

Northeast gets snow; heat moves into West

A storm spread snow through New England today as fair weather prevailed across much of the rest of the nation. Concord, N.H., had 4 inches of snow by early today and Portland, Maine, had 3 inches. An inch of snow covered Brunswick, Maine, and Boston.

Today's weather picture is by Melissa Neasing, 10, of West Middle Turnpike, a fourth-grader at St. James School.

Weather Trivia

Where is "tomorrow" today?

Today's forecast called for snow scattered over northern Maine, changing to rain over the rest of northern New England, New York, northwest Pennsylvania and eastern Ohio; rain scattered over the northern coast of Oregon; and showers and thunderstorms scattered over the northern Plateau.

CONNECTICUT WEATHER

Central, Eastern Interior, Southwest Interior: Tonight, mostly cloudy with a 50 percent chance of showers, low around 40, wind southwest 10 to 15 mph shifting to northwest around midnight. Thursday, mostly cloudy and windy with a 30 percent chance of showers, high 50 to 55. Outlook for Friday, mostly sunny, high in the 50s.

Fortuitous Fans

Attendance at baseball games usually fluctuates depending on the fortunes of the home team. Ironically, the biggest baseball crowd in history consisted of thousands of people who didn't understand what they were seeing. In 1936, 100,000 spectators in Berlin watched an exhibition game between two U.S. amateur teams. Despite pre-game lectures on baseball delivered in three languages, most spectators still couldn't distinguish a foul ball from a home run.

DO YOU KNOW — What Milwaukee Brewers player recently pitched a no-hitter?
TUESDAY'S ANSWER — Ford introduced the Model T in 1908.

Almanac
April 29, 1987
Today is the 119th day of 1987 and the 41st day of spring.

Almanac

April 29, 1987
Today is the 119th day of 1987 and the 41st day of spring.

TODAY'S HISTORY: On this day in 1930, the world's largest lock, at the point where the North Sea channel cuts across North Holland, was opened.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAYS: William Randolph Hearst (1863); Duke Ellington (1899); Hirohito (1901); Zubin Mehta (1936); Rod McKuen (1938).

TODAY'S QUOTE: "Poetry is fact given over to imagery" — Rod McKuen.

TODAY'S MOON: Between new moon (April 27) and first quarter (May 5).

TODAY'S TRIVIA ANSWERS: (a) "Citizen Kane" was based partially on the life of William Randolph Hearst.

Bolton's finance board candidates air their views

Charles Holland, Judy Buonome, Mary Van Buren, Raymond A. Ursin, William J. Fehling

GOP's Ursin, Fehling take different roads

BOLTON — Raymond A. Ursin and William J. Fehling believe that the role of the Board of Finance is to ensure that the town spends tax dollars in a responsible manner.

But while the two Republican candidates for the finance board agree on the board's purpose, each has his own view of what "responsible" means. Ursin says that the board should provide more than subsistence funding for programs it is committed to. Fehling, on the other hand, believes an eye should be kept on the long-term costs of present spending patterns.

Dems bring varied backgrounds

BOLTON — Challengers running to fill two Democratic seats on the Board of Finance have different ideas on where the money should go, citing areas such as constable pay and town maintenance, but in the end, one main issue dominates their talk — education.

A current board member, a teacher and a state worker are the three candidates in this low-key race. The ideas of the three are as varied as their professions.

Charles Holland, a finance board member for the last four years, said his philosophy is "to try and get as much mileage out of the tax dollar."

Holland, 58, has served on the state Liquor Control Commission for 27 years. For the past four years, he has served as a Tolland County deputy sheriff.

Holland said more money needs to be spent on improving the constables' pay and fixing up the town garage. The garage is so cramped, he said, that some vehicles must be parked outside. "It's like a barn with the doors open," he said. "It's a mess."

Holland said he'd like to see consideration given to replacing the entire structure.

The school board offers a good example of the thinking of the two candidates.

In a recent interview, Ursin spoke about the need to continue the programs offered in Bolton schools.

"One immediate issue that all towns have to face is how do we adequately fund the education of our youth," he said.

Ursin said that in order to maintain a diverse curriculum, the town should encourage the town of Willington to continue sending its students to Bolton High School. The school board estimates that 95 students from Willington will attend Bolton High School in 1987-88, bringing in revenues of about $200,000.

In general, Ursin said, the Board of Finance should "adequately fund everything that the taxpayers say they want."

This means going beyond minimum funding to a level sufficient for programs to run smoothly, he said.

Fehling, who suggested large cuts in the proposed $3.9 million school budget this month, said the state Educational Enhancement Act will eventually prove a great burden to towns. Although the act provides towns with money to increase teacher salaries, state funding is guaranteed for only the next three years. If funding is cut after that period, the burden will fall on the towns, and taxes could rise 30 to 40 percent, he said.

Election is Monday

Bolton residents will elect a Board of Finance, a Board of Selectmen and other town officials Monday.

Polling hours are from 6 a.m. to 8 p.m. at Community Hall. Last-minute registration is available for voters who turned 18, became U.S. citizens or moved to Bolton after April 13. The last day to register is Saturday from 9 to 11 a.m. in the Community Hall.

"I don't think the people of the state understand that," Fehling said.

While the Board of Finance cut $45,000 from the school budget, Fehling said he would like to have seen an additional cut of $50,000. He questioned the need for a portable classroom and five additional teachers, as requested by the school board.

Both Ursin and Fehling agree that in the next two years the finance board will have to determine how best to finance capital improvements. Work on a library addition at the high school is scheduled to begin this year, and plans are under way to renovate the Community Hall.

In addition, Ursin said, the town has to begin planning for growth through a new plan of development. "Work on a plan for the country, and we've got to decide where Bolton's going to end up," he said.

Ursin, 58, an administrator at a Rhode Island insurance company, is chairman of the finance board and has been a member for about 10 years. He has two children and lives with his wife, Diane, on Hebron Road.

Fehling, 52, a financial analyst at Pratt & Whitney, is finishing his first term on the board. He and his wife, Rose Ann, and the couple's three children live on Turpin Trail.

Angle named news editor

Adele M. Angle has been named news editor of the Manchester Herald, Publisher Penny M. Siefert announced today.

The news editor is responsible for day-to-day news and feature coverage of Manchester, Andover, Bolton and Coventry.

Angle, 38, joined the Herald in 1981 as a lifestyle editor. She was named features editor in March 1986, and she has been acting news editor since February.

A graduate of Syracuse University's Newhouse School of Public Communications, Angle began her career with the Syracuse (N.Y.) Herald Journal.

After three years, she joined the West Hartford (Conn.) News as a general assignment reporter, and later became special sections editor. "Hard Times," a special section that she edited, won a National Newspaper Association award in 1979.

She is a native of Canada, and was raised in West Hartford. She has been a Manchester resident for six years and has been active in the Manchester-Bolton Girl Scout Association.

TLC gets $10,000 bank gift

ComFed Savings Bank has given a challenge gift of $10,000 to the Transitions Living Center for operation of its new group home at 17 North St.

Raymond Juselon, a vice president and branch manager for ComFed, said the gift will be paid over a two-year period with the TLC receiving equal contributions from other donors.

Juselon said the gift was given "as our way of supporting the venture and encouraging other businesses and individuals to do so."

ComFed, based in Lowell, Mass., bought out Heritage Savings and Loan Association in December.

TLC has set a fund goal of $100,000 for this year. The organization wants to buy the North Street house to use as a new home for the Child Guidance Clinic.

Sides meet on union grievance

No agreement was reached Monday during a meeting between the town of Manchester and the union representing Parks and Cemetery Superintendent Robert Harrison, his union said Tuesday.

Harrison's union filed a grievance in March after he complained he was given added job responsibilities.

Helaine Swerdas of the Civil Services Employees Affiliates said she is still optimistic the dispute can be resolved without taking the matter back to the state Board of Labor Relations. "I'm sure we can work it up," she said.

Last week, in an informal conference involving the state, the union and the town, it was agreed to allow the union and the town work out their differences.

Harrison declined comment on the Monday meeting, which was held at the Municipal Building. Swerdas said the union is waiting for Assistant Town Manager Steven Weber to respond to points raised at the meeting. She said she expects to receive a letter from the town, possibly by the end of the week.

Manchester In Brief

Eight local attorneys to be honored

Eight area attorneys who participate in the Judicial Department's adjudication programs are among 700 attorneys across the state who will be honored on Friday, a spokesman at the state department said.

The statewide program, which coincides with Law Day, will be highlighted by a special presentation by the Supreme Court to the Connecticut Bar Association at 9:30 a.m. in the Supreme Court building in Hartford.

Concurrently, administrative judges will be recognizing the efforts of attorneys in various dispute resolution programs by awarding of special certificates of commendation.

Area attorneys being honored in Tolland include Malcolm F. Barrow, Bruce S. Beck, Martin B. Burke, John W. Cooney, Raymond F. Farnio, Altherton B. Ryan, Kathleen D. Stingle and John H. Yeomans.

Center gets $5,000 grant

The Pastoral Counseling Center of Manchester has received a $5,000 grant from Northeast Utilities, a spokesman at the center announced.

The counseling center, located at 945 Main St. and under the direction of The Rev. Felix Davis, is a state-licensed outpatient mental health facility offering individual psychotherapy as well as marriage and family counseling.

The grant money will be used to support general operations.

MAY SALE DAYS!

Botany '500' SPRING SUITS

Our Best Selling Spring Suit $169<sup>90</sup>
at 25% Savings
• Poly-Wool Blends
36 to 46 Reg., 40 to 46 Long, 38 to 46 Short Reg. 1225

OUR VERY OWN "Louis Bernard" Blazers

• Poly-Wool Hopsack
• 7 Colors
36 to 46 Reg., 37 to 46 Short
40 to 46 Long Reg. 1150

3 DAYS ONLY! $99<sup>90</sup>

ALWAYS REMEMBER — REGAL IS YOUR P.A.L. PERMANENT ALTERATIONS FOR THE LIFE OF THE GARMENT.

HAGGAR SLACK SALE!

SUMMER POPLINS AND CHINOS • 8 Colors Sizes 28 to 42 Reg. 132	"EXPAND-O-MATICS" 100% Poly Easy Care Wash & Wear Sizes 32 to 42 Reg. 130 to 140	"IMPERIAL" POLY-WOOL SLACKS • Heather Shades Sizes 30 to 42 Reg. 140
---	--	--

SHORT SLEEVE DRESS SHIRTS

• 65 Poly, 35 Cotton
• White, Blue, Moize, Grey
• Ivory
14 1/2 to 17 Reg. 116

SHORT SLEEVE POLOS

• 100% Cotton
• Solids
• Ass'n Stripes
• M, L, XL
Reg. 120-22

PACER FUN PANTS

• Full Elastic
• 100% Cotton
• S, M, L, XL
Reg. 125

REGAL'S

"Your Quality Men's Shop"

STORE HOURS:
MON., TUES., SAT. 9:30 to 5:30
WED., THURS., FRI. 9:30 to 9:00

DOWNTOWN MAIN ST., MANCHESTER 643-2478

PEOPLE

No kid

Maureen Reagan, daughter of President Reagan and actress Jane Wyman, says she's finally accomplished what she is referred to as "boss" instead of "kid."

Her accomplishments include being co-chair of the Republican National Committee and the U.S. representative to the United Nations Commission on the Status of Women.

"Everybody used to pat me on the head and say, 'OK, kid.' Now they say, 'OK, boss, what do you want me to do,'" she told a group of commodity market reporters on Tuesday in Atlantic City, N.J., after a speech on the status of women.

But being the daughter of famous parents still draws questions about them, and the first question she was asked after the speech Tuesday was about her mother, star of "Falcon Crest."

She gave a brief update on the TV series and then, in response to another question, said, "Yes, I'll be having dinner at the White House tonight."

MAUREEN REAGAN
... the boss

they do it all themselves. As everybody does," she said.

In Monday night's spoof in New York, Perlman tutored a series of mediocre pupils using DeLay's mannerisms and her pet phrases "sugar plum" and "sweetie."

She blamed a lack of support by her former record label, RCA Records, and her style for not getting radio play despite raves from some critics who call her a minor-league Tina Turner.

"It's been too black for pop radio and too white for black radio," she said recently. But, she added, "the radio formats, both pop and black, have been stretching in the past year."

ITZHAK PERLMAN
... drag performance

LaBelle went on to wide appeal. But for Hendryx, the group's primary composer, it was less "the end of a marriage, or being hit by a bomb," she said.

Now she's pushing her first EMI Records album, "Female Trouble."

She blamed a lack of support by her former record label, RCA Records, and her style for not getting radio play despite raves from some critics who call her a minor-league Tina Turner.

"It's been too black for pop radio and too white for black radio," she said recently. But, she added, "the radio formats, both pop and black, have been stretching in the past year."

Hula contest

Californians who thought they could hula better than Hawaiians really can't, apologetic officials of a hula contest said.

A California hula school, initially named the winner in a hula competition in Hawaii, has ended up with $500 and a certificate in prizes, but not first place.

"We're sorry, but it was an error in tallying up the scores," Dottie Thompson, chairwoman of the Merrle Monarch Hula Festival, told the San Francisco Chronicle in a telephone interview Tuesday.

The initial results showed that Kauauna Na Pua 'O Hawaii of Kauai had placed first in the modern hula with 491 points, 10 more than two Honolulu groups, which had been tied for second. The Honolulu groups became the first-place winners.

Current Quotations

"I don't ever remember a time when people were having such a heyday ridiculing all that is Christian." — The Rev. Jerry Falwell, on the impact of PTL's sex-and-money scandals.

"I would think that sex education should begin with the moral ramifications, that it is not just a physical activity that doesn't have any moral connotation." — President Reagan.

"Most lines of inquiry are proving fruitful. None has yet been abandoned." — Independent counsel Lawrence Walsh, rejecting limits on the Iran-contra probe.

Ice produces heat while freezing and absorbs it while melting.

Lottery

Connecticut daily
Tuesday: 523
Play Four: 2595
Lotto: 7-10-15-19-22-28

Manchester Herald

USPS 327-500 VOL. CVI, No. 170

Published daily except Sundays and certain holidays by the Manchester Publishing Co., 18 Brainerd Place, Manchester, Conn. 06040. Second class postage paid at Manchester, Conn. Postmaster: Send address changes to the Manchester Herald, P.O. Box 591, Manchester, Conn. 06040.

If you don't receive your Herald by 8 p.m. weekdays or 7:30 a.m. Saturdays, please telephone your carrier. If you're unable to reach your carrier, call subscriber service at 647-8940 by 8 p.m. weekdays for delivery in Manchester.

Published carrier rates are $1.80 weekly, $7.70 for one month, $23.10 for three months, $46.20 for six months and $92.40 for one year. Senior citizen rates and mail rates are available on request.

To place a classified or display advertisement, or to report a news item, story or picture idea, call 643-2711. Office hours are 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

The Manchester Herald is a member of the Associated Press, the Audit Bureau of Circulations and the New England Newspaper Association.

Birthday skit

Violinist Itzhak Perlman decked out in a blond wig, dress and matching scarf for a birthday skit honoring Dorothy DeLay, the 78-year-old violin instructor who taught him and many other concert performers.

DeLay watched Perlman along with some of her other well-known students, including Shostakovich, Cho-Liang Lin, Mi Dori and Paul Rosenstam.

"I think it feels good to have me around, like a rabbit's foot, but

Treading on Tina

Singer Nana Hendryx, who stood in the shadow of Paul LaBelle in the 1960s and 1970s, is treading on Tina Turner's turf with a seething, rhythm-and-blues-tinged album.

"I'm not trying to copy Tina or steal anything from her," she said in Los Angeles. "I've been in this musical area for years and years, long before Tina became a solo star."

When the trend-setting rock-and-roll group LaBelle folded in 1977,

HollyMaine?

Best-selling author Stephen

Comics Sampler

WHAT A GUY by Bill Hoest

"I WAS JUST MAKING THINGS UP... I DIDN'T KNOW THEY WERE LIES!"

Engineer says blasting may have caused fall

By Fred Boyes and George Esper
The Associated Press

BRIDGEPORT — The developer of the L'Ambiance Plaza says the ground beneath the apartment complex was so solid that dynamite was used to prepare the construction site. But a structural engineer says blasting may be connected to the building's collapse.

William F. Lone, executive vice president of Delwood Development of Davie, Fla., the developer of the $17.8 million project, said workers spent a month last year blasting away bedrock at the site. "They had to drill through rock just to get dynamite into the ground," he said.

Lone's comments Tuesday followed a review of Bridgeport building records that raised questions about the stability of the ground beneath the construction site. According to records, drawings for the 13-story building, the main foundation, called bottom footings, was to be placed on "undisturbed rock with a minimum bearing capacity of 14,000 pounds per square foot."

But the records also included reports from Fairfield Testing Laboratory Inc. of Stamford, which described the ground as "broken rock and earth in a loose state." The laboratory recommended the site be "well compacted before placement of footings."

Frank Zamecni, a structural engineer retained by The Associated Press to review the records, questioned whether broken rock and earth could support the weight cited in the design drawings. "The may have blasted the rock out too deep," said Zamecni, a partner in the New Haven and Washington, D.C. firm of Spiegel and Zamecni Inc. "They should have dropped the footing onto the rock that remained to make sure it was sitting on the rock. But the records indicated they were putting the footings on broken rock and earth mixture."

City, state and federal officials planned to meet with Mayor Thomas Buccell to coordinate various investigations into last Thursday's collapse that buried 28 construction workers, killing at least 18.

Those involved with the investigation said it could take months to determine the cause of the accident. "It's possible it could be various factors that contribute to a combination of several things," said Dan Cuoco, a structural engineer with the Thornton-Tomasetti Professional Corp. of New York, which has been hired as a consultant by the city. "To even mention a 'broken rock and earth' is a loose speculation. The laboratory recommended the site be 'well compacted before placement of burden of the foundation." Lone said. "I'm hiring consultants to perform their own investigation. We want real answers, not conjecture," he said. "If everybody knows the answers, then why wasn't this avoided?"

Among the areas investigators are expected to look at are the soil conditions, the complicated construction process used at the site, and weather conditions during the pouring of the building's concrete slab floors.

These slabs are poured at the construction site and then raised into place by hydraulic lifters set into the support columns. The process of hoisting these floors into place requires great precision. If part of the slab is raised faster than another section, it could buckle, pulling down the support columns.

City officials announced Tuesday that salvage crews had recovered the unit that controls the lifting process. David Wonder, an engineer with the Textsar Construction Corp. of San Antonio, Texas, the subcontractor hired to do the slab-lift procedure there was little chance it caused the collapse.

"The whole system is connected and we lift the slab only a half inch at a time," he said. "If for some reason one of the jacks fails to operate, the whole system shuts down."

"It's possible it could be various factors that contribute to a combination of several things," said Dan Cuoco, a structural engineer with the Thornton-Tomasetti Professional Corp. of New York, which has been hired as a consultant by the city. "To even mention a 'broken rock and earth' is a loose speculation. The laboratory recommended the site be 'well compacted before placement of burden of the foundation." Lone said. "I'm hiring consultants to perform their own investigation. We want real answers, not conjecture," he said. "If everybody knows the answers, then why wasn't this avoided?"

Among the areas investigators are expected to look at are the soil conditions, the complicated construction process used at the site, and weather conditions during the pouring of the building's concrete slab floors.

These slabs are poured at the construction site and then raised into place by hydraulic lifters set into the support columns. The process of hoisting these floors into place requires great precision. If part of the slab is raised faster than another section, it could buckle, pulling down the support columns.

City officials announced Tuesday that salvage crews had recovered the unit that controls the lifting process. David Wonder, an engineer with the Textsar Construction Corp. of San Antonio, Texas, the subcontractor hired to do the slab-lift procedure there was little chance it caused the collapse.

"The whole system is connected and we lift the slab only a half inch at a time," he said. "If for some reason one of the jacks fails to operate, the whole system shuts down."

"It's possible it could be various factors that contribute to a combination of several things," said Dan Cuoco, a structural engineer with the Thornton-Tomasetti Professional Corp. of New York, which has been hired as a consultant by the city. "To even mention a 'broken rock and earth' is a loose speculation. The laboratory recommended the site be 'well compacted before placement of burden of the foundation." Lone said. "I'm hiring consultants to perform their own investigation. We want real answers, not conjecture," he said. "If everybody knows the answers, then why wasn't this avoided?"

Among the areas investigators are expected to look at are the soil conditions, the complicated construction process used at the site, and weather conditions during the pouring of the building's concrete slab floors.

These slabs are poured at the construction site and then raised into place by hydraulic lifters set into the support columns. The process of hoisting these floors into place requires great precision. If part of the slab is raised faster than another section, it could buckle, pulling down the support columns.

City officials announced Tuesday that salvage crews had recovered the unit that controls the lifting process. David Wonder, an engineer with the Textsar Construction Corp. of San Antonio, Texas, the subcontractor hired to do the slab-lift procedure there was little chance it caused the collapse.

"The whole system is connected and we lift the slab only a half inch at a time," he said. "If for some reason one of the jacks fails to operate, the whole system shuts down."

Director of search restless

BRIDGEPORT (AP) — The man in charge of coordinating rescue efforts at the L'Ambiance Plaza collapse site has not been home since last Thursday when tons of concrete and steel caved in on construction workers.

Jonathan Best, the city's director of emergency services, has been working around the clock since the disaster, overseeing every phase of the city's efforts to find survivors and recover bodies from the wreckage.

As the right-hand man to Mayor Thomas Buccell, Best is in overall control at the site, directing the emergency medical service personnel, construction workers, firefighters, and police, all of whom answer to him directly or indirectly.

"Heading up this rescue effort is one of the major experiences in my life," Best said.

Slightly hyperactive, Best, 32, has been on the scene since the collapse of the partially constructed apartment complex, napping for an hour or two on a cot in the command center, making forays into the wreckage in 1975. On June 23, 1975, he was confronted with his first major disaster — the crash of a Boeing 707 at John F. Kennedy International Airport that killed 113 of the 124 aboard.

"I was a line supervisor there," Best said. "It was following me around now," he said. "I guess the other people in here are concerned about my mental health. I am a little stressed out."

But everyone agrees he seems to thrive on this type of work. "This guy is the epitome of anyone involved in search and rescue," said Kevin Barrett, whose J.F. Barrett contracting company has been handling heavy concrete and steel from the wreckage. "They ask him the questions and he knows the answers," Barrett said.

Best is a former New York City paramedic who began with the city's Department of Emergency Services in 1975. On June 23, 1975, he was confronted with his first major disaster — the crash of a Boeing 707 at John F. Kennedy International Airport that killed 113 of the 124 aboard.

"I was a line supervisor there," Best said. "It was following me around now," he said. "I guess the other people in here are concerned about my mental health. I am a little stressed out."

But everyone agrees he seems to thrive on this type of work. "This guy is the epitome of anyone involved in search and rescue," said Kevin Barrett, whose J.F. Barrett contracting company has been handling heavy concrete and steel from the wreckage. "They ask him the questions and he knows the answers," Barrett said.

Best is a former New York City paramedic who began with the city's Department of Emergency Services in 1975. On June 23, 1975, he was confronted with his first major disaster — the crash of a Boeing 707 at John F. Kennedy International Airport that killed 113 of the 124 aboard.

"I was a line supervisor there," Best said. "It was following me around now," he said. "I guess the other people in here are concerned about my mental health. I am a little stressed out."

But everyone agrees he seems to thrive on this type of work. "This guy is the epitome of anyone involved in search and rescue," said Kevin Barrett, whose J.F. Barrett contracting company has been handling heavy concrete and steel from the wreckage. "They ask him the questions and he knows the answers," Barrett said.

Best is a former New York City paramedic who began with the city's Department of Emergency Services in 1975. On June 23, 1975, he was confronted with his first major disaster — the crash of a Boeing 707 at John F. Kennedy International Airport that killed 113 of the 124 aboard.

"I was a line supervisor there," Best said. "It was following me around now," he said. "I guess the other people in here are concerned about my mental health. I am a little stressed out."

But everyone agrees he seems to thrive on this type of work. "This guy is the epitome of anyone involved in search and rescue," said Kevin Barrett, whose J.F. Barrett contracting company has been handling heavy concrete and steel from the wreckage. "They ask him the questions and he knows the answers," Barrett said.

Best is a former New York City paramedic who began with the city's Department of Emergency Services in 1975. On June 23, 1975, he was confronted with his first major disaster — the crash of a Boeing 707 at John F. Kennedy International Airport that killed 113 of the 124 aboard.

"I was a line supervisor there," Best said. "It was following me around now," he said. "I guess the other people in here are concerned about my mental health. I am a little stressed out."

Financial troubles may stall start of camp for ill children

ASHFORD (AP) — Uncollected pledges and increasing costs may prevent the start of Newman's Own Camp for seriously ill children from opening this summer as planned, according to a project fundraiser.

Meanwhile, the cost of constructing the camp, which would straddle the towns of Ashford and Eastford, has risen from an estimated $8 million to $10 million, Kerr said.

Because of the construction schedule, we may not be able to open for limited operations as we had planned," she said. "But there will be some sort of opening ceremony in the summer."

"Once you get into a building project, you often find costs that weren't originally anticipated," Kerr said.

Newman, who lives in Westport, his business partner, author A.E. Hotchner, and Hotchner's wife, Ursula Hotchner, a vice president of Newman's Own Foods, could not be reached for comment.

The camp would provide a free camping experience for children with life-threatening illnesses that might prevent them from attending summer camps with other children, Newman said at a September news conference.

The camp would accommodate about 200 children each summer, with 25 children in each of eight, two-week sessions. It would be called The Hide in the Wall Camp, named after the camp for a gang of outlaws in the movie, "Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid," in which Newman costarred.

Jim Pleumer, an assistant trainer for the New England Patriots football team, clearing the snow from his car in the parking lot at Sullivan Stadium in Foxboro, Mass., on Tuesday following an unseasonable snow storm.

AP photo

Lieberman says car makers unresponsive to complaints

By Judd Everhart
The Associated Press

HARTFORD — Connecticut's attorney general says auto manufacturers use disinformation and stonewalling to answer consumer complaints about "lemon" cars.

Attorney General Joseph I. Lieberman charged Tuesday that the manufacturers' arbitration and complaint-response programs "are handled so poorly that they sometimes seem designed to frustrate a consumer's ability to obtain a just remedy."

The programs themselves, he said, "are lemons that should be recalled and repaired."

Under state law, a new-car buyer is entitled to a replacement car or a refund if the same defect can't be fixed after four tries or if the car is in the shop for 30 days during the first two years or 18,000 miles.

On Tuesday, Lieberman released a report required each year on dispute settlements under the state's lemon law, the first such law in the nation.

Among the conclusions was one stating that consumers seeking arbitration of warranty problems are "routinely misinformed, misdirected and stonewalled."

Of 128 Connecticut auto dealers contacted by Lieberman's investigators, 109 could provide correct and complete information about settling a dispute over a lemon.

Of 19 manufacturers' customer relations offices contacted, two had accurate information, Lieberman said.

William H. Crabtree, vice president and general counsel of the Motor Vehicle Manufacturers Association of the United States, a group that represents the interests of car makers, said from his Detroit office that he had not seen Lieberman's report and could not comment.

Storm shocks New England

BOSTON (AP) — An April shower that shocked New England by turning to snow piled at least 15 inches high today, and plows and sanders set out ahead of morning rush-hour motorists who already had removed their snow tires.

"We had our summer over the weekend," state Trooper Todd Bell joked Tuesday in the central Massachusetts town of Cheshire. "We're looking forward to winter now."

Snowfall amounts around Massachusetts late Tuesday included Phillipsburg, 8 1/2 inches; Ayer, 8 and Pileburg, 5. Burrillville, R.I., received up to 15 inches.

At Green Airport in Warwick, R.I., the low temperature this morning was 23 degrees, two degrees above the record for the date.

The freak storm was brought by a low-pressure system moving across Cape Cod, said forecaster Tom Fair at the National Weather Service in Boston.

Ten years ago, during the first days of May, Boston was hit with about 8 inches of wet snow that downed power lines and trees.

Democratic Gov. Michael S. Dukakis, who was scheduled to announce his presidential candidacy on Boston Common today, "looked out the window and laughed" when he saw the snow, said press secretary James Dorsey. The announcement was to go on as scheduled.

Snow fell across much of eastern and central New England, Concord, N.H., had 4 inches by early today and Portland, Maine, had 3 inches. An inch of snow covered Brunswick, Maine.

Snowfall amounts around Massachusetts late Tuesday included Phillipsburg, 8 1/2 inches; Ayer, 8 and Pileburg, 5. Burrillville, R.I., received up to 15 inches.

At Green Airport in Warwick, R.I., the low temperature this morning was 23 degrees, two degrees above the record for the date.

The freak storm was brought by a low-pressure system moving across Cape Cod, said forecaster Tom Fair at the National Weather Service in Boston.

Ten years ago, during the first days of May, Boston was hit with about 8 inches of wet snow that downed power lines and trees.

Democratic Gov. Michael S. Dukakis, who was scheduled to announce his presidential candidacy on Boston Common today, "looked out the window and laughed" when he saw the snow, said press secretary James Dorsey. The announcement was to go on as scheduled.

Snow fell across much of eastern and central New England, Concord, N.H., had 4 inches by early today and Portland, Maine, had 3 inches. An inch of snow covered Brunswick, Maine.

Snowfall amounts around Massachusetts late Tuesday included Phillipsburg, 8 1/2 inches; Ayer, 8 and Pileburg, 5. Burrillville, R.I., received up to 15 inches.

At Green Airport in Warwick, R.I., the low temperature this morning was 23 degrees, two degrees above the record for the date.

The freak storm was brought by a low-pressure system moving across Cape Cod, said forecaster Tom Fair at the National Weather Service in Boston.

Ten years ago, during the first days of May, Boston was hit with about 8 inches of wet snow that downed power lines and trees.

Democratic Gov. Michael S. Dukakis, who was scheduled to announce his presidential candidacy on Boston Common today, "looked out the window and laughed" when he saw the snow, said press secretary James Dorsey. The announcement was to go on as scheduled.

Snow fell across much of eastern and central New England, Concord, N.H., had 4 inches by early today and Portland, Maine, had 3 inches. An inch of snow covered Brunswick, Maine.

Snowfall amounts around Massachusetts late Tuesday included Phillipsburg, 8 1/2 inches; Ayer, 8 and Pileburg, 5. Burrillville, R.I., received up to 15 inches.

At Green Airport in Warwick, R.I., the low temperature this morning was 23 degrees, two degrees above the record for the date.

The freak storm was brought by a low-pressure system moving across Cape Cod, said forecaster Tom Fair at the National Weather Service in Boston.

Ten years ago, during the first days of May, Boston was hit with about 8 inches of wet snow that downed power lines and trees.

Democratic Gov. Michael S. Dukakis, who was scheduled to announce his presidential candidacy on Boston Common today, "looked out the window and laughed" when he saw the snow, said press secretary James Dorsey. The announcement was to go on as scheduled.

Snow fell across much of eastern and central New England, Concord, N.H., had 4 inches by early today and Portland, Maine, had 3 inches. An inch of snow covered Brunswick, Maine.

Snowfall amounts around Massachusetts late Tuesday included Phillipsburg, 8 1/2 inches; Ayer, 8 and Pileburg, 5. Burrillville, R.I., received up to 15 inches.

At Green Airport in Warwick, R.I., the low temperature this morning was 23 degrees, two degrees above the record for the date.

The freak storm was brought by a low-pressure system moving across Cape Cod, said forecaster Tom Fair at the National Weather Service in Boston.

Ten years ago, during the first days of May, Boston was hit with about 8 inches of wet snow that downed power lines and trees.

Democratic Gov. Michael S. Dukakis, who was scheduled to announce his presidential candidacy on Boston Common today, "looked out the window and laughed" when he saw the snow, said press secretary James Dorsey. The announcement was to go on as scheduled.

Snow fell across much of eastern and central New England, Concord, N.H., had 4 inches by early today and Portland, Maine, had 3 inches. An inch of snow covered Brunswick, Maine.

Snowfall amounts around Massachusetts late Tuesday included Phillipsburg, 8 1/2 inches; Ayer, 8 and Pileburg, 5. Burrillville, R.I., received up to 15 inches.

At Green Airport in Warwick, R.I., the low temperature this morning was 23 degrees, two degrees above the record for the date.

The freak storm was brought by a low-pressure system moving across Cape Cod, said forecaster Tom Fair at the National Weather Service in Boston.

Ten years ago, during the first days of May, Boston was hit with about 8 inches of wet snow that downed power lines and trees.

Democratic Gov. Michael S. Dukakis, who was scheduled to announce his presidential candidacy on Boston Common today, "looked out the window and laughed" when he saw the snow, said press secretary James Dorsey. The announcement was to go on as scheduled.

Snow fell across much of eastern and central New England, Concord, N.H., had 4 inches by early today and Portland, Maine, had 3 inches. An inch of snow covered Brunswick, Maine.

Snowfall amounts around Massachusetts late Tuesday included Phillipsburg, 8 1/2 inches; Ayer, 8 and Pileburg, 5. Burrillville, R.I., received up to 15 inches.

At Green Airport in Warwick, R.I., the low temperature this morning was 23 degrees, two degrees above the record for the date.

The freak storm was brought by a low-pressure system moving across Cape Cod, said forecaster Tom Fair at the National Weather Service in Boston.

Ten years ago, during the first days of May, Boston was hit with about 8 inches of wet snow that downed power lines and trees.

Democratic Gov. Michael S. Dukakis, who was scheduled to announce his presidential candidacy on Boston Common today, "looked out the window and laughed" when he saw the snow, said press secretary James Dorsey. The announcement was to go on as scheduled.

Snow fell across much of eastern and central New England, Concord, N.H., had 4 inches by early today and Portland, Maine, had 3 inches. An inch of snow covered Brunswick, Maine.

Snowfall amounts around Massachusetts late Tuesday included Phillipsburg, 8 1/2 inches; Ayer, 8 and Pileburg, 5. Burrillville, R.I., received up to 15 inches.

At Green Airport in Warwick, R.I., the low temperature this morning was 23 degrees, two degrees above the record for the date.

The freak storm was brought by a low-pressure system moving across Cape Cod, said forecaster Tom Fair at the National Weather Service in Boston.

Ten years ago, during the first days of May, Boston was hit with about 8 inches of wet snow that downed power lines and trees.

Democratic Gov. Michael S. Dukakis, who was scheduled to announce his presidential candidacy on Boston Common today, "looked out the window and laughed" when he saw the snow, said press secretary James Dorsey. The announcement was to go on as scheduled.

Snow fell across much of eastern and central New England, Concord, N.H., had 4 inches by early today and Portland, Maine, had 3 inches. An inch of snow covered Brunswick, Maine.

Snowfall amounts around Massachusetts late Tuesday included Phillipsburg, 8 1/2 inches; Ayer, 8 and Pileburg, 5. Burrillville, R.I., received up to 15 inches.

At Green Airport in Warwick, R.I., the low temperature this morning was 23 degrees, two degrees above the record for the date.

The freak storm was brought by a low-pressure system moving across Cape Cod, said forecaster Tom Fair at the National Weather Service in Boston.

Ten years ago, during the first days of May, Boston was hit with about 8 inches of wet snow that downed power lines and trees.

Democratic Gov. Michael S. Dukakis, who was scheduled to announce his presidential candidacy on Boston Common today, "looked out the window and laughed" when he saw the snow, said press secretary James Dorsey. The announcement was to go on as scheduled.

Snow fell across much of eastern and central New England, Concord, N.H., had 4 inches by early today and Portland, Maine, had 3 inches. An inch of snow covered Brunswick, Maine.

Snowfall amounts around Massachusetts late Tuesday included Phillipsburg, 8 1/2 inches; Ayer, 8 and Pileburg, 5. Burrillville, R.I., received up to 15 inches.

At Green Airport in Warwick, R.I., the low temperature this morning was 23 degrees, two degrees above the record for the date.

The freak storm was brought by a low-pressure system moving across Cape Cod, said forecaster Tom Fair at the National Weather Service in Boston.

Ten years ago, during the first days of May, Boston was hit with about 8 inches of wet snow that downed power lines and trees.

Democratic Gov. Michael S. Dukakis, who was scheduled to announce his presidential candidacy on Boston Common today, "looked out the window and laughed" when he saw the snow, said press secretary James Dorsey. The announcement was to go on as scheduled.

Snow fell across much of eastern and central New England, Concord, N.H., had 4 inches by early today and Portland, Maine, had 3 inches. An inch of snow covered Brunswick, Maine.

Snowfall amounts around Massachusetts late Tuesday included Phillipsburg, 8 1/2 inches; Ayer, 8 and Pileburg, 5. Burrillville, R.I., received up to 15 inches.

At Green Airport in Warwick, R.I., the low temperature this morning was 23 degrees, two degrees above the record for the date.

The freak storm was brought by a low-pressure system moving across Cape Cod, said forecaster Tom Fair at the National Weather Service in Boston.

Ten years ago, during the first days of May, Boston was hit with about 8 inches of wet snow that downed power lines and trees.

Democratic Gov. Michael S. Dukakis, who was scheduled to announce his presidential candidacy on Boston Common today, "looked out the window and laughed" when he saw the snow, said press secretary James Dorsey. The announcement was to go on as scheduled.

Snow fell across much of eastern and central New England, Concord, N.H., had 4 inches by early today and Portland, Maine, had 3 inches. An inch of snow covered Brunswick, Maine.

Snowfall amounts around Massachusetts late Tuesday included Phillipsburg, 8 1/2 inches; Ayer, 8 and Pileburg, 5. Burrillville, R.I., received up to 15 inches.

At Green Airport in Warwick, R.I., the low temperature this morning was 23 degrees, two degrees above the record for the date.

The freak storm was brought by a low-pressure system moving across Cape Cod, said forecaster Tom Fair at the National Weather Service in Boston.

Ten years ago, during the first days of May, Boston was hit with about 8 inches of wet snow that downed power lines and trees.

Democratic Gov. Michael S. Dukakis, who was scheduled to announce his presidential candidacy on Boston Common today, "looked out the window and laughed" when he saw the snow, said press secretary James Dorsey. The announcement was to go on as scheduled.

Snow fell across much of eastern and central New England, Concord, N.H., had 4 inches by early today and Portland, Maine, had 3 inches. An inch of snow covered Brunswick, Maine.

Snowfall amounts around Massachusetts late Tuesday included Phillipsburg, 8 1/2 inches; Ayer, 8 and Pileburg, 5. Burrillville, R.I., received up to 15 inches.

At Green Airport in Warwick, R.I., the low temperature this morning was 23 degrees, two degrees above the record for the date.

The freak storm was brought by a low-pressure system moving across Cape Cod, said forecaster Tom Fair at the National Weather Service in Boston.

Ten years ago, during the first days of May, Boston was hit with about 8 inches of wet snow that downed power lines and trees.

Democratic Gov. Michael S. Dukakis, who was scheduled to announce his presidential candidacy on Boston Common today, "looked out the window and laughed" when he saw the snow, said press secretary James Dorsey. The announcement was to go on as scheduled.

Snow fell across much of eastern and central New England, Concord, N.H., had 4 inches by early today and Portland, Maine, had 3 inches. An inch of snow covered Brunswick, Maine.

Snowfall amounts around Massachusetts late Tuesday included Phillipsburg, 8 1/2 inches; Ayer, 8 and Pileburg, 5. Burrillville, R.I., received up to 15 inches.

At Green Airport in Warwick, R.I., the low temperature this morning was 23 degrees, two degrees above the record for the date.

The freak storm was brought by a low-pressure system moving across Cape Cod, said forecaster Tom Fair at the National Weather Service in Boston.

Ten years ago, during the first days of May, Boston was hit with about 8 inches of wet snow that downed power lines and trees.

Democratic Gov. Michael S. Dukakis, who was scheduled to announce his presidential candidacy on Boston Common today, "looked out the window and laughed" when he saw the snow, said press secretary James Dorsey. The announcement was to go on as scheduled.

Snow fell across much of eastern and central New England, Concord, N.H., had 4 inches by early today and Portland, Maine, had 3 inches. An inch of snow covered Brunswick, Maine.

Snowfall amounts around Massachusetts late Tuesday included Phillipsburg, 8 1/2 inches; Ayer, 8 and Pileburg, 5. Burrillville, R.I., received up to 15 inches.

At Green Airport in Warwick, R.I., the low temperature this morning was 23 degrees, two degrees above the record for the date.

The freak storm was brought by a low-pressure system moving across Cape Cod, said forecaster Tom Fair at the National Weather Service in Boston.

Ten years ago, during the first days of May, Boston was hit with about 8 inches of wet snow that downed power lines and trees.

Democratic Gov. Michael S. Dukakis, who was scheduled to announce his presidential candidacy on Boston Common today, "looked out the window and laughed" when he saw the snow, said press secretary James Dorsey. The announcement was to go on as scheduled.

Snow fell across much of eastern and central New England, Concord, N.H., had 4 inches by early today and Portland, Maine, had 3 inches. An inch of snow covered Brunswick, Maine.

Snowfall amounts around Massachusetts late Tuesday included Phillipsburg, 8 1/2 inches; Ayer, 8 and Pileburg, 5. Burrillville, R.I., received up to 15 inches.

At Green Airport in Warwick, R.I., the low temperature this morning was 23 degrees, two degrees above the record for the date.

The freak storm was brought by a low-pressure system moving across Cape Cod, said forecaster Tom Fair at the National Weather Service in Boston.

Ten years ago, during the first days of May, Boston was hit with about 8 inches of wet snow that downed power lines and trees.

Democratic Gov. Michael S. Dukakis, who was

OPINION

Bus stops in the rain

There's good news and there's bad news for Manchester riders of Connecticut Transit buses.

The bus service has added Sunday service on the B line that runs from Hartford via Silver Lane and Hartford. Some service was reduced on the Y line, but state officials said nobody was using that northern route, anyway.

The bad news affects those hundreds of people who wait for the buses. The state, with the help of federal money, has decided to replace some of the older bus shelters throughout Manchester. It wasn't a bad idea, but workers started to tear down the old shelters two months before replacements would be ready.

As Connecticut has increased its efforts to promote bus ridership and other forms of public transportation, officials have unfortunately made buses less attractive by forcing riders to wait in the rain.

A disservice to constituents

William Fehling, a Republican incumbent on Bolton's Board of Finance, is doing a disservice to his constituents by seeking another term on the board while he makes plans to move out of town.

Fehling acknowledged last week that he was considering buying a larger home in Vernon, but he intended to remain a candidate in the May 4 election. He said he hadn't made the tentative decision to move early enough to withdraw from the finance board race.

Personal decisions such as a relocation frequently must be made hastily, and it is difficult to fault an unpaid public servant for putting his family interests before his political career.

But Bolton voters might also make a wise decision Monday if they choose not to re-elect a candidate who has made no commitment to the town.

"Sorry! I gave it all to a TV evangelist."

Agencies' demise shows who's in charge

The scuttling at the state Capitol of two watchdog agencies is, first of all, an exercise in power politics. Merits aside, it is a forceful reminder that a Democratic majority, like Lulu, is back in town.

Democrats say the Transportation Accountability Board and the Office of Inspector General — products of a Republican legislature — are gone, as in by-bye. Other Republican accomplishments of the last two years, when they were in control, are in trouble, too. The word you hear a lot these days is "dismantling."

But those two GOP projects were aimed right at the O'Neill administration in the wake of major embarrassments and are, accordingly, the most offensive to Democrats. The Democrats, back in control, may want to undo a lot of GOP legislation from 1985 and 1986, but those two oversight critics are special.

DEMOCRATIC LEADERS say the Republicans have got them all wrong, that they're not knocking off GOP programs just to be stinkers. "We've tried to be circumspect," says Sen. John Larson of East Hartford, the president pro tem in the upper chamber. "It isn't a political strategy at all."

Rep. Richard Balducci of Newington, an assistant majority leader in the House, says there never was a calculated plot to dismantle just for the sake of wiping out those two Republican years. He says the inspector general and the transportation board didn't amount to enough to justify keeping them in the new state budget.

House Minority Leader Robert Jaekle of Stratford insists, however, that there is a pattern in what Democrats are doing and it's politically inspired. "There is a desire to erase the Republican record of the last two years," says Jaekle. And why, he asks, the urgency to kill the two oversight offices? "What have they got to hide?"

SENATE MINORITY Leader Reginald Smith of

Open Forum

GOP candidate is well qualified

Earleen Duchesneau, the Republican candidate and 28-year resident in Andover, has been busy serving her community. In response to an environmental problem in her neighborhood, Earleen organized ACRE, a concerned group of Andover residents. ACRE's purpose is to educate residents and commissions about environmental problems that face communities and to provide a forum that addresses their needs.

Earleen will bring the same dedication and organizational skill with her to the office of first selectman. Her strong administrative background prepares and qualifies her for the demands of the office. Moreover, her experience as a mother of four, and as a liaison between educators and students in her own business, has taught her to listen to work with others as a team to accomplish goals.

As we are approaching our Andover elections on May 4, most of us begin to take an interest in the candidates. The possible choices cover the entire spectrum: from environmentalists to retired state employees; from the seasoned local maintenance workers to green new arrivals in town. For some of us the choices are simple — voting "down the party line." But the thoughtful electors may wish to deliberate more on the qualities and needs of the town.

The present Republican administration has served our community well. The property taxes are reasonable even though the mill rate must increase due to the Board of Education needs. As a matter of fact, I, for one, find very little to complain about.

But I do recognize the pressures to increase the land use in town; more developments are on the drawing boards. Therefore, I am sure the environmental considerations must receive top priority in the years to come. The Republican candidate, Earleen Duchesneau, has demonstrated her knowledge, her energy and her interest in this area. She will receive my support, she deserves your support.

T.S. Anson
39 Boston Hill Road
Andover

Letters policy

The Manchester Herald welcomes original letters to the editor. Letters should be brief and to the point. They should be typed or neatly handwritten, and for ease in editing, should be double-spaced. Letters must be signed with name, address and daytime telephone number (for verification).

The Herald reserves the right to edit letters in the interests of brevity, clarity and taste. Letters dealing with candidates or issues in the May 4 elections in Andover and Bolton will not be accepted after noon on Wednesday, April 29.

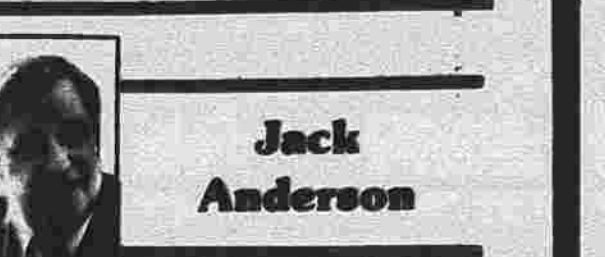

EIVA AND THE FAA have close contacts with the mujaheddin groups, and they estimate only 30 percent of the money Congress appropriated for freedom fighters in the field.

The CIA's ridiculous claim that 80 percent of the arms bought and paid for were delivered to the mujaheddin is a bare-faced lie. The fact is that the CIA has no way of knowing what was actually delivered — because they have no one on the scene on Peshawar to check the receipts against what was purchased in Langley.

It's not that such information is unavailable. Our associate Stewart Harris obtained manifests of weapons received by at least two of the seven main mujaheddin groups. "The CIA does not have the manifests because they don't want them," one disgruntled source said. "That's why the CIA has no idea of how much is getting through. They have only half the information: what they bought."

Waldheim spoke in Eisenstadt, the site of a Jewish cemetery and museum 40 miles south of Vienna. The 68-year-old Waldheim, who was U.N. secretary-general from 1972-82 and was elected president last year, also said Tuesday that there was no proof he was linked to Nazi atrocities.

"Once again, as in the last 12 months, there is talk of supposedly new papers," he said in a five-minute address Tuesday night on Austrian radio and television. "Let me emphasize that their can be no proof of guilty conduct."

Jack Anderson

CIA botches weapons deal with rebels

WASHINGTON — For those who are sick and tired of the Iran-contra arms scandal, here's fair warning: That fiasco should soon be dwarfed by the CIA's incredible mismanagement of the hundreds of millions of dollars Congress has appropriated for Afghanistan's freedom fighters since the Soviet invasion seven years ago.

Our own investigation reveals that the Afghan mujaheddin are lucky if they received even 40 percent of the covert funds intended for them. Counting matching money from Saudi Arabia, we estimate that the CIA has spent a total of $2 billion for arms aid to the anti-Soviet guerrillas.

But at least $1.2 billion of that has been stolen — skimmed off by rapacious arms dealers, crooked CIA agents and corrupt officials along the weapons trail in Egypt, Pakistan and the People's Republic of China. In secret testimony on Capitol Hill, the CIA has claimed that 80 percent of the arms purchased reached the Afghan rebels.

THIS IS preposterous, and the CIA knows it. After we heard of the monumental mismanagement from CIA sources and others, Dale Van Atta flew to Pakistan to investigate. He drove to Peshawar, once a sleepy British colonial outpost on the northwest frontier, now a sprawling city teeming with Afghan refugees. It is the headquarters of all the mujaheddin organizations and where virtually all the CIA's weapons are supposed to be delivered to the guerrilla recipients.

But Van Atta makes an astounding discovery. There is no CIA official in Peshawar to check what the freedom fighters actually receive. And from interviews with mujaheddin sources, it became clear that less than half the weapons bought by the CIA ever make it as far as Peshawar.

Pakistani officials insisted that they would allow clear CIA contact with the mujaheddin, particularly to check on the arms supply line. But they said the CIA has never taken them up on this offer.

IN FACT, OUR sources said that CIA officials in Islamabad, the Pakistani capital, are forbidden by their superiors to ask the mujaheddin about arms deliveries. The only existing direct contact between the CIA and the mujaheddin fighters in Pakistan is through former Army personnel hired by the CIA to train the Afghans in the use of American Stinger anti-aircraft missiles.

Our investigation has revealed that the CIA's Afghan arms supply line is riddled with graft and waste from start to finish, on a scale not seen since the agency's covert programs in Vietnam. The opportunity for corruption is enormous, and the evidence of abuse includes reports of kickbacks made to CIA agents by Pakistanis who have shared in the booty themselves.

The Afghan arms scandal has been years in the making. Yet the Reagan administration has made no effort to track the supply line back from Peshawar to the CIA paymaster in Langley, Va. Now, at long last, Rep. William Gray, D-Pa., chairman of the Budget Committee, has asked the General Accounting Office to follow the CIA's money trail. Gray's action was prompted by a shoeing lobbying outfit, the Federation for American Afghan Action, headed by Andrew Elva.

VIENNA, Austria — President Kurt Waldheim said today he was hurt by the "barely comprehensible news" that he has been barred from the United States because of alleged links to Nazi atrocities in World War II.

The Austria Press Agency quoted Waldheim as saying he had learned from the war "that we must try to live with one another and not against one another." The highest duty of our generation, which shows the scars of the most terrible of all wars, is to work for the preservation and securing of peace," he was quoted as saying in a speech to Austria's central organization for World War II victims and invalids.

He also criticized the U.S. decision announced Monday to bar him as an undesirable alien, and said he was hurt by the "bad, barely comprehensible news," the agency said.

Waldheim spoke in Eisenstadt, the site of a Jewish cemetery and museum 40 miles south of Vienna. The 68-year-old Waldheim, who was U.N. secretary-general from 1972-82 and was elected president last year, also said Tuesday that there was no proof he was linked to Nazi atrocities.

"Once again, as in the last 12 months, there is talk of supposedly new papers," he said in a five-minute address Tuesday night on Austrian radio and television. "Let me emphasize that their can be no proof of guilty conduct."

"You can trust me," he told Austrians. "The U.S. Justice Department says evidence shows Waldheim aided in the deportation and execution of thousands of Jews and partisans while a lieutenant in the German army in the Balkans in World War II."

"We have gone over his record meticulously," U.S. Attorney General Edwin Meese III said Tuesday in Brussels. "We permitted Mr. Waldheim and his lawyers to submit all kinds of facts and evidence" for his defense, "but his

Bakker is cut off from PTL

FORT MILL, S.C. (AP) — PTL's board moved to put "a new face" on the ministry by cutting off payments to the Rev. Jim Bakker, his wife, and the woman whose trust with him led to the scandal the Rev. Jerry Falwell says has shattered faith in evangelists.

The board also decided Tuesday that Bakker would not be allowed to return as the ministry's head, agreed to investigate allegations of homosexuality and wife-swapping at PTL, and accepted the resignation of the Rev. Richard Dortch, his successor as president and host of the "PTL Club" TV show, Falwell said.

"It was conscious that if PTL is to make it, it's got to have a new face, new direction, new administration, everything new," Falwell, the board's chairman, said Tuesday night on ABC News' "Nightline."

Falwell, the founder of Moral Majority and a TV evangelist, said he and a TV evangelist, Dale Van Atta, will be the host of today's "PTL Club" show.

In its five-hour meeting at PTL's Heritage USA complex, the board decided that Bakker and his wife, Tammy, would no longer receive salaries or bonuses. Falwell told a news conference. The Bakkers reportedly were paid $1.6 million in salary and bonuses last year.

The 500,000-member PTL, which stands for People That Love or Praise the Lord, is at least $50 million in debt, Falwell said. Attorneys will help settle royalties the Bakkers earn from sales of records and other items.

The board's executive committee will investigate allegations by the Rev. John Ankerberg, a TV evangelist, that Bakker was involved with prostitutes and homosexuals, Falwell said. He said Bakker, who has denied the charges, will be allowed to "face his accusers" when the panel interviews them.

Falwell, appearing Tuesday night on "The Larry King Show" on Cable News Network, said the board heard tapes from people who made allegations to Ankerberg, and called the tapes "convincing."

"These people are credible people," Falwell said, adding that he needs to hear Bakker's response before forming a final opinion.

The 52-year-old Dukakis was a self-described longshot for the nomination as he embarked today on a cross-country set of announcement speeches in four cities.

He decided to begin his campaign in New Hampshire, where the first Democratic presidential primary election will be held next year, and where he is running even with front-runner Gary Hart in the early public opinion polls.

Dukakis is joining a crowded field of Democratic contenders that includes Hart, Rep. Richard Gephardt of Missouri and former Arizona Gov. Bruce Babbitt. In addition, Sen. Albert Gore of Tennessee, the Rev. Jesse Jackson, Sen. Joseph Biden of Delaware and Sen. Paul Simon of Illinois are expected to seek their party's nomination, and Arkansas Gov. Bill Clinton is mulling over a campaign.

Waldheim criticizes U.S. move to bar him

VIENNA, Austria — President Kurt Waldheim said today he was hurt by the "barely comprehensible news" that he has been barred from the United States because of alleged links to Nazi atrocities in World War II.

The Austria Press Agency quoted Waldheim as saying he had learned from the war "that we must try to live with one another and not against one another." The highest duty of our generation, which shows the scars of the most terrible of all wars, is to work for the preservation and securing of peace," he was quoted as saying in a speech to Austria's central organization for World War II victims and invalids.

He also criticized the U.S. decision announced Monday to bar him as an undesirable alien, and said he was hurt by the "bad, barely comprehensible news," the agency said.

Waldheim spoke in Eisenstadt, the site of a Jewish cemetery and museum 40 miles south of Vienna. The 68-year-old Waldheim, who was U.N. secretary-general from 1972-82 and was elected president last year, also said Tuesday that there was no proof he was linked to Nazi atrocities.

"Once again, as in the last 12 months, there is talk of supposedly new papers," he said in a five-minute address Tuesday night on Austrian radio and television. "Let me emphasize that their can be no proof of guilty conduct."

"You can trust me," he told Austrians. "The U.S. Justice Department says evidence shows Waldheim aided in the deportation and execution of thousands of Jews and partisans while a lieutenant in the German army in the Balkans in World War II."

"We have gone over his record meticulously," U.S. Attorney General Edwin Meese III said Tuesday in Brussels. "We permitted Mr. Waldheim and his lawyers to submit all kinds of facts and evidence" for his defense, "but his

European vulnerability factor in arms talks

WASHINGTON — President Reagan, seeking to ease uneasy NATO allies and rebut critics at home, says he has no intention of agreeing to a nuclear arms pact that would make Europe vulnerable to superior Warsaw Pact conventional forces.

Reagan took exception Tuesday to complaints that U.S. arms negotiators are focusing so heavily on intermediate-range nuclear force reduction talks that fixing the conventional force imbalance is being overlooked.

In an interview with a half-dozen White House correspondents, the president said that while he is receptive to Soviet willingness to seek an arms control treaty, "it doesn't mean that you're going to roll over and just agree to something without protecting yourself."

"Remember that contrary to what has been said too many times, this is not a de-nuclearization of Europe," Reagan said. "Europeans always have been and have stated many times ... that if and when we succeed in reducing what I think are the most destabilizing factors among the people of Europe, you cannot proceed with that to the point that their conventional superiority is reduced and leaves an imbalance."

Some of the allies are concerned that a treaty withdrawing U.S. missiles and barring the installation of new ones would lower Western defenses to Soviet attack. But Reagan rejected that argument.

He also offered assurances that the Soviet edge in conventional troops in Europe will be "taken into account" in dealings with Moscow. However, Reagan did not embrace a proposal from former President Richard M. Nixon and former Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, who said the United States should not sign an agreement on nuclear weapons without resolving the imbalance in ground forces.

"It's wrong to assume that we're not aware of that," Reagan said. Reagan brushed aside critical comments made by retired Army Lt. Gen. Edward Rowan, who said the United States had unwittingly played into Gorbachev's hand by agreeing to focus on the INF issue.

"We're focusing on mutual, we're focusing on the wrong problems," said Rowan, one of Reagan's senior arms advisers. "Why focus on (Soviet leader Mikhail S.) Gorbachev's agenda?" Asked about this, Reagan said, "You have to recognize that I expect diverse opinions in the shop and among the people of the Cabinet, and everything else. And I've always been that way."

He added, however, that "once I've made the final decision, no matter how they may have felt about it, right or wrong ... they'll carry it out."

In a speech at the University of Minnesota, Vice President George Bush urged students to "remember that a country like ours was not built by self-deceivers or wishful thinkers."

"The Soviets are now talking about a nuclear-free Europe," he said. "But remember, the Soviets enjoy a vast superiority in conventional arms on that continent. ... The words 'nuclear free' bring no added safety unless we also correct the conventional arms imbalance and strengthen deterrence in other ways."

Kenneth L. Adelman, the U.S. arms control director, called the Nixon-Kissinger proposal impractical.

In a Brandeis University speech, he said, "It simply makes no sense now to link an INF (Intermediate-Range Nuclear Forces) agreement to new negotiations toward conventional parity in Europe."

He called the Nixon-Kissinger idea a "killer" because it would have said in 13 years of negotiations with the Soviets conventional arms control "has gone nowhere ... and this has little prospect of changing."

Under the intermediate-range nuclear force proposal, the superpowers would withdraw medium-range missiles — those which reach from 600 to 2,500 miles — from European territory.

Some of the allies are concerned that a treaty withdrawing U.S. missiles and barring the installation of new ones would lower Western defenses to Soviet attack. But Reagan rejected that argument.

He also offered assurances that the Soviet edge in conventional troops in Europe will be "taken into account" in dealings with Moscow. However, Reagan did not embrace a proposal from former President Richard M. Nixon and former Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, who said the United States should not sign an agreement on nuclear weapons without resolving the imbalance in ground forces.

"It's wrong to assume that we're not aware of that," Reagan said. Reagan brushed aside critical comments made by retired Army Lt. Gen. Edward Rowan, who said the United States had unwittingly played into Gorbachev's hand by agreeing to focus on the INF issue.

"We're focusing on mutual, we're focusing on the wrong problems," said Rowan, one of Reagan's senior arms advisers. "Why focus on (Soviet leader Mikhail S.) Gorbachev's agenda?" Asked about this, Reagan said, "You have to recognize that I expect diverse opinions in the shop and among the people of the Cabinet, and everything else. And I've always been that way."

He added, however, that "once I've made the final decision, no matter how they may have felt about it, right or wrong ... they'll carry it out."

In a speech at the University of Minnesota, Vice President George Bush urged students to "remember that a country like ours was not built by self-deceivers or wishful thinkers."

"The Soviets are now talking about a nuclear-free Europe," he said. "But remember, the Soviets enjoy a vast superiority in conventional arms on that continent. ... The words 'nuclear free' bring no added safety unless we also correct the conventional arms imbalance and strengthen deterrence in other ways."

Dukakis becomes candidate

MANCHESTER, N.H. — Massachusetts Gov. Michael S. Dukakis is joining the roster of contenders for the White House, hoping to parlay his state's economic resurgence and his familiarity with next-door New Hampshire into the 1988 Democratic presidential nomination.

The 52-year-old Dukakis was a self-described longshot for the nomination as he embarked today on a cross-country set of announcement speeches in four cities.

He decided to begin his campaign in New Hampshire, where the first Democratic presidential primary election will be held next year, and where he is running even with front-runner Gary Hart in the early public opinion polls.

Dukakis is joining a crowded field of Democratic contenders that includes Hart, Rep. Richard Gephardt of Missouri and former Arizona Gov. Bruce Babbitt. In addition, Sen. Albert Gore of Tennessee, the Rev. Jesse Jackson, Sen. Joseph Biden of Delaware and Sen. Paul Simon of Illinois are expected to seek their party's nomination, and Arkansas Gov. Bill Clinton is mulling over a campaign.

Dukakis is counting on a combination of his familiarity with New Hampshire voters and his status as the power plant to propel him to near the front of the pack for the Democratic nomination by the time votes are counted Feb. 16 in the state's presidential primary.

In the meantime, according to congressional aide Patricia O'Brien, "He has to build a national reputation. He has to become better known."

In contrast to his showing in the New Hampshire survey, Dukakis did not register in a poll taken in Massachusetts, which holds its caucus eight days before the New Hampshire primary.

Mr. O'Brien said Dukakis would campaign as an advocate of economic opportunity, using his own state's revitalization as a model. Massachusetts has emerged from the economic recession of the 1970s and now boasts an unemployment rate of less than 4 percent.

In addition, he has taken a strong position against opening the controversial Seabrook nuclear power plant in New Hampshire, a few miles from the Massachusetts border. By refusing to approve proposed emergency evacuation plans, Dukakis has effectively blocked the plant from receiving an operating license.

Dukakis is counting on a combination of his familiarity with New Hampshire voters and his status as the power plant to propel him to near the front of the pack for the Democratic nomination by the time votes are counted Feb. 16 in the state's presidential primary.

In the meantime, according to congressional aide Patricia O'Brien, "He has to build a national reputation. He has to become better known."

In contrast to his showing in the New Hampshire survey, Dukakis did not register in a poll taken in Massachusetts, which holds its caucus eight days before the New Hampshire primary.

Mr. O'Brien said Dukakis would campaign as an advocate of economic opportunity, using his own state's revitalization as a model. Massachusetts has emerged from the economic recession of the 1970s and now boasts an unemployment rate of less than 4 percent.

In addition, he has taken a strong position against opening the controversial Seabrook nuclear power plant in New Hampshire, a few miles from the Massachusetts border. By refusing to approve proposed emergency evacuation plans, Dukakis has effectively blocked the plant from receiving an operating license.

Dukakis is counting on a combination of his familiarity with New Hampshire voters and his status as the power plant to propel him to near the front of the pack for the Democratic nomination by the time votes are counted Feb. 16 in the state's presidential primary.

In the meantime, according to congressional aide Patricia O'Brien, "He has to build a national reputation. He has to become better known."

Emergency Fire - Police - Medical DIAL 911 In Manchester

The new Quick Start Plus Program has been redesigned to help you take it off faster while keeping you healthy. Nutritionally sound meals and food choices, and a new optional exercise plan: tailor it all to your own lifestyle.

Emotional support, too. THE DOLLARS Join by May 16 for only $10 — that's half-price! THE BEACH ROBE You did it! Why, you're beautiful!

THE NEW QUICK START PLUS PROGRAM JOIN FOR HALF PRICE! SAVE $10!

Weight Watchers. Join by May 16 at these convenient locations:

EAST HARTFORD First Congregational Church 837 Main Street • Wed. 7:30pm - 4:30pm • Mon. 6:30pm

MANCHESTER Second Congregational Church 300 N. Main St. • Mon. 4:45pm & 6:30pm • Wed. 4:45pm & 6:30pm

SOUTH WINDSOR Wesleyan Church, Church 1790 Ellington Rd. • Thurs. 4:15pm & 6:30pm

Knights of Columbus Hall 1651 Main Street • Mon. 6:30pm

Community Baptist Church 595 E. Carter Street • Thurs. 9:30am

New registrants should arrive 1/2 hour before times listed for orientation. For more information and additional class locations, call 1-800-972-9320

WEIGHT WATCHERS

Price effective thru Apr. 30th thru May 31st, 1987. We reserve the right to limit sales and to control promotional offers. Items for sale not available to wholesalers or retail dealers.

Pacquin Dry Skin Cream 1.79, Visine A.C. 2.69, Unimom Dual Relief 3.99, Vaseline Petroleum Jelly 1.69, Vaseline Lip Therapy 1.09, Pond's Cold Cream Pump 3.99, Rave Perm Refill 4.29, Pond's Dry Skin Cleansing Bar 1.79, Pond's Cold Cream 3.19, Pond's Dry Skin Pump 3.99, Capri Bubbling Bath Oil 1.99, Stresstabs 6.99, Halsa Mousse 1.99, Halsa Hair Spray 1.99, Halsa Shampoos & Conditioners 2.19, Curoil Lotion 3.99, Halsa Dandruff Shampoo 2.19, Soft Sense Lotion 1.99, Affinity Shampoo or Conditioner 7-oz. 2.49, 11-oz. 2.99, 15-oz. 3.69

Manchester Herald Founded in 1881 Publisher: PENNY M. SIEBERT, Executive Editor: ALEXANDER GIRELLI, Advertising Director: DENISE A. ROBERTS, Mark F. Abratis, Sheldon Cohen, Circulation Manager: JHEANNE COHEN

Capitol Comments Bob Conrad. New Hartford says "It's obvious there's a pattern" in targeting those two, plus tort reform, a trust fund to help towns improve local roads, tighter eligibility for unemployment compensation and providing a vehicle for private sector help in low-income rental housing. "We added accountability (in state government) and they want to do away with it," says Rep. Peter Fusco of Marlborough, an assistant GOP leader. "They (Democrats) are out of sync with the people of Connecticut."

Letters policy. The Manchester Herald welcomes original letters to the editor. Letters should be brief and to the point. They should be typed or neatly handwritten, and for ease in editing, should be double-spaced. Letters must be signed with name, address and daytime telephone number (for verification). The Herald reserves the right to edit letters in the interests of brevity, clarity and taste. Letters dealing with candidates or issues in the May 4 elections in Andover and Bolton will not be accepted after noon on Wednesday, April 29.

Weight Watchers. THE POUNDS The new Quick Start Plus Program has been redesigned to help you take it off faster while keeping you healthy. Nutritionally sound meals and food choices, and a new optional exercise plan: tailor it all to your own lifestyle. Emotional support, too. THE DOLLARS Join by May 16 for only $10 — that's half-price! THE BEACH ROBE You did it! Why, you're beautiful!

WEIGHT WATCHERS. THE POUNDS The new Quick Start Plus Program has been redesigned to help you take it off faster while keeping you healthy. Nutritionally sound meals and food choices, and a new optional exercise plan: tailor it all to your own lifestyle. Emotional support, too. THE DOLLARS Join by May 16 for only $10 — that's half-price! THE BEACH ROBE You did it! Why, you're beautiful!

Wood's goal lifts Islanders past Flyers

Peter Stastny (left) of the Quebec Nordiques hooks Guy Carbonneau (21) of the Montreal Canadiens during the first period of NHL playoff action in Montreal Tuesday night. The Canadiens won, 3-2, to take a 3-2 lead in the best-of-seven series.

By Ralph Bernstein
The Associated Press
PHILADELPHIA — Randy Wood was in no position to boast about a game-winning goal that kept the New York Islanders alive in the NHL playoffs. He was too busy trying to figure out how he scored.
The goal snapped a 1-1 tie at 3:37 of the third period as New York beat Philadelphia 3-1 to extend the best-of-seven Patrick Division series to a sixth game. The Flyers lead the series 3-2 with Game 6 set for Thursday night at Nassau Coliseum.
"I was tied up in front of the net," Wood said of his game-winner. "I felt a lot of sticks hit my leg. One could have been the puck."
It was Bryan Trottier outshooting Flyers defenseman Brad Marsh for the puck and shot on goal. The puck hit Wood, probably on the skate, and glanced into the net.
"I was lying on top of (Flyers' goalie Ron Hextall)," Wood said. "I looked in the net and saw the puck. I was as surprised as anyone."
Montreal took a 3-2 lead over Quebec in the Adams Division final with a 3-2 victory in the only other NHL game Tuesday night.
New York's first goal, which tied the score at 14:18 of the second period, also was a fluke of sorts. Rich Kromm shot the puck in from the top of the left circle under

News

Food

Blanching

ads

is Mondays

...people of the...
...of Finance cut $4...
...of a...
...seen an additional...
...refriger...
...blanch...
...or until...
...by the se...
...immediately...
...Feeling agree th...
...the finance board...
...how best to fin...
...ments. Work o...
...at the high schoo...
...this year, and ping...
...over...
...enovate the Comr...
...1 hour...
...salmon...
...growth through...
...onions...
...desired...
...we've kes 4 to...
...on's going to end...
...ator at a R...
...company, is chain...
...ard and has be...
...10 years. He has...
...with his wife, D...
...financial analy...
...is finishing his y...
...He and his wife, I...
...le's three children...
...on...
...id. Com...
...ear liquid...
...melon;...
...st before...
...Makes 4...
...Portia...
...Houston...
...Tuesday...
...take a...
...SUITS...
...ING...
...699...
...ers...
...LOUISV...
...Scotty Sc...
...plus gold...
...Kentucky...
...riding Cr...
...Santos...
...in his fou...
...United St...
...knack for...
...behind a...
...victories...
...For ex...
...Florida...
...Cryptocle...
...won the 1...
...with Gule...
...Reg. 1158...
...He has...
...and Judge...
...Schulhofe...
...drawn the...
...YOUR...
...trainer's...
...He seems...
...FOR THE...
...all times...
...ENT...
...have conf...
...Santos...
...Aquaduct...
...jockey in...
...ings last...
...Trainer...
...Santos...
...on liquid...
...p bread...
...g, green...
...and pep...
...Coat with...
...in highly...
...ut 5 min...
...sides...
...e and to...
...on dress...
...lad...
...n...
...ch...
...s...
...i...
...ad...
...ian dress...
...minutes...
...on, green...
...ears from...
...ige pears...
...dressing...
...HOURS...
...AT 9:30 to 5:30...
...FRI. 9:30 to 9:00...
...PAP AUTO...
...307 E. Center Street...
...649-3...
...2478...
...Date Ends 5/23/87

Ellis leads Sonics over the Mavs

By Bill Bernard
The Associated Press
Dale Ellis is still mad and is still getting even with the Dallas Mavericks.
Ellis, who spent most of his game time on the bench in three unproductive years with the Mavericks, scored a career-high 42 points Tuesday night, lifting the underdog Seattle SuperSonics to a 117-107 victory over Dallas and a 2-1 lead in their best-of-five NBA playoff series.
"I definitely want to beat these guys," said Ellis, who also had 14 rebounds. "I'm playing as hard as I

NBA Playoffs

Ellis had 32 points in Game 2, including the game-winning free throw with two seconds left, but he said his two big games mean nothing if Seattle can't beat the Mavericks again on Thursday in Seattle or in Dallas on Saturday.
"I'm not completely vindicated yet," Ellis said. "There's still one more game. I just want to send those guys home."
Elsewhere in the NBA playoffs:

Houston beat Portland 117-108 for a 2-1 advantage in their series.
Tonight, it's Milwaukee at Philadelphia, Detroit at Washington, Atlanta at Indiana, the Los Angeles Lakers at Denver and Utah at Golden State. Utah, the Lakers, Atlanta and Detroit lead 2-0, while the 76ers and Bucks are tied 1-1.
"I've taken somewhat of a role in convincing the team that we're as good as they are," Ellis said. "Dallas is the only team that outplayed us during the regular season. All we wanted to do is get them in a close game."
Ellis doesn't think he got a fair opportunity to play in Dallas.
"I don't think (Coach) Dick Motta really knew what he had in me," Ellis said. "He never really turned me loose to prove what I can do."
"Dallas is going to have to make some adjustments for me on Thursday."

Oklahoma City proved to be too much for Portland.
Olajuwon had 35 points, 11 rebounds and eight blocked shots for the Rockets, including a three-point play that defused the Trail Blazers' rally.
"I was not at ease until the last minute," Olajuwon said. "I didn't think we had the killer instinct when it was 23 points. It's just natural in this league to lose a little when you go up that much."
Olajuwon had 20 points and seven blocks as Houston took a 76-65 halftime lead.
After Portland got within six with 4:24 left, Olajuwon's basket with 4:10 to go, only the second field goal for Houston in the fourth quarter, made it 105-97, and he followed with a free throw. Robert Reid hit a short jumper with 3:29 to go for a 108-99 lead, and the Trail Blazers never threatened again.
Clyde Drexler scored 26 points to lead the Blazers, while Steve Johnson had 23, Terry Porter 21 and Kiki Vandeweghe 20.
Houston lost all but six points of a 25-point halftime lead, but Akeem

Sports in Brief

Merchants schedule baseball tryouts

The Manchester Merchants will hold tryouts at Cheney Tech's field on Saturday and Sunday from 1-4 p.m. each day. Signups will be that Saturday from 12-1 p.m. at Cheney Tech at the baseball field. The American Legion-affiliated club is intended for those ages 13 and 14. Age is based as of July 31, 1987.
For further information, call Steve Joyner at 647-1504 or Sean Leonard at 643-5283.

Illing to host baseball card show

Illing Junior High School will host a baseball card show on Sunday, June 7, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. There are still tables available for dealers and anyone wishing to show their wares should contact Joe DePasqua at 649-1719 or Mike Masse at 646-8255, or either at 647-3424.
Frank "Spec" Shea, former New York Yankee great, is scheduled to appear as a special guest for pictures and to sign autographs from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m.
A donation of $1 for adults and 50 cents for children is asked. All proceeds go to support the Illing Junior High Cross Country and Basketball Invitational.

UConn close to two recruits

STORRS — The University of Connecticut, which hasn't had much luck in the recruiting basketball wars, reportedly is close to landing two highly touted prospects. Six-foot-7 forward Marcus Williams out of Torrington High, a Class M All-State selection, is allegedly 90 percent sure he'll sign a national letter of intent with the Huskies today while 6-0 guard John Gwynn, out of DeMatha High School in Hyattsville, Md., is expected to announce his decision today and is reportedly leaning toward UConn.
Williams averaged 30 points, 17 rebounds and six assists for Torrington last season. He's narrowed his choices to Iowa and Connecticut.

Former Bullet Gus Johnson dies

AKRON, Ohio — Former Baltimore Bullets forward Gus Johnson has died of brain cancer at Akron City Hospital, according to a hospital spokeswoman.
Leslie Jollif said the 48-year-old Johnson, who died Tuesday night, had been in and out of the hospital several times since November. He last entered the hospital two weeks ago, a source close to the family told the Baltimore Sun.
Johnson, who played for the Bullets from 1963 until 1972, was thought by many to have been the prototype for today's basketball players.
In the 1960s, he wore a gold star on a front tooth and long leather coats. He drove a low Lincoln Continental. On the basketball court, he broke backboards with his dunks and averaged more than 18 points in four of his 10 seasons in the NBA.

Earnhardt leads NASCAR voting

NEW YORK — Dale Earnhardt, the NASCAR stock car star who has won four straight races and an unprecedented six of the first eight this season, was the unanimous first-quarter choice Tuesday in voting for the 1987 Driver of the Year.
Earnhardt, a two-time Winston Cup champion, was first on the ballots of each of the 10 motorsports writers and broadcasters who take part in the quarterly voting.
Earnhardt polled 90 points under the voting system, which gives 9 points for first place, 6 for second, 4 for third, 3 for fourth, 2 for fifth and 1 for sixth.
Voting will be conducted four times during the season, with the overall winner named in November.

Carlsson advances to third round

HAMBURG, West Germany — Third-seeded Kent Carlsson of Sweden has advanced to beat little-known West German Carl-Uwe Steeb 6-1, 7-6 (7-4) Tuesday and advance to the third round of $375,000 German Open tennis tournament.
Martin Jaffe of Argentina and Thierry Tulasne of France were among the other seeds to advance in the Grand Prix clay-court tournament.

Kentucky Derby candidate Cryptoclearance gets a Tuesday morning workout at Churchill Downs. Jose Santos will be in the saddle in Saturday's 113th running of the Derby.

U.S. in a bind at world hockey

By Dusan Stolonovic
The Associated Press
VIENNA, Austria — Coach Dave Peterson had good reason to be concerned when the U.S. hockey team lost its sixth game in the World Hockey Championships last place Switzerland, despite having no points, retains a mathematical chance to catch the United States — and displace it from the world's top group for the next championships — by winning its last two games. The U.S. has four points.
"There still is a concern, but we are playing well and I think we will be all right," Peterson said Tuesday after a 6-4 loss to Finland. The U.S. stands seventh, and needs a point in either of its last two games to remain in the top group.
Switzerland remained winless when it was beaten 8-1 by West Germany.
In today's medal-round games,

Canada played the defending champion Soviet Union, which is seeking an unprecedented 21st title. Also, Czechoslovakia met last year's losing finalist, Sweden.
The American team, composed of college players and NHL stars, has to play Switzerland and West Germany before the tournament concludes. The U.S. already has beaten both teams in the preliminaries.
The U.S. opened the scoring against F...
...goal by T...
...first per...
...Finland...
...utes late...
...Summame...
...the Ameri...
...deflection...
...Hannu...
...at 2:03 of...
...then they...
...within th...

EMERGENCY

Fire — Police — Medical
DIAL 911
In Manchester

Salmon

...id. Com...
...ear liquid...
...melon;...
...st before...
...Makes 4...
...Portia...
...Houston...
...Tuesday...
...take a...
...SUITS...
...ING...
...699...
...ers...
...LOUISV...
...Scotty Sc...
...plus gold...
...Kentucky...
...riding Cr...
...Santos...
...in his fou...
...United St...
...knack for...
...behind a...
...victories...
...For ex...
...Florida...
...Cryptocle...
...won the 1...
...with Gule...
...Reg. 1158...
...He has...
...and Judge...
...Schulhofe...
...drawn the...
...YOUR...
...trainer's...
...He seems...
...FOR THE...
...all times...
...ENT...
...have conf...
...Santos...
...Aquaduct...
...jockey in...
...ings last...
...Trainer...
...Santos...
...on liquid...
...p bread...
...g, green...
...and pep...
...Coat with...
...in highly...
...ut 5 min...
...sides...
...e and to...
...on dress...

These days it's easy to transform convenient foods into culinary delights that taste great and are good for you. In fact, menus now offer more choices for light, healthy eating. Today's cooks are also looking for easy-to-prepare suggestions that provide for casual dining or more elegant entertaining.

The "Savvy Dining" menu (pictured) features Salmon-Dijon Vegetable Salad and Milled Pear Compote, perfect for an impromptu warm weather gathering. Salmon-Dijon Vegetable Salad combines a selection of garden-fresh vegetables — summer zucchini, onions, mushrooms and Chinese pea pods — with Alaska canned salmon, marinated in lite Dijon vinaigrette dressing for an appealing main dish salad. Alaska canned salmon is ideal for today's lifestyles, as it offers convenience, versatility and great flavor as well as good nutrition.

The perfect finish to this light meal is Milled Pear Compote, a refreshing medley of canned Bartlett pears, honeydew melon balls, fresh berries and nuts. The delicate flavor and coloring of canned pears makes them an ideal recipe ingredient. They're perfectly ripened, peeled and ready to enjoy right from the can or in a variety of recipes.

The "Casual Alfresco Eating" menu is designed for meals that demand quick-to-prepare foods. Alaska Salmonburgers top this menu with a tasty combination of lite creamy Dijon dressing, canned Alaska salmon and green onions. Quickly assembled and pan-grilled, these salmonburgers offer a new approach to the ordinary fare of burgers. For flavor variety, they rely on bottled dressing for seasoning. The creamy Dijon dressing features the distinctive taste of Dijon mustard, because it's a lite dressing it has less oil and as few as half the calories of its regular dressing counterparts.

For a nutritious mealtime accompaniment, serve Marinated Pear Salad alongside the Alaska Salmonburgers. A bed of vibrant green spinach and other fresh vegetables serve as the base for this cooling salad, seasoned by a marinade of bottled lite Italian dressing with the perfect blend of herbs and spices. Juicy canned pears crown the salad and the result is a real palate pleaser.

Given to today's lifestyles, these recipes are quick, easy and flavorful because of the ingredients and the way they're combined. That should appeal to the contemporary diner looking for lighter meals and foods with a flair.

APR 29 1987

Town, 8th snipers together & nervous

By George Loring
Herald Reporter

The differences between the towns of Manchester and the Eighth Utilities District at times are large and complex.

For each government's fire department, though, the difference in one important respect is one inch—the Town Fire Department uses 5-inch-diameter water hose, while the Eighth District uses 4-inch hose.

Members of the two departments will train together this Saturday on using adapters to connect the different lines. The two departments ever have to fight a fire together.

The session will be the first drill in about one-and-a-half years involving the actual use of equipment.

Two joint meetings have also been held in the past two months to display and familiarize firefighters with certain pieces of equipment, the training officers for both departments said Tuesday.

This cooperation has come to symbolize the new spirit of cooperation between the two governments that only last fall were locked in a fierce fight over whether the Eighth District should continue to exist.

The Eighth District is a political subdivision that provides fire protection and sewer service to most of northern Manchester. Townspeople overwhelmingly voted in November to reject a referendum question that would have taken away the Eighth District's power to veto a merger with the town.

While this fight largely excluded the fire service, the departments figured at the center of the conflict waged by political leaders on both sides. Charges over the efficiency reach. Forgive me, one patron as saying he planned to have a "Wolf Creek lunch" — a can of beer and a loaded gun — and empty both.

"I got the gun out," said a clerk at the Canyon Store and service station, who refused to identify himself.

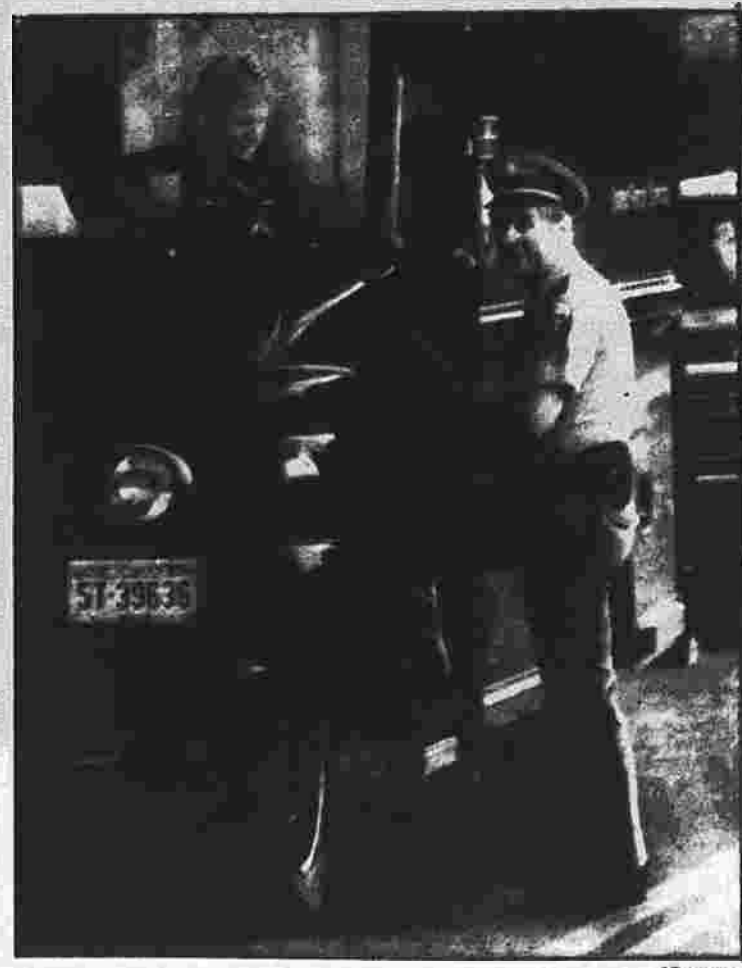

County, state and federal officers combed the sparsely populated area Tuesday, but found no trace of the snipers. Three planes and a helicopter flew over thousands of acres surrounding the reservoir, and a tracking dog was brought in.

The shooting broke out Monday afternoon after shots were fired at officers investigating an abandoned, rolled-over van near Holter Lake.

O'Reilly said the van was taken from the scene of the double slaying.

The shooting intensified, and two campers were slightly wounded when gunfire struck their car. The shooting lasted until darkness, when deputies backed off and began evacuating residents and campers from the recreation area midway between Helens and Great Falls.

One camper, John Harrington, who lives in Great Falls, 45 miles north of the recreation area, said he spent Monday night with his wife and seven other people near the shooting area.

A Montana Highway Patrol officer stops a delivery truck at a roadblock near Wolf Creek on Tuesday night as police continue to look for up to four snipers.

ing in South Africa more open ing expected government appeals of the court rulings.

U.S. and British television news-casts Monday showed police whipping students — white and black — at the University of Cape Town after a protest against the South African commando raid on alleged guerrilla targets in Zambia over the weekend.

Newspapers of the English-language Argus group carried photographs of police firing tear gas.

Such television footage and photographs had been forbidden under emergency decrees overturned by two Natal province Supreme Court rulings within the past five days.

Some South African newspaper editors said they still planned to adhere to the decrees since expected government appeals to the Appeal Court, the nation's highest bench, would have the effect of suspending the Natal decisions and letting the decrees stand.

tle clouds's mission

However, the sources stressed that a large bloc of undecided votes remained, particularly among Democrats.

Republican sources, who also spoke only if not named, said their head counts showed that 10 to 20 of the chamber's 177 Republicans would vote for the Gephardt measure.

They agreed that undecided Democrats held the key.

Nakasone, who will meet with Reagan on Thursday, also is seeking the lifting of $300 million in U.S. tariffs on Japanese televisions, computers and power tools — but administration officials suggested he may leave empty handed.

Reagan imposed the 100 percent tariffs two weeks ago in retaliation for what he claimed was Japanese refusal to stop selling computer chips at prices far below their true value in overseas markets, in violation of a 1986 agreement.

U.S. Trade Representative Clayton K. Yeutter said Monday that there was fresh evidence Japan had halted the practice, suggesting the tariffs might soon be lifted.

But presidential spokesman Martin Fitzwater stressed later in the day that there was "no hard evidence" to prove that change had occurred. He suggested it was unlikely the dispute would be resolved during Nakasone's visit.

In addition to two sessions with Reagan, Nakasone will meet with Republican congressional leaders Thursday and with their Democratic counterparts Friday.

House Speaker Jim Wright denied that the trade legislation was aimed at Japan.

But he said he hoped House approval of the bill would warn Nakasone that "America is sharpening and honing its edge and its competitive ability."

Laser battle

Continued from page 1

Weinberg said it is important to respond to things that can be confronted.

Other opponents agreed. "I guess we have to address things as they come about, and this is coming about," said Plavin.

Meek said the effort against Laserquest is part of a larger

Obituaries

Kathleen Thompson, headed Red Cross

Kathleen Jay (Benedict) Thompson, the widow of Arnold C. Thompson, died April 27 at Prospect Hill Rehabilitation Center in East Windsor.

She was born in Ottawa, Ontario, Canada, and she came to Hartford in 1928 when her husband joined the Travelers Insurance Co. She moved to Manchester in 1935.

She was a member of Center Congregational Church and was former executive director of the Manchester Chapter of the American Red Cross. She was a commissioner of the Manchester Housing Authority, a member of the Commission on Aging and a member of the Regional Council on Aging.

She was president of the former Sacoptist Club and was chosen Manchester Woman of the Year in 1957. She was also a member of the Manchester Memorial Hospital Auxiliary, the Manchester Historical Society, the American Association of Retired Persons and the Manchester Senior Citizens.

She is survived by three daughters, Doreen Benson and Arnolden Thornton, both of Manchester, and Esther Coleman of Natick, Mass.; a son, Gordon A. Thompson of Manchester; 11 grandchildren; eight great-grandchildren; and several nieces and nephews.

The funeral will be Friday at 11 a.m. at the Watkins Funeral Home, 142 E. Center St. Burial will be in East Cemetery. Calling hours are Thursday from 7 to 9 p.m.

Memorial donations may be made to a charity of the donor's choice.

Collis E. Goslee

Collis E. Goslee, 83, of 31 Lilley St., the husband of Elsie (Benson) Goslee, died Tuesday at his home.

He was born in Manchester on Sept. 5, 1903, and he had been a lifelong resident. Before retiring, he was a self-employed architect. He had also been affiliated with Crabtree Associates Architecture

GE

MARC

proudly presents

UNITED STATES MARINE CORPS BAND and MANCHESTER HIGH SCHOOL BAND in concert

THE WJO P.M. ★
935 Main Street

Our phone land MARC Bakery.

PLANNING YOUR VACATION

Don't Forget To Plan How You Will Catch Up On ALL The News While You Are Away.

Call Today And Have The Manchester Herald Saved In A Vacation Pak And Catch Up On

All The News When You Return

CALL TODAY!
647-9946

REAL ESTATE OPPORT

REAL ESTATE THIS WEEK featuring: U&R Realty Co.

Thinking of a new or used home?

Call U&R first for your housing needs.

We have home sites available in Manchester, Vernon and South Windsor.

Whether you are interested in buying, selling, building or just need to consult someone on your real estate needs, call us — we're always willing to assist you.

U&R REALTY CO.

643-2692

Robert D. Murdock, Realtor

Manchester $153,900
NEWER LISTING. Nicely maintained two-family home in residential neighborhood. Separate gas and electric, 2 car garage, full basement, nice yard. Must be seen!

Manchester $295,000
EXCLUSIVE! Rare opportunity to own this gorgeous 10 room, 3 1/2 bath custom Cape in much sought after area! Workover kitchen, banquet size formal dining room, cozy den, sunken living room with fireplace, huge family room, sun porch. Too many features to describe!

Manchester $98,000
Stop paying your landlord and start building equity in this 2 bedroom expandable cape. Enclosed porch, appliances and shed included. Call our office and get started.

Manchester Gorgeous
2 bedroom Townhouse Condominium sized living room, completely and partially finished basement area, wooded back yard, located in core.

D.W.FISH THE REALTY COMPANY

Better Homes and Gardens

Manchester Charming
Updated 3 bedroom Colonial with dining room and new modern, good island and pantry, Foyer, tile floor porch and 2 car detached garage.

Sentry REAL ESTATE SERVICES
63 East Center St., Manchester, 643-4060

871-1400 Vernon Cr., Vernon, CT 06066

Jackson & Jackson

Real Estate
647-8400

168 Main Street, Manchester

HEADING WEST???

Adorable 5+ room Garrison Colonial on quiet residential street in West Hartford. 2.3 bedrooms, vinyl sided maintenance free exterior. Fenced yard, fireplace, gas heat. $138,500.00.

JUST IN TIME...

To enjoy the beautiful setting that this home boasts at Witches Woods Lake in Woodstock. Year-round 6 room Contemporary Saltbox. 3 bedrooms, 2 baths, built in 1979. Tastefully decorated. Well maintained! $144,900.00.

DRESSED TO THE 9's!!!

Freshly painted inside and out! Tastefully decorated with plush wall to wall carpet. Separate in-law apt. Total of 10 rooms, 5 bedrooms, 3 baths, 2 fireplaces. Beautiful private treed 3.5 acre lot on Vernon, Bolton town line. $254,900.00

WE G

REAL ESTATE

Century 21 Epstein Realty

643 North Main St., Manchester

647-8895

WHERE THE INDIVIDUAL GETS ATTENTION

Each office independently owned and operated.

Manchester...

Immaculate, spacious 2 bedroom, 1 1/2 bath home with attached garage. Many fine extras. Reasonably priced at $138,900.

24 Bridle Path Lane

OPEN HOUSE SUNDAY, APRIL 26 / 2-4 PM

Directions: East Center Street to left onto Lake Street to right onto Lydall Street.

NEW TO MARKET

Many improvements have been made to this 5 & 5 Duplex, including: New oil burner, newer siding and roof. Located in West side of Manchester. 2 car garage, full basement and insulated! Call right away!

$164,900

"Putting You 1st Is 2nd Nature To Us!"

STRANO REAL ESTATE

156 E. CENTER ST., MANCHESTER, CT.

CALL TODAY - 647-"SOLD"

SOCCER

Softball

TODAY'S GAMES
MCC Vets vs. MP
Pittsford
Trash-Away vs.
Robertson
J.C. Penney vs.
Robertson
Pistol vs. MP
J&M vs. Evergreen
Food vs. Purdy
Wood vs. F&P
Ward vs. Congo
D.W. Fish vs. Home

Baseball

American League

West
Milwaukee
New York
Toronto
Baltimore
Boston
Detroit
Cleveland

West
Minnesota
California
Seattle
Kansas City
Texas
Oakland
Chicago

Tuesday
Cleveland 1, Chicago
Toronto 5, Minnesota
Baltimore 3, Kansas
Texas 3, New York
California 10, Milwaukee
Oakland 7, Boston
Seattle 4, Detroit 4

Wednesday
Chicago (Dubois)
(Swinford) 1-3, 7:35 p.
Minnesota (Smith)
Johnson 9-2, 7:35 p.
Baltimore (Bell) 2
(Laird) 3-1, 8:35 p.
New York (Madson)
9-2, 8:35 p.m.
Detroit (Perry) 9-3
1-7, 10:35 p.m.

Thursday
Milwaukee (Hague)
(Punk) 6-11, 10:35 p.m.
Boston (Nipper) 2-0
10:35 p.m.

Friday
Milwaukee (Oaks)
Detroit (Caffery)
Boston of Seattle.
Only games scheduled.

National League

West
St. Louis
Chicago
New York
Montreal
Pittsburgh
Philadelphia

San Francisco
Cincinnati
Houston
Los Angeles
Atlanta
San Diego

Tuesday
San Francisco 8, C
Pittsburgh 6, L
Atlanta 5, Cincinnati
Montreal 7, Philadelphia
San Diego 5, St. Louis
Houston of New York

Wednesday
San Francisco (W)
(Maddux) 6-7, 7:30 p.
Los Angeles (V)
(Petterson) 1-2, 7:30 p.
Atlanta (Smith) 1-1
San Diego 7-5, 8 p.m.
Houston (Scott)
(Fernandez) 3-1, 7:35
Montreal (Eaton)
(Rowley) 6-11, 7:35 p.
San Diego (Hawkins)
3-0, 8:35 p.m.

Thursday
Atlanta of Cincinnati
San Diego of St. L.
San Francisco of L.
Los Angeles of Pitt.
Only games scheduled.

Eastern League

New Britain (Red Sox)
Williamsport (Indians)
Harrisburg (Pirates)
Pittsfield (Cubs)
Reading (Phillies)
Vermont (Reds)
Glens Falls (Tigers)
Albany (Yankees)

Tuesday
Reading (Albany)
Williamsport (Glens Falls)
Pittsfield (Harrisburg)
Vermont (New Britain)

Wednesday
Albany (Reading)
Glens Falls (Williamsport)
Pittsfield (Harrisburg)
Vermont (New Britain)

Thursday
Albany (Reading)
Glens Falls (Williamsport)
Pittsfield (Harrisburg)
Vermont (New Britain)

American League

Rangers 3, Yankees

NEW YORK
Rinden of 3 0 0 0
Rindley of 3 0 0 1
Atchley of 3 0 1 0
Winfield of 3 0 0 0
Petro of 3 0 0 0
Gward of 4 0 0 0
Petrolino of 3 0 0 0
Slinger of 3 0 0 0
Tolson of 2 1 0 0
Tolde of 1 1 1 1

New York
Tolson reached terrace.
Gene Winning RB
E-Slough, LOB
3, 3-Atchley, HP
(3), LA-Parrish (4)
Tolson (1), Rinden

New York
Rosen L-2-1
Texas
Correa W-1-1
Mehrezi 5-2
Umpires—Home,
back: Second, Garcia
—7:25 A-21, 20.

Radio, T

7:30 p.m. — Astor
8 p.m. — NHL P
8 p.m. — NHL P
of Red Wings, ESP
8:30 p.m. — Yo
WPOP
10:35 p.m. — Red
NEWS, WTC