FOCUS Borrowed Symbols The constitutionality of the seal of Zion, Illinois, has been challenged. This seal displays the Christian symbols of a cross, a crown, and a dove. Such symbols have always been important cultural emblems, and they have often aroused strong emotions. Hitler's dreaded swastika means "conductive to well-being." American Indians used the swastika to signify peace. DO YOU KNOW — What religion uses the six-pointed star as an important symbol? TUESDAY'S ANSWER — The initials "NRA" stand for National Rifle Association.

Police union criticizes mayor Says Massaro letter was 'slap in face'

A letter written by Mayor Barbara Weiberg on behalf of a Manchester restaurateur convicted on cocaine charges has drawn sharp criticism from the Manchester police union. "It is a slap in the face to all law enforcement officers when the top elected official of the town openly supports a criminal that her police department has worked long and hard to bring to justice," acting union President Jon Hawthorne said in a letter delivered to Weiberg Tuesday. Weiberg's letter was written on behalf of Stephen Massaro, 38, the former owner of Massaro's West Side restaurant on Center Street, who was convicted in February of being an accessory to possession of cocaine with intent to sell. He was arrested in September 1984 after police found 10 ounces of cocaine in the restaurant and nearby cars. Massaro was sentenced in March to serve six months of a five-year prison sentence. He was also given five years of probation and 600 hours of community service. Prosecutors had recommended a full five-year prison term. Weiberg said Tuesday she asked Hartford Superior Court Judge Herbert Barall in her March 4 letter for leniency in sentencing Massaro because he and his family are "good business people," she said she does not know if the letter, one of about 20 sent on behalf of Massaro by friends and associates, played a part in Barall's decision to impose a lesser sentence than the one sought by prosecutors. Weiberg said she was not embarrassed by her letter. She said she was asked by Massaro's family to write the letter because she has eaten at the restaurant a couple of times every month for the past few years. Weiberg said she does not know Massaro or his family very well. A Hartford Superior Court clerk said this morning the letter was written on stationery that had the town seal on it and Weiberg's title. However, Weiberg said this morning she paid for the stationery herself, and it was not actually town stationery. She said she uses the stationery for social and personal purposes and does not think using it implied that the town sanctioned her actions. In the letter, Weiberg said she does not condone what Massaro did. But she said he was "worthy of consideration of community service and rehabilitation," according to a copy read by the court clerk. Hawthorne said Tuesday the police union would have liked Weiberg to discuss Massaro's arrest with them before she wrote the letter. In his letter, Hawthorne said the 38-member union was "very disturbed" by Weiberg's letter. He said the department worked for over a year investigating drug trafficking before making the arrest and confiscating "a quarter of a million dollars worth of cocaine destined for the residents of Manchester and the surrounding towns." "Unlike you," the letter to Weiberg said, "we deal with the hardships caused by drug use and addiction on a day-to-day basis." "Justice for all should not be dependent on the accused's financial status, position in the community and people of influence who they happen to be acquainted with," Hawthorne said. "In this case, it is plain to see that you were not acting with the best interest of our community in mind." Weiberg said she would not mind talking to the police in the future, and added that she had the "highest regard for the Manchester Police Department." However, she also said she had a duty to help people become rehabilitated. "I'm not judge or jury," she said. Hawthorne said the union supported Weiberg in last November's election. He said he did not know if her letter would affect the union's position if she runs again.

Reinhorn, Naab ahead in race for GOP seat

Republicans Harry Reinhorn and Geoffrey Naab have emerged as the front-runners in a three-way race to fill the seat on the town Board of Directors vacated by Donna Mercier two weeks ago, according to some Manchester Republicans.

During a closed meeting of the GOP selection committee Tuesday night, committee members interviewed three candidates who have expressed interest in the seat, which Mercier, an active member of the Republican minority, resigned in the midst of her second term. Those candidates were Reinhorn, Naab and tavern owner Peter McNamara, a Libertarian who unsuccessfully sought a seat on the board last November.

The selection committee is ready to make a recommendation to the party's executive committee, which will meet tonight. Selection Committee Chairman David Frost said today. The executive committee will then make a recommendation to the full Republican Town Committee, which will vote on a replacement for Mercier at a special meeting Tuesday.

Frost would not say what the recommendation will be, but some members of the Republican Party said today that the selection committee is likely to recommend that the town committee nominate both Naab and Reinhorn and then hold a vote. "We have a recommendation to bring to the executive board tonight," Frost said. "I can't say that we've narrowed it down to one candidate. The executive committee has the option of endorsing one over the other or saying that both are good and letting the (full) committee decide."

"This is a kind of unusual situation," Frost said. "You have two people who are perceived as good by the town committee. I'm sure friends of Harry will vote for Harry and friends of Geoff will vote for Geoff."

Reinhorn, Naab and McNamara all said today they didn't know what the recommendation would be. But Reinhorn said he got the feeling both he and Naab would be recommended by the selection committee.

"This is a kind of unusual situation," Frost said. "You have two people who are perceived as good by the town committee. I'm sure friends of Harry will vote for Harry and friends of Geoff will vote for Geoff."

Connecticut In Brief

Judge orders evidence suppressed

LITCHFIELD — A Superior Court judge hearing two drug cases has suppressed some evidence gathered during the grand jury investigation of corruption in the Torrington area. Judge Walter M. Pickett Jr. ruled Tuesday that some evidence in the cases was invalid because the grand jury gathered it after Oct. 1, 1985, the date of a new state law that changed the guidelines governing such investigations.

Missing girl found in Hartford

SIMSBURY — A 17-year-old mentally handicapped girl, missing from her home since April 15, has been found in Hartford and appears to be in good health according to her brother. Joette Hettrick had left her home with a gym bag and a change of clothes and late Tuesday night her family received word that the girl had been staying with a hispanic family in Hartford's south side.

Weekend fires may be connected

WATERBURY — Authorities say there's a possibility that a series of fires in northwestern Connecticut and New York state over the weekend may be linked, although there's "no overt indication" of a direct connection. Arson definitely caused at least two of the large fires that occurred between Saturday and Monday, authorities said. Police and fire officials in New York and Connecticut said they have determined that fires at clothing stores in Canaan and Millerton, N.Y., were intentionally started.

Two gunmen rob bank in Enfield

ENFIELD — Two men armed with machine guns took between $10,000 and $15,000 during a robbery of a Suffolk Savings Bank branch, authorities said. FBI officials apprehended one man and confiscated a machine gun in Enfield several hours after the robbery, which occurred around 2:30 p.m. Tuesday, authorities said. Police did not release the man's name and were still working on the case Tuesday evening.

Abuse suspect wants trial moved

MILFORD — The remaining defendant in an Ansonia child sexual abuse case has asked for his case moved, saying publicity has made it impossible for him to get a fair trial. Jerry G. Baker, 32, of Derby is accused of having sexually assaulted five children in Ansonia. "The extent and nature of the pretrial publicity is going to make it very difficult to pick jurors who have never heard of the case," attorney John Kavanagay of Norwalk said Tuesday.

Bill renames turnpike for Lodge

HARTFORD — The Connecticut Turnpike would be renamed for the late Gov. John Davis Lodge under a bill overwhelmingly approved by the House of Representatives. Lodge, governor from 1951 to 1955, was a strong backer of the highway's construction along the Connecticut shoreline. It was completed in the late 1950s. Deputy House Majority Leader Julie D. Belaga, R-Westport, called the completion of the turnpike Lodge's "fondest wish."

Senate approves death penalty bill

HARTFORD (AP) — The state Senate Tuesday approved a bill designed to make it easier to get the death penalty in murder cases. The measure, approved on a 26-10 vote after a 55-minute debate, now goes to the House.

"The likelihood of a convicted murderer getting the death penalty in the state now is next to impossible," said Sen. Richard B. Johnston, R-Weathersfield, co-chairman of the Judiciary Committee and chief backer of the bill. He called the state's present death penalty law unworkable because it requires a jury to find the murder was "aggravated" or "committed in an especially cruel, heinous and depraved manner."

The jury also must conclude that there were no mitigating factors in the case, such as the defendant's mental condition, which might serve to excuse the fact of murder. Under the bill passed Tuesday, the death penalty could be imposed if the jury concluded that aggravating factors outweighed mitigating factors.

The budget plan given tentative leadership approval represents an 8.5 percent increase in spending over the current year. Democratic Gov. William A. O'Neill proposed an 11 percent spending increase. Democrats released a Republican list of $44.9 million in further reductions in the governor's proposal. The GOP had previously trimmed $10 million from its budget by more than $79 million.

Moffett attacks O'Neill on judges

By Mark A. Dupuis/United Press International

HARTFORD — Democrat Toby Moffett has charged that a lack of leadership on the part of Gov. William A. O'Neill has created a "political football" out of judicial appointments this year. Moffett said Tuesday the governor failed to closely evaluate appointees before making nominations, throwing the decision on the appointments to the more-partisan realm of the General Assembly.

"The governor failed to do his homework," Moffett told reporters outside Hartford Superior Court. "As a result of that the judges were thrown into the wolf's den. This has become a political football." About 70 judges were up for reappointment in a year, O'Neill nominated all of them for new terms, saying he had been given no information by court officials or

Right to jury trial

Finally Tuesday, the House passed and sent to the Senate a measure removing the right to a jury trial in criminal cases having maximum penalties up to $199. Current law bars jury trials in cases with penalties up to $99. Virtually all of those are infractions, while fines above $99 are now reserved for misdemeanors and felonies.

Also Tuesday, the state Senate passed bills classifying martial arts weapons as dangerous weapons and requiring that those carrying them in motor vehicles get permits. The bills now go to the House.

Accord on budget

Meanwhile Tuesday, Republican legislative leaders said they had reached tentative agreement on a $4 billion state budget and at least $75 million in tax cuts, but they said final figures would be decided by rank-and-file GOP lawmakers in caucuses.

Per-pupil spending up 11.9%

HARTFORD (UPI) — An average of $3,522 per pupil was spent last year in Connecticut's public schools, up 11.9 percent from the previous year, figures released by a private research group indicate. The figures for the 1984-85 school year mean the overall jump in per-pupil spending during the past 10 years increased 156 percent, far more than the 88 percent increase in inflation over that period, the Connecticut Public Expenditure Council said Tuesday.

The increase is due mostly to declining student enrollment over the 10-year period, but it can also be attributed to increased state aid and the overall wealth of many communities, said Michael B. Levin, CPEC vice president. "We've been pushed forward by some of the wealthy towns, and the state has then been prodded by the courts to provide state aid to some of the poorer towns," Levin said.

However, since the per pupil increase is due mostly to declining student enrollment, an expected surge in enrollment in coming years threatens to reverse the trend, he said. "That will be something to watch for," Levin said. "I think it will be harder for these towns" as enrollments again begin to increase. Statewide enrollment in Connecticut's public elementary and secondary schools dropped 2 percent in the 1985-86 year, falling to 467,810 from 478,943 the previous year. The average public school enrollment across the state is expected to begin increasing within two years, Levin said.

Community leaders charged in apartheid protest at Yale

By Susan Okulo/The Associated Press

NEW HAVEN — Elected officials and the superintendent of schools were among 108 people arrested while protesting Yale University's investments in companies that do business in South Africa.

Students demonstrated Tuesday in a line that stretched for three-quarters of a block along the center of a street through Yale's campus. They were warned four times by city police before being charged with disorderly conduct. "It's beautiful," said city school board Chairman Edwin R. Edmonds, one of those arrested. He was referring to the mix of people taking part in the protest. All 108 people arrested Tuesday were released on written promises to appear in court next month, said New Haven police Sgt. William Tinker.

Most of them were Yale workers, representatives of church and civic groups and city officials. About 20 were Yale University students. Student demonstrators started a round of vehement protest against Yale's investment policies on April 4. About 274 people have been arrested since April 14. Others arrested Tuesday included John Dow Jr., superintendent of New Haven schools; city Aldermen Martin Dunleavy and Charles H. Allen III; Sally Brown, city town clerk; and New Haven NAACP chapter President Hayward Hooks and Vice President Clinton Robinson. "I think that people across the country, be they leaders or common citizens, ought to speak out and protest against the (South African) regime. How can we support a regime that I compare to the Nazi regime in Germany?" Dow said.

"The blood that binds me and my black brothers and sisters in South Africa is stronger than the water and land that separate us."

The protest was organized by Local 34, the Federation of University Employees, a clerical and technical workers union at Yale. Andrea Ross, a union steward, said at least 60 of its members were arrested. Lucille Dickens, president of Local 34, was the first in the line to be charged. Students have made up the majority of those arrested in previous demonstrations. The protesters marched from a city church to Wall Street, which runs adjacent to the office building of Yale President A. Bartlett Giamatti. At least 250 others lined both sides of the street and kept an hour-long silent vigil in a light rain.

Cleanup finished in tanker spill on Avon Mountain

AVON (AP) — The cleanup was completed early this morning at the foot of Avon Mountain, where a tanker truck overturned after an accident, spilling at least 200 gallons of highly flammable liquids, police said.

The tanker apparently lost its brakes coming down the mountain on Route 44 and collided with a car near the Avon Old Farms Inn Tuesday afternoon, authorities said. An Avon police officer said the mop-up was finished about 1:30 a.m. today and the roadways were reopened for traffic.

About 150 people were evacuated from area businesses, but no homes were evacuated, police said. Students at the Renbrook School, a private school across the West Hartford line, were sent home early as a precaution. Four people were injured, authorities said. The truck driver and driver of the car suffered minor injuries in the accident, authorities said. Two others, including a police officer, were treated for respiratory problems after inhaling chemical fumes, officials said. The accident caused massive traffic jams as police closed routes 44 and 10 and rush-hour motorists had to find alternate routes home.

The truck, owned by Roy Brothers Inc. of Pinehurst, Mass., was carrying 4,000 gallons of toluene and 2,000 gallons of xylene in separate chambers, authorities said. Both chemicals are liquid solvents that are poisonous if swallowed. Fumes from the chemicals can irritate the lungs and throat, health officials said.

Right course on SALT II

President Reagan's provisional decision to abide by the limits imposed by SALT II when another Trident nuclear submarine goes to sea next month was unquestionably the right one, however transient it may prove.

In order to comply with its unratified 1979 arms agreement with the Soviet Union, the United States will have to dismantle two Poseidon subs before the new Trident carries its cargo of missiles into the sea. Doing so will keep American forces within SALT II's limits for the number of nuclear warheads that can be operational at any particular time.

Before saying he would scrap the two Poseidons unless strong objections arose in consultations with our allies, the president, who has himself called the treaty "fatally flawed," heard sharply opposing views on the matter. As has become customary, Secretary of State George Shultz led one faction, with Secretary of Defense Caspar Weinberger speaking for the other. The Shultz group apparently won out, leading to what must stand as a victory for diplomatic common sense.

Anyone who sees the complicated course endorsed by Reagan this week as a major step for arms control is falling prey to a simplistic delusion. But at the same time, the opposite decision would have been a meaningless show of muscle, devoid of any practical gain.

The decision was the correct one because it allowed a little more time for new initiatives between the two countries and deprived the Soviet bloc of yet another opportunity to portray the U.S. as the stumbling block in the path of arms control. Furthermore, the administration's chosen course refrained from adding to the myriad points of belligerence that have brought productive international discussion to a standstill in recent months.

For better or worse, Reagan's decision to comply with the treaty is far from final. When presidential spokesman Larry Speakes announced the plan to take the Poseidons out of action, he implied that the U.S. would go no further without a gesture in response from the Soviets. In December, the administration apparently plans to break the SALT II warhead limit by deploying more nuclear attack bombers without accompanying reductions unless the issue of Soviet non-compliance with the treaty has been cleared up.

The Russians may indeed allow that to happen, then claim their propaganda victory. But given Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev's statement Monday that a second superpower summit is conditioned on "real progress in disarmament," there remains a glimmer of hope.

As the matter stands, Reagan has followed the path of prudence in deciding to reject the advice of those who believe U.S. foreign policy can be conducted without regard to international opinion. If the Soviet Union were to reciprocate as it should, true progress might result.

In the end, the latest discussion about SALT II only reinforced the lesson of its countless predecessors: Genuine give and take must come at the negotiating table or the likelihood of a nuclear mishap will continue to escalate until disaster becomes inevitable.

98 more years for 8th District

To the Editor:

For over 98 years the Manchester Fire Department has faithfully served the people of the Eighth District and will continue to serve unless voted out of existence. They have held this responsibility for almost a century and have always provided the best of professional service to which our taxpayers are entitled.

Who are these volunteers? They are citizens of Manchester just like yourselves and give freely of their time, talent and energy. Once disbanded by a town vote, there is no longer any service which they can render to the community. They would be effectively dissolved and legally abolished. However, at present, this is not their desire. It is being forced upon them. They wish to continue to deliver the same level of professional service for less and keep true volunteerism alive.

The members of the Eighth District Fire Department wish to continue to be of service to their fellow townspeople. Please allow them the reason to serve you. Let them exist and they will continue to serve you for another 98 years.

Abortion ruling shows wisdom

To the Editor:

Unwanted pregnancy is a societal problem that affects us all, but for a poor woman — particularly one who suffers from ill health — it can be a personal catastrophe.

Without Medicaid assistance she would be denied the choice of having an abortion, even if it were deemed to be medically necessary. The right to basic health care, a right that other women take for granted, would be denied her.

Judge Berdon's carefully considered ruling that Connecticut's abortion policy violates the state's Equal Rights Amendment is applauded by thoughtful people everywhere. It is simple justice that the state must now pay for medically necessary abortions, just as by law it pays for other medically necessary operations. Of course, nobody likes abortion. But unfortunately, until reliable birth control information is made readily available to all, it is an unpleasant last resort. In the public interest it is important that the state accept this wise court decision and not appeal it.

Families needed Love Lane homes

To the Editor:

My family and I were thrilled when we read about the town of Manchester and Visions Unlimited lacking the housing problem by providing affordable housing for low- and moderate-income families with their Love Lane project.

My husband, I and our two children were entered in both lotteries. I couldn't help but notice that during the two drawings at least two or three of the winners were single women! I was under the impression that this program was initiated to help the family. There are an abundance of apartments and condominiums available in Manchester for the single person.

The Love Lane project was and is a wonderful idea that is long overdue. I'm just sorry that they didn't fulfill what they originally set out to do, offer the hand working family a chance to own their own home. The real estate market certainly isn't sensitive to the average wage earner with homes priced over $100,000.

I hope the town continues with this wonderful concept. I only hope that if there is a next time, it will be offered to those who really need it — the low- to moderate-income family who seems to be the forgotten citizen. My best wishes to those families who finally received their part of the "American Dream." They justly deserve it.

Reagan hasn't changed mind about Carter

WASHINGTON — Animosity between successive occupants of the Oval Office is a fairly common feature of Washington life. The hostility between President Reagan and former President Jimmy Carter may be more acerbic than most because of the deep differences in political philosophy that divide the two men. Occasionally, the barely submerged antipathy boils to the surface — usually when Reagan charges that Carter failed to do something during his term and Carter denies the charge. There was great brawling in October 1982, for example, when Reagan blamed the suicide bombing of the Marine barracks in Beirut on Carter policies that Reagan claimed had weakened the CIA and other intelligence-gathering agencies.

In type-written notes given to us by Carter's office recently, the former president indignantly recalled "when President Reagan attempted to blame the tragic loss of more than 200 U.S. Marines in Lebanon on Presidents Nixon, Ford and me, claiming that we had weakened the intelligence agencies so badly that he could not obtain adequate information."

CARTER ADDED in his notes: "When I made a public statement denying the truth of his allegation, he called me to say that his explanation had been misinterpreted by the press. I replied that I had observed his statement on television and had not relied on press interpretations."

Carter continued: "I asked him to check the Pentagon records and he would ascertain the error of his frequent statement that only he had increased defense spending. He admitted his mistake and promised not to make it again. However, he has continued to make this claim, obviously knowing that it is not true."

In fact, Reagan criticized Carter's defense decisions as recently as February in a television speech and again drew a protest from Carter. "With this background in mind, we asked the president recently if he had softened any of his opinions on his predecessor. The short answer is that he has not."

Reagan's normally pleasant face hardened noticeably when we asked — remembering his harsh criticism of Carter in the 1980 campaign: "Has there been an evolution in your thinking about him as you've faced... some of the same problems?"

REAGAN PREFACED his reply by explaining why he had not criticized Carter on some national security issues and other sensitive areas: "I have said that there are some things that you have to realize only the president knows. He's the only one that has all the information on something."

There are also "criticisms of some things unless and until you know what that information is."

One reason he said he wasn't surprised by the burdens of the presidency — and thus more sympathetic to Carter — was that there isn't such a vast difference between his job as governor of California and as president.

"Over the years we've forgotten that once upon a time the ranks of the governors were where we found presidents," Reagan went on. "Because the governors, the 50 governors, have the jobs that are closest to approximating this job of any position in the country. Certainly much more so than anyone form a legislative branch."

Bringing him back to his views toward Carter since 1980, we asked: "So there wasn't necessarily been an evolution in your thinking?"

"No," the president replied.

Reagan sets stage for Tokyo trip

By Michael Putzel
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — President Reagan, rejecting suggestion that terrorism is an outgrowth of conflict between the Arab world and the West, today called on Arab nations to "join with us to eliminate this scourge of civilization."

In a speech prepared for the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, Reagan sought to drive a wedge between Libyan leader Moammar Khadafi and other Islamic leaders, pointing out that Khadafi has allied himself with the Soviets, whom he accuses of supporting the slaughter of Moslems in Afghanistan.

Setting the stage for his 12-day trip to the Far East beginning on Friday, Reagan said he will discuss terrorism with other allied leaders in Tokyo because "unilateral response is not enough."

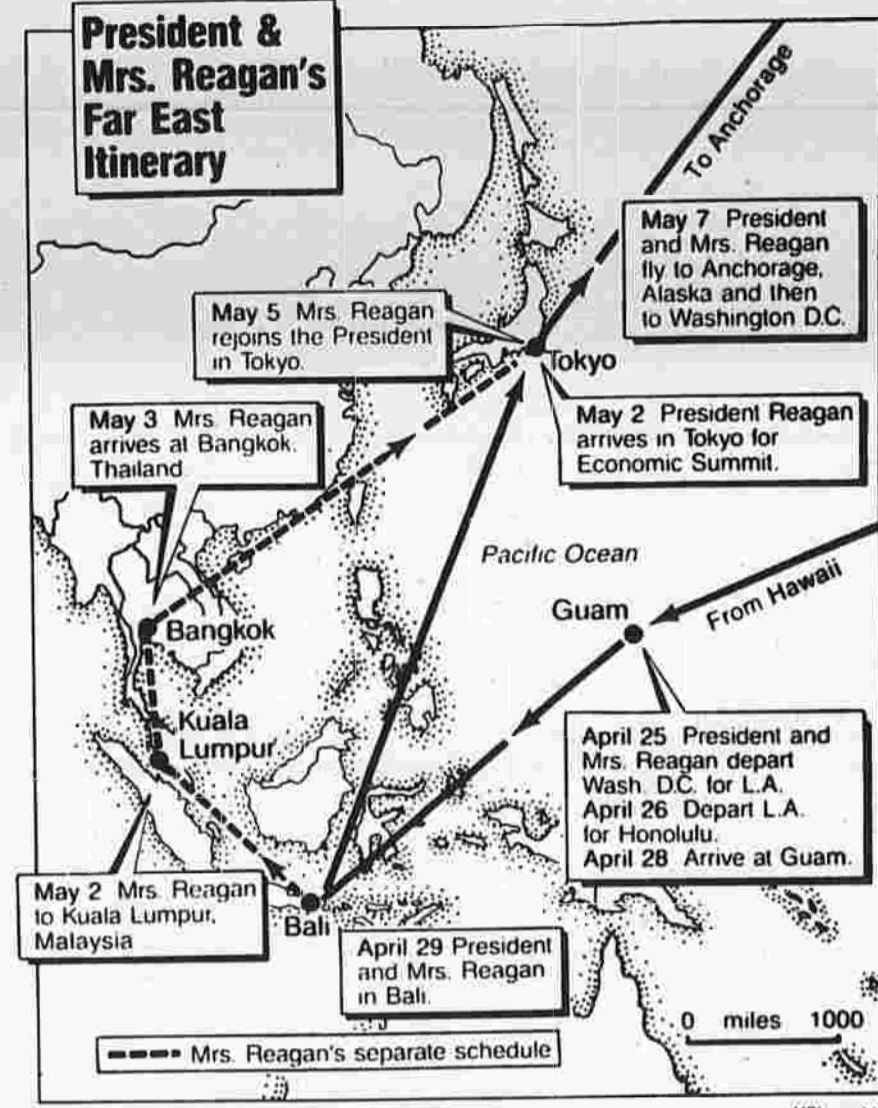

"It must be dealt with forcefully and collectively," the president said, declaring that if the democratic nations let them, terrorist attacks will erect a wall of fear around nations and neighborhoods. It will dampen the joy of travel, the flow of trade, the exchange of ideas.

Let no one mistake this for a conflict between the western democracies and the Arab world," Reagan said. "Those who condone making war by cowardly attacks on unarmed third parties, including women and children, are but a tiny minority."

Pointing out that Arab nations have been victims of terrorism, Reagan said, "We hope and pray the Arab world will join with us to eliminate this scourge of terrorism."

The Soviet Union is Khadafi's principal arms supplier, and East Germany provides training and advisers for his revolutionary guard.

In what the White House has hailed as a major step in advance of the president's trip to the economic summit in Tokyo, Reagan is expected to celebrate the expansion of democracy, particularly in Latin America, and laud the rebirth he calls "freedom fighters" in Nicaragua, Angola, Afghanistan and Cambodia.

On Friday, President and Mrs. Reagan begin a whirlwind hopscotch across the globe en route to Tokyo, where the president will attend the economic summit May 4. Mrs. Reagan will visit Malaysia and Thailand in addition to stops with the president in Los Angeles, Honolulu, Guam and Bali.

South Africa abandons pass laws

By David Cray
The Associated Press

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa — The government today pledged to abolish restrictions on freedom of movement based on race and said South Africans instead would be required to have an approved residence if they wish to be replaced by planned urbanization. It said "fundamental rights should be protected and... discrimination on the grounds of race or color is not acceptable."

However, the new policy will continue to bar integration of residential neighborhoods, and makes no specific mention of any plans to give blacks voting rights. When they announced the impending moratorium on pass-law enforcement last week, officials hailed it as proof that the government is moving to end apartheid, the official policy of racial segregation under which 5 million whites dominated 21 million voteless blacks.

Many black leaders say ending the pass laws is "too little, too late," and that they will accept nothing less than a full share of political power. Another component of the government initiative is the planned introduction of a uniform identity document for all South Africans, regardless of race.

Enforcement of the pass laws was halted today in conjunction with the release of the government's statement of its new policy.

Politics removes Buzaid from bench

The worst fears of Connecticut Chief Justice Ellen Peters about politics intruding on judicial nominations must have been realized last week in the rejection of Judge Norman Buzaid of Danbury for reappointment to the Superior Court bench. She expressed concern earlier when the Senate, taking its cue from the Judiciary Committee, blocked the appointment of George Brodigan of West Hartford to a full term. She deplored what she thought — incorrectly, in our view — was undue reliance on a "poll" of lawyers on judges up for reappointment which House Speaker R. E. Van Norstrand of Darien had circulated.

We checked at the time with committee members and found they had done their homework on Brodigan. They told us in each instance that the "poll" only confirmed that they had discovered on their own.

IN THE NEW CASE, Buzaid was turned down by the House of Representatives on an 83 to 58 vote. The House thumbed its nose at the intense screening the Judiciary Committee had done, leading to its 23 to 3 recommendation that he be retained.

Capitol Comments

immune from the shabby politics we have seen at the Capitol this year.

LET'S BE CLEAR on one point right up front. The "system" that was followed at the Legislature for generations — the kiss-kiss appearances by judge candidates before the Judiciary Committee and then a rubber stamp approval in House and Senate — frankly stank and should have been discarded years ago.

If the Republican-controlled Legislature has done nothing else this year, it has got the Judiciary Committee really wringing out the judges when they show up for interviews. Sen. Richard Johnston of Wethersfield, probably one of the most improved legislators this year over last, and Rep. William Wollenberg of Farmington, who always was a stickler for details, have seen to that.

lobby for its results from the floor. Its findings, he insisted, showed that Buzaid did not merit further service on the bench.

Since this was the first time in this term that Van Norstrand had done this, the freshman Republicans had never heard him speak and could not have known until then how effective he can be. More to the point, they and most other Republicans were wary of what their leader might do if they crossed him. Except for a small cluster of Republicans who don't get along with Van Norstrand anyway, they voted to dump Buzaid.

VAN NORSTRAND told a reporter later that no one needed to fear him. But the power he holds in that chamber was never more evident than it was that day, and it was a factor in the voting.

Coventry police officers blast chief's comments

By Jacqueline Bennett
Herald Correspondent

COVENTRY — Five part-time police officers showed up at the Town Office Building Monday night prepared to challenge recent statements made by Chief Frank Trzaskos, only to find that the Town Council meeting had been cancelled.

The officers had planned to present the council with a letter rebutting statements Trzaskos made about the potential liability of the town because it employs inexperienced and undertrained part-time officers.

Part-time officer Ron Hodgkins said the accusations were not only inaccurate, but uncalled for.

"If Coventry wants to eliminate part-timers and go to a full-time force, that's OK with us, but why bad-mouth us?" Hodgkins asked in an interview Sunday night.

Hodgkins said he believes Trzaskos has been planning to "get rid of" part-timers for some time. Hodgkins charged that the chief tried to "annoy" the part-time officers by assigning them short shifts in the middle of the night.

"WE USED TO HAVE eight-hour shifts. Now we work 12 to 4," he said. The part-time officers were told there was no money left in the budget for them.

"He's trying to make us look bad so he can justify his reasons for getting rid of us," Hodgkins said.

Trzaskos acknowledged that he wants to eliminate part-time officers from the force.

"There is no doubt about it, I am phasing them out," he said Tuesday.

Trzaskos said the move was being made only to upgrade the force. He said the part-time officers have done a good job so far, but are not on the job every day and are not as familiar with proper procedures as full-time officers.

Trzaskos had asked the council for three new full-time officers to replace his part-time staff.

Trzaskos has said part-timers lack knowledge of the law and proper procedure, making Coventry prone to litigation for improper arrests. He cited a couple of drug incidents in which more people were arrested than was proper.

Hodgkins said part-timers are currently attending training classes and have been required since 1981 to accumulate, over a five-year period, 480 training hours — the same amount full-time officers are required to undergo.

Gerry Hodgkins, another part-time officer, said that full-time lieutenants were present at the drug incidents Trzaskos cited as potential liabilities.

Hodgkins conceded the part-timers didn't undergo Trzaskos's testing process. However, he said at least three of the men, including himself, took psychological and physical exams along with an oral interview.

Hodgkins said he believes Trzaskos is "making liability a problem and bad-mouthing part-timers to get what he wants — a full-time force."

If he went to the council and said we were doing a good job, he wouldn't be very likely to get a full-time force," Hodgkins said. He said the officers have put in many years of service.

"We have full-time jobs, families, school and we're still trying to cover shifts here," Hodgkins said. "If the chief wants to replace us, fine, but why insult us?"

The men plan to present their letter at a special meeting of the council scheduled for Monday.

OTTO PREMINGER

Involvement in 39 films

NEW YORK (AP) — Otto Preminger, the autocratic director whose 39 films included "Anatomy of a Murder," "The Man With the Golden Arm," and "On the Beach," died Sunday at his home in New York City.

Preminger was born Dec. 22, 1906, in Vienna, Austria, and earned a law degree there in 1929. He came to the United States in 1935 and the following year made his first U.S. film, "Under Your Skin."

He also worked as a screenwriter for the New York University film school, and worked as a producer on Broadway.

Preminger was known as an innovator, challenging the film industry's taboos in films like the 1953 "The Moon is Blue," the 1954 "Carmen Jones," a modern-day adaptation of Bizet's opera with an all-black cast, and 1955's "Golden Arm," which starred Frank Sinatra and was Hollywood's first depiction of narcotics use.

He also appeared in four films, including "Stalag 17," in which he portrayed the dictatorial commandant of a German prisoner-of-war camp.

"The Moon is Blue," an adaptation of the Broadway bedroom comedy, ran without the Motion Picture Production Code seal of approval because its screenplay contained the words "virgin" and "pregnant." The Catholic Church gave it a "Condemned" rating. But Preminger claimed up at the box office, according to the 1986 book "Inside Oscar."

Grants may help preserve Hale statue, Strong House

COVENTRY — Grants to help preserve the Nathan Hale statue and the Strong House were among 14 Historic Asset Grants approved recently by Gov. William O'Neill for communities throughout Connecticut.

Under plans approved earlier this month by O'Neill, $40,000 will go to repair the Nathan Hale Statue. The Strong House on South Street will receive $10,000 for replacement of its roof and heating system. The house is believed to be the birthplace of Nathan Hale's mother.

The state Bond Commission must give final approval to the grants, which total $250,000 for the 14 projects, a news release said. The grant program was created in 1977 and has distributed about $2.6 million.

Millstone 3 off to a shaky start-up

WATERFORD (AP) — Just hours after Millstone 3 began nuclear operation, the $3.8 billion power plant in Waterford had to be shut down today because of a faulty gasket.

The plant began commercial production of electricity at 12:01 a.m., but the discovery of a "gasket problem" in a non-nuclear part of the facility required that it be shut down at about 8:20 a.m., according to Anthony J. Castagno, a spokesman for Northeast Utilities.

NU, based in Hartford, operates the plant and owns 65 percent of Millstone 3.

Castagno said the gasket was a "real minor problem, but one that has to be repaired." He said the plant would be brought back on line later today.

The commercial start of the plant marked a high point in the long history of Millstone 3. The 1,150-megawatt facility was proposed in 1971 and was to be in operation by 1979.

High interest rates, rate case decisions and changes in nuclear power plant specifications have been cited as factors in delaying completion of Millstone 3.

"Today's announcement that the plant began commercial operation meant Millstone 3 had completed its testing and that its output had been turned over to New England Power Exchange. The New England Power Exchange distributes electricity to 46 electric utility companies in New England.

More than a dozen New England utility companies share ownership in Millstone 3.

Tuition to rise $565 at East Catholic

By John F. Kirch
Herald Reporter

When classes start next fall at East Catholic High School, students will pay $565 more a year for tuition than they did this year, school officials said today.

Tuition for the first child in a family attending East Catholic will increase from $1,735 to $2,300 for the 1986-87 year, which begins in September, Sister Maureen Reardon, assistant superintendent of the school, said today.

"It's very difficult to say whether this is a normal increase. Some years you have fewer financial needs than others," she said. "Some years you have fewer financial needs than others."

There are an estimated 1,190 students attending East Catholic this year, Reardon said. She added that the school is predicting a 1986-87 enrollment of 1,650.

In another matter, the Rev. William R. Charbonneau, the school's principal, has been appointed president of East Catholic at the end of the school year, the Rev. James G. Faneili, the superintendent of schools for the Archdiocese of Hartford, said in a news release today.

The appointment represents a change in the administrative structure of the school, which will have a president, principal and three vice principals. The school has not had a president in the past.

Millstone 3 received its full power license from the Nuclear Regulatory Commission on Jan. 21 and began producing nuclear-generated electricity on Feb. 12.

Chicago's John Paxson (left) reaches over the back of Boston's Bill Walton and fouls him in NBA playoff action Tuesday night in Chicago. The Celtics eliminated the Bulls from the playoffs, 122-104.

By Ed Burns

The Boston Celtics, Milwaukee Bucks and Houston Rockets all brushed aside obstacles last night to complete sweeps of their best-of-five opening-round series.

Michael Jordan stood between Boston and the Eastern Conference semifinals, and the Celtics found a way to end his phenomenal scoring spree. Milwaukee overcame a trend of losses to the Denver Nuggets at the Meadowlands, and Houston dispelled the myth of a lucky night in the Sacramento Kings and their fans.

The Celtics handed off Jordan, who had 49 points in Game 1 and a playoff-record 63 points Sunday at Boston, and defeated the Bulls 122-104 at Chicago. Jordan was held to 13 points by an all-out effort to contain him.

"I picked him up full court and brought him into the traps, where we double-teamed him," Boston guard Dennis Johnson said.

Said Dennis Johnson, who teamed with Johnnie Givens and Jerry Ford to force the ball up and make somebody else do something."

Kevin McHale paced Boston with 31 points.

The Celtics next meet the winner of the Atlanta-Detroit series.

The Bucks rallied from a 19-point deficit to defeat New Jersey 118-110 and gain their second victory at East Rutherford, N.J., in two years.

New Jersey led by 19 points in the first half, shooting 65 percent. Milwaukee stopped up the defensive pressure and cut the lead to 99-91 after three periods. New Jersey fell apart in the final period, shooting 29 percent as the Bucks took control.

"We never really gave up," said Milwaukee's Terry Cummings, who finished with 23 points and 11 rebounds. "I think we all felt real down about the way we had been playing in the first half. The Nets had been playing on emotion, and the thing about emotion is that it drains you quite a bit."

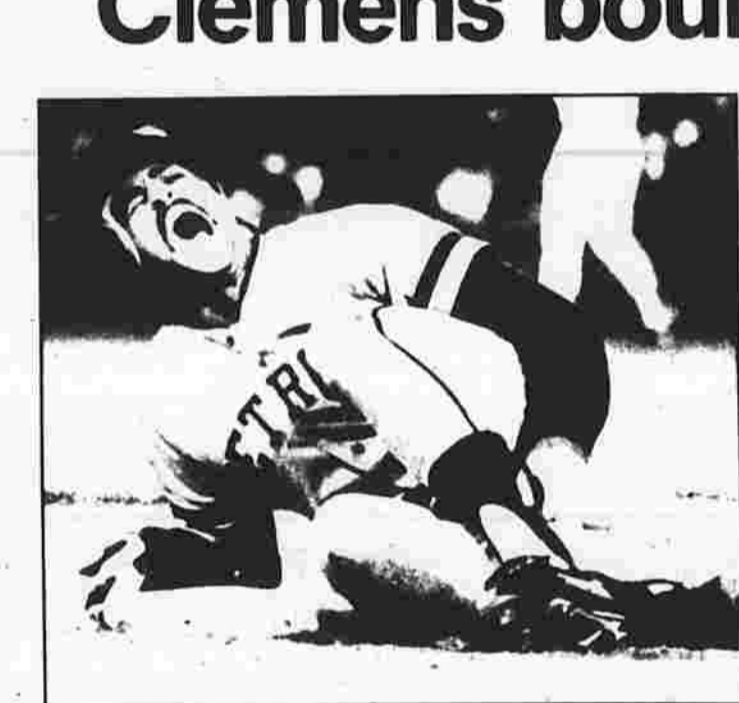

Milwaukee will next face the winner of the Washington-Philadelphia series in an all-out effort to contain him.

At Portland, Ore., Blair Rasmussen, a rookie reserve center, scored a career-high 28 points, pacing the Denver Nuggets to a pair of free throws early in the fourth quarter to turn back a Hawk comeback. Kelly Tripucka led Detroit with 33 points and combined with Earl Cureton to hold Dominique Wilkins to 21 points in Game 2. Game 4 is set for Friday night at Detroit.

Clemens bouncing back; Tigers lose Gibson

Detroit's Kirk Gibson yells in pain as he holds the ankle he injured while sliding back to first base on a pickoff attempt against the Red Sox Tuesday night. Gibson is expected to be out for two to six weeks. The Red Sox won, 6-4.

Combined Wire Services

Injuries — one sustained, and one overcome — were the story of last night's game between the Detroit Tigers and Boston Red Sox.

The Tigers lost star outfielder Kirk Gibson with a badly sprained ankle, which will probably keep the slugger out of the lineup 4-6 weeks. The Red Sox, however, received another strong performance from 23-year-old right-hander Roger Clemens, who has returned from shoulder surgery performed last August.

Clemens struck out 10 and walked two in a 6-23 inning to help the Red Sox defeat Detroit 6-4.

"I was throwing hard early," said Clemens, who improved to 3-0 and recorded nine strikeouts in the first four innings. "But I'm not out to strike everyone out; these guys are really tough."

Clemens, whose first two major-league seasons were curtailed by injuries, is part of a young staff that entered Tuesday's game with a league-leading 2.80 ERA. Boston is known primarily for its offense, but if its pitchers remain healthy and consistent, the Red Sox may Detroit's chances for winning the East may drop severely with Gibson out of the lineup. Gibson was batting .359 with three homers and 24 runs scored in 41 games when he slipped going back to first on a pick-off attempt in the second inning.

"You don't compensate for a loss like that," said Tigers manager Sparky Anderson. "I have no idea of what I'm going to do. But that's what makes you a manager."

Baylor's fourth homer of the year followed Boggs' third-inning home run and gave Boston a 3-2 lead. In the fourth, Gedman's second homer and Boggs' RBI-double helped the Angels build a 5-2 lead over the Tigers.

Boggs scored Boston's first run in the first on a double, a wild pitch by Morris and an error by third baseman Darnell Coles on Jim Rice's hard ground ball.

But Coles' two-run homer, his second of the season, put the Tigers ahead 2-1 in the third. Dave Collins' seventh-inning single and Mike Laga's ninth-inning homer, his first, produced their last two runs.

Rangers 10, Blue Jays 1
At Toronto, rookie right-hander Bobby Witt scattered three hits over six innings to record his first major-league victory. And Gary Ward drove in four runs with a two-run homer and a two-run single to power the Rangers. Witt was 0-6 with Tulsa of the Texas League in 1985.

White Sox 5, Brewers 4
At Milwaukee, Harold Baines hit a three-run home run to cap a four-run seventh inning, lifting the White Sox. Joel Davis, 1-0, went eight innings to help the White Sox

Yankees' Tewksbury unafraid, gets inside on KC

By Doug Tucker
The Associated Press

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Throw baseballs at the heads of the defending world champions? New York Yankee rookie Bob Tewksbury says he wouldn't dream of it.

"I've got a lot of respect for those guys, a lot of respect, and I would never try to hit them," Tewksbury said Tuesday night after the Yankees' 5-1 victory over Kansas City was punctuated by a bench-clearing brawl.

"You have to pitch inside," Tewksbury added. "You have to establish yourself inside, and that's all I was trying to do."

Early in the game, Tewksbury, 21, whizzed a pitch past the ear of designated hitter Hal McRae and drew a warning from home plate umpire Larry McCoy.

Then in the eighth, with Tewksbury holding a 5-1 lead and Jorge Orta on third following an RBI triple, Tewksbury hit Willie Wilson on the elbow.

Wilson waved his arms as if to ask "why me?" and walked toward the mound.

But Yankee catcher Ron Hassey planted himself between Wilson and his young pitcher, and seconds later Wilson and Hassey were flailing at each other and rolling around on the ground as both dugouts emptied.

Order quickly was restored and Wilson was the only player ejected.

Wilson received comment, but not Kansas City Manager Dick Howser.

"If he continues to pitch inside, I imagine there's going to be a few more people go out to visit him," Howser said.

"You can't let yourself be intimidated. Wilson definitely made his point, and I don't blame him. If he thinks a guy's throwing at him, he's got a right to go to the mound. McRae thought he was being brushed back. I'm sticking up for my players."

Ricky Henderson, who reached base five times in the Yankees' 8-4 victory over the Royals Monday night, had a single and a triple and scored twice. Henderson bunted safely in the first inning, stole second, reached third on a groundout and scored on Don Mattingly's single.

In the fourth, Ron Hassey walked and advanced to second when Mike Easler walked, then scored on Willie Randolph's RBI single.

Henderson triple leading off the fifth and came home on Ken Griffey's sacrifice fly.

The Yankees made it 5-0 in the eighth when Mattingly led off with sent 16 batters to the plate. "There were three big errors in the inning that were inexcusable," Race said.

Trailing 4-3 in the second inning, Manchester erupted for six runs. The explosion was highlighted by an RBI triple from Mike Custer. The Indians led, 9-5, after three when Race replaced starting pitcher Paul Gavarino. Junior

Canadiens' pesky bunch frustrating the Whalers

HARTFORD (UPI) — The Adams Division final between the Montreal Canadiens and Hartford Whalers has been a series dominated not by big scorers or goaltenders, but rather by a pesky group of defensive specialists.

The so-called "big guns" of both teams have been neutralized by strong forechecking through the first three games of the series.

Montreal holds a 2-1 edge entering

Wednesday night's game at the Hartford Civic Center.

The Canadiens used a 4-1 victory in Hartford Monday night to grab the series lead. The Whalers captured the first game in the Montreal Forum, 4-1, but dropped the next one, 3-1 to come home with a split.

"Home ice is no assurance that you'll do well in the playoffs," said Montreal coach Jean Perron. "We know we haven't been playing well, so we'll have to reach back and give it something extra."

Francis is not ready to concede the series to Montreal. "We're still in this," he said. "Montreal hasn't won four games yet."

The Whalers are encouraged because they, too, have done a decent job defensively. Doug Jarvis, who played on four Montreal Stanley Cup champions, has 11 assists. "We know we haven't been playing well, so we'll have to reach Mats Naslund.

"Doug plays with a great level of confidence," said Naslund, former teammate. "He's got good anticipation, plays well in his own zone and always seems to come up with loose pucks."

But so far, the key to the series has been Carboneau's help. He's helped limit the Francis-Kevin Dineen-John Anderson line to two goals in the series and has scored three times himself.

the Indians, 1-4, were to resume action today against host East Catholic at Moriarty Field at 1 p.m.

Four Indian hurlers went to the mound. That will cause a problem for Coach Don Carter, who'll have to summon a starter for today's game. "It was awful," Race said, referring to the nightmarish sixth inning where the Indians allowed 13 RBIs.

South Windsor, 2-2.

Banking office offers pamphlets

Two new pamphlets that discuss banking and investments have been published by the state Department of Banking and are available to the public without charge.

The pamphlets, "What You Should Know About Banking in Connecticut" and "What You Should Know Before You Invest," are being made available to consumer groups, banks and other financial institutions.

Pamphlets can be obtained by calling or writing the public information officer at the state Department of Banking.

Pittston reports first-quarter loss

GREENWICH — The Pittston Co. has reported a first-quarter net loss of $835,000, or 2 cents per share, compared with a net loss of nearly $4 million, or 10 cents per share, in the first quarter of 1985.

Pittston owns the Brink's armored car company as well as coal mining operations and the Burlington Northern Air Freight system.

In issuing its quarterly report Tuesday, the Pittston said Burlington lost more than $8 million in the first quarter.

Paul W. Douglas, chairman and chief executive officer, attributed that loss to heavy startup costs for its new airlift and sorting system which began operation Dec. 30, 1985.

Pitney Bowes reports records

STAMFORD — Pitney Bowes has reported record first-quarter earnings and revenue, with income from continuing operations up 13 percent to $35.2 million and net income up 17 percent to $37.1 million.

Net income of 94 cents per share for the first three months of 1986, including gains from discontinued operations of $1.9 million in the quarter and $600,000 in the same period last year, compared with 80 cents per share in 1985.

Income from continuing operations was 89 cents per share in the first quarter this year, compared with 79 cents per share for the same period in 1985, while revenue rose 8 percent to $442.3 million, the company said Tuesday.

"These first-quarter results support our confidence in our plans for another record year in 1986," said George B. Harvey, chairman and president of Pitney Bowes. "The trend of new business during the quarter and scheduled new product introductions in all our businesses point to increasing revenue gains."

Dollar falls to new low in Tokyo

LONDON — The dollar fell to another record low in Tokyo today, its third in as many days, but then steadied at the opening of European foreign exchange.

The price of gold rose in Europe. The dollar closed in Tokyo at 167.85 yen against Tuesday's 169.35 — the previous record low close — on the back of massive speculative dollar selling, dealers said.

But in Europe the dollar opened mixed.

The dollar began trading in Frankfurt at 2.1925 marks against 2.1853 and in Zurich at 1.8402 francs against 1.8372. The dollar opened in Brussels at 45.14 francs against 45.07 and in Milan at 1,505.50 lire against 1,500.50.

The dollar retreated in London and Paris, opening at $1.52 to the pound against $1.5130 and at 6.9550 francs against 7.0050.

Gold opened in London at $347 per ounce against $345.50 and in Zurich at $347 against $344.

Silver opened in London at $5.18 per ounce against $5.09 and in Zurich at $5.15 against $5.10.

Stock market continues decline

NEW YORK — The stock market declined broadly today, continuing Tuesday's drop amid worries about the outlook for the dollar and interest rates.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials slipped 4.47 to 1,826.51 in the first hour of trading.

Losers outnumbered gainers by more than 2 to 1 in the early tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

As the dollar tumbled Tuesday in foreign exchange, bond prices fell and interest rates rose in the credit markets. Today, prices of long-term bonds lost another $10 to $15 for every $1,000 in face value.

Analysts said traders were concerned that a declining dollar would dampen foreign demand for U.S. securities such as Treasury bonds.

Lydall's first quarter called 'disappointing'

The Manchester-based Lydall Inc. reported Tuesday that sales from continuing operations for the first quarter of 1986 were down $1 million from the same period last year.

Sales from January to March of this year totaled $27.1 million, compared with $28.1 million in 1985, Lydall President and Chief Executive Officer Millard H. Pryor said in a news release.

Earnings for the first three months of 1986 were $49,000, or 17 cents per share, compared with earnings of $1 million, or 35 cents per share, for the first quarter of 1985.

The current earnings include one cent per share of Lydall's portion of CompuDyne Corp.'s stock for its second quarter, which ended March 31.

Lydall became the largest stockholder in CompuDyne last October when it bought 37 percent of the Pennsylvania-based company's common stock.

Pryor called the first-quarter results "disappointing" and said there were two reasons for the drop in sales and earnings.

First, Pryor said, there was a decline in the sale of most of the company's "traditional products." He said that Lydall also suffered unanticipated operating losses at its Chicago-based elastomer plant.

Lower sales at the Chicago plant were slightly offset by the addition of the Clifton Forge, Va., operation, which was acquired from Pantaste Inc. last January.

Lydall manufactures products used for industry, including fiber materials and engineered elastomer and fiber components.

Rogers sales improve

"After falling during the last three months of 1985, sales turned up in the first three months of this year and operations were much improved over the previous six months," Rogers President Norman L. Greenman said in a news release.

Greenman said that net income included a gain of $341,000 from the sale of the company's Flex-Key Corp. earlier this year.

Rogers Corp. is based in Rogers, Conn., and manufactures engineered materials and components for the electronics industrial market. It has a plant in Manchester.

Have trustee transfer your IRA

Investors' Guide

William A. Doyle

QUESTION: My individual retirement account is in a certificate of deposit at a local savings and loan association. When the CD matures, it will be in excess of $100,000. At that time, I would like to move half of it to another S&L or bank, so that it will all be insured. Is this possible?

ANSWER: Yes. You can move all or part of your IRA from one place to another. By doing what you have in mind, all of your IRA money will be covered by federal deposit insurance. That insurance is at each S&L and bank covers your IRA for up to $100,000, separate from other insured deposits at the same institution.

The easy way to make the move is through a "trustee-to-trustee" transfer.

Go to the S&L or bank to which you plan to move part of your IRA money and explain what you want to do. That institution will provide forms for you to fill out and will arrange to have the money transferred.

ANSWER: Nope. The entire IRA must remain in your name, as long as you live. Assuming you have named your wife as beneficiary, she'll receive the IRA when you join the choir silent. Until then, it's yours.

You can, of course, split your IRA money into separate accounts at various trustees, such as banks, savings and loan associations, mutual funds, brokerage firms and insurance companies. But each account has to be in your name.

This should not be confused with a "spousal" IRA, where some money is put into each spouse's account over a working lifetime. A spousal IRA is really two accounts. The husband owns his. The wife owns hers.

QUESTION: If I live in a state that has a state income tax but keep my money in banks in a state where there is no state income tax, do I have to pay state income tax on my interest?

ANSWER: Yes, indeed! When you live in a state with a state income tax, you are required to report and pay that tax on interest from bank accounts, no matter where you have your money.

Conversely, if you are a resident of a state without a state income tax, you're not hit with any state tax on bank interest, even if your money is on deposit in states with state income taxes.

QUESTION: I am 72, retired and living on limited income. The savings and loan association at which I have certificates of deposit is offering "capital notes" with maturities of up to 10 years, paying 12.5 percent interest — much higher than CDs.

I realize these notes are not covered by federal deposit insurance and are backed only by the S&L. Is the risk very big or just so-so?

ANSWER: It's impossible to come up with a sure answer. S&Ls and banks often raise money by selling capital notes and other debt securities. Usually, the risk involved is minor. But you can't be sure of that.

I hold the theory that retired folks on limited incomes shouldn't take on any unnecessary risks. In your shoes, I'd be inclined to keep my money in insured CDs. Yes, this advice means you'll get lower interest. But you'll have absolutely no reason to worry about your retirement nest egg. A good night's sleep can be worth more than the higher interest available from possibly risky investments.

Bhopal group to address Carbide meeting

DANBURY (UPI) — Union Carbide Corp. faced a possible challenge today at its annual meeting by supporters of the victims of a catastrophic gas leak in Bhopal, India.

The New York-based Citizens Commission on Bhopal said Tuesday it holds several proxies and will make a statement during the meeting questioning Carbide's divestiture strategies.

The annual meeting in Danbury also comes in the wake of the sale of Carbide consumer products businesses for more than $2.2 billion.

The commission plans to question whether Carbide will have sufficient assets to cover future settlements for victims of the December 1984 leak of deadly methyl isocyanate gas in Bhopal.

More than 2,000 people were killed and 200,000 injured when the gas leaked from a Carbide pesticide factory.

The citizens group, which is composed of individuals from labor, environmental, church, and academic organizations, also opposes the dollar level of the proposed settlement, said Jane Fuller, a commission staff member.

Carbide on March 24 offered victims of the Bhopal disaster a settlement of $50 million, which the company said would eventually produce a fund of $600 million.

"The appropriate figure is closer to $4 billion," Fuller said.

The chemical giant announced Monday it plans to sell its home and automotive products business,

FOCUS/Food

Spring Flair

Spring is here. Days last longer and the rich and hearty meals of winter lose their appeal. Foods that are light, easy and healthful renew spring's promise.

Choose basic ingredients that are low in calories and high in nutrition. They should offer a wide range of meal planning possibilities. And preparing food using a minimum of added fat is one of the first steps to lighter, healthier eating.

Seafood has come into its own as the protein choice for the health-conscious consumer. North Pacific halibut, a lean and tender white-fleshed fish, has an appealingly delicate flavor. It can be baked, steamed, poached or sautéed with minimum added fat in nonstick cookware. It is the ideal solution to reducing fats without sacrificing taste, appearance or ease of preparation.

California artichokes, available year-round, are at their peak in the spring months. Wonderful as fingerfood with a dip, artichokes can also be cooked in a variety of ways as shown here.

Rice, one of the world's most versatile and popular foods, is an excellent source of complex carbohydrates. Since 1/2 cup cooked rice contains only 82 calories, it is a perfect choice for today's lighter food trends. The easy-to-follow cooking chart explains types of rice and methods of cooking.

Give your spring meal planning a flair by looking at new equipment and cooking techniques and by taking a fresh look at some traditional foods.

Supermarket Shopper

Smart shoppers can save and spend at same time

By Martin Sloane
United Feature Syndicate

DEAR MARTIN: How dumb can people be? Does anyone really think they can "save" money by using coupons at the supermarket? Saving and spending are opposites. You can't do both at once.

If I buy an item for $1 and use a 25-cent coupon, I haven't saved a quarter. I've spent 75 cents! What will people wake up and face this fact?

FRANK WILLIAMS
PARAMOUNT, CALIF.

DEAR FRANK: If you didn't use the 25-cent coupon, you'd still have paid 75 cents? Of course you would have paid $1.

Every smart shopper knows that you can spend and save at the same time. When it comes to supermarket shopping, the best way to do this is to look for advertised specials and use your coupons. And when you use them in combination on the same item, you save a lot more and spend a lot less.

More people than ever before are waking up to coupon-saving opportunities. In 1985, consumers redeemed a record number of coupons for the 16th straight year. The A.C. Nielsen Clearinghouse, the largest coupon-clearing organization in the nation, reports that cents-off coupons saved smart shoppers more than $2.7 billion last year. More than 6 billion coupons were redeemed, most of them at supermarket checkout counters.

What will 1986 bring for coupon clippers? More coupons, that's for sure. In 1985, 179 billion coupons were distributed, and many industry sources believe the figure, boosted by new distribution systems such as coupon computer terminals in supermarkets, may top the 200-billion figure this year.

The manufacturers who are producing this blitzard of coupons look back fondly on the days when there was less "coupon clutter" and more excitement for competition. But their enthusiasm for the coupon is not waning. In fact, they have reason to cheer. At the recent conference of the Food Marketing Institute, a study conducted by the accounting firm Arthur Andersen & Co. indicated that the future cost-saving benefits of scanning coupons at the checkout counter appeared to be even greater than either supermarkets or manufacturers have anticipated.

THE FUTURE OF COUPONS is secure so long as we have smart shoppers like Mrs. Dorothy Pora of Gardner, Maine, the winner of this week's Smart Shopper Award.

She purchased Citrus Hill Orange Juice, regularly $1.67, on sale for 99 cents. At the checkout counter, I handed the cashier a 20-cent Citrus Hill coupon, which she stored for me. She gave me $1.60 in savings on the next double-coupon day. How I love coupons!

MHS student moonlights, preparing treats for club

By Margaret Hayden
Herald Reporter

Manchester High School junior Joanne Heavens earns extra money by preparing the sweet treats for the Women's Club of Manchester's monthly meetings. She uses a variety of recipes for her desserts, which are served to 100 to 150 club members.

Preparing the refreshments involves selecting and adapting recipes, buying ingredients, mixing, baking and packing for delivery.

"I've been doing it for four years, the last year and a half by myself," she said. She started helping her mother, Diane, who took over the project four years ago.

"If men are coming, I make something chocolate," said Joanne. Mint brownies are popular, she said. The brownies are topped first with a mint frosting; then, with chocolate.

- #### Mint brownies
- BATTER
2 eggs
1 cup sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
1/2 cup flour
FROSTING
6 tablespoons butter
3 cups powdered sugar
3 tablespoons milk
Few drops red peppermint extract
Few drops green coloring
TOPPING
3 squares unsweetened chocolate
1/2 squares semisweet chocolate
- 4 1/2 tablespoons butter
To make batter, melt butter and chocolate over very low heat and cool. Beat eggs and sugar. Add to chocolate, add vanilla. Blend in flour. Pour into an 8-by-8-inch greased pan and bake for 25 minutes at 350 degrees. Cool.
For frosting, beat butter, sugar and milk together. Add enough extract to give a mint flavor and enough coloring to make the frosting a pale green. Spread on cooled brownies. Cool in the refrigerator until firm, at least an hour.
For topping, melt together over low heat both kinds of chocolate and butter. Spread on cooled frosting by spooning on and tipping the pan. Store in refrigerator.

- #### Lemon bars
- MIXTURE 1
2 cups flour
1/2 cup powdered sugar
1 cup butter
Beat together. Pat into a 13-by-9-inch pan. Bake 18 to 20 minutes at 350 degrees.
MIXTURE 2
4 eggs
2 cups sugar
6 tablespoons lemon juice
4 tablespoons flour
Beat eggs. Gradually add sugar and continue beating. Add lemon juice. Fold in flour and baking powder. Pour mixture 2 over mixture 1 and bake at 350 degrees for 25 minutes. When cool, sprinkle with powdered sugar.
- #### Apricot bars
- 2 cups sugar
4 cups and 2 tablespoons flour
1 1/2 cups butter
2 and two-thirds cups coconut
2 eggs
1 cup chopped walnuts
1 teaspoon vanilla
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 8- or 9-ounce jar apricot jam
Cream sugar and butter. Add eggs and vanilla. Stir flour and salt. Add gradually to sugar mixture. Mix well. Use hands, if necessary. Add nuts and coconut. Put one-half mixture into greased 18-by-15-inch pan. Press firmly. Cover with jam. Add remaining mixture on top. Bake at 350 degrees for 35 to 40 minutes.
Raspberry jam may be used instead of apricot jam.

Spring lamb: distinctive and succulent and moist

Microwave Kitchen

Marge Churchill

Among the most welcome additions to spring menus is lamb. Now available in local markets, lamb offers a delightful change from the usual selection of meats.

The flavor of lamb is distinctive and succulent, the meat tender and moist.

Lamb cooked in the microwave will be juicy, tender and give excellent results. Try some of these lamb recipes and enjoy rave reviews from family and friends who share the pleasure of eating this spring specialty.

"Spring" lamb is a confusing term. Some butchers use it to designate any lamb which is under a year old. Others reserve the name, spring, for young lamb and market heavier, older animals simply as "lamb." To add to the confusion, a few lambs are born throughout the year, so some genuine spring lamb is available in the fall and winter.

Young spring lamb has dark pink flesh and porous red bones; the legs weigh 4 to 5 1/2 pounds. Average or fall lambs have light red flesh, porous red bones and the leg weighs 6 to 7 pounds.

Yearling lamb or young mutton is marketed in the winter and early spring. This lean meat is medium-red and the bones are white. A full yearling weighs 7 to 9 pounds. Yearling lamb is tender, but has a strong flavor.

Almost any herb goes well with lamb. Silver 2 or 3 cloves of peeled garlic and insert them in the meat. Other herbs to use are rosemary or thyme. Try tarragon without the garlic for variety. Lamb needs no tenderizing, but a wine or lemon marinade will enhance its flavor.

- #### Lamb chop
- 1 lamb chop, 3/4 inch thick
1/2 cup olive oil
1/2 cup sherry
One-third cup elder vinegar
1 medium onion, chopped
2 tablespoons Worcestershire pepper seasoning
1 teaspoon lemon juice
2 cloves garlic, pressed or finely chopped
1/2 teaspoon rosemary
2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
- Place lamb chops in an 12-by-18-inch utility dish. Mix all of the above ingredients in a 2-cup measure. Microwave 1 1/2 minutes on high, or until hot. Pour over chops. Cover. Let stand for 30 minutes, or overnight, refrigerated.
- #### Lemon marinated lamb
- 1/2 cup lemon juice
1/2 cup olive oil
2 cloves garlic, crushed
Combine all ingredients in a small mixing bowl.
- #### Lamb with herb mustard coating
- 1/2 teaspoon rosemary
1 clove garlic, mashed
1 tablespoon soy sauce
1/2 cup Dijon mustard
1/2 cup olive oil
Leg of lamb (a small leg of lamb, or a larger more mature lamb shank half)
- Mix rosemary, garlic, soy and mustard in a small bowl. Using a wire whip, beat in oil a few drops at a time to make an emulsion. This makes about 1 cup of coating.
- Place the lamb on a rack in a baking dish, fat side down. If your oven permits the use of foil, shield the end of the leg bone with aluminum foil to cover about 2 inches of meat. This will prevent overcooking.
- Spread half the coating on top of the lamb before cooking. If using a probe, insert it into the meat so that it is not touching the fat or bone, and the top is in the center of a large meat muscle. Microwave at 50% (medium) power: 120 degrees for rare lamb; 135 degrees for medium; 150 degrees for well-done.
- If you are not using a probe, but are cooking by time rather than temperature, allow about: 10 minutes per pound for rare; 11 minutes per pound for medium; 12 minutes per pound for well-done.
- Estimate total cooking time and turn the lamb over about halfway through cooking. Drain the fat from the dish and spread the remaining coating mixture on the lamb after turning. Continue to drain the fat from the dish as it accumulates during cooking. Turn the dish during cooking, as required by your oven to give even cooking results. Serve with the cooking liquid.

Thoughts

"Blessed are they who hunger and thirst for righteousness; they shall be filled."
 Overview is important! In business terms, it's goals and objectives or plans for the future. We're asked to think about the future in our earliest years of school, and we never stop, no matter what age we are. Retirees are as involved in planning as graduate students and business executives.
 This beatitude suggests that a key focus in all our planning be "that which is right," especially as it would be right in God's eyes. Our focus should go beyond the pleasurable, and satisfying, and serving and stretch into the spheres of the helpful, the equitable, the just, and the caring.
 I'm not suggesting that these adjectives are mutually exclusive, but that an overview of life that asks the question, "What might my creator God want me to do?" is a good place to start all planning.
 For those willing to ask this question the beatitude, succinctly stated by Jesus, says, "You shall be filled." Guidance, support, strength will be granted, though not necessarily in the ways that you might expect. But the key is to hunger and thirst for that which is right, to knock and it shall be opened to you; seek and you will find.

Advice

Stealing adds guilt to grief

Dear Abby
 Abigail Van Buren

D E A R A B B Y: Twenty-two years ago my 2-year-old son died in a tragic way. His death was a great shock to me. I expected to go through the normal grieving process and I did. However, something unexpected happened. I started to steal. I had no use for anything I took, but I was helpless to stop. Even more disturbing, I stole from people I love and am very close to. This started soon after the death of my son and stopped a few months ago.
 The death of my son and the terrible guilt I felt over stealing nearly drove me to suicide twice. I want very much to return the items I took and apologize to the owners, but I am afraid they will probably say they "understand," but they'll never trust me in their homes again.
 Please don't tell me to seek professional help because my compulsion to steal seems to have left me as quickly as it came.
 I need some help. I've never stolen anything in my life before this. Why did I steal - especially from people I'm close to? The guilt and confusion are weighing me down. Please help me. I want to make everything better, but I don't know how.

CONFUSED AND GUILTY
D E A R C O N F U S E D: Your compulsion to steal (transitory kleptomania) was triggered by your tragic loss. You unconsciously tried to compensate for your loss by taking from others because something had been taken from you. You stole from those close to you because you unconsciously envied and resented them for not having had to suffer the way you did.
 You need more help than I can give you in a letter. You seem to be a fine and decent person who was temporarily destabilized by a terrible loss. You stole to "equalize" things. It was sick behavior and sickness is no crime. Forgive yourself, my friend. Please see a therapist and a clergyman - if you have one. You need absolution and counseling. Write again soon and let me know how you are doing.
D E A R A B B Y: I met a beautiful girl last year and fell head over heels in love with her. I am 23 and she's 19. We are both college students. She attends Montana State University, and I attend the University of Idaho. We plan to marry after I graduate.
 I will begin my senior year in August. Now my dilemma: I have asked her to transfer to the

Dear Abby

University of Idaho so we can be together. She refused, although her credits are transferable. I have even offered to pay her out-of-state tuition. She says, "It took me too long to find friends where I'm at."
 Abby, I cannot transfer to Montana State. What should I do?
PERPLEXED AT U.I.
D E A R P E R P L E X E D: Your "dilemma" could be a blessing in disguise. The separation will give you your love time to mature, which will benefit both of you. For now, don't pressure her.
 If your love doesn't survive the separation, rejoice. It was not meant to be.
D E A R A B B Y: In defense of mules and jackasses: If a mule or jackass gets loose in a barn and gets into the feed, he won't eat only as much as he needs, then quit. A horse will eat until he's so overtired that he's sick.
 You can hitch a mule or jackass to an oversized load and he will pull his maximum, then quit before he overexerts himself. A horse will push himself to the point of physical exhaustion because he doesn't have sense enough to quit.
 If anyone tells you that you have the brains of a jackass, take it as a compliment. But if you're told you have "horse sense," it's an insult.
WEP IN MINNESOTA
D E A R W E P: You could have fooled me. I always thought that horse sense could be found in a stable mind, and at the racetrack I've wondered if the jockeys were running or betting.

Dr. Gott
 Peter Gott, M.D.

D E A R D R. G O T T: I am confused by all the medical advice offered on TV and radio and in books and newspapers and magazines, etc., that seem to speak with a great deal of authority on medical subjects.
D E A R R E A D E R: Much medical advice offered on TV and radio and in books and newspapers and magazines, etc., that seem to speak with a great deal of authority on medical subjects.
 About three years ago, I developed a condition in which my foot became numb and ached, but only a few minutes of walking or standing on hard surfaces. The numbness eventually extended to the buttocks and the right foot. All traces of numbness disappear after sitting for 30 seconds. I'm presently on Lasol and smoke 30 cigarettes a day. I've been to a podiatrist, an M.D. and a chiropractor with no results. Any suggestions?
D E A R R E A D E R: Your problem may be caused by a circulatory insufficiency or an irritated nerve. I check it out with a neurologist. As a start, stop smoking, or at least reduce your cigarette consumption to no more than 10 per day. Furthermore, a modest reduction of 20 to 30 pounds may help relieve your symptoms.

D E A R D R. G O T T: My mother, 80, was diagnosed as having cirrhosis of the liver. She has never consumed alcohol, so we assumed it was nutritionally caused. However, I always thought she ate reasonably balanced meals. I'm wondering if it could have been caused by the pills she took for 25 years to control her diabetes. Is there anything that can be done?
D E A R R E A D E R: Cirrhosis simply means scarring of the liver. It can result from a variety of agents that cause liver inflammation. In the United States, most cirrhosis is caused by alcohol abuse. This does not seem to be true in your mother's case. Therefore, I recommend that she be seen by a gastroenterologist who specializes in liver diseases. These doctors are sometimes called hepatologists. Although the cirrhosis is permanent and incurable, your mother will want to have a specific diagnosis established so that further damage can be avoided.
 Dr. Gott's new Health Report on weight loss tells you how to lose weight wisely and keep it off. For your copy, send $1 plus your name and address to P.O. Box 2397, Cincinnati, OH 45201. Be sure to ask for "Winning the Battle of the Bulge."

D E A R D O R I S: Avocados may be frozen. Peel and pit them, then mash or puree them. Since avocados darken easily, you'll need to use some anti-oxidation agent. Blend in a tablespoon of lemon juice or one-half teaspoon citric acid, plus a dash of salt to each two mashed avocados before packing the puree in airtight freezer containers and sealing them.
D E A R P O L L Y: Save full quarter-pound margarine wrappers to wrap potatoes in for baking. Also use them to rub the cake pan before dusting the pan with flour.

Switch means GOP primary will take place

By George Lovno
Herald Reporter

Republican Registrar of Voters Mary Willhide set the stage for a May 20 GOP primary this morning by reversing her controversial decision to invalidate a number of primary petition sheets collected by supporters of gubernatorial candidate Gerald Labriola.

The turnaround means a threatened court battle to overturn her decision will not be waged, but Willhide said she still believes she was correct when she rejected 135 signatures collected by Republican town directors William Diana and Thomas Ferguson.

"I have got to change my position, but I still maintain my interpretation is right," she said. "It has been a gray area for years and I was doing my job."

The reversal means both parties will hold delegate primaries next month. On the Democratic side, Toby Moffett has filed a challenge slate against the town committee-endorsed slate, which contains only delegates for incumbent Gov. William O'Neill.

Willhide said she was forced to reverse herself because Town Attorney Kevin O'Brien advised her Wednesday afternoon she was in "a no-win situation." She said an opinion issued by the secretary of the state's office holding that she should have accepted the 135 signatures made any court battle useless.

"I'm not happy," she said. Willhide based her earlier decision on a state statute that forbids delegates on an endorsed slate from collecting primary petition signatures on behalf of a challenge slate of delegates that favors another candidate.

Ferguson and Diana, who support Labriola, are on the 16-member endorsed slate that contains mostly supporters of GOP gubernatorial candidate Richard Bozzuto. However, the two are also on the challenge slate that favors Labriola and wants to represent the town at this summer's nominating convention.

On Friday, they submitted what proved to be the signatures of 420 registered Republicans - one more than the number required to force a primary.

But on Monday, Willhide rejected 135 of those names because they were collected by Ferguson

Two groups claim role in bombing

LONDON (AP) - A bomb exploded before dawn today outside the ground floor office of British Airways on Oxford Street, London's main shopping thoroughfare. The blast touched off a fire, but few people were in the area and only one passer-by was treated for shock.

Two groups claimed responsibility for the bombing, the latest in a series of terrorist acts aimed at British targets since Britain supported the U.S. bombing raid on Libya.

Press Association, the British news agency, said it was contacted by the Angry Brigade, an anarchist group, which claimed it planned the bomb in retaliation for British involvement in the bombing of Libya. Also claiming responsibility, Press Association said, was the Scottish National Liberation Army, a group seeking independence for Scotland.

The 4:50 a.m. blast and fire blew out one large window in the six-story building, and shattered and blackened others. Charred walls could be seen inside. The sidewalk was covered with glass shards, and there was some apparent structural damage.

The explosion also blew out windows in other buildings in the area, and police said it was heard several miles away.

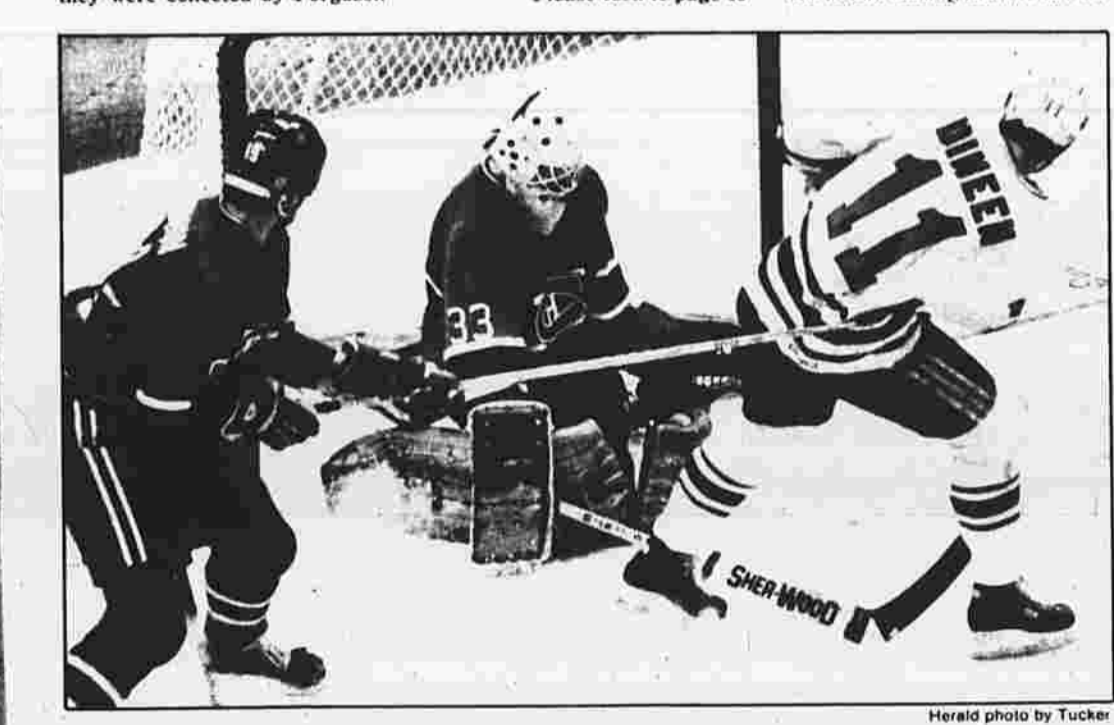

Police cordoned off Oxford Street to search for other devices, snarling morning rush-hour traffic. The street reopened seven hours after the explosion, but the area around state-owned British Airways was sealed off as forensic experts went over the debris.

Police said they closed Victoria Station, the busiest in London, and evacuated the area for several minutes this morning because of a bomb scare which turned out to be a hoax.

No one was reported injured by the explosion on Oxford Street, but a woman was treated for shock, said Chief Superintendent Hugh Blenkins of Scotland Yard. Firefighters extinguished the fire that broke out after the explosion in about an hour, confining it mostly to the airline office, one of 10 in London.

American Airlines and American Express have counters in the British Airways office, but Scotland Yard spokesman Philip Powell said the British airline appeared to be the target of the bomb. The U.S. Embassy is a few hundred yards from the building where the bomb went off.

The British government has been severely criticized at home and abroad for allowing the United States to use F-111 warplanes based in Britain in the April 15 bombing raids on Libya.

Lingering cold snap damages fruit

By The Associated Press

A cold snap lingered today from the Great Lakes to the Carolinas after temperatures plunged to record lows in 14 states, causing millions of dollars of damage to fruit crops and dropping up to 2 feet of snow as winter weather gave the East one last shiver.

The surprise snowfall reached as far south as Virginia, snarling traffic and closing schools in New York and New Jersey.

"I couldn't believe it," said Christine Wilsey, a New York state police dispatcher in Oneonta, where 6 inches of snow fell Wednesday. "On Saturday, I was out in my backyard in a bathing suit."

The highest reported snowfall was 24 inches in Eldred, N.Y., in the Catskill Mountains near the Pennsylvania border.

"It is wicked traveling," said Gene Hathaway of the National Weather Service at Newark (N.J.) International Airport, where two-thirds of an inch of snow fell, breaking the old record of just a trace set in 1963 and 1988.

Record low temperatures Wednesday extended as far south as Miami, where the 37-degree reading was 2 degrees colder than the 1970 record, and as far west as Lake Charles, La., where the 48 degrees was 2 degrees lower than a

Ruling frustrates Republicans

Staff and wire reports

Democratic Gov. William A. O'Neill's administration has some breathing room today after a decision by a federal judge made it unlikely that Connecticut Republicans will be allowed to open some of their primaries to unaffiliated voters this year.

The stay was granted Wednesday by Judge Irving R. Kaufman of the 2nd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in New York. Kaufman originally ruled in favor of open primaries, which the O'Neill administration opposes, but now wants to wait for the U.S. Supreme Court to hear the case.

The high court is expected to hear the case after September, when the primaries would be held. That means that unless Kaufman's decision to grant a stay is appealed and reversed, there is no chance that this year's expected GOP gubernatorial primary will be open to the state's 600,000 independent voters.

"We think it's a recognition of the significance of the case," said James E. Kennedy, spokesman for Attorney General Joseph I. Lieberman, who had sought the stay at O'Neill's request.

Republican state Chairman Thomas J. D'Amore Jr. said he did not
