West Beirut was the scene of a spate of kidnappings and assassinations in 1984 and 1985 after Moslem militias wrested control of the sector from the Lebanese school's acting controller, who was kidnapped at 6:45 a.m. at the door to his campus apartment building in Moslem west Beirut.
There was no immediate claim of responsibility for the abduction. Police said witnesses told them one gunman hit Ciccioppo on the

WEATHER

Cloudy

Weather satellite photo taken at 3:30 a.m. shows thick layered clouds along a frontal system which extends westward across northern New England to a low over southeastern Ontario and then southward through the Tennessee Valley. Thunderstorms accompany this front from the southern Appalachians to Texas. High clouds lie over the West Coast states and extend eastward into the northern and central Plains.

National forecast

Showers are forecast for Saturday from the Northwest to the eastern Plains and for Florida and the eastern Gulf. Warm weather is forecast for most of the country. Cool weather is forecast for the northern Plains.

Connecticut forecast

Central, East Interior and Southwest Interior: Hazy sunshine this morning. Showers and thunderstorms likely developing this afternoon. Windy warm and humid with highs around 85. Gusty southwest wind to 25 mph. Chance of showers 60 percent after noon. Clearing and less humid tonight. Lows 55 to 60. Northwest wind around 10 mph. Sunny, mild and less humid Saturday. Highs 75 to 80.
West Coastal and East Coastal: Hazy sunshine this morning. Showers and thunderstorms likely this afternoon. Windy warm and humid with highs 80 to 85. Gusty southwest wind to 25 mph. Chance of showers 60 percent. Clearing and less humid tonight. Lows around 60. Northwest wind 10 to 15 mph. Sunny, mild and less humid Saturday. Highs 75 to 80.
Northwest Hills: Mostly cloudy today with showers and thunderstorms likely developing. Windy warm and humid with highs around 80. Gusty south wind to 25 mph. Chance of showers 70 percent. Clearing and less humid tonight. Lows 55 to 60. Northwest wind around 10 mph. Sunny, mild and less humid Saturday. Highs around 75.

Coastal forecast

Long Island Sound to Watch Hill, R.I., and Montauk Point: Small craft advisory in effect. Winds south to southwest 15 to 25 knots with higher gusts today. Wind shifting to the northwest 10 to 15 knots tonight and continuing through Saturday. Seas 3 to 5 feet offshore today. 1 to 3 feet tonight into Saturday and 2 to 3 feet locally over Long Island Sound. Visibility possibly locally below 3 miles in the afternoon. Chance of thundershowers mainly during the afternoon.

Across the nation

Rain spread from the Midwest into the South today while most of the West had fair weather. Showers and thunderstorms extended from the lower Great Lakes across eastern sections of the Ohio Valley, the Tennessee Valley and northern Louisiana into south central Texas. Rain also spread across upstate New York and northern New England.
Rain was scattered in Michigan, where flash flood warnings were posted in southern sections of the state because of three days of thunderstorms that dumped up to 13 inches of rain.
Skies were clear to partly cloudy across the Western half of the nation, with only a few showers in southern Montana.
Today's forecast called for showers and thunderstorms likely across New England and New York; showers and thunderstorms scattered from the mid- and south Atlantic Coast states across the upper Ohio Valley, east Tennessee and the central Gulf Coast states; and showers scattered across the northern Pacific Coast, Montana and upper Michigan.
Highs will be in the 50s to 60s along the northern and central Pacific Coast across the northern tier from Washington to northern Michigan; in the desert Southwest, the southern Atlantic Coast states and much of Texas and Louisiana; and 70s to 80s across most of the rest of the nation.

Eye catchers

SAN FRANCISCO — The San Francisco Arts Commission Festival is touting grand-scale eye-grabbers this year, including a 12-foot-high Venus de Milo carved from soap and canned food, and a high-quality sculpture of the world's largest mouth.
Organizers of the 40th annual event say they are trying to shed its reputation as a high-quality crafts fair by showing off the avant-garde assemblage of monumental outdoor sculpture.
"This is the first time that so many Bay area sculptors working on a grand scale are able to exhibit their work in one setting and the results are phenomenal," said Michael Bell, festival director.
Works of bronze, steel, redwood and ceramic will produce an array of effects, including lights, sound, movement and smoke signals for the festival, which runs until Sept. 21.

TVs to vote

SLIDELL, La. — Forget about public service announcements and voter registration drives. Officials are offering an incentive to voters — a free color television set.
The St. Tammany Police Jury, similar to a county board of administrators, hopes the chance of a free prize will lure voters to cast ballots on a long-sought 2 percent sales tax.
"The police jury has been trying to pass a sales tax for some time," said Irma Cry, director of the Greater Slidell Area Chamber of Commerce, which is using the "Vote and Win Campaign" for Nov. 4.
Tax opponents apparently vote in droves while others stay home, Cry said.

Conservation panel keeps busy

Recycling effort grows, as does concern about Case Mountain

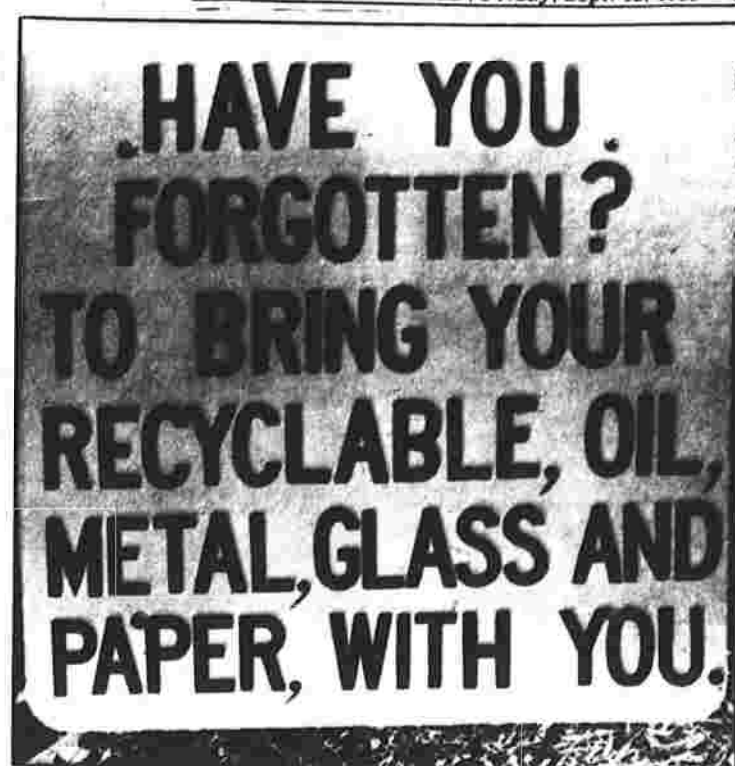

By George Loyne
Herald Reporter

Manchester residents receiving town water will soon be getting something extra with their bills. The Conservation Commission has finished printing a flyer that will be distributed along with the bills encouraging residents to use recycling receptacles at the town landfill. Some 14,000 of the messages were printed and will be distributed over the next three months as water bills are mailed, commission member Judith Libby, who oversees the project, said Thursday.
The flyer reminds residents that the town has receptacles at the entrance to the landfill on Olcott Street for scrap metal, newspapers, used oil and clean, clear and brown glass.
During a meeting Thursday in Lincoln Center, Libby said town officials have also erected signs at the entrance and exit to the landfill to encourage Manchester residents to recycle.

The panel's efforts to promote the program stem partly from concern cited earlier this summer that Manchester was lagging behind other towns in saving and reusing paper, glass and metal. In 1985, Glastonbury — which has half the population of Manchester — collected over seven times as much paper, almost 1 1/2 times as much glass and over three times as much scrap metal.
In addition to the other efforts, the commission plans to ask school officials to distribute copies of a booklet in elementary schools encouraging recycling.
Also Thursday, commission Chairman Arthur Glaeser said he is exploring the purchase of two new gates to keep vehicles off hiking trails at Case Mountain park in the southern part of town. The existing gates are continually vandalized, he said.

"As long as the gate is open, people are driving up," Glaeser said. "The gates have to be in place."
An increase in litter and vandalism has occurred because the gates have been torn down, Glaeser said he once found a couch that had been brought and left to rot on the top of the mountain.
The two new gates would cost about $200 and are designed to thwart vandals, Glaeser said. He said once he develops a final proposal, he will recommend to the town Board of Directors that the town purchase the gates.
Commission members said if there is no money available, the panel may be able to use some of its own funds.
The commission also decided to recommend to town Public Works Director George Kadra that walking trails be built on both the north and south side of the Hockanum River under the Union Street Bridge when the structure is rebuilt.

Plans currently call for a path on the south side, but the commission wants a trail on both sides so that the Hockanum River Linear Park can be extended from Union Pond along the river. The panel also will urge the town to make sure the southern path is close enough to the water so that canoeists can use the trail to launch their boats.
The new bridge is scheduled to be built in two years.
In another matter, the commission threw its support behind plans to build an industrial park on land that borders the northern section of Union Pond. The project would not interfere with the pond nor the Hockanum River, panel members said.
Although the Conservation Commission is an advisory committee, its input is often sought by the town before a project is approved.

Signs encourage recycling at the town landfill.

In Brief

EMS van is back on the road

The rescue van used by Manchester's Emergency Medical Service is back on the road after having undergone extensive modifications.
The van body was refurbished and attached to a new cab, with a diesel engine and a new chassis.
While the vehicle was out of service for about eight weeks, paramedics used an ambulance borrowed from the Manchester Ambulance Service.
Town Fire Chief John Rivosa said some other communities with an emergency medical service have had good luck with diesel vehicles.
Rivosa said the total cost of the cab and chassis and the refurbishing of the body was a little under $30,000.

Republicans to gather in Bolton

BOLTON — Republican gubernatorial candidate Julie Belaga, U.S. Senate candidate Roger Eddy, and 2nd District congressional candidate Francis "Bud" Mullen will appear at a GOP fund-raiser on Sunday.
Mark Johnson, Republican town chairman, said the three GOP candidates will be on hand at a banquet at Fiano's Restaurant on Route 44. The event will take place from 3 to 6 p.m., and the cost is $20 per person. For more information, call Johnson at 645-9725.

MMH becomes Big Brother, Sister

Manchester Memorial Hospital has assumed sponsorship of a Big Brother-Sister program formerly run by a volunteer organization in Manchester.
The program, which gives children an idea of what it's like to have a baby brother or sister, was originally run by the Family-Oriented Childbirth Information Society, a local volunteer organization that established and operated the program. Two of the FOCIS volunteers will continue to serve as instructors.
The class includes slides on the mother's stay in the hospital and a story about the arrival of a baby. Demonstrations on holding an infant are held and a tour of the unit is also included. Children who take the class receive a badge of certification.
A $5 donation is requested to cover the cost of the materials. The class will be offered on the first Thursday of each month, except December and August, for children 3 years of age and older. Reservations are required and can be made by calling the hospital's Family Birthing Center at 647-4735.

Four advance in Merit competition

Four students from area high schools have been named semifinalists in the 1987 National Merit Scholarship competition, a news release from the scholarship corporation said.
They are among 15,000 high school seniors across the nation who will have an opportunity to advance in the competition for about 6,000 Merit Scholarships worth over $21 million.
The students are considered to be in the top one-half percent of Connecticut's class of 1987 as a result of their performance on the PSAT-NMSQT test.
The students are Karen C. Danahy of Coventry High School, Anthony M. LaFontana of East Catholic High School in Manchester, and John M. Sanford and Erin A. Sullivan, who attend Manchester High School.

Lack of police '10-4' leaves questions

By John Mitchell
Herald Reporter

Frances Parkman can't get a "10-4" from the Manchester Police Department, and it has her worried.
Parkman, a citizens band radio operator since 1967, who lives on Bigelow Street, said she has tried to notify the police through her unit three times after spotting emergency situations.
"Police haven't answered her calls, she said.
Parkman, who has a CB unit at her home as well as one in her car, she said she mainly uses them to help others. "I help a lot of people out offering directions and giving help," she said.
On Monday, Parkman spotted an elderly man on Main Street who appeared to be drunk and was creating a public disturbance. Parkman said she got on her car radio and shouted for help on channel 9, the 24-hour emergency channel. "Nobody came back to me," she said.

As a result, her son, Christopher, ran to Lincoln Center and called police, who responded quickly.
"This is not the first time this has happened," Parkman said.
About two weeks ago, a car fire prompted her to alert the authorities. Again, she said, the police dispatcher didn't take her call.
The police department installed a new $300 radio communication system in June, which was designed to offer total radio coverage, including channel 9.
Parkman said she is disappointed because "our taxes have been paid to put new equipment in there."

But when told of Parkman's complaint, police department spokesman Gary Wood said channel 9 is being monitored 24 hours a day. "The signals have to be loud to be picked up," he said. "If it's not coming in clear, we don't stop everything and try to listen."
Larry Warren, superintendent of communications for the department, said he remembered the situation on Main Street. "We got quite a few calls on it," he said.
Because most emergencies produce calls from several sources, Warren said he doubts the department has missed emergencies in the system in June, which was designed to offer total radio coverage, including channel 9.
Parkman said she is disappointed because "our taxes have been paid to put new equipment in there."

ments in town, the emergency medical service and the ambulance service.
"We realize there are times when they aren't going to get through," Warren said. "A CB is not a high-quality radio, compared to other communication."
Depending on how far away the call is, a CB operator could "leapfrog" to get an emergency call in, Warren said. This entails reaching someone close by who could, in turn, contact someone else even closer, until dispatch picks up the signal.
Another option, Warren said, is to contact somebody who could make a quick phone call.
"A true CBR knows the system," Wood said.
"I was just so upset about Monday's incident because my son was so scared," said Parkman.

Lee's last fling

A final bash for Lady Liberty next month will be Lee Inceca's last official act as chairman of the foundation that led the project to restore the Statue of Liberty and Ellis Island.
The Chrysler Corp. chairman said he would like to see the Statue of Liberty-Ellis Island Foundation "bring in new blood to continue the work."
"I didn't realize when I took the job on how much work it would entail," Inceca said Thursday. "After a while, you get kind of burned out."
The gala, scheduled for Oct. 28 — the 100th anniversary of the statue's day of dedication, will consist of a musical salute at Avery Fisher Hall, featuring the world premiere of "On Freedom's Ground: An American Cantata," by William Schuman, with a text by poet Richard Wilbur.

The piece will be performed by The New York Philharmonic Orchestra, said Claudia Petz, who along with her husband, Nelson, the chairman of Triangle Industries, and Inceca and his wife, Peggy, will head the event.
Zubin Mehta will conduct and Tony Randall will be master of ceremonies. The event will include Julio Iglesias, Charles Aznavour and Placido Domingo.

Ross comes through

Singer Diana Ross says the Park playground she's building in New York's Central Park as a gift from her violence-plagued 1983 concert is designed with the safety of children in mind.
"Some of the playgrounds (I've seen), as I've traveled throughout America and even Europe, you find the swings that pinch the fingers and the concrete that might hurt if they fell down," Ross said Thursday at the groundbreaking for the playground she helped design.
"So my intent in creating this playground is safety first," said Ross, who was accompanied by her husband and three young daughters.
"Diana Ross, who has given us all the gift of song and music, has given our children the gift of play, swings and slides, jungle gyms and firepiles and cooling sprinklers," said Parks Commissioner Henry Stern.
The 1983 concert was marred first by a rainstorm that forced one day's postponement, then by marauding youths who assaulted patrons afterward.

Jerry loves Jimmy?

Jerry Falwell says Jimmy Carter "continues to have my love and prayers" even though the former president said that the TV evangelist who often criticized his administration "can go to hell."
Carter, discussing religion during a question-and-answer session before delivering a speech Thursday at Meredith College in Raleigh, N.C., said Falwell had challenged the piety of people who supported some of Carter's initiatives.
"I don't let Jerry Falwell or anyone else define for me what is a Christian," he said. "There was a time when Falwell said anybody who supports the Panama Canal treaty is not a Christian, anybody who supports SALT II is not a Christian, anybody who's for the Department of Education is not a Christian."
"In a very Christian way, as far as I'm concerned he can go to hell," Carter said with a grin. His audience of perhaps 250 students burst into cheers and applause.
Falwell, whose ministry is based in Lynchburg, Va., issued a response through his assistant, Mark DeMoss.
"I have too much respect for President Carter as our former head of state and a brother in Christ to believe he would tell anyone to go to hell," he said. "I choose to believe he was either misquoted or taken out of context. He continues to have my love and prayers."

Water, Water
If you wanted to buy vodka in the Soviet Union, you might have to wait in a long line for hours. Three-hour liquor store lines like this one have become the norm in the U.S.S.R. as the government tries to reverse the hard-drinking habits of many Russians. Vodka is a basic of Russian life. The word "vodka" comes from the word "voda," meaning water. Vodka is distilled at such a high alcohol content that manufacturers must often add water to reduce it to 80 or 90 proof.

Teacher talks planned

By John Mitchell
Herald Reporter

School officials in area towns that face a quagmire as trigger communities under the state's Education Enhancement Act are planning teacher negotiations, but strategies for the talks are being kept under wraps.

In Coventry, School Superintendent Nathan Chester said the administration and the teachers' union have "exchanged packages" but have not yet formally opened negotiations.

Both the Board of Education and the Town Council — Coventry's fiscal authority — have agreed to reopen the talks. Under the provisions of the bill, negotiations couldn't have been renewed if the council had refused to approve the action.

If the minimum salary of all teachers is raised to more than $20,000, Chester said, Coventry would gain $246,000 in state funds under the act, which passed the General Assembly in June. Ed Steinnagel, head of the teachers' union, said the town could get as much as $500,000 if it qualifies under bonus provisions in the Republican-sponsored bill.

Steinnagel said the teachers hope to meet with the Board of Education sometime this month. He declined to provide details on the teachers' strategy, but said the main thrust will be on salaries. Currently, about 50 of the town's 130 teachers are below the $20,000 minimum sought in the legislation, he said.

"We really need to do something to improve teachers' salaries," Steinnagel said. Several teachers have left the schools as a result of the low pay, he said.

In order for trigger towns to collect any of the funds provided under the act, negotiations have to be reopened for salaries to be paid in the current school year. The trigger decision was based on a complex formula comparing salaries statewide.

Like Coventry, Andover and Bolton were among the 58 towns that failed to meet trigger requirements under the act.

Under the law, trigger towns — those that ranked higher than 100 under a formula comparing average teacher salaries and average salary increases over the past three years in the context of complete state averages — did not have to negotiate to get the funding.

In Bolton, School Superintendent Richard Packman said the Board of Education and the town teachers' association met Sept. 4 to discuss "mutually agreeable ground rules" for the negotiations. He said the two groups will meet Sept. 16 to discuss the proposals, and he declined to discuss specific strategy.

Packman said a formal agreement on the rules offered by the teachers will be reviewed at that time, and if needed, a counterproposal will be offered.

In Andover, Board of Education Chairman Beatrice Kowalski said that town's fiscal authority, the Board of Finance, has not indicated whether it will approve reopening "because we have not been to them." She said the teachers were upgraded in salary last year so that of the estimated 20 in town, only a few make less than $20,000.

"We'll get any money we can from the state," Kowalski said. She was unable to specify the amount the town was eligible for.

Kowalski said she would approach members of the Board of Finance after their meeting Monday.

"We should be doing it now," she said.

Vito Coupletro of Manchester Seaford looks over his shoulder while racing backwards on the Main Street leg of a waiters' race sponsored Thursday by the Greater Manchester Chamber of Commerce and the Manchester Herald to kick off Feast Fest '86, the downtown food festival. Coupletro went on to win the race, collecting $100 worth of "funny money" to spend at downtown stores. The second prize, $50, went to Jodie Cary of the MARC Bakery. The waiters, each carrying a tray with two filled plastic wineglasses, had to negotiate a course from the Herald's parking lot to the site of the festival at Main and Forest streets. The festival runs today and Saturday from 11 a.m. to 10 p.m. and Sunday from noon to 6 p.m.

Coventry talks harassment

School board prepares to adopt policy on advances

By Jacqueline Bennett
Herald Correspondent

COVENTRY — The Board of Education plans to adopt a policy on sexual harassment of personnel, supervisor or administrator. Complaints could be taken to a supervisor, administrator, or to the superintendent of schools.

Disciplinary action would be taken by the school board and superintendent in cases where sexual harassment was confirmed.

At the school board meeting Thursday, member Richard Frye advocated broadening the policy.

"I feel we need to take a strong stand on intimidation by any means," he said.

Ashley replied that if "interpersonal relations" were strained in other ways such as a supervisor consistently shouting at an employee — it would be unfortunate, but not criminal. He also noted that the Connecticut Education Association, which represents teachers, has a grievance procedure for such problems.

Although the board discussed having the CEA also handle employees would be guaranteed protection against reprisals if they filed a complaint against a supervisor or administrator. Complaints could be taken to a supervisor, administrator, or to the superintendent of schools.

Library addition gets a bit bigger

By John Mitchell
Herald Reporter

BOLTON — The library-media center at Bolton High School will be a bit larger than originally planned, the Board of Education decided Thursday.

Board members unanimously approved revised preliminary drawings by project architect Alan Wiedie that will leave the LMC with about 110 more square feet of space than the 2,900 square feet originally suggested by an advisory committee. With the approval at the meeting Thursday, Wiedie will begin work on final plans.

School board member John Muro had cited concern that the first sketch of the center — which will be built next spring as an addition to the south wing of the high school — did not allow enough space for volumes, equipment and the reading room and conference center. In response to that, Wiedie said he drew a second plan, which used 3,200 square feet.

"We've had to scale it back down," he said Thursday about the plan to use 2,910 square feet. Wiedie said the proposal approved Thursday met the criteria for the LMC, but the building cost for all four would have been too high.

At the meeting Thursday, board members also agreed to send a letter to the Board of Selectmen in an effort to address school code violations.

Member Barry Stearns said the school was audited by the state last year and about 100 code violations were found. Stearns said the majority concern items that need upgrading so the building will comply with new standards mandated by the addition of the LMC.

"Probably the most serious ones, we've already corrected," Stearns said.

Members of the board said the selectmen should either count the school violations in the Town Building Code Survey, or, an assessment being done on municipal buildings, or to appropriate funds so the violations can be corrected.

Under his plan, the council would conduct annual evaluations of each judge. In addition, the council, the Judicial Department and the Connecticut Bar Association would expand the program of "exit polling" of lawyers and jurors after all criminal and civil cases.

"Under the plan I am outlining," Johnston said, "the general public will be on equal footing with the legal community."

Connecticut In Brief

Dodd to vote against Rehnquist

WASHINGTON — Sen. Christopher J. Dodd, D-Conn., says he will vote against the nomination of William Rehnquist to be chief justice, saying President Reagan's nominee lacks a commitment to equal justice for all.

Dodd said, however, he will vote to confirm Antonin Scalia as an associate justice of the Supreme Court.

Sen. Lowell P. Weicker Jr., R-Conn., has not announced how he will vote, said spokesman Jack Dolan.

Dodd said Thursday that Rehnquist, now an associate justice, has the technical legal skills and the character to become the nation's top jurist.

But he said he is unconvinced Rehnquist is committed to the constitutional principle of equal justice, or that he has the ability to build consensus among the justices in major cases.

Dodd said that in 14 civil rights cases where Rehnquist cast the deciding vote on the high court, he voted against minorities. In another 83 cases where his vote was not the key one, he opposed minorities in 80, Dodd said.

Search for state woman falls

CHESAPEAKE, Va. — A fruitless search for the body of a Connecticut woman who disappeared eight years ago raises questions about the credibility of an informer, a Virginia Beach prosecutor said.

But Deputy Commonwealth's Attorney Robert J. Humphreys said Thursday that authorities are not closing the file on the Aug. 23, 1978 disappearance of Barbara Jean Monaco of Derby, Conn.

"We've got people we're looking at, whether you want to call them suspects or not," he said. "Our big hope for a break in this case is to find the body."

A few months after Monaco's disappearance, an informant told police that the 18-year-old woman had been abducted, gang-raped, strangled and dumped into a lake in a wooded area of Virginia Beach. He said the woman's body floated to the surface three weeks later, and her killers buried the body nearby.

Archaeologists searched the wooded area near the Oceana Naval Air Station from Monday to Thursday. Aerial infrared photographs showed "hot spots" where a body might be buried.

Lawmaker calls for judicial changes

HARTFORD — State Sen. Richard B. Johnston is calling for changes in the way judges are evaluated in order to help the General Assembly when jurists come up for reappointment.

The Wethersfield Republican said Thursday the Judicial Review Council should include one more layman and three lawyers who do not customarily practice in court.

The panel now has five laymen, three lawyers and three judges. Johnston, who is co-chairman of the Judiciary Committee, said allowing lawyers on the council who regularly practice in the courtroom makes it lopsided.

5 retailers named in complaints

By Judd Everhart
Herald Press

HARTFORD — Consumer Protection Commissioner Mary M. Heslin said Thursday that her office had issued complaints against five well-known Connecticut retailers for allegedly making false claims in advertising.

Two of the retailers denied any intentional wrongdoing.

Heslin said her investigators had found claims of sale prices when the prices were actually every-day prices. In other cases, she said, advertisements contained no end date for sales, a violation of state regulations.

"You just can't have a never-ending sale," Heslin said. "If you do, it's not a sale."

working in the mess hall have occasionally put foreign objects, like steel shards and urine, into their food as intimidation or retaliatory measures.

But the latest controversy was sparked in July, when human feces was found in spaghetti sauce served to 500 inmates and 30 prison staff members. An inmate later was transferred out of state in connection with the incident.

Lopes vowed at the time to come up with a solution.

Thibodeau, walking a picket line with 27 other officers in front of the road leading to the maximum-security prison, said the state Department of Health Services is reluctant to criticize conditions at the prison because another state agency is involved.

The guards vowed to bring the issue to Gov. William A. O'Neill if Lopes doesn't respond quickly.

They added they may conduct the picketing weekly until the matter is resolved.

But Lopes said Wednesday that the protest would have no effect on his handling of the matter.

"I don't feel any heat to react immediately because some officers don't think I'm acting that quickly," Lopes said. The commissioner added that his administrators told him the protesters represent staffers for food they bring in to the facility.

But Lopes last week refused to bar inmates from the preparation correction officers at the prison.

Officials from the union local called for the informational picket last week because inmates still are helping to prepare meals served to guards.

Somers guards picket over food decision

SOMERS (AP) — A group of Somers State Prison correctional officers are protesting Corrections Commissioner Raymond M. Lopes' refusal to bar inmates from the preparation of their food, saying the decision threatens their health.

"If this was a restaurant, they would have had this place closed down," said correction officer Russell Thibodeau, a member of the executive board of Local 391 of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees' Council 4 and one of the officers picketing Thursday.

Correction officers have complained for years that inmates better cooperation among the states and an exchange of information about approaches they have tried and their successes.

Also Thursday, Unaffiliated Party gubernatorial candidate Frank Longo called for mandatory sentences for drug offenders and the elimination of plea bargaining unless a suspect provides information on more serious offenders.

Longo said convicted drug offenders should have their drivers' licenses taken away and that dealers should be required to pay fines equal to 10 times the value of the drugs seized.

The third-party candidate said those convicted of drug offenses should be barred from eligibility for state licenses, such as for drivers' licenses, liquor or restaurant operators, insurance agents and doctors.

Republican gubernatorial candidate Julie D. Belaga has also called for a "war on drugs."

Gov. William A. O'Neill is calling for uniform drug laws across the Northeast "so that there are no havens for lawbreakers" in the region.

"In the past, our New England states have worked together effectively to crack down in such areas as drunken driving and other threats to the public health and safety," O'Neill said in remarks prepared for delivery during a meeting of the New England governors at the Eastern States Exposition in West Springfield, Mass. on Thursday.

"Drug abuse is certainly another area where we can demonstrate our effectiveness as a region," O'Neill, a Democrat, seeking re-election this year, did not propose specific laws or penalties, but urged his colleagues to study the creation of uniform drug enforcement laws.

The governor also called for

Bush returns to his former hometown for the first time today as vice president. He will appear at a fund-raising reception for Roger Eddy, the GOP candidate seeking to unseat Democratic Sen. OPINION

Wilson's campaign a new low

With the opening of his campaign for the Legislature Thursday morning, independent Edward J. Wilson brought politics in Manchester to a new low.

Wilson, who is seeking to represent the 13th Assembly District, launched his effort with an abusive and banal assault on the incumbent, Rep. E. Swenson, R-Manchester. His platform was an eight-page statement in which legislative proposals were overshadowed by innuendo, half-truths and cries for intolerance.

One example of Wilson's argument, with the contradiction left intact, was: "Swenson has chosen to support a man for governor whose voting record flies in the face of all that is contrary to our Judeo-Christian society."

That reference was to Richard Bozzuto, the candidate endorsed at the Republican state convention and defeated by state Rep. Julie Belaga in Tuesday's primary.

Wilson, who recently withdrew from the Republican Party, went on to accuse Swenson and Bozzuto of numerous crimes against morality, the state and the people of Manchester. They've waffled on abortion, supported homosexuality and been soft on rapists and murderers, he said.

"I say discrimination in the pursuit of our Christian-Judeo morality is no sin," Wilson continued. "It is a protection against disease and criminal activity of the worst kind."

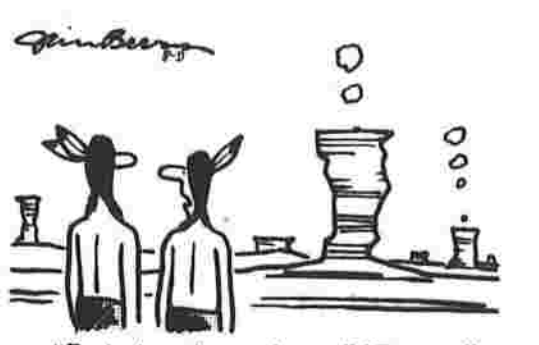

Such nonsense contributes nothing to the public debate. To be sure, Swenson has not been a particularly effective legislator. But Wilson, whose smear campaign will probably just get worse as Election Day approaches, is not a fit replacement.

As the voters of Manchester weigh the issues this year, they should keep their attention on Swenson and her other opponent, Democrat John W. Thompson.

Neither Swenson nor Thompson—who have twice campaigned against one another in tight races—has ever resorted to despicable tactics such as those in evidence at Wilson headquarters Thursday.

Swenson's six-year record in the General Assembly, whatever its quality, is open for all to scrutinize and judge. And Thompson, a former Manchester mayor, is a man of proven integrity. Both his career in politics and his stands this year offer no indication that he would waver from our course if elected to represent the 13th District.

But Wilson, to borrow his own turn of phrase, has nothing to peddle except "hogwash."

"Typical media - always BAD news."

KAL 007 lies just made bad case worse

Three years ago when the Russians shot down a Korean airliner and 289 lives were lost, our television screens were filled with angry tavern owners and liquor store proprietors pouring their imported vodka inventories down the sewers.

What the Russians had done was a terrible thing under any circumstances, but especially so since President Reagan told his countrymen the Soviets knew they were destroying a civilian airliner.

In the intervening three years there has been much speculation that the Korean plane was, in addition to carrying non-military passengers, also involved in some kind of spying on Russian war installations. No proof for this hypothesis has ever been offered, but now comes Seymour Hersh, our most relentless and successful investigative reporter, with different, but no less sensational revelations.

HERSCH, WHO FIRST BROUGHT US news of the My Lai mass and of a number of other subsequent massacres, has learned the almost from the hour of the plane's destruction, the American government has known that, contrary to what President Reagan said, the Russians didn't have the foggiest idea that they were shooting down a civilian aircraft. It turns out that, owing to the limitations of their radar equipment and the vagaries of human nature, the Russians thought they had some kind of spy plane on their hands.

and that, contrary to orders not to shoot at it until he had gotten close enough to get a good look at it, a Soviet fighter pilot apparently shot it down by mistake when trying to fire a warning shot at the Korean plane.

All of this was known to the American authorities, Hersh tells us, because they not only listened in on the Russian radio and telephone

Feet of State have stately office decor

WASHINGTON — A tipster on Capitol Hill telephoned the other day with a real shocker: Secretary of State George Shultz had spent $2 million on a rug for his office. It wasn't true.

But in checking out the astonishing allegation, we turned up some fascinating information on life at the top—the top two floors of the State Department building, that is.

A lot of money has indeed been spent recently for improvements and fancy furnishings in 10 suites on the seventh floor—including Shultz's office—and on the eighth floor, which is used for diplomatic receptions, banquets, tea parties and other high-toned affairs. Another $2 million will be spent on antique furniture.

But the money is being donated, and the only really valuable item in Shultz's private office is an Oriental worth about $20,000—a pitance by Washington carpeting standards.

How did Foggy Bottom acquire all this for nothing? It was accomplished by Clement Conger, 73, a smooth-talking, arm-twisting Virginia gentleman. A newspaperman in his youth, he turned to a higher calling as a Foreign Service officer and then curator of the State Department's diplomatic reception rooms (and later of the White House).

"THE GRAND ACQUISITOR" specializes in persuading millionaires, corporations and assorted patriotic patrons of the arts to donate Federal Period antiques or raise up the money he needs to buy them. Among the donors is Shultz himself, who has kicked in $10,000 a year ever since he became secretary ("I didn't ask him, either," said Conger), and Shultz's deputy, John C. Whitehead.

Though he derides the original decor of the top floors as Airport Lounge Modern, Conger is both a pragmatist and an eclectic. As a result, Shultz's office is a mixture of old and new. Mahogany floors (and the Oriental rug) replaced the institutional wall-to-wall carpeting. Cherry paneling covers the walls and the rec-room acoustical-tile ceiling has been redone.

In Shultz's study, family pictures share space with portraits of James Madison and John Quincy Adams. The leather-covered phone (with direct line to the White House) sits on an 18th century Pembroke table. A personal computer is hidden in an antique desk.

But the rug, you say: What about rug and the $2 million? Was it all a figment of imagination? Not exactly. Conger's redecoration of the enormous Ben Franklin Dining Room on the eighth floor cost $5 million, and it did include a huge, expensive rug.

"NOBODY'S EVER HAD a rug this big," Conger proudly told our reporter David Davis. It's 90 feet long and 38 feet wide and cost $25,000 to lay it. There are 50 stars woven into the background, American eagles at each end and part of the Great Seal of the Republic in the center, exactly beneath the Great Seal in the ceiling.

One of the biggest problems with the rug was getting rid of the pinkish stain in rug that it replaced. Despite the celebrity feat that had trod upon the old rug, Conger's assistant, Gail Serfaty, found there were no takers. She couldn't even give it away to the Salvation Army, Goodwill or Mitch Schneider's homeless shelter. Finally, a group in Virginia that cares for the homeless took it off her hands.

Incidentally, not everything in Conger's kingdom is real. The Corinthian columns in the Franklin Dining Room are faked to look like red French marble. The genuine articles would have gone crashing through all eight floors.

Always anxieties The federal government has belatedly decided to stop releasing lists of the radio frequencies used by various government agencies, declaring them classified. But Bob Grove, a communications enthusiast and publisher in North Carolina, has been selling a list of the 10,000 frequencies since he's offering the now-classified list for sale, but no one has complied to him. Soviet embassy officials regularly obtained the list of frequencies, which are no longer available to the public.

At a lower level, police and other law-enforcement agencies have increasingly taken to scrambling their radio communications, both to keep crooks from knowing their plans and the press from getting tips on stories. Now a product is on the market for less than $5 that will put the Mafia and the media back in touch with the boys in blue. It's a device specifically designed to scramble law-enforcement communications.

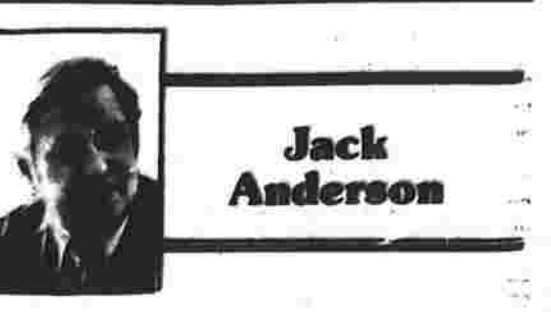

TO WHAT PURPOSE? Perhaps lying in the U.N. does serve the needs of American foreign policy. One would like to think we, as a nation, could get where we wanted to go without resorting to untruths, but citizens of the Third World countries, tempted by the false claims of Marxism, may need to hear false counter-claims from us. Let's give the administration that much.

But why here at home? Why do President Reagan and his advisers think it necessary to tell us gratuitous lies of this sort? Does he think that, absent such horror stories, 240 million Americans may want to pick up and move to Smolensk or Kiev where, thanks to Chernobyl, you can see the chickens with the lights turned off?

Here is a country where there is no political left. Certainly no Marxist party, hardly even a gaggle of Marxist study groups from coast to coast. There are no communists, no communist propaganda conversations, but make videotape recordings of what was appearing on the radio and television. Yet in the U.N. Security Council, the U.S. was accusing the Soviets of calculated butchery and for home consumption our politicians orchestrated a cacophony of anti-Soviet abuse.

U.S./World In Brief

Poland broadens amnesty order

WARSAW, Poland — Citing a "visible improvement of public order," the Communist government ordered a prison amnesty for all political detainees, including top members of the outlawed Solidarity labor movement.

Solidarity supporters reacted to Thursday's announcement with surprise and elation. Movement founder Lech Walesa said he received the news "with great pleasure" and called on authorities to allow greater personal freedoms.

"The last six years of our national history proved in a convincing way that there is a need for deep changes for a solution to Polish problems," Walesa said. "All Poles must be given the possibility to work for the country and at the same time to keep their views."

Solidarity, the first free trade union in the Soviet bloc, was founded in 1980, later suppressed, and then outlawed after martial law was declared in December 1981.

Florida court rejects killer's appeal

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. — The Florida Supreme Court has refused to consider an appeal from Roswell Gilbert, the 76-year-old man convicted of first-degree murder for what he said was the "mercy killing" of his ailing wife.

Gilbert admitted the March 1985 shooting his 73-year-old wife, Elmer. He said he killed her because he could not stand to watch her suffer from Alzheimer's disease and osteoporosis, a painful, degenerative bone disease.

Gilbert was convicted of first-degree murder in June 1985. He is serving a life sentence in Arvon Park Correctional Institution and is not eligible for parole for almost 25 years. The conviction and sentence were upheld by the 4th District Court of Appeal in May.

In a one-page statement issued Wednesday, the state Supreme Court said it lacked jurisdiction to hear the case. The statement did not elaborate on why the court did not have jurisdiction.

Explosion tears through Paris store

PARIS — An explosion ripped through the cafeteria of a department store in the La Defense commercial center west of Paris today, and initial reports said as many as 10 people may have been wounded.

The fire department said the blast in the Casino store looked like a bombing, but that could not be immediately confirmed. Damage to the store was said to be serious.

If it was a bombing, it would be the second in the Paris area this week. On Monday, a bomb exploded in the post office on the ground floor of Paris city hall, killing one person and injuring 19.

Responsibility for the city hall bombing was claimed by a group calling itself the Committee for Solidarity with Arab and Middle East Political Prisoners.

The group is seeking the release of three alleged terrorists now in French prisons and has vowed to continue its attacks until their demands are met.

'Star Wars' test called a success

WASHINGTON — The secret "Star Wars" experiment conducted last week provided information that one day will make it possible for small interceptor rockets based in space to hunt down nuclear missiles, the program's director said Thursday.

Lt. Gen. James A. Abrahamson, lifting the veil of official secrecy surrounding the $150 million experiment, said last Friday's trial was an unqualified success that proved America's technological acumen and demonstrated that President Reagan's dream of an anti-missile defense was closer to reality than most believe.

"The experiment's success" will lead, just inexorably, to the kinds of capability that we are all trying to move in this research program as quickly as possible," Abrahamson said.

Philippine court voids acquittals

MANILA, Philippines — The Supreme Court today voided the acquittal of 26 people charged in the 1983 assassination of President Corason Aquino's husband and ordered a new trial.

In a 50-page decision written by Chief Justice Claudio Teehankee, the court said the acquittal of then armed forces chief Gen. Fabian C. Ver, 24 other military men and one civilian was reached in a sham trial orchestrated by then-President Ferdinand E. Marcos.

A new trial into the slaying of opposition leader Benigno Aquino was shot while in military custody at Manila airport on Aug. 21, 1983, the day he returned from three years of voluntary exile in the United States.

The assassination triggered mass protests which eventually led to the church-backed military revolt that ended Marcos' 20-year rule and swept Aquino's widow, Corason, to power.

Marcos and Ver fled to exile in Hawaii. Presidential executive secretary Joser Arroyo said in a statement, "We are committed to respect the independence of the judiciary and so let the judicial process take its course." He declined to comment further.

Government ombudsman Raul Gonzales could not be reached for comment, but he had said last month he already formed a new prosecutorial panel.

In its Dec. 2 verdict, the court trying the 26 defendants ruled that the opposition leader was killed by Rolando Galman, an alleged communist agent whom soldiers fatally beat at airport terminal. Galman was the trial's chief prosecutor, Manuel Herrera, claimed after Marcos' ouster that the deposed ruler orchestrated the acquittal, and lawyers for the Galman family petitioned the high court for a new trial.

The Supreme Court's decision came a month after a fact-finding commission recommended a mistrial declaration, saying it found evidence that Marcos orchestrated the acquittals.

"The court is constrained to declare the sham trial a mock trial — the negation of the century — and that the predetermined judgment of acquittal was unlawful and void ab initio (from the start)," the Supreme Court said, adopting the commission's report.

The fact-finding commission cited the stationing in the courtroom of soldiers disguised as court sheriffs, and a television camera bearing a military insignia that was installed inside the courtroom and which monitored every minute of the proceedings.

Tough drug bill faces fight in Senate

WASHINGTON — The House has voted to arm the government with expensive new tools to fight illegal drugs, but amendments requiring use of military muscle and renewing the federal death penalty leave the bill vulnerable to a Senate filibuster.

Despite an overwhelming 292-16 vote for final passage Thursday night, a bill that began with harmonious praise ended with angry bickering about its constitutionality.

Just as extraordinary were the deadlines set for the president to make use of the armed forces. He would have 30 days to "deploy equipment and personnel... sufficient to halt" smugglers at the borders and arrest them when in hot pursuit. The bill also stipulates that within 45 days, "The president shall substantially halt the unlawful penetration of United States borders by aircraft and vessels."

Major provisions of the bill would, among other things, increase penalties for violators and establish a 20-year-to-life sentence for trafficking and manufacturing that results in serious injury or death.

The legislation also would provide money for additional drug enforcement agents and prison construction, increase Coast Guard personnel and provide equipment for airborne and sea-borne interception of drugs.

The legislation would use a broad approach, pouring money into enforcement, education, rehabilitation, crop eradication, and withholding aid from recalcitrant producer countries.

The military amendment, sponsored by Reps. Robinson and Duncan Hunter, R-Calif., passed 237-137. In other significant changes made on the House floor, lawmakers:

• Voted 242-171 for an amendment that would give state and local law enforcement agencies a bonanza in federal grants to fight illegal drugs. The original bill would have allocated $800 million for the grants in fiscal years 1987 and 1988, but the change, sponsored by Rep. Charles Rangel, D-N.Y., would raise the figure to $1.3 billion. The state-local matching share would be reduced from 50 percent in the original bill to 10 percent.

• Voted 296-112 to permit imposition of the federal death penalty for individuals involved in a continuing criminal enterprise, who intentionally cause the death of another individual. The change was sponsored by Rep. George W. Gekas, R-Pa.

Egypt, Israel back peace conference

By Dalia Baligh The Associated Press

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt — President Hosni Mubarak and Israeli Prime Minister Shimon Peres today said they agreed to set up a committee to prepare for an international conference on Middle East peace. The agreement, which was not in the official statement issued at the end of the two-day meeting, appeared to be the major achievement from the first summit between the two countries in five years. "We have both of us agreed on an international conference and a preparatory committee," Mubarak told reporters. "Still, there are some issues to discuss. You can't imagine such a problem to be solved in 24 hours, but we made good progress."

Peres said the committee would discuss procedure and composition for a conference. Egypt and Jordan, which have tried for more than a year to break the impasse in the regional peace process, have favored an international conference to provide a framework for direct negotiations between Israel and the Arabs. The United States and Israel until now, has voiced opposition to an international conference because it would include the Soviet Union. "We have concentrated heavily on the Palestinian issue, which is vital and important for the peace process," Mubarak said. "We will continue our discussion." Mubarak said the Israeli stand on the Palestinian question was "improving a lot" and that Arabs must help the Jewish state solve the problem. Peres told reporters at a late-night briefing both he and Mubarak agreed that "solving the Palestinian issue is essential for any movement on peace."

Emergency workers waded through downtown Vassar, Mich., Thursday, aiding merchants who were removing stock or placing it up on shelves. Heavy rains sent the Cass River over its banks and into the Tuscola County community.

Your Birthday Sept. 13, 1986. Your material and organizational skills will be extremely pronounced in the year ahead. It is likely that you'll direct some type of operation, either for fun or profit. VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You're still in a strong up-cycle where your popularity is concerned, and you have the ability to win new friends of either gender. LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Things have a way of working out to your advantage today, even in situations controlled by others. SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) If your instincts urge you to get in touch with a special party today, don't put it off. SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You're still on a roll financially, so if you didn't get the type of returns you hoped for yesterday, try again today. CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Usually it's rather unwise to mix business with pleasure, but today could be an exception. AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Information that could benefit you financially may come your way today through the least-expected sources. PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) Things should work out well for you today in arrangements where your friends are directly involved. TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Activities that present some form of challenge will be the ones you'll find the most enjoyable today. GEMINI (May 21-June 20) If there is something you want to change in order to benefit yourself or your family, today is a better day to do it than tomorrow. CANCER (June 21-July 21) This is the best day to implement a carefully thought-out arrangement or contract. LEO (July 22-Aug. 22) You'll be amply compensated today for work that you personally perform, even though there will be help of sorts in the background.

Bridge

Grand Illusion By James Jacoby. If you want to be a good bridge player, don't let euphoria set in. Today's declarer, for example, won the opening lead and berated his partner: "Didn't you know that my five trump bid asked you to bid a grand slam if your clubs were solid and you also had all those extra kings?" "But partner," North pleaded, "are these clubs solid?" Meanwhile declarer led a club from his hand. When West showed out, the table became quiet as the berating stopped. In his rush to criticize North, South had neglected to guarantee his contract. What should he have done? Declarer's only danger is if all five opposing clubs are bunched in the same hand. There is a way to guard against this one out of 25 possibility. After winning the first trick, he should reach dummy with one of the red kings to lead a low club. Either opponent is now welcome to hold five clubs, but will not be able to take more than one trick. Lesson: Don't become so engrossed in what you think you should have bid that you forget to play safe for the actual contract. Until 1840, the island continent of Australia served as a penal colony for English criminals and debtors. General John J. Pershing, the only person to have held the rank of general of the armies while alive, was authorized to prescribe his own insignia, but never wore more than four stars. The rank was established by Congress for George Washington in 1799, and he was promoted to the rank by joint solution of Congress and approved by President General Ford on Oct. 19, 1976. Weekenders

Smile and say cheese

Looking to buy, sell or trade used photographic equipment? Whether antique or modern, the object you are looking for might be at the annual Photo and Trade Show, sponsored by the Wethersfield-Rocky Hill Rotary Club. Lenses, accessories, daguerotypes and dark room equipment will be included, as well as tinsy-pansy memorabilia. The show is Sunday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Steak Club Ramada Inn, Rocky Hill. Admission is $5; for early admission, you'll pay $15.

Art tag sale

Another sale of interest to collectors might be the Art Tag Sale, on Sunday from 1 to 4 p.m. on the Saltbox Gallery lawn, 37 Buena Vista Road, West Hartford. There will be all sorts of art-related items for sale, including books, frames, pictures, paintings, chalk. It is sponsored by the West Hartford Art League.

A fair for veterans

Many veterans' groups are sponsoring a fall carnival at the Rocky Hill Veterans' Home and Hospital on Sunday from 1 to 4 p.m. The Connecticut Veterans of Foreign Wars, its ladies auxiliary and related groups have put this already held fair together. Refreshments will be served. Admission is free.

That tree is a 'T'

Youngsters will enjoy the alphabet hike on Saturday at 10 a.m. at the Hungersford Outdoor Education Center in Kennington. Natural objects from A to Z will be identified during the hike. Children 7 and under must be accompanied by an adult. Admission to the center is $2 adults; $1 students. An additional $1 will be charged for the hike. Register by calling 827-9064.

Organist shows talent

Christa Rakich will perform a program of organ pieces by Bach, Mozart and Rossini on the organ at the Storrs Congregational Church on North Eagleview Road Sunday. The concert starts at 4 p.m. A donation will be requested.

Calories don't count

Calories don't count when it comes to the Manchester Feast Fest, held this weekend at the corner of Main and Forest streets. Samples of the cooking from 15 area restaurants will be available tonight until 10 p.m. Saturday from 11 a.m. to 10 p.m. and Sunday from noon to 6 p.m. To aid the handicapped, there will be a continuous entertainment. And there's a People's Choice voting ballot, so you can vote for the entire and dessert you like the best. The fair is on, rain or shine, so head for those cakes, clams and croissants!

A crafty day

You'll find 100 craftsmen at the annual Outdoor Craft Show, sponsored by the Ladies' Guild of St. Francis of Assisi Church, 673 Ellington Road, South Windsor. The fair will be open from 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.; in case of rain, it will be Sept. 20.

Spiders spook you?

"The Kiss of the Spider Woman" is a rather strange and exotic film, done in Brazil last year. It stars William Hurt and Raul Julia as cellmates. It's showing in Von der Mehden Hall at the University of Connecticut tonight at 8. Admission is $2.50.

Hear dulcimer tunes

If you've never heard a mountain dulcimer played well, then treat yourself to a seat at the Leo Kretzner concert Saturday evening. He is considered one of the best dulcimer players, with a repertoire ranging from traditional ballads to original songs. The concert is part of the Sounding Board Coffeehouse series held each Saturday at 8 p.m. at First Church of Christ Congregational, 12 S. Main St., West Hartford. Admission is $6.

Something old, nothing new

There will be antiques galore in Wethersfield this weekend, as 200 dealers gather for the Old Wethersfield Antiques Show & Sale. It will be open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday on the grounds of the Solomon Welles House, which overlooks Wethersfield Cove. There will be furniture, glass, silver, woodware, maps, clocks and much more. Admission is $2 and parking is free.

Middletown crafts

There will be more than 180 artisans exhibiting at the Middletown Hadassah Crafts Fair on Sunday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. It will be held in the Riverview Center Parking Arcade behind the Sears in Middletown. Admission is free, and refreshments will be sold.

Charles is a legend

Legendary soul singer Ray Charles learned to play the piano at the St. Augustine School for the Deaf and Blind in Orlando, Fla. At age 15 he joined a dance band, and there's been no stopping him since. He will be at the Oakdale Musical Theatre in Wallingford tonight for an 8:30 p.m. concert. Tickets are $18.50.

Waterbury is wonderful

The Wonderful Waterbury Festival is on this weekend at Library Park in Waterbury. There are 20 restaurants are serving up samples; two stages with continuous live entertainment; fireworks, clowns, magicians and jugglers. It is open tonight until 9; Saturday and Sunday from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m.

Not a children's musical

"Out of the Reach of Children," a new musical about a reunion of five high school friends, is playing at the Avery Theater in the Wadsworth Atheneum, 400 Main St., Hartford. The musical runs through Sept. 20, with performances at 8 p.m. It is the first offering of the fall season by Company One, the resident theater at the Hartford Arts Center. When it was mounted in Washington, D.C., it was named one of the best plays of the year by the Washington Post and the Washington Times. Tickets are $10.

The karate kids

The Battle of New England Karate Championships will be held Sunday from 10:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. at the Berlin High School gymnasium. Competitors come from all over the East Coast. Food and martial arts equipment will be for sale. Spectator tickets are $5 for adults; $3 for children under 12.

Buy bargains

Great buys will be available at the Manchester Graze flea market Saturday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Grange grounds on Olcott Street. Rain date is Sept. 20.

Examine exhibit

See the North Manchester Exhibit Sunday from 1 to 5 p.m. at the Museum of Local History, 126 Cedar St. The Manchester Historical Society extended the time of the exhibit until Sunday. The show has post cards, pictures, farm equipment and ledgers of businesses representative of the history of the North End of Manchester.

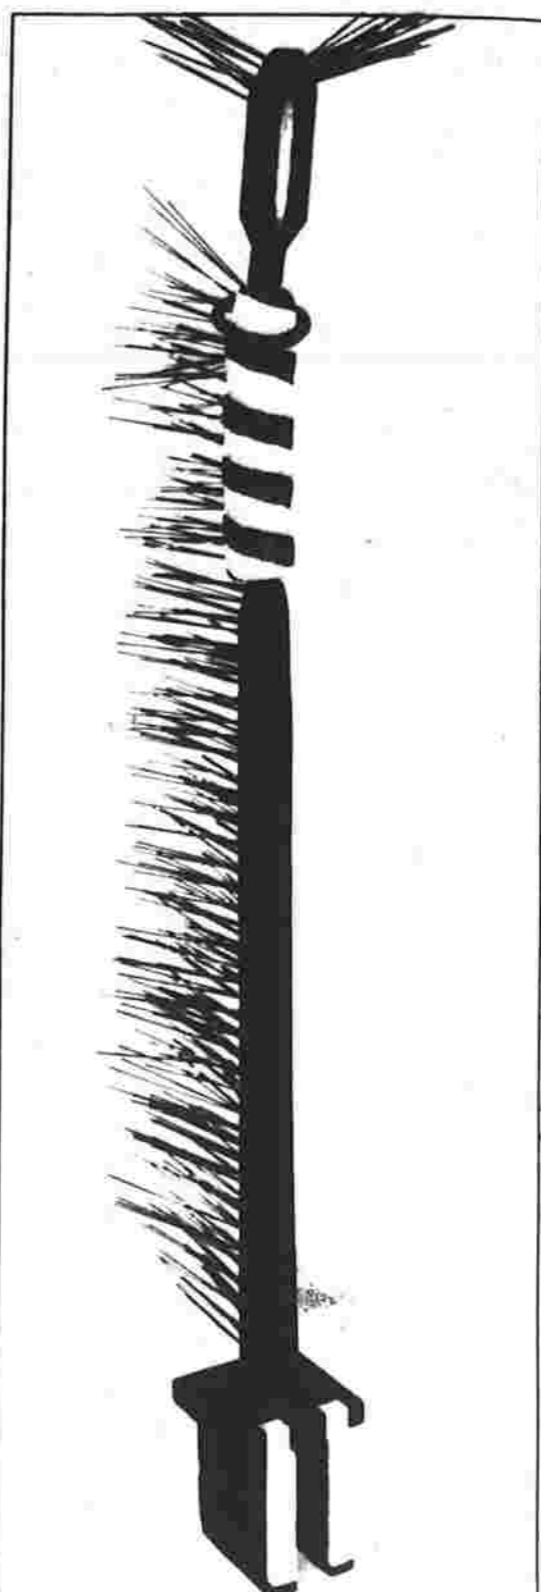

A 'Big E' weekend

The Eastern States Exposition, commonly known as the Big E, offers many special attractions this weekend at the exposition grounds in West Springfield.

On the Magic Midway every day will be Joie Chitwood's auto show called Thrills on Wheels, a petting zoo, McDonald's and Coca-Cola's SuperCircus '86. The Coor's Great American High Dive Team will perform stunts daily. Pony-pulling contests, the 4-H horse show and other 4-H and Future Farmers of America activities will be featured on Saturday. The championship horse show and an antique car exhibit will be held on Sunday.

Entertainers will include singer Jim Stafford on Saturday, the Cajun band Atchafalaya each weekend, and Guy Lombardo's Royal Canadian Orchestra on Sunday.

The exposition is located on Route 147, West Springfield, and continues through Sept. 21. Hours are 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. daily. Admission is $5 for adults, $3 for senior citizens 60 and older and children 6 to 13, and free to children under 6. Parking is $2 and there are a limited number of handicapped parking spaces at gate 9A. Phone (413) 737-2443 for information.

Totem 7 at Newspace

Totem 7, a painted sculpture by Dee Carnelli of West Hartford, is part of the alumni exhibition, 8 from the 80s, which runs until Sept. 26 at Newspace Gallery, Manchester Community College. Carnelli is one of eight graduates whose work will be shown. The gallery hours are Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Saturday from 9 a.m. to noon.

Advice

Unhappy woman becomes exiled wife

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been married for 10 years. I'm 68 and he's 70. We both love each other and find love again with each other. It was like a dream. Then this came to light: George has a 28-year-old, twice-divorced daughter who is self-supporting but has moved back "home" with a girlfriend to look after her father and run his house. "Stella" is spoiled rotten and bosses her father around as though he were a child. He's a kind, gentle man who had been bossed by his deceased wife for 43 years, and now this daughter is taking up where her mother left off.

George will not stand up for himself, hoping the situation will solve itself. He doesn't want Stella to know that he bought me a new car and a lovely piece of jewelry as a wedding gift. He told her I already had them. I don't like all this deceit.

We have been married for seven months, and we are not even living together because his daughter is there and he says it will be too crowded with me there, too, Abby. I am his wife!

I didn't know all this was going to happen. George says neither did he, but Stella is his daughter, and he can't say no to her. So where does that leave me?

HUMILIATED
Dear Abby: My problem may seem rather odd, and you're probably right. I'm weird, but here goes: I am going to be married soon and I have already given my wedding gown and plan to make it myself. It's going to be black lace and taffeta. I've told my few people and have already been ridiculed, asked if I was "crazy," and I was even accused of being a Satan worshipper. I am not, I believe in God. I just happen to like black.

I know from history that white was not always the traditional color for brides. In our culture black is worn by mourners, but I am not superstitious. In other cultures, white is worn for mourning, so why not black for weddings?

I have had only one positive reaction from a friend who heard I was going to be married in black. She said, "If figures. You always were different."

I would appreciate your opinion. DIFFERENT IN INDIANA

DEAR DIFFERENT: What does your fiance think this is the only option you need? If he has no objection, go with the black and good luck.

To get Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions," send a check or money order for $2.50 and a long, stamped #10 envelope, self-addressed envelope. Dear Abby, Letter Booklet, P.O. Box 3823, Hollywood, Calif. 90038.

DEAR ABBY: If you need a verdict, I would pronounce your mother guilty of perpetuating a 45-year-old habit — correcting you for your own good. But since it was done with your consent, you should waive the right to complain.

I know from history that white was not always the traditional color for brides. In our culture black is worn by mourners, but I am not superstitious. In other cultures, white is worn for mourning, so why not black for weddings?

Windham inflicts first CCC loss on MHS

By Bob Popoff
Herold Sports Writer

It was only one game, but something Manchester High will have to live with. At least until a boys' soccer team both blessed and saddled by lofty tradition gets another shot.

The MHS Indians suffered their first loss in the regular-season history of the Central Connecticut Conference on Thursday — and it wasn't pretty. Manchester was squashed 3-0 by rival Windham Memorial High. And though it was only one game, players, coaches and spectators from both sides sensed the implications.

"There's a new team to be in the CCC East."

"I'm really happy for these guys, they deserve it," said MHS coach Bill McCarthy, ever-gracious in defeat, of the victorious visitors. "Windham has been waiting for this for a long time, and we ran into a buzzaw today. They're impressive, we're inexperienced, but they worked hard and you can't take anything away from them."

In the past two years of conference competition, the hungry Windham Whippets' record of 20-2-4 had only been good enough for second best. Manchester was 24-4-4 in the same span.

In four previous and rather physical showdowns, the squads had battled to three scoreless ties. The Indians escaped with the lone decision back in 1984, typically by a 1-0 count.

"We've never beat Manchester in the history of Windham," noted beaming Whippet pilot Gary Doppala. "That's since 1968, when the program began. This is such a confidence builder for the kids."

At the moments of the second half flashed by for Windham — and dragged for Manchester — those present could almost sense the foreboding presence of flames dancing in the eyes of Whippets everywhere.

"I'm not going to prefix every statement with the fact that we're putting seven or eight sophomores on the field at once," said McCarthy, whose club plays at Wethersfield Saturday at 10:30 a.m. "But our sophomores just did

Red Sox streak ends, but they gain ground

MILWAUKEE 8-0, Oakland defeated Chicago 2-1 and Kansas City got by Seattle 2-1 in 10 innings.

Even when the Boston Red Sox lose, they win.

Boston's 11-game winning streak ended Thursday night with an 8-6 loss in Baltimore, but the Red Sox still increased their lead in the American League East, because runner-up Toronto dropped a doubleheader to New York. Boston's margin over the Blue Jays grew to nine games.

"We weren't going to get hurt even if Toronto split," Boston Manager John McNamara. "But with New York winning both, that's a bonus for us."

The third-place Yankees with their 3-1 and 7-5 victories moved within 10 games of Boston. The Red Sox begin a three-game series in New York tonight.

"The three games this weekend against Boston mean a lot more than the eight," pinch-hitter Lee Lacy's single off Joe Sambito and Juan Beniquez hit a sacrifice fly against Bob Stanley.

Don Aase, 6-7, pitched two innings for the victory.

Bill Buckner hit two homers and drove in three runs for Boston. Jim Rice hit a sacrifice fly in the first inning for his 100th RBI. The fourth straight year he has reached that mark and the eighth time in his career.

The victory ended Boston's five-game winning streak in Baltimore, but was just the ninth in the last 34 games for the Orioles since they Pinch-hitter Don Pasqua's three-run double in the ninth inning rallied New York to victory in the second game of a doubleheader sweep in Toronto.

The Yankees won the opener as Doug Drabek pitched five-hit ball for 7-1-3 innings.

Dave Righetti saved both games, giving a total of 38, in sending Toronto to its fourth straight loss.

Ron Kittle homered in both games for New York. His first two homers since joining the Yankees on July 29 gave him 18 this season.

Don Mattingly went 2-for-3 in the first game and reached the 200th hit for the third straight season.

The only other Yankee with three consecutive 200-hit seasons is Lou Gehrig.

A three-run homer by Rick Leach and Jesse Barfield's team-record 31st home run gave Toronto a 5-3 lead entering the ninth inning.

But Mike Easler hit an RBI single off Tom Henke, 9-4, and Pasqua doubled over first base against Mark Eichhorn to win the game.

Tigers 6, Brewers 0

Jack Morris pitched a three-hitter and recorded his league-leading fifth shutout as Detroit downed Milwaukee.

Darnell Coles hit a three-run double in the first inning and Kirk Gibson hit his triple against Mark Brookens homered for the last Tigers.

A's 2, White Sox 1

Joaquin Andujar threw a six-hitter and Dusty Baker went 3-for-3, leading Oakland past Chicago.

Andujar, 10-6, won his third straight decision with his third complete game in a row. Kirk Dotton, 10-14, took the loss despite pitching a five-hitter.

Baker, who began the game in a 4-for-29 slump, hit two doubles, one of which drove in the tie-breaking run in the fifth.

Rookie Jose Canseco hit his 30th homer for the visiting A's. Canseco, who leads the majors with 107 RBIs, became the sixth player in Oakland history to reach 30 home runs.

Royals 7, Mariners 6

Willie Wilson tripled home the winning run with one out in the fifth inning as Kansas City beat visiting Seattle.

Law Law led off the inning by reaching on shortstop Rey Quinones' error and Wilson homered through 12-10.

Gary Gaetti hit his 30th homer for the Twins against Charlie Hough, 12-10.

Mike Stanley and Tom Paciorek homered for Texas.

Twins 6, Rangers 2

Mark Salas hit two homers and drove in four runs, helping Minnesota's Frank Viola to continue his domination of Texas.

The visiting Rangers lost for the seventh time in 10 games.

Viola, 14-11, won his seventh straight game against the Rangers. He gave up eight hits over seven innings and struck out 10.

Salas hit a solo homer in the first inning and connected for a two-run homer in the third. He added an RBI single in the fifth.

Gary Gaetti hit his 30th homer for the Twins against Charlie Hough, 12-10.

Mike Stanley and Tom Paciorek homered for Texas.

Patriots manhandle the Jets; McNeil is injured

By Barry Wilner
The Associated Press

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. — It might not look that way on the scoreboard, but everyone at Giants Stadium knew the New York Jets had been manhandled by the New England Patriots.

The final score Thursday night was 20-6. It could have been 40-6 for all that it mattered. The AFC champion Patriots dominated the Jets, who also lost star running back Freeman McNeil for four to six weeks with a dislocated right elbow.

"We can do that to anybody," claimed linebacker Don Blackmon. "We never take a whiff for made a lot of changes, we play a basic defense and they know we're coming at them every play."

The Patriots, who got a pair of touchdown catches from Tony Collins, have allowed only three field goals in two games. They are 2-0 and will lead the AFC East regardless of Sunday's results.

"We're more confident this year," Blackmon said after the Patriots held the Jets to 33 and 47-yard field goals by Pat Leahy and didn't allow New York close to the end zone in the second half.

"We believe in each other, that we can do anything we put our minds to."

The Patriots' offense put the Jets in ideal position on the third play from scrimmage when quarterback Tony Eason fumbled when hit by nose tackle Joe Kieckhefer. Linebacker Lance Mehl dove in on the ball at the New England 10.

But it took the Patriots' defense just one play to get the ball back, as linebacker Toby Williams stripped the ball from fullback Tony Paige and end Brent Williams grabbed it.

"(Safety) Fred Maroon came by the end zone and we can't let them score, we got to get a turnover," Blackmon said. "First play, we got an arm in there and the ball popped loose. I think that set the tone."

The Patriots nearly scored on an option pass by Craig James to Irving Fryar later in the period, but Fryar dropped the ball. Still, New England continued to drive and Collins sneaked into the left field to haul in a 6-yard pass from Eason.

They just faked a handoff to Collins said.

Jets quarterback Ken O'Brien, who hit on 16 of 30 passes for 180 yards, threw the first of two interceptions — he also was sacked four times — on the next series. Cornerback Ronnie Lippert tipped then caught a pass intended for Al Toon at the New England 15.

Tony Franklin missed a 49-yard field goal try then the Jets moved 53 yards in 13 plays for Leahy's 43-yard field goal on that drive, in which New York had the ball for 7:28 after holding it for only 4:35 in the first quarter. McNeil suffered his injury. He fell on his right arm when tackled following a 7-yard gain.

"Freeman's a big part of our offense," Johnny Hector, his replacement, said. "But I don't think anyone said, 'Let's give up because Freeman is injured.'"

The Jets, now 1-1, managed another decent drive, covering 26 yards in six plays following a 14-yard punt return by Kurt Sohn. Leahy extended his team record to 14 consecutive field goals with a 47-yarder, making it 7-6 at halftime.

But the Jets had nothing in the second half. And the Patriots had a trick play in their repertoire that clinched it.

With a fourth-and-1 on the New York 10, New England called time out to discuss what to do. The play, called by backup QB Steve Gronau, was "438 pass," another option throw by James. He rolled right with a handoff from Eason, the line-backers and secondary bit at the run, and James lofted a pass to a wide-open Collins at the goal line.

"They're not trick plays," James said. "It's part of the offense. We try to keep the defense guessing."

"We knew they'd be in that defense with six men on the line. If we execute properly — if I make it look like a run all the way — it will go."

That play clinched the win because the Jets were having no success against New England's staunch defense.

"It seemed like the whole game was one play," James said. "We didn't play up to our potential — like we were asleep and just couldn't wake up. We knew it would be a dogfight but we just couldn't get up for the game."

Tony Franklin added field goals of 45 and 42 yards later in the half to give the Patriots a 20-6 lead.

The first game official's decision to be overruled after consultation with a television replay occurred in the third quarter.

New York cornerback Jerry Holmes (right) breaks up a pass intended for New England's Cedric Jones in fourth-quarter action Thursday night. The Patriots manhandled the Jets, 20-6.

Thoughts

Many places Jesus says, "fear not." But have you noticed all the places in our culture which say be afraid? Here is something to fear! As I watch commercials I see a lot saying, "There is what you have to fear, and my product will take your fear away." Afraid of bad breath...buy Scope. Afraid of being embarrassed with loose dentures at a party...buy Denty cream. Afraid your body will smell and no one will want to be with you again...buy Right Guard. It's true isn't it? They're appealing to an underlying fear. People may discover the real me with my flaws, and not want to have anything to do with me.

The evening news presents so many tragedies, that they now seem normative, that the reality is that most of us get up in the morning, go to work, come home, go to bed, and nothing tragic happens.

Someone has said Diet Coke could be the spiritual symbol of our times, not because of what it stands for or what it does for us, but because of what it does not do and what it does not have in it. We are afraid to put on weight, so it only has one color; we are afraid of high blood pressure so it has no caffeine and it's low in sodium; we are afraid of cancer so there's no saccharin, and we're afraid of getting toothaches, so there's no sugar.

Just what is in there that costs 60 cents?

I sense we all hunger all the more for heart reassuring words

Holtz steps into pressure cooker at Notre Dame

By The Associated Press

Lois Holtz on Saturday becomes the latest head football coach to step into the pressure cooker known as Notre Dame.

As the 25th coach in the history of the Fighting Irish, Holtz begins his reign as first among three-ranked Michigan.

"There are probably no teams playing this year with greater football traditions than Michigan and Notre Dame," said Bob Schembacher, opening his 18th season as Michigan and 24th as a head coach. "I wouldn't want to play them later in the year, because it's too tough a game and could detract from the Big 10 season."

Two games fitting Top Twenty teams each other are also on tap for Saturday — No. 10 Ohio State at No. 17 Washington and No. 7 Texas A&M against No. 14 Louisiana State. But the biggest game of the attention will be in South Bend, Ind., where the Wolverines tackle the Fighting Irish on national television.

Anytime you play Notre Dame in South Bend in the opening game of the season, it won't make any difference who's coaching. "The circumstances of this game — Lois' first game and playing against Notre Dame — has a 125 advantage in the series."

Michigan is a 6-point favorite over Notre Dame and has a 125 advantage in the series.

"There are lots of pluses and minuses to opening with a team like Michigan," Holtz said. "If we will be tremendous enthusiasm," Schembacher said, speaking of Holtz. "We can offset that with our own enthusiasm."

Former Notre Dame Coach Dan Devine says of Saturday's confrontation:

"The circumstances of this game — Lois' first game and playing against Notre Dame — has a 125 advantage in the series."

Michigan is a 6-point favorite over Notre Dame and has a 125 advantage in the series.

to allow them to finish their careers on a winning note."

"I don't know how this team will react to adversity. I don't know what will happen the first time we turn the ball over. I don't know how much confidence our players will have."

Michigan, 10-1 last year — the Wolverines' best record since 1974 — finished second in the Associated Press rankings to national champion Oklahoma.

In other games involving Top Twenty teams, No. 2 plays host to Texas Tech. No. 4 Alabama will take on Southern Mississippi at Birmingham, Mississippi State is at No. 8 Tennessee, New Mexico is at No. 11 Brigham Young, Louisiana Tech is at No. 12 Baylor, Mississippi takes on No. 18 Arkansas at Little Rock, Duke is at No. 19 Georgia and No. 20 Michigan State travels to Arizona State.

Ohio State is coming off a 16-0 loss to Alabama in its season opener in the Kickoff Classic. But the Buckeyes are a slight favorite over Washington in the Rockies' first game of the better.

"I hope we're a better football team than we were two weeks ago," said Ohio State Coach Ernie Bruce. "I think we are and I know we're going to have to be."

"But you don't know until we meet an opponent like Washington. We will certainly have a tough test in Seattle."

MHS girls subdue obstacle in '86 opener

WINDHAM — From either end, it was a game to remember, and a game to flow away for future fascists.

Manchester High trimmed Windsor High, 4-3, as the girls' Central Connecticut Conference East Division soccer season kicked off in intense fashion on Thursday afternoon.

"The game was played with tremendous intensity," exclaimed coach Joe Erardi, whose two-time defending CCC East champion Indians jumped off to a 3-0 first-half lead before being forced to scramble to hang on.

"This was a big test. Windham was picked by many to win the league and it was an important step to win at Windham."

And it looks like Manchester has turned out another couple of outstanding youngsters. Freshman Karen Rattankoun scored a hat trick — including the final three Indian goals — in her first varsity game. Fellow freshman Meg Berte, the starting stopper, was also a standout.

Junior Jen Atwell tallied the first strike for Manchester at 5:16 into the contest, and then Rattankoun added a quick pair to make it 3-0. Atwell assisted on the second goal, with Chris Rovigno setting up the third.

Windham's Arico Briton got one back to make it 3-1 at 17:16, before Rattankoun struck again with 4:02 left in the half. That proved to be the game-winner.

Whippets made it a seat-of-the-pants comeback in the second half when Trisha Thompson scored on a penalty kick and Briton notched with her second goal of the day.

Windham showed a lot of character by coming back to tie Erardi. "The key to the game was the depth that we showed at midfield. Atwell showed composure throughout, and was supported by Sara Berte, Jill Bogdian, Jen Faber and Heather Bogli."

Sports In Brief

Manchester grads on UConn rosters

STORRS — A pair of Manchester High School graduates are on varsity rosters with women's teams at the University of Connecticut.

Sophomore Michelle Morianos is on the fall women's tennis squad while senior Patti Wojanowski is with the nationally ranked Husky women's soccer squad at UConn after her soccer season Wednesday with a 7-0 victory over Monmouth College. Wojanowski started in 13 of the 16 games she played for UConn a year ago and is the Husky starting lineup this season. She is a den's list student majoring in electrical engineering.

Schoolboy gridders not insured

PHILADELPHIA — A new insurance policy temporarily has left the city's Public League football players without coverage, prompting the school district to cancel scrimmages and contact drills.

The cancellation was ordered Tuesday when officials discovered the new accident policy offered to all students did not carry a rider covering football players.

"The new underwriter declines to cover football injuries," said Bill Jones, district spokesman.

Clear, Grady share PGA lead

SUTTON, Mass. — Brian Clear had a simple game plan after his first experience as a co-leader on the PGA Tour.

"Just grip it and rip it," Clear said with a big grin Thursday when asked about his approach for the second round of the $450,000 Bank of Boston Classic.

Clear, a 27-year-old rookie, and Australian Wayne Grady, trying to salvage something from a frustrating year, shot 72-hole test over the 7,110-yard Pleasant Valley Country Club.

Monaghan paces Safeco Classic

KENT, Wash. — It took Kirk Monaghan four tries to get into the Ladies Professional Golf Association tour, but now that she's made it, the 26-year-old is on her way to establishing herself as a force to be reckoned with.

She birdied her first hole and three of her first four, then eagled her fifth en route to a 5-under-par 67 to take the first-round lead in the $200,000 Safeco Classic Thursday.

Decker Slaney is eager to return

NEW YORK — Mary Decker Slaney's anxiety about returning to competition centers her going into Saturday's Mercedes Mile On Fifth Avenue — a race she has entered despite being super physically.

It is not Slaney's style to race when she is uncertain of winning, but since she has not competed in a year — having taken time off to have a baby — she is eager to test her competitiveness.

Nathan Krider, Jason Smith and Paul Rheault also scored markers for the winners. David Burrell had two assists for the Pats, while Jack Ayer and Matt Paton contributed one each.

Greg LaFrance and Rhett Moody tallied for Morgan.

Covey held a 17-3 advantage in shots, with Morgan goalie Rob Kirby making 10 saves. Ron Gardner was the triumphant net-minder for the Patriots, who are home Saturday against Waterford High at 10 a.m.

Tech-Bolton tie

BOLTON — With the tying goal coming with 10 minutes left in regulation, Bolton High and Cheney Tech battled to a 1-1 stalemate in the 1986 soccer opener for both schools Thursday afternoon.

Cheney is back in action Saturday against Cromwell on the road at 10:30 a.m. while Bolton is also in action Saturday, visiting Woodstock Academy at 11 a.m.

Cheney got on the scoreboard 19:40 into the first half with Scott Innes doing the honors. A throw-in slipped through the penalty box with Bolton goalie Dan Titus unable to come up with the ball. It rolled to Innes, who pushed it into the goal for a 1-0 Beaver lead.

The homesteading Bulldogs tied it 30 minutes into the second half. Gerry Depold took the ball inside the penalty area, eluded two Cheney defenders and drilled a sharp-angled shot into the far corner.

Game postponed

CHAPLIN — The Bolton at Parish Hill girls' soccer game was postponed when the officials called the game 25 minutes into the game. An indication we had the ball up there more. But we couldn't capitalize on the pressure we were applying."

Sweeper Ted Daly, fullback Ed Casano and Zac Morford, a sophomore off the bench, played well for Bolton. Mark Curson, Rolland Cole and stopper Mike Vassallo played for Cheney.

Fernando's 19th wasn't memorable

LOS ANGELES — Fernando Valenzuela's 19th victory of the 1986 season was a less than memorable affair for the Los Angeles Dodgers' left-hander.

The Houston Astros would like to forget the game all together.

Guerrero said after the game, "I remember the Dodgers' 14-4 victory Thursday night but I don't remember the game."

San Diego Padres 9, Atlanta Braves 1.

Diego's smallest since Sept. 2, 1982. The Padres scored four runs in the first, three in the third and two in the sixth. Jerry Roster drove in three runs and Terry Kennedy, Graig Nettles and John Kruk one each as the Padres handed the Braves their fifth straight loss.

Cincinnati's Eric Davis slides safely into second base with a stolen base as San Francisco shortstop Jose Uribe covers the bag Thursday at Candlestick Park. The Giants won, 2-1.

Diego's smallest since Sept. 2, 1982. The Padres scored four runs in the first, three in the third and two in the sixth. Jerry Roster drove in three runs and Terry Kennedy, Graig Nettles and John Kruk one each as the Padres handed the Braves their fifth straight loss.

Mets can't wait to clinch division

NEW YORK — The Mets missed their chance to wrap up the division at home when they dropped the first two games of a three-game series to Montreal this week.

"It will be nice to clinch in Philadelphia," Mets Manager Dave Johnson said. "It gives us a chance to beat the only team in our way. This way we won't be back in St. Louis. I have a nice warm feeling about this."
