

BUSINESS & SERVICE DIRECTORY

Business & Service Directory listing various services such as Child Care, Painting, Electrical, and more.

Advertisements for M.T.S. Builders, Fire Commissioner, and various automotive services.

Real estate listings for apartments, condominiums, and homes in Manchester.

Advertisements for a car dealership, including a 'NEED A GOOD REASON TO BUY A NEW CAR?' section.

Geneva Luxury Vans advertisement featuring 20 vans and campers in stock.

Car dealership advertisement listing various models like Camaro, Celebrity V-6, and Nova.

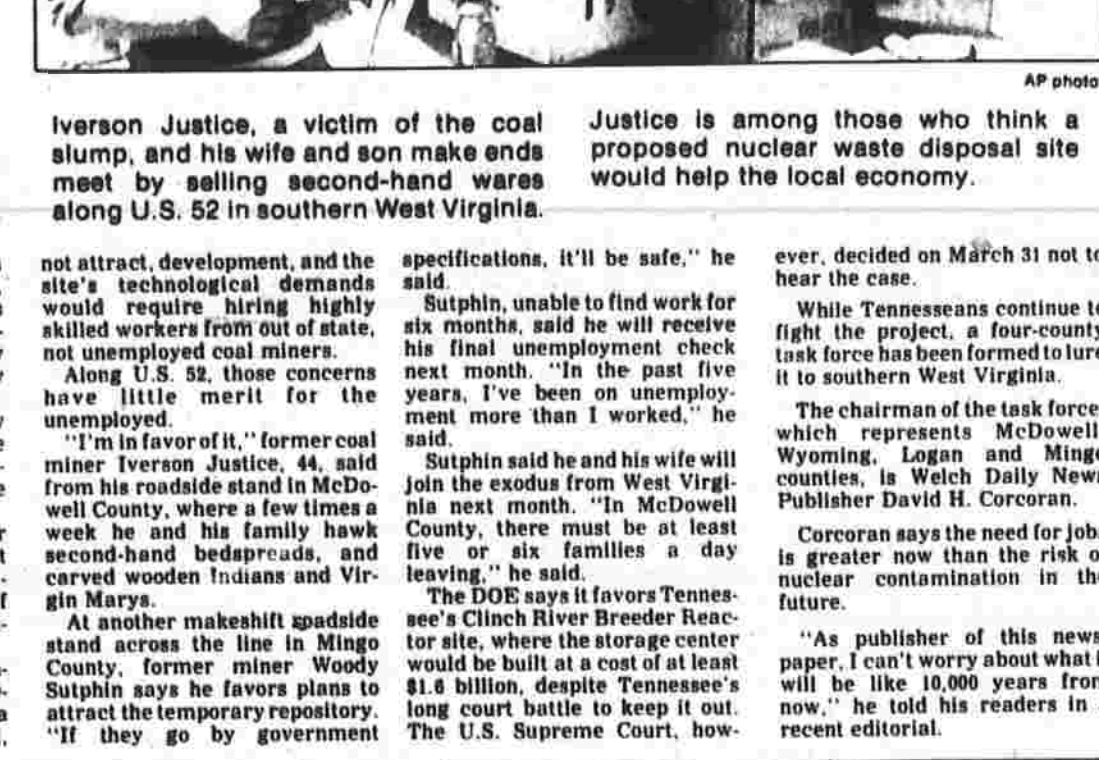

Scranton Motors advertisement for the 1987 Plymouth Voyager and other vehicles.

Car dealership advertisement for Carter Chevrolet Co., Inc. featuring Corsica and Beretta models.

Top news headlines: 'Jailed: Model slasher gets the maximum / page 5', 'Rising costs: Schools $30,000 short / page 3', 'A first: Docs remove a living heart / page 10'.

Main newspaper masthead: 'Manchester Herald', 'Manchester - A City of Village Charm', 'Tuesday, May 12, 1987', '30 Cents'.

County vies for nuke dump: By Steven L. Herman. The Associated Press. IAEGER, W. Va. - Along U.S. 52, where jobless West Virginians hawk wooden Indians...

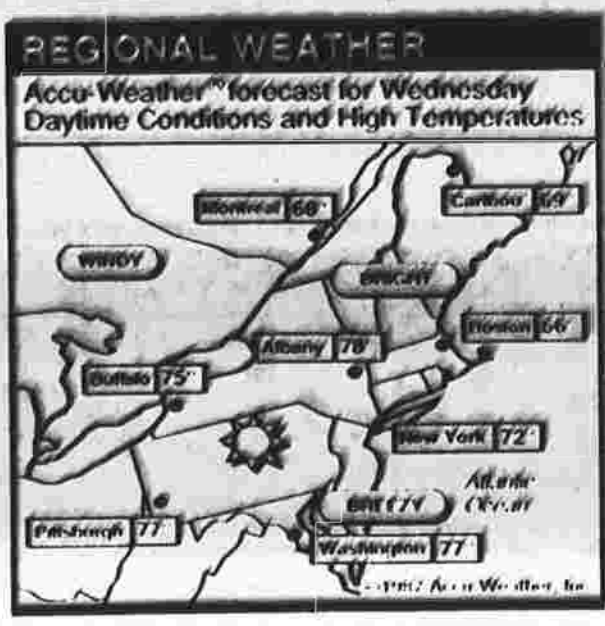

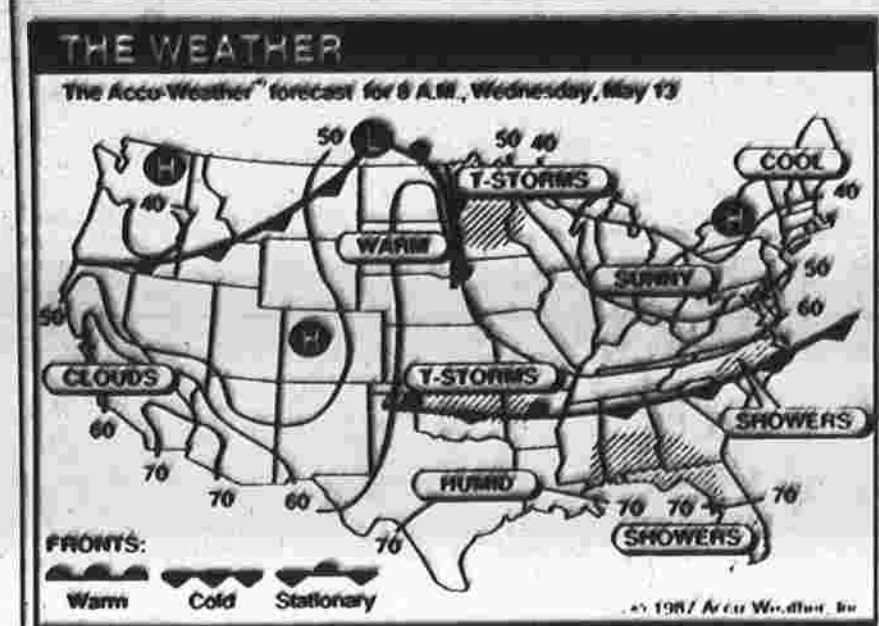

Panel traces contra aid to wrong account: By Jim Drinkard. The Associated Press. WASHINGTON - Congressional investigators have accounted for the missing $10 million that the sultan of Brunei donated to the contra rebels...

No-nonsense AIDS campaign upsets clergy, pois: By John Shanahan. The Associated Press. NEW HAVEN (AP) - Within a month, state-run buses in the city will carry trial advertisements...

Landers, Burns enter 8th District race: By George Lyons. Herald Reporter. Making official what had been expected for the past few months, Eighth Utilities District Director Thomas E. Landers announced today he is a candidate for the presidency of the independent utilities authority...

Index and Classifieds section with various small advertisements and contact information.

Rain dampens nation; cold in Great Lakes

Scattered rain and thunderstorms dampened much of the nation early today, while cold temperatures swept across the upper Great Lakes.

FOODS

Today, horses are largely used for sport or recreation. While horses were first used for transportation, they also sometimes provided entertainment.

Weather Trivia

What is the troposphere?

Today's forecast called for rain along the northern Pacific Coast, scattered showers and thunderstorms over central Arizona, and from Florida and the Carolinas across the Ohio Valley.

Today's weather picture is by Cliff LaMountain, 10, of North Main Street, a fourth-grader at Robertson School.

CONNECTICUT WEATHER

Central, Eastern Interior, Southwest Interior: There might have been a few clouds in the sky today, but the next few days are looking pretty good.

Almanac

May 12, 1987

Today's MOOD: Day before full moon (May 13).

Today's TRIVIA: What is Yogi Berra's first name? (a) Lawrence (b) Peter (c) Dan

PEOPLE

Hard job?

Turning letters is harder than it seems, Vanessa White says in her new autobiography.

Willie Nelson

Actor Sean Penn and rock singer Madonna are working to save their marriage, and a report that they have filed for divorce is incorrect, a publicist for the singer says.

Joining forces

Waylon Jennings, Emmylou Harris and Kris Kristofferson will join Willie Nelson on stage at the country singer's 14th annual Fourth of July picnic, organizers said.

Saving Madonna

Actor Sean Penn and rock singer Madonna are working to save their marriage, and a report that they have filed for divorce is incorrect, a publicist for the singer says.

$40 million suit

The Oak Ridge Boys have replaced ousted member William Lee Golden, who is suing the country music group for $40 million over the firing.

Staying alive

Comedians Joe Lovitz, Nora Dunn and Dennis Miller and the rest of the cast will stick with "Saturday Night Live" in its 13th season, producer Lorne Michaels says.

Keeping security

Rap music groups Run-DMC and The Beastie Boys plan to spend $500,000 on crowd security for each show in their joint national tour this summer.

Comics Sampler

In this space, samples of new comics will be printed from time to time to get reader reaction. Readers are invited to comment on any aspect of the Herald's comics. Send your comments to: Features Editor, Manchester Herald, P.O. Box 591, Manchester, 06040.

WHAT A GUY by Bill Hoest

Astrograph

Wednesday, May 13, 1987

In the year ahead, there will be a good market for your creativity and ingenuity. Take pains to find the right associates because they can swing things for you that you can't.

Current Quotations

"Let no one believe that the president was involved in adding the staff or anyone else to provide illegal support for the freedom fighters." — White House spokesman Martin Flitwater, after former National Security Advisor Robert McFarlane described President Reagan's apparently deep involvement in raising money for Nicaraguan rebels.

Lottery

Connecticut daily Monday: 315 Play Four: 5350

Manchester Herald

USPS 327-800 VOL. CVI, No. 100

Published daily except Sunday and certain holidays by the Manchester Publishing Co., 28 The Piazza, Manchester, Conn. 06040

Board has to cut $30,000 more from its 1987-88 budget

By Andrew Yurkovsky Herald Reporter

An unexpected increase in the cost of the special education program will mean that the Manchester Board of Education will have to cut $30,000 more from its 1987-88 budget, School Superintendent James F. Kennedy told board members Monday night.

Andover annual meeting has competition from the PZC

ANDOVER — The town's annual meeting on the 1987-88 budget was adjourned after only 10 minutes Monday night because of a competing public hearing on a proposed new subdivision.

Andover annual meeting has competition from the PZC

ANDOVER — The town's annual meeting on the 1987-88 budget was adjourned after only 10 minutes Monday night because of a competing public hearing on a proposed new subdivision.

Vernon St. widening to result in detours

By Alex Girrell Associate Editor

Work on the reconstruction of Vernon Street, which has been in progress since March, will be stepped up next week when the contractor for the job expects to put a larger crew on. William Connors, acting town engineer, said today.

Ansaldis to appeal

Manchester builders Andrew Ansaldi Jr. and Andrew Ansaldi Sr. have decided to appeal the town Board of Tax Review's decision in February not to lower the tax assessment on property they own on Bidwell Street in Hartford.

Set Sail for NOVA SCOTIA

Only Six Hours away on the Bluenose from Bar Harbor, Maine

The Bluenose Shortcut Cruise. The Fastest Sea Link from Maine to Nova Scotia. We'll ferry you and whatever kind of vehicle you drive from Bar Harbor, Maine to Yarmouth, Nova Scotia in only six daytime hours.

OLIVER-ZUCCARDY Insurance Agency

767 Main Street Manchester 643-9555

Let us help you manage your personal insurance needs.

★ Best rates from 10 companies

Call or stop in and see us.

MAY 1987

Jury to look into gambling case

By David Lerman
The Associated Press

HARTFORD — The first grand jury convened in Connecticut this year will apparently investigate allegations that someone tried to pressure a Superior Court judge who had been presiding over a gambling case against a longtime state police informant.

Waterbury State's Attorney John A. Connelly sought a grand jury to investigate circumstances that surrounded Superior Court Judge Anne C. Dransfield to disqualify herself on March 26 from the gambling case against Thomas W. Spors, of Waterbury, a convicted gambler and longtime state police informant.

Under state law, the purpose of grand jury investigations, including the one created Monday, are not to determine whether law-enforcement sources used Connelly's application was the only one involving Waterbury pending before the three-judge state court panel.

About a month before Dransfield disqualified herself without explanation, Spors had persuaded state police and the state's attorney's office to investigate Dransfield's husband, Frederick C. Zivie of Litchfield, for possible involvement with illegal gambling.

"Our investigation had nothing to do with her disqualifying herself," said J. Edward Dooly, a spokesman for state police. Dooly said he didn't think Dransfield was involved in the state police investigation on March 26.

State police are prepared to cooperate with the grand jury and ready to supply investigators to assist if called, he said.

It is unclear who Connelly suspects tried to intimidate Dransfield.

But state Rep. Richard D. Tallano, D-Rocky Hill, co-chairman of the Judiciary Committee, has called for a legislative inquiry into the state police decision to investigate Zivie based on information supplied by a defendant with a case before Zivie's wife.

"The independence of the judiciary is important to our criminal justice system," Tallano said last month in calling for the investigation. "If their independence is impaired, then our whole criminal justice system is in jeopardy."

Senate President Pro Tem John B. Lawrence, D-Seatonsville, said the grand jury likely would investigate the state police investigation.

"I think it is important to know what happened," Lawrence said. "It is not fair to the community to have a state police officer who is involved in a case against a defendant with a case before Zivie's wife."

Chief Court Administrator Aaron Mead released a two-paragraph letter naming Superior Court Judge Anne C. Dransfield as grand jury. Mead said he couldn't elaborate on the letter, which said that any records of the grand jury will be filed in Waterbury Superior Court.

Connelly said he couldn't comment on the grand jury. Spors was out of state and could not be reached for comment.

State police last month confirmed they had briefly investigated Zivie based on Spors' allegation that Zivie had directed him to provide information to a defendant with a case before Zivie's wife.

"The independence of the judiciary is important to our criminal justice system," Tallano said last month in calling for the investigation. "If their independence is impaired, then our whole criminal justice system is in jeopardy."

Senate President Pro Tem John B. Lawrence, D-Seatonsville, said the grand jury likely would investigate the state police investigation.

"I think it is important to know what happened," Lawrence said. "It is not fair to the community to have a state police officer who is involved in a case against a defendant with a case before Zivie's wife."

Chief Court Administrator Aaron Mead released a two-paragraph letter naming Superior Court Judge Anne C. Dransfield as grand jury. Mead said he couldn't elaborate on the letter, which said that any records of the grand jury will be filed in Waterbury Superior Court.

Connelly said he couldn't comment on the grand jury. Spors was out of state and could not be reached for comment.

State police last month confirmed they had briefly investigated Zivie based on Spors' allegation that Zivie had directed him to provide information to a defendant with a case before Zivie's wife.

"The independence of the judiciary is important to our criminal justice system," Tallano said last month in calling for the investigation. "If their independence is

Poles feel close to crash victims

Mourners cry during a memorial service at the Sacred Heart Roman Catholic Church for the victims of Saturday's airliner crash in Poland.

By Jeff Lebow
The Associated Press

NEW BRITAIN — The people who crowded a commemorative service in this working class city were much closer to the victims of the LOT Polish Airlines Flight No. 105 than those indicated by the 6,000 miles between Connecticut and Warsaw.

"The one thing the Polish people have is a strong sense of unity—the ability to laugh, cry and grow together," the Rev. Anthony Francis said Monday night at the Catholic service at Sacred Heart church attended by an overflow crowd of more than 1,500 friends and relatives.

All 183 people aboard died Saturday when the New York-bound flight crashed in a forest near Warsaw's Okęcie International Airport. Eleven of the victims were from Connecticut.

Eight of the 11 Connecticut residents killed in the crash and three victims from Poland who were on the plane indicated by the hour-long Polish-language service.

The Rev. Paul A. Wysocki, who led the service, played a tape-recorded message in English from the Archbishop John F. Wheaton of Hartford.

"Words are always inadequate to express the sense of loss over the death of a loved one," Wheaton said. "And words are especially inadequate to convey sympathy on the death of someone who is loved eternally because of the airplane crash in Poland."

AP Photo

O'Neill wants to tighten building code

By Judd Everhart
The Associated Press

HARTFORD — Gov. William A. O'Neill says he wants a 16-member commission to review investigations into the collapse of a building under construction in Bridgeport and recommend ways to tighten state building codes.

"I want this panel to determine what Connecticut should do to prevent this kind of accident never happens again," the governor said.

Twenty-eight construction workers died when the apartment building, L'Ambiance Plaza, collapsed on April 23.

O'Neill named former state Sen. Richard F. Schneller of Essex as chairman of the commission and former House Speaker James J. Kennedy of Hartford as commission counsel.

The governor also said he would ask the General Assembly to approve the creation of a $5 million contingency fund to be used to pay bills incurred by cities and towns in the event of future emergencies.

O'Neill said there was no estimate yet of the costs incurred by the building collapse in Bridgeport.

Schneller said he managed the governor's successful re-election campaign last year, said it was possible the commission would have recommendations in time for consideration by the 1988 General Assembly. The investigations themselves, he said, could take six months or a year.

L'Ambiance Plaza was being constructed with the lift-slab technique, in which concrete slabs are poured for each floor and then jacked into place.

Schneller said it would be unfair for him to comment on the merits of that technique, adding, "We are really not starting with any premises."

O'Neill said he believed a project in Stamford using that technique had been halted in the wake of the Bridgeport disaster, but he had no other information on that project.

The governor said it was too early to say whether a moratorium should be imposed on all lift-slab projects pending the results from the investigations being conducted into the collapse.

But, he said, "if there is a need for a moratorium, certainly it shall be instituted."

Named to the commission were: James E. Escott of Bartlett, Brainard Escott Inc. of Bloomfield, representing the Associated General Contractors of Connecticut; Willis N. Mills Jr., president of SMS Architects of New Canaan, representing architects; Philip Burton of Burton and Vanfouten of West Hartford, representing engineers; Edward "Sonny" Metz, president of the International Union of Operating Engineers Local 478; John DeToga, president of the Connecticut Builders and Construction Trades Council and John Olson, secretary-treasurer of that council; and state Sen. Marie A. Harbat, D-Vernon, and state Rep. Lawrence Anastasio, D-Norwalk, co-chairman of the legislature's Public Safety Committee.

Defense wants release of report investigated

HARTFORD (AP) — Chief of State Administrator Aaron Mead says he knows of no state law that would give the grand jury in a Torrington corruption investigation authority to release a copy of his final report to Public Safety Commissioner Lester J. Forst.

The defense attorney for a prosecutor accused of lying to the Torrington grand jury asked judicial officials on Monday to investigate why Superior Court Judge Anthony V. DeMayo last week released a copy of the sealed report to Forst.

Mead said he hadn't decided what he'll do about the request from New Haven attorney Hugh Keefe, who represents Assistant State's Attorney Robert D'Andrea of Litchfield.

DeMayo served as grand juror during the second phase of the recently concluded probe, conducted in January 1986 to investigate allegations of illegal gambling and municipal corruption in Torrington.

A hearing on whether the report should be made public was scheduled for today in Hartford Superior Court.

"It puts the defense in an awful position," Keefe said of Forst's having a copy. "We're the only ones who don't know what's in it."

An interim report written by DeMayo's predecessor, Judge John D. Brennan, ignited a bitter feud between state police and former state's attorney Robert D'Andrea. Brennan sharply criticized state police for compiling the report on whether a moratorium should be imposed on all lift-slab projects pending the results from the investigations being conducted into the collapse.

But, he said, "if there is a need for a moratorium, certainly it shall be instituted."

Weicker: AIDS research helped by death

HARTFORD — U.S. Sen. Lowell P. Weicker Jr., R-Conn., says the death of U.S. Rep. Stewart B. McKinney last week from an infection due to AIDS should help the cause of AIDS research.

Weicker said Congress has conventionally funded such research at the National Institutes of Health and the National Academy of Sciences, even though President Reagan has consistently recommended lesser amounts.

"In the nation, the executive (branch of government) is designed to lead," Weicker said Monday. "You cannot have an executive that is divided among itself both as to philosophy and as to budget on a matter as crucial as AIDS."

This indeed is the greatest threat to have been posed to this nation in our generations and indeed it will kill more people than were killed in World War II," the senator said at a state capitol news conference.

McKinney's doctor said the nine-term Republican congressman from Connecticut died of a bacterial infection brought on by AIDS contracted by blood transfusions.

Weicker said his "emotional bond" with McKinney was strengthened when the Washington Post, quoting sources on Capitol Hill and Washington, D.C., gay community, reported the day after McKinney's death that the congressman had had homosexual relationships.

Homosexual men have been identified as the group most at risk for AIDS.

"The headline didn't refer to his legislative accomplishments, but rather the headline referred to the matter of AIDS and questions related to the man's sexual practices," Weicker said.

The headline in the newspaper read, "Rep. Stewart B. McKinney Dies of AIDS Complications."

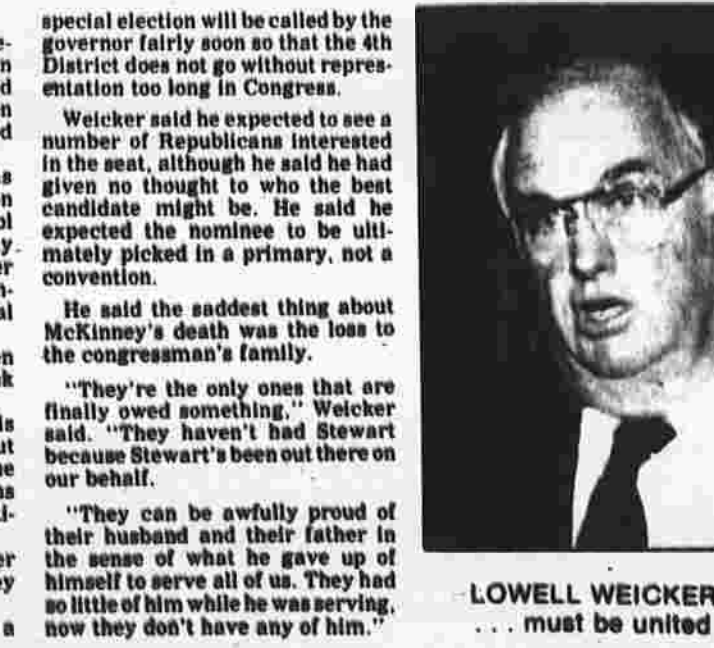

The senator said he hopes a special election will be called by the governor fairly soon so that the 11th District could go without representation too long in Congress.

Weicker said he expected to see a number of Republican nominees in the seat, although he said he had given no thought to who the best candidate might be. He said he expected the nominee to be ultimately picked in a primary, not a convention.

He said the saddest thing about McKinney's death was the loss to the congressman's family.

"They're the only ones that are finally owed something," Weicker said. "They haven't had Stewart because Stewart's been there on our behalf."

"They can be awfully proud of their husband and their father in the sense of what he gave up of himself to serve all of us. They had so little of him while he was serving, now they don't have any of him."

LOWELL WEICKER must be united

Connecticut In Brief

Hart's withdrawal may not help GOP

HARTFORD — Republicans will not necessarily benefit from Democratic Gary Hart's withdrawal from the presidential race, U.S. Sen. Lowell P. Weicker Jr., R-Conn., says.

"All things, I've thought that the best thing (the Republicans) have had going for us in the presidential election of '88 have been the choice of Democratic candidates," Weicker said Monday. "It hasn't been exactly an awesome strategy."

"We do have some very good candidates within the Republican Party, whatever the feelings might be, whether it's Contra aid or budgets or whatever, we're anxious for that. But in terms of candidates, it never was a strong Democratic theme," Weicker said.

Weicker said he expected the Republican candidate to come from the conservative wing of the party, although he did not mention any names.

Hart, Colorado senator, dropped out of the race last week after the Miami Herald reported he had spent part of a weekend with a model in Washington while his wife was in Denver.

"I think Hart was stupid and I think the Miami Herald was stupid," Weicker said.

He said that as a result of the reporting on Hart, "the press might as be on such a pedestal" as it was before.

Drug helps curb depression

NEW HAVEN — An anti-depression drug prescribed in Europe, but not generally available in the United States has been effective with some severely depressed patients who have not responded to other medications, Yale researchers say.

The Yale physicians reported their findings at a meeting of the American Psychiatric Association in Chicago, while a statement detailing their findings was released in New Haven on Monday.

In clinical trials, more than two-thirds of the 28 patients who completed the study — having previously failed to respond to standard medication and psychotherapy — were judged to have had a good response to the drug, the researchers said. The trials lasted six weeks and included time when the patients received placebo.

Researchers in the study included: Dr. Lawrence H. Price, the lead investigator and an assistant professor of psychiatry at the Yale School of Medicine; and Drs. Pedro L. Delgado, Dennis S. Charney and George Heninger.

Probate judge reprimanded by council

HARTFORD — The Council on Probate Judicial Conduct, citing two incidents of misconduct, has issued a reprimand to Branford's probate judge Richard D. Patterson.

The council's decision, issued Friday, did not make public until Monday, cited Patterson for violating the state code of probate judicial conduct in allowing the 1977 sale of estate property to his law partner and acting as the executor of an estate that was handled by his probate court in one of the mildest forms of punishment the council can issue.

The council does not have the power to remove probate judges but may recommend that the General Assembly begin impeachment proceedings. The panel did not make such a recommendation in Patterson's case.

The panel, after two days of hearings in April, concluded that Patterson "engaged in financial and business dealing involving the estate, transacted management in the Town of Branford which tended to reflect adversely on his impartiality as a probate judge," according to the report.

Members of cult group arrested

Investigators in New Jersey say they have arrested three Connecticut residents in connection with a lucrative scheme, in which members of a cult-like group signed up for college courses, received student loans and then kept the money.

Attorney General W. Cary Edwards announced Monday a state grand jury's indictment of three people, all from Stamford, Conn., for allegedly defrauding banks of more than $100,000. The defendants were members of "Circle of Friends," a small organization, described as a bank of cult, once based in New Jersey.

Under the scheme, group members were told to apply for guaranteed student loans and attend classes at various colleges in New Jersey long enough to establish credibility as registered students. The members were then directed by the defendants to quit and turn over the proceeds to the organization.

The indictment said 40 loans were applied for in the names of 32 individuals, but that some names were fictitious.

Named as defendants were George Jurcsek, 67, the alleged ringleader; Barbara A. Skutka, 35, the alleged coordinator of the group's daily activities; and Mary P. O'Rourke, 35, who allegedly directed the operation.

The group is made up of several dozen people — mostly young adults — who regard Jurcsek as a spiritual and economic leader. At one time, it had headquarters in Morris and Mercer counties.

Connecticut man killed in Brazil

Ernest Joseph Matias, a resident of Connecticut, was shot and killed during an attempted robbery in Rio De Janeiro, Brazil, the U.S. Consulate said Monday.

Consulate spokesman Jody Marek said Matias, 25, was in the main bus terminal on Sunday when three youths tried to rob him. "He apparently resisted, and one of the youths pulled out a gun and shot him once through the heart," Marek said.

Matias was taken to Sousa Aguiar Hospital downtown and died shortly after arrival, he said.

The consulate spokesman said Matias arrived in Brazil in late February. He said Matias' hometown was not known.

The U.S. State Department was told of the death and was to notify the victim's family, Marek said.

Five sites considered for prison

HARTFORD — Two privately owned sites in Suffield and Windsor as well as three privately owned sites in western Connecticut are among the parcels of land being considered for a new state jail and a new state jail.

A 100-acre tract in Suffield will be considered as the site of an 800-bed medium-security prison, state officials said Monday.

A 125-acre site in Windsor had been offered for the prison in March.

In addition, state officials announced Monday that privately owned sites in Waterbury, Wolcott and Watbury have been offered for a planned 400-bed jail in the western part of the state.

William H. Carbone, chairman of the Commission on Prison and Jail Overcrowding, said each of the sites announced Monday "are being offered to the state as a result of a study that will be evaluated before a list of six finalists for each correctional center is chosen by the end of May."

The sites will be evaluated on a number of factors, including accessibility, proximity to sewers and utilities and surroundings, Carbone said.

The site, which will be considered along with state-owned land in both parts of the state, was presented in response to the state's second advertisement last month, seeking new proposals for land.

An advertisement in March had turned up only the Windsor site for the prison and yielded no response for the proposed jail in western Connecticut.

Man gets maximum term for slashing

Slashing victim Maria Hanson (left) arrives at court Monday in New York for the sentencing of Steven Roth. Roth was convicted of arranging a slashing attack on Hanson last June. Accompanying Hanson are Assistant District Attorney Consuelo Fernandez (right) and Hanson's attorney, Michael Shannon.

NEW YORK — A 25-year-old man, who permanently scarred her face and ruined her modeling career, was sentenced to a maximum 15-year term for slashing his girlfriend's face.

Roth, 25, was convicted Dec. 22 of first-degree assault for hiring two men to cut Maria Hanson's face with a razor blade shortly after midnight June 20 on a Manhattan street.

Prosecutors said Roth set up the attack because Miss Hanson refused his romantic advances and demanded an $850 deposit he owed her on a cooperative apartment she had rented from him.

While Steven Bowman held her down, Darren Norman sliced 15 wounds into Miss Hanson's face. She required almost 150 stitches to close the cuts, some of which permanently scarred her face and ruined her modeling career.

Roth maintained he was innocent of engineering the attack. He claimed that Bowman was a homosexual lover who slashed Miss Hanson out of jealousy after Roth broke off a secret, 15-year love affair with him.

"What strikes me is that the defendant totally lied about his involvement," Judge Jerry Allen said in ordering the sentence. "His story was not even remotely credible."

Roth's attorney, George Meisner, told the judge that his client "feels guilty because he blames himself and his past lifestyle for what happened." Allen disagreed. "This was a planned assault, developed by way of a conspiracy," he said. "It is beyond any shadow of a doubt that the defendant planned this assault, which resulted in very grave injuries to Miss Hanson."

Bowman, 27, and Norman, 20, were convicted Wednesday of first-degree assault and are scheduled for sentencing by Allen on June 8.

Man gets maximum term for slashing

NEW YORK — A 25-year-old man, who permanently scarred her face and ruined her modeling career, was sentenced to a maximum 15-year term for slashing his girlfriend's face.

Roth, 25, was convicted Dec. 22 of first-degree assault for hiring two men to cut Maria Hanson's face with a razor blade shortly after midnight June 20 on a Manhattan street.

Prosecutors said Roth set up the attack because Miss Hanson refused his romantic advances and demanded an $850 deposit he owed her on a cooperative apartment she had rented from him.

While Steven Bowman held her down, Darren Norman sliced 15 wounds into Miss Hanson's face. She required almost 150 stitches to close the cuts, some of which permanently scarred her face and ruined her modeling career.

Roth maintained he was innocent of engineering the attack. He claimed that Bowman was a homosexual lover who slashed Miss Hanson out of jealousy after Roth broke off a secret, 15-year love affair with him.

"What strikes me is that the defendant totally lied about his involvement," Judge Jerry Allen said in ordering the sentence. "His story was not even remotely credible."

Roth's attorney, George Meisner, told the judge that his client "feels guilty because he blames himself and his past lifestyle for what happened." Allen disagreed. "This was a planned assault, developed by way of a conspiracy," he said. "It is beyond any shadow of a doubt that the defendant planned this assault, which resulted in very grave injuries to Miss Hanson."

Bowman, 27, and Norman, 20, were convicted Wednesday of first-degree assault and are scheduled for sentencing by Allen on June 8.

Barbie faces questions today

LYON, France — Former Gestapo commander Klaus Barbie today faced questions from a court jury about his role in the deaths of thousands of people during the Nazi occupation of South America.

Barbie, 72, was brought into the courtroom in handcuffs and installed in a defendant's box walled off by a sheet of glass.

Cordini allowed photographers and television cameramen about 20 minutes to record the beginning of the trial. Although pale and somewhat drawn, Barbie appeared in court without visible emotion as he smiled and chatted with his defense attorney and French-German interpreters in the courtroom packed with more than 800 reporters, civil parties to the case, lawyers, court officials and spectators.

Barbie, an SS lieutenant in Lyon from 1942 to 1944 and head of the Lyon Gestapo, is charged with heading the German effort to subdue the French Resistance during World War II and with torturing and deporting French Jews to Nazi death camps.

He has been sentenced to death twice in absentia by military tribunals, but the sentences have expired during his more than 40 years on the run.

Most of Monday's session was taken up with formalities, including the selection of a nine-member jury and six alternates, the roll call of witnesses and civil parties to the case and the reading of the various indictments. Prosecutors Pierre Truche, Charles Libman, one of the civil party lawyers, and defense attorney Jacques Verges.

Truche said there was no dispute that the man in court — whether he called himself Altman or Barbie — was the man accused of crimes against humanity.

In brief questioning, Barbie answered the questions asked directly in French and at other times spoke German through the interpreter.

Among other things, Barbie is charged with sending out the last 44 Jewish children and seven adults from a children's home in Izieu, 47 miles east of Lyon, to the Ghetto in Poland in 1944. He is also charged with the Lyon headquarters of the General Union of the Israelites of France; and sending out the last rail convoy from Lyon to the death camps, carrying about 800 Jews and Resistance members.

Plane lands at field; pilot safe at home

STAMFORD, N.Y. (AP) — American Bank was leading Ideal Gardens 4-0 in the third inning when a blue-and-white Cessna 441 home plane piloted by Leonard Garcia landed on home plate at Archibald Field.

State police said the 27-year-old pilot was safe, sustaining only cuts on the head. His warning loops over the field before the plane went down may have prevented injuries among the 60 people at the game, spectators said.

The pilot, Leonidas Maria Gabil of New York City, was treated Monday night and released into police custody for questioning.

Dave Hall was getting ready to bat for Ideal Gardens at about 7 p.m. Monday in the second game of the softball double-header when he saw the plane nose in toward the diamond.

"When he came over the center-field fence, I saw the pilot's business and Iran," Hall said.

Players and spectators said the pilot circled the plane once low and slow, and told them later he had done it as a warning. He then broke over a line of trees and headed into a final turn under the lights, scattering players and spectators. The plane nosed in behind second base, bounced over to third, and bounced once more, landing on its prop next to the batter's box.

Steve Carlisle of Jefferson came out of the stands and helped the dazed man he was hurt but happy, Carlisle said.

Meese faces conflict investigation

Edwin Meese III investigated again

WASHINGTON — For the second time in four years, an independent counsel is investigating Attorney General Edwin Meese III, the first federal official to face two such inquiries.

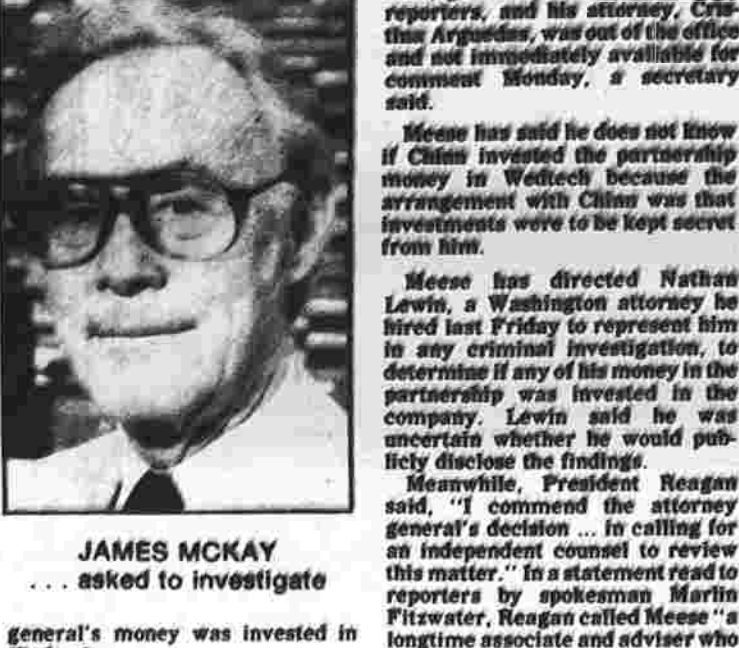

Meese, who was cleared in 1984 of allegations that he had given financial favors to friends, on Monday was named as an independent counsel James McKay to expand the investigation of Wedtech Corp. to include possible interest negotiations against the attorney general.

McKay has been investigating former White House aide Lynn Nofziger's lobbying efforts on behalf of Wedtech, a New York City-based defense contractor.

Meese also announced he was dissolving a financial arrangement with his investment manager, F. Franklyn Chinn, who once sat on the Wedtech board. Meese has said he doesn't know whether any of the company's stock interest negotiations with Chinn was involved in Wedtech.

In May 1982, Meese as White House counselor personally interviewed his staff to ensure that the company got fair consideration to supply the Army with $32 million worth of small engines. The firm was eventually awarded the no-bid contract.

In 1984, independent counsel Jacob Stein investigated allegations that Meese received loans and financial awards in exchange for government jobs. Stein found no violations of the law, clearing the way for Meese's confinement as attorney general.

James McKay asked to investigate

Conspicuous independent counsel, formerly called special prosecutors, were set up under the 1978 Ethics in Government law to investigate current and former administration officials. So far, four such investigations have been completed. None has produced an indictment.

Ongoing investigations by independent counsels include the one into the Iran-Contra affair and the one into lobbying activities of former White House deputy chief of staff Michael K. Deaver.

On the Meese investigation, E. Robert Wallach, a longtime associate and former lawyer for the attorney general, has said Chinn would hire Meese for the attorney general's review was invested in Wedtech.

Wallach made that comment 2 1/2 weeks ago when details about the attorney general's ties to Wedtech were beginning to emerge. Secretaries in Wallach's Washington office said Monday he was tied up all day meetings and unable to return calls to discuss the matter.

MEESE IS pulling his money out of the Chinn partnership because "to the degree that people have done a fine job of and said there's 'no necessity for a change.'"

Sen. Joseph Biden, D-Del, Senate Judiciary Committee chairman, said, "We're glad to see this step being taken."

North planned patriotic contra appeal

WASHINGTON — Oliver L. McFarlane, currently the plan for President Reagan to address the nation and ask fellow Americans to "lend your check or money to support the Nicaraguan Freedom Fighters."

The plan, released Monday by the Reagan administration, called for Americans' deepest sense of patriotism. Contributions were to be sent to a postal box 1774 at a ballroom in U.S. history: either Gettysburg, Philadelphia, Valley Forge or York.

The appeal would take place "on or about April 24 at 8 p.m." and must be "dramatic and a surprise."

"It cannot be leaked in advance," the plan said.

The plan also called for the firing of National Security Council aide and central player in the Iran-Contra affair, the once top-secret memo was written

March 16, 1985, and sent to then-National Security Adviser Robert C. McFarlane, currently the plan for President Reagan to address the nation and ask fellow Americans to "lend your check or money to support the Nicaraguan Freedom Fighters."

The plan, released Monday by the Reagan administration, called for Americans' deepest sense of patriotism. Contributions were to be sent to a postal box 1774 at a ballroom in U.S. history: either Gettysburg, Philadelphia, Valley Forge or York.

The appeal would take place "on or about April 24 at 8 p.m." and must be "dramatic and a surprise."

"It cannot be leaked in advance," the plan said.

The plan also called for the firing of National Security Council aide and central player in the Iran-Contra affair, the once top-secret memo was written

Aliens find amnesty won't extend to taxes

WASHINGTON — Thousands of aliens who are applying for legal status are about to learn a fact that immigration lawyers say is one thing, tax amnesty is another.

Thousands of aliens who are applying for legal status are about to learn a fact that immigration lawyers say is one thing, tax amnesty is another.

Thousands of aliens who are applying for legal status are about to learn a fact that immigration lawyers say is one thing, tax amnesty is another.

Nazi war criminal Klaus Barbie (right) speaks to his French lawyer, Jacques Verges, at the start of his trial Monday in Lyon, France. Barbie is charged with crimes against humanity.

Aliens find amnesty won't extend to taxes

WASHINGTON — Thousands of aliens who are applying for legal status are about to learn a fact that immigration lawyers say is one thing, tax amnesty is another.

Thousands of aliens who are applying for legal status are about to learn a fact that immigration lawyers say is one thing, tax amnesty is another.

Thousands of aliens who are applying for legal status are about to learn a fact that immigration lawyers say is one thing, tax amnesty is another.

WASHINGTON — Thousands of aliens who are applying for legal status are about to learn a fact that immigration lawyers say is one thing, tax amnesty is another.

Thousands of aliens who are applying for legal status are about to learn a fact that immigration lawyers say is one thing, tax amnesty is another.

Thousands of aliens who are applying for legal status are about to learn a fact that immigration lawyers say is one thing, tax amnesty is another.

High School World

Man

VOL. LII - NO. 13 Newspaper of Manchester High School - Space courtesy of The Manchester Herald

Six school weeks left

As of today, there are about six weeks left in school. Make no mistake. These will be the longest six weeks of your life. Think about it. These are the last six weeks that sophomores have to suffer through being sophomores. After just six measly weeks, juniors will start showing signs of seniority. Not to mention that in six weeks, the seniors of this school will no longer attend this school. To put it all together, everyone has something to gain once they've made it through these next six weeks.

Of course, teachers will try and fill up these last weeks by assigning as much work as they can fit in their plan books.

Here's a tip: Wait until the last minute to do all your work. That way, you'll be an "I'm really desperate for a time filler, you could start studying for finals. That should really make those six weeks fly. By the way, I wouldn't suggest that you go to any parties and don't even dare go near the beach. These activities will just make you unhappy at school, and make those six weeks last forever.

Here's another tip: Should you happen to attend a party, bring a schoolbook. That should definitely put you in the right frame of mind to face the end of school with a cheery attitude.

All kidding aside, the only people who have anything resembling fun for the rest of the year are the seniors. They have more activities than class periods which is why they invented the Senior Prom and the Grad Party. We can still shed a few tears for them. They are required to attend school at least until graduation (boo-boo). Anyway, the moral of this sad story is that these last six weeks need to be no bad if you let school occupy your every thought. Time flies when you're having fun.

Raina Kelley

Students' plans polled

Reports have appeared in various newspapers and magazines this past year pointing out the alarming attitudes of college students and their parents regarding the importance of studying for a career. According to the studies, the attitude of education is that a liberal, well-rounded education is the most important thing to be gained from a college experience. However, executive board members felt it is necessary to offer programs that will fill the educational needs and requirements of students.

In order to find out more about the local feelings concerning this issue, 65 MHS students from various classes were polled. Sixty percent were juniors and 40 percent were seniors. Of the 65, one student was not planning to continue in some form of education after high school. Of the remaining 64, 22 percent thought that the experience needed for a job was the most important yield of a post-high school education, 7.8 percent responded that an educated, broader understanding of life was of most importance, and 67.2 percent claimed that the aforementioned experiences were of equal stature, with 1.6 percent marking the column for "other."

Yes, but what does it all mean? Well, consider the lightning - only 23 people were polled, but the poll was taken from a cross-section of the high school population. Still, the poll is probably not the most accurate indication of the school's sentiments. The fact remains, however, that there was a similarity to the trend being reported nationally. Students should take note and take care in selecting their school, college, or university.

Lisa Phillips

Seniors finalize calendar

The class officers, committee chairmen and class of 1987 students serving on the various senior committees have released a list of senior activities which includes the date for each event as well as other pertinent information. The activities are as follows:

On Wednesday, May 20, will be the senior picnic. It will run from 8:30 a.m. to 7 p.m. at the Frank Davis Resort in Woodus. The bus to the resort will leave the teachers' parking lot at 8:30 a.m. and all seniors must ride this bus if they wish to attend. The cost for the picnic is $24 per person.

On Wednesday, June 3, will be the award program. It will be in the cafeteria from 7 to 9 p.m. and is open to all students and parents. Students receiving a special recognition or an award will be notified Thursday, June 11, is the date for the distribution of yearbooks, and Friday, June 12 is the Senior Prom. This dinner dance will run from 6:30 p.m. to midnight. It will be held at the Colony of Vernon, and will feature "Awesome Audio." The cost for the prom is $43 per couple.

Immediately following the prom will be the dawn dance - on Saturday, June 13, from 1 to 6 p.m. in the Manchester High School Cafeteria. This event is sponsored by the Manchester Rotary Club and has a charge.

On June 18 will be the first graduation rehearsal at 10:30 a.m. Seniors will meet in the auditorium at 8:18. In case of rain students will assemble in the auditorium and the ceremony would be in the Carle Arena.

Tickets to senior events are on sale now in the cafeteria. Also on Monday, June 22, is the Graduation Celebration. For graduates only, this event is at Manchester Community College from 10 p.m. to 3 a.m. There is no charge.

Physics class not boring

In the past month, the MHS physics classes have been able to participate in two very enjoyable extracurricular activities relating to their studies.

On Monday, April 13, the science department hosted a program called "Sound: The Physics of Music." The presentation was given by Mr. Larry Allen of Glastonbury and featured a study of natural and electronic synthesized music.

On Friday, May 1, Mr. Earl Carbyn arranged a field trip to Riverside Amusement Park. Students enjoyed the many rides, such as the cyclone and the black widow spider, while they learned the physics of the machines' movements. The attending students found the trip to be a greatly enriching experience.

Learnpeace does not expect to change the world by tomorrow, but the group does hope that after educating themselves they can share their knowledge and concerns with the public.

"Let's work together to stop the arms race and let's make the world secure, peaceful one so that children of the future won't have to grow up under that same shadow."

In peace, Jennifer Chadburn.

Student group to inform about nukes

All of the students at MHS have grown up with the shadow of nuclear weapons over their heads. Also, as members of the "me generation," teen-agers are often thought of as being self-absorbed, money-hungry and unconcerned about the dangers of the arms race. The fact that a new student nuclear-awareness group has been in existence at the high school for less than one month and has close to 60 active, caring and dedicated members shows that apathy does not reign.

The group is Learnpeace and it's made up of students wishing to educate themselves and the rest of the community about the nuclear arms race and prevention of nuclear war. They have not taken a stand for disarmament, for a build-up of arms, or for a freeze, because they realized early on that they are much too uninformed to say they have all of the answers. However, they do believe they have the right to a peaceful and secure world. They also believe it is time for the youth of America to take an active role in bringing about change in the world.

Mr. Bill Howie, the adviser has graciously loaned his room for after-school meetings every Friday. Learnpeace is divided into four research groups designed to learn more about the topics of SDI, test ban, treaties, submits the site of American and Russian stock-piles, nonviolence protests and many other subjects. Members have also written to other peace groups, various high school organizations, state representatives and government agencies asking for their views and ideas. The response has been tremendous. In March, the group plans to have speakers from the Connecticut Freeze Campaign, Yale Students for Nuclear Dismantlement, Amnesty International, and MHS students themselves address the group.

In the short time Learnpeace has been in existence its members have organized two major activities. On April 3, they could be seen marching up Main Street into the Post Office. They were mailing letters asking for information, and the signs they carried were to benefit the public and make them aware of Learnpeace and its concerns.

On Wednesday, April 15, Learnpeace sponsored a "Treat the Other Like Human Beings Day" at MHS. People were asked to grow up under that same shadow."

In peace, Jennifer Chadburn.

Members of Cathy Cerrina's Law and Order class stand to acknowledge their participation in a mock trial held in New Haven, Connecticut recently.

MHS students take part in mock trial competition

The shattered body of Emma Conway, a 78-year-old widow, lies curled in a fetal position in a bed at Yale-New Haven Hospital, almost two years after she was run over by a speeding car. Although she is nearly comatose, Conway's eyes follow people who move about her room and she smiles when her hair is combed. Until her arms were strapped to the bed, she sometimes pulled at the tube that runs from her nose into her stomach - the tube through which she is fed and kept alive.

How to interpret Conway's movements - as unconscious swipes or as suicide attempts - was one of the many difficult questions faced by students from 25 area high schools who competed in the 10th annual Connecticut Mock Trial Competition. The two-day competition, held at the Superior Court in Hartford on March 21 and 22, was sponsored by the Connecticut Consortium for Law-Related Education, the Connecticut Bar Association and the state Judicial and education departments. The competition was scored by 70 judges, including 17 real-life Superior Court judges.

At issue, in this hypothetical civil suit, was whether the court should grant a petition by Conway's daughter to have the feeding tube removed, or if the court should accede to the pleas of Conway's son to allow the hospital to continue to do everything possible to sustain her life.

Ms. Catherine Cerrina's Law in American Society class represented MHS in this statewide competition. Each team of seven students (four attorneys and three who acted as witnesses) got to try the case on Saturday, March 21. By the flip of a coin, Manchester's petitioners received a second chance to compete on Saturday afternoon. Manchester's respondents competed against New London High School on Saturday morning. The team included attorneys Canby Dubiel, Melissa Murhead, Greg Vincent and Kelly Behling. The witnesses were Jason Neuberger, Jill Eggert and Mike Lata. Manchester's petitioners faced Staples High School of Westport on Saturday afternoon. The team included attorneys Alan Borgida, Rita Duchesneau, Sharon Sloan and Pete Bernier, and witnesses Kristin Armstrong, Paula Lacey and Mary Pat Bolbrock. Serving as bailiffs were Jeff Beauguard and Mark Fleming.

Despite the fact that MHS has not competed in Mock Trial Competition for a number of years, the results were successful. MHS won two of its three trials, scored very highly and came in 12th place overall. With the help of Ms. Cerrina, and the visits by a doctor and several attorneys during the weeks before the competition, the students learned a lot about the issue of euthanasia, the law and the court process.

Kelly Behling

David La Liberte (left) and Larry Tanner, former MHS students, speak to Mr. John Garopolo's Graphics class about opportunities in the field available to present-day graduates.

Alumni return to class

David La Liberte and Larry Tanner, both MHS alumni, donated some of their time to address the graphics (printing) classes at the high school. Dave and Larry are seniors at the Rochester Institute of Technology and are enrolled in the School of Printing. Both were graphics students while attending Manchester High School. Upon graduation, both attended Springfield Yech, completed two years in the printing program, and transferred the credits to RIT.

They were well prepared with literature on the printing industry, RIT, and information based on their own experience. MHS students were informed of the many sources of financial assistance as well as the many career offerings available in the Printing Industry. "Don't let the price scare you off, find out what kind of financial assistance is available before you settle for second best," was one bit of advice passed along to the students.

The scope of the graphics industry was well illustrated as Dave and Larry discussed careers in photography, advertising, design, printing and publishing, writing, commercial art, business and management, and other related areas.

The value of MCC and regional two-year programs were pointed out to students who were undecided or couldn't afford a large university for four years. The speakers emphasized that the "work-study" programs available to students serve as a source of income plus being an on-the-job training type situation. The fact that many of these employers will hire the students upon graduation was emphasized.

"I enjoy seeing Dave and Larry again," said John Garopolo, graphics instructor. "The time that they donate to our graphics students is appreciated and serves as a testimonial to the worth of our program. Manchester High School students are well represented in the graphics industry. We have many graduates employed in and/or pursuing further studies in the industry."

Student group to inform about nukes

All of the students at MHS have grown up with the shadow of nuclear weapons over their heads. Also, as members of the "me generation," teen-agers are often thought of as being self-absorbed, money-hungry and unconcerned about the dangers of the arms race. The fact that a new student nuclear-awareness group has been in existence at the high school for less than one month and has close to 60 active, caring and dedicated members shows that apathy does not reign.

The group is Learnpeace and it's made up of students wishing to educate themselves and the rest of the community about the nuclear arms race and prevention of nuclear war. They have not taken a stand for disarmament, for a build-up of arms, or for a freeze, because they realized early on that they are much too uninformed to say they have all of the answers. However, they do believe they have the right to a peaceful and secure world. They also believe it is time for the youth of America to take an active role in bringing about change in the world.

Mr. Bill Howie, the adviser has graciously loaned his room for after-school meetings every Friday. Learnpeace is divided into four research groups designed to learn more about the topics of SDI, test ban, treaties, submits the site of American and Russian stock-piles, nonviolence protests and many other subjects. Members have also written to other peace groups, various high school organizations, state representatives and government agencies asking for their views and ideas. The response has been tremendous. In March, the group plans to have speakers from the Connecticut Freeze Campaign, Yale Students for Nuclear Dismantlement, Amnesty International, and MHS students themselves address the group.

In the short time Learnpeace has been in existence its members have organized two major activities. On April 3, they could be seen marching up Main Street into the Post Office. They were mailing letters asking for information, and the signs they carried were to benefit the public and make them aware of Learnpeace and its concerns.

On Wednesday, April 15, Learnpeace sponsored a "Treat the Other Like Human Beings Day" at MHS. People were asked to grow up under that same shadow."

In peace, Jennifer Chadburn.

Bridge

Breaking up a squeeze
By James Jacoby

No one has yet written a book on how to defend against a double squeeze, but one of the important principles is to attack that suit in which the declarer has a high card in dummy and a high card in his own hand. That breaks up the communication so necessary in such plays. Of course, first you have to recognize the impending danger.

South really overbid when he jumped to two no-trump, trading extravagantly on his two diamond stoppers. He took dummy's diamond ace at trick one and played the club king. His silent prayer was that the defenders would not play spades. East took the ace of clubs and played the K-Q of hearts (both ducked by declarer). He then cashed the king of diamonds and on Card Games, published by Pharon Books.

A new book by James Jacoby and his father, the late Oswald Jacoby, is now available at bookstores. It is "Jacoby and his father's diamond ace at trick one and played the club king. His silent prayer was that the defenders would not play spades. East took the ace of clubs and played the K-Q of hearts (both ducked by declarer). He then cashed the king of diamonds and on Card Games, published by Pharon Books.

NORTH	5-12-17
♠ 7 4 3
♥ 7 6 4 3
♦ 7
♣ Q J 10 9 8
WEST	EAST
♠ 10 7 5 3	♠ Q 9 8
♥ 2 1 8 5	♥ K 10 6 4 3
♦ 2	♦ A 10 8
♣ 5 2	♣ A 10 8
SOUTH
♠ A 2
♥ A 10 8
♦ Q 10 8
♣ 9 8 7 4

Vulnerable: East-West
Dealer: North

West	North	East	South
Pass	1 ♠	3 NT	Pass
Pass	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: ♠ 5

Polly's Pointers

Fabric softener can stain clothes
By Polly Fisher

DEAR POLLY - When I washed some of my daughter's clothes, some fabric softener spilled on them and stained the fabric. Do you know how to remove the stain? - PAM

DEAR PAM - The easiest and most effective remedy I know of is to wash the spots out by hand with ordinary hand soap and warm water. If the stains have been set by washing and don't come out with this treatment, try a commercial spot remover. - POLLY

DEAR POLLY - I recently purchased a set of children's designer sheets. I was disappointed to find out after just three months of use that they had developed little balls and were uncomfortable for the children. I restored the sheets to their original smoothness by putting the clean sheets on the bed, then "shaving" the balls off with a disposable razor. It then simply brushed off the detached lint with my lint brush. The sheets are like new again. - JEAN

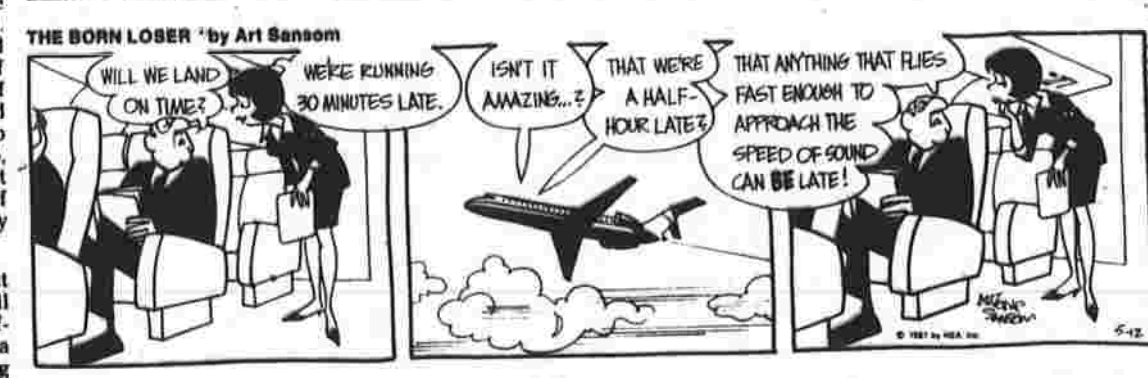

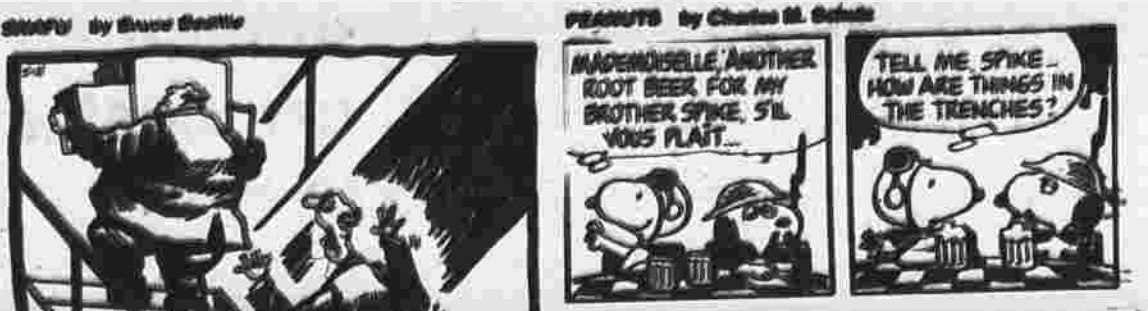

DEAR JEAN - I suggest also that you (and anyone else who runs into this problem) write to the manufacturer and complain about the pilling. Only three months of wear is not a very good record. Although polyester is prone to this pilling problem, better fabric finishes and greater care in manufacturing should be able to produce a higher quality sheet. So let these manufacturers hear what we think of their product! They can't correct problems until they know exactly what they are. - POLLY

Proper care of woolens will ensure you many years of wear. Learn how to care for clean, store and sew with wool in Polly's newsletter "The Care and Cleaning of Wool." Send $1 for each copy to POLLY'S POINTERS, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 9368, Cleveland, OH 44101-9368. Be sure to include the title.

Polly will send you a Polly Dollar ($1) if she uses your favorite Pointer, Peeve or Problem in her column. Write POLLY'S POINTERS in care of this newspaper.

George Bernard Shaw created the role of Liza Doolittle in "Pygmalion" for British actress Mrs. Patrick Campbell.

PEOPLE WHO KNOW... classified
know there's a certain magic about Classified Advertising. 643-2711

MAY 1 2

MAY 1 2

1 9 8 7

1 9 8 7

Living patient becomes donor in heart transplant

By Thomas Glinberg
The Associated Press

BALTIMORE — Surgeons removed a healthy heart from a cystic fibrosis patient in order to give him a heart-lung transplant, then implanted his heart into a patient awaiting a donor, a Johns Hopkins Hospital spokeswoman said today.

The operation apparently marked the first time that a heart from a living person was used in a transplant, said spokeswoman JoAnn Rogers.

Both recipients today were reported in critical but stable condition, typical in such cases, she said.

Hospital officials said many details of the case were unavailable pending a news conference this afternoon.

The operation began Monday after an unidentified accident after an unidentified accident, the victim died at the University of Maryland Shock Trauma Center, said Hopkins spokeswoman Debbie Bangledorf.

The deceased person's heart and lungs were removed at University of Maryland Medical System and transported on ice across town to Hopkins, where the 34-year-old cystic fibrosis patient had been waiting for weeks for a new heart and lungs. Simultaneously Monday, the cystic fibrosis patient gave surgeons permission to take his healthy heart for transplant into another patient at Hopkins.

Transplants of lungs alone are unusual but not unheard of. Doctors in Toronto have done a number of them.

Heart and lungs are often transplanted in tandem when the diseases that damage the lungs also damage the heart, said Thomas Chakurda, spokesman for Presbyterian-University Hospital in Pittsburgh, a leading heart transplant center.

Cystic fibrosis is the nation's most common inherited disease, affecting some 30,000 Americans. Victims produce a thick, sticky mucus that clogs the lungs and digestive system.

Johns Hopkins Surgeons removed the cystic fibrosis patient's heart and lungs. Two surgical teams then labored to implant the heart-lung into that patient and the living heart into the second recipient.

"We believe it is the first time that there has been a living donor heart transplant," said Mr. Rodgers.

She originally said the operation marked the first time a cystic fibrosis patient received such a transplant and the first time a heart and lung were removed from a body and shipped for implantation. However, the hospital later said that those procedures were first only for Hopkins.

Water consultant required by state will cost $45,000

By George Lyons
Herald Reporter

It will cost the town of Manchester an estimated $45,000 to have a Massachusetts firm conduct a study of the town's water supply plans to meet a state requirement, said town Water and Sewer Administrator Robert J. Young.

Young has recommended that the firm of GHR Engineering Associates of New Bedford, Mass., be hired to do the study, which must be completed by Dec. 15. The company was chosen from 16 that submitted offers in February.

The town Board of Directors tonight is scheduled to consider appropriating $45,000 to cover the cost. Young said it is important to hire a consultant as soon as possible because it will take six months to complete the study.

Young explained that town staff can do some of the work involved. Much of the work, though, is "beyond our in-house capability," said Young.

The state requires that the study describe the town's existing water supplies, analyze future water supply demands, contingency plans for water emergencies, a recommendation for new water-system development and an assessment of alternative water supply sources.

The state requirement was passed by the General Assembly in 1984, and applies to all towns or water companies that supply water to 1,000 or more persons.

In other action, the board is being asked by Town Manager Robert B. Weiss to hire a building inspector for new development in the Buckland section in northwest Manchester.

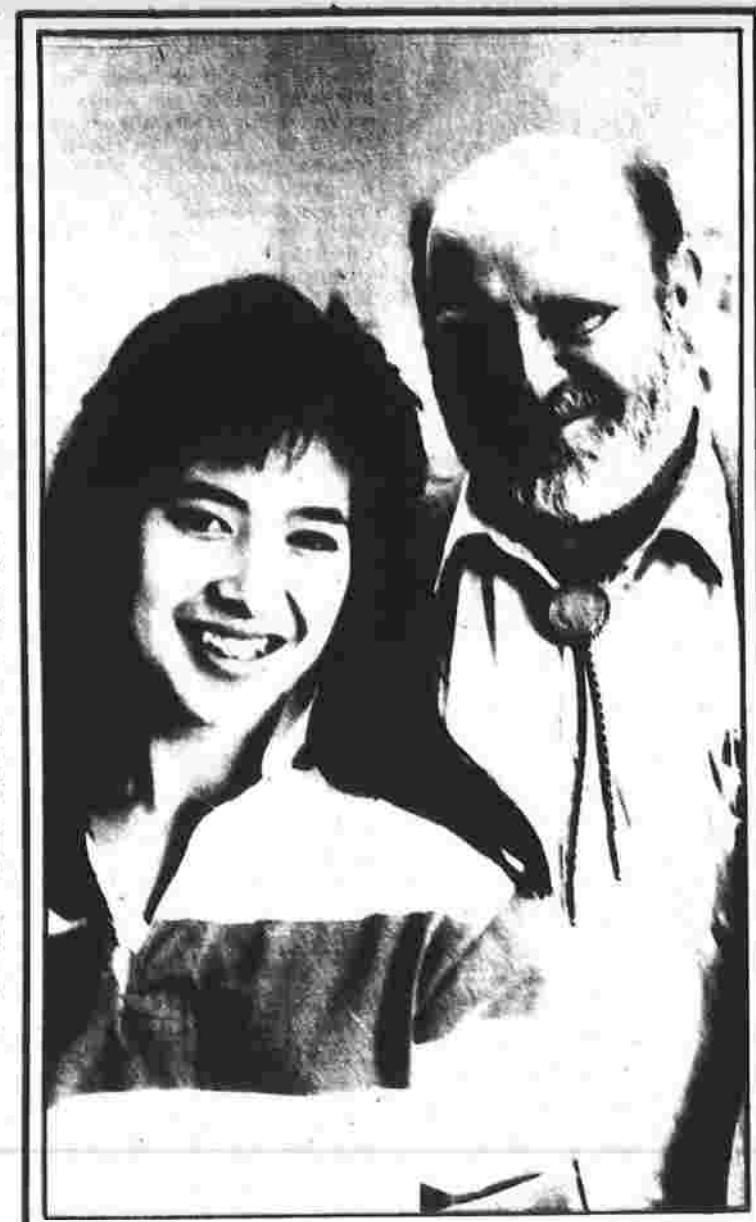

Weiss is also requesting that a new job description of "assistant building official trainee" be approved to make it easier to hire someone for the building inspector position. Like other communities, Manchester has had difficulty hiring building officials, he said.

The new classification would make it easier to find someone because the individual would not have to be state-certified as an assistant building official. Once hired, though, the trainee would have to obtain that certification within 18 months.

Meanwhile, the town will also advertise for the assistant building official position. The choice of which position to fill will depend on the applications that are received.

The directors also will consider having the town assume responsibility for the Korean War Memorial in Munro Park. The memorial was erected by veterans' groups and officially dedicated last year.

The board meeting is scheduled for 8 p.m. at Lincoln Center.

Kim Hodge, who was recently accepted at West Point, stands with her father, Town Manager Harold Hodge.

Two from Coventry to go to West Point

By Jacqueline Bennett
Herald Correspondent

COVENTRY — The lure of military life, prestige and a good education attracted two local students to West Point. One is the daughter of the town manager.

KEVIN BANKS wants good education

Kim Hodge, daughter of Harvey and Town Manager Harold Hodge, Jr. of Wrights Mill Road, and Kevin Banks, son of Margaret and Robert Banks of Alice Drive, were recently accepted to the U.S. Military Academy.

In recent interviews, both voiced concern about the demands they will soon face. Both said the rigorous military training is part of the academy's appeal.

"They stress leadership and discipline and that will help in the future," Banks said. "I wanted more than academics. I wanted action," Hodge said. "The training teaches you to be physically aggressive."

The academy's distinguished reputation is also an attraction. "You get one of the best educations in the country," Hodge said.

"You get a good education and the prestige is part of the appeal," Banks admitted. Located on the banks of the Hudson River in West Point, N.Y., the national school was established as a military post during the Revolutionary War. The academy was founded by an act of Congress in 1802.

Requirements for admission are strict. According to Banks, candidates need to score in the range of 1,200 to 1,300 on the Scholastic Aptitude Test, have at least a B average in school, must receive a Congressional nomination, as well as pass medical and physical tests.

Race is on in 8th

Continued from page 1

other board seat up for election is held by director Laraine Boutin, who said Monday she would announce her intentions in a few days.

Lansow said he would not be a board candidate. Lansow said he was tired of being involved in Eight District affairs and wanted more time for himself.

Wallace Irish Jr., a longtime district advocate, has also been considering a run for the presidency. He could not be reached for comment this morning, but he has said he will not run if Lansow is a candidate.

Lansow, the Irish, often has taken a hard line in support of the Eight District. "If I were in a candidate's shoes, I would be a moderate."

In his announcement, Lansow implied that Joyner had not been actively involved in helping to defeat a referendum question last November that would have taken away the Eight District's ability to veto consolidation with the town.

"Very important in my mind is the fact that those of us who led the fight to defeat Question 4 last November have been closest to our constituents and have had an opportunity to hear their feelings on matters involving the Eight District," Lansow said.

Lansow, a 58-year-old landscaper, has been a director for four years, serving as insurance commissioner. He unsuccessfully challenged Joyner for the presidency three years ago.

He also noted that he helped the Eight District regain the right to use municipal license plates, even though the state Department of Motor Vehicles opposed the plan.

Lansow also said he supported legislation before the 1982 session of the General Assembly that would

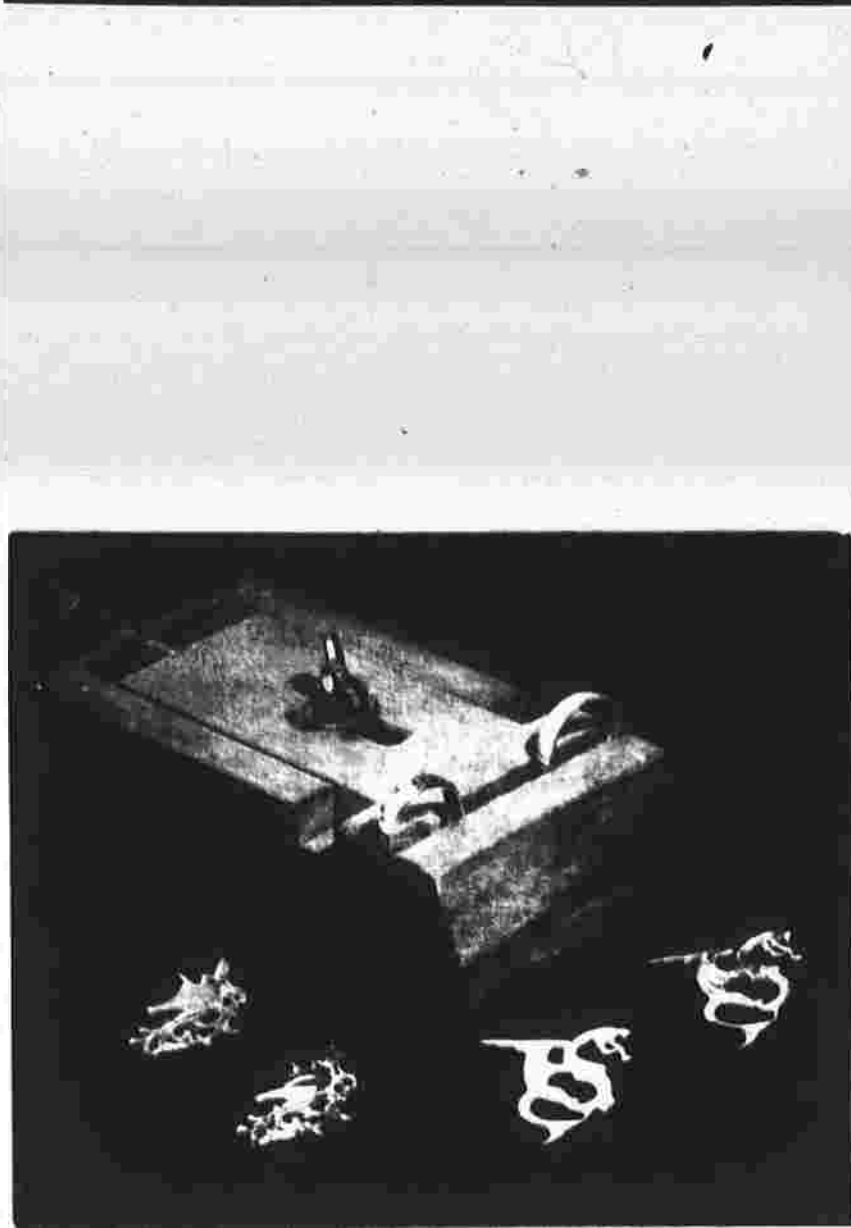

"I think it's important that we try to end the conflict between the Eight and the town," she said. "Burns was active last year in the Eight District group STEAL — Stop Tampering with the Eight's American Liberties. The organization helped lead the successful fight against the referendum question that would have removed the Eight District's power to veto a merger with the town."

Burns has been an attorney for the past five years, but said she had always wanted to become more involved in politics.

"That's why I went to law school — it's a good background for politics," she said. Burns graduated from Boston College Law School, served for one year as a Superior Court law clerk, and then worked for three years with the Hartford firm of Cooney, Scully and Dowling.

She recently left to open her own office at 277 E. Canal St., and has given her more time to pursue her political interests, she said.

FOCUS

Raw gold, right, will be cleaned and polished to a shiny gold.

Emile Champagne uses a magnifying visor for close repair work.

He hunts for rare silver

Blue Sky Trading Co. deals in Indian jewelry

By Anita M. Caldwell
Herald Reporter

The radiance of turquoise and silver has been known to catch the eye of many jewelry aficionados. But the beauty of authentic American Indian jewelry, estate jewelry, gold and silver is not limited to haute couture.

Jewelry enthusiasts who think they must search the country in pursuit of their pleasures need not travel far. Blue Sky Trading Co., 217 Center St., specializes in authentic American Indian jewelry, refurbishing estate jewelry, and designing an array of gold and silver.

For 12 years, Emile Champagne has been in the business of seeking out rare American Indian jewelry. He gets his merchandise by either traveling to various states or by having it shipped from people he's met during previous visits.

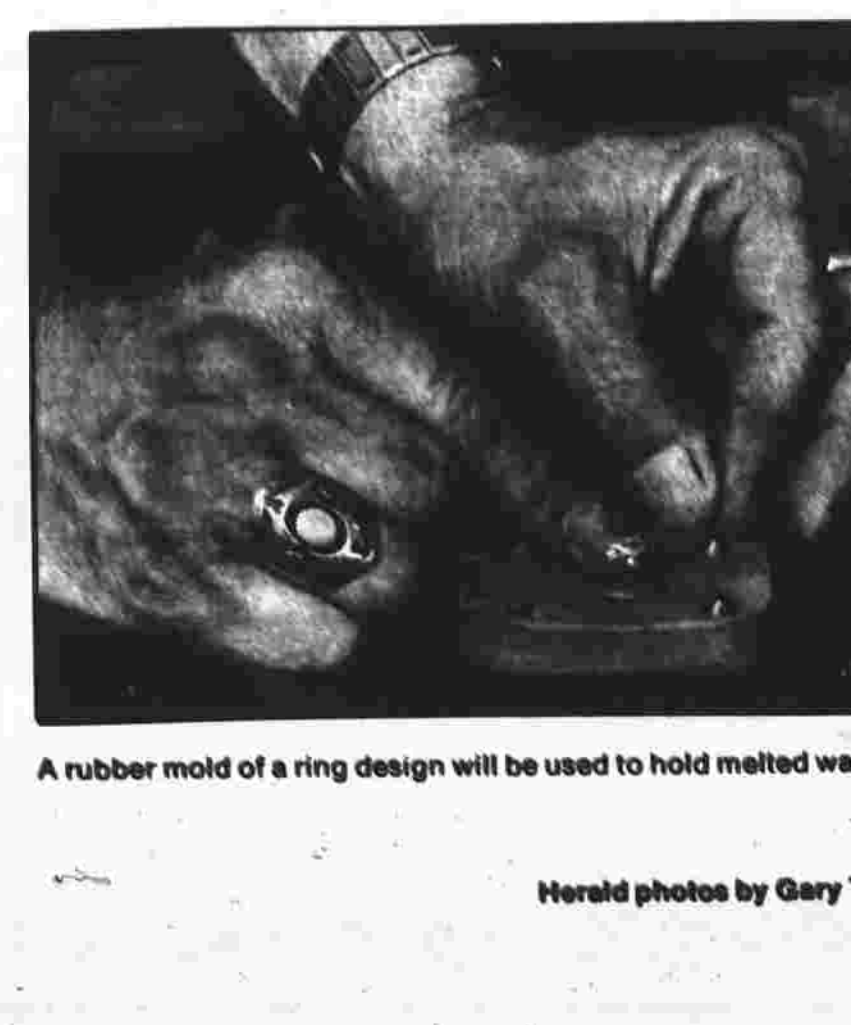

ONE OF THE people whose work Champagne buys is Stanley Neptune. "He's a full-blooded Penobscot Indian who lives on a reservation in Maine." His father is a Manchester resident who gets to see his son on his trips to Blue Sky Trading Co.

Two years ago, Champagne closed his Glastonbury shop and opened the store in Manchester. He finds the people of Manchester interested in his product.

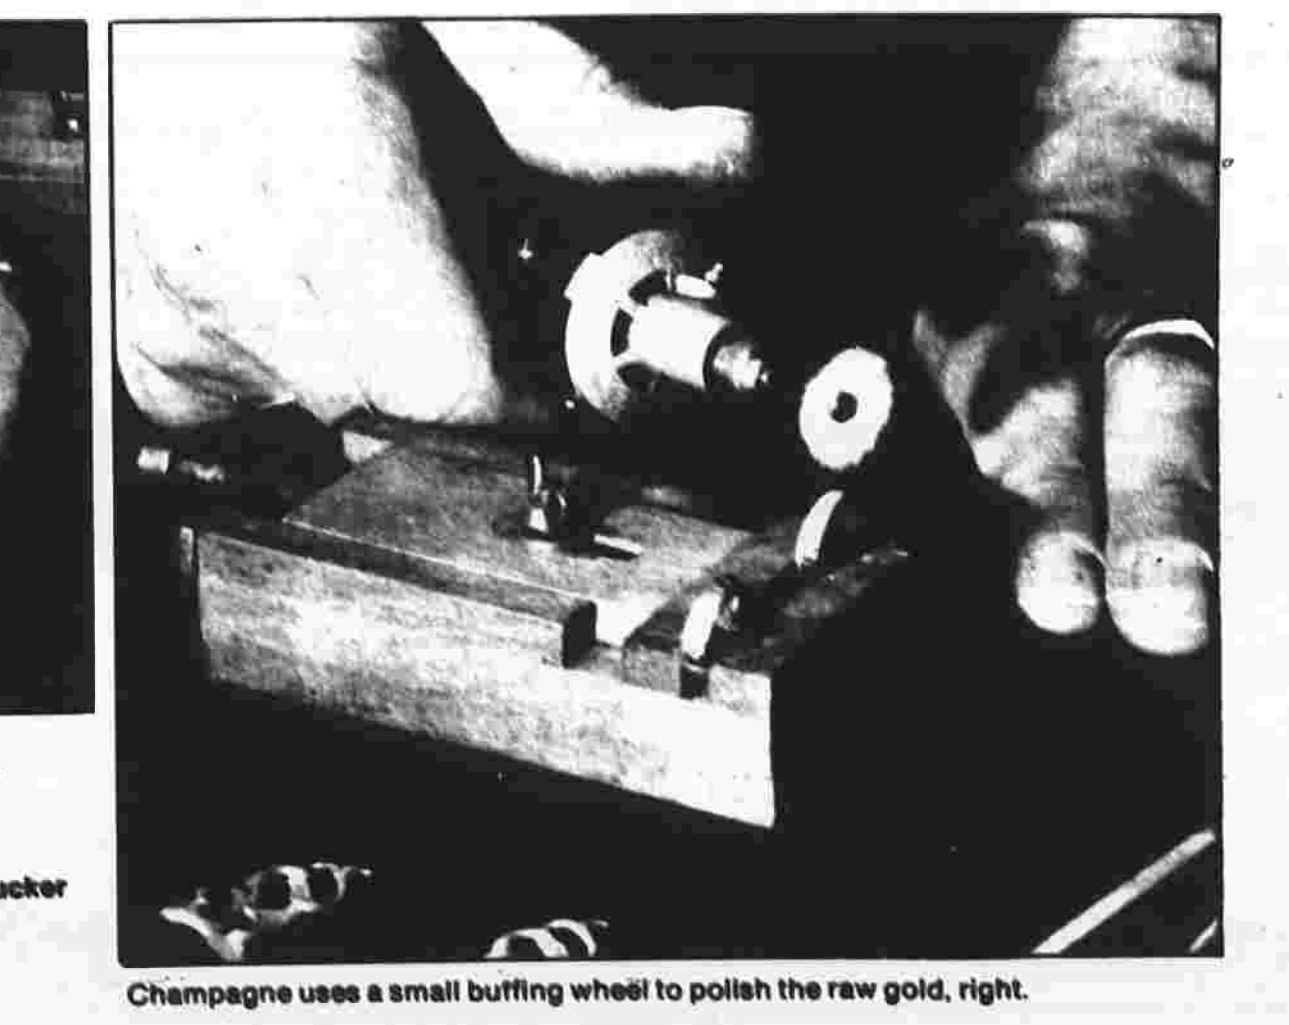

Customers also come from Norwich, New London, Bridgeport and other parts of New England.

Champagne displays a variety of authentic American Indian jewelry. In his hands rests an authentic bear claw.

A rubber mold of a ring design will be used to hold melted wax.

Champagne uses a small buffing wheel to polish the raw gold, right.

Police Roundup

Cycle fatality probed

COVENTRY — The cause of a motorcycle accident that claimed the life of a Coventry man on Sunday is under investigation, police said today.

Michael J. Lindau, 24, of 49 Nathan Rate Road, was traveling west on Duty Road near the intersection of Lake Road at about 1:30 a.m. when the accident occurred, according to police. Lindau was pronounced dead at the scene.

No information on the circumstances of the accident was available.

A Glastonbury woman was injured Friday in a two-car accident on West Middle Turnpike, Manchester police said.

Missing money traced to wrong bank account

Continued from page 1

asked Brunel officials for a contribution at a time when Congress had banned all U.S. aid to the Contras.

The money was initially to have been deposited into an account in the Bahamas, but Abrams asked Brunel officials to send the money to a Swiss bank account controlled by North.

In his first day of testimony on Monday, McFarlane described Reagan's apparently deep involvement in raising money for the rebels, which may have included millions of dollars from Saudi Arabia.

Questions also are likely about McFarlane's assertions that North claimed to have had approval from unspecified superiors for the diversion of Iran arms sale funds to the Contras.

The former Reagan administration official also promised to explain events that seem to have taken place in exchange for U.S. hostages and furnished proceeds to the administration-backed rebels in Nicaragua when he returned today for a second day of testimony before a House-Senate panel.

McFarlane's testimony follows that of retired Air Force Maj. Gen. Richard Secord, who said in a Monday night interview for ABC-TV's "Nightline" program that North took three Iranian officials on a late-night tour of the White House last September.

Secord said he and Iranian-born business partner Albert Hakim arranged to bring the Iranians to Washington in a private jet in order to convince "how were dealing with" U.S. officials, Reagan was away during the Cook's tour, he said.

He said he did not discuss the visit of the Iranians during his testimony before the congressional committees last week because "they just speeded on through this particular part of the story, the tail end of the story."

As he spun out his story Monday under questioning by Senate counsel Arthur L. Liman, McFarlane said how North had become concerned about the diversion of funds. As the affair began to unravel in late November last year, McFarlane asked North in a Nov. 23 conversation whether it had been properly approved, North replied, "Yes, you know it was. You know I wouldn't do anything without approval," McFarlane testified.

He said North then volunteered that the approval had been made a matter of record in a memorandum for his boss, then-National Security Advisor John M. Poindexter. According to McFarlane, North numbered, "I must see what can be done about that memo."

Termites?
Call... 643-9220 Manchester
724-0673 Hartford
1-800-523-4273
OCON NC
TERMITE AND PEST CONTROL

M
A
Y
1
2
1
2
1
9
8
7

M
A
Y
1
2
1
9
8
7

Low Perkins named athletic director at Maryland

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — Low Perkins, a trustee-director for the University of Maryland, has been named athletic director of the state school.

Perkins was named to the position after a search by the board of trustees. He is the first person to hold the position since 1973.

Perkins, 42, said at a Monday news conference announcing the appointment.

Perkins was a prime candidate for the vacant athletic director position at the University of Connecticut before withdrawing his name from consideration last Friday after it became apparent Maryland was going to hire him.

Perkins has worked for the state school since 1973. He served as the director of the state school's athletic department from 1973 to 1983.

Perkins said he will be responsible for the overall management of the athletic department. He will also be responsible for the development of the department's long-range plan.

Perkins said he will be working closely with the board of trustees and the president of the university.

University of South Carolina. He served for 11 years as an athletic director at the University of South Carolina's Aiken campus.

Perkins was named to the position after a search by the board of trustees. He is the first person to hold the position since 1973.

Perkins, 42, said at a Monday news conference announcing the appointment.

Perkins was a prime candidate for the vacant athletic director position at the University of Con-

SCOREBOARD

Softball

Yankees' Games
 CBY vs. Cochs. 7-2 — Fitzgerald
 CBY vs. CBY 7-2 — Fitzgerald
 CBY vs. CBY 7-2 — Fitzgerald

Little League

Army and Navy defeated MARC, 5-2.
 Monday at Woodside Field, Kevin Chisholm pitched a complete game for Army. Lawrence Trivedi and Jamie McKeown were the winning pitchers for MARC. Max DeWaters and Jimmy King had the only hits.

Baeball

American League Standings

Team	W	L	Pct.
Chicago	20	13	.606
Minnesota	19	14	.576
Toronto	18	15	.545
California	17	16	.515
Seattle	16	17	.485
Los Angeles	15	18	.455
Philadelphia	14	19	.425
San Diego	13	20	.395
St. Louis	12	21	.365
Washington	11	22	.335
San Francisco	10	23	.305
Atlanta	9	24	.275
Montreal	8	25	.245
Detroit	7	26	.215
Cleveland	6	27	.185

Baseball

Angels 6, Tigers 1
 The Angels defeated the Tigers 6-1 in a game played at Anaheim Stadium. The Angels scored three runs in the first inning and never trailed.

Expos 7, Braves 6 (10 Innings)

The Atlanta Braves defeated the Montreal Expos 6-7 in a 10-inning game at Atlanta-Fulton County Stadium. The Braves scored three runs in the bottom of the 10th inning.

Scoreboard

Baseball

Angels 6, Tigers 1
 The Angels defeated the Tigers 6-1 in a game played at Anaheim Stadium. The Angels scored three runs in the first inning and never trailed.

Expos 7, Braves 6 (10 Innings)

The Atlanta Braves defeated the Montreal Expos 6-7 in a 10-inning game at Atlanta-Fulton County Stadium. The Braves scored three runs in the bottom of the 10th inning.

Baseball

Angels 6, Tigers 1
 The Angels defeated the Tigers 6-1 in a game played at Anaheim Stadium. The Angels scored three runs in the first inning and never trailed.

Expos 7, Braves 6 (10 Innings)

The Atlanta Braves defeated the Montreal Expos 6-7 in a 10-inning game at Atlanta-Fulton County Stadium. The Braves scored three runs in the bottom of the 10th inning.

Baseball

Angels 6, Tigers 1
 The Angels defeated the Tigers 6-1 in a game played at Anaheim Stadium. The Angels scored three runs in the first inning and never trailed.

Fuhr starring in goal as Oilers take 3-1 lead

Edmonton's Glenn Anderson (left) celebrates after scoring in the second period against the Red Wings in their NHL playoff game Monday night in Detroit. Detroit's Shawn Burr skates by. The Oilers won, 3-2.

By Harry Atkins
 The Associated Press

DETROIT — Who would have thought the Red Wings would dominate a series between the high-scoring Edmonton Oilers and the Motor City, Detroit Red Wings?

Nobody, that's who. Not Oilers Coach Glen Sather, not Red Wings Coach Jacques Lemaire.

Certainly not the goalies: Grant Fuhr of the Oilers or Detroit's Greg Stefan and Glen Hanlon.

The Oilers got the go-ahead goal from Mike Krushelnyski with 1:16 remaining in the second period Monday night and Fuhr made it stand up for a 3-2 victory that gave Edmonton a 3-1 lead in the best-of-seven NHL semifinal series.

Game 5 is Wednesday night at the Northlands Coliseum in Edmonton.

"I just have to keep it up," Fuhr said. "I've had good luck so far. The guys are playing well in front of me."

Detroit has a good offense, too. They're a pretty good team. If they keep playing like that, good things are going to happen."

They hope for different results this time.

The Oilers led 3-1 in the best-of-seven series after splitting the first two games at home and sweeping a pair from the Canadiens in the Forum. The winner will go to the Stanley Cup finals.

"I don't think anybody in their right mind can say we didn't play Detroit took a 2-1 advantage early in the second period on game 2. I think we showed something to a lot of people."

"I'm just trying to keep it close to give us a step in the third period. We

Flyers go for the kill against Montreal

By Ralph Bernstein
 The Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA — The Philadelphia Flyers, hoping to finish off the Montreal Canadiens tonight, are looking for a decisive victory. They have lost their last three games.

The Flyers hope for different results this time.

The Oilers led 3-1 in the best-of-seven series after splitting the first two games at home and sweeping a pair from the Canadiens in the Forum. The winner will go to the Stanley Cup finals.

"I don't think anybody in their right mind can say we didn't play Detroit took a 2-1 advantage early in the second period on game 2. I think we showed something to a lot of people."

"I'm just trying to keep it close to give us a step in the third period. We

Sports In Brief

Dave Frost notches 100th victory
 Manchester High junior varsity girls' softball coach Dave Frost notched his 100th victory at the helm Monday afternoon when his young Indians whipped Hartford Public, 4-3. Frost has been the Indian junior varsity coach seven years and in that time has compiled a 100-123 record.

Flyers go for the kill against Montreal

By Ralph Bernstein
 The Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA — The Philadelphia Flyers, hoping to finish off the Montreal Canadiens tonight, are looking for a decisive victory. They have lost their last three games.

The Flyers hope for different results this time.

The Oilers led 3-1 in the best-of-seven series after splitting the first two games at home and sweeping a pair from the Canadiens in the Forum. The winner will go to the Stanley Cup finals.

"I don't think anybody in their right mind can say we didn't play Detroit took a 2-1 advantage early in the second period on game 2. I think we showed something to a lot of people."

"I'm just trying to keep it close to give us a step in the third period. We

Dickeman to stay put at UConn

STORRS — Howie Dickeman, the top assistant and chief recruiter on Jim Calhoun's University of Connecticut baseball staff, said he has decided to remain at the state university despite his status as a top finalist for the job at Canisius College in Buffalo, N.Y.

Flyers go for the kill against Montreal

By Ralph Bernstein
 The Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA — The Philadelphia Flyers, hoping to finish off the Montreal Canadiens tonight, are looking for a decisive victory. They have lost their last three games.

The Flyers hope for different results this time.

The Oilers led 3-1 in the best-of-seven series after splitting the first two games at home and sweeping a pair from the Canadiens in the Forum. The winner will go to the Stanley Cup finals.

"I don't think anybody in their right mind can say we didn't play Detroit took a 2-1 advantage early in the second period on game 2. I think we showed something to a lot of people."

"I'm just trying to keep it close to give us a step in the third period. We

Cruaders holding tryouts Saturday

HARTFORD — The New England Crusaders football team will host an open tryout camp at Dillon Stadium on Saturday from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. The Crusaders are members of the Mason-Dixon Football League in the Northern Division. They are two-time champs of the Atlantic Football League. Candidates are asked to bring football shoes, sweats or shorts. For additional information, call 242-1188.

Rockets facing elimination tonight

By The Associated Press

Houston Rockets center Ralph Sampson must not think history is a formidable foe.

"I'm not sure I've been rewritten before," said Sampson, whose club trails the Seattle SuperSonics 3-1 in its best-of-seven Western Conference semifinal series. "I don't see why we can't do it."

Maybe Sampson just doesn't realize that only four times in the 40-year history of the NBA have ever come back from a 3-1 deficit with the Boston Celtics doing it twice.

The Rockets face elimination at home tonight as the Golden State Warriors play the Lakers in Los Angeles under the same 3-1 margin. The Bucks and Hawks will also face the same situation when Milwaukee resumes its series Wednesday. He is recovering from surgery at Methodist Hospital.

"I'm not sure I've been rewritten before," said Sampson, whose club trails the Seattle SuperSonics 3-1 in its best-of-seven Western Conference semifinal series. "I don't see why we can't do it."

Maybe Sampson just doesn't realize that only four times in the 40-year history of the NBA have ever come back from a 3-1 deficit with the Boston Celtics doing it twice.

Ojeda placed on disabled list

NEW YORK — The New York Mets placed starting pitcher Bob Ojeda on the 15-day disabled list Monday because of a sore left elbow.

Ojeda was replaced on the roster by right-hander John Mitchell, who was recalled from the Mets' Triple A club in Tidewater, Va. Mitchell, who had a 3-1 record and 3.41 ERA at Tidewater, and Ojeda were traded from the Boston Red Sox to the Mets prior to last season.

Ojeda was placed on the disabled list after being examined by Mets physician James Parkes.

"The area of soreness is inside the left arm below the elbow area," Parkes said. "There is no problem in the area of the elbow joint."

Ojeda is 2-4 with a 4.31 ERA this season. On Saturday, he tasted one inning against the Atlanta Braves before the pain in his elbow forced him to leave the game.

Last season, Ojeda was 18-5 with a 2.57 ERA. He also won a game in the NL playoffs and the World Series against Boston.

NBA Playoffs

In fairness, the Rockets have a little bit of history on their side — Coach Bill Fitch.

Fitch coached the 1981 Celtics well following last year's 3-1 turnaround when they beat the Philadelphia 76ers in the Eastern Conference final series, but then lost to Philadelphia 3-1.

"I've been in this situation twice, and both times we forced it to the seventh game. I think we can do it."

Fitch said he is looking forward to the playoffs.

"I feel if we can get back to the opponent's home court for Game 6, the pressure will be all with them."

Fitch said he is looking forward to the playoffs.

Hurst AL player of the week

NEW YORK — Boston Red Sox left-hander Bruce Hurst, who allowed only 10 hits in pitching two shutouts, was named the American League Player of the Week, the league announced Monday.

Hurst, who has a 4-3 record with a 2.88 earned run average, struck out 23 and walked three in his two victories last week at Fenway Park.

Johncock plays catch-up at Indy

By Hank Luenkrum
 The Associated Press

INDIANAPOLIS — Two-time Indianapolis 500 winner Gordon Johncock, who ended a two-year retirement this week, plans to continue playing catch-up with Indy-car racing for a few days.

"This track is still the same as I remember it. But the car doesn't quite feel the same," Johncock said Monday after driving at the speedway for the first time since announcing his retirement one day before qualifications began for the 1987 Indy 500. "The car and I are just getting to know one another."

He will make several adjustments to make it feel comfortable. Johncock, 36, drove about 25 laps during Monday's practice. His crew caught one fat lap at 100 mph on hand-drove stopwatches, but the fastest the speedway's electronic eye got Johncock was 184.842.

"We're going to take it as it comes. We've got all week to make changes as we need them. There's no rush," said Johncock, who hopes to qualify the 1988 Buick-powered March in the starting field for the May 24 Indy race.

Johncock started to miss racing about seven months after he retired in 1984. "It's good to be back in it and we'll have to see what the future holds. I'd like to do more driving."

Practice will continue on the 2 1/2-mile oval through Friday, with

Maldonado NL player of the week

NEW YORK — Candy Maldonado, who hit five home runs and batted .419 for the San Francisco Giants for the week ending Monday, was named National League player of the week Monday.

Maldonado also knocked in 10 runs, scored 11 runs and had four doubles during the week. He hit safely in all seven of the Giants' games and had a .455 on-base percentage.

Johncock plays catch-up at Indy

By Hank Luenkrum
 The Associated Press

INDIANAPOLIS — Two-time Indianapolis 500 winner Gordon Johncock, who ended a two-year retirement this week, plans to continue playing catch-up with Indy-car racing for a few days.

"This track is still the same as I remember it. But the car doesn't quite feel the same," Johncock said Monday after driving at the speedway for the first time since announcing his retirement one day before qualifications began for the 1987 Indy 500. "The car and I are just getting to know one another."

He will make several adjustments to make it feel comfortable. Johncock, 36, drove about 25 laps during Monday's practice. His crew caught one fat lap at 100 mph on hand-drove stopwatches, but the fastest the speedway's electronic eye got Johncock was 184.842.

"We're going to take it as it comes. We've got all week to make changes as we need them. There's no rush," said Johncock, who hopes to qualify the 1988 Buick-powered March in the starting field for the May 24 Indy race.

Johncock started to miss racing about seven months after he retired in 1984. "It's good to be back in it and we'll have to see what the future holds. I'd like to do more driving."

Practice will continue on the 2 1/2-mile oval through Friday, with

Full house to see Gooden in return

NORFOLK, Va. — A sellout crowd will greet New York Mets pitching star Dwight Gooden tonight when he takes the mound for the Tidewater Tides in his first game since leaving a drug rehabilitation center last month.

All 6,100 seats in Metropolitan Memorial Park were sold by Monday afternoon to fans who waited in long lines to see the 1985 National League Cy Young Award winner in an International League game against the Richmond Braves.

"I'm getting tickets for my mom and my dad for Mother's Day," said Charlie Cox of Norfolk, who also picked up tickets for himself and a friend. "Even my mom's heard of Dwight Gooden."

Gooden, 22, is scheduled to throw no more than 50 pitches or three innings in his season debut. The Mets plan to have him pitch a few games with the Tides, the Mets' AAA minor league team, before returning him to the mound in New York.

McLean named Samford hoop coach

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. — Ed McLean, an assistant to Coach Jim Valvano at North Carolina State, was named basketball coach at Samford University Monday.

Baseball

Angels 6, Tigers 1
 The Angels defeated the Tigers 6-1 in a game played at Anaheim Stadium. The Angels scored three runs in the first inning and never trailed.

Expos 7, Braves 6 (10 Innings)

The Atlanta Braves defeated the Montreal Expos 6-7 in a 10-inning game at Atlanta-Fulton County Stadium. The Braves scored three runs in the bottom of the 10th inning.

Baseball

Angels 6, Tigers 1
 The Angels defeated the Tigers 6-1 in a game played at Anaheim Stadium. The Angels scored three runs in the first inning and never trailed.

Expos 7, Braves 6 (10 Innings)

The Atlanta Braves defeated the Montreal Expos 6-7 in a 10-inning game at Atlanta-Fulton County Stadium. The Braves scored three runs in the bottom of the 10th inning.

Baseball

Angels 6, Tigers 1
 The Angels defeated the Tigers 6-1 in a game played at Anaheim Stadium. The Angels scored three runs in the first inning and never trailed.

Baseball

Angels 6, Tigers 1
 The Angels defeated the Tigers 6-1 in a game played at Anaheim Stadium. The Angels scored three runs in the first inning and never trailed.

Expos 7, Braves 6 (10 Innings)

The Atlanta Braves defeated the Montreal Expos 6-7 in a 10-inning game at Atlanta-Fulton County Stadium. The Braves scored three runs in the bottom of the 10th inning.

Baseball

Angels 6, Tigers 1
 The Angels defeated the Tigers 6-1 in a game played at Anaheim Stadium. The Angels scored three runs in the first inning and never trailed.

Expos 7, Braves 6 (10 Innings)

The Atlanta Braves defeated the Montreal Expos 6-7 in a 10-inning game at Atlanta-Fulton County Stadium. The Braves scored three runs in the bottom of the 10th inning.

Baseball

Angels 6, Tigers 1
 The Angels defeated the Tigers 6-1 in a game played at Anaheim Stadium. The Angels scored three runs in the first inning and never trailed.

Baseball

Angels 6, Tigers 1
 The Angels defeated the Tigers 6-1 in a game played at Anaheim Stadium. The Angels scored three runs in the first inning and never trailed.

Expos 7, Braves 6 (10 Innings)

The Atlanta Braves defeated the Montreal Expos 6-7 in a 10-inning game at Atlanta-Fulton County Stadium. The Braves scored three runs in the bottom of the 10th inning.

Baseball

Angels 6, Tigers 1
 The Angels defeated the Tigers 6-1 in a game played at Anaheim Stadium. The Angels scored three runs in the first inning and never trailed.

Expos 7, Braves 6 (10 Innings)

The Atlanta Braves defeated the Montreal Expos 6-7 in a 10-inning game at Atlanta-Fulton County Stadium. The Braves scored three runs in the bottom of the 10th inning.

Baseball

Angels 6, Tigers 1
 The Angels defeated the Tigers 6-1 in a game played at Anaheim Stadium. The Angels scored three runs in the first inning and never trailed.

Baseball

Angels 6, Tigers 1
 The Angels defeated the Tigers 6-1 in a game played at Anaheim Stadium. The Angels scored three runs in the first inning and never trailed.

Expos 7, Braves 6 (10 Innings)

The Atlanta Braves defeated the Montreal Expos 6-7 in a 10-inning game at Atlanta-Fulton County Stadium. The Braves scored three runs in the bottom of the 10th inning.

Baseball

Angels 6, Tigers 1
 The Angels defeated the Tigers 6-1 in a game played at Anaheim Stadium. The Angels scored three runs in the first inning and never trailed.

Expos 7, Braves 6 (10 Innings)

The Atlanta Braves defeated the Montreal Expos 6-7 in a 10-inning game at Atlanta-Fulton County Stadium. The Braves scored three runs in the bottom of the 10th inning.

Baseball

Angels 6, Tigers 1
 The Angels defeated the Tigers 6-1 in a game played at Anaheim Stadium. The Angels scored three runs in the first inning and never trailed.

Baseball

Angels 6, Tigers 1
 The Angels defeated the Tigers 6-1 in a game played at Anaheim Stadium. The Angels scored three runs in the first inning and never trailed.

Expos 7, Braves 6 (10 Innings)

The Atlanta Braves defeated the Montreal Expos 6-7 in a 10-inning game at Atlanta-Fulton County Stadium. The Braves scored three runs in the bottom of the 10th inning.

Baseball

Angels 6, Tigers 1
 The Angels defeated the Tigers 6-1 in a game played at Anaheim Stadium. The Angels scored three runs in the first inning and never trailed.

Expos 7, Braves 6 (10 Innings)

The Atlanta Braves defeated the Montreal Expos 6-7 in a 10-inning game at Atlanta-Fulton County Stadium. The Braves scored three runs in the bottom of the 10th inning.

Baseball

Angels 6, Tigers 1
 The Angels defeated the Tigers 6-1 in a game played at Anaheim Stadium. The Angels scored three runs in the first inning and never trailed.

Baseball

Angels 6, Tigers 1
 The Angels defeated the Tigers 6-1 in a game played at Anaheim Stadium. The Angels scored three runs in the first inning and never trailed.

Expos 7, Braves 6 (10 Innings)

The Atlanta Braves defeated the Montreal Expos 6-7 in a 10-inning game at Atlanta-Fulton County Stadium. The Braves scored three runs in the bottom of the 10th inning.

Baseball

Angels 6, Tigers 1
 The Angels defeated the Tigers 6-1 in a game played at Anaheim Stadium. The Angels scored three runs in the first inning and never trailed.

Expos 7, Braves 6 (10 Innings)

The Atlanta Braves defeated the Montreal Expos 6-7 in a 10-inning game at Atlanta-Fulton County Stadium. The Braves scored three runs in the bottom of the 10th inning.

Baseball

Angels 6, Tigers 1
 The Angels defeated the Tigers 6-1 in a game played at Anaheim Stadium. The Angels scored three runs in the first inning and never trailed.

