Manchester - A City of Village Charm

Students won't go on trip

By Susan Vaughn Herald Reporter

A group of 37 Manchester High School students will not be going on a planned trip to Paris and London Thursday because of the latest events connected with terrorism abroad.

Two-thirds of the parents who attended a meeting Tuesday at the high school voted not to send their children on the trip, said William Brindamour, one of the history teachers who was to be a chaperone on the trip.

At the hastily-called meeting, 10 parents voted in favor of going forward with the nine-day historical tour of London and Paris. But 10 students would have required only one chaperone, and Brindamour said none of the four chaperones was willing to go alone.

The students were scheduled to leave New York's John F. Kennedy Airport Thursday.

"There were too many ifs," Brindamour said.

He said the trip was canceled even though school officials had been assured as late as Tuesday afternoon by the State Department and all of the state's Congressional representatives that travel to London and Paris would be safe.

"The kids were disappointed, but also extremely relieved," Brindamour said.

Many students felt they would not have had a good time if they had gone knowing their parents were worried, he said. They also worried about the extra restrictions that would have been imposed for security reasons, he said.

One parent, who had two children scheduled to go on the trip, said today, "There was no question that my children weren't going." The mother, who asked not to be named, said she made her decision as soon as she heard of the U.S. attack on Libya Monday.

She said her children were disappointed. But they felt they would not have been able to fully enjoy the trip, she said.

School Superintendent James P. Kennedy, who attended the parents' meeting, said he had sent a letter to parents last week to clarify the board's position that the decision to go on the trip had to be made by the parents.

Students on a class trip are not covered by town insurance. The board's approval of a trip only guarantees protection for the staff members going in case of negligence charges, Kennedy said.

"There were no precedents to go back on," Kennedy said, noting that this was the first time a school trip had been canceled because of international events.

Brindamour said he was not sure how much, if any, of the nearly $1,000 each the students had paid for the trip would be returned. The tour company that organized the trip told Brindamour Tuesday that it would try to return as much as possible, but that their decision would depend on the European vendors to whom the money had been paid.

Pentagon spokesman Robert Sims displays a photograph sent by United Press International to newspapers as the briefs reporters Tuesday on the air strike against Libya. The photo shows what the Libyan news agency JANA said was a piece of wreckage from a U.S. aircraft. Sims said the wreckage was actually that of a Soviet-built SA-3 surface-to-air missile.

Search for plane ended

Crowe thinks crew members are dead

By Richard C. Gross United Press International

WASHINGTON - Navy ships and aircraft have given up their search for the two crewmen of an Air Force F-11F fighter-bomber missing since the air strike on Libya Monday, a top official said today.

Adm. William Crowe, the chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, said the search operations were halted in the sea of Libya, and he told ABC News, "My best judgment is that the crew was killed in the crash."

"I think the possibility of it being hit (by Libyan fire) is a very definite one," Crowe said in a separate interview on the NBC "Today" program.

Noting there are "great uncertainties at 2 a.m.," Libya time Tuesday when the planes swooped in low over the Libyan coast, Crowe said, "We do have some pilots that were witnesses to a firebomb going in the water off Tripoli and we believe that was the aircraft."

"We don't have anything to indicate that they ejected," Pentagon spokesman Robert Sims said Tuesday of the fliers, who sit side by side in a capsule-like cockpit, which can be propelled from the plane like a projectile.

The pilot of the missing plane was Capt. Fernando Ribas-Dominici, 33, of Puerto Rico, and the weapons officer was Capt. Paul Lawrence, 31, of San Francisco, the Air Force said. The plane was attached to the 48th Tactical Fighter Wing at the British base of Lakenheath, England.

Ribas-Dominici's brother said the family had received word the aircraft crashed into the sea.

A second twin-engine F-11F was forced to land at a NATO airbase in Botia, Spain, on the way back from the air strike.

Town sailor's family eyes conflict with concern

By John Mitchell Herald Reporter

"I figure that's part of his job to go where he's needed and wanted," Juanita Elliott of Tolland Turnpike said this morning. "Still, as a mother, I'm concerned."

Elliott was talking about her son, A.M.E. Petty Officer Third Class Tony Biggins, Biggins, an aviation structural mechanic, is aboard the U.S.S. America, one of the aircraft carriers dispatched to attack Libya Monday.

According to Elliott, who has lived in town for seven years, Biggins was also on the U.S.S. America the first time it was sent on military maneuvers to Libya over two weeks ago.

Both Elliott and her husband, Sydney, are worried and can't get much information, even from their son.

His protecting his family...

Juanita Elliott said, "He doesn't want to worry us."

Sydney Elliott said that Biggins doesn't talk much about his military duties. The last letter he and his wife received was a birthday card from Biggins three weeks ago.

"The carrier reached there about two weeks ago," Sydney Elliott said. "They never did get ashore. He said it's pretty hectic, that's what I understand."

"I think he knows more than he tells us," he added. "But he likes it very much."

Biggins, born in Hartford, is a 1976 graduate of Weaver High School. Prior to joining the Navy two years ago, Biggins lived in Manchester for a year. He is currently stationed in Oceana, Va.

The Elliotts said that Biggins is on tour for six months.

"He's supposed to be over there until late fall in the Mediterranean," Juanita Elliott said. "At this point he doesn't really know, the situation being what it is."

Biggins' wife, Kim, said she got a phone call in Virginia from Tony a week ago.

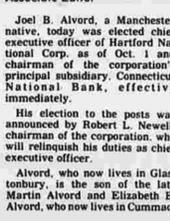

"He sounded in good spirit," she said this morning. "He didn't even talk about it at all."

Although she is worried about her husband, Kim Biggins said she backed President Reagan's decision to attack Libya.

"I think it's something that needed to be done," she said.

Plane triggers more firing in Libyan capital

By Juan-Carlos Gumucio The Associated Press

TRIPOLI, Libya - Anti-aircraft fire broke out for a half-hour today in the capital, and Libyan officials said the target was a U.S. reconnaissance plane. Reporters heard small arms and mortar fire and saw apparent street skirmishes near Col. Moammar Khadafy's headquarters.

Libya radio claimed U.S. jets today raided the Tarhounah area, 50 miles south of Tripoli, and Alous, 40 miles east of Tripoli, and that four U.S. jets were shot down. It said the U.S. jets failed to hit their targets.

The radio also claimed four U.S. warplanes were shot down in a raid Tuesday night. U.S. officials said the only American attack was before dawn Tuesday, and Pentagon spokesman Fred Hoffman said today that he could not discuss U.S. reconnaissance operations.

U.S. officials said they halted a search for an F-111 fighter missing since the attack. They said it may have crashed in the Mediterranean sea to the west of Libya.

Pentagon sources, while refusing to be specific, said efforts have been made to survey the Libyan targets using satellites and reconnaissance planes. The sources spoke on condition of anonymity.

After the shooting ended, the reporters again were put on a bus to "go to Khadafy's compound, several miles from central Tripoli. Khadafy lives and has his military headquarters there."

The Khadafy residence, a two-story blue and white cement building, was peppered with shrapnel from a bomb that left a large crater 10 yards away. Some interior walls were knocked down and plaster was piled up.

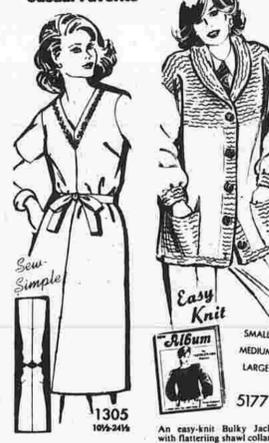

Dr. Mohammed Mufsa, director of pediatrics at the Fatah University Hospital, said Tuesday he had come to the residence to treat Khadafy's wounded children. He said Khadafy's 15-month-old adopted daughter, Hana, died, and his sons Kanis, 3, and Saph al-Arab, 4 1/2, were wounded.

Western diplomats estimated the death toll from the bombing at 100. Libyan officials would say only that many people were killed, and hospitals said up to 100 people were injured in one residential area.

President Reagan said he ordered the attack because evidence showed Libya plotted the April 5 bombing of a West Berlin discotheque in which a U.S. soldier and a Turkish woman were killed.

Almanac

Today is Wednesday, April 16, the 106th day of 1986 with 259 to follow. The moon is approaching its first quarter. The morning stars are Mercury, Mars, Jupiter and Saturn. The evening star is Venus. Those born this date are under the sign of Aries. They include aviation pioneer Wilbur Wright in 1867, actor-comedian-film director Charlie Chaplin in 1889, actor Peter Ustinov in 1921 (age 65), composer-conductor Henry Mancini in 1924 (age 62), singer Bobby Vinton in 1935 (age 51), and basketball player Kareem Abdul-Jabbar in 1947 (age 39). On this date in history: In 1862, Congress abolished slavery in the District of Columbia. In 1947, more than 500 people were killed when a French frigate carrying nitrates exploded at the dock in Texas City, Texas. In 1972, Apollo-16 blasted off for the moon with three American astronauts aboard. Also that day, U.S. planes raided the North Vietnam capital of Hanoi. In 1975, the government of Cambodia asked the communist insurgents for a cease-fire and offered to turn power over to them. A thought for the day: Comedian Charlie Chaplin said, "In the end, everything is a gag." About seven of 14 "starter" houses being built under town contract on Love Lane wait for their owners to move in. Seven people won rights to buy the below-market priced houses during a lottery in March. A second lottery is being held at 7 p.m. Thursday for the remaining seven houses.

Couple finds houses ticket to dream

Barry and Rita Hayes didn't think they would be able to afford a house for at least another five years. But a lucky lottery ticket means they will be moving into their own home by this summer. The couple, who have been married for 15 years and have been renting apartments ever since, entered a town lottery last month for seven "starter" houses being built on Love Lane. When their name was called by the developer, Visions Unlimited Inc. of Tolland, they won a right to buy one of the houses, which are being built under town contract. "It was a once-in-a-lifetime shot," Barry Hayes said this morning. "But I didn't think the odds were that high. It was worth my time." The Democratic majority on the town Board of Directors promoted the project to help bring affordable housing to first-time buyers in Manchester who fit certain income requirements. Under the plan, Visions Unlimited is building the 14 houses on seven acres on Love Lane and will sell them for between $61,900 and $67,800. The town will build a sleeping second mortgage on the price of the land, which is estimated to be about $11,000, that must be paid in 20 years. Because of the wide interest in the houses, the town held one lottery drawing for the first seven houses and plans a second drawing for the remaining seven on Thursday. "WE'VE BEEN RENTING ever since we've been married," Hayes said. "It (the Love Lane project) puts you in a whole different range with the town giving you a break on the land. "There's a lot of tension when you're sitting there and they're drawing numbers," he said, referring to the night of the lottery when the seven winners were announced. "Looking at a new home in Manchester in this price range isn't to be had," Hayes said. He said he and his wife had agreed that one of them should always be home with their three children. That meant only one income and a harder time affording a house. "It was tough saving for a home on one income," Hayes said. "No one would take you seriously." Hayes works for Connecticut Business Forms of Bloomfield, a business form printing plant. A year ago, Rita Hayes started work at Advanced Automation Associates of Vernon. The two jobs and the town's help will make it easier for the couple to buy the home and they plan to move from their Bidwell Street duplex apartment to their Love Lane house this summer. AN OFFICIAL OF Visions Unlimited said today that seven houses are completed and will be ready for residency when the lottery winners are ready to move in. The other seven are at various stages of development, he said. About 115 people have entered the lottery for Thursday's drawing. Of those people, 64 are residents who entered the first drawing but did not win. The prices of the seven houses involved in Thursday's raffle will each be increased by $1,000 as the result of anticipated site work. Peter Lawrence, vice president of Visions Unlimited, said today. He said excavators found an underground spring and will have to install 300 feet of pipe to drain it. He said the contract between the town and Visions permits the increase.

Number of police applicants lower than town expected

Disappointed with the number of candidates for line positions on the police force, Manchester has extended the application deadline. But the town will go ahead with the hiring process even if it does not get more applications, Assistant Town Manager Steven Werber said this morning. Werber said only 180 people have applied for jobs that are now open and others that will open up due to staffing changes. The candidates include 40 women or minority-group members, he said. Werber said the town expected about 300 applicants. The lower number may be a reflection of the condition of the job market in Connecticut, he said. If more applicants do not come forward by the new deadline, May 15, the hiring process will go forward, Werber said. Meanwhile, the town will continue recruiting and will seek to tap other sources, a community college in the Hartford area that runs a short course for people interested in a career in police work. Werber said there are five vacancies to be filled on the police force and more to come in the future as a result of promotions. One reason Werber said he is concerned about the low number of applicants is that in the past, only about half of those who apply show up for the first round of testing. The 90-member police force has four women members, but no minority-group members. The town has come under fire recently because of its failure to hire candidates from minority groups.

Companies asked to bid on utilities

Invitations to bid on Manchester's L & M Water Co. and the Elm Water Co. in Coventry have been sent to "less than 20" firms that have expressed interest in purchasing the utilities, according to the attorney overseeing the estate that owns the companies. Hartford attorney David Hadden said Tuesday that information about the two water systems was sent to each prospective buyer, and each has until May 16 to make an offer. Hadden said John Wittenzeller, who was appointed to operate both water systems in 1983, was one of those invited to submit an offer. Wittenzeller, owner of the Aqua Pump Co. in Stafford, complained earlier this month about Hadden's plan to accept offers from other firms. Hadden said then that he hoped the other bids would enable him to sell the utilities at a higher price. But he indicated Tuesday that Wittenzeller's offer could be the most promising. Wittenzeller, who has long expressed interest in purchasing the two firms and has helped repair both systems.

Horowitz visits

Pianist Vladimir Horowitz played a romantic etude for the 86-year-old daughter of Alexander Scriabin during a visit to the Russian home of the late composer. The 81-year-old Horowitz said he had played for her father as a 10-year-old and that the composer had scared him. Scriabin's daughter, Yelena Alexandrovna, chatted with Horowitz for a few minutes Tuesday in front of a television camera crew before he played the romantic C sharp minor Etude, Opus 2, No. 1. Horowitz returned to the Soviet Union on Monday for the first time since he left his homeland in 1925. Visiting under the renewed U.S.-Soviet cultural exchange, he will play concerts in Moscow on Sunday and in Leningrad on April 27.

She credits Burton

Actress Catherine Osenberg says Richard Burton "sparkled the fantasy of acting" in her as a youngster, when he dated her mother. "He was a brilliant man and I was fascinated by him. We'd sit for hours and he'd teach me crossword puzzles and coach me in Shakespeare for school," the "Dynasty" star said in the May issue of McCall's. Osenberg said Burton also "taught me how to drive his Mercedes when I was 13. Can you imagine me propped up on six pillows, peering over the steering wheel like a little dwarf?" The actress is the daughter of Princess Elizabeth of Yugoslavia, but has no title of her own. "I'm very happy about that," she stated. "I think in many ways it's an obstacle and a hindrance. People look at you as a dodo bird, a strange, obsolete creature who's not quite real."

Royal visit planned

Princess Margaret, younger sister of Queen Elizabeth II, will visit Canada in July. Gov. Gen. Jeanne Savoy says. Monday's announcement said Margaret would visit British Columbia, including Expo 86 in Vancouver. Her visit is the third recently announced royal visit to Canada. Prince Charles and Princess Diana are scheduled to arrive in British Columbia on April 30 for an eight-day visit. Princess Anne will visit New Brunswick, Ontario and Alberta from June 28-27.

Repeat aid

Entertainer Willie Nelson wants to stage a repeat performance of the FarmAid concert on the Mall in Washington, officials in Nashville, Tenn., say. The 1985 14-hour concert was organized by Nelson, who wants a second show in the nation's capital on Labor Day. Sandra Alley, a spokeswoman for the National Parks Service, said Monday that Nelson has asked about using the Mall but made no formal application. "The FarmAid concert by more than 50 rock 'n' roll and country music acts last September at the University of Illinois, raised pledges of $9 million for the nation's farmers."

Rollo to jail

Actor Nathaniel Taylor, who played Rollo on television's "Sanford and Son" series, has been arrested and booked in Los Angeles for investigation of burglary, police said. Taylor, 48, his brother, James, 41, and Shing Pang, 38, were arrested Tuesday, police said. About $200,000 worth of stolen computers and typewriters were seized. The arrests came hours after the Sports Connection athletic club in West Los Angeles reported the theft of 10 IBM typewriters and a computer. Police Lt. Howard Huggins said. Nathaniel Taylor played Rollo Larson, a friend of Lamont Sanford who eventually became a partner of Fred Sanford, on the "Sanford and Son" show, which ran on NBC-TV from 1972 to 1977. The character continued on the retitled series called "Sanford," which ran from 1980 to 1981.

Japanese Diplomacy Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone's recent talks with American officials were undoubtedly handled with the greatest care. Japanese concern for propriety has always been great. Kidnappers free Jennifer Guinness

DUBLIN, Ireland — Three kidnappers released Jennifer Guinness, a member of Ireland's wealthy beer and banking family, and surrendered to police today, eight days after abducting the woman for a $2.4 million ransom.

Police said Guinness, 48, was "safe and well" at the end of her ordeal. She was freed at dawn after police and troops surrounded a south Dublin house where she had been held.

Troops had joined police in the siege of the three-story house in the Ballsbridge district of Dublin early today after a neighbor saw Guinness, whom he recognized from news photographs, being taken into the home, police sources said.

Guinness drove away with her husband and son within minutes of her release. Guinness, kidnapped April 8, had appeared briefly at a window of the house during the siege and mouthed the words, "I'm all right, I'm all right."

Guinness, British-born wife of banker John Guinness, was kidnapped April 8 at their home at Howth, a millionaire's enclave overlooking Dublin Bay, by three masked men who pistol-whipped her husband and demanded a $2.6 million ransom as they fled the home.

Stalin's granddaughter back in West

LONDON — Saying "It's wonderful to be back," 14-year-old Olga Peters, an American-born granddaughter of Soviet dictator Joseph Stalin, returned to the West nearly 18 months after reluctantly moving to the Soviet Union with her homesteck mother.

"Olga called me just a while ago," Svetlana Alliluyeva, Stalin's daughter, told United Press International. "I am very relieved she made it safely."

When asked if she would be joining her daughter in the West, Alliluyeva said, "It remains to be seen, but I should know something in the next few days."

Alliluyeva defected to the United States in 1967 and married a San Francisco architect, William Wesley Peters. Olga was born in America.

But Alliluyeva divorced Peters, moved to Britain and returned to the Soviet Union 18 months ago, taking Olga with her.

Teenager killed playing 'Rambo'

GREEN BAY, Wis. — A Little League baseball coach who "brought his 'Rambo' knife" for a survival game with a boy who sneaked outside to play the night of his 15th birthday has been charged with stabbing the teenager to death.

Michael David Johnson, 24, a baseball coach and part-time truck driver, was charged Tuesday with the April 8 multiple stabbing death of Thomas Schroeder, 15.

Police said the youth secretly left his house the night of his 15th birthday and went to an open field with Johnson.

Johnson told police "he brought his 'Rambo' knife and that when they got to the field they began playing 'Rambo,' that they ran through the field into the woods, that they were talking and that Johnson hit Tom in the back with the 'Rambo' knife and Tom said, 'Why, why?'" authority said.

Brown County Circuit Judge Charles Kuehn, noting the seriousness of the charge, granted the prosecution's request that Johnson be held under $200,000 bond. Kuehn scheduled a preliminary hearing April 23.

Corporations backing parental leave

NEW YORK — Many top corporations are embracing the idea of giving new mothers — and fathers — lengthy, unpaid parental leave with job guarantees, a report on 284 companies said today.

Other firms have expressed interest in the program, according to the report from Catalyst, an independent New York research group that studies workplace and family issues.

The unpaid leave is beyond the paid disability time off that an estimated 65 percent of the companies provide for maternity, the report said.

The report said 63 percent of the companies give 5-to-8 weeks disability leave, 22.2 percent give 9-to-12 weeks and 4.7 percent give 1-to-4 weeks, according to the report.

"The Corporate Guide to Parental Leaves" also said that 37 percent of companies studied offer unpaid leave with a job guarantee to new fathers and adoptive parents. But the practice is not usually called paternity or parental leave. Instead, it is covered under the company's general personal leave or leave-of-absence policy.

Housing starts strong in 1st quarter

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Housing starts declined at a rate of 2.4 percent in March but starts for the first quarter of 1986 still finished at their highest level in nearly eight years, the Commerce Department said today.

Ground was broken on private single- and multi-family homes at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 1,949 million last month, a 2.4 percent decline from the revised February level of 1,997 million, a Census Bureau report said.

The housing index fell 1.8 percent in February from January's two-year high of 2,034 million, according to the revised figures. The actual number of homes started in March was an estimated 150,100, up substantially from February's 106,800.

The level of housing activity for the quarter, which reflects an annual market for nearly 2 million new homes, was the strongest since the last quarter of 1978.

Last-minute taxpayers flock to post offices

It was the time of reckoning for procrastinators as the last hours, then minutes, ebbed away and those 1986 and Schedule A's and Moving Expense Forms had to be on their way to Uncle Sam, or else.

Across the land, Americans who left it to the last minute to settle their affairs with the government swarmed on post offices and mail boxes in what has become an April 15 tradition.

"I've made this midnight run the last four years," said the Rev. David Jongeward of Jacksonville, Md., who was dropping off his returns at the Baltimore post office. "I must get a high off the adrenaline. This is dumb. I think it's going to be simpler every year, but it isn't."

"These are my mom's taxes," said Pam Hurd, a 28-year-old Los Angeles teacher, explaining why she was part of the crowd at the post office there. "She's in the hospital."

"This is pretty interesting," she added. "I didn't know what I was missing."

The pretty interesting scene in Los Angeles was similar to that in other cities: Bumper-to-bumper traffic lurched down the street in front of the post office, while post workers stood at curbside, taking envelopes from motorists and stuffing them into canvas bags. Inside the building, hundreds more people crowded into long lines.

The Internal Revenue Service estimates that perhaps 10 million of the 194 million couples and individuals filing returns this year waited until the final day.

At Manhattan's main post office in New York City, spokesman Samuel Klein said Tuesday's turnout of Johnny-file-latelers there would easily surpass last year's total of 15,000.

Many post offices were the site of tax-related protests.

In Chicago, late payers were met by about 25 people chanting "Stop the bombing now!" and "Reaganism, terrorism, hands off Libya!"

But in Miami, one man handing in his return looked at tax protesters there and said he was glad to pay his share to the government.

"They need it so they can go over and kill (Col. Moammar) Khadafy," the unidentified man growled before driving off.

House maneuver deals Reagan blow

By Tim Ahern
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The House dealt President Reagan a setback in his effort to win money for Nicaraguan rebels by refusing to split the $160 million aid package from an unrelated spending bill that Reagan may veto.

In two votes Tuesday evening that went largely along party lines, the Democratic-controlled House decided to keep the rebel aid package tied to a bill providing $1.7 billion for a range of government programs.

House Minority Leader Bob Michel, R-Ill., warned that Reagan might veto the spending bill and told Democrats, "What you have

Divers find more astronaut remains

By Howard Benedict
The Associated Press

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. — Divers have retrieved more pieces of Challenger's wrecked crew cabin, and radio communications indicate more astronaut remains may have been found.

A coded message from the USS Pierce on Tuesday referred to a "Tom O'Malley," a term used earlier by ships in the cabin search area. It is believed to indicate the recovery of remains.

Sources close to the investigation said last week that salvage crews felt they would find no more body parts after stormy weather left a deposit of silt over the cabin debris.

But the sources, who spoke on condition of anonymity, said some remains of one of the seven astronauts had not been found, and when the weather cleared, a commercial scallop boat was hired for one day to help clear the silt and the search resumed.

No information was available on whether the newly-found remains, if they are such remains, belong to that astronaut.

NASA has declined comment on the bodies out of deference to the families.

Convicted killer executed in Texas

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP) — A convicted killer who asked that he not be executed by lethal injection early Wednesday, less than 14 hours after another man was put to death in Florida's electric chair.

Jerry Allen Barney, 28, was pronounced dead at 12:22 a.m. in the Huntsville Unit prison, said Attorney General Jim Mattox.

"I deserve this. I hope Jesus forgives me," Barney said in the death chamber.

Barney's execution followed that of Daniel Morris Thomas, 37, who was electrocuted Tuesday for murdering a man and raping his wife as her husband lay dying in 1976. Thomas kicked, cursed and fought with guards in a seven-minute struggle in the death room before being strapped into the chair in Huntsville, Fla., where he was pronounced dead at 12:19 p.m. EST.

Barney, a native of Dayton, Ohio, was convicted of the 1981 strangling and rape of the wife of a minister who helped Barney get a job after his release from a prison term for auto theft.

How to pick the number one newspaper in a multiple paper town.

In a town like Manchester, you might as well start with readership. In a most recent survey conducted by First Market Research of Boston, the Manchester Herald holds the overall local readership lead. According to the study, the Manchester Herald is the leader for local news, local happenings and local sports, with three quarters of the readers saying the coverage is the most extensive.

Next, the number one newspaper should provide readers with a depth of information needed to make valued and reasonable decisions regarding key local issues that may impact on their lives today, or in the future. Well that same study shows that the Manchester Herald is rated quite highly in terms of space devoted to selected issues in its Opinion pages. Nearly eight in ten readers find that the space devoted to viewpoints on local issues to be more than sufficient in explaining the issues.

The number one newspaper should also provide a service to its subscribers. The Manchester Herald is found to be a good community newspaper by over nine in ten readers, with over one third rating it as very good. The Manchester Herald is also a very effective advertising tool for reaching the Manchester Area public and it is preferred over most other forms of printed advertising.

If you're still trying to figure out which is the number one newspaper in Manchester, the facts are obvious. Your choice will be the same paper more and more readers in Manchester choose every day. The Manchester Herald — your voice in Manchester.

Leaks worry CIA

By Neil Roland
United Press International

WASHINGTON — U.S. intelligence operations in the Middle East may have been "compromised" by leaks of classified data about Libya by administration officials, members of the Senate Intelligence Committee have told the CIA.

A committee spokesman said Republicans and Democrats on the panel told a CIA official Tuesday they were worried about the disclosures, reportedly made in the last two weeks to West German media and Newweek magazine by intelligence and diplomatic officials.

"It's a little too early to tell for sure what the impact has been," the spokesman said. "But members were concerned that we may have compromised sources and injured our intelligence capabilities."

Members of the intelligence committee learned about intercepted Libyan cables and other data only after the news articles were published, said the spokesman, who asked not to be identified.

At a CIA briefing Tuesday, committee members sought to determine the extent of damage from the leaks to U.S. intelligence sources and methods, the spokesman said.

Senate Republican leader Robert Dole of Kansas, an ex-officio member of the intelligence panel, has voiced concern these leaks could damage U.S. intelligence capability, an aide said.

"Decisions about release of sensitive information should come from the highest authorities; these leaks did not come from those levels," the Dole aide said.

The aide said the senators were not complaining about President Reagan's disclosures Monday about Libyan terrorist activities. Reagan and senior administration officials said the United States had evidence, including intercepted cables, linking Libyan leader Moammar Khadafy to the bombing of a West German disco, in which an American soldier and Turkish woman were killed.

The Dole aide had no objection "to revealing that information because of the importance of justifying the U.S. air attack on Tripoli to the public."

But he cautioned there are "trade-offs" in such a disclosure. "It's absolutely clear that a good part of the world knows where we got the information," the aide said.

The April 7 issue of Newweek reported that messages were sent in early April from Tripoli to Libyan agents in various European capitals ordering them to "prepare to carry out the plan."

The magazine did not elaborate.

West German Chancellor Helmut Kohl, right, and Portuguese Premier Cavaco Silva speak to reporters at a press conference in Bonn Tuesday. Kohl criticized Washington's use of military force against Libya, but said he had sympathy for U.S. motives. Silva was on a three-day visit to West Germany.

Europe gives little praise, cooperation to U.S. efforts

By Henry Gottlieb
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — As in the past, the Reagan administration asked its European allies for help against Libya. And as usual, the United States got little support.

According to U.S. and European officials, the administration sought British, French and Spanish help in mounting the complicated, long-range air strike against Libya on Monday.

Britain said yes. France and Spain said no.

Afterward the United States looked to its NATO allies for expressions of support for the raid, which President Reagan said was aimed solely at terrorist targets and prompted by conclusive evidence of Libyan involvement in terrorism. Few nations applauded.

West German Foreign Minister Hans Dietrich Genscher, for example, told reporters after he met with Secretary of State George Shultz he thought the military approach was wrong.

Echoing the reaction voiced throughout Western Europe, Genscher said, "We prefer political efforts to tackle these problems."

OF ALL THE ALLIES, Britain was the most supportive of the U.S. action beforehand and afterward, Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger said Britain approved the

Reagan reviews damage reports

By Helen Thomas
United Press International

WASHINGTON — President Reagan, warning terrorists that "do nothing is not America's policy," is reviewing Pentagon and intelligence reports on civilian casualties and damages the recent U.S. air strike inflicted on Libya.

Administration officials said that although they have not made public the results of the 12-minute bombing raid Monday night on Tripoli and Benghazi, Reagan has been given a "damage" assessment, which includes Libyan casualties.

Reporters in Tripoli said there were heavy civilian casualties, including Libyan leader Moammar Khadafy's adopted 15-month-old daughter, Hana, who died when U.S. bombs smashed into the Azizia compound just outside Tripoli, which Khadafy uses as a headquarters. Two of Khadafy's young sons also were injured.

There were reports that 100 heads were hit in addition to military bases and installations.

Officials attributed the rumors to "sensitive Libyans."

Reiterating his vow the United States will strike again if Khadafy does not end his campaign of subversion and terror, Reagan said.

"In order for evil to succeed it's only necessary that good men do nothing. Doing nothing is not America's policy."

In remarks to a business group Tuesday, Reagan said the American pilots he ordered into the fray "spoke to the outlaw Libyan regime in the only language that Col. Khadafy seems to understand."

"Yesterday the United States won but a single engagement in the long battle against terrorism," he said. "We will not end that struggle until the free and decent people of this planet unite to eradicate the scourge of terror from the modern world."

Reagan has been kept abreast of developments in the retaliatory attack by national security adviser John Poindexter. Despite widespread reports Tuesday of a second-day attack, White House spokesman Larry Speakes told reporters that the military operation has concluded.

Speakes denied the rumors to "sensitive Libyans."

The two diplomats had planned to meet in May to lay the groundwork for the second summit between the two leaders. The White House was obviously stung by the diplomatic fallout and deputy press secretary Edward Djerejian said, "In our view, the summit is of interest to both countries."

Speakes described the attack as the first installment of the "heavy price" Khadafy will have to pay unless he gives up his support of terrorists.

He said Monday's assault, hitting suspected "terrorist-related" targets, was intended "to send a clear message that we will no longer tolerate the deaths of Americans and others. We are confident this message was heard and understood."

Diplomat reportedly flees to Saudi Arabia

By Neil Roland
The Associated Press

KHARTOUM, Sudan (UPI) — A U.S. diplomat was shot by unidentified gunmen as he got into his car in a suburb of the Sudanese capital of Khartoum, police and a U.S. spokesman said today.

Sudanese police said the attack was staged late Tuesday and the diplomat, identified as Williams Carlos, was badly injured.

A spokesman for the U.S. Embassy in Khartoum denied local police reports the man was shot dead but gave few details of the attack.

"His condition is stable, and he is being flown out aboard a special plane," said the embassy spokesman, adding he could not say who was behind the shooting.

In Washington, Randy Beers, director of the State Department's Libyan Task Force, said the person shot, Khartoum, was already in Jiddah, Saudi Arabia, and was alive.

He said the wounded American "had a bullet in his brain" and was "airlifted to a hospital in Jiddah, Saudi Arabia, for treatment."

"He is out of surgery and the prognosis is good," the State Department spokesman said.

Beers said the wounded man's name is not Carlos, but he declined to identify him because of privacy regulations. It is up to the wounded man to release his own name, he said.

The spokesman said the wounded man is a member of the Khartoum Embassy but added he did not know if he has diplomatic status.

According to the police sources in Khartoum, the diplomat was chased and fired on by the gunmen as he walked toward his car late Tuesday at the Coplic Club in

Soviets call off meeting

By Neil Roland
The Associated Press

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union, protesting the U.S. bombing raids on Libya, canceled next month's Soviet-U.S. meeting to arrange a super-power summit and raised doubts about whether the summit will be held at all.

In a strongly worded government statement, the Soviets on Tuesday condemned that morning's air raids on Libya and said the Reagan administration "has made impossible at this stage the planned meeting on the level of the ministers of foreign affairs of our two countries."

Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze and Secretary of State George P. Shultz were to have met in Washington May 14-16 to arrange a summit in the United States between President Reagan and Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev.

The Soviet statement, carried by the official news agency Tass, said the Soviet Union had warned the United States "that such actions cannot but affect relations between the Soviet Union and the United States."

Khartoum, in the suburban area of the city where many foreign embassies are situated.

The gunman then fled.

Local police had no further details.

It was not known whether the shooting was connected with the U.S. air raid Tuesday on Libya, and no group claimed responsibility.

But U.S. diplomats in Khartoum have been warned for some time that Americans have become terrorist targets in the city.

In November, they warned U.S. citizens not to travel to the Sudanese capital because they said Libyan terrorists were based and operating there and might hit U.S. targets.

"The presence in Khartoum of known terrorists and possible threats to U.S. interests," was the official State Department reason.

Candidate confusion in the 13th

There's an interesting race shaping up in the 13th Assembly District, where one Democrat has tossed his hat in the ring, three other Democrats are considering it, and the Republican incumbent says she's too busy to make up her mind about another term.

The reports out of the 13th offer a little comic relief in a pre-convention season that has thus far confused many voters with its confusion over candidate selection. The mechanics of the delegate-selection process in the gubernatorial race have become so complicated that the contest seems ludicrous.

But in the 13th, the mechanics deal not with who's running, or who will be a delegate for who's running, but instead with who will be the first not to run if someone else runs.

So far, a Democrat, who apparently claims to have God on his side, is the only announced candidate in the district. But that candidate has said he will pull out of the race if another Democrat, a former mayor, decides to try again.

Two other Democrats whose names have been mentioned as candidates also are considered serious about their intentions, but they, too, are quick to say they won't run if the former mayor does. One of the two adds that he won't run if the other does, either.

Meanwhile, the incumbent says she doesn't have time to think about the 1986 elections because of the important work at the Capitol. The legislative session doesn't end until May 7, so presumably there will be no word from her until then. So if there are any Republicans who want to play the Democratic game, they have just three weeks to declare themselves candidates and then back out.

Anyone who votes in the 13th District should probably tell their favorite to run — or remind all the potential candidates that their mischief, while laughable, does no one any good.

A great step for the Whale

To the Editor:

Even though the "Whale" could be eliminated from the hockey race, they have finally taken a giant step forward — and won.

They have shown enough spirit and spunk to wear the crown of victory and the smile of contentment.

I have never paid them much attention in the past but now they are getting my eye if only for the moment.

Yes, they deserve to win now that they are reaching for the victory that has been eluding them in the past. They deserve the cup and if not, a smaller victory — respect.

Tort reform needs teeth

To the Editor:

On April 4, 1986, the Connecticut Legislature's Judiciary Committee seriously weakened HB 6124, An Act Concerning Tort Reform. We believe a strong tort reform measure is necessary to effectively address the "lawsuit crisis" in Connecticut.

A strong lawsuit reform bill should include provisions that would:

1. Require each defendant to pay only for the portion of damages for which he was found to be at fault.
2. Prevent duplicate payment of damages.
3. Examine the issue of placing reasonable limits on non-economic damage "pain and suffering" awards.

4. Adopt a sliding scale on contingency fees for lawyers.
5. Allow screening panels in medical malpractice suits to make liability recommendations to the court.
6. Allow installment payments on large awards.

The weakened bill reported out of the Judiciary Committee may be acted upon by the House of Representatives as early as next week. This bill would do little to restore the balance we need in our way lawsuits are decided in the courts.

should do well in Newington, South Windsor and Simsbury. There is no line on Labriola, but because of his Fairfield victory some of the other contenders and the boys downtown are growing increasingly uneasy. "What if..."

(Romeo Petroni is should be mentioned, decided not to enter the Fairfield or Super Tuesday contests. He is the fourth declared candidate for the nomination. He is saving his ammunition for a delegate primary in Stamford on May 20.)

Buzzotto, who is regarded as front-runner, probably has the most to lose if he fails to measure up to that billing on May 6. It's his to lose, while it's Belaga's to win when the results are counted that night. Labriola could be the spoiler.

SO D'AMORE'S "good intentions" in the Super Tuesday gimmick hang on his gamble that the six towns will produce a clear leader — one who will break out of the pack and merit, in time, his personal endorsement. He gave the impression a white back that he would take such an action right after Super Tuesday. In our conversation last week, D'Amore said he may wait until closer to the July 25 convention.

In that chat last week, D'Amore admitted it will be awkward if Super Tuesday doesn't identify a candidate. He said that could even lead to new candidates and an open convention — not the worst things in the world, but developments that could upset the hoped-for scenario in this year's gubernatorial election campaign.

In a sense, then, the D'Amore-led party organization and the candidates are backed into a corner by the Super Tuesday requirement to look good. And as they bend down on those six towns (Wethersfield and Grandby are the others), their haunting shared question is, "What if?"

Toby and Bill

Toby Moffett probably won't challenge Gov. Bill O'Neill's delegates in Stamford after all in the Democratic race for governor. Moffett's bigger targets, with Stamford gone, still are Waterbury, New Britain, Torrington and Middletown.

In Waterbury, Democratic Town Chairman Tom Gahan says he doesn't mind being identified as a Moffett supporter. Gahan adds, however, that his personal preference is apart from his duties as town chairman. Moffett claims him as a big helper there. O'Neill people want it understood that the town committee is with the governor. Otherwise, they have no quarrel with Gahan.

Memo to Bud

Memo to Francis "Bud" Mullen of East Lyme, a candidate for the GOP nomination for Congress in the 2nd District: The National Republican Congressional Committee would waive its policy against helping anyone financially until after nominating conventions if Mullen can get signed letters from the state's three incumbent House members, Nancy Johnson, John Rowland and Stewart McKinney, saying they recommend such help. Mullen had complained about being left high and dry by the party after leaders had strongly urged him to run.

Pentagon has lots of specs for everything

WASHINGTON — One reason the military often pays outlandish prices for coffee pots and ballpoint pens is the rigid insistence on detailed specifications for every item purchased.

Most of the voluminously described specifications, or "specs," are necessary safeguards against shady contractors who might cut corners to save money. But some, in page after page of barely decipherable jargon, simply hamstring procurement officers who might otherwise use their common sense to find better buys on the open market.

Our associate Stewart Harris has reviewed several reams of military specs on everyday used by the military. Here are the highlights of "A Day in the Well-Specified Life of GI Joe":

At breakfast, Joe can be confident that his doughnut, when "cut vertically or horizontally with a sharp knife, shall not be greasy over one-eighth inch in depth at any place on the cut surface," according to specs in force since 1962. Why Joe would want to slice his doughnut horizontally, like a bagel, or have to use a sharp knife to cut it vertically before dunking, the specs don't explain. They do add that frosted doughnuts must retain their taste when "subjected to ordinary shocks of transportation."

JOE MIGHT DECIDE to do his stomach lining a favor and choose hot chocolate instead of coffee. A safe choice: 20 pages of specifications set the standard for GI cocoa. Its "pH" — a measure of acidity/alkalinity familiar to gardeners — must register within one point of the middle on a 14-point scale. At least 14 percent of the cocoa powder must be butter fat, and it can't have big chunks of cocoa bean. "When washed with petroleum ether, not less than 98 percent by weight shall pass through a U.S. Standard No. 200 sieve." This may explain what the Army cooks were doing in those mysterious pre-dawn hours before we showed up for KP: sniffing ether-washed cocoa.

This being the New Army, Joe may decide to have a marshmallow or two in his hot chocolate. Nine pages of specs cover the size and ingredients. If the marshmallows are colored, they must be a pastel shade; otherwise, military marshmallows will whiten.

During the day, Joe may decide to relieve the tension with some GI chewing gum. It's a favorite ofurchins around the world, and no wonder: 17 pages of specs require, among other things, that the gum "impart a pleasing characteristic taste or sensation" and retain at least a "residual, characteristic flavor" after 20 minutes' chewing.

GI GUM COMES in stick or candy-coated tablet form, in peppermint, spearmint or fruit flavor. It's rated by a tasters' panel on a "hedonic scale" of one to nine. (The Hedonic philosophers in ancient Greece placed paramount importance on pleasure and gratification of natural desires — roughly the exact opposite of the soldierly Spartans.)

Joe may head for the playing field during the day. Thanks to 22 pages of specifications, he can be confident that his athletic supporter has proven capable of withstanding two hours of baking at 300 degrees without losing its stretchability.

If Joe takes a date to the club on the base, he might buy her a martini or two, secure in the knowledge that 17 pages of specs have governed the olives, grading them in 10 official sizes from small to "special super colossal."

And finally, if Joe plans some extra-military activities, he knows that his prophylactic device — whether red, blue, green, pink, black, yellow or clear — has been manufactured under 12 pages of Pentagon specifications and sample-tested for reliability.

The ombudsman

Two years ago we reported the personal misfortune of Don and Pat King of Chase, Kansas, who tried to adopt a baby from Mexico and instead were cheated out of thousands of dollars. The adoption ring leaders are now behind bars and the Kings' hometown policeman, John Grubb, is being honored by an award from the National Committee for Adoption this week. On his own, Grubb investigated the phony adoption swindle and found dozens of other couples who had paid large sums to adopt children they never received. Grubb isn't resting on his laurels. He told us he is now tracking three other suspected adoption swindlers.

Ansonia defendant pleads no contest

MILFORD — One of two men accused of sexually abusing at least 10 Ansonia children has pleaded no contest to six counts of risk of injury to a minor and three counts of first-degree sexual assault.

Paul Farrell, 43, of Ansonia, entered the plea Tuesday as the alleged child victims were about to begin videotaping their testimony.

Under the plea bargain agreement, Farrell will spend up to 15 years in prison when he is sentenced June 20 in Milford Superior Court.

Farrell's co-defendant, Jerry Baker, 32, of Derby has pleaded innocent and has asked for a jury trial.

His attorney, John Kavanewsky of Norwalk, said Baker does not plan to plea bargain. Attorneys in the case say about five children will offer videotaped testimony against Baker.

Lotto game has two winners

HARTFORD — There were two winning tickets sold in Tuesday night's Lotto drawing and each is worth $2,167,536 each, gaming officials said today.

The two tickets with the winning combination of 5, 9, 10, 21, 25, 29 were sold in Danbury and Waterbury, officials at state lottery headquarters said.

There were 203 second-place winners worth $667 each and 7,187 third-place winners of $34 each. Another $2,642 tickets were good for $3 each.

Sales tax revenues keep climbing

HARTFORD — The state took in more than expected in sales tax revenues for February and budget officials say an even stronger showing by the tax may be in the offing.

Sales tax revenues adjusted to reflect economic growth were 8.9 percent higher in February than the same month a year ago, said Edward Balda, chief of revenue and economic forecasting in the Office of Policy and Management.

Budget officials had forecast a 7 percent adjusted growth rate, so "we're a little bit ahead of the game there," said Balda, who is the state's chief revenue forecaster.

The sales tax is the state's largest single source of revenue, and Balda said Tuesday the economic growth in sales tax revenues could be even stronger in coming months.

Judge in alcohol education program

WINDHAM — A Superior Court judge charged with drunken driving in February has been granted admission into a special alcohol-education program.

Under state law, the arrest will be erased from Judge Richard C. Noren's record if he successfully completes the program and one-year probation.

Noren, 44, on Tuesday appeared briefly in Windham Superior Court, where he is one of two presiding judges.

Noren was arrested by state police about 1:15 a.m. Feb. 22 in Ashford. Because of his refusal to take a blood-alcohol test, his driver's license was automatically suspended in March for six months. Police said he failed field sobriety tests.

Since his arrest, Noren has remained on the bench to hear civil cases but has not been presiding over criminal or motor-vehicle cases.

Police shoot, kill ex-mental patient

HARTFORD — Police shot and killed a man described as a mental patient reported missing from a hospital after they were called to remove him from his family's home, authorities said.

Pedro Cebollero, 39, was pronounced dead at Hartford Hospital Monday evening after the shooting, police said.

Deputy Police Chief Donald Higgins said two officers, who he did not identify, went to an apartment about 6 p.m. after receiving a phone call from a member of Cebollero's family asking for help. They asked Cebollero to return to the hospital, police said. Cebollero grabbed a knife and a chair and began to attack members of his family and police, police said.

Cebollero struck one officer with a chair, grabbed a nightstick, then ran into the street, police said.

The officers chased Cebollero and told him to drop the knife and nightstick, police said. Cebollero lunged at police and was shot in the chest by one of the officers, police said.

Man charged with murder of wife

DERBY — A Beacon Falls man was charged with murder in the shooting death of his estranged wife, who was found dead on her brother's front lawn in Oxford, police said.

Robert Hill, 64, was arrested Tuesday at a Shelton hardware store where he works about two hours after the morning shooting, said Sgt. Edward Dailey, a state police spokesman.

Dailey identified the dead woman as Gloria Hill, 63.

Robert Hill was arraigned in Superior Court in Derby. Bond was set at $250,000. Dailey said Hill is due back in court April 25.

Dailey said police do not know what led to the shooting. A handgun was recovered, but authorities don't know if it was used to shoot Gloria Hill, Dailey said.

Kennedy helps mark school's anniversary

By Lynda Phillips
United Press International

WATERBURY — John F. Kennedy Jr. urged a crowd of about 900 cheering students to become politically involved and encouraged them by saying his own father had been messy and disorganized as a teenager.

Kennedy was on hand Tuesday to help celebrate the 20th anniversary of Kennedy High School, named after his father.

School officials and Kennedy spoke of the emotional speech John F. Kennedy made on the Waterbury Green in the closing days of the 1960 presidential campaign.

About 40,000 people waited in a rainy, candlelight vigil until 3 a.m. to hear the Democratic presidential candidate speak.

"I know it made an indelible impression on him," said young Kennedy, who was born later that year.

Kennedy, 25, said his father, in spite of his inexperience, "was hardly perfect."

He read a letter from the slain president's housemaster at Choate School in Wallingford, Conn., that made me feel good," Kennedy said of his father's memory, which he said grows to "mythic proportions."

O'Neill tries to revive school package

HARTFORD (AP) — Democratic Gov. William O'Neill Tuesday asked the top House Republican to revive the governor's education proposals by including them in the GOP majority plan.

O'Neill conveyed the request in a letter to the governor, said Van Norstrand, Speaker R.E. Van Norstrand, R-Darien.

He said the governor's first direct effort to win Republicans over to his plan since the GOP-dominated Education Committee sidetracked his proposal and substituted one of its own earlier this month, said O'Neill aide Jon Sandberg.

Van Norstrand said he was "not out to kill the work" of the Governor's Commission on Equity and Excellence in Education, one of three nonpartisan groups that generated the basis for O'Neill's proposals.

He said he has asked O'Neill's office whether "a meeting with the governor might prove to be productive."

David J. McQuade, administrative aide to the governor, said Van Norstrand would be given the courtesy of a meeting, which could be held within a week.

Meanwhile Tuesday, Superior Court Judge Alvin G. Rottman, whose reappointment has been said to be jeopardized because of his gruff demeanor and handling of poor people who come before him, won the backing of the General Assembly's Judiciary Committee.

The committee debated the amendment would require the House to send the bill back to the Finance Committee and eventually to the Senate for consideration of the change.

Rep. Craig Taylor, R-Bristol, who is planning to sponsor the amendment, said the money it raised would probably go into a special fund but into the state budget, where Gov. William O'Neill has already requested a line item for TBI victims.

The number of accidents sold annually in Connecticut is not known.

Traumatic brain injury results from a blow to the head and affects victims in varying degrees. Some suffer deep coma, while others appear to be normal but suffer subtle loss of memory, concentration or coordination.

There are an estimated 6,000 head injury victims in Connecticut each year, 30 percent to 60 percent of which are caused by motor vehicle accidents.

Dudchik said state figures show there were 112,558 motor vehicle accidents in Connecticut in 1984, of which 7,671 were due to speeding.

"After a frustrating term of trying to discipline him," Kennedy said the housemaster wrote a sharply critical letter to his grandmother, Rose Kennedy, complaining of "Jack's constant lack of neatness about his room."

The letter said the only way to get the future president to clean his room was by "dumping everything in the room into a wastebasket."

The housemaster described the elder Kennedy as "casual and disorganized," and said he "can seldom find his possessions."

"I use that as encouragement for my friends," Kennedy said.

School and city officials presented Kennedy with a key to the city and an honorary diploma from Kennedy High School.

At a news conference after the ceremony, Kennedy declined to discuss any future political aspirations he may have and said he is now concentrating on entering law school next fall.

The Brown University graduate said he has not yet decided which school to attend. "God, it made me feel good," Kennedy said of his enthusiastic reception by the high school students.

HARTFORD (AP) — Democratic Gov. William O'Neill Tuesday asked the top House Republican to revive the governor's education proposals by including them in the GOP majority plan.

19-year veteran's qualifications for an hour before voting 10-4 in his favor. The full General Assembly must now act on the nomination.

"I'm pleased and elated," Rottman, 61, said from his West Haven farmhouse chambers after the vote.

More than 50 men and women — some lawyers, some judges and some whom Rottman had sent to jail — testified in his favor during a public hearing on his reappointment on Friday.

Also Tuesday, the board that oversees the office of the chief state medical examiner said it planned a meeting Thursday "to begin to decide how they rebuild that office."

Last month, the Commission on Medicolegal Investigations voted to remove Dr. Catherine A. Galvin as medical examiner after the disclosure of charges that she allowed her pet dogs into the autopsy room and that the dogs sometimes came into contact with cadavers.

"This is important work to be done to get the medical examiner's office up and running again," said Wanda Rickerby of the state Department of Health Services.

The commission replaced Galvin with her deputy, Dr. H. Wayne Carver, on an interim basis while a search is conducted for a permanent replacement.

Galvin has filed suit seeking reinstatement.

Finally Tuesday, questions over the handling of money at a state-run vocational school in Groton have been turned over to the state police, the governor's office said.

The move came a day after state auditors said they had evidence of mishandling of tuition fees and other student payments at the Ella T. Grasso-Southeastern Regional Vocational Technical School, but had no direct evidence that money had been stolen.

Sandberg, the aide to O'Neill, said the matter had been referred to the state police.

What if Super Tuesday doesn't fly?

The road to Super Tuesday, like one to a certain warm spot down below, is paved with good intentions — in this instance by its sponsor, the hierarchy of the Republican Party.

GOP State Chairman Tom D'Amore and Executive Director Peter Goid, who between them bought the idea of Super Tuesday from West Hartford State Rep. Bob Farr, expect the unofficial vote in a half dozen Hartford-area towns to separate the wheat from the chaff among GOP candidates for governor.

Whether this lineup of bedroom towns around Hartford should speak for the statewide electorate or point, so to thin a sample, to a likely standard bearer for the GOP this year is a question.

But D'Amore & Co. are counting on the primaries to show which of three entries knows how to run an effective campaign and appeals to Republican and unaffiliated voters. They, obviously, will have a key role in this exercise.

As the Fairfield GOP caucus on April 11 demonstrated, the winner in any contest gains credibility with the public and momentum. It worked that way for Gerry Labriola of Naugatuck, who used the conservative leanings in that town to defeat State Rep. Julie Belaga of neighboring Westport and Dick Buzato of Watertown quite handsly.

UP TO THAT POINT, Labriola had been considered well below, in D'Amore's spoken opinion an "also-ran." He is still seen as a long shot, but on the strength of his showing in Fairfield, some are asking "what if" with respect to Super Tuesday.

As the day approaches, the candidates may well be asking themselves a similar question: "What if...?" And that could have several meanings. "What if..."

The early line on West Hartford is that Belaga should win. The early line on Buzotto is that he

Klan Watch asks Weinberger to investigate police photos

By Mike McLoughlin
United Press International

FAVETTEVILLE, N.C. — A civil rights group has asked Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger to investigate the involvement of military personnel in paramilitary white supremacy groups.

At least three armed soldiers and five Marines based at Fort Bragg and Camp Lejeune have been photographed while participating in rallies conducted by paramilitary hate groups, including the White Patriot Party, authorities said Tuesday.

"That's just the ones we've been able to identify," said Lt. J.D. Harrell, special operations officer with the Fayetteville Police Department. He said he believes substantial numbers of Marines and soldiers may be involved.

Morris Dees, executive director of the Klan Watch Project, an arm of the Southern Poverty Law Project of Montgomery, Ala., called for a Defense Department probe of military personnel involvement in the groups.

The White Patriot Party, formerly the Carolina Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, is led by Glenn Miller, a retired Army Special Forces member. Group members appear at rallies and marches dressed in camouflage fatigues and often carry paramilitary weapons.

Garden growers busted

Police said today they found 33 marijuana plants growing in a Garden Street apartment Tuesday night after they entered with a search warrant.

Paul D. Cavanaugh, 28, and Laurie E. O'Donnell, 23, both of 30 1/2 Garden St., were charged with cultivation and possession of marijuana.

The arrests resulted from an investigation based on information supplied to police that the plants were being grown in the apartment. Police said they found 33 plants growing in pots and planters in a room. Marijuana were also found, police said.

Based on the amount of marijuana and the lack of equipment for measuring or processing the marijuana, police determined that it was being grown for personal consumption only and not for sale.

Cavanaugh and O'Donnell were released on $2,500 non-surety bonds for court appearances April 21.

On the quahog prowl

With the quiet Padanaram Village in the background, a Dartmouth, Mass., fisherman quietly digs into the bottom of the Padanaram Harbor Tuesday in search of the tasty quahog. Temperatures were in the 50s, but the forecast called for occasional rain for most of New England.

Coventry subdivision on hold

By Jacqueline Bennett
Herald Correspondent

COVENTRY — The Planning and Zoning Commission Monday night again postponed a decision on a controversial 15-acre subdivision near Sam Green Road.

PZC Chairman Roy Joesten said at the commission's meeting at the Town Office Building that the information was still reviewing information about the subdivision plan.

The land is owned by Miki Bloch of Scotland, who wants to subdivide it into 20 lots for development.

The subdivision became controversial in February when advertisements for the land placed by Fireside Realty of Andover appeared in the Herald Courant before the PZC had taken any action on Bloch's subdivision application.

In March, Town Attorney Abbot Schewel warned Fireside that the ads were illegal and that the firm could be fined up to $500 for each listed.

Old Tolland Turnpike resident Alan Phillips opposes the subdivision on environmental grounds and has hired attorney Bruce Beck of Manchester to represent him in the matter. Phillips has said that if the subdivision is approved, he will take the PZC to court.

At a March 24 meeting of the PZC, it appeared the subdivision would probably be approved with certain conditions attached.

According to Phillips, the subdivision plan has been questioned by the town Conservation Commission and an Environmental Review Team has indicated further study of the land is needed before development would be advisable.

Verona attorney Joseph Caposella, who is representing Bloch, has argued that his client has met the town's zoning requirements.

The PZC must make a decision on the subdivision by April 28.

Mental health to play role in Crenshaw trial

HARTFORD — The public defender representing an Olcott Street man accused of murdering his 16-month-old daughter last April said this morning that he will file a motion to present testimony on the mental state of his client.

State's Attorney Dennis O'Connor, the prosecutor, said the motion might disrupt his plans to present his case against 27-year-old Marshall Crenshaw, who has pleaded not guilty to charges that he had strangled his daughter, Dale-Lyn, on April 20, 1985, as she slept in her crib.

"I'm a little surprised this is happening now," O'Connor told Hartford Superior Court Judge Francis R. Quinn.

He said the motion will create "severe problems" for his case. O'Connor said before the start of today's testimony that he was about halfway through his case and expected to be finished by next week.

Testimony resumed today and Manchester police detective Joseph Morrissey, who spent most of last week on the stand testifying about statements Crenshaw made to police after the incident, was cross examined for about five minutes by Kelly.

Manchester police Sgt. Donald Wright was also called to the stand this morning and reiterated Morrissey's earlier testimony, in which Morrissey said Crenshaw told him he killed his daughter because he wanted his wife to be the baby's mother, Susan Lard, to be the way it was before the child was born.

O'Connor said that after Wright, he intends to call Lard, her sister, and the medical examiner that performed the autopsy on Dale-Lyn.

Crenshaw has been held at the Hartford Correctional Center since his arrest the day after the child died.

Form out the window in NHL playoffs

By Lisa Horris
United Press International

NHL management simply will have to stop being surprised by playoff results and be more like the league's critics, who have said all along the regular season means nothing.

The final two second-round playoff spots were settled Tuesday night, with two more underdogs winning decisive division semifinals fifth games — on the road no less.

The New York Rangers completed an upset of the Philadelphia Flyers with a 5-2 triumph at the Spectrum and go on to play the Washington Capitals at the Capital Centre Thursday night in Game 1 of the best-of-seven Patrick Division final.

The St. Louis Blues clinched the final second-round spot by defeating the Minnesota North Stars 6-3 at the Met Center in Bloomington, Minn., and will host the Toronto Maple Leafs in Friday night's second-round opener.

The night's results might have raised eyebrows. After all, the Flyers were the NHL's second-best team overall and the Rangers barely beat out Pittsburgh for the final Patrick Division berth. The North Stars were one of the league's two most improved teams from a year ago while the Blues were knocked for trading away their star goal-scorer, Joe Mullen.

But this was the concluding night of an opening Stanley Cup playoff round in which expected Cup challengers Chicago, Quebec and the New York Islanders were swept in three games. Chicago and Quebec were division champions, while the Islanders finished fifth overall.

With eight teams remaining, only third-place Washington and Adams Division runnerup Montreal keep the Stanley Cup playoffs from being strictly an Oilers and the other Guy's affair.

In matchups decided prior to Tuesday night's games, Montreal will have home ice against Hartford in the Adams Division final series, and Edmonton will open at home against Calgary in the Smythe Division.

The Wales Conference, which includes the Patrick and Adams Division series, will begin Thursday and alternate nights with games rotating sites on a 2-2-1-1 basis as long as necessary. The two Campbell Conference semifinals will begin Friday on the same type of schedule.

Rangers goalie John Vanbiesbroeck, the star of every game in the Patrick series except Philadelphia's series-tying 7-1 rout Sunday night, made 34 saves and 155 of 168 in the series.

The Rangers scored first Tuesday night, on a goal by Pierre Larochette, and the Flyers never led.

Mark Osborne and Willie Huber scored 71 seconds apart to make the score 3-1.

"Beating Philadelphia. Before the series, I never thought it would happen," Huber said. "We've beaten the second-best team in hockey and I hope we don't sit on an egg against Washington."

On the Spectrum ice, a one-goal deficit seemed just one more minor hurdle to a young Flyers team that has pulled together admirably since the November death of its Vezina Trophy-winning goalie, Pelle Lindbergh, and withstood injuries to key players during the season.

"It was great until they scored that second goal," by Brad McCormick," said Don Unkley, who scored the Rangers' final goal, and second into an empty net. "All of a sudden, a little panic set in. The crowd was so loud we couldn't hear on the bench but we stayed together."

The Flyers, who were 33-6-1 at the Spectrum in the regular season before splitting Games 1 and 2 last week, came in waves, which was expected. But Vanbiesbroeck prevailed in his end and Kelly Miller and Maloney put the game away.

"We were loose, not tight," Flyers captain Dave Poulin said. "We went out and played well. We just didn't score enough goals to win the hockey game."

At Bloomington, Minn., Doug Gilmour set up five goals, including three by Greg Paslawski to allow St. Louis to end the season of the North Stars, one of the league's two most improved teams.

The Blues, who finished two points behind the second-place North Stars during the regular season, lost to Minnesota in the first round for the past two years.

"We didn't want to get hurt a third time, so we did what we had to do to win," said coach Jacques Demers, who Tuesday admitted to throwing pennies on the ice in last Thursday's game to extend a stoppage in play and rest his penalty-killers.

Gilmour's five assists set a St. Louis record for a playoff game and gave him a team-leading eight points for the series.

Until Tuesday night, the series between the North Stars and Blues held to its expectations, in that St. Louis won low-scoring games and Minnesota won when play opened up offensively.

New York's James Patrick (right) snaps the puck away from the grasp of Philadelphia's Tim Kerr (12) and Peter Zezel in Game Five action Tuesday night in Philadelphia. The Rangers defeated the Flyers, 5-2, at the Spectrum.

Joe Niekro masters Cleveland

By Ed Burns
United Press International

Cleveland's Phil Niekro is tutoring 28-year-old starter Tom Candiotti on mastering the trickiest pitch in baseball — the knuckleball. Tuesday night the Yankees' Joe Niekro mastered his brother's protegee.

Joe Niekro, at 41 the younger of the two, used his brother's signature pitch to retire 19 of the first 20 Indians he faced to hurl a four-hitter over 7-1-3 innings and lead New York to a 6-2 victory. The Yankees have won five straight games.

Brett Butler's leadoff single in the fourth was Cleveland's lone hit until Joe Carter, Andre Thornton and Brock Jacoby produced consecutive singles to drive in the Indians' only run of Niekro.

"For my part, it was a good effort," said the victorious Niekro. "The 38-degree weather was a bit raw, though."

Cleveland catcher Andy Allanson (left) tags New York's Dave Winfield and makes the putout as the latter attempted to score in third-inning action Tuesday night at Municipal Stadium in Cleveland. The Yankees won, 6-2.

UConn appoints search committee

STORRS (UPI) — The University of Connecticut has appointed nine members to a panel charged with finding a replacement for Coach Tom Perno, who resigned after nine years in the position.

The search committee members could be joined by two or three others once UConn receives confirmation of their acceptance to the panel, said Tim Tolokan, the university's director of sports information.

UConn will accept applications for the head coach's position through May 1, and will name Perno's successor no later than May 18, Tolokan said Monday. "We want to try to get the best person possible," he said.

UConn Athletic Director John L'oneur will chair the committee and will head an initiation meeting to outline the panel's charge once the entire group is in place, Tolokan said.

Also named to the committee were Gerry Besselin, the Huskies team captain; George Drogo, vice principal of Plainfield High School; Willie Hagan, UConn's director of governmental relations; and Randy Vigne, former two-sport UConn athlete now an accountant with Price-Waterhouse.

Also named were Pat Meiser, UConn's associate athletic director for administration; Dee Kowale, UConn's associate athletic director for development and a former head basketball coach; Tolokan, and Frank Vasington, a biology professor who heads UConn's Athletic Advisory Committee.

Perno's resignation, announced Monday at a news conference on the Storrs campus, brought an end to some of the speculation surrounding the future of Huskies basketball.

Perno, 44, who posted a 129-114 record, said he has no immediate plans to coach elsewhere. Perno said he will remain at UConn in any capacity. His resignation was effective immediately.

Washburn to turn pro

RALEIGH, N.C. (UPI) — North Carolina State coaches were unprepared for word that sophomore center Chris Washburn would apply as a hardship case for the NBA draft. At least one teammate knew the announcement was coming.

"I wasn't surprised at all. He was giving little indications that he was going," N.C. State junior Washburn said Tuesday her son was "away conducting business."

"I thought we had him talked into staying in school when he came home over the Easter break, but he came home last weekend and told us that basketball was his profession," she said.

She said her son mailed the necessary notification Monday to NBA officials.

Don't bet that UConn didn't ask Perno to leave

One innocent University of Connecticut student, after the announcement of Dom Perno's resignation as head basketball coach, said, "At least he didn't get fired."

Not true.

Don't think for a minute that Perno, a good, honorable family man, tendered his resignation because of some deep-rooted soul-searching that convinced him being head man at his alma mater was not right.

Perno was not "fired," in the literal sense. But he did receive a gentle nudging toward the exit. Red-faced Director of Athletics John Toner, who has been under fire himself for some inactivity, admitted after the half-hour news conference on the UConn campus in Storrs that he and Perno had discussed retirement of the remainder of Perno's contract since the day after the Big East season.

Hmmm.

PERNO IS A UCONN GRADUATE, was assistant coach for five years and then head man for nine more and friends, refused to attack the university. "This university is a great university and I have had an opportunity to work here."

Perno's wife, Cindy, sat at his side and fought off the tears.

But there shouldn't be any. Perno is a good man. It's just that the profession he chose has claimed another good man.

Perno was asked why he's leaving now inasmuch as first-year UConn President John Gasten's task force committee, formed to take a hard look at athletics at the school, has not made its report yet. And why wouldn't he stay to see if the new atmosphere would allow him the necessary tools to produce a winner?

"In order for my basketball team to get the maximum out of the task force, a new person is needed," Perno said.

THE TASK FORCE IS not going to suggest major changes. That probably is a lot of little things, like a parking space for the basketball coaches when they come back from a long recruiting trip; 2) opening the dining hall for players so they have a place to eat after practice, unlike the current situation; and 3) allowing players to room with other players and guaranteeing university housing.

And maybe a new field house to replace the antiquated one, the one which doesn't allow Perno to conduct practice in quiet so maybe he can be heard above the din, to help out in recruiting. The present facility is a total joke.

That one belongs in Toner's and the state Legislature's lap. There's been too much inactivity on this matter. The state, if it is going to be serious about having big time basketball in the Big East, must invest the purse strings and not be so light-fisted.

In the meantime, a good man, Dom Perno, hits the exit. He finishes with a winning record in 193-114. But he hadn't had a winning record in four years. That was the telling blow.

"I'm not glad it's over. I'll miss the people, the kids. I'll miss the T.C. Cole, but I feel the kids here need a new state. This is a new beginning for the Perno family and hopefully for Connecticut basketball." Perno said.

Good luck.

East girls' tennis lacks experience

By Jim Tierney
Herald Correspondent

With nine letter winners back, projections on the season should be very encouraging. But, East Catholic High School girls' tennis coach Gloria Darling is still a bit unsure about the impending campaign which opens Friday against Sacred Heart at the Manchester Community College courts. The Eagles have only one senior on the team, captain Mary Buckley, so experience could be a problem for the Eagles.

"We're very eager and anxious to get the season going," Darling said.

Sophomores Andrea Bearse and Melissa Carroll are the top two singles players for East. Junior co-captain Nancy Sulick will play No. 3 singles and junior Judy Bruns has secured the No. 4 spot in singles.

"It's hard to say how we'll do,"

Darling said. "Andrea is very steady but some singles players are new along with those in doubles.

The doubles teams will consist of juniors Tara Cunningham and Janine Zappala as the top pair, followed by Buckley and junior Katie Gillespie playing No. 2. The third doubles team will be made up of sophomores Erin Hickey and Carol Trociola.

"There are many new positions for the players, but they are ready to play and are looking forward to it. It should be interesting," Darling said.

Schedule: April 18 Sacred Heart H, 21 Berlin A, 23 Suffield H, 25 South Catholic A, 28 Hamden H, May 2 Aquinas H, 5 Glastonbury H, 7 Rocky Hill A, 9 Sacred Heart A, 12 Rocky Hill H, 16 South Catholic H, 23 Aquinas A, 28 ACC Championships, 30 Manchester A. who came was awarded fishing tackle on behalf of the Lions Club. The first-place winners were, from left, Keith Islidd in the 9 and under age group, Mark Mahoney for ages 10-11 and Chad Luman for ages 12-14.

Mitchell tops MCC

NEW LONDON — Homestanding Mitchell College posted all three runs it needed in the first three frames to hand visiting Manchester Community College its eighth loss in nine games, 13-2.

John Facenda went 4-for-4 with two doubles for the 1-4 victors, while three others crashed home runs, including John Berder, Jim McNichol and Eric Anderson.

Cougar starter Steve Lerner was knocked around before reliever Dave Swain came on in the second and worked the remaining 6 1/3 innings.

Mitchell led, 9-2, after three, and 12-2 after six. Manchester tallied two in the seventh and four in the eighth but it was too little too late. The losers were led by Bob Hill, who swatted three hits, and Bob Mounts, Jim Fogarty and Jeff Brennan, each with two safeties.

The Cougars host Tuxis Community College today at 3:30 p.m.

MCC women beaten again

NEW LONDON — Manchester Community College bowed for the fourth straight time in a 17-2 pasting by host Mitchell College in women's softball action Tuesday.

Winning pitcher Lorie Staphela fired a four-hitter, while her teammates smashed out 21 hits of their own for Mitchell, now 9-1.

MCC committed nine errors in the field.

Geri Grimaldi, Jennifer Allard, Maria Generis and Patay Gebhardt managed one hit each for the 1-4 Cougars.

Allard, who was touched for seven first-inning runs, suffered the loss on the mound.

Manchester travels to Greenfield, Mass., on Friday to take on Greenfield Community College.

Young Hull leads Team USA

MOSCOW (UPI) — Brett Hull said he has inherited some scoring genes from his famous father, Bobby, after registering a hat trick Tuesday to lead Team USA to a 9-2 victory over West Germany in the World Hockey Championships.

Hull of Minnesota-Duluth, is the right wing on an all-college line centered by Tony Granato of Wisconsin and with Clark Donatelli of Boston University on the other side. Hull opened the scoring on his first shift at 1:31 of the first period.

East golf coach is confident

By Jim Tierney
Herald Correspondent

After joining the Division I ranks a year ago and finishing a fine fourth in the state championships, East Catholic High golf coach Jack Hull is confident his Eagles will improve on their auspicious debut in the highest echelon of schoolboy golf. East, which finished with a fine 18-5 mark last year, swings into its 1986 schedule Friday against Woodstock Academy at the Tallwood Country Club.

With two letterman returning, seniors Dave Olender and Barry Powlishen, and three other very experienced players, Hull sees his squad as favorites in the All Connecticut Conference, and quite possibly a darkhorse in the season-ending Division I championships.

"We are as strong as last year, maybe even stronger," Hull said. "Fairfield Prep won our conference a year ago and they also won Division I. They are not as strong as last season," he added.

Seniors John King and Kevin Boyko are the Nos. 3 and 4 players, with junior Steve Casella rounding out the top five. Hull indicated that his leading quartet is a tight bunch, noting Olender plays to 4 or four or five handicap and Boyko and Casella each with a seven handicap.

Also expected to contribute to the Eagle season are juniors Joe Maglicic, Eric Stone and Chris Aiello. "The ACC is very competitive with Prep, Notre Dame and Xavier but you can't count us out," Hull said.

Schedule: April 18 Woodstock Academy H, 21 Fairfield Prep/Aquinas H, 23 Portland H, 30 St. Joseph/South Catholic (at Goodwin Park).

May 2 Woodstock Academy A, 7 Notre Dame/Northwest Catholic (at Keeney Park), 12 Eastern Invitational (at Pautipaug Golf Club), 14 Prep/Aquinas H, 16 St. Bernard's/Xavier (at Portland Country Club), 19 Notre Dame/Northwest Catholic (at Racebrook), 21 St. Joseph/South Catholic H, 23 Portland A, 28 St.

Crum cited

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Coach Danny Crum, who led the Louisville Cardinals to this year's NCAA basketball championship, has been chosen coach of the year by The Sporting News.

Crum also won the award in 1983. He has taken four Louisville teams to the tournament finals in the 1980s and won championships in 1980 and this year.

Of all active coaches, only Bobby Knight of Indiana has as many NCAA titles as Crum and only Dean Smith of North Carolina has gone to the finals more times.

Crum was selected coach of the year by editors of the weekly publication.

Spring Menu Offers Surprises

Over a century ago, the English poet Percy Shelley wrote, "If winter comes, can spring be far behind?" And, today, what more delicious way to lift spirits out of the doldrums than with party fare that welcomes the new season — perhaps even before it arrives.

The menu suggested here is inspired by several different cultures, while taking advantage of the best and freshest home-grown ingredients. It's also delightfully adaptable — to festive brunch, dinner or supper — and each of the dishes is surprisingly simple to put together, requiring little kitchen time to produce impressive results.

A refreshing variation on classic rollatini, chicken breasts primavera has a special filling based on ripe California avocados. Fortunately, this highly versatile golden-green fruit is now available year-round, adding a taste of springtime to almost any meal. And here's another secret: both filling ingredients and chicken breasts are sautéed in olive oil, giving a distinctive touch of flavor and light, pleasing fragrance.

An unusual twist on that perennial favorite, pasta, rainbow tortellini is deceptively easy to prepare — you can even whip it up quickly for unexpected guests. Double or triple the quantity and it's an ideal buffet dish, or serve as a luncheon centerpiece.

Spring is synonymous with salads, and this sprightly garden bouquet combines a variety of greens with artichoke hearts and the nutty, mellow goodness of California avocados. There's an avocado bonus in the dressing — which deserves nothing less than pure Italian olive oil.

Since salads should also be synonymous with healthy eating, it's important that avocados are loaded with nutrients — Vitamins A, C, and E in addition to hefty doses of potassium, magnesium and phosphorus. And although you're probably aware by now that — despite the diabolic myth — neither avocados nor olive oil contains even the tiniest bit of cholesterol, did you know that each is also very high in monounsaturated fats, considered by many leading nutritionists to be more beneficial than polyunsaturates alone?

Round out the meal with an attractive ambrosia ring bread. And crown it with elegant glasses of tea nectar, garnished with mint sprigs or lemon slices — or, for a drink that's also a dessert, small scoops of lemon sherbet.

A beverage that's popular with just about everybody, tea — all by itself — complements an almost limitless number of foods and, of course, makes an ideal base for party punches galore — enhancing rather than masking other flavors.

PERFECT HOT TEA

- Bring freshly drawn cold water to a full, rolling boil
- Meanwhile, fill your teapot with hot water and let stand to heat it.
- Empty the teapot and put in one teabag or one teaspoon of loose tea per serving.
- Pour the boiling water (about 5-1/2 ounces of water per serving) over tea.
- Cover and let stand 3 to 5 minutes. Remove teabags or strain.
- Serve plain or with lemon or milk (not cream) and sugar to taste.

Chicken Breasts Primavera

- 4 whole chicken breasts, skinned, boned and halved
- 1/4 cup pine nuts (or coarsely chopped slivered almonds)
- 1/4 cup sliced green onions
- 1/4 cup olive oil
- 2 cups chopped fresh spinach or 1 package (10 ounces) frozen chopped spinach, thawed and well-drained
- 1 small clove garlic, minced
- 1/4 teaspoon thyme, crushed
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- 1 medium California avocado, seeded, peeled and chopped
- 1 cup sliced fresh mushrooms
- 1-1/2 cups chicken broth or stock
- 2 tablespoons flour
- 1/2 cup dry white wine
- 1 medium California avocado, seeded, peeled and mashed
- (Green onions and parsley, for garnish)

Place chicken breasts between 2 sheets of waxed paper and pound until thin, about 1/4 inch. Set aside.

In skillet, brown pine nuts and cook onion until just tender in 2 tablespoons olive oil. Add spinach, garlic, thyme, salt and pepper. Cook, stirring, just until spinach is slightly wilted. Remove from heat. Fold in chopped avocado. Spread mixture on chicken breasts. Roll up, jelly-roll fashion; fasten with toothpicks.

In skillet, brown chicken in remaining olive oil. Add mushrooms and chicken broth. Cover and simmer 10 minutes, until chicken is tender. Blend flour and wine. Add to sauce and cook, stirring, until thickened and smooth. Blend in avocado.

To serve, slice chicken. Arrange on platter and spoon sauce over all. If desired, garnish with green onion curls and parsley. Makes 8 servings.

Rainbow Tortellini

- 3 tablespoons olive oil
- 1-1/2 cups heavy cream
- 1/2 cup grated Parmesan cheese
- 6 slices prosciutto, cut into strips
- 1 medium tomato, coarsely chopped
- 4 cups hot cooked tortellini or fusilli pasta
- 1 medium California avocado, seeded, peeled, quartered and sliced
- 2 tablespoons chopped parsley

In saucepan, combine olive oil, cream and cheese. Simmer, stirring often, until slightly thickened. Add prosciutto and tomato. Heat through.

In bowl, combine sauce with tortellini. California avocado and parsley. Toss to blend. Makes 8 servings.

Garden Bouquet Salad

- 1 large bunch arugula, rinsed and patted dry or
- 1 bunch green leaf lettuce, broken into large pieces
- 1 large bunch watercress, rinsed and dried
- 4 heads Belgian endive
- 1 medium California avocado, seeded, peeled and cut into strips lengthwise
- 1 cup artichoke hearts
- 1 medium California avocado, seeded, peeled and mashed
- 1 egg yolk
- 2 tablespoons Dijon-type mustard
- 1 tablespoon white wine vinegar
- 1 small clove garlic, minced
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- 3 drops hot pepper sauce
- 1 cup olive oil

Remove root ends from arugula. Remove stems from watercress. Separate endive into leaves. In salad bowl, just before serving, combine greens, avocado and artichokes.

In small bowl, combine mashed avocado, egg yolk, mustard, vinegar, garlic, pepper and sauce. Blend well. Gradually whisk in olive oil, pouring in a thin stream.

Pour dressing over salad; toss to blend. Serve immediately. If desired, sprinkle with toasted sesame seed. Makes 8 servings.

Tea Nectar

- 4 cups hot strong brewed tea
- 1 can (12 ounces) apricot nectar
- 1/2 cup lemon juice
- 1/2 cup orange juice
- 1/4 cup light brown sugar
- Lemon slices
- Mint sprigs

Combine hot tea with nectar, juices and sugar. Cover and let stand 10 minutes, to blend flavors. To serve hot, reheat gently but do not boil. To serve cold, chill thoroughly and pour over ice. Garnish with lemon or mint. If desired, garnish cold tea with lemon sherbet. Makes 8 servings.

Ambrosia Bread Ring

- (not shown)
- 1 cup shredded mozzarella cheese
- 1/3 cup olive oil
- 1/4 cup chopped parsley
- 2 tablespoons minced onion
- 2 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese
- 1 small clove garlic, minced
- 1/4 teaspoon basil, crushed
- 1 loaf ring-style Italian bread (or use standard loaf)

In bowl, combine all ingredients except bread; blend well.

Cut bread into 1-inch slices, cutting almost through to bottom. Spread cheese filling between slices. Bake in 350 oven for 10 minutes, or until bread is heated and cheese is melted. Makes 8 servings.

Dietitian fights image problem

By Nancy Pappas Herald Reporter

Jan Horn of Timrod Road is a banner-waving member of a profession which she says is often scorned — even by its own members. Horn is a dietitian.

"Lots of times, you meet a person in the health professions who has a degree in dietetics, but doesn't want to admit it," she said. "They kind of look down and mumble something into their chests. If you ask them... Maybe it's because there's this stereotype, that dietitians all wear white dresses, orthopedic shoes and hairnets. It's pretty bad. I think even our own members believe in that, even though they know better."

JAN HORN OF TIMROD ROAD, president of Connecticut Dietetics Association

"That image problem is one which Horn hopes to address during her term as president of the Connecticut Dietetics Association. She is serving this year as president-elect, and will take over the presidency of the 900-member organization in October.

"It's a terrific group, but there's a lot more we could do, especially when it comes to visibility and image," said Horn. "There are still lots of people who think we're cooks." She laughed. "Actually I cook the simplest of meals. Nutrition, but simple... There's actually very little of a dietitian's work that's done in a kitchen. We're primarily educators.

athletic folders heaped on the desk in the corner of Horn's kitchen. As an officer in the Connecticut Dietetics Association, she is involved with projects which will have an impact on other dietitians across the country. Last weekend, for example, she was in Albany, N.Y., with delegates from a half-dozen other states, making recommendations on how the American Dietetics Association needs to change and grow in focus and scope.

One change that came out of similar meetings several years ago was the founding of a Center for Nutrition Research. The center will be partially funded through the profits generated by a new hardbound cookbook, "Dietitian's Food Favorites."

A few days ago, Horn received her copy of the book, and she has enjoyed thumbing through it. Each recipe is offered in both home-sized and restaurant-sized proportions. There is a nutrient analysis on each, and an indication as to whether the dish is low in salt and cholesterol, or high in fiber.

For help with your car, you can call the National Automobile Dealer's Association to find out if there's an Automotive Consumer Action Panel in your area. 'Impossible pie' is attainable through these cooking tips

Brunch, lunch, or a quick Sunday supper, the crustless version of the quiche is a crowd-pleasing choice. Called "Impossible pie," this variation of the French quiche can be made successfully in the microwave in record time. It easily lends itself to many different vegetables and meat or fish combinations for an interesting variety of flavors. An impossible pie baked in a conventional oven browns on top due to the heat within the oven. The microwave variation of the impossible pie is the same color after microwaving as it was before. Therefore, we use garnishes on the top, such as French fried onion rings, olives, chopped tomatoes or paprika to enhance the impossible pie.

Since impossible pie contains a significant amount of cheese, milk and eggs, we prefer to microwave them at 70% (medium-high) power. The more delicate nature of these dairy products required a lower power setting to yield a smooth, uniform product. The impossible pie is made in a 10-inch round pie plate. To ensure even cooking, it is helpful to rotate the pie plate several times during the cooking time. Standing time is most important for impossible pie to set for easy cutting and serving.

Before serving, spread sour cream over top of pie. Distribute lettuce around the outer edge of the pie, then place tomatoes next to the lettuce. Sprinkle center of pie with remaining cheese. Sprinkle cheese with a dash of paprika. Yields 6 servings.

Weicker faults U.S. efforts to help handicapped

By Jill Lawrence
The Associated Press

LOWELL WEICKER
... raps administration

WASHINGTON — Connecticut Senator Lowell Weicker says the Reagan administration's willingness to help the handicapped is not reflected in spending on the disabled.

"Maybe you can explain the difference between the rhetoric and the funding," Weicker, chairman of the Senate Appropriations subcommittee on education, on Tuesday told Madeleine Will, assistant education secretary for special education and rehabilitative services.

The department has proposed a $1.3 billion budget for educating the handicapped in the new fiscal year starting Oct. 1. That figure is about the same as was spent in fiscal 1985 and is lower than the 1984 budget.

Will said the proposed 1987 budget "will allow us to continue support for the basic needs addressed by these programs, while also addressing the need to re-train federal spending and control the deficit."

As a signer for the deaf gesture to the crowded room, she said the administration has a strong commitment to special education programs. But she said state and local dollars pay 96 percent of the programs and the federal decreases would amount to $2 per capita — "a very slight impact."

Weicker, a Republican who has a retarded son, countered that the number of handicapped people served has risen as has the cost of educating them. He said 1987 projections indicate special education will cost $3,950 per student compared to $3,611 in 1985.

Will, wife of columnist George Will, and also the parent of a retarded son, said the special education programs are not growing dramatically. As far as increasing costs, she said states are continuing to deliver the needed services.

"The fact remains, federal dollars are not the primary source of funding for the program," she said. Under questioning, Will said the federal role should be limited primarily to research and technology.

But Weicker, arguing for more federal involvement, said most states' special education programs were "shameful" before the government stepped in 10 years ago.

"We know that the only way the standard has been consistent ... has been because of pressure from the federal government," he said. "Otherwise these people are going to fall by the wayside. They don't have political clout."

At the House Appropriations subcommittee on education, two other assistant secretaries presented their budget requests. Chester Finn, assistant secretary for educational research, asked for $70.2 million — a $12.8 million hike over what is available this year after deficit reduction cuts.

The acting assistant secretary for vocational and adult education, John Wu, is proposing $400 million for vocational education — less than half the $850 million approved for this year before deficit reduction cuts. He recommended $104 million higher than the 1986 figure after deficit reduction cuts.

Adolph Dubs, the U.S. Ambassador to Afghanistan, was kidnapped in Kabul by Moslem terrorists Feb. 14, 1979, and later killed in a shootout between his abductors and police.

Arrests at Yale continue

NEW HAVEN (AP) — About 55 students and several others protesting Yale University's investments in companies doing business in South Africa were arrested Tuesday after refusing to end their sit-in at the school's bursar's office, a university official said.

It marked the third straight day of arrests at the Ivy League school, and since Monday, at least 153 arrests have been made in the protests against the university's investment policy.

Twenty protesters were arrested Tuesday, the first day of the sit-in. All 20, charged with disorderly conduct, were later released on $50 bonds, police said.

Yale Provost William Brinard said he didn't know exact number of protesters arrested at 9 a.m. today by campus police. Among those arrested for blocking the front door to the office was Frank Carrano, president of the New Haven Central Labor Council.

Brinard said all those arrested were charged with disorderly conduct, and all the arrested students were placed on "interim academic suspension."

The suspension means the students can't use Yale's academic facilities or attend classes, but they can remain on campus. The suspensions are to remain in effect until the university reviews each student's case, university officials said.

Yale Secretary John A. Wilkinson said similar academic suspensions had last been used against 47 students who blockaded the same building in 1969 to protest the firing of a waitress employed at a university dining hall.

Brinard had offered to meet with the protesters if they ended the sit-in. The protesters had stayed outside the office overnight.

Campus police were then called in to remove the protesters, some of whom began sobbing as they were led away. Also, at least one person was arrested from among a crowd of about 100 others who gathered to watch the sit-in. The onlooker was arrested after he refused to move and began scuffling with police.

PROTESTERS WERE ALSO directed against singer Frank Sinatra, who defended his 1981 performances at a South African resort during a university speech.

"I played to black and white audiences for seven nights," Sinatra said Tuesday about his concerts at Sun City, an exclusive resort catering to the rich. "I played it once about six years ago. I enjoyed it. I had a great time. They had a great golf course."

Sinatra gave the second annual Libby Zion Lecture at the Yale Law School Auditorium. The lecture series was established by Sidney Zion, a 1958 Yale Law School graduate, in honor of his late daughter.

Student protesters picketed Sinatra's speech, while some silently held up signs denouncing South Africa and its apartheid policies during his 90-minute talk.

On Tuesday, New Haven police arrested the demonstrators as they sat on a sidewalk outside the bursar's office on College Street, where the offices of the school's investment group and John W. Buckman, school treasurer and vice president for finance, are located.

Police told the demonstrators they were obstructing the sidewalk and had one minute to move. Then they were either escorted or carried away to a police van.

CORNELL WEST, an associate professor at the Yale Divinity School, was among those arrested. On Monday, 73 students and five others were arrested when they refused to leave a shantytown erected to protest apartheid and Yale's investments in companies doing business in South Africa — estimated at between $350 million and $400 million.

The university tore down the shanties after the students refused to move them.

Yale says it has a selective divestment policy, where the stocks of companies that do not follow the Sullivan Principles, a code of conduct for corporations that do business in South Africa, are not acquired or are sold.

Keeping funds available limits investment options

QUESTION: Both my wife and I are retired and are planning to move to Mexico, joining other U.S. citizens who are living there on limited incomes. We will sell our present home and, after relocating, will have $75,000.

Can you suggest a risk-free plan for the $75,000, giving us the largest possible monthly interest check but with the option of withdrawing the entire $75,000 for emergency purposes?

Investors' Guide
William A. Doyle

ANSWER: To begin with, keep your $75,000 in these United States. Don't transfer it to Mexico. Lots of people have lost bundles in our South-of-the-Border neighbor's all-too-frequent peso devaluations.

Because you want both monthly income and the ability to withdraw all your principal, your choices are limited. Basically, you can put the $75,000 into either a money market deposit account at a federally insured bank or savings and loan association or into a money market mutual fund.

You can arrange to get monthly checks — for interest from the bank or S&L or for dividends from the money market mutual fund.

Because of federal insurance, your nest egg would be rock-solid safe at a bank or S&L. Even though money market mutual funds have no such insurance, they are virtually risk-free.

Until very recently, most money market mutual funds had higher yields than bank and S&L money market deposit accounts. Now that the final federal reserve imposed interest rate caps on banks and S&Ls have been removed, many are paying higher interest. So, it's more important than ever to shop around. Check the money market deposit account interest rates at a number of banks and S&Ls. And look at the dividend yields on money market mutual funds, published in many newspapers.

Frankly, I think your desire to keep your entire $75,000 available for immediate withdrawal is foolish.

If you put a chunk of that money into certificates of deposit, you'll get higher interest.

QUESTION: We have been keeping our emergency funds in a money market deposit account. Recently, we received a letter from an out-of-state bank, offering a money market deposit account paying interest 2.77 percentage points higher than our bank, on balances of $2,500 or more. That bank says it is federally insured and charges no monthly fees, as long as the account balance does not fall below $500.

Naturally, we want the highest possible return and are tempted. But we are skeptical about moving our account to an out-of-state bank. Would our money be safe?

ANSWER: Absolutely. The federal insurance covers you up to $100,000 per depositor.

In this new era of deregulation, banks and S&Ls are scrambling for deposits. Many are offering "tiered" arrangements, through which they pay higher percentage interest on larger deposits.

But keep this in mind: Banks and S&Ls can raise or lower interest on their money market deposit accounts with reasonable frequency. Some change their rates monthly. Some do it weekly. Some, even daily.

If you move your account to that out-of-state bank, keep an eye on the interest your money earns. If the rate there drops, you can always shift your cash again — to your hometown bank or some other federally insured institution.

Also, check all details before you open any account. With some, you lose interest if you withdraw money before a specified interest payment date — such as the last day of a month or of a calendar quarter.

QUESTION: I can't take any risks with the money I have in certificates of deposit. Which is the safest form of federal deposit insurance?

ANSWER: All three — the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. for banks, the Federal Savings & Loan Insurance Corp. for S&Ls and the National Credit Union Share Insurance Fund for CUs — are equally safe.

Sure, there have been failures among all three types of depository institutions. But it can't be stressed too strongly that no one has lost one dime of federally insured deposits.

Doyle welcomes written questions, but he can provide answers only through the column.

Business In Brief

Uniroyl has fourth-quarter loss

MIDDLEBURY — Uniroyl Inc. is reporting that costs related to its September leveraged buyout by a unit of Clayton & Dubilier Inc. resulted in a fourth-quarter 1985 net loss of $10 million on sales of $504 million.

The tire and chemical company did not release full-year results.

Uniroyl said in a statement Tuesday that a comparison of fourth-quarter 1985 earnings with those of the comparable period in 1984 could not be made because of changes in accounting methods and differences in the company's capital structure since the buyout.

Uniroyl Chairman Joseph F. Flannery said the quarterly loss was due to higher interest expenses and other costs related to the $746 million buyout, which came after a nearly month-long attempt by Uniroyl to ward off corporate raider Carl C. Icahn.

Colecto to settle lawsuit

LOS ANGELES — The maker of Cabbage Patch Kids agreed to pay more than $50,000 to settle a consumer protection lawsuit that accused it of deceptive advertising because hockey outfits for the dolls didn't come with socks as shown on the packages.

Coleco Industries Inc., based in West Hartford, agreed in the Superior Court settlement signed Tuesday by Superior Court Commissioner Joe D. Olson to pay $50,046 in civil penalties and costs and to halt such deceptive advertising in the future, said Deputy District Attorney Martin Herscovitz.

Coleco signed the settlement without admitting any wrongdoing.

The investigation began when a private attorney complained that his son didn't get all the clothing items pictured on the clothes package, Herscovitz said.

The hockey outfit pictured outside the package included matching, bright colored, striped socks, but they were not inside the package, the suit said. A further investigation revealed socks never were included in clothing packages.

Carbide establishes severance plan

DANBURY — Union Carbide Corp. says it has formulated a special severance plan for the domestic, salaried workers whose jobs will be eliminated under a reorganization announced last week.

Carbide's program includes the elimination of about 1,200 jobs both in the United States and abroad and the sale of about $1 billion in assets. It expects to complete the workforce reduction by Sept. 30.

Under the plan announced Tuesday, the domestic workers let go will be offered a package that includes added company-service and age credits in the calculation of benefits; payment of a severance allowance based on years of service; up to six months of continued medical and life insurance coverage; and outplacement help.

A Carbide spokesman said the package applies only to domestic employees. The company said in a statement that it would inform the affected workers in the near future.

Dollar falls in European trading

LONDON — The dollar fell at the opening on European money markets today, reflecting what dealers said was concern over the American economy. Gold prices were up slightly.

In London, the pound strengthened at the opening to $1.4890 against Tuesday's closing $1.48.

The decline spread across Europe. In Frankfurt, the dollar opened at 2.2895 marks against the previous closing of 2.3317, and in Zurich the dollar bought 1.9055 francs against 1.9350. The dollar opened in Paris at 7.2840 francs against Tuesday's closing of 7.3675, in Brussels at 46.50 Belgian francs against 47.31 and in Milan at 1,568.50 lire against 1,596.50.

Gold was up in London, opening at $342 per ounce against Tuesday's closing $340.75. Gold started the day at $342 per ounce in Zurich against the previous closing price of $341. Silver opened unchanged in Zurich at $5.40 per ounce and in London at $5.39.

Stocks open higher in active trading

NEW YORK — Prices opened sharply higher today in active trading of New York Stock Exchange issues.

Anticipation of another discount rate cut continued to buoy the market, analysts said.

The market's ability to climb Tuesday despite the political ripples following U.S. strikes against Libya also encouraged investors, traders said.

The Dow Jones Industrial average, which added 4.34 to 1,669.65 Tuesday, was up 12.04 to 1,681.68 shortly after the market opened.

Advances led declines 577,222 among the 1,207 issues crossing the New York Stock Exchange tape.

Early turnover amounted to about 8,949,000 shares.

Sophisticated buying spurs computer shift

DALLAS — A sophisticated consumer has evolved with the technological changes that spawned swift advances in personal computer efficiency, say executives of a pioneer computer retailer.

"In a nutshell, what we're experiencing today is that the market, the products, the applications and the demands of the customers are much more sophisticated than they were just a few years ago," said John Purcell, executive vice president of CompuShop Inc.

His company, founded nine years ago, is credited with selling the first personal computer at retail, Apple Computer serial number 11.

"Today's customers are more sophisticated in their knowledge of computers and they are looking for sophisticated solutions," said Purcell, who believes the trend calls for new marketing concepts by retailers.

Purcell, who directs operations for CompuShop's 68 stores in 17 states, said the personal computer industry "is still so new that experience is very important," but, unlike the early years of the industry, simply knowing the technology does not answer consumer needs.

Parallel to a thorough understanding of what makes a computer work is an emphasis on customer empathy, he advised.

"Our hiring requirements and training focus along lines of understanding business problems, the customer's needs, and relating to the customer's problems," he explained.

Company officials say that philosophy is reflected in CompuShop's opening of seven Bell Atlantic Centers in the Baltimore, Philadelphia and Washington, D.C., markets this week to coincide with the Dallas-based company's ninth anniversary.

First-quarter earnings up 4 percent at GTE

STAMFORD (UPI) — GTE Corp. is reporting its net income jumped 4 percent in the first quarter, up to $283 million from the $273 million earned in the first quarter last year.

Earnings per share for the first quarter were $1.29, the same amount as in the first quarter 1985 when there were 4 percent fewer shares outstanding.

Combined revenues and sales for the first quarter of 1986 were up 8 percent to $4 billion, compared with $3.7 billion a year ago.

"The first quarter's net income this year increased 4 percent over last year with sharply improved results in communications products," said Theodore F. Brophy, chairman and chief executive officer.

"In addition, telephone operations continued to earn excellent returns," he added Tuesday.

"While losses in GTE's Sprint long-distance business continued to impact overall results, we look forward to the consummation of the recently announced joint venture with United Telecommunications Inc.," Brophy said.

He predicted the joint operation "will be a formidable and profitable competitor in the inter-city voice and data communications businesses."

The proposed joint venture will combine Sprint's long-distance operations and Telecom's data transmission business with similar operations of United Telecommunications of Kansas City, Mo.

Telephone revenues for GTE were up six percent in the first quarter to $2.5 billion, while operating income of $822 million was slightly higher than in the first quarter of 1985.

First-quarter revenues included $111 million of intrastate rate awards on an annualized basis received since the first quarter of 1985.

WORLD STOCK MARKETS

Bulls abroad

Foreign stock markets have soared in the 1980s, primarily because of booming economies and pro-business policies in leading countries. The U.S. market, though rising, is still far behind.

Conflicts, uncertainty keep investors on hold

By The Associated Press

Investors are braced for developments that could cause the petroleum industry in the United States and Libya and also await some fundamental economic information that could determine the direction prices take in the oil and financial markets.

On Tuesday, financial market analysts said prices of oil, stocks and bonds stayed within a narrow range in subdued trading amid anxiety over the U.S.-Libya confrontation and uncertainty over the economy's health.

The stock market wound up Tuesday's session modestly higher. The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks, Wall Street's best-known indicator, rose 4.34 points to 1,669.65.

The Federal Reserve Board reported Tuesday that industrial production fell 0.5 percent in March following February's 0.7 percent plunge. The declines were the largest consecutive setbacks since September and October 1982, when the country was still languishing in recession.

Weakness in oil drilling, auto manufacturing and steel production has been depressing overall production activity.

The collapse in world oil prices has caused the petroleum industry to scale back exploratory operations. Drilling activity dropped 17 percent in March and now stands 33 percent below where it was in December.

The government on Thursday will release its initial estimate of overall economic growth for the January-March quarter. Many analysts are looking for growth of around 2.5 percent, substantially below the 4 percent rate the administration is predicting for the entire year.

Plea ends trial

State seeks 25-year term for Crenshaw

By George Lovyn Herald Reporter

HARTFORD — In a surprise move, a Manchester man pleaded guilty this morning in Superior Court to charges that he murdered his 10-month-old daughter last April while she slept in her crib.

Marshall Crenshaw, 25, of 40 Dicot St., entered his plea under what he knows as the Alford Doctrine before the start of what would have been the fourth day of testimony in his trial for murder.

Under the doctrine, Crenshaw did not admit to killing the child, but entered the plea because he believed the state's evidence would have been enough to convict him, Public Defender Richard Kelly said.

Such a plea can be entered if the defendant disputes one or more of the elements of the case against him. Kelly said he and his client dispute the state's contention that the death of Dale-Lyn Crenshaw was intentional, which along with a sound frame of mind must be proven for a jury to convict a suspect of murder.

Kelly said Crenshaw's decision to plead this morning was part of "a continuing process" that occurred throughout the trial, but did not say exactly when his client decided to end the proceedings.

The move followed an unusual two-hour closed-door meeting Wednesday afternoon between Kelly, Judge Francis R. Quinn and Assistant State Attorney Dennis O'Connor.

Crenshaw, who has been held at the Hartford Correctional Center for the past year because he has been unable to post bond, displayed no emotion when he entered his plea. Wearing sneakers, blue jeans, a tie and short-sleeved white shirt, the former gas station worker spoke with a clear, unhesitating voice characterized by a southern drawl.

He is scheduled to be sentenced May 19. Crenshaw faces a 25- to 60-year sentence. O'Connor said the state will ask for a 25-year term.

Kelly said he will file a request within a few days to have Crenshaw examined by a psychiatrist "to see if he has some mental illness that might suggest some alternative treatment instead of incarceration." However, the attorney said he has no guarantee that there are no guarantees that he will not serve his sentence in prison.

O'Connor told the courtroom, packed with high school students who had come to observe the Town offers fire sharing

Growth rises as inflation falls

By George Lovyn Herald Reporter

The town is willing to share its firehouse on Tolland Turnpike with the Eighth Utilities District fire department for $22,034 a year, according to a letter presented to district officials at a meeting with Town Manager Robert Weiss Wednesday afternoon.

The proposal, details of which were released Wednesday night at a public hearing on the district's budget for 1986-87, comes after both sides said last week they were interested in discussing a sharing arrangement. District officials said Wednesday the move indicates a renewed willingness on the part of the town and the independent utilities authority to negotiate the dispute after months of sharp public debate.

"This is the first time the town has talked to us rather than at us," said District Director Thomas Landers. He said talks would be "difficult... at best," but added that he is "cautiously optimistic" an agreement can be reached.

The district directors will meet Saturday morning to discuss the town's offer. The board also voted Wednesday to meet with the town Board of Directors to seek a settlement, although no date was set.

District President Walter Joyner said Wednesday night a chamber of commerce dinner that he would probably recommend to accept the town's offer.

Meanwhile, district officials said they will seek an extension from contractors who submitted bids in March for the construction of the district's own proposed firehouse. If built, the station would stand two miles east of the town's Station No. 5 on Tolland Turnpike.

The station has been at the center of controversy since it was built in the 1970s in the midst of a court dispute over who had fire-protection jurisdiction in the Buckland section. The district eventually won the court battle and offered to buy the town's station, but its offers were rebuffed.

Wines from Italy remain available despite request

By John F. Kirch and John Mitchell

Italian wines are still sitting on the shelves at most local liquor stores, despite the state's request for a ban on their sale, according to a survey of package stores.

The state Department of Liquor Control Tuesday asked package stores to pull all Italian wines off their shelves after high levels of methanol were found in some bottles of wine last allegedly have killed 22 people in Italy over the past month.

The deaths also prompted the federal Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms to order all wholesalers and importers to test Italian wines for excessive methanol levels before sending them to area liquor outlets, state officials said Wednesday. No wine in the United States has been found to have excess methanol, state officials said.

The scare has apparently failed to force area store owners who sell Italian wines. Most who were interviewed said it was unlikely that any bad wine made it into the U.S.

Of 10 liquor store owners interviewed Wednesday and today, two said they had pulled Italian

Debate challenge spurned

Calling William A. O'Neill a bad governor and politician, Toby Moffett Wednesday called upon the governor to defend his record in a Manchester debate before the May 28 delegate primaries in town and elsewhere.

"I hereby challenge Bill O'Neill to a Manchester debate," Moffett said Wednesday during an interview with Herald editors.

Moffett, who is challenging O'Neill for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, said the governor's administration "has left political reform 'dead in its tracks.'" A debate would help clarify the issues, he said.

Officials in the O'Neill campaign said today that Moffett has not contacted the governor about a possible debate. Also, whether O'Neill would debate, campaign coordinator Richard Schneller said. "In my opinion, it's highly unlikely."

He said the governor has a "day-to-day responsibility to the state," and that he can't "run off and debate Toby Moffett just because Toby Moffett wants to debate."

Schneller said that O'Neill's administration has initiated many reforms, including rebuilding Connecticut's infrastructure and improving education.

Reagan defends actions

By W. Dole Nelson The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The surge in terrorism anticipated by the Reagan administration after the U.S. bombing of Libya took shape today with the murders of three kidnap victims in Lebanon, an attempt to put explosives aboard an Israeli airliner in London and fire bombs thrown at a U.S. Marine post in Tunisia.

In Khartoum, the U.S. Embassy announced today the evacuation of some 200 dependents of mission employees and other personnel from Sudan, apparently because of Libyan threats against American targets.

The announcement came after an embassy employee was shot in the head in Khartoum late Tuesday and thousands of people on Wednesday burned American flags and shouted slogans to protest the U.S. bombing raid on Libya.

An embassy statement did not name specifically Libya, Sudan's neighbor to the northwest, but apparently referred to Col. Moammar Khadafi's government, as no other neighboring nation has threatened attacks on U.S. interests. Libya called for attacks on American interests worldwide after the air raid.

In Libya, Khadafi was reported alive but possibly wounded in the bombing raid on his headquarters Monday night. Administration officials sitting through intelligence reports said there were indications he had left Tripoli, the capital, and had gone into the desert amid reports of fighting within the military.

Three bodies found in the mountains east of Beirut were officially identified today as those of three British kidnap victims in Lebanon.

John Rowan, first secretary of the Irish Embassy in Beirut, made the identification. "These are Padfield, Collett and Douglas," he told reporters.

He referred to British writer Alec Collett, 64, and teachers Leigh Douglas, 34, and Philip Padfield, 40.

White House deputy press secretary Edward Djerjian said the United States has confirmed that all three victims were British.

"We were prepared for an increase in terrorism," Speakes said. "In the long run we expect it to diminish."

Asked whether the United States is more concerned now for the safety of seven American hostages in Lebanon, Speakes said, "We're always very concerned."

Noting the attempt to put a bomb on an El Al airliner at London's Heathrow airport in Britain, Speakes said, "The British seem to have the situation well in hand."

The spokesman said the administration now believes Khadafi is alive in view of his appearance on television in Libya, but said the United States does not know his whereabouts.

Reagan defends actions

By W. Dole Nelson The Associated Press

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan expected a surge in terrorism in the aftermath of the U.S. bombing strikes on Libya but he believes the new attacks will "diminish in the long run," a White House spokesman said today.

"Time will tell," said Deputy Press Secretary Larry Speakes when asked whether the spate of terrorism acts around the world is linked to the American raids on Libya.

"He (Reagan) believes it was the right thing to do," Reagan said. "He has driven home the message" to Libyan leader Moammar Khadafi.

Speakes said that American strike was ordered because of "increasing signs that he (Khadafi) intended to have terrorism on the march."

"We were prepared for an increase in terrorism," Speakes said. "In the long run we expect it to diminish."
