Jackson pushes Pepsi

Who else but Michael Jackson would have a new conference at the end of the world? Jackson appeared at New York's Red Parrot disco for the formal announcement of his three-year, $50 million endorsement deal with Pepsi-Cola. "Thank you. This is a great honor," he whispered before turning over the speaking duties to his manager and Pepsi President Roger Enrico. Jackson will make at least two commercials in English and one in Spanish, which will be shown worldwide in 1987. He will write two new songs for them and may direct one spot and a track from his forthcoming album will be used on the commercials. Enrico said. The matter of Jackson's 1983 Pepsi commercial—the one in which his greased-down hair was accidentally ignited by fireworks—was an unavoidable topic at the news conference. "We took all the precautions in the world last time," Enrico said. "But I don't think you'll see any pyrotechnics any more."

Liz and friends

Elizabeth Taylor was again on the arm of George Hamilton as the Film Society of Lincoln Center honored her with a $200-per-person gala. Taylor was presented with a special award for her contribution to film—an 18-inch polished stainless steel film strip with a twist on a gold-plated brass base. The tribute was presented by a dinner at Tavern-on-the-Green, where Taylor was two hours late. In addition to Hamilton, who was Taylor's Oscar night date, Lillian Gish, Mia Farrow, Marlene Dietrich, Alan Powell, Kurt Vonnegut, Dick Cavett, Roddy McDowall, Mike Nichols and the star's mother, Sarah Taylor, 90, showed up.

Brother of Roots

The brother of "Roots" author Alex Haley is running for the Senate seat being vacated by the retiring Charles Mathias. R-Md. George Haley, 60, stood on the steps of the Annapolis statehouse, not far from where his ancestor Kunta Kinte arrived from Africa 300 years ago, and said: "The descendant of a man who came to this place in chains can now stand free and proud before you, my fellow citizens, to ask for your support and your votes." Haley proclaimed himself "the one Republican who can help our party retain control of the Senate." Haley lives in the Washington, D.C., suburb of Silver Spring and is a former Kansas state senator. He also served in the Nixon administration as general counsel for the Mass Transit Administration and worked as general counsel to the U.S. Information Agency.

Wheaties cover boy

Move over, Mary Lou Retton. Chicago Bears star Walter Payton is next up on the Wheaties cereal box. "To be on the box is sort of like a fairy tale that eventually came true," said Payton, who insisted he has eaten Wheaties since he was a child. "Because (in the world we live in, it's a fantasy." Payton, the NFL's career rushing leader and possessor of a squeaky-clean image, will start appearing on the box in the fall, following in the tradition of Retton, Bob Richards, Bruce Jenner and Pete Rose. "It's an honor because of the past history that goes into it and the people they selected in the past," Payton said. "It's really hard to find the words to express it." Asked if he would invite massive teammate William "The Refrigerator" Perry over for a box of Wheaties, Payton said, "I might as well—probably four or five cases."

New director starts learning ropes

Board supports plan for traffic study

Members of the Board of Directors Tuesday unanimously backed a plan to conduct an $11,000 study of traffic patterns in the part of northern Manchester known as the Interstate 84 corridor. The study, which had been recommended by the Planning and Zoning Commission and the Economic Development Commission, was conceived to help town officials gain a better understanding of what type of road network is needed in the area, which is expected to be the scene of rapid development. Town Manager Robert Weiss told the directors the study is needed because of the large amount of new commercial development the area will house. Currently, traffic information comes from individual developers who conduct their own studies in order to get their projects approved by zoning authorities. These studies provide the town with a lot of data, but Weiss said a town study is needed to provide a comprehensive understanding. "We have never had a complete package," he said. "We want to try to anticipate everything that will develop in the area."

The study will be funded with money the town receives from the State Aid Highway program. It is expected to begin in about a month and take three to four months to complete. Town Planning Director Mark Pellegrini has said he wants to establish a review subcommittee involving members of the PZC, the EDC, the town engineer and other traffic experts to oversee the study. Al Lutz, a resident of Stephen Street, told the board Tuesday he supported the plan. "It's long overdue and I applaud it," he said. However, Lutz said a similar study is needed for sections of town

Police say sex report was false

A 16-year-old Manchester girl was charged Monday night with falsely reporting to police that she had been sexually assaulted at her home on April 28. The report led to an arrest. Kathryn Jean Ludwig of 12 Summit St. was arrested on a warrant charging her with falsely reporting an incident and making a false statement. Police said the Ludwig told them on April 28 that a former boyfriend had approached her outside her home and had followed her into the house against her wishes. She also said she attempted to assault her sexually. The man was to be presented in court Tuesday on the assault charges and a first-degree burglary charge in connection with the alleged incident, police said. Police said the charges would be dropped. Ludwig was released on a $5,000 non-surety bond for presentation in court on May 12.

Settlement spurs questions, warnings

Under an agreement that briefly posed conflict-of-interest questions, the town will pay $11,337 to avoid a lawsuit in an incident involving a Manchester woman whose car was hit by a town bulldozer on Tolland Turnpike last October. While the out-of-court settlement approved Tuesday by the Board of Directors means no legal action will be taken against the town, questions were raised by a number of board members concerning a possible conflict of interest involving an insurance adjuster who helped negotiate the agreement. The town had originally proposed to pay Angela Botti $3,000 for the personal injuries she suffered in the mishap. Assistant Town Attorney James M. Higgins Jr. told the directors Tuesday, in order to get the matter settled, the town also agreed to cover the damage to her car, he said. The questions arose because the $11,337 includes an additional $348 under the personal injury action which will be paid to The Travelers Insurance Co. for processing costs. Botti was insured by the Phoenix Insurance Co., which is owned by The Travelers, Higgins explained. The company that helped the town negotiate the settlement with Botti, Constitution State Service Co., is also owned by The Travelers, he said. "It's very unusual to see $348 mentioned," said Director Stephen Penny. Director Stephen Cassano said the settlement creates the impression that Constitution State added the $348 to help its parent company. But Assistant Town Attorney John Cooney said after the meeting that it was only "coincidental" that Travelers owned companies on both sides of the settlement. "The town is being fairly treated by the adjuster," Cooney said. "We're confident in the ability of (Constitution State) to do the job," he said. Before approving the settlement, the directors considered postponing action until the matter was explored further. However, Cooney and Higgins both urged a rapid settlement in order to prevent a more expensive court case. "I think a delay would be adverse to the town," Cooney told the board. After approving the agreement, the directors instructed the town attorney's office to watch for similar situations in the future. And to prevent such accidents from happening again, the directors urged Public Works Director George Kandra to make sure another town vehicle is traveling in front of a town bulldozer when it is being driven on the roads. Kandra said that having an escort vehicle is usual town policy. When the accident occurred, there were not enough vehicles to ride in tandem because crews were cleaning up the damage from Hurricane Gloria, he said. The settlement came before the board because it must act for the town in all insurance settlements.

Director Kenneth Tedford said the Love Lane work should be delayed because the street might be realigned and the sidewalk could have to be redone. Director Stephen Penny questioned the need for a walk on East Middle Turnpike near the American Legion building. He said the walk might not be needed because there is little pedestrian traffic in that area. Kandra said he will look into the matter and report back to the board in June.

Uoff goal is quality of students

WEST HARTFORD (UPI) — The University of Hartford, facing declining student enrollment and battling to keep its budget in the black, must strive to improve the quality of its students, the school's president said.

President Stephen Joel Trachtenberg told the university's Board of Regents at its annual meeting Tuesday that the pressures confronting the school concern declining numbers of graduating high school seniors and competition among higher education institutions to admit the best students.

Faculty members have also demanded the university bring in better students as well as more students, Trachtenberg said. "We are trying, in effect, to climb Mount Everest to meet the demographic challenge and to keep our budget in the black while also improving the quality of the students who choose to come to this university," Trachtenberg said.

Only by pulling together at levels that are quite unprecedented can we stand a chance of reaching our goal, he said. "Some of the same academic and demographic problems the University of Hartford is confronting are being experienced by other colleges and universities throughout the nation, he said.

"Either we continue to do business as usual while complaining how difficult and potentially fatal our lives are being made by the many pressures of the outside world, or we pull our act together in ways that the rest of the world, academic and non-academic, will admire and eventually seek to emulate," Trachtenberg said.

The university should begin to face problems of credit-hour management, the condition of the campus physical plant, scheduling and "pulling in the groups with money to spend — the so-called 'non-traditional' students," Trachtenberg said.

"In other words, team, we need to get involved — all of us — in scoring some goals where our academic and non-academic old coach is going to look to the world like some kind of run down Napoleon," Trachtenberg said.

NAACP starts to stop bias

NEW HAVEN — Southern Connecticut State University has its first black full professor and the head of the local NAACP says the appointment will help "eradicate discrimination" in the state's higher education system.

But Haywood Hooks Jr., president of the New Haven chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, said Tuesday that more minority members need to be named as senior faculty members in state colleges and universities.

SCSU promoted Sandra Cavanaugh Holley, an associate professor for communication disorders, to the rank of full professor on May 2 following an eight-month peer review process.

The NAACP has focused on the hiring and promotion policies of Southern in the past few months. On April 29, Hooks wrote a letter to Gov. William A. O'Neill expressing the NAACP's concern over the lack of high-ranking black and Hispanic faculty members at Southern.

Hooks suggested there was "no real commitment" by state education officials to implement a plan that would promote minority affairs at state colleges and universities.

"We are pleased at Dr. Holley's promotion, but we are not yet satisfied because there is such a great need for minorities in senior faculty positions at SCSU and the state higher education system in general, Hooks said.

Connecticut In Brief

Firefighters battle deep-wood blaze

WATERTOWN — Firefighters have extinguished what they called the worst brush fire in the town's history, ending a day-and-a-half long battle against an arson blaze that blackened 400 acres deep inside a state forest.

The firefighters kept watch over the scene at the Mattatuck State Forest until late Tuesday night after having been joined earlier in the day by several dozen firefighters from neighboring communities and the state forester's office.

The fire is the last of four major brush fires which seven fire departments battled for more than 24 hours Monday and Tuesday.

Officials said the fires were deliberately set.

Trash may have no place to go

STRATFORD — Town officials were hoping today the state Department of Environmental Protection would approve dumping Stratford's 120 tons per day of trash in an eastern Connecticut town.

A private landfill in Brooklyn has agreed to accept the trash on an interim basis while Stratford's proposed trash-to-energy plant is being built, and on a permanent basis to dispose of its ash after the plant is built.

However, Brooklyn's selectmen voted unanimously Monday to take the landfill by condemnation. The town's voters now must approve the recommendation.

Nurses Day highlights low pay

NEW HAVEN — National Nurses Day was celebrated in Connecticut with a call for increased pay in a profession that workers feel has become more complicated and less appreciated.

Rachel Rockovitch, vice president of nursing at Yale-New Haven Hospital, told an audience of about 200 co-workers commemorating the event Tuesday that their profession requires increased levels of education but remains among the lowest paid.

"However, we are catching up," Rockovitch said. "About 15 years ago, we were envious of the teachers because teachers were getting a lot of salary. Now, the teachers envy us, but both of us are still underpaid."

Divers try to hook up sunken barge

NEW LONDON — Divers working in the turbulent waters of The Race on Long Island Sound today will try to begin hooking up a sunken barge loaded with 400,000 gallons of heating oil. Coast Guard officials said.

The $2.2 million operation, expected to take four weeks, began Monday when an unmanned diving bell sculled the upside-down barge in 185 feet of water.

On Tuesday, divers working from the bell inspected the stern where one of four, 3-inch thick cables will be attached.

Wildlife refuge gets final link

MILFORD — The final link in a wildlife refuge along the Connecticut coast is now in place, assuring the protection of nesting grounds for several species of migratory birds.

Ownership of Milford Point, a 10-acre barrier beach at the mouth of the Housatonic River, was transferred Monday from private owners to the Connecticut chapter of the Nature Conservancy.

At a ceremony in Milford, the property became the latest addition to the 145-acre Connecticut Coastal Wildlife Refuge. The Nature Conservancy bought the property for $650,000 from Fambur Realty Corp., a Brooklyn-based company that had been unable to obtain permits to build 22 beachfront condominiums on the site.

Labriola is the big winner in 'Super Tuesday' contests

WEST HARTFORD (AP) — Gerald Labriola says the "Super Tuesday" results make him the front-runner in the race for this year's Republican gubernatorial nomination.

Runner-up Julie D. Belaga says she's going to have to "sit down and assess it." And Richard C. Bozzuto says he doesn't care about the Super Tuesday results because he's closing in on the number of convention delegates he needs to clinch the nomination in July.

Labriola, a former state senator from Naugatuck, won 57 of the 72 convention delegates at stake in the elections in six towns around Hartford that were open to Republicans and unaffiliated voters.

He won all of the delegates from four of the towns, including the 30 delegates from West Hartford, the largest delegation heading to the July nominating convention.

Belaga won 15 of the delegates while Bozzuto had none. "The people have responded to my message of growth and opportunity and solutions and hope," she said. Labriola had spent $80,000 on the six contests. "With these victories, we feel a great momentum and building. We're the front-runner."

Towns taking part in the contests, dreamed up by Republican State Chairman Thomas J. D'Amore Jr., were Granby, Newington, Simsbury, South Windsor, West Hartford and Wethersfield.

When the town vote totals were combined, Labriola had 3,110, Belaga had 2,888 and Bozzuto had 1,724.

Combined with his April 1 win of 22 delegates in Fairfield, Labriola now has 79 delegates committed to him.

Belaga won one Fairfield delegate and now has 16. She said she had spent about $40,000, while Bozzuto forces estimated they spent $50,000.

Labriola criticized Bozzuto for appealing to "one-issue" voters, such as anti-abortionists and for allegedly sending out mailings misrepresenting her voting record. Labriola shrugged off her criticism saying he had won fairly.

Belaga said the contests were worth it if for no other reason than the media attention that had been focused on the GOP candidates.

Bozzuto said he was not discouraged.

aged: "I'm perfectly happy with the results. I said from the beginning that this was a considerable waste of resources for the number of votes it would turn out. Nothing has changed in my mind."

He said he has 350 convention delegates committed to him, out of a total of 1,095.

Of the 64,500 Republicans and unaffiliated voters eligible to vote in the six towns, about 12 percent went to the polls.

D'Amore said he was disappointed by the turnout, but said his goal of attracting publicity had been achieved.

As for Labriola, he said: "It's an impressive victory. I don't think it's going to mean anything for Dick (Bozzuto), who had a very strong base going into this. And Julie, with a couple of wins under her belt, is in the race to stay, too."

Still, he said of Bozzuto, "I think this hurt Dick tonight. I think it helped Jerry to a large extent and to a lesser extent it helped Julie."

D'Amore said he was surprised at the amount of money spent by Labriola.

The fourth GOP gubernatorial hopeful, former state Sen. Romeo G. Petroni of Ridgefield, decided to stay out of the Super Tuesday contests, preferring to concentrate on the delegate primary in Stamford on May 20.

Here are the town-by-town results:

Granby: Five delegates. Belaga 221, Labriola 216, Bozzuto 41.
Newington: Nine delegates. Labriola 312, Bozzuto, 284, Belaga 191.
Simsbury: 12 delegates. Labriola 593, Belaga 471, Bozzuto, 214.
South Windsor: Six delegates. Labriola 162, Bozzuto 142, Belaga 90.
West Hartford: 30 delegates. Labriola 1,429; Belaga 1,355, Bozzuto 496.
Wethersfield: 10 delegates. Belaga 569, Bozzuto 417, Labriola 401.

Tort reform bill sent to governor

By Mark A. Dupuis
United Press International

HARTFORD — House Republicans knocked down a second series of Democratic amendments and early today approved a complex bill designed to ease the insurance crisis by attacking massive jury damage awards in lawsuits.

The House, which had passed the so-called tort reform bill after a seven-hour debate last week, today approved changes enacted in the Senate and shipped the final version off to Gov. William A. O'Neill by a 112-32 vote.

O'Neill, a Democrat, has given no indication of whether he will sign the bill, which was worked out by leaders of the Republican majorities in the House and Senate under intensive lobbying from insurers and trial lawyers.

By the time the vote was taken shortly before 2:30 a.m., opponents of the bill were complaining nearly as much about the late-night debates and way the bill was debated as about its components.

More than 70 amendments were filed with the House during the two rounds of debate on the bill. At least one Democratic amendment was approved in the earlier debate, but it and all others filed Tuesday were rejected in the end.

The complicated bill is designed to change laws governing civil suits and damage awards in an attempt to help ease a crisis in the availability and affordability of insurance coverage.

The final version of the bill deleted earlier provisions that would have prohibited suits against municipalities or their employees in cases where a person is hurt as the result of negligence by a lifeguard, teacher or municipal supervisor.

The bill would limit contingency fees lawyers can charge in civil suits, allow large damage awards to be paid out over several years and limit the liability of cities and towns in certain suits.

It also would ease a current system under which a defendant found partly responsible for damages can be required to pay the full damage award if others found responsible are unable to pay their share.

The powerful insurance industry lobby has pushed hard for "tort reform," a broad massive jury awards in civil suits for making insurance expensive and hard to find in some cases.

Trial lawyers pushed unsuccessfully to kill the bill, saying the insurance crisis on industry pricing mistakes. Lawyers also claimed the reforms would put caps on human pain and suffering.

The wide-ranging gambling bill approved Tuesday also would tighten state regulation of bingo games and order a study of whether Connecticut should establish a "video lottery" where bettors play for money on machines similar to video games.

The bill would have the state produce sealed tickets for sale to churches and other non-profit groups for sale during bingo games as well as for sale on a one-year trial basis at bars run by non-profit organizations.

The tickets, which give buyers a chance at cash prizes, are widely sold now although they are illegal, said Rep. Eugene A. Migliaro, R-Wolcott, co-chairman of the Public Safety Committee.

He said the idea behind legalizing the sale of the tickets and adopting the new regulatory scheme for bingo games is designed not to raise money for the state but to place controls on gambling that already exists.

Under the bill, the state would collect a fee on sealed tickets it sold to non-profit groups and a share of the handle at certain bingo games. In both cases, the money would go to cover state administration costs.

Paul Bernstein, legislative liaison for the state Division of Special Revenue, said the more recent figures showed that the total handle for bingo games in Connecticut is about $10 million a year.

"We know it's a lot more than that. What this law will do is eliminate a lot of skimming we know is going on," said Bernstein, whose agency would be given the job of regulating both the ticket sales and bingo games.

O'Neill gets bill to end parkway tolls

HARTFORD (UPI) — A bill to end toll collections on the Merritt and Wilbur Cross parkways in the next two years was on its way today to Gov. William A. O'Neill for his expected signature.

The House voted 84-66 Tuesday to do away with the parkway tolls as part of a $276.6 million transportation bonding package, which was then approved on a 146-3 vote and sent to O'Neill.

The bill calls for an end to collections of the 25-cent tolls at toll plazas in Greenwich, Milford and Wallingford no later than July 1, 1988, and earlier if toll revenues are sufficient to finance removal of the toll plazas.

The Legislature's move to end toll collections on the parkways follows the removal of tolls last year on the Connecticut Turnpike and the Putnam and Bissell bridges in the Hartford areas.

Existing state law also calls for removal of tolls from the Charter Oak Bridge in Hartford once repairs to the bridge are completed.

Rep. Christine M. Niedermeier, D-Fairfield, said the removal of tolls from the turnpike has increased traffic significantly along that artery as motorists avoid the parkways and their continued tolls.

Niedermeier and other toll opponents said the collections are discriminatory because they only affect some parts of the state. They also cited inconvenience and safety concerns resulting from toll collections.

Toxic spill

Firefighters spread lime over a toxic chemical spill in Glastonbury Tuesday. About 75 people were evacuated from their businesses and homes, including 39 who were treated for minor respiratory problems. A container in the back of a delivery truck sprang a leak, spilling hydrochloric and nitric acids onto a road leading to Quality Name Plate Inc. and the Peerless Woodworking Corp., police said.

OPINION

On budgets and housing

The budget passed by the Board of Directors Monday night was Democratic through and through.

As the process of adoption was under way, members of the majority took turns offering motions in favor of the appropriations they had agreed upon, then unanimously voted for those motions. They unanimously voted against the amendments offered by the Republicans wherever the minority had settled on a figure that differed from theirs.

Almost all aspects of the 100-minute budget meeting were highly mechanical, and only on a couple of occasions was there any disagreement about the policy implications of what was being discussed.

That was probably the case because in spite of the partisan rivalry on the approval process the minority party offered few real alternatives.

The Republicans favored a General Fund budget of $50,379,465. The one passed by the Democrats was $50,309,127.

The Republican would have set a tax rate of 47.11 mills. The Democrats set a rate of 47.30 mills.

The biggest financial distinction between the two budgets was that in proposing the mill rate they did, the Democrats assumed the tax-collection rate would be 99 percent, while the Republicans would have relied on 99.25 percent, which seems rather risky. In addition, the Democrats planned to use $970,000 of surplus where the Republicans would have used $1,050,000. The higher collection rate and the greater use of surplus account for the fact that the Republicans came out with a lower mill rate for slightly higher spending.

But the GOP offered a responsible alternative in at least one area, only to be ignored.

The contribution came in the minority's recommendation on housing. The Republican directors favored adding a part-time inspector to the Health Department to enforce the housing code, which sets minimum standards for the condition of rental housing. They also recommended a payment of $2,000 to the Housing Education Resource Center in Hartford for the information services the center performs for Manchester tenants and landlords.

The Democrats disagreed on both counts.

As a substitute for a code inspector, the majority decided to have inspections carried out by the two restaurant inspectors in the Health Division and by the building inspectors. As a substitute for the part-time inspector to the housing center, they proposed to set up an information service within the town's Human Services Department.

That approach was nothing new. Consistently, the Democratic directors have resisted the idea of naming an inspector to make systematic inspections of rental housing to ensure enforcement of the housing code.

They have done so in the face of advice from administrators and pleas from the public.

Their current plan — which could prove satisfactory — is the closest they have come to addressing the problems of fearful tenants and dilapidated rental housing. But it probably wouldn't have been formed without Republican pressure, and it may well prove insufficient in the end.

The Republican minority, which offered what was probably a better solution and can claim credit for the fact that anything was done at all, should now follow through by monitoring the housing situation and the inspection system provided for in the budget. If the issue has simply been short-circuited once again, the majority must be persuaded to do more.

Borges hits the road in search of support

Frank Borges says the "favorite son" support he received when he told hometown Democrats in Hartford he's running for state treasurer was fine for openers, but he is on the road now to say he is serious and he wants delegates he can call his own.

Borges is one of three do-it-yourself candidates so far who are aiming for state tickets on their own initiative, not waiting for lightning to strike in some convention back room or to be tapped by someone running for governor.

He is on a collision course with another self-propelled candidate — State Rep. Maurice Mosley of Waterbury. Both want to be the Democratic nominee for treasurer.

The third one to be bucking tradition just a bit is not a problem for either Borges or Mosley. State Rep. Pauline Kerer of Plainville is campaigning with increasing vigor to be the Republican candidate for secretary of the state this year.

BORGES, A FORMER deputy mayor of Hartford, says the response to his venture has been encouraging even though Democrats are focusing on the race for governor and are biding their time. In many cases, before making commitments to undertake ticket candidates.

Borges had to concede almost a year's head start to Mosley in the state treasurer race. A third possibility in the early stages, State Rep. Ronald Smoko of Hamden, changed his mind and is now chairman of Borges' campaign committee.

The place on the ticket will be open because the incumbent, Joan Kemler of West Hartford, agreed only to complete the term of Hank Parker of New Haven, who resigned to take a job in private business.

Francisco "Frank" Borges is a 34-year-old attorney who works in the legal department at Travelers Insurance Companies in Hartford. He

District a part of our heritage

To the Editor:

On March 6 I addressed the Charter Revision Commission at the first public hearing. I have attended each session since and can't help but feel that those in the hand-picked majority are unfeeling, unseeing, unhearing robots bent on carrying out their assignment of solving the "Eighth District Problem" by annihilation. I would like to read your statement to the citizens of Manchester.

The late John F. Kennedy suggested that we "ask not what our country can do for us, but rather what we can do for our country."

For one hundred years now, a portion of Manchester's citizens have rallied together in that spirit to help their neighbors, answering their call for help with unselfish desire to serve. Thousands of holiday meals became cold, nights of sleep were interrupted and birthday cake cuttings delayed or missed, all to answer the alarm that says a fellow citizen is in trouble.

This, ladies and gentlemen, is the kind of dedication and spirit that has built this country and made it great. These men and women serve, not to quench a thirst for more power or a larger domain to rule over, not to feed an inflated ego, but rather because of the simple fact that there is a need and they have the desire and ability to fill that need. The men and women of the Manchester Fire Department (Eighth Utilities District) have served Manchester well.

Volunteer fire departments are not a thing of the past or a substitute for something better.

They are not something to be discarded or down-graded to a curiosity. Volunteer fire departments provide protection for most of the property in this country. Volunteer personnel are well trained and well equipped, using the very latest in technology and equipment. Need I remind you that in Manchester, the Manchester (Eighth District) Fire Department had the first "emergency rescue & fast attack" unit and the first tower truck — and it still has the only dalmatian on duty 24 hours.

Government should provide leadership when and where it is needed. Government should fill a need or provide a service when and if there is no other means. In America government cannot get away with forcing its will on unwilling citizens, especially when its motives are self-serving.

There are those who have put themselves in what seems to be an irreversible position in this matter. This is unfortunate. Now their false pride and fear for their civic image stand in the way of good judgment.

We in the Eighth like what we have and we are right both legally and morally. An injustice has been done and we are angry. The proponents of consolidation (annihilation) tried to storm in and take over the Eighth by force and illegal means. They have spent thousands to build a political stronghold called "Station 95" and thousands in court trying to defend an indefensible position. They have spread rumors that the town is subsidizing the Eighth District, when in fact the opposite is true.

The proponents of annihilation want to pay wages and benefits to town employees to do a job that is now being done, and done well, on a volunteer basis. They claim that the town is going to do for less money. Really? Don't you believe it. The proponents would divide this town, north and south, so that they might evolve as the conquering heroes. Don't let them do this. We are one Manchester. We have a system that works to everyone's advantage. I say let's not try to fix what isn't broken.

We have two fine fire departments and there is no reason why they can't be compatible once the people who are trying to eliminate one of them stop.

Further, I ask that all the people of Manchester share in the pride we in the Eighth have in our big chunk of American heritage. These are Manchester citizens, your friends, relatives and neighbors.

With help and understanding the men and women of the Manchester (Eighth District) Volunteer Fire Department will enter into the second century of service (1988) knowing that their unselfish efforts have been recognized as a benefit to the whole town of Manchester and that the whole town will be proud to guarantee their existence so long as they desire to serve.

entered politics by being elected to the Hartford Common Council in 1981. Two years later, he was deputy mayor, a position he describes correctly as the power pulpit in the city.

DEMOCRATS APPROACHED HIM a year ago about running for the one likely open spot on his party's ticket. If Gov. Bill O'Neill is renominated, Borges declined then because Parker's plans were not known. They hit him again last fall when he looked as though Parker would not run. When others from around the state added their voices, he agreed to go.

Borges says he has no quarrel with Mosley. He says the nomination should be settled through strong competition. He rejects the argument that he ought to back off because Hartford already has an entry — Lt. Gov. Joe Failloux — if O'Neill heads the slate. He points out that Democrats named two from New Haven in 1982 — Parker and Attorney General Joe Lieberman — to counter the geographic tradition.

Borges says his experience in city government is a plus for him and is better than what the Legislature offers. He says he knows budgets, how to manage money and, significantly for the job he

Nukes aren't only problem in Soviet Union

WASHINGTON — The nuclear catastrophe in the Soviet Union dramatizes the risks involved when dangerous equipment is operated by a government that places little value on human safety. The world can only hope the Soviet bureaucracy will improve its nuclear safeguards as fast as possible.

One thing is crystal clear, however: The Kremlin isn't about to scale down its nuclear power industry, no matter how serious the accidents turn out to have been. Nuclear power is too important to the Soviet economy.

A similar, potentially cataclysmic situation exists in another field of reckless Soviet technology: the biological warfare program. Accidental release of deadly anthrax bacilli following an explosion at a germ weapons plant in Sverdlovsk in 1979 killed hundreds of Soviet citizens — but it didn't stop the Kremlin from forging ahead with its biological warfare program in defiance of a 1972 international treaty outlawing the development of such weapons.

Presumably the Soviets learned something from that disaster. But as their scientists tinker with unimaginably awful germ weapons, there is always the possibility of an accident that could dwarf last month's nuclear meltdown. If Soviet scientists don't know how to contain their burning graphite reactor, there's little reason to expect they'd know how to counteract the accidental release of some newly developed bacterial agent.

WE'VE REPORTED in the past on the Soviets' growing biological warfare capabilities, including a story last year that identified nine locations where the research is going on. Now we've seen the most recent CIA intelligence report on the subject, classified Secret. It concludes:

"We believe the Soviets are using recent advances in biotechnology, such as genetic engineering, to develop a new class of BW and toxin agents that can be rapidly produced for deployment." The time to deployment was estimated at five years.

New construction is pinpointed in the secret report. The Soviets in 1983 opened a weapons facility at Berdsk in a large chemical plant that produced bacteria for insecticide research. One section of the plant was off-limits to ordinary insecticide plant workers.

"This information combined with imagery intelligence (satellite photos) provides evidence that at least part of the Berdsk facility is involved with BW research and production," the CIA reported.

In addition, the agency learned in 1984 "that the Soviets had partially completed a large complex south of Moscow, which we believe is a major institute in their program to develop genetically engineered biological warfare agents." The report adds that "ongoing construction at the facility south of Moscow near Serpukhov and at the Novosibirsk Institute demonstrates a continuing Soviet commitment of resources to their BW program."

THE CIA NOTES two encouraging developments since the Reagan administration publicly accused the Soviets of killing Afghans and Southeast Asians with poisonous mycotoxins. First, the Soviets have cut back on their use of lethal poison gas in the last two years; second, "official representatives of a number of nations have indicated privately that their own analysis supports the U.S. conclusion" that the Soviets were using mycotoxins. But "for a variety of domestic reasons, most of these countries have refused to make public statements to that effect."

Although there has been no confirmed report of lethal germ weapons use by the Soviets since late 1983, the CIA has gathered evidence of chemical attacks in Afghanistan that produce "symptoms different from those previously associated with toxin use and which generally are not lethal." The chemicals remain unidentified.

THE FDA'S FOIA fantasy
The Food and Drug Administration proudly reports that it processed almost 46,000 Freedom of Information Act requests last year, and claims that it missed the 10-day time limit for response in only a single case. But one source told us that out of its 10,000 requests he made to the agency in 1985, most took more than 10 days to answer and three had drawn no reply after six months. Either the mail is slower than usual, or clever FDA bureaucrats are delaying for weeks before they enter requests on the official log and start the 10-day clock running.

U.S./World In Brief

Fletcher approved as NASA chief
WASHINGTON — The Senate has approved James Fletcher to again take up the reins of the nation's troubled space agency, overriding critics who charged he is a NASA "insider who was part of the problem."

The 89-9 vote Tuesday cleared the way for Fletcher, 66, to be administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, a post he held in the 1970s — when the space shuttle program got under way.

He replaces James Beggs, who was forced to resign last year during an investigation into his role as an official of a defense contracting firm accused of defrauding the government. William Graham has been serving as acting administrator.

Victory stunning in North Carolina
Rep. James Broyhill's stunning victory in North Carolina for the GOP Senate nomination against a New Right candidate sets the stage for another battle that could help decide whether the Democrats take control of the Senate.

Broyhill swept to victory Tuesday night, defeating David Funderburk, the New Right candidate and protégé of North Carolina's Sen. Jesse Helms, in a bitter feud over the direction of the state GOP.

In primaries in two other states, Indiana and Ohio, candidates fielded by ultra-conservative Lyndon LaRouche were beaten easily, and failed to score upsets similar to their victory in the recent Illinois primary.

Bomb suspects implicate Syria
BERLIN — Two Arabs — one of whom is suspected in the bombing of the La Belle disco — confessed they obtained explosives from the Syrian Embassy in East Berlin to carry out an earlier terror attack, authorities said today.

Ahmed Hasi, 35, and Farouk Salameh, 39, confessed the explosive used in the March 29 bombing of the German-Arab Friendship Society in Berlin came from the Syrian Embassy on the communist side of the divided city, authorities said.

Seven Arabs were injured in the attack on the society's office, which came a week before the La Belle bombing that killed an U.S. serviceman and triggered the American attack on Libya April 15.

Syrian Embassy officials in East Berlin denied involvement in the attack, saying, "Such lies are spread to damage the reputation of Syria in the world. Syria opposes any kind of terrorism."

Libya says body may be airman's
LONDON — Libyan television says the badly decomposed body of a man washed up on a shore near Tripoli may be that of a U.S. Air Force captain believed shot down in the American raid against Libya April 15.

According to the telecast, monitored Tuesday night by the British Broadcasting Corp., the swollen body of the "rabid dog" who participated in the suicidal aggression was clad in a dark-colored uniform with large red patches on the shoulder.

The commentary said the corpse could have been that of a man named Lawrence, "whose helmet you have seen."

Air Force Capt. Paul E. Lawrence, 31, of San Francisco, was weapons officer aboard an F-111 fighter-bomber missing in the 66-plane U.S. air armada that struck Tripoli and Benghazi in the pre-dawn hours of April 15.

Summit leaders praise their unity

TOKYO (UPI) — The leaders of seven major industrial democracies wrapped up an annual summit today with lavish praise for their new unity against terrorism, but they left Tokyo amid signs that nagging conflicts among them could derail it.

The three-day summit, the 12th in a series of ostensibly economic gatherings, also ended with substantial agreements by six Western nations and Japan to coordinate economic policy and demand a strengthening of international nuclear safety.

But the common response to terrorism eclipsed other issues. President Reagan, at a news conference today before boarding Air Force One for Washington, described the summit as "the most successful" of the six he has attended and proclaimed it "his triumph at Tokyo."

The nations' agreement on new measures against sponsors of international terrorism and a single out Libya by name — meant "the summit itself was a triumph over the menace posed by the scourge of international terrorism," he said.

French President Francois Mitterrand called the summit "probably the easiest" since the annual meetings involving the United States, Japan, Britain, France, West Germany, Italy and Canada began in 1975.

But the leaders showed cracks in their unity by failing to impose economic sanctions against Tripoli and by indications some did not believe the six anti-terrorist measures adopted Monday were binding. The summit also failed to erase allied opposition to the April 15 U.S. bombing of Libya.

Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone was quoted by Japanese news media as saying the measures were not mandatory and that Japan would make "independent" decisions about whether to implement them.

French Foreign Minister Jean Bernard Raimon said his country did not consider the sanctions "strictly obligatory."

On Tuesday, Italian Prime Minister Bettino Craxi and Britain's Margaret Thatcher had already appeared to contradict suggestions the summit resolutions endorsed the future use of military action by the United States.

Reagan, however, appeared unaware of the dissent, saying flatly the others had "agreed to a statement that said the way to deal with this is on a united front."

Some leaders questioned the U.S. interpretation of a key clause that called for fighting terrorism by "combining national measures with international cooperation."

Reagan administration officials defined national measures as "anything" from economic sanctions to military strikes.

In its final economic statement, the seven leaders announced provisions for an unprecedented coordination of their currencies and set up a mechanism for monitoring their economies.

"Our key finding is that DOE has taken action to establish exclusive domain over off-site emergency preparedness for DOE-DOD (Department of Defense) nuclear facilities," the staff said Tuesday in a memo to the Massachusetts Democrat.

The memo was based on a study of reports and internal DOE documents. It said the department's motives in excluding the Federal Emergency Management Agency and state and local governments were "essentially political."

The subcommittee staff said it was unclear if national security concerns would warrant treating public health and safety around defense facilities differently from around commercial plants. It also questioned DOE's expertise and objectivity in evaluating the public safety risk near its plants.

Among the DOE plants are five large plutonium-producing reactors surrounded by confinements that are weaker and designed to withstand less pressure than commercial reactor containment buildings. Four are located at Savannah River, Ga., and a fifth —

Summit Highlights

World Economy
• Establishment of a "managed float" system in a bid to tame their wildly fluctuating economy.
• A commitment to cut spending to reduce excessive fiscal deficits.
• Addition of Italy and Canada in the group of finance ministers.

Soviet Union
• Discussions on developments in the Soviet Union under Gorbachev and expressed hope for a second U.S.-Soviet summit.
• A calling for the Soviet Union to present a timetable for the withdrawal of all Soviet forces from Afghanistan.

Terrorism
• Agreement promising sanctions against Libya and other sponsors of international terrorism.

Chernobyl
• A call for disclosure of details of the Soviet nuclear accident at Chernobyl and a work pact committing nuclear power users to share information about future disasters.

Emergency
• Agreement to establish a joint emergency response team to deal with nuclear accidents.

Other
• Discussions on the environment, trade, and other issues.

President Reagan in a news conference in Tokyo where the economic summit was ending, again criticized the Soviets for withholding early information about the disaster, but did say the Soviets have been more forthcoming in recent days.

The early Soviet effort "to cover up and confuse the issue, we think, was the wrong way to go." Reagan told a news conference.

The Food and Drug Administration said that since Monday its inspectors have been testing samples of food imported from Eastern and Northern Europe to determine if any carry radiation from the Chernobyl disaster.

Undersecretary Joseph Salgado rejected one congressman's suggestion that the Nuclear Regulatory Commission oversee DOE reactors, saying "there is no need for that."

The subcommittee staff said it was unclear if national security concerns would warrant treating public health and safety around defense facilities differently from around commercial plants. It also questioned DOE's expertise and objectivity in evaluating the public safety risk near its plants.

Labriola's victories a surprise

Ferguson said if a May 20 Republican primary in Manchester between Labriola and Bozuto states had not been canceled, Tuesday's result would have helped boost Labriola's support in Manchester.

Agostinelli agreed, but said Labriola would have won anyway. The primary was canceled last week when the challenge slate of delegates withdrew after learning some of the signatures gathered to force the contest had been collected illegally.

Agostinelli said he was confident a statewide primary would be held in September among the GOP candidates for governor. He also said Tuesday's victory was indicative of what will happen if that primary is held.

"A percentage is a percentage," he said. "It really doesn't change."

Trooper says burglaries solved; Andover board urges prosecution

ANDOVER — A rash of daytime home burglaries along Route 6 in Andover, Bolton and Columbia ceased when state police arrested two men in connection with one of the burglaries, Andover's resident trooper said today.

Trooper Thomas Hogarty said two suspects, Nicholas Sanchez, 30, of Windham, and his companion, Hector Lopez, 28, of Hartford, Hogarty said. Their cases have been continued until May 13 in Rockville Superior Court.

"He did not say whether charges in connection with the other incidents would be filed," Hogarty said. Sanchez was caught in Windham, Hogarty said. Both were charged with attempted third-degree burglary and Sanchez was charged with second-degree larceny in connection with the theft of the car he was driving, Hogarty said.

A state police conducted an extensive undercover operation over a two-week period in an effort to capture the burglars, Hogarty said. Sanchez and Lopez are both in custody at the Morgan Street jail in Hartford, Hogarty said. Their cases have been continued until May 13 in Rockville Superior Court.

"He did not say whether charges in connection with the other incidents would be filed," Hogarty said. Sanchez was caught in Windham, Hogarty said. Both were charged with attempted third-degree burglary and Sanchez was charged with second-degree larceny in connection with the theft of the car he was driving, Hogarty said.

Hogarty said he had suspected Sanchez in this year's burglaries because they were similar to those he had arrested in the last year and a half. Lopez was arrested at the scene several that took place a year ago in the same area. Hogarty called the break-ins "clean, smash and dash" burglaries, in which the burglars spent about two or three minutes in a house, stealing only large items, such as televisions, stereo sets and microwave ovens. He said the burglars were seen in a house, stealing only large items, such as televisions, stereo sets and microwave ovens. He said the burglars were seen in a house, stealing only large items, such as televisions, stereo sets and microwave ovens.

Three other Williamian men were arrested on April 26 in connection with what police believe are unrelated burglary attempts at First Congregational Church and the Carport Auto Center, both on Route 6 in Andover.

"I don't expect people to be beating down the doors to serve on this committee," Zitzka said. Cheney urged all board members to contact and recommend people who might be interested in being on the committee. He also said that David Pistrutto had expressed interest in serving on such a panel.

Pistrutto is the son of Gaetano Pistrutto, who owns land behind Community Hall that the town hopes to buy. The Board of Finance removed the $58,000 to buy the land from its town budget at an April meeting.

In other action, the selectmen approved a recommendation by the Public Building Commission and accepted a bid for asbestos removal this summer from Bolton Center School and Bolton High School.

Dec-Tam, a Massachusetts company, was the lower of two bidders on the project. Although the price quoted was $129,000, the PBC recommended that the selectmen award Dec-Tam $135,000, including amounts for air sampling tests and construction contingencies.

The guard, Rosario Spiezna of 29 Maple St., was dismissed Friday. Sean Donnelly of 60 Jarvis Road, a fourth-grader, said in a letter to the Manchester Herald that he and his friend Raymond Gagnon witnessed the dismissal of Rosario, whom the students call "Rosie."

"They took off his hat and badge in the street where everyone could see. We think it was very unfair. We feel that Rosie is a good crossing guard and he was always there when we needed him," Donnelly said in the letter.

Capt. Robert Juliano, who directs the school crossing guards, said the firing was because of disagreements over the crossing guard's duties. He said he had received anonymous complaints about Sanchez and had talked to him before Friday.

"Ten other students besides Donnelly and Gagnon signed the letter," he called themselves "Rosie's friends." Juliano was preparing a report on the dismissal today.

Celtics run Hawks out of the playoffs

BOSTON — Helpless and humiliated, the Atlanta Hawks were run out of the NBA playoffs Tuesday night and into the record book. The Hawks scored a playoff-record low of 4 points in the third quarter as the Boston Celtics eliminated them from the Eastern Conference semifinals with a 132-99 victory.

Boston, paced by Larry Bird's 36 points, won the series four games to one, and will play the winner of the Philadelphia-Milwaukee semifinal, tied 2-2. The Celtics held a 66-55 lead at the half, then outscored Atlanta 26-6 in the third quarter, including a 24-0 run in the final 5:17.

"There's nothing you can do," said Atlanta coach Mike Fratello. "You try to substitute, you try to call timeout. But you can't make any trades during the game."

"When you get blown away like this, it's embarrassing," said Spud Webb. "They made the plays and we missed the shots."

The Hawks hit only 2 of 19 shots (11 percent) in the quarter. The previous record for fewest points in a quarter was 8, set by the Los Angeles Lakers in the third quarter of an April 9, 1972 playoff against the Milwaukee Bucks.

Atlanta coach Earl Yost on Tuesday noted the Hawks' 24-point run with 10 points, and Danny Ainge added 7, including a 3-pointer. Nine points came on free throws, 3 on Ainge's long jumper, and the other 12 on shots from the lane. The Celtics made 3 steals and 2 blocks in the spurt, and afterwards were admittedly impressed with their play. "It was some serious basketball," said guard Dennis Johnson. "I think that quarter was the best we've played in quite a while."

Rather than offensive pressure, it was defensive work that made the difference, explained Robert Parish. "The defense is what started the stretch for us. We got a bunch of steals and a lot of rebounds. They didn't get back on defense, they just seemed to get caught up in what we were doing," said the Celtics center. "We couldn't do anything wrong."

In the quarter, Boston shot 62 percent, and out-rebounded Atlanta 18-7. The Celtics had a 51-33 rebounding edge in the game, and at one point led by 42 points, at 17:75 midway through the fourth quarter.

The Celtics, winners of their last 37 straight home games, defeated the Hawks in 10 of their 11 meetings this season. Atlanta was seeking to be the first Hawks' team since 1958 to win two playoff series in the same year. The Celtics have won a game in Houston since April 11, 1984.

In the pivotal second period, Boston hit only seven of 27 shots. Kareem Abdul-Jabbar scored 13 points, including a critical hook shot with nine seconds remaining, and Earvin "Magic" Johnson had 29 points and 14 assists for defending champion Los Angeles Lakers.

"We took care of business," Lakers Coach Pat Riley said. "The ball seemed a little heavy at the free throw line for Dallas, and I'll bet it gets heavier Thursday night (in Game 6)."

"We're outlasting them, we're outplaying them. We could be ahead 4-1," said Dallas Coach Dick Motta, whose club missed 13 of 33 free throws in Game 5. Mark Aguirre paced the Mavericks with 27 points.

While Boston closed out its Eastern Conference semifinal with a 4-1 victory over the Hawks, the Lakers and Houston took 3-2 leads in the Western Conference semifinals. Los Angeles edged Dallas 116-113 and Houston routed Denver 131-103.

Rockets 131, Nuggets 103
Houston also used a big quarter to fuel its victory over Denver. In the second period, the Rockets outscored the Nuggets 46-20 for a 72-46 halftime bulge. Houston got big games from its Twin Towers front line of Akem Olujuwon and Ralph Sampson. The 7-0 Olujuwon had 36 points and 19 rebounds and Sampson 33 points and 17 rebounds.

The Rockets' victory extended Denver's Summit losing streak to nine. The Nuggets haven't won a game in Houston since April 11, 1984. In the pivotal second period, Denver hit only seven of 27 shots. Kareem Abdul-Jabbar scored 13 points, including a critical hook shot with nine seconds remaining, and Earvin "Magic" Johnson had 29 points and 14 assists for defending champion Los Angeles Lakers.

Martin to the White Sox?

CHICAGO (UPI) — Ken Harrison, operations vice president for the Chicago White Sox, said Tuesday he will meet with Billy Martin's agent Thursday and decide whether to hire the next manager of the American League club.

Before Tuesday night's White Sox-New York Yankees game, Harrison said he will talk to Martin's agent, Ed Spahr, on Thursday and decide whether to hire the next manager of the American League club.

"I'm not going to give in to any hitter, but I don't believe in taking foolish chances, such as giving Wade Boggs a good pitch to hit. Any time I go out there, especially in a tie game, you're going to have to hit my pitch. I also know that things don't always work out the way you want. I got Billy Bucks this time. He could get me the next time."

"He threw all right as far as I could see, but, heck, we only saw him throw five pitches," Boston Manager John McNamara said of Forster.

Slaton and Boston's Dennis "Oil Can" Boyd engaged in an old-fashioned pitching duel until the late innings. Boyd was tagged for a two-run homer by Gary Pettis, his first since last June 1, after Boston shortstop Glenn Hoffman's error in the third. The Red Sox picked up a run on Buckner's sacrifice fly in the fifth and tied the score on Dwight Evans' double in the seventh.

Then Rob Wilfong singled across the tie-breaking run in the eighth and the Angels scored three more times off Steve Crawford and Tim Lollar in the ninth.

"The players needed a win badly today," Mauch said. "The manager needed one, too."

"Boyd pitched very decently except for a screwball that he got up to Pettis," McNamara said. "We just didn't score any runs. We had opportunities, but we didn't cash in. I don't like to lose, but a 6-2 record on a homestand isn't too bad. We'll take it."

Pettis gave the Angels a big boost with his eighth major league homer. However, he'll probably remember more crashing into what he must have thought was a tank in the outfield.

In the Boston fifth, with two runners on base and one run in, head left-fielder Brian Downing clutched a split second after Downing grabbed Rich Gedman's deep drive. Both players went down, but Downing jumped up clutching the ball for the third out.

Pettis was taken from the field in a maintenance cart and then to a nearby hospital, where X-rays disclosed he suffered a deep bruise above the left knee. He returned to the clubhouse, but hid his pain in the trainer's room before accompanying the Angels home.

"The muscle is so sore he can't flex it, but fortunately it's just a bruise," California manager Gene Mauch said. "This trip hasn't been too bad. A little excitement here and there."

Bosox see Forster no longer a joke

BOSTON — Veteran southpaw Terry Forster never will qualify for a skinny man's convention but his well-publicized girth no longer is a joke.

At 6-foot-4, the 34-year-old reliever picked up by the California Angels in April after being released by the Atlanta Braves is huge. But he's keeping his weight in check and helping the Angels maintain the American League West lead.

Forster ballooned to more than 250 pounds while bothered by elbow and shoulder trouble with Atlanta in 1985. In June, he was the butt of a crack by late night talk show host David Letterman, who called him "a fat tub of goo."

Letterman later had Forster as a guest on the show and at the end of the season the pitcher proved his determination to lose weight by enrolling in a fat farm in California.

However, after being rewarded with a new one-year contract in mid-January by the Braves, he was released. The Angels picked him up and now are very happy with the decision.

"It's getting some big outs for me," California Manager Gene Mauch said Tuesday after Forster contributed three stolen bases and increase his league lead to 22 swipes.

"Everybody did a little something," said Winfield, who drove in the tie-breaking run. "Bill Dowley, 6-2, suffered the loss. Starter Tom Seaver, who missed a start five due to the death of his mother, lasted only 2.3 innings, yielding five runs."

New York closer Jim Slaton, who in the fourth inning, New York made it 5-0 when Mattingly doubled home Henderson from third and scored himself on Winfield's single. The Yankees added another run in the sixth when Ken Griffey's sacrifice fly scored Mattingly.

Flames' special team leaves St. Louis blue

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — The Calgary Flames' success against the St. Louis Blues is directly related to the efficiency of their special teams, and Tuesday night their special teams were extremely successful.

The Flames scored two power-play goals and added a short-handed goal to thwart the St. Louis Blues 5-3 and take a 2-1 edge in the Campbell Conference championship series.

Calgary scored four power-play goals in nine chances in Sunday's 5-2 rout, shut out the Blues in nine power-play opportunities before

St. Louis went 1-4 on the power play Tuesday. In the series opener, the Flames converted just 1-5 power-play chances, and lost.

"It makes it a different game," said Calgary's Lanny McDonald, who scored on a power play. "It's a big boost to get clicking with some power-play goals."

The Flames scored on a power play just 20 seconds into the game Tuesday.

"It was important to get that first goal," said Calgary coach Bob Johnson. "They took a penalty right away and we capitalized on the power play. It was a big goal for us."

St. Louis coach Jacques Demers agreed.

"It makes it a different game," Demers said. "Right away, we're behind the eightball. We have talked about bad penalties and we get one eight seconds into the game."

"Calgary has a good power play. They make it work. They constantly move the puck and pass extremely well. They're keeping us busy."

Former Blue Joe Mullen gave Calgary the 1-0 lead just 20 seconds into the game on the power play. The Blues' Mark Hunter was whistled for high sticking eight seconds into the game.

After St. Louis tied the score on a Bernie Federko power-play goal, McDonald scored on a power play 15:22 into the period for a 2-1 lead.

The Flames padded their lead to 3-1 when Paul Reinhart passed to a trailing John Tonelli, who fired in a slap shot from the top of the left circle 3:37 into the second period.

"That was a beautiful goal," Demers said. "You can't fault your goalies on a goal like that."

Former Flame Gino Cavallini

cut the Calgary lead to 3-2 later in the period as the Blues appeared to be rallying, but Doug Risebrough broke the Blues' backs with a short-handed goal at 14:40 of the second period.

"It's a rare event to expect power plays and penalty killing to be good when you're not playing sound hockey," Risebrough said. "Our penalty killing has been great in the playoffs. It was a working game out there."

The Blues managed a third-period goal by rookie Brian Benning, the first of his NHL career, at 12:29 to make it 4-3.

"We had too many breakdowns early," said St. Louis goalie Greg Miller. "We didn't get started until it was too late. That short-handed goal didn't help at all. We can't have breakdowns and expect to win."

Federko said: "We can't get behind the eightball like this. We have to dig down a little deeper."

"Their power play is very potent. They have one of the best power plays in the league and we got a lot of better. Short-handed goals are always bad. We didn't regroup."

NL roundup

Gooden's two-hitter, triple power sizzling Mets

By Dick Brinster
The Associated Press

Pitching against Dwight Gooden can be difficult enough — especially when he's firing with a no-hitter — but forgetting that the New York Mets right-hander also is a threat with the bat can be fatal.

No one realizes that more than Houston's Bob Knepper, who had hopes of beating Gooden on Tuesday night. Instead, Gooden hit a two-run triple to break open a pitcher's duel. He finished with a two-hitter and seven strikeouts to lead the Mets to a 4-0 victory.

"What hurts was getting behind (3-2) to Gooden and then he hits the triple," said Knepper. "I laid it in for him. If I get Gooden, then we've got a shot... What made it so distasteful was that it was the pitcher that beat us."

Actually, George Foster's fifth-inning homer, his first of the season, was the difference. But Gooden — batting 225 — made it easier for himself with his triple over the outstretched glove of right fielder Terry Pugh.

Gooden, 5-0, was perfect through four innings and allowed base-runners only in the fifth and ninth. He said he was aware he had a no-hitter — Glenn Davis broke it up with an infield hit in the fifth inning.

Reds 2, Braves 0

Pete Rose is honing for better things now that Cincinnati has ended its 11-game home losing streak. It's worst of the century.

"I hope it's just a beginning," the Reds player-manager said. "I've got a lot of faith in all these guys."

Bill Gullett threw seven shutout innings, and Dave Parker hit his sixth homer to help the Reds end a nine-game overall losing streak.

The Reds, who have dropped 13 of their last 15 games have a 6-16 mark, the worst in the NL.

Giants 7, Pirates 2

After losing 100 games last season, anything other than a slump would have been welcomed at the start of this season by San Francisco. The Giants, who won their third in a row, improved to 16-11. It is their best start since a 16-4 in showing in 1973.

The Giants got seven-hit pitching from Mike Krukow as they snipped Pittsburgh's four-game winning streak.

Expos 6, Phillies 0

Philadelphia's four-time Cy Young Award winner Steve Carlton — 1-8 in an injury-plagued 1985 — is not showing any improvement.

"He doesn't have that hard slider that was his out pitch," said Montreal's Andre Dawson, who homered, doubled twice in two runs and scored two as the Expos handed Carlton his fifth loss in six decisions.

Phillies Manager John Felske didn't make any excuses for the 41-year-old Carlton, who does not speak with the news media. "He got the ball up," Felske explained. "They hit him hard."

Padres 3, Cardinals 2

Whitney Herzog can see some humor in the plight of St. Louis, which has lost 13 of its last 15 games.

"We may have to get back to the basics," the Cardinal manager said with a laugh. "We can't get a hit when we need it."

But San Diego pinch-hitter Jerry Royster can. His two-out double in the ninth inning drove in the winning run.

Cubs 7, Dodgers 6

Get the Los Angeles starting pitcher out of the game and the Dodgers are all but certain to lose. Their starters are 13-7 this season. The bullpen is 0-8, the latest being Tom Niedenfuer's second loss.

It came in the ninth inning when Leon Durham hit the seventh home run of the game (10th career) on a day when the wind was blowing out at Chicago's Wrigley Field. It was the first game back for Durham, who missed time following the death of his brother Nathaniel in an auto accident.

"I'm sure he saw it," Durham said of his brother. "I was thinking about the family as I circled the bases."

Shawn Dunston, Gary Matthews and Keith Moreland also homered for the Cubs. Steve Sax, Mariano Duncan and starting pitcher Bob Welch — who hit a three-run shot — countered for the Dodgers.

New York's George Foster follows through after connecting for his first homer of the season Tuesday night in the fifth inning against Houston at Shea Stadium. Foster's homer and the pitching of Dwight Gooden led the Mets to a 4-0 victory.

pitching training when he broke the little finger on his right hand shaking hands with a friend. Hough struck out four and walked two in 6 1/3 innings.

Orlons 5, Twins 3

Juan Bonilla, Eddie Murray and Lee Lacy hit home runs, powering Baltimore over Minnesota at the Metrodome.

Minnesota starter Frank Viola, 3-2, yielded only six hits over 4-1/3, but three of them were homers.

Sports In Brief

Legion signups next two Sundays

Signups for the Manchester American Legion and Junior League baseball teams will be held the next two Sundays, May 11 and 18, at the American Legion home on Legion Drive from noon to 5 p.m. each day. Junior League is basically for players 14-16 years of age while Legion is for players in the 16-18 year old age group. Boys attending Manchester public school, East Catholic High and Glastonbury High are eligible for the Manchester teams.

For further information, contact Legion head coach Steve Armstrong at 647-1560.

Five enter basketball hall of fame

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. — Enshrinement into the Hall of Fame is as much a tribute to the Boston franchise as an individual honor for former Celtic Tom Heinsohn.

Former Philadelphia star and coach Billy Cunningham said it was something players and coaches, both amateur and professional, eagerly anticipate.

William "Red" Holzman, who coached the New York Knicks in their glory days of the early 1970s, said it was a strange thrill to be spotlighted individually after molding stellar teams.

Cunningham and Holzman took their places Tuesday in the Naismith Memorial Basketball Hall of Fame along with three other memorable contributors to the sport.

Fred Taylor, twice named the nation's coach of the year at Ohio State, and Stanley Watts, who built Brigham Young into a basketball powerhouse over more than two decades, also gained enshrinement.

NCAA approves baseball Final Four

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — The NCAA, abandoning a format that has decided the Division I baseball champion for 40 years, Tuesday approved a Final Four tournament that is more conducive to television.

The current 40-team baseball format, in which eight teams advance to Omaha, Neb., and play a double-elimination tournament, will continue through 1987. The following year, the NCAA will invite 48 teams to the tournament with only four reaching the finals.

Those four teams will then meet in a semifinals with the winners advancing to the national championship game the next day.

Jets officially waive Marvin Powell

NEW YORK — Marvin Powell, a five-time Pro Bowl tackle, Tuesday was waived by the New York Jets.

Powell was informed of the move Monday at the team's Hofstra University training complex by Coach Joe Walton.

"Marvin has been a great player for the Jets over the years," Walton said Tuesday. "He has shown good leadership on and off the field. When we decided he was no longer in our plans we attempted to trade him, but since the league meetings in March and through the draft we have been unsuccessful."

Powell, 30, was taking exams Tuesday at New York Law School and was unreachabile.

Alvin Robertson top NBA defender

NEW YORK — Alvin Robertson, an All-Star guard for the San Antonio Spurs who set NBA records with 301 steals and an average of 3.67 steals per game, Tuesday was named the NBA Defensive Player of the Year.

Robertson received 27 votes from a nationwide panel of media members who regularly cover the NBA — three from each franchise city and nine representatives of the national media, for a total of 78 votes. Manute Bol of the Washington Bullets, the NBA's leading shotblocker, was second with 22 votes.

Indians prove both good — and lucky

By Ken Roppoport
The Associated Press

Andre Thornton hit two home runs, then crossed his fingers.

"There's always some apprehension when you know it's going to rain," Cleveland's designated hitter said following Tuesday night's rain-shortened 6-1 victory over the Kansas City Royals. "But there's nothing you can do about it. You just wait it out."

The Indians didn't have it wait long — just one hour and 21 minutes — before wrapping up their ninth straight victory. The game was called off when the anticipated thunderstorm hit Municipal Stadium with one out in the bottom of the fifth inning — just one out after the game became official.

The victory kept the Indians in first place in the American League East by 13 percentage points over the New York Yankees, 10-6 winners over Chicago.

Brewers 10, Mariners 0

Paul Molitor hit a two-run homer and Ben Oglive had three hits, driving in two runs, to lead a 15-hit Milwaukee attack as the Brewers beat Seattle behind the six-hit pitching of rookie Juan Nieves.

Four Mariner pitchers gave up six walks and host Milwaukee scored two runs in the fifth inning on bases-loaded walks en route to their fifth straight victory.

Rangers 4, Tigers 2

Rookie Pete Incaviglia hit a two-run homer and Charlie Hough won his 1986 debut as Texas defeated Detroit.

Hough, activated Monday night, had been on the disabled list since spring training when he broke the little finger on his right hand shaking hands with a friend. Hough struck out four and walked two in 6 1/3 innings.

Orlons 5, Twins 3

Juan Bonilla, Eddie Murray and Lee Lacy hit home runs, powering Baltimore over Minnesota at the Metrodome.

Minnesota starter Frank Viola, 3-2, yielded only six hits over 4-1/3, but three of them were homers.

an Enlightening Solution to the midweek blahs!

Make the weekday dinner blahs go away by serving an exciting but easy flambéed dinner. This entire meal takes less than 60 minutes to prepare and in today's busy world, that's top priority.

A secret to quick yet sophisticated cuisine is adding premium cognac and liqueurs to your dishes. Even everyday economical meals can be made into special fare with just a few drops of cognac or liqueur.

Whether you find yourself entertaining guests or just want a midweek celebration for your family, we suggest the following.

Start by using your good china, a few fresh flowers and special linens to dress your table for the occasion. Next prepare the Brochettes Dijon Flambé. Flambéing is a very impressive entertaining tool; it turns ordinary foods into extraordinary fare, and you'll be amazed at how simple it is to do. (See Flambé Tips below.) To accompany this entrée, serve the brochettes over rice and make this distinctive Carrot Purée. For dessert, serve Chilled Pears Café for a finale to a meal that is sure to be remembered and appreciated.

Next time you're looking to put the flame back in your life, try a quick meal flambéed with cognac or liqueurs!

FLAMBÉ — (flam-ba') The French word for the flaming of food with a liqueur during preparation or when brought to the table for serving.

Flambéing is a splendid effect that will make any meal impressive. The alcohol evaporates during flaming, leaving the food with just the subtle flavor of the cognac or liqueur without the calories of alcohol. Try one of these easy techniques:

- 1) Warm or heat the cognac or liqueur. Pour it over the entrée and light with a match. Never pour liqueurs directly from the bottle into a flaming dish.
- 2) Combine the cognac or liqueur with a sauce, then light the sauce and spoon over the main dish or dessert.
- 3) Soak a sugar cube with cognac or liqueur and light. Place on top of main dish or dessert.

A long stick match is a helpful tool to use when flambéing.

Brochette Dijon Flambé

Carrot Purée Pita Triangles

Chilled Pears Café

Chilled Pears Café

1 one-pound can pear halves
1 cup heavy cream
2 tablespoons sugar
1 teaspoon instant coffee
3 tablespoons coffee-flavored liqueur
6 ounces semisweet chocolate
1 1/2-inch cubes
4 tablespoons coffee-flavored liqueur
4 tablespoons toasted coconut
Drain pears, reserving juice. While whipping cream, add sugar, coffee and coffee-flavored liqueur until thick. In a saucepan, melt chocolate with 2 tablespoons coffee-flavored liqueur and 1/2 to 2 tablespoons reserved pear juice over low heat. Let cool slightly, about 5 minutes.
Fill pear halves with cream and drizzle with chocolate. Chill until serving time. Garnish with toasted coconut. Makes 4 servings.

Brochette Dijon Flambé

4 cloves garlic, crushed
1 teaspoon dried thyme
2 tablespoons lemon juice
2/3 cup Drambule
1 cup Dijon mustard
2 tablespoons honey
2 pounds lamb or chicken, cut into 1 1/2-inch cubes
Salt and pepper
4 tablespoons Drambule
In a saucepan, combine garlic, thyme, lemon juice and Drambule. Cook over medium heat for about 10 minutes until reduced slightly. Stir in mustard and honey and simmer for a few minutes. Sprinkle lamb with salt and pepper and toss with mustard mixture. Thread on skewers and grill or broil 8-10 minutes on each side. Flambé by heating 4 tablespoons of Drambule until warm. Light Drambule and pour over brochettes. Makes 6 servings.

Carrot Purée

2 pounds carrots
1 orange, sliced
1/4 cup sugar
3 tablespoons butter
1/4 cup cognac
Chopped parsley
Peel and slice carrots. In a medium saucepan, add carrots, orange slices, sugar and enough water to cover. Bring to boil and cook until tender, 20-30 minutes. Remove carrots in food processor or blender with butter and puree. Add cognac and enough reserved liquid until creamy. Season with salt and pepper and garnish with chopped parsley. Makes 6-8 servings.

Good cooking comes naturally to Viv Ferguson

By Margaret Hayden
Herald Reporter

Gourmet cooking has been part of Vivian Ferguson's life for a long time. She has a large collection of recipes. She accumulated many during the eight years she wrote "Your Neighbor's Kitchen" for the Manchester Herald. She also compiled four of the Herald's annual cookbooks and later had a daily cooking show on the former WINF radio station.

One of her recipes is bagnette, (pronounced bon-yet), a popular green sauce in the Piedmont area of northern Italy, where her late grandparents, John and Maria Firato, lived before they moved to Manchester. They ran an Italian grocery on Spruce Street for many years.

Ferguson, who is a realtor with Blanchard & Rossetto, often uses the Firato bagnette recipe and adapts it for various occasions.

"I made it for our office party for realtors and had many requests for the recipe," she said. She added some herb-seasoned bread crumbs to thicken the sauce and she stuffed red pepper strips. She stood a pepper "flower" in the center of the plate and added some black olives. She stressed this recipe can be changed for individual tastes.

"You can add more garlic or more anchovies. The sauce goes with beef, ham, chicken or fish as is. With crumbs, it can be used to stuff celery or peppers and to top fresh tomato slices," she said.

She added that she has arranged stuffed green, red, yellow and purple peppers slices alternately on a platter. She stuffed some with bagnette; some with plain cream cheese and others with cream cheese flavored with horseradish.

"I usually make this sauce a day or two ahead and keep it in the refrigerator," she said, adding that, before serving she checks to see if more seasoning or liquid needs to be added. Remove the sauce from the refrigerator at least an hour in advance of serving, because it congeals in the cold.

TO MAKE a pepper flower, hold the stem end down, use a sharp paring knife, cutting slices about three-quarters of the way down, she said. Remove seeds and carefully cut away the white pith inside the pepper. Soak pepper in ice water about five minutes and carefully bend petals outward.

"There are many versions of this type sauce in Italy. We find it in water about five minutes and carefully bend petals outward."

Some people add basil; some green herbs and some add tomatoes or hard-boiled eggs," she said.

She enjoys traditional cooking and adapting old recipes.

For Italian orange salad, which originated in Sicily, she removes the peel and pith from large navel oranges with a sharp paring knife. She slices them into rounds making a single layer on a serving dish. She sprinkles them with dried Italian red pepper flakes and arranges onion rings on top. This can be done ahead of time. Just before serving she pours a little Italian dressing on top but not enough to form pools in the dish, she said.

"Sometimes I add avocado slices. For a different luncheon dish, include avocado and fresh shrimp," she said. This dish reflects her tastes for hot, spicy food.

"I LIKE TO utilize whatever is in the refrigerator and cupboard," she said. Her ham loaf is an adaptation that is easy and popular with her family. The original recipe calls for cooked ham and raw pork but she has made it successfully with uncooked sausage (with casings removed) and cooked leafing sausage.

"Recently I made this with leftover cooked ham and both cooked sweet Italian and cooked medium sausage," she said. "The loaf is delicious with or without sauce. It is excellent cold for a cool summer supper. It's good sliced and fried in a little butter," she said.

Here are some of her versatile recipes.

Bagnette

3 bunches fresh parsley, some curly and some flat-leaf
2 cloves garlic
2 cans flat anchovy filets, plus the oil

1 to 2 hot peppers, fresh, pickled or dried, including seeds
Pure olive oil
Wine vinegar
Pick all the long stems from the parsley, because stems can make it stringy. Wash and dry parsley. Put parsley into food processor which has been fitted with a steel blade. Chop fine, then place it in a bowl large enough for mixing.
Put anchovies and their oil and hot peppers through the processor. Process briefly so the consistency will be similar to a fine chop, but is not a paste. Do not put the anchovies into processor with the parsley because it would dull the green color of the parsley. Use a hand grinder, if you do not have a processor. Traditionally this entire process was done with a half-moon shaped chopping blade.
Add the chopped anchovies and hot peppers to the parsley. With a garlic crusher, add the garlic to the bowl.
Add oil and vinegar to taste and to make a thick sauce.

Ham loaf

1 pound, about 3 cups, ground cooked ham
1/4 pound raw ground pork, or cooked pork or sausage
1 cup dry bread crumbs
1 tablespoon prepared mustard
1 egg, lightly beaten
1/2 cup grated or finely chopped onion
1/2 cup milk
SAUCE:
1/4 cup sharp brown sugar
1/4 teaspoon dry mustard
2 tablespoons cold water
2 tablespoons white vinegar
Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Lightly grease bottom of a shallow roasting pan with butter, margarine or oil. Set aside.
In large mixing bowl, combine ground ham, pork, crumbs, mustard, egg, onions and milk. Mix ingredients thoroughly. Pat and shape into a loaf about 8 inches long, 4 inches wide and 3 inches high.
Mix sauce ingredients well. Spoon 2 tablespoons sauce over ham loaf. Bake in center of the oven for an hour, basting every 10 minutes until all sauce is used.
Let loaf sit for 10 to 15 minutes before slicing.

There's only one exception to cooking eggs in microwave

Ralph Waldo Emerson once said, "There's always a best way of doing everything, if it be to boil an egg..."

Eggs are among nature's most delicate foods. They are inexpensive, an excellent source of protein, available year round, and lend themselves to many different dishes and cooking methods. Eggs can be used as a part of any meal, from omelet to soufflé.

Eggs can be successfully cooked in the microwave with one notable exception. Never microwave an egg in its shell. Steam builds up on the inside, and the shell will burst.

For best results, eggs should be cooked at medium (50 percent) power. The tender protein of an egg will become tough and rubbery if microwaved on full power. Scrambled eggs must be cooked on full power because white and yolk are combined. Poached or shirred eggs must be cooked at a lower power.

Eggs illustrate one difference between conventional and microwave cooking. When you poach or shir an egg conventionally, it cooks first in the outer, or white portion. The opposite is true of eggs cooked in a microwave. Since an egg yolk contains more fat than the white, it attracts more energy.

If you microwave an egg until the white is set, the yolk will toughen. Standing time is necessary to cook the white completely without hardening the yolk.

When yolks and whites are mixed together, microwaving is even, but standing time is still used to cook eggs delicately.

Since the egg yolk is encased in an airtight sac, you must pierce the yolk to allow steam to escape. We prefer to pierce the yolk with a wooden toothpick after it is in the cooking vessel. Eggs can be fried, baked or poached, and the yolk will not run.

If your microwave has only one power level, high, we recommend that you place a 2-cup glass measure of water in the microwave alongside the eggs. The water will absorb some of the microwaves, and effectively reduce the cooking power.

Browning dish bacon and eggs

Preheat the browning dish for 2 minutes at high. Cut 2 strips of bacon in half. Place them against sides of the dish. Microwave for 2 minutes. Break 2 eggs into dish, baste with bacon fat. Remove bacon and drain on a paper towel. Cover dish, microwave for 15 to 30 seconds. Let eggs stand for 2 to 3 minutes, until set.

Scrambled eggs

Microwave-scrambled eggs are fluffier and have more volume than conventionally scrambled. You can microwave and serve or eat them from the same dish. Butter suggested in these directions is for flavor only. It isn't needed to prevent sticking, so if you're counting calories, omit it and also substitute water for milk.

Tastes differ in scrambled eggs. You may prefer them more or less firm. Remove them from the oven while they still look underdone. Overcooking makes them rubbery. If, after standing, they are not done to your satisfaction, microwave them a few seconds longer.

Eggs	Butter	Milk	Time
1	1 tsp.	1/4 cup	35 to 45 sec.
2	1 tsp.	1/4 cup	1 1/2 to 1 3/4 min.
3	1 tsp.	1/4 cup	2 to 2 1/4 min.
4	2 tsp.	1/2 cup	2 to 3 min.
6	3 tsp.	3/4 cup	3 1/2 to 4 1/4 min.
10	5 tsp.	1 cup	5 1/2 to 6 1/2 min.

Sunshine hollandaise sauce
1 package (3 ounce) cream cheese
2 large egg yolks
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 tablespoon white wine
1/4 teaspoon salt

Place butter in serving dish or casserole. Microwave for 30 seconds on high, or until butter melts. Add eggs and milk. Scramble with a fork. Microwave on high for about half the cooking time. Open the oven door. Eggs are beginning to set around the edges, where they receive the most energy. Break up set parts and push them to the center of the dish. Cook for the remaining time, stirring once or twice more. Remove eggs from the oven while they are still soft and moist. Let them stand, covered, for 1 to 4 minutes. Eggs continue to cook and will be set after standing. Stir eggs before serving.

Green eggs and ham

1/4 of a package (10 ounce) frozen chopped spinach
6 eggs
1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
Dash of cayenne pepper
While still frozen, cut a 10-ounce package of frozen spinach in half. Place one half in a 4-cup glass measure. Microwave on high for 3 to 3 1/2 minutes. Don't drain. Stir in remaining ingredients. Microwave on high for 3 to 4 minutes, stirring twice. Serves 4 to 5.

Eggs piccadilly

4 thin slices of ham
4 toasted English muffin halves
Quick marchand de vin sauce (see below)
1/4 teaspoon salt
4 poached eggs (see below)
Sunshine hollandaise sauce (see below)

Assemble just before serving. To warm ham, microwave on 70 percent (medium high) for 1/2 to 1 minute. Place on each English muffin. Then cover with quick marchand de vin sauce. Add tomato slices and poached eggs. Drizzle with Hollandaise sauce. Serves 2.

Quick marchand de vin sauce

2 tablespoons butter
4 green onions, thinly sliced
1/2 cup beef consommé
1/4 cup red wine
1 can (4 ounces) sliced mushrooms, drained
1/4 cup minced ham
Combine butter and onions in a 4-cup glass measure. Cover and microwave on high for 2 minutes. Whisk in flour, then bouillon and wine. Microwave on high for 2 1/2 to 3 minutes. Stirring once with whisk. Add mushrooms and ham. Microwave on high for 1 minute, or until heated through. Yields 1 1/2 cups.

Poached eggs

For each egg in a 6-ounce custard cup:
1/4 cup water
Few grains of salt
For 3 or more eggs in a 1-quart casserole:
1 cup water
1 tablespoon white vinegar
1/4 teaspoon salt
Place water in utensil. Cover with plastic wrap and microwave on high until the water boils. Add vinegar and salt. Crack each egg into utensil. Pierce with a fork, cover, and microwave on 50 percent (medium) according to chart below. Let stand, covered, to desired doneness. Remove from water with a slotted spoon.

Eggs	Utensil	Minutes
1	1 cup, 6 ounce size	1 to 1 1/2
2	1 cup, 6 ounce size	1 1/2 to 2

3	1 quart casserole	2 1/2 to 3
4 <td>1 quart casserole <td>3 1/4 to 4</td> </td>	1 quart casserole <td>3 1/4 to 4</td>	3 1/4 to 4
5 <td>1 quart casserole <td>3 3/4 to 4 1/4</td> </td>	1 quart casserole <td>3 3/4 to 4 1/4</td>	3 3/4 to 4 1/4
6 <td>1 quart casserole <td>4 to 4 1/4</td> </td>	1 quart casserole <td>4 to 4 1/4</td>	4 to 4 1/4

Sour cream omelet
10-ounce package whole frozen raspberries, defrosted
2 teaspoons cornstarch
1 teaspoon Cointreau or Grand Marnier

Drain raspberries into a small mixing bowl and set aside. Add cornstarch to juice and stir to dissolve. Microwave 3 minutes on high, or until thick, stirring once. Stir in Cointreau or Grand Marnier and whole raspberries. Cover. Microwave 1 1/2 minutes on high, or until hot. Let stand covered while making omelet.

To serve: slice omelet onto a serving dish. Top with hot melba sauce. Sprinkle with confectioner's sugar for garnish if desired. Yields 4 servings.

Egg and sausage brunch casserole
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
2 tablespoons butter
1/4 cup milk
1 carton (4 ounces) semi-soft natural cheese with garlic and herbs
8 ounces bulk pork sausage
1/4 cup chopped green onions
1 cup sliced stuffed green olives
1 cup cooked, drained peas or corn
12 eggs, medium
1 medium size tomato, cut into wedges
Snipped fresh parsley to garnish

Place butter in a 1-quart glass measuring cup. Microwave for 45 seconds on high, or until melted. Stir in flour. Microwave for 30 seconds on high. Whisk in milk. Microwave on high for 2 1/2 to 3 minutes, or until mixture thickens and is bubbly, stirring 3 times. Stir in cheese. Microwave on high for 1 minute; stir to melt and smooth. Set aside. In a 12-by-7-inch baking dish, combine sausage, green onions and microwave at full power for 5 minutes, or until sausage is browned and done, stirring twice. Drain well. Stir in olives, corn or peas and eggs. Cover with vented plastic wrap and microwave at 70% (medium high) for 8 minutes, or until heated through, stirring twice. Top with tomato wedges. Microwave at 70% (medium high) for 2 to 3 minutes, or until tomatoes are warmed. Sprinkle with parsley.

There's a story behind the story on Kraft refund woes

By Martin Slocum
United Feature Syndicate

DEAR MARTIN: Late last year, I noticed a refund offer in the newspaper. It said "75 cents back on Breyers." This is an ice cream made by the Kraft Dairy Group. I mailed in the Breyers "Pledge of Quality" panel and expected to receive 75 cents from Kraft.

Instead, I received a 75-cent coupon that required that I purchase another half gallon of their ice cream. I feel that the advertisement was a misrepresentation, and I wrote to Kraft and told them so. I returned their coupon and asked for a check for 75 cents, plus the 22 cents I had wasted on postage. I never heard from them.

Can anything be done about something like this? IRWIN WEINER.

BOCA RATON, FLA.

DEAR IRWIN: You are not the only person who has experienced problems with Kraft offers.

Mary Dale of Chicago went shopping for American cheese singles. Her son, Kenny, loves American cheese, and Mary is always looking for the best buy on the singles. On this particular occasion, she noticed that the Kraft Singles packages were especially marked on the wrapper: "91 coupon offer inside good on Kraft Singles."

Mary looked at the package and decided that a dollar's worth of Kraft coupons on the inside of the package made it a real bargain. When she got home, with her purchases and opened the American Singles package, however, she was disappointed. There were no coupons inside. Instead there was a mail-in form that said "Buy Two Kraft Singles. Earn up to $1 Worth of Savings."

Mary then realized that she would receive four 25-cent singles coupons only if she purchased another package of the Kraft Singles and then mailed in both proofs of purchase.

"I felt cheated," she says, and she decided to get some legal advice. Her attorneys agreed with her, and a lawsuit was brought against Kraft in the circuit court of Cook County, charging false, deceptive and misleading practices.

This was not just a suit to get Mary's $1 worth of coupons. Mary's attorneys filed a class-action suit representing all of the consumers who they alleged were wronged and damaged by the Kraft offer.

The case was never decided, because the parties agreed to a settlement. A Kraft spokesman stated: "The company entered into the agreement to benefit consumers who may have misunderstood the offer and avoid the cost of further litigation."

The settlement provided that Kraft, without admitting guilt, would distribute 70 cents worth of coupons to consumers, without the need for any proofs of purchase. Kraft then printed up to 4.5 million notices in the form of tear-off pads, making the offer. Kraft asked retailers to put them up in their stores.

On the front of the paper appeared the notice: "Consumer—This notice constitutes a notice to you of the pendency of a class action and a proposed settlement." The forms were to be mailed back to Kraft by April 1, 1986.

The fine print on the back of each form really didn't say much about why the coupons were being given to consumers. It didn't mention Mary Dale or Kenny or why the lawsuit was brought in the first place. Many readers have wondered about it and written to me.

As Paul Harvey, the well-known radio commentator, would say, "Now you know the rest of the story."

Tales of hard times are hard to take

Dear Abby

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am a 13-year-old girl. I don't want to be disrespectful to parents, but I am tired of hearing how easy the kids of today have it...

TIRE D TEEN

DEAR TIRE D: It may comfort you to know that every generation of teens has had to listen to their parents tell them how rough they had it.

Abby, why can't parents accept the fact that life has become easier with every generation because of the progress we've made?

Astrograph

Your Birthday

May 8, 1986

The year ahead is full of exceptional promise, especially in creative areas. Don't let your gifts and talents go unused.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)

You're entering a favorable cycle for ventures you originate. Although there will be others involved, you'll be the one who orchestrates the major moves.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)

A situation you've devoted considerable effort and imagination to is going to pay off, regardless of how circumstances appear now.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)

Three friends are about to play major roles in your personal affairs. Although their efforts will be unrelated, they'll produce a positive, collective impact.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)

Opportunities that have been denied you where you work or career are concerned will soon be forthcoming. Keep doing the best job you possibly can.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)

Plans you formulate today should be vigorously pursued. The concepts you envision will have far-reaching favorable effects.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23)

A big change is about to take place that will produce additional financial advantages for you. Look for new ways to put your money to work.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)

Partnership arrangements will hold great promise for you over the coming weeks. One in particular will produce stable mutual benefits.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21)

A number of interesting career developments are in the offing for you. This could be the period when you get the raise or advancement you've been seeking.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)

Conditions look bright in the romance department. If you're already in love, it's going to get better; if you're presently unattached, you won't be for long.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19)

A matter you've been anxious about will have a desirable ending. This is your way for something of considerable promise in the future.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20)

Ingenuous new twists are going to eclipse your plans. These new ideas will bring you the success you've been hoping for.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)

Free life will be breathed into your financial affairs beginning today. Start scouting for ways to increase your holdings.

Pops opens 101st season

BOSTON (UPI) - Hundreds of concert goers paid $25 to $60 to hear the Boston Pops launch its 101st season, but loyal fans faced the prospect of having to watch the orchestra's July 4th concert on television instead of on the Charles River Esplanade.

The 96-member orchestra Tuesday treated its audience to classical pieces, show tunes and jazz numbers in a Symphony Hall festooned with balloons and flowers.

Jazz singer Joe Williams and clarinetist Richard Stoltzman were featured guests in the Pops' first popular music performance of the season - which comes on the heels of a 22-week winter schedule of serious classical music by the Boston Symphony Orchestra.

John Williams, now in his seventh season as successor to the legendary Arthur Fiedler, chose a program that included classical selections by such composers as Claude Debussy, but also featured several show tunes and numbers by jazz giant Duke Ellington, featuring Joe Williams on vocals.

Last year, the Pops stepped heading into a storm of controversy when administrators decided to book the orchestra for July 4 festival in New York, where the newly restored Statue of Liberty is to be rededicated.

Pops fans, who have been able to watch the orchestra play on the Charles River Esplanade each Independence Day since 1929, were promised an outdoor concert on July 5 instead.

Although Gold acknowledged the decision was unpopular, she said Bostonians are beginning to accept it. "Mostly, people are very proud of us to have been invited (to New York)," she said.

Old plays nominated as best of 1985-86

NEW YORK (AP) - The Tony awards have looked to the past to give the present some competition. "Blood Knot" was first performed in South Africa 23 years ago and in New York in 1964.

"The House of Blue Leaves" by John Guare premiered off-Broadway in 1971. "It's a total outrage to me. They're revivals. What they've done is knock all the new plays out of the box. The rules are going to have to be clarified."

Both were nominated Monday, along with "Benefactors" by Michael Frayn and Herb Gardner's "I'm Not Rappaport," as best plays of the mediocre 1985-1986 Broadway season. The were deemed eligible by the Tony nominating committee because neither had been performed before on Broadway, a criterion for nomination in the best play category.

The best play nominations for "Blood Knot," which closed in March, and "The House of Blue Leaves," at Lincoln Center's Vivian Beaumont Theater, were greeted with dismay by some producers whose plays were in competition in the category that is considered the most important because of its effect on box-office receipts.

Armstrong income dips

NEW HAVEN (UPI) — Armstrong Rubber Co has reported the firm's second quarter net income dropped sharply to $1.2 million, or 11 cents per share, compared with $2.5 million, or 21 cents, for the same period last year.

Net sales for the latest quarter ended March 31, were $18.5 million, compared with $17.7 million in the company's second quarter of 1985, the company reported Tuesday.

For the first half of Armstrong's 1986 fiscal year, net sales were $37.9 million, up 8 percent from $35.6 million in the same period last year.

The sales gain reflected the consolidation of Blackstone Corp. with Armstrong for six months in 1986, compared with three months in 1985, said Frank R. O'Keefe Jr., Armstrong's chairman and chief executive officer.

Net income for the latest six-month period was $3.9 million, or 37 cents per share, down sharply from $9.9 million, or 97 cents per share, for the same period last year.

In 1985, Armstrong had an after-tax gain of $2.3 million, or 22 cents per share, on the sale of property.

Both second quarter and first half results suffered because of demand weakness and intense competition in replacement tire markets, O'Keefe said.

During the latest three-month period, the company adopted new pension procedures recently prescribed by the Financial Accounting Standards Board for use by all U.S. companies.

The effect of the new accounting rule was to decrease pension expense by about $2.7 million for the second quarter and $5.3 million for the first half of the company's 1986 fiscal year, O'Keefe said.

Earnings for the first quarter ended Dec. 31, 1985, were restated to reflect the effect of the new pension accounting rule, he said.

O'Keefe said sales of Armstrong's Copolymer specialty synthetic rubber used in automotive and engineered plastics applications were in line with company forecasts for the second quarter and first half.

Fourth network

Comedian Joan Rivers joins Barry Diller (right), chairman and chief executive officer of Fox Inc., and Jamie Kellner, president and chief operating officer of Fox, to announce Tuesday that Fox, a subsidiary of Rupert Murdoch's multimedia conglomerate, is forming a fourth non-cable television network to begin broadcasts this fall. Rivers, who has been a regular guest host on NBC-TV's "Tonight Show" starring Johnny Carson, has signed for her own talk show with Fox.

Brock defends fines against Union Carbide

WASHINGTON (AP) — Labor Secretary William Brock on Tuesday is defending his decision to seek a record $1.4 million in occupational health and safety fines against Union Carbide Corp. saying inspections are uncovering similar problems at other companies' chemical plants.

"When you have a situation where somebody jeopardizes people's lives, somebody ought to get hit and hit hard," Brock told the House Education and Labor Committee's subcommittee on health and safety Tuesday. "When you have such a pervasive violation we have no alternative but to take the aggressive steps that we did."

The Labor Department's Occupational Safety and Enforcement Administration last month proposed the $1.4 million in fines for 23 alleged violations at Carbide's Institute, W. Va. plant, including making workers "smell" for leaks of deadly gases.

The company has denied instructing workers at its Institute plant to attempt to detect the presence of phosgene gas — the same chemical used as mustard gas in World War I — by its odor.

It also has labeled as "an outrageous misrepresentation of the truth" Brock's assertion that Union Carbide based in Danbury, Conn., had shown a willful disregard for its employees' health and safety and has vowed to contest the charges through various appeals.

OSHA officials have acknowledged that the size of the fine against Carbide represents a major change in its enforcement policies under the Reagan administration. At the hearing, Reps. Robert Wise Jr., D-W.Va., whose district includes the Institute plant, and Rod Chandler, R-Wash., questioned whether the new policy would lead to less cooperation from the chemical industry in correcting problems uncovered by government inspectors. "I'm not a confrontational person," Brock said. "The dilemma we faced is that the previous approach had left in the minds of some people the idea that the law is not going to be seriously enforced."

The subcommittee's chairman, Rep. Joseph Gaydos, D-Pa., voiced an opposite fear — that the number of alleged violations and the size of the fines will be "watered down" by an OSHA appeals panel or through a settlement.

"We have no intention of backing off," Brock answered. "We didn't enter into this decision lightly. When we impose the largest fine we've ever imposed, we think about it."

On May 1, Brock said, his department has initiated similar but more limited investigations of 18 other chemical plants among 80 targeted by OSHA.

While it is too early to compare the findings of those probes with the conditions found at the Institute plant, he said, several serious violations have been found.

Among them, Brock said, are use of improper electrical items in hazardous locations and the absence of alarm systems, written safety procedures and firefighting and evacuation plans.

Nynex invades state Yellow-Pages market

Nynex Corp., whose full-page newspaper advertisements are fighting the incursion of Southwestern Bell into its New York-area Yellow Pages market, has begun an invasion of its own: into the Connecticut territory dominated by Southern New England Telephone Co. Units of Nynex and the Dun & Bradstreet Corp. are teaming up to publish, by December, a Fairfield County Yellow Pages directory for the project while the Nynex subsidiary will publish and deliver the phone books.

At least three other groups — Kaiser Co., Johnson Publishing and the Better Business Bureau — publish telephone directories in Connecticut, but McClain said his company sees SNET's directories as its real competition. "Our decision to publish a Yellow Pages in Fairfield County resulted from extensive market research in this region — research showing a real need by both advertisers and consumers for a more comprehensive user-friendly Yellow Pages," McClain said.

The Yellow Pages market nationally is estimated to be worth about $6 billion in annual revenues, according to William Braumlich, vice president of Nynex Information Resources. Nynex is fighting for a large chunk of the market in its home city of New York, where Southwestern Bell — another "Baby Bell" — has introduced its competing directory.

In 1985, directory advertising contributed $85.1 million of SNET's $1.3 billion in operating revenues. SNET published 28 Yellow Pages directories in 1 million copies.

If the radio and television advertising in New York are an indication, consumers will have to choose between the competing directories.

CALL FOR ANNUAL TOWN AND BUDGET MEETING

The legal voters of the Town of Bolton are hereby warned and notified to meet in an ANNUAL TOWN AND BUDGET MEETING at the COMMUNITY HALL in said Town on Monday, May 12, 1986 at 8:00 P.M. in the evening for the following purposes:

- To hear annual reports from each Town Commission, Board, Agency, and Office.
- To consider and act upon a resolution to return to the Nature Conservancy Fund the sums of $960.00 previously authorized for Bulldozing; $609.56 previously authorized for a water system at Indian Notch Park; $437.90 previously authorized for an addition to the Indian Notch Park parking lot; $1,043.83 previously authorized for wall-board at Herrick Park; and $130.23 previously authorized for landscaping of Indian Notch Park (Total = $3,181.52).
- To consider and act upon a resolution to appropriate $6,321.03 plus accrued interest from the Nature Conservancy Fund for fencing and/or other Town park improvements as designated by the Parks Director and the Board of Selectmen.
- To receive, consider, and act upon a budget for the Town of Bolton for the fiscal year 1986-87, as recommended by the Board of Finance, in the amount of $5,344,057.00.
- To authorize the Board of Selectmen and the Treasurer of the Town of Bolton, if said budget is adopted, to borrow on specific accounts, or otherwise, such sums of money from time to time, as of such time or times as may be necessary to meet the expenses and obligations of said Town of Bolton for the fiscal year 1986-87, in an amount not exceeding the appropriations authorized hereinbefore.

Dated at Bolton, Connecticut this 4th day of May, 1986.

Especially for her... Mother's Day is May 11th

Come to D&L for the gift she's been wanting (and probably waiting for!). Intimate fashions for her days and nights... intimate fashions that are luxuriously feminine, irresistibly delicious!

For her nights, Lorraine's® long fitted gown with matching wrap robe, both in deliciously cool and creamy new color called mint ice. V-Neck gown in silky soft nylon tricot, with exquisite lace medallion insert at midriff. Sizes S-M-L, $18. Long robe in shimmering "Satina" Arnel®/nylon, with lace insets in the sleeves. Sizes S-M-L, $31.

Also from our collection (not shown), sleeveless shift gown in sizes S-M-L, $14, extra sizes, $16. Matching short button coat in sizes S-M-L, $20; extra sizes, $22.

For her days, Lorraine's® lingerie is as pretty as it is practical. She'll feel truly pampered in this camisole and petti, both with delicate tulip embroidery on a triangular panel encased in lace. Both in satiny, non-cling Antron III nylon, in white or pink. Camisole in sizes 32-38, $12. Petti in sizes S-M-L, $11.

Forever and always, the Tu-Tu Bear by Presentables! Our irresistible little bear (she sits 5½" high!) is made of satin and lace, and filled with delightfully feminine potpourri. It's fragrance will last a long time — and just the sight of this adorable bear on her dresser or pillow will delight her always! $22.50

CHRISTA'S CHALLENGE

Christa McAuliffe: teacher, astronaut, American hero. Something wonderful glowed deep within her.

She was a dreamer whose passion was to reach for the stars. Her imagination knew no boundaries.

Today, our future dreams can be found in America's classrooms. It was in the classroom that Christa taught and where she hoped her achievements would one day inspire her students to return — as teachers.

That is why the American Federation of Teachers has established a special fund entitled "Christa's Challenge."

This education and scholarship fund will help encourage more of our nation's brightest students to dedicate their lives to the challenge Christa loved most — teaching.

All contributions to this fund will go directly for scholarships and grants.

Help keep Christa's dream alive. Send your tax-deductible contribution to Christa's Challenge at the address on the coupon below.
