Third, there could be questions about the continued existence of the Eighth District, which would result in a new, though somewhat smaller, "white elephant" in Buckland.

That third possibility, of course, hinges on whether the town's Democratic leadership succeeds in its malicious effort to impose district-town consolidation by revising the Town Charter. Consolidation, though desirable and eventually essential for the good of the entire community, should not be forced in this manner. Nonetheless, Eighth District officials should recognize the possibility of being treated upon when they prepare a capital spending plan.

Eighth District officials have a lot of work to do before making their proposed budget final and sending it before a public hearing. District taxpayers should have the opportunity to examine a well-researched, fully documented spending plan when they gather for their annual meeting in May.

Stealth lags behind others in speed test

WASHINGTON — Could American taxpayers save billions of dollars if the Pentagon modified commercial jetliners instead of buying Stealth bombers? Analysis of a 1978 Force study suggests this is indeed possible.

The chief virtue of Stealth, if it ever gets off the ground and does what it's supposed to do, is that it will be invisible to Soviet radar. As we have noted, however, the Stealth bomber will be detectable to old-fashioned radars, which the frugal Soviets still have deployed.

Small cruise missiles would be much more effective; they could zip past Soviet radar fast as a flash. The radar would have more time to focus on the slower Stealth bomber. Cruise missiles are also less expensive.

That's what makes the Air Force report so interesting. The secret, 8-year-old report on "cruise-missile-carrying aircraft" reviewed a dozen different types of aircraft to find one that could get off the ground quickly at the first warning of incoming Soviet missiles. The three top contenders were the B-1 bomber and the modified version of two commercial transports, the Boeing 747 and Lockheed's L-1011.

THE STUDY RECOGNIZED the devastating destruction of high-speed missiles, so it focused on the speed with which a retaliatory missile-carrying airplane could get off the ground and make it to a safe distance — arbitrarily set at 12 miles from ground zero.

The still-secret study found that the B-1 was fastest of the three contenders — but not by much. From the ramp to the 12-mile safe point, the B-1 took 143 seconds. A souped-up 747 took 31 seconds longer, while the L-1011 was only eight seconds behind the Boeing.

Where would the Stealth bomber have placed in this life-or-death competition? Dead last, according to our sources.

It's impossible to state exactly how much time it would take to get a Stealth bomber off the ground in crisis, for the simple reason that the plane is still on the drawing board. But Stealth may be slower than the antique B-52s that make up most of our existing bomber force. A B-52 takes 216 seconds to reach the 12-mile point.

What it boils down to is that Stealth would be Tail-End Charlie among these five possibilities, while the B-1 appears to be the most likely to survive a Soviet attack and deliver a counterstrike (thus providing a credible deterrent to any Kremlin dreams of a first strike that would leave the Soviet Union unscathed).

ACTUALLY, THOUGH, the two commercial jets, suitably modified, would have an edge over the B-1. That's because each one has room for a compartment where the crew can relax, sleep and be ready for action. When the order came to take off, they could be in the air many seconds before a B-1 crew could "scramble" from its quarters to the plane.

What makes this few-seconds difference important is the Soviets' apparent intention to experiment with "depressed trajectory" missiles launched from submarines off the U.S. coast. As we reported in October 1983, this would decrease the time required to get a retaliatory force off the ground from around 15 minutes (for a high-trajectory missile) to six minutes.

So the U.S. second-strike capability — and thus its credible deterrent — will depend on having a plane that can get clear of the nuclear mushroom cloud quicker than the Stealth bomber can.

Parade marshal disgraces state

To the Editor:

I was shocked and frankly appalled to learn that the political leaders of the state of Connecticut participated in a parade whose honorary grand marshal, Joseph Doherty, is a convicted member of the Irish Republican Army.

The IRA not only stands for violence against the citizens and security forces of the Irish Republic and the United Kingdom but also advocates and supports attacks on American military forces stationed abroad. The IRA supports and trains with the PLO, the Red Brigade and the Bader Meinhoff group.

Doherty was the honorary grand marshal of this year's St. Patrick's Day parade in Hartford. It is disgraceful that such a person should be honored in the United States. It is absolutely ridiculous when one considers that our national government is desperately trying to curb terrorism and to gain allied support for its positions.

How would we feel if a parade was to be held in London whose honorary grand marshal was the terrorist who beat and then murdered Bobby Sienhom (U.S. Navy) and members of the United Kingdom's elected leadership had a grand time marching? We would be outraged. Well, let us be outraged and put a stop to this spectacle occurring again in the city of Hartford and the state of Connecticut.

The organizations that sponsor the St. Patrick's Day parade should be told that if they are going to name such people to positions of honor rather than name Irish-Americans who have made contributions to our country and the world, then they can march alone.

Paramedics get thanks for action

To the Editor:

It is with deep appreciation that I wish to thank the members of the Manchester Emergency Medical Team, particularly paramedics Danny Huppe and Rudy Kissmann, for their quick and expert action which certainly played a large part in saving my life.

Their obvious excellent training, efficient action, and personal discipline is a credit to the entire group and the town of Manchester.

Democrats run town and budget

To the Editor:

I was truly amused by the editorial on Thursday, March 20, calling for budget input by both parties. You stated that if the GOP really wants to increase its political base, it must strive to make it clear that it is capable of translating campaign stands into realistic planning. This statement is pure hogwash.

Last year I sat through the Board of Directors' final review (for approval) of the 1985-86 budget. It was a waste of time to consider each line item and have it approved by a predictable 6-3 vote. Not one idea presented by the minority party was discussed by the majority party.

The suggestions from the minority party were overridden by a 6-3 vote. This year the outcome will be the same and I suggest that in the interest of saving time, the total budget be voted upon first so it can be passed by the 6-3 margin. Then, if the law requires a review of each line item, the

Stories capture the hockey spirit

To the Editor:

I want to personally thank you for your coverage of the 1986 Indians. I know the players all enjoy reading your articles. I feel you really captured the new spirit of the hockey team.

Without your spirit I don't think the Indians would have gone as far as they did. Thank you for a great job all year.

I'm looking forward to working with you again next year.

Executive memo

Despite the risk of Democratic barbs for spending money on the White House while national parks budgets are slashed, the National Park Service insists that the floors in the Blue, Red and Green rooms have to be repaired. The nails and the tongue-in-groove joints which hold the floor together are exposed. A Park Service official told senators recently. He estimated that 35 million tourists, guests and presidential family members have traipsed across the floors since the 1948-52 renovations. The new floors will cost $125,000.

Mini-editorial

We'd like to thank Morton H. Lieberman of Bridgeton, N.J., a constant reader and occasional critic, for today's editorial idea. He's concerned about the remains of the Challenger astronauts, and proposes that "using the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier (with its 24-hour Honor Guard, ceremony and ritual) as an example, we establish the Tomb of the Seven Astronauts." We think the suggestion is at least worthy of public discussion.

Eddy's candidacy transcends his mission

Roger Eddy's 66th birthday party last week will probably go down as his most memorable in an exceptional lifetime because it was also the day he picked to declare formally his candidacy for the U.S. Senate.

There he was, an author, farmer, inventor and politician, surrounded by family and well wishers as he announced his intention to seek the Republican nomination to take on the Democratic "Goliath," U.S. Sen. Chris Dodd. The place: home town Newington.

Two hours earlier, down the road a piece in East Haddam, Dodd had declared his candidacy for a second term as reporter and family bulldog in a chill breeze in front of his converted schoolhouse home.

Dodd had done this before — three times as a candidate for the U.S. House of Representatives and then for his initial Senate run. But while Eddy had three terms in the state legislature, it was his first on this scale.

EDDY HAS A FEW THINGS to prove. In his speech last week he showed he knows it. Not the least of his hurdles is convincing voters he isn't simply a sacrificial lamb for the GOP in a hopeless run against Dodd.

He doesn't have any such thought in mind, though he snapped "you'd better believe it" when a reporter asked if he sees the race as "upstream." He knows the odds.

Eddy, an apprentice senior citizen who is everyman's image of a Connecticut Yankee, came across equally clearly as a candidate who will know the issues and, armed with his special talent for expressing himself, will run straight at Dodd.

Bob Conrad

Capitol Comments

At his press conference, Eddy seemed anxious to live up to his reputation for direct, sometimes sarcastic wit — to the delight of Republican leaders who clapped their hands and nodded to each other with every such thrust.

But Eddy also kept his promise, when he was hyping his announcement, that he would deal right from the top with issues, including some that may be politically dangerous. On that day, in a hall near the Newington farm where he was born and still lives, he chose Social Security as one begging attention though most politicians — not mentioning any names, of course — leave it alone.

WHILE SOME IN HIS AUDIENCE fidgeted and looked at their watches, Eddy described Social Security as a time bomb that must be defused or it will lead inevitably to horrendous taxes in years ahead — or badly curtailed benefits for the current "baby boom" generation when it reaches retirement age.

Eddy proposed a remedy, a bonding program that would create a "super" retirement account to protect this generation from being short-changed later. His point, however, was that he will meet issues openly regardless of how popular or otherwise they are.

Bob Conrad's column on Connecticut politics appears in the Herald on Wednesdays.

O'Neill complaint hits dead end

HARTFORD (AP) — The Elections Enforcement Commission has declined to investigate a Republican complaint that Democratic Gov. William A. O'Neill is using his staff to help in his re-election.

In a letter to GOP Chairman Thomas J. D'Amore Jr., Commission Executive Director Jeffrey B. Garfield said D'Amore's complaint deals with statutes outside the realm of the commission's authority and said the complaint would have to be amended if D'Amore wanted it pursued.

D'Amore responded that if the commission can't investigate, his complaint should be taken up by the attorney general. He said he had sent a copy of his complaint to Attorney General Joseph I. Lieberman.

The complaint from D'Amore, filed March 9, centers on an acknowledgment in January by O'Neill aide Jon Sandberg that O'Neill's office staff had, on state time, made and distributed copies of a letter from mayors and first selectmen endorsing O'Neill.

Democratic Gov. William A. O'Neill has proposed a $4.92 billion budget for the year beginning July 1, roughly an 11 percent increase over this year's level of spending.

Neumann said his committee would send the budget to the House on April 1. He predicted it would call for a 9 percent increase. He also said he expects the House to approve it and send it to the Senate, where reductions in spending are expected.

That would mean the budget would then have to be acted on again in the House. If the House rejects the Senate version, a conference committee of House and Senate members would be named to iron out the differences.

Local reaction split on Libya strikes

Continued from page 1... basically a North-South conflict — one that is between an industrial and a Third World country. However, he said it could easily turn into a superpower confrontation. "The smallest and silliest of incidents have started wars over the years," said Nathan Agostinelli, a former mayor of Manchester who is a Republican State Central Committeeman. "If you look at the possibilities, it's scary," Agostinelli said. "The least that can happen is nothing, but I don't think that'll happen." Agostinelli said the gulf is international waters and the United States was within its rights to send ships there. In the view of Mayor Barbara B. Weinberg, military action is not the way to solve problems. But like Agostinelli, she said the U.S. has a right to travel through the Gulf of Sidra. "The United States needs to have the understanding that international waters are recognized by other world powers as just that — international waters," said Weinberg. A Democrat, Weinberg also commented on U.S. involvement in Central America, which he did not think the accused Nicaraguan forces of invading Honduras. Washington has provided financial assistance to the Honduran government and has ferried Honduran troops to the Nicaraguan border to stop the reported incursion. Weinberg said she opposed U.S. military aid to the rebel forces, called contras, who are fighting the Nicaraguan regime. "I don't think the U.S. can get involved in every government and anti-government force in the world," she said. "I don't feel in Central America that dollars for arms is the way to insure stability and that the communist are not going to take over." She said the Middle East and Central America are different because Nicaragua is an internal situation that America should stay out of, while the Libya situation is a question of international right-of-way. Most officials who were interviewed said the U.S. military action in the Middle East could cause even more anti-American sentiment in the Arab world. "Arab look at him as a white knight taking on a superpower," Weinberg said of Khadafi. Casano said he did not think the U.S. could combat terrorism, which Reagan has blamed on Khadafi, by military action in the gulf. "Our navy can't fight terrorism," Casano said. "I don't see us winning at all. I don't see us gaining at all." Agostinelli said that if Khadafi can be linked to specific terrorist activities, then some action should be taken to stop him. Zinsner agreed and said if the U.S. action brought an end to Khadafi's regime, "then that would be great." "I'm just sorry we didn't do it sooner," he said.

Divorce rate up in 1985

Continued from page 1... The Center said there were 3,748,000 births during the year, the most since 1965. But the increase in births is not another Baby Boom, since the rate remained constant, due to the larger overall population. The birth rate was 15.7 per 1,000.

Six games will decide the Whalers' fate

HARTFORD — Though the National Hockey League's six-month long regular season contains a lot of excitement, it all comes down to a six-pack of decisions. With six games to go, the last-place Hartford Whalers sport a 36-35-3 record for 75 points, one point behind fourth-place Buffalo, three behind Boston and five behind Montreal. Hartford pops the top on the first of its six tonight when the visiting Montreal Canadiens limp into town. By losing eight of their last 10 games, including the past five in a row, the Canadiens have made it a four-team battle for the three remaining Adams Division playoff berths. Only inevitable division champ Quebec seems assured of a post-season bid. Though the Whalers would be the odd team out if the campaign ended today, a recent 5-2-1 hot streak and the rousing return of All-Star center Ron Francis has produced a prevailing confidence in Hartford. If momentum means anything down the stretch, the Whalers are a good bet to play in the Stanley Cup playoffs for the first time since their maiden NHL season in 1980. Hartford also apparently has a slight edge on the schedule, at least over Buffalo, its closest competitor. The Whalers have four home games remaining, including an April Fool's Day duel with the Sabres on Tuesday.

After tonight, the Whale hosts the peaking Washington Capitals on Saturday night, before winding up a five-game homestand with the Sabres' show-down. The Whalers then play the Capitals again at the Cap Centre next Thursday, April 3. Hartford comes home for its final regular season tilt against the Toronto Maple Leafs on Saturday, April 5, before capping off the campaign in unfriendly Boston against the arch-enemy Bruins that Sunday. Buffalo, with just two more home dates, appears to have the steadiest start by far. The Sabres' last year's Stanley Cup final, the Philadelphia Flyers Thursday, and then endure a home-and-home weekend set with the Bruins. After facing the Whalers next Tuesday, the Swords wind it up in another Adams home-and-home series against the Canadiens. The Bruins, though they are home in four of their final six, have no easy time ahead, either. Boston hosts Montreal Thursday and then the home-and-home dates with Buffalo. The Maple Leafs then float into the Garden on April 3, before the Bruins' complete their schedule by traveling to Quebec on Saturday and entertaining Hartford on Sunday, April 6. If two teams finish tied with the same number of points, the tie-breakers are 1) wins, and 2) head-to-head.

NHL roundup

Timing is right for Caps, Blues

By Ken Roppoport The Associated Press... The timing was right for both the Washington Capitals and St. Louis Blues because of it, both are in the right place. With their chief adversaries idle, the Capitals and Blues each won key games on Tuesday night to move back into the top spot in their respective NHL divisions. The Capitals defeated the Boston Bruins 6-3 to climb back into first by one point over the Flyers in the Patrick Division. The Blues also made good use of their time by beating the New York Islanders 2-0. That gave them a first-place tie with the idle Chicago Blackhawks in the Norris Division. "Now they, like us, have to win," Washington Coach Bryan Murray said of the Flyers. "Now we're even in games, and in first place. Before, we were always in the position of having to win the game. It may come down to that final game in Philadelphia." Each contender has five games remaining before meeting in the regular season finale April 6. St. Louis was badly in need of two points, and got them at the expense of New York. That wasn't easy, considering it was the Blues' first victory over the Islanders in more than two years. The Blues got a first-period goal from Rick Meagher and outstanding goaltending from Greg Millen to move back into a first-place tie with Chicago in the Norris Division. Oilers 7, Wings 2... Wayne Gretzky isn't losing it. Although he needs to make no demonstration of that, the Edmonton center went over the 200-point mark for the third straight season and fourth time in seven years. He had three assists. But it was the play of Mark Messier that demolished Detroit. Messier scored short-handed goals 30 seconds apart in the second period to snap a 2-2 tie and lead the Oilers to victory. Oilers 7, Wings 2. New York, fighting to stay alive in its battle with Pittsburgh for the final Patrick Division playoff berth, got a big lift from a new face, Jim Wiener. Re-called from the minors earlier in the day, Wiener scored his first goal of the season on a 46-foot slapshot against Alain Chevrier with 3:33 to play. The victory snapped the Rangers' three-game losing streak and moved them to within one point of the idle Penguins.

NBA roundup

Wilkins gives Cavs indigestion

By The Associated Press... Dominique Wilkins, who missed Atlanta's previous game because of food poisoning, returned to action and gave the Cleveland Cavaliers a touch of indigestion. The NBA's second leading scorer tallied 34 of his 36 points in the first three quarters as the Hawks defeated the Cleveland Cavaliers 97-91 Tuesday night. The setback sliced Cleveland's lead in the race for the final Eastern Conference playoff spot to 19 games over Chicago, which defeated New York 111-98, and Indiana, which was idle. "I was very surprised. When the game started I was in my rhythm and felt very good," Wilkins said. "It also, another business as usual for the Sacramento Kings, who climbed out of the Midwest Division cellar by recording their 11th consecutive Tuesday night home-court victory, a 116-90 rout of the Portland Trail Blazers. Elsewhere, it was the Los Angeles Lakers 121, Denver Nuggets 118, New Jersey 105, and Golden State 125, Detroit 121. Kings 116, Blazers 99... Reggie Miller scored 18 points and dished out 17 assists, the most for the Kings in the last 13 seasons. Terry Tyler and Larry Drew also had 18 points each for Sacramento, which moved into fifth place, one-half game ahead of San Antonio in the Midwest Division. Kiki Vandeweghe topped Portland with 23 points. Lakers 121, Nuggets 115... James Worshy scored 11 of his 30 points in the final seven minutes as the Lakers ended Denver's three-game winning streak over the defending NBA champions. The Nuggets still won the season series 3-2, the only team besides Boston to claim the distinction, but fell 115; Milwaukee 118, New Jersey 105, and Golden State 125, Detroit 121. Bulls 111, Knicks 98... Orlando Woodridge scored 22 points, Gene Banks added 20 and Michael Jordan had 19 as Chicago snapped a five-game losing streak. The Bulls, who had a 14-4 run late in the first half, put together a 14-6 spurt at the start of the second half to take a 66-56 lead. A three-point goal by Kyle Macy early in the fourth quarter made it 65-72 and the Bulls coasted the rest of the way.

Boyd announces 'Can' is ready

By Dave O'Hara The Associated Press... WINTER HAVEN, Fla. — "The Can" is smiling again in the Boston Red Sox clubhouse. "I'm ready, the Can is himself again," right-hander Dennis Boyd said Tuesday with a big grin. Boyd allowed seven hits and two runs, striking out three, in five innings. "Hey, I got people out when I had to get 'em out," he said. "I concentrated a lot better as I went along. I threw 65 pitches and I probably could have gone another inning if I had to." "But I'm happy. Here I was just a couple of weeks ago in the hospital and my weight down to 125 pounds," and now I'm back pitching. Boyd dressed quickly to meet his wife. He was beaming with confidence once again. "I feel good and I'm happy the way things are going now," the 142-pound pitcher said. "I felt pretty good last year, but I didn't have pinpoint control at the start." Making just his second start, Boyd allowed seven hits and two runs, striking out three, in five innings. "Hey, I got people out when I had to get 'em out," he said. "I concentrated a lot better as I went along. I threw 65 pitches and I probably could have gone another inning if I had to." "But I'm happy. Here I was just a couple of weeks ago in the hospital and my weight down to 125 pounds," and now I'm back pitching.

UConn is still on top, Hartford new boy on block

STORRS — For now, the University of Connecticut remains the No. 1 Division I baseball team in the state. There are four Division I teams within our borders. The University of Hartford is the new boy on the block, this being the Hawks' second year in Division I. The Huskies entertained the Hawks Tuesday at a pleasant spring afternoon, with the temperatures hitting the low 60s. at J.O. Christian Field. It was only the second meeting on the diamond between the two institutions and if the score is any indication of how far UConn has come, watch out. The clubs met for the first time in '85. UConn embarrassed the Hawks, 16-1. The winning side remained the same Tuesday — UConn — but the differential was far from being one-sided. UConn was a 6-1 winner thanks to the seven-hit, eight-strikeout, no-walk pitching of senior right-hander Mike Mancini, the rocket-like two-run homer by senior Jerry LaPenta and the 4-for-4 performance from junior shortstop Mick Backman.

HARTFORD GAVE A GOOD account of itself. Smack ditch in the middle of the Hartford effort was a Manchester High School product, Chris Petersen, who was anchoring the middle of the Hawk defense at shortstop. Hartford has 19 freshmen, 21 newcomers in all, on its 1986 roster. James Keener, Hartford's assistant sports information director, noted not one starter on the diamond Tuesday was with the club a year ago. Mark Wiley, a freshman, was on the hill for the Hawks. He pitched well, but not well enough against the seasoned Mancini. LaPenta's homer was due to a mistake. It was on a 3-0 fastball, a cardinal sin in the pitching fraternity. "You have to be patient (with a young team)," said Bill Denehy, the Hawks' second-year coach. "There were maybe three times today where we made mistakes. The 3-0 fastball to LaPenta was one of them. Denehy added he and his team have to live with the mistakes and have to learn from them. Denehy, the only man traded in Major League baseball history for a manager when he was sent to the Washington Senators by the New York Mets in exchange for Manager Gil Hodges, said the 12-run jump from last year, is "an indication of the improvement."

UConn coach Andy Baylock is in his seventh season at the helm. He was the longtime assistant to Larry Panciera before taking the top job in 1980. He has not met the success Panciera did, with a record of 112-126-4 heading into the current campaign, and there are reasons. The primary one is money. The likable Baylock, who is a favorite among members of the media for his easy-going nature and his honesty — and who was honored with a Connecticut Sports Writers' Alliance Gold Key in 1985 — is saddled with operating a Division I program with only one scholarship. That is not an easy task.

Baylock's plight can be seen in one scenario. He worked hard to get two of his players, catcher Roberto Hernandez and pitcher Kevin Meier, last summer into a league in Virginia. Each was impressive. Impressive enough to get scholarships elsewhere. Money that Baylock didn't have to offer them. Baylock was asked after beating the freshman-laden Hawks how many of the first-year collegians he tried to recruit. "No comment," he said with a smile. He was also asked if having a larger piece of the money pie at Connecticut would help him out. "I can't say too much about that," he responded. The blue Connecticut blood that flows through his veins wouldn't allow him to say anything else.

ONE ASPECT WHICH BAYLOCK has in his corner is a commodity that Hartford lacks, experience. Mancini, a senior from Shelton, was masterful with his slider. He had a 6-2 record as a freshman but did not play his sophomore year to concentrate on his academics. His record was a meager 1-2 a year ago. His seven-hitter Tuesday evaded his 1986 record at 1-1. His experience was a telling factor. For Hartford, and Petersen, it was another learning experience. The 6-2, 185-pound Petersen was an All-State third baseman at Manchester High, his senior year when he batted a remarkable .540. Petersen batted .409 (18-for-44 with 2 homers, 3 doubles and 6 RBI including a 12-game hitting streak) during the Hawks' Western swing that saw them win just twice in 13 outings. He was 1-for-4 against Connecticut, his lone safety an infield hit that was too hot for Husky third baseman Scott Cormier to handle. Petersen came to bat in the eighth inning with two runners aboard and two outs. He tapped back to the box on the first pitch for the final out. It was not, he insisted, a sign of impatience. "Coach told us to jump on the slider and to go to rightfield. It was there; I just missed it," he said. The former Indian state defensively handled five chances flawlessly, including being pivotman in a second-inning double play. He began the year at his natural third base position, but was shifted to shortstop toward the end of the Western swing when freshman shortstop Fabio Meleider ran into error problems. "Petersen is a stabilizing force at shortstop," advised Keener. "He's a smooth fielder. He shows a lot of maturity. He had few errors on the trip but that's only because he played every inning of every game."

CONNECTICUT, AFTER YEARS OF success, is struggling. UConn has been to the College World Series five times, the last trip to Omaha coming in 1978. It was 29-24 overall a year ago, 16-14-1 "Up North." The Huskies, following Tuesday's win, stand at 2-0 overall. UConn lost all eight games of a Southern trip to North Carolina. "On the Southern trip we play good people to raise our level. We look at it as (we are) 2-1," Baylock said. If Connecticut is to regain its prominence of the past, some changes are going to be needed. Foremost is some additional funding so Baylock can compete for talent with the Hartfords of the world. UConn president John Casten is serious about setting things right with his blue-ribbon committee, established to study the state of athletic affairs at the school, he'll do something to correct the injustices that now befalls the baseball program. For Hartford, Denehy knows he is headed in the right direction. (Arizona coach Jerry Kendall wanted four of my guys. The New Mexico coach wanted five. So, that's an indication," he said. "All we need is age. We need to get older. We need to become juniors and seniors." And maybe become the big boy on the block.

Agreement at Pillowtex shuts down picket line

Continued from page 1... overtime only after working more than 40 hours a week. Saturday and Sunday work was counted as straight time, the union and company said. Employees' insurance contributions were also "knocked down" in the contract, officials said, and the agreement was workers were happy with the seniority system agreed upon. The agreement came after several times under the supervision of a federal mediator. Wheeler said a worker's seniority will prevail over his or her skills when the company is considering promotions or job recall. Kerner said a worker's seniority, skill and ability will all be considered. Workers had complained that the seniority system at Pillowtex did not protect older workers. Wheeler said the new system will. Both said that if the company wants to relocate the plant or subcontract work out, Pillowtex must first notify the union, sit down with it and "investigate and explore in good faith alternatives." "When we decided to go on strike," Wheeler said, "there were issues that we felt were key to us. The issues we struck for were..." Kerner said that many of the issues that were resolved have been on the negotiating table since September. He said many of the contract provisions, such as the pay increase, resulted from company offers. The agreement with the National Labor Relations Board in Hartford was about to open a hearing on the union complaints brought against the company. An administrative law judge of the NLRB was prepared to hear the case when Kerner and Wheeler made a surprise joint announcement that a tentative agreement had been reached. Kerner said today that he did not expect the settlement Monday after more than seven months of bargaining. "We were ready to go to trial," Kerner said. "We had a good case. But our position has always been if there's a glimmer of hope to discuss the thing, we would be more than happy to do it."

Bomb threats prove false

A bomb scare this morning at Manchester High School marked the third time this week that someone has called warning of explosives at schools in town, police said this morning. All of the threats proved to be false and no one was injured, police said. A high school spokeswoman said this morning that nobody was evacuated from the building after the school received a threat at 10:24 a.m. On Monday, two threats were received by Howell Cheney Regional Vocational Technical School. Police spokesman Gary Wood said this morning most bomb threats occur when spring comes and the weather gets warmer.

Navy's Paul Evans to coach at Pitt

BALTIMORE — Navy basketball Coach Paul Evans has decided to accept a post at the University of Pittsburgh following day-long negotiations with Pitt athletic director Ed Bozik and other officials, a published report said.

BC to name Jim O'Brien as coach

NEWTON, Mass. — Boston College has called a news conference today to announce a new head basketball coach amid speculation that the position will be given to former Eagles star Jim O'Brien, now coach at St. Bonaventure.

"I'm aware that Jimmy has gotten the job and I'm very pleased," said Bob Cousy, former Holy Cross and Boston Celtic hoop star, who coached O'Brien at Boston College.

"He'll be a strong recruiter for BC. He's young and he's hungry, as they say," Cousy said.

Will there be enough baseballs?

ALBANY, N.Y. — A political storm in Haiti is blowing dust over baseball diamonds in the United States.

Sporting goods manufacturers with factories in the tiny Caribbean nation are struggling with production and shipping problems and say there may be shortages of some types of balls this season and increased prices next year.

About 80 percent of all baseballs and softballs sold in the U.S. are made in Haiti, which underwent violent anti-government protests last month that led President-for-Life Jean-Claude Duvalier to leave the country for France on Feb. 7.

The uprising came during the peak season for companies such as J. De Beer & Son Manufacturing, based in Albany.

"Every shipment (of balls) we get out of there now is a victory," said Fritz de Beer, president of the company.

De Beer manufactures between 2 and 3 million baseballs and softballs a year — all made in Haiti.

Navratilova may play in homeland

NEW YORK — Martina Navratilova was listed among the team members Tuesday when the United States Tennis Association submitted its squad for the Federation Cup in Prague, Czechoslovakia.

If she plays, it would be Navratilova's first visit to Czechoslovakia since she defected a decade ago.

Other members of the United States team whose names were submitted to the International Tennis Federation were Chris Evert Lloyd, Pam Shriver and Zina Garrison. The coach of the team is Marty Riessen.

McEnroe declines WCT invitation

DALLAS — For the first time in eight years John McEnroe will not compete in the World Championship Tennis tournament, chief executive officer Owen Williams said Tuesday.

In announcing a WCT field that includes half of the world's top 24 players, Williams said the Men's International Professional Tennis Council had informed him McEnroe wanted to remain inactive through the tournament, which begins April 8 in Dallas.

"We regret that John McEnroe will not be able to play in Dallas," said Williams. "This will be the first time in eight years John has not played here. But we understand the reasons for his leave and we look forward to the day when he gears up again."

The field includes Ivan Lendl of Czechoslovakia, who is ranked No. 1 in the world, a Swedish contingent consisting of Mats Wilander (2), Stefan Edberg (3) and Joakim Nyström (4), Boris Becker (6) of West Germany, Yannick Noah (7) and Thierry Tulasne (18) of France, Brad Gilbert (10) of Piedmont, Calif., Miloslav Mecir (11) of Czechoslovakia, Paul Anacone (13) of Bridgehampton, N.Y., Johan Kriek (15) of Naples, Fla., and Anger (20).

Houk, Herman to manage old-timers

WASHINGTON — Ralph Houk, who managed the New York Yankees to two World Series championships, and Hall of Fame second baseman Billy Herman were named Tuesday as managers for the annual Cracker Jack Old Timers Baseball Classic.

Houk will pilot the American League old-timers, while Herman will head the National League's in the five-inning charity exhibition, slated for June 23 at RFK Stadium, organizers said.

Welp says he'll stay in college

SEATTLE — University of Washington junior center Chris Welp, the Pacific 10 Conference player of the year, said Tuesday he will remain at school to complete his senior year.

"I like it here," said Welp, who could have applied to play in the NBA as a hardship case.

Welp decided to stay with the Huskies because he probably wouldn't be among the top five picks in the June draft and he wants to continue his graphic design studies.

"I knew I wouldn't be drafted in the first five guys and that was important," Welp, 7-foot, said. "And another thing was I made it into the graphic design department that I like so much. Graphic design is something I really want to do after basketball."

Welp also said he expects a $1 million contract when he does become a professional.

Welp averaged 19.4 points and 8.5 rebounds per game this season in leading the Huskies to the NCAA tournament, where they lost to Michigan State in the first round.

Rookie slugger convinces Texas

United Press International

One day after being named Texas' opening-day right fielder, Pete Incaviglia convinced any remaining skeptics he does belong in the major leagues.

Incaviglia, the former NCAA home run king, belted two homers in two at-bats Tuesday to help the Rangers to a 14-5 Grapefruit League victory over the Cincinnati Reds at Pompano Beach, Fla.

One of Incaviglia's home runs cleared a wire hung about 75 feet over the left-center field fence. The 6-foot-1, 220-pound bruiser from Oklahoma State, who has five homers in 13 exhibition games, hit two of Texas' four homers against the Reds.

Larry Parrish, coming off knee surgery last season, belted a three-run homer off Mario Soto to highlight a seven-run fifth inning. Curtis Wilkerson also homered for the Rangers.

Pete O'Brien, Don Slaught and Scott Fletcher joined Incaviglia with two hits for the Rangers. Eric Davis, who hit his fourth homer of the spring, and Dave Concepcion had two hits for the Reds.

Incaviglia, a first-round selection by Montreal in last June's draft, will join Atlanta's Bob Horner and the Yankees' Dave Winfield as the only active players to bypass the minor leagues and make the jump straight to the majors. Horner went from Arizona State to the Braves and Winfield joined the San Diego Padres off the University of Minnesota campus.

"There is no doubt I can play," Incaviglia said. "But I didn't want to come in and step on anybody's toes."

The Rangers were dealt a major blow Tuesday when right-hander Charlie Hough, who was scheduled to open the season April 8 against Toronto, broke the little finger on his pitching hand while shaking hands. The knuckleballer, 44-16 last season, will miss at least three weeks. Rookie Jose Guzman will open the season in place of Hough, manager Bobby Valentine said.

Hot cross buns

- 1 package active dry yeast
- 1-1/2 cups warm water (105 to 115 degrees)
- 2/3 cup sugar
- 1-1/2 teaspoons salt
- 1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
- 1/4 teaspoon ground nutmeg
- 1 cup lukewarm mashed potatoes
- 1 cup raisins
- 2/3 cup shortening
- 1/2 cup cut-up citron
- 2 eggs
- 7 to 7-1/2 cups all-purpose flour
- 1 egg yolk
- 2 tablespoons cold water

Quick White Frosting (below)

Grease 2 1/2-by-10-1/2-by-1-inch jellyroll pans. Dissolve yeast in warm water in large bowl. Stir in sugar, salt, cinnamon, nutmeg, potatoes, raisins, shortening, citron, eggs and 4 cups of the flour. Beat thoroughly. Mix in enough remaining flour to make dough easy to handle. Turn onto lightly floured surface; knead until smooth and elastic, about 5 minutes. Shape dough into 2-inch balls. Place in pans. Cover tightly with plastic wrap and refrigerate at least 24 hours but no longer than 48 hours.

Slit a cross in top of each ball. Cover and let rise in warm place until double, about 1 hour.

Heat oven to 375 degrees. Beat egg yolk in cold water; brush over tops of buns. Bake until golden brown, about 20 minutes. Cool slightly. Frost crosses with frosting. About 2-1/2 dozen buns.

Quick White Frosting: Mix 1 cup powdered sugar, 1 tablespoon water or milk and 1/2 teaspoon vanilla until smooth and of spreading consistency.

Easter Bunnies: Grease cookie sheet. Omit cinnamon, nutmeg, raisins and citron. Shape dough into 2-inch balls. Shape bits of dough into "ears"; pinch onto balls. Brush with soft margarine or butter. Place about 2 inches apart on cookie sheet. Bake as directed.

Orange-glazed strawberry tart

- 1-1/2 cups all-purpose flour
- 3/4 cup margarine or butter, softened
- 1/3 cup powdered sugar
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1 cup dairy sour cream
- 1 cup milk
- 1 package (3-1/2 ounces) vanilla instant pudding and pie filling
- 2 pints strawberries
- 1/2 cup orange marmalade
- 2 tablespoons orange-flavored liqueur or water

Heat oven to 400 degrees. Mix flour, margarine, powdered sugar and salt with hands until crumbly. Press firmly in bottom of tart pan with removable bottom, 11-by-11-inch or 11-inch pizza pan. Bake until light brown, 8 to 10 minutes. Cool completely; remove side from tart pan if necessary. Mix sour cream, milk and pudding and pie filling (dry) with hand beater or on low speed of electric mixer until blended, 1 to 2 minutes; spread on crust. Arrange strawberries on pudding mixture. Heat marmalade and liqueur over low heat until melted. Cool slightly; spoon over strawberries. Refrigerate any remaining dessert, 12 serving.

Do-ahead tip: After spreading pudding mixture on crust, cover with plastic wrap and refrigerate no longer than 4 hours. Up to 1 hour before serving, arrange strawberries on pudding mixture. Spoon marmalade mixture over strawberries; refrigerate.

Fruited spice cake roll

- 4 eggs, separated
- 1/2 cup molasses
- 3/4 cup all-purpose flour
- 2 teaspoons granulated sugar
- 1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
- 1 teaspoon ground ginger
- 1 teaspoon ground allspice
- 1/2 teaspoon ground nutmeg
- 1 teaspoon lemon juice or 1/2 teaspoon cream of tartar
- 1/4 cup granulated sugar
- Powdered sugar
- 2 cups chilled whipping cream
- 1 tablespoon powdered sugar
- 1 teaspoon ground lemon peel
- Fruit filling (below)

Heat oven to 325 degrees. Line 15-1/2-by-10-1/2-by-1-inch jellyroll pan with waxed paper; grease. Beat egg yolks on high speed until smooth, about 3 minutes. Beat in molasses, flour, 2 teaspoons granulated sugar, the cinnamon, ginger, allspice and nutmeg until lemon. Beat egg whites and lemon juice in large bowl on medium speed until foamy. Beat in 1/4 cup granulated sugar, 1 tablespoon at a time, on high speed until stiff peaks form. Fold molasses mixture into egg whites just until blended; spread in pan.

Bake until wooden pick inserted in center comes out clean, about 20 minutes. Immediately loosen cake from edges of pan; invert on towel sprinkled with powdered sugar. Carefully remove waxed paper; trim off stiff edges if necessary. While hot, roll cake and towel from narrow end. Cool on wire rack. Unroll cake; remove towel. Spread with Fruit Filling. Refrigerate until chilled, at least 2 hours.

Sprinkle powdered sugar over cake roll. Beat whipping cream and 1 tablespoon powdered sugar in chilled bowl until stiff; stir in lemon peel. Top each piece of cake with whipped cream, and if desired, garnish with pieces of lemon peel.

Fruit fillings

- 1-1/2 cups chopped cooked prunes or chopped apples
- 1 cup cut-up dates
- 1-1/2 cup chopped nuts or flaked coconut
- 1/2 cup orange marmalade
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 3 tablespoons orange juice, prune juice or brandy

Mix all ingredients. Do not use self-rising flour in this recipe.

Hamantaschen cookies

- 1/2 cup sugar
- 3/4 cup margarine or butter
- 1 teaspoon ground lemon peel or 1/2 teaspoon vanilla
- 2 eggs
- 2-1/4 cups all-purpose flour
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- Apricot, prune, plum or poppy seed filling (below)

Mix sugar, margarine, lemon peel and eggs in medium bowl. Stir in flour and baking powder. (If dough is too soft, stir in up to 1/4 cup additional flour.) Cover and refrigerate until chilled, at least 1 hour.

Heat oven to 350 degrees. Divide dough into halves. Roll each half 1/4 inch thick on lightly floured cloth-covered board; cut into 3-inch circles. (Or shape dough into 2 rolls, 3 inches in diameter; cut into 1/4 inch slices.) Place 1 rounded teaspoonful filling on center of each circle. Place thumb, index and middle fingers equal distances around edge of cookie; bring up sides of cookie. Pinch 3 corners together to form triangle. Place cookies about 2 inches apart on ungreased cookie sheet. Bake until light brown, 12 to 15 minutes. Immediately remove from cookie sheet; cool. About 2 dozen cookies.

Apricot or prune filling: Mix 1 cup mashed cooked pitted prunes or apricots, 3 tablespoons honey and 2 teaspoons lemon juice.

Plum filling

- 3/4 cup plum jam
- 1/4 cup finely chopped almonds
- 1/2 teaspoon grated lemon peel
- 1-1/2 teaspoons lemon juice

About 1/4 cup dry bread crumbs

Poppy seed filling

- 1 cup poppy seed
- 1/4 cup chopped walnuts
- 1 tablespoon margarine or butter
- 1 tablespoon honey
- 1 teaspoon lemon juice

Mix jam, almonds, lemon peel and lemon juice. Stir in just enough bread crumbs until thickened.

Dowry includes top-notch recipes

By Margaret Hayden Herald Reporter

When Judy and Pierre Marteney were married, both were studying for graduate degrees at the University of Illinois. Money was scarce, she said.

Judy Marteney of 218 Hackmatack St. holds one of her molded sugar eggs she decorated with icing. She has children in her nursery school, Blue Shutter Play and Learn School, make eggs like these. In the background are some of her many molds.

For a dowry, he gave her recipes he had copied from his mother's cookbook, she said. "She was a good cook and I was pleased," she said. She still uses some of the recipes from her mother-in-law, Lorene Marteney, who lives in Ridley Park, Pa.

Candied grapefruit rind is a dowry recipe. She often makes it in the winter and freezes some for later months. Six grapefruits are a good amount to work with, she said.

Another dowry recipe, fish fillets thermidor, is baked fish in a cheese sauce. She makes a similar sauce for fondue, she said.

Marteney has many recipes suitable for children to make with help from adults. She uses these recipes in the Blue Shutter Play and Learn School, the nursery school she started 18 years ago in Trinity Covenant Church.

Her young charges make decorations such as Easter eggs from the molded sugar recipe which she's sharing with Manchester Herald readers. The molded eggs or other shapes can be decorated with flowers made from icing, satin ribbons or jelly beans. Plastic egg molds can be bought in variety stores, she said.

These decorations are permanent. She's had some of hers for 20 years. She stores them by wrapping them in tissue paper, she said. Her children also make a sugar cookie recipe she's dubbed Blue Shutter cookies.

Molded sugar Easter eggs 3 teaspoons of water 2 cups granulated sugar Vegetable coloring, if desired Recipe can be doubled or tripled. Mix sugar and water well. Add coloring for pastel shades. Pack damp sugar mixture firmly into 3 egg-shaped molds. Turn out on a tray and let dry for at least a day. Cement both halves together with royal icing and pipe a fancy border around the seam with a cake decorator. Decorate top of egg as desired.

Marble Pillar specialty Macaroni & cheese dish wins fans

Old-fashioned macaroni and cheese made "from scratch" with a variety of cheeses and spices — is hard to find these days. That's why Lynn Damon of St. Paul Drive wrote this column about the Marble Pillar restaurant in Hartford. She said that the macaroni and cheese served at the downtown restaurant on Fridays is outstanding.

Apparently, she's not the only one to hold this opinion. Two generations of chef-owners have served macaroni and cheese each and every Friday, said the present owner, Doug Krauss. "I've been here 25 years, and my father was here before that. He taught me to make this," said Krauss.

Here is the recipe as served at the 25-year-old establishment. Suggested brand names are included, since Krauss believes that the correct choice of cheeses makes a tremendous difference in the quality of the dish.

Macaroni and cheese 1 cup grated Cooper brand sharp cheddar cheese 1 cup grated Land O' Lakes brand sharp cheddar cheese 1/2 cup beer 1/2 cup paprika for color Salt and pepper to taste 1/2 teaspoon dry mustard Dash Worcestershire sauce 3 tablespoons margarine or butter

HAM COOKS IN A matter of minutes in the microwave, and yields the same juicy tenderness you've enjoyed from conventional cooking. The recipe called for a 1 1/2 hour cooking time. The microwave reduces the cooking time to 10 minutes per pound, with the difference in wattage of microwave ovens. Turn the ham over approximately halfway through the cooking period.

When buying a whole ham or half ham for microwaving, choose the boneless fully cooked type. This type cooks more quickly and evenly than other types. We recommend a cooking time of 8 to 10 minutes per pound, with the difference in wattage of microwave ovens. Turn the ham over approximately halfway through the cooking period.

The upper cut edge of the ham cooks faster than the center; so shield this area with a narrow strip of aluminum foil. Shielding will reduce the energy and slow the cooking process in this area. Before shielding, however, check the manufacturer's guide that came with your microwave. Some of the older models can be damaged by the use of foil.

Make sure the shield is at least 2 inches from the top of the oven, and 1 inch from the side walls. Fold the foil smoothly over the cut edges of the ham.

To seal in juices and prevent spattering, cover the entire ham and dish with heavy plastic wrap. Cook a whole or half ham.

Tips for ham help busy cook eschew conventional oven

Microwave Kitchen Marge Churchill

Ham cooks in a matter of minutes in the microwave, and yields the same juicy tenderness you've enjoyed from conventional cooking. The recipe called for a 1 1/2 hour cooking time. The microwave reduces the cooking time to 10 minutes per pound, with the difference in wattage of microwave ovens. Turn the ham over approximately halfway through the cooking period.

When buying a whole ham or half ham for microwaving, choose the boneless fully cooked type. This type cooks more quickly and evenly than other types. We recommend a cooking time of 8 to 10 minutes per pound, with the difference in wattage of microwave ovens. Turn the ham over approximately halfway through the cooking period.

The upper cut edge of the ham cooks faster than the center; so shield this area with a narrow strip of aluminum foil. Shielding will reduce the energy and slow the cooking process in this area. Before shielding, however, check the manufacturer's guide that came with your microwave. Some of the older models can be damaged by the use of foil.

Make sure the shield is at least 2 inches from the top of the oven, and 1 inch from the side walls. Fold the foil smoothly over the cut edges of the ham.

To seal in juices and prevent spattering, cover the entire ham and dish with heavy plastic wrap. Cook a whole or half ham.

Advice
Single women might locate good moves at a chess club

DEAR ABBY: You have often been asked a question like this: I am a 26-year-old female who would like to meet a decent, eligible man. I've tried the bar scene, but most men are after a one-night stand. I've tried church groups, but the few men who are present come because their wives made them go.

Stress causes sleepwalking

DEAR DR. GOTT: We have a grandchild, 12, who walks in his sleep. Is there anything we or his parents can do to overcome this problem?
Most experts contend that true hypoglycemia is far less common than many people believe. Getting dizzy or nervous between meals is not sufficient grounds to substantiate the diagnosis.

Thoughts

It would be easy to dismiss the resurrection story as a first century myth — if it were not for the Christian Church. The Church today is living proof that "something happened" long ago on that fateful Easter dawn. Something happened that changed a group of frightened and discouraged disciples into a powerful body of witnesses to the living Christ.

Yale women plan Playboy alternative

NEW HAVEN (UPI) — A Yale University student group is seeking to pose for the magazine as a group of women rather than as a group of men. The group, called the Yale Women's League, is planning to pose for Playboy magazine as a group of women.

Yale students staged a protest when Chan last visited Yale in 1979. Another demonstration was ruled out because of fears it would give Playboy free publicity and because of concerns among some students about censorship. Schapiro said.

"We're not typecasting one particular type," Chan said. "We want a cross-section. You know students are a cross-section of the world."

Women who are selected will earn $100 if clothed, $250 if semi-nude, and $500 if nude, Chan said. "I hope this trip we can find a playmate," Chan said. "If we find a playmate that will pay for the whole year's tuition."

Tuition, room and board at Yale currently costs $15,000 a year, a university spokesman said. "Yale students say other Ivy League schools have expressed interest in the student magazine, which will be funded through women's centers at the colleges and perhaps through grants."

Bolton board trims education and town spending requests

By George Lovins
Herald Reporter

BOLTON — Residents will have to pay an estimated 1.7 mills more than the current $2.8 mill tax rate if a budget approved Tuesday by the Board of Finance is adopted. The finance board trimmed an estimated 2.4 mills in spending from budget requests from the Board of Education and Board of Selectmen that would have meant a total rise of 4.1 mills over the current rate. The reductions include $40,000 from the school board spending plan of $2,998,209 and $150,000 from the proposed town proper budget of $1,584,499 for the fiscal year that begins July 1. The cuts in the school budget prompted the sharpest reactions during Tuesday's three-hour review session at the Bentley Memorial Library, which was attended by five of the six finance board members. While all agreed cuts were needed in the school board proposal, they disagreed on the size of the cuts and their effect.

"There are some areas that can be reduced — there's no doubt in my mind," said finance board member William J. Febling. Febling, who offered a proposal to trim $50,000 from the school plan that was defeated, argued that the cuts could come from the money requested for fuel oil because of declining oil prices.

HOWEVER, BOARD MEMBER Robert L. Campbell said the cuts would likely come from the curriculum budget. He called for a reduction of no more than $30,000, and warned that if more were trimmed, "you're eating into teacher positions."

Where the cuts will actually be made will be decided by the Board of Education. Campbell argued that while finance board members might want the reductions to come in areas other than curriculum, 92 percent of the proposed budget is fixed costs, leaving school board members little choice but to trim curriculum expenditures.

Campbell said teaching positions were eliminated last year because of a similar decision by the Board of Finance. The school board's proposed budget for next fiscal year calls for adding teaching positions, including one for a full-time Spanish instructor for grades 4 through 8.

Finance board member Clayton A. Adams questioned the need for Spanish lessons at the lower grade levels.

Febling said the school board could rearrange its budget priorities to save the additional teaching positions.

CAMPBELL DISAGREED and said after the meeting that finance board members should be present when the school board makes the cuts "to see the results of their handwork."

The major cut in the town proper budget — which covers all other town departments — was $50,000 from the $125,000 requested by the selectmen for road repair. Finance board members said the town could cover the remaining cost with the $55,190 Bolton expects to receive from the state for road work.

Board members also recommended that federal revenue sharing money be used to cover the full $52,000 the town has borrowed to pay part of the cost of its new fire truck. The Board of Selectmen had requested that only $20,000 in revenue sharing be put towards the vehicle, with the remainder to be paid from next year's budget.

A final decision on how the revenue sharing funds will be used has yet to be made. A public hearing is scheduled for April 1, after which townspeople will vote on the matter at a date to be determined tonight by the Board of Selectmen.

Finance board Secretary Elna Dimock warned that if residents decide to use revenue sharing money for other items, the budget would increase. She said this could also boost the estimated mill rate increase.

ONE OF THE USES that has been proposed for revenue sharing money is the purchase of land to expand town hall for $88,000.

Townspeople will vote on the final budget proposals at a May 12 town meeting.

Farm land decline sparks interest in preservation effort

By George Lovins
Herald Reporter

BOLTON — Leonard Morra, 71, has been farming his 80 acres on Birch Mountain Road since 1927. When he started, there were between 50 and 60 farms in town.

"That's all they did," Morra said of the Bolton residents whose livelihood was farming.

Today, there are just over 10 full-time farms still in operation, according to the best available estimates. While Bolton is still rural in many ways, it has become a growing bedroom community whose residents spend most of the day working out town.

The change has put added pressure on farmers to get rich quickly by selling their land to developers, a trend that is by no means unique to Bolton. Connecticut's farm land is shrinking as housing and commercial developments grow.

On Tuesday, state and area officials met at Community Hall with a handful of farmers to learn what can be done to save farm land. Having the state or town buy development rights to the land, changing local planning and zoning regulations and urging cluster development of new homes were all discussed as ways to preserve agricultural space.

IN THE PAST 12 MONTHS, the Connecticut Department of Agriculture has bought the development rights to 12 farms throughout the state under a program begun in 1978, according to the Mary Goodhouse, the agency's farmland preservation director. All told, some 8,000 acres have been purchased, 700 have been donated to the state and about 5,000 more are being considered for purchase, she said.

The purpose of the program is not to save all farm land, but to preserve enough so that Connecticut can become self-sufficient in a number of crops that are grown in the state, Goodhouse said. For vegetables and fruit, this would mean saving about 135,000 acres to meet the needs anticipated by the year 2000, she said.

Under legislation adopted in 1984, towns can set up similar programs under which they can receive donations and gifts and appropriate money to buy development rights to local farms, Good-house said. This would allow more farms to be saved because the state preservation program focuses only on farms that are judged to have statewide importance, she said.

HOWEVER, SELECTMAN Lawrence Converse said Tuesday that preserving farms could lessen the amount of tax money towns receive from development and force tax rates up.

"The future concept is not really for preserving farm land, but to develop land to the fullest to keep the tax rate low," said Converse, who studied to become a farmer in college but instead became a painter because there was not enough affordable farm land.

Several farmers and Donald Francis of the University of Connecticut's Cooperative Extension Service disagreed. They said new residential development would cost the town more money because it would require the town to build new roads and sewers and spend more money to educate the children new homes would bring.

Preserving farm land also helps towns protect important wetlands, aquifers and recreation areas, Francis said. He suggested that towns plan conservation zones involving farm land, open space and wetlands.

IN ADDITION to purchasing development rights, towns can take other steps to encourage farming, including enforcing regulations that allow the town to take up to 15 percent of the land developed have purchased and preserve it as open space.

Francis said that by combining these sections of land into larger plots, prime farm land could be saved. Another option is cluster development, in which zoning regulations are changed so that developers can build on smaller plots, allowing more space to remain open.

Selectman Carl Press said after Tuesday's meeting that he and selectman Michael Ziska would study the ideas and make a recommendation to the full Board of Selectmen.

In the meantime, Morra said he will continue to grow fruit and vegetables on his property. "There's going to be a time when New England is going to want farm land," he said.

Now it's happening, we're understaffed and it's crazy."

Ellis assumes new duties

HARTFORD — William B. Ellis, chairman and chief executive officer of Northeast Utilities, will assume the additional post of NU president June 1 following the resignation of E. James Ferland as president and chief operating officer, the company announced. Ferland is leaving to become president of Public Service Electric and Gas Co. in New Jersey. The board of trustees, which elected Ellis to the additional post, also elected Bernard M. Fox executive vice president. Fox, currently senior vice president and chief financial officer, will report to Ellis. Fox will also be presented as a nominee to the company's board of trustees at NU's annual shareholders' meeting in May.

Market has early rebound

NEW YORK — The stock market headed higher today, rebounding from Tuesday's modest decline. The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks climbed 9.98 to 1,788.43 in the first hour of trading. Gainers outnumbered losers by more than 4-to-1 in the early rally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues. Interest rates declined in the credit markets this morning. Prices of long-term government bonds, which move in the opposite direction from interest rates, rose about $5 for every $1,000 in face value. Among actively traded blue chips, General Motors rose 1/4 to 86 1/2; Eastman Kodak gained 1/4 to 61 1/2; and American Telephone & Telegraph added 1/4 to 22 1/2. The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks gained 21 to 135.53. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up 98 at 266.60. On Tuesday the Dow Jones industrial average slipped 4.43 to 1,778.50.

Income averaging may be on way out

QUESTION: In 1985, I cashed in an annuity before it matured because I was concerned about the solvency of the insurance company that issued it. I had not previously withdrawn any money from the annuity and now must pay income tax on $46,000 of accumulated interest. This income averaging would be very beneficial. Is there any reason I cannot add the $46,000 annuity interest to my other income for income averaging purposes?

ANSWER: No reason, at all. All taxable income, including that $46,000 interest, can be used in the income averaging calculation. If your 1985 taxable income was at least $3,000 higher than 140 percent of your average taxable income for the three previous years, you'll save tax dollars by going the income averaging route. You do that by filing Schedule G with your 1985 Form 1040 federal income tax return.

With $46,000 of additional 1985 taxable income, income averaging almost certainly will be beneficial for you — unless your other income was very high in 1982, '83 and '84.

The rules on income averaging were tightened in 1984. Before then, you could income average if your taxable income was at least $3,000 greater than 120 percent of your average taxable income for the four preceding years.

It's likely that 1985 will be the last year for which income averaging can be used. The tax "reform" bills now before Congress call for the end of income averaging.

Please, dear readers, do not confuse this income averaging method with the "special 10-year income averaging" available to people who receive lump sum

Investors' Guide

William A. Doyle

distributions from qualified retirement plans. That's an entirely different thing — also due to be ended by the proposed tax legislation.

QUESTION: I understand that a penalty charged on early withdrawal of a certificate of deposit can be deducted on my income tax return. Does this provision also apply to a cash surrender charge on a tax-deferred annuity issued by an insurance company?

ANSWER: An Internal Revenue Service spokesman provides a "yes" reply to that query. He explains that, when you cash an annuity before its maturity, you report the entire amount of accrued interest as taxable income and take the surrender charge as an adjustment to income, thereby reducing your taxable income by the amount of the surrender charge. He suggests you enclose a note with your return explaining that charge.

An early withdrawal charge for cashing a CD or other "time deposit" is handled the same way. You're required to report all the interest that built up the CD, then take the early withdrawal charge as an adjustment to income on Line 28 of your Form 1040. However, there's no place to report an early withdrawal penalty on short Form 1040A or super-short Form 1040EZ. If you use either of those forms, you can't deduct an early withdrawal charge.

QUESTION: I am confused about the estimated payments I made last year for federal income tax on my interest and dividends. I paid $700 total 1985 estimated tax of $700 when I sent in four "quarterly" coupons. Can the $700 estimated tax be deducted from tax I pay when I file my 1985 return?

ANSWER: Sure. After you have figured out your total 1985 federal income tax — Line 56 on Form 1040 — you list your estimated tax payments on Line 58. Deduct that amount and any other tax payment, such as withholding, made in 1985 and you'll learn what tax if any — you owe and must pay with your 1985 return. Assuming you still have interest, dividends or any other taxable income from which there is no withholding, you'll have to make quarterly payments for 1986 and future years. Everyone who will owe the IRS $500 or more is required to make estimated payments in "quarterly" installments. For this year, those payments are due April 15, June 15 and Sept. 15, 1986, and Jan. 15, 1987.

Estimated income tax payments on taxable income from which no tax is withheld take the place of withholding on wages, salaries and such on which tax is taken out at the source.

Doyle welcomes written questions, but he can provide answers only through the column.

Mortgage madness spurs new activity

By Christopher Sullivan
The Associated Press

Mortgage rates have tumbled below 10 percent, house sales are booming and homeowners are storming banks to refinance and cut their monthly payments. Bob Allen thinks the trend, while it lasts, is out of this world. "It's like a Hall's comet event. It only happens once in a while — and it's here," exclaimed Allen, office manager for Winchesters Mortgage Co. in Denver. He conceded 12 percent is well above the best rate nowadays, but said the exchange could save thousands of dollars for someone who lacked the cash to pay closing costs for refinancing at a better deal.

AMONG THOSE BETTER DEALS: 9 1/2 percent with 1/4 points for a 15-year fixed-rate mortgage at First Atlanta Mortgage Corp.; 8 1/2 percent with two points for a 30-year fixed-rate mortgage at U.S. Bancorp Mortgage Co. in Portland, Ore.; 9.825 plus two points for a 15-year fixed rate mortgage at First National Bank of Maryland. A point is 1 percent of the principal amount of the mortgage.

The frenzy for mortgages began after the Veterans Administration in Washington reduced the top interest rate for VA-guaranteed mortgages to 9.5 percent from 10 percent on March 3. VA loan rates peaked at 17.2 percent in 1981 and hadn't been below 10 percent in seven years. Conventional home loan rates had been dropping gradually, but after the VA announcement "single-digit rates" — under 10 percent — seemed to be virtually everywhere.

Loan officers now find themselves the most popular people in town. Mick and Becky Proctor are refinancing their Charlotte, N.C., home from 13 percent to 9.5 percent, with their monthly payment dropping from $850 to less than $700. "It's like getting a pay raise," Proctor said.

Many people are using the savings to convert from a 30-year mortgage to a 15-year loan; that way, while monthly payments may increase, homeowners can save tens of thousands of dollars in interest over the years. "I STILL GET the feeling the real rush is yet to come," said David Walker, chief economist with People's Bank in Bridgeport, Conn. "If the consumer perceives that interest rates have bottomed out and are on the way up, (the market) will become even more fever-pitched." "Sometimes in the near future we could see a rate below 9 percent," said Greg Childers of the Farmington Bond & Mortgage Co. in St. Louis. "Countered Al Karlander of Inland Mortgage Co. in Indianapolis. "I can't see it getting much lower." In the meantime, lenders are innovating in the scramble for customers. Waiver Savings & Loan in suburban Milwaukee has voluntarily lowered rates one percentage point on about 1,000 mortgages at 11.9 percent, and president Raymond Perry said he might lower the rate again. Pratt gets Navy deal

EAST HARTFORD (UPI) — Pratt & Whitney has won Navy approval as the second engine source in a multi-billion dollar program to build a new tilt-rotor transport airplane, officials said today. The Allison division of General Motors, which beat out Pratt and General Electric as prime builder of the engine, selected Pratt as a second source under a Penatagon practice of establishing alternate sources for major weapon systems.

Allison officials announced in Washington today that they had "Navy concurrence" for the venture with Pratt. The engine program is worth an estimated $2 billion and the entire transport program is worth an estimated $3 billion.

Pratt was picked as a second source for several reasons, including its established technology base and financial resources, Indianapolis-based Allison said. The expensive project know as V-22 Osprey is new and considered highly vulnerable to delays, funding cuts or even termination should Congress require cuts in Pentagon spending.

Still, the project has the potential to develop into a major Pratt program. "It's a significant program," said Pratt spokesman David Long. "We don't expect it to have any impact on employment in Connecticut, but the important thing is it would help stabilize our employment in the years ahead."

Administration predicts industrial output gains

By The Associated Press

Despite last month's weakness in demand for factory goods, a Reagan administration official says falling interest rates and a lower dollar will lead to improvements in U.S. industrial production.

The latest inflation news, meanwhile, was unusually good, largely due to the collapse in petroleum prices on the world market.

A Labor Department report Tuesday showed the Consumer Price Index took a rare dive, falling 0.4 percent in February.

The Commerce Department said orders to U.S. factories for durable goods fell 0.5 percent in February. The seven U.S. automakers sold 226,712 cars March 1-10, compared with sales of 272,822 in the year-ago period.

The National Association of Realtors said sales of existing single-family homes were at an annual rate of 3.27 million units in February, down slightly from January. The trade group said the rate in February remained 13.1 percent above the level of a year ago.

Baldridge predicted further strength in industrial production in coming months.

In other economic news: The Labor Department said the average weekly earnings of Americans, after adjusting for inflation, rose 0.3 percent in February following a 0.7 percent January decline.

The Treasury sold $7 billion in new four-year notes at an average yield of 7.29 percent, down from 8.43 percent at the last auction on Dec. 31 and the lowest since 6.84 percent on Sept. 7, 1977.

The nation's automakers reported domestic auto sales slid in mid-March to 17.2 percent below a year earlier. The seven U.S. automakers sold 226,712 cars March 1-10, compared with sales of 272,822 in the year-ago period.

The National Association of Realtors said sales of existing single-family homes were at an annual rate of 3.27 million units in February, down slightly from January. The trade group said the rate in February remained 13.1 percent above the level of a year ago.

Made of your own light weight fabric it may be shirred on a wooden pole or curtain rod and has a finished look without the need for a valance; gentle clouds are created when raising the shade. The Balloon shade is another variation of a Roman shade made from your own decorator fabric into soft evenly placed box pleats which drape into gentle pouts when raised. May be lined for additional body or opaqueness.
Fabric requirements: Lightweight, soft sheer fabric. 2-2 1/2 times width of the window and 12-18" longer than the window. For the cloud shade: Four cord shirring tape with a length equal to the width of the shade.
